Mamai, s. f. (mam) The birth wort.
Mamaidd, a. (mam) Like a mother, motherly.
Mamawg, a. (mam) Having a mother's quality. Y famawg ddrewllyd, stinking goose-foot.
Mamawl, a. (mam) Maternal, or motherly.
Mamdref, s. f.—pl. t. i (mam—tref) A chief town
Mamddinas, s. f.—pl. t. au (mam—dinas) A metropolis, or chief city.
Mamddinasawl, a. (mamddinas) Metropolitical.
Mamedd, s. f. (mam) Motherhood, maternity.
Mameglwys, s. f.—pl. t. i (mam—eglwys) A mother church; a cathedral.
Mameglwysawl, a. (mameglwys) Belonging to a mother church.
Mameiddiad, s. m. (mamaidd) A becoming motherly, a rendering motherly.
Mameiddiaw, v. n. (mamaidd) To become motherly, to render motherly.
Mameiddrwydd, s. m. (mamaidd) Motherliness.

Mamen, s. f. dim. (mam) A little mother.
Mames, s. f.—pl. t. od (mam) A mother or dam with her first young.
Mamiad, s. f.—pl. t. au (mam) A becoming a mother.
Mamladd, s. m. (mam—lladd) Matricide.
Mamladdiad, s. m. (mamladd) A matricideal act.
Mamleiddiad, s. m.—pl. mamleiddiaid (mamladd) A matricide, or one who kills a mother.
Mamleiddiadawl, a. (mamleiddiad) Matricideal.
Mamlys, s. m. (mam—llys) The motherwort.
Mammaeth, s. f.—pl. t. od (mam—maeth) A fostering or nursing mother; a nurse.

Rhuthr mammaeth.

The attack of a nursing mother. Adage.

Afleithus pob mammaeth.

Every nurse is affectionate. Adage.

O achaws y fammaeth y cusenir y mab.

For the sake of the nurse the child is kissed. Adage.

Mammenthaidd, a. (mammaeth) Of a fostering tendency; motherly.
Mammeuthiad, s. m. (mammaeth) The acting as a nurse, a nursing.
Mammeuthu, v. a. (mammaeth) To nurse.

Maethus yw mammeuthu serch.

It is tender to cherish love. D. Aerdrem.

Mammeuthus, a. (mammaeth) Of a motherly disposition.
Mamog, s. f.—pl. t. au (mam) That is with young, that is a mother or dam; an ewe with young; the womb or matrix; the hysterical passion, otherwise called y fam, and clwyf y fam; also the collapsion of the womb.
Mamogaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (mamawg) Maternity.
Mamogaethu, v. a. (mamogaeth) To claim maternal affinity.
Mamogi, v. a. (mamawg) To render as a mother, to become as a mother.
Mamogiad, s. f.—pl. mamogiaid (mamog) That is with young; an ewe with young, also called dafad gyfebr.
Mamolrwydd, s. m. (mamawl) Motherliness.
Mamu, v. a. (mam) To become a mother.
Mamwch, s. m. (mam) A mother's fondness.
Mamwraig, s. f.—pl. mamwreigedd (mam--gwraig) A woman that is a mother.
Mamwydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (mam—gwydd) A mother goose, or a brood goose.
Mamwys, s. f. (mam—gwys) Maternity; a matrix; a relationship by the mother's side.

Holi tir o famwys:—Nid oes un wraig yntau a ymroddo ei hun i alltud a ddylyo ei meibion famwys.

Claiming of land by maternal affinity:—There is no woman then who shall give herself to a foreigner, whose children have a right of maternal affinity. Welsh Laws.

Mamwysawl, a. (mamwys) Relating to maternity, or of kin by the mother.
Mamwythen, s. f.—pl. t. au (mam—gwythen) The crural vein, or saphœna.
Mamwythi, s. pl. aggr. (mam—gwythi) The main or leading channels; the main arteries.
Mamychiad, s. (mamwch) A fondling as a mother.
Mamychu, v. a. (mamwch) To fondle as a mother.
Màn, s. f.—pl. t. au (my—an) A space, a place, a spot, or mark; a where; a state; what holds, or contains; a band. Y fàn a'r fàn, such and such a place; y fàn dywyllaf, the darkest period, or when the twilight is past; yn y màn, presently, or by and by: màn geni, or màn cynenid, a mark from the birth, as a mole and the like: màn y dòn, sea plantain.

Man, a. (ma—an) Small, little, petty, fine. Ceryg man, small stones; yd man, small corn; tywod man, fine sand; edafedd man, fine yarn.

Nid wyf henaidd, nag eiddil,
Na gwr man, fal y gwyr mil.

I am not elderly, nor slender, nor a small person, as it is known to a thousand. D. ab Gwilym.

Manâad, s. m. (man) A making small, or fine; a becoming small, or fine.

Mânad, s. f. (mân) A mass, or lump.

Manad o ymenyn cyfled a'r ddysgl letaf yn y dref:—Sef yw manad ymenyn naw dyrnfedd led, a dyrnfedd dewedd a'r fawd yn ei sefyll.

A mass of butter as broad as the widest dish in the township:—A mass of butter is so much, nine hands in breadth, and a hand in thickness, having the thumb erect. Welsh Laws.

Manaid, s. f.—pl. maneidiau (man) The contents of a mould, a print, as of butter and the like. Manaid o ymenyn, a print of butter; otherwise called seigen, and rhisgen.

Manarfau, s. pl. aggr. (man—arfau) Small arms.

Manau, v. a. (man) To render small, little, or fine; to become small, or fine.

Manaw, s. f. (man) That extends out; that forms a space, spot, or mark; the Welsh name of the Isle of Man.

Manawd, s. m. (man) The act of placing, a making a space, a location, a spotting.

Manawg, a. (man) Having a place, or space; having a spot, or mark: spotted, marked. There are a variety of tales about the ychain banawg, or large horned oxen, all over Wales, which probably were the moose deer; and they were also called ychain manawg, ychain manodd, and ychain manwedd, or the spotted oxen.

Manawl, a. (man) Local; relating to spots, tending to produce a spot, or mark.

Manawl, a. (man) Fine, nice, delicate; accurate. Y ddyn fanawl, the delicate fair one.

Cynnyg aur——
A main, a thlysau manawl.

Offering gold, and stones, and curious jewels. Syp. Cyfeiliawg.

Manawyd, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (manaw) The staff of a banner, or standard.

Rhag byddin Ododin——
Hyder gymhell ar frelthell fanawyd.

Before the host of Gododin there was a confident impelling forward of the shaft of the variegated standard. Aneurin.

Manbaill, s. m. (man—paill) Fine flour. a. Of fine flour. Bara gwyn manbaill, white bread of fine flour.

Manbethau, s. pl. aggr. (man—pethau) Small things; trifling things, small matters.

Manblu, s. pl. aggr. (man—plu) Down-feathers.

Manbluaidd, a. (manblu) Like down-feathers.

Manbluawg, a. (manblu) Having down-feathers.

Manbysg, s. pl. aggr. (man—pysg) Small fish.

Manbysgod, s. pl. aggr. (manbysg) Small fishes.

Mando, s. m. (man—tô) A fine slated, or fine tiled roof.

Mandöedd, s. m. (mando) A covering of fine texture. Clyd fandöedd, a warm fine-worked roof.

Mandöi, v. a. (mando) To roof with fine work.

Mandon, s. f. (man—tôn) The dandruff; also the woodroof; otherwise called llysiau yr eryr.

Mandonawg, a. (mandon) Having a dandruff.

Mandwyn, s. m. (màn—twyn) The scrophula.

Mandwynawg, a. (mandwyn) Strumous.

Mandwynawl, a. (mandwyn) Strumatic.

Manddail, s. pl. aggr. (man—dail) Small leaves.

Manddarlun, s. m.—pl. t. ion (man—darlun) A miniature delineation.

Manddarluniad, s. m. (manddarlun) A delineating in miniature.

Manddarluniaw, v. a. (manddarlun) To draw in miniature.

Manddarnau, s. pl. (man—darnau) Small pieces.

Manddarnu, v. a. (man—darnu) To break into small pieces.

Manddeiliaw, v. (manddail) To shoot first leaves.

Manddeiliawg, a. (manddail) Having first leaves.

Manddel, s. m. (man—del) A quick whisk or scud.

Manddelu, v. a. (manddel) To whisk about.

Manddellt, s. pl. aggr. (man—dellt) Fine split-wood or rods, such as are used in basket work.

Manddos, s. pl. aggr. (man—dos) Small drops.

Manddosawg, a. (manddos) Having small drops.

Manddosi, v. (manddos) To fall in small drops.

Manddrain, s. pl. aggr. (man—drain) Small thorns.

Manddreiniach, s. pl. (manddrain) Small thorns.

Manddreiniawg, a. (manddrain) Having small thorns, having little prickles.

Manddrylliau, s. pl. aggr. (man—drylliau) Small fragments, small pieces.

Manddrylliaw, v. a. (man—drylliaw) To break into small fragments or pieces.

Manddrylliawg, a. (man—drylliawg) Having small fragments or pieces.

Manddyluniad, s. m. (man—dyluniad) A drawing in miniature.

Manddyluniaw, v. a. (man—dyluniaw) To draw in miniature.

Maned, s. f.—pl. t. i (man) Hand basket, maund.

Manedig, a. (man) Spotted, marked, flecked.

Maneg, s. f.—pl. menyg (man) A glove.

Maneiliad, s. m. (man—eiliad) A platting or constructing a fine work.

Maneiliaw, v. a. (man—eiliaw) To plat or build up a nice piece of work.

Maneiliawg, a. (man—eiliawg) Of nice structure.

Maneiriau, s. pl. aggr. (man—geiriau) Little words.

Manfrith, a. (man—brith) Of a small, nice, or fine variegation, finely striped.

Eppiliant fanfrithion.

They shall bring forth finely striped ones. Genesis 31. 8.

Manfrithad, s. m. (manfrith) A finely variegating.

Manfrithaw, v. (manfrith) To variegate finely.

Manfrithawg, a. (manfrith) Finely variegated.

Manfrithedd, s. m. (manfrith) The state of being finely variegated; small check pattern.

Manfriw, a. (man—briw) Finely crumbled.

Manfriwaw, v. a. (manfriw) To crumble small.

Manfriwiad, s. m. (manfriw) A braying small, a crumbling small.

Mangaled, a. (man—caled) Of a hard grasp.

Meirl mangaled am beu ceiniawg.

Husbandmen that are close-fisted after the penny. Myrddin.

Mangan, s. m. (man—can) Fine flour.

Mangannu, v. a. (mangant) To bolt fine flour.

Mangant, s. m. (mangan) Fine bolted flour.

A meingorff o liw mangant.

A slender form of the hue of fine flour. D. Llwyd.

Mangaw, s. m. (mân—caw) A fine whipping round, or binding; nice work.

Mangawiad, s. m. (mangaw) A whipping or binding with fine work.

Mangawiau, s. pl. aggr. (mangaw) Small shreds; trifles, or toys.

Mangawiaw, v. a. (mangaw) To whip round, or bind, with fine work.

Mangeinion, s. pl. aggr. (man—ceinion) Delicate or fine jewels.

Mangerdded, v. a. (man—cerdded) To walk with short steps; to walk delicately.
Mangibau, s. pl. aggr. (man—cibau) Fine cups.
Mangoed, s. pl. aggr. (man—coed) Brushwood.
Mangor, s. m. (man—cor) A fine membrane.
Mangre, s. f. (man—cre) An intricate place.

Addwyn march myngfras mangre.

Beautiful is the horse with a thick mane in a tangle.
Taliesin.

Y teir-bro dano a dyf;
Tair mangre y tarw mein-gryf.

The three countries under him increase; the three strong holds of the bull slender and vigorous. Gutto y Glyn.

Mangylchau, s. pl. (man—cylch) Small hoops.
Mangylchawg, a. (man—cylchawg) Having small or fine hoops.
Mangylchu, v. a. (man—cylchu) To bind with fine or small hoops.
Manhedion, s. pl. aggr. (man—hedion) Small flying motes, or flue.
Maniad, s. m. (man) A placing; a spotting.
Maniadawl, a. (maniad) Positional; local.
Manion, s. pl. aggr. (man) The smaller particles of any thing; small or empty grains of corn.
Manladron, s. pl. (man—lladron) Petty thieves.
Manlo, s. m. aggr. (man—glo) Small coal.
Manllwdn, s. m.—pl. manllydnod (man—llwdn) A small animal, a small beast.
Manllwyn, s. m. (man—llwyn) Mutton. Cig manllwyn, mutton flesh, gwer manllwyn, mutton suet.
Mannodd, s. f. (mant) An aching of the jaw.
Mannwst, s. f. (mant—gwst) A soreness of the jaw; the tooth ache.
Mannwyfau, s. pl. aggr. (man—nwyfau) Small wares.
Manod, s. m. aggr. (man—od) Small or fine snow. Lliw manod, the hue of the driven snow, an epithet for a fair woman.
Manodi, v. n. (manod) To snow small snow.
Manogedig, a. (manawg) Bespeckled, bespotted.
Manogen, s. f. dim. (manawg) A speckled one.
Manogi, v. a. (manawg) To bespeckle.
Manogiad, s. m. (manawg) A bespeckling.
Manol, a. (man) Delicate, nice; accurate.

Manol pob rhan, hardd y cyfan.

Every part accurate, makes the whole handsome. Adage.

Manoli, v. a. (manol) To make nice or accurate.

Gwna reol a'i manoli,
A gwardd y tair, gwrdd wyd ti.

Make a rule, rendering it accurate, and forbid the three, for thou art powerful. T. Llwyd.

Manoliad, s. m. (manol) A rendering delicate, nice, or curious; a making accurate.
Manolosg, s. m. aggr. (man—golosg) Small coal.
Manon, s. f. (man) A paragon of beauty.

Myned er gweled gwened gwaneg
Manon wawr Arfon, gofion gofeg.

Going for the sake of beholding how fair the course of a goddess the luminary of Arfon, recalling thoughts of love.
Casnodyn.

Manred, a. (man—rhed) Of small step or pace.

Manred gymmed, a feddyliais
Myned i Fenai cyn ni'm bai fais?
Caraf a'm heneirch o dir Cemais,
Gwerling Dogfeiling, cadelling trais.

Short-paced traveller, did I think of going to Menai ere it was shallow for me? I love such as greet me of the land of Cemais, the chieftain of the race of Dogfael, the antagonist of oppression.
Meigant, m. Cynddylan.

Manrinion, s. pl. (man—rhin) Trifling charms.
Manro, s. m. aggr. (man—gro) Small pebbles.

Mor wael myned hael hwyl gyffro galar
Yn rhwym gwely manro!

How miserable that the generous one who causes the agitation of woe, should be gone into the bands of the bed of gravel!
Bleddyn Fardd.

Manson, s. m. (man—son) A small talk; a low murmuring, muttering, or grumbling.
Manson, v. a. (man—son) To mutter, to grumble.
Mansoniwr, s. m.—pl. mansonwyr (manson—gwr) A mutterer, a grumbler.
Manswyddau, s. pl. (man—swydd) Petty offices.
Mant, s. m.—pl. t. au (man) That closes together, or shuts close; the jaw; the jawbone, or mandible; the mouth.
Mantach, s. m. (mant) An exposed jaw, produced by old age; a toothless jaw.
Mantachaidd, a. (mantach) Tending to close the jaws, as is done from the loss of teeth.
Mantachawg, a. (mantach) Of a toothless jaw.
Mantachedd, s. m. (mantach) The hollowness of the jaws; toothlessness.
Mantachiad, s. m. (mantach) A closing the mouth, as if done by a toothless person.
Mantachlyd, a. (mantach) Apt to close the jaws, as a toothless person does.
Mantachu, v. a. (mantach) To shew the jaws; to mumble; to become toothless.
Mantachwr, s. m.—pl. mantachwyr (mantach—gwr) One who has a toothless jaw; a mumbler.
Mantai, s. c.—pl. manteion (mant) A mumbler.
Mantaidd, a. (mant) Like the closing of the jaw.
Mantais, s. f.—pl. manteision (man—tais) An advantage.
Mantawl, s. f.—pl. mantolion (mantawl) An even weight, poise, or balance; the beam of a balance; a balance. Arwydd y fantawl, the sign of the balance.
Manteisiad, s. m. (mantais) A taking advantage.
Manteisiaw, v. a. (mantais) To take advantage.
Manteisiawg, a. (mantais) Having advantage.
Manteisiawl, a. (mantais) Advantageous.

Para anoddau manteisiawl; para foddion, a chynneddfau a sydd gan gyrff cristianogion da, yn yr adgyfodiad!

What advantageous qualities; what modes and principles do the bodies of good christians possess, at the resurrection!
T. Williams, T. a Kempis.

Manteisiwr, s. m.—pl. manteiswyr (mantais—gŵr) One who seeks advantage.
Mantell, s. f.—pl. mentyll (mant) A mantle, or cloak. Mantell werddonig, mantell gedenawg, an Irish mantle, a shaggy cloak.

Goreu un tuddед mantell.

The best covering of any is a mantle. Adage.

Y penhebogydd a ddyly y fantell y marchoco y brenin yndді, yn y tair gwyl arbenig.

The chief falconer claims the mantle, in which the king rides, on the three principal festivals. Welsh Laws.

Mantellawg, a. (mantell) Having a mantle.
Mantelliad, s. m. (mantell) A mantling over.
Mantellu, v. a. (mantell) To mantle, to cloak.
Mantellwr, s. m.—pl. mantellwyr (mantell—gwr) One who mantles, or cloaks.
Mantoledig, a. (mantawl) Being balanced.
Mantoli, v. a. (mantawl) To balance.
Mantoliad, s. m. (mantawl) A balancing.
Mantolwr, s. m. (mantawl—gwr) A balancer.
Manu, v. a. (man) To make a space, or place; to make a spot, or mark, to dot, or to point, to make an impression, to impress, to imprint a mark; to be of effect. Bendith Duw a fano it! may the blessing of God be of effect to thee!

Bychan fudd ei fedydd a fain.

Small the benefit, which his baptism will impress.
Seis. Bryf-fwrch.

Yn all gerdd 'ym rhwyf yn rhwydd yd fain.

In the next song to my chief easily it will make an impression.
Cynddelw.

——Gwaedled y llafn,
A gwaedliw ar giwed;
A gwaedlen am fen a faned,
A gwaedlan a gran yn greuled.

Reeking the blade, and a hue of blood on the throng; and a bloody veil over the spot that was marked, and a plain of blood and the gory brow.
H. ab Owain.

Manu, v. a. (man) To make small; to pound; to become small, to crumble.
Manus, s. m. aggr. (man—us) The thin or out coat of corn; chaff.
Manw, a. (man) Of a fine or subtile quality.
Manwaidd, a. (manw) Of a subtile quality.
Manwedd, s. m. (man—gwedd) A subtile texture
Manweddaidd, a. (manwedd) Of a fine texture.

Y cythraul——o notur angel, ef a wybydd lawer; ni wybydd ef hagen bob peth; ac megys i mae manweddeiddiach notur angel noc un dyn, felly i mae cyfarwyddach noc ef.

The devil, having the nature of an angel, knows a great deal; he doth not, however, know every thing; and as the angelic nature is more subtile than that of man, so is he more informed than man.
Elucidarius.

Manweddiad, s. m. (manwedd) A rendering or becoming of a subtile texture.
Manweddu, v. a. (manwedd) To render of subtile texture; to become of subtile texture.
Manwerthiad, s. m. (gwerthiad) A retailing.
Manwerthu, v. a. (man—gwerthu) To retail.
Manwerthwr, s. m.—pl. manwerthwyr (man—gwerthwr) A retailer.
Manwg, s. m. (man) Spottedness; freckles.
Manwgl, s. m. (manwg) That is in small spots.
Manwl, a. (man) Accurate, exact, curious, exquisite, nice; careful, diligent.

Siwan ni bydd ry fanwl.

Siwan will not be over nice.
L. G. Cothi.

Manwlaw, s. m. (man—gwlaw) Small rain.
Manwlawiaw, v. n. (manwlaw) To rain small.
Manwr, s. m.—pl. manwyr (man—gwr) One who makes a mark, or impression.
Manwy, a. (man) Fine, rare, or subtile.
Manwyaidd, a. (manwy) Of a subtile texture.
Manwyaw, v. a. (manwy) To refine, to subtilize.
Manwydd, s. pl. aggr. (man—gwydd) Brushwood
Manwyddawg, a. (manwydd) Abounding with brushwood, or shrubs.
Manwydden, s. f. dim. (manwydd) A shrub.
Manwyedd, s. m. (manwy) Exility, fineness.
Manwyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (man—gwyn) A glandulous swelling, the king's-evil.
Manwŷnau, s. pl. aggr. (manwyn) The strumæ.
Manwŷnawg, a. (manwyn) Strumous.
Manwŷnion, s. pl. aggr. (manwyn) Strumæ.
Manwythau, s. pl. (man—gwyth) Capillary veins
Manwythenau, s. pl. (man—gwythen) Small veins
Manwythi, s. pl. (man—gwyth) Capillary veins.
Manyd, s. m. aggr. (man—yd) The smaller grain amongst corn, small corn.
Manyglawg, a. (manwgl) Abounding with small parts, or spots. s. f. The woody nightshade.
Manyglion, s. pl. aggr. (manwgl) The small particles, or parts, amongst corn, or other things; the small or empty grains of corn; also called hedion, gwehilion, and manion.
Manylai, s. c.—pl. manyleion (manwl) Exact one.
Manylaidd, a. (manwl) Somewhat exact, or nice.
Manyledd, s. m. (manwl) Exactness, nicety.
Manyliad, s. m. (manwl) A rendering accurate, correct, or nice; a becoming exact or careful.
Manyliannawl, a. (manyliant) Punctilious.
Manyliannu, v. a. (manyliant) To render exact, to be exact, or punctilious.
Manyliannus, a. (manyliant) Punctilious.
Manyliant, s. m. (manwl) Refinement.
Manylrwydd, s. m. (manwl) Exactness, nicety.
Manylu, v. a. (manwl) To render accurate, correct, or nice; to be accurate, nice, or careful.

Manylu am a wnelwyf.

To be careful about what I do.
Edm. Prys.

Manylus, a. (manwl) Of a curious or nice nature.
Manylwaith, s. m. (manwl—gwaith) Curious or nice work; a nice operation.
Manylwch, s. m. (manwl) Accuracy, or nicety.
Manylweithiaw, v. a. (manylwaith) To make curious or nice work.
Manysgrubl, s. pl. aggr. (man—ysgrubl) The smaller kind of animals.

Y dystain a'r cog biau grwyn y manysgrubl: sef yw y rhai hyny y defaid, a'r wyn, a'r mynau, a'r lyrch, a'r elanedd, a phob manllwdn y del ei groen i'r gegin amdano.

The house steward and the cook own the skins of the small beasts: that is to say those are the sheep, and the lambs, and the kids, and the roes, and the deers, and every small animal whose skin shall come into the kitchen upon it.
Welsh Laws.

Mäon, s. pl. aggr. (ma) Those who fill a space, or compose a state; the people, the multitude, or inhabitants; subjects of the realm.

Afallen beren bren——
Ymsathr yn ei bon, mäon yn ei chylch.

The apple-tree, of fragrant growth, there is the mark of treading at its stem, the multitude surround it.
Myrddin.

Rhwyfant mäon meddlyn.

The multitude will pass about the mead liquor.
Llefoed.

Delliś Gruffudd mawr, a mäon Prydain,
Nid prydferth i'w alon,
Lle teg, teyrnwaith udd Mon,
Llys er lles i feddygon.

Gruffudd the great did hold, with the people of Britain, not pleasant to his foes, a fair place, the princely work of the chief of Mon, a court for the benefit of those who cure themselves with mead.
Ll. P. Moch, i R. ab Hywel.

Clyr y claer wyndiredd,
Nid Saeson y mäon a'i medd.

The minstrelsy of the clear happy regions, the Saxons are not the people who possess it.
Ll. P. Moch.

Balch ei fenwyd, beilch ei fäon.

Elate his joy, and elate his people.
Gwalchmai.

Digardd hardd ei fardd a'i fäon.

Without restraint and splendid his bard and his people.
H. Foel ab Griffri.

Ef yw'r naf mwyaf, a fag mäon byd;
Bid awdur y Brython!

He is the greatest prince, which the inhabitants of the world support; may he be the maker of the Britons!
D. y Coed, i Hop. ab Thomas.

Mapwl, s. m. (ma—pwl) A knob on the middle of any thing; a mop.
Mar, s. m. (my—ar) That is active, or flitting. a. Flitting about.
Maran, s. f.—pl. t. au (mar) A holme of moving pebbles; shifting ground; a strand, also a spawner; a spawning salmon.

Llyfn mor, llawen maranedd.

Smooth the sea, sportive the spawners.
Aneurin.

Mi a wnaf——
It well no thrichan maran.

I will do for thee better than three hundred spawners.
Taliesin.

Maranawg, a. (maran) Abounding with holmes.
Maranedd, s. m. (maran) A holme, or flat piece of ground formed by water; a multitude.

Maranedd gwedy mordwy,
A ddylyned cad cylchwy.

The strand, after sailing, was followed to surround the sight.
Llywarch Hen.

Am dano gwyledd,
A lliaws maranedd:
Eurdeyrn Gogledd,
Arbenig teyrnedd.

Around him a modest demeanour, and the varied multitude: the splendid prince of the North, the choicest of princes. Taliesin, i Urien.

Rhys, ail Walchmai, ddifai, ddifeil fonedd
Peredur, llafn-ddur, mur maranedd.

Rhys, like Gwalchmai, faultless, of unspotted lineage of Pereder, with steely blade, the bulwark of the people. Einion Len.

Caraf ei brŏedd——
A'i diffaith mawr-faith, a'i maranedd.

I love its cultivated vales, and its far-extending wilds, and its strand. Hywel ab Owain.

Maraneddawg, a. (maranedd) Having holmes.
Maraneddiad, s. m. (maranedd) A forming a holme
Maraneddu, v. a. (maranedd) To form a holme; to become a holme.
Maraniad, s. m. (maran) A forming a holme.
Maranu, v. a. (maran) To form holmes, or flats.
Marc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mar) An impression upon any thing; a mark.
Marciad, s. m. (marc) A marking, an observing.
Marciaw, v. a. (marc) To mark; to observe.
Marciwr, s. m.—pl. marcwyr (marc—gwr) A marker; an observer.
March, s. m.—pl. meirch (my—arch) A horse, a steed. March dyre, a stallion; march cad, cadfarch, and march mai, a war-horse; march malen, the steed of Bellona; march tom, a drudge horse; march tynu, a draught horse; march cynnud, a horse for carrying fuel; march cynfas, a stalking horse.

Nid rhywiawg ond march.

Nought tractable but a horse. Adage.

Gorea march ŵn a'm dyco.

The best horse is the one that will carry me. Adage.

March ab Meirchion, pa beth bynag a gyffyrddai a droai yn aur; a chlustiau march oedd iddo.

March the son of Meirchion, whatsoever he touched he would turn to gold; and he had the ears of a horse. Hen-chwedlau.

March, a. (my—arch) Towering, rearing; of luxuriant growth. March wreinnyn, a ringworm; march fiaren, a white brier; march redyn, the oak-fern; march ddyrnawd, a great thump.
Marchai, s. c.—pl. marcheion (march) A rider.
Marchaidd, a. (march) Like a horse, horse-like.
Marchalan, s. m. (march—alan) Elecampane.
Marchasyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (march—asyn) A male ass, a jackass.
Marchau, v. a. (march) To ride a horse.
Marchawg, a. (march) Having a horse, horsed. s. m.—pl. marchogion. That has a horse; a cavalier, a horseman; a knight; also a jug, in Dyfed.

Cais farchawg da dan draed ei farch.

Seek for a good rider under the feet of his horse. Adage.

Marchawglu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (marchawg—llu) A body or squadron of horse; cavalry.

Achel a gyweiriws ei farchawglu, ac ai hanfones yn barawd i Agamemnon.
Achilles put in order his cavalry, and sent it in readiness to Agamemnon. H. Dared.

Marchawgwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (marchawg—gwisg) A riding-habit, a riding-dress.

Gwared ei marchawgwisg hi amdanei a orug.

Pull off her riding-habit from her was what she did. H. Geraint—Mabinogion.

Marchawl, a. (march) Belonging to a horse.
Marchawr, s. m.—pl. marchorion (march) A horseman, a cavalier.
Marchbren, s. m.—pl. t. au (march—pren) A supporting timber, or main beam. Marchbren mewn odyn faes yn cynnal y cledr crasu, a main timber in a field kiln supporting the drying frame.
Marchdaran, s. f.—pl. t. au (march—taran) A loud thunder.

Ant——
I blith y gethern
I waelawd uffern,
Lle mae mignwern
Wedi mignaw,
A phob marchdaran yn ymdaraw.

They will go amongst the fiends, to the bottom of hell, where there is a quaggy bog covered over, and every harsh thunder re-echoing. Gr. Ynad Goch.

Marchdy, s. m.—pl. t. au (march—ty) A stable.
Marchddyrnawd, s. m. (march—dyrnawd) A great blow, or stroke.
Marchfaen, s. m.—pl. marchfeini (march—maen) A horseblock.

Addwyn ewynawg am farchfain.

It is pleasant to see horseblocks sprayed over with foam. Taliesin.

Marchfeillion, s. pl. aggr. (march--meillion) Clover
Marchfiaren, s. f. (march—miaren) A white brier
Marchfieri, s. pl. (march—mieri) White briers.
Marchforgrugyn, s. m. (march—morgrugyn) A large kind of ant; otherwise called morgrugyn asgellawg, or winged ant.
Marchforion, s. pl. aggr. (march—morion) The large winged ants.
Marchgau, v. a. (march—cau) To ride. A efe i farchgau yn fore iawn, he goes to ride very early. Dyfed.
Marchgen, s. m.—pl. t. au (march—cen) A horse's skin; also a thong of a horse's skin.
Marchgod, s. f.—pl. t. au (march—cod) A saddle-bag
Marchgorn, s. m.—pl. marchgyrn (march—corn) The outer part or shell of a horn.
Marchiad, s. m. (march) A lifting; a horsing.
Marchlan, s. f.—pl. t. au (march—llan) A stable.
Marchleidr, s. m.—pl. marchleidron (march—lleidr) An arrant thief.

Marchleidr a grog y corleidr

The great thief will hang the petty thief. Adage.

Marchlu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (march—llu) Cavalry.
Marchnad, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (marchyn) A lifting up, or exposing; a market.

Can ebrwydded yn y farchnad
Groen yr oen a chroen y ddafad.

As frequent in the market the skin of the lamb as the skin of the sheep. Adage.

Marchnadawl, a. (marchnad) As to a market.
Marchnadiad, s. m. (marchnad) A marketting.
Marchnadu, v. a. (marchnad) To market.
Marchnadwr, s. m.—pl. marchnadwyr (marchnad—gwr) A market-man; a chapman.
Marchnadwraig, s. f.—pl. marchnadwreigedd (marchnad—gwraig) A market-woman.
Marchnadwriaeth, s. m. (marchnadwr) The business of a market-man.
Marchnadydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (marchnad) A market-man, a chapman.
Marchnadyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (marchnadydd) A market-woman.
Marchnata, v. a. (marchnad) To market.
Marchnatâad, s. m. (marchnata) A marketting.
Marchnatâawl, a. (marchnata) As to marketting.
Marchnatâwr, s. m.—pl. marchnatâwyr (marchnata—gwr) A market-man.
Marchnatiad, s. m. (marchnad) A marketting.
Marchnatty, s. m.—pl. t. au (marchnad—ty) A market house.
Marchnatwr, s. m.—pl. marchnatwyr (marchnad—gwr) A market-man; a chapman.

Marchnatwraig, s. f.—pl. marchnatwreigedd (marchnad—gwraig) A market-woman.
Marchocâad, s. m. (marchawg) A riding on horse-back.
Marchocâawl, a. (marchawg) Relating to horsemanship.
Marchocâu, v. a. (marchawg) To ride on horse-back, to ride. This is mostly used in the SILURIAN, and marchogaeth in the NORTH-WALIAN dialect.
Marchocâwr, s. m.—pl. marchocâwyr (marchawg—gwr) A horseman, a rider.
Marchogaeth, s. m. (marchawg) Horsemanship, riding; chivalry, knighthood.

Gwalchmai a rodded—i ddysgu moes, a marchogaeth, a lladd a chleddyf.

Gwalchmai was placed to learn manners, and horsemanship, and the use of the sword. Gr. ab Arthur.

Marchogaeth, v. a. (marchawg) To practise horsemanship, or riding; to ride.
Marchogaethiad, s. m. (marchogaeth) The practising of horsemanship.
Marchogaethu, v. a. (marchogaeth) To practise horsemanship.
Marchogaid, s. m.—pl. marchogeidiau (march-awg) A jug-full.
Marchogawl, a. (marchawg) Equestrian.
Marchoges, s. f.—pl. t. au (marchawg) A horse-woman, a riding-woman; a female chevalier.

Dyma farchoges fawr, yn taro wrth y brenin yn ngwrthol ar ei hynt—Hol modryb a'r clos, ebai rhyw ddiawl croch, nosda iwch!

Here comes a bouncing lady, falling against the king's back in her course.—Ha! Madam with the breeches, cried some hoarse fiend, good night to you! Blis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Marchogiaeth, s. m. (marchawg) Knighthood.
Marchogwr, s. m.—pl. marchogwyr (marchawg—gwr) A rider, a horseman.
Marchogwraig, s. f.—pl. marchogwreigedd (marchawg—gwraig) A horse-woman.
Marchon, s. f. march—on) The male ash.
Marchonen, s. f. (marchon) A male ash-tree.
Marchrawd, s. f.—pl. marchrodion (march—rhawd) A troop or army of horse; cavalry.
Marchredyn, s. pl. aggr. (march—rhedyn) The oak fern, or polypody; also called rhedyn y derw.
Marchredynen, s. f. (marchredyn) Shield-fern; marchredynen wryw, male-fern.
Marchridyll, s. m.—pl. t. iau (march—rhidyll) A sifter, or skreen.
Marchruddygl, s. m. (march—rhuddygl) Horse-radish; also called rhuddygl Mawrth.
Marchwas, s. m.—pl. marchweision (march—gwas) A horseman, a cavalier.
Marchwiail, s. pl. aggr. (march—gwiail) Saplings.

Marchwiail, bedw briglas
A dyn fy nhroed o wanas:
Nac addef rin i was.

The saplings of the green-topt birch will get my foot out of the shackle: disclose no secret to a youth. Llywarch Hen.

Marchwialen, s. f. (marchwiail) A sapling.
Marchwr, s. m.—pl. marchwyr (march—gwr) A horseman; a jockey, a groom; a horse-breaker.

Gwell marchwr gwerthu nog un prynu.

A selling jockey is superior to a buying one. Adage.

Marchwraig, s. f.—pl. marchwreigedd (march—gwraig) A horse-woman.
Marchwraint, s. pl. aggr. (march—gwraint) Tetters.
Marchwreinnyn, s. m. (marchwraint) A ringworm.
Marchwriad, s. m. (marchwr) Acting as a jockey.
Marchwriaeth, s. m. (marchwr) The art of managing horses, horsemanship, jockeyship.
Marchwriaw, v. a. (marchwr) To act as a jockey.
Marchwys, s. pl. aggr. (march—gwys) Horsemen.
Marchysgall, s. pl. aggr. (march—ysgall) The spear thistle. Marchysgall dôf, marchysgall y gerddi, artichokes.
Marchysgallen, s. f. (marchysgall) A spear thistle.
Mared, s. m. (mar) That is active or lively.
Maredawg, a. (mared) Active, agile, quick, nimble

Muner foddawg,
Maer anneddawg,
Maredawg doeth.

A willing distributer, a house occupied steward, active, and wise.

Maredw, a. (mared) Devoid of action.

Dalar, un cywar, a'n cudd,
Deon derw maredw Maredudd.

Earth, one small space, hides us, the separating oak plank from the lifeless Maredudd. Ll. P. Moch.

Margan, s. f. (mar—can) A feigned being, or goddess, to whom was assigned to conduct souls on their departure from the bodies at death.

Pwy yw Margan dwywes o annwn.

Margan which is a goddess of the insensate state. Mabinogion.

Marian, s. m.—pl. t. au (mar) A flat, or holme, such factitious ground as is deposited by water, a strand; also called marnn.
Marianawg, a. (marian) Abounding with holmes.
Mariandir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (marian—tir) Holme-land, formed of pebbles moved about.
Marianedd, s. m. (marian) A holme, a haugh.
Marianfa, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (marian) A place consisting of holmes or pebbles.
Marianiad, s. m. (marian) A forming a holme.
Mariannu, v. n. (marian) To form a holme.
Marl, s. m. (mar) Earth deposited by water; a rich kind of clay, marl.
Marlaidd, a. (marl) Of a marly quality.
Marlawg, a. (marl) Abounding with marl.
Marlbridd, s. m. (marl—pridd) A marly soil.

Nid erddir marlbridd iddi.

No marly earth will be ploughed for her. D. ab Gwilym, I'r fwyalch.

Marledig, a. (marl) Being marled; turned to marl
Marliad, s. m. (marl) The act of marling.
Marliaw, v. a. (marl) To marl, to manure with marl; to become marl.

Mae'r wlad wedi marliaw ym.

The country is finished marling for me. I. Deulwyn.

Marm, s. m. (mar) Dead earth; chalk.
Marmawr, s. m. (marm) That consists of chalky earth; marble; also called mynor.
Marmoraidd, a. (marmawr) Like marble.
Marmorawg, a. (marmawr) Having marble.
Marmori, v. n. (marmawr) To become marble.
Marth, s. m.—pl. t. au (mar) That is plain or open; that is evident.

Marth marw eurdeyrn Gogledd;
Gwynfryn ei syddyn ery!

Evident the death of the splendid prince of the North; the white hill is his lasting abode! Myrddin.

Ystryw chwerw——
Ail marth mawr mor de;
Ail yrth; ail syrth se——
Yw lladd Llywelyn!

A bitter idea: like the great swell of the sea of the south; like a torpor: like the fall of light, is the slaying of Llywelyn. Gwalchmai.

Marth, a. (mar) Of evident or open quality; certain, swelling, heavy.

Er Madawg ys man
Marth godau gyfeagar!

For Madawg sad memorials of regret afflict me! Gwalchmai.

Marthaw, v. n. (marth) To become swollen.

Marthawl, a. (marth) Tending to swell out, or to make plain.

Marthiad, s. m. (marth) A making evident.

Marthig, a. (marth) Apt to be unwieldy; heavy.

Lle rhewydd haul Mawrth ddydd marthig;
Lle rhewydd cethlydd cathl-ddig heryth-loes,
Hiraethlawn ddifwydig.

Where wantons the sun of March on a heavy day; where wantons the chorister of angry song, with her bare body, wistful and without food. Hywel Ystoryn.

Marthöedd, s. m. (marthaw) Unwieldiness.

Tysiliaw——
Mad goreu maddeu marthöedd.

Tysilio, well did he put away heaviness. Cynddelw.

Marthrwydd, s. m. (marth) Unwieldiness.

Marthu, v. a. (marth) To make cumbrous.

Marthus, a. (marth) Cumbersome, bulky.

Marw, s. m.—pl. meirw (mar) That is dead, a dead one, the dead; mortality. Marw mawr, a great mortality; y meirw, the dead ones, or the dead.

Pob peth a ddaw trwy'r ddaiar,
Ond y marw—mawr ei garchar.

Every thing comes through the earth, but the dead, whose confinement is great. Adage.

O ddeall tripheth y bydd difant a gortrech ar bob drwg a marw: ansawdd, achaws, a pheiriant; a hyn a geir yn y gwynfyd.

By knowing three things there will be a divestigation and overcoming of every evil and mortality: effect, cause, and agent; and this will be obtained in the circle of felicity. Barddas.

Marw, v. a. (mar) To die, to become dead.

A fo marw ni ymogelir.
He that dies will not be run away from. Adage.

A naw cant maer marwawd.
And nine hundred commanders did become dead. Taliesin.

Marw, a. (mar) Dead; mortal, deceased. Mae efe yn farw syth, he is stone dead.

Marwâad, s. m. (marw) A mortifying; a deadening

Marwâawl, a. (marw) Of a deadening quality.

Marwaidd, a. (marw) Deadish, somewhat dead.

Marwanedig, a. (marw—ganedig) Stillborn.

Marwar, s. pl. aggr. (marw—ar) Embers. a. Dying like embers. Glo marwar, dying coal.

Marwâu, v. n. (marw) To mortify; to deaden.

Marwawd, s. m. (marw) A dying, a deadening.

Marwawl, a. (marw) Deadly, mortal. s. pl. marwolion, mortals.

Marwawr, s. pl. aggr. (marw) Hot embers.

Marwdon, s. f. (marw—ton) Scurf on the skin.

Marwdy, s. m.—pl. t. au (marw—ty) A dead house; an escheat by death.

Un dyn ni ddyly ei dy fod yn farwdy, cyd boed marw heb gymmun: yngnad llys.

There is one man whose house ought not to be an escheat, although he should die without the sacrament: the judge of the palace. Welsh Laws.

Marwdyst, s. m. (marw—tyst) A dead evidence.

Marwdystiawl, a. (marwdyst) Relating to dead evidence.

Marwdystiolaeth, s. f. (marwdystiawl) A dead evidence.

Tair marwdystiolaeth y sydd am dir, ac a safant yn nghyfraith a barn.

There are three dead evidences with respect to land, and which shall stand in law and judgment. Welsh Laws.

Marwdywarchen, s. f. (marw—tywarchen) A death clod; the spot where a person dies.

Pan fo marw dyn gorwlad ar dir dyn arall, unarbymtheg a delir i berchenawg y tir, dros ei farwdywarchen; a'i ebediw oll, namyn hyny, i'r brenin.

When a person of a foreign country dies on the land of another person, sixteen pence shall be paid to the owner of the land, on account of his death clod, and all his heriot, except that, to the king. Welsh Laws.

Nid hysbys gan neb ei farwdywarchen.
No body is acquainted with his death clod. Taliesin.

Marwddanadl, s. m. (marw—danadl) Black or stinking horehound: marwddanadlen ber, white horehound; marwddanadlen felen, yellow deadnettle; marwddanadlen goch, red dead-nettle; marwddanadlen wen, white dead-nettle.

Marwddwfr, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (marw—dwfr) A dead water.

Marwddydd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (marw—dydd) A mortal day; a critical day, or the time when physicians observe the turn of a disorder.

Marwedig, a. (marw) Deadened, being dead.

Marwedigawl, a. (marwedig) Of mortal tendency.

Marweidd-dra, s. m. (marwaidd) The state of being deadened, or benumbed.

Marweiddiad, s. m. (marwaidd) A deadening.

Marweiddiaw, v. n. (marwaidd) To become deadened, or benumbed; to benumb, to deaden.

Marweiddiawl, a. (marwaidd) Deadening.

Marweiddiedig, a. (marweiddiad) Deadened.

Marwerydd, s. m. (marwar) Delirium, distraction

Marwfis, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (marw—mis) The dead month, or when vegetation is dormant.

Marwgoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (marw—coel) A death omen; a yellow spot on the skin; vulgarly deemed the sign of a friend's death.

Fo weles, drud fu'r loes draw,
F'arglwyddes farwgoel iddaw.

There was seen by my lady a death omen of him, and severe was the pang. L. Mon.

Marwgwsg, s. m. (marw—cwsg) A dead sleep, a lethargy; also an epithet for the dormouse.

Marwhaint, s. m.—pl. marwheintiau (marw—haint) A mortality.

Marwhun, s. f.—pl. t. au (marw—hun) A death sleep, a trance.

Marwi, v. (marw) To die. E farwodd y fuwch wrth alu, the cow died in calving. Dyfed.

Marwlas, s. m. (marw—glas) A pale blue. a. Of a dead greenish blue. Eithyn marwlas, a species of furze.

Marwlanw, s. m (marw—llanw) The dead water, or turn of the tide.

Marwnad, s. f.—pl. t. au (marw—nad) A death cry; a funeral song, an elegy.

Marwnadawl, a. (marwnad) Relating to a funeral song; elegiac.

Marwnadu, v. a. (marwnad) To mourn the dead.

Marwolâad, s. m. (marwolâu) A deadening.

Marwolaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (marwawl) Death, or the act of dying; mortality. Angau is another term, and always the one used for death personified. Plant marwolaeth, the children of mortality.

Marwolaethiad, s. m. (marwolaeth) A putting to death; a becoming dead.

Marwolaethu, v. a. (marwolaeth) To put to death.

Plant a gyfodant yn erbyn eu rhieni, ac eu marwolaethant wy.

Children shall rise up against their parents, and shall put them to death. W. Salisbury.

Morwolâu, v. a. (marwawl) To become dead.

Pan fo dirfawr ofn gwedy marwolâu drygewyllys dyn, a'i arwain hafachen i uffern; ar ol hyny y daw swn llariaidd rhad Duw.

When extreme fear shall have deadened the evil disposition of man, and conducted him almost to hell; after that there shall come the gentle voice of the grace of God. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Marwoldeb, s. m. (marwawl) Mortality.

Marwolder, s. m. (marwawl) Mortality.

Marwoli, v. a. (marwawl) To become dead.

Marwolrwydd, s. m. (marwawl) Mortalness.

Marwolus, a. (marwawl) Of a dead nature.

Ni ad y mor marwolus ynddo.
The sea will not let what is dead remain in it. Adage.

Marwor, s. pl. aggr. (marwawr) Embers, burning cinders.

Marworaidd, a. (marwawr) Like burning cinders.

Marworyn, s. m. dim. (marwawr) An ember.

Marwwystl, s. m.—pl. marwwystlon (marw—gwystl) A mortgage.

Marwwystlaw, v. a. (marwwystl) To mortgage.

Marwyd, s. m. (marw) A dying, or extinction.

Marwydos, s. pl. aggr. (marwyd) Embers.

Marwysgafn, s. f. (ysgafn) A death-bed song.

Marwysgar, s. m. (marw—ysgar) A death parting.

Mas, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (my—as) A going forward, a departure; swoon, a qualm, a fainting fit; ecstacy.

> Sain' Nicłas, wedi 'r fas fau,
> A fo'n dwyn f'enaid innau.
>
> May Saint Nicolas, after the death of me, be bearing hence my soul. L. G. Cothi.

Masaidd, a. (mâs) Tending to faint, qualmish.

Masarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (mâs) The sycamore.

> Maws masarn cadarn.
>
> Sweet the mighty sycamore. Cynddelw.

Masarnaidd, a. (masarn) Like sycamore.

Masarnen, s. f. dim. (masarn) Greater maple, or sycamore.

Masarnwydd, s. m. (masarn—gwydd) Sycamore.

Masawd, s. m. (mas) A swooning, a fainting.

Masawl, a. (mâs) Swooning, or fainting.

Masg, s. f.—pl. t. au (my—asg) That is interwoven, or plaited; any reticulated work; lattice-work, wire-work, mesh-work, a mesh. Masgau rhwyd, the meshes of a net.

Masgawl, a. (masg) Interwoven, reticulated.

Masgiad, s. m. (masg) A plaiting, reticulation; a meshing: a making lattice work.

Masgl, s. f.—pl. masglau (masg) That covers; a mesh, a pod, or shell.

Masglawg, a. (masgl) Having mesh-work; having pods, or shells.

Masgliad, s. m. (masgl) A forming a mesh-work, a reticulating, a podding.

Masglu, v. a. (masgl) To reticulate, to shell.

Masgn, s. m. (masg) What is obligatory.

Masgnach, s. m. (masgn) Concern, affair, business.

Masgnachawl, a. (masgnach) Relating to business.

Masgnachu, v. a. (masgnach) To transact business.

> Cas a fasgnacho bob peth ac heb brynu dim.
>
> Hateful is he who cheapens every thing and without buying any thing. Adage.

Masgnachwr, s. m.—pl. masgnachwyr (masgnach—gwr) A chapman: a man of business.

Masgnachydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (masgnach) Trader.

Masgu, v. a. (masg) To interweave; to reticulate, to form mesh-work, to lattice.

Masu, v. n. (mas) To proceed, to depart, to swoon, to faint; to die away.

> Wyt goreu un gwron o'r fas,
> A wnaeth Duw y dydd yn creas.
>
> Thou art the best of any hero that ventures, which God made the day he created. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Masw, a. (mas) Wanton, sportive, fluttering, light; languishing, soft.

> Masw imi broff brif draethiad a wnawn,
> Lle ni'm rhoddi iawn, ne gwawn, na gwad!
>
> It is trifling for me to essay the oration, which I could make, where she gives me no amends, nor yet denies, who is of gossamer hue! H. ab Einion, Llygliw.
>
> Serchawg fydd masw dan laswydd.
>
> Amorous will be the gay beneath the verdant wood. D. ab Gwilym.
>
> Mae syched, masw ei hachen,
> Meddwdod i'th orfod i'th en.
>
> Thirst oppresses thy utterance, thou of wanton breed. D. ab Gwilym, i'r Bi.

Maswedd, s. m. (masw) A fluttering state; languish, tenderness, softness.

Masweddawl, a. (maswedd) Fluttering, wanton.

Masweddiad, s. m. (maswedd) A wantoning.

Masweddu, v. a. (maswedd) To wanton, to frolic.

Masweddwr, s. m.—pl. masweddwyr (maswedd—gwr) A light flutterer; soft effeminate man.

Maswy, a. (masw) Soft, wanton, sportive, light.

> Fy swydd, nid yw faswy hyn,
> Eu harall a'u myberyn.
>
> My office, this is not trifling, is to look after them and their rams. Ll. ab H. ab I. ab Gronw.

Mat, s. m.—pl. t. iau (my—at) A mat.

Mater, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mad) What is produced; exigency, occasion, affair, matter.

Matog, s. f.—pl. t. au (mad) A mattock, a hoe.

Matras, s. m.—pl. t. au (mat—rhas) A mattress.

> Cawn orwedd——
> Ar fatras o goed glas glyn.
>
> We shall lie upon a mattress of the green woods of the dale. D. ab Gwilym.

Matrasu, v. a. (matras) To form a mattress.

Matteyrn, s. m.—pl. t. edd (teyrn) A patriot prince

> Tri matteyrn Ynys Prydain: Prydain ab Aedd Mawr—Dyfnwal Moel Mud—a Hywel Dda.
>
> The three patriot kings of the Isle of Britain: Prydain son of Aedd the Great, Dyfnwal Moel Mud, and Hywel the Good. Trioedd.

Mâth, s. m. (my—ath) That is flat, spread out.

Mathr, s. m. (math) A strewing; a spread.

Mathrach, s. m. (mathr) A spreading down, or laying flat; a trampling down.

Mathrawl, a. (mathr) Trampling, treading.

Mathriad, s. m. (mathr) A trampling.

Mathru, v. a. (mathr) To trample, to tread.

Mathrwr, s. m. (mathr—gwr) A trampler.

Mau, s. m. (my—au) What is possessed by me.

> Myfi y sydd wir briodawr o ach edryd; ac ys sefydd wyf yn gwarchadw fy mau, a'm priodolder, fal y mae goreu y dylwyf eu gwarchadw.
>
> I am a true proprietor with respect to lineage and kindred; and therefore I do protect my property, and my original right, in the best manner it behoves me to protect them. Welsh Laws.

Mau, pron. (my—au) My, mine. The article Y, the, is mostly put before it in construction; as, y mau, the mine, m. y fau, the mine, f. y tâd mau, the father of mine; y fam fau, the mother of mine. See My, einwyf, and einof.

Maufi, pron. (mau—mi) Mine own.

Maw, s. m. (my—aw) That opens, or expands; the involution, or grasp of both hands. a. Expanding; indulgent.

> Rhagddaw yn nghywawd maw gyfagar.
>
> Before him in the banquet the expanding fumes. Taliesin.
>
> Oedd maw ei rhydau.
>
> Broad were its fords. Taliesin.
>
> Maw bid mawl, taw bid tawl,
> Ac o'r ddau diwedd pob hawl.
>
> Be concession praised, be silence regulated, and from the two will every suit be ended. Adage.
>
> Addfwyn gaer y sydd ar glawr gweilgi,
> Bid lawen yn nghalan eirian ei rhi!
> Ac amser pan wna mor maw wrhydri,
> Ys gnawd gorun beirdd uch meddlestri.
>
> A pleasant town there is above the face of the torrent, in the splendid feast may its chief be glad! and the time when the sea works its expanding energy, let the bards enjoy their accustomed revel over the mead vessels. Taliesin, Mic Dinbych.
>
> Ef maw wrth wirion a mwyn,
> Os ynfyd wrth was anfwyn——
>
> To the simple he is indulgent and kind, if violent to the froward youth. Wat. ab Hywel.

Mawaid, s. f.—pl. maweidiau (maw) As much as may be held between both hands.

> Gair gwraig fal gwynt yn faweidiau.
>
> A woman's word like wind by handfuls. Adage.

Mawd, s. m. (maw) That is open, expanding.

Mawdd, s. m. (maw) That opens or spreads out.
Maweidiad, s. m. (mawaid) A filling both hands.
Maweidiaw, v. a. (mawaid) To hold as much as may be taken up between both hands.
Mawl, s. f. (my—awl) A tribute of gratitude; worship; praise.

Mal y cerych dy fawl.

As thou regardest thy praise. Adage.

Mawlâad, s. m. (mawl) A praising; a worshipping.
Mawlâu, v. a. (mawl) To praise, or to extol.

Iawnach, heb gel, gan delyn,
Moli Duw no mawlâu dyn.

More appropriate, without disguise, with the harp to praise God than to extol man. D. ab Gwilym.

Mawn, s. pl. aggr. (my—awn) Peat, or turf.
Mawnawg, a. (mawn) Abounding with peat.
Mawnbwll, s. m.—pl. mawnbyllau (mawn—pwll) A peat pit, a turf pit.
Mawndir, s. m. (mawn—tir) Peat land.
Mawneg, s. f. (mawn) A place where peat is dug
Mawnen, s. f. (mawn) A single peat, or turf.
Mawnog, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mawn) A place where peat is dug, a peat pit.
Mawr, a. (my—awr) Great, large, big. Tra mawr, extremely large; mawr iawn, pur fawr, mawr byd, very great, vastly big, or huge; mawr dda i ti, much good be to thee, or thou art welcome; y mor mawr, the main sea. It is used, prefixed, and postfixed in composition.

Nid mawr ond cyfiawn.

The only one great is the just. Adage.

Bach pob dyn a dyblo ei hun yn fawr.

Little is every person that thinks himself great. Adage.

Mawr, adv. (my—awr) Greatly; also used with a verb to express a wish, or longing. Mawr na ddelit yma! Would heavens thou wert but coming here!

Ni fawr ddiolchir rhodd gymhell.

No great thanks will be given for a profered gift. Adage.

Mawr i dol'r mor i Dawy;
Ar ruddiau Mawd i'r oedd mwy!

Into Tawy the sea greatly flows; on the cheeks of Mawd there was more! Ieu. Deulwyn.

Mawrâad, s. m. (mawrâu) A magnifying.
Mawrâawl, a. (mawrâu) Tending to magnify.
Mawraidd, a. (mawr) Tending to enlarge.
Mawrair, s. m. (gair) A boastful word.

Llawer mawrair a fethla.

Many a boast is foiled. Llefod.

Mawrâu, v. a. (mawr) To magnify, to enlarge.

Ni fawrâa neges ni ragwyl ei les.

He will not magnify an errand who does not anticipate his advantage. Adage.

Rhieingerdd Efa a fawrêynt.

The panegyric on Eve's beauty they would magnify. Cynddelw.

Mawrâus, a. (mawrâu) Tending to magnify.
Mawrâwr, s. m.—pl. mawrâwyr (mawrâu—gwr) A magnifier, one who exalts.
Mawrboen, s. f.—pl. t. au (poen) Great pain.
Mawrbwyll, s. m. (pwyll) Magnanimity. a. Of great power of mind.
Mawrdeg, a. (teg) Greatly fair; magnificent.
Mawrdra, s. m. (mawr) Greatness, or grandeur.
Mawrdrafn, s. m. (trafn) Great arrangement.
Mawrdrafferth, s. f. (trafferth) Great bustle.
Mawrdres, s. f. (tres) A great bustle or hurry.
Mawrdrig, a. (trig) Of long continuance.
Mawrdrigaw, v. a. (mawrdrig) To tarry long.
Mawrdrin, s. m. (trin) Great bustle; turmoil.
Mawrdrosi, v. a. (trosi) To drive about much.
Mawrdrwm, a. (trwm) Greatly heavy.
Mawrdrwst, s. m. (trwst) Great noise, or tumult.
Mawrdwyll, s. m. (twyll) Great fraud, or deceit.
Mawrdda, s. m. (mawr—da) Great good, much good. Mawrdda i ti, thou art welcome.
Mawrddarbod, s. m. (darbod) Great providence.
Mawrddawn, s. m.—pl. mawrddoniau (dawn) A great gift, or talent. a. Greatly gifted.
Mawrddoeth, a. (doeth) Greatly wise, very wise.
Mawrddrwg, s. m.—pl. mawrddrygau (drwg) A great evil; a misfortune.
Mawrddrygu, v. a. (mawrddrwg) To hurt greatly
Mawrddyrchaif, a. (dyrchaif) Greatly exalted.
Mawrddyrchafaidd, a. (mawrddyrchaif) Magnificent.

Gwaelder a'm harweiniai i neuadd fawrddyrchafaidd; yno nwyfant a'm diarfa.

Frailty conducted me to a magnificent saloon; there wantonness took off my armour. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Mawrddyrchafawl, a. (mawrddyrchaif) Magnificent.
Mawrddyrchafiad, s. m. (mawrddyrchaif) A greatly exalting, great exaltation.
Mawrddyrchafu, v. (mawrddyrchaif) Greatly to exalt.
Mawredig, a. (mawr) Magnified or exalted.

Mawredig pendefig castell.

Exalted is the commandant of a castle. Adage.

Mawredigaeth, s. m. (mawredig) A being exalted.
Mawredigaw, v. a. (mawredig) To magnify.
Mawredigawl, a. (mawredig) Tending to magnify
Mawredigrwydd, s. m. (mawredig) Magnanimity
Mawredd, s. m. (mawr) Greatness, or grandeur.

Bach hedyn pob mawredd.

Small is the seed of every greatness. Adage.

Er ergryd angeu, rhag anghenwyr Lloegr,
Ni lygraf fy mawredd.

For the dread of death, before the necessitous men of Lloegr, I will not dishonour my renown. Llywarch Hen.

Mawreddawg, a. (mawredd) Magnificent, grand.
Mawreddawl, a. (mawredd) Tending to magnify.
Mawreddiad, s. m. (mawredd) A magnifying.
Mawreddig, a. (mawredd) Magnificent, grand.
Mawreddogi, v. a. (mawreddawg) To render magnificent; to become magnificent.
Mawreddogrwydd, s. m. (mawredd) Magnificence.
Mawreddu, v. a. (mawredd) To magnify, to exalt
Mawreddus, a. (mawredd) Magnificent, grand.
Mawreddusaw, v. a. (mawreddus) To render magnificent, to become magnificent.
Mawreddusiad, s. m. (mawreddus) A rendering or becoming magnificent.
Mawreddusrwydd, s. m. (mawreddus) Magnificence
Mawreiddiannu, v. a. (mawreiddiant) To render or to become of an enlarging tendency.
Mawreiddiant, s. m. (mawraidd) A tendency to enlarge or to magnify.
Mawreiriawg, a. (mawrair) Of pompous words.
Mawrfaith, a. (maith) Greatly-extending.

Caid Feifod o firain logawd,
Lloch fawrfaith am fedd feddrawd

Meifod was found of splendid endowment, a cloister greatly ample for the revels of the sons of mead. Cynddelw.

Mawrfalch, a. (balch) Greatly proud; ostentatious
Mawrfryd, s. m. (bryd) A great mind; magnanimity.
Mawrfrydig, a. (mawrfryd) Magnanimous.
Mawrfrydigrwydd, s. m. (mawrfrydig) Magnanimousness, magnanimity.
Mawrfrydu, v. n. (mawrfryd) To become magnanimous; to render great of mind.

Mawrfrydus, a. (mawrfryd) Magnanimous.
Mawrfrydusaw, v. n. (mawrfrydus) To become magnanimous.
Mawrfrys, s. m. (brys) Great haste, or hurry.
Mawrfudd, s. f. (budd) Great advantage, or gain
Mawrgais, s. m. (cais) A great essay, or attempt.
Mawrgall, a. (call) Greatly discreet, or prudent.
Mawrgas, s. m. (cas) Great hatred. a. Greatly odious, having great enmity.
Mawrgeisiaw, v. a. (mawrgais) To try greatly.
Mawrgerth, a. (certh) Greatly imminent.
Mawrglau, a. (clau) Greatly persevering.
Mawrgoeth, a. (coeth) Greatly precious.
Mawrgwydd, s. m. (cwydd) A great fall or lapse.
Mawrhydr, s. m. (hydr) Great confidence.
Mawrhydri, s. m. (mawrhydr) Great confidence.
Mawriad, s. m. (mawr) A magnifying.
Mawriaw, v. a. (mawr) To magnify, to enlarge.

Bid doeth dedwydd, Duw a'i mawr.

Let the happy be wise, God will enlarge him. Adage.

Mawrlles, s. m. (lles) Great benefit or good.
Mawrllw, s. m. (llw) A great oath; perjury.

A wnel mawrddrwg a rydd mawrllw.

He that commits a great crime will swear a great oath. Adage.

Mawrth, s. m. (mawr) Mars. Mis Mawrth, the month of March; Dyw Mawrth, Dydd Mawrth, Dies Martis, Tuesday.
Mawrthaidd, a. (mawrth) Like Mars; like March
Mawrthawl, a. (mawrth) Belonging to March.
Mawrthig, a. (mawrth) Having the nature of Mars; martial, of the month of March.

Ar wyrdd wawr ar feirch mawr mawrthig.

At the green dawn on great martial steeds. Cynddelw.

Mawrwae, s. f. (gwae) Great woe, or tribulation
Mawrwaith, s. m. (gwaith) A great work.
Mawrwall, s. m. (gwall) A great fault; great oversight, great carelessness.
Mawrwerth, s. m. (gwerth) Great value; preciousness. a. Of great value.

Mawrwerth pob newid, bychanwerth pob prid.

Dear is every thing exchanged, cheap is every thing sold. Adage.

Mawrwerthiawg, a. (mawrwerth) Of great value.
Mawrwg, s. m. (mawr) Greatness, or grandeur.
Mawrwr, s. m. (mawr—gwr) A great man.
Mawrwraidd, a. (mawrwr) Magnanimous.
Mawrwri, s. m. (mawrwr) Magnanimity, heroism
Mawrwriaeth, s. m. (mawrwr) Magnanimity.
Mawrwych, a. (gwych) Magnificently splendid.
Mawrwychder, s. m. (mawrwych) Magnificence.
Mawrwychedd, s. m. (mawrwych) Magnificence.
Mawrwyrth, s. m.—pl. t. iau (gwyrth) Great virtue.
Mawryd, s. m. (mawr) The state of being great.
Mawrydi, s. m. (mawryd) Majesty, grandeur.
Mawrydig, a. (mawryd) Magnificent, grand.

Dygychwyn, genad, gan fawrydig dorf.

Be setting off, messenger, from a magnificent company. T. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Mawrydigrwydd, s. (mawrydig) Magnificence.
Mawrygawl, a. (mawrwg) Magnificent, extolling.
Mawrygedig, a. (mawrygiad) Magnified, extolled.
Mawrygiad, s. m. (mawrwg) A magnifying.
Mawrygu, v. a. (mawrwg) To magnify, to extol.
Mawrygus, a. (mawrwg) Tending to magnify.
Mawrygwr, s. m.—pl. mawrygwyr (mawrwg—gŵr) A magnifier, or one who extols.
Maws, s. m. (my—aws) That is gliding; delight; a sweet sensation; melody.

Nid er da i Hwfa hen,
Namyn er maws i mi fy hun—
Y canaf.

Not for any good to old Hova, but for gratification to myself do I sing.

Maws, a. (my—aws) Smoothly gliding; pleasant, delightful; sweet, grateful; melodious. Meddgyrn maws, grateful mead horns; cynghaws maws, sweet counsel; cadarnwch maws, grateful strength; lliw maws, an agreeable colour; tad maws, an amiable father.

Mochddwyreawg huan haf dyffestin
Maws llafar adar, mygr hour hin.

Early-rising sun of summer, hasten thou the melodious song of birds and pleasant tide of serenity. Gwalchmai.

Mawsaidd, a. (maws) Of a grateful tendency.
Mawsain, a. (maws) Abounding with delight.
Mawsawl, a. (maws) Of a delectable tendency.
Mawsedig, a. (maws) Being pleased or delighted
Mawsedd, s. m. (maws) A state of pleasure.
Mawsi, v. a. (maws) To give pleasure, or delight; to be sweet, or melodious.
Mawsiad, s. m. (maws) A rendering pleasant, or delectable; a becoming delectable.
Mawsiannawl, a. (mawsiant) Pleasurable.
Mawsiannu, v. a. (mawsiant) To gratify, to render delectable; to be delectable.
Mawsiant, s. m. (maws) Delectation; delight.
ME, s. m. r. An agent; the agent in the third person of verbs. pron. He, him: Also an adverbial sign of the agency of an action. Me fu yno rai dynion, there were there some men; me gofiai lais y truan, he would remember the cry of the wretched; me wnaeth y cleddyf ddifrawd, the sword made havoc.
Mebai, s. c. (mab) Infant, youth. a. Infant.

Nid eisteddai febai fab.

The infant child would not sit down. D. ab Gwilym.

Mebain, a. (mab) Youthful, or juvenile.
Mebaint, s. m. (mebain) Youthfulness, juvenility

E fagwyd i'n gwlad bendefigion;
O febaint fe dyg Duw hwy'n feibion.

There have been nurtured nobles in our country; from infancy God has given them the growth of men. T. ab I. Rhys.

Mebin, a. (mab) Relating to infancy or youth.
Mebyd, s. m. (mab) Infancy, childhood.

Ef a wybu o'i febyd,
Dëall i bawb, dull y byd.

He knew from his infancy the way of the world, which is a lesson for every body. L. G. Cothi.

Mebydawl, a. (mebyd) Relating to childhood.
Mebydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mab) A bachelor.

Tri gwyn-febydd Ynys Prydain: Cadawg ab Gwynlliw, yn Llangarfan; Madawg Morfryn, yn nghor Illtud; a Deinioel Wyn, yn Ngwynedd.

The three holy bachelors of the isle of Britain: Cadog the son of Gwynlliw, at Llangarfan; Madog Morfryn, in the choir Illtud, and Deinioel the blessed, in Gwynedd. Trioedd.

Mebyn, s. m. dim. (mab) A male infant.
Mechdeyrn, s. m.—pl. t. edd (mach—teyrn) A tributary prince; a viceroy; a lord. Mechdeyrn Byd, the vicegerent of the world.

Tri mechdeyrn dyledawg a ddyly wledychu Cymmru oll dan ei therfynau: brenin Aberffraw, arglwydd Dinefwr, a bwn Mathrafal.

The three lawful princes who ought to govern all Wales under its boundaries: the king of Aberfraw, the lord of Dinevor, and that of Mathraval. Trioedd.

Ni ellynt ronyn,
Heb gyfoeth mechdeyrn.

They could not perform a tittle, without the power of the Lord. Taliesin.

Gwelais———
Rhag Madawg mechdeyrn Lleislawn,
Lliaws twr twnfriw,
A gwaed ffrau ar friw.

I have seen, before Madog the lord of Lleision, many a ruined tower, and trickling blood on the countenance. Gwalchmai.

Mechdeyrnaidd, a. (mechdeyrn) Princely.
Mechdeyrnawl, a. (mechdeyrn) Princely; royal.
Mechdeyrnddyled, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mechdeyrn—dyled) The tribute due from an inferior prince to his sovereign. Thus, according to the ancient constitution of Britain, we find in a particular period, that the kings of Scotland, Wales, and Cornwall, paid such a tribute to the crown of London; and they claimed the like homage from their respective tributaries.
Mechdeyrnddylyed, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mechdeyrn—dylyed) The tribute due from an inferior prince to his sovereign.
Mechdeyrnged, s. f. (mechdeyrn—ced) What is due from a prince to his sovereign.
Mechni, s. m.—pl. t. on (mach) Surety, or bail.
Mechnïad, s. m. (mechni) A giving surety, or bail
Mechnïadwy, a. (mechnïad) Capable of security.
Mechnïaeth, s. m. (mechni) Suretiship. Mechnïaeth undyddiawg, suretiship for one day.
Mechnïaethiad, s. m. (mechniaeth) A performing the obligation of a surety.
Mechnïaethu, v. a. (mechnïaeth) To perform the obligation of a surety.
Mechnïaw, v. a. (mechni) To bail, to undertake, or to give surety; to become a surety.

Barn arnat dy hun yn gyfiawn, a Duw a'th fechnïa.

Pass sentence on thyself equitably, and God will become thy surety. Adage.

Mechnïawl, a. (mechni) Relating to suretiship.
Mechnïwr, s. m.—pl. mechnïwyr (mechni—gwr) A man who is a surety, or who bails.
Mechnïydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mechni) A surety.
Med, s. f. (me—ed) That is compact, a centre; that is made complete, full, perfect, or mature.
Med, prep. (me—ed) To, unto, as far as to the full; it is also an affix, forming the ordinals of numbers. Dos fed yno, go as far as there; fed y leni, until this year; I ba le yr ei di? to what place art thou going? Med y fàn a'r fàn, to such and such a place. Med is a South Wales idiom, for which Hyd is used in North Wales.

Ei gorlliw——
Yn waed o'i thraed fed ei thrwyn.

Her colour of blood from her feet to her nose. W. Lleyn.

Mededig, a. (med) Being reaped. Yd mededig, reaped corn.
Medel, s. f.—pl. t. au (med) A reaping; a company of reapers. Blaenor y fedel, the harvest lord. Cri y fedel, the harvest shout; also called Tori pen y wrach, and Boddi y cynhauaf; a ceremony answering to the English harvest home: When the last field is cut, some ears of corn are tied together and placed at a distance, at which each reaper throws his sickle; and he that hits it gains the honour; whereupon three huzzas are given, and a feast ends the day.

Myhefin heulawg a wna medel mochddwyreawg.

A sunny June will make an early reaping. Adage.

Medelwas, s. m. (medel—gwas) A reaper.
Medelwr, s. m. (medel—gwr) A reaper.
Medi, s. m. (mêd) A reaping. Mis Medi, September. The different methods of reaping are called, Bawdfedi, traws-fedi, dyrneitio, gwanafu, ysgripiana, tori tan law.
Medi, v. a. (med) To reap. Meda di yr yd, do thou reap the corn.

Hawdd medi erw anghenawg.

It is easy to reap the acre of the needy. Adage.

Mediad, s. m. (med) A reaping, the act of reaping.
Mediw, s. m. (med) Competent, or adequate.
Medlys, s. pl. (med—llys) Mature vegetation.

Na ddwg i'n gwlad fad fedlys,
Anghlod.——

Bring not into our country, of teeming mature vegetation, any scandal. Ieu. Du Daf. ab Owain.

Medr, s. m. (med) Skill to accomplish, knowledge how to perform; skill.

Nid hael hael ar fedr cael ced;
Nid call call wedi colled;
Nid dim dim diddym od aeth:
Nid byd byd heb wybodaeth.

Not liberal the liberal with an intent to get a profit; not discreet the discreet after suffering a loss; not any thing the thing if it is gone to nothing; a world is no world without knowledge. W. Lleyn.

Medraeth, s. m. (medr) Skill to accomplish.

Nid wyf fi yn cymeryd arnaf, na medraeth, nac hysbysrwydd yn y Gymmraeg.

I do not take upon myself either skill, or knowledge in the Welsh. S. Trefredyn.

Medrai, s. c.—pl. medreion (medr) An expert one
Medraidd, a. (medr) Somewhat skilful or adroit.
Medrawd, s. m. (medr) Accomplishment.
Medrawl, a. (medr) Tending to accomplish.
Medredig, a. (medr) Accomplished, skilled.
Medredydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (medr) One who can effect; a marksman.
Medredd, s. m. (medr) Capability of accomplishing; expertness, skill, knowledge.
Medriad, s. m. (medr) An accomplishing, an effecting; a being able.
Medriannawl, a. (medriant) Accomplishing.
Medriannu, v. a. (medriant) To render capable.
Medriant, s. m. (medr) Accomplishment.
Medroldeb, s. m. (medrawl) Capableness.
Medrolder, s. m. (medrawl) Capableness.
Medroledd, s. m. (medrawl) Capableness.
Medroli, v. a. (medrawl) To render competent.
Medru, v. a. (medr) To accomplish, to effect, to do; to exert skill; to be able; to know how; to take aim, to aim at; to hit, to shoot the mark; A fedri di osodi hwn? Canst thou place this? Medraf, I can.

Ni wyr ni welodd, ni fedr ni ddysg.

He does not know who has not seen, he can not accomplish who does not learn. Adage.

Ni fedraf——
Beth yw gwawd ond bath y gwr.

I can not comprehend what is ridicule but the picture of that man. Ieu Du y Bilwg.

Y blaidd——
Heb fedru preiddiaw
Yn un a drig a'r oen draw.

The wolf, without being able to depredate, shall dwell together with yonder lamb. E. Evans, P. Hir.

Ceisio medru, cais Modron,
Y gaer fry ar gwr y fron.

Trying to hit, like the attempt of Modron, the towering fortress on the skirt of the hill. D. ab Gwilym.

Sef a wna y mab ei fwrw, a'i fedru i rhwng giewyn yr esgair ac yr asgwrn.

What the youth did was to shoot at him, and hit him between the sinew of the thigh and the bone. H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.

Medrus, a. (medr) Able to effect, hit, or accomplish; expert, skilful; accomplished.
Medrusaidd, a. (medrus) Somewhat expert.
Medrusaw, v. a. (medrus) To render expert; to become expert, or skilful.
Medrusder, s. m. (medrus) Expertness, skill.
Medrusedd, s. m. (medrus) Expertness, skill.
Medrusrwydd, s. m. (medrus) Capability of effecting, or accomplishing; expertness.
Medrwr, s. m.—pl. medrwyr (medr—gwr) One who can effect, perform, hit, or accomplish; a marksman.

Ni fedrai fil o fedrwyr
Rann 'gamp ar un o'r gwyr.

Not a thousand marksmen would be able to take the share of the feat of one of the men. Ieu. Llwyddon.

Medryd, v. a. (medr) To aim; to hit a mark; to effect, to do; to exert skill; to be able.

Medrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (medr) One who effects; one skilled, able, or capable; one who takes aim; one who hits, or shoots a mark.

Medw, s. m. (med) That is beyond skill or art.

Mae dy ddwyael, medw ddien,
Un rhyw a'th wallt, f'anrhaith wen!

Thy eyebrows, thou gentle peerless one, are like thy hair, my fair tormentor! Ed. Rhys, o Faelawr.

Medwr, s. m.—pl. medwyr (med—gwr) A reaper.

Medwraig, s. f. (med—gwraig) Reaping woman.

Medd, s. m. (me—edd) The origin of motion; a centre, or middle point of motion; utterance; that is possessed, or enjoyed; that causes a turning; that causes intoxication; mead.

Cornaid medd a ddaw i'r penteulu, yn mhob cyfeddach ydd hello y dystain arni, y gan y frenines.

A hornful of mead shall come to the patron of the family, in every banquet in which the steward of the household shall serve, from the queen. Welsh Laws.

Mesur gwirawd gyfreithiawl, llonaid y llestri y gwallofier ynddynt o'r cwrw, a'r hanner o'r bragawd, a'r traian o'r medd.

The measure of a lawful wassail, is the fill of the vessels used in serving of the ale, and the half of the bragget, and the third of the mead. Welsh Laws.

Meddal, a. (medd—al) Soft, mollient, tender.

Meddalâad, s. m. (meddal) A softening.

Meddalâawl, a. (meddal) Tending to soften.

Meddalai, s. c. (meddal) What softens, or meliorates; the mallow. Meddalai y gerddi, garden mallow; meddalai y gors, meddalai y morfa, marsh mallow; meddalai gwyllt, wild mallow.

Meddalaidd, a. (meddal) Somewhat soft, softish.

Meddalâu, v. a. (meddal) To make soft, to soften.

Meddalder, s. m. (meddal) Softness; mildness.

Meddaledig, a. (meddal) Softness, mildness.

Meddaliad, s. m. (meddal) A softening, a mollifying

Meddalrwydd, s. m. (meddal) Softness; mildness.

Meddalu, v. a. (meddal) To soften; to be softened

Meddalus, a. (meddal) Softening, mollient.

Meddalwch, s. m. (meddal) Softness, mildness.

Meddalwr, s. m.—pl. meddalwyr (meddal—gwr) A softener, one who mollifies.

Meddawl, a. (medd) Relating to possession.

Meddedig, a. (medd) Being possessed, or enjoyed

Meddedigaeth, s. m. (meddedig) Possession.

Meddedigaethawl, a. (meddedigaeth) Possessory.

Meddedigawl, a. (meddedig) Possessory, possessive, having possession.

Meddf, a. (medd) Soft, mild, or mollient.

Meddfaeth, a. (medd—maeth) Mead-nourished.

Meddgell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (medd—cell) A mead cellar.

Y trulliad a ddyly warchadw y feddgell, a chadw y cloau.

The butler is bound to take care of the mead-cellar, and to keep the keys. Welsh Laws.

Meddgorn, s. m. (medd—corn) A mead-horn.

Arbenig benaeth, mabmaeth meddgyrn.

The excellent chieftain, fostered son of mead-horns. Ein. ab Gwalchmai, i Lywelyn II.

Meddiad, s. m. (medd) A commanding; a possessing, an owning.

Meddiannawl, a. (meddiant) Commanding, possessing, owning.

Meddiannedig, a. (meddiant) Being possessed.

Meddiannedigaeth, s. m. (meddiannedig) A rendering possessed; a becoming possessed.

Meddiannedigaethawl, a. (meddiannedigaeth) Appertaining to possession.

Meddiannedigawl, a. (meddiannedig) Possessory,

Meddiannu, v. a. (meddiant) To possess, to take possession; to become possessed.

Meddiannus, a. (meddiant) Belonging to possession. Meddiannusion, those who enjoy.

Meddiannwr, s. m.—pl. meddiannwyr (meddiant —gwr) A possessor, a proprietor.

Meddiannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (meddiant) A possessor, an owner.

Meddiannyddawl, a. (meddiannydd) Belonging to a possessor, being proprietary.

Meddiant, s. m.—pl. meddiannau (medd) Possession, authority, power.

Meddlad, s. m. (medd—llad) Gratuity of mead.

Meddlys, s. pl. aggr. (medd—llys) Intoxicating herbs; the meadow sweet.

Meddrawd, s. f. (medd—rhawd) A revel rout.

Meddu, v. n. (medd) To have in power, to have command of; to be able; to possess.

Canys Duw a fedd a fynwy.

For God doth possess what I would wish. Cynddelw.

Yn mywyd Madawg ni meddai undyn
Dwyn terfyn tra hyfryd;
Nid meddwl meddu hefyd,
Namyn o Dduw, ddim o'r byd.

In the life time of Madog no one can have power to encroach on the most happy boundary; he thinks not also of possessing, but from God, any portion of the world. Cynddelw.

Ni fedd, namyn Duw, ddigyfoethi dyn.

No one, except God, has to deprive man of his power. H. Foel ab Griffri.

Meddw, a. (medd) Being made to turn round; circling, turning round; causing to turn; intoxicating; intoxicated, being besides one's self. Meddw hen-hob, crop sick.

Meddw pob balch ar waddawd ei annoethineb.

Every proud one is intoxicated with the dregs of his ignorance. Adage.

Gogwn attrefnawr
Rhwng nef a llawr——
Pan yw meddw olwyn;
Pan yw lleddf orddwyn.

I know who upholds order between heaven and earth; why a wheel is revolving: and why a mallet is flat. Taliesin.

Yr yfasamni feddw fedd y Drefwen.

We have drank the intoxicating mead of the Whitetown. Cynddelw.

Tyfu cas yn lle cariad;
Felly gwna y rhai meddwon;
Digio Duw a digio dynion.

Cherishing hate instead of love; so the drunken ones do; offending God and offending men. T. Ll. D. Powel.

Meddwad, s. m. (meddw) A causing to turn round, an intoxicating; a getting drunk.

Meddwain, a. (meddw) Abounding with circular motion; inebriated, drunken.

Meddwaint, s. m. (meddwain) Intoxication.

Fy nyn, ni hunwn ninnau,
Er maint oedd y meddwaint mau.

My dear, I would not slumber neither, notwithstanding how great was my intoxication. D. ab Gwilym.

Meddwawd, s. m. (medd) A turning round; intoxication, drunkenness.

Nid yf yr hebogydd namyn tri chornaid yn y neuadd, rhag bod gwall ar ei hebogau drwy feddwawd.

The falconer drinks no more than three hornfuls in the hall lest his hawks should be neglected through drunkenness. Welsh Laws.

Meddwawl, a. (meddw) Tending to turn round; intoxicating, inebriating.

Meddwdawd, s. m. (meddw) Drunkenness.

Nid meddw y dyn a allo
Cwnu ei hun a rhodio,
Ac yfed rhagor ddiawd;
Nid yw hyny yn feddwdawd.

Not drunk the man who can get up himself, walk about, and can drink more liquor; that is not drunkenness. T. Ll. D. Powel.

Meddwedig, a. (meddwad) Intoxicated, drunk.

Meddwedigaeth, s. m. (meddwedig) Intoxication.
Meddwi, v. a. (meddw) To cause to turn round; to turn round; to intoxicate, to get drunk.

A fyno nef i'w enaid,
Medd syr Rhys, meddwi sy raid.

He that would obtain heaven for his soul, as Sir Rhys says, it is necessary to get drunk. Guto y Glyn.

Meddwl, s. m.——pl. meddyliau (medd——wl) Thought, mind; intention.

Rhydd i bawb ei feddwl; a rhydd i bob meddwl ei lafar.

Free to every one his thought: and free to every thought its utterance. Adage.

Allan o olwg allan o feddwl.

Out of sight out of mind. Adage.

Llawer o weddill o feddwl chwannawg.

Much of waste from an ambitious mind. Adage.

Ni heua meddwl.

The mind will not grow old. Adage.

Meddwl, v. a. (medd—wl) To think, to mind; to intend; to suppose, or to imagine.

Ni feddwl ni adfeddwl.

He will not think who will not reflect. Adage.

Meddwr, s. m.—pl. meddwyr (meddu—gwr) A man who commands; a possessor.
Meddwwr, s.m.—*pl.*meddwwyr(meddw—gwr) A man who intoxicates; a man who gets drunk.
Meddwyn, s. m. dim. (meddw) A drunkard.
Meddyd, v. a. (medd) To express, to speak.

Ni ellir derwydd, medd derwydd.

It is impossible to make a druid, says a druid. Adage.

A mi ddysgoganaf, cyn fy nygnedd,
Brython dros Saesou; Brithwyr a'i medd.

And I will foretel, before my affliction, the Britons over the Saxons; the Variegated Men say it. Myrddin.

Meddai'r gwyr a ommeddwyd,
Mab y Crinwas Euas wyd.

Quoth the men who were refused, the miser's son of Euas art thou. Guto y Glyn, i H. Ddu.

Meddydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (medd) A mead-brewer

Meddydd, ei nawdd yw, o'r pan ddechreuo efe wneuthur cerwyn fedd oni rwymo ei hwyl am ei phen, dwyn y dyn a wnel y cam.

The mead-brewer, his protection is, from the time when he begins to make a tub of mead until he ties its covering over the top of it, conducting away the person that does the wrong. Welsh Laws.

Meddyg, s. m.—pl. t. on (medd) A physician, a doctor, a surgeon. Meddyg y bugel, or meddyg mair, ploughman's spikenard.

Nid meddyg ond amser.

There is no physician like time. Adage.

Goreu meddyg meddyg enaid.

The best physician is the physician of the soul. Adage.

Meddyg a ddyly wneuthur meddyginiaeth rad i'r a fo yn y llys, ac i'r teulu.

The doctor ought to perform a gratuitous cure to such as shall be at court, and to the family. Welsh Laws.

Meddygadwy, a. (meddyg) Curable, remediable.
Meddygai, s. c. (meddyg) That cures, or heals.
Meddygawl, a. (meddyg) Curative, medicinal.

Fod e'n hawl feddygawl fyd
A gynnwys i'm fod genyd!

As it is a portion of a healing world, may it be suffered for me to have thee! D. ab Gwilym.

Meddyges, s. f.—pl. t. au (meddyg) A doctress; the violet; meddyges ddu, common figwort; meddyges felen, saffron crocus; meddyges las, selfheal; meddyges lwyd, betony.
Meddygfys, s. m. (meddyg—bys) The ring finger
Meddygiad, s. m. (meddyg) A making a cure.
Meddygiaeth, s. m. (meddyg) Medicine; the applying a remedy.
Meddygin, a. (meddyg) Curative, medicinal.
Meddyginiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (meddygin) Physic, medicine, remedy, or cure.

Meddyginiaeth ynfyd ffonawd dda.

The remedy for a fool is a good stroke. Adage.

Meddyginiaeth rhuddeli, deuddeg ceiniawg; meddyginiaeth llysiau wrth chwydd pedair ceiniawg.

A remedy of red salve is twelve pence; a remedy of herbs applied to a swelling is four pence. Welsh Laws.

Meddyginiaethad, s. m. (meddyginiaeth) A making a cure; the applying a remedy.
Meddyginiaethawl, a. (meddyginiaeth) Belonging to the healing art; medicinal.
Meddyginiaethu, v. a. (meddyginiaeth) To perform a cure; to apply a remedy.
Meddygiad, s. m. (meddyg) A making a cure.
Meddyglyn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (meddyg—llyn) Hydromel, a kind of medicinal drink: the wild carrot; also called moron y maes.
Meddyglys, s. m. (meddyg—llys) Woundwort.
Meddygu, v. a. (meddyg) To make a cure; to apply a remedy.

Lles pawb pan feddyger.

It is the benefit of all when a cure shall be made. Adage.

Meddygyn, s. m. dim. (meddyg) That heals: also the violet, otherwise called y grinllys, craith unnos, and y feddyges: meddygyn menyw, common feverfew.
Meddylfryd, s. m.—pl. t. au (meddwl—bryd) The affection, or bent of the mind.
Meddylgar, a. (meddwl) Mindful, thoughtful; thinking, musing, contemplative.

Nid meddylgar ond serchawg;
Nid serchawg ond cerddgar.

None is thoughtful but the lover; none is a lover but who is fond of music. Adage.

Meddylgarwch, s. m. (meddylgar) Thoughtfulness
Meddyliad, s.m. (meddwl) A thinking, a supposing
Meddyliaw, v. a. (meddwl) To think, to mind; to intend, to purpose; to imagine, to suppose.

Ansynwyrus yw gwr a feddylio cael medi llafur y cynhauaf ar ei dir, oni bydd ef gwedy hau.

Irrational is the man who thinks to have to reap the produce of the harvest upon his land, if he shall not have sown. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Hodawl yw'r byd——
Mal mai ddail, o meddyliwn.

Transitory is the world, like the leaves of May, did we but think. Mer. ab Rhys.

Meddyliawg, a. (meddwl) Thoughtful, musing.
Meddylied, v. (meddwl) To think; to suppose.
Meddyliwr, s.m.—pl. meddylwyr (meddwl—gwr) A thinker; a supposer.
Meddysg, s. m. (medd—ysg) A transformed state, that is transformed. a. Transformed.
Mef, s. m. (me—ef) That is puffed out, smooth, or lubricous.
Mefl, s. m.—pl. meflau (mef) A filthy breaking out; nastiness; a polluted state; disgrace, scandal.

Ni ddylir maeddu gwraig, namyn o dri achaws; sef, am roddi peth ni ddylyo; am gaffel gwr arall genddi; ac am ddymuno mefl ar farf ei gwr.

A wife ought not to be beaten but for three causes: that is, for giving away what she should not; for finding another man with her; and for wishing disgrace on the beard of her husband. Welsh Laws.

Gwell gochel mefl na'i ddial.

Better to avoid disgrace than to revenge it. Adage.

Hir weddwdawd i fefl.

Long widowhood to disgrace. Adage.

Anghwanegid mefl mawrair.

The disgrace that is boasted is augmented. Adage.

Mefl i'r llygoden un-twll.

Bad luck to the mouse with one hole. Adage.

Meflâad, s. m. (mefl) A rendering polluted; a disgracing, a scandalizing; a becoming disgraceful.

Ni wnant eu dwyn, cyd trwy feflâad;
Nid ef eu defawd bod yn galed.

They will not take them, if it be through disgrace; it is not in their nature to be hard. Taliesin, Mic. Dinbych.

Meflâawl, a. (mefl) Tending to pollute; of a disgraceful nature.

Meflaidd, a. (mefl) Somewhat disgraceful.

Meflâu, v. a. (mefl) To render polluted; to render or become disgraceful.

Ys drwg y geiniawg a feflâo ei pherchen.

Bad is the penny that disgraces its possessor. Adage.

Mefledig, a. (mefl) Polluted; disgraced.

Meflethiant, s. m. (mefl—methiant) A disgraceful defect.

Tri meflethiant gwr, bod yn arglwydd drwg, a bod yn ddrygarwr, a bod yn iibiawr yn nadlau.

The three shameful defects of a man, to be a bad master, and to be a bad lover, and to be a driveller in debates. Welsh Laws.

Mefliad, s. m. (mefl) A polluting; a disgracing; a becoming disgraceful.

Meflu, v. a. (mefl) To pollute; to disgrace; to be polluted; to be disgraced. Mae y plentyn gwedi mefluei hun, the child has befouled himself

Ys mi a feflawr o'r gyngheusedd,
Gweryd i'r gwag-feirdd eu gwaghoffedd.

If I am disgraced from the disputation, the poetasters will be relieved by their empty boast. Ph. Brydydd.

Meflwr, s. m.—pl. meflwyr (mefl—gwr) A disgracer; a disgraceful man.

Meflwriaeth, s. m. (meflwr) A disgraceful act.

Tri meflwriaeth mach y sydd; gwadu ei fechni, ac ef yn fach; ac addef ei fechni, ac na allo ei chymhell; a diebryd mach gwedi rhodder.

There are three disgraceful acts of a bail: denying his suretiship, and he a bail; and giving his suretiship without being able to perform it; and the frustration of bail after it is given. Welsh Laws.

Mefus, s. pl. aggr. (mef) Strawberries.

Fy nyn——
A'i gwefus mal mefus mair.

My nymph with her lip like the scarlet strawberries. Bedo Aeddren.

Mefusen, s. f. dim. (mefus) A strawberry.

Mefuswydd, s. pl. aggr. (mefus—gwydd) Strawberry plants.

Meg, s. f. (my—eg) That takes in or contains; a fetter. Y feg fawr, a large old fetter, kept at Dinas Mawddwy.

Megai, s. c.—pl. megeion (mag) The glow-worm.

Megawl, a. (meg) Relating to the utterance.

Megiad, s. m. (meg) An uttering, or expressing.

Megidydd, s. m. (mag) One who nourishes.

Megin, s. f.—pl. t. au (meg) A pair of bellows.

Mae o anadl mwy ynnof
Nog yn nghau megiuau gof.

There is within me of breath more than in the hollow of the bellows of a smith. D. ab Gwilym.

Meginaw, v. a. (megin) To work bellows.

A'i anadl diadlam dwfn
Yn megino mwg annwfn.

And his deep unreturning breath blowing the infernal fume. W. Wyn.

Meginiad, s. m. (megin) A working of bellows.

Meginwr, s. m.—pl. meginwyr (megin—gwr) One who works, or blows bellows.

Megitor, sup. (magu) To be nourishing.

Megitor eu gwir hwy hir alanas.

Their sincerity nourished a lasting feud. Myrddin.

Megyn, s. m. (mag) A nurseling, a rearling.

Megys, conj. (meg—ys) As, in the manner, in the state; in the same manner, like as, so as. Megys cynt, as formerly.

Mehefin, s. m. (me—hefin) The month of June.

Mehin, s. m. (me—hin) Fat, grease, lard.

Mehinaidd, a. (mehin) Like lard, fat, or grease.

Mehinaw, v. n. (mehin) To become fat or greasy.

Mehinawg, a. (mehin) Abounding with lard.

Mehinawr, a. (mehin) Abounding with lard.

Mehinen, s. f. dim. (mehin) The leaf of fat.

Meia, v. a. (mai) To take the field; to go out to war; also to go a maying.

Meiad, s. m. (mai) A taking the field; or a going out to war; a maying.

Meiaeth, s. m. (mai) A making a campaign.

Meiaw, v. a. (mai) To make a campaign.

Meiawd, s. m. (mai) A making a campaign.

Meiawg, a. (mai) Of the field; champain.

Tri thri nodded,
Atgor ar hened,
A march meiawg,
Cymhrwy teithiawg.

Thrice three protections, recurring to the native country, with a steed used to the field, perfect for travelling. Taliesin.

Meiawl, a. (mai) Belonging to open country.

Meibionain, s. pl. dim. (mab) Little children.

Meibionos, s. pl. dim. (mab) Little children.

Meichai, s. c.—pl. meicheion (mach) A surety.

Goreu meichai diniweidrwydd.

The best surety is innocence. Adage.

Meichiad, s. m. (mach) A bailing; a being surety

Meichiau, s. pl. aggr. (mach) Sureties, or bails.

Meichiaw, v. a. (mach) To give bail; to become a bail, or surety.

Gorug ei waith,
A fach y fachdaith.

He has completed his work, that bails the journey of a surety. Adage.

Meichiawg, a. (mach) Having surety, or bail.

Meichiawl, a. (mach) Relating to suretiship.

Meidr, s. m.—pl. meidron (maid) A measure, rule, or limit; also a lane, or road. Dyfed.

Mae ar weinidogion gymmodi anghyfodau, a chytunaw ysbrydoedd, ag sydd wedi myned tu hwnt i bob meidr a medr.

It is incumbent upon ministers to reconcile differences, and to unite spirits, which are gone beyond every rule and order. Ier. Owain.

Meidrad, s. m. (meidr) A comprehending, a bringing within limit; a meting.

Meidradur, s. m.—pl. t. on (meidrad) A meter.

Meidradydd, s. m.—pl. t. on (meidrad) A meter.

Meidraeth, s. m. (meidr) Measurement.

Meidraw, v. a. (meidr) To reduce to measure, rule, or limit; to mete.

Meidrawl, a. (meidr) Belonging to measure; being within measure, or comprehended; limited.

Meidredig, a. (meidr) Comprehended; limited.

Meidriad, s. m.—pl. meidriaid (medr) One who is able to effect, or to accomplish.

Meidroldeb, s. m. (meidrawl) The state of being within measure, or comprehension; finiteness.

Meidrolder, s. m. (meidrawl) Finiteness.

Meidroledd, s. m. (meidrawl) Comprehensiveness, comprehension, capacity.

Meidroli, v. a. (meidrawl) To bring under measure; to bring within comprehension; to limit

Meidrolrwydd, s. m. (meidrawl) Finiteness.

Meidwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (maid) That is separate, or solitary; a hermit.

Meidwyfod, s. f. (meidwy—bod) A hermitage.

Meidyn, s. m. dim. (maid) A point of separation; a small space; a point of time; a moment.

Meidda, v. a. (maidd) To collect or go a begging for curds and whey.

> Byddi yn——
> Cawsa, yta, gwlana'n glir,
> Cica, a meidda, meddir.
>
> Thou wilt be collecting cheese, collecting corn, and fairly begging wool; collecting flesh, and collecting curds and whey, it is said. S. Mawddwy.

Meiddaidd, a. (maidd) Curdled like whey; serous

Meiddawg, a. (maidd) Abounding with whey.

Meiddeiddrwydd, s. m. (meiddaidd) A curdled state.

Meiddiad, s. m. (maidd) A breaking or curdling; a forming a cliff.

Meiddion, s. pl. aggr. (maidd) Curds and whey.

Meiddioni, v. (meiddion) To turn curds and whey

Meiddlyd, a. (maidd) Wheyish; curdled.

Meiddlydrwydd, s. m. (meiddlyd) A curded state.

Meiddlydu, v. n. (meiddlyd) To become curded.

Meiddlyn, s. m. (maidd—llyn) Whey drink.

Meiddogrwydd, s. m. (meiddawg) A curdled state

Meiddyn, s. f. (maidd) The limit of a plain; a cliff; a range of mountains.

Meiedd, s. m. (mai) The state of being plain.

Meifod, s. f.—pl. t. au (mai—bod) A champaign dwelling; a summer habitation.

Meifon, s. pl. aggr. (maf) Berries that grow in cluster; raspberries; also called gwyfon, afan, and mafon.

Meigen, s. f.—pl. t. au (maig) A sudden turn; a recess, or nook.

Meigiad, s. m. (maig) A turning suddenly; a happening, or befalling.

Meigiaw, v. a. (maig) To turn suddenly, to happen

Meigiawl, a. (maig) Of a sudden turn.

Meigr, s. m. (maig) A sudden start; terror.

Meigrad, s. m. (meigr) A starting suddenly.

Meigraw, v. a. (meigr) To start out suddenly.

Meigryn, s. m. (meigr) A sudden start, terror; also the megrim, or vertigo.

Meiiau, s. f. (mai—iau) A field yoke, or a yoke with four oxen.

Meiliad, s. m. (mail) A holding together; a putting in a bowl; a filling with a bowl.

Meiliaid, s. f.—pl. meilieidiau (mail) A dishful, the fill of a platter; a bowlful.

Meiliannawl, a. (meiliant) Tending to uphold.

Meiliannu, v. a. (meiliant) To uphold.

Meiliant, s. m. (mail) An upholding.

Meiliar, s. m. (mall) That makes a bound or start.

Meiliaw, v. a. (mail) To hold up, to sustain; to put in a bowl; to raise liquids with a bowl.

Meiliawg, a. (mail) Having a structure.

Meiliawr, s. f. (mail) A habitation, a dwelling.

> Cyrchid dedwydd ei feiliawr.
>
> Let the prudent resort to his dwelling. Adage.

Meiliedig, a. (meiliad) Being put together, constructed, or built up.

Meiliedyn, s. m. dim. (meiliad) A small bowl.

Meilierydd, s. m. (meiliar) The sky-lark.

Meiliorn, s. m. (mèl—orn) A transgression.

Meiliornad, s. m. (meiliorn) A transgressing.

Meiliorni, v. a. (meiliorn) To transgress.

Meiliornus, a. (meiliorn) Transgressing.

Meiliwr, s. m.—pl. meilwyr (mèl—gwr) A transgressor.

Meilon, s. pl. aggr. (mâl) Powder, dust; flour. Meilon gwydd, blawd gwydd, wood dust.

Meiloni, v. a. (meilon) To reduce to powder; to become dust, or powder.

Meilwn, s. m.—pl. meilynau (mèl) The small of the leg; also called Ceilw.

Meilyn, s. m. dim. (mèl) A loop, or eye. Crwcyn a meilyn, bach a dolen, crook and eye.

Meilyndorch, s. f.—pl. meilyndyrch (meilwn—torch) A sashoon.

Meilynwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (meilwn—gwisg) A sashoon, also called arfeilyn.

Meillion, s. pl. aggr. (mall) Clover; trefoil. Meillion gwynion, maill gwynion, meillion Olwen, the white-flowered meadow trefoil; meillion corniawg, Spanish trefoil; meillion tair-dalen, mellicot; meillion y gors, buckbeans; meillion cedenawg, traed yr ysgyfarnog, hare's cummin; meillion cochion, red trefoil, or purple-wort; march-feillion, cultivated clover.

Meillionaidd, a. (meillion) Like trefoils.

Meillionawg, a. (meillion) Having trefoils.

Meillionawl, a. (meillion) Like the trefoils.

Meillionen, s. f. (meillion) A trefoil. Meillionen felen, kidney vetch, or ladies' finger; meillionen gorniawg, yellow medick; meillionen y gors, marsh-trefoil; meillionen gragenawg, heart medick; meillionen Olwen, Dutch clover; meillionen y ceirw, commou melilot.

> Pedair meillionen wen a fyddai yn ei hol, pa ffordd bynag y delai, ac am hyny y gelwid hi Olwen.
>
> Four white trefoils would spring up in her track, which ever way she might come, and therefore she was called Olwen. H. Culwch—Mabinogion.

Meillioni, v. n. (meillion) To produce trefoils.

Meillyn, s. m.—pl. meillod (mall) A lean old ruin.

Meinâad, s. m. (meinâu) A making slender, exile, fine, or delicate.

Meinâawl, a. (meinâu) Tending to make slender.

Meinâu, v. a. (main) To make slender, or fine.

Meinawl, a. (main) Of a fine or slender make.

Meinciad, s. m. (mainc) A placing benches.

Meinciaw, v. a. (mainc) To fix benches.

Meincwely, s. m.—pl. t. au (mainc—gwely) A settle-bed; a sofa.

Meindeg, a. (main—teg) Delicately fair.

Meinder, s. m. (main) Exility, slenderness.

Meindlos, a. (main—tlos) Delicately pretty.

Meindlws, a. (main—tlws) Delicately pretty.

Meindra, s. m. (main) Exility, slenderness.

Meindwf, s. m. (main—twf) A slender growth. a. Of a slender growth.

Meinddydd, s. m. (main—dydd) A fine day.

Meinedd, s. m. (main) Exility, slenderness.

Meingan, s. f. (main—can) That is delicate and fair; an epithet for a beauty.

> Tra gweno meingan, cipia gusan.
>
> Whilst the fair one smiles, snatch a kiss. Adage.

Meingil, s. m. (main—cil) A close corner.

Meinholi, v. a. (main—holi) To examine narrowly, to scrutinize.

Meinholiad, s. m. (main—holiad) A narrowly examining; a strict examination.

Meiniad, s. m. (maen) A stoning; a petrifying.

Meiniawg, a. (maen) Of stone, or stony.

> A golo cer manro meiniawg
> Gelynion Saeson sidanawg.
>
> And bury close to the stony beach the Saxon foes clad in silk. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Meiniles, s. f. dim. (main) A little delicate animal.

Meinin, a. (maen) Of stone, stony. Ty meinin, ty maen, ty ceryg, a stone house.

> Gwelaf finnau gwal feinin
> Baradwys Gwent.——
>
> And I perceive the stone wall of the paradise of Gwent. Guto y Glyn.

Meinir, s. f. (main—ir) That is of delicate growth, an epithet for a handsome woman.

Meinllais, s. m. (main—llais) A shrill voice.
Meinoeth, s. f. (main—oeth) A fine night.
Meinoledd, s. m. (meinawl) Exility, slenderness.

Bychodedd meinoledd.

Slenderness is littleness. Adage.

Meinoles, s. f. dim. (meinawl) An epithet for any delicate young animal, such as a heifer.
Meinus, a. (main) Slender, delicate; tiny.

Mawredus, feinus, fen yd fernid crair,
Mor wen ei hesgair uch ei hesgid!

Magnificent and delicate, deemed a precious relick, so white her leg above her shoe! Ior. Fychan.

Gogoneddus Fair! war, weddus, feinus farnon!

Glorious Mary! gentle, virtuous, and delicate queen! D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

Meinusaw, v. a. (meinus) To render fine, or delicate; to become slender, fine, delicate.
Meinwaith, s. m. (main—gwaith) Nice work.
Meinwar, a. (main—gwar) Delicate and gentle, delicate and meek; delicately mild. s. f. That is delicately mild.

Dy far, feinwar Fyfanwy,
Ar a'th gar: ni fu far fwy.

Thy ire, Myvanwy, delicately mild, is on him who loves thee: never was there ire more severe. H. ab Einion Llygliw.

Meinwedd, s. f. (main—gwedd) A delicate aspect
Meinweddaidd, a. (meinwedd) Of a delicate aspect
Meinweddawg, a. (meinwedd) Of a fine aspect.
Meinwen, a. (main—gwen) Delicately fair. s. f. That is delicately fair.
Meinwyn, a. (main—gwyn) Delicately white.
Meinwyr, a. (main—gwyr) Delicately chaste. Pefr feinwyr, the fair one delicately chaste.
Meinyn, s. m. dim. (maen) A lump of stone.
Meipen, s. f. dim. (maip) A single turnip.
Meiriawl, a. (mer) Thawing, dissolving.
Meiriolad, s. m. (meiriawl) A thawing.
Meirioli, v. n. (meiriawl) To thaw, to dissolve; the same as dadmeru and dadleithiaw.
Meiriolus, a. (meiriawl) Tending to thaw.
Meirion, s. m. (mar) That moves about; a looker; a dairyman; tops of hemp.
Meiriones, s. f.—pl. t. au (meirion) A female who superintends; a house-wife; a dairy-woman; also, an epithet for a woman, or matron; and sometimes used, in a bad sense, for a concubine.

A morwyn eto a meiriones,

And a virgin yet and a matron. Iolo Goch, i Fair.

Offeiriaid——
Pob un, heb na llun na lles,
Ofer iawn, a'i feiriones.

The parsons, every one, without form or benefit, very worthless, in company with his girl. Dr. S. Cent.

Meirioni, s. m. (meirion) A superintendency; the office of a keeper, or one who has custody.
Meirionig, a. (meirion) Tending to guard, or to watch. Drych meirionig, a scarecrow.

Mal drych, o gwn edrych neb,
Meirionig ym yw'r wyneb.

Like a scaring phiz to me, if I know the appearance of any one, is the face. Guto y Glyn.

Meirwys, s. f.—pl. t. od (merwys) The ousel.

Aeliau mawr, fal y meirwys,
A phenau baglau 'r un bwys.

Large eyebrows, like the ousel, of the same form as the heads of crooks. Llewodden, i alarch.

Meirydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (maer) A mayor.

Meiryddion a chyngbellorion a ddylyant gyweiriaw y wlad, a gwneuthur ei dadlau.

Mayors and chancellors are bound to establish order in the country, and to administer its laws. Welsh Laws.

Meisgyn, s. m. dim. (masg) A moth; otherwise called gwyfyn.
Meisiad, s. m. (mais) A devising, an invention.
Meisiaw, v. a. (mais) To invent, to device.

Ceisio meisio mewn miwsig;
Casau dawn, ymgocys dig.

Attempting to invent in music; hating genius, bristling up anger. Edm. Prys.

Meisiawd, s. m. (mais) An invention, a device.
Meisiawg, a. (mais) Full of invention.
Meisiawl, a. (mais) Inventive, devising.
Meisiedig, a. (mais) Invented, devised.
Meisiwr, s. m.—pl. meiswyr (mais—gwr) A deviser, or inventer.
Meistr, s. m.—pl. iaid (maist) A master.

Ni wnaf estron yn feistri;
Ni wnae chwech ym a wnaech chwi.

I will not make masters of strangers; half a dozen would not do for me what you would do. H. Dafi.

Meistrad, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (meistr) A master.
Meistrawl, a. (meistr) Masterly; master.
Meistres, s. m.—pl. t. au (meistr) A mistress.
Meistrolaeth, s. m. (meistrawl) Mastership, mastery; authority, dominion.
Meistrolaethu, v. a. (meistrolaeth) To exercise mastership; to domineer.
Meistrolaethus, a. (meistrolaeth) Magisterious.
Meistroledd, s. m. (meistrawl) Mastery.
Meistroli, v. a. (meistrawl) To act magisterially, to bear sway, to domineer; to be master.
Meistrolrwydd, s. m. (meistrawl) Mastery.
Meistrolus, a. (meistrawl) Having mastery.
Meityn, s. m. (meidyn) A point of separation; a small space; a space of time. Wyf yma er ys meityn, I have been here a good while.
Meithder, s. m. (maith) Extensiveness; distance.
Meithdra, s. m. (maith) Extensiveness; distance.
Meithedig, a. (maith) Being rendered tedious.
Meithiad, s. m. (maith) A rendering tedious.
Meithiaw, v. a. (maith) To render tedious.
Meithiw, a. (maith) Extensive; tedious.
Meithni, s. m. (maith) Extensiveness, tediousness.

Duw yw'r Drindawd——
Un Duw a thri, meithni mawr.

God is the Trinity, one God and three, great the comprehension. G. Hiraethawg.

Meithrin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (maeth—trin) Nurture.

Meithrinwr, trinwr, at raid mwy athraw,
Meithrin creaduriaid;
Meithrin y corff o'th ran caid;
Meithrina, maetha 'r enaid!

A fosterer, a manager, in time of need the greatest teacher, who nourishes his creatures; the nourishment of the body from the bounty would be had; nourish, and feed the soul. H. D. ab Ifan.

Meithrin, v. a. (maeth—trin) To nourish, to rear, to bring up, to educate.

Gnawd o egin meithrin das.

From the small shoots a rick is reared. Adage.

Pwy wyr tranc mab wrth feithrin?

Who knows the fate of a child when rearing him? Llywarch Hen.

Meithrinaeth, s. m. (meithrin) The act or office of nurturing.
Meithrinaw, v. a. (meithrin) To nourish, to rear, to bring up, to educate.
Meithrinawl, a. (meithrin) Nurturing.
Meithrinedig, a. (meithrin) Nurtured, educated.
Meithrines, s. f.—pl. t. au (meithrin) A female who nurtures, or brings up.
Meithrinfa, s. f. (meithrin) A seminary.
Meithringar, a. (meithrin) Nurturing, fostering.
Meithriniad, s. m. (meithrin) A nurturing.
Meithrinwr, s. m.—pl. meithrinwyr (meithrin—gwr) A man who nurtures, or brings up.
Meithrinwraig, s. f.—pl. meithrinwreigedd (meithrin—gwraig) A woman who nurtures.

Meithrinydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (meithrin) Nurturer.
Meithrinyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (meithrinydd) A woman who nurtures, or brings up.
Meithyn, s. m. dim. (maeth) A nurseling, a darling

——Gruffudd,
Mab meithyn Llywelyn llafnrudd.

Gruffudd, the darling son of Llywelyn with the ruddy blade. D. Benfras.

Meiwr, s. m.—pl. meiwyr (mai—gwr) A man of the field; a warrior.

Cas meiwyr heb ryddid.

Odious are men of the field without liberty. Catwg.

Meiwyn, s. m. (mai—gwŷn) Thorn-apple.
Mel, s. m. (me—el) Honey. Mel y cwn, melsugn, mel y ceirw, woad; mel y gweunydd, marsh lousewort; also called melawg y waen.

Doethineb, mal goreuon y mel, a fydd yn isaf.

Wisdom, like the best of the honey, will be at the bottom. Adage.

Mèl, s. m. (my—el) That bounds, starts, or jets.
Mela, v. a. (mel) To gather honey.

Adar a hedant, gwenyn a felant,
Pysgod a nofiant, pryfed a 'mlusgant;
Pob peth a ymdaith i gynnull ei borthiant,
Ond cler, ac oedion, a lladron difwyniant.

The birds do fly, the bees collect honey, the fishes swim, reptiles creep; every thing doth travel to procure its sustenance, except the minstrels, and loiterers, and worthless thieves. Bustl Beirdd.

Melaid, a. (mel) Abounding with honey.
Melaidd, a. (mel) Of the nature of honey.
Melain, a. (mel) Abounding with honey.
Melaint, s. m. (melain) A being full of honey.
Melawd, s. m. (mel) A collecting of honey; the state of being like honey; sweetness.
Melawg, a. (mel) Having honey. Y felawg, the honey-suckle; melawg y borfa, pasture lousewort
Meldardd, a. (mel—tardd) Mellifluous, mellifluent
Melddwyn, a. (mel—dwyn) Melliferous.
Melen, a. (f. of melyn) Yellow; tawny.
Melengu, s. f. (melen—cu) The dyer's weed.
Melenog, s. f.—pl. t. od (melen) A linnet.
Melenydd, s. f. (melen) Hawk-weed; also called gwalchlys, and llysiau yr hebawg.
Melfoch, s. pl. aggr. (mel—moch) Honey swine.

Golwython o gig melfoch.

Stakes of the flesh of bears. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Melgan, s. f. (mel—can) A honey song.
Melgawod, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mel—cawod) Honeydew
Melged, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mel—ced) A honey tribute: the sea beet.

O Ddinefwr melged a gaffal; pedair tunell o fel, pedair mu yn mhob tunell, dwy grenaid yn mhob mu, llwyth deuwr ar diosol yn mhob gren.

From Dinevor he obtained a tribute of honey: four tuns of honey, four tubs in every tun, two platterfuls in each tub, and the load of two men on a pole in every platter. Welsh Laws.

Melgorn, s. m.—pl. melgyrn (mel—corn) A cell of a honeycomb; a honeycomb; also an abscess containing matter like honey.

Elffin gyda chyffin chwyrn
Maelgwn yn gwasgu'r melgyrn.

Elfin along the bustling boundary of Maelgon squeezing the honey-combs. Ll. ab Gutyn, i H. Ddu.

Melgranc, s. m. (mel—cranc) An abscess containing thick honey-like matter; also called melgorn.
Melin, s. f.—pl. t. au (mal) A grinding mill.

Un o dri madgyrfinydd Ynys Prydain: Coel ab Cyllin ab Caradawg ab Bran, a wnaethai melin rhod ac olwyn gyntaf i genedl y Cymmry.

One of the three useful inventors of the isle of Britain: Coel ab Cyllin ab Caradog ab Bran, who made a mill turning by wheel first for the nation of the Cymry. Trioedd.

Melinau gwynt, yn miswn gwyl
Dy gyrch a'u dug i'w gorchwyl.

The windmills, at the approach of a festival thy assembly will bring them into work. M. ab Rhys.

Melina, s. m. (melin) A going to mill.

Melina tlawd ei gwynos.

His supper is the beggar's going to mill. Adage.

Melina, v. a. (melin) To go to mill.

Dodwch un a'i march——
At gwillog orddiog dda,
Fal lonydd, i felina.

Give me either a horse, or a mare very lazy and good, that is quiet, for to go to mill. G. ab Ll. Fychan.

Melinaw, v. a. (melin) To grind in a mill.
Melinwr, s. m. (melin—gwr) A miller.
Melinydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (melin) A miller.
Melinyddes, s. f. (melinydd) A female miller.
Melodi, s. m. (melawd) A dulcified state.
Melota, v. a. (melawd) Honey-gathering.
Melotai, s. f. (melawd) The mallow, or honeyer.
Melred, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mel—rhed) Mellifluence
Melrediad, s. m. (melred) A flowing of honey.
Melsaig, s. m. (mel—saig) A sweet repast.

Gwell mesaig yn rhad no melsaig yn echwyn.

Better a free repast on acorns than a honey-feast on trust. Adage.

Melsugn, s. m. (mel—sugn) The lousewort.
Melu, v. a. (mel) To make honey; to honey.
Melus, a. (mel) Of the nature of honey; sweet.
Melusaw, v. a. (melus) To honey; to sweeten.
Melusder, s. m. (melus) Sweetness, lusciousness.
Melwaith, s. m. (mel—gwaith) Mellification.
Melwawd, s. m. (mel—gwawd) Honeyed utterance; sweet praise; melody.
Melwi, v. a. (malw) To extend out glibly.
Melwïawg, a. (melwi) Of a gliding nature.
Melwin, s. m. (mel—gwin) Honey wine.
Melwïoges, s. f. (melwïawg) A snail; but mostly called malwen, and malwoden.
Melwlith, s. m. (mel—gwlith) Honey-dew.
Melwr, s. m.—pl. melwyr (mel—gwr) A man who collects honey, a dealer in honey.
Melwraidd, s. m. (mel—gwraidd) Liquorice.
Melŷen, s. f. dim. (malw) A snail; also called malaen, melwioges, and mostly malwen.
Melyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mel) Yellow. Melyn yr eithin, the gold-hammer, a bird so called; Melyn y gauaf, winter gillyflower; melyn y gwanwyn, the pilewort; also called Milfyw.
Melyn, a. (mel) Yellow, of a yellow hue; tawny. Cŵyr melyn, bees wax; march melyn, a light bay horse; Ar y melyned, of a yellowish hue; melyn yr eithin, or melyn y twynau, common tormentil; melyn y gauaf, wild wall-flower; melyn y gwanwyn, pilewort.

Iraw llaw ag eli melyn.

To grease a hand with yellow salve. Adage.

Melynach oedd pen Olwen no blodau y banadl; gwynach oedd ei chnawd no dystrych tòn.

The head of Olwen was yellower than the blossoms of the broom; whiter was her skin than the spray of the wave. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Melynaidd, a. (melyn) Somewhat yellow.
Melynawg, a. (melyn) Abounding with yellow. Melynawg y waen, dyer's greenweed.
Melynder, s. m. (melyn) Yellowness.
Melyndra, s. m. (melyn) Yellowness.
Melynddu, s. m. (melyn—du) A yellowish black, a tawny colour. a. Tawny, reeky.
Melyndduaw, v. a. (melynddu) To make tawny.
Melynedd, s. m. (melyn) A yellowness.

Melynell, s. m. (melyn) A yellow hue.

Chwe march melynell,
Canwaith y sydd well
Fy march melyngan
Cyfred â gwylan.

Six steeds of yellow hue, than those a hundred times better is my cream-coloured steed, swift as the sea mew. Taliesin.

Melyneuraid, s. m. (melyn—euraid) Golden-rod.
Melynfaen, s. m. (melyn—maen) Brimstone.
Melyngan, s. m. (melyn—can) A yellow white. a. Of yellowish white; cream-coloured.
Melyngoch, s. m. (melyn—coch) A yellow red, orange red. a. Of an orange red.
Melyni, s. m. (melyn) Yellowness; jaundice.
Melyniad, s. m. (melyn) A making yellow.
Melynlas, s. m. (melyn—glas) A yellowish blue. a. Of a yellowish blue.

Melynlas march Caswallawn ab Beli.

Yellow-grey the steed of Caswallon son of Beli. Trioedd.

Melynllai, s. m. (melyn—llai) A yellowish dun colour. a. Of a yellowish dun.
Melynllwyd, s. m. (melyn—llwyd) A yellowish brown. a. Of a yellowish brown.
Melynllys, s. f. (melyn—llys) Celandine.
Melynog, s. m. (melyn) That is of a yellow colour; a mulatto; the linet; also called llinos felen, and melenog.
Melynu, v. a. (melyn) To make yellow, to grow yellow.
Melynus, a. (melyn) Tending to be yellow.
Melynwellt, s. m. (melyn—gwellt) Sweet scented vernal grass.
Melynwy, s. m. (melyn—wy) The yolk of an egg
Melynwyn, s. m. (melyn—gwyn) A yellowish white, a straw-colour. a. Of a yellow white.
Melynydd, s. m. (melyn) Long-rooted cat's ear.
Melys, s. m. (mel) A sweet. a. Sweet, dulcet.

Gwerthu mel i brynu peth melys.

Selling honey to buy a sweet thing. Adage.

Melysai, s. c. (melys) That has sweetness.
Melysaidd, a. (melys) Somewhat sweet.
Melysawg, a. (melys) Abounding with sweet.
Melysawl, a. (melys) Of a sweetening quality.
Melysder, s. m. (melys) Sweetness; gratefulness
Melysdra, s. m. (melys) Sweetness, lusciousness.
Melysedd, s. m. (melys) Sweetness, lusciousness.
Melysi, s. m. (melys) Sweetness, lusciousness.
Melysiad, s.m.(melys) A sweetening, dulcification
Melysiannawl, a. (melysiant) Delicious.
Melysiannu, v. a. (melysiant) To dulcify.
Melysiant, s. m. (melys) Dulcification.
Melysig, a. (melys) Fond of sweet things.

Gwae fardd, o ddyn gwiw, a fai
Felysig am fel osai.

Woe to the bard, an excellent wight, who should be voluptuous with respect to the honey wine. H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys.

Melysigrwydd, s.m.(melysig) Fondness of sweets

Yr arglwyddes Gwaelder a'm gosodai yn y lle goruchaf; ac ar fy nau ystlys ydd oedd Melysigrwydd a Meddwdawd yn eistedd.

The lady Frailty placed me in the most eminent seat; and on each side of me Voluptuousness and Drunkenness were sitting. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Melysrwydd, s. m. (melys) Sweetness, sweet taste
Melysu, v. a. (melys) To sweeten; to grow sweet
Melyswedd, s. f. (melys—gwedd) A sweet aspect
Mell, s.m.(my—ell) That shoots out, that is sharp.
Melldith, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mall—tith) A curse. Rhoddaf iddo felldith ei fam, I will give him his mother's curse; melldith eu mamau, cursed of their mothers, reprobates.
Melldithiad, s. m. (melldith) A malediction.
Melldithiaw, v. n. (melldith) To curse; to blaspheme, to swear.
Melldithiawg, a (melldith) Full of cursing.
Melldithiawl, a. (melldith) Cursing; blasphemous
Melldithiedig, a. (melldithiad) Being cursed.
Melldithiwr, s. m.—pl. melldithwyr (melldith—gwr) A curser; a blasphemer.
Melldithrwydd, s. m. (melldith) Cursedness.
Melli, s. m. (mall) Softness, insipidity; a blight.
Mellni, s. m. (mall) Softness; insipidity; a blast.
Mellt, s. pl. aggr. (mell) That be darting, or bolting; lightning. Cynneu mellt, goleuaw mellt, taflu mellt, cynneu dreigiau, cynneu gwibiau, to lighten, or to shoot lightning.
Melltaidd, a. (mellt) Of the nature of lightning.
Melltawg, a. (mellt) Abounding with lightning.
Melltawl, a. (mellt) Belonging to lightning.
Mellten, s. f. dim. (mellt) A lightning, a thunderbolt.
Melltenaidd, a. (mellten) Like a thunderbolt.
Melltenawl, a. (mellten) Flashing as lightning.
Melltenïad, s. m. (mellten) A flashing of lightning
Melltenu, v. a. (mellten) To lighten, to flash.
Melltiad, s. m. (mellt) A flashing of lightning.
Melltiaw, v. a. (mellt) To dart lightning.
Melltig, a. (mellt) Struck by lightning, blasted.
Melltigaid, a. (melltig) Accursed, cursed. Melltigaid lydnod, cursed beasts.
Melltigaw, v. a. (melltig) To curse; to make accursed, to blaspheme.
Melltigawl, a. (melltig) Cursing; blaspheming.
Melltigedig, a. (melltig) Cursed, blasted.
Melltigedigawl, a. (melltigedig) Tending to blast.
Melltigedigrwydd, s. m. (melltigedig) Accursedness.
Men, s. m. (me—en) An active principle.
Men, s. f. (mutation of man) A space, a place; a where. adv. Where, at what place.

Men yd las Trahaiarn yn Ngharnfynydd.

Where was killed Trahaiarn on the mountain of Carn. Meilyr.

O chlywi yn iach iawen
Uchod ei fod yn ei fen.

If in health and spirits thou shouldest hear of his being above in his place. G. ab Sefnyn.

Maes yw midlan, man yw men.

An enclosure is a field, a place is a spot. D. Epynt.

Men, s. f.—pl. t. i (my—en) A wain, a cart.

Cyd gwichio y fen hi a ddwg ei llwyth.

Though the cart creaks it carries its load. Adage.

Menai, s. f. (men) An open box; a tumbrel.

Celwrn a menai, ceiniawg a dal pob un: Menai, ceiniawg a dal, heb ardderchafael, sef achaws yw, wrth nad oes glawr iddi.

A tub and a box, a penny is the value of each; a box is worth a penny without advancement, and that is by reason that it has no cover. Welsh Laws.

Menaid, s. f.—pl. meneidiau(menaid) Cart-load.
Mendy, s. m.—pl. t. au (men—ty) A cart house.
Mened, s. f. (men) That is intellectual.
Menedig, a. (men) Being made intelligent.
Menediw, a. (mened) Of an intellectual nature; happy, or blessed.

Caraf Gaerwys fun, fenediw deithi.

I love the nymph of Caerwys, of blessed accomplishments. Gwalchmai.

Menest, s. f. (men—est) The act of serving.
Menestr, s. m.—pl. t. i (menest) One who serves or waits upon; a servitor; a cupbearer.

Gorwyn blaen elestr; bid fenestr pob drud;
Gair teulu yn ysgwn;
Gnawd gan anghywir air twn.

Glittering the top of the lily; let the servitor be bold; the word of a tribe prevails; familiar to the faithless a broken word. Llywarch Hen.

Dywallaw di, fenestr, na fyn angau,
Corn cau enrhydedd yn nghyfeddau.

Replenish thou, cupbearer, seek not thy death, the horn with honour in the banquets. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Menestrawl, a. (menestr) Serving, waiting.

Menestriad, s. m. (menestr) A serving, attending, or waiting upon.

Menestru, v. a. (menestr) To serve, or to wait.

> Am byrth Ysgewin yn goresgynu;
> Am borth Wygyr yn Mon yn menestru.
>
> Around the gates of Ysgewin conquering; around the gate of Gwygyr in Mon performing attendance. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Meni, s. m. (men) A carting, a carrying in a cart

Meniad, s. m. (men) A carrying in a cart.

Mensaer, s. m. (men—saer) A cart-wright.

Mentyn, s. m. dim. (mant) A thin small lip.

Mèuu, v. a. (man) To make an impression, to imprint, to work upon, to effect.

> Gwired ys dir yd fain.
>
> Truth is certain to have effect. Adage.
>
> Rhodd Duw yw awen—yn iawnau barn, ac ystyriaeth; ac yn mènu, ac yn talmu ar y galon, yn gyflawn ddlbech feddwl.
>
> The gift of God is genius, correcting the judgment and the imagination; and working upon and inclining the heart to a just and a pure thought. Barddas.

Menw, s. m. (men) The seat of intellect, or soul.

Menwad, s. m. (menw) Intellection; a rendering happy or blessed; a becoming happy.

Menwawl, a. (menw) Intelligential, intellectnal, tending to happiness or bliss.

Menwedig, a. (menw) Being rendered intellectual, blessed.

> Un o dri menwedigion teyrnedd ynys Prydain, Bran Fendigaid ab Llyr Lledlaith, a ddygwys gyntaf ffydd yn Nghrist i genedl y Cymmry o Rufain, lle y bu efe saith mlynedd yn ngwystl ei fab Caradawg.
>
> One of the three sovereigns of the isle of Britain who conferred blessings, Bran the blessed son of Llyr of barbarous speech, who first brought the faith in Christ to the nation of the Cymmry, from Rome, where he had been seven years an hostage for his son Caradog. Trioedd.

Menwi, v. a. (menw) To render intellectnal.

Menwin, a. (menw) Intelligential, intellectual, of a happy or blessed nature.

Menwr, s. m.—pl. menwyr (men—gwr) A carter.

Menwyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (menw) Source of intelligence, intellect, happiness, blessedness.

> Dafydd fab Owain, bwyf un-fryd a thi;
> Y'th dewr-fawr anwylyd
> Cas carid cerddorion fenwyd;
> O'n trydar trydydd hael byd.
>
> David the son of Owain, may I be of the same mind with thee; to thy highly aspiring mind odious is a restraint on the intellect of minstrels; in our song thou art the third generous one of the world. Gw. Ryfel.
>
> ——Dafydd
> Fab Madawg fynawg fenwyd diorchudd,
> Fab Meredudd fudd falch ei ddedfryd.
>
> David the son of Madog, of benign intellect unobscured, the son of Meredudd, of superb benefit his restoration. Bleddyn Fardd.
>
> Ethyw dy ergryd
> Yn eithafoedd byd,
> Arthur gadernyd,
> Menwyd Medrawd.
>
> Thy dread is gone to the ends of the world, with the might of Arthur, the talent of Medrod. Gwalchmai, i F. ab Meredudd.
>
> Llary Einiawn lluchddawn, llochesyd feirddion fab Cynon, clod fenwyd.
>
> Gentle Einion of splendid gift, thou wouldest cherish bards, thou son of Cynon, famed for intellect. Cynddelw.
>
> Diwahardd i fardd ei fenwyd.
>
> Unrestricted to the bard his talent. Cynddelw.

Menwydaidd, a. (menwyd) Of intellectual tendency; tending to happiness.

Menwydaw, v. a. (menwyd) To render intellectual; to cause happiness, or bliss; to gladden.

Menwydawg, a. (menwyd) Abounding with intellect; full of happiness, or bliss.

Menwydawl, a. (menwyd) Intelligential; tending to happiness, joy, or bliss; gladdening.

Menwydedd, s. m. (menwyd) A state of happiness

Menwydiad, s. m. (menwyd) A causing happiness, the enjoying of happiness.

Menwydig, a. (menwyd) Enjoying happiness.

> Tri menwydigion Duw, gwar, heddgar, a thrugar.
>
> The three blessed ones of God, the meek, the peaceful, and the humane. Barddas.

Menwydus, a. (menwyd) Intelligential, intellectual; of a happy or blessed nature.

Manwydusaw, v. a. (menwydus) To render intelligential, or intellectual; to become intelligential; to render happy; to become happy.

Menwyn, s. m. (menw) Gift of the mind; talent.

> Gwrdd fan gawr, gwrddfar, fawr fenwyn,
> Ef goreu, fal gwr, yn addwyn.
>
> Of ardent loud shout, ardently wrathful, of great talent, he executes, like a man, bravely. Cynddelw, i'r argl. Rhys.
>
> Ban yd ran ei rad i rodolion byd,
> Balch ei fenwyn, beilch ei faon.
>
> When he distributes his bounty to the sojourners of the world, proud his talent, proud his attendants. Gwalchmai, i Rodri.

Menyd, adv. (man—yd) To the place where.

Menyg, s. pl. (maneg) Gloves. Menyg ellyllon, or menyg y llwynog, and menyg mair, purple fox-glove; menyg y gog, bladder campion.

Menygawg, a. (menyg) Having gloves, gloved.

Menygwr, s. m. (menyg—gwr) A glover.

Mènyn, s. m. dim. (màn) A mark, or spot.

Menyniad, s. m. (mènyn) An imprinting.

Menynu, v. a. (mènyn) To imprint; to dot.

Mèr, s. m.—pl. t. au (my—er) That is dropped off or parted; a particle; that is received.

Mer, s. m.—pl. t. ion (me—er) The marrow.

Merai, s. f.—pl. mereion (mer) A gutter, a drain.

Meraidd, a. (mer) Like marrow; marrowy.

Merasgwrn, s. m. (mer—asgwrn) A marrowbone

Merawg, a. (mer) Abonnding with marrow.

Merawl, a. (mèr) Falling, dropping, or distilling.

Merawr, s. m. (mer) That drops, or falls down.

Merch, s. f.—pl. t. ed (my—erch) A woman, a young woman; a daughter.

> Ymwan am orchest, er mwyn merched;
> Nid aeth o'i flaen saeth, er ei sythed;
> Mewn oror arall, na maen ar wared,
> Na helynt y gwynt nid cas gynted.
>
> Striving in a feat, for the sake of women; before him no arrow flew, however strait; nor, in another quarter, the stone down the steep; nor the course of the wind not so swift. Gw. Tew.

Merchaidd, a. (merch) Feminine, womanlike.

Merchan, s. f. dim. (merch) A little woman.

Merched, s. pl. (merch) Women, daughters.

Merchedaidd, a. (merched) Somewhat effeminate.

Merchedd, s. m. (merch) Feminality, womanhood.

Mercheta, v. a. (merched) To go after girls.

Merchetwr, s. m. (merched—gwr) A wencher.

Merchin, a. (march) Rising, or towering.

Merching, a. (merchin) Rising, or towering.

Merchyn, s. m. dim. (march) A little horse; a nag.

Merchyr, s. m. (march) Mercury. Dydd Merchyr, Dyw Merchyr, Wednesday.

Merddrain, s. pl. aggr. (mèr—drain) Dog-briars.

Merddwfr, s. m.—pl. merddyfroedd (mer—dwfr) Stagnant water.

Mered, s. m. (mer) A particle, or a drop.

Meredig, a. (mered) Being dropped; stupified.

> Piau y gaer rhaco! Meredig, a wyr, ywch! Dros y byd y gwys, pan yw Caer Ysbyddaden Bencawr yw.
>
> Whose the castle yonder! Stupid are ye, O men! Over the world is it known, for that it is the castle of Ysbyddadan Bencawr. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Meredigaeth, s. m. (meredig) A flattening, a deadening; a making dull, or stupid.

Mereiddiad, s. m. (mêraidd) A becoming marrow.

Mereiddiaw, v. n. (mêraidd) To become marrow.

Merf, a. (mèr) Insipid, flat, tasteless.

Merfaidd, a. (merf) Somewhat flat, or insipid.

Merfdra, s. m. (merf) Insipidity, flatness.

Merfedig, a. (merf) Being made flat or insipid.
Merfedd, s. m. (merf) Insipidness, flatness.
Merfiad, s. m. (merf) A making flat or insipid.
Merfu, v. n. (merf) To become insipid or flat.
Merhelyg, s. m. (mer—helyg) Yellow willow.
Meriad, s. m. (mèr) A rendering flat, a stilling; a becoming flat, or dull; a dropping, a distilling.
Merin, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mèr) That drops, trickles, or effuses.

Llafar merinlau gwynlau gwreigedd.

Loud the effusions of the passions of women. Phylip Brydydd.

Merinaw, v. n. (merin) To drop, to fall in drops.
Merinawl, a. (merin) Falling in drops, dropping.
Meriniad, s. m. (merin) A falling in drops.
Merion, s. pl. aggr. (mer) Drops; drippings.
Merl, s. m.—pl. t. od (mer) A little horse, a pony.
Merlen, s. f. dim. (merl) A mare of stunted growth
Merlyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (merl) A horse of the small mountain breed, a pony.
Merlynaidd, a. (merlyn) Like a mountain horse.
Merlys, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mêr—llys) Asparagus.
Merllyd, a. (mer) Insipid, dull, flat, tasteless.
Merllydrwydd, s. m. (merllyd) Flatness, insipidity
Merllyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (mêr—llyn) A pool.
Merolaeth, s. m. (merawl) Flatness, insipidity; moisture, humidity; mustiness.
Meroli, v. n. (merawl) To be falling, or dropping; to become flat, soft, or humid.
Meroren, s. f. dim. (merawr) That trails; a tail.
Merth, s. m.—pl. t. au (my—erth) An exhausted state; a necessitous state.

Ni bydd rwydd yd na bo merth.

There will be no prosperity but there will be adversity. Adage.

Merthadwy, a. (merth) Capable of being exhausted, or racked with pain.
Merthawl, a. (merth) Exhausting, racking.
Merthedd, s. m. (merth) An exhausted state.
Merthi, s. m. (merth) A state of exhaustion.
Merthiad, s. m. (merth) An exhausting; a racking
Merthin, a. (merth) Tending to wear out.
Merthrwydd, s. m. (merth) An exhausted state.
Merthu, v. a. (merth) To exhaust, to wear out.
Merthus, a. (merth) Tending to exhaust; racking.
Merthyr, s. m.—pl. t. on (marth) That is made plain or laid open; a plain or clear spot; a martyr. Dyn wedi dyoddef merthyr creulawn, a person who has suffered a cruel wound.
Merthyraeth, s. m. (merthyr) A martyrology.
Merthyrai, s. c. (merthyr) One who martyrs.
Merthyrawd, s. m. (merthyr) A martyrizing.
Merthyrawl, a. (merthyr) Relating to martyrdom.
Merthyrdawd, s. m. (merthyr) Martyrdom.
Merthyredig, a. (merthyr) Being martyred.
Merthyriad, s. m. (merthyr) A martyring.
Merthyrolaeth, s. m. (merthyrawl) Martyrdom.
Merthyru, v. a. (merthyr) To martyr. Darfu y ci ei ferthyru yn erchyll, the dog did tear him terribly. Mon.
Merthyrwr, s. m—pl. merthyrwyr (merthyr—gwr) One who martyrizes.
Meru, v. n. (mèr) To drop, or to distil.

Ni chilial o gammawn yn i ferai waed.

He would not retreat from conflict until blood should drop. Aneurin.

Merw, a. (mer) Tingling, or pricking.
Merwaidd, a. (merw) Somewhat tingling.
Merwin, s. m. (merw) A tingling, a pricking, occasioned by a cold.
Merwinad, s. m. (merwin) A tingling.
Merwinaw, v. a. (merwin) To tingle, or to prick.

Pentyrant iddynt eu hunain athrawon, gan fod eu clustiau yn merwinaw.

They shall collect together to themselves teachers, for that their ears shall be tingling. 2 Timothy, 4. 3.

Merwinawd, s. m. (merwin) A tingling.
Merwinawl, a. (merwin) Tending to tingle.
Merwindawd, s. m. (merwin) A tingling.
Merwindeb, s. m. (merwin) A tingle, a pricking.
Merwinedig, a. (merwinad) Being tingled.
Merwinedd, s. m. (merwin) A tingling state.
Merwydd, s. pl. (mer—gwydd) Mulberry trees.
Merwydden, s. f. (merwydd) A mulberry tree.
Merwys, s. m.—pl. t. od (mer—gwys) The ousel, or the blackbird.

Lliw merwys yn lloi mawrion.

Of the colour of the blackbird being large calves. T. Aled, i ychain duon.

Mòr fad a'r merwys ydwyd.

So goodly as the ousel art thou. T. Aled.

Nid un ymryson don merwysod.

Not one will contend with the note of the blackbird. D. Nanmor.

Meryd, v. a. (mèr) To drop, or to distil.
Merydd, s. m. (mèr) That is flat, or low; that is flaccid, drooping, or sluggish; a wet place; a plash; a slug; a sluggard; a larder; also the sea matweed; otherwise called morhesg, and merydd y mor.

Tro wedd ein buchedd o bechawd merydd.

Turn the course of our life from slothful sin. D. Ddu, Ave Maria.

Gnawd merydd yn mro.

A plash is usual in the plain. Adage.

Mis Tachwedd tuchan merydd.

In the month of November the sluggard grunts. Aneurin.

Merydd, a. (mèr) Being flat, or low; being flaccid, or sluggish; humid, moist. Pechawd merydd, a slothful sin; cwd merydd, a rupture; dwfr merydd, stagnant water. Rhufain ferydd, sluggard Rome.

Cad yn Iwerddon, dirion drefydd,
Can a'i canfu ni fu ferydd.

A battle in Ireland, of pleasant towns, such as beheld it could not be sluggish. Meilyr.

Breferad yr wybr ferydd
A wnaeth ini dori dydd.

The braying of the humid sky made us to break up the day. D. ab Gwilym.

Nid un gost ei fwrdd: nid un gist ferydd——a'r cybydd.

Not of the same cost his table; not of the same musty chest as the miser. T. Aled.

Meryddawl, a. (merydd) Of a humid nature.
Meryn, s. m. dim. (mer) A drop, or a particle.
Meryswydden, s. f. (mer—gwŷdd) The medlar tree.
Meryw, s. pl. aggr. (mer—yw) Juniper wood; also called eithinfyw.

Mal marwor, neu ragor yw
Ym, o eirias o'r meryw.

Like the embers, or more it is to me, of the fire of the juniper. W. Middleton, Ps. 120.

Geiriau, fal llymion saethau cawr,
Ynghyd a marwawr meryw.

Words like the sharp arrows of a giant warrior, joined to the embers of juniper. Edm. Prys, Ps. 120.

Merywen, s. f. (meryw) Common juniper.

Efe yn gorwedd, ac yn cysgu dan y ferywen, wele angel a gyffyrddai ag ef.

He lying down, and sleeping under a juniper tree, behold an angel stood before him. 1 Kings, 19. 5.

Mes, s. pl. aggr. (my—es) A portion, a meal; mast, or acorns. It is a common tradition that this fruit, as well as fern roots, was a substitute for bread, amongst the Britons.

Mesa, v. a. (mes) To gather acorns or mast.
Mesawg, a. (mes) Abounding with acorns.
Mesawl, a. (mes) Of the nature of acorns.
Mesbren, s. m.—pl. t. au (mes—pren) An acorn tree, or the acorn bearing oak.

Mynw traglew, llew llawr mwynfawr,
Maengan wedi mein-gain feirch mesbren.

A person brave to excess, the courteous lion of the plain, in the white sepulchre after the fine sleek steeds of the acorn tree. Cynddelw, m. I. ab Cedifor.

Mesen, s. f. dim. (mes) An acorn, one acorn.
Mesenig, s. f. dim. (mesen) A small acorn.
Mesfraint, s. m.—pl. mesfreintiau (mes—braint) The privilege of acorns, or pannage.
Mesglyn, s. m. dim. (masgl) a shell, or a hull.

Rhaid tori y mesglyn cyn cael y cnewullyn.

It is necessary to crack the shell to get the kernel. Adage.

Mesig, a. (mes) That may be chewed, or eaten.
Mesigaw, v. a. (mesig) To masticate; to eat.

Afallen beren biborig
Melyn ei haeron, nid maon a'i mesig.

Sweet apple-tree full of shoots, yellow its fruit, which the multitude shall not chew. Merddin.

Mesobr, s. m. (mes—gobr) A pannage due.

Sef yw mesobr, o caiff gwr foch yn ei goed, o'r pummed dydd cyn gwyl Fihangel hyd y pummed dydd wedi calan gauaf, lladded y degfed o honynt.

A pannage means this, if a man finds swine in his wood, from the fifth day before the feast of Saint Michael until the fifth after the calend of winter, let him kill the tenth of them. Welsh Laws.

Messaig, s. m. (mês—saig) A meal of acorns.

Gwell messaig o'm cell fy hun, no melsaig o gell'arall.

Sweeter an acorn meal from my own parlour, than an honey repast from the parlour of another. Adage.

Mest, s. m. (mes) A portion of food or a meal.
Mestyg, s. m. (mest) What is chewed.

Mygr ddragon gwrou gwyrenyg,
Meddw meddlys melus eu mestyg,
Meiriau angau, angheinmyg ei farw!
Ei ferwuad ni ddiffyg.

The splendid leader of vigorous heroes, whose masticatory was the sweet intoxicating mead-plant, ministers of death, unhallowed was it that he should die! his death cry shall not be wanting. Cynddelw, m. O. Gwynedd.

Mesur, s. m.—pl. t. au (mes—ur) A measure; a rule; a metre; a tune. Mesur hawl, the setting forth a cause, in law; o fesur cam a cham, step by step: Mal y mae yr adar man yn tòri mesurau! how the little birds are pouring out strains!

Nid oes un mesur yn gofyn cynnilach amryfeiliant ar yr acenion, ac yr erddygan, no'r banau ar y gyhydedd lefn.

There is no measure that demands a more accurate diversity of the accents, and the pauses, than the verses on the smooth metricity. Barddas.

Mesur, v. a. (mes—ur) To allot a share; to mete.
Mesuradwy, a. (mesur) Measurable, mensurable.
Mesuraw, v. a. (mesur) To allot a measure.
Mesurawl, a. (mesur) Relating to measure.
Mesuredig, a. (mesur) Being measured.
Mesuredigaeth, s. m. (mesuredig) Measurement.
Mesureg, s. f. (mesur) The science of mensuration; geometry.
Mesuregawl, a. (mesureg) Geometrical.
Mesuren, s. f. (mesur) A canon of measure.

Serion awdur mesuren,
Bardd Brytys——

Serion the author of prosody, the bard of Brutus. D. Benwyn.

Mesuriad, s. m. (mesur) Measuring; marjoram.
Mesuriaeth, s. m. (mesur) Mensuration.
Mesuriant, s. m. (mesur) Admeasurement.
Mesurwr, s. m. (mesur—gwr) A measurer.
Mesurydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mesur) A measurer.
Mesuryddawl, a. (mesurydd) Mensural.
Mesuryddiaeth, s. m. (mesurydd) Mensuration.

Mesyr, s. m. (mes) That is a portion or meal.
Mesyryd, s. m. (mesyr) Pannage food; the last quarter, or autumn.

Ystryw pur i fyw, porfeydd ynghyd,
Yd, brawn mesyryd, mes irwydd,
A'r pysg irion o'r afonydd.

A fair scheme to live, pastures together, corn, the fruit of autumn, the mast of luxuriant woods, and the fresh fishes out of the rivers. T. Aled.

Mettel, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (med—tel) Metal.

Glew sidell gloew osodau
Rhyfel wyt, y mettel mau.

The brave wheel of the bright assaults of war art thou, my trusty metal. D. ab Gwilym, i'w gleddyf.

Mettelaidd, a. (mettel) Like metal, metallic.
Mettelawg, a. (mettel) Abounding with metal.
Metteleiddiad, s. m. (mettelaidd) A turning like metal, a becoming as metal.
Metteleiddiaw, v. a. (mettelaidd) To turn to metal
Metteliad, s. m. (mettel) A turning to metal.
Mettelu, v. a. (mettel) To turn to metal.
Mettelus, a. (mettel) Of the nature of metal.
Mettelwr, s. m.—pl. mettelwyr (mettel—gwr) A metallurgist, a worker of metals.
Mettelwriaeth, s. m. (mettelwr) Metallurgy.
Mettelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mettel) Metallurgist.
Mettelyddiaeth, s. m. (mettelydd) Metallurgy.
Mettelyn, s. m. dim. (mettel) A piece of metal.
Meth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (my—eth) A fail; a miss.

Pam y gwnaeth a'th faeth fethion buwch ddiffaith;
Pa waith ddiwydiaith addaw eidion!

Why made he that reared thee the abortions of a barren cow; what a turn of the truth of language to promise a beast! M. Dwygraig.

Methadwy, a. (meth) Fallible; perishable.
Methawl, a. (meth) Failing, abortive, missing.
Methdalth, s. f.—pl. methdeithiau (meth—taith) A fruitless journey.

Gnawd mynych awn i fethdaith.

There will be a frequent let us go to a fruitless journey. Adage.

Methdal, s. m. pl. t.—ion (meth—tal) Nonpayment
Methdaliad, s. m. (methdal) A nonpayment.
Methdaniaw, v. n. (taniaw) To miss fire.
Methdriniad, s. m. (triniad) A mismanagement.
Methedig, a. (meth) Being fallible; infirm; decayed, decrepid, invalid, unsuccessful. Methedigion, invalids.
Methedigaeth, s. m. (methedig) A state of failing.

A hwynt a'i air tynn a wnaeth
O'u methedigaeth allan.

And them by his word he drew out of their error. Edm. Prys, Ps. 107.

Methenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (meth—enw) A misnomer
Methenwi, v. a. (methenw) To misname.
Methfasnach, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (meth—masgnach) A bankruptcy.
Methfrawd, s. f.—pl. methfrodau (meth—brawd) A fallacious judgment or sentence.
Methgais, s. m. (meth—cais) A failing attempt.
Methgoel, s. f. (meth—coel) A misbelief.
Methgyflawniad, s. m. (cyflawniad) A nonperformance; a nonfulfilment.
Methiad, s. m. (meth) A failing, a missing.
Methiannawl, a. (methiant) Tending to fail.
Methiannu, v. n. (methiant) To become failing.
Methiannus, a. (methiant) Of fallible nature.
Methiannusaw, v. n. (methiannus) To become fallible; to prove abortive; to become perishable
Methiannusrwydd, s. m. (methiannus) A state of failing; abortiveness; perishableness.
Methiant, s. m. (meth) A failure, a defect; decay

Ig ar blentyn cryfiant, ar henddyn methiant.

A hiccup on a child is a strengthening, on an old man debility. Adage.

Methlantus, a. (methiant) Of a fallible nature.
Methineb, s. m. (meth) A failure, a missing.
Methl, s. m.—pl. methlion (meth) A foil, or defeat; an embarrassment, or perplexity.

Eurdorchawg ddelfulawg o Ddyfnaut ragor
Rhag ygor esgarant,
Ni bu fethl, ni bu fethlant,
Ni bu fagawd meirch Morgant.

Who wore the golden wreath more seemly than
Did he of Devon, at the hostile camp,
With steeds not pampered as for vain parade
Was Morgant, never foiled, nor apt to fail.
Cynddelw, i deulu O. Gwynedd.

Methledd, s. m. (methl) Embarrassment.
Methliad, s. m. (methl) An embarrassing, a deceiving; an entangling.
Methlig, a. (methl) Tending to embarrass.
Methlu, v. a. (methl) To embarrass, to entangle.

Or gwrthwyneps neb farn yr yngnad llys, rhoddent eu dau wystl yn llaw y brenin; ac or methlir yr yngnad llys, difarnedig fydd ei air: a thaled werth ei dafawd i'r brenin.

If any one shall controvert the sentence of the judge of the palace, let the two give a pledge in the hand of the king; and if the judge of the palace shall be foiled, his word shall be of no force; and let him pay the price of his tongue to the king. Welsh Laws.

Methlus, a. (methl) Embarrassing, entangling.
Methlwr, s. m.—pl. methlwyr (methl—gwr) An embarrasser; one who ensnares.
Methoed, s. m. (meth—oed) Decline of life.
Methoedran, s. m. (methoed) Decline of age.
Methu, v. n. (meth) To fail; to miss; to become abortive; to miscarry; to decay. Methu beichiogi, to miscarry of a child.
Methwr, s. m.—pl. methwyr (meth—gwr) A failer, a misser, a miscarrier.
Meuad, s. m. (mau) A taking to one's self.
Meudwy, s. m.—pl. t. od(mau—twy) That is self-governed, or self-corrected: a hermit.
Meudwyad, s. m. (meudwy) A recluse life.
Meudwyaeth, s. m. (meudwy) A life of a hermit.

Gwrthawd coron ffrwythlon ffraeth,
A dewis y feudwyaeth.

Refusing a crown prosperous and elegant, and choosing the hermit life. H. Dufi, i Gynog.

Meudwyaidd, a. (meudwy) Like a hermit.

Bwyd y macwy meudwyaidd
Berwr hallt, bara o'r haidd;
Ei ddiawd, ganaid ddewin,
Y dwr gwyn.——

The food of the self-correcting youth the rock samphire, bread of the barley; his drink, fair divine, the crystal water.
L. G. Cothi, i I. Fedyddiwr.

Meudwyaw, v. n. (meudwy) To live as a hermit.
Meudwyawl, a. (meudwy) Hermitical.
Meudwyes, s. f.—pl. t. au (meudwy) A hermitess.
Meudwyfan, s. f. (meudwy—man) A hermitage.
Meudwyfod, s. f. (meudwy—bôd) A hermitage.
Meuedig, a. (meuad) Being taken to one's self; being possessed; possessed; rich.

Rhag Prydain wledig——
Llyngesoedd meuedig.

Before the sovereign of Britain were fleets enriched. Taliesin.

Meuedd, s. m. (mau) Possession, or inheritance.

Nid meuedd ond asswyn Duw.

There is no wealth like the blessing of God. Adage.

Bardd hardd ehelaeth, bardd ai meith-faeth medd,
A meuedd marchogaeth.

A bard handsome and comprehensive, a bard greatly nourished by mead, and the talent of chivalry.
Cynddelw, m. Bleddyn Fardd.

Llwyddid gwir, a thir, yn ei threfad;
Llwyddid gwledd, a medd, a meuedd mad.

May air and earth give prosperity in its habitation; prosperous be the feast, and the mead, and the goodly possession.
Llywelyn Fardd, i Dowyn.

E'm anrhegai——
A'i aur rhudd, a'i fudd, a'i feuedd.

He would present me with his ruddy gold, and his benefit, and his possession. Ll. P. Moch.

Can digones Duw an diflan feroes,
Yn eirioes, yn eirian,
Gwr a'n gwnaeth a'i gwnel am danan
Trugaredd, cyn meuedd mablan.

Since God has accomplished our fleeting short life in beauty, in splendor, may he that made us cause it to be for us in mercy, before the inheritance of the tomb. Casnodyn.

Meufedd, s. m. (mau—medd) Self-possession.
Mew, s. m. (my—ew) A mew, a cat's cry.
Mewiad, s. m. (mew) A mewing, a crying as a cat.
Mewian, v. a. (mew) To mew, to cry as a cat.
Mewn, prep. (me—wn) Within, in; adv. Within, in. Dos mewn pryd, go in time. Pwy sy mewn? who is within? Aed i mewn, let him go in.

Dy ffydd a'th gadwodd; ac am hyny ymado mewn heddwch, a mwynianna gyflawn lonyddwch.

Thy faith hath preserved thee; and therefore depart in peace, and enjoy perfect tranquillity. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Mewnawl, a. (mewn) Inward, internal.
Mewnoldeb, s. m. (mewnawl) Internalness.
Mewyd, s. m. (me—gwyd) Idleness, laziness.

Ni weryd mewyd milwriaeth:
Gwr a'n gwyl ni a gweledigaeth,
Gwelad fi, gwelitor ynaeth.

Idleness will not excuse warfare: He that beholds us with providence, may he behold, then I shall be beholden. Cynddelw.

Mewyda, v. a. (mewyd) To idle, or to lounge.
Mewydaidd, a. (mewyd) Somewhat idle, or lazy.
Mewydaw, v. a. (mewyd) To act idly: to be idle.
Mewydawl, a. (mewyd) Of an idle tendency.
Mewydedd, s. m. (mewyd) Idleness, laziness.
Mewydrwydd, s. m. (mewyd) Idleness, laziness.
Mewydus, a. (mewyd) Of an idle disposition.
Mewydusaw, v. (mewydus) To become lazy.
MI, s. m. r. That is in or identic. pron. Me. It is also used adverbially, as the agent in the first person of verbs. Mi wn, for gwn, I know.

Gware mi trech.

The game of I conquer. Adage.

Gwell mi gillais noch efe a laddwyd.

Better is I fled than he has been slain. Adage.

Ennill mi hw a cholli mi ha.

To gain the honour of saying I attacked, and lose I triumphed. Adage.

Mi, ym deddf, wyf diamryson
O'r prif feirdd, ym prif gyfeillion.

I, in my principle, am without strife with the chief bards, my chief of friends. Ll. P. Moch.

Miar, s. f.—pl. mieri (my—iar) A bramble.
Miaren, s. f. (miar) A briar; a bramble; miaren y Berwyn, or miaren Dwywan, mountain bramble.

Cynt y cwymp dar no miaren o flaen y gwynt.

Sooner will the oak fall than the bramble before the wind. Adage.

Mic, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mig) A hoot; spite, or pique. Dra fic, out of spite; o fic i un, out of spite to one: Gware mic ymguddiawg, the play of hide and seek.

Cael oedd raid——
Cyffes, er mic i uffern.

I was necessary to have confession, in spite to hell.
Ll. ab H. ab I. ab Gr. ab Owain.

Micas, s. m. (mic) Bread steeped in any liquid.
Miciad, s. m. (mic) A hooting; a spiting.
Miciaw, v. a. (mic) To hoot; to spite; to be piqued
Micws, s. m. dim. (mic) That shoots out; spray. Micws diawd, the froth of liquor.
Mich, s. f. (my—ich) A squeal, or a squeak.
Michdan, v. a. (mich) To squeal, or to squeak.
Mid, s. m.—pl. mitiau (my—id) An enclosure, or a hem round; a list, or place of combat; also a shallow vessel, a muid. Llenaid mid o gwrw, a muid-full of ale. a. Champaign.

Yn addef tangnef collid
Addef, yd buost lew yn dydd mid.

In the habitation of peace thou wouldest lose a habitation, though thou hast been brave in the day of the field. Taliesin.

Claf wyd——
Call araf walch, colli'r fid.

Thou art hurt, thou discreet and gentle hawk, for losing the field. D. Ll. Mathew.

Midedd, s. m. (mid) The state of being enclosed, hemmed in, or surrounded.
Midiad, s. m. (mid) An enclosing, or hemming in.
Midlo, a. (mid) Belonging to the field or list.
Midlan, s. f.—pl. t. au (mid—llan) An enclosed plain, or area; a list for tournaments.

Gnawd rodawg rhag marchawg midlan.

Meet is the car before the knight of the field. Cynddelw.

Midd, s. m.—pl. t. au (my—idd) An enclosed place
Middi, s. m. (midd) A pit or pool in a river, where fish resort to. Llinyn middi, llinyn enweirio, llinyn pysgota, a fishing-line.
Mierawg, a. (miar) Abounding with brambles.
Mieri, s. pl. aggr. (miar) Brambles, briers.

Cas myharen mieri.

The rams dislike the briers. Adage.

Mieriawg, a. (mieri) Abounding with briers.
Mierïeinllwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (mierïen—llwyn) A bramble bush.
Mierïen, s. f. (mieri) A bramble, a brier.
Mierin, a. (miar) Of the bramble; brier.
Mierinllwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (mierin—llwyn) A bramble bush.
Mig, s. f.—pl. t. ion (my—ig) A hoot; spite; pique; animosity. Mig ymguddiaw, the play of hide and seek, the seeker being hoodwinked, and the other crying out mig, or hoop.

Idd ydwyf yn guddiedig
I'w charu, mal chwareu mig.

I am privately courting her, like playing at bo-peep. G. ab I. ab Ll. Fychan.

Mig, a. (my—ig) Hooting, hooping. Dylluan fig, a hooting owl.
Migedd, s. m. (mig) A hooting; spitefulness.
Migen, s. f.—pl. t. au (mig) That oozes; a boggy place; also a bad ulcer, with holes or cavities.
Migiad, s. m. (mig) A hooting; a spiting.
Migiain, v. a. (mig) To make a hooting.

Gwychr gwynt gwydd migiain.

Impetuous the wind rustling the woods. Llywarch Hen.

Migiaw, v. a. (mig) To hoot; to spite.

Mae'n y bryd gyd ogyfarch,
Dy fernaw, a migiaw'r march.

It is intended when a meeting takes place, to waylay thee, and to hoot the horse. I Du. Daf. ab Owain.

Migiawl, a. (mig) Hooting; spiteful.
Migiwr, s. m.—pl. migwyr (mig—gwr) A hooter.
Mign, s. c.—pl. mignoedd (mig) A bog, a quag.

Lle ni bydd mign e fydd maen.

Where there shall not be a quag there will be a stone. Llywarch Hen.

Mignad, s. m. (mign) A turning to a bog.
Mignaw, v. n. (mign) To become a bog.
Mignawg, a. (mign) Abounding with bogs.
Mignawl, a. (mign) Boggy, or quaggy.
Mignedd, s. m. (mign) Bogginess, quagginess.
Mignen, s. f. dim. (mign) A bog, a quag.
Migniad, s. m. (mign) A becoming boggy.
Mignwern, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mign—gwern) A boggy meadow.
Migus, a. (mig) Hooting; full of spite, despiteful, malicious.

Migusaw, v. a. (migus) To act spitefully; to become spiteful, or malicious.
Migusedd, s. m. (migus) Spitefulness; malice.
Migusrwydd, s. m. (migus) Spitefulness.
Migwern, s. f. (mig—gwern) A boggy meadow.
Migwrn, s. m.—pl. migyrnau (mig—gwrn) A joint, or knuckle; the ankle joint, the ankle.

Gwell migwrn o wr no mynydd o wraig.

Better a sprig of a man than a mountain of a woman. Adage.

Migwyn, s. m. (mig—gwyn) White bog-moss.
Migymguddiaw, v. a. (mig—ymguddiaw) To play at hide and seek.
Migyrnawg, a. (migwrn) Having knuckles; large-knuckled; having large ankle joints.
Migyrniad, s. m. (migwrn) The growing out of a knuckle, or ankle.
Migyrnu, v. n. (migwrn) To grow out as a knuckle, or ankle.
Mil, s. m.—pl. t. od (mi—il) A living agent; an animal, a beast.

Goreu un mil march.

The best of any one animal a horse. Adage.

Goreu un anifel buwch; goreu un ysgrubl dafad.

The best of any animal is a cow; the best of any beast is a sheep. Adage.

Gwae y mil ni wyl ei berchen.

Miserable the animal that perceives not its owner. Adage.

Yr eawg——
Glanaf un mil a luniwyd.

The salmon, the cleanest animal that was formed. D. ab Gwilym.

Mil ebrwydd yw mal wybrwynt.

A beast quick as the wind of heaven. I. Tew Hen, i farch.

Mil, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (my—il) A thousand. Degcan-mil o filoedd, ten hundred thousand of thousands.
Milaid, a. (mil) Of an animal nature.

Cenedlaeth filaid y sydd gynt a rithwys mo mi: mi af yn gyfarwydd rhagoch yno.

There is an animal species which has appeared before me: I will go as a guide before you there. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Milaidd, a. (mil) Like an animal, brutish.
Milain, s. m. (mil) That is of the nature of an animal; a brute, a villain.

Gnawd mab taer yn filain.

The son of the hard-dealer is generally brutish. Adage.

Os gwrthodi, lliw'r ewyn,
Was a'i felyn gudynnau,
Cai it' filain aradrgaeth,
A fo gwaeth ei gynneddfau.

The hue of the foam, shouldest thou refuse a youth with his yellow locks, thou shalt have a villain bound to the plough, who may be of worse qualities. Gw. Tew.

Milain, a. (mil) Full of the nature of an animal or beast; brutish; cruel; froward, sullen, stubborn.

Gwynt o'r dwyrain, gelyn milain.

Wind from the East is an inveterate foe. Adage.

Ni bu fwy lladron——
No gwreigedd Llundain garnbuteiniach,
No gwyr un doneg garnfileiniach
No gwyr Caer.

Never were there greater thieves; nor the women of London more whorish; nor men of the same kidney more stubbornly brutish than the men of Chester. L. G. Cothi.

Milan, s. m. (mil) A brutish or stubborn one.
Milast, s. f.—pl. mileist (mil—gast) A greyhound bitch.
Milawg, a. (mil) Having the nature of a beast.
Milawr, s. m. (mil) That is relating to; one who is military, a warrior.
Milcanmil, s. m.—pl. milorion (milcant—mil) A hundred millions.
Milcanfed, s. m. (milcant) A hundred thousandth part. a. Hundred thousandth part.
Milcant, s. m. (mil—cant) One hundred thousand

Milcerdd, s. m. (mil—cerdd) A millepede.
Mildraethawd, s. m. (mil—traethawd) Zoology.
Mildraethodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mildraethawd) A zoologist, or one who describes animals.
Mildraethodyn, s. m. (mildraethawd) A treatise on zoology.
Milddail, s. f. (mîl—dail) Common, or milford yarrow; also called llysiau y gwaedlin, milfyd, milfydd, and minfel.
Miled, s. m. (mil) An animal of the chace.

Nid wyf enhyed, miled ni chadwaf,
Ni allaf ddarymred;
Tra fo da gan gog caned!

I am no hunter, I keep no animal of the chace; I cannot move about: as long as it seemeth good to the cuckoo let her sing. Llywarch Hen.

Miledawr, s. m.—pl. milodorion (miled) One who chases an animal; one who is military.
Miledd, s. m. (mil) Brutishness; animal nature.
Mileiddiaw, v. n. (milaidd) To become brutalized.
Mileindref, s. f.—pl. t. i (milain—tref) A township, under villain soccage tenure.
Mileingar, a. (milain) Of a ferocious nature.
Mileingarwch, s. m. (mileingar) Ferociousness.
Mileiniad, s. m. (milain) A brutalizing.
Mileiniaw, v. n. (milain) To become brutish, or cruel; to be obstinate; to persist firmly.
Mileinig, a. (milain) Brutish; ferocious.
Milfed, s. f. (mil) A thousandth. a. Thousandth.
Milfedawl, a. (milfed) Millesimal.
Milfedran, s. f. (milfed—rhan) Thousandth part.
Milfil, s. f. (mil repeated) A thousand thousands, or a million.
Milflwydd, a. (mil—blwydd) Millennial.
Milflwyddawl, a. (milflwydd) Millennial.
Milflwyddiant, s. m. (milflwydd) Millennium.
Milfyd, s. f. (mil—byd) The figwort.
Milfyw, s. f. (mil—byw) Pilewort; also called y fronwys, melyn y gwaenwyn, gwenith y ddaiar, llygad Ebrill, llygad y ddyniawed.
Milgi, s. m.—pl. milgwn (mil—ci) A greyhound.

Cenau milgi a morwyn ni cheiff eu mwyn a'u maco.

A greyhound cub and a maid shall not be enjoyed by those who rear them. Adage.

Gnotach nad milgwn ytynt,
Ond gwelich, neu genadau gwynt.

Probably they are not greyhounds, but hawks, or messengers of the wind. Guto y Glyn.

Milgïaidd, a. (milgi) Like a greyhound.

Ardal dwyn hoewal Dinmilwy——
Milgïaidd ei gwyr yn mhob tramwy.

The deep tranquil region of Dinmilwy, like the greyhound, its men in every course. Ll. P. Moch.

Milhanes, s. m.—(mil—hanes) Zoology.
Milhanesydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (milhanes) Zoologist
Miliast, s. f.—pl. milieist (mil—gast) A greyhound bitch.

Ni cheiff miliast groen ar ei ennill, oni bydd hi yn dorawg o filgi a ennilloedd groen.

A greyhound bitch shall not obtain a skin though she should win it, unless she is with pups from a greyhound, which has won a skin. Cyfraith Hely.

Milplyg, s. m. (mîl—plyg) A thousand-fold.
Milred, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mil—rhed) A millepede.
Milrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mil—rhith) A fœtus.
Milrym, s. m. (mîl—grym) The woodsage.
Miltir, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mil—tîr) A mile.
Miltroed, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mil—troed) Millepede.
Miltroediawg, a. (miltroed) Of a thousand feet.
Milus, a. (mil) Of an animal nature, brutal.
Milwaith, s. m. (mîl—gwaith) A thousand times.
Milwr, s. m.—pl. milwyr (mil—gwr) A warrior.

Gorchestion milwyr drygu am y goreu.

The exploits of warriors are, who can cause the greatest evil. Adage.

Milŵraidd, a. (milwr) Warrior-like; warlike.
Milŵri, s. m. (milwr) A warrior's life; warfare.
Milŵriad, s. m.—pl. milŵriaid (milwr) One who commands a thousand men; a colonel.
Milŵriadaeth, s. m. (milŵriad) A colonelship.
Milŵriaeth, s. m. (milwr) Warfare, or war.

Cymerai cynghor ygyd a'i wyrda, pa wedd yd ymleddynt ag eu gelynion; a pa anesawdd i lluddynt i gaffael y tir; ac yno y daethoedd Beli, penteulu Caswallawn, a thywysawg ei filwriaeth; a thrwy gynghor y gwr hwnw y gwneyd pob peth yn y deyrnas.

He took counsel with his select men, in what manner they should fight with their enemies; and by what means they should hinder their having a landing; and thereupon came Beli, the head of the family of Caswallon, and the leader of his army; and through the advice of that person every thing was conducted in the kingdom. Gr. ab Arthur.

Milŵriaethawl, a. (milŵriaeth) Relating to a military life; relating to warfare.
Milŵriaethiad, s. m. (milŵriaeth) The acting a military character.
Milwriaethu, v. a. (milwriaeth) To act a military character.
Milwriaethus, a. (milŵriaeth) Respecting a military character.
Milŵriaw, v. a. (milwr) To carry on warfare.
Milŵrus, a. (milwr) Warrior-like; militant.
Milwydd, s. m. (mîl—gwŷdd) Camomile.
Milyn, s. m. dim. (mil) A little animal.
Mill, s. f.—pl. t. ion (my—ill) The violet.

Mor beraidd a'r mill.

As fragrant as the violet. Adage.

Millfeillion, s. pl. (mill—meillion) White trefoil.
Milltir, s. f.—pl. t. odd (miltir) A mile. Milltir Ffreinig, a French mile.

Mesures Dyfnwal wrth hyd gronyn haidd: tri hyd y gronyn haidd yn y fodfedd; tair modfedd yn lled y balf; tri lled y balf yn y droedfedd; tair troedfedd yn y cam; tri cham yn y naid; tair naid yn y tir; a mil o dir, neu o rynau a wna filltir.

Dyfnwal measured by the length of a barley corn: the three lengths of a grain of a barley in a thumb breadth; three inches in the breadth of the palm; the three breadths of the palm in a foot; three feet in a pace; three paces in a leap; three leaps in a land; and a thousand lands or ridges make a mile. Welsh Laws.

Millyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. ion (mill) A violet.
Mîn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mi—in) A margin, a brink, or edge; a sharp edge; the lip, or mouth, in poetical language. Min nôs, the edge of night, the evening twilight; min y ffordd, the way side; yn min, hard by.

Byw wrth fin y cleddyf.

Living by the edge of the sword. Adage.

Minawd, s. m. (mîn) A making an edge.
Mincoca, v. a. (mincog) To pop with the lips.
Mincocaeth, s. m. (mincog) A popping of the lips.
Mincog, s. m. (mîn—cog) A pop with the lips.
Mindag, s. f. (mîn—tâg) The lampas.
Minddu, s. m. (mîn—du) A black edge. a. Black-edged; black-lipped. Minddu manddel, children's play, wherein one turns his face away from another, who lifts up one or two fingers, and the first guesses at the number.
Mined, s. m. (mîn) An edging, or an edge.
Minedd, s. m. (mîn) Edginess, the edge part.
Minfel, s. m. (mîn—mêl) The honey of the lip; the yarrow.
Minfelys, a. (minfel) Sweet-mouthed; dainty.
Minfin, a. (min repeated) Edge to edge; lip to lip; kissing.

Oedd beilch gweilch gweled ei werin:
Oedd clywed cleddyfau finfin.

Heroes were elate at seeing his host; swords edge to edge were heard. D. Benfras, i Lywelyn II.

Minflys, s. m. (min—blys) Daintiness of mouth.
Minflysig, a. (minflys) Dainty-mouthed.
Minflysigrwydd, s. m. (minflysig) Epicureanism.

Minfwlch, s. m. (min—bwlch) A hare lip.
Minfylchawg, a. (minfwlch) Having a hare lip.
Minffug, a. (min—ffug) Of a deceitful lip.

A'u genau nhwythau gwenieithiant, minffug
——y dywedant.

And their lips also flattered, with a deceitful lip they speak. W. Middleton.

Mingam, a. (min—cam) Wry-mouthed.

Lle'r ydoedd yn mhob gobant
Ellyllon mingeimion gant.

Where in every little hollow were a hundred wry-mouthed sprites. D. ab Gwilym.

Mingamiad, s. m. (mingam) A making a wry mouth, a making a grimace.
Mingamu, v. v. (mingam) To make a wry mouth, to make grimaces; to mock.
Mingamwr, s. m.—pl. mingamwyr (mingam—gwr) One who makes grimaces.
Mingeimiad, s. m.—pl. mingeimiaid (mingam) One who makes grimaces.
Mingrach, a. (min—crach) Scabby-mouthed.
Mingras, a. (min—cras) Having parched lips; saucy-mouthed.
Mingrased, s. m. (mingras) The parchedness of the lips; pertness.
Mingrechi, s. m. (mingrach) Scabbiness of lips.
Mingrwn, s. m.—pl. mingrynion (min—crwn) A mullet, a fish so called. a. Having a round mouth.
Mingrych, a. (min—crych) A puckering the lips.
Mingrychu, v. a. (mingrych) To pouch the lips.
Mingryniad, s. m.—pl. mingryniaid (mingrwn) A mullet; also called mingrych, and hyrddyn.
Mingrynu, v. a. (mingrwn) To draw or pouch the mouth together.

Gwelwn dyrfa o ferchenod yn ymsionci; rhai yn mingrynu; rhai a heieirn yn tynu eu haeliau; rhai yn ymiro; rhai yn clytio eu hwynebau.

I could see a party of coquettes primming themselves up; some screwing up the mouth; some with irons pulling their eyebrows; some anointing themselves; some patching their faces. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Miniad, s. m. (min) An edging; a sharpening.
Minial, v. a. (min) To move the lips, to osculate.
Minialedd, s. m. (minial) The motion of the lips; osculation.
Minialu, v. a. (minial) To move the lips.
Miniawg, v. a. (min) To make an edge, or margin; to sharpen; to make an impression; to utter from the lips.

Rhy eglur ydyw nad oedd fymryn o ddaioni yn minio arnynt.

It is too evident that there is not a particle of good having effect on them. Ier. Owain.

Miniawg, a. (min) Having an edge, or margin; sharp-edged, sharp. Cleddyf dau-finiawg, a two-edged sword.
Miniedig, a. (miniad) Being made into an edge.
Minllym, a. (min—llym) Sharp-edged; keen.
Minnau, comp. pron. (mi—tau) Me also, I also; and me, and I; me then, I then.

Dywedasant wrtho;—Berth ydd wyt heusawr. Ni bo berthach byth y boch chwi no minnau!

They said to him: herdsman, thou art rich. Never may you be richer than I then! H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Mintag, s. f. (min—tag) The lampas.
Minws, s. m. dim. (min) The lip or mouth, in fond language.

——Per enau tlws:
Pond mwyn pennod ei minws.

The sweet pretty mouth; how kind the discourse from her lip. D. ab Edmwnt.

Mïod, s. pl. aggr. (mi) Fritters, little cakes. Bara miod, manchet bread.
Mir, s. m. (my—ir) That is fair or bright; the aspect, look, or visage.
Mir, a. (my—ir) Of a fair aspect; comely; fair. Mir arglwyddes, a handsome lady.
Mirach, s. m. (mir) A good quality, a virtue.
Miraidd, a. (mir) Somewhat comely or fair.
Mirain, a. (mir) Of a fair aspect; comely; fair.

Llas arth yn y gyfarthfa;
Llas nerth gwyr, eryr aerfa;
Llas Hywel wyn fab Owain;
Llas gwr mirain uch morfa!

A bear was slain in the toil; the strength of men, the eagle of slaughter was cut off: slain was fair Hywel the son of Owain: a handsome man has been slain above the strand. Peryf ab Cedifor.

Miraint, s. m. (mir) Pleasantness of aspect.
Mire, s. m. (mir) The aspect, the visage.
Mireinber, a. (mirain—per) Pleasantly sweet.
Mireinbryd, s. m. (mirain—pryd) A beauteous aspect, or of a fair countenance.
Mireindawd, s. m. (mirain) Handsomeness.
Mireindeb, s. m. (mirain) Comeliness, beauty.
Mireinder, s. m. (mirain) Comeliness, beauty.
Mireindra, s. m. (mirain) Comeliness, beauty.
Mireinedd, s. m. (mirain) Comeliness, beauty.
Mireiniad, s. m. (mirain) A rendering comely or handsome; a growing handsome.
Mireiniaidd, a. (mirain) Rather handsome.
Mireiniannawl, a. (mireiniant) Tending to make comely or beautiful.
Mireiniannu, v. a. (mireiniant) To make comely or beautiful; to become comely.
Mireiniannus, a. (mireiniant) Of a comely or beautiful nature.
Mireiniant, s. m. (mirain) A making comely or beautiful; a becoming comely.
Mireinrwydd, s. m. (mirain) Comeliness, beauty.
Mireinwch, s. m. (mirain) Comeliness, beauty.

Drwg yw yn dryced an buchedd,
Am galed amgeledd am aur,
A mireinwch byd a'i anrhydedd.

It is miserable to us how evil our condition, in hard toiling for gold, and the glory of the world and its honour. G. ab Gwrgenau.

Miriad, s. m. (mir) A rendering comely.
Miriannawl, a. (miriant) Relating to the aspect.
Miriannu, v. a. (miriant) To render comely, or of a fine aspect; to become comely.
Miriannus, a. (miriant) Of a comely aspect.
Miriannusaw, v. a. (miriannus) To render of a comely aspect; to become handsome.
Miriant, s. m. (mir) Beauty of countenance.
Mis, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (my—is) The catamenia; also the length of that period; a month.
Misawl, a. (mis) Monthly, menstrual.
Misawr, s. m. (mis) That is of the month.
Misglwyf, s. m. (mis—clwyf) The menses.
Misglwyfedd, s. m. (misglwyf) Menstruousness.
Misglwyfus, a. (misglwyf) Menstruous.
Misgwaith, s. m. (mis—gwaith) A month's space.
Misi, a. (mis) Nice, delicate, dainty.
Misyriad, s. m.—pl. misyriaid (misawr) That is of the age of one month.

O fab misyriad.

Of a child that is of a month old. Numbers 18. 61.

Mit, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mid) A shallow vessel, or cooler, to hold liquor in.
Miw, s. m. (mi) The shedding of feathers, or mewing of birds.

Penyd dros ennyd y sydd;
Am ei benyd miw beunydd.

Penance there is for a while; for his penance daily in a mew. Ieu. Deulwyn ,i Aebog.

Miwail, a. (miw) Smooth, sleek, or glossy.

Ceiliog mwyalch clog miwail.

The cock ouzel with the glossy cloak. D. ab Gwilym.

MO, s. m. r. That is forward or advanced; present; that tends to enlarge; that is more.

Mo, pron. (mo, s.) It; him, or he, idiomatically applied to persons. Dyna fo, there it is; fo hònid fy marw, it was asserted that I had died.

Dyn ieuanc oedd raid yno;
Owae hi nad fyfi fae fo!

A young man were necessary to be there: woe to her, that I am not him! D. ab Gwilym.

Mo, prep. (mo, s.) Of concerning, more of; from. It is used to give emphasis to negatives; as Ni chei mo ym, mo yth, mo ei; or ni chei mo'm, mo'th, mo'i, thou shalt not have that of mine, or my, thy, his, her, or it; mo yn, mo ych, mo eu; or mo'n, mo'ch, mo'u, that of ours, or our, your, their:--Ni chei mo hwn, thou shalt not have this.

Moc, s. m. (my—oc) A mock, or mimic.

Mociad, s. m. (moc) A mocking, or mimicking.

Mociaw, v. a. (moc) To mock, to imitate.

Mocíwr, s. m.—pl. mocwyr (moc—gwr) Mocker.

Moch, s. pl. aggr. (mo—och) Swine, or pigs.

Y nawfed dydd calan gauaf y mae iawn i'r pencynydd fyned i hely moch coed; ac o hyny hyd galan mis Tachwedd y dyly efe fod yn eu hely hwy.

The ninth day of winter it is right for the chief huntsman to go to hunt the wood swine; and from thence to the first of December he shall continue hunting them. Welsh Laws.

Mòch, a. (my—och) Ready, quick, apt; early.

Mòch dysg nawf mab hwyad.

The young of the duck soon learns to swim. Adage.

Ni mòch ddial mefl meryd.

A sluggard will not soon revenge a disgrace. Adage.

Mocha, v. a. (moch) To litter pigs. Hwch focha, a sow with pigs.

Mochaidd, a. (moch) Like swine, hog-like.

Mochawr, s. m. (moch) That is like a swine.

Mochddwyre, s. m. (moch—dwyre) A quick rise or elevation; an early rise.

Mochddwyrëain, v. a. (mochddwyre) To rise up quickly; to be rising early.

Mochddwyrëawg, a. (mochddwyre) Quickly-rising

Mochddwyrëawg huan haf dyffestin
Maws llafar adar, mygr hear hin.

Thou early-rising summer sun, hasten the melodious song of birds, the happy season of joy. Gwalchmai.

Am Fechain yn fochddwyrëawg.

Around Mechain early-rising.

Mocheidd-dra, s. m. (mochaidd) Swinishness.

Mocheiddiad, s. m. (mochaidd) A becoming swinish

Mocheiddiaw, v. a. (mochaidd) To act swinishly, to become swinish.

Mocheiddrwydd, s. m. (mochaidd) Swinishness.

Mochi, v. a. (moch) To wallow as swine, to commit sodomy.

Mochiad, s. m. (moch) To wallow like swine.

Mochian, v. a. (moch) To be as a pig, to grunt.

Mochlys, s. m. (moch—llys) Common nightshade.

Mochnant, s. m.—pl. mochnentydd (mòch—nant) A swift brook, or torrent.

Mochriw, s. f.—pl. t. an (mòch—rhiw) A steep shelving ascent.

Mochwraidd, s. m. dim. (moch--gwraidd) Sowbread

Mochysgall, s. m. (moch—ysgall) Common sowthistle.

Mochyn, s. m. dim. (moch) A pig. O, y mochyn brwnt! Oh, thou dirty pig! Mochyn bychan, the badger; otherwise called broch, and pryf llwyd.

Pen llyffan, cynffon mochyn, a chi wedi ei grogi, a wnant gystal pab ag a welwyd erioed yn uffern.

A frog's head, a pig's tail, and a dog that has been hung, will make as good a pope as was ever seen in hell. Adage.

Mochynaidd, a. (mochyn) Like a pig, or piggish.

Mochyneidd-dra, s. m. (mochynaidd) Pigritude.

Mochyneiddrwydd, s. (mochynaidd) Hoggishness.

Mochyria, v. a. (mochawr) To grunt like a boar after the sow; also to brim, or to go to boar.

Nid iawn dala beidd un amser yn mochyria.

It is not proper to catch the boars at any time in going after the swine. Welsh Laws.

Mochyriad, s. m. (mochawr) A grunting.

Mochyriaw, v. a. (mochawr) To grunt like a boar; to procreate as the swine.

Mod, s. m.—pl. t. au (my—od) A circle, a turn; a motion; an enclosure.

A'r myllt a gyrchais i'r mod,
A thri ychain.——

And the wethers I gathered into the fold, besides three oxen. Syr Lewys Mendwy.

Modbren, s. m.—pl. t. au (mod—pren) A stirrer, a stick used in stirring any thing boiled.

Modfedd, s. f.—pl. t. i (bodfedd) The space of the thumb; an inch.

Cystal modfedd a milltir o ddianc.

An inch is as good as a mile of escape. Adage.

Modfeddig, s. f. dim. (modfedd) A single inch.

Modfeddu, v. a. (modfedd) To measure inches.

Modrwy, s. f.—pl. t. au (mod—rhwy) A ring. Modrwy eiddig, the jealous one's ring, an epithet in droll language; bys y fodrwy, the ring finger.

Modrwyad, s. m. (modrwy) A forming into a ring; a circling; a putting on a ring.

Modrwyaidd, a. (modrwy) Like a ring; curly.

Mordwyaw, v. a. (modrwy) To form into a ring; to form ringlets, or to curl.

Modrwyawg, a. (modrwy) Having rings; in ringlets; circling.

O leufer llyw cammawn, iawn dywysawg,
Bu fedd aur gylchwy yn fodrwyawg.

From the splendour of the leader of conflict, the equitable prince, there was the gold-encompassed mead circling. Meilyr, m. G. ab Cynan.

Modrwyawl, a. (modrwy) Annulary; curly.

Modrwyedig, a. (modrwyad) In ringlets, curled.

Modrwyen, s. f. dim. (modrwy) A little ring.

Modrwyfil, s. m.—pl. t. od (modrwy—mil) A lizard, an efft; also called modrwyen, genau goeg.

Modrwyig, s. f. dim. (modrwy) An annulet.

Modrwyogrwydd, s. m. (modrwyawg) Curliness.

Modrwywr, s. m.—pl. modrwywyr (modrwy—gwr) A dealer in rings.

Modrwyydd, s. m. (modrwy) A dealer in rings.

Modryb, s. f.—pl. modrybedd (mod—rhyb) An aunt; also an epithet for a matron, equivalent to dame and mistress in English. The diminutives of it, in fond language, are Boba, Boda, and Bodo. Ewythr a Modryb, terms of respect, used in some parts, equivalent to Master and Mistress.

Eil-fam modryb dda.

A good aunt is a second mother. Adage.

Modrydaf, s. m.—pl. t. au (mod—rhydaf) A centre to range round; a rallying point; a standard; a stock of bees.

Mis Awst molwynawg morfa,
Llon gwenyn, llawn modryda'.

The month of August white with foam is the sea shore, lively the bees, full the stock hive. Aneurin.

Cymhwyllaf fy naf,
Cymmry fodrydaf,
Cymmro celfyddaf,
Ry wnaeth Ceil.

I will make mention of my chief, the rallying point of the Welsh, the best informed Welshman whom the Mysterious One has made. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Milwr, milwyr fodrydaf,
Madawg law ddeawg, lary naf.

A warrior, the rallying point of warriors, the ready-handed Madog, the mild chief. L. P. Moch.

Pa geisidi fi, fodrydaf creugar !

Why soughtest thou me, thou blood-stained rallying-point? Ph. Brydydd.

Mal medru modrydaf ar bald.

Like shooting at the hive in swarming. Ll. P. Moch.

Modur, s. m. (mod—ur) That encompasses; a defence; a protector; a sovereign.

Mur modur, llywiadur rhag llaw,
Mae ym meddwl dy geisiaw.

The rampart of defence, the ruler in time to come, it is in my mind to seek thee. D. Benfras.

Neud gwan Wynedd fan fen yd ergyd cur;
Neud gwael am fodur eglur oglyd.

Is not lofty Gwynedd palsied, where affliction assails; is it not brought low by the loss of a protector, of manifest security. G. Ddu o Arfon, m. Sir G. Llwyd.

Egin Madog, ein modur,
Ni chilioedd dim a chledd dur

The offspring of Madog, our protector, no power has put to flight with the blade of steel. Guto y Glyn.

Modd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (my—odd) A mode, mean, or way to do a thing; a manner, form, or fashion. Pa fodd y gwnei hyny? how wilt thou do that? Nid oes genyt ddim modd i'w wneyd, thou hast no means at all to do it; mae ganddo ddigon o foddion, he has a sufficiency of riches.

Tri modd a ddysg beirdd Ynys Prydain: addysg llafar, cau, a defawd, wrth fraint gorsedd.

The three means of instruction of the bards of the isle of Britain: oral instruction, song, and custom, according to the privilege of a convention. Barddas.

Moddaidd, a. (modd) Modish, formal, mannerly.
Moddawl, a. (modd) After a mode, means, or manner; agreeable to form; formal.
Moddedig, a. (modd) Being reduced to form.
Moddedigaeth, s. m. (moddedig) Conformation.
Moddgar, a. (modd) Agreeable to form.
Moddgarwch, s. m. (moddgar) Mannerliness.
Moddiannawl, a. (moddiant) Conducive.
Moddiannu, v. a. (moddiant) To render as a means
Moddiannus, a. (moddiant) Conducive.
Moddiannusaw, v. a. (moddiannus) To render as a means, to become conducive.
Moddiant, s. m.—pl. moddiannau (modd) A mean
Moddiaw, v. a. (modd) To bring to a form, manner, or mean; to conduce.
Moddus, a. (modd) After a form, or manner; formal; mannerly; decent.
Moddusrwydd, s. m. (moddus) Mannerliness.
Moedd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (my—oedd) Height.
Moeddawg, a. (moedd) Highly raised. s. f. An eminence. A hill in Caereinion is so called.
Moeddyn, s. m. (moedd) A high projection. A hill in Ceredigion is so called.
Moel, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (my—oel) A heap, or pile, a conical hill, a towering hill with its top smooth, or void of rocks and woods. Mesur moel, a measure that is heaped; mesur heb foel, a measure without a heap, or a strike:—Moel Elian, Moel y Mwnd, Moel y Famau, Moel Hedog, Moel Siabod, Moel Wynion, Moel y Golomen, Moel Llwydiarth, y Foel Goch, y Foel Las, mountains so called in Wales.

Ni choelir y moel oni weilir ei emenydd.

The bald will not be believed unless his brains be perceived. Adage.

Moel, a. (my—oel) Towering, or piled up; bare, bald; bald-headed. Gwr moel, a bald man; eidion moel, a beast without horns.

Pe bai cyrn ar ben pob ffol, fo gelt arian yn dda am ddangaws gwr moel.

If there were horns on the head of every fool, thou wouldest get a good sum of money for shewing a bald head. Adage.

Moelaidd, a. (moel) Tending to rise up, or to appear bald; somewhat bald.
Moelcen, s. f.—pl. t. au (moel—cen) A bald pate
Moelder, s. m. (moel) Bareness, baldness.
Moeldes, s. m. (moel—tês) The clear sunshine.
Moeldesawd, s. m. (moeldes) The being in the clear sunshine.
Moeldesota, v. a. (moeldesawd) To frisk about, as cattle do, owing to hot weather.
Moeldra, s. m. (moel) Bareness, baldness.
Moelddwrn, s. m.—pl. moelddyrnau (moel—dwrn) A naked fist, a closed fist.
Moelddyrnfedd, s. m. (moel—dyrnfedd) The measure of the naked fist; a hand breadth.
Moeledd, s. m. (moel) Bareness, baldness.
Moelffon, s. f.—pl. moelffyn (moel—ffon) Spatula
Moelhwntian, v. a. (moel—hwntian) To drive to and fro upon the water, without sails or rudder
Moeli, v. a. (moel) To heap, to pile; to make bald, or bare; to grow bald, to be bared. Moeli clustiau, to draw the ears close to the head.
Moeliad, s. m. (moel) A making bald, or bare.
Moelni, s. m. (moel) Bareness, or baldness.
Moelron, s. m.—pl. t. iaid (moel—rhon) A seal, or sea-calf.
Moelyn, s. m. dim. (moel) A bald pate. Dos i fyny y moelyn, go up thou bald head.
Moelystawd, s. f. (ystawd) A bare elevated space.
Moelystota, v. a. (moelystawd) To seek the exposed places, as cattle do in hot weather; to leap, or frisk, as cattle do, owing to the heat.
Moes, s. f.—pl. t. au (my—oes) Civility; conduct, behaviour, manner. Dyn da ei foes, a man of good conduct; moesau da, good morals.

Moes, yna cyfraith.

Manners, then law. Adage.

Moes mab yn ol ei macer.

The behaviour of a child is as he is educated. Adage.

A glyweisti a gant Idloes;
Gwr gwar hygar ei einioes;
Goreu cynneddf cadw moes!

Hast thou heard what Idloes sung; a mild man of amiable life: the best quality is to preserve morals? Engl. y Clywed.

Moesa, v. a. (moes) To give, or to confer; the imperative of which is only used: Moes glywed, let me hear; moeswch i ni fyned, come let us go

Gwell, "moes law," na "moes fam."

Better, "give hand," than "give mother." Adage.

Melys! moes eto.

Sweet! give me some more. Adage.

Moesaddysg, s. f. (moes—addysg) The doctrine of morality; ethics.
Moesaidd, a. (moes) Of a moral tendency.
Moesawg, a. (moes) Mannerly, complaisant.

Mae ym flaidd a'm car, o'm caffael wrthaw
I'w wrtheb archafael;
Nid blaidd coed, coll ei afael,
Namwyn blaidd maes moesawg hael.

To me there is a wolf that loves me, from having me by him to take a part in his dignified discourse; not a wolf of the woods, of feeble grasp, but a wolf of the field courteous and liberal. Cynddelw, i. Rhryd.

Moesawl, a. (moes) Ethical, moral; civil.

A fo moesawl a fydd oesawl.

He that is moral will be aged. Adage.

Moesddysg, s. m. (moes—dysg) Doctrine of ethics
Moesi, v. a. (moes) To practise morality.
Moesogaeth, s. m. (moesawg) Ethology.
Moesolaeth, s. m. (moesawl) Morality.
Moesoldeb, s. m. (moesawl) Morality.
Moesolder, s. m. (moesawl) Morality.
Moesoledd, s. m. (moesawl) Mannerliness.
Moesoli, v. n. (moesawl) To become moral.
Moesolrwydd, s. m. (moesawl) Mannerliness.

Moeswymp, a. (moes—gwymp) Of fair deportment. Moeswymp deulu, a family of splendid manners.

Moeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (my—oeth) That is soft, nice; blandishment; a delicacy, a dainty.

Moethawl, a. (moeth) Yielding blandishment.

Moethedig, a. (moeth) Being used tenderly.

Moethen, s. f. dim. (moeth) A dainty one.

Moethi, v. a. (moeth) To treat kindly or nicely.

Moethiad, s. m. (moeth) An using blandishment.

Moethineb, s. m. (moeth) That yields pleasure.

Tri moethineb cristion: darpar Duw; a ellir gan a fo cyfiawn i bawb; ac a allo cariad at bawb ei harfer.

The three pleasures of a christian: the providence of God; what may be done consistent with justice to every body; and what love to all can permit to be used. Barddas.

Moethus, a. (moeth) Delicate; nice; dainty.

Nid moethus ond bela.

There is nothing so nice as the marten. Adage.

Moethusach mewn maeth iso,
Wy' ar ei fwrdd, a'i aur fo,
No'r pysg yn mysg heli'r mor;
No Dafydd ar ford Ifor;
No mab mam ar ei fammaeth;
No merch ar ei dynion maeth.

More dainty, down there, in my food I am, at his table, and of his gold, than the fish amidst the brine of the sea; than Dafydd at the board of Ifor; than a mother's child at his nursing breast; than a maid with her cherished suitors. L. G. Gothi.

Moethusaidd, a. (moethus) Somewhat nice.

Moethusaw, v. n. (moethus) To become nice.

Moethusder, s. m. (moethus) Blandishment; luxury, delicacy of living.

Moethusdra, s. m. (moethus) Blandishment; luxury, delicacy of living.

Moethusrwydd, s. m. (moethus) Luxuriousness.

Moethyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. ion (moeth) A luxurious person.

Mohonof, pronom. prep. (mo—honof) From me, or from out of me. Mohonof, mohonot, mohono, mohoni, from out of me, thee, him and it, from out of her; mohonom, mohonoch, mohonynt, from out of us, you, them.

Moi, v. n. (mo) To throw out; or to cast; to foal.

Moi o'r gaseg ar ebawl mawr teledîw.

The mare foaling of a large beautiful colt. Mabinogi.

Mol, s. m. (mo—ol) What is concreted; the congealed humour, gum, or thick matter collected in the eyes.

Molach, s. f. (mawl) Slight or faint praise.

Molachiad, s. m. (molach) A praising slightly.

Molachu, v. a. (molach) To praise slightly.

Molachus, a. (molach) Apt to praise; flattering.

Molad, s. m. (mawl) Commendation, praise.

Moladwy, a. (mawl) Commendable, praiseworthy

Molafon, s. m. (mol—afon) River concretion; an epithet amongst the miners, for porphyry; also called Mwlafon.

Molaid, a. (mol) Full of concretions; full of particles, or spots; dappled.

Meirch——
Yn mbob lliw ceinwiw can ryfygaid dyn;
Yn felyn, yn folaid.

Steeds of every fair excelling colour, which a man can wish; some yellow, and dappled. Ll. P. Moch.

Molawd, s. m. (mawl) Commendation, pra[illegible]

Ef o'i barth neud gwarth gwaredwyd; [illegible]
Gwawd folawd fal y derllyddwyd.

From his territory was not disgrace kept away; the song of praise as it was poured out. Cynddelw, m. E. ab M. ab Iddon.

Molawg, a. (mol) Abounding with concrete matter; gummy. Y frech folawg, y frech wen, the small pox.

Mold, s. f.—pl. t. iau (mol) A mould.

Moldiad, s. m. (mold) A moulding; a kneading.

Moldiaw, v. a. (mold) To mould, to knead. Moldiaw toes, tylinaw toes, to knead dough.

Moldiedig, a. (moldiad) Moulded; kneaded.

Moldiwr, s. m.—pl. moldwyr (mold—gwr) One who moulds; one who works, or kneads.

Moled, s. f.—pl. t. au (mo—lled) A piece of cloth, forming a part of a woman's dress, to cover the head and shoulders; a muffler; a kerchief. Moled Olwen, great bindweed.

Moledig, a. (molad) Praised; commendable.

Balch pob moledig.

The commended is proud. Adage.

Llawer o'r dydd a dreulid yn ymladd, canys y gwyr dewraf a moledicaf a ddaugosynt eu deheuodd pob o'u gilydd.

Much of the day was spent in fighting, for the men who were the most brave and most famous were vieing in their dexterity with one another. Gr. ab Arthur.

Molediw, a. (molad) Laudable, praiseworthy.

Molediwrwydd, s. m. (molediw) Laudableness.

Moledd, s. m. (mawl) Praise, eulogy; worship.

Moleddiad, s. m. (moledd) Commendation.

Moleddu, v. a. (moledd) To commend, to praise.

Moleddus, a. (moledd) Commendable, laudable.

Moli, v. a. (mawl) To praise; to adore.

Neu ni orug Duw, wryd Benlli Gawr,
Ban llef beirdd i'th foli,
Trin elyn, tranc argiwyddi,
Traul meddgyrn, teyrn fal ti!

Shall these not be formed of God; soul of Benlli Gawr, loud the voice of bards to praise thee, the foe of conflict, death of kings, the waste of meadhorns; a prince like thee! G. Ryfel.

Y ddaiar——
Derchafed, moled moliannusaf.

Let the earth exalt, let it praise the most worthy of adoration. D. Ddu, Hiraddug.

Mi ei mawl â melyn eithin.

I will worship her with the yellow-blossomed furze. H. ab Owain.

Moli, v. n. (mol) To concrete, to generate gum. s. m. Concrete matter; gum. Moli yn y llygad, gum in the eye.

Molïad, s. m. (mol) A concretion; a yielding gum

Moliannawl, a. (moliant) Panegyrical.

Moliannawr, s. m.—pl. moliannorion (moliant) A panegyrist; a praiser.

Moliannedig, a. (moliant) Made an object of praise

Moliannedigaeth, s. m. (moliannedig) The act of praising; commendation.

Moliannu, v. a. (moliant) To praise, to adore.

Moliannus, a. (moliant) Commendable.

Nid moliannus ond cydundeb.

There is nothing so laudable as concord. Adage.

Moliannusaw, v. a. (moliannus) To render praiseworthy; to become an object of praise.

Moliannusrwydd, s. m. (moliannus) The state of being praiseworthy; adorableness.

Moliannwr, s. m.—pl. moliannwyr (moliant—gwr) A praiser.

Moliannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (moliant) A praiser.

Moliant, s. m. (mawl) Praise; adoration.

Moliant gwedi marw.

Praise after death. Adage.

Moliator, ger. (moliad) In praising, in lauding.

Odid tracthator,
Mawr moliator.

Seldom making recital, great in praising. Taliesin.

Molitor, sup. (moli) To be praised or lauded.

Ysyml Rydderch, roddiad aur melyn,
Molitor yn mhob gwlad.

To me there is Rhydderch, the bestower of ruddy gold, to be praised in every country. Ein. ab Gwgawn, i Lywelyn II.

Moloch, s. m. (mol—och) Tumult, uproar. Gwr egniol foloch, a man of vehement roar; moloch ddragon, the tumultuous leader.

Trwst yn Mhrydyn,
Ac emyl ar gychwyn,
Rhag llon Llychlyn
A llynges drom droch,
A Brython ar foloch.

A rumour in Scotland, and sails on the way before the floods of the Baltic, and a fleet, heavy and terrifying, and Britons in a tumult. Taliesin.

Molochain, a. (moloch) Full of uproar, or riot.
Molochi, v. a. (moloch) To raise a tumult; to disquiet, to molest; to be tumultuous, or riotous.

Gwawr clod-red, llawged, Lloegr folochi;
Gwar wrth war, hygar, hoew-gerdd hoffi.

The fame-spread luminary, of bounteous hand, disquieting Lloegr; mild to the mild, amiable, fond of the sprightly song. G. ab M. ab Dafydd, i Oronwy.

Molochiad, s. m. (moloch) A causing an outrage, riot, or tumult; a disquieting, a molesting; a becoming outrageous.
Molud, s. m. (mawl) Panegyric, or eulogy.

Trengid golud, ni threing molud.

Wealth may perish, fame will not perish. Adage.

Addfwyn gaer y sydd a'i gwna cyman
Meddud, a molud, ac adar ban.

A pleasant town there is, which is made social, by mead-drinking, and praise, and loud birds. Taliesin, M. Dinbych.

Ni weles folud am ged.

He saw no eulogy for treasure. Bleddyn Fardd.

Molwr, s. m.—pl. molwyr (mawl—gwr) A praiser
Molwyn, s. m. (mol—gwyn) That breaks out; that foams.
Molwynad, s. m. (molwyn) A foaming, a spraying
Molwynaw, v. a. (molwyn) To foam, to spray.
Molwynawg, a. (molwyn) Abounding with foam. It has been used as a cognomen; as Rhodri, Molwynawg, and Meilyr Molwynawg.

Mis Awst molwynawg morfa.

The month of August foamy the sea shore. Aneurin.

Moll, s. f. (my—oll) That surrounds, closes upon, or includes; that extends round.
Moll, a. (my—oll) Surrounding, closing upon, or extending round; close, or sultry. March ffroen-foll, a horse with a distended nostril, or a snorting horse; hin foll, close weather.
Mollaid, a. (moll) Tending to close round.
Mollawg, a. (moll) Stretching or closing round.
Molledig, a. (moll) Being included or closed in.
Molledigaeth, s. m. (molledig) The act of including, or taking in.
Molli, v. a. (moll) To include, to take in.
Molliad, s. m. (moll) A stretching round.
Mollt, s. m.—pl. myllt (moll) A mutton; a wether. Mollt o babwyr, corn o babwyr, a handful of stript rushes, such as are used for candles.
Mollwyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (moll) Mutton. Cig mollwyn, mutton flesh; gwer mollwyn, suet.
Mon, s. f. (mo—on) That is a separate body, or individual; an isolated one, or that is separate; a point; a centre. It is an epithet sometimes used for a cow; it is also the name by which the Isle of Anglesea is called in Welsh; and for the sake of distinguishing it from Mon Aw, the Mon of the Water, or the Isle of Man, it is sometimes called Mon Fynydd, or Mon of the Mountain: And, from that idea the small islet near the Isle of Man, came to be called the Calf of Man.

Mon mam Cymmru.

Mon the mother of Wales. Adage.

Cerddorion hyd Fon Fynydd
Dros hwn yn pryderu sydd.

As far as Mon of the Mountain, the minstrels are regretting him. L. G. Cothi.

Y sawl a biau yr henfon ymaeled yn ei chynffon.

He that owns the cow of progression let him take hold of her tail. Adage.

Monad, s. m. (mon) A rendering a separate body, an isolating; a becoming isolated.
Mones, s. f.—pl. t. od (mon) A sulky female.
Moni, v. a. (mon) To swell out, to fill; to render sulky, sullen, or displeased; to become sulky, or somewhat displeased. Mae efe yn moni wrth ei fwyd, he quarrels with his victuals.
Moniad, s. m. (mon) A sulking; a growing sullen
Monig, a. (mon) Sulky, sullen, ill-natured.
Monoch, s. pl. aggr. (mon) Entrails, guts.
Monochen, s. f. dim. (monoch) A small gut, or entrail; a pudding; a sausage.
Monof, pronom. prep. (mon—of) Of me. Monot, of thee; mono, of it or him; moni, of her; monom, of us; monoch, of you; monynt, of them
Monw, a. (mon) That is identified or joined with Monwent, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mon—gwent) A sepulchre, or burying place; a church yard.
Monwes, s. f.—pl. t. au (monw) The bosom.
Monwesawl, a. (monwes) Belonging to the breast
Monwesiad, s. m. (monwes) A bosoming.
Monwesu, v. a. (monwes) To put to the bosom.
Monwys, s. pl. aggr. (mon—gwys) Anglesea people.
Monwysion, s. pl. (monwys) Anglesea people.
Monyn, s. m. dim. (mon) One who is sulky.

Efe a wnaeth o fammaethod
Llawer un unlliw a'r od;
Minnau sydd fal monyn,
Neu fal brawd moel, heb yr un.

He made mothers of many a one of the same hue as the snow; and I am like a sulky chap, or like a bald friar, without obtaining one. Sir D. Trevor.

Mop, s. m.—pl. t. iau (my—op) A maukin.
Mopa, s. m. (mop) A maukin; a mop.
Moppren, s. m.—pl. t. i (mop—pren) A baker's maukin; also called mopa.
Mor, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mo—or) That is infinite, or boundless; that is in motion, flowing, or fluctuating; the sea. Y Mor Heli, the briny sea; y Mor Tawch, the hazy sea, the German Sea; y Mor Marw, the Dead Sea; Mor Udd, the British sea.

Mor anesfydlawg a'r mor.

As full of motion as the sea. Adage.

Y don——
Caer Gwdion myr, longwyr lid.

The wave, galaxy of the seas, the hatred of mariners. Gr. Gryg.

Hil Bardam——
O For Tawch, gwnaethant ferw tost.

Offspring of Bardam, from the Hazy sea, thou hast raised a severe turmoil. Dr. S. Cent.

Mor, s. m.—pl. t. au (mo—or) That is incessantly moving, or fluctuating; time; also an ant, or emmet.
Môr, adv. (my—or) How, so, as; how much, so much; how greatly. Môr a sonied am dani, what a deal has been said about her; môr lawen, as merry; môr dda, so good.

Môr hylithr a dwr hyd asbant.

As gliding as water along a trough. Adage.

Môr oedd gyfrin ffyrdd cyrdd Cyridwen;
Môr eisiau eu dwyn yn ei dyrwen.

How mysterious were the ways of the songs of Cyridwen; how great the necessity of producing them in her smiling mood. Cynddelw.

Aur ac ariant
Môr a'u difant
Eu dibenydd.

Gold and silver how those who squander them do perish. Taliesin.

Cenadau a'm doddynt, mòr ynt anfonawg.

Messengers resort to me, how much they are sent. Taliesin.

Mora, s. m. (môr) The motion of the sea.

Morach, s. m. (mor—ach) Emotion, joy, jollity.

A Dewi biau balch-lan Gyfelach,
Lle mae morach a mawr grefydd.

And Dewi owns the proud choir of Cyfelach, where there is happiness and great devotion. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Enw'r ferch ddioganair,
A garaf fi yw'r gwyry Fair,
Merch nef, nid mwy morach neb.

The name of the woman void of reproach, whom I love, is Mary the virgin, the daughter of heaven, not greater the joy of any one. H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys.

Moradar, s. pl. aggr. (môr—adar) Sea fowls.

Neud amser gauaf gwelwaf gweilgi;
Gweilging moradar hwylfar heli!
Neud arllen arlen Eryri weithion;
Neud uchel gwen-don gwyndir Enlli!

Is not in winter time the torrent most pale; the perch of the sea-birds the brine of raging course! Does not the bright hore veil Eryri now; hark, how loud the white wave of Enlli's blessed land! Bleddyn Fardd.

Moran, s. m.—pl. t. edd (mor) An epithet for a large sea fish, a whale; also called morfil, and morfarch.

Morawd, s. m. (môr) A going to sea; a going by sea, or a sailing.

I edfyn terwyn torf ei forawd
Nid adfarn cerddau.———

To the severe loss of the host of his sea voyage songs shall not bring reproach. Meilyr.

Morawel, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—awel) Sea breeze.

Morawg, a. (mor) That belongs to the sea; naval. s. f. That is of the sea, or a sea conveyance.

Morawl, a. (mor) Marine, belonging to the sea. Morolion, marine productions.

Morben, s. m.—pl. t. au (mor—pen) A promontory, or headland.

Morbryf, s. m.—pl. t. ed (mor—pryf) A sea animal.

Blwyddyn llawn i'm rhyddoded
Yn Mangor ar bawl cored;
Edrych di poen imi gan morbryfed.

For a full year I was placed, at Bangor, on the post of a wear: see thou the pain I bore from sea animals. Ysgolan.

Morbysg, s. pl. aggr. (mor—pysg) Sea-fish.

Morbysgod, s. pl. aggr. (morbysg) Sea-fishes.

Morbysgodyn, s. m. (morbysgod) A sea-fish.

Morchwain, s. pl. aggr. (mor—chwain) Small insects, which jump about the sea shore; also called chwain y mor.

Morchwydd, s. m. (mor—chwydd) Swell of the sea

Mordai, s. pl. aggr. (mor—tai) The sea shore, the sea coast; a maritime region.

Nis adrawdd Gododin ar lawr mordai
Rhag pebyll Madawg pan adgorai,
Namyn un o gant yn y delai.

There shall not be told of Gododin on the sea coast, the door of the tents of Madog when opened, of but one in a hundred who should enter. Aneurin.

Oians, parchellan, oedd raid myned
Rhag cynyddion mordai.——

Listen, little pig, it were necessary to go for fear of the hunters of the sea coast. Merddin.

Trengysant, trydydd o Fai, trichanllong
Yn llynges fordai;
A deccant cyman a'u ciliai cyfarf,
Heb un barf ar Fenai'.

They perished, on the third day of May, three hundred ships, a fleet of the strand; and ten hundred times the number the patriotic weapon would cause to recede, leaving not a single beard on Menai. H. ab Owain.

Mordaith, s. f. (mor—taith) A sea voyage.

Mordir, s. m. (mor—tir) Maritime land.

Mordon, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—ton) Sea breaker.

Dewisbethau—lleferydd adar, a lleihau llef mordon.

Choicest of things, the singing of birds, and the lessening of noise of the sea wave. D. Meilienydd.

Mordrai, s. m. (mor—trai) The ebbing of the sea.

Mordwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (mor—twy) A sea course, the raging of the sea; a storm at sea; a having to do with the sea.

Gobaith heb gais mordwy heb long.

Hope without exertion is like a voyage without a ship. Adage.

Oedd Dyfrdwy———
Yn llawn o fordwy a lli.

Dyvrdwy was full of the tide of the sea and of flood. M. ab G. Gethin.

Mordwyad, s. m.—pl. mordwyaid (mordwy) One who goes by sea.

Aches ffysgiolin
Mordwyaid merin.

The briskly-moving plain of the water voyagers. Taliesin.

Mordwyaeth, s. m. (mordwy) A seafaring life.

Mordwyaw, v. a. (mordwy) To go by sea; to sail

Mordwyawl, a. (mordwy) Seafaring; sailing.

Mordwyedig, a. (mordwy) Being gone by sea.

Mordwyn, s. m. (mor—twyn) An ant hill.

Mordwys, s. m. (mor—twys) The waving ears of corn, as caused by wind.

Mordwywr, s. m.—pl. mordwywyr (mordwy—gwr) A mariner.

Mordywydd, s. m. (mor—tywydd) The sweet-gale, or Dutch myrtle; also called gwyrling.

Mordywys, s. m. aggr. (mor—tywys) The hart's tongue, sea-weed.

Mordd, s. m. (mor) That is full of motion.

Morddanad, s. pl. (mor—danad) Horehound.

Morddanadl, s. pl. aggr. (morddanad) Horehound. Morddanadl gwynion, llwyd y cwn, and cynffon y gath; morddanadl duon, stinking horehound; morddanadl cochion, red-mint.

Morddarlun, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mor—darlun) A chart of a sea; hydrography.

Morddarluniad, s. m. (morddarlun) Hydrography

Morddraenog, s. m. (mor—draenog) Button-fish.

Morddwr, s. m. (mor—dwr) A gulf of the sea.

Einion ab Owain ab Hywel Dda——a ddyges
Ysbail fawr o'r gwledydd yn aglan morddwr Llychwr.

Einion son of Owain son of Hywel the Good, took great spoil from the districts on the shores of the estuary of Llychwr. Carad. Llangarfan.

Morddwyd, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mordd—gwyd) A thigh.

Morddyluniad, s. m. (mor—dyluniad) A describing of seas; hydrography.

Moreb, s. m. (mor—eb) The ebb tide of the sea.

Mur moreb dan wyneb Dyfnant.

The bulwark against the ebbing sea below the front of Devon. Cynddelw.

Neum bu arall-ddydd, ym rhyd rwy
Cer moreb cain wyneb Conwy.

Found I not a different day, when in prosperity by the ebbing sea of the fair front of Conwy. Ll. P. Moch.

Ym ni chad, yn rhad rhaid ateb eilwydd
Eiliw gwendon moreb,
Nag er gwerth, nag er nerth neb,
Y gan hon eto'n ateb.

For me there was not obtained (freely it is necessary to answer the love assignation of her who is fair as the white wave of the ebbing sea) nor for price, nor by the power of any one, for me any answer as yet. G. ab D. ab Tudur.

Morebiad, s. m. (moreb) The ebbing of the sea.

Morebu, v. n. (moreb) To ebb as the sea.

Moredafeddog, s. f. (mor—edaf) Sea cotton-weed

Moreryr, s. m.—pl. t. od (mor—eryr) An ospray.

Morfa, s. m.—pl. morfeydd (mor—ma) A sea brink; a sea marsh. Morfa hallt, a salt marsh

Hir nos, gorddyar morfa;
Gnawd terfysg yn nghymanfa:
Ni chyfyd diriad a da.

Long the night, noisy the sea coast; a tumult is common in an assembly: the mischievous agrees not with the good. Llywarch Hen.

Morfalwen, s. f. (mor—malwen) A sea snail.
Morfalwod, s. pl. aggr. (mor—malwod) Sea snails.
Morfan, s. m.—pl. t. au (mor—man) A sea shore.
Morfar, s. m. (mor—bar) The rage of the sea.
Morfarch, s. m. (mor—march) A sea horse.

> Ymarfer a wna morfeirch
> O foli hwn.———
>
> The sea horses do accustom themselves in praising him. G. Ll. ab D. ab E. Llygliw.

Morfil, s. m.—pl. t. od (mor—mil) A sea animal; a sea fish of the larger kind; a whale.

> Esyllt,—gwynach oedd ei chnawd nog echdywynedig asgwrn morfil.
>
> Esyllt, whiter was her skin than the polished bone of the sea-horse. Gr. ab Arthur.

Morfin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mor—min) Sea brink.

> Poed emendiged y morfin!
> A'i hellyngodd gwedi gwin,
> Ffynnon fenestr mor teilwin.
>
> Be accursed the sea brink! after wine, the attendant of the spring let in the spreading sea. Gwyddno, i G. Gwaelawd.

Morflaidd, s. m.—pl. morfleiddiau (mor—blaidd) A sea wolf, the basc.
Morfoch, s. pl. aggr. (mor—moch) Grampuses.
Morfochyn, s. m. (morfoch) The grampus.
Morforwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mor—morwyn) A mermaid, a siren. Esgid morforwyn, a mermaid's shoe, a kind of a pod of a sea plant, of a square form. In British tales, the mermaid is fancied to carry a glass in one hand, and in the other a comb, with which she combs her beautiful hair; and that she weeps during the summer, for fear of the frost of winter.

> Mae rhian ar y mor hallt
> A chrib, a drych, gwych ei gwallt,
> A wyl yr haf ar ael rhos
> Rhag ofn y rhew gauafnos.
>
> There is a maid on the briny sea with a comb and a glass, splendid is her hair, who weeps away the summer, on the verge of the marsh, in dread of the frost of a winter night. Bedo Aerdrem.
>
> Mae o'r un wallt am wàr Non
> Ar fronau 'r morforwynion.
>
> There is of the same hair as round the shoulders of Non on the bosoms of the mermaids. D. Nanmor.

Morfran, s. f.—pl. morfranod (mor—bran) A cormorant; also called mulfran.
Morfrwydr, s. f.—pl. morfrwydrau (mor—brwydr) A sea-fight.
Morfrwyn, s. pl. aggr. (mor—brwyn) Rushes that grow on sea marshes; also called tostfrwyn, and barf-frwyn.
Morfrwynen, s. f. (morfrwyn) The sea rush.
Morfuwch, s. f.—pl. t. od (mor—buwch) Sea cow.
Morfwyd, s. m. (mor—bwyd) Marine food, or substance in the sea serving fish for food.

> Morfwyd fydd eu cnawd,
> Hyd pan yw meddysg,
> Pan yw ganawg pysg.
>
> Their flesh shall be marine food, until it is transformed, when fishes shall contain it. Taliesin.

Morgad, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mor—cad) A sea-fight.
Morgamlas, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—camlas) An estuary.
Morgant, s. m. (mor—cant) A sea brink. It is a very common proper name of men. of which Pelagius has been given as a translation.
Morgannwg, s. f. (morgant) Glamorganshire.
Morgareiau, s. pl. (mor—carai) Sea-laces.
Morgaseg, s. f.—pl. morgesyg (mor—caseg) A sea breaker.
Morgath, s. f.—pl. t. od (mor—cath) A skate, a ray; also a hollow roaring of the sea, denoting foul weather. Morgath arw, cath arw, cath bigawg, the thornback; morgath lefn, the smooth skate.

Morgeintach, s. m. (mor—ceintach) A sea-fight.
Morgelyn, s. m. (mor—celyn) Sea-holly, eryngo.

> I wellâu y clybawd: cymer sudd y morgelyn, a dod yn dwym yn y glust.
>
> To improve the hearing; take the juice of the sea-holly, and put warm in the ear. Medd. Myddfai.

Morgerwyn, s. f.—pl. t. i (mor—cerwyn) A gulf.
Morgi, s. m.—pl. morgwn (mor—ci) A sea dog; the dog fish; the shark. The varieties are Morgi gwyn, ci brych, ci coeg, the shark; penci, morgi glas, the lesser rough hound.
Morgranc, s. m.—pl. t. od (mor—cranc) The crab-fish; otherwise called cranc.
Morgrug, s. pl. aggr. (mor—crug) A hill of ants, or ant hillock; ants.
Morgrugyn, s. m. dim. (morgrug) A pismire.
Morgrwydr, s. m. (mor—crwydr) A roving by sea.
Morgrwydrad, s. m. (morgrwydr) A roving by sea
Morgrwydrwr, s. m.—pl. morgrwydrwyr (morgrwydr—gwr) A sea-rover.
Morgudyn, s. m. (mor—cudyn) A polypus.
Morgyllell, s. f.—pl. morgyllyll (mor—cyllell) The calamary, or razor-fish.
Morgymmlawdd, s. m. (mor—cymmlawdd) The boisterousness of the sea, the raging of the sea.

> Pa beth bynag a fwrio morgymmlawdd i dir, megis tor llong, neu feirw bysgod, y brenin bieufydd.
>
> Whatever shall be cast by a sea tempest to land, such as a shipwreck, or dead fishes, the king shall claim. Welsh Laws.

Morgynhwrf, s. m. (mor—cynhwrf) The agitation or tumult of the sea.
Morgynnull, s. m. (mor—cynnull) The flow tide of the sea.
Morhaig, s. f.—pl. morheigiau (mor—haig) A shoal of living things in the sea.

> Morhaig mad gynnydd cyhoedd.
>
> A conspicuous sea shoal of goodly increase. Taliesin.

Morhedydd, s. m. (mor—hedydd) The sea-lark.
Morherw, s. m. (mor—herw) A sea-roving.
Morherwa, v. a. (morherw) To rove by sea.
Morherwad, s. m. (morherw) A roving by sea.
Morherwr, s. m. (mor—herwr) A sea-rover.
Morherwriaeth, s. m. (morherwr) The life of a sea-rover.
Morhesg, s. pl. aggr. (môr—hesg) The sea-rushes, or mat-rushes; also called merydd.
Morhocys, s. pl. aggr. (mor—hocys) The sea tree; marshmallows.
Morhwch, s. f.—pl. morhychod (mor—hwch) The dolphin; a grampus.
Moriad, s. m. (mor) A going by sea; a sailing.
Moriaw, v. a. (mor) To lead a sea-faring life.
Morion, s. pl. aggr. (mor) Ants or emmets.
Morionen, s. f. dim. (morion) An emmet, an ant.
Moriwr, s. m.—pl. morwyr (mor—gwr) A seaman.
Morladrad, s. m. (mor—lladrad) Piracy.
Morladradaidd, a. (morladrad) Piratical.
Morladradawl, a. (morladrad) Piratical.
Morladrata, v. a. (morladrad) To commit piracy.
Morlan, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—glàn) A sea brink.

> Ceiwyr o du myr, o du morlan,
> Uchel yn cadw eu rhyfel, nid ymgelan'.
>
> Warriors by the side of waters, by the side of the sea shore, highly supporting their war, they will not conceal themselves. Llywelyn Fardd.

Morlas, s. m. (mor—glas) Sea-green colour.
Morleidr, s. m.—pl. morladron (mor—lleidr) A pirate.
Morleisiad, s. m.—pl. morleisiaid (mor—gleisiad) The whiting pollack.
Morlo, s. m.—pl. t. i (mor—llo) A sea-calf, a seal.

Morlwch, s. m. (mor—llwch) The spray of the sea; vapour rising from the sea.
Morlwyau, s. pl. (mor—llwy) Scurvy-grass.
Morlyffant, s. m.—pl. morlyffaint (mor—llyffant) The devil-fish; also called llyffant y mor.
Morlyswen, s. f. (mor—llyswen) A conger eel.
Morlyswod, s. pl. (mor—llyswod) Conger eels.
Mornant, s. m.—pl. mornentydd (mor—nant) A sea brook, a small channel on a flat shore into which the tide runs; a small estuary; also called moryd, morgamlas, and camlas.
Morneidr, s. f.—pl. mornadroedd (mor—neidr) A sea snake.
Mornodwydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—nodwydd) The needle-fish, or girrock.
Moron, s. pl. aggr. (mo—rhon) Such plants as have a single tapering root; carrots. Moron cochion, llysiau cochion, carrots; moron gwynion, llysiau gwyddelig, pannas, parsneps; moron me lynion, moron yr allman, moron ffrainc, skirrets; moron y maes, wild carrots; moron y moch, pannas y moch, wild parsneps; moron y meirch, or efwr, cow-parsnep.
Moronen, s. f. dim. (moron) A single one of the moron plants. Moronen felen, a skirret; moronen wen, pannasen, a parsnep; moronen bigawg, prickly samphire; moronen y dwfr, water parsnep.
Moronyn, s. m. dim. (moron) A single one of the moron plants.
Mortais, s. f.--pl. morteisiau (mor--tais) A mortise
Morteisiad, s. m. (mortais) A mortising.
Morteisiaw, v. a. (mortais) To make a mortise.
Morwaneg, s. f.—pl. t. au (mor—gwaneg) A wave of the sea. Rhysgyr morwaneg, the violence of the sea-wave.

> Dug morwaneg deg o du gauaf
> Llys llawr Lleon Gawr, llun gwawr gwympaf.
>
> A fair sea-wave from the region of winter took the floor plot of Lleon the Worthy, image of brightest dawn. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Morwennol, s. f.—pl. morwennoliaid (mor—gwennol) The sea swallow, the sand-martin.
Morwerydd, s. m. (mor—gwerydd) A beach where the sea breaks; a sea-shore.
Morwiail, s. pl. aggr. (mor—gwiail) Grass-wreck.

> Yn y lle y gweles dylaeg a morwiail.
>
> In the place he saw drift and sea-wreck.

Morwialen, s. f. (mor—gwialen) Sea-girdle and hangers.

> Crynu mal y forwialen.
>
> Trembling like the sea-girdle. Adage.

Morwiber, s. f.—pl. t. od (mor—gwiber) The sea-dragon, or viver.
Morwr, s. m.—pl. morwyr (mor—gwr) A seaman.
Morwregys, s. m. (mor—gwregys) Sea-belts.
Morwriaeth, s. m. (morwr) Seamanship.
Morwyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mor—gwyf) A bubble.
Morwyfiad, s. m.—pl. morwyfiaid (morwyf) A bubbling of water.
Morwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (mòr—gwyn) A virgin, a maid; a damsel; also a clothes-horse. Mòrwyn ystafell, a chambermaid; llawforwyn, a handmaid.
Morwynaidd, a. (morwyn) Virginlike, maidenly.
Morwynain, a. (morwyn) Maidenly virgin.

> Lle drwg, y'nghelliau drain
> Y mae'r enaid morwynain.
>
> An evil place, in the recesses of thorns the pure soul is confined. Morys ab Rhys.

Morwynaw, v. n. (morwyn) To become a virgin.
Morwynawl, a. (morwyn) Belonging to a virgin.
Morwyndawd, s. m. (morwyn) Virginity.
Morwynig, s. f. dim. (morwyn) A little maid.
Morwynwraig, s. f.—pl. morwynwreigedd (morwyn—gwraig) A virgin wife, a married virgin, a betrothed maid.

> Sef yw morwynwraig, gwraig gwedi ei rhoddi i wr, a hithau heb gysgu gydag ef etwa, ac yn forwyn.
>
> A virgin-woman is a woman after she has been given to a husband, and she without being yet slept with, and being a maid. Welsh Laws.

Morwyrdd, s. m. (mor——gwyrdd) Sea green colour.
Morwys, s. pl. aggr. (mor—gwys) Bubbles, bubblings.
Morwysiad, s. m.—pl. morwysiaid (morwys) A bubbling.
Morwysiaw, v. a. (morwys) To bubble up.
Mory, s. m. (mor) The time or day coming, the morrow, to-morrow. adv. To-morrow. It is mostly used with the article, as y fory, the morrow, or with a prefix, as efory, to-morrow.

> Arwyl o fedw irion
> Y fory a gaf dan frig ôn;
> Amdo wenwisg amdanaf,
> A llain hoew-feillion haf!
>
> Obsequies with green birches to-morrow I shall receive, beneath the branches of the ash; a white covering shroud around me, and a veil of the lively trefoils of summer! D. ab Gwilym.

Moryd, s. f. (mor) A small channel of sea water running into a marsh.
Morymdaith, s. m. (mor—ymdaith) A voyage or travel by sea.
Morymdeithiaw, v. a. (morymdaith) To travel by sea, to go a voyage by sea.
Morymdeithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (morymdaith) A traveller by sea.
Moryn, s. m. dim. (mor) A sea or wave that breaks over any thing.
Morysbail, s. f. (mor—ysbail) Spoliation by sea
Morysbeiliaw, v. a. (morysbail) To spoil by sea.
Morysbeiliwr, s. m.—pl. morysbeilwyr (morysbail—gwr) A spoiler by sea; a bucaneer.
Morysgyfaint, s. m. (mor—ysgyfaint) The halipneumon.
MU, s. f. r.—pl. t. on. A bulk, or mass; a measure of capacity; a muid.

> Tunell yw pedwar mu; ac yn mhob mu y bydd dwy reaid.
>
> A tun consists of four muids; and in every muid there shall be two tubs. Welsh Laws.

Much, s. m. (mu—uch) A black, or gloom.
Muchiad, s. m. (much) A blackening, a lowering.
Muchiain, a. (much) Of a black hue; gloomy; frowning, lowering.

> Ban ymadrawdd gwyr gwedd muchiain cad;
> Nid ef dieugis ysgwyd Owain.
>
> At the discoursing of men with the frowning aspect of battle, there was no receding of the shield of Owain. Taliesin.

Muchiaint, s. m. (muchiain) Blackness of hue; gloominess; a frowning; a lowering.
Muchiant, s. m. (much) A blackening, a rendering of a jetty black; a frowning, a lowering.
Muchudd, s. m. (much) A jet black; jet.

> Y'ngbaer Pedryfan ynys pybyrddor,
> Echwydd a muchudd cymmysgetor.
>
> In the city of the Quadrangle of the strongly guarded isle, the twilight and the gloomy jet mix together. Taliesin.
>
> Ei gwallt hithau a'i dwyael duach oeddynt no'r muchudd.
>
> Her hair also and her eyebrows blacker were they than the jet. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Muchuddaidd, a. (muchudd) Like jet, black as jet.
Muchuddawl, a. (muchudd) Of a jetty black.

Mud, s. m. (my—ud) A removal, a pass, a move, a change of residence; what is moved, as goods, or furniture; also a mew, a term in falconry.

Y penhebogydd, o'r pan ddoto yr hebog yn mud yn i dyno allan, ni ddyly ateb i neb o hawl, namyn i un o'i gydswyddogion.

The chief falconer, from the time when he shall put the hawk in a mew until he shall take it out, shall not be obliged to answer to any one as to a suit at law, except to one of his brother officers. Welsh Laws.

Mud, a. (my—ud) Expressing by motion, or signs; mute, dumb.

Hir y bydd y mud yn mhorth y byddar.

Long will the dumb be at the gate of the deaf. Adage.

Cenad fud drud ei cretwy.

Forward is he that believes a dumb messenger. Adage.

Eiry mynydd, gwyn blaen dar:
Mud arynaig y llafar.

Snowy mountain, white the top of the oak: mute is the fear of the talkative. Tysilio.

Mudadwy, a. (mud) That may be moved, movable

Mudai, s. c.—pl. mudeion (mud) A remover.

Mudair, a. (mud) Transmuted, changed.

Hweugaint yw gwerth hebog cyn mud, a thra bo yn y mud: gwedi bo mudair, a gwyn, o bydd brenin bieufydd, punt a dal.

Six-score pence is the value of a hawk before mewing, and whilst it is in the mew; when it shall have become changed and white, if belonging to a king, a pound is its value. Welsh Laws.

Mudan, s. m.—pl. t. od (mud) A mute.

Mudanaeth, s. m. (mudan) A mute state.

Udo 'r wyf——
Am y dyn o'i mudanaeth.

I am wailing for the fair one on account of her dumbness. D. ab Edmwnt.

Mudanaidd, a. (mudan) Like a mute, dumb.

Mudanes, s. f.—pl. t. od (mudan) A female mute.

Mudanu, v. n. (mudan) To become a mute.

Mudaw, v. a. (mud) To remove, to change an abode, to move; to carry to another place.

Por eisor, un eisiau ni'm gwedd,
Pen eiyf! pan elwyf Wynedd:
Un llysenw a Rhun, nid rhyfedd fy mod
Yn mudaw am reufedd.

The congenial chief, he will not let me appear to have a single want, source of bounty! when I repair to Gwynedd: of the same epithet as Rhun, it is no wonder I should be removing to obtain wealth. Ll. P. Moch, i R. Gryg.

Mudawl, a. (mud) Belonging to a removal, or change of place; movable.

Mudedig, a. (mud) Being moved, or removed.

Mudes, s. f.—pl. t. od (mud) A female mute.

Dyro——
Dy fudes yn dafodiog.

Grant thy dumb female to be possessed of tongue. D. ab Edmwnt.

Mudfa, s. f. (mud) A remove, a removal.

Mudfa oedd dda ddyw calan,
Lle bai llanw ei dai o dan.

A removal was good on new year's day, where his houses were fully stored with fire. Tra. Dafydd Mawr.

Mudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mud) A removing, a changing place; a conveying; conveyance.

Mudiant, s. m. (mud) A removal; a moving.

Muding, s. f. (mud) A seat of changing; a mew.

Mudliw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mud—lliw) A changing colour; a motley colour.

Mudsain, s. f.—pl. mudseiniau (mud—sain) A mute sound; a mute letter.

Mudseiniad, s. f.—pl. mudseiniaid (mud—sain) That is mute of sound, a mute letter. The mutes, the llythyrenau mud, or mudion, are these—b, f, p, ff, c, ch, g, ng, d, dd, t, th.

Mudw, s. m. (mud) That is moving or wandering.

Mudwg, s. m. (mud) A state of removing or changing.

Mudygfawr, a. (mudwg) Greatly transforming.

O blith ei blayn bloedd fawr a ddodai,
A ddodwed yn Ionawr;
Edling muding mudygfawr,
Edn can adain, cain cerddawr.

From amidst his feather cloak a great outcry he would give, he that was laid in January; heir of the greatly transforming mew, a bird chief of a hundred wings, a beautiful songster. Cynddelw, i'r eiliog.

Mul, s. m.—pl. t. od (my—ul) An ass. Bastardd mul, a bastard ass, or a mule.

Mul, a. (my—ul) Bashful, or modest; simple.

O'r meibion, gwyr doethion gynt
Y mulaf a ganmolynt.

Of youths, the wise of yore did the most modest praise. H. Cae Llwyd.

Mab ni char gormodd siarad,
Mul yw a doeth, mal ei dad.

A child who loves not excess of talk, modest he is and wise like his sire. H. Cae Llwyd.

Mulaidd, a. (mul) Of a bashful disposition.

Mulaw, v. n. (mul) To become bashful; to be abashed, ashamed or timid.

Muldra, s. m. (mul) Bashfulness, or modesty.

Muleiddiaw, v. n. (mulaidd) To become bashful.

Mules, s. f.—pl. t. od (mul) A she ass.

Parasynt iddo farchogaeth ar fules y brenin.

They caused him to ride upon the she ass of the king. 1 Kings, 1. 44.

Mulfran, s. f.—pl. t. od (mul—bran) A cormorant; also called morfran.

Nid glwth ond mulfran.

Nothing greedy but a cormorant. Adage.

Mulwirion, a. (mul—gwirion) Bashfully innocent, simply innocent; stupid.

Mulyn, s. m. dim. (mul) A little or young ass.

Mun, s. f.—pl. t. au (mu—un) That is capable of forming; an epithet for a hand.

Mwnai a ranai, wrth raid, i bob un;
A mwy o'i ddwyfun i ymddifaid.

Money he would distribute, when necessary, to every one; and more out of his two hands to the destitute. L. G. Cothi.

Munaid, s. f.—pl. muneidiau (mun) A handful.

Muned, s. f. (mun) That helps, or extends aid, an epithet for a hand.

Na fyned aur-funed fain,
Gwawr nefolus, garnfilain.

Let not the golden handed slender maid, of heavenly aspect, take a perfect churl. D. ab Edmwnt.

Muneidiaw, v. a. (munaid) To deal out a handful

Muner, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mun) One that conducts; a ruler, or director. Muner Nef, the ruler of heaven.

Ardwy cadernyd menwyd muner.

The support of prowess is the pleasure of the sovereign. Gwalchmai.

Genilles, a'm lliw ced, a'm lladdwy ar air;
Fy muner, nid mawr imi fy ngofwy.

Genilles, my fancied treasure, kills me at a word; my Lord, not much were for me to have my visit! Gwalchmai.

Neud cer muner maen
Glas gwas gwisg durgaen.

Is not the blue stone the lodging of the leading chief; the youth clad in a plate of steel. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Munerawd, s. m. (muner) A maintenance; a conducting, or regulating.

Munerawd y marw fy mwyniant,
Mal yn myw Lleision ryw Run blant;
Nid gormod fy ngair it'.

The bounty of the dead is my enjoyment, as in the life of the race of Lleision, the sons of Rhun; not too much my word for thee. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Munerawl, a. (muner) Maintaining, upholding.

Muneru, v. a. (muner) To maintain, to uphold; to conduct, to rule, to regulate.

Nis muner na ffer, na ffynedig;
Nis difeirn cedeirn cad arglodig.

Him, nor the mighty, nor the fortunate shall rule: the mighty ones shall not condemn the famed in battle. Gwalchmai.

Munud, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mun—ud) A gesture, or motion of the body; a nod, or beck; imitation; an antick trick. Tori munudiau ar bren, to cut figures upon wood; mae hi yn llawn munudiau, she is full of anticks.

Meinir a wyr y munud.

The fair one knows the trick. D. ab Gwilym.

Munudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (munud) A making a gesture, a beckoning; a mimicking; a playing antick tricks.

Munudiaw, v. a. (munud) To make a gesture; to beckon; to mimick; to play antick tricks.

Munudiwr, s. m.—pl. munudwyr (munud—gwr) One who makes gestures; a beckoner.

Munudyn, s. m. dim. (munud) A gesture; a beck

Mur, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mu—ur) That is firm, fixed, or established; a wall, a rampart.

Madawg mur menwyd;
Madawg, cyn bu bedd,
Bu ddinas edrywedd,
O gamp, a chymwedd.

Madog the bulwark of happiness, Madog, before he was in the grave, was the tower of strength of games and of courtesy. Taliesin.

Mor tawch a dyr muriau'r tir,
A'r mellt a lysg yr elltydd.

The spreading sea will break the fences of the land, and the lightnings will burn up the towering cliffs. Dr. S. Cent.

Mur, a. (mu—ur) Firm, fixed, or established.

Murdd, s. m. (mur) A foundation, or base.

Murddyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (murdd) The ruins of a building; a toft.

Murddynaidd, a. (murddyn) Like a toft; ruinous

Murddynu, v. a. (murddyn) To make a toft; to reduce to a ruin.

Murganllaw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (mur—canllaw) The battlement of a wall.

Murgraid, s. m. (mur—craid) A powerful and ardent principle; a firm violence, or ardency.

Seinieid ei gleddyf yn mhen mamau;
Murgraid oedd; moled ef mab Gwyddnau.

His sword sounded on the tongue of mothers; he was mighty violence; let the son of Gwyddneu extol him. Aneurin.

Trindawd tragywydd
A oreu elfydd,
A gwedi elfydd
Addaf yn gelfydd;
A gwedi Adda,
Y goreu Efa;
Yr Israel bendigaid
A oreu murgraid.

The eternal Trinity made the element; and after the element, Adam wonderfully; and after the goodly Adam, he made Eve; the blessed Israel the mighty spirit made. Taliesin.

Muriad, s. m. (mur) A fixing, establishing, or determining; a walling, a building a wall.

Muriaw, v. a. (mur) To fix, to establish, to determine; to wall, to build a wall.

Muriawg, a. (mur) Having a limit, or fence; walled, having a wall.

Muriawl, a. (mur) Tending to establish, or to determine; belonging to a wall, mural.

Muriedig, a. (muriad) Fixed, determined; having a wall, or rampart; walled.

Muriwr, s. m.—pl. murwyr (mur—gwr) One who fixes, or establishes; one who builds a wall.

Murlysiau, s. pl. aggr. (mur—llysiau) Pelitory of the wall; also called murlwyn, and murlys.

Murn, s. m.—pl. t. au (mur) A stoppage, obstruction; a foul deed; murder.

Murniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (murn) A stopping, or obstructing; a harming; a murdering.

Gwyn ei fyd i gyd yn gall a farno
Furniad truan anghall.

All blessed is he who shall discreetly judge the oppression of the simple wretch. W. Middleton.

Murniaw, v. a. (murn) To stop, to obstruct; to harm; to murder.

Y fiaren——
Murniai fi, mae arnaf ol.

The bramble, it did harm to me, I bear the mark. D. ab Gwilym.

Murniaw pen ffyrdd fal lladron.

Stopping on the high ways like thieves. I. D. Rhys.

Murniawl, a. (murn) Tending to obstruct; tending to harm; murdering.

Murniedig, a. (murniad) Being waylayed.

Murniwr, s. m.—pl. murnwyr (murn—gwr) One who stops, or obstructs; an assassin.

Ni ellir fy ngalw yn dad i'ch, namyn yn furniwr creulawn.

I can not be called a father to you, but a cruel oppressor. Cyd. Emlyn ac Amic.

Murs, s. m. (mur) That is stiff, nice, or prim.

Mursawg, a. (murs) Being trimmed up.

Mursen, s. f.—pl. t. od (murs) A coquette.

Mursen fydd o wr fal o wraig.

There may be a coquette of a man as well as of a woman. Adage.

Teirgwaith y dywed mursen, bendith
Dduw yn y ty.

Three times will a coquette say, be God's blessing in the house. Adage.

Pan fydd gwlan gan fursen,
Y bydd gwn i bob cawnen.

When the coquette is possessed of wool, there will be a gown for every stalk. Adage.

Mursenaidd, a. (mursen) Somewhat affected, or over-nice; coquettish, effeminate.

Mursendawd, s. m. (mursen) Affectation, coyness; quaintness; coquettry.

Murseneidd-dra, s. m. (mursenaidd) Coquettry.

Murseneiddiad, s. m. (mursenaidd) A rendering, or becoming coquettish; effemination.

Murseneiddiaw, v. n. (mursenaidd) To become affected, coy, or coquettish.

Murseneiddrwydd, s. m. (mursenaidd) Coquettry

Murseniad, s. m. (mursen) A becoming coquettish

Mursenu, v. (mursen) To behave affectedly, coyly, or coquettishly; to be coy, or coquettish

Mursogen, s. f. dim. (mursawg) One that is trimmed up; one who is coquettish.

Tywyll ben mursogen Mai,
Tew o'r nen, rhad Duw arnai;

The darkly covered doll of May, thick from the top, heaven's blessing be upon it. D. ab Gwilym, i fedwen.

Mursyn, s. m. dim. (murs) A slighty one; a fop.

Murwyll, s. m. (mur—gwyll) Wild wall-flower.

Mus, s. m. (my—us) Constrained motion, or jerk

Musg, s. m. (mus) A difficulty of motion.

Musgr, s. m. (musg) That is sluggish, or slow.

Musgrell, s. m. (musgr) That moves with labour; that is helpless. a. Having a difficulty of action; slow, sluggish, drawling, hobbling.

Duw a byrth i fusgrell.

God will provide for the helpless one. Adage.

Mal cogel gwraig fusgrell.

Like the distaff of a hobbling woman. Adage.

Musgrelledd, s. m. (musgrell) Laborious motion; sluggishness; helplessness.

Musgrelli, s. m. (musgrell) Laborious motion; sluggishness, helplessness.

Nid methiant ond musgrelli.

It is not a defect short of helplessness. Adage.

Musgrelliad, s. m. (musgrell) A rendering slow, sluggish, or helpless; a becoming helpless.

Musgrellni, s. m. (musgrell) A laborious motion; a halting, or hobbling; helplessness.

Musgrellu, v. a. (musgrell) To render of laborious motion; to become helpless.
Musgrellyn, s. m. dim. (musgrell) One that moves with labour; a hobbling person; a hobbler.
MW, s. m. r. That is forward, upon, or about.
Mwcan, s. c. dim. (mwg) A cloud of fog.
Mwci, s. m. (mwg) Fog; a sprite, or goblin.
Mwcog, s. pl. (mwg) Hips; also called egroes.
Mwcwg, s. m. (mwg) Burnet rose.
Mwch, a. (my—wch) Hasty, swift, or quick.

Mwch barn pob ehud.

Hasty the judgement of every fool. Adage.

Mwchiad, s. m. (mwch) A hastening onward.
Mwchiaw, v. a. (mwch) To hasten; to be quick.
Mwchlaw, v. a. (mwchwl) To jumble, to mix; to daub with a variety of things.
Mwchliad, s. m. (mwchwl) A jumbling, a mixing.
Mwchnaw, v. a. (mwchwn) To jumble together.
Mwchwl, s. m. (mwch) A jumble, a mixture; that is full of transitions, a term for a kind of musical composition.
Mwchwn, s. m. (mwch) A jumble, or a mixture.
Mwd, s. m.—pl. mydau (mw—wd) An arch, a vaulted roof; a roof, a ceiling.
Mwdr, s. m. (mwd) That rises or springs up.
Mwdran, s. m. (mwdr) Washbrew, a sort of food, made by boiling water thickened with a soured infusion of oatmeal, and sweetened to the taste: it is also called brithdwym.
Mwdwl, s. m.—pl. mydylau (mwd—wl) A round stack, cock, or heap.
Mwdd, s. m.—pl. myddi (mw—wdd) An arch; a spring; a cove; also luck, or fortune.

Cerddediad carw—
Cryno fel mwdd, carnwelw main.

Of the pace of a stag, compact like an arch; the pale-hoofed slender one. T. Aled, i farch.

Mwg, s. m. (mw—wg) Smoke, fume. Mwg y ddaiar, fumitory; mwg y perthi, hedge-fumitory: Myg-fag, confusedly, in a huddle.

Arwydd drwg mwg yn niffaith.

Smoke in a wilderness is a sign of mischief. Adage.

Mwgan, s. c. (mwg) A puff or cloud of smoke.
Mwgsychiad, s.m. (mwg—sychiad) A smoke-drying
Mwgsychu, v. a. (mwg—sychu) To smoke-dry.
Mwgwd, s. m. (mwg—wd) A blind, a mask. Gwara mwgwd y dall, chwara mwgwd yr ieir, the play of blind-man's buff.

Medd a ddiosg y mwgwd.

Mead will pull off the mask. Adage.

Mwl, s. m.—pl. t. od (mw—wl) A concrete; a mass, a lump. Mwlod a cheryg llathraidd, lumps and well-shaped stones, say, the mason's.
Mwlwch, s. m. aggr. (mwl) Refuse; sweepings.
Mwlwg, s. m. aggr. (mwl) Refuse; sweepings. Mwlwg mawn, the small or refuse of peat.

Cais yn y mwlwg.

Seek in the sweepings. Adage.

Mwlyn, s. m. dim. (mwl) A concrete; a mass.
Mwll, a. (mw—wll) Close, warm, or sultry. Tywydd mwll, hin foll, sultry weather.
Mwn, s. m.—pl. mynau (mw) That rises up as a spire; that stretches out, the upper part of the shaft of a weapon next to the head; a neck.

Gwaew anfeidrawl ei faint, a thair ffrwd o waed yn rhedeg o'r mwn hyd y llawr.

A spear of immense size, and three streams of blood running from the neck to the ground. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Mwn, s. m. aggr. (mw—wn) Separate body, mass, or particle; mine, ore of metal. Mwn aur, gold mine; mwn arian, silver mine; mwn efydd, copper mine; mwn plwm, lead mine; gwaith mwn, mine work; twll mwn, a mine shaft.
Mwnai, s. m. aggr. (mwn) Money, or coin.
Mwnaidd, a. (mwn) Like mine, like ore.
Mwnawg, a. (mwn) Abounding with ore.
Mwnawl, a. (mŵn) Belonging to mine or ore.
Mwndill, s. f. (mwn—dill) A spattle, a stirrer; a ladle; also called modbren.
Mwndir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mwn—tir) Land abounding with mine.
Mwndlws, s. m.—pl. myndlysau (mwn—tlws) A neck ornament; a necklace.
Mwndorch, s. f.—pl. myndyrch (mwn—torch) A collar, a wreath for the neck.
Mwnglawdd, s. m.—pl. mwngloddiau (mwn—clawdd) A mine pit or shaft.
Mwngloddfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mwnglawdd) A mine pit, a mine shaft.
Mwngloddiad, s. m. (mwnglawdd) A mining.
Mwngloddiaw, v. a. (mwnglawdd) To make a mine pit or shaft; to mine.
Mwngloddiwr, s. m.—pl. mwngloddwyr (mwnglawdd—gwr) A miner.
Mwnt, s. m.—pl. mynnau (mwn) That rises up; a heap, or mound; a mount, a mountain; one hundred thousand. Ar y mynnau, on the hills. Brecon.

Deg myrdd yn y mwnt.

Ten myriads in the hundred thousand.

Mwnwg, s. m. (mwn) That shoots out as a spire; a neck. Pen-dra-mwnwg, headlong.
Mwnwgl, s. m.—pl. mynyglau (mwnwg) The neck. Mwnwgl y troed, the instep of the foot.

Cyd ag y gweles Elidyr ef rhedeg a orug, a myned ddwylaw mwnwgl iddaw, a rhoddi llawer o gusanau iddaw.

As soon as Elidyr saw him he ran, and went with his hands round his neck, and gave him many kisses. Gr. ab Arthur.

Mwnws, s. pl. dim. (mwn) Small particles; dross, refuse, dust, pelf, riches.
Mwng, s. m.—pl. myngoedd (mwn) A mane.
Mwngial, v. a. (mwng) To speak from the throat; to mutter, to speak indistinctly.
Mwngial, s. m. (mwng) A speaking from the throat; a muttering, a murmuring.

Cerdd wammal fu'r mwngial mau.

A flighty song was that muttering of mine. D. ab Gwilym.

Mwr, s. m. (mw—wr) That tends to fall, or hap.
Mwrl, s. m. (mwr) A crumbling freestone.
Mwrl, a. (mwr) Crumbling, friable. Tir mwrl, a loose crumbling soil.
Mwrllwch, s. m. (mwr—llwch) A thick vapour.

Dyred yn nes atynt, ebai yr angel, ac a'm cipiai drwy lawer o fwrllwch difaith, oedd yn codi o'r ddinas.

Come nearer to them, said the angel; and he snatched me through many a noxious exhalation, which were rising out of the city. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Mwrn, s. m. (mwr) Sultry or close weather.
Mwrn, a. (mwr) Sultry, close, or warm.
Murnaw, v. n. (mwrn) To become sultry.
Mwrnder, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.
Mwrndra, s. m. (mwrn) Sultry heat, sultriness.
Mwrnedd, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.
Mwrth, s. m. (mwr) That tends forward.
Mwrthwyl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (morth—wyl) A hammer: the same also in Coromandel.

Gwell un dyrnawd a'r ordd no dau a'r mwrthwyl.

Better one stroke with the mallet than two with the hammer. Adage.

Mwrthwyliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwrthwyl) A hammering; using a hammer.
Mwrthwyliaw, v. a. (mwrthwyl) To hammer.
Mwrthwyliedig, a. (mwrthwyl) Being hammered
Mwrthwyliwr, s. m.—pl. mwrthwylwyr (mwrthwyl—gŵr) A hammerer; a hammer-man.
Mws, s. m. (mw—ws) That shoots out: an effluvia
Mws, a. (mw—ws) Of a strong scent, rank.

Cilials yn swrth i'm gwrthol,
I'r drws, a'r ci mws i'm ol.

I suddenly retreated back out of door, and the stinking dog after me. D. ab Gwilym.

Mwsg, s. m. (mws) The moscus, or musk.
Mwstardd, s. m. (mws--tardd) The mustard.
Mwswg, s. m. (mws) Moss. Mwswg gwŷn, white moss; also called migwyn.
Mwswgl, s. m. (mwswg) Moss, under all its varieties, except the lichen and the sorts growing upon stones which are called cèn.
Mwswn, s. m. (mws) Moss; same as mwswg.
Mwth, s. m. (mw—wth) That has velocity.
Mwth, a. (mw—wth) Rapid, fleet, quick, nimble. Nant mwth, a rapid brook; meirch mythion, fleet horses.

Gochawn marchawg mwth, molud Gwrion,
O ddraig ddylaw addaw, doethaw Don.

We shall have a nimble horseman, of Gwrion's fame, a leader of fair promise, wise as Don. Taliesin.

Mwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (mw) That is vast or large; that is dark or black.
Mwy, a. (mw) Additional; also used for the comparative mwyach, more, greater, larger. adv. More; again; henceforward. Mwy dymunawl nog aur, more desirable than gold.

Gwan y gormes mwyaf gerbron y glewder lleiaf.

Feeble is the greatest tyranny in the presence of the smallest courage. Adage.

Dy far, feinwar Fyfanwy,
Ar a'th gar; ni fu far fwy.

Thy ire, Myvanwy delicate and slender, is on him who loves thee; there never was greater ire. H. ab Einion Llygliw.

Cyd ddal cariad celadwy,
Cywir, nis mynegir mwy.

Mutually cherishing a concealed love, sincere, more, shall not be told. D. ab Gwilym.

Mwyâad, s. m. (mwyâu) An augmenting.
Mwyâawl, a. (mwyâu) Augmenting, increasing.
Mwyach, a. (mwy) More, greater, bigger. adv. More, again, henceforward.

Mwyach ni elwir dy enw di Iacob.

More thy name shall not be called Jacob. Genesis 32. 28.

Mwyad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwy) An increasing.
Mwyadawl, a. (mwyad) Tending to increase.
Mwyadu, v. a. (mwyad) To augment, to increase.
Mwyaf, a. (mwy) Greatest, biggest, largest; most. Yn fwyaf, gan mwyaf, mostly, in the greatest degree.

Tri lle y bydd y mwyaf o Dduw: lle mwyaf bo a'i cais; y mwyaf a'i car; a lleiaf o'r hunan.

The three instances where there will be the most of God: where he is the most sought; where he is most loved; and where there is the least of self. Barddas.

Mwyaid, s. pl. (mwyad) Consecrated wafers.

Ni chenir mwyaid ar fo.

The mass will not be sung on a retreat. Llefoed.

Pader a mwyaid bendigaid.

The paternoster and blessed wafers. Ymdd. Arthur a Liwlod.

Mwyalch, s. f.—pl. t. od (mwy—alch) An ousel. It is called gwyalch, and aderyn du.

Genau mwyalch ac arch blaidd.

The mouth of a blackbird with the request of a wolf. Adage.

Mwyalchen, s. f. dim. (mwyalch) The ousel. Mwyalchen y dwfr, y fronwen, bronwen y dwfr, the water ousel; mwyalchen y graig, the rock ousel.
Mwyar, s. pl. aggr. (mwy) The class of berries, growing in clusters, called acini; so called from their dark hue. Mwyar y perthi, or mwyar duon, blackberries; mwyar berwyn, mwyar dwywon, mwyar gwenith, mwyar y ddaiar, cloud-berries, mwyar ffreinig, mwyar Mair, mulberries; mwyar y brain, bilberries.
Mwyara, v. a. (mwyar) To gather berries.
Mwyarawl, a. (mwyar) Of the nature of berries.

Y fun fwyarawl olwg,
Fanwaidd iawn o fwynaidd wg.

The maid of berry hue, very delicate, and of tender look. Gutyn Owain.

Mwyaren, s f. (mwyar) A single berry.
Mwyariad, s. m.—pl. mwyariaid (mwyar) A negro; a moor.
Mwyâu, v. a. (mwy) To augment, to enhance, to increase; to be increased, to grow bigger.

Hynaf mab wyt ti, ebai Gwrthoyrn, o blant Cwstenyn; ac ni ellir frenin o yr un o'th frodyr, mor ynt ieuainc; a mi a'th wnaf di yn frenin; a mwyâa dithau finnau.

The eldest son art thou, said Gwrtheyrn, of the children of Cwstenyn; and not one of thy brothers can be king, for they are so young; so I will make thee king; then do thou exalt me likewise. Gr. ab Arthur.

Mwyâwr, s. m. (mwyâu—gwr) An augmenter.
Mwyd, s. m. (mwy) That is swelled or puffed up; that is moistened, soaked, or steeped.
Mwydaidd, a. (mwyd) Somewhat moistened.
Mwydaw, v. a. (mwyd) To moisten, to soak, or to steep; to become moist, or damp.
Mwydawl, a. (mwyd) Tending to moisten.
Mwydedig, a. (mwyd) Macerated, imbrued.
Mwydedd, s. m. (mwyd) A moist state, humidity.
Mwydiad, s. m. (mwyd) A moistening, a soaking.
Mwydion, s. pl. aggr. (mwyd) The soft parts, crumbs, or pith, of any thing. Mwydion bara, the crumb of bread; mwydion y ddaiar, puff-ball
Mwydionaidd, a. (mwydion) Like soft pith, pithy
Mwydionawg, a. (mwydion) Abounding with pith
Mwydioni, v. a. (mwydion) To become pithy.
Mwydionllyd, a. (mwydion) Full of pith.
Mwydionyn, s. m. dim. (mwydion) The pith.
Mwydle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mwyd—lle) A fetlock.
Mwydwr, s. m. (mwyd—gwr) A soaker.
Mwydydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mwyd) A soaker.
Mwydyn, s. m. dim. (mwyd) A pith, a crumb.
Mwyedig, a. (mwyad) Augmented, enhanced.
Mwyedigaeth, s. m. (mwyedig) Augmentation.
Mwyedigaw, v. a. (mwyedig) To augment.
Mwyeri, s. pl. aggr. (mwyar) Briers, brambles.
Mwyfwy, a. (mwy repeated) More and more.
Mwyg, s. m. (mwy) That is soft or puffed.
Mwygl, a. (mwyg) Tepid, sultry, warm; the same as mwll, mwrn, gwygl.

Meigen Rys——
'Mogel di, mwygl yw dy fost.

Rhys of Meigen, take thou care, thy boast is warm. D. ab Gwilym.

Mwyglad, s. m. (mwygl) A growing sultry.
Mwyglaw, v. a. (mwygl) To make warm, or mild, to become warm, or sultry; to grow lukewarm.
Mwygledd, s. m. (mwygl) Tepidity: sultriness.
Mwyglen, s. f. dim. (mwygl) A wanton wench.
Mwygliad, s. m. (mwygl) A growing sultry.
Mwyll, a. (mwy) Soft; tender, emollient.

Mwyn, s. m. (mwy) Enjoyment, fruition, use, or benefit; profit, advantage.

Nid mwyn ond mwyn ariant.

There is no mine except mine that is gold. Adage.

Ni bydd i feddyg mwyn or a wnäant.

The doctor shall have no advantage from what they do. Taliesin.

Mwyn, a. (mwy) Tender, kind, mild, gentle, courteous, affable. Dynion mwynion, fairies.

Gair mwyn a wna y ddadl yn gadarn.

A mild word will make the argument strong. Adage.

Cant mwyn mab y ty.

A hundred times kind the son of the house. Adage.

Main firain riain, gain Gymmraeg;
Mwyn forwyn hun-ddwyn, hoen ddygn gysteg!

A slender elegant lady, whose Welsh is polished; a kind maid stealing sleep away; the severe torment of health! Casnodyn.

Mwynâad, s. m. (mwyn) An enjoying; fruition.

Mwynâawl, a. (mwynâu) Tending to enjoyment.

Mwynaidd, a. (mwyn) Of a tender or kind nature

Mwynair, a. (mwyn—gair) A kind word.

Mwynas, s. f.—pl. t. au (mwyn) Kindness.

Mwynasiad, s. m. (mwynas) A doing a kindness.

Mwynasu, v. a. (mwynas) To do kindness.

Mwynâu, v. a. (mwyn) To enjoy, to make use of; to take the benefit of.

Yn lle gofal a dialedd,
Duw, i'w fwynâu danfon hedd!

Instead of anxiety and vengeance, God, send peace to be enjoyed. H. D. ab Ifan.

Mwynawl, a. (mwyn) Tending to enjoyment.

Mynawg, gwareddawg y gwir raddau;
Mwynawl hawl nefawl, ceffir mawl mau.

The courteous, the gentle one of the exalted ranks; the inviting heavenly title, my praise shall be obtained. D. y Coed.

Mwynâwr, s. m.—pl. mwynâwyr (mwynâu—gwr) One who enjoys, an enjoyer.

Mwynbell, a. (mwyn—pell) Extendedly enjoyed

Cynan, darogan derwyddon dy ddaw;
Ef dyddyw o Frython,
Anaw cwynaw cerddorion,
Un oedd well, udd mwynbell Mon!

Cynan, the druids foretell he shall be coming; there has come of the Britons the complaining lay of minstrels for one more excellent, the far-enjoyed chief of Mona! Ll. P. Moch.

Mwynder, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwyn) Tenderness, kindness; gentleness; affability; enjoyment.

Nid mwynder ond merch.

There is no tenderness but in a woman. Adage.

Cymer trwy fwynder, tra fych;
Dod ran o'r da a drinych.

Accept, through enjoyment, whilst thou art; give a part of the possession that thou dost manage. S. Tudur.

Mwyndra, s. m. (mwyn) Tenderness, kindness; gentleness; affability, enjoyment.

Mwynddyn, s. c.—pl. t. ion (mwyn—dyn) A tender, kind, or courteous person.

Mwynedig, a. (mwyn) Being enjoyed, or used.

Mwynedd, s. m. (mwyn) Kindness, courtesy.

Mwyneddus, a. (mwynedd) Full of tenderness.

Mwyneidd-dra, s. m. (mwynaidd) Tenderness.

Mwyneiddiad, s. m. (mwynaidd) A becoming of a kind or tender nature.

Mwyneiddiaw, v. n. (mwynaidd) To become pleasing, kind, tender, or affable.

Mwynen, s. f. dim. (mwyn) A pleasing one.

Mwynfawr, a. (mwyn—mawr) Greatly kind.

Mwynfawr garcharawr a gyrchasant,
Meurig fab Gruffudd, grym ddarogant.

A greatly courteous prisoner they brought away, Meurig the son of Grufudd, the object of prediction. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Mwyniannawl, a. (mwyniant) Tending to enjoyment, or fruition.

Mwyniannu, v. a. (mwyniant) To render an enjoyment; to enjoy.

Y rhai nad ynt yn cyfrif y bywyd yma—ond fal alltudaeth, ac yn wyllysgar i ymado ag ef i fyned i lys y brenin nefawl, y gaffant mwyniannu cyflawnder o lawenydd.

Those who do not count this life more than like a state of exile and willing to come out of it to go into the court of the heavenly king, shall get to enjoy fulness of pleasure. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Mwyniannus, a. (mwyniant) Tending to enjoyment; tending to please.

Mwyniannusaw, v. a. (mwyniannus) To render of a tendency to enjoyment.

Mwyniant, s. m.—pl. mwyniannau (mwyn) Benefit, use, or profit derived; enjoyment.

Cymer fwyniant y peth sy genyt, tra bo y cybydd yn blingaw y diawl am lai no chroen chwelnen.

Take the enjoyment of what thou hast, whilst the miser is flaying the devil for less than the skin of a flea. Adage.

Mwynlan, a. (mwyn—glan) Courteously fair.

Mwynwr, s. m.—pl. mwynwyr (mwyn—gwr) A kind or affable man.

Mwynyn, s. m. dim. (mwyn) A kind one.

Mwys, s. f.—pl. t. au (mwy) That has capacity, or that comprehends; that has latitude of import, a pun; also a kind of covered basket, pannier or hamper; also the quantity contained in such vessel. Mwys o ysgadain, a mease, or five-score of herrings.

Un o'r tri thlws ar ddeg—Mwys Gwyddno Garan Hir; bwyd i ungwr a roid ynddi, a bwyd i ganwr a gaid ynddi pan egorid.

One of the thirteen rarities: the basket of Gwyddno Longshank; the victuals for one man being put in it, victuals for a hundred men would be found in it when opened. Chwedlenon.

Mwys, a. (mwy) Comprehensive; enveloped; mysterious; ambiguous; ingenious, witty; elegant; also, of the nature of a pun, or of a double meaning. But the last sense arose from mistaking false for true wit; and hence gair mwys, in popular language, is a pun; of which the following part of an englyn, where An, a woman's name, and a negative particle, is the gair mwys, may serve as an example.—

An-fwyn, an-ddwyn, an-nych, an-luniaidd,
An-lana' lle delych.

Mwysai, s. c.—pl. mwyseion (mwys) A punster.

Mwysaidd, a. (mwys) Of a latitude of import; of the nature of a pun; ambiguous, oracular.

Mwysair, s. m.—pl. mwyseiriau (mwys—gair) A word of double meaning; a pun.

Mwysaw, v. n. (mwys) To be of capacity; to have latitude of import, to pun.

Mwysawg, a. (mwys) Having capacity; having latitude of import; of a double meaning.

Mwysder, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwys) That is comprehensive; an ambiguity, a mystery.

Mwysdro, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mwys—tro) A quibble

Mwysdröad, s. m. (mwysdro) A punning.

Mwysdroi, v. a. (mwysdro) To quibble, to pun.

Mwyseiriawg, a. (mwysair) Full of punning.

Mwyth, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwy) That is smooth, soft and puffed up; a fulness of humours; a fever. Y cryd a mwyth, the ague and fever, or intermitting fever: y mwyth brith, brith y gwanwyn, the military fever.

Cadw fi——
Rhag poenau clwyfau, rhag clefyd a mwyth,
Rhag methiant ac adfyd!

Keep me from the pains of wounds, from disease and fever, from debility, and from adversity! H. D. ab Ifan.

Mwyth, a. (mwy) Puffed up, soft, sleek; tender.

> Castell Mathrafal, mwyth werin wythawg,
> Du peithiawg poeth ethrin
> O'th gynnygn, gynnogn byddin:
> Nid uch wyneb neb no'i liu.
>
> The castle of Mathrafal, of a pampered furious multitude, is black and cleanly burnt from thy attack, thou dependance of a host: no one's face is higher than his knee.
> Ll. P. Moch, i G. ab H. ab Owain.

Mwythach, s. m. (mwyth) The state of being puffed up, or pampered.
Mwythan, s. c. dim. (mwyth) Any soft tender substance, a tender shoot, a cartilage, a gristle.
Mwythaw, v. a. (mwyth) To puff up, to make smooth; to mollify, to soften; to become puffed up; to grow soft; to have a fever.
Mwythawg, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, pampered.
Mwythawl, a. (mwyth) Emollient, softening.
Mwythedig, a. (mwyth) Being mollified.
Mwythedd, s. m. (mwyth) Emolliency, softness.
Mwythiad, s. m. (mwyth) A mollifying.
Mwythiant, s. m. (mwyth) Softness, blandishment
Mwythig, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, bloated.
Mwythigaw, v. a. (mwythig) To become puffed up or bloated; to swell with humours.
Mwythl, s. m. (mwyth) That has a tendency to puff up or to make sleek.
Mwythlan, s. c. dim. (mwythl) One that is puffed up, or pampered.
Mwythlawn, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, pampered.
Mwythlen, s. f. dim. (mwythl) A soft pampered female, one that is plump.
Mwythus, a. (mwyth) Puffed up, sleek, pampered, delicate, nice.

> Nid mwythus ond bela.
>
> None delicate but the marten. Adage.

Mwythusaw, v. n. (mwythus) To become delicate, or nice, to pamper.
Mwythusder, s. m. (mwythus) Delicateness.
Mwythusdra, s. m. (mwythus) Delicateness, softness, effeminacy, a pampered state.
Mwythusiad, s. m. (mwythus) A rendering puffed up, sleek, or soft, a pampering.
Mwythusrwydd, s. m. (mwythus) Pamperedness.
MY, s. m. r. That is, that is present; that is in agency. It is a prefix in composition.
My, pron. (my, s.) It is mutable into fy, in which form it most frequently occurs. My hun, my hunan, myself; mi fy hun, I myself.

> Pan gefais fy maeddu gan adfyd, mi wybum fod fy neall yn goleuanu ychydig.
>
> When I got buffeted by adversity, I knew that my understanding was becoming a little enlightened. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Myanafu, v. a. (anafu) To maim, or to hurt.
Mychawl, a. (mwch) Of a rapid or quick motion.
Mychedyn, s. m. dim. (mwch) A sun beam.
Mychiad, s. m.—pl. mychiaid (moch) Swineherd.

> Eawawg mychiad o'i foch.
>
> A swineherd is proud of his swine. Adage.
>
> Llawen mychiad pan fo gwynt.
>
> Glad the swineherd when there is wind. Adage.

Mychw, s. m. (mwch) Motion stopped or reflected
Mychweg, a. (chweg) Luscious, very sweet.
Mychwegrwydd, s. m. (mychweg) Lusciousness.
Mychwin, a. (mychw) Reflected as to motion.
Myd, s. m. (my—yd) A circular enclosure.

> Hael Arthur, myd anghudd am rodd;
> Hael Rhydderch am aur fudd;
> Hael Mordaf; hael mawrdeg Nudd;
> Haelach, greddfolach Grufudd.
>
> Generous was Arthur, of unconcealed readiness in giving; generous was Rhydderch as to the gold treasure; generous was Mordaf: generous the magnificent Nudd; more generous, more good-natured is Grufudd. Ll. P. Moch.

Mydadwy, a. (mwd) That may be arched.
Mydaidd, a. (mwd) Like an arch, archwise.
Mydawl, a. (mwd) Belonging to an arch.
Mydedig, a. (mwd) Camerated, arched over.
Mydedd, s. m. (mwd) The state of being arched.
Myddeddawg, a. (mydedd) Having curvatures.
Mydeyrn, s. m.—pl. t. on (teyrn) A sovereign.
Mydiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwd) Cameration.
Mydiant, s. m. (mwd) Cameration, an arch.
Mydr, s. m.—pl. t. au (myd) A metre. Mydr anghyfawdl, blank verse.
Mydraeth, s. m. (mydr) Versification.
Mydraethawl, a. (mydraeth) Versifying.
Mydraethiad, s. m. (mydraeth) Versification.
Mydraethu, v. a. (mydraeth) To compose verse.

> Daeth y cyfryw drywyllt ac oferwagfydraethu, a dall brydyddu.
>
> There be come in use such perfectly wild and nonsensical versifying, and such blind poetizing. Ed. Dafydd.

Mydraethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mydraeth) A versificator, a maker of metres.
Mydrawl, a. (mydr) Metrical; rhythmical.
Mydriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mydr) A versifying.
Mydrin, a. (mydr) Composed in metre.
Mydrwr, s. m.—pl. mydrwyr (mydr—gwr) A versifier, a maker of verses.
Mydrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mydr) A versifier.
Mydryddiad, s. m. (mydrydd) A versifying.
Mydryddiaeth, s. m. (mydrydd) Versification.

> Tri anhebgor mydryddiaeth: colofn, cynghanedd, ac awdl.
>
> The three indispensables of versification: feet, consonancy, and rhyme. Barddas.

Mydryddu, v. a. (mydrydd) To versificate.

> Wrth fydryddu cerdd—edryched y bardd na roddo yn gwpledig y cyfryw fanau ag a font ry annhebyg ac anwastad, ac anghydbwys berwydd cyhydedd.
>
> In versifying a piece, let the poet see that he do not couple together such verses as shall be too dissimilar, and unequal, and incompetent, with respect to length. Barddas.

Mydu, v. a. (mwd) To arch, to vault, to make an arched roof, or ceiling.
Mydum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tum) A gesture; mimicry. Gwneud mydumiau, to make wry faces.
Mydw, s. m. (myd) Aptitude; fluency.

> Gwyr osod gwr gorfod gorfyn,
> Gwedi mydw a medd gorewyn.
>
> He knows the attack of the overbearing malicious man, after the fluency of discourse, and the highly-foaming mead.
> Cynddelw, i'r argl. Rhys.

Mydwal, a. (mydw) Of aptitude to proceed.
Mydwaledd, s. m. (mydwal) Flow of expression.

> Mygr fydwaledd hawddgar.
>
> Fair is the amiable speech. Syp. Cyfeiliawg.
>
> Dewredd mydwaledd a dawn,
> Ei ryw fo oedd rhoi ei feirch,
> A chwn, gwelwn, ac eleirch.
>
> The spirit of eloquence and talent, his nature was to give away his steeds and dogs, as we perceive, and his swans.
> B. Brwynllys.

Mydwr, s. m.—pl. mydwyr (mwd—gwr) One who forms an arch, or ceiling.
Mydwrdd, s. m. (my—dwrdd) A tumult.
Mydylan, s. c. dim. (mwdwl) A small stack.
Mydylawg, a. (mwdwl) In the stack, cocked.
Mydyliad, s. m. (mwdwl) A making stacks.
Mydylu, v. a. (mwdwl) To makes stacks, to cock.
Mydylwr, s. m.—pl. mydylwyr (mwdwl—gwr) One who makes stacks, or mows.
Mydylyn, s. m. dim. (mwdwl) A small stack.
Myddi, s. f.—pl. t. au (mwdd) A hogshead.
Myfi, pron. (my—mi) I, me, myself.
Myfïaeth, s. m. (myfi) Egotism, a talking of self.
Myfïaw, v. a. (myfi) To egotize. to talk of self.
Myfinnau, pron. (minnau) I also, I likewise.

Myfiwr, s. m.—pl. myfiwyr (myfiaw—gwr) An egotist, or one who talks of himself.

Myfiydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myfi) An egotist.

Myfyr, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (myr) The action of the mind; muse, study. Myfyr Elian, the study of Elian, in Mona; Glyn y Myfyr, a vale in Denbighshire.

Myfyr, a. (myr) Contemplative, thoughtful.

Myfyrawd, s. m. (myfyr) Contemplation.

Myfyrbwyll, s. m. (myfyr—pwyll) A contemplative mind. a. Of a thoughtful turn of mind.

> Cynddylan fyfyrbwyll o fri
> Cadwynawg, cyndynawg llu.
>
> Cynddylan with a mind regardful of honour, the one of chains, the froward one of war. Llywarch Hen.

Myfyrdawd, s. m.—pl. myfyrdodau (myfyr) Meditation, or contemplation.

> Tair cynneddf cyflawn fyfyrdawd: a ddichon fod, a ddylai fod, ac sydd hardd ei fod.
>
> The three foundations of just thinking: that is possible to be, that ought to be, and that is beautiful it should be. Barddas.

Myfyrdodawl, a. (myfyrdawd) Contemplative.

Myfyrgar, a. (myfyr) Contemplative, cogitative.

Myfyrgarwch, s. m. (myfyrgar) Studiousness.

Myfyriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (myfyr) Cogitation, contemplation; a contemplating.

Myfyriadawl, a. (myfyriad) Contemplative.

Myfyriaeth, s. m. (myfyr) Cogitation.

> Nid myfyriaeth ond ystyriaeth.
>
> There is no contemplation without consideration. Adage.

Myfyriannawl, a. (myfyriant) Cogitative.

Myfyriannu, v. a. (myfyriant) To cogitate.

Myfyriannus, a. (myfyriant) Cogitative.

Myfyriannusaw, v. a. (myfyriannus) To become contemplative or thoughtful.

Myfyriant, s. m. (myfyr) Cogitation.

Myfyriaw, v. a. (myfyr) To contemplate, to meditate, to cogitate, to muse, to study.

Myfyriawl, a. (myfyr) Contemplative.

Myfyriedig, a. (myfyriad) Contemplated.

Myfyriedigawl, a. (myfyriedig) Contemplative.

Myfyrioldeb, s. m. (myfyriawl) Studiousness.

Myfyriwr, s. m.—pl. myfyrwyr (myfyr—gwr) A contemplator, a speculator.

Myfyrus, a. (myfyr) Apt to contemplate.

Myg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (my—ig) That is of great space, or grand; that is solemn or holy.

> Bendigaid fyg
> Yw'r nadolyg.
>
> A blessed solemnity is the nativity. Br. Fardd.

Myg, a. (my—yg) Being of great space, or grand; reverential, respectable; honoured; holy; solemn; glorious.

Mygarogl, s. m.—pl. mygaroglau (myg—arogl) Holy incense.

Mygaw, v. a. (myg) To perform a solemnity.

> Gorddyfnais, mygais magied llwyth Cadfor
> Goror y glasfor a gar gleisiad.
>
> I have been assiduous, I have honoured the education of the tribe of Cadfor, on the coast of the blue sea, which the salmon loves. Llywelyn Ddu.

Mygawd, s. m. (mwg) A rising of smoke, steam, or vapour; suffocation.

Mygawl, a. (mwg) Fumous, smoking, smoky.

Mygawr, s. m. (myg) That is reverent, or solemn.

Mygdarth, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwg—tarth) Vapour, exhalation, fog; fumigation.

Mygdarthiad, s. m. (mygdarth) A throwing out vapour; a fumigating; a burning of incense.

Mygdarthu, v. a. (mygdarth) To burn incense.

Myged, s. f. (myg) Grandeur; reverence, honour, solemnity; glory.

> Neud ethyw!——gwanar cerddgar cyrdd fyged:
> Gwae fi o'i fyned fyn nas gwelaf!
>
> Is he not gone! the inspired regulator of the solemnity of songs; woe is me that he is gone to regions where I may not behold him! Ph. Brydydd.

Myged, a. (myg) Grand; respected, honoured, solemn, glorious.

> I Dduw ydd archaf, naf, eu noddi,
> Rodd-fyged ri!
>
> I will entreat a refuge for them of God the Father, the Lord of glorious gift. Bleddyn Fardd.

Mygedawg, a. (myged) Respected, reverenced.

> Y digones gwychyr Gwallawg
> Eilywod Gattraeth fawr fygedawg.
>
> The heroic Gwallog achieved exploits equal to those of Cattraeth great and glorious. Meigant.

Mygedawl, a. (myged) Having respect; honorary. Gradd fygedawl, honorary degree.

Mygedig, a. (myged) Respected, reverenced.

Mygedorth, s. f. (myged—gorth) A funeral pile.

> Yn Llongborth gwelais i fygedorth,
> A gwyr yn goddef anmhorth,
> A gorfod gwedi gorborth.
>
> In Llongborth I beheld a solemn pile, and men suffering privation, and in a state of subjection after excess of fruition. Llywarch Hen.
>
> Corman, march meibion Elifer Gosgorddfawr, a ddwg arnaw Gwrgi, Peredur, Dunawd Fyr, a Chynfelyn Drwsgl, i edrych ar fygedorth Gwenddolau yn Arderydd.
>
> Corman, the horse of the sons of Elifer with the great retinue, carried Gwrgi, Peredur, Dunod Fyr, and Cynfelyn the Stumbler, to see the funeral pile of Gwenddolau in Arderydd. Trioedd.

Mygfa, s. f.—pl. mygfëydd (mwg) That suffocates; a suffocation.

Mygfaen, s. m.—pl. mygfeini (mwg—maen) Brimstone; also called llosgfaen.

Mygiad, s. m. (mwg) A smoking; a suffocation.

Mygiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mygiad) A smoker.

Myglyd, a. (mwg) Apt to smoke, or smoky.

Myglydrwydd, s. m. (myglyd) Smokiness.

Myglys, s. m. (mwg—llys) Tobacco.

Mygod-darth, s. m. (mygawd—tarth) Vapour, or exhalation.

> Mygod-darth cylch Mai goedydd.
>
> Vapour surrounding the woods of May. D. ab Gwilym, i'r niwl.
>
> Mygod-darth am ei geden
> Y gwreichion aeth gyuch a'r nen.
>
> Vapour round his shaggy coat, the sparks flew up as high as heaven. R. Iorwerth.

Mygodfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mygawd) An asthma.

Mygodorth, s. f. (mygawd—gorth) An oppression of wind; flatulency.

> Cwmin, tòri mygodorth, a gwared dolur, a llosgfan croth a wnaut.
>
> The cummin will break the flatulency, and relieve pain and heat in the womb. Medd. Myddfai.

Mygr, a. (myg) Majestic, grand, glorious.

> Glyw a'm rhydd——
> Meirch ar geirch yn garcharorion,
> Maith gerdded, mygr gydred geidrion.
>
> A chief will present me with steeds upon oats kept prisoners, of extensive career, splendid, of equal pace and powerful. Cynddelw.
>
> Caraf eaws Fai forehun ludd,
> A golygon hwyr hirwyn ei grudd;
> Caraf eilon mygr.——
>
> I love the nightingale of May, obstructing the morning sleep, with languid eyes and aspect long and pale. Gwalchmai.

Mygraidd, a. (mygr) Of a majestic, grand, or splendid aspect.

Mygrawl, a. (mygr) Tending to make majestic, grand, or splendid; beauteous; glorious.

Mygredd, s. m. (mygr) Majesty, grandeur; glory.

Mygrfalch, a. (mygr—balch) Majestically proud.

Mygriad, s. m. (mygr) A rendering majestic, grand, or splendid; a rendering glorious.

Mygru, v. a. (mygr) To render majestic, grand, or splendid; to make of glorious appearance.

Mygrwawr, s. f. (mygr—gwawr) A splendid ray.
Mygrwedd, s. f. (mygr—gwedd) A majestic, or splendid aspect.
Mygu, v. a. (mwg) To make smoke, to smoke; to smother, to stifle, to stop the breath; to smoke, or to rise in smoke.
Mygwr, s. m.—pl. mygwyr (mygu--gwr) A smoker
Mygydawl, a. (mwgwd) Being blindfolded.
Mygydiad, s. m. (mwgwd) A blindfolding.
Mygydu, v. a. (mwgwd) To blindfold, to blind.
Myhar, s. m. (har) The male of sheep, a ram.
Myharan, s. m.—pl. myheryn (myhar) A male sheep, a ram; also called hwrdd. Llygaid myheryn, limpets.

Myharan, tair dafad a dal; un am bob caill iddo, ac un yn lle ei gorph ei hun.

A ram is of the value of three ewes; one for each of his testes, and one in lieu of his own body. Welsh Laws.

Myhefin, s. m. (hefin) The month of June.
Myher, s. f.—pl. myhyr (her) An attack.

Gwirawd a'n gwithfyn gwrth syr a lleuad,
Gan rwyf rhud rhudd fyhyr.

With liquor we are plied by the light of stars and moon, by a chief of bounty, of reddy onset. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Myhun, pron. (my—hun) Myself. It is mutable into fyhun, in which form it mostly occurs in construction.

E ddaeth i'm cyrchaw
Gwedi fy nghrogaw;
Y' nghrog yn greuled
Myhun i'm gwared.

He came to fetch me after I was crucified; being crucified and covered with blood, myself to deliver me. Armes dyddbrawd.

Myhunan, pron. (myhun) Myself, me myself.
Myldardd, s. m. (mwl—tardd) That is pervaded with grains, or particles. Maen myldardd, the porphyry.
Myllaidd, a. (mwll) Of a sultry or hot tendency.
Mylliad, s. m. (mwll) A growing sultry or hot.
Myllu, v. n. (mwll) To become sultry or warm.
Myllyn, s. pl. aggr. (mwll) The violets.
Myllynen, s. f. dim. (myllyn) A violet.
Mym, s. m. (my—ym) That is incipient.
Mympwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (mym—pwy) Opinion, humour, good pleasure.
Mympwyaeth, s. m. (mympwy) Opination.
Mympwyaw, v. a. (mympwy) To exercise an opinion, humour, or pleasure.
Mympwyawl, a. (mympwy) Opinionative.
Mympwyedd, s. m. (mympwy) Opinability.
Mympwyoldeb, s. m. (mympwyawl) Opinionativeness, a state of opination.
Mymryn, s. m.—pl. t. au (mym—rhyn) An atom, a mite; the smallest particle, the least that may be. Ni fyddi fymryn haws, thou wilt not be a bit the nearer.

Bychanaf, o'r bychenyd,
Yw Hu Gadarn, fe'i barn byd;
A mwyaf, a naf i ni,
Da coeliwn, a'n Duw celi;
Ysgafn ei daith, ac esgud;
Mymryn tes gloewyn ei glud,
A mawr ar dir, a moroedd,
A mwyaf a gaf ar gnedd;
Mwy no 'r bydoedd, 'marbedwn
Amarch gwael i'r mawr hael hwn.

The smallest, should he be compared with small, is the Mighty Hu, the world doth judge; also the greatest, and lord over us, and our God of mystery. Light is his course and swift; a particle of lucid sunshine is his car: And, great on land and seas; and the greatest whom I shall manifestly find; yea greater than the worlds: let us beware of mean indignity to this greatly bounteous one. Rhys Brydydd.

Ni wnai hi crofi faint
Y mymryn, gwenddyn gwynddaint.

She would not do on my account the least tittle, the white-teethed fair one.

Myn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (my—yn) Will, desire.

Tri chyfraid pob gwaith; modd, medyr, a myn.

The three necessaries towards every work: power, knowledge, and will. Adage.

Mŷn, s. m.—pl. t. od (my) A kid, a young goat.
Myn, adv. (myn, s.) By the will of, by. Myn dyn! By heavens! Myn fy llaw! By my hand! Myn fy ffydd! By my faith! Myn diawl! Mon diable! Myn y nos! By the night!

Myn dyn! pan oeddem ein dau
Lawenaf: ddyn ael winau!
Taro a wnaeth, terwyn oedd,
I rwst tarau.——

By heavens! when we two were fullest of joy: the nymph with brown eyebrow! the rumbling of thunder violently struck a sudden shock. D. ab Gwilym.

Mynach, s. m.—pl. t. od (mwn) A separate body, or individual; a monk; a pillar, or supporter in a building, as the post of a tent, or booth, and the four corner posts of a mill frame.

Somi Duw a mynach marw.

To deceive God with a dead monk. Adage.

Mynachaeth, s. m. (mynach) Monachism.
Mynachawl, a. (mynach) Monachal, monastic.
Mynaches, s. f.—pl. t. au (mynach) A female recluse, a nun.
Mynachlog, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mynach—llog) A monastery, a covenant.
Mynachlogaidd, a. (mynachlog) Monasterial.
Mynad, s. m.—pl. t. au (myn) A willing, a desiring; volition; demand.
Mynadwy, a. (mynad) That may be willed, desired, desirable, demandable.
Mynag, s. f.—pl. t. on (myn) That is uttered, declared, or spoken; a report, or recital.

Arwaesaf i leidr ei fynag.

A warrant for a thief is his own declaration. Adage.

Mynal, s. c. (myn) One who wills or desires.
Mŷnaidd, a. (mŷn) Like a young goat.
Mŷnan, s. c. dim. (mŷn) A young kid.
Mynas, s. f. (myn) A menace, a threat.
Mynasiad, s. m. (mynas) A menacing.
Mynasu, v. a. (mynas) To menace, to threaten.

Deai Corineus, adan droi bwyall deufiniawg yn ei law,—ac yn mynasu ei gyrchu a'r fwyall; ac yna y daethoedd cydymdeithion rhyngddynt.

Corineus advanced, brandishing a two-edged battle-ax in his hand, and menacing to strike him with the ax; and thereupon some friends came between them. Gr. ab Arthur.

Mynaswr, s. m.—pl. mynaswyr (mynas—gwr) A menacer, a threatener.
Mynasydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mynas) A mena cer.
Mynaw, v. a. (mwn) To penetrate; to stretch or extend out.
Mynawg, s. m. (myn) One who exercises his will; one who has his own will.

Rhedaint gorwydd; rhwydd pob traeth;
Cymyg mynawg marchogaeth.

Fleet is the steed; clear is every strand; the fancy of the high-minded one is chivalry. Llefoed.

Nid wyf fynawg blin:
Ni chwarddaf.——

I am no harassing high-minded one; I will not laugh.—— Aneurin.

Mynawg, a. (myn) Willing, or desirous; ready to do; courteous, civil. Gwr mynawg, a courteous man; mynawg fonedd, courteous nobility; mynawg wedd, a benign aspect; mynawg fenwyd, a benign state of bliss.
Mynawl, a. (myn) Relating to the will.
Mynawyd, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (mynaw) That penetrates; an awl. Mynawyd y bugel, y droedrudd the crane-bill.

Mynawydaw, v. a. (mynawyd) To pierce with an awl; to make use of an awl.
Myncawg, s. m. (mwng) Heath, or ling; also called grug, and myncoch.
Mynci, s. m.—pl. t. au (mwng) A hame.
Myncyn, s. m. dim. (mwng) A hame.
Mynechdid, s. f. (mynach) A monastery.
Myned, v. a. (mwn—ed) To individualize; to depart; to set out, to set off, to go. Myned â'r gamp, to bear away the palm.

Wedi myned âr gyrn a phibau.

After going on horns and pipes: or, become the common talk. Adage.

Nid myned a ddel eilwaith.

It is no going as to what comes again. Adage.

Myned â'r maen i'r wal.

To go with the stone to the wall. Adage.

Gwedi myn'd, er ail Indeg,
Hyd yn dy fron, y don deg!

After going, for the sake of the one like Indeg, into thy bosom, thou fair wave! D. ab Gwilym.

Mynedawl, a. (myned) Relating to departure.
Mynedfa, s. f.—pl. t. au (myned) Departure, a setting off; a procession.
Mynediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (myned) A going, or proceeding; a setting out, a departing.
Mynediant, s. m. (myned) A going; a departure.
Mynediw, a. (myned) Condescending, willing.
Mynedwy, s. m. (myned—gwy) A running water.

Lliw ewyn—lli llyn mynedwy.

The hue of the foam of the flood of a pool of running water. Sefnyn.

Mynegadwy, a. (mynag) Expressible, utterable.
Mynegai, s. c. pl. mynegeion (mynag) That informs, tells, or points out: an index.
Mynegawl, a. (mynag) Expressive, indicative.
Mynegedig, a. (mynag) Expressed, or declared.
Mynegfa, s. f. (mynag) A catalogue.
Mynegfys, s. m.—pl. t. edd (mynag—bys) The pointing finger, the fore-finger.
Mynegi, v. a. (mynag) To express, to tell, to relate, to report, to declare, to inform.

Meddyliau dynion, na'u bewyllys, nis gwyr namyn Duw ehun, ac y neb y myno Duw ei fynegi iddo.

The thoughts of men, nor their will, none knows except God himself, and such as God would declare to. Elucidarius.

Mynegiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mynag) A telling, expressing, or informing; a declaration, relation, or information.
Mynegiadawl, a. (mynegiad) Declaratory.
Mynegiadu, v. a. (mynegiad) To make a declaration or relation.
Mynegiaeth, s. m. (myneg) A recital, a report.

Mae Lloegr yn wag, a'm llygru a wnaeth;
Mae'n wagach Cymmry o'r mynegiaeth.

England is empty, and I am spoiled; Wales is more empty from the recital. L. G. Cothi, i Edmwnd i. Richmond.

Mynegiannu, v. a. (mynegiant) To make a declaration or recital.
Mynegiannus, a. (mynegiant) Declaratory.
Mynegiant, s. m. (mynag) A declaration.
Mynegin, a. (mynag) Expressive, declarative.
Myneginiaeth, s. m. (mynegin) Expression.

Yn mhob pall——
Genyd mae myneginiaeth.

In every failure thou hast a way to express. H. D. ab Ifan.

Mynegwr, s. m.—pl. mynegwyr (mynag—gwr) A teller, a declarer, a reporter, a reciter.
Mynegydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mynag) A reciter.
Mynen, s. f. dim. (myn) A little she kid.
Myniad, s. m. (myn) A willing; a having, or obtaining.
Mynial, s. m. (mwn) A guttural speaking.
Myniant, s. m. (myn) Volition, willing.
Myniar, s. f.—pl. mynieir (mwn—iar) A snipe.
Myniator, ger. (myniad) In willing; in obtaining, or in having.
Myniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myniad) One who obtains, or procures; a procurer.
Mynig, a. (myn) Apt to exert the will; willing.
Mynitor, sup. (myn) To be exerting the will.
Myniw, a. (mwn) Tending to project; jutting; peninsulated.
Mynogaeth, s. m. (mynawg) Courtesy, benignity, gentleness; humanity.
Mynogan, s. c. dim. (mynawg) A courteous one.
Mynogawl, a. (mynawg) Of a courteous nature.
Mynogen, s. f. dim. (mynawg) A courteous female
Mynogi, s. m. (mynawg) Courtesy, benignity, gentleness; humanity; generosity.

Ni wddant fan-feirdd; ni mawr gynfydd
Pwy a ennillo, o'r do ysydd:
Edewis eurwas clas cymreydd
Cenawon Mordai mynogi rhydd.

The puny poetasters know nought; there will be no looking for who shall bear the prize, of the present race; the splendid youth of the region of the mountains has left the whelps of Mordai of unrestrained courtesy. Meilyr.

Yfais o'i win
O falch fuelin,
A'i wisgoedd eurin,
A'i fynogi.

I drank of his wine out of the proud bugle horn, and his golden vests, and his courtesy I enjoyed. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Gwyndeyrn Prydain, prawf fy llochi
A'th aur rhudd, a'th fudd, a'th fynogi.

Splendid prince of Britain, essay to support me with thy ruddy gold, and thy favour, and thy courtesy. Ll. P. Moch, i D. ab Owain.

Mynogiant, s. m. (mynawg) Courtesy, benignity
Mynogrwydd, s. m. (mynawg) Courteousness.

Och am naf, am ner diwydrwydd!
Och am ner muner mynogrwydd!

Woe for the loss of the chief, for the lord of sincerity! Woe for the loss of the lord, the support of humanity! D. Benfras.

Mynor, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mwn) Marble. Maen mynor, marble stone.
Mynoraidd, a. (mynor) Like marble.
Mynorain, a. (mynor) Marmoreous.
Mynorawg, a. (mynor) Abounding in marble.
Mynorawl, a. (mynor) Of the quality of marble.
Mynoren, s. f. dim. (mynor) A piece of marble.
Mynori, v. a. (mynor) To incrust with marble; to become marble.
Mynoriad, s. m. (mynor) Marmoration.
Mynta, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mwnt) An aggregate; a million; also called Buna.

Deg rhialles yn y fynta.

Ten hundred thousand in a million. Adage.

Myntai, s. f.—pl. mynteioedd (mwnt) That is aggregated; a multitude, or a host; a troop. Mynteioedd byd, the multitudes of the world.
Mynteiad, s. m. (myntai) A congregating.
Mynteiaw, v. a. (myntai) To congregate.
Mynteiawg, a. (myntai) Congregated.
Mynteiawl, a. (myntai) Congregating.
Mynteiwr, s. m.—pl. mynteiwyr (myntai—gwr) One who collects together a company.
Myntumiad, s. m. (tumiad) A leading on, or encouraging; a supporting, a maintaining.
Myntumiaw, v. a. (tumiaw) To lead on, to encourage; to support, to maintain.
Myntumiawg, a. (tumiawg) Having encouragement; supported, maintained.
Myntumiawl, a. (tumiawl) Tending to lead on.
Myntumiwr, s. m.—pl. myntumwyr (tumiwr) An encourager; supporter.

Mynu, v. a. (myn) To exercise the will; to obtain sway; to obtain, to have; to seek, to procure; to insist, to will. A fyni di beth? Wilt thou have some? Mynaf, I will have.

Ni fyn pan gaffo, ni chaiff pan fyno.

He that will not (have) when he may
When he will (have) he shall have nay. Adage.

Perchen tir dietifedd o'i gorff a ddichawn briodoli ei dir i'r neb y myno.

A proprietor of land without heir of his body can appropriate his land to whomsoever he chooses. Welsh Laws.

Y fun a all a fyno,
Ai byw o wan, ai na bo;
Ni ddichon meddygon mai
Y m einioes, oni tra mynai.

The fair that can do what she pleases, whether a poor wight is to live, or that he shall not; the physicians of May will not be able to preserve my life, but whilst she chooses. Bedo Brwynllys.

Mynud, s. m.—pl. t. iau (myn) That is courteous, or social.

Gnawd nyth eryr yn mlaen dar,
Ac yn nghyfyrdy gwyr llachar:
Golwg fynud ar a gar.

Common is the eagle's nest in the top of the oak, and in the assembly house violent men: the eye of the fond one is on whom he loves. Llywarch Hen.

Mynud, a. (myn) Courteous; social; fond.

Ef yn llafar, ef yn fud, ef yn fynud
Ef yn wrdd, ef yn ddrud, pan dremyn dros dud.

He is eloquent, he is dumb, he is courteous, he is ardent, he is bold when he takes a glance over the land. Taliesin, i'r gwynt.

Mynud wrth folod, wrth filwyr bu gwrdd,
Bu gorddwy ar Allmyr;
Cadyr wryd, bryd Bran fab Llyr,
Cedawl, arwynawl eryr.

Attentive to praise, to warriors he was violent, he was a ruler on the foreign seas; mighty of body, with the mind of Bran son of Llyr, a bounteous and fierce eagle. D. Llwgwrn Mew.

Mynudaw, v. a. (mynud) To act kindly, or civilly; to become kind or civil.

Mynudawl, a. (mynud) Of courteous disposition.

Mynudedd, s. m. (mynud) Courteousness.

Mynudrwydd, s. m. (mynud) Courteous deportment or behaviour; civility.

Mynudwr, s. m.—pl. mynudwyr (mynud—gwr) A man of courteous manners.

Mynudyn, s. m. dim. (mynud) A gesture, a deportment, or conduct.

Mae yn dy garu fwyaf dyn
Ar ei gair a'i mynudyn.

She loves thee above all men, in her word and her deportment. T. Ll. D. ab Hywel.

Mynw, s. m. (mwn) That has action; a person; a body.

Mab Cedifor, cad ormail———
Mynw tòn, tremid y dygyrch,
Maengaen!———

The son of Cedifor, the tyrant of the battle, with a body of the hue of the wave, his approach to the stone covering has been seen! Cynddelw.

Yn myw mynw aches buches beirddion;
Yn muchedd gwledig gwlad orchorddon,
Gorddyfnws uddudd budd a berthon.

In life when a man his bosom was the refuge of bards; in the existence of the sovereign of the superior regions, he bequeathed to them profit and riches. Cynddelw, m. Cad. ab Madawg.

Rhy dalaf ym rhwyf———
Delw ym peirch a meirch mygr hydaith
Mynw eilon, mal gwylloh goddaith.

I will repay to my chief as he shall treat me with fair steeds impatient for the course, with body of the hind skimming like the sprites of the conflagration. Cynddelw.

Mynw, a. (mwn) Quick, active, apt.

Maeloging mwynfawr, mynw gyfod i gad;
Mygr fleiniad, flaid osod;
Anghudd urdd orudwy hynod
Angerdd flaodd anghlawdd anghlod.

Maeloging greatly kind, for war was quick
To rise; the splendid leader was a wolf
To tear; not hid his rank in bold career
Of wild commotion, to prevent disgrace.
Cynddelw, m. i. O. Gwynedd.

Mynwar, s. f.—pl. mynweir (mwn—gwar) A collar; a collar of draught harness.

Mynwawl, a. (mynw) Corporeous; personal.

Gweled yn myned mynwawl ddeddfau
Gwyl gyfarchafael, na chof amman,
Goresgynws Mab Duw.——

The corporeal principles were seen to be going on the festival of the ascension, doubt not the memorial, the Son of God ascended. Bin. ab Gwalchmai.

Mynwed, s. f. (mynw) Fellowship, company.

Ei eirchion i eirchiaid ar lled,
A'i aur rhudd, a'i fudd, a'i fynwed.

His favours scattered amongst suitors, with his ruddy gold, his bounty, and his society. Ll. P. Moch, i R. Gryg.

Mynwen, s. f.—pl. t. au (mynw) A sepulchre.

Rhaid yw weithian
Ai addef it' fal yddwy, wen,
Ai f'annedd ei i'r fynwen!

It is necessary at length, either to explain my condition to thee, fair maid, or the grave will become my dwelling! R. Ddu.

Mynwennawl, a. (mynwent) Monumental.

Mynwent, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (mynw) A sepulchre, a grave, a church-yard, a burial place.

Cyn plygu Rodri rwydd esgar, yn Mon,
Mynwentydd bu braenar.

Before Rodri was made to bend by the prosperous foe, in Mona, the burial grounds were made a fallow. Ll. P. Moch.

Mynwes, s. f.—pl. t. au (mynw) The bosom.

Gwae a fo a'i fefl yn ei fynwes.

Woe to such as carries his disgrace in his bosom. Adage.

Mynwesawl, a. (mynwes) Belonging to the bosom

Mynwesiad, s. m. (mynwes) A putting to or in the bosom.

Mynwesu, v. a. (mynwes) To put to the bosom.

Mynwor, s. f.—pl. t. au (mwn—gwor) A collar; a collar belonging to draught harness.

Aur melyn am ewyn mor
Tresi man trou ei mynwor.

Like yellow gold round the foam of the sea are the delicate tresses over her collar. D. ab Gwilym, i wallt Morfudd.

Myny, s. m. (mwn) That rises or ascends. With the preposition i, to, it forms adverbs; as I fyny, upwards, up, aloft: Awn i fyny, we will go up. In Gwent, mynydd is used.

Mynych, a. (mwn) Frequent, often. Yn fynych, frequently. adv. Frequently, often.

Bach a mynych fwyta, bach ac anfynych ddiota.

Little and frequent eating, little and unfrequent drinking. Adage.

Atfai gell i gi mynych ydd a iddi.

Should a dog have a chamber he would often go into it. Adage.

Mynychawl, a. (mynych) Frequentative.

Mynychedig, a. (mynych) Being frequented.

Mynychedd, s. m. (mynych) Frequency.

Mynychiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (mynych) Iteration, a rendering frequent; frequentation.

Mynychrwydd, s. m. (mynych) Frequentness.

Mynychu, v. a. (mynych) To frequent; to iterate

Ac efelly y bu yn mynychu atei drwy ysbaid saith mlynedd, heb wybod o neb, eithr ei anwyliaid ehun a oedd yn ei gwarchadw.

And in that manner he was frequenting to her during the space of seven years, without any one knowing, except his own confidential friends who were guarding her. Gr. ab Arthur.

Mynychwedd, s. f. (mynych—gwedd) A variety of forms, or appearances. a. Of many forms.

Mynychwedd arall
Mewn meddgyrn buall;
Moddgar hall hwyl moliant.

Variety of attendance with mead in buffalo horns, handsome the service exciting praise. Einion Offeiriad.

Mynychwr, s. m.—pl. mynychwyr (mynych—gwr) A frequenter.

Mynychydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (mynych) A frequenter.

Mynyd, s. m. (mwn) That is a small part or particle; a minute.

Mynydd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mwn) A mountain. I fynydd, upwards. See myny.

Gwell angbenawg mor nog angbenawg mynydd.

The necessitous at sea is better than the necessitous of the mountain. Adage.

Rhydd o'r blaen oedd y faenor,
Os rhydd y mynydd a'r mor.

Free therefore was the country, if free the mountain and the sea. G. ab I. Tew.

Mynyddawg, a. (mynydd) Mountainous, hilly.
Mynyddawl, a. (mynydd) Of the mountain.
Mynydd-dir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mynydd—tir) Mountain ground.
Mynyddiad, s. m.—pl. mynyddiaid (mynydd) A mountaineer, or inhabitant of the mountains.
Mynyddig, a. (mynydd) Mountainous, hilly.
Mynyddwr, s. m.—pl. mynyddwyr (mynydd—gwr) A mountaineer, or man of the mountain.
Mynyddyn, s. m. dim. (mynydd) A small mountain
Mynyglawg, s. f. (mwnwgl) The quinsy; the woody nightshade, or bitter-sweet.
Mynygldlws, s. m.—pl. mynygldlysau (mwnwgl—tlws) A neck ornament.
Mynygldorch, s. f.—pl. mynygldyrch (mwnwgl—torch) A collar or wreath for the neck.
Mynyglwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (mwnwgl—gwisg) A neck-kerchief; a neck-cloth.
Mynyn, s. m. dim. (myn) A little he kid.
Myngawg, a. (mwng) Having a mane; maned.

Nis crawn ced esgud rhag ysgwn,
Na thaiawg myngawg, na myngdwn.

Nor the heedless, nor the proud will collect treasure; nor a boor, with long mane, nor he that is cropt. Cynddelw.

Myngdwn, a. (mwng—twn) Having a cropt mane

E'm rhoddes o feirch——
Lliaws du, a dwn, a myngdwn melyn.

He gave me of steeds, some black, and dun, and mane-cropt yellow ones. Gwalchmai.

Myngen, s. f. dim. (mwng) The crest of a horse.
Myngfras, a. (mwng—bras) Thick-maned.

Meirch mwth myngfras
Y dan morddwyd mygrwas.

Swift and thick-maned steeds under the thigh of the splendid youth. Aneurin.

Myngial, s. m. (mwng) A gutteral manner of speaking.
Myngialu, v. a. (mwngial) To speak gutterally.
Myngialus, a. (myngial) Gutterally speaking.
Myngilaes, a. (mwng—llaes) Having long mane.
Myngilwyd, a. (mwng—llwyd) Grey-maned.
Mynglyd, a. (mwng) Being of the throat. Siarad yn fynglyd, to speak indistinctly, or thickly.
Myngus, a. (mwng) Of the throat, gutteral. Dyn myngus, a person who speaks indistinctly, mutteringly, or through the nose.
Myngwen, a. (mwng—gwen) White-maned.
Myngwyn, a. (mwng—gwyn) White-maned.
Myr, s. m. (my—yr) That is essential, or pure; that is intellectual. a. Essential, pure, or holy.

Mynw eofn, colofn cyfwyrain,
Myr meddgyrn mechdeyrn Mechain.

A bold person, a towering column, the spirit of meadhorns is the sovereign of Mechain. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Mair forwynaidd mor addwynaidd;
Mair gyflawnaidd myr gyflawnau.

Mary chaste of nature so benign; Mary all complete in holy perfections. I. ab R. ab I. Llwyd.

Myr, s. pl. aggr. (mor) That is infinite, and fluctuating; an aggregate of floods, or the sea, also ants, or emmets.

Llifawd fy ngheudawd fy nghyd oed dydd;
Llofrudd fy neurudd yn awr echwydd;
Lleufer ebyr myr morfeydd dylan,
Pan llewych huan ar fan fynydd.

My companion in my day's assignation bade my muse to flow; the spoiler of my cheeks in the evening hour; she that is bright like the light over the gulfs of the sea amidst the surrounding shores, when the sun illumes the lofty mountain. Ier. Fychan.

Myraeth, s. m. (myr) Purity, or essence.
Myrdwyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (myr—twyn) An ant-hillock.
Myrdd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (myr) Infinity; a myriad; or ten thousand. Mil-can-myrdd, a hundred thousand myriads.

Gwell un haul no myrdd o ser.

Better is one sun than a myriad of stars. Adage.

Caffant fyrdd o feirddion eu llês
O foli Rodri ryodres.

A myriad of bards will find their benefit from praising Rodri the magnificent. Ll. P. Moch.

Myrddfed, s. m. (myrdd) One of a myriad. a. Belonging to one out of a myriad.
Myrddiwn, s. m.—pl. myrddiynau (myrdd) A million.
Myrddiynfed, s. m. (myrddiwn) A millionth. a. Millionth.
Myred, s. m. (myr) That is pure or essential.
Myredd, s. m. (myr) A pure or essential state.
Myriad, s. m. (myr) A making pure or fair.
Myriawl, a. (myr) Of essential nature.
Myrion, s. pl. aggr. (myr) Ants, or emmets.

Gwneuthur mynydd o dwmpath myrion.

To make a mountain of the ants' hill. Adage.

Myrionen, s. f. dim. (myrion) An emmet.
Myrnder, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.
Myrndra, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.
Myrnedd, s. m. (mwrn) Sultriness, closeness.
Myrniad, s. m. (mwrn) A growing sultry.
Myrniaw, v. n. (mwrn) To become sultry.
Myrierid, s. pl. aggr. (myr—iar) Pearls.

It' hau fy ngherdd nag ef fid
Mal heu rhag moch myrierid.

The spreading of my songs before thee, be it not like casting pearls before swine. Ll. P. Moch.

Myrieriden, s. f. dim. (myrierid) A pearl.
Myrwerydd, s. m. (myr—gwerydd) A cause of motion; distraction; delirium.

Mydwyf myrwerydd
Molawd Duw Ddofydd.

I am agitator of the praise of God the renovator. Taliesin.

Nid oes yn cadw oes, a moes, a mynudydd
Llwyth Maried mawreddus eu merwerydd.

There is no one supporting life, and manners, and courtesy, of the tribe of Maried dignified their cause of agitation. Gw. Brycheiniawg i Ddewi.

Prudd fydd yn myrwerydd mor
Y llong a gollo ei hangor.

Dismal will be in the tumult of the sea the ship that should lose its anchor. W. Lleyn.

Myrydd, s. pl. aggr. (myr) The sea rushes.
Mysangu, v. a. (sangu) To trample, to tread.

Caerusalem a fysengir tan draed.

Jerusalem will be trampled under feet. W. Salisbury.

Mysawr, s. m. (mws) That is of strong scent.
Mysg, s. m. (my—ysg) The midst, the middle. Yn mysg, ar fysg, i fysg, amongst.

Trydydd Arianllu Ynys Prydain a elai gan Gaswallawn fab Beli, a Gwenwynwyn a Gwanar, meibion Lliaf fab Nwyfre, ac Arianrod ferch Beli eu mam; a'r gwyr hyn o Erch a Heledd pan hanoedynt; ac a aethynt gyda Chaswallawn eu hewythr ar fysg y Celsariaid o'r ynys hon: Sef lle y mae y gwyr hyny yn Ngwasgwyn.

The third silver host of the isle of Britain went with Caswallon son of Beli, and Gwenwynwyn and Gwanar, the sons of Lliaf son of Nwyfre, and Arianrod, daughter of Beli, their mother: and those men were natives of Erch and Heledd; and they went with Caswallon their uncle amongst the Cæsarians out of this island: Where those men dwell is Gascogne. Trioedd.

Mysgaid, a. (mysg) Mixt, or compound.
Mysgawl, a. (mysg) Tending to mix; compound.
Mysgedig, a. (mysg) Being mixed or blended.
Mysgedd, s. m. (mysg) The state of being mixed.
Mysgi, s. m. (mysg) A mixed state; confusion.

Gwryd arddercbawg marchawg mysgi.

The exalted manliness of the knight of tumult. Aneurin.

Mysgiad, s. m. (mysg) A mixing, a blending.
Mysglwyth, s. m. (mysg—llwyth) A mixed race.
Mysgu, v. a. (mysg) To mix, to mingle, to blend.
Mysorig, a. (mysawr) Yielding a stench. Wy mysorig, an addle egg.
Myswrn, s. m.—pl. mysyrnau (swrn) Any small edged tool, or instrument.
Myswynog, s. f.—pl. t. au (swynog) A farrow cow, a cow that has passed a season without calving, and has milk through the winter.
Mysygan, s. f. (sygan) Soft expression.
Mysygandawd, s. m. (mysygan) Fond language.
Mysygannu, v. a. (mysygan) To use soft language.
Mysyglawg, a. (mwswgl) Having moss, mossy.

Ni bydd maen mysyglawg o'i fynych drafod.

A stone will not be mossy that is frequently turned. Adage.

Mysygliad, s. m. (mwswgl) A gathering of moss.
Mysyglu, v. n. (mwswgl) To gather moss.

Y maen a dreigla ni fysygla.

The stone that rolls no moss will gather. Adage.

Mysyniad, s. m. (mwswn) A gathering of moss.
Mysynllyd, a. (mwswn) Apt to gather moss.
Mysynu, v. n. (mwswn) To gather moss.

Maen a dreigla ni fysyna.

A stone that rolls will gather no moss. Adage.

Myth, a. (my—yth) That pervades; that infects; a miasma.
Mythder, s. m. (mwth) Swiftness, velocity.
Mythdra, s. m. (mwth) Swiftness, velocity.
Mythiad, s. m. (mwth) A giving swiftness.
Mythliad, s. m. (mythl) A rendering torpid.
Mythlu, v. (mythl) To make torpid; to canker.
Mythu, v. a. (mwth) To give swiftness.
Mythl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myth) The state of being pervaded, or infected

Llwyr gwae fi, wyf gwyni gwad,
Mythl oerwych gael methl arnad!

I am quite wretched with the ills of disappointment, that the coldly torturing canker should find a way to spoil thee!
D. ab Gwilym, i'r fedwen.

Mywyliau, s. pl. aggr. (gwyl) Vigils, or eves of holidays.

Pan ddaw y garawys,
Mal y daw mywyliau dwys.

When lent shall come as the incessant vigils come.
M. ab Rhys.

Myw, s. m. (my) That has activity, motion, or life; an ant, or emmet.
Mywion, s. pl. aggr. (myw) Ants, pismires; also called grugiaid, morion, myr, and myrion.

Pan fo'r mywion mewn clyd lletty,
Heb na gwynt, na gwlaw i'w drygu,
Ceir y ceiliog rhedyn ynfyd
Gwedi rhynu a marw o anwyd.

When the ants are in warm lodging, with neither wind nor rain to hurt them, the silly grasshopper will be found stiff and dead in the cold. Engl. Hawdd ei Hebgor.

Mywionyn, s. m. dim. (mywion) An ant, emmet.

Oni weli di'r mywionyn,
A'r segurllyd ceiliog rhedyn;
Pan fo'r naill yn cywain adre——
Bydd y llall heb ofal arno.

Dost thou not see the ant and the idle grasshopper; when the one is carrying home, the other is void of care.
Engl. Hawdd ei Hebgor.

Mywyn, s. m. (gwyn) Pith; also called mwydion.
Mywynaidd, a. (mywyn) Like pith; pithy.
Mywynawg, a. (mywyn) Abounding with pith.
Mywynt, s. m. (mywyn) The pith, or core.

N.

NA, s. m. r. A cessation of concomitancy, or a negation of proceeding with; that implies a negative or denial; a no.

Gwell na no gau eddewid.

A no is better than a false promise. Llefoed.

Fy llysfam a dyngwys im na chaffwyf wraig byth hyd na chaffwyf Olwen.

My mother-in-law did swear to me that I should not ever have a wife until that I should have Olwen.
H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Na, conj. Nor, neither; either. Dyma beth heb na dechreu na diwedd, here is a thing without either beginning or end. It is used before a word with a consonant initial.—Na'm, nor my; na'th, nor thy; na'i, nor his, nor her; na'n, nor our; na'ch, nor your; na'u, nor their: Contractions of na ym, na yth, na ei, na ein, na eich, na eu. Na ym caseir, may I not be hated.

Ni fyn cariad ei wadu,
Na'i ddangaws i llaws lu.

Love will not have itself concealed, nor its being shewn to a croud of people. D. ab Gwilym.

Na, adv. No, not, with imperative verbs, and in answering interrogatories, when governed by a verb with a consonant initial. Na ladd, thou shalt not kill: A fu hi yno? Has she been there? Na fu, or na ddo, not been, not taken place, or she has not been. It is equivalent to that, or that not, in wishing; as, Na buasit ti yno! O that thou hadst been there!

Na choll dy hen-ffordd er dy ffordd newydd.

Lose not thy old way for the sake of thy new way. Adage.

A fu ei ddoethach hyd Fon?
Na fu un: nef i Einion!

Has there been one wiser than him from here to Mon? there has not been one: heaven to Einion! L. G. Cothi.

Nabod, s. m.—pl. t. au (na—bod) Cognizance.
Nabod, v. a. (na—bod) To know, to recognize.

Celfydd tafod hawdd ei nabod.

A tongue artist is easily known. Adage.

Wrth eu gweithredoedd nesa'
Y mae nabod drwg a da.

By their nearest works they are to be known, the evil and the good. T. Ll. D. ab Hywel.

Nabodaeth, s. m. (nabod) Cognition, cognizance.
Nabodiad, s. m. (nabod) Cognition, a knowing.
Nabyddadwy, a. (nabyddu) Cognoscible.
Nabyddiad, s. m. (nabyddu) Cognition.
Nabyddiaeth, s. m. (nabyddu) Cognizance.
Nabyddu, v. n. (nabod) To recognize, to know.

Nebyddied flined fy mro,
Wb! o'r hin o'r wybr heno!

Let her know how afflicting my condition, fie! what weather from the firmament to-night! D. ab Gwilym.

Nid wrth faint ei leferydd
Y nebyddir dyn dedwydd.

Not by the magnitude of his discourse is the virtuous man to be known. T. Ll. D. ab Hywel.

Nabyddus, a. (nabyddu) Cogniscitive.

Nac, conj. (na) Nor, neither; either. It is used before words, with vowel initials, as na precedes those with consonant initials.

Nac, adv. No, not, in negative imperatives, and in negative answers; than, in phrases of comparison; and that, or, oh that, in expressions of wishing. It is used before words with vowel initials for NA, which precedes consonant initials. Nac ammhau, doubt not.

Gwell nac nog addaw ni wnëydd.

Better is a denial than to promise what will not be done. Adage.

Naca, v. a. (nac) To make a denial, to deny.

Nacâad, s. m. (naca) Abnegation, a refusal.

Nacâawl, a. (naca) Belonging to denial, negative.

Nacâu, v. a. (naca) To refuse, or to deny.

Medd yr enaid——
A dreuliais a fu fau;
A roddais a sy fau;
A gedwais a gollais;
A nacêais sydd i'm colli.

Saith the soul—what I have wasted has been mine; what I have given is mine; what I saved I have lost; what I refused is to consign me to perdition.

Nacäus, a. (naca) Apt to deny; denying.

Nacâwr, s. m.—pl. nacâwyr (naca—gwr) A refuser, a denyer.

Nacwy, a. (nac) Tending to deny; negative.

I'r Ner edmycer, oedd nacwy o serch,
Uniawn hoewdeg ferch o Nanheudwy.

To the Lord be she hallowed, that was negative of love, the upright and briskly fair maid of Nanheudwy. Sefnyn.

Nach, s. m.—pl. neichiau (na—ach) That is obstructive. Brys-neichiau cad, the sudden efforts of battle.

Nad, s. f.—pl. t. au (na—ad) A shrill cry, a howl; clamour, noise. Taw a dy nadau drwg, have done with thy ugly cries.

Nàd, s. m. (na) A conditional negative or no. adv. That, that not. It is used before words with vowel initials. O, nad elai hi yno! O, that she would but go there! Pan nad oeddwn yno, when that I was not there.

Och wyr, nad aethant yn wreigedd.

Fie on the men, that they are not become women. Adage.

Och Dduw Tad, o chuddiwyd hi,
Nad oeddwn amdo iddi.

Oh! God the Father, since she has been covered over, that I had not been a shroud for her. D. Nanmor.

Nadael, v. a. (nad) To hinder, to obstruct. Nad iddi fyned, hinder her from going; nedais iti dalu, I hindered thee from paying.

Nadawl, a. (nad) Tending to hinder, obstructive.

Nadel, v. a. (nad) To hinder, to obstruct.

Nadiad, s. m. (nad) A hindering, or obstructing.

Nadredd, s. pl. aggr. (nadr) Snakes, adders.

Nadreddawg, a. (nadredd) Abounding with snakes

Nadu, v. a. (nad) To utter shrill cries, to howl.

Nadwr, s. m.—pl. nadwyr (nad—gwr) One who utters shrill cries, a screamer.

Nadr, s. f.—pl. t. odd (nad) A snake.

Nadd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—add) That is whole, complete, or entire; that is formed, wrought or worked; that is cut or chipt.

Nadd, a. (ny—add) That is complete or whole; wrought, or worked. Careg nadd, a stone that may be wrought, or a free stone.

Pa beth a wnei—
O gofyn fern-ddyn y fost
Rhan nadd yr hyn ni wyddost!

What wilt thou do if a rattling chap of boasting should ask about the artificial part, the which thou dost not know! Edm. Prys, i W. Cynwal.

Naddadwy, a. (nadd) Capable of being wrought into form; capable of being hewn.

Naddawl, a. (nadd) Relating to a working or hewing into form; hewing; sculpturing.

Dywed imi——hanes y beirdd;
Pa wyr fu ar gerdd gu gynt
Naddawl athrawon iddynt.

Declare to me the history of the bards: what men were, of the lovely song of yore, instructive teachers to them. Edm. Prys.

Naddedig, a. (nadd) Being wrought or worked into form; hewn, cut, or chipt.

Naddedigaeth, s. m. (naddedig) The act of working into form; the act of chipping.

Naddfaen, s. m.—pl. naddfeini (nadd—maen) A stone that may be worked; free stone; hewn stone.

Costes——
Ieuan ran rwydd, dŷ difeth,
Naddfain, a gwyngalch, falch fath;
Neb ni chyst y rhyw byst byth.

Ieuan, of liberal parts, bore the expence of a substantial house, of wrought stones, and white wash, proud the plan; no one will ever bear the cost of similar pillars. Hillyn.

Naddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nadd) A working into form; a cutting, hewing, or chipping.

Naddiad dy foch nadd yn rhwy.

The cutting of thy cheek let it be cut close. Adage.

Naddial, v. a. (nadd) To be cutting or chipping.

Naddiaeth, s. m. (nadd) The practice or art of hewing into form.

Naddiaeth befr ni ddaw o'th ben,
Er neb, ond mydr annyben.

No fairly formed subject will come out of thy lips, for the sake of any body, but a drawling verse. Edm. Prys.

Naddiant, s. m. (nâdd) The act of working into form; the state of being wrought.

Naddion, s. pl. (nadd) Chippings, shreds, lint.

Naddo, adv. (na—do) Not done, not taken place.

Naddu, v. a. (nadd) To work or cut into form; to hew, to cut, to chip.

Awn i wersyll y Syriaid: o cadwant hwy ni yn fyw, byw fyddwn; ac os naddant ni, byddwn feirw.

Let us go into the camp of the Syrians: if they will preserve us alive, we shall live; and if they will cut us off, we shall die. S. Trefredyn.

Naddwr, s. m.—pl. naddwyr (nadd—gwr) One who works or cuts into form; a hewer, a chipper.

Naf, s. m.—pl. neifion (ny—af) That embraces or comprehends, a forming principle; one that forms, or constructs, a creator; the Lord.

Pwyll a'm cyfeiryd,
O'r creawdr, o'r cyd
O'r Mab, o'r Ysbryd,
O'r iawnfryd fri;
O'r Drindawd Undawd, un dras â mi,
Un dra dregaredd, unwedd ofri;
Undeg dair person,
Uch archengylion,
Undonion neifion,
Nerth heb drengi.

Reason informs me of the Creator, of the junction of the Son, of the Spirit, of the rightly conceived pre-eminence; of the Triune Unity, one in kindred with me, one excelling in mercy, of universal glory; three persons in one fairly joined, higher than archangels, creators one in attributes, of power without end. Gwalchmai.

Nafawl, a. (naf) Relating to formation; being wrought or formed.

Nafiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (naf) An operation.

Diwg y rhoed ar dy grair
Dyfiad heb nafiad nefair.

Fairly has been bestowed on thy jewel a growth without the operation of a hand. H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys.

Na ddifa na nafa neb,
Gochel wneuthur creulondeb.

Destroy not, cut not any body, beware of doing a cruelty. Mor. Talai.

Nag, s. m. (na) A negative; a denial.

Gwell nag nog addaw ni wneir.

Better a refusal than to promise what will not be done. Adage.

Gwell nag no dau eddewid.

A denial is better than two promises. Adage.

———Cair gweled
Nad da mynych nag am ged.

It shall be seen that a frequent denial of a boon is not good. Llywarch Hen.

Nag, conj. (na) Nor, neither; either. It is used before words with vowel initials.

Nag, adv. (na) No, not; that, o that. It is used before words with vowel initials. Nag ê, no not, not it, it not, or not so; nag ydyw, nag yw, it is not; nag oes, there is not; nag af, I will not go; nag wyf, I am not; nag wyt, thou art not; nag yw, he she or it is not; nag ym, nag ydym, we are not; nag ych, nag ydych, ye are not; nag ynt, nag ydynt, they are not.

Car y dyn da, ac nag anghar y dyn drwg.

Love the good man, and do not hate the bad man. Adage.

Nage, s. m. (nag—e) A negative, to answer particular questions. adv. Not that, not so, no.

Nagu, v. a. (nag) To refuse, to deny; to hinder.

Crist culwydd——
O 'm rhang lles neges na'm nagwy.

Christ the gracious one, of my craved errand of good do not deny me. Cynddelw.

Nai, s. m.—pl. neiaint (na) That separates or branches of; a nephew.

Nid diwyd heb nai.

Not adherent without a nephew. Adage.

Naid, s. f.—pl. neidiau (na—id) A recess; a withdrawment; a refuge, or sanctuary; a leap, or jump.

Gresyn oedd na chai groes naid,
I gynnull da rhag enaid!

It was a pity that he should not have a cross of refuge, to accumulate good for the soul! D. Llwyd.

Athraw in' oll, aeth i'r naid,
Oedd Ieuan: och na ddywaid.

A teacher to us all, who is gone to the refuge, was Ieuan—alas, that he speaks not. G. D. Vehain.

Bwrw naid i'r wybr a wnai
Ar hyder yr ehedai.

He would give a bound towards the sky in confidence that he should fly. T. Aled, i farch.

Naill, pron. (nall) One of two, one or the other; one. Ar y naill tu, on one side; naill ai hwn, ai hwna, ai hwnw, either this person masculine, or that one present, or that one absent.

Y naill wenwyn a ladd y llall.

The one poison will destroy the other. Adage.

Naill, conj. (ny—aill) Either, else, or.

Naill ai llwynog ai llwyn rhedyn.

Either a fox or a tump of fern. Adage.

Nain, s. f.—pl. neinoedd (ny—ain) Grandmother.

Nais, s. m.—pl. neisiau (ny—ais) A band, or tie, the being trimmed, dressed, or made elegant.

Naith, s. m.—pl. neithion (na—ith) That is past or completed; that is given; troth, faith.

Nall, pron. (ny—all) One of two; one. Nall ac y llall, one and the other. Gwent.

Nam, s. m.—pl. t. au (na) A mark, or stigma; a defect, fault, blemish, or maim; an offence, or sin; an exception.

Yn nghyweithas nam na'm bo myned.

Into the company of iniquity may I not be going. Ll. P. Moch.

Gwnaetham nam, a rhyfedd ryfu.

We committed a fault, and wonderful it was. Elidr Sais.

Oni cheidw Duw rhag nam,
Fe dripia'r ferch lle tripia'r fam.

If God do not keep against a fault, the daughter will make a slip where the mother slips. Adage.

Nam, conj. (na) Except, but, save, only.

Nam saith ni ddyrraith o Gaer Sidi.

Only seven there proceeded not from Caer Sidi. Taliesin.

Named, conj. (nam) Except, but, save. Named un, except one; named fi, except me.

Namiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nam) A making a mark, making a defect, a blemishing, an exception.

Namu, v. a. (nam) To stigmatize; to render defective; to except.

Namwy, v. a. (nam) To make exception.

Namwyn, conj. (nam) Except, but, save.

Namwyn Duw nid oes dewin.

Except God there is none that knows the future. Llywarch Hen.

Namyn, s. m. (nam) An exception. conj. Except, but, save.

Ni thag namyn cènad.

An objection will not choak a messenger. Adage.

Nân, s. m. (na) Something distinct; a what. adv. What, what now, now. Wela nan, well what now, or well what do you want.

Nant, s. m.—pl. nentydd (nan) A hollow formed by water, a ravine; a mountain torrent, a brook. It enters into the composition of a great many names of places.

Ac mewn naint llifeiriaint llwyd.

And in the brooks were muddy torrents. D. ab Gwilym.

Gwar yw nannau'r hyd y ddol,
A siriol yw eu gweled.

Gentle are the brooks along the dale, and charming is it to see them. Gwil. Tew.

Nar, s. m.—pl. t. edd (ny—ar) That is forward; that is abortive; a dwarf, a puny thing; an ape.

O fadredd, O nar, O erthyl, O ynfyd, O ffol trallodedig! py le yr awr hon y mae dy ystafelloedd gwychion!

Oh filth, Oh thou puny thing, Oh thou miscarriage, Oh thou mad one, Oh distracted simpleton! where are now thy splendid apartments! Marchawg Crwydrad.

Naraidd, a. (nar) Abortive, dwarfish, or puny.

Nareiddiad, s. m. (naraidd) Dwarfishness.

Nareiddiaw, v. n. (naraidd) To become dwarfish.

Nareiddrwydd, s. m. (naraidd) Dwarfishness.

Naru, v. n. (nar) To be abortive, to become puny.

Nas, adv. (na—ys) That not, may not. It is of the same force with na; but when used, it preserves to the initial of the word that follows its radical power; as, nas delo moni, for na ddelo moni, that she come not.

Nid tylawd ond nas cymero.

He is not poor but that does not enjoy. Adage.

Bychan y tal cynghor gwraig, ond gwae i wr nas cymero.

A wife's advice is of little worth, but woe to the husband that will not take it. Adage.

Naw, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ny—aw) That is up or ultimate; that limits; nine, or the number nine. a. Nine.

Tri chaled byd: maen callt, dur naw gwyniad, a chalon mab y crinwas.

The three hard things of the world: a flint stone, steel nine times heated, and the heart of the son of avarice. Trioedd.

Y tri naw arbenig: naw ton y weilgi, naw radd y nef, a naw mis tymp.

The three peculiar nines: the nine waves of the ocean, the nine orders of heaven, and the nine months of gestation. Trioedd.

Nawban, s. m.—pl. t. au (naw—ban) That consists of nine verses, a term in prosody. a. Of nine parts or verses.

Nawbanawg, a. (nawban) Of nine syllables.

Nawd, s. f. (naw) What is predominant; that is efficient; nature, a character, or trait.

> Ti cymerit gnawd,
> O fru morwyndawd
> A dynawl giwdawd
> O nawd newydd.

> Thou didst become flesh, from the womb of virginity with mankind, of nature new. D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

> Yna gwelwn o'r gwaelawd
> Un o'r naint yn orr ei nawd.

> Then I could perceive from below one from the brook in dismal plight. Ithel Ddu.

Nawd, adv. (naw) Effectually; easily, aptly.

> Ni nawd gymmydd blaidd â drych.

> A wolf is not easily reconciled to a mirror. Adage.

> Ni nawd difenwir cywraint.

> The ingenious is not easily discomfited. Adage.

Nawdeg, s. m. (naw—deg) Ninety, nine tens.

Nawdd, s. m.—pl. noddau (naw) Refuge, protection, sanctuary, patronage; privilege.

> Goreu nawdd diniweidrwydd.

> The best protection is innocence. Adage.

> Ni thores Arthur nawdd gwraig.

> Arthur broke not the protection of a woman. Adage.

> Dyfnwal a roes noddau i'r ereidr.

> Dyfnwal assigned privileges to the ploughs. Gr. ab Arthur.

> Nawdd pob merch wyf o'i erchi;
> Ag o chaf nawdd gwychaf fi:
> Ni ofynaf, myn f'einioes!
> Er gair mawr, nawdd gwr i'm oes.

> The protection of every woman I implore; and should I protection have, I bravely shall go on: I will not crave, upon my life! barring a boasting word, the protection of a man while I live. G. ab H. ab Tudur.

Nawddosgordd, s. f. (nawdd—gosgordd) A retinue of protection.

Nawed, s. m. (naw) A ninth. a. One ninth.

Nawedran, s. f.—pl. t. au (nawed—rhan) A ninth part. a. Of one ninth part.

Nawedwaith, s. f. (nawed—gwaith) Ninth time.

Nawf, s. m.—pl. nofion (naw) A swim. Nawf pysgodyn, the swim or wind bladder of a fish.

Nawfed, s. m. (naw) A ninth. a. Ninth.

> Nawfed tafodiawg yw yngnad.

> The ninth speaker is a judge. Welsh Laws.

> A mi ddysgoganaf rhag ton nawfed.

> And I will declare the future before the ninth wave. Myrddin.

> Efa—hirdwf o'i heurdudded—
> Lliw ewynfriw teg rhag ton nawfed:
> Nawfed ran ym poen er pan aned.

> Efa, of stately growth in her golden vest, of the hue of the fair spraying foam before the ninth wave: the ninth part of my pain from the time she was born. Cynddelw.

Nawfed-dydd, s. m. (nawfed—dydd) The ninth day, a time of appearance in law.

Nawgwaith, s. m. (naw—gwaith) The number of nine times. a. Nine times.

Nawmis, s. m. (naw—mis) Nine months. a. Of nine months.

> Cyd celer nawnos, ni chelir nawmis.

> Whilst nine nights may be concealed, nine months will not be concealed. Adage.

Nawn, s. m.—pl. nonau (naw) That is at the summit; the meridian, or noon; a noon meal.

> Gwasanaeth Duw yw gwneuthur iawn,
> Nid gweddiaw bore a nawn.

> The service of God is to do justice, and not to pray morning and noon. Hen Saffin.

> Tud achles boddles boddlawn cerddorion
> Cerddesynt am eu nawn.

> The land its safety gains when minstrels are contented, of their noon-tide meal secured. Cynddelw, m. t. O. Gwynedd.

Nawnawl, a. (nawn) Belonging to noon.

Nawnoldeb, s. m. (nawnawl) Meridionality.

Nawnu, v. a. (nawn) To raise up; to uphold; to come to the meridian.

> Arth warth wrthodiad, a'm nad, a'm nawn,
> Tra fu.——

> A boar rejecting shame, who kept me from departing, who upheld me whilst he was. Cynddelw, m. Riryd.

Nawplyg, s. m. (naw—plyg) That consists of nine folds. a. Nine fold.

Nawradd, s. f. (naw—gradd) That consists of nine degrees; the nine degrees, or the heavenly hierarchy. a. Of nine gradations.

Nawrhyw, a. (naw—rhyw) Of nine sorts. Cawl nawrhyw, soup made of nine sorts of herbs.

Naws, s. f.—pl. t. au (naw) Nature, disposition, quality, temperament; a trait, or trace. Dyn da ei naws, a person of good disposition; ni wn i naws am dano, I know not a trace of it, or I know nothing of it. Sil.

> Nid un naws gwyros a gwern.

> The privet and the alder are not of the same nature. Adage.

> Terwyn gwyn brwyn bron
> Nis cel naws calon;
> Treigl i'w hwy hon
> Tragiew aiar.

> A severe complaint of the throbbing breast the quality of the heart will not conceal; a journey to visit her is terribly vexatious. G. ab Ll. ab Dafydd.

> Ni chan y gog, serchog sydd,
> Nes deilio naws y dolydd.

> The cuckoo will not sing, that is amorous, until nature covers the dales with leaves. T. Prys.

Nawsaidd, a. (naws) Genial, kind, tender, soft.

> Anllad rwydd a'm dygai i'm hystafell, ac a'm gosodai mewn gwely esmwyth nawsaidd.

> Sensuality conducted me to my chamber, and put me in an easy soft bed. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Nawsain, a. (naws) Tending to softness.

Nawsawl, a. (naws) Of a temperate nature.

Nawsber, a. (naws—per) Kindly sweet.

Nawsedig, a. (naws) Being made genial, or tender, tempered.

Nawsedigaeth, s. m. (nawsedig) The act of rendering genial or temperate; the act of becoming temperate, or genial.

Nawsedd, s. m. (naws) Temperature; disposition.

Nawseidd-dra, a. (nawsaidd) Temperateness.

Nawseiddiad, s. m. (nawsaidd) A rendering genial or natural; a becoming genial.

Nawseiddiaw, v. a. (nawsaidd) To render genial, kind, or tender; to fill with tenderness; to become genial or tender; to become soft.

> Cariad perffaith a ira, ac a nawseiddia y galon.

> Charity doth refresh, and doth soften the heart. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Nawseiddiawl, a. (nawsaidd) Temperamental.

Nawseiddrwydd, s. m. (nawsaidd) Temperateness

Nawsiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (naws) A forming the nature, disposition, or quality; a tempering; a pervading; a filtration.

Nawsiannawl, a. (nawsiant) Temperamental.

Nawsiannu, v. a. (nawsiant) To render temperamental; to cause a pervasion.

Nawsiant, s. m. (naws) Temperament; pervasion.

Nawsiaw, v. a. (naws) To form the nature, disposition, or quality; to temper; to pervade, to ooze, to filtrate.

Nawsill, s. f. (naw—sill) That consists of nine syllables; nine syllables. a. Of nine syllables.

Nawsillawg, a. (nawsill) Of nine syllables.

Nawsineb, s. m. (naws) Temperament; pervasion.

Nawsoldeb, s. m. (nawsawl) Temperature.

Nawsoledd, s. m. (nawsawl) Temperature.

Nawsoli, v. a. (nawsawl) To temper; to soften.
Nawsolrwydd, s. m. (nawsawl) Temperateness.
Nawswyllt, a. (naws—gwyllt) Of a wild disposition, of a furious nâture; passionate.
Nawter, s. f. (nawd) Nature, quality; habit, or custom. Mae ynot ryw nawter ddrwg, thou hast got some bad habit. Sil.
Nawtur, s. f. (nawd) Efficient principle; nature.
NE, s. m. r. A state of going or passing, a hue.
Ne, conj. (ne, s.) Or, otherwise, else, either.

Ne i affaith tan uffern.

Or to the influence of the fire of hell. H. Daf.

Nëad, s. m. (ne) An opening to let out.
Neb, pron. (ne—eb) Whatever, any, any one, none, somebody, any body, nobody. a. Any, some, none.—Y neb a elo, whosoever that goes.

Dyn ni wnai daioni i neb
Ydyw un â dau wyneb.

A man that would not do good to any is the one with a double face. D. ab Gwilym.

Ni roe neb, ac ni rown i
Beren bren er ei sori.

There would not be given by any body, and I would not give a chip, though he were affronted. Gr. Gryg.

Nebawd, s. m. (neb) Any body, nobody.
Nebdyn, s. m. (neb—dyn) Any person, any one.
Neble, s. m. (neb—lle) Any place, no place. adv. No place, no where.
Nebpell, s. m. (neb—pell) Any distance. adv. At no distance, not far.
Nebrhyw, s. m. (neb—rhyw) Any kind. adv. Of any sort; not any sort.
Nebun, s. m. (neb—un) Any one, somebody; nobody.

Nid mòr ddiarheb nebun
I'n gwlad ni a hi ei hun.

Not so famous any one in our country as she herself. D. ab Gwilym.

Hoen ffysg, da ddysg, nid oedd un,
Huan wybr, a hi nebun.

Sprightly bloom of health, of good instruction, there were not one, luminary of the sky, and she nobody. D. ab Gwilym, i Angharad.

Nedd, s. f.—pl. nydd (ny—edd) That forms a whirl or turn; a small dingle or hollow; a place where any thing rests; also nits on the hair.
Neddai, s. f. (nadd) That works into form.
Neddair, s. f. (nedd) The hollow of the hand, the grasp of the hand; the hand.

Pen a borthaf i'm neddair,
Eryr echwydd, oedd ni gair!

A head I bear in my hand of the eagle of the country, who was and will not again be had! Llywarch Hen.

A'i neddair, f'anwyl-grair fwyn
Y nyddodd fedw yn addwyn.

With her hand my kind dear jewel has elegantly entwined the birch. D. ab Gwilym.

Neddawg, a. (nedd) Abounding with smalls, whirls, turns, or rests; abounding with nits.
Nedden, s. f. dim (nêdd) A single nit.
Neddyf, s. f. (nadd) A tool for cutting or working into form, and adze.

Tyfiad heb naddiad neddyf,
Tŷ, ar un piler y tyf.

A growth having not the operation of the adze; a house, upon one pillar it rises up. D. ab Gwilym.

Nef, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ny—ef) A limit of a course, a turn, place of rest, a hollow, heaven. Ty yn y nef, the house in the hollow; there are places so called.

A ranodd nef a gafas.

He that has distributed has obtained heaven. Adage.

Pump tywarchen y sydd; sef, daiar, dwfr, tan, awyr, a nef; ac o'r pedair cyntaf pob defnydd difywyd; ac o'r nef Duw, a phob bywyd, a bywydawl; ac o ymgyd y pump hyn pob peth, ai bywydawl, ai anmywydawl y bo.

Five elements there are; that is to say, earth, water, fire, air, and the heaven: and out of the four first comes every inanimate matter; and of the heaven God, and all of life, and living; and from the conjunction of these five come all things, or animate, or inanimate they be. Barddas.

Pan ddyfo Trindawd—
Llu nef amdano,
Llwyth llydan ato,
Cyrdd a cherddorion,
A chathlau engylion,
Dyrchafant o feddau—y meirw.

When the Trinity shall come surrounded by the host of heaven, pressing to him an extensive throng, with the songs of minstrels, and the hymns of angels, out of the graves the dead shall rise. Taliesin.

Nefair, s. f. (nef) An epithet for the opening or grasp of the hand; a hand.
Nefawl, a. (nef) Heavenly, celestial.
Nefawr, a. (nef) Of a celestial nature.
Nefed, s. m. (nef) An expansion.
Nefliw, s. m. (nef—lliw) A cerulean. a. Of a cerulean hue.
Nefoedd, s. pl. aggr. (nef) The heavens.

Ar ffrwst mawr gawr ddigoniant
Nifer o'r nefoedd a syrthiant.

At the great force of the shout of triumph numbers from the heavens shall fall. D. Nanmor.

Nefolaidd, a. (nefawl) Heaven-like, heavenly.
Nefoldeb, s. m. (nefawl) Heavenliness.
Nefolder, s. m. (nefawl) Heavenliness.
Nefoledd, s. m. (nefawl) A heavenly state.
Nefoleiddrwydd, s. m. (nefolaidd) Heavenliness.
Nefolfryd, a. (nefawl—bryd) Heavenly-minded.
Nefolfrydedd, s. m. (nefolfryd) Heavenly-mindedness, a heavenly state of mind.
Nefoli, v. a. (nefawl) To render heavenly; to canonize; to become heavenly.
Nefoliaeth, s. m. (nefawl) A heavenly state.

Archaf i ti
Dwyfawl nefoliaeth
A diwedd perffaith
Penrhaith pob rhad.

I crave of thee a heavenly state divine, and a perfect end, thou sovereign of every grace! D. ab Gwilym.

Nefoliannu, v. a. (nefoliant) To render heavenly; to celestify; to become heavenly.
Nefoliannus, a. (nefoliant) Of a tendency to render celestial.
Nefoliant, s. m. (nefawl) Celestification.
Nefolrwydd, s. m. (nefawl) Heavenliness.
Nefolus, a. (nefawl) Of a celestial nature.
Nefwy, s. m. (nef) A heavenly state.

Nid wy a'm noddwy
Amgylch balch nefwy;
Ysid rin y sydd fwy,
Gwawr gwyr Goronwy.

They shall not be protecting me around the high heaven; there is a virtue that is more excellent, the light of the men of Goronwy. Taliesin.

Nefyd, s. m. (naf) A performance, what is wrought or formed.

Safyd wrth nefyd gwrthun
Yn dy hawl, dy farn dy hun.

Thou wouldest stand by an absurd performance, in thy possession, thy own judgement. Edm. Prys.

Neg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—eg) That is not open; that is not possible.
Neges, s. m.—pl. t. au (neg—es) An errand, or message; business.

A el i lys heb neges doed a'i neges ganto.

He that goes to court without an errand let him return with an errand in his possession. Adage.

Cenad hwyr drwg ei neges.

A late messenger is upon a bad errand. Adage.

Negesa, v. a. (neges) To go on errands.
Negesai, s. c.—pl. negeseion (neges) One who goes on errands; a messenger.
Negesau, s. pl. aggr. (neges) Errands, messages.

Negesawg, a. (neges) Having an errand. s. m. One that carries a message; a messenger.

Eilwaith ydd euthym yn negesawg
O leufer llyw cammawn, lawn dywysawg.

A second time I went as an ambassador from the splendor of the leader of conflict, the righteous prince. Meilyr.

Negesawl, a. (neges, Missionary. Negesolion, missionaries.

Negeseua, v. a. (negesau) To go on messages; to transact business; to negociate.

Negeseugar, a. (negesau) Officious.

Negeseugarwch, s. m. (negeseugar) Officiousness.

Negeseuwr, s. m.—pl. negeseuwyr (negesau—gwr) An errand-man, a messenger.

Negeseuwraig, s. f.—pl. negeseuwreigedd (negesau—gwraig) A woman-messenger.

Negesgar, a. (neges) Fond of errands, officious.

Negesgarwch, s. m. (negesgar) Officiousness.

Negesiad, s. m. (neges) A carrying an errand.

Negesiaeth, s. m. (neges) A commission.

Negesiannawl, a. (negesiant) Appertaining to a commission.

Negesiannu, v. a. (negesiant) To commissionate.

Negesiant, s. m. (neges) A commission.

Negeswas, s. m.—pl. negesweision (neges—gwas) An errand-boy.

Negeswr, s. m.—pl. negeswyr (neges—gwr) An errand- man, a messenger.

Negeswraig, s. f—pl. negeswreigedd (neges—gwraig) An errand-woman.

Negeswriaeth, s. m. (negeswr) The business of a man who transacts for another.

Negesydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (neges) A messenger.

Negesyddawl, a. (negesydd) Appertaining to a messenger, missionary, missive.

Negesyddiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (negesydd) The business of a messenger.

Negiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (neg) A disabling.

Negiant, s. m. (neg) A disabling.

Negiaw, v. a. (neg) To disable, to render impossible. Mae arnaf eisieu ei nego fe, I am in want of disabling him. Sil.

Negiawl, a. (neg) Tending to disable.

Negiwr, s. m.—pl. negwyr (neg—gwr) A disabler.

Negydd, s. m.—pl. t. iou (nag) A denier.

Ni bu Rodri, nai Beredur,
Negydd o'i win, nag o'i ddur.

Rodri, the nephew of Peredur, has not been a denier of his wine, nor of his steel. Guto y Glyn.

Negyddawl, a. (negydd) Negative, refusing.

Negyddiad, s. m. (negydd) A denying, a refusing.

Negyddiaeth, s. m. (negydd) A denial, a refusal.

Negyf, s. m. (nag) A negation, a denial.

Negyfiaeth, s. m. (negyf) A refusal, a denial.

Cedawl arwynawl ar wyneb Prydain,
Prydyddion diateb;
Ni fazai fygwl ateb;
Ni faeth negyfaeth i neb.

The bounteous violent one, over the face of Britain the poets are unanswerable: he would not conceive a stern answer; he will not cherish a denial to any one. Ll. P. Moch.

Nehedd, s. m. (ne—hedd) Entreaty, prayer.

Neidiad, s. m. (naid) A leaping, or springing.

Neidiaw, v. a. (naid) To leap, to jump; to pulse.

Neidiawl, a. (naid) Leaping, springing, throbbing

Neidiwr, s. m.--pl. neidwyr (naid--gwr) A leaper.

Neidraidd, a. (naidr) Snake-like, snaky.

Neidrllys, s. m. (neidr—llys) Snakewort.

Neidrwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (naid) The temples; also called arlais and arleisiau.

Prath y lleidr drwy ei neidrwydd:
Beth ddawr ei ladd byth, gwr gwydd.

Stick the thief through his temples: who would ever mind his death, the goose of a man. D. ab Gwilym.

Neidr, s. f.—pl. t. edd (nad) A snake. Neidr ddu, a viper; neidr fraith, neidr y tomenydd, the common snake, or adder.

Cyfrithed a neidr.

As variegated as an adder. Adage.

Chwefrawr chwyth neidr o'i nyth.

February will blow the snake out of her nest. Adage.

Neifion, s. m. (naf) The comprehending one; the creator; also the name of a person in the British mythology, probably the same with Neptune.

Dadwyrain i Frython
A oreu Gwdion;
Gelwysid ar Neifion;
Ar Grist o achwyson,
Hyd pan y gwaredai.

A resurrection to the Britons was accomplished by Gwdion; there was a calling upon the Creator; upon Christ for causes, until when he should deliver. Taliesin, Cad Goddeu.

Ef a yr nifer i for Neifion.

He will send a number to the sea of Neifion. L. G. Cothi.

Y nofiad a wnaeth Neifion
O Droia fawr draw i Fon.

The swimming which Neifion performed from great Troy afar to Mona. D. ab Gwilym.

Neillawr, s. f. (naill—awr) The other hour, the next hour. adv. At another time.

Eu buchedd hoen-wedd buham, y neillawr,
Na wellant rhag dryglam.

Their lives of sprightly mood why, the next hour, they do not mend for fear of an evil step. W. Middleton.

Neilldu, s. m. (naill—tu) One of two sides, one side. O'r neilldu, from one side; ar neilldu, on one side, or aside.

Neillduad, s. m. (neilldu) A going aside; a putting aside; a separating; separation.

Neillduaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (neilldu) A separation, dissociation. Tir neillduaeth, the land of reservation.

Neillduaethu, v. a. (neillduaeth) To make a separation; to reserve, to put aside.

Neillduaw, v. a. (neilldu) To go on one aside; to go aside, to retire, to recede; to dissociate; to separate, to put asunder, to set apart.

Yno ill dau ni neillduynt
I roi y gad i wyr gynt.

Then they two would not separate in giving battle to men formerly. L. G. Cothi.

Neillduawl, a. (neilldu) Separate, retired, solitary; particular, distinct; discretive.

Neillduedig, a. (neillduad) Separated, abstracted.

Arthal—yn myned i ofni y gwyr a fuesynt cydymdeithion neillduedig iddo gynt; ac yn cerdded trwy y coed hwnw y cyfarfu ag Elidr ei frawd yn ddiarwybod.

Arthal, going to terrify the men who formerly had been his particular companions; and in walking through that wood he met with Elidr his brother unexpectedly. Gr. ab Arthur.

Neillduedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (neillduedig) The state of being put aside or separated; sequestration.

Neillduedigaw, v. a. (neillduedig) To render separated or sequestered; to become separated.

Neillduedd, s. m. (neilldu) Separateness, retiredness; distinctness, discriminateness.

Neillduolaeth, s. m. (neillduawl) The state of being separated; discrimination.

Neillduoldeb, s. m. (neillduawl) Separability; distinctness, discriminateness.

Neillduoli, v. a. (neillduawl) To render separate, or distinct; to particularize.

Neillduolrwydd, s. m. (neillduawl) Separateness, distinctness; particularity.

Neillduwr, s. m.—pl. neillduwyr (neilldu—gwr) One who goes aside; one who puts aside.

Neilliad, s. m. (naill) A varying, a diversifying.

Neilliaw, v. a. (naill) To vary, to diversify.

Neilliawg, a. (naill) Diversified, varied.

Neilliedig, a. (neilliad) Being diversified.

Neilliedigaeth, s. m. (neilliedig) The being diversified or varied.

Neilliogaeth, s. m. (neilliawg) A variation.

> Cofier cynnal y cyfryw neilliogaeth yn yr un banau yn mhob un arall o'r penillion.
>
> Be it remembered that such diversity is to be maintained in the same verses in every other one of the stanzas. Barddas.

Neilliogi, v. a. (neilliawg) To diversify.

> Os o golofn ardlaw y daw y dolyri, a rhai o'i banau o hyny yn neilliogi ar ereill, cofier cynnal y cyfryw neilliogaeth.
>
> If the song is derived from a secondary canon, and some of those verses varying from others, it is to be remembered that such diversity is to be maintained. Barddas.

Neina, s. f. dim. (nain) A grandmammy.

Neirthiad, s. m. (nerth) A strengthener.

> Fy Nuw, fy neirthiad, fad rad ranu.
>
> My God, my support, freely dispensing grace. Gw. Brycheiniawg.
>
> Gwan wyf, ym nerthwy fy neirthiad.
>
> Feeble am I, may my supporter support me. Y Brawd Madawg.

Neisiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nais) A kerchief.

Neisiaw, v. a (nais) To wrap with a band; to deck, to dress up; to trim up nicely.

Neithiad, s. m. (naith) A passing, completing.

Neithiaw, v. a. (naith) To pass, to complete.

Neithiawl, a. (naith) Tending to perfect.

Neithiawr, s. m.—pl. neithioran (naith) A state that is completed or confirmed; completement; a wedding; a wedding feast, in some parts, which is kept on a fixt day after the wedding, generally the following Sunday, when the guests bring presents to the newly married couple: The term Neithiorau has been used for the Characteristics of Theophrastus.

Neithiora, v. a. (neithiawr) To bring to completion; to keep a marriage festival.

Neithiorawg, a. (neithiawr) Having a marriage or wedding feast.

Neithiorawl, a. (neithiawr) Tending to complete; relating to marriage solemnity.

Neithiori, v. a. (neithiawr) To render complete; to consummate a marriage solemnity.

Neithiorwr, s. m.—pl. neithiorwyr (neithiawr—gwr) One who consummates.

Neithiwyr, s. m. (naith—hwyr) The evening past, or last night. adv. Last night, yesterday evening.

Neithyr, prep. (eithyr) Except, unless.

Nemawr, s. m.(nam) A few in number. adv. Not many; scarcely, hardly.

Nemof, pronom. prep. (nam) Except of me. nemot, except of thee; nemo, except of him; or it; nemi, except of her; nemom, except of us; nemoch, except of you; nemont, except of them.

> Ei drosedd ni dreisir nemoch.
>
> His transgression will not be curbed except of you. Cynddelw.

Nemor, s. m. (nam—or) An exception of extent, of quantity, or number. adv. Not many; scarcely.

Nen, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ny—en) The inside top of a vault or canopy; the ceiling, roof, or top; a roof; a vault, or canopy; the heavens.

> Ystafell Cynddylan, ys tywyll ei nen,
> Gwedy Gwen gyweithydd:
> Gwae ni wna da ai dybydd.
>
> The hall of Cynddylan, its roof is dark, after Gwen the supporter; Woe that what shall come to it will produce no good! Llywarch Hen.

Nenawl, a. (nen) Appertaining to a vault, roof or ceiling.

Nenawr, s. f.—pl. nenorau(nen) An upper story, or garret.

Nenbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (nen—pren) The upper roof beam in a building.

Nenfwd, s. f. (nen—mwd) A ceiling arch.

Nenfydu, v. a. (nenfwd) To make an arched ceiling.

Neniad, s. m. (nen) A vaulting, a ceiling.

Neniar, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (nen—iar) The upper roof-beam; also, called nenbren.

Nenorydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nenawr) A garreteer.

Nenu, v. a. (nen) To vault, to roof, to ceil.

Nenwawl, s. m. (nen—gwawl) Cerulean light.

> Ef ydoedd Owain hir, hywyatl bedydd,
> Ac amdawd o ffun nenwawl ddefnydd,
> A ddyfuwys a mi maith garennydd.
>
> He was the stately Owain, the ready pledge of baptism, and surrounded with a zone of heavenly light, who formed with me a lasting union. Gwalchmai.

Ner, s. m.—pl. t. edd (ny—er) That is without impulse from another; that has self energy; an epithet of God; the Lord.

> Cadfan ner ener anaw, cerddorion
> Cerddasant ar eiddiaw;
> Arwar trydar trin ognaw;
> Eryr gwyr ffrawdd dymhyr ffraw.
>
> Cadvan the sovereign of the energy of song, the minstrels have sojourned under thy protection; the director of the tumult of the tearing conflict; the eagle of the toiling men of a pleasant region. Ll. P. Moch.

Nerth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ner) Might, power. strength, force; aid, help, or succour.

> Ei nerth yw annerth diriad.
>
> The strength of the mischievous is his debility. Adage.
>
> Tri achaws bywedigion: cariad Duw, gan eithaf deall cyflawn; deall Duw, yn gwybod eithaf moddion; a nerth Duw, gan eithaf myn, cariad a deall.
>
> The three causes of animated beings; the love of God with a plenitude of perfect knowledge; the knowledge of God conceiving a plenitude of means; and the power of God with a plenitude of will, love, and knowledge. Barddas.
>
> Am bob tirion ddaioni
> A'i nerth, a'i gynghor i ni,
> ——Nef i'w enaid!
>
> For every tender blessing, and his power, and his council to us, heaven to his soul. Ieu. Thomas, o Forganwg.

Nerthai, s. c.—pl. nertheion(nerth) Strengthener

Nerthawg, a. (nerth) Mighty, powerful, potent.

> Wrth gadarn nerthawg ydoedd;
> Ac i'r gwan trugarawg oedd.
>
> With the mighty he was powerful; and to the weak merciful was he. Guto y Glyn.

Nerthawl, a. (nerth) Powerful or strong.

Nerthedig, a. (nerth) Being strengthened.

Nerthedigaeth, s. m. (nerthedig)A strengthening

Nerthedd, s. m. (nerth) Potency, or strength.

Nerthfawr, a. (nerth)Of great strength, powerful

Nerthfawrawg, a. (nerthfawr) Of great power.

Nerthfawrogi, v. a. (nerthfawrawg) To endow with great strength.

Nerthfawrogiad, s. m. (nerthfawrawg) An endowing with great power.

Nerthfawrus, a. (nerthfawr) Of a potent nature.

> Rhaid iti ymwrthawd â gwydiau, ac arfer o'r campau nerthfawrusion.
>
> Thou must refrain from vices, and practise the feats that are strength-creating ones. Cysegrlan Fuchedd.

Nerthfawrusaw, v. a. (nerthfawrus) To render strengthening; to become strengthening.

Nerthiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nerth) A strengthening; a supporting, or assisting.

Nerthiannawl, a. (nerthiant) Of a strengthening quality; empowering.

Nerthiannu, v. a. (nerthiant) To render strengthening; to become strengthening.
Nerthiannus, a. (nerthiant) Of a strengthening nature; tending to empower.
Nerthiannusaw, v. a. (nerthiannus) To render of a strengthening nature.
Nerthiant, s. m. (nerth) A strengthening.
Nerthiator, ger. (nerthiad) In strengthening.
Nerthineb, s. m (nerth) Efficaciousness, potency.
Nerthitor, sup. (nerth) To be strengthening.
Nerthocâad, s. m. (nerthawg) A rendering powerful, strong, or potent.
Nerthocâu, v. a. (nerthawg) To render potent.
Nerthogi, v. a. (nerthawg) To make powerful.
Nerthogiad, s. m. (nerthawg) A making potent.
Nerthogrwydd, s. m (nerthawg) Powerfulness.
Nertholdeb, s. m. (nerthawl) Potency, ability.
Nertholedd, s. m. (nerthawl) Powerfulness.
Nertholi, v. a. (nerthawl) To render powerful.
Nertholrwydd, s. m. (nerthawl) Powerfulness.
Nerthrwydd, s. m. (nerth) Potency, energy.
Nerthu, v. a. (nerth) To strengthen; to help.
Nerthus, a. (nerth) Efficacious, potent.
Nerthusaw, v. a. (nerthus) To render efficacious, to become efficacious.
Nerthusedd, s. m. (nerthus) Efficaciousness.
Nerthusrwydd, s. m. (nerthus) Efficaciousness.
Nerthwch, s. m. (nerth) Potency, energy, strength
Nerthwr, s. m.—pl. nerthwyr (nerth—gwr) A strengthener; a supporter.
Nerthydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nerth) A strengthener
Neryn, s. m. dim. (nar) The child of old age; a child born when the father is absent.
Nes, s. m. (ny—es) The state of being without distance, close, or proximate. a. Divested of distance: It is also used for the comparative nesach, nearer, closer, of less distance. Ni byddi nes er hyny, thou wilt not be the nearer for that.

Nes na choel.

Nearer than belief. Adage.

Nes, adv. (ny—es) Until. Ni chei glod nes marw, thou shalt not have fame until thou art dead.
Nesâad, s. m. (nesâu) Approximation; approach
Nesâawl, a. (nesâu) Approximating.
Nesach, a. (nes) Nearer, or more near.
Nesaf, a. (nes) Nearest, next, most near. s. m. The next, the nearest.

Melysaf y gwellt nesaf i'r ddaiar.

Sweetest the grass next to the ground. Adage.

Nesâu, v. a. (nes) To draw near, to approach.
Nesâwr, s. m.—pl. nesâwyr (nesâu—gwr) One who draws near or approximates.
Nesedig, a. (nes) Being approximated.
Nesedigaeth, s. m. (nesedig) Approximation.
Nesefin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nesaf) A neighbour.
Neseifiad, s. m.—pl. neseifiaid (nesaf) One who is nearest of kin; a relative.
Nesiad, s. m. (nes) A drawing near, or approaching; approximation.
Nesiannawl, a. (nesiant) Tending to approximate
Nesiannu, v. a. (nesiant) To approximate.
Nesiant, s. m. (nes) Approximation.
Nesiator, ger. (nesiad) In approximating.
Nesitor, sup. (nes) To be approximating.
Nesnes, a. (nes repeated) Nearer and nearer.

Nesnes y llefair i'r dref.

Nearer and nearer the shouting to the town. Adage.

Nesnes yw cerdd Taliesin,
A'i fawl bencerddlaidd o'i fin.

Closer and closer still is Taliesin's song, and his masterly praise from his lips. S. Cent.

Nesrwydd, s. m. (nes) Nearness, proximity.
Nest, s. m. (nes) That is compact or close.
Nester, s. m.—pl. t. i (nest) A cupboard.
Nestig, a. (nest) Of a compact nature.

——Nestig meidraeth
Meidradur llafur pob llawnaeth.

Compact the structure of the accomplisher of the labour of every fulfilment. Elidr Sais.

Nesu, v. a. (nes) To draw near, to approximate.
Nestu, v. a. (nest) To appropriate.

O rhodda genedl wraig dlawd i alltud,—ni chaiff yr un o blant hono eisteddfa arbenig hyd y drydedd ach; ac o'r rhyw gymweddi hono y nestir gwartheg difach i eu teulu.

If a tribe betroth a poor woman to an alien, none of the children of such a one shall obtain a special station, until the third descent; and, from that sort of connexion, cattle not available as surety shall be appropriated to their family.

Neu, v. a. (ne) To pant; to wish earnestly.
Neu, conj. (ne) Or. Tydi neu arall, thou or another; dyred neu baid, come or let it alone.
Neu, adv. (ne) Truly so; will not, is there not; otherwise, else. Neu ym, neu'm, will not of me; neu ylh, neu'th, will not of thee.

Breuddwydiaw er bun balchliw arien dos;
Ys oddaawg nos, neu ym hebgyr cawdd!

Dreaming about the nymph of the superb hue of the hoar drop; excellent be the night, does it but save me from grief! Gwalchmai.

Neu'm cynnwys draig Bowys trwy barch;
Neu'm arwar, neu'm car, neu'm cyfarch!

Me will not the leader of Powys receive with respect; will he not me solace, will he not me love, will he not me greet! Cynddelw.

Neu'm bu dydd cer elfydd Elwy.

To me truly there was a day by the stream of Elwy. Ll. P. Moch.

Nenad, s. m. (neu) A panting; a longing.
Neuadd, s. f.—pl. t. au (neu—add) A hall.

Neuadd pob diddos.

Every shelter is a hall. Adage.

Wyf bardd neuadd, wyf cyff cadair;
Digonaf i feirdd llafar lesteir.

I am bard of the hall, I am butt of the chair; I shall be able to frustrate the talkative bards.

Neuaddawg, a. (neuadd) Having a hall.
Neuaddawl, a. (neuadd) Belonging to a hall.
Neuaddwys, s. f. (neuadd—gwys) A hall-full.

Addwyn enewydd yn neuaddwys.

Pleasing the minstrel in the hall. Taliesin.

Nenant, s. m. (neu) A panting; longing; regret.
Neuaw, v. a. (neu) To pant; to wish earnestly.

Eryr glyw glewaf, neuaf na ddaw!

As an eagle the most gallant chief, I regret that he does not come! Cynddelw.

Er pan llas llyw ced neud neued nes!
Neuaf nas gwelaf fal ym gweles.

Since the leader of generosity has been slain, is not regret come near! I regret that I see him not as he has seen me. Cynddelw, m. Cadwallon.

Nenawd, s. m. (nen) A panting; a longing.
Neuawl, a. (neu) Panting; longing; regretting.

I'r gwir Ddaw ydd wyf yn erchi,
Er gwyr nef o'm neuawl weddi
——Torri glas efyn.

To the true God I am praying, for heaven knows my earnest request, that the blue shackles may be broken. Hywel Foel.

Nend, adv. (nen) Is it not, is it not that, does not; verily it is.

Neud amser gauaf gwelwaf gweilgi,
Gweilging moracar hwylfar heli;
Neud arllen arien Eryri weithion;
Neud uchel gwendon gwyn-dir Enlli.

Is it not the time of winter the ocean is most pale, the bed of the sea fowls is the raging course of the brine: does not the hoar envelope Eryri now; is not the white wave loud round the sacred land of Enlli. Bleddyn Fardd.

Neued, s. f. (nen) A panting; longing; regret.

Yn y mae yfed, heb neued, heb nag,
Heb nebawd eisiwed.

Where there is drinking, without regret, without refusal, without any kind of want. Cynddelw.

Neuedd, s. m. (neu) A panting, or palpitation; a panting after, or longing.

Neufedd, s. m. (neu—medd) Wealth, riches.

Neur, adv. (neu—yr) Is it not; verily so.

Neus, adv. (neu—ys) Is it not; verily it is.

New, s. m. (ne) That is proceeding or going off.

Newid, s. m.—pl. t. iau (new) A change; a cheap rate, small value, or cheapness.

Nid erchis yr hen Gyrys onid a fai rhwng y newidiau.

Old Cyrys asked for no more than what might be between the bargains. Adage.

Angau'r newidiau fy nodi a wna
Yn un o'r merthyri:
Angel a ä at Eli
A'm un Duw, a'm enaid i.

The death of changes will mark me as one of the martyrs: may an angel go to Eli, and my only God, with my soul! L. G. Cothi.

Clywn dyngu, a rhegi, a chablu, onl roeswn i newid ar fy nghlustiau rhag gwrandaw.

I could hear swearing, cursing and blaspheming, so that I would have set a bargain upon my ears rather than listen. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Newid, v. a. (new) To change, to exchange.

Newid y gwewyr.

To change the pain. Adage.

Newidiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (newid) A changing.

Newidiadwy, a. (newidiad) Changeable.

Newidiannawl, a. (newidiant) Tending to change

Newidiannu, v. a. (newidiant) To produce a change or alteration; to transform.

Newidiant, s. m. (newid) The act or state of changing; alteration; transformation.

Newidiaw, v. a. (newid) To change; to transform.

Tri pheth nis gall namyn Duw: dyoddef bythoedd y ceugant; cynghyd a phob cyflwr heb newidiaw; a rhoi gwell a newydd ar bob peth heb ei roi ar goll.

Three things which none but God can accomplish: endure the periods of eternity; coalesce with every state without changing; and confer improvement and renovation upon every thing without consigning it to annihilation. Barddas.

Mae'n ei bryd fy newidiaw;
Mawr wall oedd fy mwrw o'i llaw.

It is in her mind to change me; great were the rashness to cast me off her hand. Ieuan Dyfi.

Newidiawg, a. (newid) Having a change.

Newidiawl, a. (newid) Changeable, mutable.

Newidiedig, a. (newidiad) Being changed.

Newidioldeb, s. m. (newidiawl) Changeableness.

Newidiolder, s. m. (newidiawl) Changeableness.

Newidioli, v. (newidiawl) To be changeable.

Newidiolrwydd, s. (newidiawl) Changeableness.

Newidiwr, s. m.—pl. newidwyr (newid—gwr) A changer; one who barters.

Newidrwydd, s. m. (newid) A changed state.

Newidwriaeth, s. m. (newidiwr) Exchange, commerce, or traffick; a bartering of wares.

Gwiwddyn wyd; gwaeddan ydwyf:
Waethwaeth newidwriaeth uwyf.

Thou art an excellent person; a miserable wight am I: Worse and worse the commerce of love. D. ab Gwilym.

Newidwriaethawl, a. (newidwriaeth) Appertaining to exchange or commerce.

Newydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (new) What is new. Papur Newydd, a news paper; newyddion da, good news; dywed imi ryw newydd, tell me some news.

Na ro goel i newyddion oni bont yn hen.

Give no credit to news until they are grown old. Adage.

Newydd, a. (new) New; fresh. Newydd grai, newydd tanlliw, brand new.

Newyddaidd, a. (newydd) Somewhat new.

Newyddawl, a. (newydd) Of a new quality.

Newyddban, a. (newydd—pan) Newly dressed.

Newyddbeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (newydd—peth) A new thing, a novelty.

Newydd-deb, s. m. (newydd) Newness, novelty.

Newydd-der, s. m. (newydd) Newness, novelty.

Newydd-dra, s. m. (newydd) Newness, novelty.

Newyddedd, s. m. (newydd) Novelness, newness.

Newyddgrëad, s. m. (newydd—crëad) A new creation. a. Newly created.

Newyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (newydd) The act of making new; a becoming new; innovation.

Newyddian, s. c.—pl. t. od (newydd) A novice.

Nid yn newyddian, rhag iddo ymchwyddaw, a syrthiaw i farnedigaeth y diafol.

Not a novice, lest, being lifted up with pride, he fall into the condemnation of the devil. 1 Timothy 3. 6.

Newyddianaeth, s. m. (newyddian) Noviciate.

Newyddiannawl, a. (newyddiant) Appertaining to a new state; of a new condition.

Newyddiannu, v. a. (newyddiant) To render of a new state; to become novel.

Newyddiannus, a. (newyddiant) Tending to a new state; in a state of newness.

Newyddiant, s. m. (newydd) A state of newness.

Newyddiaw, v. a. (newydd) To make new.

Newyddiedig, a. (newyddiad) Being made new.

Newyddrwydd, s. m (newydd) Recentness.

Newyddu, v. a. (newydd) To make new; to modernize, to innovate, to become new.

Newyddus, a. (newydd) Tending to innovation.

Newyddwr, s. m.—pl. newyddwyr (newydd—gwr) One who makes new; an innovator.

Newyn, s. m. (ne—gwyn) Hunger; famine.

Gloddest awr a newyn blwyddyn.

Excess for an hour and famine for a year. Adage.

Ni ddwg newyn mam weision.

Boys will not bear the hunger of a mother. Adage.

Pwybynag a gyfarfai ag Arthur, ag un dyrnawd y lladdai, ag ef a'i farch; ac wrth hyny pawb a ffoynt rhagddo, megys ffoynt yr anifeiliaid rhag llew dywal, pan fai newyn mawr arno.

Whoever happened to meet with Arthur, with one stroke was he slain, him and his horse; and therefore every body fled from him, as the beasts might flee from a furious lion, when he might be suffering great hunger. Gr. ab Arthur.

Newynawg, a. (newyn) Having hunger, famished.

Hwareuid mab noeth, ni hwery mab newynawg.

A naked child may play, a hungry child will not play. Adage.

Newynawl, a. (newyn) Famishing; hungry.

Newyndawd, s. m. (newyn) Hungriness.

Newyndra, s. m. (newyn) A hungry state.

Newynedig, a. (newyn) Being famished.

Newyniad, s. m. (newyn) A famishing.

Newynllyd, a. (newyn) Hungry, half starved.

Newynllydrwydd, s. m. (newynllyd) Hungriness.

Newynogaeth, s. m. (newynawg) Famishment.

Newynu, v. a. (newyn) To starve one, to famish; to be starved, to be famished.

Lladd gloddest yw newynu y meddyg.

To destroy intemperance is to starve the doctor. Adage.

Mal ceiliawg y rhedyn yn canu yr haf a newynu y gauaf.

Like the grasshopper singing in summer and famishing in winter. Adage.

Newynwr, s. m.—pl. newynwyr (newyn—gwr) One who hungers; a famisher.

Nhw, pron. (hwy) They, or them.

Nhwy, pron. (nhw) They, or them.

Nhwythau, pron. (nhwy—tau) They also.

NI, s. m. r. A number separate or apart.

Ni, pron. (ni, s.) We, us. Dyma ni, here we are; ni awn, we will go; ni sydd yma, it is we who are here.

Gwell gwae fi na gwae ni.

Better woe me than woe us. Adage.

Ni, adv. Not; used mostly before words with consonant initials. Ni ddeuant, they will not come; ni waeth er hyny, no matter for that; ni ym, ni yth, ni yn, ni ych, by syncope become ni'm, ni'th, ni'n, ni'ch.

Ni bydd doeth ni lëo.

He will not be wise that will not read. Adage.

Ni bydd diriad heb hawl.

The mischievous will not be without a claim. Adage.

Gwr ni'th gar ni'th gydfydd.

A person who loves thee not will not bear with thee. Adage.

Ar ni oddefo gwas bid was iddo ei hun.

He that will not bear with a servant let him be a servant to himself. Adage.

Enllib ni char ei enllibo.

Scandal loves not to be scandalized. Adage.

Diwedd ni bydd it', na dechre ni bu.

An end there will not be to thee, nor beginning has there been. Ein. ab Gwalchmai.

Nid, s. m. (ni—id) A stop of progress; that is impending or in a state of rest.

Nid, adv. (ni—yd) Not; used mostly before words with vowel initials. Nid yw da, it is not good; nid y fi ond y fo, not me but him; nid oes ond er doe er pan aeth, it is only since yesterday that he is gone; nid amgen, not otherwise, to wit; nid hwyrach, perhaps.

A Duw nid da ymdaraw.

With God it is not good to strive. Adage.

Nid bod ond angen, nid angen ond Duw.

There is no being but necessity, there is not a necessity but God. Adage.

Nidr, s. m. (nid) A let, impediment, or hinderance; an entanglement; a delay, or lingering.

Nidrad, s. m. (nidr) An entangling; perplexity.

Nidraw, v. a. (nidr) To entangle; to be entangled; to embarrass; to perplex.

Y fiaren——
Nidrodd amgylch fy neudroed.

The bramble it entangled about my two feet. D. ab Gwilym.

Nidrawl, a. (nidr) Entangling; dilatory.

Nidredd, s. m. (nidr) Entanglement; perplexity.

Nidri, s. m. (nidr) Entanglement; perplexity; obstruction, hinderance.

O nidri nid ai un adref.

From perplexity not one would reach home. M. ab Gethin, i'r Saeson.

Nidriad, s. m.—pl. nidriaid (nidr) An entangler.

Nidrwr, s. m.—pl. nidrwyr (nidr—gwr) One who entangles; a delayer.

Nif, s. m. (ni) A specific number or tale.

Nifer, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (nif) A number; a number collected together, a multitude, a host, a company; a retinue.

Niferai, s. c.—pl. nifereion (nifer) Numerator.

Niferawg, a. (nifer) Consisting of many.

Beirdd neued niferawg orsedd.

The wish of bards a numerous congress. Cynddelw.

Niferawl, a. (nifer) Relating to number; numerical, numeral.

Niferedig, a. (nifer) Being numbered, or told.

Niferedd, s. m. (nifer) Numerousness.

Niferiad, s. m. (nifer) A numbering.

Niferiaeth, s. m. (nifer) Numeration.

Nifeiriannawl, a. (niferiant) Numerary.

Nifeiriannu, v. a. (nifeiriant) To enumerate; to make out a number.

Nifeiriant, s. m. (nifer) Numeration.

Niferogi, v. a. (niferawg) To render numerous; to become numerous or multitudinous.

Niferogrwydd, s. m. (niferawg) Numerousness.

Niferu, v. a. (nifer) To number, to count.

Niferydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nifer) A numerist.

Nifwl, s. m. (nif—gwl) A mist; a cloud.

Nifwlawg, a. (nifwl) Misty, hazy, cloudy.

Nig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ig) That is strait.

Nigiad, s. m. (nig) A straitening, a narrowing.

Nigiaw, v. a. (nig) To straiten, to narrow.

Nigus, a. (nig) Strait, narrow, confined.

Ni wisgaf fenyg nigus
O groen mollt.——

I will not wear any strait gloves of the skin of sheep. D. ab Gwilym.

Nill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ill) What tends to gain upon or to encroach; a poppy.

Nilla, v. a. (nill) To be over-reaching, to augment

Nillai, s. c.—pl. nilleion (nill) A sickle.

Ninnau, pron. (ni—tau) We also, and us.

Ebai Arawn ab Cynfarch, cyrchwn yr banner-gwyr; a safwn yn eu cyrchu, hyd pan orfom ni arnaddunt hwy, cen ddwyn eu anrhydedd, yd arferom ninnau o lawen fuddygoliaeth.

Said Arawn son of Cynfarch, let us fall on these half men; and let us persevere in attacking them, until we overcome them, so by taking away their honour, that we then may enjoy a glad triumph. Gr. ab Arthur.

Nis, adv. (ni—ys) Not. It is synonymous with Ni, and used before words with consonant initials, and preserving them in their radical form; as nis doi, for ni ddoi, thou wilt not come; or nis gweli, for ni weli, thou wilt not see, and the like.

Eddewid nis gwneler nid yw.

A promise that shall not be performed doth not exist. Adage.

Ni cheiff bwyll nis pryno.

He shall not obtain wit who buys it not. Adage.

Nith, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ny—ith) That is pure, or clear; a niece.

Nithiad, s. m. (nith) A winnowing, a cleaning.

Nithiannawl, a. (nithiant) Tending to purify.

Nithiannu, v. a. (nithiant) To make clean.

Nithiant, s. m. (nith) A purifying; a winnowing.

Nithiaw, v. a. (nith) To purify; to winnow. Also Troelli and dioldi.

Nithia o'm bron greulon gredd;
Noethia yn war nyth anwiredd.

Purge from my breast a cruel disposition; gently lay open the nest of iniquity. H. D. ab Ifan.

Nithiawl, a. (nith) Tending to clear; relating to winnowing.

Nithiedig, a. (nithiad) Being winnowed.

Nithiwr, s. m.—pl. nithwyr (nith—gwr) A winnower.

Nithlen, s. f. (nith—llen) A winnowing sheet.

Nithlen, pedair ceiniawg a dal.

A winnowing sheet, its value is four pence. Welsh Laws.

Niw, s. m. (ny—iw) That is violent or sharp.

Niw, adv. (ni) Of what not, of that not.

Ni chyll niw dyfydd.

There will be no loss of what will not be. Adage.

Niwed, s. m.—pl. niweidiau (niw) Harm, hurt, damage, prejudice, disadvantage.

Na chwar hyd niwed,
Na chellwair hyd liwed.

Play not till harm comes, jest not till it becomes calumny. Adage.

Niwedu, v. a. (niwed) To hurt, or to injure.

Nad i'r cythrel, y gelyn,
Nodau dig niwedu dyn.

Prevent the devil, the foe, of wrathful impulses, to injure man. T. Gruffudd.

Niweidiad, s. m. (niwaid) A hurting a damaging.
Niweidiannawl, a. (niweidiant) Of a noxious or hurtful quality; injurious.
Niweidiannu, v. a. (niweidiant) To create a hurt, or injury; to become an injury.
Niweidiant, s. m. (niwed) A harming, a hurting.
Niweidiaw, v. a. (niwed) To hurt, to harm, to injure, to damage, to annoy.
Niweidiawg, a. (niwaid) Hurtful, injurious.
Niweidiawl, a. (niwed) Nocent, mischievous.
Niweidiedig, a. (niwed) Hurt, or injured.
Niweidioldeb, s. m. (niweidiawl) Noxiousness.
Niweidioledd, s. m. (niweidiawl) Noxiousness.
Niweidioli, v. a. (niweidiawl) To render noxious; to become noxious or hurtful.
Niweidiolrwydd, s. m. (niweidiawl) Noxiousness.
Niweidiwr, s. m.—pl. niweidwyr (niwaid—gwr) One who hurts or injures.
Niweidrwydd, s. m. (niwed) Hurtfulness.
Niwl, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ni—gwl) Mist, fog.

Niwl y gwanwyn, gwasarn gwynt;
Niwl yr haf, gwasarn tes;
Niwl y cynhauaf, gwasarn gwlaw:
Niwl y gauaf, gwasarn eira.

Mist in spring is the source of wind;
Mist in summer is the source of heat;
Mist in autumn is the source of rain;
Mist in winter is the source of snow. Adage.

Niwlen, s. f. dim. (niwl) A small mist; a small detached cloud.
Niwliach, s. pl. aggr. (niwl) Scattered clouds of mist; flying clouds.

Ni welaf onid niwliach:
Nid yfaf win; nid wyf iach.

I see nought but misty clouds: I will not drink wine; I am not well. D. ab Gwilym.

Niwliad, s. m. (niwl) A becoming misty or cloudy.
Niwliaw, v. n. (niwl) To become misty or cloudy.
Niwliawg, a. (niwl) Covered with mist, misty.
Niwliogrwydd, s. m. (niwliawg) Mistiness.
NO, s. m. r. That stops, confines, or keeps in.
No, adv. (no, s.) Than, compared with. It is used before words, with consonant initials. Llai no dim, less than nothing; mwy no dim, more than any thing.

Gwell ceiniog no brawd.

A penny is better than a brother. Adage.

Nod, s. m.—pl. t. au (no—od) A characteristic, a token, a mark, a butt, a brand. Gwr nod, a man of note; haint y nodau, the plague; nod y dwfr yw gwlybaniaeth, the characteristic of water is liquidity.

Llas haelon o ddynon tra fuan',
Triwyr nod mawr eu clod, gan Elgan.

Slain were men generous whilst they were, three men of note great of fame, by Elgan. Taliesin.

Ni chwynwn nychu ennyd,
Nod bach, a newidio byd.

I would not complain to suffer awhile, as a small token, and to change condition. D. Jones, o Lanfair.

Nod, adv. (no—od) Marking, to, even, likewise.

Car bawb, nod dy elyn.

Love every body, even thy enemy. Adage.

Nodach, s. pl. aggr. (nod) Sundry articles.
Nodadwy, a. (nod) Remarkakle, observable.
Nodai, s. c.—pl. nodeion (nod) A noter.
Nodawg, a. (nod) Having a mark or sign, noted.
Nodawl, a. (nod) Tending to characterize, or to mark; marked, notable, eminent, considerable.
Nodeb, s. m. (nod) A characteristic.
Nodedig, a. (nod) Characterized, noted, marked, eminent, considerable.
Noden, s. f.—pl. t. i (nawd) Thread, yarn.
Nodi, v. a. (nod) To characterize, to note, to mark, to point out; to appoint.

Ebai Arthur yna, càn na thrigi di yma, unben, ti a gefi y cyfarws a noto dy ben.

Thereupon Arthur said since thou wilt not tarry here, prince, thou shalt have the request, which thy tongue may mention. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Wedi iddynt nodi diwrnod iddo, llawer a ddaeth ato ef, i'w letty, i'r rhai y tystiolaethodd—am yr Iesu.

After they had appointed a day for him, many came to him, into his lodgings, to whom he testified concerning Jesus. Acts xxviii. 23.

Nodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nod) A characterizing; a noting, a pointing out; an appointing.
Nodiadawl, a. (nodiad) Characteristical.
Nodiadu, v. a. (nodiad) To characterize.
Nodiadur, s. m. (nodiad) An annotator.
Nodiannawl, a. (nodiant) Characteristic.
Nodiannu, v. c. (nodiant) To characterize.
Nodiannus, a. (nodiant) Characteristical.
Nodiannusrwydd, s. m. (nodiannus) Characteristicalness; that is of a marked condition.
Nodiant, s. m. (nod) A notation, a noting.
Nodiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nodiad) One who characterizes; one who remarks; a notary.
Nodlyfr, s. m.—pl. t. au (nod—llyfr) Note book.
Nodoldeb, s. m. (nodawl) Characteristicalness.
Nodoledd, s. m. (nodawl) Characteristicalness.
Nodoli, v. a. (nodawl) To characterize.
Nodolrwydd, s. m. (nodawl) Characteristicalness; notableness, notability.
Nodrwydd, s. m. (nôd) A notable condition.
Nodwedd, s. m. (nôd—gwedd) A characteristic.
Nodweddawl, a. (nodwedd) Characteristical.
Nodweddedig, a. (nodwedd) Characterized.
Nodweddiad, s. m. (nodwedd) A characterizing.
Nodweddu, v. a. (nodwedd) To characterize.

Iaith yw yn medru dyfalu—pob dychymyg er a ddichon bryd ac awen dyn ei nodweddu.

Language is adequate to describe every idea, which the mind and genius of man may be able to characterize. Llywelyn o Langewydd.

Nodweddus, a. (nodwedd) Characteristical.
Nodweddwr, s. m.—pl. nodweddwyr (nodwedd—gwr) A characterizer.
Nodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nod) A noter, a marker.
Nodyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nodydd) A notation.
Nodyn, s. m. dim. (nod) A note, a mark, a sign.
Nodd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—odd) The moisture or fluid pervading bodies; the juice, or sap of vegetation.
Noddadwy, a. (nawdd) Capable of affording refuge.
Noddawl, a. (nawdd) Tending to protect.
Nodded, s. f. (nawdd) Refuge, protection.
Noddfa, s. f.—pl. t. au (nawdd—ma) A place of refuge, a sanctuary.

Noddfaau newydd fuant.

New sanctuaries they were. L. G. Cothi.

Mae hen groes mal careg noddfa yn mynwent Diserth.

There is an old cross, like a stone of refuge, in the church-yard of Diserth. E. Llwyd.

Noddi, v. a. (nawdd) To give refuge, to protect.

A noddo Duw rhy noddir.

That will be protected by God will be protected completely. Adage.

Erfyniaf gadw Mon:
Duw Tad, am ei daed hi,
A noddo pob man iddi.

I will pray for the preservation of Mon: May God the Father, for its excellency, protect every part of it. Gr. Ll. ab Ifan.

Noddiad, s. m. (nawdd) A giving refuge, a protecting, a making an asylum.
Noddiannawl, a. (noddiant) As to protection.
Noddiannu, v. a. (noddiant) To make a refuge.
Noddiant, s. m. (nawdd) Protection, refuge.
Noddlyd, a. (nôdd) Of a juicy nature, sappy.
Noddlydiad, s. m. (noddlyd) A rendering juicy; a becoming juicy or sappy.
Noddlydrwydd, s. m. (noddlyd) Juiciness.
Noddlydu, v. a. (noddlyd) To render juicy; to become juicy or sappy.
Noddus, a. (nawdd) Affording a refuge or asylum.
Noddusaw, v. a. (noddus) To render protective; to become protective.
Noddwr, s. m.—pl. noddwyr (nawdd—gwr) One who gives refuge; a protector.
Noddwraig, s. f.—pl. noddwreigedd (nawdd—gwraig) A protectress.
Noddyn, s. m. (nawdd) That envelopes, an abyss.

Elor y gwr a elwir Gwyn
Ab Nudd uwch ben y noddyn——
Aed ag ef.

May the bier of him who is called Gwyn ab Nudd take him above the abyss. R. Nanmor, i'r llong.

Noe, s. f.—pl. t. au (no) Any shallow vessel; a platter, or flat wooden dish; a tray. Noe bobi, cafn tylinaw, a kneading vessel or trough.

Merch—or pan aner oni fo ddeuddeg mlwydd a ddyly fod wrth noe ei thad.

A girl, from the time when she is born until she shall be twelve years old ought to be at her father's dish. Welsh Laws.

Noead, s. m. (noe) A putting in a platter or dish.
Noeaid, s. f.—pl. noeeidiau (noe) A platter-full.
Noeaw, v. a. (noe) To put in a platter, to dish.
Noeth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—oeth) A naked one.

Dod fenthyg i noeth, nis cai dranoeth.

Give a loan to the naked one, thou wilt not have it the next day. Adage.

Noeth, a. (ny—oeth) Naked, bare, exposed.

Careiddwch arglwydd a chledd noeth ys enbyd.

The familiarity of a lord with a naked sword is dangerous. Adage.

Noethadwy, a. (noeth) That may be made naked.
Noethawg, a. (noeth) Being naked or bare.
Noethawl, a. (noeth) Tending to make bare.
Noethedig, a. (noeth) Being made bare.
Noethedd, s. m. (noeth) Nakedness, nudity.
Noethi, v. a. (noeth) To make bare, to strip.

Tri angenwrthun beirdd Ynys Prydain: cel gàn orfod, er heddwch a lles; cwyn anfawl, gan raid cyfiawnder; a noethi cledd ar ddifrawd ac anrhaith.

The three repulsive obligations of the bards of the Isle of Britain: secresy by compulsion, for the sake of peace and of good; the complaint of dispraise, for the sake of justice; and to unsheath the sword against evil and devastation. Barddas.

Noethiad, s. m. (noeth) A making naked.
Noethiadawl, a. (noethiad) Apt to make bare.
Noethiadu, v. a. (noethiad) To denudate.
Noethiannawl, a. (noethiant) Apt to denudate.
Noethiannu, v. a. (noethiant) To denudate.
Noethiant, s. m. (noeth) A denudation.
Noethlwm, a. (noeth—llwm) Nakedly bare.
Noethlyman, s. m.—pl. t. od (noeth—llyman) One that is stark naked. a. Stark naked.
Noethni, s. m. (noeth) Nakedness, bareness.
Nof, s. m. (ny—of) That is moving or flowing.
Nofant, s. m. (nof) A state of motion; a fluid.
Nofiant, s. m.—pl. t. au (nawf) A swimming.

Ac yn noethach ym gwnaethant
Na gleisiad yn nofiad nant.

And more naked they made me than the salmon in the swimming course of the brook. L. G. Cothi, i wyr Caerlleon.

Nofiadaeth, s. m. (nofiad) The art of swimming.

Nofiadawl, a. (nofiad) Relating to swimming.
Nofiadoldeb, s. m. (nofiadawl) Buoyancy.
Nofiadoledd, s. m. (nofiadawl) Buoyancy.
Nofiadur, s. m. (nofiad) That causes to swim. Nofiadur pysgodyn, nawf pysgodyn, the swim or wind bladder of a fish.
Nofiadwy, a. (nofiad) Capable of swimming.
Nofiannawl, a. (nofiant) Buoyant, swimming.
Nofiannu, v. a. (nofiant) To render buoyant; to become buoyant.
Nofiant, s. m. (nawf) A swimming; a swim.
Nofiaw, v. a. (nawf) To swim; to cause to swim. A elli di nofiaw dros yr afon? Canst thou swim over the river? Dwfr a nofia long, water that will swim a ship.

Ni nofia mewn un afon
Y doeth yn erbyn y don.

The wise will not swim in a river against the stream of the wave. Adage.

Nofiedig, a. (nofiad) Being swimmed.
Nofiedigaeth, s. m. (nofiedig) The art of swimming; a swimming condition.
Nofiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nofiad) A swimmer.

Niwl wybren——
Nofiedydd y nef ydwyt:
Gwasgara i'th gwng oror;
Dy loches yw mynwes mor.

Vapour of the atmosphere, thou art the swimmer of the sky: disperse to thy region of repose; thy retreat is the bosom of the sea. D. Richard.

Nofiwr, s. m.—pl. nofwyr (nawf—gwr) A swimmer
Nofle, s. m. (nawf—lle) A swimming place.
Nofwg, s. m. (nawf) Buoyancy, a swimming state
Nog, adv. (no) Than, compared with. It is used before words with vowel initials.

Gwell crefft nog arllawd arglwydd.

Better is a trade than the profusion of a prince. Adage.

Nag eirioch un nog arall.

Spare not one more than another. H. Llwyd Cynfal, i'r llwynog.

Nol, v. a. (ny—ol) To fetch, or to bring.
Noli, v. a. (nol) To fetch, or to bring.
Non, s. f.—pl. t. au (ny—on) A stream, a brook.

Dy ffynnawn lydan, dyleinw nonau;
Dyddaw, dyhebgyr, dybrys dybrau:
Marwnad Corol a'm cyffroes!

Thy ample fountain, it will replenish the streams; sad omens come, dispensing with the path of haste: the death-cry of Corol hath agitated me! Taliesin.

Nos, s. f.—pl. t. au (ny—os) Night. Min nos, min y nos, the twilight of evening; hanner nos, canol nos, midnight; perfeddion y nos, dyfnder y nos, the middle of the night, or the dead of the night; o'r nos y ganer ef, from the night when he shall be born.

Nos yw mam y cynllwyn.

Night is the mother of plots. Adage.

Gwaith y nos y dydd a'i dengys.

The work of the night the day will disclose. Adage.

Nosawl, a. (nos) Relating to night, nocturnal.

Mawrhâa yr hollgyfoethawg Dduw ei drugaredd yn mhlith y Prydeiniaid, rhag ei tywyllaw hwynt o nosawl dywyllwg angeu.

The omnipotent God hath magnified his mercy amongst the Britons, in preventing their being darkened by the night-like darkness of death. Gr. ab Arthur.

Nosgrwydr, s. m.—pl. nosgrwydrau (nos—crwydr) A night ramble.
Nosgrwydrad, s. m. (nosgrwydr) A night ramble.
Nosgrwydrai, s. m.—pl. nosgrwydroion (nosgrwydr) A night rambler.
Nosgrwydrydd, s. m.—pl. nosgrwydryddion (nosgrwydr) A night rambler.

Nosi, v. n. (nos) To become night, to draw towards night, to grow late.

Er nosi dysgleirdeb eich gwedd,
O'ch llygad dan gwmwl y'nghudd——
Eto e wawria.

Though the brightness of your countenance is become night, from your eye being hidden under a cloud, again it shall shine. Ro. Edwards Offeiriad.

Nosi, s. f. (nos) A night-time, darkness of night.

F'enaid dlos, ni ddaw nosi
I adail haf y del hi.

My pretty soul, night will not come to the summer edifice where she comes. D. ab Gwilym.

Nosiad, s. m. (nos) A becoming night.
Nosig, s. f. dim. (nos) A night time, a night.

Mabon fab Modron a ddygid yn nhair nosig iwrth ei fam.

Mabon the son of Modron was taken in three nights from his mother. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Noson, s. f. (nos) A night time, a night; a certain night.

Iacob——a lettyai y noson hono yn y gwersyll.

Jacob lodged for that night in the camp. Genesis 32. 21.

Noswaith, s. f.—pl. nosweithiau (nos—gwaith) A certain night, a night.
Noswyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (nos—gwyl) The eventide, the nightfall, the time of leaving off work at eve; a vigil.

Noswyl iâr, gwae ai câr.

The hen's night-time, woe to such as loves it. Adage.

Noswyliad, s. m. (noswyl) A leaving off work at eve; a keeping vigils.
Noswyliaw, v. a. (noswyl) To give over work at eve; to keep a vigil.
Noswyliawg, a. (noswyl) Resting for the night.
Noswyliedig, a. (noswyliad) Being laid by at night
Noswyliwr, s. m.—pl. noswylwyr (noswyl—gwr) One who leaves off for the night; one who keeps vigils.
Notur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nawd) Nature.
Noturiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (notur) Nature.
Noturiawl, a. (notur) Natural, or genial.
Nudd, s. m. (ny—udd) A fog, haze, or mist.
Nug, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ug) A shake, a quiver, a ripple. a. Shaking; quivering.

Meirch——
Mwth, mynggan, hirllam, haerllug,
Na bwynt gynt na rhywynt uch ryd nug.

Steeds, swift, white-maned, of long stride, and impatient, may they not be more fleet than the stormy wind above the rippling ford. Ll. P. Moch.

Nugiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nug) A shaking; a rippling; or broken motion.
Nugiaw, v. a. (nug) To shake; to quiver; to ripple; to wrinkle.

Nugiaw gan y cwn.

To be shaken by the dogs. Adage.

Nugiawl, a. (nug) Tending to shake or ripple.
Nur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ur) A pure body or being; essence.

Am Fadawg deifniawg dofn awen;
Am nur pur fal pair Ceridwen——
Y pryderaf.

For the accomplished Madawg of profound genius; for a pure essence like the cauldron of Ceridwen I am sad. Sefnyn.

NW, s. m. r. That is of a pervading nature.
Nwd, s. m. (ny—wd) That is sharp or pointed.
Nwdd, s. m. (nw) That is pervasive or oozing.
Nwf, s. m. (nw) That is subtil; that is pure, or hallowed. a. Holy, or pure.
Nwn, s. m. (nw) That is of an intense nature.
Nwth, s. m. (nw) That draws in or pulls.
Nwy, s. m. (nw) That is pervasive; spirit, or vivacity; sprightliness.

Nwyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwy) Drift, or scope; bent of the mind, or passion; a whim, or trick; a way, or manner. Nwydau drwg, bad tricks; anhawdd tynu nwyd o hen geffyl, it is difficult to break an old horse of a trick.

O bant i bant b'ont tebyg
Herwlong lwyd i nwyd neidr!

From bottom to bottom is not the dun roving ship of the same course as a snake! R. Nanmor.

Nwydaw, v. n. (nwyd) To have a particular bias of mind; to have a whim or trick.
Nwydawg, a. (nwyd) Having a particular passion; having a whim or trick.
Nwydawl, a. (nwyd) Of a peculiar bent of mind; whimsical; apt to have tricks.
Nwydedd, s. m. (nwyd) The state of being of a peculiar turn of mind; whimsicalness; a habit of freaks or tricks.
Nwydiad, s. m. (nwyd) A filling with whims or freaks; a becoming whimsical.
Nwydiant, s. m. (nwyd) A whimsical disposition.
Nwydus, a. (nwyd) Freaky, or whimsical.
Nwydusaw, v. a. (nwydus) To render whimsical; to become whimsical or full of freaks.
Nwydusrwydd, s. m. (nwydus) Whimsicalness.
Nwydwyllt, a. (nwyd—gwyllt) Abounding with wild freaks; hairbrained.
Nwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwy) Essence; stuff, substance, or materials; commodity; effects; wealth, riches. Mae nwydd da yn yr esgidiau hyn, there is good stuff in these shoes. Sil.
Nwyddaw, v. a. (nwydd) To endue with matter or substance; a becoming substantial.
Nwyddawg, a. (nwydd) Material, or substantial.
Nwyddawl, a. (nwydd) Material, or substantial.
Nwyddiad, s. m. (nwydd) A rendering material or substantial; a becoming substantial.
Nwyddus, a. (nwydd) Material, or substantial.
Nwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwy) A subtil pervading element; a fine ethereal fluid; animal spirits, liveliness, or vivacity; energy.

Tri bonedd awen, nwyf, pwyll, a gwybodaeth.

The three foundations of genius, vigour, judgement, and knowledge. Barddas.

Nwyfaw, v. a. (nwyf) To cheer up the spirits, to enliven; to become sprightly or wanton.
Nwyfawg, a. (nwyf) Full of vivacity, sprightly; wanton, amorous.

——Golygus wilogod
Yn serchawg nwyfawg eu naid.

Sightly mares of amorous and wanton leap. T. Prys.

Nwyfawl, a. (nwyf) Full of vivacity, sprightly; wanton, amorous.
Nwyfedig, a. (nwyf) Being made sprightly or wanton; being become lively or wanton.
Nwyfedigaeth, s. m. (nwyfedig) A rendering or becoming full of spirits.
Nwyfiad, s. m. (nwyf) An enlivening; a becoming sprightly or lively; a becoming wanton.
Nwyfiadawl, a. (nwyfiad) Of an enlivening tendency; of an amorous tendency.
Nwyfiadu, v. a. (nwyfiad) To render sprightly or vivacious; to become sprightly or wanton.
Nwyfiadus, a. (nwyfiad) Enlivening, cheering.
Nwyfiannawl, a. (nwyfiant) Enlivening.
Nwyfiannu, v. a. (nwyfiant) To render sprightly or wanton; to become full of spirits.

Ei arogl o'i lwyn yn fwyn a'm nwyfiannodd;
Hwyliai'm cain arfaeth.

His fragrancy from his grove kindly cheered me; it guided my brilliant design. E. Dafydd.

Nwyfiannus, a. (nwyfiant) Animating.

Nwyfiannusaw, v. a. (nwyfiannus) To render sprightly; to become full of vivacity.

Nwyfiant, s. m. (nwyf) Vivacity, sprightliness; wantonness.

—Brodyr a'm bunt
Ac o bob gorwyf nwyfiant
Ni wyr Tren perchen cyngant!

Brothers to me there were, and each of these princely heirs possessed vigour: but Tren knows no congenial owner. Llywarch Hen.

Nwyfiator, ger. (nwyfiad) In enlivening.

Nwyfitor, sup. (nwyf) To be enlivening.

Nwyfoed, s. m. (nwyf—oed) A love meeting.

Adwaen ef o'i fedw nwyfoed,
Awdur cerdd adar y coed.

I know him from his birchen recess of love, the author of song for the birds of the grove. D. ab Gwilym, i'r fronfraith.

Nwyfre, s. f. (nwyf—rhe) The ethereal sphere; the firmament, the atmosphere.

Addwyn haul yn ewybr yn nwyfre.

Glorious is the sun moving in the firmament. Taliesin.

Gorddyar adar, gwlyb traeth,
Eglur nwyfre, ehelaeth ton:
Gwyw calon rhag hiraeth!

Clamorous are the birds, the strand is wet, clear is the welkin, ample the wave: the heart is palsied with longing! Llywarch Hen.

Nwyfserch, s. m. (nwyf—serch) Wanton love.

Nwyfus, a. (nwyf) Full of spirits, sprightly, lively, chearful; wanton.

Nwyfusaw, v. a. (nwyfus) To render sprightly; to become lively; to become wanton.

Nwyfusedd, s. m. (nwyfus) Sprightliness, vivacity; wantonness.

Nwyfusrwydd, s. m. (nwyfus) Sprightliness, vivacity; wantonness.

Nwyth, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwy) A drift, a course, whim, an oddity, a prank; impertinence. Mae nwythau rhyfedd yn y dyn yma, there are odd freaks in that man. Sil.

Nwythad, s. m. (nwyth) A rendering eccentric; a becoming eccentric or whimsical.

Nwythas, s. f. (nwyth) Eccentricity, oddity.

Dygymer pob ner, pob nwythas deyrn;
Duw o nef a'th swynas;
Wyt priawd tir Prydain a'i chlas.

Be thou taking every chieftain, every prince of arrogancy; God of heaven hath blessed thee; to thee appertains the land of Britain and its church. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Nwythaw, v. a. (nwyth) To render whimsical; to become full of freaks or whimsical.

Nwythawg, a. (nwyth) Having oddities.

Nwythawl, a. (nwyth) Eccentric, whimsical.

Nwythedig, a. (nwythad) Rendered eccentric; become eccentric or whimsical.

Nwythiad, s. m. (nwyth) A rendering eccentric; a becoming eccentric or whimsical.

Nwythig, a. (nwyth) Eccentric, whimsical.

Nwythus, a. (nwyth) Full of whims, freaks, or oddities; whimsical, freaky; impertinent. Dyn nwythus, a whimsical and impertinent person.

Nwythusaw, v. a. (nwythus) To render whimsical; to become whimsical.

Nwythusrwydd, s. m. (nwythus) Eccentricity.

NY, s. m. r. That is spreading, pervasive, or universal; that is whole or in continuity. It is used as a prefix, implying augmentation, and certitude.

Nych, s. m. (ny—ych) A state of pain, a languishing, a pining away.

Hir nych i angeu.

Long pining to death. Adage.

Bid nych cwyn claf.

Languishing be the complaint of the sick. Adage.

Nycha, interj. (ny—ycha) Behold! lo! see here!

Nychawl, a. (nych) Languishing; tormenting.

Nychdawd, s. m. (nych) A state of languishment or pain; a lingering disorder; a languishment.

Gwell marw no hir nychdawd.

Better is death than long languishment. Adage.

Nychedig, a. (nych) Tortured, or afflicted.

Nychiad, s. m. (nych) A languishing; a causing pain, a tormenting.

Nychial, v. n. (nych) To be languishing or in pain

Nychiant, s. m. (nych) Languishment; pain.

Nychlyd, a. (nych) Languishing, pining; painful

Nychlydrwydd, s. m. (nychlyd) A state of anguish

Nychlydu, v. n. (nychlyd) To become languishing

Nychu, v. a. (nych) To inflict pain, to torment, to consume with pain; to languish, to pine, to waste away. Paid a'i nychu hi, do not torture her.

Wylaf——
Nychwyd, anafwyd nifer,
Na chawn ragor-ddawn gerddwr.

I weep, afflicted, wounded are many, that we shall not enjoy the minstrel of superior talent. Sefnyn.

Nychwaew, s. m. (nych—gwaew) A languishing pain.

Nychwedd, s. f. (nych—gwedd) A countenance of anguish.

Nydell, s. f.—pl. t. i (nwd) A needle.

Nydwydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (nwd—gwydd) A broach, or pin; a needle. Nydwydd ddur, a stitching needle; cei y cwd a'r nydwydd ar ei ol, thou shalt have the bag and the broach after him: Nydwydd y bygel, shepherd's needle.

Nydwyddai, s. c. (nydwydd) Worker at a needle.

Nydwyddaw, v. a. (nydwydd) To needle.

Nydwyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (nydwydd) A needlewoman, a seamstress.

Nydwyddwr, s. m.—pl. nydwyddwyr (nydwydd—gwr) A needleman, or seamster.

Nydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ny—ydd) A spin, a turn, or twist; a perversion; equivocation, evasion.

Nyddawl, a. (nydd) Spinning; turning, twisting.

Nyddedig, a. (nydd) Being spun or twisted.

Nyddfa, s. f.—pl. nyddfëydd (nydd) A spinning place.

Nyddiad, s. m. (nydd) A spinning; a twisting.

Nyddoes, s. m. (nydd—oes) Spinach.

Nyddu, v. a. (nydd) To spin; to turn, to twist; to pervert, to equivocate, to evade.

Nyddwedd, s. f. (nydd—gwedd) The size of yarn in spinning.

Nyddwr, s. m.—pl. nyddwyr (nydd—gwr) A spinner.

Nyddwraig, s. f.—pl. nyddwreigedd (nydd—gwraig) A spinning-woman, a spinster.

Nyf, s. pl. aggr. (nwf) Snow. It is more generally called eiry, eira, and od.

Gwynbryd nyf cyn daddawdd.

A white countenance of snow before it dissolves. Ior. Gyriawg.

Nyfed, s. f. (nwf) A pure or holy nature.

Dyphorthes meinir molud nyfed.

The slender maid bore the praise for sanctity. Aneurin.

Gorthywys nefoedd nyfed eglur,
Gwrthwyf na bo trist Crist creadur!

Supreme of the heavens of splendid purity, at me may Christ the creator not be grieved! Cynddelw.

Y gwr a oreu awyrawl ednaint,
Ac adnea daiarawl,
Erglyw fi, arglwydd cannwynawl;
Erglywed gwar nyfed nefawl;
Tu y bwyf y bo dy kanmawl,
Tad yspryd, a'n Tad ysprydawl.

The Being who caused the aerial creatures of wing, and earthly abodes, hear me, thou universal Lord; let the gentle sanctity of heaven listen; the side I am of be thou praised there, Father of spirit, and our spiritual Father. Elidr Sais.

Nyfel, s. m. (nwf—el) A subtil element.

Uch awen uchel;
Uch no pob nyfel.

Above the high-flowing; higher than every subtil element.
Taliesin, can y Meirch.

Nyfiad, s. m. (nyf) A snowing, a falling of snow.
Nyfiaw, v. n. (nyf) To snow: but bwrw eiry, bwrw eira, and odi, are the popular words.
Nyni, pron. (ny—ni) We all; we, us.

Duw Tad, o'th rad a'th fawrydi mawr,
Ymorol â nyni.

God the Father, of thy grace and thy awful majesty, have regard of us. H. D. ab Ifan.

Nyninnau, pron. (ny—ninnau) We also; us too.
Nyth, s. m.—pl. t. od (ny—yth) A nest. Nyth aderyn, or moron y maes, wild carrot.

Y penhebogydd——a ddyly nythod yr hebogau, a'r llemystenod, a fo ar dir y brenin.

The head falconer ought to have the nests of the falcons, and the sparrow-hawks, which shall be on the land of the king.
Welsh Laws.

Nythai, s. c.—pl. nytheion (nyth) A nestling.
Nythaid, s. m.—pl. nytheidiau (nyth) A nestful.
Nythawd, s. m. (nyth) The act of nestling.
Nythdrig, s. m. (nyth—trig) The period of staying in the nest.
Nythdrigiad, s. m. (nythdrig) Nidulation.
Nythdrigiant, s. m. (nythdrig) The time of keeping the nest, nidulation.
Nythfa, s. f. (nyth—ma) A nestling place.
Nythgyw, s. m.—pl. t. ion (nyth—cyw) A nestling
Nythiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (nyth) Nidification.
Nythlwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (nyth—llwyth) A nestful, the young ones in the nest.
Nythu, v. a. (nyth) To build a nest; to nestle.
Nythyn, s. m. dim. (nyth) A little nest.
Nyw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ny) Sprightliness, vivacity; ardour; vigour.
Nywiad, s. m. (nyw) A rendering lively; a becoming sprightly or wanton.
Nywus, a. (nyw) Of a sprightly nature.
Nywusaw, v. a. (nywus) To render sprightly; to become lively, brisk, or wanton.
Nywusedd, s. m. (nywus) Sprightliness.
Nywusrwydd, s. m. (nywus) Sprightliness.

O.

O, s. m. r. That goes out or proceeds. It is a termination of some nouns; and of the third person future tense of the subjunctive mood.
O, prep. From, of, out of; by. O'm, from my; o'th, from thy; o'i, from his, her, or its; o'n, from our; o'ch, from your; o'u, from their; o'r, from the; being contractions of o ym, o yth, o ei, o ein, o eich, o eu, o yr. O le i le, from place to place; o'r gorau, of the best, very well.

Godritor buwch o'i phen.

The milking of a cow must be from her head. Adage.

O, conj. If, used before words with consonant initials, in common with os, except that the mutable ones suffer no change with the latter; but with o the change is optional, in certain cases. O ceri fi, o cheri fi, os ceri fi, if thou wilt love me.

O chefir dyn yn llosgi yn lledrad, bid eneidfaddeu.

If a man shall be found burning privily, let him be condemned to death. Welsh Laws.

Bai mawr, y' Nghymmru o bydd
Dyn bydawl ar d'enw bedydd.

A great fault, in Wales if there shall be a mortal man of thy christian name. D. ab Ieuan Ddu.

O, pron. The third person neuter and masculine; it, he. Difai oedd o, faultless was he. This pronoun is also used idiomatically for persons, like it in English. O ddywedodd imi farw, it was said by him that I had died.
O, interj. Oh, alas. O druan oedd! Oh poor thing that he was! O dyn! Oh dear!

O fi! a dwywau nef a daiar, a ddaw amser y gallwyf fi dalu chwyl yn y gwithwyneb i'r gwyr hyny, y rhai ry orug i minnau ddyfod yn yr angenoctyd hwn!

Oh me! ye gods of heaven and earth, will there come a time when I shall be able to retaliate against those men, who have caused me also to be in this adversity! Gr. ab Arthur.

OB, s. m. r. A going out, a going from.
Oblaid, conj. (o—plaid) Because, for this reason.
Oblegid, conj. (o—plegid) Because, on that account, for, on this account that.
Obobtu, prep. (o—pobtu) On every side, on each side; about; from every side.
Obraidd, adv. (o—braidd) Hardly, or scarcely.
Obry, prep. (o—bry) Below, beneath, under.

Addaf rên a'i hil ddaw fry:
Dadebraut o dud obry.

Adam the sire with his offspring will come above; they will revive and rise from the region below. W. Wyn.

Obry, adv. (o—bry) Beneath, in a lower place.

O chyrhaedd fry ni ddaw obry.

If he gets above he will not come below. Adage.

OC, s. m. r. An outward or opposite position.
Oc, prep. (oc, s.) From; of; out of; at a distance from; before, in front, or opposite to. Oc ei wyneb, from his face; oc eu lle, o'u lle, out of their place.

Y Trofanwyslon o wnaynt aerfa ddirfawr ei maint oc eu gelynion.

The Trojans made a slaughter of immense magnitude of their enemies. Gr. ab Arthur.

Oco, adv. (oc) Yonder, there, at a distance.

Ci'n hynod a hardd, oco'n hoew-nad i'w hynt;
Ci'n orn i daerion, mwy cynnar na dewr-wynt.

A dog notable and handsome, yonder with sprightly cry on his course; a dog that is the dread of importunate ones, more swift than the impetuous wind. E. Dafydd, i fleiddgi.

Y cneuwydd oco'n hoewon,
Iriw frig ar ael y fron.

The nut trees yonder lively seem, with fresh-coloured branches on the brow of the hill. Morg. Gruffudd.

Ocr, s. m.—pl. ocrau (oc—yr) Usury.
Ocraeth, s. m. (ocr) Usury, profit, gain.
Ocrawl, a. (ocr) Relating to usury.
Ocredd, s. m. (ocr) Usuriousness; profit.
Ocri, s. m. (ocr) Usury, profit, gain.
Ocriad, s. m. (ocr) A dealing in usury.
Ocru, v. a. (ocr) To practise usury.
Ocrwr, s. m.—pl. ocrwyr (ocr—gwr) An usurer.
Ocrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ocr) An usurer.
Octid, s. m. (og) The time of youth; youth.

Cof can octid ys dir.

Memory with youth is certain. Adage.

OCH, s. m. r. A forcible utterance; a moan, a groan. Och yn dy berfedd! May there be a grumbling in thy guts!

Och, interj. (och, s.) Oh! Alas! Woe!

Och anwyl! o'r oer esgar,
Gweld dy fod yn drydar
Gan unben dewr diarchar,
Dy olo di y dan ddaiar!

Alas thou dear one! that a sad separation should come, after thou wert joyous with a gallant ruthless chief, that thou shouldest be covered under earth! Cyfoesi Myrddin.

Ocha, interj. (och) Oh, Ah. Ocha druan! Ah, poor thing! Ocha fi! ocha finnau! Ah me!

Ochain, s. m. (och) A groaning often, a groaning.

Ochain, v. a. (och) To be uttering groans.

Ochan, s. m. (och) A groan, a moan; a woe.

Ochan, interj. (och) Oh! Alas! Woe!

Ochan! nid pell y gelli.

Alas! not much canst thou do.

Ochenaid, s. f.—pl. ocheneidiau (och—enaid) A sigh.

Mae dan fy mron yn croni
Ochenaid oer na chawn di.

There is within my breast collecting a heavy sigh that I do not have thee. R. Ddu.

Ocheneidiad, s. m. (ochenaid) A sighing.

Ocheneidiaw, v. a. (ochenaid) To utter sighs.

Ocheneidiawl, a. (ochenaid) Sighing, sobbing.

Ocheneidiwr, s. m. (ochenaid—gwr) A sigher.

Ochi, s. m. (och) A groaning, a moaning; a sighing.

A mil o eneidiau man,
Ochi anferth, a chwynfan,
——A glywed.

And a thousand of minute souls, dreadful groaning, and complaint, were heard. Dr. S. Cent.

Ochi, v. a. (och) To utter groans, to groan, to sigh.

Rhag trymfryd ochid achenawg.

Because of an oppressed mind let the needy utter groans. Adage.

Ochiad, s. m. (och) The uttering of sighs.

Ochr, s. m.—pl. t. au (och—yr) A side, an edge.

Ochrawg, a. (ochr) Having sides, lateral.

Ochrawl, a. (ochr) Belonging to the side, lateral.

Ochredd, s. m. (ochr) The state of having sides.

Ochren, s. f. dim. (ochr) A side or shelving region.

Ochri, v. a. (ochr) To make a sharp side, ledge, edge, or rim; to side, to take a side. Mae o yn ochri am y fron, he is turning on one side for the breast.

Ochriad, s. m. (ochr) A siding, a forming a side.

Ochrwr, s. m.—pl. ochrwyr (ochr—gwr) A sider.

OD, s. m. r. that is out, clear or bright; the falling snow, snow.

Od, a. (od, s.) Notable; excellent; singular, odd.

Nid edwyn; mòr od ydyw.

She does not recognise; so odd is she. D. ab Gwilym.

Od, conj. (o—yd) If; used before words with vowel initials. Od awn, if we go; od arosi, if thou wilt stay.

Od ydyw yn dawedog,
Is y chwardd eos a chog.

If she is become silent, lower will the nightingale and the cuckow sing. D. ab Edmwnd.

Odi, v. n. (od) To snow; for which bwrw eira, is commonly used.

Odid eiry; toid ystrad;
Dyfrysynt cedwyr i gad:
Mi nid af; anaf ni'm gad!

Let there be snowing of snow; let it cover the vale; let the warriors hasten to battle: I shall not go; infirmity will not let me! Llywarch Hen.

Odiad, s. m. (od) A falling of snow, a snowing.

Odiaeth, s. m. (od) A peculiarity; that is notable, rare, or precious.

Haeral rai—eich myn'd yn Sais,
A gado'ch gwyr ac odiaeth,
Ar dranc, megys llong ar draeth.

Some would assert that you are become an Englishman, and leave your men and peculiarity to perish, like a ship on the strand. W. Lleyn, i E. Llwyd, o Ial.

Odiaethawl, a. (odiaeth) Peculiar, particular.

Odiaethu, v. a. (odiaeth) A rendering peculiar.

Odid, s. m. (od) A peculiarity, a rarity. Ond odid, peradventure.

Odid, adv. (od) Perhaps, probably; rarely.

Odid nad odid yw.

It is probably only a probability. Adage.

Odid addewid a ddel.

A rarity is the promise that comes. Adage.

Odid a gatwo wyneb o eisiwed.

A phenomenon is he that keeps his countenance out of necessity. Adage.

Odidawg, a. (odid) Peculiar, or remarkable.

Odidawg a fo didwyll.

He is remarkable that is without deceit. Adage.

Odlaidd, a. (awdl) Of the nature of rhyme.

Odlawg, a. (awdl) Rhythmical; having rhyme.

Odledd, s. m. (awdl) The state of being rhythmical; the state of having rhyme.

Odli, v. a. (awdl) To make rhyme; to rhyme, to have terminations of the same sound.

Odliad, s. m. (awdl) A rhyming.

Odlig, s. f. dim. (awdl) A little ode.

Odlyd, a. (ôd) Niveous, or snowy.

Odlydrwydd, s. m. (odlyd) Snowiness.

Odwlaw, s. m. (od—gwlaw) Sleet; also called eirwlaw.

Odwlawiad, s. m. (odwlaw) A sleeting.

Odwlawiaw, v. n. (odwlaw) To sleet.

Odwlawiawg, a. (odwlaw) Abounding with sleet.

Odyn, s. f.—pl. t. au (od) That reduces to a calx; a kiln. Odyn galch, cylyn calch, a lime kiln; odyn frag, a malt kiln; odyn faes, a field kiln.

Pob odyn ni bo odyn biben, traian ei gwerth a ddygwydd.

Every kiln that is not a pipe kiln, the third of its value shall fall. Welsh Laws.

Odynaid, s. f. (odyn) A kiln-full.

Odyndy, s. m.—pl. t. au (odyn—ty) A kiln-house.

ODD, s. m. r. That tends out or from.

Odd, prep. (o—ydd) From, of, out of; by.

Oddeutu, prep. (o—deutu) On both sides; about; round about. Oddeutu y ty, about the house; oddeutu mil, about a thousand. adv. From both sides.

Oddf, s. m.—pl. oddfau (odd) A knob, an excrescence; a wen; a corn; a botch.

Wyr Farchudd arfau erchyll
A ddifa caith fal oddf cyll.

The grandson of Marchudd of terrible weapons will destroy the slaves like knobs of hazel. R. Ddu.

Oddfawg, a. (oddf) Protuberant, bossed.

Oddfawl, a. (oddf) Tending to be knobbed.

Oddfi, v. n. (oddf) To become bossed or knobbed.

Oddfiad, s. m. (oddf) A becoming knobbed.

Oddfogi, v. n. (oddfawg) To become knobbed.

Oddfogrwydd, s. m. (oddfawg) Knobbiness.

Oddfu, v. n. (oddf) To bump out, to boss.

Oddfyn, s. m. dim. (oddf) A knob, a knur; a bunch; a wen; a little swelling, a botch.

Oddi, prep. (odd) Out of, from; off, from off.

Digrifion, doethion fu'r do
A aned oddi yno.

Merry and wise was the generation that was born from thence L. G. Cothi.

Oddiacw, adv. (oddi—acw) From yonder.
Oddiallan, prep. (oddi—allan) From the outside.
Oddiallan, adv. (oddi—allan) From without; on the outside, outwardly.
Oddiam, prep. (oddi—am) From the circumference, from round. adv. From about.
Oddiamdanaf, pronom. prep. (oddiam—tanaf) From about me, from off me. Oddiamdanad, from about thee; oddiamdani, from about her; oddiamdano, from about him; oddiamdanom, from about us; oddiamdanoch, from about you; oddiamdanynt, from about them.
Oddiamgylch, adv. (oddiam—cylch) From round about, from about; in circumference. prep. About.
Oddiar, prep. (oddi—ar) From, or off; above.

Mal llyfu mel oddiar ddrain.

Like licking honey off thorns. Adage.

Oddiar, adv. (oddi—ar) From off; from, off.
Oddiarffordd, adv. (oddiar—ffordd) From off the way.
Oddiarffordd, a. (oddiar—ffordd) Out of the way. Oddiarffordd grybwyll, an out of the way thought
Oddiarnadd, prep. (oddiar) From the possession of. Oddiarnaddynt, from the possession of them.
Oddiarnaf, pronom. prep. (oddi—arnaf) From me; from off me; from above me; above me. Oddiarnad, oddiarnat, from over thee; oddiarno, oddiarnodd, from off him; oddiarni, oddierni, from off her; oddiarnom, oddiarnon, from off us; oddiarnoch, from off you; oddiarnynt, from off them, above them.

Lleddaist y gwr cyn ei weled ebai Gwgan. Paham yr ae yntau â fy march cyn fy niegyn oddiarno.

Thou hast killed the man before seeing him, said Gwgan. Why should he take away my horse before I had alighted from off him. Araeth Gwgan.

Oddicartref, adv. (oddi—cartref) From home.
Oddidraw, adv. (oddi—traw) From yonder.
Oddidref, adv. (oddi—tref) From home.
Oddidros, adv. (oddi—tros) From beyond.
Oddieithr, conj. (oddi—eithr) Except, unless.
Oddieithr, prep. (oddi—eithr) On the exterior, on the outside. adv. From the external.

Aethant allan oddieithr y ddinas, i beri dangaws amryfeillon gwarëau.

They went out on the exterior of the city, in order to show various sorts of games. Gr. ab Arthur.

Oddifaes, adv. (oddi—maes) From without.
Oddifewn, adv. (oddi—mewn) From within.
Oddifry, adv. (oddi—bry) From above.
Oddifyny, adv. (oddi—myny) From above.
Oddifynydd, adv. (oddifyny) From above.
Oddigan, adv. (oddi—càn) From the possession of; from being with. It is compounded thus with pronouns: Oddigenyf, oddiganwyf, oddiganddwyf, oddigenyd, oddigenyt, oddiganot, oddiganddot, oddigano, oddiganddo, oddiganto, oddigantho; oddigeni, oddiganddi, oddiganti, oddiganthi, oddigenddi, oddigenti, oddigenthi; oddiganom, oddiganddom, oddigantom, oddiganthom, oddigenym; oddiganoch, oddiganddoch, oddigantoch, oddiganthoch, oddigenych; oddiganynt, oddiganddynt, oddigantynt, oddiganthynt, oddigenynt.
Oddiger, adv. (oddi—cer) From by, from being close to.
Oddigerth, conj. (oddi—certh) Except, unless.
Oddigerth, prep. (oddi—certh) Except; beside. adv. From close to. Trwy ei hun, ac oddigerth ei hun, through herself, and besides herself.

Oddigyda, adv. (oddi—cyda) From along with.
Oddigylch, prep. (oddi—cylch) From about, of about; about. adv. From about.
Oddigylchen, adv. (oddigylch) From round about.

Golchodd Taf oddigylchen
Dàn ei bais——

The Taf did wash from round about under his coat. Lang Lewys.

Oddihwnt, adv. (oddi—hwnt) From far, from the farther side; from beyond; from yonder.
Oddilawr, adv. (oddi—llawr) From below.
Oddimewn, adv. (oddi—mewn) From within.
Oddiobry, adv. (oddi—obry) From below.
Oddirhwng, adv. (oddi—rhwng) From between, from the intermediate space. Oddirhyngom, oddirhyngddom, oddirhyngtom, oddirhyngthom, from between us; oddirhyngoch, oddirhyngddoch, oddirhyngtoch, oddirhyngthoch, from between you; oddirhyngynt, oddirhyngddynt, oddirhyngtynt, oddirhyngthynt, from between them
Oddiso, adv. (odd—iso) From below, or beneath.
Oddisod, adv. (odd—isod) From below, from beneath.
Odditan, adv. (oddi—tan) From under; from below. prep. Below, underneath. Odditanaf, odditanof, from under me; odditanad, odditanat, odditanot, from under thee; odditano, odditanodd, from under him; odditani, from under her; odditanom, odditanon, from under us; odditanoch, from under you; odditanynt, from under them.

Gwelwn y ddaiar—megys pellen fechan gron ymhell odditanom.

I could see the earth, like a small round ball far below us. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Odditros, adv. (oddi—tros) From over, or beyond.
Odditrwy, adv. (oddi—trwy) From through.
Oddiuchod, adv. (oddi—uchod) From above.
Oddiuwch, adv. (oddi—uwch) From above.
Oddiuwchdo, pron. prep. (oddiuwch) From above him.
Oddiwaered, adv. (oddi—waered) From below.
Oddiwrth, prep. (oddi—wrth) From by, from. adv. From being in contact, from off. Oddiwrthof, oddiwrthyf, from me; oddiwrthot, oddiwrthyt, from thee; oddiwrtho, from him; oddiwrthi, from her; oddiwrthom, oddiwrthym, from us; oddiwrthoch, oddiwrthych, from you; oddiwrthont, oddiwrthynt, from them.

Ni ddoaf oddiwrth nai Ddafydd
Oni ddel y nos yn ddydd.

I will not come away from the nephew of David, until the night shall become day. L. G. Cothi.

Oddiyma, adv. (oddi—yma) From here, or hence.
Oddiyman, adv. (oddi—yman) From hence.
Oddiyna, adv. (oddi—yna) From there, from thence; from thenceforth; thence; then.
Oddiynaeth, adv. (oddi—ynaeth) From there, from thence; from thenceforth.
Oddiyno, adv. (oddi—yno) From there, or from thence, speaking of a distant place or time.

Y freniniaeth hon a ranid yn ddwy, sef Deifr a Brynaich. Deifr sydd o afon Hwmbyr hyd yn afon Dren; ac oddiyno hyd y mor Ysgotiaid yw Brynaich.

This kingdom was divided into two, namely Deifr and Brynaich. Deifr is from the river Humber to the river Trent; and from thence to the Scottish sea is Brynaich. S. ab Gr. Eudon.

Oddobry, adv. (odd—obry) From beneath.
Odduch, adv. (odd—uch) From above, from over. Odduchof, from above me; odduchot, from above thee; odducho, odduchto, from over him; odduchi, odduchti, from over her; odduchom, odduchtom, from above us; odduchoch, odduchtoch, from above you; odduchynt, odduchtynt, from above them.

Odducho, adv. (odd—uch) From above.
Oddyma, adv. (odd-+-yma) From here, or hence.
Oddyman, adv. (odd—yman) From hence.

Pell oddyman Aber Llyw,
Pellach an dwy gywedlyw:
Talan, telais dy ddeigr heddyw.

Far from hence is Aber Llyw, farther our two kindred chiefs: Talan, I have repaid thy tears this day. Llywarch Hen.

Oddyna, adv. (odd—yna) From there, from thence; from thenceforth; thence; then.
Oddynaeth, adv. (odd—ynaeth) From there; from thence; from thenceforth.

Pwy a wledych oddynaeth!

Who will govern from thenceforth! Cyfoesi Myrddin.

Oddyno, adv. (odd—yno) From there, or from thence, speaking of a distant place or time.
Oed, s. m.—pl. t. au (o—ed) Process of time; time to come; age; a set time, appointed time, a set day to come; a day of assignation; a delay, or put off of time. Yn oed un dydd, in the space of one day; also, delaying or excepting one day; oed dydd, a day of appointment; gwerthu ar oed, to sell upon credit; oed wrth borth, time granted in the process of a suit at law; y mae yn oed, it is high time. Sil.—Dyn mewn oed, a person of age; tan oed, under age.

Pob peth a ymdaith a gynnull ei borthiant,
Ond cler, ac oedion, a lladron difwyniant.

Every thing that moves doth collect its food, except minstrels and idlers and worthless thieves. Taliesin.

Oedawg, a. (oed) Full of delay; dilatory.
Oedawl, a. (oed) Tending to delay, procrastinating.
Oedfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (oed—ma) A time or place of meeting; a meeting; convenient time, opportunity.

Nid oes i ni ddysgwyl ond gwradwydd a gofid oddiwrth esgeulusaw oedfaon i ddwyn i ben amcanion daionus.

We are not to expect any thing but disgrace and affliction from neglecting opportunities for accomplishing good designs. Ier. Owain.

Oedi, v. a. (oed) To set a time; to procrastinate, to protract, to put off time; to postpone.

Ni hena hawl er ei hoedi.

A claim will not grow obsolete though it be delayed. Adage.

Oeda'r drel, aed ar ei dro:
Y lliw eiddot ai lladdo.

Put off the clown, let him go about his business: that complexion of thine may it kill him. Raf. ab Robert.

Oediad, s. m.—pl. t. an (oed) A setting or assigning a time, a making an appointment; a delaying; procrastination; a postponing.
Oediawg, a. (oed) Having a long process of time, of a long time; stricken in years, aged.
Oediedig, a. (oediad) Being settled as of time; being procrastinated or delayed.
Oedran, s. m. (oed—rhan) Time of life, duration of life; full age; age. Mae hi o oedran priodi, she is of age for marrying; dyn mewn oedran, a man in years.
Oedraniad, s. m. (oedran) A growing in years.
Oedrann, v. n. (oedran) To grow in years.
Oedrannus, a. (oedran) Of a period of life; being in years, stricken in years; aged, elderly.
Oedwr, s. m.—pl. oedwyr (oed—gwr) One who appoints a time; a procrastinator, a delayer.
Oedd, v. n. (o—edd) Was, did exist; it, he, or she was. A oedd hi yno? Oedd. Was she there? She was.

Oedd gwr fy mab, oedd dysgywen bawl,
Ac oedd nai i Urien;
Ar ryd Forlas y llas Gwen.

A man was my son, he was of illustrious inheritance, and he was the nephew of Urien; at the ford of Morlas Gwen was slain. Llywarch Hen.

Oeg, s. m. (o—eg) That is opened out.
Oel, s. m. (o—el) Of a protruding tendency.
Oen, s. m.—pl. ŵyn (o—en) A state of motion, briskness, or agitation; a lamb.

A wnelo ei hun yn oen a lyngcir gan y blaidd.

He that will make himself a lamb will be swallowed by the wolf. Adage.

Oen tangnefedd lle gweddud,
A llew'n y drin, llawen drud.

The lamb of peace where it seemed meet, and a lion in the conflict, sprightly and bold. W. Alaw.

Oena, v. (oen) To lamb, to yean.
Oenaidd, a. (oen) Like a lamb, lamb-like.
Oenan, s. c. (oen) A lambkin, a little lamb.
Oenawl, a. (oen) Belonging to a lamb.
Oenban, s. m. (oen—pan) A lamb's fur.
Oenes, s. f. (oen) An ewe lamb, a young ewe.
Oengen, s. m. (oen—cen) A lamb's skin.
Oenig, s. f. dim. (oen) A little ewe-lamb.
Oenyn, s. m. dim. (oen) A little lamb, a lambkin. Wyniach, wynos, ŵyn bach, lambkins.
Oer, s. m.—pl. t. ion (o—er) That is of a repulsive quality; a frigidity, a cold nature; severity. a. Cold; repulsive.

Mai oer a wna ysgubawr gynhes.

A cold May will make a warm barn. Adage.

Oer gwely pysgod yn nghysgawd iaen.

Cold is the bed of fishes under the shelter of ice. Adage.

Oeraidd, a. (oer) Somewhat cold, inclement.
Oerawl, a. (oer) Tending to frigidity; cooling.
Oerchwedl, s. m.—pl. t. au (oer—chwedl) A sad story, bad tidings, ill news.
Oerdeb, s. m. (oer) Coldness, frigidness.
Oerder, s. m. (oer) Coldness, or frigidity.
Oerdra, s. m. (oer) Coldness, or frigidity.
Oeredig, a. (oer) Being cooled, or made frigid.
Oeredd, s. m. (oer) Coldness, or frigidness.
Oeren, s. f. dim. (oer) A cold female.
Oerfa, s. f.—pl. t. au (oer—ma) A cool place.
Oerfel, s. f.—pl. t. on (oer—bel) Cold air, cold weather.

Yr oerfel annyoddefedig—pai bwrid mynydd o dan ynddo ydd aei yn un iaen.

The insuperable cold, if a mountain of fire were thrown therein it would become a perfect body of ice. Elucidarius.

Oerfelawg, a. (oerfel) Of cold temperament.

O iaith Llywelyn——
Oerfelawg calon dan fron o fraw.

For the death of Llywelyn, cold is the heart in the bosom through regret. Gr. ab yr Ynad Goch.

Oerferw, a. (oer—berw) Coldly bubbling.

Gorwyn blaen derw, oerferw dwfr;
Cyrchid biw blaen bedwerw;
Gwneiid aeth saeth y syberw.

Glittering the tops of the oak, coldly-bubbling the water; the kine will resort to the skirt of the birch copse; the bolt of the boaster is soon made to fly. Llywarch Hen.

Oergled, a. (oer—cled) Cool-sheltered.

Araf haf, hëar gweilgi,
Eirloes coed, oergled celli.

Gentle the summer, calm the ocean, splendid the woods, of a cooling shade the grove. Gwalchmai.

Oerglyd, a. (oer—clyd) Cool-sheltered.
Oergrai, a. (oer—crai) Harshly-cold.

Ystafell Cynddylan ys oergrai heno,
Gwedi y parch a'm buai;
Heb wyr, heb wreigedd ai cadwai.

The hall of Cynddylan is harshly-cold this night, after the honour upon me bestowed; Without the men, without the women who kept it. Llywarch Hen.

Oergri, s. f. (oer—cri) A dismal cry.
Oergrïad, s. m. (oergri) A crying dismally.

Oergrïaw, v. a. (oergri) To cry dismally.

Oergwymp, s. m. (oer—cwymp) A dismal fall. Oergwymp galanas, the sad lapse of slaughter compensation. It is an ancient law term, otherwise called Dygngoll cenedl, and Dygngolled cenedl.

> Oergwymp galanas yw: pan laddo dyn ddyn arall, dodi oed dydd i wneuthur iawn drosto, a'i ladd yntau o ddyn o genedl arall nis dylyo. Oergwymp galanas y gelwir hyny, rhag trymed ei golli ef, a gadaw y gyflafan a wnaethai ar ei genedl, a gorfod ei thalu.

> This is the dismal event of murder compensation: when a person kills another, appointing a day to make satisfaction for it, and he being killed by a person of another family, to whom he owes nothing. It is called the dismal event of murder, by reason of the grievousness of losing him, and leaving the weight of the heinous deed, committed by him, upon his family, and being obliged to make amends for it. Welsh Laws.

Oeri, v. a. (oer) To make cold, to cool; to become cold; to grow cool.

> Gwae chwaer deg, o chwerwed oedd,
> Gan hiraeth, gwn, a'i hoeroedd!

> It is woeful to the fair sister, so bitter was it, through regret, which I know, did make her cold! Ed. Dafydd.

Oeriad, s. m. (oer) A cooling, or a chilling.

Oeriain, v. a. (oer) To keep cooling; to seek cooling shades; to cool liquids by pouring from one vessel to another.

Oerlais, s. m.—pl. oerleisiau (oer—llais) A cold voice, a repulsive or grating voice.

Oerlef, s. m. (oer—llef) A dismal moan.

Oerlefain, v. a. (oerlef) To moan dismally.

Oerleisiad, s. m. (oerlais) A shrieking dismally.

Oerleisiaw, v. a. (oerlais) To shriek dismally.

Oerllyd, a. (oer) Of a cold quality; chilly.

Oerllydrwydd, s. m. (oerllyd) Frigidness.

Oernad, s. f.—pl. t. au (oer—nâd) A dismal howl, a lamentable or doleful cry.

Oernadu, v. a. (oernad) To howl dolefully.

Oerni, s. m. (oer) Coldness, chillness; cold weather.

Oersych, a. (oer—sych) Being cold and dry.

Oerwaedd, s. f. (oer—gwaedd) A dismal cry.

Oerwedd, s. f. (oer—gwedd) A chilling aspect. a. Of a chilling aspect.

Oerweiddi, v. a. (oerwaedd) To cry dismally.

Oerwern, s. f. (oer--gwern) A cold slough; a bardic epithet for the seat of lowest existence; and, under the christian system, often used for hell.

> Rhag oerwern gethern uffern affan,
> Atffeu anodden, lle anoddyn,
> Llea fi, Dofydd huenydd hyn:
> Llawer a wna Duw er dyniadon!

> From the fiends of the cold slough of the hell of uproar, the insuperable hold, the place profound, assign me a station, thou Creator comprehending eternity: Much doth God do for mankind! Elidr Sais.

Oerwlyb, a. (oer—gwlyb) Being cold and wet.

Oerwr, s. m.--pl. oerwyr (oer—gwr) A cold man.

Oerwynt, s. m. (oer—gwynt) A chilling wind.

Oeryn, s. m. dim. (oer) A cold person.

Oes, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (o—es) A period of time; a duration of life, an age; life. Er cyn yr oesoedd, from before the ages, from eternity; oes oesoedd, pyth bythoedd, age of ages, world of worlds.

> Hweched oes oes Iesu, a hyd frawd y para.

> The sixth age the age of Jesus, and till judgement it will last. Taliesin.

> Duw! y sydd ddwy oes heddyw;
> Un fry fyth, un fer i fyw.

> God! there are two existences this day; one above for ever, one short to live. T. Aled.

Oes, adv. (o—es) There is; is there. A oes neb yn y ty? Is there any body in the house? Oes, there is.

> Nid oes cywilydd rhag gofid.

> There is no shame against affliction. Adage.

> Nid oes neb heb ei fai.

> There is not any body without his fault. Adage.

Oesawg, a. (oes) Aged, in years, olden.

Oesawl, a. (oes) Relating to a period of existence.

> Y bryniau oesawl a grymasant.

> The everlasting hills did bow down. Habacuc iii. 6.

Oesbarth, s. m. (oes--parth) A period of existence.

Oesbell, a. (oes—pell) Of extended existence. Oesbell gariad, long existing love.

Oesboen, s. m. (oes—poen) The pain of life. a. Life-tormenting.

> ——Oesboen ddagrau rwy
> Rhyddyg lliw fy ngruddiau!

> Excess of life-tormenting tears takes away the colour of my cheeks! Bleddyn Fardd.

Oesbraff, a. (oes—praff) Of ample existence.

Oesdaith, s. f. (oes—taith) A course of life.

> Mcnawd molawd gnawd gne tòn waeddgreg
> Manar wisg lasar afar ofeg.
> Mil a'i mawl, heb dawl, dileddf chweg fwysiaith,
> Mawr-ddawn ganymdaith oesdaith osteg.

> Impressive be the praise of her whose skin is of the hue of the hoarse-sounding wave, the nymph of the azure vest of pensive mind. A thousand praise her, without ceasing, in sweet comprehensive speech unabased, a greatly gifted society of a life of study. Casnodyn.

Oesdlawd, a. (oes—tlawd) Of necessitous life.

Oesdrais, s. m. (oes—trais) Oppression of life. a. Life-oppressing.

Oesdraul, s. f. (oes—traul) The consumption of life. a. Life-consuming.

Oesdrawd, s. m. (oes—trawd) A course of life.

Oesdru, s. m. (oes—tru) Misery of life.

Oesdrwch, s. m. (oes—trwch) A cutting off life. a. Life-breaking; life-destroying.

> Py fodd cerdd olwch, oesdrwch estrawn;
> Py fudd ced wallaw fal Cadwallawn.

> Who will be the theme of song, the life destruction of strangers who will be scattering gifts like Cadwallon. Cynddelw.

Oesdrwydden, s. f. (oes—trwydd) The hornbeam.

Oesfoddawg, a. (oes—boddawg) Having respect to life; leading a contented life.

> Ni bydd pencenedl y mab gwedy ei dad yn nesaf iddo, canys oesfoddawg y pencenedlaeth.

> The son shall not be the patron of the family after his father in succession, for a headship of family is during life. Welsh Laws.

Oesfriw, s. m. (oes—briw) A lapse of life.

> Gorllecheid eisiau o'i oesfriw aesfrau;
> O'i angeu anghlaear.

> I have harboured regret from his bristle-shielded lapse of life; from his melancholy death. Gwalchmai.

Oesfyr, a. (oes—byr) Of short life, shortlived.

> Oesfyr dy alon, aesfriw Faredudd.

> Shortlived thy foes, Maredudd with the battered shield. Ll. P. Moch.

Oesgaeth, a. (oes—caeth) Leading a captive life.

Oesgawdd, a. (oes—cawdd) Of a vexatious life.

> Bro amnawdd, oesgawdd, oesgaith ei gynnygn
> Ei gynnal nid hawdd-waith.

> The protection of the country, of vexatious existence the confined life of his opponent: to support him is no easy work. Cynddelw, i O. ab Madawg.

Oesgur, s. m. (oes—cur) The throb of life, the anguish of life. a. Life-afflicting.

Oesgwyn, s. f. (oes—cwyn) The complaint of life. a. Complaining of life.

Oesi, v. n. (oes) To pass through life, to live; to give life. Bid Duw i'w oesi, be God to grant him life.

> T'wysa, er d'enw, at oesi
> Gwirion fodd.——

> Conduct, for the sake of thy name, towards existing in an innocent way. W. Middleton.

Y gwr a'th roes i oesi,
Gyw du doeth, a'th gadw di.

Him that placed thee to exist preserve thee, thou black discreet bird. T. Prys, i'r fwyalchen.

Oesiad, s. m. (oes) A passing through life.
Oesran, s. f. (oes—rhan) An assigned portion of existence, a duration of life.
Oesred, s. f. (oes—rhed) A course of existence.
Oeswr, s. m.—pl. oeswyr (oes—gwr) One who passes through life; a liver.

A'm bod gannoes yn oeswr.

And my being a liver during a hundred ages. T. Prys.

Oeth, s. m. (o—eth) That is intense, pungent or harsh. a. Intense, pungent, harsh.

Ac yn llys afneued ym eiddunir:
Py noeth oeth dybyddaf, o dybryf rydd.

And in the hall of hospitality I shall be wished for: if naked I shall be harsh, if I shall be free. Gwalchmai.

Er mawr-gwymp Madawg, modur plymnwyd;
Am bost cad, ced goeth, oeth ym uthrwyd!

For the sad fall of Madog, the leader of conflict; for the pillar of battle, of precious gift, severely have I been dismayed! Gwalchmai.

Oethi, v. a. (oeth) To render intense, pungent, sharp, harsh, or severe.
OF, s. m. r. The elementary state of a thing; an atomical state; atoms; particles, motes; flue; that is uncombined or crude.
Of, a. (of, s.) Elementary, or in an uncombined state; crude; raw; frail, mouldering.

Hirewyn a Hiratrwm—pan elynt i west, nid edewynt na thew na theneu, na thwym nac oer, na sur na chroew, nac ir na hallt, na brwd nac of.

Long-nail and Long-trail, if they went on a visit, they would leave nor fat nor lean, nor cold nor hot, nor sour nor sweet, nor fresh nor salt, nor boiled nor raw. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Byd of ar fardd;——
Byd tost, mae'n fyr bywyd dyn.

A frail world for a bard; a cruel world, the life of man is short. D. Benwyn.

Ofaid, a. (of) Elementary; of a crude or raw quality; frail; mouldering.

Molawd Duw molaf a'i dywaid;
Ac molwy, nyw molaf ofaid,
Am obrwy, am obrid fy rhaid.

I will praise such as express the praise of God; and if I praise, I shall not praise the frail, for a reward, for the satisfying of my necessity. Cynddelw.

Ofaidd, a. (of) Of an elementary nature; of a crude or raw tendency; crumbling, mouldering.
Ofawd, s. m. (of) A reducing to an elementary state; a making crude, a mouldering.
Ofawg, a. (of) In an elementary state; having a crude or raw quality; crumbly.
Ofawl, a. (of) Elementary; of a crude nature, of a raw quality; mouldering.
Ofedd, s. m. (of) An elementary or atomical state; rawness; a crumbling or mouldering state.
Ofer, a. (of—er) Waste, vain, useless, idle, frivolous. It is prefixed in composition.

Hyd tra foch na fydd ofer.

As long as thou shalt exist be not useless. Adage.

Ofera, v. a. (ofer) To waste, to squander; to act vainly or idly; to pass time frivolously.
Oferchwedl, s. m.—pl. t. au (oferchwedl) A vain or empty report.
Oferdaith, s. f.—pl. overdeithiau (taith) A fruitless journey.
Oferdawd, s. m. (ofer) Vanity; frivolity.

Hwfft o'r wael awen a gais bob overdawd.

Away with the abject muse that seeks for every frivolity. Adage.

Oferdlws, s. m.—pl. overdlysau (ofer—tlws) A vain toy, ornament, or jewel; a jewel merely ornamental.

Y brawdwr llys a ddyly oferdlysau, pan wystler ei swydd iddo, nid amgen, tawlbwrdd o asgwrn morfil i gan y brenin, a modrwy aur i gan y frenines, ac arall i gan y bardd teulu; ac yr oferdlysau hyny, ni ddyly efe nac eu rhoddi nac eu gwerthu tra byddo byw.

The judge of the palace claims ornamental jewels, when his office is pledged to him; namely, a chessboard of the bone of a sea-animal from the king, and a gold ring from the queen, and another from the domestic bard: and those ornamental jewels he ought neither to give, nor to sell whilst he lives. Welsh Laws.

Oferdraul, s. f. (traul) Useless expenditure.
Oferdreuliad, s. m. (overdraul) A using needlessly, a spending uselessly.
Overdreuliaw, v. a. (oferdraul) To use in vain.
Overdreuliwr, s. m.—pl. overdreulwyr (overdraul—gwr) One who wastes uselessly.
Oferdyb, s. f.—pl. t. iau (over—tyb) Idle conceit.
Oferdybiaw, v. n. (overdyb) To have idle notion.
Overddadl, s. f.—pl. t. au (dadl) A vain dispute.
Oferddadlu, v. (oferddadl) To dispute vainly.
Oferddawn, s. m.—pl. oferddoniau (dawn) An useless talent, gift, or quality.
Oferddefawd, s. f. (defawd) An idle custom.
Oferddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ofer—dyn) A vain idle person; a squanderer, or a dissipated man.
Oferedd, s. m. (ofer) Vanity, frivolity, idleness, worthlessness, dissipation.
Oferelw, s. m. (elw) Useless wealth or riches.
Oferelwa, v. a. (oferelw) To heap useless wealth.
Oferfardd, s. m.—pl. oferfeirdd (ofer—bardd) A person who assumes the bardic order irregularly

Tri rhyw beirdd Ynys Prydain: prif-feirdd er cyn cred; a gwedi cred beirdd beli, ac yr oferfeirdd.

The three distinctions of bards of the Isle of Britain: the primitive bards from before christianity; and after conversion the bards of warfare, and the bards by assumption. Barddas.

Tri overfardd Ynys Prydain: Arthur, Cadwallawn mab Cadfan, a Rhyawd ail Morgant.

The three assumptive bards of the Isle of Britain: Arthur, Cadwallon son of Cadfan, and Rhyawd son of Morgant. Trioedd.

Oferfawl, s. f. (mawl) Empty or vain praise.
Oferfoli, v. a. (oferfawl) To praise vainly.
Oferfost, s. f. (bost) An empty boasting.
Oferfostiaw, v. a. (oferfost) To boast vainly.
Oferfostiwr, s. m.—pl. oferfostwyr (oferfost—gwr) A vain boaster.
Oferfraint, s. m.—pl. oferfreintiau (braint) An useless privilege.
Oferfudd, s. f. (budd) A vain or useless benefit.
Ofergadw, v. a. (cadw) To keep uselessly.
Ofergais, s. f. (cais) A vain attempt.
Ofergall, a. (call) Uselessly cunning.
Oferganlyn, v. (canlyn) To follow uselessly.
Oergaru, v. a. (caru) To love fruitlessly.
Ofergeisiaw, v. a. (ofergais) To make a vain attempt, to try uselessly.
Ofergoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (coel) Vain belief.
Ofergoelaidd, a. (ofergoel) Superstitious.
Ofergoeledd, s. m. (ofergoel) Superstitiousness.
Ofergoeliad, s. m. (ofergoel) A vainly crediting.
Ofergoeliwr, s. m.—pl. ofergoelwyr (ofergoel—gwr) A superstitious man.
Ofergoelus, a. (ofergoel) Superstitious.
Ofergred, s. f. (cred) Vain belief; superstition.
Ofergredu, v. n. (ofergred) To believe vainly.
Oferhela, s. m. (hela) Fruitless hunting.

Gwerth geligi y brenin yn ei oferhela chweugaint.

The value of the king's buck-hound in his training is six score pence. Welsh Laws.

Oferhela, v. a. (hela) To hunt fruitlessly.
Oferiaith, s. f. (iaith) Useless idle talk.
Oferieithus, a. (oferiaith) Full of idle talk.
Oferlaeth, s. m. (llaeth) Useless or over milk.

Tri oferlaeth y sydd: llaeth cath, llaeth gast, a llaeth caseg, can ni ddiwygir dim am danaddynt.

There are three waste milks: the milk of a cat, and the milk of a bitch, and the milk of a mare; for no satisfaction is made for them. Welsh Laws.

Oferorchest, s. f.—pl. t. ion (gorchest) A vain exploit.

Oferorchwyl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ofer—gorchwyl) A frivolous piece of business.

Oferwaith, s. m. (gwaith) Useless or vain work.

Oferwas, s. m.—pl. oferweision (gwas) A worthless chap.

Oferwawd, s. m. (gwawd) Empty praise.

Oferweithiaw, v. a. (oferwaith) To work vainly.

Oferwr, s. m.—pl. oferwyr (ofer—gwr) An useless idle man; an idler.

Gwae oferwr yn nghynauaf.

Woe to the idler during harvest. Adage.

Oferymadrawdd, s. m.--pl. oferymadroddion (ymadrawdd) Vain discourse; fruitless discussion.

Tri oferymadrawdd, a ddywedir yn llys, ac ni ffynant: gwad cyn dedfryd, a llys cyn amser, a chof a chynghaws wedi brawd.

The three fruitless discussions, which are uttered in court, and which shall not avail: a denial before restoration, and objection before the time, and record and pleading after sentence. Welsh Laws.

Oferymadrawdd, v. a. (ymadrawdd) To discourse vainly, to talk uselessly.

Oferymboeni, v. a. (ymboeni) To toil vainly.

Oferymgais, s. m. (ymgais) An idle attempt.

Oferymryson, s. m. (ymryson) Vain strife.

Oferymryson, v. a. (ymryson) To strive vainly.

Ofi, v. a. (of) To decompose; to become decomposed, to fall into an atomical state; to moulder, to crumble. Mae y gareg hon yn dechreu ofi, this stone is beginning to crumble.

Ofiad, s. m. (of) A reducing to an elementary state; a falling to atoms; a becoming crude; a mouldering, a decomposing.

Ofiannawl, a. (ofiant) Tending to decompose, tending to fall to atoms; mouldering.

Ofiannu, v. a. (ofiant) To reduce to an atomical state; to render friable.

Ofiannus, a. (ofiant) Relating to an elementary or atomical state.

Ofiannusaw, v. a. (ofiannus) To reduce to an elementary or atomical state.

Ofiannusedd, s. m. (ofiannus) An elementary or atomical state.

Ofiant, s. m. (of) A reducing to atoms.

Oflyd, a. (of) Apt to decompose, apt to fall to atoms; apt to moulder.

Diflas ganddo dy oflyd
Eiriau, heb eu cwplau cyd.

Disgusting to him thy jumbled words; without their being connected together. E. Efau, o Aberdar.

Oflydedd, s. m. (oflyd) A state of decomposition.

Oflydrwydd, s. m. (oflyd) A state of decomposition; a mouldering state; friableness.

Oflydu, v. n. (oflyd) To become decomposed; to crumble, to moulder.

Ofn, s. m.—pl. t. an (of—yn) Fear, or dread.

Gwell rhan ofn na rhan cariad.

Better the share of fear than the share of love. Adage.

Ofnâad, s. m. (ofnâu) A terrifying, a frightening; intimidation; a becoming frightened.

Ofnadwy, a. (ofn) Terrible, frightful, awful.

Ofnâu, v. n. (ofn) To become fearful; to render fearful or awful.

Ofnawg, a. (ofn) Fearful, timorous, timid.

Ofnawl, a. (ofn) Tending to frighten.

Ofnedig, a. (ofn) Being made timid.

Ofnedd, s. m. (ofn) Fearfulness, timidity.

Ofni, v. n. (ofn) To fear, to dread, to be afraid; to frighten, to terrify, to put in fear.

Cais Dduw yn gar, ac nag ofna far.

Seek God for thy friend, and fear no ill. Adage.

A bod ei law———
Ar gleddeu, er ei gladdu,
A'i lun gwrawl yn gorwedd,
Ef a wnai'r beilch ofni'r bedd.

Should his hand be on his sword, though he were buried, and his manly form laid down, the proud boasters would be made to fear the grave. L. G. Gothi.

Ofniad, s. m. (ofn) A dreading, a fearing.

Ofnid, s. m. (ofn) Terror, dread, or fear.

Llun tarian penaeth, a llun saethau,
Llun y pen ofnid yn llawn pinau.

The figure of a chieftain's shield, and the figure of arrows, the figure, of a gorgon head full of pins.
L. G. Cothi, i huling gwely.

Ofnocâu, a. (ofnawg) To stand in fear or awe.

Rhaid yw inl frodyr, caru digrifwch paradwys, ac ofnocâu poenau uffern.

It is necessary for us, brethren, to love the bliss of paradise, and fear the pains of hell. Breuddwyd Pawl. 1360.

Ofnogi, v. n. (ofnawg) To become timid.

Ofnogrwydd, s. m. (ofnawg) Fearfulness.

Ofnu, v. a. (ofn) To fear; to frighten.

Ofnus, a. (ofn) Fearful, timorous.

Ofnusaw, v. n. (ofnus) To become timid.

Ofnusedd, s. m. (ofnus) Timorousness.

Ofnusrwydd, s. m. (ofnus) Fearfulness.

Ofnwr, s. m.—pl. ofnwyr (ofn—gwr) One who dreads or fears.

Ofus, a. (of) Atomical; being decomposed.

Ofusedd, s. m. (ofus) An atomical state.

Ofydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (of—ydd) One who is initiated into first principles or elements; a scientific person, a natural philosopher, a teacher of science, an artist; the name for a member of the scientific class, in the bardic system; an ovate. Cad ofydd, the regulator of battle; gal ofydd, the regulator of hostility, whose person was sacred.

Bedd Gwrgi gwychydd——
A bedd Llawr, llu ofydd,
Yn ngwarthaf Gwanas.

The grave of Gwrgi the hero, and the grave of Llawr, the regulator of the host, in the height of Gwanas.
Engl. Beddau Milwyr.

Hi yn wyry, heb wâd;
Hi yn hollawl rad,
Yn rheg ofydd.

She a virgin, without denial; she of perfect grace, the blessing of the great artificer. Gwalchmai, i Fair.

Od uch brif-feirdd ffydd o waith Duw ofydd,
Dywedwch i'ch brenin beth fydd ei dramgwydd.

If ye are primary bards of faith of the work of God the great artist, declare to your king what will be his misfortune.
Taliesin, bustl y beirdd.

Ofyddaid, a. (ofydd) Ovatic, scientific.

Ofyddawl, a. (ofydd) Relating to the functions of an ovate; scientifical.

Ofyddeb, s. f. (ofydd) A discourse upon ovatism, a treatise upon science.

Ofyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (ofydd) A female member of the scientific class of bards.

Ofyddfardd, s. m.--pl. ofyddfeirdd (ofydd—bardd) A bard of science, a bard of arts, his office was analogous to that of a lay graduate now in the universities.

Ofyddiaeth, s. m. (ofydd) What is taught by an ovate, ovatism, philosophy.

Llawer o beth gwrthwyneb ysywaeth, sydd yn anmhorth i serchogrwydd,—gwylltineb serch, a llesmar ofyddiaeth, yn llesteiriaw cysgu.

Many contrary things, alas, there are unfavourable to true affection,— the frenzy of love, and the maze of philosophy hindering sleep. Ieuan Brydydd Hir.

Ofyddiannawl, a. (ofyddiant) Belonging to ovatism, philosophical.

Ofyddiannu, v. a. (ofyddiant) To exercise ovatism; to philosophise.

Ofyddiant, s. m. (ofydd) Ovatism; philosophy.

Ofyddu, v. a. (ofydd) To exercise ovatism; to philosophise.

OFF, s. m. r.—pl. t. ion. That is essential or tending to a beginning.

Offeiriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (offer) A minister.

> Offeiriad teulu, efe a ddyly fod yn wastad ygyd a'r brenin, canys trydydd anhebgor yw.
>
> The domestic priest, he ought to be continually with the king, for he is the third indispensable one. Welsh Laws.

Offeiriadaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (offeiriad) A priesthood, the function of a priest.

> Bydd eu henneiniad iddynt yn offeiriadaeth tragywyddawl drwy eu cenedlaethau.
>
> Their anointment shall be to them for an everlasting priesthood through their generations. Exodus 40. 15.

Offeiriadaidd, a. (offeiriad) Of a clerical quality.

Offeiriadawl, a. (offeiriad) Belonging to a priest.

Offeiriadu, v. a. (offeiriad) To perform priestly functions, to minister as a priest.

> Enneinia feibion Aaron, megys yr enneiniaist eu Tad hwynt, i offeiriadu i mi.
>
> Anoint the children of Aaron, as thou hast anointed their father, to minister before me. Exodus 40. 15.

Offeiriant, s. m.—pl. offeiriaint (offer) Ministration, the act of sacrificing.

> Meifod—
> A'i balch offeiriad, a'i hoffeiriaint,
> A pharawd offeren hoffaint.
>
> Meivod with its stately priest, and its sacrifices, and the ready mass of love. Cynddelw.

Offeiriedyn, s. m. dim. (offeiriad) A bit of a priest, in cant language.

Offer, s. pl. aggr. (off—er) That has power to effect; an instrument; implements; gear, traces, or harness.

> Gwell tynu, cymyddu nerth,
> Na thor offer na thrafferth.
>
> Better to pull on, exerting strength, than the breaking of gear or bustle. Math. ab Llywelyn Goch.

Offerawl, a. (offer) Instrumental, serving.

Offeren, s. f.—pl. t. au (offer) Instrumentality; the service of the church of Rome, the mass.

> Offeren pawb yn ei galon.
>
> Every body's religion in his heart. Adage.

Offerena, v. a. (offeren) To do the duty of the church in general; to celebrate mass.

Offerenawl, a. (offeren) Belonging to divine service; belonging to the mass.

Offerendor, s. f. (offeren—tor) The vestment worn at mass; a cope.

Offereniad, s. m. (offeren) A performing of divine service; a saying mass.

Offerenu, v. a. (offeren) To perform divine service; to say mass.

> Or gwnair eglwys mewn taiogdref gan ganiad y brenin, a'i bod yn gorffan, ac offeiriad yn offerenu ynddi, rhydd fydd y dref hono o hyny allan.
>
> If a church shall be built in a villain town, with the permission of the king, and it should be a place of interment, and a priest doing duty in it, that town shall be free from that time forward. Welsh Laws.

Offerenwr, s. m.—pl. offerenwyr (offeren—gwr) One who celebrates mass, a mass-priest.

Offerenwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (offeren—gwisg) A vestment worn in celebrating mass.

Offeriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (offer) An acting as an instrument; a becoming an agent.

Offeriannawl, a. (offeriant) Instrumental.

Offerianniad, s. m. (offeriant) A rendering instrumental; a becoming instrumental.

Offeriannu, v. a. (offeriant) To be instrumental.

Offeriannus, a. (offeriant) Instrumental.

Offeriant, s. m. (offer) Instrumentality.

Offeru, v. a. (offer) To provide implements or tools; to equip; to furnish with gear or harness

Offerwr, s. m.—pl. offerwyr (offer—gwr) One who equips or furnishes.

Offeryn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. an (offer) An instrument, or agent; a tool.

> Offeryn gwastadawl yn llaw pob dyn yw ei ddeall, er hyny nid oes neb a wyr ei arfer yn iawn.
>
> A tool which is continually in the hand of every person is his understanding, and yet no one knows how to use it rightly. Adage.

Offerynawl, a. (offeryn) Instrumental, agent.

Offerynoldeb, s. m. (offerynawl) Instrumentalness

Offerynu, v. a. (offeryn) To act as an instrument; to be instrumental.

Offr, s. m. (off) That has the power to effect.

Offrwm, s. m.—pl. offryman (offr) An offering.

Offrwm, v. a. (offr) To offer, or to sacrifice.

Offrymawl, a. (offrwm) Offering up, sacrificial.

Offrymiad, s. m. (offrwm) The act of offering.

Offrymu, v. a. (offrwm) To offer, or to sacrifice.

Offrymwr, s. m.—pl. offrymwyr (offrwm—gwr) One who offers up, a sacrificer.

Offrymydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (offrwm) One who offers up, a sacrificer.

OG, s. f. r.—pl. t. au. That is full of motion; that is apt to open or expand; that is full of life, youth; that moves or stirs; a harrow.

> Tra rheto yr og rheted y freuan.
>
> Whilst the harrow moves let the mill move. Adage.
>
> Mal y llyffan dan yr og.
>
> Like the frog under the harrow. Adage.

Og, a. (og, s.) Having aptitude for motion; apt to move or stir; apt to open or expand; young, youthful.

> A'm gyrwys yn nghrog,
> A wyddwn yn og.
>
> That sent me to the cross, I knew when young. Taliesin, arwyrain dyddbrawd.

Ogaid, s. f. (og) A stroke of the harrow.

Ogan, s. f. dim. (og) A little harrow.

> Cael a wnenthum beth arian,
> A phrynu aradr ac ogan.
>
> I obtained some money and bought me a plough and a harrow. S. Tudur.

Oged, s. f.—pl. t. au (og) That stirs or opens; a harrow.

Ogedig, a. (oged) Being stirred or harrowed.

Ogedu, v. a. (oged) To stir; to use a harrow.

Ogfaen, s. f.—pl. ogfain (og—maen) Hip, or the fruit of the dog rose. It is also called crawel y moch, bwyd y moch.

> Mal y llwynog am yr ogfaen.
>
> Like the fox after the hips. Adage.

Ogfaenawg, a. (ogfaen) Abounding with hips.

Ogfaenen, s. f. (ogfaen) A single hip.

> Ogfaenen yn ngenau hen-wch.
>
> A hip in the mouth of an old sow. Adage.

Ogfaenliw, s. m. (ogfaen—lliw) The colour of hips. a. Of the colour of the hip.

Ogfaenllwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (ogfaen—llwyn) A bush of dog-rose thorns.

Ogi, v. a. (og) To use the harrow, to harrow. Llyfnu, to smooth, is popularly used.

Ogiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (og) A harrowing.

Ogiadwr, s. m. (ogiad—gwr) A harrower.

Ogl, s. m. (og) That is full of motion or life; expansion; growth. a. Full of motion or life; expanding, growing; youthful.

> Heddyw, dydd da it'! hoewddyn
> Fain ogl o gorff, fwnwgl gwyn.
>
> This morning, good day to thee! smart maid, of slender growth in body, and white neck. Sir Huw Robert.

Ogledd, s. m. (ogl) Fullness of activity or motion

Ognaw, s. m. (og—naw) Activity, ertness.
Ogof, s. f.—pl. t. au (og—of) A cave; a den.
Ogofawg, a. (ogof) Abounding with caves.
Ohan, pronom. prep. (o—han) Out of, from out of. Ohanof, out of me, of me; ohanot, out of thee; ohani, out of her; ohano, out of him or it; ohanom, out of us; ohanoch, out of you; ohanynt, out of them.
Ohon, pronom. prep. (o—hon) Out of, from out; of, from. Ohonof, out of me; ohonot, of thee; ohono, of him or it; ohoni, of her; ohonom, out of us; ohonoch, of you; ohonynt, of them.
Oi, v. a. (aw) To proceed to; to come forward.
Oi, interj. (oi, v.) Expressive of applause. Well.

Oi, was da; canys buost yn ffyddlawn yn ychydigyn, cymer feddiant ar ddeg dinas.

Well, thou good servant; as thou hast been faithful in a very little, be thou ruler over ten cities. W. Salisbury, Luke 19.

Gyr y gwartheg o'r ezin;
Oi! Oi! tro y lloi o'r llin.

Drive the cattle out of the corn; Come! Come! drive the calves out of the flax. D. ab Gwilym.

O'i, prep. and pron. (o—ei) Out of or from the third person; from its, from his, from her.

Drwg pawb o'i wybod.

Every one is bad from his being known. Adage.

Gwell gwr o'i berchi.

A man is better from his being respected. Adage.

Ni cheiff chwedl nid el o'i dy.

He will get no news who does not go out of his house. Adage.

Oiad, s. m. (oi) A listening, or hearkening.
Oian, s. m. (oi) A listening, a hearkening.

Oians, parchellan! y parchell gwyn gwyw,
Na chysgi hun fore;
Na chladd yn mhryag, rhag dawed
Rhydderch Hael a'i gwn cyfrwys:
Gan gaffael ohonoti y coed
Rhedodd dy chwys.

Listen, little porkling! thou forward little white pig, that thou dost not sleep a morning nap: do not burrow on the open ridge, lest Rhydderch the generous should come with his cunning dogs: As thou hast been able to get to the woods, thy sweat has trickled Myrddin.

Oianu, v. a. (oian) To hearken, or to listen.
Oiaw, v. a. (oi) To hark, to listen, to attend. Gwrandaw is the expression popularly used.

Oia di yr Arglwydd dy Dduw.

Hear thou the Lord thy God. Mabinogi.

Aeth ulw dros frig wyth aelwyd;
Oia, gysgu ddu, mau'dd wyd.

Embers have become spread over eight hearths; hark, sable sleep, be to me. D. ab Gwilym, i'r annhunedd.

Oio, interj. (oi) Oh! dear! well! alack!
OL, s. m. r.—pl. t. ion. A mark, trace, or impression; a track, course, or path; a footstep; what is in course, the future and the past; the rear, the hinder part. Mae arnaf ei ol, I bear his marks; ol bwyall, the mark of a hatchet; ol troed, the print of a foot: Mae yr amser goreu yn ol eto, the best time is yet in course (to come); pa un sydd ar ol? What one is on the rear? or, what one is behind? Blaen ac ol, foremost and hindmost; bod yn ol, to be wanting; troi yn ol, to turn back; rhoi yn ol, to give back; ar ol bod yno, after being there; yn ol, according to; yr amser yn ol, the time hereafter; myned ar ol, to go after.

Elid bryd yn ol breuddwyd.

Let the mind go after the dream. Adage.

Ol, a. (ol, s.) Hindmost. Y pen ol, the posteriors
Olaf, adv. (ol) Farthest back, hindmost, last. s. m. The last, the hindmost.

Gadu y nos waethaf yn olaf.

To leave the worst night till last. Adage.

Olafedd, s. m. (olaf) Posteriority, ultimity.
Olafiad, s. m.—pl. olafiaid (olaf) A successor.
Olafiaeth, s. m. (olaf) A successorship.
Olbrain, s. m. (ol—brain) Wart-cress, wine-cress.
Olbre, s. f.—pl. t. on (ol—pre) The thrums on the end of a web; also called eddi.
Olddyddiad, s. m. (dyddiad) An after-dating.
Olddyddlaw, v. a. (ol—dyddiaw) To post date.
Ole, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ol) A ribble; a ravine, such as is formed by the current of waters.

Cyfarfod, yn yr ole fwyn,
A wnais a lodes.

A meeting, in the pleasant dingle, I had with a maid. Morgan Gruffudd.

Olew, s. m.—pl. t. on (ol—ew) Oil. Dodi olew, to administer extreme unction.
Olewwydd, s. pl. aggr. (olew—gwydd) Olive trees
Olewwydden, s. f. (olewwydd) An olive tree.
Oli, v. a. (ôl) To proceed lastly; to be last.
Oliad, s. m.—pl. oliaid (ol) That is in course, or consequent; posterity; the hindmost. Blaenaid ac oliaid, leaders and followers; cael oliad ar beth, to get a scent of a thing.
Oliannawl, a. (oliant) Successive; tracing.
Oliannu, v. a. (oliant) To form a track; to come in succession.
Oliant, s. m. (ol) Succession; a tracing.
Oliedydd, s. m. (oliad) A pricker, in hunting.
Olion, s. pl. aggr. (ol) Things left behind, leavings, refuse.
Oliwr, s. m.—pl. olwyr (ol—gwr) A pricker.
Olp, s. m. (ol) A puncture; an oilet-hole.
Olpai, s. m. (olp) A tag put into an oilet-hole.
Olrhain, s. m. (ol—rhain) A searching after.
Olrhain, v. a. (ol—rhain) To follow by the trace; to trace, to search out, to seek by the print of the feet; to search carefully.

Gwell cadw nog olrhain.

Better to keep than to search after. Adage.

Olrhe, s. m. (rhe) A following a track.
Olrhëad, s. m.—pl. olrhëaid (olrhe) A beagle.
Olrhëain, v. a. (olrhe) To trace after, to indagate

Am ael rhiw i'm olrhewyd.

About the brow of the hill I have been traced. O. ab Ll. Moel.

Olrhëawd, s. m. (olrhe) A scrutiny, a tracing out
Olrhëawl, a. (olrhe) Scrutinizing, searching.
Olrheiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (olrhain) Indagation.
Olrheiniadu, v. a. (olrheiniad) To indagate.
Olrheiniadwy, a. (olrheiniad) Scrutable.
Olrheiniaw, v. a. (olrhain) To indagate, to search out, to investigate, to scrutinize.
Olrheiniedig, a. (olrheiniad) Being traced out.
Olrheiniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (olrheiniad) An indagator, a scrutinizer, a tracer.
Olrheiniwr, s. m.—pl. olrheinwyr (olrhain—gwr) A scrutinizer, a finder out.
Olrhëwr, s. m.—pl. olrhewyr (olrhe—gwr) A diligent seeker, a scrutinizer.
Olw, s. m. (ôl) That makes track, or mark.
Olwen, s. f. (ôl—gwen) Of a white or fair track: the Venus of the Britons, or a poetical personage, representing the prolific principle of nature: Four white trefoils sprang up wherever she trod.
Olwr, s. m.—pl. olwyr (ol—gwr) One who is last; a follower; a tracer.
Olwydd, s. m. (ol—gwydd) Knowledge by scent.
Olwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (olw) What moves or turns to form a track; a wheel. Olwyn car, the beam of a sledge or drag.

Pen a borthaf tu morddwyd,
Oedd ysgwyd ar ei wlad, oedd olwyn yn nghad.

A head I bear by the side of my thigh, that was a shield over his country, that was a wheel in battle. Llywarch Hen.

Olwyn, a. (ol—gwyn) Having a white track.
Olwynad, s. m. (olwyn) A moving in a track; a wheeling, a forming a wheel.
Olwynaw, v. a. (olwyn) To move in a track; to wheel, to form a wheel.
Olwynawg, a. (olwyn) Having wheels, wheeled.
Olymadrawdd, s. m.—pl. olymadroddion (ymadrawdd) An after-disconrse; an epilogue.
Olynol, adv. (ol—yn—ol) In succession, one after another.

Dinystria, llywia i'r llaid olynol
Holl elynion f'enaid.

Destroy, send to the dust one after another all the enemies of my soul. H. D. ab Ifan, ps. 143.

Olysgrif, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ysgrif) A postscript.
Olysgrifen, s. f. (olysgrif) A postscript.
OLL, s. m. r. That is separate, distinct, or complete in itself; a whole, or all.
Oll, a. (oll, s.) All, the whole of, every one.

Goreu oll y goreu a ellir.

The best of all is what is possible. Adage.

Ollallu, s. m. (gallu) All-power, omnipotence.
Ollalluawg, a. (ollallu) Almighty, omnipotent.
Ollalluedd, s. m. (ollallu) Almightiness.
Ollallueddus, a. (ollallu) Omnipotential.
Ollalluogi, v. a. (ollalluawg) To render omnipotent, to become omnipotent.
Ollalluogrwydd, s. m. (ollalluawg) Almightiness.
Ollarfawg, a. (arfawg) Completely armed.
Ollarfogaeth, s. m. (ollarfawg) A panoply.
Ollddifäawl, a. (difäawl) All-consuming.
Ollddigonawl, a. (digonawl) All-sufficient.
Ollddoeth, a. (doeth) All-wise, all-knowing.
Ollgyfoeth, s. m. (cyfoeth) All-power.
Ollgyfoethawg, a. (ollgyfoeth) All-powerful.
Olli, v. a. (oll) To render distinct or complete in itself; to make up a whole or all.
Olliach, s. m. (olliach) An universal remedy; the herb all-heal. a. Perfectly well.
Ollid, s. m. (oll) An entireness, or a whole.
Ollnawdd, s. m. (nawdd) Complete protection.
Ollnerth, s. m. (oll—nerth) All of power.
Ollnerthawg, a. (ollnerth) Omnipotent.

Moliannaf——
Yn ei wyrthiau ollnerthawg.

I will praise him in his almighty wonders. W. Middleton.

Ollnerthedd, s. m. (ollnerth) Omnipotence.
Ollnoddawg, a. (ollnawdd) All-protecting.
Ollnoddawl, a. (ollnawdd) All-protecting.
Ollorfod, s. m. (gorfod) Universal conquest.
Ollorfodawg, a. (ollorfod) All-conquering.
Ollrad, s. m. (oll—rhad) All of grace.
Ollradawg, a. (ollrad) All-gracious.
Ollryw, a. (rhyw) Omnigenious, of all kinds.
Ollsylwad, s. m. (sylwad) Omnipercipiency.
Ollsyniad, s. m. (syniad) Omnipercipiency.
Ollus, a. (oll) Of a whole or entire form.
Ollwedd, s. f. (gwedd) A whole appearance. a. Every way, all manner.

Bod yn uddyf, deddf y Don,
Cof ollwedd, i'ch cyfeillion.

To be humble, after the maxim of Don, remembering always, to your friends. Wat. ab Hywel.

Ollweddawg, a. (ollwedd) Omniform, of all forms
Ollwel, a. (gwel) All-seeing, seeing all things.
Ollwneuthurawl, a. (gwneuthurawl) Omnific.
Ollwybod, s. m. (gwybod) Omniscience.
Ollwybodawg, a. (ollwybod) Omniscious.
Ollwybodawl, a. (ollwybod) Omniscient.
Ollwybodus, a. (ollwybod) Omniscious.
Ollwydd, s. m. (gwydd) Omnipresence, ubiquity.
Ollysawl, a. (oll—ysawl) All-consuming.
Om, s. m. r. That stretches round, extends over, or includes; that bulges or swells out.
O'm, pronom. prep. (o—ym) Out of my, from my. O'm pen, out of my head.
ON, s. f. r. That rises up; that is over superior, or beyond; that is in continuity; also an ash. It is also a plural termination.
O'n, pronom. prep. (o—yn) Out or from our.
Onaddu, pronom. prep. (o—yn—addu) Of them.

Pedwar meib ar ugaint a'm bu——
Oedd Gwen goreu gwr onaddu.

Four and twenty sons there were to me: Gwen was the best man of them. Llywarch Hen.

Ni chefais——
Onaddun yr un erioed.

I obtained not of them ever a single one. D. ab Gwilym.

Onaddynt, pronom. prep. (onaddu) Of them.
Onaidd, a. (on) Like the ash, ash-like, ashen.
Onawl, a. (on) Belonging to the ash.
Onc, s. m.—pl. t. od (on) That stretches out, or that is headlong; an oaf. Radn.
Onco, pron. (onc) That, speaking of what is near or under observation. Dyro imi onco, give me that; a fyni di onco? Wilt thou have that. Dyfed.
Onco, adv. (onc) There, or in that place.
Ond, conj. (on) But, only, except, save. Ond odid, nid hwyrach, peradventure; dim ond hyny, no more than that! ond gwell iti beidiaw, but thou hadst better to be quiet.

Nid derwydd eithr o enwawd;
Nid derwydd ond Duw.

Only a druid from appellation; for there is no druid but God. Adage.

Ni bu Arthur ond tra fu.

Arthur was not but whilst he was. Adage.

Onen, s. f. dim. (on) An ash, an ash tree; also by metonymy, a spear. Onen wyllt, a wild ash: Rhiryd rudd ei onen, Riryd with his crimson spear.
Oni, conj. (o—ni) If not, unless, except. It is used before words with consonant initials. Oni ddoi, if thou dost not come; oni'm gweli, if thou dost not see me.

Oni byddi cyfarwydd cyfarch.

If thou art not acquainted enquire. Adage.

Oni, adv. (o—ni) Until, to the time that; be not; will not. Oni ddoi di yno? Wilt thou not come there? Oni weli di fi? Dost thou not see me?

Ni cheidw Cymmro oni gollo.

A Welshman will not keep until he loses. Adage.

Onid, conj. (o—nid) If not, unless, except. It precedes words with vowel initials. Onid eiff hi, arosed; if she will not go, let her stay; onid ê, if not so.
Onid, adv. (o—nid) Until, to the time that; be not; will not. Onid wyf yma? am I not here? Onid elo hi yno, until she goes there.
Onide, conj. (onid—e) Otherwise, else, or.

Rhaid i weinidawg—fod yn gadarn yn y gwirionedd, onide ni wneir ag ef ond ceiliawg gwynt.

It is necessary for a minister to be firm in the truth, otherwise nothing will be made of him but a weathercock. Ier. Owain.

Onide, adv. (onid—e) If not so; if not that, otherwise; is it not so? how otherwise? Onidê yn wir? is it not so indeed?
Onis, conj. (o—nis) If not, unless. It is used before words with consonant initials, preserving such as are mutable in their radical state. Onis tali, if thou dost not pay.

Onis, adv. (o—nis) Until, to the time that; be not; will not. Onis delom, until we come.

Onite, conj. (onide) Otherwise, else, or, if not.

Onite, adv. (onide) If not so, if not that, or else, otherwise; is it not so? how otherwise?

Onwaew, s. f. (on—gwaew) An ashen spear.

Onwydd, s. pl. aggr. (on—gwydd) Ash trees.

Onwydden, s. f. dim. (onwydd) An ash tree.

Onynt, pronom. prep. (on—ynt) Of them.

> Lle delon', wehillon haid, pawb onynt,
> Pwy bynag o'r ddwy-blaid,
> Trin gwerin cethin y caid.
>
> Where they should come, the outcast rabble, every one of them, of whichsoever of the two parties, terribly they would be found to oppress the multitude. H. D. ab Ifan.

Ong, s. f. (on) A point of divergency.

Ongl, s. f.—pl. t. au (ong) A corner, an angle. Yr ongl, the haw, a disorder in the eye so called.

Onglaidd, a. (ongl) Angular, angle-wise.

Onglawg, a. (ongl) Having angles, angular.

Ongli, v. a. (ongl) To make an angle; to make angular; to form a corner.

Ongliad, s. m. (ongl) A forming an angle.

Ongyr, s. f. aggr. (on—gyr) A brunt or push of spears; an aggregate or throng of spears.

> Tri eryr ongyr angerddawl.
>
> Three eagles of the vehement throng of spears. Ll. P. Moch.
>
> Aerddrud, aeth esgud wrth esgyll ongyr,
> Eryr rhodd bybyr mewn rhwydd bebyll.
>
> Bold in slaughter, the swift one went with the gleamings of the throng of spears, the eagle of magnificent gift in the moving tents. Prydydd Brenan.

OR, s. f. r.—pl. t. oedd. That is outward, extreme, or bordering; a limit, a boundary; a coast, margin, brim, or edge.

> Oedd——
> Tres rhag llew, rhag llyw pedair or.
>
> There was a pressure before the lion, before the ruler of four borders. Cynddelw.

Or, conj. (o—yr) If; but not so generally used as o, od, and os. Or bydd, if there shall be.

O'r, prep. and art. (o—yr) Out of the, from the.

> Gwneuthur deu-ddrwg o'r un.
>
> Making two evils of the one. Adage.

Oraw, v. a. (or) To utter, to send outward.

Orch, s. f. (or) That is an extreme; a rim; a limit, or border.

Ori, v. a. (awr) To make pauses; to breath at long intervals; to utter, to send out, to puff.

Oriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (awr) A puffing, a panting.

Oriadur, s. m. (oriad) What measures the hour; a watch.

> Oriadur yn gofyn ei ddirwyn i fynydd bob dydd yw meddwl.
>
> The mind of man is like a watch, which requires to be wound up every day. Dafydd y Nant.

Oriain, v. a. (awr) To puff out, to pant for breath. Mal y byddai hi yn oriain ac yn methu cael ei gwynt! how she used to be panting and failing to draw her breath.

Orian, s. f.—pl. t. au (awr) An utterance; a panting, or a puffing.

> Os cywair fy nghadair——
> Ys gwyr Manawyd; a Phryderi,
> Tair orian, i am dan, a gan rhegddi:
> Ac am ei banau ffrydiau gweilgi,
> A'r ffynawn ffrwythlawn yssydd odduchti;
> Ys chwegach no'r gwin gwyn y llyn yndi.
>
> If my chair is in order, it is known to Manawyd; and Pryderi, three utterances, around the fire, will he sing before it; and about its bowls the streams of the torrent, and the fruitful spring is above it; more delicious than the white wine the liquor in it. Taliesin.

Oriau, s. pl. aggr. (awr) Hours; periods; fits. Dyn a rhyw oriau drwg arno, a person with some bad fits upon him.

Oriawg, a. (awr) Having periods, changes, or fits; fickle, inconstant, changeable.

Oriawl, a. (awr) Belonging to the hour, horary.

Oriawr, s. f.—pl. orioran (awr) A watch.

Oriel, s. m.—pl. t. au (or) A porch; a gallery.

Orig, s. f. dim. (awr) A short hour, a little while. adv. Now. Awr ac orig, continually. Sil.

> Oer yw'r loes,——
> Sy orig yn Nremsaran.
>
> Severe is the pang, which is now in Dremsaran. R. Cyffin.

Origyn, s. m. dim. (orig) A short space.

Oriogi, v. n. (oriawg) To become capricious.

Oriogrwydd, s. m. (oriawg) Capriciousness.

Orlais, s. m.—pl. orleisiau (awr—llais) A clock.

Orleisiwr, s. m. (orlais—gwr) A clockmaker.

Orleisydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (orlais) A clockmaker

Orn, s. m.—pl. t. au (or) A start, a push, a frown, a threat, a challenge, a stray.

Ornaidd, a. (orn) Tending to push out; apt to start; threatening.

Ornair, s. m.—pl. orneiriau (orn—gair) A word of challenge or threat.

> Ciliais i'm corn gan ornair;
> Cael ysgwyd, celais y gair.
>
> I receded into my shell at the threatening word, getting a push, I concealed the expression. D. ab Gwilym.

Ornawl, a. (orn) Repulsive; starting; threatening, challenging.

Ornedig, a. (orn) Threatened, challenged.

Ornedigaeth, s. m. (ornedig) A starting, a threatening, a challenging.

Ornedd, s. m. (orn) A starting; a threatening state, a challenge.

> Mabolaeth arfeliaeth waredd,
> Mab Brochwel, bronhael, hawl ornedd.
>
> A picture of mildness the infancy of the son of Brochwel, of generous breast, with scorns for claims. Cynddelw, i Dysilio.

Ornest, s. f.—pl. t. au (orn) A tilting match, or tournament; a single combat, a duel.

> Ni fernir ornest ar wr oni bo 21 oed; ac o dair ar hugain allan, cyfraith iddo ornest.
>
> A man shall not be judged liable to a combat until he shall be 21 years of age; and from three and twenty outward the law is for him to combat. Welsh Laws.

Ornestfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (ornest) A place of combat, a place for tournament.

Ornestiad, s. m. (ornest) The engaging in a tilting match; a fighting in single combat.

Ornestiaeth, s. m. (ornest) The practice of tournaments; the practice of single combat.

Ornestle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ornest—lle) A tilt-yard, a place for tournaments.

Ornestu, v. a. (ornest) To engage in a tournament; to fight a single combat, to fight a duel.

Ornestwr, s. m.—pl. ornestwyr (ornest—gwr) One who engages in tournaments; a combatant.

Ornestydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ornest) Combatant.

Ornfloedd, s. f. (orn—bloedd) A shout of threat.

Ornfloeddiad, s. m. (ornfloedd) A shouting in a threatening manner.

Ornfloeddiaw, v. a. (ornfloedd) To shout threateningly; a shout of defiance.

Orngri, s. f. (orn—cri) A threatening cry.

Orngriad, s. m. (orngri) A making a cry of threatening, or of defiance.

Orngriaw, v. a. (orngri) To cry threateningly.

Orni, v. a. (orn) To push out or forward; to start, to threaten, to challenge.

Orniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (orn) A pushing out, a starting, a threatening, a challenging.

Ornu, v. a. (orn) To push out or forward, to start, to threaten, to intimidate, to challenge.

Gwelwn afon——
A'i ffrydiau fal tònau Taf,
Ornais, yn curo arnaf.

A pale river, with its torrents like the waves of Tav, beating upon me, I started with fear. D. ab Gwilym.

Ornwr, s. m.—pl. ornwyr (orn—gwr) One who pushes or starts out; a starter, a threatener.

Ornydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (orn) A starter, a threatener, one who intimidates.

Oröi, v. a. (oraw) To utter, to be uttering.

Oroïan, s. f. (orÖi) An exclamation, an expression of joy; jubilation, iö pæan.

Hëais, fal oroïan,
Ei chlod yn Ngwynedd achlan.

I have spread, as a song of triumph, her fame entirely over Gwynedd. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Oroïan, v. a. (oröi) To utter a shout of triumph.

OS, s. m. r. That tends from, out, or forward; that tends to increase; an increment. It is also a diminutive termination affixed to plural nouns, mostly used in tender language; as plant, children; plantos, dear little children.

Os, conj. (o—ys) If; used in common with o, odd, od, and or, with verbs of the indicative mode. Os doi yma, if thou wilt come here. See PE.

Os pwyll canwyll rhag cynhen,
Goreu canwyll yw pwyll pen.

If sense is a lamp to guard against contention, the best lamp is common sense. Huw Cae Llwyd.

Osai, s. m. (aws) A sweet juice; cyder.

Mynwn—diawd, mewn mail ariant, o osai wedy ei glauaru ar dri o farwor rhudderw.

I would have for drink, in a silver bason, cyder after it has been warmed on three ruddy-glowing embers. Araeth Gwgan.

Pe bai gan mil, yn ddilys,
O eryd rhif ar dir Rhys;
A thrichan gwinllan a gwin;
Ac yn malu gan melin:
Pe bai'r ddaiar yn fara!
Neu flas dwr fal osai da;
Yn ei wledd rhyfedd baran
Dwr a daiar dri diau.

If there were a hundred thousand, to a certainty, of numbered ploughs on the land of Rhys; and three hundred vine-yards teeming with wine; and in grinding a hundred mills: if the earth were of bread; or the taste of water like fine cyder; in his feast, it would be a wonder if the water and the land were to last for three days. D. Nanmor.

Osb, s. f.—pl. t. ion (os) That is erratic, a guest.

Gnawd osb er nas gwahoddir.

A guest is wont to come though he may not be invited. Adage.

Osbawl, a. (osb) Belonging to a guest.

Osbi, v. a. (osb) To come as a guest; to be a guest or visitor.

Osg, s. m. (os) That tends from or out.

Osgatfydd, adv. (osg—atfydd) Peradventure. The same as agatfydd and ysgatfydd.

Osged, s. f.—pl. t. au (osg) A laver, a bason.

Osgl, s. m.—pl. t. au (osg) A bough or branch; a twig, a spray.

Erchis y gwr y bioedd y berllan i'r garddwr dori un neu ddau o osglau y pren mawr.

The person who owned the orchard ordered the gardener to cut down one or two of the branches of the large tree. Hanes Doethion Rhufain.

Osglawd, s. m. (osgl) A ramification.

Osglawg, a. (osgl) Having branches, branched, branching, full of branches.

Osglawg, blaen derw; chwerw chwaith on;
Hweg efwr; chwerthiniat ton:
Ni chel y grudd gystudd calon.

Full of branches the top of the oak; bitter the taste of ash, luscious the cow-parsnep; breaking out the wave: the cheek will not conceal the affliction of the heart. Llywarch Hen.

Osgledig, a. (osgl) Branched, ramified.

Osgledd, s. m. (osgl) Fulness of branches.

Osglen, s. f. dim. (osgl) A branch, a twig.

Osgli, v. n. (osgl) To branch, to shoot out.

Osgliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (osgl) A branching.

Osgo, s. m. (osg) Obliquity, or slope; a digression. Ar osgo, obliquely, aside.

Osgöad, s. m. (osgo) A going aslant, a going aside, a digression, a starting aside.

Osgöawl, a. (osgo) Tending to go aside, starting.

Osgöedd, s. m. (osgo) Obliquity, a starting aside.

Osgoi, v. a. (osgo) To go aslant, to go obliquely, to digress, to start aside.

Osgoilyd, a. (osgoi) Apt to go aside, apt to start aside, apt to be shy or coy.

Osgoilydrwydd, s. m. (osgoilyd) Aptness to start aside, aptness to avoid.

Osgöwr, s. m.—pl. osgöwyr (osgo—gwr) A starter, one who starts aside.

Osgyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (osg) A laver, a basin.

Osi, v. a. (os) To offer to do, to attempt.

Osiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (os) A making an essay.

Osiaw, v. a. (os) To offer to do, to essay, to make an attempt, to dare.

Osiawl, a. (os) Tending to make an essay.

Osid, adv. (os—id) If it be, if so be, peradventure.

Ost, s. m. (os) That is out, that extends out, that is spread or displayed.

Ostid, s. f. (ost) That is outward; an epithet for a shield or buckler.

Ostl, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ost) An open place, an inn.

Ostler, s. m.—pl. t. i (ostl) One who receives guests or acts at an inn, an ostler.

Ostr, s. m. (ost) That is spread out, or displayed.

Ostri, s. m. (ostr) Display of hospitality. Cadw ostri, to keep open house.

Ostlys, s. m. (ost) Openness of conduct, display of hospitality; complaisance.

Osw, s. m. (os) That runs onward; a steed.

Oswydd, s. pl. aggr. (osw) Those that run out; ravagers; an epithet for war-horses; or the cavalry.

Ni byddai diwyth i lwyth oswydd.

There would be no abatement of wrath to the tribe of ravagers. Meilyr.

Gwelai darf ar dyrfa oswydd.

He beheld affright amongst a host of ravagers. D. ab Llosgwrn Mew.

A'i cadarnâu, ced hylwydd, yn hir,
I ymddiffyn tir rhag torf oswydd.

And long to support her, a prosperous treasure, to defend the land against a host of ravagers. Llygad Gwr.

Gwenydd gwrth lawr,
Gwenydd aesawr,
Oswydd gwyddaw.

The divider of opposing ground, the divider of shields, causing the fall of ravagers. Seisyll Bryf-fwrch.

Osyd, adv. (os—yd) If so; peradventure.

OTH, s. m. r. That is exterior or extreme.

O'th, pronom. prep. (o—yth) Out of thy.

OW, s. m. r. A breathing out; a moan.

Ow, interj. (ow, s.) Woe is me, alas, ah me!

Oyma, adv. (o—yma) From here, from hence.

Oyna, adv. (o—yna) From there, from thence; speaking of what is under observation.

Oyno, adv. (o—yno) From thence; speaking of what is distant, as to time or place.

P.

PA, s. m. r. What tends to proceed; what forms a continuity.

Pa, pron. (pa, s.) What, which. Pa le? which place? pa beth? what thing? pa un? which one? pa beth bynag a fo, what thing soever it shall be; pa ddyn bynag, what person soever.

Pa, adv. (pa, s.) To what, whither; what, which, how. Pa ffordd y doi? which way wilt thou come? I ba le yr af? Where shall I go? Pa fàn y byddi? Where wilt thou be? Pa un? Which one? Pa rai? Which ones? Pa gwaith? How often? Pa sut sydd? How is it with thee? Pa beth sydd arnat? What is the matter with thee? Pa sawl? How many? Pa gan? With what? Pa faint? How much? Pa gymaint, pa dwysg? What quantity? Pa hyd? How long? Pa rag? From what? Pa ryw? What kind? Pa am? Wherefore? Pa ffordd, pa ddull, pa wedd, pa ddelw, pa fodd? in what way or form? Pa gàn gymaint? About what quantity?

> Pa ansyberwyd, unben, a weleisti arnaf!
>
> What indecorum, prince, didst thou perceive in me! H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.

> Abandid ba andaw.
>
> What hearing can be of a tumult. Adage.

Pab, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—ab) That produces motion; that produces life; a father; the pope.

> Arglwydd Iesu Grist erglyw,
> Un Mab Duw bab wyd a byw.
>
> Lord Jesus Christ hear me, the son of God the living Father art thou. R. Leiaf.

Pabaeth, s. m. (pab) Paternity: the papacy.

Pabaidd, a. (pab) Papal, or like the pope.

Pabawg, a. (pab) Having a pope, papal.

Pabawl, a. (pab) Belonging to a father; papal.

Pabell, s. f.—pl. pebyll (pab—ell) A moving habitation; tent, a pavillion; a tabernacle.

> Pan ddel milgi Llywelyn,
> Pob llwyn a fydd pebyll yn.
>
> When the greyhound of Llywelyn comes, every grove will be a haunt for us. Huw Cae Llwyd.

Pabellawg, a. (pabell) Having a tent, tented.

Pabelliad, s. m. (pabell) A fixing a tent.

Pabellig, s. f. dim. (pabell) A little tent.

Pabellu, v. a. (pabell) To pitch or fix a tent.

Pabeth, pron. (pa—peth) What thing.

Pabi, s. m.—pl. t. odd (pab) That is productive of motion or life; a poppy.

Pabïaidd, a. (pabi) Papaverous, poppy-like.

Pabïawg, a. (pabi) Abounding with poppies.

Pabïawl, a. (pabi) Papaverons, of poppy.

Pabir, s. pl. (pab—ir) Rushes, rush-candles.

> Yr aelwyd hon neus cudd myr!
> Mwy gorddyfnasai babir gloew,
> A chyfeddau cywir.
>
> This hearth, is it not covered with ants! More congenial would have been the shining rushes, with festivals of good faith. Llywarch Hen.

Pabiraidd, a. (pabir) Like rushes, or rush-like.

Pabirawg, a. (pabir) Abounding with rushes.

Pabl, s. m.—pl. pablau (pab) Activity; vigour, energy, faculty. Dwfn babl, profound faculty

Pablaidd, a. (pabl) Active; nervous, or potent.

> Pablaidd gorff, pobloedd a gur,
> Post addwyn hael, pais dewddur.
>
> Vigorous of body, men be overcomes, a pillar stately and generous, clad in a coat of thick steel. Iolo Goch, i O. Glandwfr.

Pabledd, s. m. (pabl) Activity; vigorousness.

Pabliad, s. m. (pabl) A rendering active; a rendering vigorous.

Pablu, v. a. (pabl) To render active; to render nervous or vigorous; to give a faculty.

Pablus, a. (pabl) Nervous, vigorous.

Pablusaw, v. n. (pablus) To render vigorous.

Pablusedd, s. m. (pablus) Vigorousness.

Pabogaeth, s. m. (pabawg) The papacy.

Pabwyr, s. pl. aggr. (pab—wyr) The large rushes; rushes used for burning; also called brwyn

Pabwyra, v. a. (pabwyr) To gather rushes.

Pabwyraidd, a. (pabwyr) Like rushes.

Pabwyrawg, a. (pabwyr) Abounding with rushes

Pabwyren, s. f. dim. (pabwyr) The soft rush.

Pabwyryn, s. m. dim. (pabwyr) A bulrush. Yr wyt gan wlyped a'r pabwyryn, thou art as wet as the bulrush.

Pabydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pab) A papist.

Pabyddaidd, a. (pabydd) Like a papist.

Pabyddawl, a. (pabydd) Papistical, popish.

Pabyddiaeth, s. m. (pabydd) Popery.

Pabynag, pron. (pa—bynag) Whatsoever.

Pad, s. m. (py—ad) That sustains, that keeps in continuity, that keeps together.

Padell, s. f.—pl. t. i (pad—ell) A pan. Padell bridd, an earthen pan; padell efydd, a brass pan; padell doddion, a dripping pan.

> Pwyll a ddyly padell.
>
> The pan requires attention. Adage.

Padellaid, s. f.—pl. padelleidiau (padell) A panful, or the contents of a pan.

Padellaidd, a. (padell) Formed like a pan.

Padellan, s. f. dim. (padell) A little pan.

Padellawg, a. (padell) Having a pan.

Padelleg, s. f. dim. (padell) The kneepan; also called padell y glin.

Padellig, s. f. dim. (padell) A little pan.

Padellu, v. a. (padell) To form a pan.

Padellwr, s. m.—pl. padellwyr (padell—gwr) A pan maker; a dealer in pans.

Padwysg, adv. (pa—twysg) What quantity.

Padyw, adv. (pa—yd—yw) What is it; why.

> O Dduw! padyw yth roddir gwrmseirch,
> Cynddylan, ar bedwar-deg-meirch.
>
> O God! why to thee are given the trappings of Cynddylan, on four times ten steeds. Llywarch Hen.

Padd, s. m. (py—add) That causes to proceed; that keeps in a course.

Pae, s. m. (pa) That causes to go onward, that forms a continuity, that surrounds; a constraint; a panting, or constrained breathing; hesitation.

Paeled, s. f.—pl. t. au (pae—lled) A spread; a plaister; a skullcap.

> A thrydyllu eu helmau, a briwaw eu paeledau, ac ysigaw yr arfau a orugynt.
>
> And perforate their helmets, and cut their skullcaps, and bruise their weapons was what they did. H. Geraint—Mabinogion.

Paeledu, v. a. (paeled) To lay on, to spread over, to plaister; to put on a skullcap.

Paen, s. m.—pl. t. od (pa—en) That spreads; a peacock.

Nid teg onid paen.

Nothing so fine as a peacock. Adage.

Paenes, s. f.—pl. t. od (paen) A peahen.

Paenos, adv. (pae—nos) Every night, nightly.

Paenydd, adv. (pae—dydd) Every day, daily.

Paent, s. m. (paen) Any thing plaistered on.

Paentiad, s. m. (paent) A painting, a daubing.

Paentiaw, v. a. (paent) To paint; to daub.

Paentiawl, a. (paent) Painting, painted.

Paentiedig, a. (paentiad) Painted, daubed.

Paentiwr, s. m. (paent—gwr) A painter.

Paeol, s. m.—pl. t. au (pae—ol) A pail, a pot.

Paetu, adv. (pae—tu) On every side, round.

Paeth, s. m. (py—aeth) That forms a course, that keeps in a track; concurrence, agreement.

Pafan, adv. (pa—man) What place, to what place, whither.

Paff, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—aff) A lump, a hulk.

Paffiad, s. m. (paff) A thumping, a buffetting.

Paffiaw, v. a. (paff) To thump, or to bang.

Paffiwr, s. m.—pl. paffwyr (paff—gwr) A thumper.

Pagan, adv. (pa—can) What with, with what.

Pagwaith, adv. (pa—gwaith) How many times.

Pagymaint, adv. (pa—cymaint) What quantity, how much.

Paham, adv. (pa—ham) What about, wherefore, for what cause, what for, why.

Bid honaid weithian, a hynod yw, ac amlwg, paham y gelwir y lle hwnw yn ynys, a phaham yn afallach.

Be it known therefore; and it is notable and manifest, wherefore that place is called an island, and wherefore orchard. H. Diwedd Arthur.

Pahyd, adv. (pa—hyd) How long, what length.

Pai, s. m. (pa) That sends out or from; that is objective.

Paid, s. m. (py—aid) A cessation of motion; a cessation, a state of rest, quiet. Paid, peidiu, be quiet; used for the imperative peidia.

Paill, s. m. aggr.—pl. peillion (pall) Farina, flour.

Pain, s. m. aggr. (pan) Bloom, fine powder, or dust; farina; the bloom on fruits, the farina on flowers. Gwenith wedi bwrw y pain.

Pair, s. f. aggr. (par) An union of causes, instrumentalities or energies; a cause; also a boiler, a cauldron. Pair dadeni, the instrumentality or the alembic of regeneration; pair ceridwen, the energy of the smile of love, or prolific nature. Bardism.

Pair Prydain profwn yn nhangnef.

The energy of Britain we shall enjoy in tranquillity. Cynddelw.

Cred fy ngair, o'm pair perid ataf.

Believe my word, from my command he was caused to come to me. Llywelyn Fardd.

Iolaf bair, o bured arwar,
A beris amad ac adar.

I will praise the cause, from an impulse so pure, that caused the various beasts and fowls. Llywelyn Fardd.

Pais, s. f.—pl. peisiau (py—ais) A coat. Pais arfau, a coat of arms; pais ddur, a coat of mail.

Pawb a drais yn mhais ei dad.

Every one will oppress in his father's coat. Adage.

Paisg, s. m. (pais) That forms a coating; a pod.

Paith, s. m.—pl. peithion (py—aith) An opening, a strait forward course; a glance; a prospect, a scene.

Diffwys baith odwys,
Beithyniad glud glwys,
Argoedwys argleidrad.

Leading over a steep scene, an explorator of a beauteous pile, the defender of the men of Argoed. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Pal, s. f.—pl. t. au (pa—al) A spread, a ray, a flat body, a spade; the puffin, a bird so called. Rhaw bal, rhaw balar, a shovel, a spade.

Palad, s. m.—pl. t. on (pal) A spreading or shooting out, a beaming, a radiating, a paling.

Paladr, s. m.—pl. pelydr (palad) A ray, a beam, a shaft, a stem, a trunk, a stalk, axis; a pole, or perch. Paladr melin, the shaft of a mill wheel; paladr gwaew, the shaft of a spear; paladr angor, the shank of an anchor; cysyryn paladr, spear charge, a payment so called: pelydr haul, sun-beams; paladr englyn, the stave of a stanza; paladr hir, broom-rape; paladr trwyddo, the herb thorow-wax.

Ceiniawg baladr yw yr hon a dalai bob gwr o'r genedl tu ac at dalu galanas:—Ni thal gwraig geiniawg baladr, am nad oes iddi ond cogel.

The spear-penny is that which every man of a family used to pay towards satisfying a fine for homicide:—A woman does not pay a spear-penny, as she has but a distaff. Welsh Laws.

Paladrawg, a. (paladr) Having a stem or shaft.

Paladriad, s. m. (paladr) A forming a stem.

Paladru, v. a. (paladr) To form a beam or shaft; to shaft; to rise in a stalk, or to bole.

Paladrwym, s. m. (palad—rhwym) The fastening, which joins the two parts of a flail.

Paladu, v. a. (palad) To spread or shoot out; to beam, to radiate.

Palalwyf, s. f. (pal—llwyf) A lime tree; also called gwaglwyf.

Palar, s. f. (pal—ar) Delving soil or ground.

I Addaf a'i gymhar
Y rhoid rhaw balar
I dori daiar
I gael bara.

To Adam and his partner there was given a spade for soil-delving, to break up the ground to obtain bread. Awdl Fraith.

Palawr, s. m.—pl. paiorion (pal) A delver.

Paled, s. f.—pl. t. au (pal) A shaft, a javelin, a dart. Gware paled, a tilting match.

Gwedi cyflawni o honam ni pob peth, or a berthynasai âr y dwywau y damwainiws y rhwng dau neiaint cyfrysedd am fuddugoliaeth gwarae paled.

After we had completed every thing, which appertained to the Gods, there happened between two nephews a dispute about the victory at a tilting match. Gr. ab Arthur.

Paledrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (paladr) A maker of arrows, a fletcher.

Paledu, v. a. (paled) To throw a javelin, to tilt.

Paledwr, s. m.—pl. paledwyr (paled—gwr) A tilter, one who uses a javelin.

Palf, s. f.—pl. t. au (pal) The flat part or end of a shaft: a blade, as of an oar: a paw, the palm of a hand. Palf y gath, the herb cat's-foot: palf y llew, common ladies' mantle: palf yr arth, stinking hellebore: palf y blaidd, common club-moss: palf y gath bali, ground pine.

Mal llygoden dan balf y gath.

Like a mouse under the cat's paw. Adage.

Palfaid, s. f.—pl. palfeidiau (palf) The stroke or motion of a palm.

Palfal, s. m. (palf) A moving the paws in all directions, a grope.

Palfaliad, s. m. (palfal) A groping about.

Palfalu, v. a. (palfal) To grope, to creep on the hands and feet.

Palfalwr, s. m.—pl. palfalwyr (palfalu—gwr) One who gropes, a creeper on all-fours.

Palfawd, s. f.—pl. palfodau (palf) A stroke with the paw, a slap with the palm of the hand.

Palfawg, a. (palf) Having a palm, pawed.

Palfes, s. f.—pl. palfeisiau (palf) A shoulder of a quadruped. Palfes mollt, ysbawd mollt, a shoulder of mutton.

Palfiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (palf) A pawing.
Palfodiad, s. m. (palfawd) A slapping with the paw, a slapping with the open hand.
Palfodiaw, v. a. (palfawd) To slap with the paw.
Palfodiwr, s. m.—pl. palfodwyr (palfawd—gwr) One who slaps, a slapper.
Palfre, s. f.—pl. t. od (palf—rhe) A palfrey.
Palfu, v. a. (palf) To paw, to grope gently with the hand.
Palfwr, s. m.—pl. palfwyr (palf—gwr) A pawer.
Pali, s. m. (pal) That is of a downy glossy surface, satin, velvet. Cath bali, the glossy fur cat, an epithet for some ferocious animal, probably a tiger. See Palug.

Pwy y rian oco,—a gwisg o bali melyn amdeni?

Who is yonder lady, with a robe of yellow satin on her? Hanes O. ab Urien—Mabinogion.

Neu'm rhoddes hil Rhun rudd a phali.

Have I not been gifted by the race of Rhun with crimson and satin. Cynddelw.

Rhwyf rhadau, blau beirdd i'n foli,
A lien, a llyfrau, a lliw bali.

Lord of the virtues, it is incumbent upon bards to do him honour, with learning, and books, and satin veil. Gw. Brycheiniawg, i Ddewi.

Paliad, s. m. (pâl) A throwing out, a spreading, a delving, or digging.
Paliaidd, a. (pali) Glossy like satin, or velvet.
Paliawg, a. (pali) Of satin, of velvet.
Palis, s. m.—pl. t. au (pal) A thin partition, as of boards, wattling, or laths: a wainscot; the steep of a rock.

O balis llys nef, ef a gwympid, ac a fwrid i'r carchar isaf.

From the pale of the court of heaven, he was made to fall, and he was cast into the lowermost prison. Elucidarius.

Ni saif palis a osodir yn uchel yn erbyn y gwynt.

A paling that is placed on high will not stand against the wind. Ecclesiastes xxii. 18.

Palisaw, v. a. (palis) To make a partition of boards or laths, to wainscot.
Palisawg, a. (palis) Partitioned, wainscotted, paled, paly.

Dy ryw balisawg darian—
Yw hon.

Thy appropriate paly shield is this. Gr. Hiraethawg.

Palisiad, s. m. (palis) A partitioning; a wainscotting; a paling.
Palm, s. m. (pal) A spread; a flag.
Palmant, s. m.—pl. t. au (palm) A pavement.
Palmantawg, a. (palmant) Having a pavement.
Palmantiad, s. m. (palmant) A paving.
Palmantu, v. a. (palmant) To make a pavement.
Palmantwr, s. m.—pl. palmantwyr (palmant—gwr) One who makes a pavement, a pavior.
Palmid, s. m. (palm) That is spreading or flat.
Palmidwydd, s. pl. (palmid—gwydd) Palm trees.
Palmidwydden, s. f. dim. (palmidwydd) Palm tree
Palmwydd, s. pl. aggr. (palm—gwydd) Palm trees.
Palmwydden, s. f. dim. (palmwydd) A palm tree.
Palores, s. f.—pl. t. au (palawr) A chough.
Palu, v. a. (pal) To delve, or to dig.
Palug, s. m. (pâl) That is of a smooth glossy surface. Cath palug, the glossy coated cat, some fierce animal, probably a tiger, mentioned in the historical triads to have been one of three molestations of Mona, which were reared in it.
Palwr, s. m.—pl. palwyr (palu—gwr) A digger
Pall, s. m. (py—all) Loss of power, energy, or compactness; that is incompact; a failing; neglect, omission, deficiency; a perishing state.

Yr holl wirionedd ar ball aeth
O blith hiliogaeth dynion.

All righteousness is gone to nought from amongst the generation of men. Edm. Prys.

Pall, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—all) That encloses, as a loose hanging, or curtain; a mantle; also a tent, a pavillion; a throne.

Nid y mywn ty ydd oeddynt, namyn y mywn palleu.

Not in houses were they, but in tents. Ystori Ben. Fran—Mabinogion.

Pall, a. (py—all) Of a spreading or incompact tendency; tending to fail or decay.

Ysgwyd ball guall Guhelyn.

The spreading and toilsome shield of Cuhelyn. Ll. P. Moch.

Palladwy, a. (pall) Fallible; perishable.
Pallddawd, s. m. (pall) Failure; abortiveness.
Pallddeg, a. (pall—teg) Spreadingly-fair.

Maengaer glod bell-daer, glyd balldeg mygrfan.

A stone mansion of far-pervading fame, a warm spreading fair spacious place. Casnodyn.

Pallder, s. m. (pall) Fallibleness; a perished state
Palledig, a. (pall) Being of a failed state.
Pallen, s. f.—pl. t. au (pall) A coverlid.
Palliad, s. m. (pall) A divesting of energy or compactness; a failing, a perishing.
Palliannawl, a. (palliant) Tending to fallibility.
Pallianu, v. a. (palliant) To render fallible, to render perishable, to become fallible.
Palliant, s. m. (pall) A failure, neglect, omission; a perishing, or a failing.
Pallu, v. a. (pall) To fail, to neglect, to omit; to be deficient, to cease; to perish, to miss.

Gnawd eddewid gwraig ry phall.

A woman's promise naturally will fail. Adage.

Ys da felin a ballodd.

Good is the mill which has been worn out. Adage.

Pan roddai pob rhai, nid Rhys a ballai;
Pan ballai pob rhai, fe a roddai Rhys.

When every body would be giving, Rhys would not fail; when every body would fail, Rhys would give. D. Nanmor.

Pallus, a. (pall) Apt to fail, fallacious.
Pallusaw, v. a. (pallus) To make fallible; to become fallible.
Pallusedd, s. m. (pallus) Aptness to fail.
Pallusrwydd, s. m. (pallus) A state of failing.
Pallwr, s. m.—pl. pallwyr (pall—gwr) One who fails, one who neglects or omits.
Pallydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pall) One who fails.
Pam, adv. (pa—am) What about, wherefore, for what cause, why.
Pan, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—an) A vessel of capacity; a pan; a bowl, a cup.

Gwirawd a ddygir o ddigawn atan;
Gwin o ban, rhan rhadlawn.

Liquor will be brought in plenty to us; wine from the pan, a grateful portion. Cynddelw.

Oni ddaw i mewn o'r medd gorau oll
Gwirawd o ban, dy ben faddeu!

If there does not come of the mead the best of all, liquor from the pan, thy head shall answer! O. Cyfeiliawg.

Pan, s. m. (pa—an) That is universal; pervasive, of spreading grain or texture; down; fur; nap; the milling, fulling, or thickening of cloth. Gynau pan, fur gowns.
Pan, adv. (pa—yn) When, at which time; whence, from whence; since; for which cause. Pan fo, when there shall be; pan elo hyn heibio, when this shall pass away; pan yw, that is; hyd pan, so that: pan hynoeddynt? Whence were they descended?

Pan ddyco cyfraith anrhaith o farwdy, neu o neb dadl arall—or bydd un peth a dalo bunt, brenin bieufydd.

When the law takes an escheat from a death house, or from any other claim, if there should be any one thing of the value of a pound, it shall belong to the king. Welsh Laws.

Pan fal lawen frain, pan frydal waed,
Pan wyar waryal,
Pan zyfel, pan ruddid ei thal
Pan Ruddlan pan rudd-lys loegal,
Pan rudden ruddfiam flemychal hyd nef,
Yn addef ni noddai.

When the ravens rejoice, when blood hastens, when gore bubbles, when there was war, when its houses were reddened, when Rhuddlan at the time its red court burned, when we made the ruddy flame to glow, it flamed up to heaven, no habitation would yield shelter. Hywel ab Owain.

Dywedynt hwyntau wrtho: pan deui di wr? O'r gaer a welwch chwi rhaco.

They then said to him: Whence comest thou, man? From the castle that you see yonder. Hanes Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Panan, s. c. (pan) That involves together.

Panas, s. f. (pan) A kind of straw hangings, or plaited partition of straw; also called plaidwellt; parsnep; panas y' dwfr, water parsnep.

Panawg, a. (pan) Covered with down or nap; furred; frized; thickened by fulling, or milled. Y dew banawg, the great mullein.

Panc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pan) A blow; a spank.

Pand, adv. (pa—ond) What but; is it not.

Pandy, s. m.—pl. t. au (pan—ty) A fulling mill.

Paned, adv. (pan) When, at which time.

Panedig, a. (pan) Covered with down or fur; thickened by fulling or milling.

Paneg, s. f.—pl. penyg (pan) A gut, or entrail.

Cyrfyll hyll chwedryll, chwydrefr penyg meirch.

The ugly trunk of six parts, with a tail discharging horse's chitterlings. H. Ystoryn, i Addaf Eurych.

Panel, s. m.—pl. t. i (pan) What is plaited or worked together; the thick matting of straw, or the cushion of a pack-saddle; it is also called panlle; also the pannel, or pack-saddle, otherwise called ystrodyr, and pynioreg.

Panelawg, a. (panel) Involved, or blended together; consisting of plaited work; pannelled.

Panelu, v. a. (panel) To involve, plait, to mat.

Panfa, s. f.—pl. panfeydd (pan) The state of being covered with down, nap, or fur; the act of fulling; a banging.

Panfad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pan) A covering with down, nap, or fur; a fulling, or thickening by beating; a banging.

Pannawl, a. (pant) Tending to involve; or to hem in; forming a depression or hollow.

Pannedig, a. (pant) Hemmed in; depressed.

Pannel, s. m.—pl. t. au (pant) A little slope or fall; a small dingle.

Pwy, yn ail y pannelau,
A gan mor ber ei genau
A'r eaws?

What one, in the recesses of the dingles whose mouth so sweetly sings as the nightingale? Meuryg Dafydd.

Pannelawg, a. (pannel) Abounding with small hollows, or falls in the ground.

Pannelu, v. a. (pannel) To form a gentle depression in a surface; to form a small hollow.

Pannoli, v. a. (pannawl) To form a devexity; to sink in, to slope down, to dimple.

Pannon, s. m. (mutation of panton) That comprehends universally; an epithet for the deity; the originator, the creator.

E luniai Pannon,
Ar awr glyn Ebron,
A'i ddwylaw gwynion,
Gylwlun Addaf,
A naw can mlynedd,
Heb wawr ymgeledd,
Y bu yn gorwedd,
Heb eneidfa.

The Creator formed, on the ground of Ebron vale, with his fair hands, the superior frame of Adam. Nine hundred years, without the dawn of self-supporting foresight he had been lieing, before he obtained a soul. Awdl Fraith.

Pannu, v. a. (pant) To involve, to include, to hem in, to cause to sink in, to make a depression or hollow; to cause a panic.

Pannu a fydd dir rhag dewr gorflwng,
Pan fo dydd gorwlad, a chad yn wng.

A shrinking in will be certain before a hero sternly fierce, when there shall be a day of depredation, and a battle near. Ein. ab Mad. Rhawd.

Pannwl, s. m.—pl. pannylau (pant) A depression, a hollow, a sinking in; a dimple, a dinge.

Pannylawg, a. (pannwl) Abounding with falls, depressions, or hollows.

Pannyledd, s. m. (pannwl) Devexity of surface.

Pannyliad, s. m. (pannwl) A devexion; sinking in, a forming a hollow.

Pannylu, v. a. (pannwl) To form a devexity; to sink in, to slope down into a hollow.

Pant, s. m.—pl. pentydd (pan) That involves, circumscribes or includes; a depression, or sinking in, a hollow, a dinge, a low place, or bottom hemmed in all round.

I'r pant y rhed y dwr.

To the hollow will the water run. Adage.

Mae gynnefw, yr elwir elaf gan ddraig,
A dragon modrydaf;
Heb bant moliant milioedd naf,
Heb bannu gan y penaf.

After my example, there will be obtained riches from the chief and the dragon of tents; without a sinking thousands will praise the prince, without the sovereign's making any fall. Ll. P. Moch, i R. ab H. ab Owain.

Pant, a. (pan) Involving, hemming in; involved, encompassed, included.

Mi a'i gyraf o'm gorwedd,
Mor bant a'r mur ar y bedd.

I will cause it to be by my lying down, so involving as the masonry on the grave. Gw. Tew, i wely plu.

Pant, prep. (pan) Down. Af pant i Lundain, I will go down to London. Dyfed.

Pantawg, a. (pant) Having a depression, a sinking in or hollow.

Pantawl, a. (pant) Depressing, apt to sink in.

Pantedd, s. m. (pant) The state of being depressed, sunk in, or made hollow.

Pantiad, s. m. (pant) A depression, a sinking in, a becoming hollow; a dimpling.

Panton, s. m. (pant) The all-comprehending one: a bardic appellation for the deity.

Pantu, v. a. (pant) To involve, to compass: to depress, to bulge in: to dimple: to sink in, to become a hollow.

Panu, v. a. (pan) To make universal or pervasive: to form a texture or grain: to cover with down or nap, to full or to mill cloth, to thicken by beating, to bang, to beat. Cei dy banu yn dda, thou shalt be well beaten.

Awen gorid banu.

The genius of a fulling beetle. Adage.

Panwaen, s. f.—pl. panweunydd (pan—gwaen) A wet meadow, a peat moss; also called gwaen bon, and mawnog.

Panwlan, s. m. (pan—gwlan) Down or fine wool.

Panwr, s. m.—pl. panwyr (panu—gwr) A fuller. Cribau y panwr, the teasel.

Panwriaeth, s. m. (panwr) The fuller's trade.

Panyw, adv. (pan—yw) Whence it is; that it is; that is.

O derfydd i'r amddiffynwr ddodi yn mhen yr arglwydd ac yr ygnaid panyw hwnw yw y dydd.

If the defendant shall have declared to the lord and the judges that it is that is the day. Welsh Laws.

Bid iddaw i bawb, panyw yn mynwent y fynachlog yn Ynys Afallach, gwedi gweli angeuawl ar afon Gamlan yn Ngheruyw y claddid Arthur.

Be it certain to every one, that it is in the monastery of the Isle of Avallach, after mortal wounds on the river of Camlan in Ceruyw, was Arthur buried. Hanes Diwedd Arthur.

Pang, s. m. (panc) A pang; a convulsion fit.
Pangaw, v. n. (pang) To have a convulsion fit.
Pangawl, a. (pang) Convulsive, giving a pang.
Pangiad, s. m. (pang) A convulsing; convulsion.
Pangu, v. a. (pang) To be convulsed.
Papyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (pab) Paper. Papyr gwyn, white paper; papyr llwyd, brown paper.
Papyraidd, a. (papyr) Like paper, papery.
Papyrawl, a. (papyr) Consisting of paper.
Papyrfrwyn, s. pl. aggr. (papyr—brwyn) Paper-reeds.
Papyriad, s. m. (papyr) A papering.
Papyrwr, s. m.—pl. papyrwyr (papyr—gwr) A paperman, a papermaker.
Par, s. m. (py—ar) That is upon, or contiguous; that is in continuity; a state of readiness or preparedness; also a pair, fellow, match, or couple.

Ac yno, yn medw Gwynedd,
I mi ar bar y mae'r bedd.

And there, in the birch groves of Gwynedd, for me in readiness is the grave. D. ab Gwilym.

Par, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—ar) A cause; that is instrumental in causing or producing; the essence, germ or seed of a thing; also a spear.
Par, a. (pa—ar) Causing; causative; caused; in a state of energy or instrumentality.
Para, v. n. (par) To continue, to endure; to last; to persevere.

Hir nis pery yr abwy lle bo llawer o frain.

The carrion will not last long where there are many crows. Adage.

Nis pery gloewder seren;
Na'i phryd ond ennyd i wen.

The splendor of a star will not endure; nor her countenance to the fair but for a while. Bedo Brwynllys.

Para, adv. (pa—rha) What sort, what kind.

Para lesâad arbenig yr ydym ni yn ei dderbyn oddiwrth dderchafiad Crist?

What particular benefit are we receiving from the ascension of Christ? Tho. Williams, in T. a Kempis.

At bara ymddadleu gynt y mae y rhyfel hwn, rhwng yr angelion da a drwg, debycaf yn bwrw?

To what former contentions does this war, between the good angels and the bad, most probably refer? Ibid.

Parâad, s. m. (parâu) Perseverance; continuance, duration.

Digyrrith yw dy gariad,
Duw'r hedd, mewn rhyfedd barâad.

Inexhaustible is thy love, God of peace, in wonderful duration. D. Richard, Glan y Morfa.

Parâawl, a. (parâu) Continuing, continual.
Parab, s. m. (par—ab) Aptitude for utterance.
Parabl, s. m. (parab) The power of speech; speech, utterance; discourse.
Parablain, v. a. (parabl) To talk continually.
Parabledd, s. m. (parabl) Readiness of discourse
Parabliad, s. m. (parabl) A discoursing.
Parablu, v. a. (parabl) To hold a discourse.
Parablusaw, v. a. (parablus) To render fluent in discourse; to become eloquent.
Parablusedd, s. m. (parablus) Readiness in discourse or speech.
Parablwr, s. m.—pl. parablwyr (parabl—gwr) A discourser; a preacher.
Parad, s. m. (par) Causation; a causing.
Paradwy, a. (parad) Causable, effectible.
Paradwyad, s. m. (paradwy) Effectuation.
Paradwyawl, a. (paradwy) Efficient, effective.
Paradwys, s. m. (para—twys) A continuity of increase or fructification; paradise.
Paradwysaidd, a. (paradwys) Paradisiacal.
Paradwysain, a. (paradwys) Paradisiacal.
Paradwysawl, a. (paradwys) Relating to paradise.
Paradwysoli, v. a. (paradwysawl) To render paradisiacal; to become like paradise.
Paraed, s. m. (para—ed) A partition.
Paraeth, s. m. (par) A causation, a cause.
Paraethu, v. a. (paraeth) To render causative.
Parag, adv. (pa—rhag) Because of what, why so
Parai, s. c. (par) That causes or makes to be.
Parator, ger. (parad) In causing or bidding.
Parâu, v. n. (para) To persevere, to persist; to continue, to remain, to last, to abide.

A fyno barâu yn hir yn ieuanc, aed yn ebrwydd yn hen.

He that wishes long to continue young, let him soon become old. Adage.

Parâus, a. (para) Of long continuance.
Parâusder, s. m. (parâus) Lastingness.
Parâusrwydd, s. m. (parâus) Lastingness.
Parawd, s. m. (par) That is in readiness. a. Ready, prompt, prepared.

Ni chelir nâ'i wir, nâ'i wrhydri,
Ar gynnifer gwaed,
Amdrychion am draed,
Ac am bob parâed
Parawd losgi.

His justice nor his prowess will be concealed, on the frequent meetings of blood, breaking round the feet, and about every wall a ready burning. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Parawl, a. (par) Causing, effective; creative.
Parâwr, s. m.—pl. parâwyr (parâu—gwr) One who continues.
Parc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (par) An enclosure; a field; a park.
Parcawl, a. (parc) Belonging to enclosure.
Parciad, s. m. (parc) An enclosing, a shutting in.
Parciaw, v. a. (parc) To enclose, to hedge in.
Parciwr, s. m.—pl. parcwyr (parc—gwr) One who encloses, a hedger, a ditcher.
Parch, s. m. (py—arch) Respect, reverence.

A fyno barch bid gadarn.

Who would obtain honour let him be mighty. Adage.

Mwy parch hynaws no hynod.

Greater the respect of the good-natured than the reverenced. Adage.

Parchadwy, a. (parch) Respectable, reputable.
Parchawl, a. (parch) Tending to respect.
Parchedig, a. (parch) Respected, reverend.
Parchedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (parchedig) A shewing respect, a reverencing or honouring.
Parchedigaw, v. a. (parchedig) To render reverent; to become revered or honoured.
Parchedd, s. m. (parch) Respectability; repute.
Parchiad, s. m. (parch) A respecting, honouring.
Parchlawn, a. (parch) Respectful, full of respect
Parchlonder, s. m. (parchlawn) Respectfulness.
Parchlonedd, s. m. (parchlawn) Respectfulness.
Parchraith, s. f. (parch—rhaith) A law of honour
Parchrydd, a. (parch—rhydd) Respectfully free
Parchu, v. a. (parch) To respect, or to honour.

Morwynion moelion, gwreigedd rhewydd,
Carant, ni pharchant eu carennydd;
Rhwydd ni bydd gyfrwydd wrth ei gilydd,
Esgyb anghyfiaith, diffaith, diffydd.

Bare-headed virgins, wanton wives, they will love, they will not respect their relatives; readily they will not be mutually liberal to one another, bishops of strange language, unprofitable and void of faith. Myrddin.

Parchus, a. (parch) Respectful; respectable.
Parchusaw, v. a. (parchus) To render respectable; to become respectable or respected.
Parchusedd, s. m. (parchus) Respectability.
Parchusrwydd, s. m. (parchus) Respectableness.
Parchwr, s. m. (parch—gwr) A respecter.
Parddu, s. m. (par—du) The black adhering to vessels, that are set on fire: smut.

Parddüad, s. m. (parddu) A covering with smut.
Parddüaw, v. a. (parddu) To cover with smut, to smut; to become smutty.
Parddüawg, a. (parddu) Covered with smut.
Parddüawl, a. (parddu) Tending to be smutty.
Pared, s. m.—pl. t. au (par—ed) A partition.
Paredig, a. (pared) Caused, being bidden.
Paredigawl, a. (paredig) Causative, mandatory.
Paredlys, s. m. (pared—llys) Pellitory of the wall
Parf, s. m. (par) That is upon, or intervening.
Parfa, s. f.—pl. parfëydd (par—ma) That hems in, or that serves as a fender.
Parfaes, s. f.—pl. parfeisiau (parf—aes) A sending plane; an epithet for a shield.
Parfyg, s. m. (parf) The herb henbane.
Pari, s. m. (par) That is close, together, or in continuity; a string, drove, or flock, as sheep

Pari o ddefaid ar lan ffrwd, e fydd ar bob un ofn dechreu myned trosodd; eithr pan elo un o'r blaen, y lleill igyd yn ddiarswyd a ganlynant.

A flock of sheep on the brink of the current of a river, every one will be afraid of going through; but when one proceeds before, all the others will follow without fear. S. Trefredyn.

Pariad, s. m. (par) A causation; a causing, or effecting, a commanding, a bidding.
Pariannawl, a. (pariant) Causative, mandatory.
Pariannu, v. a. (pariant) To render causative.
Pariannus, a. (pariant) Causative; mandatory.
Pariannusaw, v. a. (pariannus) To render causative, to become causative.
Pariant, s. m. (par) Causation; effectuation.
Pariedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pariad) A causer.
Parl, s. m. (par) That is instrumental to effectuate, a vocable.
Parlas, s. m.—pl. t. au (par—glas) A green plat.
Parlawr, s. m.—pl. parlorau (par—llawr) Parlour

Parlawr o irddail purlas.

A parlour of fresh leaves of pure green. D. ab Gwilym.

Parliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (parl) A discoursing.
Parliaw, v. a. (parl) To argue; to discourse.
Parliannawl, a. (parliant) Interlocutory.
Parliannu, v. a. (parliant) To dialogue.
Parliant, s. m. (parl) Interlocution; dialogue.
Parliwr, s. m. (parl—gwr) A discourser.
Parodâad, s. m. (parodâu) A preparation.
Parodâawl, a. (parodâu) Preparatory, preparing
Parodadwy, a. (parawd) Capable of preparing.
Parodâu, v. a. (parawd) To make ready; to become ready, to be prepared.
Parodawl, a. (parawd) Tending to prepare.
Parodedd, s. m. (parawd) Preparedness.
Parodi, v. a. (parawd) To make ready, to prepare; to become ready or prepared.

Ni chaed brad, na'i barodi;
Ac ni chaed yn eich had chwi.

No treachery was found, nor a preparing of it; nor was such a thing had in your line. Ed. Dafydd.

Parodiad, s. m. (parawd) A preparing.
Parodiaeth, s. m. (parawd) Preparation.
Parodiannawl, a. (parodiant) Preparatory.
Parodiannu, v. a. (parodiant) To make preparation; to become prepared.
Parodiant, s. m. (parawd) Preparation.
Parodoldeb, s. m. (parodawl) Preparedness.
Parodoledd, s. m. (parodawl) Preparedness.
Parodoli, v. a. (parodawl) To render prepared.
Parodrwydd, s. m. (parawd) A prepared state.
Paronen, s. f. (par—onen) An ashen spear.
Parotaw, v. a. (parawd) To prepare, to get ready
Parotöad, s. m. (parotöi) A preparing, preparation, a getting ready.
Parotöawl, a. (parotöi) Preparative; preparing.
Parotöedd, s. m. (parotöi) Preparedness.
Parotöi, v. a. (parotaw) To prepare, to get ready

Parotöi bwyllyriau, a llenwi eu llongau o honynt—a orugynt.

Prepare provisions, and fill their ships therewith, they did. Gr. ab Arthur.

Parotöus, a. (parotaw) Preparative, preparatory
Parotöwr, s. m.—pl. parotöwyr (porotöi—gwr) A preparer, one who makes ready.
Parotöydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (parotöi) A preparer
Parsel, s. m.—pl. t. au (par—sel) What is aimed at, a butt, a mark.

Saethu'n isel barselau
A wnawn, teg fu'r mawr-ddawn mau.

Shoot keenly at butts I would, fair was my great talent. R. ab C. Goch.

Ei fwa a saethau a arwyddoca ffolineb y rhai ffoliaid, y sydd yn cynnyg eu hunain i fod yn barselau iddo, ac yn sefyll yn llonydd tra fo efe yn eu saethu.

His bow and arrows denote the folly of the foolish ones, who are offering themselves to be as butts for him, and standing still whilst he might be shooting at them. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Parth, s. m.—pl. t. au (par) A part; a division; a region. Parth a Chymmru, towards Wales; parth ag atam, towards us.

Nef, daiar, uffern, pan y bernych,
Dod nod i'm gwyneb a'm hadnepych:
Parth cledd i minnau, ni mynych fy mod,
Parth yr oen gorfod ni'm gosodych.

Heaven, earth, hell, when thou shalt judge, set a mark in my face by which thou shalt know me. Then on the left side, thou wouldest not that I should be, on the part of the victim lamb thou wouldest not place me. Y Brawd Mad. ab Gwallter.

Parthadwy, a. (parth) Discriminable, divisible.
Parthawd, s. m. (parth) A dividing, a parting.
Parthawl, a. (parth) Discriminate; parting.
Parthed, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (parth) A part; a division; a region.
Parthedig, a. (parthed) Divided, severed.
Parthedigaeth, s. m. (parthedig) Discrimination.
Parthedigawl, a. (parthedig) Discriminative.
Parthedd, s. m. (parth) A divided state.
Parthgymeriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (parth—cymeriad) A participle.
Parthgymeriadawl, a. (parthgymeriad) Participial, relating to a participle.
Parthiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (parth) A parting.
Parthiannawl, a. (parthiant) Discriminative.
Parthiannu, v. a. (parthiant) To discriminate.
Parthiannus, a. (parthiant) Discriminative.
Parthiannusaw, v. a. (parthiannus) To render discriminative; to become discriminative.
Parthiant, s. m. (parth) A division, a severing.
Parthiator, ger. (parthiad) In discriminating.
Parthitor, sup. (parth) To be discriminating.
Parthotor, part. (parthawd) Dividing, parting.
Parthred, s. f.—pl. t. ion (parth) Distinction, discrimination; a side, or party.

Pan weles Agamemnon ladd llawer o'i barthred, ef a anfones ar Briaf, i erchi cynghrair.

When Agamemnon beheld the slaughter of many of his party, he sent to Priam to demand a parley. Ystori Dared.

Parthredawg, a. (parthred) Of a particular party
Parthredawl, a. (parthred) Discriminating.
Parthrededd, s. m. (parthred) Discriminateness.
Parthrediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (parthred) A discriminating; discrimination.
Parthrediannawl, a. (parthrediant) Belonging to discrimination; discriminative.
Parthrediannu, v. a. (parthrediant) To make a discrimination, to make a distinction.
Parthrediannus, a. (parthrediant) Tending to discrimination.
Parthrediannusaw, v. a. (parthrediannus) To render discriminating, to discriminate.

Parthredannusedd, s. m. (parthredi annus) The state of being discriminative.

Parthrediant, s. m.—pl. parthrediannau (parthred) Discrimination.

Parthredu, v. a. (parthred) To discriminate.

Parthredus, a. (parthred) Discriminating.

Parthredusaw, v. a. (parthredus) To render discriminative, to become discriminative.

Parthredusedd, s.m.(parthred) Discriminateness.

Parthryd, s. m. (parth—rhyd) A distinct course.

Parthu, v. a. (parth) To part, to partition, to separate, to divide.

I archesgobty Llundain y parthid Lloegr yn hollawl.

To the archbishoprick of London was appropriated the whole of England. Gr. ab Arthur.

Parthwr, s. m.—pl. parthwyr (parthu—gwr) One who makes a distinction, a separater.

Parthyd, s. m. (parth) Distinction, characteristic. Parthyd y peth a'r peth, the characteristic of such and such a thing.

Paru, v. a. (par) To put in continuity, to put together, to couple, to join, to pair.

Parwar, a. (par—gwar) Silent, still, calm.

Eglwysau Bassa, ynt barwar heno;
A minnau wyf dyar:
Rhudd ynt hwy; rhwy fy ngalar!

The churches of Bassa, they are silent this night; and I am clamorous: red are they; excessive is my grief! Llywarch Hen.

Parwg, s. m.—pl. parygoedd (par) Enclosed field

Parwr, s. m.—pl. parwyr (par—gwr) A causer.

Parwyd, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (par—gwyd) Partition.

A wyddosti——
Py peris parwyd
Rhwng dyn ac annwyd?

Dost thou know who caused a partition between man and frigidity? Taliesin.

Parwydaw, v. a. (parwyd) To make a partition.

Parwydawg, a. (parwyd) Having a partition.

Parwydawl, a. (parwyd) Belonging to a partition.

Parwyden, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (parwyd) Work that encloses, a fence, the trunk or the region of the ribs and breast of an animal; partition work in a house.

Gofidus wyf o barwydenau fy nghalon.

I am afflicted from the sides of my heart. Iermi iv. 19.

Y delyn ledr——
Ni luniwyd ei pharwyden,
Na'i chreglais ond i Sais hen.

The leathern harp, its trunk was not formed nor its hoarse sound, but for an old Saxon. D. ab Gwilym.

Parwydd, s. m. (par—gwydd) That is cognitive of acting or causing, a verb. It is also called peirwyddiad.

Parwyddawl, a. (parwydd) Belonging to a verb.

Parwyddiad, s. m.—pl. parwyddiaid (parwydd) that conveys the knowledge of causing, a verb

Parydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (par) A causer.

Paryddawl, a. (parydd) Procuratorial; causative.

Pas, s. m.—pl. t. au (pa—as) That is expulsive, that causes to pass, a pass, an exit, a cough, a hooping cough.

Pasawl, a. (pas) Expulsive, belonging to cough.

Pásawl, adv. (pa—sawl) What number, how many

PASC, s. m. Easter. Tri gwyl arbenig, Nadolig, Pasc, a Sulgwyn, the three principal festivals, Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide.

Pasg, s. m. (pa—asg) A feeding, or fattening. Bod yn mhasg, to be fed in a stall; opposed to pori allan, to feed out or in pasture.

Pasgadur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pasg) One who feeds.

Pasgadwy, a. (pasg) Capable of being fattened.

Pasgawl, a. (pasg) Feeding, or fattening.

Pasgdwrch, s. m. (pasg—twrch) A fatted pig.

Pasgedig, a. (pasg) Fed, fatted, crammed. Ych pasgedig, a fatted ox.

Pasgell, s. f. (pasg) A pasture, a feeding place.

Pasgfarch, s. m.—pl. pasgfeirch (pasg—march) A pampered steed.

Pasghwch, s. f.—pl. t. od (pasg—hwch) Fat sow.

Pasgiad, s. m. (pasg) A feeding, or a fattening.

Pasgiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (pasgiad) A feeder.

Pasgle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pasg—lle) A feeding place.

Pasgnawd, s. m. (pasg—nawd) A tendency to become fat. Pasgfeirch pasgnawd.

Pasiad, s. m. (pos) A causing an exit, expulsion, a passing.

Pasiaw, v. a. (pas) To cause an exit, to expulse, to make an exit, to pass.

Pasiedig, a. (pas) Peing expulsed or passed.

Pasiwr, s. m.—pl. paswyr (pas) One who passes.

Pastwn, s. m.—pl. pastynau (pas--twn) Long staff.

Estyhid ym bastwn dig.

There was reached to me an angry staff. Llawdden.

Pastynu, v. a. (pastwn) To beat with a staff.

Pathawr, adv. (pa—tawr) What concerns it, who cares, maugre, in spite of, notwithstanding.

Cychwyn i'w therfyn, pathawr ei hoewedd,
Hirfelyn ei gwaewawr:
Dywan, dyw calan ionawr,
Dywed an dawed Faelawr.

Set off to its confined maugre its sprightly society, its long yellow spears: make thy way; on new year's day, say that we are coming to Maelor. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Pathew, s. m.—pl. t. od (pa—tew) A dormouse.

Nid esmwyth ond pathew.

Nothing so sleek as the dormouse. Adage.

Pau, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pa) That is in continuity. that extends, or extends about; that includes, or confines: a settled country, or where the tribes spread about and are stopt in their career

Dymgwallofed ei win o'i wen wlaf udd,
Yn Arfonig gaer, ger hirieil bau.

I have been cherished with his wine from his white protecting hand, in the Arvonian town, near the region of the mansion of glory. Gwalchmai.

Gorpwyf gan Dduw fry, gwedy gwydiau,
Gorfod gorphowys baradwys bau!

May I be caused to be with God above, divested of transgressions, enjoying the repose of the region of paradise. Ein. ab Gwalchmai.

Päun, adv. (pa—un) Which one, what one.

Päunfodd, adv. (päun—modd) Which way soever, what way soever, in a manner.

Paw, s. m. (pa) That extends round.

Pawan, s. c. (paw) A spreader, or extender. Ceiliawg pawan, a peacock, iar bawan, a pea-hen

Pawb, pron. (paw) Every body, all persons.

Rhydd barn i bawb.

Opinion is free to every body. Adage.

Caffant bawb eu teithi, llawen fi Brython,
Ceintor corn elwch caihl heddwch a hinon:

All persons shall obtain their rights, Britons shall be glad, the horn of triumph proclaiming the hymn of peace and of serenity. Myrddin.

Y bedd yn Ystudfachau,
Y mae pawb yn ei ammhau:
Bedd Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau.

The grave in Ystudvachau, every body suppose it to be the grave of Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau. Engl. Beddau y Milwyr.

Pawb, a. (paw) Every body: all, applied to people. Pawb ac un, one and all.

Pawd, s. f. (paw) That stretches out, a shank.

Pawen, s. f.—pl. t. au (paw) A paw, a hoof.

Pawena, v. a. (pawen) To gather with the paw.

Pawenaidd, a. (pawen) Like a paw.

Pawenawg, a. (pawen) Having a paw.

Paweniad, s. m. (pawen) A pawing.

Pawenu, v. a. (pawen) To use the paw.
Pawenwr, s. m.—pl. pawenwyr (pawen—gwr) One who uses his paw.
Pawgen, s. f.—pl. t. au (paw—cên) A sock.
Pawl, s. m.—pl. polion (paw) A pole, a stake.

Drwg pawl ni safo flwyddyn.

Bad is the pole that will not stand for a year. Adage.

Pawr, s. m.—pl. porion (py—awr) Pasture, grass, a grazing, or feeding in pasture.

Ti haf——
Dod yno 'n y fro dy drig,
Yn wyrain bawr, yn irwisg.

Thou summer, bestow there over the country thy track, in luxuriant pasture, in verdant covering. D. ab Gwilym.

Blodau hafaidd hyd y llawr,
A gwych y pawr ei lased.

Summer flowers strew the ground, and how gay the grass so green. Gw. Tew.

Pawrwellt, s. m. (pawr—gwellt) Brome-grass.
PE, s. m. r. That is causative, that is an agent.
Pe, conj. (pe, s.) If. It is used conditionally, with verbs of the subjunctive and potential moods, before words with consonant initials. See ped, pes, pe, o, od, os.

Pe a bawd y gwëid gwe.

If with a thumb a web were woven. Adage.

Pebr, s. m. (py—ebr) That is uttered.
Pebra, v. a. (pebr) To be chattering.
Pebraeth, s. m. (pebr) A chattering, a tattling.
Pebre, s. m. (pebr) A chatter, a babble.

Pebre o'i safn pob rhyw sut.

Every kind of chattering from her mouth. Gr. Hiraethawg, i fronfraith.

Pebyd, s. m. (pab) That is of the pope, papacy.
Pebydiawg, s. m. (pebyd) The popedom: also a cantref so called, in Dyfed.
Pebylliad, s. m. (pabell) A putting up tents.
Pebylliaw, v. a. (pabell) To pitch tents.
Pebylliawg, a. (pabell) Having tents, tented.
Pebylliwr, s. m.—pl. pebyllwyr (pebylliaw—gwr) One who puts up tents.
Pech, s. m. (py—ech) A cessation, a ceasing to exert; a still state; a swerving from; the sin of inaction; sin. Bydd di pech, be thou quiet. Armoric.

Ni aned ni wyddiad bech.

There has not been born any but has known sin. Adage.

Pech, a. (py—ech) Void of exertion; inert.
Pechaberth, s. m.—pl. t. au (aberth) Sin-offering.
Pechadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (pech) A sinner.

Dangos nef i bechadur.

Shew heaven to a sinner. Adage.

Pechadures, s. f. (pechadur) A female sinner.
Pechaduriad, s. m.—pl. pechaduriaid (pechadur) One who commits sin; a sinner.
Pechaduriaeth, s. m. (pechadur) The state of a sinner.
Pechadurus, a. (pechadur) Of a sinful aptitude.
Pechadurusrwydd, s. m. (pechadurus) Sinfulness.
Pechaduryn, s. m. dim. (pechadur) A sinful one.
Pechawd, s. m.—pl. pechodau (pech) Sin.

Pechodau athrawon ynt athrawon pechodau.

The sins of instructors are instructors of sins. Adage.

Saith ryw bechawd marwawl y sydd—syberwyd, cynghorfynt, irllonedd, tristyd bydawl neu lesgedd, chwant a chybyddiaeth, glythineb a meddwdawd, godineb.

There are seven kinds of deadly sins: pride, envy, anger, dejection in worldly affairs, or inexertion, desire and sordidness, voluptuousness and drunkenness, adultery. Ll. Gwyn Hergest.

Pechawl, a. (pech) Appertaining to sin; sinning.
Pechedd, s. m. (pech) A sinning condition.

Pechiad, s. m. (pech) A sinning; a transgressing.
Pechodawg, a. (pechawd) Abounding with sin.
Pechodawl, a. (pechawd) Appertaining to sin.
Pechodlawn, a. (pechawd) Full of sin, sinful.
Pechu, v. a. (pech) To sin, to commit sin.
Pechus, a. (pech) Apt to commit sin; sinful.
Pechusaw, v. n. (pechus) To become sinful.
Pechusrwydd, s. m. (pechus) Sinfulness.
Pechwr, s. m.—pl. pechwyr (pech—gwr) A sinner
Ped, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—ed) That is agent of progression, that bears onward; a foot.
Ped, conj. (pe—yd) If; used for pe, before words with vowel initials. Ped awn, if I were to go: petwn, if I were; petit, if thou wert; petai, if it, he, or she, were; petym, if we were; petych, if ye were; petynt, if they were.
Ped, adv. (pe—yd) How many, what number.
Pedair, s. f. (ped) The number four, speaking of the feminine gender. a. Four.
Pedawl, a. (ped) Belonging to a foot, pedal.
Pedeirael, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—ael) Four skirts. a. Having four skirts or corners.

Ei orwydd oedd a—llen pedeirael amdano, ac afal aur wrth bob ael iddi: Can mu oedd gwerth pob aval.

His steed was with a four-cornered cloth about him, and an apple of gold to each of its corners: A hundred kine was the value of each apple. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Pedeirawdl, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—awdl) Four rhymes. a. Of four varieties of rhyme.
Pedeirblwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—blwydd) Four years. a. Of four years old.
Pedeirblwyddawl, a. (pedeirblwydd) Quadriennial.
Pedeirdalen, s. f. (pedair—dalen) That consists of four leaves. a. Quadriphyllous.
Pedeirffordd, s. f. (pedair—ffordd) Where four roads meet. a. Of four roads.
Pedeirgwaith, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—gwaith) Four times. a. Of four times.
Pedeirllaw, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—llaw) Four hands. a. Quadrimanus.
Pedeiror, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—or) Four limits; four regions; four quarters. a. Of four sides.

Ef yn ddiachor;
Ef yn ddieisor;
Ef o bedeiror;
Ni bydd wrth gynghor;
Ni bydd heb gynghor.

He unconfined; he without a fellow; he from four regions; he will not be according to council; he will not be without council. Taliesin, i'r gwynt.

Pedeirran, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—rhan) Four shares or parts. a. Qradripartite.
Pedeirranawg, a. (pedeirran) Of four parts.
Pedeirranawl, a. (pedeirran) Of four parts.
Pedeirraniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedeirran) A quadripartition; a quartering.
Pedeirranu, v. a. (pedeirran) To part into four.
Pedeirsill, s. pl. aggr. (pedair—sill) Four syllables. a. Of four syllables.
Pedeirsillawg, a. (pedeirsill) Of four syllables.
Pedeirsillawl, a. (pedeirsill) Belonging to what consists of four syllables.
Pedest, s. m. (ped) Motion of the feet.
Pedestr, s. m.—pl. pedestron (pedest) That travels on foot, a pedestrian.

Yn bedestr anwybodawl.

Being a pedestrian uninformed. Ein. ab Gwalchmai.

Pedestraidd, a. (pedestr) Pedestrian.
Pedestrawg, a. (pedestr) Having a power of walking or of using the feet.
Pedestrawl, a. (pedestr) Of foot travelling.

Pedestres, s. f.—pl. t. au (pedestr) A walking female, a female pedestrian.

Pedestres weddaidd yn hydraidd hir,
Pedestrig iolig, pa hyd y'th folir!

The handsome female pedestrian a long journey travelling, thou famous in walking, how long wilt thou be famed! Cynddelw.

Pedestriad, s. m. (pedestr) A travelling on foot.
Pedestrig, s. f. dim. (pedestr) A foot pace.

Ef a gafas ei bedestrig.

He recovered his walking. H. Cer. Mag—Mabinogion.

Pedestru, v. a. (pedestr) To travel on foot.
Pedestrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pedestr) A foot traveller, a pedestrian.
Pedfed, adv. (ped) Of what number.
Pedi, adv. (ped) A round about way of asking or craving, also a guarding against a request, by anticipating a similar want. v. a. To ask or crave indirectly.

Nid rhaid pedi yn llys arglwydd.

There is no necessity of begging restrainedly in a prince's court. Adage.

Pediad, s. m. (ped) A making use of feet.
Pedol, s. f.—pl. t. au (ped—ol) What is under a foot, a pedal, a shoe of a horse or other animal. Pedol y march, tufted horse-shoe vetch. Ceffyl yn ennill ei bedolau, a horse gaining his shoes, a term for a horse's laying down to tumble.
Pedolawg, a. (pedol) Having something under the foot, pedalled: having shoes as horses.
Pedoli, v. a. (pedol) To put something under the feet to save them, to pedal, to shoe a horse or other animal.

Arian pedoli yw treth, a osodwyd er ys talm o flynyddoedd, ar ddeiliaid yr arglwydd, am bedoli meirch yr arglwydd; ac yn Mrecheiniog y telir.

Shoeing money is a tax which was laid many years ago, on the subjects of the lord, for shoeing the lord's horses; and in Brecknockshire it is paid. Hen Ddefodau.

Pedoliad, s. m. (pedol) A shoeing; a forming a pedol, a fixing a pedal; the using a pedal.
Pedolwr, s. m.—pl. pedolwyr (pedol—gwr) A shoeer; one who makes or uses a pedal.
Pedr, s. m. (pad) That consists of four. It is used as a prefix in composition.
Pedrain, s. f.—pl. pedreiniau (pedr) The buttock, breech, or crupper. Pedrain march, a horse's crupper.
Pedrawg, a. (pedr) Of a square form, square-built, complete.
Pedrawl, a. (pedr) Belonging to square.
Pedreindew, a. (pedrain—tew) Fat-buttocked.
Pedreindor, s. m. (pedrain—tor) A covering of cloth reaching over a horse's crupper from the saddle. a. Crupper-covered.

Coch rodawg pedrydawg pedror,
Y ar orwydd pedrogl pedreindor.

A red chariot moving squarely with four limits over a crupper-covered steed of perfect form. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Pedrenwawl, a. (pedr—enwawl) Quadrinomial.
Pedrogl, s. m.—pl. pedroglau (pedrawg) That consists of four sides; a square, a quadrangle. a. Quidrilateral, square, complete, of perfect symmetry.

Pedrogl friw, pwy a dreigl Franc.

Thou square of visage, who will turn a Franc. T. Aled.

Pedroglaidd, a. (pedrogl) Like a square.
Pedroglawd, s. m. (pedrogl) A quadrating.
Pedroglawg, a. (pedrogl) Of a square form.
Pedrogledd, s. m. (pedrogl) A quadrature.
Pedrogli, v. a. (pedrogl) To quadrate.
Pedrogliad, s. m. (pedrogl) A quadrating.
Pedroglyn, s. m. dim. (pedrogl) A quadrate.
Pedrongl, s. f. —pl. pedronglau (pedr—ongl) A quadrangle. a. Of four angles.
Pedronglawg, a. (pedrongl) Of four angles.
Pedrongledd, s. m. (pedrongl) The state of being quadrangular; that consists of four angles.
Pedrongli, v. a. (pedrongl) To form a quadrangle
Pedrongliad, s. m. (pedrongl) A making to consist of four angles, a forming a quadrangle.
Pedror, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pedr—or) That consists of four sides, a square. a. Quadrilateral, square. Par pedror, a four-sided spear.
Pedrorawg, a. (pedror) Having four extremities.
Pedrorawl, a. (pedrawr) Of a square form.
Pedrorddarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedror—darn) A quarter-piece.
Pedroredd, s. m. (pedror) A squareness.
Pedrori, v. a. (pedror) To quadrate, to square.
Pedroriad, s. m. (pedror) A quadrating.
Pedroryn, s. m. dim. (pedror) A quadrate.
Pedrrod, s. f. (pedr—rhod) That has four wheels. a. Four-wheeled.
Pedrrodawg, a. (pedrrod) Having four wheels. s. f. A carriage with four wheels.
Pedru, v. a. (pedr) To quadrate, to square.
Pedrus, a. (ped—rhus) Apt to start, hesitating, dubious, uncertain.
Pedrusad, s. m. (pedrus) A starting aside, a doubting, a hesitating.
Pedrusaeth, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation, doubting.
Pedrusaw, v. a. (pedrus) To start aside, to hesitate, to doubt, to scruple.

Yr wyf innau yn erchi dy drugaredd di, ac yn ceisiaw porth a nerth y genyd ti i geisiaw fy nghyfoeth i mi trachefn, hyd pan fo trwy fy nerth innau a'm porth y gellych dithau oresgyn Ynys Prydain: Ac o hyn nas petrusa ddim; canys nid oes dim twyll na brad yn yr ymadrawdd hwn.

I am likewise entreating thy mercy, and am seeking support and strength of thee towards getting my kingdom back again, so that it shall be through my power and my aid thou likewise mayest subdue the isle of Britain: And of this do not hesitate in the least; for there is neither deceit nor treachery in this declaration. Gr. ab Arthur.

Pedrusawd, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation, doubting.
Pedrusawg, a. (pedrus) Having a doubt.
Pedrusawl, a. (pedrus) Hesitating, doubting.
Pedrusdawd, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation.
Pedrusdeb, s. m. (pedrus) A doubting state.
Pedrusder, s. m. (pedrus) Dubiousness, scrupulosity, indeterminateness.
Pedrusedd, s. m. (pedrus) A state of hesitation.
Pedrusgar, s. m. (pedrus) Apt to hesitate.
Pedrusgarwch, s. m. (pedrus) Aptness to doubt.
Pedrusi, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation, doubt.
Pedrusiad, s. m. (pedrus) A hesitating.
Pedrusiannawl, a. (pedrusiant) Tending to hesitation, indeterminate.
Pedrusiannu, v. a. (pedrusiant) To make hesitation; to become indetermined.
Pedrusiannus, a. (pedrusiant) Of a doubtful tendency, of an uncertain state.
Pedrusiannusaw, v. n. (pedrusiannus) To become of a hesitating disposition.
Pedrusiant, s. m. (pedrus) Hesitation.
Pedrusoldeb, s. m. (pedrusawl) Dubiousness.
Pedrusoli, v. n. (pedrusawl) To become starting or hesitating; to become scrupulous.
Pedrusrwydd, s. m. (pedrus) Doubtfulness.
Pedruswch, s. m. (pedrus) Doubtfulness.
Pedruswr, s. m.—pl. pedruswyr (pedrus—gwr) One who hesitates, a doubter.
Pedrwg, s. m. (pedr) A quadrature; a perfect state, completeness of parts.

Pedrwgl, s. m.—pl. pedryglon (pedrwg) That is quadrate; that is perfect, a model.

Plant Tudyr——
Pedwar eglur pedryglon
Angelystor maenor Mon.

The children of Tudyr—four, conspicuous models, evangelists of the community of Mona. Iolo Goch.

Pedry, s. m. (pedr) That consists of four; that belongs to four. It is used as a prefix in composition.

Pedryad, s. m. (pedry) A quadrating, a squaring.

Pedryael, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pedry—ael) That has four skirts or borders, a square. a. Square.

Fy aghyfarws onis caffaf, dwyn dy anghlod ti a wnaf hyd y bu dy glod yn mhedryael byd bellaf.

My boon if I obtain not, thy infamy will I bear as far as thy fame has been in the farthest four extremities of the world. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Pedryaw, v. a. (pedry) To make of four parts.

Pydryawg, a. (pedry) Having four parts.

Pedryawl, a. (pedry) Belonging to four.

Pedrychwal, s. m. (pedry—chwal) That spreads out four ways. a. Four ways spreading.

Pedrychwelyd, v. a. (pedrychwal) To spread or separate four different ways.

Pedryfan dwfn pedrychwelyd.

A deep quarry four ways opening. Llefoed.

Pedryd, s. m.—pl. t. on (pedr) A quadrate.

Pedrydan, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedry—tan) That extends or spreads out four ways, four extents, four regions. a. Four ways spreading; universal.

Perging cynniwair pair pedrydan.

The grappler of depredation of universal sway. Cynddelw.

Yn ngwalth Maes Carnedd, can freyrau
Dyhebryt alaf elyf donlau;
Dychlud clod Prydain bedrydanau.

In the action of Maes Carnedd, with the barons wealth dispenses with the splendour of talents; the fame of Britain accumulates in the four regions. Gwalchmai.

Pedrydant, s. m. (pedryd) A quadrate state; a state of perfection. Pedrydant dannau, strings of harmony, tuneful strings.

Cenais dy foliant, fal nas ryganant,
Milwr pedrydant, pedrydawg ri.

I have sung thy praise, as they will not be able to sin, thou warrior of perfection, chief of perfect form. Ll. P. Moch, i D. ab Owain.

Arol marw mawrgoel darogant;
Arties draig dragon pedrydant!

Come, alas, is the death of the magnificent hope of the oracle; the destiny of the paragon chief of Britain! Cynddelw.

Pedrydanu, v. a. (pedrydan) To extend or spread out four ways.

Pedrydawg, a. (pedryd) Having a quadrature, completely formed, complete.

Pan yw du troed alarch gwyn,
Pedrydawg gwaew llym.

As the foot of the white swan is black, the sharp spear is unerring. Taliesin.

Milwr pedrydawg Maelawr.

The complete warrior of Maelor. G. P. ab G. ab Ednyfed.

Pedrydawl, a. (pedryd) Of a quadrate state, of a perfect form.

Pedrydiad, s. m. (pedryd) A quadrating; a rendering complete or perfect.

Pedrydu, v. a. (pedryd) To quadrate; to perfect.

Pedrydydd, s. m. (pedry—dydd) The fourth day of the week. Barddas.

Pedryddail, a. (pedry—dail) Quadriphyllous.

Pedryfal, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedry—mal) That consists of four pieces or joints.

Pedryfan, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pedry—man) That consists of four parts; a quarry, a quarter; four regions. Pedryfanoedd byd, the four quarters of the world.

Adarweiniadawg caeawg cynran drud
Draig Prydain pedryfan.

The birds-providing one adorned with a wreath, of a brave pre-eminent race the dragon of Britain the complete region. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Pedryfannawg, a. (pedryfan) Having four regions or parts, of four quarters.

Pedryfannawl, a. (pedryfan) Belonging to four regions; quarternary.

Pedryfaniad, s. m. (pedryfan) A making into four regions; a quartering.

Pedryfanu, v. a. (pedryfan) To make into four regions; to quarter.

Pedrygan, s. m. (pedry—can) That is contained between four, the quantity that is taken up between three fingers and the thumb.

Pedrygana, v. a. (pedrygan) To pinch up between the three fingers and the thumb.

Pedrygarn, a. (pedry—carn) Having four hoofs.

Pedryging, s. m. (pedrwg—ing) The space between the three fingers and thumb closed together; the grasp.

Pedrylaw, s. m. (pedry—llaw) A square or quadrant, such as artisans use. a. Dexterous.

Parawd o'i adaf, cyn no'i adaw,
Paran post enwair pair pedrylaw;
Pedryliw ei lafn i ladd rhagdaw;
Pedrylef cwynfan cyrdd amdanaw!

Ready from his hand, before his departure, were the shafts of the pillar of the chace of dexterous energy; of perfect colour his blade to slay before him; of continued voice the lamentation of songs for him! Cynddelw, m. R. Ffeidd.

Pedryled, s. m. (pedry—lled) Complete extension, a square superfices.

Pedrylef, s. m. (pedry—llef) A quadrate voice; a perfect voice.

Pedryliw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pedry—lliw) A quadrate colour, a perfect colour.

Pedrylun, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pedry—llun) A quadrate form; a perfect figure.

Pedrŷoled, s. m. (pedrŷawl) That consists of four divisions or intersections; the grasp.

Hëesid ono bedryoled ei law.

Ashen shafts were scattered from the grasp of his hand. Aneurin.

Pedryoled benawr.

A four-pointed helmet. Aneurin.

Pedrŷoledd, s. m. (pedrŷawl) Quadrature.

Pedrŷoli, v. a. (pedrŷawl) To quadrate, to square.

Pedrŷollt, s. m. (pedry—hollt) That is cloven or split into four parts; two splits crossing each other so as to form four parts.

A bollt o bedryollt bren.

With a bolt from the intersecting cleft of a piece of timber. D. ab Gwilym.

Pedrŷollti, v. a. (pedrŷollt) To split into four parts; to make an intersecting cleft.

Pedrŷor, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pedry—or) That consists of four regions; a quadrate.

Pedrŷori, v. a. (pedryor) To quadrate.

Pedryran, s. f.—pl. t. au (pedry—rhan) Quadrant.

Pedryranawl, a. (pedryran) Quadripartite.

Pedryranu, v. a. (pedryran) To quadrate.

Pedrysawdd, s. f.—pl. pedrysoddion (pedry—sawdd) A square root.

Pedu, v. a. (pad) To ask or to crave in a roundabout way, also to guard against a request, by anticipating a similar want.

Pedw, s. m. (pad) That is made to diverge.

Pedwar, s. m.—pl. t. au (ped—gwar) The number four. a. Four, speaking of masculines.

Pedwaraid, s. m. (pedwar) That is included in four, that consists of four.

Pedwaran, s. c.—pl. t. au (pedwar) A fourth, a quarter, a quartern; a farthing.

Pedwararbymtheg, s. m.(pedwar—ar—pymtheg) Nineteen. a. Nineteen.
Pedwararddeg, s. m. (pedwar—ar—deg) Fourteen. a. Fourteen.
Pedwarawl, a. (pedwar) Belonging to four.
Pedwarban, s. m. (pedwar—ban) That consists of four parts. a. Of four parts.
Pedwarbanawg, s. m. (pedwarban) A quadrain.
Pedwarcanfed, s. m. (pedwarcant) The four hundredth. a. Four hundredth.
Pedwarcanplyg, s. m. (pedwarcant—plyg) Four hundred times folded.
Pedwarcant, s. m. (pedwar—cant) Four hundred. a. Consisting of four hundred.
Pedwarcanwaith, s.f. (pedwarcant—gwaith)Four hundred times. adv. At four hundred times.
Pedwarcarn, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—carn) Four hoofs. a. Four-hoofed.

Syrthid march oddiar ei bedwarcarn.

The horse may fall off his four hoofs. Adage.

Pedwarcarnawg, a. (pedwarcarn) Having four hoofs; quadrupedous.
Pedwarcarnawl, a. (pedwarcarn) Belonging to the four hoofs, of four hoofs.
Pedwarcarniad, s. m. (pedwarcarn) A using the four hoofs, a galloping.
Pedwarcarnu, v. a. (pedwarcarn) To use the four hoofs; to gallop.

Yr oedd pethau wedi eu dadymchwelyd, a'u taflu bendramynwgl; a ninnau oeddym yn pedwarcarnu yn ol i Rufain.

Things were become reversed, and thrown topsy-turvy; and we were galloping back to Rome. Ier. Owain.

Pedwardull, s. f. (pedwar—dull) A quadriform.
Pedwardyblyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pedwar—dyblyg) A quadruplicate. a. Quadruple.
Pedwardyblygiad, s. m. (pedwardyblyg) Quadruplication; a doubling four times.
Pedwardyblygu, v. a. (pedwardyblyg) To quadruplicate, to double four times.
Pedwaredd, s. m. (pedwar) A fourth. a. Fourth.
Pedwariad, s. m.—pl. pedwariaid (pedwar) A quaternity, one that is over four.
Pedwariannawl, a. (pedwariant) Quaternary.
Pedwariannu, v. a. (pedwariant) To form a quaternity, to make up of four.
Pedwariant, s. m. (pedwar) Quaternity.
Pedwarochr, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—ochr) Four sides. a. Four-sided.
Pedwarochrawg,a.(pedwarochr)Having four sides
Pedwarochrawl, a. (pedwarochr) Quadrilateral.
Pedwarochredd, s. m. (pedwarochr) Quadrilateralness; squareness.
Pedwarochri, v. a. (pedwarochr) To make quadrilateral, to render four sided.
Pedwarochriad, s. m. (pedwarochr) A making quadrilateral.
Pedwaroli, v. a. (pedwarawl) To make quarterly
Pedwarparth, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—parth) Four parts. a. Of four parts.
Pedwarpen, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—pen) Four heads. a. Four-headed.
Pedwarplyg, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—plyg) Four doubles, four folds. a. Fourfold, quadruple.
Pedwarplygiad, s. m. (pedwarplyg) Quadruplication, a making into fourfolds.
Pedwartro, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—tro) Four turns, four times. a. Of four turns.
Pedwartroed, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pedwar—troed) A quadruped. a. Quadruped, four-footed.
Pedwartroedawg, a. (pedwartroed) Quadrupedal. Pedwartroedogion, quadrupeds.
Pedwartroedawl, a. (pedwartroed) Quadrupedous
Pedwartu, s. pl. aggr. (pedwar—tu) Four sides. a. Four-sided, quadrilateral.
Pedwartuawg, a. (pedwartu) Having four sides.
Pedwartheg, s. m. (pedwar—deg) Fourteen.
Pedwaru, v. a. (pedwar) To make into four.
Pedwarygwr, s. m. (pedwar--gwr) A fourth person
Pedwerydd, s. m.—pl. t. on (pedwar) A fourth part, a quarter; a quartern. a. Fourth.
Pedyd, s. pl. aggr. (ped) The foot, the infantry.
Pedyddawd, s. m. (pedydd) The infantry.
Pedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—edd) The agent of progress; a foot. See ped and troed.
Peddest, s. m. (pedd) Foot travelling.
Peddestr, s. m.—pl. t. on (peddest) A pedestrian.

Goreu peddestr yw gau.

The best traveller is a lie. Adage.

Peddestres, s. f.—pl. t. od (peddestr) A female pedestrian.
Peddestrig, s. f. dim. (peddestr) A pedestrian.
Peddiad, s. m. (pedd) A travelling on foot.
Peddu, v.a.(pedd) To use the feet, to go on foot.
Peddyd, s. pl. aggr. (pedd) The infantry.

Meddyliaw a orug Baldwlph dwyn nosawl gyrch am ben Arthur a'i lu; ac Arthur a wybu hyny: sef a orug Arthur yna, anfon Cadwr, tywysawg Cernyw, a chwechant marchawg gantho, ac a thair mil o beddyd yngbyd ag ef, a myned yn ei erbyn; ac ei ragod y nos hono.

It was purposed by Baldolph to make a night attack upon Arthur and his army; and Arthur knew that: what did Arthur then do, but he sent Cador prince of Cornwall, along with six hundred horsemen, and with three thousand infantry, and which should go against him, and meet him on that night. Gr. ab Arthur.

Pef, s. m. (py—ef) That radiates or beams.
Pefr, s. m. (pef) That is radiant, bright, or shining. a. Radiant, splendid, bright, smart.

Dogn o aur pefr yw'r gwallt gwych.

A wreath of radiant gold is the beauteous hair. I. ab Rh. ab I. Llwyd.

Pefraidd, a. (pefr) Somewhat radiant, gairish.
Pefrawl, a. (pefr) Radiating, brightening, full of gaiety or smartness.
Pefredd, s. m. (pefr) Radiancy, gairishness.
Pefren, s. f. dim. (pefr) A smart little woman.
Pefri, s. m. (pefr) Splendour, gairishness.
Pefriad, s. m. (pefr) A radiating, a rendering bright or gairish; a smartening.
Pefriaw, v. a. (pefr) To cast a splendour, to render gairish, to become gairish, to brighten.
Pefrin, a. (pefr) Of a radiant or splendid appearance, gairish.
Pefrineb, s. m. (pefrin) Gairishness, smartness.
Pefrnwyd, s. f. (pefr—nwyd) A gay or smart disposition.
Pefru, v. a. (pefr) To radiate, to brighten, to render gairish, to become gairish, to smarten.
Pefrwellt, s. m. (pefr—gwellt) Canary-grass.
Pefryn, s. m. dim. (pefr) A smart beau.
Pefrynaidd, a. (pefryn) Beauish, like a beau.
Pefwch, s. m. (pef) Dilation, effusion.
Pefwg, s. m. (pef) Expansion; effusion.
Pefychawl, a. (pefwch) Expanding, effusive.
Pefychdawd, s. m. (pefwch) Effusiveness.
Pefychedd, s. m. (pefwch) Effusiveness.
Pefychiad, s. m. (pefwch) An opening out, effusion, a gushing.
Pefychu, v. a. (pefwch) To expand, to render clear or open, to become expanded, to puff out.

Pan ddaeth o Ffrainc Ffranc, o erchi iechyd rhag clefyd, rhag clwyf delli,
Wynebglawr didawr, dim ni welï;
Pefychwys, tremwys, drwy fodd Dewi.

When there came out of France a Frank, in craving for deliverance from disease, from the ill of blindness, an uniform blank visage, nothing could be see; he brightened, he beheld, through the will of Dewi. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Peg, s. m. (py—eg) That is an agent of expansion or opening; that expands; also a measure of capacity, equal to eight bushels.
Pegaid, s. m.—pl. pegeidiau (peg) The contents of an eight-bushel measure, or a quarter.
Peged, s. m. (peg) A measure of capacity, equal to eight bushels or a quarter.
Pegor, s. m.—pl. t. au (peg) That whereon any thing turns or is suspended; a centre of rotatory motion; a pivot, a pert little fellow, a dwarf. Y pegor drwg! The naughty little urchin!

Gogwn py begor
Y sydd y dan for.

I partly know what base there is beneath the sea. Taliesin.

Pegoraidd, a. (pegor) Like a pivot or axis.
Pegorawl, a. (pegor) Serving as a pivot.
Pegori, v. a. (pegor) To form a pivot.
Pegoriad, s. m. (pegor) A forming a pivot.
Pegoryn, s. m. dim. (pegor) A small pivot or axis; a pert little chap; a dwarf.
Pegwn, s. m.—pl. pegynau (peg) A pole or axis, an axle, a pin, or spindle, a pivot.

Mal y dur at y pegwn.

Like the steel to the pole. Adage.

Pegwr, s. m.—pl. pegyrion (peg) A pivot, or axis; a dwarf, a pigmy.
Pegwrn, s. m.—pl. pegyrnau (peg—gwrn) The axis whereon any thing revolves; a pivot.
Pegynawl, a. (pegwn) Belonging to an axis.
Pegyniad, s. m. (pegwn) A forming an axis.
Pegynu, v. a. (pegwn) To form a pivot or axis.
Pei, adv. (pe—i) If it were, if it should be.

Pei cygymted ar draed ag ar dafawd y byddai wraig, hi a ddalai ddigon o luched i gynnu tan y bore.

If every woman were as swift of foot as of tongue, she would catch enow of lightning to kindle a fire in a morning. Adage.

Peiad, s. m. (pai) A rendering objective.
Peiaw, v. a. (pai) To render objective.
Peiawd, s. m. (pai) A being objective.
Peiawl, a. (pai) Objective; perceptive.
Peiawr, s. m. (pai) That is objective.
Peidiad, s. m. (paid) A ceasing, a desisting.
Peidiannawl, a. (peidiant) Tending to cease.
Peidiannu, v. a. (peidiant) To make a pause.
Peidiant, s. m. (paid) A cessation, a ceasing.
Peidiaw, v. n. (paid) To cease; to leave off, to give over, to desist. Gwell i ti beidiaw, thou hadst better be quiet; paid da dithau, be quiet, that is a good creature.

Call a dwylla, callach a baid.

The cunning will deceive, the more cunning will desist. Adage.

Peidiawl, a. (paid) Tending to cease or desist.
Peidiedig, a. (peidiad) Being left off or ended.
Peiliad, s. m. (pal) A displaying, a raying.
Peiliaw, v. a. (pal) To spread out, to radiate.
Peiliawg, a. (pal) Having a display, rayonnent.
Peiliedig, a. (peiliad) Displayed, radiated.
Peilldy, s. m.—pl. t. au (paill—ty) A bolting-house.
Peillged, s. f. (paill—ced) A tribute of flour; such used to be paid by the prince of Mathraval to the prince of Aberfraw.
Peilliad, s. m. (paill) A bolting or searcing.
Peilliant, s. m. (paill) That is made into flour.
Peilliaw, v. a. (paill) To searce or to bolt flour.
Peilliawd, s. m. (paill) A making into flour.
Peilliawg, a. (paill) Abounding with flour.
Peillied, s. m. (paill) Bolted meal, or flour.
Peilliedig, a. (peilliad) Reduced to flour.
Peillion, s. pl. aggr. (paill) Fine flour.
Peilliwr, s. m.—pl. peillwyr (paill—gwr) A bolter, or siercer of flour.
Peillwy, s. m. (paill) Fine flour, or powder.
Peillydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (paill) A siercer.
Peillyddes, s. f. (peillydd) A female siercer.
Peiniad, s. m. (pain) A producing a farina.
Peiniaw, v. a. (pain) To yield bloom or farina.
Peiniawl, a. (pain) Tending to yield farina.
Peiodawl, a. (peiawd) Objective, perceptive.
Peiodi, v. a. (peiawd) To render objective.

Gwlad-pres i'th ermud,
A chyd awch beiodud,
Trichanmil blwyddynedd.

The present world will be expecting thee, and with ardour will be making thee the object, for three hundred thousand years. Taliesin, armes dyddbrawd.

Peiran, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pair) A necessary.
Peiriad, s. m. (par) A causer, causator, or effector.

Yr haf——
Peiriad hardd yn peri dail.

The summer, a glorious cause causing foliage. D. ab Gwilym.

Peiriaid, s. f. (pair) As much as a cauldron holds.
Peirianna, v. a. (peiriant) To bring together causes or instrumentalities.
Peiriannawg, a. (peiriant) Having a cause.
Peiriannawl, a. (peiriant) Causative; effective.
Peiriannawr, s. m.—pl. peiriannorion (peiriant) An instrumentality; what is conducive.
Peiriannedig, a. (peiriant) Being made instrumental or conducive.
Peiriannedd, s. m. (peiriant) Instrumentalness.
Peiriannolaeth, s. m. (peiriannawl) The act of rendering instrumental; organization.
Peiriannoldeb, s. m. (peiriannawl) Instrumentality; conduciveness.
Peiriannolder, s. m. (peiriannawl) Instrumentality; conduciveness.
Peiriannoledd, s. m. (peiriannawl) Instrumentality; conduciveness.
Peiriannoli, v. a. (peiriannawl) To render instrumental; to become instrumental.
Peiriannu, v. a. (peiriant) To put in a state to act; to organize, to accoutre, to harness. Peirianna y ceffyl, put the furniture on the horse.
Peiriannus, a. (peiriant) Apt to be instrumental.
Peiriannusaw, v. a. (peiriannus) To render instrumental; to become instrumental.
Peiriannusedd, s. m. (peiriannus) Instrumentality; an organized state.
Peiriannusrwydd, s. m. (peiriannus) Instrumentalness; a conducive state.
Peiriannwr, s. m.—pl. peiriannwyr (peiriant—gwr) One who puts in a state for action; an organizer; one who accoutres.
Peiriannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (peiriant) One who puts in a state to act; an organizer.
Peiriant, s. m.—pl. peiriannau (par) The means or agent by which any thing is accomplished, instrumentality; an instrument, or a tool.

Tri pheiriant Duw yn abred, er gorfod drwg a chythraul, a dianc oddiwrthynt at wynfyd; angen, anghof, ac angeu.

The three means of God in the circle of inchoation, for subduing evil and the adverse principle, and to open a way from them to happiness; necessity, loss of memory, and death. Barddas.

Ni all y corff wneuthur dim ohono ei hun, ond a wnel yr enaid trwyddo ef, megys trwy beiriant.—Y rhai drwg sy megys peiriannau i buraw y rhai da.

The body is not able to perform any thing of itself, but what the soul performs through it, as through a machine.—The wicked ones are as instruments to purify those that are good. Elucidarius.

Peirwyddiad, s. m.—pl. peirwyddiaid (parwydd) That conveys the knowledge of causing; a verb

> Peirwyddiad yw pob gair; neu beth, a arwyddocao gwneuthur, neu beiriad, o ba ddyn, neu beth, neu hanlad y bo y peri bynag.
>
> A verb implies every word, or circumstance, that denotes a doing, or causing, of what person, or thing, or existence soever the agency may be. Edeyrn.

Peiriennyn, s. m. dim. (peiriant) An instrument.

Peisgwellt, s. m. (paisg—gwellt) Fescue-grass.

Peisgwyn, s. m. (paisg—gwyn) The great white poplar.

Peiswyn, s. m. aggr. (pais—gwyn) Chaff; also called us.

Peithadwy, a. (paith) Capable of being made clear or open; capable of being explored.

Peithas, s. f.—pl. t. au (paith) A scout, a sort of scout boat, which with the sails, used to be all of blue colour, to prevent a discovery.

Peithawd, s. m. (paith) The act of making clear or open, a laying waste, a scouting.

Peithdra, s. m. (paith) Planity; exposedness.

Peithedig, a. (paith) Being made plain or clear.

Peithes, s. f.—pl. t. au (paith) A female scout.

Peithfrig, s. m. (paith—brig) A clear top.

> Differ fi, fy ner, rhag——
> Y pair, gair garwddig, peithfrig poethfrych!
>
> Protect me, my Lord, awful the word, from the furnace of hotly-agitated glowing surface! Casnodyn.

Peithi, s. pl. aggr. (paith) Those that are out or exposed, the people of the open plain; the people of the waste or desert, also those who scout; those who lay waste; the PICTS.

Peithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (paith) A making clear or open; a reducing to a desert; an exploration; a scouting, a hunting, a looking about.

Peithiannawl, a. (peithiant) Tending to make clear or open, exploratory.

Peithiannu, v. a. (peithiant) To put in a clear or open state; to make into a waste or desert.

Peithiannus, a. (peithiant) Of an open or exposed state; exploratory.

Peithiant, s. m. (paith) The act of making clear or open; a scouting.

Peithiaw, v. a. (paith) To make clear or open; to lay waste; to scout, to hunt, to look about, to search; to look, to seem, to appear.

> ——Aergun gedymdaith,
> Dwrn-dra-dwrn, dragygyn yd paith.
>
> The battle-upholding companion, with fist to fist, most violently he lays open. Cynddelw, i O. ab Madawg.

Peithiawg, a. (paith) Having open space, open, desert, waste, having an open view or prospect

> Dy gynneddf dyfod——
> A gwaedlwrw gwyr aerfwrw arfawg,
> A gwaedlen am ben yn beithiawg.
>
> Thy custom is to come with the blood-streaming of armed men dealing slaughter, and a veil of blood over the head conspicuously Ll. P. Moch.
>
> Braw cwyddam ynghyd yn nghryd anghred;
> Yn uffern geibern, gaeth drefred erwan;
> Yn affan poethfan, peithiawg drwydded.
>
> Fearfully we should have fallen altogether in the lot of infidelity; amongst the fiends of hell, a habitation confined and vile; in the reach of a hot place, of devastating course. Ll. P. Moch.

Peithiawl, a. (paith) Tending to lay open or waste, of an open or exposed state.

Peithig, a. (paith) That is clear, plain, or open.

Peithin, a. (paith) Abounding with plainness, clearness, or openness.

Peithineb, s. m. (peithin) Planity; openness.

Peithioledd, s. m. (peithiawl) The state of being out, open, or exposed.

Peithiw, a. (paith) That is plain, clear, or open.

Peithiwr, s. m.—pl. peithwyr (paith—gwr) One who lays open; one who explores.

Peithlong, s. f.—pl. t. au (paith—llong) A scout-boat, an advice-boat.

Peithus, a. (paith) Being plain, clear, or exposed

Peithw, a. (paith) That is obscured or closed.

Peithwg, s. m. (paith) That is plain, clear, open, or exposed, an open space, hunting ground.

Peithwydd, s. pl. aggr. (paith—gwydd) The reeds of a loom, the slay; also called peithyn, peithynau, rhwydau, and brwydau.

Peithyll, s. m. (paith) That opens or yawns.

Peithyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (paith) Open space; open work; that is plain, clear, or open; what clears, or the reed-work of a loom, a slay; a slate, a tile, or other plain body. Peithynau olwyn, the cogs of a wheel.

> Y mur a wnaethpwyd o beithynau pridd berwedig, wedi eu gorddiniau o byg.
>
> The wall was made of baked earthen tiles, after being overspread with pitch. Hanesion yr Ysgrythyr.

Peithynawd, s. m. (peithyn) The act of reducing to a flat or level; a laying flat.

Peithynawl, a. (peithyn) Tending to reduce to a flat or level; being an open space.

Peithyndawd, s. m. (peithyn) The state of being a flat or plain.

Peithyndo, s. m. (peithyn—to) A tiled roof.

> Tan gefail trefgordd ni ddiwygir, a fo saith wrhyd y rhyngthi a'r tai, a hithau yn beithyndo.
>
> The fire of a township smithery shall not be made good; which shall have seven fathoms between it and the houses, so that it be of tile-covering. Welsh Laws.

Peithynen, s. f. dim. (peithyn) That is plain or clear; a plain body, as a slate, tile, a sheet of paper, and the like; the elucidator, or frame of writing, the book of the ancient bards, which consisted of a number of four-sided or three-sided sticks written upon, which were put together in a frame, so that each stick might be turned round for the facility of reading.

Peithyniad, s. m. (peithyn) A making a clear place; a making into a flat; a making flat.

Peithynu, v. a. (peithyn) To make a clear place; to make a flat or plain, to flatten; to lay flat.

> Yn nghywryssedd a Lloegr, lluydd amad,
> Naw ugain am un a beithynad.
>
> In the contention with Lloegria, of various conflicts, nine score for one thou wouldest lay flat. Taliesin, G. Maelgwn.

Peithynwr, s. m.—pl. peithynwyr (peithyn—gwr) One who makes a level; one who lays flat, a layer of tiles.

Peithynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (peithyn) One who forms a flat or plain; one who flattens.

Pel, s. f.—pl. t. i (py—el) That has a principle of motion; a ball, a sphere.

> A'r bel o ryfel yr aeth,
> Ar baladr o faboliaeth.
>
> With the ball from the war he went, on the shaft of youth. Guto y Glyn.

Pela, s. m.—pl. t. on (pel) That moves round or hovers; the titmouse. Y pela glas bach, penlöyn, the ox-eye, a small bird so called.

> Mor binc a'r pela.
>
> As brisk as the titmouse. Adage.

Pelaidd, a. (pel) Roundish, like a ball, globular.

Peled, s. f.—pl. t. au (pel) A ball, a bullet.

> Plad gwych rhag ofn peled gwn——
> Ymgylchu dur amgylch dyn.
>
> A splendid plate for fear of the bullet of a gun; putting circles of steel round a person. T. Prys, i arfau gwynion.

Peledu, v. a. (peled) To throw a ball.

Peleidrad, s. m. (paladr) The pushing of spears.

Attol beleidrad, dywal diflydd;
Nid arbetwy car corff ei gilydd.

Again shall come the toil of spears, fierce and sharp; the friend shall not spare the body of his fellow. Golyddan, armes Prydain.

Peleidriad, s. m. (paladr) A darting of rays; a gleaming; a darting or pushing of spears.

Diwreiddiws Bowys peleidriad rhyfel.

The gleaming of war has rooted up Powys. Gwalchmai.

Peleidriannawl, a. (peleidriant) Tending to make a radiancy or gleaming.
Peleidriannu, v. a. (peleidriant) To produce a radiation; to make a radiancy.
Peleidriant, s. m. (paladr) A radiation.
Peleidriaw, v. a. (paladr) To radiate.
Pelen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pel) A little ball.
Pelenawg, a. (pelen) Having a ball or lump.
Peleniad, s. m. (pelen) A forming into a ball.
Pelenu, v. a. (pelen) To form into a ball.
Peleu, s. m.—pl. t. od (pel) The greenfinch.

A glyweisti a gant y peleu,
Gyda'i adar yn chwareu!

Hast thou heard what the greenfinch sang, playing with his birds? Englynion y Clywed.

Pelgib, s. f.—pl. t. au (pel—cib) A ball racket.
Peliad, s. m. (pal) A spreading out.
Peliaw, v. a. (pal) To spread out, to brandish.
Pelid, s. m. (pal) Radiancy; splendour.
Pelre, s. m. (pel—rhe) A beating of a ball backwards and forwards; turmoil, bustle, trouble.

Ceiniadon moch clywid eu gofalon:
Marchawglu mor daer am Gaer Llion;
A dial Idwal ar Aranwynion
A gware pelre a phen Saeson.

Songsters, soon would their cares be heard; an army of horsemen so harassing round Caer Llion; and the revenge of Idwal on the Aranwynians; and the playing of ball-buffetting with Saxon heads. Taliesin.

Pelrëad, s. m. (pelre) A playing at ball; a turmoiling; a bustling.
Pelrëu, v. a. (pelre) To knock a ball about; to play at ball; to turmoil.
Pelu, v. a. (pel) To move by revolving, to throw a ball, to ball, to throw a bullet.
Pelyd, s. pl. (paled) The legs of stockings with the feet cut off; also called bacsau.
Pelydr, s. pl. aggr. (paladr) Pellitory. Pelydr gwyllt, bastard pellitory, or bertram; pelydr dû, black hellebore.
Pelydraidd, a. (pelydr) Radiate; beaming.
Pelydrawg, a. (pelydr) Radiant; rayonnent.
Pelydriad, s. m. (pelydr) A radiating.
Pelydru, v. a. (pelydr) To radiate, to cast rays.
Pelydryn, s. m. dim. (pelydr) A ray, a beam.
Pell, s. m. (py—ell) An extreme limit or verge; the periphery of a circle.

Goreu amddiffynfa digawn pell.

The best place of defence is a sufficient distance. Adage.

Pell, a. (py—ell) Being in the round, verge, or horizon; distant, remote, far. Pell iawn, pell byd, pur bell, tra phell, very far.

Diawg i oed pwyllawg pell.

Remiss to an appointment is the remote thinker of it. Adage.

Drwg pechawd o'i bell erlid.

Bad is sin from its being far pursued. Adage.

Pell ei fygi a'i anaw,
Gweryd Machawe arnaw;
Beidawg Rudd yw hwn ab Emyr Llydaw.

Far his turmoil and his fame, the soil of Machawe is upon him; Beidiog the ruddy is this, the son of Emyr Llydaw. Engl. Beddau Milwyr.

Pellâad, s. m. (pellâu) A rendering far; a removing to a distance; a becoming distant.
Pellach, a. (compar. of pell) More distant, farther. adv. At some point of time lately passed, at length, further, furthermore.
Pellaf, a. (superlative of pell) Farthest, utmost.
Pellan, s. c.—pl. t. au (pall) A form or range of seats round an area; the range of seats of an amphitheatre.
Pellâu, v. a. (pell) To put far of; to remove far off; to be far removed; to elongate.
Pellbell, a. (pell repeated) Far and far, very far.
Pelldaer, a. (pell—taer) Remotely harassing.
Pellder, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, or distance.
Pelldra, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, distance.
Pelldrem, s. f.—pl. t. iau (pell—trem) A far view; a sight for a distant object.
Pelldremiaeth, s. m. (pelldrem) Dioptrics.
Pelldremiant, s. m. (pelldrem) A far viewing.
Pelldremiawl, a. (pelldrem) Assisting to view distant objects, dioptrical.
Pelldremyn, s. m. (pelldrem) A look to a great distance, a far sight.
Pellddrych, s. m. (pell—drych) A distant view.
Pelledd, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, farness.
Pellen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pell) That is made for motion; that may be aptly implied; a compact round body; a round mass; a ball of thread, yarn, or other thing; a round lump, or gland in the body of an animal.
Pellenaidd, a. (pellen) Like a ball, globular.
Pellenawg, a. (pellen) Having aptitude for moving off; having the form of a ball.

Rhyddybydd Llyminawg,
A fydd wr chwannawg;
Arall a ddyfydd,
Pellenawg ei lüydd
Llewenydd i Frython.

There shall come into existence Llyminog, who will be an ambitious man: another there will be far-extending his host, a triumph to Britons. Taliesin.

Pelleniad, s. m. (pellen) A forming into a ball.
Pellenig, a. (pellan) Of a remote situation, being distant, or remote. s. m. That is situated at a distance, that is of a far course, a stranger.

——Brynlau, molwch
Naf daiarolion a phellenigion fwch.

Ye hills, praise the Lord of earthly creatures and of rapid far-wandering bodies. D. Ddu, Hiraddug.

Pellenigaeth, s. m. (pellenig) Any foreign affair.

Gwr cyfrwng, yn llys, ac yn llan, ac yn nghammawn, ac yn mhob pellenigaeth—yw y teisbantyle.

A mediating man, in court, and in congregation, and in combat, and in every foreign affair, is the representative. Trioedd Dyfnwal.

Pellenigaw, v. a. (pellenig) To render remote, to remove to a distance; to become remote.
Pellenigedd, s. m. (pellenig) Remoteness.
Pellenigiad, s. m. (pellenig) To render remote.
Pellenigrwydd, s. m. (pellenig) Remoteness of situation; an extreme state.

Argiwydd pellenigrwydd parch,
Owain waew blin-fain blaen-farch.

Lord of the ultimate state of honour, Owain with the sharp pungent spear and foremost steed. Gr. ab D. Fychan.

Pellenigwr, s. m.—pl. pellenigwyr (pellenig—gwr) One who is remote; a stranger.

Taludwy ariwy eurwledd gan eryr
I bellenigwyr——

Costly the preparation of the golden feast of the eagle-hero for foreign men. Mad. Dwygraig.

Pellenu, v. a. (pellen) To form into a ball.
Pelliad, s. m. (pell) A rendering remote, a moving to a distance, a furthering.

Pellineb, s. m. (pell) Farness, remoteness.

Pellrwydd, s. m. (pell) Remoteness, farness.

Pellt, s. m. (pell) That is external, a surface.

Aesawr dellt am bellt adawal.

Splintered shields about the ground he would leave. Aneurin.

Pelltawg, a. (pellt) Having a surface.

Pelltiad, s. m. (pellt) A forming a surface.

Pelltu, v. a. (pellt) To form a surface or outside.

Pellu, v. a. (pell) To render remote or distant; to remove far off.

Trugarawg Arglwydd, trugarâ
Wrthwyf; i wrthyd ni'm pella.

Merciful Lord, be merciful to me; from thee do not remove me away. Cynddelw.

Pellus, a. (pell) Tending to the exterior or verge, surrounding, compact.

Pellynig ei glod, pellus ei galch.

Far-extending his fame, compact his armour. Aneurin.

Pellyn, s. m. (pell) That is extreme or exterior.

Pellynawl, a. (pellyn) Far extending.

Pellynig, a. (pellyn) Far-extending, far-wandering, far-roaming.

Pellynig fy nghof yn Nghaerwys dir;
Pell ydd wyf!

Far-roaming is my memory in Caerwys land; and far off am I! Cynddelw.

Pellynig fy nghof yn nghynteffn,
Yn ethryb caru Caerwys febin.

Far-roaming is my memory in the beginning of summer, on account of loving the nymph of Caerwys. Gwalchmai.

Pellynu, v. a. (pellyn) To render remote, to remove far off; to become remote.

Pellynus, a. (pellyn) Tending to remoteness.

Pen, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—en) An extremity, end, or conclusion, the upper part; the head; a chief; a capital; a summit; a beginning, or foremost end; the state of being over or upon. Pen Tir Lloegr, the Land's End of England; pen y bont, the bridge end; y pen yma, y pen hwn, this end; y pen oco, pen acw, pen draw, yonder end; wedi dawed i ben, being come to an end; pen ty, house top; pen y ty, the top of the house; pen yn erfid, at logger-heads; bod yn ben, to be a pincipal; pen y bryn, the summit of the hill; lladron pen ffordd, highway robbers; pen blaen, the foremost end: Dyro hyn ar ei ben ei hun, put this by itself; bwrw dwfr am ben y tan, to throw water over the fire; mae hi yn chwerthin am dy ben, she is laughing at thee. Pen y neidr, dog's violet; pennau y gwyr, or llwynhidydd, ribwort plantain.

Tafawd aur yn mhen dedwydd.

A golden tongue is in the head of the wise. Adage.

Dy dafawd, wr da difeth,
Dy ben, yw pen ar bob peth.

Thy tongue, thou good and infallible man, thy head, over every thing be chief. Gw. ab Ieu. Hen.

Hwedlau pen gwlad, rhy wir i hwerthin am eu penau.

The common sayings of the multitude, too true to be laughed at. Adage.

Pen, a. (pen) Head, chief, supreme, principal.

Penad, s. m. (pen) A making chief; a becoming a head, chief, or principal.

Penadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (penad) One that is supreme or principal, a primate, a sovereign.

——Duw benadur,
A'th del o'th haint, a'th dolur,
A'th dieddf anhawdd gawdd gur!

God the supreme, bring thee out of thy illness and thy wound, and thy unabating and severely afflicting pain! G. ab M. ab Dafydd, i Oronwy.

Tri meib Llywelyn:——
Tri araf penaf penadurion.

The three sons of Llywelyn three gentle ones, supreme of sovereigns. D. Benfras.

Penaduriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (penadur) Pre-eminence, sovereignty, supremacy.

Penaduriaethu, v. a. (penaduriaeth) To create a sovereignty or pre-eminency.

Penaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen) A pre-eminence, or supremacy, a principal, a chieftain, a chief.

Nid gair gau, ef goreu gwron,
Hyd Gaer Llyr, a hyd Gaer Lleon,
Hyd Ystreigl Eingl, hyd Aeron yr aeth
Ei benaeth o Benmon.

It is no false word, he is the best of heroes; to Caer Llyr, and to Caer Lleon, to the English Ystreigl to Aeron has his sovereignty extended from Penmon. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Ei blant a ddeuant bob ddau,
Nythod teg o benaethau.

His children come forward two by two, a fair nestful of chieftains. Iolo Goch, i O. Glyndyfrdwy.

Penaethawg, a. (penaeth) Having sovereignty.

Penaethawl, a. (penaeth) Belonging to sovereignty; belonging to a sovereign.

Penaethiad, s. m.—pl. penaethiaid (penaeth) One who is supreme or principal, a chieftain.

Penaethu, v. a. (penaeth) To create a supremacy, to act as a chief, or a principal.

Pen aig yn penaethu.

A chief stock exercising pre-eminence. Gw. Brycheiniawg, i'r argl. Rhys.

Pènaf, a. (pen) Chiefest, most eminent.

Penafedd, s. m. (pènaf) Pre-eminence.

Penafiaeth, s. m. (pènaf) Pre-eminence.

Penafrwydd, s. m. (pènaf) Primeness, superiority

Penafu, v. a. (pènaf) To render superior.

Penag, conj. (pe—nag) If not; unless, except.

Penagored, a. (pen—agored) Open at top. Cwch penagored, an open boat; llestri penagored, vessels without decks.

Penaidd, a. (pen) Prime, superior, or excellent.

Ni bu neb; ie——
Ni bu Nudd yn beneiddiach.

There has been nobody; even Nudd was not more excellent. Guto y Glyn.

Penaig, s. m. (pen—aig) A supreme stock, a supreme, a sovereign, a chieftain.

Oedd cadarn ddraig benaig berth;
Oedd ced gynnydd, cad gannerth.

The fair chieftain was a mighty leader; he was the increase of bounty, the stay of battle. Bleddyn Fardd.

Penaeth Gwynedd ai heddyw:
Pan yd ai bwyll: pam ai da byw!

The prime stock of Gwynedd departs this day: why should reason depart; why is it good to live. Gr. ab Gwrgan, i Oronwy.

Penain, s. pl. dim. (pen) Petty chiefs or lords.

Rhaccludawdd ei gleddyf och gwain;
Rhaglym fu yn pannu penain.

He carried forward his sword out of the sheath; forwardly keen was he terrifying of puny chieftains. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Penant, s. m.—pl. penaint (pen) That is at top or over; supremacy, superiority; also a flag or gritty kind of stone used for paving.

Yn nghyfoeth Dewi difeff geraint,
A rhydid heb ofid, heb ofn amgen,
Heb ofal cynhen cylch i benaint.

In the dominion of Dewi there are friends void of scandal, and liberty without molestation, without fearing a reverse, without anxiety of a dispute about his prerogatives. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Penardd, s. f.—pl. peneirdd (pen—gardd) The point or salient angle of a bending ridge.

Penarth, s. f.—pl. peneirth (pen—garth) The jutting or trending of a mountain so as to form a cove; a cape or promontory. It is also called penardd and peniarth.

Penaur, s. m. (pen—aur) The bird called yellow-hammer. a. Gold-headed.

Penawd, s. m. (pen) A conclusion or end.

Penawg, a. (pen) Having superiority, or supremacy; headed. s. m. That is supreme; master. Gyda'ch cènad y penawg, by your leave, master.

Penawl, a. (pen) Capital, principal, supreme.

Penawr, s. m. (pen) Superior, supreme, a master; covering, guard for the head; a headpiece, a helmet, also a headstall, a muzzle.

Penbaladr, a. (pen—paladr) Especial, particular. adv. Particularly.

> Dodynt emelltith Duw, ac un y gynnulleidfa hòno, ac un Cymmru benbaladr ar y neb a dòrai y cyfreithiau hyny.
>
> They imprecated the course of God, and the one of that congregation, and the particular one of Wales, on such as should break those laws. Welsh Laws.

Penben, adv. (pen repeated) With heads together, in confusion, at loggerheads. Gyru cwn yn benben, to set dogs together to fight; ni ddylid dodi y pethau hyny yn benben, those things ought not to be put confusedly together.

Penbleth, s. m. (pen—pleth) Confusion of the head; perplexity; anxiety, distraction of mind. Pa benbleth sydd arno? What perplexity is he in?

Penblethiad, s. m. (penbleth) A distracting the head; a becoming perplexed.

Penblethu, v. a. (penbleth) To distract the head.

Penblydd, a. (pen—plydd) Soft-headed, or dull.

Penboeth, a. (pen—poeth) Hot-headed. Y benboeth, the common hemp-nettle.

Penboethni, s. m. (penboeth) Hot-headedness.

Penbwl, a. (pen—pwl) Blunt headed. s. m. A blunt head, a blockhead, the pilchard, a tadpole. Y penbwl gwirion! thou silly blockhead!

Penbwla, s. m. (penbwl) A blockhead, a dolt.

Penbyledd, s. m. (penbwl) Blockishness.

Penbyliad, s. m.—pl. penbyliaid (penbwl) That is blunt-headed, a tadpole.

Penbylu, v. a. (penbwl) To make blunt-headed.

Pencaer, s. f. (pen—caer) A metropolis.

Pencais, s. m.—pl. penceisiaid (pen—cais) A receiver general; a chief treasurer.

Pencawna, v. a. (pen—cawna) To gather the tops of ryegrass; to trifle away time seemingly about business. Gwyddau yn pencawna, geese picking the wild rye.

Penceirddiad, s. m.—pl. penceirddiaid (pencerdd) A chief of song, a chief singer.

Penceirddiadaeth, s. f. (penceirddiad) The office of a chief of song, or of a chief musician.

Penceirddiaeth, s. f. (pencerdd) The office or jurisdiction of a chief of song.

> Ni eill neb bardd erchi dim, heb genad pencerdd hyd y bo ei benceirddiaeth ef, onid bardd gorwlad fydd, canys rhydd fydd hwnw.
>
> No bard can ask for any thing, without the licence of a chief of song within the extent of his jurisdiction of song, except he should be a bard of another country, for such a one is free. Welsh Laws.

Penceirddiaidd, a. (pencerdd) Belonging to a chief of song; like a chief of song.

Penceirddiaw, v. a. (pencerdd) To render masterly in song; to compose according to the laws of song.

> Pa sawl beth a benceirddia cerdd dafawd?
>
> How many points render complete according to art the vocal song? Sim. Fychan.

Penceirddiawl, a. (pencerdd) As a chief of song.

Penceisiad, s. m.—pl. penceisiaid (pencais) A chief receiver, a tax-gatherer.

> Einion ab Gwilym ab Gwrwared ab Cubelyn Fardd a laddes chwech-ar-ugain o benceisiaid Cemais.
>
> Einion son of Gwilym son of Gwrwared son of Cubelyn the bard, slew twenty-six of the chief-collectors of Cemais. Henrsion.

Pencenedl, s. m. (pen—cenedl) The head of a family, tribe or clan; the representative of a family.

> Ni wedd yn bencenedl ond gwr a ymladdo gyd a'i gar ac a ofner; a ddyweto gyd a'i gar ac a wrandawer; a fechnio gyd a'i gar ac a gymerer.
>
> It is not meet for any to be the head of family but a man who shall fight with his relation and who shall be feared; who shall speak on the part of his relation and shall be listened to; who shall be surety with his relation and shall be accepted. Adage.

Pencenedlaeth, s. f. (pencenedl) The state or prerogative of head of a family.

> Ni ddylyir pencenedlaeth o famwys.
>
> The representation of a family ought not to be from maternity. Welsh Laws.

Pencenedlawg, a. (pencenedl) Having a family representation, as a head of a tribe.

Pencenedlawl, a. (pencenedl) Belonging to the headship of a family or tribe.

Pencerdd, s. m.—pl. penceirddion (pen—cerdd) A master of the science of song.

> Sef fydd pencerdd bardd gwedi ennillo gadair; Ni benyw y pencerdd o rif y swyddogion llys.—Y bardd teulu a gan yn ail yn y neuadd, canys y pencerdd a ddechreua.
>
> A master of song is a bard after he shall have obtained a chair; the master of song is not reckoned of the number of the officers of court.—The bard of the family shall sing the second in the hall, for the master of song shall begin. Welsh Laws.

Pencerddradd, s. f. (pencerdd—gradd) The degree of a chief or master of song.

Penci, s. m.—pl. t. on (pen—ci) The dog-fish.

Penciwdawd, s. m.—pl. penciwdodon (pen—ciwdawd) A chief or leader of a colony; a generalissimo.

Penclwm, s. m.—pl. penclymau (pen—clwm) A knob at the end of any thing; a close.

> Dawai i fod yn babydd cyhoeddus, pan dybiai efe fod pethau wedi dawed i'r fath benclwm, mal ag yr oedd yn ddiogel iddo ef ddiosg ei orchudd.
>
> He came to be a professed papist, as soon as he thought that things was come to such a conclusion, that it were safe for him to put off his mask. Ier. Owain.

Pencnaw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—cnaw) The receiving end of a joint; a joint, or articulation. Pencnawiau yr esgyrn, articulations of bones.

Pencnawiad, s. m. (pencnaw) The articulation of a joint, a jointing.

Pencnawiaw, v. a. (pencnaw) To articulate a joint, or to form a joint.

Pencnud, s. m. (pen—cnud) The chief of a skulk, the chief of a pack.

> Gnawd eryr ebyr abar gwedd bangaw;
> I bencnud wy gyfedd,
> A chigfrain cyfwyrain cigwledd,
> Cigyddion coelion celanedd.
>
> The eagle of the waters exults in spoiling the fair countenance; with the leader of wolves he revels, and with hovering ravens glutted with flesh, butchers with keen bodings for carcases. Ll. P. Moch, i R. Gryg.

Pencor, s. m. (pen—cor) The chief of a circle.

Pencun, s. m. (pen—cun) A chief leader.

Pencwd, s. m. (pen—cwd) The top of the bag.

> A fu bencwd aeth yn dincwd.
>
> That was the top of the bag is become the bottom of the bag. Adage.

Pencyfeistedd, s. m. (pen—cyfeistedd) The chief place of sitting, the principal seat of assize.

Pencynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—cynydd) The chief huntsman, the tenth officer of the court.

> Pencynydd, pedair ceiniawg cyfraith a gaiff y gan bob cynydd milgi; ac wyth ceiniawg cyfraith y gan bob cynydd gellgi, pan roddo y brenin eu swyddau iddynt.
>
> The chief huntsman, four-pence in law shall he have from every huntsman with greyhound; and eight-pence in law from every huntsman with buckhound, when the king grants to them their offices. Welsh Laws.

Pencynghor, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—cynghor) A chief of council; a chief counsellor.

Penchwareÿdd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—chwareÿdd) A principal player.
Penchwiban, a. (pen—chwiban) Light-headed.
Penchwibandawd, s. m. (penchwiban) Light-headedness; capriciousness, freakishness.
Penchwibanrwydd, s. m. (penchwiban) Light-headedness; whimsicality, capriciousness.
Penchwibanu, v. n. (penchwiban) To become light-headed, to become hair-brained.
Pendandde, s. m. (pen—tandde) A scald-head.
Pendarddiad, s. m. (pen—tarddiad) A breaking out of the head, a scabby head; also called pendandde, pengrechi, and crach drwg.
Pendawd, s. m.—pl. pendodau (pen) That is chief; that is ultimate; decision. Pendawd y ty, the principal of the house.

Tri phendawd trefn gwaith Duw er peri pob peth; dirymu y drwg, nerthu da, ac amlygu pob gwahaniaeth; mal y gwyper a ddylai oddiwrth na ddylai fod.

The three tendencies of the order of God's operation towards causing all things; extenuation of evil, increase of good, and manifestation of every diversity; so that it might be known what should and what should not be. Barddas.

Pendeddig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—teddig) A principal one, a nobleman.
Pendefig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—tefig) One of the highest rank; a grandee, a man of quality.

Neges pendefig yn rhad.

The errand of a nobleman gratis. Adage.

Trystan wyn, bendefig llu,
Car dy genedl, cred a fu,
A minnau yn benteulu.

Fair Trystan, chief leader of a host, love thy nation, overlook what has been, and me the head of the family. Ymdd. Gwalchmai a Thrystan.

Pendefigaidd, s. m. (pendefig) Like a chieftain.
Pendefigawl, a. (pendefig) Belonging to the rank of nobility.
Pendefiges, s. f.—pl. t. au (pendefig) A woman of high rank; a lady.
Pendefigiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (pendefig) A state of the highest rank or of pre-eminence.
Pendel, s. m.—pl. t. i (pen—tel) A head ornament, or chaplet.

Gwisgaw a orug Brutus, pendel o ddail y gwinwydd am ei ben.

Brutus put a chaplet of the leaves of the vine upon his head. Brut. y Breninoedd.

Pendelu, v. a. (pendel) To put on a chaplet.
Penderfyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—terfyn) A conclusion, a settled point, determination.
Penderfynawl, a. (penderfyn) Definitive.
Penderfynedd, s. m. (penderfyn) Determinateness, conclusiveness.
Penderfyniad, s. m. (penderfyn) A determining; determination, conclusion.
Penderfynrwydd, s. m. (penderfyn) Conclusiveness, determinableness.
Penderfynu, v. a. (penderfyn) To determine.
Penderfynwr, s. m.—pl. penderfynwyr (penderfyn—gwr) A determinator.
Pendew, a. (pen—tew) Thick-headed, stupid.
Pendewedd, s. m. (pendew) Thick-headedness.
Pendist, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—dist) A piazza.
Pendodaeth, s. m. (pendawd) Superiority.

Pendodaeth gwraig, digywilydd-dra merch, ac anwybodaeth mab a droant y byd wyneb i waered.

A wife's governing, a girl's shamelessness, and a boy's ignorance, will turn the world upside down. Adage.

Pendodawl, a. (pendawd) Discriminative.
Pendodi, v. a. (pendawd) To render peculiar; to become notable; to discriminate. Uchelwr pendodi, a newly created nobleman; gwr pendodi, a man become conspicuous, or an upstart

Pendodiad, s. m. (pendawd) A rendering particular; a becoming particular; discrimination. Pendodiaid teulu, chiefs of a family.
Pendogn, s. m. (pen—dogn) A major part.
Pendoll, a. (pen—toll) Having a head full of holes. Llysien bendoll, a lamprey
Pendraphen, a. (pen—tra—pen) Having head beyond head; promiscuous. adv. Confusedly.
Pendragon, s. m. (pen—dragon) A chief leader.
Pentraffollach, a. (pen—tra—ffollach) Having the head beyond the fork; having head over heels. adv. With head over heels; topsy-turvy
Pendramynwgl, a. (pen—tra—mynwgl) Having the head beyond the neck; headlong. adv. With head foremost; topsy-turvy.
Pendrawn, a. (pen—trawn) Giddy-headed.
Pendraigl, a. (pen—traigl) Having a turning of the head; giddy-headed. Dyn pendraigl ysgeler, a reprobate hair-brained person.
Pendreigliad, s. m. (pendraigl) A turning of the head, a giddiness of the head.
Pendreiglaw, v. a. (pendraigl) To turn or roll the head about.
Pendreigledd, s. m. (pendraigl) The state of being giddy-headed.
Pendrist, a. (pen—trist) Having a drooping head.
Pendristedd, s. m. (pendrist) The pensive appearance of the head, pensiveness.
Pendristwch, s. m. (pendrist) A droopingness of the head, pensiveness.
Pendro, s. f. (pen—tro) A turning of the head, giddiness of the head, a vertigo, the staggers, also called dera.
Pendröad, s. m. (pendro) A turning round of the head; a becoming giddy-headed.
Pendroch, a. (pen—troch) Having the head broken or cut, having the end cut. Sain bendroch, a sound ending brokenly.
Pendröedig, a. (pendröad) Vertiginous, giddy-headed, hair brained.
Pendröi, v. n. (pendro) To become giddy-headed.
Pendröiawg, a. (pendröi) Giddy-headed. Dyn hygoel pendroiawg, a hair-brained person.
Pendrom, a. (f. of pendrwm) Heavy-headed.
Pendromi, v. n. (pendrom) To become top-heavy.
Pendrondawd, s. m. (pendrawn) The state of being giddy-head, or hair-brained. Pendrondawd Cymmro, the whimsicality of a Welshman.
Pendronedd, s. m. (pendrawn) The state of being hair-brained; whimsicalness.
Pendroni, v. n. (pendrawn) To have strange whims in the head, to be hair-brained.
Pendroniad, s. m. (pendrawn) A rendering giddy-headed; a becoming giddy or hair-brained.
Pendrwch, a. (pen—trwch) Broken-headed; having the end broken, divided, or shattered.

——Gwnaeth pendragon pendrychion o wyr.

The supreme leader made broken-headed one's of men. Cynddelw.

Pendrwm, a. (pen—trwm) Being heavy-headed.
Pendrychawl, a. (pendrwch) Head-breaking; end-breaking, end shivering.
Pendrychiad, s. m. (pendrwch) A breaking or cutting of the head; a cutting of the end.
Pendrychu, v. a. (pendrwch) To break the head, to break, cut, or shiver the end.
Pendrymaidd, a. (pendrwm) Rather top-heavy.
Pendrymdawd, s. m. (pendrwm) Heaviness of the head, a stupified state.
Pendrymedd, s. m. (pendrwm) Heaviness of the head, a state of stupefaction.

Pendrymi, s. m. (pendrwm) Heaviness of head.
Pendrymiad, s. m. (pendrwm) A rendering top-heavy; a becoming top-heavy.
Pendrymu, v. n. (pendrwm) To become top-heavy; to drop the head; to droop.
Pendwmpian, v. n. (pen—twmpian) To be nodding the head.
Pendwpa, a. (pen—twpa) With a nodding head.
Pendwynaw, v. n. (pen—twynaw) To let the head fall different ways; to stagger.
Penddar, s. f. (pen—dar) A vertigo, a giddiness.
Penddaredd, s. m. (penddar) Giddiness of head.
Penddariad, s. m. (penddar) A rendering giddy, a distracting the head; a becoming giddy.
Penddaru, v. a. (penddar) To produce a vertigo; to distract the head; to become giddy-headed.
Penddiannod, a. (pen—diannod) Indispensable.
Penddifadawl, a. (pen—difadawl) Tending to distract the head, stupifying.
Penddifadiad, s. m. (pen—difadiad) A distracting the head, a becoming stupified.
Penddifadu, v. a. (pen—difadu) To distract the head, to be distracted, to be stupified.
Penddifadden, a. (pen—difaddeu) Indispensable.

Eithr yn benddifaddeu yr ydym ni yn clodfori dy dduwiawl Fawrydi, am ein cadw y dydd hwn yn ddiangawl.

But in a most special manner, we adore thy divine Majesty, for preserving us this day in security. R. Fychan, Y Dwwioldeb.

Penddig, a. (pen—dig) Having an inflamed head.
Penddiged, s. f. (penddig) An inflamed tumour, a phlegmon. Dail y benddiged, St. John's wort.
Penddu, a. (pen—du) Black-head. s. c. Black-head. Y benddu, the marsh cudweed: Penddu, blackcap, several birds so called; penddu y brwyn, the blackcap of the rushes.
Pendduyn, s. m. dim. (penddu) A botch, a bile.
Pendduynawg, a. (pendduyn) Covered with biles
Penelin, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—elin) The top of the elbow; the elbow.

Nes penelin nog arddwrn.

Nearer is the elbow than the wrist. Adage.

Penelinad, s. m. (penelin) An elbowing.
Penelinaw, v. a. (penelin) To push with the elbow, to elbow, to rest on the elbow.
Penelinawd, s. m. (penelin) An elbowing.
Penenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—enw) A surname.
Penenwad, s. m. (penenw) A surnaming.
Penenwawl, a. (penenw) Surnamed.
Penenwi, v. a. (penenw) To surname.
Penes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen) One that is supreme or of the highest rank of females; a lady.
Penesig, s. f. dim. (penes) A smart little lady.
Peneuraid, a. (penaur) Gold-headed. Y beneuraid, wood crowfoot.
Peneuryn, s. m. dim (penaur) The yellow-hammer
Penfadden, a. (pen—maddeu) Having the head forfeited; specially forfeited.

Tri gwystl ni ddygwydd yn benfaddeu.

Three pledges there are which shall not become specially forfeited. Welsh Laws.

Rhoddi gwystl i fod yn benfaddeu yn ammodawl.

To give a pawn which may be under condition of sale, at a specified time. Welsh Laws.

Penfain, a. (pen—main) Having a pointed head or top, copped, tapering to the top.
Penfar, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—bar) A muzzle, a muzzle to hinder a calf from sucking.
Penfas, a. (pen—bas) Shallow-pated, dull.
Penfasder, s. m. (penfas) A shallow-pated state.
Penfasedd, s. m. (penfas) A shallow-pated state.
Penfasu, v. n. (penfas) To become shallow-pated

Penfawr, a. (pen—mawr) Large-headed.
Penfeddal, a. (pen—meddal) Soft-headed; dull.
Penfeddw, a. (pen—meddw) Giddy-headed.
Penfeddwdawd, s. m. (penfeddw) Giddiness of the head, a swimming of the head.
Penfeddwi, v. n. (penfeddw) To become giddy-headed, moidered, or crazed.
Penfeiniaw, v. a. (penfain) To acuminate.
Penfelen, a. (f. of penfelyn) Yellow headed. Y benfelen or greulus, the groundsel.
Penfelyn, a. (pen—melyn) Yellow-headed.
Penfoel, a. (pen—moel) Bare-headed, bald.
Penfoelaidd, a. (penfoel) Bare-headed.
Penfoeldra, s. m. (penfoel) Bare-headed state.
Penfoeledd, s. m. (penfoel) A bare-headed state.
Penfoell, v. a. (penfoel) To make bare-headed.
Penfoelni, s. m. (penfoel) A bare-headed state.
Penfrag, s. m. (pen—brag) A swimming in the head, also called penddar, and pendro.
Penfras, a. (pen—bras) Large-headed, thick-headed, fat-headed. Y penfras, the cod-fish.
Penfrasedd, s. m. (penfras) A thick-headed state.
Penfro, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (pen—bro) A head-land region; also the name of Pembrokeshire.
Penffestin, s. f.—pl. t. ion (pen—ffestin) A helmet.

Taraw Arthur yn ei dâl a wnai Ffrollo, a phei na rybylai y cleddyf ar fodrwyau y penffestin.

Strike Arthur on his forehead was what Frollo did, so that the sword was blunted on the rings of his helmet. Gr. ab Arthur.

Penffestiniaw, v. a. (penffestin) To helmet.
Penffestiniawg, a. (penffestin) Wearing a helmet.
Penffestr, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—ffestr) A head-stall; a collar.
Penffetur, a. (pen—ffetur) Headstrong, obstinate
Penffeturedd, s. m. (penffetur) Peremptoriness.
Penffetus, a. (pen—ffetus) Head-strong.
Penffluwch, a. (pen—ffluwch) Bushy-headed.
Penffluwchedd, s. (penffluwch) Bushiness of head.
Penffol, a. (pen—ffol) Silly-headed, block-headed.
Penffoledd, s. m. (penffol) Blockishness, stupidity
Penffrwyn, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen—ffrwyn) A head-stall; a muzzle.
Penffrwynaw, v. a. (penffrwyn) To muzzle.
Pengadarn, a. (pen—cadarn) Strong-headed.

Pengadarn yw barn pob diwybod.

Obstinate is the opinion of every ignoramus. Adage.

Pengaead, a. (pen—cead) Close-headed.
Pengaled, a. (pen—caled) Having a hard head; headstrong. Y bengaled, the knapweed; also called clafrllys, cramenog, and penlas.
Pengaledrwydd, s. m. (pen—caled) Obstinacy.
Pengaledu, v. n. (pengaled) To become hard-headed; to grow obstinate or headstrong.
Pengam, a. (pen—cam) Wry-headed.
Pengamedd, s. m. (pengam) The state of having the head awry; perverseness.
Pengamiad, s. m. (pengam) A turning the head awry, a bending the head.
Pengamleddf, a. (pengam—lleddf) Having the head, or end, turning aside.
Pengamrwydd, s. m. (pengam) Wryness of the head, the state of having the head turning aside.
Pengamu, v. a. (pengam) To turn the head awry, to bend down the head; to nod.
Pengamwr, s. m.—pl. pengamwyr (pengam—gwr) A nodder, one who bends the head.
Pengarn, a. (pen—carn) The hard part of the head of some animals; a beak.
Pengemi, s. m. (pengam) Wryness of the head.
Pengernyn, s. m. dim. (pengarn) A gurnard, also called penheiernyn and penhaiarn.

Penglo, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—clo) A close; a stop at the end, a conclusion.

Penglöad, s. m. (penglo) A closing up the end.

Penglog, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen—clog) A skull, a noddle; a thickhead, a blockhead.

> Deuparth clod yn mhenglog.
>
> Two parts of fame in the skull. Adage.

Penglogaidd, a. (penglog) Blockheaded.

Penglogedd, s. m. (penglog) Blockishness.

Penglogeiddrwydd, s. m. (penglog) Blockishness.

Pengloges, s. f.—pl. t. au (penglog) A blockheaded female.

Penglogfa, s. f. (penglog) A golgotha.

Penglogi, v. n. (penglog) To grow blockheaded.

Penglogyn, s. m. dim. (penglog) A numskull.

Penglöi, v. a. (penglo) To close the end, to close.

Penglwm, s. m.—pl. penglymau (pen—clwm) A knot at the end.

Pengoch, a. (pen--coch) Red-headed. Y bengoch, the knotgrass; also called y benboeth, y dinboeth, and elinog goch.

Pengochedd, s. m. (pengoch) Redness of the head.

Pengochi, v. n. (pengoch) To grow red-headed.

Pengoll, a. (pen—coll) Having the head lost, having the end lost or hidden.

Pengollawl, a. (pengoll). Having the termination lost; a term in grammar.

> Unawdl union y byddo ei gyrch yn bengollawl.
>
> The unirythm direct that has its recurrency with a lost termination. Gr. Robert, Dwned.

Pengolli, v. n. (pengoll) To lose the termination.

Pengrach, a. (pen—crach) Scabby-headed.

Pengrachedd, s. m. (pengrach) Scabbiness of the head.

Pengrech, a. (f. of pengrych) Curly-headed; having the end rough.

Pengrechi, s. m. (pengrach) Scabbiness of head.

Pengrechleddf, a. (pengrech—lleddf) Soft with rough termination; a term in grammar.

Pengrechni, s. m. (pengrach) Scabbiness of the head, the state of having a scald head.

Pengrest, a. (pen—crest) Scurfy-headed.

Pengroes, a. (pen—croes) Having a cross head, having the end crossed.

Pengroesi, v. a. (pengroes) To cross the head.

Pengroesni, s. m. (pengroes) The state of having the head, or end, crossed.

Pengron, a. (f. of pengrwn) Round-headed.

Pengrwn, a. (pen—crwn) Round-headed.

Pengrych, a. (pen—crych) Rough-headed; curly-headed; frizzle-headed; having rough or curly ends.

> Telamon, gwr grymus oedd, ag ymadrawdd eglur ganthaw, a gwallt du pengrych ar ei ben: a dywal a chreulawn oedd wrth ei elynion.
>
> Telamon was an athletic man, he had a clear pronunciation, and he had black hair with curled ends on his head; and fierce and cruel was he to his enemies. Ystori Dared.

Pengrychedd, s. m. (pengrych) Curly-headedness.

Pengrychiad, s. m. (pengrych) A becoming curly-headed, or frizzle-headed.

Pengrychni, s. m. (pengrych) Curly-headedness.

Pengrychu, v. a. (pengrych) To render rough-headed or curly-headed.

Pengrynawg, a. (pengrwn) Round-headed.

Pengrynedd, s. m. (pengrwn) Roundness of head.

Pengrynen, s. f. dim. (pengrwn) A round-head.

Pengryniad, s. m.—pl. pengryniaid (pengrwn) A round-head.

Pengrynu, v. a. (pengrwn) To grow round-headed; to grow to a head, as a cabbage.

Pengrynyn, s. m. dim. (pengrwn) A round-head.

Penguwch, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—cuwch) The fore part or poke of any head covering, a bonnet, a cap; also the capping or the work that joins the two pieces of a flail together.

> Penguwch melyn a wisgai merch newydd-weddawg.
>
> A yellow bonnet used to be worn by a woman newly married. Hen Ddefodau.
>
> Penguwch, ceiniawg a dal.
>
> A bonnet, its value is a penny. Welsh Laws.

Pengwaith, s. m. (pen—gwaith) A chief work.

Pengwas, s. m.—pl. pengweision (pen—gwas) A head servant.

Pengwastrawd, s. m.—pl. pengwastrodion (pen—gwastrawd) A head groom, being the sixth officer in the prince's household.

> Y pengwastrawd a gaiff groen ych y gauaf, a chroen ych yr haf, i wneuthur cebystrau i feirch y brenin.
>
> The head groom shall have the skin of an ox in winter and the skin of an ox in summer, to make halters for the horses of the king. Welsh Laws.

Pengweithiwr, s. m.—pl. pengweithwyr (pen-gwaith—gwr) A head workman.

Pengwleddwr, s. m.—pl. pengwleddwyr (pen—gwleddwr) One who is chief in the carousal.

Pengyrnig, a. (pen—cyrnig) Having the head pointed or tapering. Bun pengyrnig, a maid with a tapering crown.

Penhaiarn, s. m.—pl. t. od (pen—haiarn) The gurnard; also called pengernyn, and penheiernyn. Penhaiarn coch, the red gurnard; also called ysgyfarnog y mor.

Penhebogydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—hebogydd) The chief falconer; being the fourth officer of the royal household.

> Penhebogydd a ddyly draian dirwy yr hebogyddion, ac amobrwy eu merched.
>
> The head falconer shall claim the third of the fine of the falconers, and the maiden fee of their daughters. Welsh Laws.

Penhebogyddiaeth, s. m. (penhebogydd) The office of the chief falconer.

Penheiernyn, s. m. dim. (penhaiarn) A gurnard.

Penhoeden, a. (pen—hoeden) Giddy-headed.

Penhwntian, v. n. (pen—hwntian) To have the head ready to fall; to be tottering.

Penhwntiawl, a. (pen—hwntiawl) Top-heavy.

Penhwyad, s. m. (pen--hwyad) The pike, or jack.

Penhwyliar, s. m. (pen—hwyliar) A main mast.

Penhynaif, s. m.—pl. penhyneifion (pen—hynaif) A chief of the elders; a title given to the tributary princes of the first rank, who did homage to the monarch.

> Caradawg Freichfras penhynaif yn Nghernyw, ac Arthur yn benteyrnedd.
>
> Caradog with the brawny arm chief of elders in Cornwall, and Arthur the supreme prince. Trioedd.

Peniadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (peniad) That is the head; a principal.

> Penial beirdd llawr ceinwawr ced;
> Peniadur dewr-fur Dyfed.
>
> The sovereign of the bards of the floor gloriously shining with treasure; the crown-work of the gay rampart of Dyfed. Prydydd Bychan, i Cynan ab Hywel.

Penial, s. m. (pen) A capital, a helmet.

> Dafydd yw——
> Penial cerdd, dyfal dafawd.
>
> Davydd is the chief of song, of persevering tongue. Mad. Benfras.
>
> Gnawd edyn adnabod bore;
> Gnawd am ban benial ystre.
>
> Congenial for the birds to recognise the morn: congenial round the bowl the chief of the mansion. Gwalchmai.
>
> Ni symudawdd Peredur ei feddwl er gweled y penial a oedd am ben Cai.
>
> Peredur did not change his mind for seeing the helmet that was on the head of Cai. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Penialawg, a. (penial) Having a capital or chief; wearing a head-piece or helmet.
Penialu, v. a. (penial) To surmount with a capital; to put on a head-piece.
Peniannawl, a. (peniant) Being a capitation.
Peniannu, v. a. (peniant) To make a capitation.
Peniant, s. m. (pen) A capitation, a heading.
Penig, s. f. dim. (pen) A little head; a nipple.
Penigamp, a. (pen—camp) Masterly, chief of the art. Saer penigamp, a masterly wright.
Penigan, s. f.—pl. t. i (penig) A pink. Penigan ruddgoch, clove pink.
Penlas, a. (pen—glas) Blue-headed. Y benlas, field scabious; also called pengaled. Varieties: Penlas yr yd, and penlas wen, corn blue-bottle.
Penlasu, v. n. (penlas) To become blue-headed.
Penlesni, s. m. (penlas) Blueness of the head.
Penlin, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—glin) The head of the knee; the knee.
Penliniad, s. m. (penlin) A kneeling.
Penliniaw, v. a. (penlin) To fall on the knees, to kneel. s. m. The act of kneeling.

Deual un yn rhedeg, ac a benliniai iddo, ac a fynegai iddo; Athraw, pa beth a wnaf i gael meddiantu bywyd tragyfythawl!

One came running, and he kneeled to him, and spoke to him thus; Master, what shall I do to obtain life everlasting. W. Salisbury.

Maent hwy yn cymeryd mwy o hoffder mewn penlino, gweddio, ac ymprydio, nog ydi y bydolion yn na y byd hwn.

They are taking more delight in kneeling, praying, and fasting, than the worldlings do in the things of this world. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Penliniwr, s. m. (penlin—gwr) A kneeler.
Penlöyn, s. m. dim. (pen—glöyn) The blackcap; the titmouse. Varieties: Penlöyn mwyaf, y winc, the chaffinch; pela glas bach, the ox-eye; y lleian, gwas y dryw, yswidw, sywidw, the titmouse.

Gwell penlöyn yn llaw no hwyad yn awyr.

A titmouse in hand is better than a duck in the air; A bird in hand is worth two in the bush. Adage.

Penllad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—llad) A chief good, the highest blessing. Rhad penllad, the grace or gift over measure.
Penlle, s. m. (penlle) Where the head should be; a head stead; a numskull.
Penllian, s. m.—pl. penllieiniau (pen—llian) A head-cloth.

Penllian, wyth geiniawg a dal.

A head-cloth, eight-pence is its value. Welsh Laws.

Penllinyn, s. m. (pen—llinyn) A head-band.
Penllorcan, s. m. (pen—llorcan) A jolt-head.
Penlluestai, s. c. (pen—lluestai) The chief arranger of tents; a quartermaster-general.
Penllwyd, a. (pen—llwyd) Hoary-headed, grey-headed. s. m.—pl. t. ion. The grayling; the sewin. Y benllwyd, common cudweed.
Penllwydaw, v. n. (penllwyd) To become grey-headed or hoary-headed.
Penllwydedd, s. m. (penllwyd) Greyness of the head, grey-headedness.
Penllwydeg, s. f. (penllwyd) A net for catching graylings, young salmon so called.

Penllwydeg, neu rwyd penllwydiaid, deuddeg ceiniawg a dal.

A grayling net, or a net for graylings, twelve pence is its value. Welsh Laws.

Penllwydi, s. m. (penllwyd) Greyness of head.
Penllwydiad, s. m.—pl. penllwydiaid (penllwyd) The grayling or sewin.
Penllwydni, s. m. (penllwyd) Hoariness or greyness of the head.
Penllyw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pen—llyw) The head-leader; a term in building for the stone next to, or which secures, the corner stone.
Penllywawdr, s. m.—pl. penllywodron (penllyw) A chief director or governor.
Penllywodraeth, s. m. (penllywawdr) Supreme government or direction.
Penllywodraethwr, s. m.—pl. penllywodraethwyr (penllywodraeth—gwr) A chief governor.
Penllywodraethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (penllywodraeth) A governor general.
Penllywydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—llywydd) A sovereign lord.
Penllywyddiaeth, s. m. (penllywydd) Supreme dominion; sovereignty.
Pennill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—dill) A prime division or part; a complete division; wattle; a pannel, a stall, a pane, a stanza, or strophe, an epigram.

Gwell car cell no char pennill.

Better the chamber friend than the song friend. Adage.

Penaill yw nifer o freichiau, o'r un neu fwy o'r cyhydeddion, trwy gadw cymhariad, cynghanedd, gair cyrch, gair toddaid, a chyforhriad, ar yr un caniad.

A stanza is a number of verses, of one or more of the metricities, where the common initial, concatenation, word of modulation, and parallel, are preserved on the same rhythm. W. Middleton.

Pennilliach, s. pl. dim. (pennill) Trifling verses.
Pennilliad, s. m. (pennill) A forming a stanza.
Pennilliaw, v. a. (pennill) To form a stanza.

Cadwynawdl—modd gorchestawl iawn a fydd hwn ar odli a phennilliaw.

The catenated rhyme, this is a very masterly mode of rhyming and of forming of stanzas. Barddas.

Pennilliawg, a. (pennill) Consisting of stanzas.

Mewn cerdd bennilliawg, caner bob pennill o'r gerdd yn gyfnifer banau.

In a composition divided into stanzas, let every stanza be formed of the same number of verses. Barddas.

Pennod, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen—nod) A concluding mark; a complete period; a chapter.
Pennodawl, a. (pennod) Belonging to a chapter.
Pennodi, v. a. (pennod) To mark the end or conclusion; to divide into chapters.
Pennoeth, s. m. (pen—noeth) A bare head. a. Bare-headed.
Pennoethi, v. a. (pennoeth) To make bare-headed; to uncover the head.
Pennoethiad, s. m. (pennoeth) A making bare-headed; the act of uncovering the head.
Penodawl, a. (penawd) Particular, definitive, especial. Yn benodawl, especially.
Penodedig, a. (penawd) Defined, or specified.
Penodi, v. a. (penawd) To particularize, to specify; to constitute, to appoint, to assign.
Penodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (penawd) A particularizing, or specifying; a specification, assignation, allotment.
Penodiaeth, s. m. (penawd) Specification.
Penodoldeb, s. m. (penodawl) Definitiveness, particularity, speciality.
Penodolder, s. m. (penodawl) Specialness.
Penodoledd, s. m. (penodawl) Specialness.
Penodoli, v. a. (penodawl) To render definitive.
Penodolrwydd, s. m. (penodawl) Specialness.
Penodrwydd, s. m. (penawd) Particularity.
Penodwr, s. m.—pl. penodwyr (penawd—gwr) A specifier; one who assigns.
Penodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (penawd) A specifier.
Penon, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen) A pennant.
Penorawg, a. (penawr) Wearing a helmet.

Penorawl, a. (penawr) Principal, supreme.

> Tri bancewyddion teyrnedd Ynys Prydain: Prydain ab Aedd Mawr, Dyfnwal Moelmud, a Bran ab Llyr Lledieith; sef goreu trefn eu trefn hwy ar deyrnedd Ynys Prydain, hyd onis bernid hwy yn benorawl ar bob trefnau ereill.
>
> The three consolidators of the monarchy of the Isle of Britain: Prydain son of Aedd the Great, Dyfnwal Moelmud, and Bran son of Llyr Lledieith; For the best regulation was their regulation of the monarchy of the Isle of Britain, so that they were deemed superior over every other regulation. Trioedd.

Penori, v. a. (penawr) To render supreme or principal; to put on a helmet.

Penoriad, s. m. (penawr) A rendering supreme; a wearing a helmet; a putting on a helmet.

Penpingion, s. m. (pen—pine) Branchy head; the name of a droll character in ancient tales. Penpingion, enw un o borthorion Arthur, Penpingion, one of Arthur's door-keepers.

> Penpingion a ymdda ar ei ben er arbed ei draed.
>
> Penpingion would go upon his head to save his feet. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Penpryd, s. m. (pen—pryd) A visage.

Penre, s. f. (pen—rhe) A hair lace, a fillet.

Penrhaith, s. m.—pl. penrheithiau (pen—rhaith) The chief of the law; that has supreme right; a supreme claimant; a principal evidence. Brenin penrhaith Ynys Prydain, the king of supreme authority of the Isle of Britain.

> Drwg y lliw y llaw oedd benrhaith ei luoedd.
>
> Bad is the colour of the hand that was the supreme law of his armies. D. ab Llywarch Mew.
>
> Meibion Brychan Brycheiniawg a aethynt yn benrheithiau yn Yspaen.
>
> The sons of Brychan Brycheiniawg became as chiefs of jurisprudence in Spain. Llyfr Achau.

Penrheithiant, s. m. (penrhaith) Supreme jurisdiction; sovereignty of law.

Penrheithiaw, v. a. (penrhaith) To constitute supreme jurisdiction.

Penrheithiawg, a. (penrhaith) Having supreme jurisdiction or loyal supremacy.

Penrudd, a. (pen—rhudd) Ruddy headed. Y benrudd, the common marjoram.

Penrwym, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—rhwym) A head-band, a hair-lace, or fillet, also called penre, ffunen, and ysnoden.

Penrwymaw, v. a. (penrwym) To bind the head.

> Na phenrwyma yr ych a fo yn dyfndo yr yd.
>
> Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that shall be carrying the corn. W. Salisbury.

Penrwymiad, s. m. (penrwym) Binding the head

Penrwymyn, s. m. dim. (penrwym) A head-band

Penrydd, a. (pen—rhydd) Loose headed; dissolute; having loose ending. Geiriau penryddion, unconnected words; can henrydd, blank verse.

Penryn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pen—rhyn) End of a point, a promontory, cape, or head-land. It forms the names of several places; as Penryn Blathâon, Cathness, Penryn Rhionydd, the point of Galloway, in Scotland; Penryn Penwyth, Land's End, in Cornwall.

Penrynawg, a. (penryn) Forming a headland.

Penrynu, v. n. (penryn) To form a headland.

Pensach, s. f. (pen—sach) The mumps.

Pensaer, s. m.—pl. penseiri (pen—saer) A chief architect, a chief wright.

Pensaernïaeth, s. m. (pensaer) Architecture.

Pensaernïaidd, a. (pensaer) Architective.

Pensag, s. m. (pen—sag) The hop-plant; hops.

Pensedd, s. f. (pen—sedd) A supreme seat.

> Mair, ddeddfawl ddwywawl, ddiwael bensedd.
>
> Mary, moral and divine, whose throne is without frailty. Dafydd Ddu, Hiraddug.

Pensel, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—sel) A supreme object; a grand standard.

> Goreu arwydd gan Wyddyl
> Melyn a choch yn mlaen chwyl;
> Urdda bensel Llywelyn;
> Arddel hwy a'r ddeuliw hyn.
>
> The choicest token with the Irish are yellow and red in the front of onset; do thou consecrate the supreme standard of Llywelyn; do thou lead them on with these two colours. Iolo Goch, i O. Glyndyfrdwy.

Penselliaeth, s. m. (pensel) The office of bearing the grand standard.

Pensigl, a. (pen—sigl) Having a shake of head.

Pensiglad, s. m. (pensigl) A shaking of the head

Pensiglaw, v. a. (pensigl) To shake the head.

> Caseion—
> A'm dirmygant, tan drai tro,
> A than bensiglo ataf.
>
> Enemies treat me with contempt, in passing by, and with wagging their heads at me. Edm. Prys.

Pensiglwr, s. m.—pl. pensiglwyr (pensigl—gwr) A wagger or shaker of the head.

Penswydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (pen—swydd) A chief or principal office.

Penswyddawg, s. m.—pl. penswyddogion (pen-swydd) A chief of office, a chief officer.

Penswyddwr, s. m.—pl. penswyddwyr (penswydd—gwr) A chief officer.

Pensyfrdan, a. (pen—syfrdan) A giddiness.

Pensyfrdandawd, s. m. (pensyfrdan) Distraction

Pensyfrdaniad, s. m. (pensyfrdan) A distracting the head; a becoming giddy-headed.

Pensyfrdanu, v. a. (pensyfrdan) To distract the head; to become stupified.

Pentan, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—tan) A fire back, a fire side; a chimney corner. Cadw gwyl bentan, gwyliaw gwyl bentan, to sit up all night

Pentanfaen, s. m. (pentan—maen) The stone that forms the fire-back.

Penteulu, s. m. (pen—teulu) The chief of the family, the president of the household, the patron of the family.

> Y penteulu a ddyly fod yn fab i'r brenin, neu yn nai, neu yn frawd, neu yn gyfuwch gwr ag y galler penteulu o hono.
>
> The president of the household should be a son of the king, or a nephew, or a brother, or a man of so high a rank as he may be made a president of the household. Welsh Laws.

Penteuluaeth, s. m. (penteulu) The office of a president, or patron of the household.

Pentewyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—tewyn) A firebrand.

> Gwae y cynhennus mewn gwlad!
> Pentewynion uffern ydynt.
>
> Woe to the contentious in a country! They are the firebrands of hell. Mor. Llwyd.

Penteyrnedd, s. m. (pen—teyrnedd) The supreme of princes; a sovereign.

> Arthur yn benteyrnedd yn Mhenryn Rhionydd yn y Gogledd, Cyndeyrn Garthwys yn benesgyb, a Gwrthmwl Wledig yn benhynaif.
>
> Arthur a supreme of princes at the promontory of Rhionydd in the north, and Cyndeyrn Garthwys archbishop, and Gwrthmwl Wledig chief of elders. Trioedd.

Pentir, s. m.—pl. t. edd (pen—tir) A headland, or promontory; also a term used in Mon for a land steward. Pentir Ceinion, Cape Clear, in Ireland.

Pentref, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (pen—tref) The head of a township, a village, or hamlet; also the outskirt or suburb of a city.

Pentrefaeth, s. f. (pentref) A villagery.

Pentrefaidd, a. (pentref) Villatic, village.

Pentrefawg, a. (pentref) Having a village.

Pentrefawl, a. (pentref) Belonging to a village.

Pentrefwr, s. m. (pentref—gwr) A villager.

Pentreisiad, s. m. (pen—treisiad) A supreme oppressor or tyrant.

Pentreisiwr, s. m.—pl. pentreiswyr (pen—treisiwr) A supreme tyrant or oppressor.

Pentrethwr, s. m.—pl. pentrethwyr (pen—trethwr) A chief tax-man or receiver of taxes.

Pentwr, s. m.—pl. pentyrau (pen—twr) A raised heap or pile.

Pentwynaw, v. a. (pen—twynaw) To drop the head in different directions.

Pentwynawl, a. (pen—twynawl) Head-nodding.

Pentwyniad, s. m. (pen—twyniad) A nodding.

Penty, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—ty) A building added to the main house; penthouse, a shed: also the head house.

Pa'nd da yw'r ty yma ym!
Pa'nd hwn yw'r penty einym!

Why is not this house good for me! Is not this the first house for us! L. G. Cothi.

Pentyrawg, a. (pentwr) Having a heap or pile.

Pentyrawl, a. (pentwr) Accumulative.

Pentyredig, a. (pentwr) Accumulated, heaped.

Pentyredd, s. m. (pentwr) A heaped state.

Pentyriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pentwr) Accumulation.

Pentyru, v. a. (pentwr) To heap up, to accumulate; to amass.

Y cnwd a bentyrir yr amser hwnw, ac a osodir i gadw erbyn amser i ddawed, a'r pryd y bydd raid wrtho.

The produce will be accumulated in that time, and will be put to be kept against the time to come, and the season when there will be a necessity for it. Ier. Owain.

Pentyrwr, s. m. (pentwr—gwr) A heaper.

Pentywysawg, s. m.—pl. pentywysogion (pen—tywysawg) A supreme prince.

Pentywysogaeth, s. f. (pentywysawg) A supreme principality.

Penu, v. a. (pen) To render chief or principal; to become chief, to surpass, also to specify, to fix, to apppint.

Tri chyflawnder gwynfyd: cyfran yn mhob ansawdd ac un cyflawn yn penu; cyfymddwyn a phob awen, ac yn un rhagori; cariad at bob byw a bod, a thuagat un, sef Duw, yn benaf; ac yn y tri un yma y saif cyflawnder nef a gwynfyd.

The three plenitudes of the intellectual world: participation in every nature, with a plenary one predominating; conformity with every cast of genius, and in one excelling; love towards every life and existence, and towards one, that is God, more especially; and in these three ones consist the plenitude of heaven and felicity. Barddas.

Penuchaf, s. m. (pen—uchaf) An upper end.

Penuchawg, a. (pen—uchawg) Being pre-eminent

Tri chlau eu parau, fal Peryddon:
Tri chloyn penyn, penuchogion;
Tri chlo ar eu bro rhag bradogion.

Three with persevering spears, like Peryddon; three keystones of a capital, superior ones; three safe-guards over their country against depredators. D. Benfras.

Penwag, a. (pen—gwag) Empty-headed. s. m. —pl. penweig. A herring; also called ysgadan. Penweig mair, pilchards.

Penwan, a. (pen—gwan) Weak-headed. Dyntonos penweinion, weak-headed mortals.

Penwander, s. m. (penwan) Weakness of head.

Penwar, s. m.—pl. t. au (pen—gwar) A head-stall; a muzzle; a barnacle, in farriery.

Pwn ar en, fal penwar yw.

A load on a chin, like a muzzle it seems.
Iolo Goch, i'w farf.

Penwen, a. (f. of penwyn) White-headed.

Penwendid, s. m. (penwan) Weakness of the head, brain-sickness, infatuation.

Penwg, s. m. (pen) That is superior, that is special or peculiar.

Penwisg, s. f. (pen—gwisg) A head-dress.

Penwisgiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (penwisg) The dressing of the head; a head-dress.

Penwn, s. m.—pl. penynau (pen—wn) A banner.

Penwyn, a. (pen—gwŷn) White-headed. Y penwyn, y bod penwyn, the bald buzzard.

Penwŷnder, s. m. (penwyn) Whiteness of head.

Penwŷnedd, s. m. (penwyn) Whiteness of head.

Penwŷni, s. m. (penwyn) Whiteness of head.

Penwynu, v. (penwyn) To grow white-headed.

Penŵyr, a. (pen—gŵyr) Having the head inclined, wry-headed.

Penŵyraw, v. a. (penŵyr) To incline the head.

Penŵyredd, s. m. (penŵyr) Inclination of head.

Penyd, s. m. (pan) Atonement, penance.

Penydiad, s. m. (penyd) A doing penance.

Penydiaw, v. a. (penyd) To atone, to do penance.

Penydiawl, a. (penyd) Atoning, expiatory.

Penydiwr, s. m.—pl. penydwyr (penyd—gwr) An atoner; one who performs penance.

Penydu, v. a. (penyd) To atone, to do penance.

Cyd elwynt i lànau i benydu.
Dadl dius angau i eu treuddu.

Whilst they went to churches to do penance, the certain stroke of death pervaded them. Aneurin.

Penydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pan) An atonement.

Penyddawl, a. (penydd) Atoning, expiating.

Gwaith gwynfydig dwyn——
Daiar a nef cyn poen oddef cun penyddawl.

A blessed work, to bear off earth and heaven before suffering of punishment, thou atoning prince. Rhisierdyn.

Penygawl, a. (penwg) Discriminative.

Penygen, s. f. dim. (paneg) The region of the entrails, the paunch.

Nid llawnach yr enaid, er llenwi y benygen.

The soul is not the more satisfied, though the paunch be filled. Catwg.

Penygu, v. a. (penwg) To render supreme, peculiar, or notable; to discriminate.

Penygal glod penigamp,
Pennod, a chwympod, a champ.

He would discriminate superlative praise, in design, compass, and execution. Gr. Gryg, i D. ab Gwilym.

Penyn, s. m. dim. (pen) A capital of a pillar.

Penynad, s. m.—pl. t. on (pen—ynad) A chief judge, a chief justice.

Penynadaeth, s. m. (penynad) Chief justiceship.

Penysgafn, a. (pen—ysgafn) Light-headed.

Penysgafnder, s. m. (penysgafn) Light-headedness, giddiness of the head.

Penystafellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pen—ystafellydd) High chamberlain.

Pepra, v. a. (pebr) To be chattering.

Pepraeth, s. m. (pebr) Chattering, babbling.

Pepriad, s. m. (pebr) A chattering, a chatting.

Pepru, v. a. (pebr) To prate to chat, to babble.

Peprwn, s. m. (pebr) Chattering, babbling.

Er pan fu Elphin yn nghywrysedd
Maelgwn, neus portes peprwn pell dyfrydedd!

Ever since Elphin has been in the dispute of Maelgwn, has not babbling brought extensive woe! Ph. Brydydd.

Pepryn, s. m. (pebr) A chatter-box, a chatterer.

Per, s. f.—pl. t. au (py—er) That pervades, that involves, that is involved; a spit; also sweet fruit; pears, pear-trees. Cig ar y ber, meat on the spit.

Per goreu gormes
Yn mhlymnwyd maes.

Pear-trees the best of intruders in the conflict of the plain.
Taliesin, Cad Goddau.

Per, a. (py—er) Delicious, sweet. Afalau perion, ac afalau surion, cultivated apples, and sour apples; eirinen ber, a sweet plumb; llais per, a sweet voice.

Perhad, s. m. (perâu) A rendering sweet or savory, a becoming sweet or delicious.

Peraidd, a. (per) Somewhat delicious, sweetish, sweet, pleasant.

Perain, s. pl. aggr. (per) Pears; also called gellaig, ellaig, rhwnyn, and peranau.

Un fias, neu yn felysach
A'r perais wyd o'r preu iach.

Of the same savour, or more delicious than the pears, art thou, from the luxuriant tree. S. Ceri.

Peran, s. c. dim.—pl. t. au (per) A pear.

Peranen, s. f. dim. (peran) A single pear.

Perarogl, s. m.—pl. t. au (per—arogl) A perfume, or aromatic.

Peraroglai, s. c.—pl. perarogleion (perarogl) A perfumer, a dealer in sweet scents.

Peraroglaidd, a. (perarogl) Odoriferous.

Perarogledig, a. (perarogl) Perfumed.

Perarogledd, s. m. (perarogl) Perfumery, odoriferousness, fragrancy.

Perarogli, v. a. (perarogl) To perfume.

Peraroglisd, s. m. (perarogl) A perfuming.

Perarogliant, s. m. (perarogl) Fragrancy.

Peraroglus, a. (perarogl) Odorous, fragrant.

Peraroglusaw, v. a. (peraroglus) To render odoriferous or aromatic; to become odoriferous.

Peraroglwr, s. m.—pl. peraroglwyr (perarogl—gwr) A perfumer, a dealer in aromatics.

Peraroglydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (perarogl) A perfumer, a dealer in aromatics.

Perarwynt, s. m. (per—arwynt) A perfume.

Perâu, v. a. (per) To render sweet, to become sweet, delicious, or fragrant.

Perawr, s. m.—pl. perorion (per) A musician.

Perbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (per—pren) A pear-tree.

Perc, s. m. (per) That is close, compact, or trim; a compact spot; a perch.

Yn isel barsel dan berc.

Being a low mark under a perch. I. ab R. ab Ieuan Llwyd.

Perc, a. (per) Compact, trim, neat, perk.

Percaidd, a. (perc) Tending to involve, wrap, or make compact.

Percawl, a. (perc) Involving, wrapping; tending to be compact or trim; perching.

Perced, s. f. —pl. t. au (perc) That encloses or wraps; a bow net; a wrapper.

Piliu rhag dryghin a drig;
Perced ddeuled Wyddelig.

A covering against the angry storm; an Irish wrapper of two breadths. D. Ll. ab Ll. ab Gryffudd, i fantell.

Percediad, s. m. (perched) A closing, a wrapping.

Percedu, v. a. (perced) To involve, to close.

Percell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (perc) A place that is compact or safe; a store place, a magazine.

Hwnw——a wnaeth bercell o Ddinas Basing.

That one made a store place of Basingwerk. I. Brooks o Fawddwy, Ll. Achau.

Perceta, v. a. (perced) To amass; to gain.

Percetwr, s. m.—pl. percetwyr (perced—gwr) One who makes compact or shuts in; one who heaps together.

Perciad, s. m. (perc) A rendering compact, close, neat, or trim.

Percin, a. (perc) Tending to involve, make compact, neat, tidy, or trim, a trimming.

Percini, s. m. (percin) The mesentery.

Percu, v. a. (perc) To trim, to make smart.

Percus, a. (perc) Tidy, smart, trim, perk.

Percusaw, v. a. (percus) To render tidy, trim, or smart; to become smart, or perk.

Percusedd, s. m. (percus) Trimness, smartness.

Percusrwydd, s. m. (percus) Smartness, neatness.

Perchen, s. c.—pl t. oedd (parch) A possessor, owner, or proprietor.

Call mi bias, anghall bum berchen.

Cunning is I own, simple is I was a possessor. Adage.

Adnea gan berchen.

To pawn with the owner. Adage.

Perchenawg, a. (perchen) Having possession. s. m.—pl. perchenogion. A possessor, an owner.

Perchenawg y tir y lladder arno a ddylu ddeg a deugaint i gan y neb a'i lladdo.

The proprietor of the land whereon any thing shall be cut off shall claim fifty pence from whosoever shall cut it. Welsh Laws.

Perchenawl, a. (perchen) Possessory, possessive.

Perchenogaeth, s. m. (perchenawg) Ownership.

Tri rhyw berchenogaeth y sydd ar dir, herwydd cyfraith: un yw estyn heb oresgyn; ail yw goresgyn heb estyn, trydyw yw goresgyn ag estyn.

There are three sorts of possessions of land, according to law: one is extent without occupation; the second is occupation without extent; the third is occupation with extent. Welsh Laws.

Perchenogaethawl, a. (perchenogaeth) Belonging to ownership, possessory.

Perchenogaethiad, s. m. (perchenogaeth) A making a possession; a giving possession.

Perchenogaethu, v. a. (perchenogaeth) A making out a possession; a giving possession.

Perchenogawl, a. (perchenawg) Possessive.

Perchenogi, v. n. (perchenawg) To be possessed of, to possess, to own.

Perchenogwr, s. m.—pl. perchenogwyr (perchenawg—gwr) A possessioner.

Perchenoldeb, s. m. (perchenawl) Ownership.

Perchenoli, v. a. (perchenawl) To render possessive, to render possessed, to become possessed.

Perchentŷaeth, s. m. (perchen—tŷaeth) Possession of a house; a being a householder.

——Eich gwelir
Penaeth perchentyaeth tir.

You will be seen the chief in house-keeping of the land. Ieuan Llafar.

Perchenu, v. a. (perchen) To possess, to own.

Perchenwr, s. m.—pl. perchenwyr (perchen—gwr) A possessor, an owner.

Perchi, v. a. (parch) To respect, or to honour.

Cadwaladr cerddgar,
Cerddau cyfarwar,
Cyfarfu a'm perchi.

The muse-loving Cadwaladr of solacing songs, he met with my honouring. Gwalchmai.

Perchwerwyn, s. m. (per—chwerw) The white horehound; also called llwyd y cwn.

Perchydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (parch) A respecter.

Yn wir, dymbi leithiawg Mon,
Penllywydd perchydd llurygogion.

In truth, there will be one enthroned from Mon, a sovereign the respecter of armour-wearing men. Taliesin.

Perdawd, s. m. (per) Delicacy, sweetness.

Perder, s. m. (per) Deliciousness, sweetness.

Perdra, s. m. (per) Deliciousness, sweetness.

Peredd, s. m. (per) Delicateness, or sweetness.

Pereiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (peraidd) A sweetening, dulcification.

Pereiddiant, s. m. (peraidd) Dulcification.

Pereiddiaw, v. a. (peraidd) To dulcify, to render sweet, or mellow; to become sweet.

Pereiddiawl, a. (peraidd) Of a sweetening quality.

Pereiddrwydd, s. m. (peraidd) Deliciousness.

Pereiddsain, s. f. (peraidd—sain) Euphony.

Peren, s. f. dim. (per) A pear, one pear.

Pererin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (per—er) That has a course through; a pilgrim.

Mi, Fellyr Brydydd, bererin i Bedr,
Porthawr a gymedr gymes deithi.

I, Meilyr the Bard, am a pilgrim to Peter, the porter who will regulate appropriate qualities. Meilyr.

Pererinbren, s. m. (pererin—pren) A pine-tree.
Pererindawd, s. m.—pl. pererindodau (pererin) A state of pilgrimage.
Pererindota, v. a. (pererindawd) To peregrinate.
Pereriniad, s. m. (pererin) Peregrination.
Pererinìaeth, s. m. (pererin) A state of peregrination, or a pilgrimage.
Pereriniaw, v. a. (pererin) To peregrinate.
Perfagl, s. f. (per—magl) The herb periwinkle.
Perfarwhun, s. f.—pl. t. au (per—marwhun) A rapturous trance.
Perfedd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (per—medd) The middle region, centre, or inward part. It is also used as a plural noun: the entrails, the bowels. Nis doi adref oni bo berfeddion y nos, Thou wilt not come home until it shall be the middle of night.

A genyw bob tra trwyddi berfedd
O'i ganiad, o'i rad, o'i rinwedd yn llawch,
Llewychedig haul yn ei gyntedd.

He that comprehends every course through its centre, by his permission, by his bounty, by his virtue in protecting, splendid is the sun in its orbit. Gr. ab Gwrgeneu.

Perfedd, a. (per—medd) Middle, inward, central. Y bys perfedd, the middle finger; y tri perfeddaf, the three inmost.

Locrinus, a gymerai y rhan berfedd i'r ynys.

Locrinus, took the middle portion of the island. Gr. ab Arthur.

Perfeddawl, a. (perfedd) Belonging to the middle, centrical; intestinal.
Perfeddiach, s. pl. dim. (perfedd) Intestines.
Perfeddwlad, s. f. (perfedd—gwlad) A middle country; an inland country.
Perfelys, a. (per—melys) Delicately sweet.
Perffaith, a. (per—ffaith) Perfect, complete.

Y gwr mwyn-ddoeth——
Y perffaith ddyn praff o ddysg.

The man pleasingly wise; the perfect person great in learning. Morgan ab Hywel.

Perffeithdawd, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectness.
Perffeithder, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectness.
Perffeithiad, s. m. (perffaith) A perfecting.
Perffeithiaw, v. a. (perffaith) To perfect.
Perffeithiawl, a. (perffaith) Perfectional.
Perffeithiedig, a. (perffaith) Being perfected.
Perffeithioldeb, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectibility.
Perffeithioli, v. (perffeithiawl) To perfectionate.
Perffeithrwydd, s. m. (perffaith) Perfectness.
Perging, s. m. (perc) That involves, that keeps together, that shelters or defends; a skreen, or settle. a. Enclosing, sheltering. Perging penaethau, the defence of princes.

Perging brenin, chweugaint a dal:—
Perging, pedwar-ar-ugaint a dal:—
Y pentan haiarn a'r perging.

The fire-side skreen of the king, its value is six score pence:—A fire-side skreen, its value is twenty-four pence:—The iron fire-hob and the skreen. Welsh Laws.

Llew mawr-llid enwair, llydw bair berging
Llwrw trylew; llew llawr lluryg deiling.

A lion great in wrath and vigorous, amply he will cause protection towards the brave, the lion of the ground enveloped in armour. Cynddelw.

Rhys——
Na'm gwrthawd yn ddurfing,
Eryr llewyr, llaw berging.

Rhys, reject me not harshly, thou eagle of glory, of protecting hand. Phylip Brydydd.

Perhon, adv. (pe—rhon) Be the consequence, be it so, for all that.
Peri, s. m. (par) A causation, a cause.
Peri, v. a. (par) To cause; to cause to effect, to make to do; to bid, to command. Duw a'm peris, God caused me to be; pera iddi beidiaw, bid her to cease; perid imi dy alw, I was commanded to call thee.

Angen a bair i hen wrach dethiaw.

Necessity will cause the old woman to trot. Adage.

Peris ef, peryf nef noddfa,
Per addawd paradwys wyddfa.

He, the causer of the sanctuary of heaven, did cause the blest circle of the paradisiacal place of presence. Cynddelw.

Iolaf bair, o bured arwar,
A beris amad ac adar.

I will worship the cause, from so pure a motive, who did cause all things walking and those of wing. Llywelyn Fardd.

Periad, s. m.—pl. t. au (par) A causing, a making to do, a bidding, effectuation, causation.
Periadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (periad) A causator.

Duw a foler yn y drindawd, Tad, Mab, ac Ysbryd Glan, yn greawdwr a pheriadur pob peth.

God shall be praised as a Trinity, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit the creator and causer of all things. Barddas.

Periant, s. m. (par) Causation, effectuation.
Periator, ger. (periad) In causing, in bidding.
Perid, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (par) That is caused.

Gollychaf peryf peridydd,
A beris deigr mab Dafydd.

I will adore the Causer of caused things, who caused the tears of the son of David. Bleiganl, M. Cynddylan.

Perig, a. (per) Extreme; perilous.
Perigl, a. (perig) Perilous, or dangerous.
Periglaw, v. a. (perigl) To make extreme or perilous; to administer extreme unction; to become extreme.

Edlid a berid o'i beriglaw.

Vexation was caused from bringing him to extremity. Cynddelw, m. Riryd.

Ac a'm gwnel peryf, pan beriglwyf,
Perffaith, waith oleg a deg dalwyf!

And may the Creator, when I go to extremity, make me perfect, a work of the mind, which I may fairly requite! Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Periglawd, s. m. (perigl) The act of rendering urgent, extreme, or perilous.
Periglawr, s. m.—pl. periglorion (perigl) One who has to do with what is extreme or dangerous; one who administers extreme unction; a parish priest.

Na ddifanw dy beriglawr.

Do not contemn thy pastor. Adage.

Peritor, sup. (peri) To be causing or bidding.
Perlafar, s. m. (per—llafar) Euphony.
Perlais, s. m.—pl. perleisiau (per—llais) A sweet voice, a melodious voice.
Perlef, s. m. (per—llef) A melodious voice.
Perleisiad, s. m. (perlais) Producing euphony.
Perleisiaw, v. a. (perlais) To produce euphony.
Perlewyg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (per—llewyg) Ecstasy
Perlewygawl, a. (perlewyg) Rapturous.
Perlewygfa, s. f.—pl. t. au (perlewyg) Rapture.

O ddwywawl gariad—y deuant ysbrydolion weledigaethau yn y marwhunau ac y perlewygfäau.

From divine love there will come spiritual visions in the death-like trances and the raptures. Cyssegrlan Fuchedd.

Perlewygiad, s. m. (perlewyg) A yielding a rapture, a falling into a fit of ecstasy.
Perlewygu, v. n. (perlewyg) To fall into rapture
Perloes, s. f.—pl. t. ion (per—gloes) Ecstasy.
Perloesaidd, a. (perloes) Extatic, rapturous.
Perloesi, v. a. (perloes) To enrapture.
Perlysiau, s. pl. aggr. (per—llysiau) Sweet herbs

Brysia, fy anwylyd—bydd debyg i iwrch, neu lwdn hydd ar fynyddoedd y perlysiau.

Hasten, my love, be like the roebuck, or the young hart on the mountains of the sweet herbs. Ier. Owain.

Perlysiawg, a. (per—llysiawg) Abounding with aromatic herbs.

Perllan, s. f.—pl. t. au (per—llan) An enclosure of sweet fruit; an orchard.

Tri thlws cenedl: melin, cored, a pherllan; a'r rhai hyny ni ddylyir eu rhanu, na'u cychwynu; namyn rhanu eu ffrwythau i'r neb a'u dylyo.

The three rarities of a family: a mill, a wear, and an orchard; and those things ought not to be divided, nor removed; but their produce is to be divided amongst such as may have a claim. Welsh Laws.

Perllanaidd, a. (perllan) Like an orchard.

Perllanawg, a. (perllan) Abounding with orchards

Pob rhan o'r adail———
A'r barth perllanawg llanwyd,
Heb ddwyn ond chwyn a hesg.

Every part of the structure, on a region abounding with orchards was filled, without producing any thing but weeds and reeds. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Perllanwydd, s. pl. aggr. (perllan—gwydd) Orchard trees.

Perllys, s. pl.aggr. (per—llys) Parsley: perllys yr hel, or perllys y morfa, wild celery.

Peron, s. m. (par) That causes or bids to be; the creator; the lord.

Perores, s. f.—pl. t. au (perawr) A female who practises melody, a female musician.

Peroriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (perawr) A producing a sweet sound; a producing of melody.

Peroriaeth, s. m. (perawr) Melody, harmony of sound, foolish idle talk.

Peroriaethawl, a. (peroriaeth) Belonging to the science of music; musical.

Peroriaethu, v. a. (peroriaeth) To make melody, to harmonize sounds; to practise music.

Peroriaethus, a. (peroriaeth) Harmonical.

Peroriaethwr, s. m.—pl. peroriaethwyr (peroriaeth—gwr) A practiser of music.

Peroriaethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (peroriaeth) A harmonizer of sounds, one who practises harmony, or music.

Perorianuawl, a. (peroriant) Producing music.

Periorianu, v. a. (peroriant) To yield melody.

Peroriant, s. m. (perawr) Practice of music.

Peroriaw, v. a. (perawr) To practise music.

Persain, s. f.—pl. perseiniau (per—sain) Euphony

Perseiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (persain) A producing euphony.

Perseiniaw, v. a. (persain) To produce euphony.

Perseiniawl, a. (persain) Euphonical; melodious

Pert, a. (per) Smart, spruce, dapper, pert, nice.

Pert pob peth bach ond diawl bach.

Pretty is every thing little except a little devil. Adage.

Menyg, pert galenig por.

The gloves, the pretty present of a chieftain. D. ab Gwilym.

Pertaidd, a. (pert) Of a smart or pert nature.

Pertedd, s. m. (pert) Smartness, neatness.

Perten, s. f. dim. (pert) A smart little girl.

Pertrwydd, s. m. (pert) Smartness, prettiness.

Pertu, v. a. (pert) To render smart or spruce; to become smart, trim, or spruce.

Pertyn, s. m. dim. (pert) A smart little fellow.

Perth, s. f.—pl. t. i (py—erth) A thorn bush.

Trol o bobtu y berth.

To turn on each side of the bush. Adage.

Trist i groesan egroesa perthi,
Nas porthai cardota;
Trist fu ei hyder o glera;
Trigwaeth nog y daeth yd a.

It is woeful for a buffoon to be gathering hips off the brakes, and that charity should not support him; woeful was his dependance upon the circuit of minstrelsy; three times worse than what has been to him will be come to. Madawg Dwygraig.

Perthawg, a. (perth) Abounding with bushes.

Perthen, s. f. dim. (perth) A thorn bush; a bush

Pertheurddrain, s.f. (perth—eurddrain) A gooseberry bush.

Perthgae, s. m. (perth—cae) A quick-set hedge.

Perthgau, v. a. (perth—cau) To enclose with quickset hedge.

Perthlys, s.m. (perth—llys) Climbing buckwheat

Perthyn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (parth) What is appropriate, relating, or belonging to. v. n. To be appropriate, to have relation, to belong.

A berthyn am ddyn a ddywedaf;
A bortho gofid bid bwyllocaf.

What relates of man I will treat of; he that bears affliction let him be the most concerned. Llywelyn Fardd.

Perthynad, s. m. (perthyn) Appertinence.

Perthynas, s. f.—pl. t. au (perthyn) Relation, relationship, appertinence.

Perthynasawl, a. (perthynas) Appropriate.

Perthynasiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (perthynas) An appropriating; appropriation.

Perthynasoldeb, s. m. (perthynasawl) Appropriateness, an appropriated state.

Perthynasolder, s. m. (perthynasawl) Appropriateness, pertinentness.

Perthynasoli, v. a. (perthynasawl) To render appropriate; to become appropriate.

Perthynasolrwydd, s. m. (perthynasawl) Pertinentness, appropriateness.

Perthynasu, v. a. (perthynas) To render appropriate, to become appropriate.

Perthynawl, a. (perthyn) Pertaining. Rhagenw perthynawl, a relative pronoun.

Perthynedig, a. (perthyn) Made appropriate.

Perthynedigaeth, s. m. (perthynedig) Appropriation, the state of being relative.

Perthynedigawl, a. (perthynedig) Tending to be appropriate, or pertinent.

Perthyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (perthyn) Appertainment, a rendering pertinent.

Perthynoldeb, s. m. (perthynawl) Appropriateness, relativeness, appertinence.

Perthynoledd, s. m. (perthynawl) Appropriateness, relativeness, appertinence.

Perthynoli, v. a. (perthynawl) To render appropriate, to become appropriate.

Perthynolrwydd, s. m. (perthynawl) Appropriateness, relativeness.

Perthynraid, a. (perthyn—rhaid) Relatively necessary; suitable.

Llywelyn Sion—a wnaeth drefn a dosbarth ar fesurau cerdd, ac y peth oedd berthynraid iddynt.

Llywelyn Sion reduced to order and method the measures of song, and what was appropriate to them. Ed. Dafydd.

Perthynu, v. a. (perthyn) To render appropriate, to become appropriate or pertinent, to appertain, to belong, to have relation.

Byr ach bonedd lle nis perthyn iddi na chrog na charn puten.

Short is the genealogy of nobility to which there belongs neither a thief nor a whore. Adage.

Perthynus, a. (perthyn) Appropriate, relative.

Nid ydyw ffydd yn berthynus i bethau amlwg, o achaws pethau gweledig amlwg nid rhaid iddynt ffydd, ond y gweledriad.

Faith is not appropriate to visible things, because faith is not necessary for things seen and conspicuous, but vision. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Perthynusrwydd, s. m. (perthynus) Appropriateness, relativeness, or appertinence.

Peru, v. a. (par) To cause, to effect, to bid to be, to bid, to command.

Abwy a bair wybod lle bo.

A carrion will cause it to be known where it is. Adage.

Perwellt, s. m. (per—gwellt) Sweet-scented vernal grass, also called melyn-wellt.

Perwg, s. m.—pl. perygon (per) That is of a soft or sweet tone, a musical instrument so called; probably a hurdy-gurdy.

Wrth y drws, un a'i grwth drwg,
A baw arall a'i berwg.

By the door, one with his crazy fiddle, and another dirty chap with his hurdy-gurdy. L. G. Cothi.

Perwr, s. m.—pl. perwyr (peru—gwr) A causer, a bidder to be, one who orders.

Perwraidd, s. m. (per—gwraidd) Liquorice.

Perwrychion, s. pl. aggr. (per—gwrychion) Delicious emanations.

Digrifwch yn cyflawni y clywedigaeth, o'r perwrychion melysder, mal y deuant o wanegiad y gwefusau.

Happiness replenishing the hearing with the delicious emanations of sweetness, as they proceed from the opening of the lips. Cyssegrlan Fuchedd.

Perwydd, s. pl. aggr. (per—gwydd) Wood bearing sweet fruit, fruit trees, pear trees.

Addwyn blodau ar warthaf perwydd;
Arall addwyn a Chreawdr cerennydd.

Delightful the blossoms upon the pear trees; again delightful is it to hold communion with the Creator. Taliesin.

Perwydden, s. f. dim. (perwydd) A pear tree.

Perwyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (par—gwyddiad) A causal faculty, a verb.

Perwyddiadawl, a. (perwyddiad) Relating to, or of the nature of a verb.

Perwyl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (par—gwyl) Occasion.

Perwylaw, v. a. (perwyl) To produce an occasion or event.

Perwyliad, s. m. (perwyl) A producing an occasion or event.

Perwylus, a. (perwyl) Eventual, incidental.

Perydd, s. m. (par) A causer, one who bids to be, a bidder, one who orders or gives command.

Peryddon, s. f. (perydd) A stream possessing some powerful virtue; a divine stream; it is the name of some rivers. This appellation is used by the poets for the river Dee, in common with Dyfrdwy, Dyfrdonwy, and Aerfen.

Mae breuddwyd am Beryddon,
Yr ai gaer hir ar gwr hon.

There is a dream respecting Perydden, that a long fort would rise upon its border. T. Aled, i Grogen.

Peryf, s. m. (par) One who causes; the giver of existence, a creator; one who bids or commands; a sovereign, a king. It has been used for the appellation of Pharaoh; as, Peryf a'i lu, Pharaoh and his host.

Aswynaf, archaf arch fawr i beryf
A beris nef a llawr,
Nawdd rhag dy far.——

I will put myself under protection, I will ask a great petition to the Causer that caused heaven and earth,—a refuge from thy wrath. Cynddelw, i R. ab Gruffudd.

Peryf nef, pura fy ngheudawd!

Creator of heaven, make pure my breast. Ein. ab Gwalchmai.

Peryg, s. m. (per) That is extreme or perilous.

Perygl, s. m.—pl. t. on (peryg) Danger.

Yn mhob clwyf y mae perygl.

In every disorder there is danger. Adage.

Aethant eu llongau ar y pollion heiairn——dyoddefynt ddisyfyd perygl angeuawl, hyd pan foddynt ar filoedd.

Their ships went upon the iron piles, and they suffered a sudden deadly peril, so that they were drowned by thousands. Brut y Breninoedd.

Perygledd, s. m. (perygl) Dangerousness.

Peryglìad, s. m. (perygl) An adventuring, a hazarding; a running into danger, an endangering, an exposing to danger.

Peryglu, v. a. (perygl) To endanger, to expose to peril; to become dangerous.

Peryglu am farnu f'oes:
Pan fynych yw pen f'einioes.

Running into danger in judging of my life: when thou shalt please is the end of my existence. T. Aled.

Peryglus, a. (perygl) Dangerous, or perilous.

Peryglusaw, v. a. (peryglus) To render perilous or hazardous; to become perilous.

Peryglusedd, s. m. (peryglus) Perilousness.

Peryglusrwydd, s. m. (peryglus) Dangerousness.

Peryglwr, s. m. peryglwyr (perygl—gwr) One who endangers.

Pes, conj. (pe—ys) If. It is used conditionally, for pe, and ped, with verbs of the subjunctive and potential modes, preserving the initials of words following in their radical state.

Pesgi, v. a. (pasg) To feed, to fatten; to pamper, to cram, to become fat.

Ban beisg berion a bwystgunion coed.

Conspicuously he feeds the vultures and wild beasts of the wood. Gwalchmai.

Pesgiad, s. m. (pasg) A fattening, a feeding.

Pesgiator, ger. (pesgiad) In fattening or feeding.

Pesgitor, sup. (pasg) To be fattening, or feeding.

Bid diasped aelwu; bid au byddin;
Bid besgitor dyre;
Bid drud glew; a bid rew bre.

Be querulous the ailing; be moving the army; be getting fat the wanton; be bold the brave; and be the hill slippery. Llywarch Hen.

Pesgus, a. (pasg) Fattening; nutritive.

Pesgwr, s. m.—pl. pesgwyr (pesgi—gwr) A fattener or a feeder.

Pest, s. m. (py—est) That is violent, pushing, or penetrating.

Pestawd, s. m. (pest) A forcing, a bustling.

Pestodi, v. a. (pestawd) To bustle about; to frisk.

Pestota, v. a. (pestawd) To bustle, to frisk.

Peswch, s. m. (pas) A cough. Mae arnat beswch tost, thou hast a severe cough.

Peswch sych diwedd pob nych.

A dry cough ends every ill. Adage.

Pesychawl, a. (peswch) Apt to cough; coughing.

Pesychiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (peswch) A coughing.

Pesychlyd, a. (peswch) Troubled with cough.

Pesychlys, s. m. (peswch—llys) Coltsfoot.

Pesychu, v. a. (peswch) To cough. A besycher, that is coughed; that is ejected by coughing.

Pesychwr, s. m. (pesych—gwr) A cougher.

Petrus, a. (pedrus) Apt to cause a start, apt to start, doubtful, dubious. Y petrus, the starters. partridges.

Petrusad, s. m. (petrus) A making a start, a startling; a hesitating, a doubting.

Petrusaw, v. a. (petrus) To startle, to hesitate.

Petrusawd, s. m. (petrus) A startling, hesitation.

Petrusawl, a. (petrus) Startling, hesitating.

Petrusdeb, s. m. (petrus) A state of startling, a state of hesitation, doubtfulness.

Petrusder, s. m. (petrus) Doubt, hesitation, ambiguity, quandary.

Petrusdra, s. m. (petrus) Dubiousness, quandary.

Petrusedd, s. m. (petrus) Dubiousness, scrupulosity, ambiguousness.

Petrusen, s. f. dim. (petrus) A partridge.

Petrusgar, a. (petrus) Apt to startle, hesitating.

Petrusgarwch, s. m. (petrusgar) A state of startling, hesitation, doubtfulness.

Petrusi, s. m. (petrus) A startling hesitancy.

Petrusrwydd, s. m. (petrus) Hesitancy; doubt.

Petruswr, s. m.—pl. petruswyr (petrus—gwr) A startler, one who hesitates, a doubter.

Petryael, s. m. (pedry—ael) That consists of four skirts or sides, a square. a. Quadrilateral.

Petryal, s. m.—pl. t. au (pedry—al) That has four points or sides; a square, a space hemmed in on all sides. a. Quadrangular, square.

Cefn y Petryal; Petryal Clwyd; places so called on Hiraethog, in Denbighshire. Bedd petryal, a grave sided with four slabs; and such was the grave of Bronwen, the aunt of Caractacus, in an islet still called after her name, in the river Alaw, in Anglesey, where an urn, containing her ashes, was found, in 1813; and which my friend Richard Llwyd, the Bard, is now possessed of. The grave was identified by this passage in the Mabinogi of Bran.

Bedd petryal a wnaid i Fronwen ferch Llyr ar lan afon Alaw.

A square grave was made for Bronwen daughter of Llyr, on the bank of the river Alaw. Mabinogi.

Petryalai, s. c. (petryal) What forms a square, a square used by artificers.
Petryalawg, a. (petryal) Consisting of a square.
Petryaledig, a. (petryal) Being squared.
Petryaledd, s. m. (petrual) Squareness of form.
Petryaliad, s. m. (petryal) A squaring.
Petryalu, v. a. (petryal) To square, to quadrate.
Peth, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—eth) A thing, a something, a part, share, or fragment; a portion, a quantity, a little. Mae ganddo ddigon o bethau, he has abundance of riches; dyro beth i mi, give some to me.

Amser sydd i bob peth.

Time there is for every thing. Adage.

Tri pheth y sydd ni char Duw a'u caro; gweled ymladd; gweled anghenfil; a gweled rhodres balchder.

Three things that God will not love such as love them: the seeing of fighting, the seeing of a monster, and the seeing the triumph of pride. Trioedd Barddas.

Pethau, s. c. dim.—pl. t. od (peth) A little thing, a new-born infant.
Pethbynag, pron. (peth—pynag) Whatsoever. adv. Be it as it may, however.
Pethyn, s. m. dim. (peth) A tiny little thing.
Peuad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pau) A taking repose; a pausing, a hesitation, a puffing, a panting.
Peuannawl, a. (peuant) Tending to make a pause or rest; tending to pant.
Peuannu, v. a. (peuant) To make a pausing or resting, to be panting.
Peuant, s. m. (pau) The state of pausing or taking rest; a puffing, a panting.
Peuaw, v. a. (pau) To spread out; to make a pause, to hesitate, to puff, to pant, to take breath; to breathe with difficulty, to be circumspect, Tarw yn peuaw, a bull making a sullen roar, in challenging another.
Peuawd, s. m. (pau) A spreading out, circumspection, hesitation, a pausing, a panting.
Peuawl, a. (pau) Spreading out, circumspect, puffing, or panting.
Peuawr, a. (pae—awr) Hourly, continual.

Ffawd beunydd yn anffawd beuawr.

Daily good fortune is hourly misfortune. Adage.

Peuedd, s. m. (pau) A spreading out state, a state of repose, a panting state.
Peues, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pau) A place of rest, an inhabited place, a dwelling place; an inhabited country, a country.

Llyw Powys, peues dulobaith.

The leader of Powys, a hopeless country. Cynddelw.

Dybrys alaf Deifr i drefad Bowys,
I peues ei hendad.

He will hasten the wealth of Deifr to the habitation of Powys, to the country of his grandsire. Cynddelw.

Hynefydd Powys, peues fyged hir,
Perchen gwir, a thir, a theyrnged.

The elder of Powys, a country fair and extensive, possessing judicature, and territory, and princely tribute. Llygad Gwr.

Peufer, a. (peu—mer) Whining, neighing.

Perchen peufer ystre o'r re fyngawg.

Owner of a neighing stud of the maned racers. Meilyr.

Peuferiad, s. m. (peufer) A making a noise of pleasure in taking repose, a whining.
Peuferu, v. a. (peufer) To make a cry of pleasure and repose; to whine, or yelp as a dog; to neigh.
Peunoeth, a. (pae—noeth) Nocturnal. adv. Nightly, every night.
Peunoethawl, a. (peunoeth) Nocturnous.
Peunos, a. (pae—nos) Nightly, nocturnal. adv. Nightly, every night.
Peunosawl, a. (peunos) Nocturnal, nightly.
Peunydd, a. (pae—dydd) Daily, diurnal. adv. Daily, diurnally, every day.

Bach yw crefydd a chwilia beunydd am dano.

Little is his religion who is daily hunting for it. Adage.

Trennydd a pheunydd a phyth.

The day after to-morrow, daily and for ever. L. G. Cothi.

Gwae a wyl ei arglwydd beunydd.

Woe to him who is overlooked by his lord daily. Adage.

Peunyddiawl, a. (peunydd) Diurnal, daily.
Peusyth, s. m. (pae—syth) A dovetail, in joinery.
Peusythiad, s. m. (peusyth) A dovetailing.
Peusythu, v. a. (peusyth) To dovetail.
Peutu, adv. (pae—tu) On each side, on both sides, about. It is mostly used in South Wales, and deutu prevails in the North. O beutu yr afon, on each side of the river; peutu yr eglwys, about the church.

Adfyd a ddysg i ddyn edrych o beutu.

Adversity will teach a man to look about him. Adage.

Peutu ac o beutu fal y gwyf am y ganwyll.

About it and about it like the moth round the candle. Adage.

Peutuawl, a. (peutu) Belonging to each side.
PI, s. f. r.—pl. t. od. The state of being in, the state of being identified in; a magpie, so called from its habit of keeping to the same spot.

Nid syw ond y bi.

Nothing so pert as a magpie. Adage.

Pia, s. f. dim. (pi) A pie, or magpie.

Mor ffraeth a'r pia brith ar y berth.

As pert as the spotted pie on the bush. Adage.

Piad, s. m. (pi) A possessing, or owning.
Piannawl, a. (piant) Possessory, possessive.
Piannu, v. a. (piant) To make out possession.
Piant, s. m. (pi) Possession, or ownership.
Piau, v. n. (pi) To own, to be owner of, to possess. Pwy biau hwn? who owns this? Ti ei piau, thou dost own it; mi biau un, one is mine; ti biau y llall, thou dost own the other.

Bleddyn ab Cynfyn——
Ei hun a bioedd hen Bowys.

Bleddyn son of Cynfyn himself possessed old Powys. Gutyn Owain.

Ni buont hir eu bywyd,
Nawnyn bioeddyn' y byd.

They were not long of life, the nine worthies who possessed the world. S. ab Hywel.

Gorpwyfi gan Dduw fry! gwedy gweddïau
Gorfod gorphowys baradwys biau!

May I be existing with God on high! after my prayers be having rest by possessing paradise. Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Piau, adv. (pi) Who owns, whose, whose is it?

Piau y gaer rhaco! Meredig a wyr ywch! Nid oes yn y byd na wypo piau y gaer hon: Wrnach Gawr y piau.

Who owns yonder castle! Stupid men to be sure ye are! There be not in the world but know who owns this castle: the mighty Wrnach owns it. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Piaw, v. a. (pi) To own, to be owner of.

Piawd, s. m. (pi) A possessing, or owning.

Prydydd wyf rhag Prydain ddragon,
Piawd cerdd cadair prydyddion.

I am a poet, in the presence of a leader of Britain, possessing the song of the chair of poets. Cynddelw.

Piawg, a. (pi) Having possession, or possessed.
Piawl, a. (pi) Possessing, owning; being owned.
Pib, s. f.—pl. t. au (py—ib) A pipe, a tube, a squirt, a lax, a musical pipe; a flute. Pibau cod, bagpipes; pib gorn, a horn pipe: Pib waed, the bloody flux.

Aeth hyny ar gyrn a phibau.

That is gone upon horns and pipes; or become a common talk. Adage.

Pibaw, v. a. (pib) To make use of a pipe, to pass through a pipe, to squirt, to pipe.
Pibawg, a. (pib) Having a pipe, piped.
Pibawl, a. (pib) Belonging to a pipe, laxative.
Pibawr, s. m. (pib) That is like a pipe.
Pibell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (pib) A pipe, a duct, a tube, a musical pipe. Pibell odyn, a kiln pipe; pibell wynt, or breuant, a windpipe.
Pibellaidd, a. (pibell) Like a pipe or a tube.
Pibellawg, a. (pibell) Having pipes, piped.
Pibelliad, s. m. (pibell) A forming a pipe; a piping, a smoking.
Pibellu, v. a. (pibell) To form a pipe, to pipe.
Pibellwr, s. m.—pl. pibellwyr (pibell—gwr) A pipe-man, a smoker.
Pibellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pibell) A piper.
Piben, s. f. dim. (pib) A pipe. Piben odyn, the pipe of a kiln.
Pibenawg, a. f. (piben) Jointed pipewort.
Pibiaeth, s. m. (pib) The act of piping.
Pibion, s. pl. aggr. (pib) Squirtings.
Pibled, a. (f. of piblyd) Apt to squirt, squirting.
Piblyd, a. (pib) Apt to squirt, squirting.
Piblys, s. m. (pib—llys) The flix-weed.
Pibon, s. pl. (pib) Pipes, what are as pipes.
Pibonwy, s. m. aggr. (pibon—gwy) Sleet, isicles.
Pibori, s. m. (pibawr) A state of piping or shooting out, a budding. v. a. To pipe or shoot out, to bud.

Yr eos loew-dlos lwydliw—
Poed ar ddor y pibori;
Amen fyth, o mynaf fi!

The nightingale of a glossy fair brown hue; be she on the canopy of budding; Amen, for ever I would have it so! D. ab Gwilym.

Piborig, a. (pibawr) Piping or shooting out.

Afallen beren biborig,
Melyn ei haeron, nid mnon eu mesig.

Apple-tree delicious and teeming with buds, yellow its fruit, not to be chewed by the multitude. Myrddin.

Pibwr, s. m.—pl. pibwyr (pib—gwr) A piper.
Pibydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pib) A piper. Pibydd cod, a bagpipe player; pibydd y traeth, the sandpiper; pibydd glas, ash-coloured sandpiper; pibydd llwyd llydandroed, grey scollop-toed sand-piper; pibydd du mânawg, black-spotted sandpiper; pibydd gwyrdd, green sandpiper; pibydd rhuddgoch, the dunlin.

Digu pawb o anadl y pibydd.

Disgusting to every body the breath of the piper. Adage.

Pibyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pibydd) Female piper.
Pibyddiaeth, s. m. (pibydd) Pipe-playing.
Pibyddiaethu, v. a. (pibyddiaeth) To practise piping, or pipe-playing.
Picell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pig) What is darted, a dart, a javelin.
Picellai, s. c. (picell) A dart thrower.
Picellawg, a. (picell) Armed with a dart.
Picelliad, s. m. (picell) A throwing a dart.
Picellu, v. a. (picell) To throw a dart.
Picellwr, s. m.—pl. picellwyr (picell—gwr) A dart-man, a thrower of darts.
Picellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (picell) A darter.
Picffon, s. f.—pl. picffyn (pig—ffon) A pike-staff.
Picfforch, s. f.—pl. picffyrch (fforch) A pitchfork.
Piciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pig) A darting, a making a sudden pass, a going suddenly.
Piciaw, v. a. (pig) To dart, to fly suddenly. Picia yno a brysia yn ol, run there and make haste back.

Gwr du i biciaw gair del,
Gwr ysig â gwâr isel.

A black man to throw a churlish word; a crazy man with a low stoop. T. Prys.

Piciawl, a. (pig) Darting, flinging.
Piciedig, a. (piciad) Being darted or flung.
Picwd, s. m.—pl. picydau (pig) The prickled dog, or houndfish; also called ci pigau, and ci pigawg.
Picwsmaln, s. m. (pig—maln) Oat bread crumbled into butter-milk.
Picyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pig) A wooden vessel hooped, used for eating out of.
Picynaid, s. m.—pl. picyneidiau (picyn) As much as a picyn will hold.
Picynwr, s. m.—pl. picynwyr (picyn—gwr) A good man at the picyn.
Picynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (picyn) A picyner.
Pid, s. m. (py—id) What tapers to a point.
Pidyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (pid) A pintle. Pidyn y gog, the herb wake-robin.
Pieufod, v. n. (piau—bod) To be possessed of, to be owner. Gwyn ei fyd bieufai! Happy him who should enjoy it!

Pieufo y fuwch aed yn ei lloswrn.

Who owns the cow let him take to her tail. Adage.

Piff, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—iff) A puff, or blast.
Piffiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (piff) A puffing.
Piffiaw, v. a. (piff) To puff, or to whiff.
Pig, s. f.—pl. t. au (py—ig) What terminates in a point, a pointed end, a point, a pike; a beak, bill, or nib; the pipe, a disease amongst fowls. Pig yr aran, the crane-bill; also called troed-rudd: pig y bwn, shoots of river horse-tail; pig y crëyr, stork's-bill.

A moes achwyn maes uchel,
Rhag oes y dyn rhygas dêl:
Y mae'r byd yma ar big
Yn tueddu at eiddig!

And let me complain out aloud, against the life of a person odiously churlish: this world is on a pivot placed, inclining to the jealous cuff! T. Prys.

Pigaw, v. a. (pig) To prick, to prickle; to sting; to pick; to peck. Pigodd draen fi, a thorn has pricked me; piga y goreuon, pick the best ones; iar a biga y briwion, a hen will pick the crumbs; mae yn pigaw gwlaw, it spits of rain.
Pigawd, s. m. (pig) The act of pricking.
Pigawg, a. (pig) Prickly, full of points. Croes bigawg, a cross fitchee.
Pigawglym, a. (pigawg—llym) Sharp pointed.
Pigawglymaidd, a. (pigawglym) Rather sharply pointed, or acuminated.
Pigawglymedd, s. m. (pigawglym) The state of being sharply pointed.
Pigawglys, s. pl. aggr. (pigawg—llys) The spinach; also called pigoga.
Pigedig, a. (pig) Pricked, prickled.
Pigfain, a. (pig—main) Sharp-pointed.
Pigfan, s. m. (pig—mân) A mark of a point.

Pigfaniad, s. m. (pigfan) A punctulating.
Pigfanu, v. a. (pigfan) To punctulate.
Pigfeiniad, s. m. (pigfain) Acumination.
Pigfeiniaw, v. a. (pigfain) To acuminate.
Pigfforch, s. f.—pl. pigffyrch (pig—fforch) A pitchfork.
Pigiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pig) A pricking; a stinging; a picking; a culling.
Pigiedig, a. (pigiad) Pricked, stung; picked.
Pigin, s. m. (pig) A stitch, or pricking pain.
Pigion, s. pl. aggr. (pig) Picked things; selections; excerptions.
Pigl, s. m. (pig) The herb hounds-tongue.
Pigoden, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pigawd) A prickle; a sharp point; a sting; a field mouse.
Pigoga, s. f. (pigawg) The spinage.
Pigwlaw, s. m. (pig—gwlaw) A spitting rain.
Pigwlawiaw, v. n. (pigwlaw) To spit of rain.
Pigwn, s. m.—pl. pigynau (pig) A round heap or tump; a cone; a turret; a beacon.
Pigwr, s. m.—pl. pigwyr (pig—gwr) A pricker, a stinger; a picker.
Pigwrda, s. m. (pig—gwrda) A sort of play, similar to the one of "This is the house that Jack built."
Pigwrn, s. m.—pl. pigyrnau (pig—gwrn) A pinnacle, a spire.
Pigyn, s. m. dim. (pig) A stitch in the side; a pleurisy. Pigyn rhedeg, a stitch caused by running; pigyn astrus, morwiber, a weaver.
Pigyrnaidd, a. (pigwrn) Like a pinnacle, spired.
Pigyrnawg, a. (pigwrn) Having points or asperites; pinnacled, turreted. Dyn pigyrnawg, a wrangling person.
Pigyrnawl, a. (pigwrn) Shooting out in a spire.
Pigyrniad, s. m. (pigwrn) A shooting out in a point or spire.
Pigyrnu, v. a. (pigwrn) To render sharp; to form a pinnacle; to wrangle; to be crabbed.
Pil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pi—il) That goes round; that is round; that hovers about; a sergeant, or apparitor; a surface, that is thrown off; a peel, paring, or rind.
Pil, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—il) A small inlet of the sea filled by the tide; generally called Camlas in North Wales.

> Ni'th ddalio pil, na milwr,
> Na thwrn dwys, na thir na dwr.
>
> May neither sergeant nor warrior thee enthral, nor enclosing turn, nor land, nor water. L. Morganwg.

Pila, s. m.—pl. t. on (pil) A finch; also called pinc, pincyn, ysbincyn, and telor. The varieties are, Pila pen aur, gold-headed finch; pila cap sidan, silk cap finch; pila glas, blue finch; pila glas bach, small blue finch, or titmouse.
Pilai, s. c.—pl. pileion (pil) A moth; a butterfly; also called eilier, cloyn, and cloyn byw.

> Pilai yn ei wisg, gwenynen yn ei mel.
>
> A butterfly in his coat, a bee in her honey. Adage.

Pilaid, a. (pil) Transient, frail, weak, poor; mean, wretched; sickly, indisposed. Gwael, cwla, and salw are generally used for it, in North Wales. O chwiwgi pilaid! Oh thou sculking mean dog! Gwaith pilaid iawn, very indifferent work; yd pilaid iawn, very poor corn; wyf yn bilaid iawn, I am much indisposed.
Pilan, s. f.—pl. t. od (pil) Sparrow hawk; a spear.
Pilc, s. m. (pil) That turns or whisks about.
Pilcod, s. pl. (pilc) The fish called menows.
Pilcodyn, s. m. dim. (pilcod) A menow.
Pilcoes, s. f. (pil—coes) The plane-tree.
Pilcota, v. a. (pilcod) To catch menows.
Pildin, s. m. (pil—tin) A galling by riding.
Pilen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pil) A cuticle, a membrane, a thin skin, or rind; a fringe, or border. Sych-bilen, a web in the eye.
Pilenaidd, a. (pilen) Membranceous; filmy.
Pilenawg, a. (pilen) Having a cuticle or thin skin; covered with a film.
Pileniad, s. m. (pilen) A forming a cuticle; a covering with film.
Pilenllyd, a. (pilen) Apt to produce a thin skin.
Pilenu, v. a. (pilen) To form a cuticle of thin skin; to be covered with film.
Piler, s. m.—pl. t. au (pil) A pillar, a post.
Pilerawg, a. (piler) Having a pillar; columnarious; pillared.
Pileriad, s. m. (piler) A forming a column or pillar; a building upon pillars.
Pileru, v. a. (piler) To make a pillar; to build upon pillars; to set up pillars.
Pileryn, s. m. dim. (piler) A small column.
Piliad, s. m. (pil) A stripping the surface, a paring, a peeling.
Piliant, s. m. (pil) A taking off the surface, or rind; a paring, a stripping, a peeling.
Piliaw, v. a. (pil) To take off the surface, rind or skin; to peel, to pare; to pillage. Piliaw brwyn, to peel rushes.

> Piliaw wy cyn ei bobi.
>
> To peel an egg before it is roasted. Adage.
>
> Y bol a bil y cefn.
>
> The belly will strip the back. Adage.
>
> Piliant a rhwygant yr yd;
> Pla i'r ddera a ddelryd.
>
> They will strip away and will tear about the corn; a plague light on that devil. T. Prys, i gaseg.

Piliawd, s. m. (pil) A stripping the surface, a rinding, a peeling.
Piliawg, a. (pil) Having a coating, rinded.
Piliedig, a. (piliad) Pared, stripped, peeled.
Pilig, s. m. dim. (pil) That is of rind, bark, or skin; a vessel made of any rind; a laver.
Pilion, s. pl. aggr. (pil) Strippings, peelings.
Pilionen, s. f. dim. (pilion) A thin skin or film; a fine membrane; a thin peeling.
Piliwr, s. m.—pl. pilwyr (pil—gwr) A stripper, parer, or peeler.
Pilo, s. m.—pl. t. au (pil) An apparitor's rod.
Pilus, a. (pil) Apt to fly about; transient; frail, weak; poor, mean, wretched.
Pilwrn, s. m.—pl. pilyrnau (pil—gwrn) A dart.
Pilyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pil) A piece of skin; a clout, a rag; a tegument, a piece of any texture used as a covering or garment; also a horse cushion or pillion. Pilyn gwddf, a neckerchief.
Pilyndawd, s. m. (pilyn) A covering; habiliment, garment, or vesture.

> Nid wyt nes er dillad twym-glyd,
> I guddio'r cnawd, i attal annwyd;
> Oni bae it' gael pilyndawd
> I attal bai, i guddio pechawd.
>
> Thou art not the nearer for warmly-sheltering clothes, to hide the flesh, to keep off cold; if thou shouldest not obtain a covering to keep off vice, to hide sin. R. Pritchard o Landdyfri.

Pilyniad, s. m. (pilyn) A putting on a garment; a wrapping in any covering.
Pilynu, v. a. (pilyn) To cover with a garment.
Pilys, s. m.—pl. t. au (pil) A covering or robe made of skin; a pelisse.

> Rhita Gawr a wnai bilys o grwyn barfau brenlnoedd.
>
> Rhita the Giant made a pelisse of the scalps of the beards of kings. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhoed pilys rhwydau pali
Rhita Gawr ar hyd dau gi.

There was put the covering of the velvet nettings of Rhita the Giant over the two dogs. Guto y Glyn.

Pilysawg, a. (pilys) Wearing a robe or pelisse.
Pilysyn, s. m. dim. (pilys) A robe, a pelisse.
Pill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—ill) That which turns round; a pivot; a shaft; a base, a stem, or stalk; a stump, or stake; a stock; a heater for ironing; a goal, or spot to retire to in playing; a strong hold, a fortress; a support, or what keeps together, a frame. Gwr yn mhill yn gwara tawlbwrdd, a man in a secure place playing at chess: Pill bwcl, the tongue of a buckle; pill clo, the hip of a lock; dyn yn byw ar ei bill, a person living upon his means. Sil. Pillion ac ebillion peithynen, the supporters and staves of the bardic writing frame.

Ni thry i'w bill nes ennill sias.

He will not turn to his hold until the game is gained. L. G. Cothi.

Blawd man yw'r pan ar bob pill.

Fine flour seems the covering upon every stem. D. ab Gwilym, i'r eiry.

Bwrw llên uwchlaw pen pob pill.

Casting a veil above the top of every stem. Ll. Goch ab Meirig Hen, i'r eiry.

Ei barau, ei arfau arfoloch,
Ei bebyll, ei bill, a'i ball coch.

His spears, his weapons of tumult, his tents, his fort, and his red throne. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Pillgorn, s. m.—pl. pillgyrn (pill—corn) The neck bones, the neck joints. Pillgorn y gwegil, the nape of the neck.
Pillgun, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pill—cun) A plug.
Pillguniad, s. m. (pillgun) A plugging.
Pillguniaw, v. a. (pillgun) To stop with a plug.
Pilliad, s. m. (pill) A fixing a shaft or stem; a pegging; a forming a hold or place of safety.
Pilliaw, v. a. (pill) To shaft, to stem, to peg, to form a hold or place of safety.
Pilliawg, a. (pill) Having a pivot, or shaft; pegged; having a strong hold.

Cadfarchawg pilliawg pwyll anghlaiar gwrdd
Gorddwy ei esgar.

A warrior on a steed with a shaft terribly fierce in vanquishing his foes. Prydydd Bychan.

Pilliedig, a. (pilliad) Shafted, stemmed; pegged.
Pillwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pill—gwŷdd) Dried wood, dead trees left standing.
Pillyn, s. m. dim. (pill) A small shaft, stem, or stock; a stake; a peg.
Pin, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—in) A pin; a stile for writing with; a pen.
Pinbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (pin—pren) The pine-tree; also called pinwydd.
Pinc, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pin) A sprig, a spray; also the bird called a finch.
Pinc, a. (pin) Smart, brisk, gay, or fine.

Mor binc a'r peneurin.

As brisk as the yellow-hammer. Adage.

Pincedig, a. (pinc) Being made smart.
Pincedd, s. m. (pinc) Smartness, briskness.
Pincen, s. f. dim. (pinc) A sprig, a spray.

Y dryw——ar hyd pincenau,
Llwyd foddus anllad feddwl.

The wren, along the sprays, brown, contented, of wanton thought. T. Prys.

Pinciad, s. m. (pinc) A sprigging, a spraying.
Pinciant, s. m. (pinc) A state of sprigging.
Pinciaw, v. a. (pinc) To sprig, to spray.
Pinciawl, a. (pinc) Tending to sprig.
Pincrwydd, s. m. (pinc) Smartness, briskness.
Pincyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pinc) What is smart or gay; a sprig, a spray; also the finch; also called pila, pinc, ysbincyn, and telor.
Piner, s. m. (pin) That is fastened with a pin.
Piniad, s. m. (pin) A fastening with a pin.
Piniaw, v. a. (pin) To pin, to stick a pin.
Piniawl, a. (pin) Being fastened with a pin.
Piniedig, a. (piniad) Fastened with a pin.
Piniwn, s. m.—pl. piniynau (pin) A gable, or end wall of a building.
Pinwg, s. m. (pin) That is tapered or pointed.
Pinwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pin—gwydd) Pine-wood.
Pinwydden, s. f. dim. (pinwydd) A pine-tree.
Pinygl, s. m.—pl. pinyglau (pinwg) That runs into a point; a pinnacle.
Pinygliad, s. m. (pinygl) A forming a pinnacle.
Pinyglu, v. a. (pinygl) To form a pinnacle.
Pioden, s. f. dim. (piawd) A piannet, a magpie.
Piog, s. f.—pl. t. od (pi) A pie, a magpie.
Piogen, s. f. dim. (piog) A pie. Piogen y coed, caseg y dryc-hin, a jay; piogen y mor, the sea pie.
Pipgnau, s. pl. aggr. (pib—cnau) Chesnuts.
Pipian, v. a. (pib) To be piping, to pule.
Pipianaidd, a. (pipian) Apt to be puling.
Pipianawl, a. (pipian) Tending to pule.
Pipianllyd, a. (pipian) Apt to be puling.
Pipianu, v. a. (pipian) To be piping, to pule.
Pipianydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pipian) A puler.
Pipre, s. f. (pib—rhe) A diarrhœa, or a lax.
Pis, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—is) A spout, that is spouted; a piss; urine, piss.
Pisaw, v. a. (pîs) To piss, to make water.

Ni phis boneddig ei hun.

A gentleman will not piss by himself. Adage.

Pisawd, s. m. (pis) The act of voiding urine.
Piser, s. m.—pl. t. i (pis) A jug, a pitcher.
Pisg, s. pl. aggr. (py—isg) Small blisters; pods.
Pisgen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (pisg) That consists of little blisters or pods; also a pimple, a wheal: the linden.
Pisgenu, v. n. (pisgen) To rise in little blisters; to break out in wheals; to pod.
Pisgwrn, s. m.—pl. pisgyrnod (pisg—gwrn) A pimple, or wheal.
Pisgwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pisg—gwŷdd) Lime trees, linden trees; also called Palalwyf.
Pisgwydden, s. f. dim. (pisgwydd) A linden-tree.
Pisgyrnawg, a. (pisgwrn) Having pimples.
Pisgyrniad, s. m. (pisgwrn) A breaking out in pimples.
Pisgyrnu, v. n. (pisgwrn) To break out in pimples.
Pisgyrnyn, s. m. dim. (pisgwrn) A small pimple.
Pision, s. pl. aggr. (pis) Urines, stales.
Pislath, s. f.—pl. t. au (pis—llath) A bar laid to keep in the litter of a cowhouse. See llaesodbren
Pislyd, a. (pis) Apt to void urine; diabetical.
Pislydrwydd, s. m. (pislyd) Aptness to void urine.
Pisodyn, s. m. dim. (pisawd) The quantity of urine voided at one time.

Hanbydd achwaneg y mor o bisodyn y dryw.

The sea will be augmented by the pissing of the wren. Adage.

Hawdd cronî ffrwd pisodyn.

It is easy to dam the current of a pissing. Adage.

Pistyll, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pis—tyll) A spout. Pistyll yr ysgyfaint, the spout of the lungs, or lower part of the trachea; pistyll y breuant, the top of the windpipe.
Pistylliad, s. m. (pistyll) A spouting out.
Pistylliaw, v. n. (pistyll) To spout out.
Pistylliawg, a. (pistyll) Having a spout.

Pisw, s. m. (pis) What is staled as urine; also the same as biswal, the draining from where cattle are kept.

Piswydd, s. pl. aggr. (pis—gwydd) Spindle trees.

Piswydden, s. f. dim. (piswydd) A spindle-tree.

Pitan, s. c. dim. (pid) A teat, a nipple.

Pitw, a. (pid) Very little, minute, or petty.

Pith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—ith) That is like grains, that is granulated.

Pithell, s. f.—pl. t. od (pith) A shardfish.

Piw, s. m.—pl. t. od (pi) A dug, or udder.

Pla, s. m.—pl. t. äu (py—lla) That expands, opens, or breaks out; a plague.

Daeth i lwyth Hwfa pla plyg.

There befel to the tribe of Hwfa a double affliction. Bleddyn Fardd.

Pläaidd, a. (pla) Like a plague, plaguy.

Pläawg, a. (pla) Having a plague, or pestilence.

Pläawl, a. (pla) Belonging to the plague.

Plad, s. m. (py—llad) What is driven out, what is beaten out, or flattened; any flat piece; plate

Tra bo dur na phlad, tra bo dewr na ffwch.

Whilst there be steel or plate, whilst there be the bold or active. W. Lleyn.

Pladr, s. m. (plad) That spreads out flatly.

Pladren, s. f. dim. (pladr) That is spread out.

Pladres, s. f.—pl. t. i (pladr) A shewy woman.

Pladru, v. a. (pladr) To spread out, to flaunt.

Pladur, s. f.—pl. t. iau (plad) A scythe.

Pladuraw, v. a. (pladur) To use a scythe.

Pladurawd, s. m. (pladur) A stroke of a scythe.

Pladuriad, s. m. (pladur) A making use of a scythe.

Pladuriaeth, s. m. (pladur) The use of the scythe.

Pladurwr, s. m.—pl. pladurwyr (pladur—gwr) One who uses a scythe, a mower.

Plaeaw, v. a. (pla) To plague, or to torment.

Oni byddai i mi dy nerthu, a chymeryd trugaredd arnad, tithau a fyddit yn cael dy blaeaw gyda hwynt.

If I were not to strengthen thee, and have mercy upon thee, then thou wouldest be getting thyself to be tormented with them. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Plaid, s. f.—pl. pleidiau (pla—id) That parts or divides off; a side; a partition; a wall; a part; a party; a cause. Plaid wellt, a straw partition. O blaid, on the part of, because of.

Rhaid wrth anmhwyll pwyll parawd.

With indiscretion there is cause for ready wit. Adage.

Deffraw, fun! differ f'enaid,
Duw! dyn blin sy dan dy blaid.

Awake, fair maid! God save my soul; an afflicted person is under thy wall. D. ab Edmwnt.

Plan, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pla—an) That is parted off; or that proceeds from; a ray, a scion or shoot; a plantation, or planting; also a plane.

Planad, s. f. (plan) A shooting off; that shoots or radiates; that is generated; a flowing element; a meteor.

Pliiwr adail, ple'r ydwyt;
Planad wyllt, pa le nid wyt!

Stripper of a building, where art thou; wild meteor, where art thou not? Maredudd ab Rhys.

Tad planed wastad; tad niwl distaw gwyn;
Tad i'r gwynt, gwaith ei law;
Tad gwenith, tad eginaw;
Tad yw i'r gwlith, tad i'r gwlaw.

The father of the regular fluid element; father of the silent pale mist; father of the wind, the work of his hand; father of the fair corn; father of germination; father is he of the dew; father to the rain. L. G. Cothi.

Planc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (plan) That is driven out; that is flat; a plank, or board. Bara planc, a sort of hard thin bread, used in Carmarthenshire.

Heb na chainog, na chlogan,
(Blin yw'r clwyf) yn blanc glan.

Sometimes without a penny, or a cloke (vexatious is the complaint) like a bare board. Giles ab Sion.

Planaidd, a. (plan) Tending to shoot off.

Planawd, s. m. (plan) A producing by shoots; the act of planting.

Planawg, a. (plan) Producing shoots; planted.

Planawl, a. (plan) Tending to shoot; belonging to planting.

Planed, s. f.—pl. t. au (plan) That shoots or radiates; a shooting body; a planet.

Planedawl, a. (planed) Planetical, planetary.

Planedig, a. (plan) Being produced by shoots; planted, or set.

Planedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (planed) Planetarium

Planfa, s. f.—pl. planfëydd (plan—ma) A plantation, or nursery of trees.

Planiad, s. m. (plan) A planting, a setting shoots

Planig, a. (plan) Being apt to produce shoots.

Planigfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (planig) A plantation.

Planigyn, s. m. dim. (planig) A shoot; a plant.

Plant, s. pl. aggr. (plan) Emanations; issue, offspring, children.

Plant gwirionedd ynt hen ddiarebion.

Old proverbs are the children of truth. Adage.

Tri nodau plant Duw: ymddwyn difalch, cydwybod lan, a dyoddef camwedd yn amynneddgar.

The three characteristics of the children of God: conduct void of pride, a pure conscience, and the bearing of injury patiently. Barddas.

Planta, v. a. (plant) To get or to bear children.

Plantach, s. pl. dim. (plant) Little children.

Plantaidd, a. (plant) Like children; childish.

Rhaid i'r duwiolion fod mor blantaidd na ellir eu cyfrwysaw.

It is necessary for pious ones to be so like children as not to be possible to make them crafty. Morgan Llwyd.

Plantawg, a. (plant) Having children.

Plantawl, a. (plant) Belonging to children.

Planteiddiad, s. m. (plantaidd) A becoming like children.

Planteiddiaw, v. n. (plantaidd) To become like children; to grow childish.

Plantos, s. pl. dim. (plant) Little children.

Planu, v. a. (plan) To shoot off; to produce a shoot or offspring; to plant, to set shoots.

Planwr, s. m.—pl. planwyr (planu—gwr) One who produces shoots; a planter.

Plas, s. m.—pl. t. au (pla—as) An extended plat or area: an edifice; a large house, a hall.

Llyw deifulawg llidiawg, lledled fydd ei blas:
Llwyr-waeth yw ei gas no'i garennydd.

The bounteous and wrathful leader, displayed with profusion his hall; much worse is his hate than his connection. Llygad Gwr.

Plasaidd, a. (plas) Like a hall; like a palace.

Plasawl, a. (plas) Belonging to a hall.

Plast, s. m. (plas) That is spread out.

Plastr, s. m.—pl. plastrion (plast) That is spread over; a plaister, a daub.

Plastrawg, a. (plastr) Covered with plaister.

Plastriad, s. m. (plastr) A plaistering.

Plastriaw, v. a. (plastr) To plaister, to daub.

Plastriwr, s. m. (plastr—gwr) A plaisterer.

Plasu, v. a. (plas) To form an extended area; to build a large edifice; to build a large house.

Pläu, v. a. (pla) To expand, to break out; to infect with a plague, to plague.

Pled, s. m. (py—lled) A principle of extension.

Pledr, s. m. (pled) That stretches out.

Pledraidd, a. (pledr) Tending to stretch.

Pledren, s. f. dim. (pledr) A bladder, a bowl. Llonaid pledren o flawd, a bowlful of meal. Dyf.

Pledrig, s. f. dim. (pledr) A little bladder.

Pledru, v. a. (pledr) To stretch or extend out.

Pledryn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (pledr) A slang, or slip: waste ground by the way side.

Pleiden, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (plaid) What serves for a partition; a hurdle, a wattling.

Pleidgar, a. (plaid) Apt to side; factious, partial

Pybyr wanar, pleidgar blwng.

A vigorous leader, factious and relentless.
Iolo Goch. i O. Glyndyfrdwy.

Pleidgarwch, s. m. (pleidgar) Factiousness.

Pleidiad, s. m. (plaid) A taking a part.

Pleidiant, s. m. (plaid) The act of taking a side.

Pleidiaw, v. a. (plaid) To take a part, to side.

Pleidiawg, a. (plaid) Of a side or party; factious

Pleidiawl, a. (plaid) Belonging to a party.

Pleidiolrwydd, s. m. (pleidiawl) The state of belonging to a party.

Pleidiwr, s. m. (plaid—gwr) A partisan.

Pleidwriaeth, s. m. (pleidiwr) The state of being a party-man, or a partisan.

Pleidwyn, s. m. (plaid—gwyn) Party rage.

Pleidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (plaid) A partisan.

Yn y flwyddyn 985 y dygynt bleidyddion Ieuaf ab Idwal Gotffrid ab Haralit y drydy-waith i Fon.

In the year 985 the partisans of Ieuav son of Idwal brought Gotfrid son of Haralit the third time into Mon.
Carad. Llangarfan.

Pleiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plan) Radiation.

Pleiniaw, v. a. (plan) To radiate, to cast rays.

Pleiniawg, a. (plan) Having rays.

Pleiniawl, a. (plan) Radiating, casting rays.

Plenig, a. (plan) Radiant, splendid, glorious.

Ciriedus Arglwydd! bwyf caredig fry,
Yn y fro ddewisig—
Ar warant Efa blant blenig.

Gracious Lord! may I be beloved on high, in the blissful region, on the covenant of the glorious children of Eve.
Gr. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Plent, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (plan) That is rayed.

Plentyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (plant) A child.

Plentynaidd, a. (plentyn) Childish, babyish.

Plentynawl, a. (plentyn) Belonging to a child.

Plentyneiddiad, s. m. (plentynaidd) A becoming childish, a becoming like a baby.

Plentyneiddiaw, v. n. (plentynaidd) To become childish; to become as a baby.

Plentyneiddrwydd, s. m. (plentynaidd) Childishness.

Plenydd, s. m. (plan) Radiance; display; light.

Tri chyntefigion beirdd Ynys Prydain;
Plenydd, Alawn, a Gwron.

The three primordials of the bards of the isle of Britain; Light, Harmony, and Energy.
Barddas.

Pleth, s. f.—pl. t. i (py—lleth) A plait, a braid.

Plethadwy, a. (pleth) Capable of being plaited.

Plethawl, a. (pleth) Plaiting, or wreathing.

Plethbin, s. m.—pl. t. au (pleth—pin) A bobbin, a small pin used in weaving.

Plethedig, a. (pleth) Plaited, wreathed, braided.

Plethiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pleth) A plaiting, a braiding, a wreathing; a doubling; a twirling; also a shake in music.

Plethlinyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pleth—llinyn) A plaited cord, or bobbin.

Plethu, v. a. (pleth) To plait, to braid, to wreath

Plethwr, s. m.—pl. plethwyr (pleth—gwr) A plaiter, a braider, a wreather.

Pliciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plig) A peeling.

Pliciaw, v. a. (plig) To pluck, to peel.

Plig, s. m. (py—llig) A pluck off, a peel.

Pling, s. m. (py—lling) A flay, a strip off.

Plingaw, v. a. (pling) To flay, to skin.

Plingiad, s. m. (pling) A flaying, a skinning.

Plingwr, s. m. (pling—gwr) A flayer.

Plisg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (lly—isg) Shells, husks.

Plisgaw, v. a. (plisg) To shell, or to husk.

Plisgawl, a. (plisg) Belonging to a shell.

Plisgiad, s. m. (plisg) A shelling, a husking.

Plisgwrn, s. m. (plisg—gwrn) The lime-tree; also called gwaglwyfen, plisgyrnen, and pisgen.

Plisgyn, s. m. dim. (plisg) A shell, or a husk.

A'th wisg a fu o'r plisgyn,
O'th febyd hefyd hyd hyn.

And thy covering was of the shell, from thy youth, also, to this time.
D. Ph. Rhys Len.

Plith, s. m. (py—llith) The state of being blended or amongst. Plith-dra-phlith, plith-dra-chymysg, all in confusion, helter-skelter.

Duw a alwodd ei deulu,
Pen cantorion, loewon lu,
I gano cerdd gogoniant,
Ac yn eu plith genau plant.

God has called his family, chief of songsters, a splendid host, to sing a hymn of glory, and in their company were infants' lips,
Gro. Owain.

Plithaw, v. a. (plith) To blend, to be mixed.

Plithedd, s. m. (plith) Mixedness, blendedness.

Plithiad, s. m. (plith) A blending, a mixing.

Ploc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—lloc) A block.

Plociaw, v. a. (ploc) To block; to plug.

Plocyn, s. m. dim. (ploc) A small block.

Plu, s. pl. aggr. (py—llu) Feathers. Plu y gweunydd, cotton-grass; gwely plu, a feather bed.

Mae llawer gwydd heblaw yr un sy'n gwisgaw plu.

There be many a goose besides the one which wears feathers.
Adage.

Pluad, s. m. (plu) A feathering, a fledging; a pluming; deplumation.

Pluaidd, a. (plu) Feathery, plumous, featherlike

Pluaw, v. n. (plu) To feather, to fledge; to plume, to deplume; to strip of feathers. Pluaw eira, to snow in large flakes.

Pluawg, a. (plu) Covered with feathers, fledged.

Pluawl, a. (plu) Plumous; feathering.

Pluawr, s. m. aggr. (plu) A plumage, feathers.

Plucan, s. c. dim. (plu) Down; kidney-vetch.

Pludd, s. m. (py—lludd) That is flexible or soft.

Pluddaw, v. a. (pludd) To render flexible.

Pluen, s. f. dim. (plu) A feather, a plume.

Plueniad, s. m. (pluen) A pluming, a feathering.

Pluenu, v. n. (plu) To plume, to feather.

Pluf, s. pl. aggr. (plu) Plumage, or feathers.

Yr alarch——
Palfau gwydd, yn y pluf gwyn.

The swan, with shanks of a goose, in the white plumage.
D. ab Ieuan Ddu.

Dyged pob eden ei bluf oddigenthi, ac efelly hi a ufuddeir.

Let every bird take its own feathers away from her, and so she shall be humbled.
Lemeg.

Plufaidd, a. (pluf) Feathery, or plumous.

Plufawg, a. (pluf) Feathered, or plumed.

Plufawl, a. (pluf) Plumous; pluming.

Plufen, s. f. dim. (pluf) A plume, or a feather.

Plufiad, s. m. (pluf) A pluming; plumosity.

Plufiaw, v. a. (pluf) To deplume, to feather.

Plüwr, s. m. (plu—gwr) A feather dresser.

Plw, s. m. (py—llw) That spreads or expands out

Plwc, s. m. (plw) A space; a while; a quantity. Plwc mawr, a great deal; rhaid i ti aros plwc, thou must stay a while; mi ei gwnaf fo plwc, I will do it instantly.

Plwca, s. m. (plwc) A spread; a splash; mire.

Plwm, s. m. (plw) Lead. Mwn plwm, lead ore.

Yr eira——
Plwm oer ei glog; p'le mae'r gwlaw?

The snow, like lead of chilling cloke; where is the rain.
D. ab Gwilym.

Plwng, s. m. (py—llwng) A plunge, or a dip.
Plwy, s. m. (plw) A community, a parish.
Plwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (plwy) A community.
Plwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (plwy) A whole mass or complete body of people; a cure, a parish.

Rhydderchafwy Duw ar blwyf Brython
Arwydd llewenydd lluydd o Fon!

May God exalt over the community of Britons the sign of gladness of a host from Mona! Taliesin.

Plwyfaidd, a. (plwyf) Being like a parish.
Plwyfawg, a. (plwyf) Having a parish.
Pwyfawl, a. (plwyf) Belonging to a parish.
Plwyfogaeth, s. m. (plwyfawg) The jurisdiction of a parish; the jurisdiction of the church.

Yr eglwys y gorddiweddwys arno gyfraith yn ei phlwyfogaeth.

The church where the law overtook him within its parochial jurisdiction. Welsh Laws.

Plwyfogi, v. a. (plwyfawg) To settle in a parish; to become settled in a parish.
Plwyfoli, v. a. (plwyfawl) To render parochial; to become settled in a parish.
Plwyfoliaeth, s. m. (plwyfawl) The act of rendering parochial; the state of being parochial.
Plwyn, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—llwyn) That is full or perfect. Plwyniau, the hairs on the breast and other parts of a full-grown person.
Plwynaw, v. n. (plwyn) To have signs of puberty.
Plwyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plwyn) A having signs of puberty.
Ply, s. m. (py—lly) That is flexible or tender.
Plydd, a. (ply) Soft, delicate, tender, limber, flexible, pliant.

Mynai adar man——
I gael plad gwelyau plydd.

He would procure small birds to enjoy the spread of soft beds.
H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys, i walch.

Plyddâad, s. m. (plyddâu) A rendering soft or tender, a becoming soft, delicate, or pliant.
Plyddâawl, a. (plyddâu) Tending to soften, apt to become delicate or pliant.
Plyddâu, v. a. (plydd) To render soft, to render pliant; to become soft or pliant.
Plyddaw, v. a. (plydd) To soften, to make tender or delicate, to become soft or tender.

Clwyd uswydd nis plydd, nis plyg,
Clod gyhoedd caeroedd ceryg.

A shivered palisade that will not yield, that will not bend, the public boast of stone forts. Ll. P. Moch.

Plyddawl, a. (plydd) Of a soft or tender quality.
Plyddedd, s. m. (plydd) Softness, tenderness.
Plyddiad, s. m. (plydd) A softening, a making tender or flexible, a becoming soft.
Plyddu, v. v. (plydd) To soften; to become soft, tender, or delicate; to grow limber.
Plyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ply) A flexion, a double, a plait, a fold, a bend.
Plygain, s. m.—pl. plygeiniau (ply—cain) The return of light, the early morning, the dawn.

Yn newaint, yn mhlygeiniau
Llewychawd yn lleuferau.

In the nightfall in the early dawns let our lamps brightly shine.
Taliesin.

Plygaint, s. m. (plygain) The dawn, or day-spring.
Plygawl, a. (plyg) Doubling, or folding.
Plygddor, s. m. (plyg—dor) A folding door.
Plygedd, s. m. (plyg) A doubled or folded state.

Plygeiniawl, a. (plygain) Dawning, matin:

Y bore yn blygeiniawl iawn——ei allan.

In the morning very early——he went out. Mark i. 35.

Plygfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (plyg) A double, a fold.
Plygiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (plyg) A doubling, a folding, a bending back.
Plygiadawl, a. (plygiad) Tending to double.
Plygiant, s. m. (ply) A duplication, a folding.
Plygiedig, a. (plygiad) Doubled, or folded.
Plygiedydd, s. m. (plygiad) Tweezers, pliers.
Plygu, v. a. (plyg) To double, to plait, to fold.

Gwell y wialen a blyco nog a doro.

Better the rod that will bend than the one that will break.
Adage.

Nis plyg ei feddwl, mal Cychwlyn;
Ni ddiannela 'n rhoi da 'n rhaid 'yn.

His mind will not give way, like Cychwlyn; he will not desist from his purpose in distributing bounty according to our wants.
L. G. Cothi.

Plygwr, s. m. (plyg—gwr) A folder, a doubler.
Plygyd, s. m. (plyg) A party or side. O blygyd, on account of; yn mhlygyd, in relation to.
Plym, s. m. (py—llym) That is agonizing.
Plymawl, a. (plym) Agonizing, writhing.
Plymen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (plwm) That is of lead; a leaden vessel; a plummet. Plymen iâ, a flake of ice.
Plymiad, s. m. (plwm) A leadening.
Plymiaidd, a. (plwm) Like lead; leaden.
Plymiaw, v. a. (plwm) To leaden; to lead, or to sound with a lead-line.
Plymiawl, a. (plwm) Of the quality of lead.
Plymiwr, s. m. (plwm—gwr) A plumber.
Plymliw, s. m. (plwm—lliw) Lead-colour.
Plymlyd, a. (plwm) Of the nature of lead.
Plymnwyd, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (plym—nwyd) A struggle, a conflict.

Er lles gwledig Mon gwaint yn mhlymnwyd.

To the benefit of the ruler of Mon active in the conflict.
Gwalchmai.

Plymu, v. a. (plwn) To lead, to cover with lead.

Peris gwneuthur pollion—ac eu plymu, a gosawd y rhai hyny a dan y dwfr.

He caused stakes to be made, and leaden them, and to fix those under the water. Gr. ab Arthur.

Plymwriaeth, s. m. (plymiwr) Plumbery.
PO, s. m. r. That comprehends; that is comprehended, contained, or restrained.
Po, adv. (po, s.) If; by how much, by so much.

Po amlaf y bleiddiau gwaethaf i'r defaid.

By so much the more frequent the wolves the worse for the sheep.
Adage.

Pob, pron. (po) Each, every. Pob yn wr, man by man; pob yn un, one by one; pob yn ronyn, pob yn dipyn, pob yn ychydig, by little and little.
Pob, a. (po) Each, every. Pob dyn, every person; pob un, every one; pob peth, every thing.

Pob peth yn ei amser.
Every thing in its time. Adage.
Aflafar pob tawedawg.
Inarticulate is every silent one. Adage.
Cyfoethawg pob diddyled.
Rich is every one not in debt. Adage.

Pob, s. m. (py—ob) A bake, baking. a. Baked; roasted, toasted.
Poban, s. f.—pl. t. au (pob) An oven.
Pobedig, a. (pob) Baked; roasted, toasted.
Pobi, v. a. (pob) To bake; to roast, to toast.

Pobi bara, crasu bara, to bake bread; to toast bread; pobi caws, to toast cheese.

Llawn i bobi golwyth.

Full to bake a piece of flesh. Adage.

Anhawdd pobi heb flawd.

It is difficult to bake without flour. Adage.

Pobiad, s. m. (pob) A baking; a roasting, a toasting; the quantity baked at once.

Pobiant, s. m. (pob) A baking; a batch.

Pobl, s. pl. aggr.—pl. t. oedd (pawb) A people.

Credwn i'n Rheen——
Galwaf ymeiriawl ar ei wenwas,
A holl graddau nef yn eu haddas:
A'm eiriolo Pedr, per ei efras
Ar bobloedd gwerin gwaued tras.

Let us believe in our Creator: I will invoke the intercession of his blessed servant, and all the orders of heaven in their station: May I be interceded for by Peter, of sweet influence on simple people of so weak dependence. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Poblach, s. pl. dim. (pobl) Low people, plebeians.

Poblawg, a. (pobl) Having people, populous.

Pobli, v. a. (pobl) To people; to become peopled.

Pobliad, s. m. (pobl) Population, a peopling.

Poblogaeth, s. m. (pobl) A populous state.

Poblogaidd, a. (poblawg) Popular, populous.

Poblogi, v. a. (poblawg) To populate, to people.

Poblogiad, s. m. (pobl) A rendering populous; a becoming populous.

Poblogrwydd, s. m. (poblawg) Populousness.

Pobpeth, s. m. (pob—peth) Every thing.

Bach yw pobpeth yn ei ddechreu.

Small is every thing in its beginning. Adage.

Pobtu, s. m. (pob—tu) Every side, the compass, or circuit. adv. On every side, about.

Pump gwregys——
Y ddau o bobtu, y dyfu tymher da,
Gwres oddihwnt, ac oerfel oddlyma.

Five zones, the two on each side, where is good temperature, heat from that side, and cold from this side. Taliesin.

Pobty, s. m.—pl. t. au (pob—ty) A bakehouse.

Pobur, s. m. (pob) A baker; a roaster; a toaster.

Poburies, s. f.—pl. t. au (pobur) A baking woman.

Poburies a ddyly ei bwyd o'r llys; a'i dillad; a saig pan fo y brenin; a theisen diwedd pobi o bob amryw flawd a bopo; a'i gwely yn y bwytty.

The baking-woman claims her food from the palace; and her clothes; and a dainty when the king is there; and a cake after baking of the various sorts of meal that she bakes; and her bed in the provision house. Welsh Laws.

Pobwr, s. m.—pl. pobwyr (pobi—gwr) A baker.

Pobwraig, s. f. (pobi—gwraig) A female baker.

Pobydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pob) A baker.

Darfu—i drulliad brenin yr Aipht, ac y pobydd, bechu yn erbyn eu harglwydd.

The butler of the king of Egypt, and the baker, did sin against their lord. Genesis 40. 1.

Pobyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pobydd) A baking woman.

Pobyddiaeth, s. m. (pobydd) The art of baking.

Poc, s. m. (py—oc) A smack; a kiss.

Poca, s. m. dim. (poc) A smack, a kiss.

Pocan, s. c. dim. (poc) A smack, a kiss.

Pocyn, s. m. dim. (poc) A smack, a kiss.

Pod, s. m.—pl. t. au (po) That is taken in.

Podi, v. a. (pod) To take in; to comprehend.

Podr, a. (f. of pwdr) Powdery, mouldering.

Poen, s. f.—pl. t. au (po—en) Pain, torment, agony; punishment; pains, labour. Cei hyn am dy boen, thou shalt have this for thy pains.

Rhag pobloedd poen eu cyweithas
Boed ef fy Nuw nef bo fy nawdd.

Against people whose society is a pain, may he who is my God of heaven be my bulwark. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Poendawd, s. m. (poen) An infliction of pain.

Poenedig, a. (poen) Pained, or tormented.

Poenedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (poenedig) The being pained or tormented; punishment.

Poengar, a. (poen) Painful, or tormenting.

Poeni, v. a. (poen) To inflict pain, to torment; to take pains; to suffer pains, to be in torment.

Poeniad, s. m. (poen) A paining, a tormenting; a taking pains; a suffering pain.

Poenof, s. m. (poen—of) Emotion of pain.

Poenofaint, s. m. (poenof) The state of suffering pain, a state of punishment.

Cyn ergryd penyd poenofaint,
Porthwyr Duw, boed hwynt fy ngheraint!

Before the shock of the pang of punishment, the porters of God, may they be my friends! Cynddelw.

Poenus, a. (poen) Painful, tormenting; full of misery, laborious, toiling.

Poenusaw, v. a. (poenus) To render painful; to be taking pains, to be laborious.

Poenusedd, s. m. (poenus) Painfulness, or a state of pain; laboriousness.

Poenusrwydd, s. m. (poenus) Painfulness.

Poenwedd, s. f. (poen—gwedd) An aspect of agony.

Poenwr, s. m.—pl. poenwyr (poen—gwr) One who pains, a tormentor; a toiler.

Poenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (poen) A painer.

Poer, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—oer) Saliva, spittle.

Poerai, s. m. (poer) The bastard pellitory.

Poerawl, a. (poer) Spitting, salivarious.

Poeredd, s. m. (poer) A salivous state, spitting.

Poeri, v. a. (poer) To spit. Poera yn ei enau, spit in his mouth: i. e. bribe him.

Poeriad, s. m. (poer) A spitting; expectoration.

Poeriannawl, a. (poeriant) Salivous.

Poeriannu, v. a. (poeriant) To salivate.

Poeriant, s. m. (poer) A salivation, spitting.

Poerlys, s. pl. aggr. (poer—llys) Master-wort.

Poerllyd, a. (poer) Salivous; apt to spit.

Poerllydrwydd, s. m. (poerllyd) The salivous state

Poerllydu, v. a. (poerllyd) To render salivous.

Poerwr, s. m.—pl. poerwyr (poeri—gwr) A spitter.

Poeryn, s. m. dim. (poer) A spitter, one who spits; one spitted into his month, like a spaniel, or that is made a tool of, a sycophant.

Poes, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—oes) A state of being.

Can ni wyr a'i pwyll pelled anfoes
Anrhaid ystyriaid ysbaid einoes
O gadarn gadwent camp presennt poes:
A fu oedawg doe heddyw nid oes;
Yn hir ni nynwys Duw dynhawl einioes.

Since he that regards it knows not how spreading is immorality; unnecessary then the consideration of the extent of the severe conflict of the trial of the present state: That was remaining yesterday to-day is not; for long hath not God kindled human life. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Poesawl, a. (poes) Belonging to a state of being.

Poesi, v. n. (poes) To be in a state of being.

Poesiad, s. m. (poes) A having a state of being.

Poeth, a. (py—oeth) Hot, scorching, fiery, acrid.

Poethawd, s. m. (poeth) The act of heating.

Poethawl, a. (poeth) Heating, burning.

Poethder, s. m. (poeth) Hotness, heat; acrimony.

Poethdra, s. m. (poeth) Hotness; acrimony.

Poethedig, a. (poeth) Being heated.

Poethedd, s. m. (poeth) Hotness; acrimony.

Poethfa, s. f.—pl. poethfëydd (poeth) A burning.

Poethfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (poeth) A hot place.

——Poethfan peth uffernawl,
Yn ys mae cynnygyn yn canmawl celwydd.

A burning place of infernal nature, where there is party praising of falsehood. Bleddyn Fardd.

Poethfrych, a. (brych) Bristling with heat.

Poethfflam, s. f. (poeth—fflam) A hot flame; the hearts-ease; also called blaen y gwaew.
Poethgur, s. m. (poeth—cur) An inflamed throb.
Poethi, v. a. (poeth) To make hot, to heat, to become hot, to be heated.
Poethiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (poeth) A heating.
Poethiannawl, a. (poethiant) Tending to torrefy, of a parching nature.
Poethiannu, v. a. (poethiant) To torrefy.
Poethiant, s. m. (poeth) Torrefaction.
Poethiator, ger. (poethiad) In heating.
Poethineb, s. m. (poeth) A torrid state.
Poethitor, sup. (poeth) To be heating.
Poethni, s. m. (poeth) Hotness, or heat.
Poethotor, part. (poeth) Having been heating.
Poethus, a. (poeth) Of a hot quality.
Poethwal, s. m. (poeth—gwal) A place where furze, heath, or the like, has been burnt standing.
Poethwg, s. m. (poeth) Torridity, aridity.
Poethwraidd, s. m. (poeth—gwraidd) Masterwort.
Poethwy, s. m. (poeth—wy) The razorbill.
Poethwyn, s. m. (poeth—gwyn) An inflammatory heat; heat of passion.
Poethygus, v. (poethwg) Of a torrid nature.
Pol, s. m. (py—ol) That is without a trace.
Pol, a. (f. of pwl) Blunt, round, obtuse.
Poliad, s. m. (pawl) A fixing a pole.
Poliaw, v. a. (pawl) To set up a pole or stake; to beat with a stake, to cudgel.

> Bid ial nawdd; bodlon oeddwn,
> Beli hael, it boliaw hwn.
>
> Be the protection done away; I were content, generous Beli, that thou shouldest cudgel this one. Rhis. Iorwerth.

Poliedig, a. (poliad) That is staked.
Polion, s. pl. aggr. (pawl) Stakes, poles.
Polioni, v. a. (polion) To set stakes or poles.
Pon, s. m. (py—on) That is puffed or blistered.
Pona, adv. (po—na) If not, if it should not. It precedes words with consonant initials.
Ponad, adv. (po—na) If not, should it not.
Ponag, adv. (po—nag) Unless, except.
Ponar, s. f. (pon) A puff; a pod. Teisen bonar, a puff cake: a bean.
Ponc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (py—onc) A hillock.
Poncen, s. f. dim. (ponc) A small hillock.
Ponciad, s. m. (ponc) A swelling up.
Ponciaw, v. a. (ponc) To swell up, to puff up. Mal y poncia dy fron! how thy breast heaves!
Pouciawl, a. (ponc) Tending to swell up.
Poncyn, s. m. dim. (ponc) A little hillock.
Pond, adv. (py—ond) Is it not; what else.
Poni, adv. (py—oni) Why is it not; why not.

> Poni welwch hynt y gwynt a'r gwlaw;
> Poni welwch chwi 'r deri yn ymdaraw!
>
> Why behold you not the course of the wind and the rain; why behold you not the oaks beating one against the other! Gr. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Poniaw, v. a. (pon) To puff out, to swell out, to fatten, to feed.
Ponid, adv. (py—onid) What not, is it not, is it not so. Dyn wyd ti: Ponid dyn wyd tithau? Thou art a man: Art not thou a man too?

> Ponid erlys dy gyfreu
> A lefair dy enau?
>
> Do not thy passions counteract what is uttered by thy lips? Taliesin, Armes Dyddbrawd.

Pont, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (pon) That rises up; that rises or supports; that elevates; a bridge. Pont ysgwydd, a collar-bone; pont y trwyn, the bone of the nose; pynt perth, the archings of a bush; pont faen, a stone bridge; pont goed, a wooden bridge.

> A fo pen bid pont.
>
> That would be the top let him be a bridge. Adage.

> Miloedd a wnant
> Mawl ogoniant
> Ar fryn a phant
> A phynt ysbryd.
>
> Thousands will give praise of triumph, on hill and dale, with the elevations of the spirit. Plygaint i Dduw.

> Cymmrodawg awydd cymmradw ei fri;
> Cymmroded fyned pan fo pont Dewi.
>
> Of conciliating disposition, fleeting is his honour; let him be tranquillized to go when Dewi shall be supporting agent. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Pontawg, a. (pont) Having an arch or bridge.
Pontbren, s. m.—pl. t. i. (pont—pren) A rustic bridge of a single piece of timber.
Pontiad, s. m. (pont) A bearing over; a vaulting, a rising like a vault; a forming a bridge.
Pontiaw, v. a. (pont) To bear over; to raise up as a vault; to raise up like a vault or bridge.
Pontydd, s. m. (pont) A bridge-builder.
Pontyddiaeth, s. m. (pontydd) Bridge-building.
Por, s. m.—pl. pyr (py—or) That comprehends; that is exterior, or over; that is supreme, a sovereign, a lord.

> Pur yw ei gledd, por y Glyn,
> Pwyll rwysgwr pell oresgyn.
>
> Pure is his sword, the lord of the Dale, a hero of forward course far conquering. Iolo Goch, i O. Glandwr.

Porch, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (py—orch) A pig.
Porchell, s. m.—pl. t. od (porch) A little pig.

> Oiana, porchellan, y porchell gwyn:
> Rhymdywawd chwibleian chwedl a'n dychryn.
>
> Listen, dear little pig, the white little pig: a wandering nymph has imparted to me an oracle, which will terrify us. Myrddin.

Porchellan, s. c. dim. (porchell) A tiny little pig.

> Oiana porchellan, llym ewinedd,
> Cywely a fynyt, pan elyt i orwedd;
> Bychan a wyr Rhydderch Hael, heno i ar ei wledd
> A borthais i neithwyr o anhunedd!
>
> Listen, dear little pig, of sharp claws, thou wouldest seek a bedfellow, when thou shouldest go to lie down; Little does Rhydderch the generous know to-night what I suffered last night of affliction! Myrddin.

Porchelles, s. f.--pl. t. od (porchell) A young sow.
Porchelliad, s. m. (porchell) A pigging.
Porchellig, s. f. dim. (porchell) A young sow.
Porchellu, v. a. (porchell) To bring forth pigs.
Porchellwr, s. m.—pl. porchellwyr (porchellu—gwr) One who collects pigs, a hunter of pigs.

> Ni bu dy well borchellwr,
> Llwyd-du gwych yn llatai gwr.
>
> Than thee no better pig hunter has been, in gay tawny black a love messenger for a man. S. ab Rhys ab Morus, i'r Llwynog.

Porchellyn, s. m. dim. (porchell) A little pig.
Porfa, s. f.—pl. porfëydd (pawr) Pasture.
Porfäad, s. m. (porfa) A pasturing, a grazing.
Porfäawg, a. (porfa) Having pasture or grass.
Porfäawl, a. (porfa) Belonging to pasture.
Porfadir, s. m. (porfa—tir) Pasture ground.
Porfäu, v. a. (porfa) To become pasture.
Porfel, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pawr—mel) Pasture.
Porfela, v. a. (porfel) To attend to grazing; to manage a dairy farm, to practise dairy farming.
Porfelaeth, s. m. (porfel) The practice of grazing or dairy farming; what relates to grazing of cattle; agistment.
Porfelawg, a. (porfel) Abounding with pasture. Tir porfelawg iawn, land very abundant in grass. Silurian.
Porfeldir, s. m.—pl t. oedd (porfel—tir) Grassland. Gwent.
Porfeliad, s. m. (porfel) A forming a pasture.
Porfelu, v. a. (porfel) To depasture, to graze.

Porfelwr, s. m.—pl. porfelwyr (porfela—gwr) One who attends to grazing, a grazier.

Cell porfelwr ei fuarth.

A grazier's parlour is his cow-yard. Adage.

Porfelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porfel) A pasturer.

Pori, v. a. (pawr) to graze, to browse, to feed upon grass; to pasture.

Llwm tir ni phoro dafad.

Bare is the land which a sheep will not browse. Adage.

Yr oen yn dysgu i ddafad bori.

The lamb teaching the sheep to graze. Adage.

Tryw i ych bori meillion.

It is natural for an ox to browse trefoils. Adage.

Poriad, s. m. (pawr) A pasturing, a grazing.

Poriadaeth, s. m. (poriad) Agistment.

Poriadawl, a. (poriad) Belonging to pasturage; belonging to agistment.

Poriadu, v. a. (poriad) To depasture, to agist.

Poriannawl, a. (poriant) Belonging to pasturage.

Poriannu, v. a. (poriant) To depasture.

Poriant, s. m. (pawr) A pasturage, grazing.

Poriaw, v. a. (pawr) To cause pasture or grass; to become pasture.

Pond oeddych yn wych dy wedd,
Por glwysliw'n poriaw glasledd.

Wert thou not of gay appearance, thou lord of glorious hues, covering with pasture the greensward. D. ab Gwilym i'r haf.

Poriawg, a. (pawr) Having pasture or grass.

Poriawl, a. (pawr) Relating to pasturage.

Porth, s. m.—pl. pyrth (por) Aid, help, support, succour, sustenance, provision; that bears, carries on, or conveys; a carrying place, a passage, a port; a porch, or a gateway; a ferrying-place. Oed wrth borth, delay for support, of evidence, in law; Duw yn borth iti! God be thy help! porthgwlas, porth-og, a portcullis.

Anfon a orug Llyr genad at y brenin, ac at ei ferch—gwedi rhydd̄ol o'i ddau ddofion o Ynys Prydain yn ddieurhydeddus; ac yn dawed i geisiaw porth ganddynt.

What Llyr did was the sending a messenger to the king, and to his daughter, after being disgracefully driven out by his two sons-in-law from the Isle of Britain: and he being coming to obtain assistance from them. Gr. ab Arthur.

Doai Glewlwyd i'r neuadd; ac y dywawd Arthur wrtho: Hwedlau porth genyt?

There came Glewlwyd into the hall; thereupon Arthur said to him: 'Hast thou any gate news?' H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Trwy byrth angeu y cawn olwg ar fyd sydd well.

Through the gates of death we shall have a view of a better world. Adage.

Portha, v. a. (porth) To afford aid or help.

Porthai, s. c. (porth) That helps, aids, or supports; that bears, or carries.

Porthawd, s. m. (porth) The act of helping, or assisting; maintenance; conveyance.

Porthawg, a. (porth) Having aid or support.

Porthawl, a. (porth) Helping, aiding, succouring, tending to sustain, tending to bear.

Porthawr, s. m.—pl. porthorion (porth) A porter.

Y porthawr a ddyly, o bob anreg a ddelo trwy y porth, eiddyrnaid; nid amgen o aeron, ac wyau, a phenwaig.

The porter has a claim out of every present that may come through the gate, of having his handful; that is to say of fruits, and eggs, and herrings. Welsh Laws.

Porthedig, a. (porth) Supported, carried on.

Porthfa, s. f.—pl. porthfëydd (porth) A carrying place, a passage place, a ferrying-place, a port.

Badau a aynt a phob da
O'r buarth-for i'r borthfa.

Boats went with every commodity from the bay into the port. L. G. Cothi.

Porthi, v. a. (porth) To aid, to help, to support, to succour, to sustain, to provide with food, to bear, to convey, to carry on, or to bring forward. Porthi hen chwedl, to make use of an old saying.

Ni ddiylch angen ei borthi.

Necessity will not thank for to be supported. Adage.

A bortho ofid bid bwyllocaf.

That bears affliction let him be the most circumspect. Adage.

Ar ni phortho ei gath porthed ei lygod.

Such as will not support his cat let him support his mice. Adage.

Pen a borthaf ar fy ysgwydd,
Ni'm arfollai waradwydd:
Gwae fy llaw, lladd fy arglwydd!

A head I bear upon my shoulder, that would not let me receive disgrace: Woe my hand, that my lord is slain! Llywarch Hen, m. Urien.

Porthiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (porth) A helping on, a succouring, supportation, a bearing, a conveying, a bringing forward. Prydyddion borthiad, that is the support of poets.

Porthiadawl, a. (porthiad) Tending to succour.

Porthiadu, v. a. (porthiad) To render succouring, to become a support.

Porthianna, v. a. (porthiant) To provide support or sustenance, to supply with necessaries, to deal in provisions of any sort, to deal in cattle, or to act as a drover.

Porthiannawl, a. (porthiant) Apt to succour.

Porthianniad, s. m. (porthiant) A rendering a succour, supportation.

Porthiannu, v. a. (porthiant) To render a succour, to become a support.

Porthiannus, a. (porthiant) Being provided with sustenance; pampered.

Porthiannusaw, v. a. (porthiannus) To render succouring, to become supportative.

Porthiannwr, s. m—pl. porthiannwyr (porthiant—gwr) A supporter, or a succourer.

Porthiannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porthiant) One who supports, a succourer.

Porthiant, s. m. (porth) Support, maintenance.

Porthiator, ger. (porthiad) In supporting.

Porthid, s. m. (porth) Assistance, sustenance.

Porthidon, s. m. (porthid) That aids, assists, or succours, a helper, one who sustains.

Porthidon mwyaf,
Cyraf di imi fy ngau!

Thou supreme Supporter, blot out for me mine iniquity! Ysgolan.

Porthitor, sup. (porthid) To be supporting.

Porthladd, s. f.—pl. t. au (porth—lladd) A place of export; a port, a harbour.

Porthladdawg, a. (porthladd) Having a place of export; having a port; abounding with ports.

Porthle, s. m.--pl. t. oedd (porth—lle) A place of support; a carrying place; a port, a harbour.

Arglwydd a'm porthes porthle tewdor.

A chieftain has maintained me with the thickly covered place of support. Cynddelw.

Porthlëawg, a. (porthle) Having a port.

Porthlëawl, a. (porthle) Belonging to a port.

Porthloedd, s. m. (porth—lloedd) Means of support or maintenance.

Prif arglwydd brolwydd bronheilyn,
Braisg anlloedd beirdd, borthloedd berthyn.

A supreme lord of generous breast the prosperity of a country, a great blessing of bards, of appropriate maintenance. Cynddelw, i'r argl. Rhys.

Porthloeddawg, a. (porthloedd) Having means of support or maintenance.

Porthlys, s. m. (porth—llys) A portmote.

Porthmon, s. m.—pl. porthmyn (porth—mon) A conveyer or trader; a dealer in provisions; a provision merchant; a drover. Porthmon gwartheg, a drover of cattle; porthmon defaid, sheep-drover; porthmon moch, a pig-drover.

Porthmona, v. a. (porthmon) To deal in provisions; to traffic; to act as a drover.

Porthmonaeth, s. m. (porthmon) A dealing in provisions; purveyance.

Porthog, s. f.—pl. t. au (porth—og) A portcullis.

Portholaeth, s. m. (porthawl) Supportation.

Portholdeb, s. m. (porthawl) The state of being a succour, or support.

Portholi, v. a. (porthawl) To render supportative.

Porthordy, s. m.—pl. t. au (porthawr—ty) A porter's lodge.

Porthorddwy, s. m. (porth—gorddwy) That is aiding violence; an abettor of violence.

Seithfed affaith galanas yw cannorthwyaw y dyn a laddo y llall; a hono a elwir porthorddwy.

The seventh abetment of murder is, to assist the person who kills the other: and that is called aiding of violence. Welsh Laws.

Porthores, s. f. (porthawr) A female door-keeper.

Porthori, v. a. (porthawr) To act as a door-keeper.

Porthoriaeth, s. m. (porthawr) The office of a door-keeper.

Llys Owain——
Anhawdd yn fynych yno
Weled na chlicied, na chlo,
Na phorthoriaeth——

The court of Owain, difficult is it there to see nor latch, nor lock, nor a porter's office. Iolo Goch.

Porthotor, part. (porthawd) Being succoured.

Porthwas, s. m. (porth—gwas) A ferryman.

Porthwy, s. m. (porth) Assistant, or support.

Nac ymddiried am dy borthwy i'r peth a fwrir ymmaith.

Trust not for thy support to what is thrown away. Adage.

Porthwr, s. m.—pl. porthwyr (porth—gwr) A supporter a provisioner; a conveyer; a ferryman; a door-man.

Porthwriaeth, s. m. (porthwr) The calling of one who conveys; the office of a ferryman.

Porthwys, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porth—gwys) That attends a ferry.

Y fferi fawr i ffair Fon
Wrth osawd ei phorthwysion.

The great ferry to the fair of Mona under the regulation of its ferrymen. Gr. ab Hywel ab Tudyr.

Porwr, s. m.—pl. porwyr (pori—gwr) A man who feeds on grass.

Pos, s. m. (py—os) An increment; growth, or increase; that is gathered, or heaped.

Posel, s. m. (pos—el) Curdled milk; posset.

Posfardd, s. m.—pl. posfeirdd (pos—bardd) A preceptive bard, a teaching bard.

Tewch chwi bosfeirddion.

Be silent ye teaching bards. Bustl Beirdd.

Prydydd, neu fardd caw, sydd o dri rhyw: sef, prifardd, posfardd, ac arwyddfardd.

A poet, or a bard of verse, is of three branches; namely, a primary bard, a didactic-bard, and a herald-bard. S. D. Rhys.

Posiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pos) A gathering together, a collecting to a heap, a questioning, or investigation; a posing.

Yn bosfardd, ba fardd a fo,
'R hyd bysedd rhaid ei bosio;
A thrwy bwys uthr o bosiad
Graddau gynt o'u gwraidd a gad.

A didactic-bard, whatever bard would be, on the fingers it is necessary to question him; and through the weight of a solemn interrogation degrees from their source were given of yore. Edm. Prys.

Posiannawl, a. (posiant) Investigating, posing.

Posiannu, v. a. (posiant) To investigate, to pose.

Posiant, s. m. (pos) An investigation.

Posiar, s. f.—pl. posieir (pos—iar) A fat hen.

Posiaw, v. a. (pos) To make an increment; to gather knowledge; to investigate, to examine, to interrogate, to pose.

Rhaid i mi, ar y rhad mau,
Os doeth, dy bosiaw dithau.

It is necessary for me then, from the talent given me, in wisdom, to question thee. Edm. Prys, i W. Cynwal.

Posiawl, a. (pos) Investigating, posing.

Posiedig, a. (posiad) Investigated, questioned.

Posned, s. m.—pl. t. au (pos) A round body, or that swells out; a squat figure; a porringer; a pap saucepan. O y posned bach! O the little squab!

Post, s. m.—pl. pyst (py—ost) What projects or branches out; a post. Pedwar post y corff, pedair aelawd y corff, the four limbs of the body

Pan nad rhyfedd na thyf post aur drwy nen ty yr enwir.

When it is not wonderful that a post of gold does not grow through the house top of the unjust. Adage.

Tri phost cad Ynys Prydain; Dunawd Far, mab Pabo Post Prydain, Gwallawg fab Llëenawg, a Cynfelyn Drwsgl.

The three pillars of battle of the Isle of Britain; Dunod Var son of Pabo the pillar of Britain, Gwallog son of Llëenog, and Cynvelyn the Stumbler. Trioedd.

Post crwydr oesbarth Elifer.

The pillar of the wanderers leading a life like Elíver. Cynddelw.

Postiad, s. m. (post) A shooting out a stem; a putting up a post, or pillar.

Postiaw, v. a. (post) To shoot out a stem; to set up a post, to set up a pillar.

Postyn, s. m. dim. (post) A little post.

Pot, s. m.—pl. t. iau (po) A pot. Pot o laeth, a pot of milk.

Potel, s. f.—pl. t. i (pot) What is puffed out; a leathern bottle; a bottle.

Potellad, s. m. (potel) A bottling.

Potelu, v. a. (potel) To bottle, to fill a bottle.

Poten, s. f.—pl. t. i (pot) What bulges out; a paunch; a pudding. Y boten fawr, y boten wen, cod wen, the large ventricle, or the stomach; y boten fach, the lesser ventricle; poten pengauad, blind-gut; poten wen, a batter-pudding; poten lysau, a fruit pudding.

O'i mynych brofi bwytwyd y boten i gyd.

By frequently tasting it the pudding has been all eaten up. Adage.

Potena, v. a. (poten) To gather a paunch; to swell out the belly.

Potenaidd, a. (poten) Like a paunch or belly.

Potenawg, a. (poten) Having a paunch or belly.

Potenawl, a. (poten) Belonging to a paunch.

Poteniad, s. m. (poten) A swelling out a paunch.

Potenig, s. f. dim. (poten) A little paunch.

Potenu, v. a. (poten) To form a paunch.

Potes, s. m. (pot) Pottage, broth, soup.

Poteswr, s. m. (potes—gwr) A pottage man.

Potiad, s. m. (pot) A potting; a potation.

Potiaid, s. m. (pot) A potfull, a fill of a pot.

Potiaw, v. a. (pot) To put in a pot, to pot; to drink, to tipple.

Poth, s. m. (po) That swells out, a boss.

Pothan, s. c. dim. (poth) A round boss, bump, or bunch; a cub. Pothan blaidd, a wolf's cub.

Pothell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (poth) What is puffed, or blown out; a wheal, or blister; also a disease amongst cattle, being a blister under the tongue, which is otherwise called y dafawdwst, or the tongue disease.

Pothellaidd, a. (pothell) Like a blister or wheal.

Pothellawg, a. (pothell) Puffed out; having wheals or blisters.

Pothelliad, s. m. (pothell) A blistering.

Pothellu, v. a. (pothell) To puff up; to blister.
Pothon, s. m. (poth) A round lump, or boss; a cub, a whelp.
Powys, s. m. (po—gwys) The state of being at rest, stationary, or settled. It is the name of a district in North Wales, which was anciently a principality.
Powysaw, v. a. (powys) To render at rest, or to settle; to become stationary.

Powysed angeu, Powyswg a'i gwyr
O'r goreu i hamwg;
A edau rhiau rhyddrwg,
Ac a fo da ef ei dwg!

Be arrested death, Powyswg has men the best for her defence; he spares chieftains evil in the extreme, and such as are good he takes away! Ll. P. Moch, i Fad ab Madawg.

Powyswg, s. f. (powys) A place that is settled upon. It is used as an epithet for Powys.
Pra, s. m. (py—rha) That tends to the extremity; that spreads round.
Prad, s. m. (py—rhad) A gentle spread, a stroke
Praff, a. (pra) Large, ample; thick in circumference. Coesau preiffion, thick legs.

Cerdded yn braff a wnai.

Walk at large was what she did. H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.

Trallawd praff a barysynt i Bown.

Affliction ample had they caused to Bown. H. Bown—Mabinogion.

Mal mab i Ddyfnwal Moel Mud
Yw Phylip praff ei olud.

Like a son of Dyvnwal Moel Mud is Phylip of ample wealth. L. G. Cothi.

Praffaidd, a. (praff) Somewhat large, or ample; somewhat thick in circumference.
Praffder, s. m. (praff) Amplitude; rotundity.
Praffdra, s. m. (praff) Amplitude; thickness in girth.
Praffedd, s. m. (praff) Largeness; thickness round
Praffiad, s. m. (praff) A rendering large, or ample; a becoming thick in circumference.
Praffu, v. a. (praff) To make large; to make thick in compass, to become thick round.
Praidd, s. f.—pl. preiddiau (pra—idd) A flock, or herd; also a booty of cattle taken in war.

Praidd gyfreithiawl: pedair bu ar ugaint a tharw.

A lawful herd: twenty-four cows and a bull. Welsh Laws.

Tair rhwyd breyr yst, allwest ei feirch, ei breiddoedd gwartheg, a'i genfaint foch.

The three nets of a baron are, the pasture of his horses, his herds of cattle, and his bread of swine. Welsh Laws.

A rhag preiddiau anwn tost yd geni.

And before the herds of the infernal region dismally thou dost sing. Taliesin.

Pell ei glod o gludaw anrhaith,
Praidd wasgar, dreisfar drisaith gyfarpar
Yn ngwyar, yn ngwynialth.

Far his fame, for collecting spoil, scattering the flock, his wrath overbearing thrice seven of spears of conflict in blood, in the violence of passion. Cynddelw.

Prain, s. m.—pl. preinion (pra—in) That tends to spread or swell out; that causes to spring up; a feast, or banquet.

Lleddfawd y gan ri rhyfel ei rain,
A llen lliw eboeg, a medd prain.

Reclined has the god of war his spear, with the veil of bright green hue, and mead of the banquet. Taliesin, Mic. Dinbych.

Gwr cymmrwyn ei ddwyn; gwawr Cymmry, neud marw!
Mawr o chwedl a'm deffry:
Owain udd prain, neud pridd wely!

A man whose being taken off is universal grief; the luminary, is he not dead! an awful report awakes me: Owain lord of the banquet, that earth is his bed! Prydydd Bychan, m. O. ab Madawg.

Rhag Teifi, yn tori twr main
Teyrn glyw terwyn, tyryni prain yn ddrud
I gwn cnud uch cnofain!

On the Teivi, destroying a stone tower of a sovereign prince, they irefully heap together a feast for the dogs of the sculk, over the voracious gnawing. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Praith, s. m.—pl. preithiau (py—rhaith) An act, or deed; practice.
Pranc, s. m.—pl. pranciau (py—rhanc) A prank.
Pranciad, s. m. (pranc) A frolicking.
Pranciaw, v. a. (pranc) To frolic, to play pranks.
Pranciawl, a. (pranc) Frolicksome, playful.
Pranciwr, s. m.—pl. pranciwyr (pranc—gwr) One who plays pranks.
Pratiad, s. m. (prad) A stroking, a coaxing, or fondling, by gently drawing the hand over.
Pratiaw, v. a. (prad) To stroke, to rub gently, to sooth, to fondle, to coax. Pratia y plentyn, fondle the child.
Pratiawl, a. (prad) Coaxing or stroking.
Pratiwr, s. m.—pl. pratiwyr (pratiaw—gwr) A stroker, a coaxer.
Praw, s. m. (pra) An essay, a trial, or a proof.

Gwelir——
Y daw gwlaw yn ol praw pradd.

It will be seen, that a shower will come after a serious trial. D. ab Gwilym.

Prawen, s. f.—pl. t. au (praw) An essay, or cast for trial, in gaming.
Prawf, s. m.—pl. profion (praw) A proof, trial, or essay; experience. Bod ar brawf, to be on proof: Prawf Ynad, and Llyfr Prawf, the Judge's Proof and the Book of Proof, the name of a section of laws, according to the code of Hywel Dda.
Prawfaen, s. m. (praw—maen) A touchstone.
Pre, s. m. (py—rhe) The origin of a course.
Pred, s. m. (pre) A stray, or migration.
Preg, s. m. (py—rheg) A greeting or address.
Pregawthen, s. f. (preg) Prattle, rigmarole.
Pregeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (preg) A sermon.
Pregethiad, s. m. (pregeth) A preaching.
Pregethu, v. a. (pregeth) To preach.
Pregethwr, s. m.—pl. pregethwyr (pregeth—gwr) A preacher.
Preidiad, s. m. (pred) A migrating, a straying.
Preidiaw, v. a. (pred) To migrate, to stray.
Preiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (praidd) A herding; a collecting a herd; a driving of cattle away as a booty in war; predation.
Preiddiaw, v. a. (praidd) To herd; to collect a herd; to drive off a booty of cattle; to predate
Preiddiawg, a. (praidd) Abounding with herds.

Ni thores ei bawr a fu breiddiawg.

His pasture has not been cut that was teeming with herds. Meilyr.

Preiddiawl, a. (praidd) Belonging to a herd; relating to the pillage of cattle; predatory.
Preiddiawr, s. pl. aggr. (praidd) Beasts of the chase; beasts taken as prey in a foray.

Heysgwn am breiddiawr, am brain.

Aptly rising for the prey, for the feast. Ll. P. Moch.

Preiddiedig, a (praidd) Herded; depredated.
Preiddyn, s. m. (praidd) That is of the herds.

Ef a'm porthes——
Ar win, ar breiddyn, ar brain.

He nourished me on wine, on venison, on feast. ——

Preiddin, a. (praidd) Consisting of herds; Moch preiddin, anrhaith o foch, a booty of swine.
Preiddiwr, s. m.—pl. preiddwyr (praidd—gwr) One who follows a herd; one who pursues herds for booty; a pillager.

Er perygl preiddwyr peri ffosawd,
Pasgadur cyfrain Prydain briawd.

To the hazard of depredators causing a gash, the nourisher of the true sons of Britain. Meilyr.

Preiddwal, s. f. (praidd—gwal) The resort of the herd, where a herd lies down.

Pryffwn gawr, priodawr preiddwal.

The foremost of the shout, the proprietor of the region of herds. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Preiddwalch, s. m.—pl. preiddweilch (praidd—gwalch) Hawk of the herds; hawk of pillage.

Preiddwriaeth, s. m. (preiddiwr) The calling of a herdsman; the practice of a pillager.

Preiddyn, s. m. dim. (praidd) A beast of chase.

Preiddyn oedd ei gwyn cyn noi gwyddaw.

For the booty was his anxiety before his fall. Cynddelw.

Preiniad, s. m. (prain) A carousing, a feasting.

Preiniaw, v. a. (prain) To carouse, to feast.

Preiniawg, a. (prain) Abounding with feasts.

Mi a'th arwyre udd bre breiniawg,
Breisglew, afael hael, o hil Madawg.

I will extol thee, chief of the hill of feasting, a mighty lion, holding bounty, of the line of Madoc. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Dau ychen Dewi ardderchawg oeddynt;
Dau garn a gerddynt yn gyd breiniawg.

The two oxen of Dewi majestic were; two that walked hoof to hoof together enjoying feasts. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Y melyn gwanwyn, ac ych brych, yn ddau gyd breiniawg a fynaf.

The yellow ox of spring, and the two brindled oxen, being two feeding together, those I will have. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Preiniawl, a. (prain) Belonging to a feast.

Preinrudd, a. (prain—rhudd) Ruddy with feasting

Cyrchiad, tremyniad, tra mor udd dy gas,
Dy gosgordd yn breinrudd.

An assaulter, a scouter, beyond the British sea extends thy hate, thy retinue seem rosy with festivity. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Preithiad, s. m. (praith) A practising, a using.

Preithiaw, v. a. (praith) To practise, to use.

Preithiawg, a. (praith) Having practice.

Preithiawl, a. (praith) Practical, operative.

Preithiedig, a. (preithiad) Practised, or used.

Preithig, a. (praith) Belonging to practice.

Pren, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pre) A tree, a timber, a piece of wood. Pren troed, gweddig, bre, a last; pren ceri, a medlar tree; pren y gerwyn, the bay tree; pren melyn, pren y clefyd melyn, the barberry-tree; pren awyr, misletoe.

Pren yn nghoed arall biau.

A tree in a wood another owns. Adage.

Prenaidd, a. (pren) Lignous, or like wood.

Prenfol, s. m.—pl. t. au (pren—bol) A wooden coffer, box or chest.

Prenial, s. m. (pren) A coffer or shrine of wood.

Prenial gweddes, pedair ar ugaint a dal.

A warping trough, its value is twenty-four pence. Welsh Laws.

Prenial dywal gal ysgwn
Goruc ar Loegr lu cyngrwn;
Bedd Gwen fab Llywarch Hen yw hwn.

The shrine of the fierce overbearing foe, that vanquished the circularly-compact army of Lloegria; the grave of Gwen the son of old Llywarch is this. Llywarch Hen.

Preniaw, v. a. (pren) To apply timber or wood to any thing; to fasten with a wooden bar.

——Y nos——
Na ad un drws, nodwn draw
Heb ar unwaith ei breniaw.

He will not leave a single door, we may yonder note, without barring it at once. G. ab I. ab Llywelyn Fychan.

Prenol, s. m.—pl. t. au (pren) A busk.

Prensaer, s. m.—pl. prenseiri (pren—saer) A wright or worker in wood; a carpenter.

Pres, s. m.—pl. t. i (pre—es) That is imminent; that is quick or ready; that is sharp or smart; that overruns; brushwood, or whatever overruns the ground, as stubble, straw, and the like; fuel wood; fodder; frequency; haste; a crib, or cratch; also brass. Pres ffwrn, fuel for the oven: Pres y moch, the resort or stye of the pigs; pres y cwn, the kennel of the dogs.

Truan o anian ini o anmhwyll,
Tracharu present, pres gyunhywyll.

A miserable state is fallen to us from indiscretion, to excess loving the present, a thicket involved in darkness. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Pres, a. (pre—es) Imminent, at hand, quick; ready; hasty; sharp; overrunning, frequent; present. Pres gynhauaf, a quick harvest; llais pres, a sharp or shrill voice. Sil.

Dig yw ein hwyl, dygwn helynt
Yn bres a'r tair gormes gynt.

Vexatious is our condition, we take an abrupt course, like the three molestations of ancient time. Ll. ab Gutyn.

Presai, s. m.—pl. preseion (pres) A pole put across a river for hindering cattle.

Presawl, a. (pres) Imminent; close upon; quick.

Preseb, s. m. (pres—eb) A crib, or a stall.

Presebu, v. a. (preseb) To crib, to stall.

Presedig, a. (pres) Rendered imminent; quickened; hastened; made a resort.

Presel, s. f.—pl. t. au (pres) A place overgrown, as with furze and the like, a brake. Sil.

Preselaidd, a. (presel) Tending to be braky.

Preselawg, a. (presel) Overgrown with shrubs.

Preseldir, s. m. (presel—tir) Land overgrown with bushwood, foul land.

Preseliad, s. m. (presel) An overrunning with brushwood; a becoming wild.

Preselu, v. n. (presel) To become wild or overrun. Mae y tir yn preselu ganto, the land grows foul under his care. Sil.

Preselyn, s. m. dim. (presel) A brake, a thicket.

Presen, s. f. (pres) The present, the present time or age; the present life.

Nid aeth neb i nef er benthyg y bresen.

No one went to heaven for the lending of his present. Taliesin.

Nid oes o'r presen,
O'r dechreu hyd orphen,
Un orig o ddydd,
Wrth y fuchedd dragywydd.

There is not of the present, from the beginning to the end, one hour of day, compared with the state of eternity. Taliesin.

Pwyllai Dunawd, udd presen,
Erechwydd gwneuthur cadwen
Yn erbyn cywryseud Pasgen.

Fiercely would Dunawd rage, the chief of the present, with mind elate for combat, against the strife of Pascen. Llywarch Hen.

Presennawl, a. (present) Being imminent, near, or ready; present.

Presennoldeb, s. m. (presennawl) The state of being at, or upon; a present state; presence.

Presennwr, s. m. (present) One who is present.

Priodawr Prydain prain preiddiau;
Presennwr, prysur pres oleu.

A prince of Britain with feast of spoils; a present man, the dweller in a splendid abode. Cynddelw, i'r argl. Rhys.

Present, s. m. (presen) The present state.

Pan fyny Duw dy ddifuriaw
O dyllest present, o breswyl fraw,
Cyd a'th fo di golud, goleu anaw,
Na'th pynid, eiid ar ei addaw.

When God should please to annihilate thy frame of the materials of the present state, of the abode of terror, though thou mayest possess wealth, and splendid genius, let these detain thee not, but at his call depart. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Presiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pres) A hastening, a being quick or ready; a frequenting.

Prest, s. m. (pres) Quickness, smartness: a. Ready, quick; soon.

Prestl, s. m. (prest) Smart, talk, repartee. a. Smart, ready, fluent.

Siarad yn brestl siarad yn ddestl:
Siarad yn westl siarad annestl.

A talking smartly is talking elegantly, a talking tumultuously is a talking inelegantly. Adage.

Prestlaidd, a. (prestl) Disposed to prattle.

Prestlawg, a. (prestl) Full of smart talk.

Prestledd, s. m. (prestl) Smartness of discourse.

Prestliad, s. m. (prestl) A talking smartly.

Prestlu, v. a. (prestl) To talk smartly or wittily; to repartee; to prattle.

Prestlus, a. (prestl) Of smart or witty talk.

Presu, v. a. (pres) To render imminent, near, or ready at hand; to hasten, to quicken; to frequent, to resort; to render present; to become present.

Preswyl, s. m. (pres—gwyl) The state of being present or in readiness; a tarrying; a habitation. a. Being present or in readiness; waiting, tarrying. March preswyl, a horse kept in readiness, or a horse of attendance.

Gwastrawd afwyn a ddwg ei farch yn gywair i'r yngnad llys, i breswyl pan y myno.

The groom of the reign shall bring his horse furnished to the judge of the palace, to be in readiness at his will. Welsh Laws.

Preswyledd, s. m. (preswyl) A state of abiding.

Preswylfa, s. f.—pl. preswylfëydd (preswyl) A place taken up as an abode; a camp; a dwelling-place, a habitation.

Yn yr amser y caethiwid Iuwda, deg preswylfa onaddynt a aynt ar goll.

In the time when Juda was led into captivity, ten tribes of them became lost. Old Chronicle.

Preswylfedd, s. m. (preswyl—medd) That is kept in readiness.

Preswylfeddu, v. a. (preswylfedd) To keep in readiness, to take care of constantly.

Preswylfod, s. m. (preswyl—bod) A dwelling place.

Preswylfoddawg, a. (preswyl—boddawg) Having an habitation, or a constant abiding at will.

Offeiriad y frenines;—Offrwm y frenines hagen a gaiff yn breswylfoddawg.

The chaplain of the queen, the offering of the queen he shall have constantly at his will. Welsh Laws.

Preswylgoll, s. m. (preswyl—coll) Loss of dwelling. a. Home-lost.

Pall arnaw, pwyllaf, y dogair,
Preswylgoll, hwydoll engir.

A failure to him, I will foretell, there will be alloted, loss of home, a painful privation. Cynddelw.

Preswyliad, s. m. (preswyl) A being present; a tarrying or abiding; a taking up a residence.

Preswyliaeth, s. m. (preswyl) The act of frequenting, or resorting; inhabitancy.

Preswyliannawl, a. (preswyliant) Relating to habitation, dwelling or abiding.

Preswyliannu, v. a. (preswyliant) To make a resort; to settle a habitation.

Preswyliant, s. m. (preswyl) The act of taking up a residence or a dwelling.

Preswyliaw, v. a. (preswyl) To fix a residence, to dwell, to inhabit; to tarry in a place.

Plant Addaf planigion fuant;
Yn y presen preswyliasant;
Gan Dduw yn lleufer llewychant.

The children of Adam, graftings have they been; in the present state they have sojourned; with God in splendor they will shine. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Duw biau———
Y byd, pawb enyd, pob anant,
Is heulwen, ynddo a breswyliant.

To God belong the world, every one existing, all of life, beneath the radiant sun, therein who dwell. W. Middleton.

Preswyliawg, a. (preswyl) Having a resort; having an abode; being attended.

Presennwr,
Pryswr pres olau;
Preswyliawg farchawg feirch gwineu.

A present man, a dweller in a splendid place; a warrior constantly attended with bay steeds. Cynddelw. i'r argl. Rhys.

Preswyliedig, a. (preswyliad) Inhabited.

Preswyliedigaeth, s. m. (preswyliedig) The act of taking up an abode or dwelling.

Preswyliwr, s. m.—pl. preswylwyr (preswyl—gwr) A dweller, or an inhabitant.

Preswylydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (preswyl) An inhabitant, or a dweller.

Pri, s. m.—pl. t. on (py—rhi) An increment; an origin, or cause; that is prime or first.

Prïad, s. m. (pri) A forming an increment, or source of increase; a rendering prime, a becoming prime, or original.

Priallen, s. f. (pri—gall) Privet; also called priellyn and yswydd.

Prïawd, s. m. (pri) That is appropriate, peculiar, proper, or fitting; that is possessed or owned; a married person, the same as gwraig bwys, or a spouse. a. Appropriate, peculiar, fitting; possessed; married.

Ni ddyly gwraig na phrynu na gwerthu, o bydd priawd, heb ganiad ei gwr.

A woman ought neither to buy, nor to sell, if she be a married one, without the consent of her husband. Welsh Laws.

Mal cofiain cywrain Cywryd, fardd Dunawd,
Mau i'm draig priawd gwawd, ni bo gwyd.

Like the correct memorial song of Cywryd, the bard of Dunod, to my proper lord is my praise, which shall not be faulty. Gw. Ddu o Arfon, m. G. Llwyd.

Pric, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pri) A small piece of wood; a broach; a skewer. Wyd sythed â phe llyncasid bric edafedd, thou art as stiff as if thou hadst swallowed a yarn stick.

Pricaid, s. m.—pl. preiceidiau (pric) What is held on a stick; the quantity of yarn taken off the spindle and put upon a stick

Prid, s. m. (pri) That is in unison or equivalent; price, value; ransom. a. Valuable, precious, dear. Pryned hwna yn brid, that has been dearly bought. Sil.

Ni cheir geirda heb brid.

There will be no good word had without desert. Adage.

Nid prid pryn gair teg.

The purchase of a good word is not dear. Adage.

Cywrysedd Prydain y sy bryder yn;
Y sy brid i lawer
Armes gwr gwythlawn ei ober,
Argleidriad, fleiniad, flaidd nifer.

The contention of Britain is afflicting to us; dear to many is the fate of the man of wrathful achievement, the protection, the foremost one, the wolf of a host. Cynddelw, m. E. ab M. ab Iddon.

Ancwyn Mynyddawg enwawg y gwnaeth;
A phrid er prynu breithell Gattraeth.

The dainty of Mynyddog, notably it worked; and was the price for purchasing the battle of Cattraeth. Aneurin.

Pridadwy, a. (prid) Capable of being equivalent.

Pridaw, v. a. (prid) To render equivalent; to become equivalent; to expiate.

Pridiad, s. m. (prid) A rendering an equivalent; a pledging; a ransoming.

Pridiannawl, a. (pridiant) Tending to be an equivalent; expiatory.

Pridiannu, v. a. (pridiant) To render an equivalent; to become an equivalent.

Pridiannus, a. (pridiant) Tending to be equivalent; expiatory.

Pridiannusaw, v. a. (pridiannus) To render of an equivalent consideration; to become equivalent; to become expiatory.

Pridiant, s. m.—pl. pridiannau (prid) The act of pledging a value; a ransoming; expiation.

Pridiaw, v. a. (prid) To give a price, value, or equivalent; to lay a pawn or pledge; to ransom, to expiate.

Ni bu ond Crist ar y groes,
Yn dyoddef gloes i'n pridiaw.

There has been none else but Christ upon the cross, a pang to suffer, us to ransom. Morgan Talei.

Pridiawg, a. (prid) Having a value, price, or equivalent; being an equivalent.

Pridiawl, a. (prid) Eqnivalent; redeeming.

Pridiedig, a. (pridiad) Made equivalent; ransomed, expiated.

Pridioldeb, s. m. (pridiawl) Equivalency.

Pridioli, v. a. (pridiawl) To render equivalent; to render deserved; to become equivalent.

Pridiwr, s. m.—pl. pridwyr (prid—gwr) One who gives a price; a ransomer; an expiator.

Pridwerth, s. m. (prid—gwerth) Valne given as a ransom, the thing given as an equivalent.

Am ei bridwerth, ni pherthyn
Ymliw a Duw, mal a dyn;
Rhaid fydd lle rho Duw ei far
Dwyn eginyn yn gynnar.

Concerning his demand, it belongs not to man to question the will of God; it will be necessary where God sends his wrath for the effect soon to appear. T. Aled.

Pridd, s. m. aggr. (pri—idd) Mould, or earth; also a delicate term used for the ordure of an animal. Sil. Pridd y wadd, a mole-hill; llestri priddion, earthen ware.

Priddaw, v. a. (pridd) To mould, to earth, to put in the mould, to cover with earth.

Bum yn claddu hen gydymmaith
A gododd yn fy mhen i ganwaith;
Ac 'r wyf 'n ofni er ei briddo,
Y cyfyd yn fy mhen i eto.

I have been burying an old companion, who flew to my head a hundred times; and I fear, though he be burried, that he will fly to my head again. Ateb rhiwun wedi hau haidd.

Priddawl, a. (pridd) Of the nature of earth, or mould; earthly.

Priddawr, s. m.—pl. priddorion (pridd) A potter.

Priddell, s. f.—pl. t. i (pridd) A mass, or clod of earth; a piece of pottery; a tile.

Cyfreued a phriddell.

As brittle as a piece of pottery. Adage.

Priddellan, s. f. dim. (priddell) A small mass of earth; a small tile, or piece of pottery.

Priddellawg, a. (priddell) consisting of masses of earth, glebous.

Priddellig, s. f. (priddell) A small mass of earth.

Priddellwaith, s. m. (priddell—gwaith) Tile-work

Priddellwr, s. m. (priddell—gwr) A tile-maker.

Priddellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (priddell) A tiler.

Pridden, s. f.—pl. t. i (pridd) An earthen vessel.

Priddenig, s. f. (pridden) A little earthen vessel.

Priddfaen, s. m.—pl. priddfeini (maen) A brick.

Priddfeinwaith, s. m. (priddfaen) Brick-work.

Priddgalch, s. m. (pridd—calch) Calcareous earth; fuller's earth; a mixture of earth and lime, a manure so prepared.

Priddgalchawg, a. (priddgalch) Abounding with calcareous earth, being of earth and lime.

Priddgalchiad, s. m. (priddgalch) A doing with calcareons earth; a manuring with a mixture of earth and lime.

Priddgalchu, v. a. (priddgalch) To manure with a mixture of earth and lime.

Priddgist, s. m. (pridd—cist) Potters' clay.

Priddiad, s. m. (pridd) A doing with earth; a putting in earth; a returning to earth.

Priddin, a. (pridd) Of the nature of earth.

Priddlestr, s. m.—pl. t. i (pridd—llestr) An earthen vessel, or a piece of pottery.

Priddlestrwr, s. m.—pl. priddlestrwyr (priddlestr—gwr) Earthenware man.

Priddlestrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (priddlestr) A dealer in earthenware.

Priddlyd, a. (pridd) Earthly, mixed with mould.

Priddlydrwydd, s. m. (priddlyd) Earthiness.

Priddlydu, v. a. (priddlyd) To render earthy.

Priddred, s. m. (pridd—rhed) An earthly course, an earthly state.

O bridd, o briddred
Pan ym digoned——

Of earth, of an earthly course when I was formed.—— Taliesin.

Priddwal, s. m. (pridd—gwal) An earth couch.

Minnau sy greg, heb deg dal,
Yma'n pruddaw mewn priddwal.

I am also hoarse, without a fair reward, here vexing in a bed of earth. Huw Arwystl.

Priddwr, s. m.—pl. priddwyr (pridd—gwr) One who puts in earth.

Priddyn, s. m. dim. (pridd) That is formed of earth; an earthly being.

Prif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pri) That is a source; that tends to increase; that is prime, chief or principal; the first day of the new moon; the golden number. a. Prime, first, principal, chief.

Tri phrif anffawd abred: angen, anghof ac angeu.

The three primary misfortunes of the circle of inchoation: necessity, loss of memory, and death. Barddas.

Prifachaws, s. m.—pl. prifachosion (prif—achaws) A primary cause, a principal cause.

Prifafon, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (prif—afon) A principal river; a law term for a river preserving its regular channel as a boundary of lands.

Prifalaethwr, s. m.—pl. prifalaethwyr (prif—alaethwr) A chief mourner.

Prifanian, s. f. (prif—anian) An original nature, a primary natnre.

Prifansawdd, s. m.—pl. prifansoddion (prif—ansawdd) An original quality or element.

Yn nosparth a rheithiadur cerdd Ceraint Fardd Glas, ni wneir eithr deg prifansawdd; sef naw gorchan a chyngawg.

In the grammar and rudiment of verse of Ceraint the Blue Bard, there are only ten primary elements; namely, nine metricities and a canon of combination. Barddas.

Prifardd, s. m.—pl. prifeirdd (pri—bardd) A primitive bard, a primary bard; a doctor, or professor of sciences.

Tri rhyw prifardd y sydd; bardd braint, neu brifardd penodawl, wrth fraint defawd a llafar gorsedd, a'i swydd yw llywodraethu; ofydd, wrth awen, ymgais a dichwain, a'i swydd yw awenyddu; a derwydd, wrth bwyll, ansawdd, a gorfod, a'i swydd yw athrawiaethu.

There are three degrees of primary bards; a bard of privilege, or a primary bard proper, according to the privilege of the custom and voice of a convention, and his office is to exercise authority; an ovate, following genius, exertion, and incident, and his office is to apply to works of genius; and a druid, according to the reason, nature, and necessity of things, and his office is to instruct. Barddas.

Prifarddoni, s. m. (prifardd) The learning of the primitive bards; the bardic philosophy.

Prifawdl, s. f.—pl. prifodlau (prif—awdl) A primary or leading rhyme.

Prifdeg, a. (prif—teg) Primarily fair.

Prifder, s. m. (prif) Primeness or origin.

Prifdde, s. m. (prif—de) Original source.

Prifddeddf, s. f.—pl. t. au (prif—deddf) A primary law.

Prifddinas, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (prif—dinas) A principal city, or a metropolis.

Prifddinasawl, a. (prifddinas) Metropolitan.

Prifddull, s. f.—pl. t. iau (prif—dull) A primary form or manner.
Prifiad, s. m. (prif) A thriving, a growing, or increasing; a prospering.
Prifiaw, v. n. (prif) To grow up, to increase in stature, to thrive; to prosper.
Prifiawl, a. (prif) Tending to grow.
Prifiwr, s. m.—pl. prifwyr (prif—gwr) One who increases, a thriver.
Priflad, s. m. (prif—llad) A sovereign grace.
Prifles, s. m. (prif—lles) A supreme good.
Priflys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (prif—llys) A principal court, a supreme court.
Prifnawd, s. m. (prif—nawd) An original habit.
Prifnod, s. m.—pl. t. au (prif—nod) A prime point or number; an epoch.
Prifoed, s. m. (prif—oed) A primitive age.
Prifoes, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (prif—oes) A first age; a primary life, a first existence.
Prifran, s. f.—pl. t. au (prif—rhan) A primary share; a primary division.
Prifraniad, s. m. (prifran) A primary division.

Tri phrifraniad y sydd ar dir: rhan rhwng brodyr: adran rhwng cefnderyw; a chyhydedd rhwng cyfyrdyrw.

There are three primary divisions of land: division amongst brothers; subdivision amongst cousins, and co-extension amongst second cousins. Welsh Laws.

Prifred, s. f. (prif—rhed) A primary course.
Prifrinwedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (prif—rhinwedd) A cardinal virtue.
Prifsymudai, s. c. (prif—symudai) A primum mobile; a first cause of motion.
Prifwaith, s. m. (prif—gwaith) A chief work.
Prifwyd, s. m. (prif—gwyd) A chief sin. Y saith brifwyd, the seven deadly sins.
Prifwydd, s. pl. (prif-gwydd) Primary trees.

Rhag llwyth wyth bechawd priawd prifwydd,
Prynesid Mab Duw mad garennydd.

From the burden of the eight original sins of the primary wood, the Son of God had purchased a good connection. Gwalchmai.

Prifwynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (prif—gwynt) A principal wind.
Prifysgol, s. f.—pl. t. ion (prif—ysgol) A principal school, a primary school.
Priffordd, s. f.—pl. priffyrdd (pri—ffordd) A principal road, a high road.

Einym mae priffordd bob unawr adref
I odrau 'Sgyryd Fawr.

For us there is a high road at all hours homewards to the skirts of the Great Ysgyryd. L. G. Cothi.

Prill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhill) A rill.
Prin, s. m. (py—rhin) That partly appears, or breaks through; that is of slight trace.
Prin, a. (py—rhin) Scarce, rare, scant, spare. adv. Scarcely, hardly; sparingly.

Llyma waith amlder
O brin hyd ucher
Dywgwener——

Behold the multifarious work from morn till eve of Friday. Awdl y Creed.

Prinâad, s. m. (prinâu) A rendering scarce or scanty; a becoming scarce; a diminishing.
Prinâawl, a. (prinâu) Tending to scarcity.
Prinâu, v. a. (prin) To make scarce, scanty or small; to diminish; to grow scarce; to be diminished.
Prinder, s. m. (prin) Scarcity; scantiness.
Prindra, s. m. (prin) Scarcity, scantiness.
Print, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—rhint) That forms a notch, or scratch; a print.
Printiad, s. m. (print) A printing, a marking.
Printiaw, v. a. (print) To imprint, to print.
Printiedig, a. (printiad) Imprinted, or printed.

Prinwydd, s. pl. aggr. (prin—gwydd) Scarlet-oak.
Prinwydden, s. f. (prinwydd) The scarlet oak.
Priodadwy, a. (prïawd) Capable of being appropriated; marriageable.
Prïodas, s. f.—pl. t. au (prïawd) A marriage.

Priodas Sais a Gwyddeles, neidiaw dros yr ysgubell.

The marriage of an Englishman and an Irishwoman, jumping over the broom. Adage.

Priodas a wnaethpwyd er dibechu cydgnawd y rhwng gwr a gwraig, ac er ennill plant.

Marriage was established for divesting of sin a carnal union between man and woman, and for begetting children. Ll. G. Hergest.

Nid er dilêu priodas, na'i thywyllu, yddym ni yn dywedyd, geni mab i forwyn; eithr neillduaw yddym ni ei gaffaeliad ef.

It is not for annihilating marriage, nor for obscuring it, that we are saying, a son is born to a virgin; but the setting aside his birth is what we do. Ystori Silvester.

Prïodasawl, a. (prïodas) Matrimonial.
Prïodasfab, s. m. (prïodas—mab) A bridegroom.
Prïodasferch, s. f. (prïodas—merch) A bride.
Prïodasgan, s. f. (prïodas—can) A bridal song.
Prïodasgerdd, s. f.—pl. t. i (prïodas—cerdd) An epithalamium, or a bridal song.
Prïodawl, a. (prïawd) Appropriate, peculiar; legitimate; belonging to marriage; married.

Dau fab gyfreithlawl briodolion.

Two sons legitimate ones of marriage. Welsh Laws.

Prïodawr, s. m.—pl. prïodorion (prïawd) A proprietary, a hereditary possessor of land; a prince; one who has a natural claim; a native.

Yn bedwarygwr ydd â dyn yn briodawr.

As a fourth person will a man become a hereditary proprietor. Welsh Laws.

Elidr, priodawr o'r Gogledd:——Ceneu ab Coel Hen, prïodawr o'r Gogledd.

Elidr, a prince from the North:—Ceneu son of Coel the Aged, a prince from the North. Hanesion.

Prïodedig, a. (prïawd) Appropriated; wedded.
Prïodfab, s. m.—pl. prïodfeibion (prïawd—mab) A bridegroom.
Prïodferch, s. f.—pl. t. ed (merch) A bride.
Prïodi, v. a. (prïawd) To render appropriate; to espouse; to marry; to be married.

Y ferch a ddel i'w phrofi,
Hwyr y daw i'w phriodi.

The woman that comes to be tried, late will she come to be married. Adage.

Mor gadarn yd geidw hyd Reges
Mab Owain Prydain; priodes gwenfud
Gwyndeyrn Eryres.

So powerfully will the son of Owain defend Britain as far as Rheges; the blest prince of the region of Eryri has appropriated the happy land. Ll. P. Moch, i Rodri.

Prïodiad, s. m. (prïodi) A marrying, a wedding.
Prïodoldeb, s. m. (prïodawl) Appropriateness.
Prïodolder, s. m. (prïodawl) Appropriateness, propriety; attribute; property, the right or title to a thing.

Os y nawfed-dyn a ddaw i ofyn tir diffoddedig yn ei briodolder, a hwnw a ddyd diasbad am ei fod yn myned o briodawr yn anmhriodawr, ac yna y gwrandawa y gyfraith y diasbad hono.

If the ninth person shall come to demand land extinguished as to title and he shall give an outcry on account of his becoming from a proprietor to be one without property, thereupon the law will listen to that outcry. Welsh Laws.

Prïodoledig, a. (prïodawl) Appropriated.
Prïodoledd, s. m. (prïodawl) Appropriateness.
Prïodoli, v. a. (prïodawl) To appropriate, to make appropriate or proper; to become appropriate; to dedicate; to render peculiar.
Prïodoliad, s. m. (prïodawl) An appropriating, a rendering peculiar; a dedication.
Prïodoliaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (priodawl) Appropriation; the state of being peculiar.
Prïodoliaethu, v. a. (prïodoliaeth) To make an appropriation; to assign an attribute.

Priodolrwydd, s. m. (priodawl) Appropriateness.

Priodolwr, s. m.—pl. priodolwyr (priodawl—gwr) An appropriate man.

Priodori, v. a. (priodawr) To render a proprietor; to become a proprietor, or inheritor.

Priodoriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (priodawr) A peculiar property; an inheritance.

> Cynnyddwys mawr wr mawr freuolaeth gnifi,
> Yn nghyunif ei brif briodoriaeth.
>
> An exalted man has increased the great frailty of anxiety, in the affliction of his primary inheritance. Ll. P. Moch, i Grist.

Prion, s. pl. aggr. (pri) Origination; animals in a first state of life; imps.

Prionyn, s. m. dim. (prion) A little imp.

> Pig wenwynig anianawl;
> Prionyn o dyddyn diawl.
>
> A spike of nature poisonous; an imp from the devil's territory. I. Gethin ab I. ab Lleision, i'r neidr.

Pris, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pri—is) That is reckoned; that is taken; rate, value, price.

Prisiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pris) A valuation.

Prisiaw, v. a. (pris) To value, to appraise.

Prisiawl, a. (pris) Belonging to rate, or price.

Pro, s. m. (py—rho) That is counter, or against.

Probwyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (pro—pwyll) The stilts of a plough.

> Probwyllau a rhagarnawdd, ceiniawg a dal.
>
> The stilts and the beam, the value is a penny. Welsh Laws.

Proc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pro) A thrust, a drive.

Prociad, s. m.—pl. t. au (proc) A thrusting.

Prociaw, v. a. (proc) To thrust, to stick, to stab.

Prociwr, s. m.—pl. procwyr (proc—gwr) A thruster, a sticker, a stabber.

Proest, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pro—est) A sequel in contrast with the first; a term in prosody for a counterchange of vowels; it is also called gorchan. Proest Cadwynawdl, a quadran stanza with alternate concatenated rhyme; proest cyfnewidiawg, alternity interchanged; proest unawdl, a single rhymed alternity.

Proestawdl, s. f.—pl. proestodlau (proest—awdl) Rhyme with vowels interchanged.

Proestiad, s. m. (proest) Interchanging of vowels.

Proestiaw, v. a. (proest) To interchange vowels.

Proestlawn, a. (proest) Abounding with counterchanges of vowel sounds.

> A dyrydd ei fudd i feirdd proestlawn;
> A dyran atan; ataw ydd awn.
>
> And he will bestow his bounty to harmonious bards; and he will set apart shares for us; to him let us go. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Proestodlaeth, s. m. (proestawdl) The state of having rhyme with counterchanged vowels.

Proestodli, v. a. (proestawdl) To form rhyme with vowels counterchanged.

Proestodliad, s. m. (proestawdl) A rhyming with vowels counterchanged.

Profadwy, a. (prawf) Provable, or essayable.

Profawl, a. (prawf) Belonging to proof.

Profedig, a. (prawf) Proved, approved.

Profedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (profedig) The act of rendering proved; temptation.

> Cariad a bair i ddyn enogau y byd, a bod yn llawen mewn trallodau a phrofedigaethau.
>
> Love will cause a man to contemn the world, and to be cheerful in afflictions and temptations. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Profedigawl, a. (profedig) Probationary.

Profi, v. a. (prawf) To prove, to try, to examine; to attempt; to essay; to taste. Profi ynad, to examine for the function of a judge.

> Nid erchis bwyd ond ei brofi.
>
> Victuals only demanded to be tasted. Adage.

> Tair lleng y daethant llant lestri;
> Tair praff prif lynges wy bres brofi:
> Un o Iwerddon;
> Arall arfogion.
> O'r Llychlynigion,
> Llwrw hirion lli.
>
> Three legions came in vessels of the flood; three ample first of ships hastily to attempt him: one from Ireland; another of armed ones of the Llochlynian men, long burden of the flood. Gwalchmai, i O. Gwynedd.

Profiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (prawf) A proving; a trying, or essaying; a probation; a tasting; an essay, or trial.

Profiadawl, a. (profiad) Probationary.

Profiadu, v. a. (profiad) To make a probation.

Profiannawl, a. (profiant) Probationary.

Profiannu, v. a. (profiant) To make probation.

Profiannus, a. (profiant) Probationary.

Profiannusaw, v. a. (profiannus) To render probationary; to become probationary.

Profiant, s. m. (prawf) Probation; proof.

Profiator, ger. (profiad) In proving.

Profiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (profiad) A probator.

Profitor, sup. (prawf) To be proving.

Profwr, s. m.—pl. profwyr (profi—gwr) A prover, a tryer, an examiner; one who attempts; a taster.

Proffes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pro—ffes) A predetermination; a vow; a profession, a calling.

> Crefyddwr, a doro ei broffes, nid gair ei air.
>
> A religious man who shall break his vow, his word is of no force. Welsh Laws.

Proffesawr, s. m.—pl. proffesorion (proffes) A votary; a professor.

Proffesiad, s. m. (proffes) A making a vow; an entering into an obligation; a professing.

Proffesu, v. a. (proffes) To predetermine a course; to make a vow; to profess.

Proffeswr, s. m.—pl. proffeswyr (proffes—gwr) One who enters into a solemn obligation.

Proffesydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (proffes) A person who predetermines; a professor.

Prophwyd, s. m.—pl. t. i (pro—pwyd) A prophet.

> Nid prophwyd neb yn ei wlad ei hun.
>
> No one is a prophet in his own country. Adage.

Prophwydaw, v. a. (prophwyd) To prophesy.

Prophwydoliaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (prophwydawl) A prophecy, a prognostication.

Pru, s. m. (py—rhu) That tends out, or forward.

Prudd, a. (pru) Circumspect, prudent, discreet; serious; sad, sorrowful.

> O gydgynghor tywysogion Ffraine, y rhodded y forwyn i Liwelus, a choron y deyrnas ygyd â hi; a gwedi hyny ef a lywiws y cyfoeth yn bradd ac yn ddoeth ac yn ddedwydd hyd tra parâus ei oes.
>
> From the common advice of the princes of France, the maid was given to Lliwelus, and the crown of the kingdom with her; and after that he governed the realm discreetly and wisely and happily, as long as his life lasted. Gr. ab Arthur.

Pruddâad, s. m. (pruddâu) A rendering circumspect or prudent; a rendering serious; a becoming serious or thoughtful.

Pruddâawl, a. (pruddâu) Of a prudent tendency; tending to become serious or thoughtful.

Pruddâu, v. n. (prudd) To use circumspection; to become prudent; to be serious; to become sad or sorrowful.

Prudd-deb, s. m. (prudd) Prudence; seriousness.

Prudd-der, s. m. (prudd) Seriousness; pensiveness.

Prudd-dra, s. m. (prudd) Discreetness.

Pruddedd, s. m. (prudd) Discreetness; sadness.

Prw, s. m. (py—rhw) Extension or a reach forward; a state of anxiety.

Prws, s. m. (prw) A state tending to; a state of activity, or business.

Prwst, s. m. (prws) Bustle; turmoil, tumult.
Prwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (prw) That tends onward.
Prwyaw, v. a. (prwy) To attain, or to reach.
Prwyawl, a. (prwy) Attaining, reaching.
Prwys, s. m. (py—rhwys) A tendency to protrude.
Prwysaw, v. a. (prwys) To protrude, to reach out.
Prwysawl, a. (prwys) Protruding, reaching out.
Prwysg, s. m. (prwys) That protrudes; that is over, upon, or impending.
Prwysgaw, v. a. (prwysg) To surmount, to get upon, to get uppermost.

Pan dybiai, prwysgai i'r brig,
Gael anerch——

When he thought he might, he mounted to the top, thinking to have a treat—— L. Mon, duchan Ll. ab Gutyn.

Prwysgawl, a. (prwysg) Surmounting, getting on.
Prwysgiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (prwysg) A surmounting, a getting uppermost.
Prwysgl, s. m. (prwysg) That is impending.
Prwysgliad, s. m. (prwysgl) An impending.
Prwysiad, s. m. (prwys) A protruding, thrusting.
Prwyst, s. m. (prwys) That is forward, or before; an obstacle; that causes anxiety, or care.
Prwysti, s. m. (prwyst) Solicitude, or anxiety.

Nac ofnwch ormod prwysti,
Mwy no'r fwyalch yn nghelli,
Nid ardd, nid erddir iddi;
Nid llawenach neb no hi.

Be not deprest with too much anxiety, more than the blackbird in a grove, who ploughs not, who has no ploughing done for her; there is none more cheerful than her. Englynion Moes.

Prwystiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (prwyst) A rendering full of bustle; a becoming solicitous.
Prwystiaw, v. a. (prwyst) To bustle; to be full of anxiety, to be solicitous.
Prwystl, s. m. (prwyst) That is agitated, tumultuous or bustling. a. Tumultuous; bustling.

Prwystl fydd ton, a tharan:
Cyd bont brwystl eu gwahan,
Yn nydd trin mi yw Trystan.

Tumultuous will be a wave, and a thunder; as long as their course may be tumultuous, in the day of conflict I am Trystan. Ymdd. Trystan a Gwalchmai.

Prwystlad, s. m. (prwystl) A bustling; hurry.
Prwystlaw, v. a. (prwystl) To bustle, to hurry.
Prwystledd, s. m. (prwystl) A state of bustling.
Pry, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (py—rhy) That is extended; that is produced; that abounds; produce; food, victuals. Dos i hel dy bry, go and hunt for thy food, or seek for thy grub.
Pryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (py—rhyd) That is present, that is an object or under cognizance; a stated period, set time, hour, or season; time; a meal time; also, the favour of the countenance, or visage; an aspect; also comeliness, handsomeness, beauty. O bryd bwy gilydd, from one time to another; pa bryd y doi yma? what time wilt thou come here?

Un-pryd yr iar yn ysgubawr.

The hen makes but one meal in a barn. Adage.

Hwarddedig pryd wrth a garer.

The countenance wears a smile towards such as be loved. Adage.

Nid wrth bryd cerid gwreigedd.

Not by the aspect do the women love. Adage.

Yr oedd it', er a ddyweton',
Ragor bryd rhag eiry bron.

There was to thee, whatever they may say, a countenance surpassing the snow of the hill. Bedo Brwynllys.

Pryd, adv. (py—rhyd) Seeing that; as it happens. Pryd nad elit, seeing that thou wouldest not go.
Prydain, a. (pryd) Exhibiting presence or cognizance; exhibiting an open or fair aspect; full of beauty, well-seeming, beautiful; polished or civilized with respect to morals. Ynys Prydain, the Fair Island, the Isle of Britain.

Tri enw Ynys Prydain; cyn ei chyfanneddu y Gal Gre ei galwai Clas Merddin; gwedi ei chaffael, y Fel Ynys; a gwedi ei dael o Brydyn ab Aedd Mawr hi, Ynys Prydyn.

The three names of the Isle of Britain: before it was inhabited the Hord Gali used to call it the Water-girt Green Plat; after obtaining it, the Honey Island; and after Prydyn son of Aedd the Great had obtained it, the Isle of PRYDYN. Trioedd.

Triugain cantref Prydain y sydd dan Cado Hen.

The three score hundreds of BRITAIN are under Cado the Aged. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Prydawl, a. (pryd) Belonging to what is present or an object of cognizance; seasonable.
Prydeiniad, s. m.—pl. prydeiniaid (prydain) An inhabitant of Britain, a Briton.
Pryder, s. m. (prw) Anxiety, solicitude, care.

Ni wyr pryder nis prydero ac nis pryno.

He knows not anxiety that does not consider and that does not experience. Adage.

Mi nid wyf lawen o lawenydd bryd,
Am bryder yr undydd;
Am Owain, am ddwyrain dyrllydd,
Am deyrn, am gedyrn gydfydd.

I am not cheerful from cheerfulness of mind, because of the trouble of that one day; for Owain, for exalted generosity, for a prince, for the companion of the mighty. D. Llosgwrn Mew.

Pryderawl, a. (pryder) Solicitous, anxious, considerate, provident, careful, thoughtful.
Pryderi, s. m. (pryder) Anxiety, deep thought.
Pryderiad, s. m. (pryder) A causing anxiety; a considering anxiously.
Pryderu, v. n. (pryder) To be anxious, to be solicitous; to consider; to provide.

Dihunid a brydero.

Let such as will be anxious be divested of sleep. Adage.

Gweddus ar wraig, y naill law yn casglu, y llall yn rhanu, ac ei phen yn pryderu.

Seemly on a woman, the one hand collecting, and the other distributing, and her head considering. Trioedd Moes.

Pryderus, a. (pryder) Anxious, pensive.
Pryderusaw, v. a. (pryderus) To render anxious; to become solicitous, to become thoughtful.
Pryderusedd, s. m. (pryderus) Anxiousness.
Pryderusrwydd, s. m. (pryderus) Anxiousness, solicitousness; pensiveness; contemplativeness.
Pryderwawd, s. m. (pryder—gwawd) A profoundly considered eulogy.

Pryderwawd ceudawd cyfnerthi ni wn.

Profound praise of the energetic mind I am not master of. Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Prydfalch, a. (pryd—balch) Of a superb aspect.
Prydfardd, s. m.—pl. prydfeirdd (pryd—bardd) A bard who delineates; a recording bard.

Gwaedd uchel dwyn Hywel hardd;
Gwaeth yw dwyn brawdfaeth brydfardd.

A loud outcry for the taking away of Hywel the Superb: worse is the taking the foster-brother of a recording bard. Iolo Goch.

Prydfawr, a. (pryd—mawr) Magnificent.

Gracsaw anaw anghudd yn Mhrydain
I'm mhrydfawr ddadenhudd.

The gratulation of the public minstrelsy in Britain to my magnificent restorer. Ll. P. Moch, i G. ab Llywelyn.

Prydferth, a. (pryd—berth) Of fair time, seasonable; handsome, decent, or seemly.

Cymeryd alltudes heddyw yn wraig it, ni wyddost ti pa le pan henyw, a gwrthawd fy merch innau; etnebydd hagen nad pryd ferth it hyny, ac nad dibrid hyd tra parão nerth yn y braich dëau hwn.

Taking this day a stranger for thy wife, whom thou dost not know whence descended, and refusing also my daughter; know therefore that such a thing is not handsome in thee, and it shall not be unrequited, whilst there is strength in this right arm. Gr. ab Arthur.

Prydferthedd, s. m. (prydferth) Becomingness.
Prydferthiad, s. m. (prydferth) A rendering handsome, a becoming comely or graceful.

Prydferthrwydd, s. m. (prydferth) Becomingness, comeliness; gracefulness.

Prydferthu, v. a. (prydferth) To render becoming; to beautify; to become comely.

Prydferthwch, s. m. (prydferth) Becomingness, handsomeness, comeliness, gracefulness.

Prydiad, s. m. (pryd) A delineating of nature; a composing of poetry; poetry.

Pa yw mydr, neu brydiad?

What is metre, or poetry? Sim. Fychan.

Prydiaith, s. f. (pryd—iaith) Poetic language.

Prydiaw, v. a. (pryd) To represent an object; to record an event; to render seasonable; to set apart a time; to become seasonable.

Dybi o Alclud gwyr drud diwair,
I ddeol o Brydain firain luydd:
Dybi o Lydaw prydaw gyweithydd,
Cedwyr ar gadfeirch, ni pheirch eu henydd.

There comes from Alclud bold faithful men, to drive away war from fair Britain; there comes from Llydaw an auxiliary becoming seasonable, heroes on steeds of war who will not respect their home. Golyddan, Armes Prydain.

Prydiawl, a. (pryd) Objective; belonging to an event; seasonable, or of due time.

Prydlaeth, s. m. (pryd—llaeth) The quantity of milk milked at one time.

Prydlawn, a. (pryd—llawn) Seasonable, timely.

Prydlonâad, s. m. (prydlonâu) A rendering seasonable; a becoming timely.

Prydlonâu, v. a. (prydlawn) To render seasonable; to become seasonable or timely.

Prydlonder, s. m. (prydlawn) Seasonableness.

Prydlonedd, s. m. (prydlawn) Seasonableness.

Prydloni, v. a. (prydlawn) To render seasonable.

Prydnawn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pryd—nawn) The time from mid-day to the sixth hour; the afternoon.

Plygain, dwyrain dawn,
Anterth, aberth iawn,
A bore, a nawn,
A phrydnawn hwyr.

The twilight, when bounty rises, the hour of vapour, of acceptable sacrifice, and morning, and noon, and afternoon late. L. G. Cothi.

Prydnawnawl, a. (prydnawn) Afternoon tide.

Prydnawnbryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (prydnawn—pryd) An afternoon meal; a dinner.

Prydnawnfwyd, s. m. (prydnawn—bwyd) Afternoon meat; a dinner.

Prydnawngwaith, s. m. (prydnawn—gwaith) A certain afternoon.

Prydnawni, v. n. (prydnawn) To grow late in the day, or in the afternoon.

Trach i ddyn o'i wyn a'i yni na ddaw,
Cyn i'w ddydd brydnawni.—

It is simple for a man, that from his lust and his ardour he doth not come, ere his day grows towards a close. Edm. Prys.

Prydnawniad, s. m. (prydnawn) A becoming late in the afternoon.

Prydred, s. m. (pryd—rhed) Chronology.

Prydu, v. a. (pryd) To represent an object; to represent an event; to record time; to delineate, to form; to compose; to compose poetry.

Prydu geiriau chwareus;—Yr Arglwydd a brydodd y pader.

To invent playful words;—The Lord composed the paternoster. H. Car. Mag.—Mabinogion.

Sef a orug Hengist, erbyn y dydd hwnw, prydu twyll, nid amgen no rhoddi cyllell hir i bob gwr onaddynt.

What did Hengist, against that day, was to contrive treachery, nothing less than giving a long knife to every man of them. Gr. ab Arthur.

Dewiswn dduchan Dafydd
Cyn prydu ym gloewrym glod
O arall——

I would rather choose the satire of David, than to have composed for me splendid praise by another. Gr. Gryg.

Prydus, a. (pryd) Sightly, comely; seasonable.

Prydusaw, v. a. (prydus) To render comely or handsome; to become comely; to become seaseasonable or timely.

Prydusdra, s. m. (prydus) Comeliness; beauty; seasonableness.

Prydusedd, s. m. (prydus) Comeliness, beauty; sonableness.

Prydusrwydd, s. m. (prydus) Comeliness.

Prydwen, s. f. (pryd—gwèn) That is white.

Tarian a gymerai Arthur ar ei ysgwydd, yr hon a elwid Prydwen.

A shield did Arthur take upon his shoulder, the which was called Prydwen. Gr. ab Arthur.

Prydydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pryd) One who describes or represents, a recorder of events; one who forms or composes; a delineator of what is beautiful; a teacher of what is fair, in a moral sense, a civilizer; a poet.

Tri pheth a wnant brydydd; awen, gwybodaeth a chynhyrfiad.

Three things form a poet; genius, knowledge, and incentive. Barddas.

Prydyddaidd, a. (prydydd) Like a poet, poetic.

Prydyddawl, a. (prydydd) Poetic, poetical.

Prydyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (prydydd) A poetess.

Prydyddiad, s. m. (prydydd) A poetising.

Prydyddiaeth, s. m. (prydydd) The composition of poetry, poetry.

Tair dyben prydyddiaeth; cynnydd daioni, cynnydd deall, a chynnydd dyddanwch.

The three intentions of poetry; the increase of good, the increase of understanding, and the increase of happiness. Barddas.

Prydyddu, v. a. (prydydd) To poetise, to compose poetry, to write verses, or to versify.

Prydyn, s. m. (pryd) A name synonymous with Prydain, or Britain, and sometimes used for it; but in general applied to Scotland.

Hon a oresgyn
Holl Loegr a Phrydyn.

She will conquer all England and Scotland. Taliesin.

Prydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pry) That is teeming with produce; a luxuriant spot.

A'r bedwerydd
Rhan mewn tir prydd,
Yn dwyn ffrwythed
Ar ei ganfed:——
A'r bryn a'r prydd
A ynt ddedwydd;
A'r dyn a fo
Tebyg iddo,
Cael mae hwnw
Y gair a'i gadw.

And the fourth part in rich land, producing fruit a hundred fold: and the hill and dale are happy; and the person who is similar to that, he receives the word and keeps it. T. ab Ieu. ab Rhys.

Prydd, a. (pry) Good, teeming with good; rich, or luxuriant; comfortable, happy. Byw yn brydd, to live well; gwlad brydd iawn, a country abounding with every comfort; llaeth prydd, rich milk: yd prydd, fine corn. Sil.

Tragywyddoldeb yw dy oes brydd;
Pawb ereill sydd i ddarfod.

Eternity is thy happy life; all other beings are to end. Sir S. Owain.

Mae ganto'r bwydydd goreu,
Ac oll o'i brydiau'n brydd.

He has the best of victuals, and all of his meals comfortable. Dafydd o'r Nant.

Pryddâad, s. m. (pryddâu) A teeming with good; a becoming luxuriant; a being comfortable.

Pryddâawl, a. (pryddâu) Of a luxuriant tendency; tending to be comfortable.

Pryddâu, v. a. (prydd) To become teeming with luxuriance; to be productive.

Pryddedd, s. m. (prydd) Luxuriantness, fertility.

Pryddest, s. f.—pl. t. au (pry—dest) A rule or law of poetry; metre; song. Pryddest diawdl, blank verse.

> Pryddestau Cymmru, cymmrodial cynnelw,
> Neud Cynddelw a'u cynnal!
>
> The poetics of Wales, expressive of social harmony, shall not Cynddelw maintain them! Cynddelw.

Pryddestawd, s.m. (pryddest) Poetic composition

> Goreu ym o'm rheen ragfeddu
> Rhwydd uraith o briflaith brydu,
> Pryddestawd o'r Drindawd draethu
> Traeth foliant teilyngdawd dalu.
>
> Best for me from my Lord to be pre-endowed with the fluent oratory of poetry in a primitive tongue, a composition speaking of the Trinity, a discourse of praise, a tribute due to be paid. Einion Sais.

Pryddestawl, a. (pryddest) Metrical, poetical.
Pryddestiad, s. m. (pryddest) A forming of metre
Pryddestu, v. a. (pryddest) To form rules of poetry; to make metrical compositions.
Pryddestwr, s. m.—pl. pryddestwyr (pryddest—gwr) A versifier, a minstrel.
Pryddfawr, a. (prydd) Greatly teeming or rich.
Pryddiad, s. m. (prydd) A teeming with produce; a rendering luxuriant.
Pryddineb, s. m. (prydd) Luxuriantness.
Pryddus, a. (prydd) Of a productive nature.
Pryf, s. m.—pl. t. ed (pry) Any thing produced, or generated; any small animal, a vermin; a worm. Pryf ffyrnig yw y neidr, the snake is a noxious vermin; pryf cyfrwys yw llwynawg, a fox is a cunning animal; y pryf, the vermin; a term often used for an animal that is hunted for prey, but more particularly applied to the hare. Pryf llwyd, pryf penfrith, a badger; also called broch and mochyn bychan; pryf cadachawg, pryf y gwinwydd, blewog amldroed, a palmerworm; pryf y dail, pryf y cawl, pryf y bresych, llindys, a caterpillar; pryf clust, chwilen clust, an earwig; pryf y ganwyll, pryf y goleuad, pryf y melinydd, pryf dillad, a moth; pryf copyn, adar cop, a spider; pryf y gwellt, pryf ysgoed, a cadeworm; pryf yr yd, ydys, the calender.
Pryfad, s. m.—pl. pryfaid (pryf) An animal state; an animal; a vermin; a worm.
Pryfadawg, a. (pryfad) Full of vermin; vermiculous; mothy.
Pryfawl, a. (pryf) Verminous; vermicular.
Pryfed, s. pl. aggr. (pryf) Vermin; worms.

> Trefnaist wern uffern affaith sathan;
> Trefred i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofan'.
>
> Thou didst prepare the slough of hell suitable for Satan; the habitation for worms, where they will be in mutual strife. Cosnodyn.

Pryfediad, s. m. (pryfed) Vermination.
Pryfedig, a. (pryfed) Affected by worms. Pren pryfedig, worm-eaten wood.
Pryfedu, v. n. (pryfed) To become worms; to breed worms, to verminate.
Pryfes, s. f.—pl. t. au (pryf) A vermin of the female kind.

> Y bryfes, gynhes geinach
> A'r garau a'r borau bach.
>
> The animal, the warmly clad hare, with the small shanks and hams. T. Prys.

Pryfeta, v. a. (pryfed) To gather vermin, to hunt for vermin.
Pryfetai, s. c.—pl. pryfeteion (pryfed) A vermin-catcher.
Pryfig, a. (pryf) Having worms, vermiculous.
Pryfigedd, s. f. (pryfig) A breeding of worms.
Pryfydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pryf) A vermin-killer.
Pryfyddiaeth, s. m. (pryfydd) The calling of a vermin-killer.
Pryfyn, s. m. dim. (pryf) A small vermin; a little worm; a single vermin.

> Nid gwr dewr, nid goreu dyn
> Nid pur wyf, ond pryfyn.
>
> Not a brave man, not a best person, not pure am I, but a frail worm. W. Middleton.

Pryfflau, s. m. (pry—fflau) A spreading radiation
Pryffwn, s. m. (pry—ffwn) A source of spreading. a. Excellent, principal, superior.

> Gogwn Dduw, pryffwn y proffwydi.
>
> I know God, the one set forth of the prophets. Ll. P. Moch.
>
> Gwisgoedd ym rhoddes—
> O borffor, o bryffwn lliant,
> O bali, ac aur ac ariant.
>
> Garments he bestowed on me, of purple, of superior linen, of velvet, and gold and silver. Ll. P. Moch.

Pryffwnt, s. m. (pryffwn) A source of spreading; a centre; a principal.

> Gadewais, a hyntiais hwnt
> Prifffordd y bobl, a'u pryffwnt.
>
> I forsook, and I turned off the people's high road, and their central point. D. ab Gwilym.

Pryleu, s. m. (pry—lleu) A fluent utterance.
Pryn, s. m. (pry) A take, a taking to one's self; a purchase; desert, merit. a. Bought.

> Gwell un synwyr pryn no dau synwyr parawd.
>
> Better is one wit bought than two wits ready. Adage.
>
> Gwell eidion gwerth nog un pryn.
>
> Better a selling beast than a bought one. Adage.

Prynadwy, a. (pryn) Purchasable; buyable.
Prynator, ger. (pryn) In purchasing.
Prynawl, a. (pryn) Purchasing, buying.
Pryned, s. f.—pl. t. au (pryn) A holder, or that takes hold; a hand.
Prynedig, a. (pryn) Being purchased; redeemed
Prynedigaeth, s. m. (prynedig) The act of taking, buying, or purchasing; redemption.
Prynedigawl, a. (prynedig) Belonging to purchase; redemptory.
Pryngar, a. (pryn) Addicted to buying.
Pryniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pryn) A buying, a purchasing; a redeeming.
Pryniadawl, a. (pryniad) Purchasing; redeeming
Pryniawd, s. m. (pryn) The act of buying.
Pryniawdwr, s. m.—pl. pryniawdwyr (pryniawd—gwr) A purchaser or a buyer; a redeemer.
Pryniawdr, s. m.—pl. pryniodron (pryniawd) A purchaser or a buyer; a redeemer.
Prynitor, sup. (pryn) To be purchasing.
Prynu, v. a. (pryn) To take, to lay hold of; to purchase, to buy; to redeem; to deserve, to merit. Pryna hyn, buy this much.

> Gwerth dy wybodaeth i brynu synwyr.
>
> Sell thy knowledge to buy sense. Adage.
>
> Cas dyn a bryno bob peth ac heb ennill ar ddim.
>
> Odious the person who buys every thing without gaining upon any. Adage.
>
> Cred yn Nuw a'th wnaeth; car Dduw a'th brynwys; ac ofna Dduw a'th barna.
>
> Believe in God who made thee; love God who redeemed thee; and fear God who will judge thee. Bardd.
>
> Nid mau modd dewi heb hoal pwy oeddynt;
> Prynesynt eu moli.——
>
> In no wise can I be mute, without asserting who they were; they deserved to be extolled. Gwalchmai.

Prynwr, s. m.—pl. prynwyr (pryn—gwr) Buyer
Prynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pryn) A buyer.
Prys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pry—ys) A covert; a resort, or an abode; brushwood, underwood. It forms the names of several places: as Bron

y Prys; Prysaddfed, Pryseddfod, Prys Iorwestl, Prys Gaga, Prystalyn, Prys Dolffyn.

Twrf gawr gorwyddawr gochwys,
Mal twrf toredwynt am brys.

The din of the shout of the toiling steed-mounted warriors, like the tumult of a whirlwind over the brushwood.
Seisyll Bryffwrch.

Prysain, a. (prys) Abounding with coverts; abounding with brushwood. s. f. A place covered with brushwood.

Prysawl, a. (prys) Belonging to a covert; frequented; overrun with brushwood.

Prysedd, s. m. (prys) State of being frequented.

Prysedda, v. a. (prysedd) To make a resort; to make an abode, to dwell, to inhabit.

Pryseddawl, a. (prysedd) Belonging to a dwelling

Pryseddfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (prysedd) A place of resort; a dwelling place.

Pryseddfod, s. f.—pl. t. au (prysedd—bod) A dwelling place, or a habitation.

Pryseddiad, s. m. (prysedd) A making a resort; a fixing an abode; a dwelling.

Pryseddu, v. a. (prysedd) To make a resort; to take up an abode; to dwell.

Y nos hono y doai Collen adref i'w guddigl, ac y gweddiai ar Dduw am gael lle i bryseddu tra byddai byw.

That night Collen came home to his hermitage, and he prayed to God for obtaining a place to dwell whilst he should live.
Buchedd Collen.

Prysel, s. m.—pl. t. au (prys) A place overgrown with brushwood, a thicket.

Pryseliad, s. m. (prysel) A becoming covered with brushwood, a growing to a thicket.

Pryselu, v. n. (prysel) To become overgrown with brushwood, or to become a thicket.

Prysg, s. m.—pl. t. au (prys) That extends or stretches over; also brushwood, or underwood. There are several mountains of this name; as the Prysg Du, in Radnorshire, Y Prysg, in Glamorganshire.

Prysgawl, a. (prysg) Expanding over, covering.

Prysgiad, s. m. (prysg) A stretching over; also a becoming covered with brushwood.

Prysgl, s. m. (prysg) A copse; brushwood.

Prysgliach, s. pl. aggr. (prysgl) Stunted straggling trees.

Prysglwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (prysg—llwyn) Copse.

Prysgoed, s. pl. aggr. (prys—coed) Brushwood.

Prysgwydd, s. pl. (prysg—gwydd) Brushwood.

Prysgwydden, s. f. dim. (prysgwydd) A coppice-tree.

Prysgyll, s. m. (prys—cyll) A place overgrown with small hazel wood, a hazel copse.

Prysiad, s. m. (prys) A forming a covert; a making a resort; a becoming overrun.

Prystell, s. f. (prwst) Tumult, or uproar.

Prystellach, s. f. (prystell) A state of uproar. v.a. To make an uproar or a tumult.

Y rhai drwg—pan drengont wy y daw y cythreuliaid yn heltiau a phrystellach fawr ganthynt yn greulawn i byrth uffern.

The wicked ones, when they are deceased, the devils will urge in swarms with dire uproar horribly to the gates of hell.
Elucidarius.

Prysu, v. a. (prys) To form a covert; to make a resort; to overrun; to cover with brushwood.

Prysur, a. (prws) Assidnons, diligent, busy; making haste; serious. Yr wyt yn brysur iawn wrth dy waith, thou art very busy at thy work; gweda imi yn brysur, tell me seriously. Dyfed.

Rhaid yw ymddiilwng tyllwedd present,
Canys prysur ei hoferedd!

It is necessary to depart from the station of the present, for fleeting is the vanity of it.
Elidr Sais.

Prysuraw, v. a. (prysur) To make haste with what is in hand; to be assiduous; to hasten. to be serious or intent upon a thing.

Prysurawl, a. (prysur) Tending to be assiduous, tending to hasten; of a serious turn.

Prysurdeb, s. m. (prysur) Assiduity, diligence; business; haste; earnestness, attentiveness.

Prysuredig, a. (prysur) Being busied, hastened.

Prysuriad, s. m. (prysur) A being diligent, a busying; a hastening, a giving attention.

Prysuriaeth, s. m. (prysur) The state of being diligent; a state of bustle; attention.

Och Dduw! na ddaw ef etwaeth,
I ystwng treiswyr treiswriaeth cyngygn
Yn nghynif prysuriaeth.

Would to God that he were to come again, to humble the oppressors, of the most violent oppression, in the urgency of expedition.
Elidr Sais.

Prysurwch, s.m. (prysur) Diligence; earnestness; a state of bustle or haste.

Prysurwr, s. m.—pl. prysurwyr (prysur—gwr) A bustler; a hastener.

Pryswr, s. m.—pl. pryswyr (prys—gwr) A resorter, a frequenter; a dweller.

Puch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py—uch) A sigh; earnest desire, a wish.

Puchaw, v. a. (puch) To sigh; to long, to wish.

Ar eu pechodau puchaswn arwydd crog;
Ym dwyn croes Crist ar fy ysgwydd;
Angeu yr enaid, afraid afrwydd,
A ddaw am buchiaw am bechrwydd.

On their sins I would have desired the sign of the crucifix; that I might bear the cross of Christ on my shoulder; the death of the soul, an untoward fate, will come for longing after wickedness.
Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Puchedig, a. (puch) Being longed for or desired.

Puchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (puch) A sighing after; a desiring earnestly; a desiring.

Puchiannawl, a. (puchiant) Panting; sighing; earnestly desirous; greatly longing after.

Puchiannu, v. a. (puchiant) To make a sighing; to desire earnestly, to long or to pant after.

Puchiannus, a. (puchiant) Sighing; longing.

Puchiant, s. m. (puch) A sighing; earnest desire

Duw llywiawdr——
Deddfau digamwedd a'm diweddo hyd frawd;
Defawd dibechawd ym a bucho;
O buchiant mawrfod ef a'm rhoddo
Roddion ordywyll a'm didwyllo!

God the supreme ruler, with uncorrupted laws may he endow me for judgement; a sinless habit may he will for me; from so greatly existing anxiety may he bestow on me mysterious gifts that shall undeceive me.
Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Puchiaw, v. a. (puch) To sigh, to desire earnestly

Puchiawl, a. (puch) Sighing, longing, wishing.

Puchwr, s. m.—pl. puchwyr (puch—gwr) One who sighs, one who longs.

Pud, s. m. (py—ud) That tends to allure.

Pudd, s. m. (py—udd) Aptness to stop.

Pul, s. m.—pl. t. on (py—ul) That tends to straiten.

Pum, s. m. (py—um) That tends to form, or to aggregate; the number five, used as a prefix, in composition.

Pumban, s. m.—pl. t. au (pum—ban) A term in prosody for a stanza of five verses.

Pumbanawg, a. (pumban) Consisting of five verses or lines.

Pumbys, s. pl. (pum—bys) Five fingers. a. Five-fingered; common cinquefoil: pumbys yr alban, procumbent sibaldia.

Pumcanfed, s. m. (pumcant) The five hundredth part. a. Five hundredth.

Pumcanmil, s. m. (pumcant—mil) Five hundred thousand. a. Five hundred thousand.

Pumcanmilfed, s. m. (pumcanmil) Five hundred thousandth part. a. Five hundred thousandth.
Pumcanmyrdd, s. m. (pumcant—myrdd) The number of five hundred myriads, or five millions. a. Five hundred myriads.
Pumcant, s. m. (pum—cant) Five hundred.
Pumcanwaith, s. m. (pumcant—gwaith) Five hundred times.
Pumdalen, s. f. (pum—dalen) A cinquefoil. a. Five-leaved.
Pumdalenawg, a. (pumdalen) Having five leaves.
Pumdeg, s. m. (pum—deg) Fifty. a. Fifty.
Pumdegawl, a. (pumdeg) Belonging to fifty.
Pumdegfed, s. m. (pumdeg) The fiftieth part.
Pumdegmil, s. m. (pumdeg—mil) Fifty thousand. a. Fifty thousand.
Pumdryll, s. pl. (pum—dryll) Five pieces. a. Consisting of five pieces.
Pumloes, s. pl. (pum—gloes) The five agonies; a term in theology.
Pumlleng, s. pl. (pum—lleng) Five legions. a. Consisting of five legions.
Pumllyfr, s. pl. (pum—llyfr) The pentateuch.
Pummed, s. m. (pump) The fifth. a. Fifth.
Pummedban, s. m. (pummed—ban) A fifth line.
Pummedmis, s. (pummed—mis) The fifth month.
Pummednos, s. f. (pummed—nos) A fifth night.
Pummedran, s. f. (pummed—rhan) A fifth part.
Pummil, s. m. (pum—mil) Five thousand.
Pummilfed, s. f. (pummil) The five thousandth part. a. Five thousandth.
Pummis, s. pl. (pum—mis) Five months. a. Of five months.
Pummisyriad, s. m.—pl. pummisyriaid (pum—misyriad) What is five years of age.
Pummawnt, s. m. (pum—mawnt) Five hundred thousand.
Pumnalen, s. f. (pum—dalen) Cinquefoil.
Pumnalenawg, a. (pumnalen) Cinquefoil.
Pumochr, s. m. (pum—ochr) A pentagon. a. Of five sides.
Pumochrawg, a. (pumochr) Five-sided, pentagon.
Pumoed, s. pl. (pum—oed) Five ages; a term used sometimes for Pumoes.
Pumoes, s. pl. (pum—oes) Five lives, or five periods; a term in theology for the period before the coming of Christ.

> Achaws pumoes byd y bu iddaw,
> Ucbelwr mirain, ber drain drwyddaw.

> For the sake of the five ages of the world, the glorious exalted one was pierced with the point of thorns. D. Benfras.

Pumongl, s. m. (pum—ongl) That has five angles. a. Of five angles.
Pumonglawg, a. (pumongl) Pentagonal.
Pump, s. m. (pum) Five, used only absolutely.
Pumplyg, s. m. (pum—plyg) What is doubled five times. a. Quintuple.
Pumplygawl, a. (pumplyg) Quintuple.
Pumrhan, s. pl. (pum—rhan) Five shares.
Pumrhanawl, a. (pumrhan) Quinquepartite.
Pumsill, s. pl. (pum—sill) Five syllables. a. Of five syllables.
Pumsillawg, a. (pumsill) Of five syllables.
Pumtant, s. m. (pum—tant) A pentachord.
Pumtro, s. pl. (pum—tro) Five turns. a. Of five turns; five times.
Pumwaith, s. pl. (pum—gwaith) Five times.
Pumwan, s. pl. (pum—gwan) Five wounds, a term in christian theology.

> Can dug pumwan Crist pumoes o gaeth—

> Since the five wounds of Christ bear the five ages out of bondage. Ll. P. Moch.

Pumwr, s. pl. (pum—gwr) Five men.
Pumwriad, s. m.—pl. pumwriaid (pumwr) One who is over five men.
Pun, s. m. (py—un) That is equal, even, or equivalent. a. Equal, equivalent.

> Pedwar pun brodyr a'm bu,
> Ac i bob un penteulu;
> Ni wyr Tren berchen idu.

> Four equal brothers to me have been, and each was allotted to be the head of a family; but Tren knows to itself no owner. Llywarch Hen.

Punt, s. f.—pl. punnoedd (pun) A denomination for the sum of twenty shillings, or a pound.
Pur, s. m. (py—ur) That is pure or without alloy. a. Pure, clean; undefiled, perfect; sincere.

> Iolaf bair, o bured arwar,
> A beris amad ac adar.

> I will adore the Cause, from so pure a source did produce revolving things and birds. Llywelyn Fardd.

Pur, adv. (py—ur) Essentially; very. Pur dda, very good; pur dost, very severe.
Purad, s. m. (pur) Depuration, a purifying.
Puradwy, a. (purad) Capable of being pure.
Puraidd, a. (pur) Somewhat pure or clean.
Purain, a. (pur) Abounding with purity.
Puraw, v. a. (pur) To purify, to cleanse.
Purawd, s. m. (pur) Purgation, or cleansing.
Purawl, a. (pur) Purifying, cleansing.
Purawr, s. m. (pur) A purifier, a purger.
Purdan, s. m. (pur—tan) Purgatory.
Purdeb, s. m. (pur) Purity; sincerity.

> Tair cynneddf purdeb ar iaith; prif anseawdd, prif arfer, a phrifddefnydd.

> The three principles of purity in a language; an established idiom, an established usage, and established application. Barddas.

Purdra, s. m. (pur) Pureness, or purity.
Puredig, a. (purad) Purified, cleansed.
Puredigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (puredig) The being purified; a purification; a lustration.
Puredigaethawl, a. (puredigaeth) Purificative.
Puredigaethu, v. a. (puredigaeth) To make a purification, to make a lustration.
Puredigaw, v. a. (puredig) To render purified.
Puredigawl, a. (puredig) Purificatory.
Puredd, s. m. (pur) Purity, pureness, cleanness.
Pureidd-dra, s. m. (puraidd) A purified state.
Pureiddiad, s. m. (puraidd) A rendering purified.
Pureiddiaw, v. a. (puraidd) To render pure; to become of a pure nature; to lustrate.
Pureiddiedig, a. (pureiddiad) Being purified.
Pureiddiedigawl, a. (pureiddiedig) Purificative.
Pureiddrwydd, s. m. (puraidd) Pureness, purity.
Puren, s. f.—pl. t. au (pur) A purifying machine, a sifting skreen.
Puriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pur) A making pure; a becoming pure; a purifying; a lustration.
Puriannawl, a. (puriant) Purificative.
Puriannu, v. a. (puriant) To depurate.
Puriannus, a. (puriant) Depuratory, purifying.
Puriannusaw, v. a. (puriannus) To render purificatory; to become purificative.
Puriant, s. m. (pur) Purgation, depuration.
Puriator, ger. (puriad) In purifying.
Puriedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (puriad) A purifier.
Purineb, s. m. (pur) A state of purity.
Purion, adv. (pur) Essentially, purely; very well.

> Wyd burion i gyrchu angeu at wr boneddig.

> Thou art very well to fetch death to a nobleman. Adage, applied to a dilatory one.

Puritor, sup. (pur) To be purifying.
Purlan, a. (pur—glan) Purely clean.

Purwr, s. m.—pl. purwyr (pur—gwr) One who makes pure, a purifier.
Puten, s. f.—pl. t. od (pud) A whore.
Puteindra, s. m. (puten) Putanism, whoredom.
Puteindy, s. m. (puten—ty) A bawdy-house.
Puteiniad, s. f.—pl. puteiniaid (puten) A whore.
Puteiniaw, v. a. (puten) To commit whoredom.
Puteiniawl, a. (puten) Meretricious.
Puteinig, a. (puten) Whorish, adulterous.
Puteinigrwydd, s. m. (puten) Whorishness.
Puteiniwr, s. m.—pl. puteinwyr (puten—gwr) A whoremonger, a fornicator.
Puteinllyd, a. (puten) Addicted to fornication.
PW, s. m. r. That tends to push, or pass off; a tendency to pass off, or to separate.
Pwca, s. m.—pl. t. od (pwg) A hobgoblin.
Pwci, s. m.—pl. t. od (pwg) A hobgoblin.
Pwd, s. m. (pw—wd) A rot; the rot in sheep.
Pwdr, a. (pwd) Rotten, corrupt, putrid.
Pwff, s. m.—pl. pyffiau (pw) A puff.
Pwffiaw, v. a. (pwff) To puff; to come in puffs.
Pwg, s. m. (pw—wg) That pushes or swells out.
Pwl, s. m. (py—wl) That is blunt, or obtuse; that is dull. Pwl dall, a blindworm.
Pwl, a. (py—wl) Blunt, obtuse; dull, stupid.

Dyn pwl sy'n meddwl am oes;
Duw a ran hyd yr einioes.

The simple man is anxious about life; God ordains the length of existence. W. Lleyn.

Pwlongl, s. f.—pl. pwlonglau (pwl—ongl) An obtuse angle.
Pwlonglawg, a. (pwlongl) Having obtuse angles.
Pwll, s. m.—pl. pyllau (py—wll) A small pool, a pit. Pwll mawn, a peat pit; pwll llif, a saw pit.
Pwm, s. m. (py—wm) That swells out.
Pwmp, s. m. (pwm) A round mass. Pwmp o ddyn, a large heavy man.
Pwmpa, s. m. (pwmp) A round lump; a large kind of apple.
Pwmpiad, s. m. (pwmp) A forming a round mass; a thumping, a banging.
Pwmpiaw, v. a. (pwmp) To form a round mass; to thump, to bang.
Pwmpl, s. m.—pl. pwmplau (pwmp) A knob, a boss; also the drop of a drawer.
Pwmplaw, v. a. (pwmpl) To boss, to knob.
Pwmplawg, a. (pwmpl) Knobbed, or bossed.
Pwn, s. m.—pl. pynau (pw) An aggregate; a pack; a burden, a load.

A chan-pyn llyn ger ei law.

And a hundred pool dams close at hand. Adage.

Pwnc, s. m.—pl. pyncian (py—wnc) That is present or in the instant; a point of time; a point; a note in music; a subject, or what is under observation; a point or stop, in grammar.
Pwniad, s. m. (pwn) A laying on a burden, a loading; a beating, a banging.
Pwniaw, v. a. (pwn) To burden, to load; to beat, to bang, to thump.
Pwnt, s. m. (pwn) That is collected, or aggregated; a reservoir. Pwnt melin, a mill dam.
Pwng, s. m.—pl. t. au (py—wng) That is in contact, upon, or together; a cluster; a crop, as of a field, of a tree, or the like. Sil.

Amgylch llyw——
Gnawd yd kyrch cynnygn o'i gynnif pwng.

Around the chief foes habitually throng together from his gathering storm. E. ab M. Rhenwd.

Pwnga, s. m. (pwng) That is collected together; a push, a wheal, a blister.
Pwngaidd, a. (pwng) Tending to cluster.
Pwngaw, v. n. (pwng) To teem; to cluster.
Pwngawl, a. (pwng) Teeming; clustering.
Pwngiad, s. m. (pwng) A teeming; a clustering.
Pwngu, v. a. (pwng) To teem; to cluster.
Pwr, s. m. (pw—wr) That extends; a worm. Pwr dall, pwl dall, a blind-worm, a slow-worm.
Pws, s. m. (pw—ws) That is uttered, or expelled.
Pwsach, s. m. (pws) A forcible utterance; an outcry. Brecon.
Pwt, s. m.—pl. pytiau (py—wt) Any short thing. Pwt o bren, a short piece of wood; pwt o ddyn, a squab of a person; pwt o gleddyf, a short bit of a sword; pwt y gynnen, a mischief maker.
Pwten, s. f. dim. (pwt) A squat female.
Pwtiad, s. m. (pwt) A butting, a poking.
Pwtian, v. a. (pwt) To but, to poke, to thrust.
Pwtiaw, v. a. (pwt) To but, or to thrust against.
Pwtiedydd, s. m.—pt. t. ion (pwtiad) A thruster.
Pwtienydd, s. m. (pwtian) A thruster, a poker.
Pwtiwr, s. m.—pl. pwtiwyr (pwt—gwr) Thruster
Pwtog, s. f. dim. (pwt) A short thick woman.
Pwtwn, s. m. (pwd) A kind of liquor; probably the same as the poteen whisky of the Irish.

Cwrw iach, o frig ceirch y fro,
Yw pwtwn, mal gwin Poito.

Salutary ale, from the tops of the oats of the hill, is the Pwtwn, like Poictou wine. Guto y Glyn.

Pwtyn, s. m. dim. (pwt) A short round body. Pwtyn o bren, a short piece of wood; pwtyn o ddyn, a short squab of a man.
Pwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (pw) A beat, a knock; a but; a thrust.

Olpai'r bais, ol pwy o'r big,
Ar y ddwy-dorth urddedig.

Like the oilet holes of a coat, the mark of a peck of the beak, on the two useful masses. Gr. Hiraethawg, i feini Melin.

Pwy, pron. (pw) Who, which person; what.

Ni wddant pan esgor dewaint a gwawr;
Neu wynt pwy hynt; pwy ei rynawdd;
Py fa difa; py dir a'i blawdd.

They know not when the darkness and the dawn divide; or the wind of what course; what the cause of its agitation; which the place of its termination; which the region that makes it roar. Taliesin.

Parch a'th barcho pwy bynna ho.

Respect him that respects thee who soever he be. Adage.

A wyddant hwy pwy yw pwyll?

Do they know what is reason? D. ab Gwilym.

Pwy, adv. (pw) In a forward or advanced position; forward, to; in a past state. Crwydraw o le pwy gilydd, to wander from one place to another.

Ni welais o'r mor bwy'r mor
Marchawg a fai waeth——

I have not beheld from the sea to the sea a warrior that could be worse. Taliesin.

Pwyad, s. m. (pwy) A beating, a striking.
Pwyaw, v. a. (pwy) To beat, to bang, to batter.

Ni thyr hefyd, mewn bryd braw,
A bwyall, rhag ei bwyaw,
Taiawg, na chynnuteion.

It will not be cut, in a timid mind, with a hatchet, lest he may be beaten, by a churl, nor by fuel gatherers. Gr. Gryg, i ywen.

Pwyawd, s. m. (pwy) A beat, a stroke, a bang.
Pwyawdr, s. m.—pl. pwyodron (pwyawd) A pounder, a rammer, a beetle, a pavior's beetle.
Pwyawl, a. (pwy) Beating, striking, banging.
Pwybynag, pron. (pwy—pynag) Whosoever.
Pwyd, s. m. (pwy) The act of putting by, or passing. It is a termination forming the impersonal preterite used for wyd, in some verbs.
Pwyedig, a. (pwyad) Beaten, banged; pounded.
Pwyedigaeth, s. m. (pwyedig) The act of beating, striking, or banging.

Pwygilydd, adv. (pwy—cilydd) To another.

Pwyll, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pwy—yll) That clears a course forward, an opening a way; impulse; reason,sense, wit, discretion, prudence, perseverance. Pwyll certh, sharp wit.

Athraw doeth pwyll, athraw annoeth dylith.

The instructor of the wise is reason, the instructor of the unwise is example. Adage.

Gwell pwyll nog aur.

Prudence is better than gold. Adage.

'A fo da ei bwyll a fydd diboen.

He that will be of good discretion will be free from pain. Adage.

Pyll wyn——
Pwyll tân trwy lumon.

Fair Pyll of a course of fire through a chimney. Llywarch Hen.

Os pwyll canwyll rhag cynnen,
Goreu canwyll yw pwyll pen.

If sense be a lamp to avoid contention, the best lamp is common sense. H. C. Llwyd.

A'r bwyll a syrth o'r bellen,
A'r byd a ddygwydd ar ben.

And the impulsive power will fall out of the globe, and the world will come to an end. Llywelyn ab Owain.

Pwyll, a. (pwy—yll) Tending onward, forward; wary, discreet.

Pur yw ei gledd, por y Glyn,
Pwyll rwysgwr pell oresgyn.

Pure is his sword, the lord of the Vale, the forward hero far conquering. Iolo Goch.

Pwyllad, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pwyll) An impelling, or guiding forward; a reasoning; a reasoning faculty.

Fy Nuw, fy nerthiad,
A ddodes trwy fy iad
Enaid i'm pwyllad.

My God, my strengthener did infuse through my temple a soul for my guidance. Taliesin.

Pwylladwy, a. (pwyllad) Capable of reasoning.

Pwyllai, s. c.—pl. pwylleion (pwyll) That is impulsive; one who uses discretion.

Pwyllator, ger.(pwyllad) In impelling, or investigating; in reasoning.

Pwyllaw, v. a. (pwyll) To clear a way forward, to open a course; to impel; to reason, to think, to deliberate; to act discreetly; to call to mind, to contemplate, to think of.

Pwyllai Dunawd farchawg gwain,
Er echwydd gwneuthur celain,
Yn erbyn crysaid Owain.

Dunawd the active warrior would impel onward, expecting to make a corpse, against the hasty onset of Owain. Llywarch Hen.

Mab Duw, dylyaf dy bwyllaw.

Son of God, I ought to think of thee. D. Benfras.

Pwyllawd, s. m. (pwyll) Impulsion; guidance forward; exertion of the mind.

Pwyllawg, a. (pwyll) Having impulse; rational, prudent, discreet, considerate, well-advised; circumspect, wary.

Pedrydawg, pwyllawg pwyll goddaith,
Pell ei glod o gludaw anrhaith.

Vigorous, impelling forward like the impulse of a conflagration, far his fame for collecting spoil. Cynddelw, i O. ab Madawg.

Pwyllawr, s. m. (pwyll) An impulse; a motive; reasoning faculty.

Pwylldid, s. f.—pl. t. au (pwyll—tid) A loop.

Pwylledig, a. (pwyllad) Endued with impulse.

Pwylledd, s. m. (pwyll) Discreetness, wariness.

Pwyllgall, a. (pwyll—call) Rationally wise.

Pwylliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwyll) An impelling, or guiding forward; a reasoning, exertion of the mind; contemplation.

Gwelais i feirch cymmrudd o gad;
A gwedy gawr garw bwylliad.

I beheld steeds hagged with mutual toil from battle; and after the shout a frightful impelling. Llywarch Hen.

Ness goreu dan bwylliad neirthiad gwychydd.

Were not the exertion of a hero best under discretion. Aneurin.

Nis myn pwylliad.

He will not receive direction. Adage.

Pwylliad, s. m.—pl. pwylliaid (pwyll) A pilot.

Pwylliadu, v. a. (pwylliad) To guide as a pilot.

Pwylliawr, s. m. (pwyll) Impulse; motive.

Duw dewr-wir, pellir pwylliawr o'n cynhen.

God of active truth, reason is far driven from our contention. Ll. P. Moch.

Pwyllig, a. (pwyll) Rational; discreet, wary. Mae yn dawed yn bwyllig iawn, he is coming very leisurely. Dyfed.

Nid pwyllig y dyn a ddalia genfigen.

The person who harbours envy is not prudent. Adage.

Pwylligrwydd, s. m. (pwyllig) Rationality.

Pwyllineb, s. m. (pwyll) Rationality, prudence.

Pwyllogi, v. a. (pwyllawg) To endue with reason, to become rational.

Pwyllogrwydd, s. m. (pwyllawg) Rationality, considerateness.

Pwyllus, a. (pwyll) Impulsive, rational, discreet.

Pwyllusaw, v. n. (pwyllus) To grow rational.

Pwyllusrwydd, s. m. (pwyllus) Impulsiveness; rationality, discreetness.

Pwyllwr, s. m.—pl. pwyllwyr (pwyll—gwr) One who impels; a discreet man.

Pwyn, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pwy—yn) A point.

Pwyned, s. f.—pl. t. i (pwyn) A broach; a fork.

Tri pheth boffaidd i wr ar ei giniaw: cyllell awchus; pwyned flaenllem; ac alawr glan.

Three things seemly for a person at his dinner: a keen knife; a sharp-pointed broach; and a clean plate. Trioedd Moes.

Pwyniad, s. m.—pl.. t. au (pwyn) Any pointed tool; a spike; a skewer.

Tri anhardddwch gwr mewn gwledd; pwyniad byfer, cyllell finbwl, ac y saig yn mhell.

Three things unseemly to a man in a banquet: a skewer too short, a blunt-edged knife, and the victuals at a distance. Trioedd Moes.

Pwyniaw, v. a. (pwyn) To spike, to skewer.

Pwynt, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pwyn) An end, or point; a state, condition, case, or plight; good case.

A wyddant hwy pwy, o'm pwynt,
O drais ym, a droes anmhwynt!

Do they know who, out of my good condition, out of treachery to me, has brought about indisposition. Bedo Brwynllys.

Pwyntel, s. m.—pl. t. i (pwynt) Any pointed tool; a pencil, a painter's brush or tool.

Un dull yw'r byd cyngyd cel
A phaentiwr delw a phwyntel.

Of the same manner is the world of hidden design as a painter of an image with a pencil. Dr. S. Cent.

Pwyntiad, s. m. (pwynt) A bringing to a point; a putting into good case or plight.

Pwyntiaw, v. a. (pwynt) To point, to bring to a point; to put in good case or plight.

Brasčaist, tewychaist, pwyntiaist.

Thou hast become large, thou hast become fat, thou hast become of good case. Deut. 32. 15.

Pwyntiawl, a. (pwynt) Tending to a point; tending to be of good condition.

Pwyntiedig, a. (pwyntiad) Pointed, being made of good condition.

Pwyntiwr, s. m.—pl. pwyntwyr (pwynt—gwr) One who points; a fattener.

Pwyntl, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwynt) A pointed end; a tag. Pwyntl carai, tag of a lace; a poniard.

Pwys, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwy—ys) The state of being put down or at rest; the state of being down or upon; pressure, weight; a pound weight. Pwys cwyr, pwys bach, a pound avoirdupoise; pwys cyfelin, pwys y gareg, but varying in weight: in Meirion it is two pounds avoirdupoise, and in Mon it is five. Dos wrth dy bwys, go at thy leisure; cymera bwys, take a seat. Dyfed.

Myned trwy yr afon a phont ar bwys.

To go through the river with a bridge on the spot. Adage.

Pwysadwy, a. (pwys) Ponderable, capable of being weighed.

Pwysaw, v. a. (pwys) To throw upon, to throw down; to press, to weigh; to incline; to lean; to be a pressure, to be a burden: to take rest. Pwysa y bel, serve thou the ball; pwysaw at yr amser, to draw near the time; a wnei di bwysaw? wilt thou take rest? Dyfed. Gwraig bwys, or gwraig brïawd, a wedded wife; cariad-wraig, a love wife, or concubine.

Pwysawd, s. m. (pwys) The act of pressing, or weighing down; a weighing.

Pwysawdr, s. m.—pl. pwysodron (pwysawd) Any thing to press down with; a rammer.

Pwysawg, a. (pwys) Having a pressure; being of weight, being heavy.

Pwysawl, a. (pwys) Pressing; weighing.

Pwysedig, a. (pwys) Being pressed, weighed.

Pwysfawr, a. (pwys—mawr) Ponderous, weighty, momentous, of great consequence.

Pwysgar, a. (pwys) Tending to press.

Pwysgarwch, s. m. (pwysgar) Weightiness.

Pwysi, s. m. (pwys) Weight, heaviness.

Pwysiad, s. m. (pwys) A pressing; a weighing.

Pwysiannawl, a. (pwysiant) Depressive.

Pwysiannu, v. a. (pwysiant) To cause a depression; to become depressive.

Pwysiant, s. m. (pwys) Depression, pressure.

Pwysig, a. (pwys) Pressing, ponderous, emphatic.

Pwysigrwydd, s. m. (pwysig) Pressingness; ponderousness, weightiness.

Pwysineb, s. m. (pwys) Depressiveness.

Pwyswr, s. m.—pl. pwyswyr (pwys—gwr) One who presses, or bears down; a weigher.

Pwysydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pwys) One who presses, one who bears down; a weigher.

Pwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (pwy—yth) That runs in; a thrust; a stitch; a point, an angle, or indenting; a retaliation, a requital, a return. Talu pwyth, to pay a point, or to return like for like; pwyth celwydd, the reward of a lie; Pwython, requitals; certain presents given, according to old usage, to a newly married couple, by the persons invited to the wedding: Pwyth Meinlas, the Narrow Green Point, the name of the place where Cæsar landed in Britain.

Pwythaw, v. a. (pwyth) To thrust in; to stitch.

Pwythawg, a. (pwyth) Having stitches.

Pwythawl, a. (pwyth) Stitching, sewing.

Pwythedig, a. (pwyth) Stitched, sewed.

Pwythiad, s. m. (pwyth) A stitching, a sticking.

Pwythwr, s. m.—pl. pwythwyr (pwyth—gwr) A stitcher.

Pwythydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pwyth) A stitcher.

PY, s. m. r. That is inward, that is involved; that is inversed. It is a prefix in the composition of words; but generally dropping the vowel, on account of its being the shortest and giving way to all the other vowels.

Py, pron. (py, s.) What; which. It is used for Pa. adv. why, for what reason. Py efelly? why so?

Y gelynion oeddynt yn ymroddi i'w gnotaedig frad, gan geisiaw goresgyn yr ynys, a'i distryw: ac, i blith pob peth, prydu a wneynt py wedd y gellynt gwneuthur brad y brenin yn gyntaf.

The enemies were giving themselves up to their usual treachery, in trying to conquer the island, and to destroy it: and, amongst every thing, they were going to devise what way they could work the ruin of the king in the first place. Brut y Breninoedd.

Nid rhaid tra dilyn pell ofyn pwy;
Py geidw'r gorddyfr rhag pob gorddwy.

There need not be too much inquisitiveness in far asking whom; who will keep the bordering water from every molestation. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Pyb, s. m. (py—yb) That is energetic or stout.

Pybi, s. m. (pyb) Vigour, potency, energy.

Rhos difro Benfro penfadden pybi;
Pobl fedydd rwy cygleu.

The depopulated moor of Penvro whose strength is cut off; the people of Christendom have heard it. L. P. Moch.

Pybiaidd, a. (pybl) Of a vigorous nature.

Pyblu, v. a. (pybl) To invigorate, to animate.

Pybyr, a. (pyb) Strenuous, stout, vigorous.

Pybyraidd, a. (pybyr) Somewhat strenuous.

Pybyriad, s. m. (pybyr) A rendering stout, or vigorous; a becoming vigorous; invigoration.

Pybyru, v. a. (pybyr) To act stoutly; to exert.

Pawb ar d'ol: pybyra; dos!
Pawb a'i wawch, pe bae achos
Ysgyfarnog fywiog fach.

Every one is after thee: cheer up; fly! every one is ready for his shout, if there should be occasion, thou little lively hare. T. Prys.

Pybyrwch, s. m. (pybyr) Strenuousness; stoutness, vigorousness; valiantness.

Heddwch, pybyrwch y byd,
Cyfoeth a faca hefyd.

The peace, the vigour of the world, and wealth also he cherisheth. T. Aled.

Pyd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (py—yd) That sinks in a pit; a snare; danger. a. Dangerous.

Ar nid yw pwyll pyd yw.

If it be not prudence it is danger. Adage.

Ni bo iawn yn pyd.

What is not just is dangerous. Adage.

Pan ddoynt i'r lle yr oedd y pyd iddynt, yn ddiannod y cyfodes gwyr Rhufain iddynt.

When they came to the place where the snare was laid for them, immediately the men of Rome rose up against them. Brut y Breninoedd.

Pydaidd, a. (pyd) Tending to sink; dangerous.

Pydaw, s. m.—pl. t. au (pyd—aw) An oozing fluid; a quag; a well, or spring.

Pydawl, a. (pyd) Tending to sink; dangerous.

Pydewaid, s. m. (pydaw) An oozing of water.

Pydewlyd, a. (pydaw) Apt to ooze with water.

Pydiad, s. m. (pyd) A sinking; a forming a snare; a creating of danger.

Pydiant, s. m. (pyd) A sinking in; a snaring; the act of bringing to danger.

Pydiaw, v. a. (pyd) To ensnare, to endanger, to expose to danger; to be in peril.

Ni bydd a Mab Duw diymadaw
A fo mynwa byd yn ei bydiaw.

He will not be without the possibility of parting from the Son of God whom the pelf of the world ensnares. D. Benfras.

Pydiedig, a. (pydiad) Being ensnared, endangered, exposed to peril.

Pydoldeb, s. m. (pydawl) Dangerousness.

Rhys mab Tewdwr a ffoes i'r Iwerddon, rhag prydoldeb y lleddid ef.

Rhys son of Tewdwr fled into Ireland for fear of the danger that he would be slain. Ieuan Brechfa.

Pydraidd, a. (pwdr) Tending to rot, carious.

Pydrawl, a. (pwdr) Tending to rot, corruptive.

Pydredig, a. (pwdr) Being rotted, corrupted.

Pydredd, s. m. (pwdr) Rottenness, putridity.

Pydriad, s. m. (pwdr) A rotting; putrefaction.

Pydrni, s. m. (pwdr) Rottenness, putridity.
Pydrn, v. a. (pwdr) To rot, or to putrefy.
Pydu, v. a. (pyd) To sink; to cause a sinking; to form a snare; to create danger; to endanger; to become dangerous.

——Mab pyd, mor fu parawd,
Hy darfu, yn neithiawr, ni bu priawd
Gan Dduw, py amgen plwyf, pydu dalarawd.

The son of snaring, so ready was he, aptly did, in the marriage which was not appropriate to God, for want of other community, ensnare the earthly world. Meigant, m. Cynddylan.

Pydus, a. (pyd) Tending to sink; dangerous.
Pydusaw, v. a. (pydus) To render sinking; to render dangerous; to become dangerous.
Pydusedd, s. m. (pydus) A state of sinking; a state of snaring; a state of danger.
Pydwern, s. f. (pyd—gwern) A quaking bog.

Pan ddyfu y Mab Rhad oedd rhaid wrthaw—
I ufferu, bydwern, heb adaw y chwaith;
Yn un boregwaith ei hanreithiaw.

When the Son of Grace came there was a necessity for him; to hell, a quaggy bog, leaving not chance; in one morning tide it despoiling. D. Benfras.

Pydwr, s. m.—pl. pydwyr (pyd—gwr) A snarer.
Pydd, s. m. (py—ydd) The state of running out.
Pyddawl, a. (pydd) Tending to spread out.
Pyddiad, s. m. (pydd) A running out.
Pyddu, v. a. (pydd) To run out, to spread.
Pyg, s. m. (py—yg) Pitch, rosin of pine.
Pygawl, a. (pyg) Of a pitchy quality.
Pygbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (pyg—pren) Pitch tree.
Pygedig, a. (pyg) Covered with pitch.
Pygedd, s. m. (pyg) Pitchiness, a pitchy quality.
Pygiad, s. m. (pyg) A covering with pitch.
Pyglian, s. m. (pyg—llian) A cere-cloth.
Pygliw, s. m. (pyg—lliw) Pitch colour. a. Of a pitch colour.
Pyglyd, a. (pyg) Pitchy, of a pitchy quality.
Pyglydrwydd, s. m. (pyglyd) Pitchiness.
Pyglys, s. m. (pyg—llys) Hog's fennel, ferula.
Pygu, v. a. (pyg) To pitch, to cover with pitch.
Pygwydd, s. pl. aggr. (pyg—gwydd) Common fir, or pitch-trees.
Pygwydden, s. f. dim. (pygwydd) A pitch-tree.
Pylaidd, a. (pwl) Somewhat blunt, bluntish.
Pyledig, a. (pwl) Being made dull, blunted.
Pyledd, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, or obtuseness.
Pylgain, s. m.—pl. pylgeiniau (pwl—cain) An indistinct light; the morning twilight, the morning, the dawn of day.
Pylgaint, s. m. (pylgain) The morning twilight.
Pylgeiniawl, a. (pylgain) Belonging to the morning twilight; matin.
Pyli, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, dullness.
Pyliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwl) A blunting.
Pylni, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, or dullness.
Pylor, s. m. (pwl) Dust, or powder.
Pyloraidd, a. (pylor) Powdery, like dust.
Pylorawg, a. (pylor) Full of dust, powdery.
Pyloriad, s. m. (pylor) A reducing to powder.
Pyloru, v. a. (pylor) To reduce to powder.
Pyloryn, s. m. dim. (pylor) A grain of powder.
Pylrwydd, s. m. (pwl) Bluntness, dullness.
Pylu, v. a. (pwl) To make obtuse, to blunt; to become obtuse, blunt, or dull.
Pylus, a. (pwl) Tending to make blunt or dull.
Pylwr, s. m. (pwl—gwr) One who blunts.
Pyll, s. m. (py—yll) That is compact. a. Compact, concentrated.
Pyllaid, s. m.—pl. pylleidiau (pwll) The contents of a plash or puddle.

Y llygoden gynt a oedd yn rhodiaw mewn gwindy, ac o ddrygddamwain hi a gwympai mewn pyllaid o'r gwin.

The mouse once on a time was walking about in a tavern, and through evil chance she fell into a puddle of the wine. Damegion.

Pyllawg, a. (pwll) Full of pits, or puddles.
Pylliad, s. m. (pwll) A forming a pit or puddle.
Pyllogrwydd, s. m. (pyllawg) The state of being full of pits or puddles.
Pyllyn, s. m. dim. (pwll) A small puddle.
Pymtheg, s. m.—pl. t. au (pump—deg) Fifteen.
Pymthegfed, s. m. (pymtheg) A fifteenth.
Pymthegnos, s. m. (pymtheg—nos) The space of fifteen nights; a fortnight.
Pymthegwaith, s. pl. (pymtheg—gwaith) Fifteen times. a. Of fifteen times.
Pyn, s. m. (py—yn) What is upon or in contact.
Pyna, adv. (py—na) Otherwise, soever. It is used before words with consonant initials, and Pynag, before vowels.

Argaea——
Pebyll ein trigolion,
A gwna pa le bynna bon'
Na'n gwyl un o'n gelynion.

Encompass the tents of our inhabitants, and make what place soever they are in so that not one of our foes may see us. H. D. ab Ifan.

Pynag, adv. (py—nag) Soever. Pa beth bynag, pynag pa beth, what thing soever; pwy bynag, whosoever; pwy un bynag, pynag pwy, what one soever: "Pe diasbetych di bynag," if thou wert to cry out ever so.
Pynas, s. f.—pl. t. au (pwn) That is collected together; that forms a compact body; a tribe.

A'm eiriolwy Mair ar y Mab cuna,
Nad elwyf yn llwgr, yn lloc Idas!
Na'm gato Rhoen, cyn deg pynas,
Yn rhewin Kayn can Sathanas.

May I be interceded for by Mary with the gracious Son, that I go not to corruption, in the society of Judas! May I not be left by the Creator, before the ten tribes, in the destruction of Cain with the Satanic host. Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Pynawr, s. m. (pwn) That is a load or burden.
Pynciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwnc) A noting of time. a. Noting; pointing; a descanting; a disquisition; a disputation; a playing at ball, by the players hitting of it to one another.
Pynciadawl, a. (pynciad) Relating to notation of time; relating to tuning; pointing.
Pynciaw, v. a. (pwnc) To note or to point time; to note; to point; to descant; to make a disquisition; to play a kind of game at ball, by the players hitting of it to one another. Mwyned y pynciant yr adar! How sweetly do the birds trill the song!
Pynciawl, a. (pwnc) Noting; timing; pointing.
Pynciedig, a. (pynciad) Noted; pointed; tuned.
Pynciwr, s. m.—pl. pynciwyr (pwnc—gwr) A noter, or one who points; a tuner.
Pyner, s. m.—pl. t. i (pyn) That is upon or over; a covering.

Nis canlyn o'i dda, o'i ddiffer ymdro,
Onid ei amdo, amdlawd byner.

There will not follow him of his goods, of his means of protection, but his shroud, a wretched cover. Gr. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Pynfarch, s. m.—pl. pynfeirch (pwn—march) What serves to raise up, to aggregate, or to collect; also a pack horse, or sumpter-horse; an escheat. Pynfarch melin, a mill dam.

Wyth pynfarch brenin y sydd: mor; a diffaith; ac achanawg gwlad arall yn cerdded tir y brenin; a lleidr; marw yn swrth, y brenin biau ran y marw o'r da oll, ac ni chaiff ddim o ran y wraig a'r meibion; anfab y marw y caffo ebediw; camgylus y caffo ddirwy neu gamlwrw i gantho.

There are eight holds of the king: the sea; and a wilderness; and a vagrant of another country travelling on the king's ground; and a thief; a sudden death, the king owns the defunct's share of all the chattels, but he shall not have any of the shares of the wife and the children; the infant of a defunct from whom he receives herriot; and a criminal from whom he gets fine or penalty. Welsh Laws.

Pyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwn) An aggregating, a heaping, a burdening, a loading.
Pyniaw, v. a. (pwn) To aggregate; to load.
Pyniawg, a. (pwn) Burdened, loaded.
Pyniawl, a. (pwn) Burdening, loading.
Pyniawr, s. m. (pwn) That is a load.
Pyniedig, a. (pyniad) Burdened, loaded.
Pynioreg, s. f.—pl. t. au (pyniawr) What serves to bear a load; a pack-saddle.
Pyniori, v. a. (pyniawr) To put on a load.
Pyniwr, s. m.—pl. pyniwyr (pwn—gwr) A burdener, a loader.
Pynoreg, s. f.—pl. t. au (pynawr) A pack-saddle. It is also called ystrodur.
Pynoriad, s. m. (pynawr) A putting on a load.
Pynoriaw, v. a. (pynawr) To put on a load.
Pynoriawg, a. (pynawr) Having a load.
Pynoriedig, a. (pynawr) Being under a load.
Pynu, v. a. (pwn) To lay upon; to burden.
Pyngaid, v. n. (pwng) To cluster; to swarm.
Pyngawl, a. (pwng) Clustering; swarming.
Pyngiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwng) A clustering.
Pyugu, v. n. (pwng) To cluster; to swarm.

Pren bywiol sy'n y nefoedd fawr,
Ac hyd y llawr ei gangau,
A'i ffrwyth yn pyugu arno'u llawn,
Yn rhad brydnawn a bore.

In the great heaven there is a living tree, its branches spreading over the ground, with its fruit clustering fully on it, freely bad evening and morning. W. Williams.

Pyr, s. m. (py—yr) That shoots out in a point or cone; the fir tree.

Eira mynydd, coch blaen pyr;
Lliddiawg lliosawg ongyr.

Snowy mountain, red the top of the fir; wrathful the push of many spears. Llywarch Hen.

Pyr, adv. (py—yr) Forward, toward, onward.

O foli pair deon pyr dawaf;
O ddor cor coeling cynnelwaf.

In praising the cause of the lord forward I come; after the mystery of the circle of foreboding I will conform. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Pyrag, adv. (py—rhag) Wherefore, why.
Pyraidd, a. (pyr) Tending to a point; like a fir.
Pyrchwyn, s. m. (pyr—cwyn) A crest of a helmet.
Pyrgwyn, s. m. (pyr—cwyn) A crest, or plume of a helmet.
Pyrnawn, s. m. (pyr—nawn) The afternoon.
Pyrdwyaw, v. a. (pyr—twyaw) To bear a spear pointed forward.

Pan wisgai Garanmael gatbais Cynddylan,
A phyrdwyaw ei onen,
Ni chaffai Ffranc tanc o'i ben.

When Caranmael should put on the war-coat of Cynddylan, and point forward his ashen shaft, a Franc would not obtain rest for his head. Llywarch Hen.

Pys, s. pl. aggr. (py—ys) Pease, pulse. Pys y garanod, or pys yr adar, tares; pys y llygod, chit-pease; pys y coed, heath peas; pys y wig, vetch; pys y fwyall, pedol y march, hatchet-vetch.
Pysen, s. f. dim. (pys) A single pea, a pea.
Pysg, s. m.—pl. t. od (py—ysg) Fish. Pysgod duon, llamidyddion, porpoises; pysgod bychain, sand-eels.

Mal y pysg am y dwfr.

Like the fish for the water. Adage.

Yn y dwfr y gorug ef y pysg; ac yr adar yn y rhan teneuaf, sef yw hwnw yr awyr.

In the water he created the fish; and the birds in the most rarified part, that is to say the air. Elucidarius.

Pysgaidd, a. (pysg) Of the nature of fish; fishy.
Pysgawl, a. (pysg) Piscatory, of fish, like fish.
Pysgod, s. pl. aggr. (pysg) Fishes. Pysgod y mor, morbysg, morbysgod, sea-fishes; pysgod afon, river fishes; pysgod duon, porpoises.

Mal y gath am y pysgod.

Like the cat after the fishes. Adage.

Pysgodawg, a. (pysgod) Having fishes.
Pysgodawl, a. (pysgod) Relating to fishes.
Pysgodfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (pysgod—ma) A fishery, a fishing-place; a fish-market.
Pysgodfwyd, s. m. (pysgod—bwyd) Fish-meat.

Ysgafn ar don eigion wyd,
Esgudfalch edn bysgodfwyd.

Light art thou on the ocean wave, thou swiftly-soaring bird whose food is fish. D. ab Gwilym i'r wylan.

Pysgodlyn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (pysgod—llyn) A fish-pond.
Pysgodwr, s. m.—pl. pysgodwyr (pysgod—gwr) A fisher, a fisherman.
Pysgodwriaeth, s. m. (pysgodwr) The vocation of a fisherman.

Gwenwynwyd Taf; gwae ninnau!
Dyrwyd y bysgodwriaeth
Gyda ni i gyd yn waeth.

The Taf has been poisoned; Woe to us! the fishing trade with us is altogether worse. Lang Lewys.

Pysgodig, a. (pysgod) Teeming with fishes.
Pysgodyn, s. m. (pysgod) A single fish, a fish.
Pysgota, v. a. (pysgod) To fish. Gwialen bysgota, gwialen enwair, genwair, a fishing-rod.

Pysgota yn mlaen y rhwyd.

To fish in the front of the net. Adage.

Pysgotwr, s. m. (pysgod—gwr) A fisherman.
Pysgotty, s. m. (pysgod—ty) A fish-house.
Pysgydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pysg) An ichthyologist
Pysgyddiaeth, s. m. (pysgydd) Ichthyology.
Pystyl, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystyl) A restless motion; the shank of a bow that is let into the yoke to fasten it on the neck of the ox.
Pystylad, s. m. (pystyl) A restless activity; the being agog; the restlessness or capering of a horse under restraint. "Gweryrad y meirch a'u pystylad," the neighing of the steeds and their capering.

Annogiad cad,
Diffreidiad gwlad,
Gnawd am danad
Llwrf bystylad;
Pystylad llwrwf,
Ac yfed cwrwf.

Thou incitement to battle, the protection of a country, on thy account there has been the capering of the coward; the capering of the coward with drinking of ale. Taliesin.

Pystyled, v. a. (pystyl) To jump about. Mae y bachgen yn pystyled, the boy is capering.
Pystyliad, s. m. (pystyl) A capering about.
Pystylu, v. a. (pystyl) To move about in a restless manner; to caper.
Pystylwyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (pystyl—gwyn) A crupper of a saddle.
Pyswydden, s. f. (pys—gwydd) Bean-trefoil tree
Pyth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (py—yth) A space, revolution or period of time; a world; the duration of the world; ever, never.

Tri pheth nis gall namyn Duw: dyoddef pythoedd y cengant; cyngbyd a phob cyflwr heb newidiaw; a rhoi gwell a newydd ar bob peth, heb ei roi ar goll.

Three things which God only can accomplish: to endure the revolutions of eternity, to participate with every state without changing, and to impart amelioration and newness to every thing, without causing a loss of its originality. Barddas.

Trenydd a pheunydd a phyth.

The day after to-morrow and daily and forever. L. G. Cothi.

Pythagoras, s. f. (pythagori) Explanation of the universe; cosmogony.
Pythagori, v. a. (pyth—agori) To explain the system of the universe.

Pythawd, s. m. (pyth) A great period or world.
Pythawl, a. (pyth) Eternal, everlasting, ever.
Pythawr, v. n. (py—tawr) To be anxious.

A'r saeth bythorud o thyr.

And the arrow thou wouldest regret were it to break.
D. ab Gwilym.

Pythefnos, s. m. (pymthegnos) A fortnight.
Python, s. m. (pyth) A system of the universe.
Pythonas, s. f. (python) A system of cosmogony.
Pythones, s. f.—pl. t. au (python) A female cosmogonist.
Pythoni, v. a. (python) To treat of cosmogony.
Pythonydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (python) A cosmogonist; a systemizer of worlds.
Pyw, s. m.—pl. t. ion (py) That is together or in unison; that is in order, or perfect; a member, a limb. Dyna fe yn cerdded ar ei bedwar pyw, neu ar ei bedwar agor, There he is walking upon all fours. Sil.
Pyw, a. (py) In order of unison, regular, complete, perfect. Dyn pyw, a well-formed man; brethyn pyw, cloth of good quality. Silurian.

R.

RHA, s. m. r. That forces or drives onward.
Rhäawd, s. m. (rha) A forcing, or impelling.
Rhab, s. m. (rha) Force, constraint, control.
Rhabedd, s. m. (rhab) Controlment, constraint.
Rhabu, v. a. (rhab) To constrain, to check.
Rhac, s. m.—pl. t. au (rha—ac) What is in advance, forward, upper, or opposite; the wrest of a cross-bow; the spine of a quadruped, also called glain cefn.
Rhac, prep. (rha—ac) Before, fore; from; for, lest. It is dialectically used for rhag.
Rhaca, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhac) What is brought before; a spectacle, or show.
Rhacai, s. m.—pl. rhaceion (rhac) A rake.
Rhacan, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhac) A rake, a scraper.
Rhacaniad, s. m. (rhacan) A raking, a scraping.
Rhacanu, v. a. (rhacan) To rake, to use a rake.
Rhacanwr, s. m. (rhacan—gwr) A raker.
Rhaciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhac) The fore-running, the beginning, or first appearance; a coming forward; a coming in opposition. Rhaciad y wawr, the first breaking of the dawn.
Rhaciannawl, a. (rhaciant) Tending to advance.
Rhaciannu, v. a. (rhaciant) To make an advancement, to take a forward position.
Rhaciant, s. m. (rhac) Advancement, the act of putting forward; a precursion.
Rhaciaw, v. a. (rhac) To advance, to move forward; to come in opposition. Dacw y wawr yn rhaciaw, yonder the dawn is appearing.
Rhaco, adv. (rhac) Yonder, in the advance, in the distant view. Sylla di rhaco, behold thou yonder.

Dos i gyfrwch a'r dyn rhaco.

Go to meet with yonder man. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Rhacu, v. a. (rhac) To put before, to put forward; to advance; to take the lead.
Rhach, s. m. (rhac) That is forced out.
Rhad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rha—ad) That comes freely, that is given freely; prosperity; good luck; a blessing; grace, favour. Nid oes rad ar a wnelo, there is no prosperity on what he does: Rhad Duw yma! Be the blessing of God here! Rhad Duw yn y ty! Be the blessing of God in the house! Rhad Duw ar yr adgor! Rhad Duw ar y da! Be the blessing of God on the cattle! Rhad Duw arnoch! Rhad Duw ar y gwaith! God prosper the work! Rhad pen llad, Grace the supreme blessing: Rhad Duw ar ei fam! God's blessing on its mother! said to the people in milking: Rhad Duw ar bob rhadferthwch! The blessing of God on every gracious gift! Rhad Duw ar bob cywir galon! The blessing of God on every faithful heart! Rhad Duw ar bob ymgais dda! The blessing of God on every good undertaking! Rhad Duw ar bob llaw ddiflin! The blessing of God on every industrious hand! common expressions of greeting.

Dedwydd, Dofydd ei rhydd rhad.

The assiduous, the Creator will give him grace. Adage.

Arglwydd llachynt gwynt, a gwyllt ffrydiau mor,
Mawr dy rad, a'th wyrthau!

Lord of the course of the wind, and the wild torrents of the sea, great thy grace, and thy wonders. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Rhad, a. (rha—ad) Free, gratuitous; cheap. Y Mab Rhad, The Son of Grace, the Saviour.
Rhadawl, a. (rhad) Gracious, or beneficent.
Rhadbryn, s. m. (rhad—pryn) A free purchase.
Rhadbryniad, s. m. (rhadbryn) A cheap buying.
Rhadbrynu, v. a. (rhadbryn) To buy cheaply.
Rhadedd, s. m. (rhad) Freeness; cheapness.
Rhadfawr, a. (rhad—mawr) Gracious.

Tri eillideyrn Ynys Prydain—rhodded teyrnedd iddynt am eu campau ac eu cynneddfau clodforion a rhadforion.

The three plebeian princes of the Isle of Britain—had principalities conferred on them for their acts and principles, praiseworthy and virtuous. Trioedd.

Rhadferth, a. (rhad—berth) Graciously placid.
Rhadferthwch, s. m. (rhadferth) Beneficent.
Rhadforedd, s. m. (rhadfawr) Graciousness.
Rhadgar, a. (rhad—car) Grace-loved.
Rhadgaredig, a. rhadgar) Grace-beloved.

Hanpych gwell, y radgaredig! yr Arglwydd ys y gyd a thi!

All hail, thou grace favoured one! the Lord is with thee!
W. Salisbury.

Rhadgariad, s. m. (rhadgar) Free love.
Rhadgaru, v. a. (rhadgar) To love freely.
Rhadlawn, a. (rhad) Gracious; gentle; serene.
Rhadlonaeth, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.

Ef biau radau rhadlonaeth,
Uch naw toryf naw tywysogaeth.

He possesses the virtues of beneficence, over the nine multitudes of nine principalities. Cynddelw.

Rhadlondeb, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.
Rhadlonder, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.
Rhadlondra, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.
Rhadlonedd, s. m. (rhadlawn) Graciousness.
Rhadloni, v. a. (rhadlawn) To render generous; to become gracious; to be generous; to become gentle or placid.

Nid hawdd rhadloni oenfigen.

It is not easy to render malice generous. Adage.

Rhadrodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhad—rhodd) A free gift
Rhadroddedigaeth, s. m. (rhadroddedig) The act of giving freely; the state of being freely given or conferred.

Pawb a chwennychant gael braint yn ei radroddedigaeth.

Every one is desirous of obtaining a title in his free offering.
Ier. Owain.

Rhadu, v. a. (rhad) To render free, to bestow grace; to render cheap; to become free.

Rhadwehyn, s. m. (rhad—gwehyn) A pouring of grace. a. Grace-diffusing.

Rhadwehynawl, a. (rhadwehyn) Grace-diffusing.

Rhadwehyniad, s. m. (rhadwehyn) A shedding of grace, a pouring of grace.

Rhadwehynu, v. a. (rhadwehyn) To shed grace.

Rhadd, s. m. (rha—add) An advance, a state of progression, or going onward.

Rhae, s. f.—pl. rheuau (rha) A constraint, a battle; also a chain; otherwise called tid, syg, tres, cadwen, and cadwyn.

O nod ffreuau hynod ffrowys
Gwr a dywys y gwyr duon,
Ys da reuau wiw ystrywys
Ai drwy Bowys.

From the mark of the gushings of the noted turbulence of a man who leads the sable men, if good the battles excelling in craft, he would go through Powys. T. Prys.

Rhaeaw, v. a. (rhae) To put to a stand still. Rhaeaw gwyr, to startle people.

Rhael, s. m. (rha—el) Bent, or inclination.

Wrth weled y merched mor awchus eu rhael
A minnau yn fab ieuanc heb ddim iddei gael—
——Mae yn syn!

When I see the young women of so greedy a disposition, and I a young man not prospering, it is grievous! Canu.

Rhaf, s. m. (rha—af) A spread, a diffusion.

Rhafn, s. m. (rhaf) A tendency to diffuse.

Rhafnwydd, s. pl. aggr. (rhafn—gwydd) Witch-elms.

Rhafnwydden, s. f. dim. (rhafnwydd) A witch-elm

Tri phren nid rhydd eu tòri, heb genad gwlad ac arglwydd: mesbren, nef derwen, bedwen, a rhafnwydden.

Three trees not to be cut, without the permission of the country and the lord: acorn tree, or oak: the birch tree, and the witch-elm. Trioedd Dyfnwal.

Rhafol, s. pl. aggr. (rhaf—ol) The berries of the service-tree; also called cyrafol, and cyrafon.

Rhafon, s. pl. aggr. (rhaf) Berries growing in clusters; the fruit of the service-tree.

Rhafu, v. a. (rhaf) To spread out, or to diffuse.

Rhafun, s. m. (rhaf) That is spread or diffused.

Rhaff, s. f.—pl. t. au (rha—aff) A rope.

Rhaffaidd, a. (rhaff) Like a rope; like a cord.

Rhaffan, s. f. dim. (rhaff) A small rope, a cord. Gware rhaffan or siglen donen, swinging.

Rhaffawl, a. (rhaff) Formed like a rope.

Rhaffiad, s. m. (rhaff) A roping; a cording.

Rhaffiaw, v. a. (rhaff) To rope, to make a rope.

Rhaffwr, s. m.—pl. rhaffwyr (rhaff—gwr) A roper.

Rhag, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rha—ag) A front, a presence, a van; an entrance. It is used as a compositive prefix. O dy rag, o yth blaen, from before thee, before thee.

Rhag pebyll Madawg, pan atgoral,
Namyn un o gant ynl delai.

The entrance of the tents of Madog, when he returns, only one of a hundred therein doth come. Aneurin.

Seren o'u rhag yn rhoi goleu.

A star before them giving light. Y Brawd Madawg.

Rhag, prep. (rha—ag) Before, fore; from; for, lest, lest that; because. Dos rhag dy flaen, go straight forward. Rhagwyf, rhagddwyf, rhagof, rhagddof, before me; rhagot, rhagddot, before thee; rhago, rhagddo, before him or it; rhagi, rhagddi, before her; rhagom, rhagddom, before us; rhagoch, rhagddoch, before you; rhagynt, rhagddynt, rhagddudd, before them.

Ffo rhag dryg-dir, ar na ffo rhag drwg arglwydd.

He will fly from a bad land that flies not from a bad lord. Adage.

Achwyn rhag achwyn rhagddo.

Complaining for fear of a complaint against him. Adage.

Torf yagwn ys gnawd yn nghammawn
Tarf rhag cad rhag Cwcwllfyriawn.

An exhalted host well-trained in combat flies from battle before the tribe of Short-caps. Cynddelw, Gwel. Powys.

Rhagachub, v. a. (achub) To save the vantage; to obtain a priority; to become before.

Rhagachubwn ei wyneb—a chanwn sallm iddaw; canys Arglwydd mawr yw Duw.

Let us come before his presence; and let us sing psalms to him; for a mighty Lord is God. D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

Rhagachubawl, a. (rhagachub) Tending to obtain advantage or priority; coming before.

Rhagachubiad, s. m. (rhagachub) A coming before; a getting a priority.

Rhagachubiaeth, s. m. (rhagachub) The act of obtaining a priority, the state of having a priority; the state of coming before.

Rhagachubwr, s. m.—pl. rhagachubwyr (rhagachub—gwr) One who comes before.

Rhagadail, s. f. (adail) An out-building.

Rhagadeiladu, v. a. (rhagadail) To build an outwork; to make an outbuilding.

Rhagadnabod, v. n. (adnabod) To know beforehand, to get a previous acquaintance.

Rhagadnabodawl, a. (rhagadnabod) Previously acquainted; previously recognising.

Rhagadnabyddawl, a. (rhagadnabod) Previously acquainted; previously known.

Rhagadnabyddiaeth, s. m. (rhagadnabod) A previous acquaintance.

Rhagadrawdd, s. m.—pl. rhagadroddion (adrawdd) A preface, a preamble. v. a. To preface.

Rhagadroddawl, a. (rhagadrawdd) Prefatory, introductory.

Rhagadroddiad, s. m. (rhagadrawdd) A prefacing

Rhagaddas, a. (addas) Previously fitting.

Rhagaddasawl, a. (rhagaddas) Tending to adapt or to make fit beforehand.

Rhagaddasiad, s. m. (rhagaddas) A fitting before.

Rhagaddasu, v. a. (rhagaddas) To adapt or to fit beforehand.

Rhagaddaw, v. a. (addaw) To promise before.

Rhagaddewid, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhagaddaw) A previous promise.

Rhagaddfed, a. (addfed) Premature, precocious.

Rhagaddfedawl, a. (rhagaddfed) Tending to ripen beforehand, of early maturity.

Rhagaddfediad, s. m. (rhagaddfed) A ripening beforehand, to become precocious.

Rhagaddfedrwydd, s. m. (rhagaddfed) Precocity.

Rhagaddfedu, v. a. (rhagaddfed) To ripen before.

Rhagafael, s. m. (gafael) A previous hold; a forehold or seizure.

Rhagafaeliad, s. m. (rhagafael) A previously holding; a taking a first hold.

Rhagafaelu, v. a. (rhagafael) To hold previously.

Rhagagawr, s. m. (agawr) An opening before. v. n. To open before.

Rhagagori, v. a. (rhagagawr) To open before.

Rhagagoriad, s. m. (rhagagawr) A fore-opening.

Rhagagwedd, s. f. (agwedd) A prior form, a prior appearance.

Rhagagweddiad, s. m. (rhagagwedd) Preformation

Rhagagweddu, v. a. (rhagagwedd) To preform.

Rhagair, s. m.—pl. rhageiriau (gair) A leading word, a catch-word.

Rhagalw, v. a. (galw) To call beforehand.

Rhagalwad, s. m. (rhagalw) A calling beforehand.

Rhagallu, s. m. (gallu) A previous power; a being able beforehand.

Rhagalluedd, s. m. (gallu) Ability beforehand.
Rhagamcan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (amcan) A prior purpose, or design; a prenotion.
Rhagamcanawl, a. (rhagamcan) Previously purposing, presupposing.
Rhagamcaniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagamcan) A purposing beforehand; a pre-supposition.
Rhagamcanu, v. a. (rhagamcan) To form a design beforehand; to pre-suppose.
Rhagamcanus, a. (rhagamcan) Previously purposing; having a previous intention.
Rhagamcanwr, s. m.—pl. rhagamcanwyr (rhagamcan—gwr) One who designs before-hand.
Rhagamddiffyn, v. a. (amddiffyn) To defend before-hand, to make a previous defence.
Rhagamddiffynawl, a. (rhagamddiffyn) Previously defending or protecting.
Rhagamddiffyniad, s. m. (rhagamddiffyn) A defending or protecting before-hand.
Rhagammheu, v. a. (ammheu) To pre-surmise.
Rhagammod, s. f.—pl. t. au (ammod) A preliminary agreement or contract.
Rhagammodawl, a. (rhagammod) Belonging to a preliminary agreement.
Rhagammodi, v. a. (rhagammod) To agree before-hand; to make a previous contract.
Rhagammodiad, s. m. (rhagammod) A covenanting beforehand.
Rhagammodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagammodwyr (rhagammod—gwr) One who agrees beforehand.
Rhagamnaid, s. f. (amnaid) A previous signal.
Rhagamneidiad, s. m. (rhagamnaid) A making a previous signal.
Rhagamneidiaw, v. a. (rhagamnaid) To make a previous signal.
Rhagamneidiawl, a. (rhagamnaid) Belonging to a previous signal.
Rhagamser, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (amser) A previous or prior time.
Rhagamserawl, a. (rhagamser) Belonging to previous time, of a previous season.
Rhagamseru, v. a. (rhagamser) To fix a previous time, to antedate.
Rhaganfon, v. a. (anfon) To send beforehand.
Rhaganfonadwy, a. (rhaganfon) Capable of being sent beforehand.
Rhaganfonawl, a. (rhaganfon) Being sent beforehand, premissive.
Rhaganfonedig, a. (rhaganfon) Being sent beforehand; a premission.
Rhaganfonedigaeth, s. m. (rhaganfonedig) The act of sending before.
Rhaganfoniad, s. m. (rhaganfon) A sending before; a sending a previous messenger.
Rhaganfonwr, s. m.—pl. rhaganfonwyr (rhaganfon—gwr) One who sends beforehand.
Rhagansawdd, s. f.—pl. rhagansoddion (ansawdd) A prior nature or quality.
Rhagansoddadwy, a. (rhagansawdd) Capable of being endued with an original nature.
Rhagansoddawl, a. (rhagansawdd) Of an original nature or quality.
Rhagansoddi, v. a. (rhagansawdd) To endue with an original nature.
Ragansoddiad, s. m. (rhagansawdd) A forming an original nature.
Rhagangen, s. f. (angen) A previous necessity.
Rhagangenawl, a. (rhagangen) Previously necessitated.
Rhagangeniad, s. m. (rhagangen) An enduing with a previous necessity.
Rhagangenrhaid, s. f.—pl. rhagangenrheidiau (rhagangen—rhaid) A previous necessity.
Rhagangenrheidiaw, v. a. (rhagangenrhaid) To render previously necessary.
Rhagangenrheidiawl, a. (rhagangenrhaid) Previously necessary.
Rhagangenrheidrwydd, s. m. (rhagangenrhaid) A previous necessity.
Rhagangenu, v. a. (rhagangen) To endue with a prior necessity; to necessitate beforehand.
Rhagaraeth, s. f.—pl. rhagareithiau (araeth) A prefatory discourse.
Rhagarawd, s. f. (arawd) An introductory speech
Rhagarchwaeth, s. m.—pl. rhagarchweithion (archwaeth) A foretaste.
Rhagarchwaethawl, a. (archwaeth) Foretasting.
Rhagarchwaethedig, a. (archwaeth) Foretasted.
Rhagarchwaethiad, s. m. (rhagarchwaeth) A foretasting.
Rhagarchwaethu, v. a. (archwaeth) To foretaste.
Rhagaraethiad, s. m. (rhagaraeth) A making a prefatory speech.
Rhagareithiaw, v. a. (rhagaraeth) To make a prefatory speech.
Rhagareithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagareithwyr (rhagaraeth—gwr) One who makes an exordium.
Rhagarfaeth, s. f. (arfaeth) Predestination.
Rhagarfaethawl, a. (rhagarfaeth) Predestinarian; predisposing, pre-determining.
Rhagarfaethedig, a. (rhagarfaeth) Predestinated, predisposed, predetermined.
Rhagarfaethiad, s. m. (rhagarfaeth) A predestination; a predisposition.
Rhagarfaethu, v. a. (rhagarfaeth) To predestinate; to predispose.
Rhagarfaethus, a. (rhagarfaeth) Predestinating.
Rhagarfaethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagarfaeth) A predestinarian.
Rhagarfawg, a. (arfawg) Being forearmed.
Rhagarfogi, v. a. (rhagarfawg) To arm beforehand, to forearm.
Rhagarfogiad, s. m. (rhagarfawg) An arming beforehand.
Rhagarfu, v. a. (arfu) To arm beforehand.
Rhagarganfod, s. m. (arganfod) A foreseeing. v. n. To foresee, to forecast.
Rhagargoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (argoel) A foretoken.
Rhagarian, s. pl. aggr. (arian) Earnest money.
Rhagarlwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (arlwy) Food that is ready beforehand.
Rhagarlwyad, s. m. (rhagarlwy) A getting food ready beforehand.
Rhagarlwyaw, v. a. (rhagarlwy) To get food ready beforehand.
Rhagarnawdd, s. f. (arnawdd) A plough handle.
Rhagarswyd, s. m. (arswyd) A previous dread.
Rhagarswydaw, v. a. (rhagarswyd) To frighten beforehand, to have a previous dread.
Rhagarwain, v. a. (arwain) to lead before.
Rhagarweiniad, s. m. (rhagarwain) A conducting or leading before.
Rhagarweiniawl, a. (rhagarwain) Leading beforehand; a previous conducting.
Rhagarwedd, s. f. (arwedd) Predisposition.
Rhagarweddawl, a. (rhagarwedd) Predisposing.
Rhagarweddiad, s. m. (arwedd) A predisposing.
Rhagarweddu, v. a. (rhagarwedd) To predispose.
Rhagarwydd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (arwydd) A prognostic, a foretoken, a presage.
Rhagarwyddaw, v. a. (rhagarwydd) To prognosticate, to foresignify.

Rhagarwyddawg, a. (rhagarwydd) Foretokening.

Rhagarwyddawl, a. (rhagarwydd) Foretokening.

Rhagarwyddiad, s. m. (rhagarwydd) A prognostication.

Rhagarwyddocâad, s. m. (rhagarwyddocâu) A prognosticating, a foretokening.

Rhagarwyddocâawl, a. (rhagarwyddocâu) Prognosticating, foretokening, foresignifying.

Rhagarwyddocâu, v. a. (rhagarwyddawg) To prognosticate, to foresignify.

Rhagattal, s. m. (attal) A previous stopping.

Rhagattalgar, a. (rhagattal) Apt to stop before.

Rhagattaliad, s. m. (rhagattal) A stopping before.

Rhagatteb, s. m.—pl. t. ion (atteb) Prior answer.

Rhagattebawl, a. (rhagatteb) A first answering.

Rhagattebiad, s. m. (rhagatteb) An answering beforehand, a previously answering.

Rhagattebu, v. a. (rhagatteb) To answer before.

Rhagawd, s. m.—pl. rhagodion (rhag) The act of going before; the state of being before; an obstacle, let, or hinderance.

> Nawdd y frenines yw dwyn dyn dros derfyn y wlad, heb erlid, heb ragawd.
>
> The protection of the queen is to convey the person over the borders of the country, without pursuit, without opposition. Welsh Laws.

Rhagawd, v. a. (rhag) To go before; to go against; to stop, to hinder. Rhagodion, those who take the lead, or that are in advance.

> Gwell erlid arglwydd nog ei ragawd.
>
> It is better to pursue a lord than to go against him. Adage.
>
> Gwaith teg yw marchogaeth tòn
> I ragawd pysg o'r eigion.
>
> It is pleasant work to ride the wave to encounter the fishes of the deep. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhagawdl, s. f.—pl. rhagodlau (awdl) A first or leading rhyme, a primary rhyme.

Rhagawl, a. (rhag) Being against, opposite or in front; opposing.

Rhagbarawd, a. (parawd) Ready-beforehand.

Rhagbarodawl, a. (rhagbarawd) Tending to be ready or prepared beforehand.

Rhagbarodi, v. a. (rhagbarawd) To prepare or make ready beforehand.

Rhagbarodrwydd, s. m. (rhagbarawd) The state of being prepared or ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotôad, s. m. (rhagbarotoi) A preparing or making ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotôawl, a. (rhagbarotoi) Tending to be prepared or ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotôi, v. a. (rhagbarawd) To prepare beforehand, to get ready beforehand.

Rhagbarotôwr, s. m.—pl. rhagbarotowyr (rhagbarotoi—gwr) One who prepares beforehand.

Rhagbenaeth, s. m. (penaeth) A vice-chief.

Rhagbenawd, s. m. (penawd) A prior conclusion

Rhagbenodawl, a. (penawd) Predetermined.

Rhagbenodi, v. a. (penawd) To predetermine.

Rhagbenodiad, s. m. (rhagbenawd) A predetermination; a previous conclusion.

Rhagborth, s. m.—pl. rhagbyrth (porth) An outer gate; a fore porch.

Rhagbrawf, s. m. (prawf) A previous trial.

Rhagbrofi, v. a. (rhagbrawf) To try beforehand.

Rhagbrofiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagbrawf) A trying beforehand; a foretasting.

Rhagbrofwr, s. m.—pl. rhagbrofwyr (rhagbrawf gwr) One who tries beforehand.

Rhagbryder, s. m.—pl. t. au (pryder) Precaution

Rhagbryderawl, a. (rhagbryder) Precautious.

Rhagbryderiad, s. m. (rhagbryder) A using precaution; circumspection.

Rhagbryderu, v. a. (pryder) To use precaution.

Rhagbryderus, a. (rhagbryder) Circumspective.

Rhagbryn, s. m. (pryn) A prior purchase.

Rhagbrynawl, a. (rhagbryn) Relating to a buying beforehand; a forestalling.

Rhagbryniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagbryn) A buying beforehand; a pre-emption.

Rhagbrynu, v. a. (rhagbryn) To buy before-hand; to forestall.

Rhagbrynwr, s. m.—pl. rhagbrynwyr (rhagbryn —gwr) One who previously buys.

Rhagbwys, s. m. (pwys) A previous weighing.

Rhagbwysaw, v. a. (rhagbwys) To weigh before.

Rhagbwysawl, a. (rhagbwys) Being previously weighing, a fore-weighing.

Rhagbwysedig, a. (rhagbwys) Being weighed beforehand.

Rhagbwysiad, s. m. (rhagbwys) A weighing beforehand.

Rhagchwaeth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (chwaeth) A foretaste.

Rhagchwaethawl, a. (rhagchwaeth) Foretasting.

Rhagchwaethiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagchwaeth) A pregustation, a foretasting.

Rhagchwaethu, v. a. (rhagchwaeth) To foretaste.

Rhagchware, s. m.—pl. t. on (chware) A prelude

Rhagchwareu, v. a. (rhagchware) To make a prelude.

Rhagchwedl, s. m.—pl. rhagchwedlau (chwedl) A prior report, a preamble.

Rhagchwedledd, s. m. (rhagchwedl) The state of being reported beforehand.

Rhagchwedliad, s. m. (rhagchwedl) A reporting or rumouring beforehand.

Rhagchwedlu, v. a. (rhagchwedl) To make report beforehand; to make a preamble.

Rhagchwegr, s. f. (chwegr) A grandmother-in-law.

Rhagchwegrwn, s. m. (chwegrwn) A grandfather-in-law.

Rhagchwiliad, s. m. (chwiliad) A previously searching.

Rhagchwiliaw, v. a. (chwiliaw) To search before.

Rhagdaen, s. m. (taen) A fore-spreading.

Rhagdaeniad, s. m. (rhagdaen) A fore-spreading.

Rhagdaenu, v. a. (rhagdaen) To spread before.

Rhagdal, s. m.—pl. t. au (tal) What is in front; a frontlet, a frontstal, a frontpiece.

Rhagdal, s. m. (tâl) Payment before; earnest.

Rhagdaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagdal) A paying beforehand, a paying as earnest.

Rhagdalu, v. a. (rhagdal) To pay beforehand.

Rhagdalwr, s. m.—pl. rhagdalwyr (rhagdal—gwr) One who pays beforehand.

Rhagdebygiad, s. m. (tebygiad) A fore-deeming.

Rhagdebygu, v. a. (tebygu) To presuppose.

Rhagdeilyngdawd, s. m. (teilyngdawd) The state of being previously suitable.

Rhagdeilyngu, v. a. (teilyngu) To make suitable or appropriate beforehand.

Rhagdeimlad, s. m. (teimlad) A feeling before.

Rhagdeimlaw, v. a. (teimlaw) To feel beforehand

Rhagder, s. m. (rhag) The state of being before, leading, or against; resistance, opposition.

> Pair enwair, enwawg yn nglewder;
> Par anwar, anwas yn rhagder.
>
> A cause of energy renowned for bravery; a spear of ardency, not a stripling in the advanced post. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.
>
> Rhagder ei nifer, naf llednais ei hil.
>
> The foremost of his host, a chief of elegant race. Einion Wan.

Rhagderfyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (terfyn) A prior couclusion, end, or determination.

Rhagderfynedig, a. (rhagderfyn) Predetermined

Rhagderfyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagderfyn) Predetermination, a prior conclusion.
Rhagderfynu, v. a. (terfyn) To predetermine.
Rhagdestyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (testyn) A preliminary theme, or discourse.
Rhagdestyniad, s. m. (rhagdestyn) A making a preliminary theme.
Rhagdestynu, v. a. (rhagdestyn) To form a preliminary theme.
Rhagdor, s. m. (tor) A prior fracture or break.
Rhagdori, v. a. (rhagdor) To break before.
Rhagdoriad, s. m. (rhagdor) A breaking before.
Rhagdraddawd, s. m. (traddawd) A prior passing
Rhagdraddodawl, a. (rhagdraddawd) Being previously passed over, of previous tradition.
Rhagdraddodi, v. a. (rhagdraddawd) To pass over previously; to give a previous tradition.
Rhagdraddodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagdraddawd) A previously passing over; a former tradition
Rhagdraethawd, s. f. (traethawd) An introductory discourse.
Rhagdraethu, v. a. (traethu) To recite before.
Rhagdraigl, s. m. (traigl) A previous turn.
Rhagdrefn, s. f.—pl. rhagdrefnau (trefn) A preordinance; predestination.
Rhagdrefnadwy, a. (rhagdrefn) Capable of preordination.
Rhagdrefnawl, a. (rhagdrefn) Tending to preordain; fore-ordaining.
Rhagdrefnedig, a. (rhagdrefn) Fore-ordained.
Rhagdrefniad, s. m. (rhagdrefn) A preordination, a preordaining; predestination.
Rhagdrefnu, v. a. (rhagdrefn) To order beforehand, to preordain; to predispose.
Rhagdreigliad, s. m. (rhagdraigl) A revolving before; a previous revolution.
Rhagdreigliaw, v. a. (rhagdraigl) To revolve before; to make a previous revolution.
Rhagdremyn, s. m. (tremyn) A first glance.
Rhagdremynawl, a. (rhagdremyn) Being looked over beforehand; having foresight.
Rhagdremyniad, s. m. (rhagdremyn) A glancing over beforehand.
Rhagdremynt, s. m. (rhagdremyn) A previous glance; a foresight.
Rhagdremynu, v. a. (rhagdremyn) To glance over beforehand; to have foresight.
Rhagdrin, s. m. (trin) To put in order, or to manage boforehand.
Rhagdriniad, s. m. (rhagdrin) A managing or ordering beforehand.
Rhagdriniaeth, s. m. (rhagdrin) A previous management; a previous arrangement.
Rhagdrochi, v. a. (trochi) To immerse before.
Rhagdrochiad, s. m. (trochiad) A prior immersion
Rhagdrosi, v. a. (trosi) To drive before.
Rhagdrwch, s. m.—pl. rhagdrychion (trwch) A fore-cut; a previous cut through.
Rhagdrychiad, s. m. (rhagdrwch) A cutting before; a fore-cutting.
Rhagdrychu, v. a. (rhagdrwch) To cut before.
Rhagdy, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty) An outhouse.
Rhagdyb, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tyb) A preconceit.
Rhagdybiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagdyb) Presupposition, preopinion, prenotion.
Rhagdybied, v. a. (rhagdyb) To presuppose.
Rhagdybu, v. a. (rhagdyb) To presuppose.
Rhagdybus, a. (rhagdyb) Presuppositious.
Rhagdybusaw, v. n. (rhagdybus) To become presuppositious.
Rhagdybusrwydd, s. m. (rhagdybus) Previous suppositiousness; a preconceived state.
Rhagdyddyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (tyddyn) An outtenement; a bordering farm.
Rhagdyn, s. m. (tyn) A fore-draught.
Rhagdyneriad, s. m. (tyneriad) A previous softening or melioration.
Rhagdyneru, v. a. (tynern) To soften beforehand
Rhagdyniad, s. m. (rhagdyn) A drawing before.
Rhagdynu, v. a. (rhagdyn) To draw before.
Rhagdyst, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tyst) A prior witness
Rhagdystiad, s. m. (rhagdyst) A previously testifying; a giving a previous testimony.
Rhagdystiaw, v. a. (rhagdyst) To testify beforehand; to witness beforehand.
Rhagdystiawl, a. (rhagdyst) First testifying.
Rhagdystiolaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagdystiawl) A previous testimony.
Rhagdystiolaethu, v. a. (rhagdystiolaeth) To give a previous testimony.
Rhagdywyll, a. (tywyll) Being dark before.
Rhagdywyllu, v. a. (rhagdywyll) To darken before
Rhagdywyn, s. m. (tywyn) A radience before.
Rhagdywyniad, s. m. (rhagdywyn) A shining before; a previously shining.
Rhagdywynu, v. (rhagdywyn) To shine before.
Rhagdywys, v. a. (tywys) To lead before.
Rhagdywysaw, v. a. (rhagdywys) To fore-lead.
Rhagdywysiad, s. m. (rhagdywys) A leading before, or a leading in advance.
Rhagddadgan, v. a. (dadgan) To declare before.
Rhagddadganiad, s. m. (rhagddadgan) A declaring beforehand; previous declaration.
Rhagddadl, s. f.—pl. t. au (dadl) A previous debate, or previous question.
Rhagddadliad, s. m. (rhagddadl) A previous argumentation.
Rhagddadlu, v. a. (rhagddadl) To debate before.
Rhagddal, v. a. (dal) To hold beforehand.
Rhagddaliad, s. m. (rhagddal) A first holding.
Rhagddanfon, v. a. (danfon) To send before.
Rhagddanfonawl, a. (rhagddanfon) Being sent beforehand; being of a previous mission.
Rhagddanfoniad, s. m. (rhagddanfon) A sending beforehand.
Rhagddant, s. m.—pl. rhagddannedd (dant) A foretooth, or a front tooth.
Rhagddangaws, v. a. (dangaws) To shew beforehand, to premonstrate.
Rhagddangosawl, a. (dangaws) Premonstrating.
Rhagddangosiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddangaws) A prognostication; a premonstration.
Rhagddangoswr, s. m.—pl. rhagddangoswyr (rhagddangaws—gwr) A prognosticator.
Rhagddarbod, s. m.—pl. t. au (darbod) Provision beforehand; circumspection.
Rhagddarbodaeth, s. m. (rhagddarbod) A preparation beforehand; providence.
Rhagddarbodawl, a. (rhagddarbod) Providential.
Rhagddarbodedig, a. (rhagddarbod) Being provided or furnished beforehand.
Rhagddarbodi, v. a. (rhagddarbod) To provide or furnish beforehand.
Rhagddarbodiad, s. m. (rhagddarbod) A providing or furnishing beforehand.
Rhagddarbodus, a. (rhagddarbod) Provident.
Rhagddarbodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagddarbodwyr (rhagddarbod—gwr) One who provides beforehand.
Rhagddarlun, s. m. (darlun) Prefiguration.
Rhagddarluniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddarlun) A prefigurating.
Rhagddarluniaw, v. (rhagddarlun) To prefigurate

Rhagddarluniedig, a. (rhagddarlun) Prefigurated
Rhagddarmerth, s. m. (darmerth) Provision made beforehand; a previous preparation.
Rhagddarmerthawl, a. (rhagddarmerth) Provident
Rhagddarmerthu, v. a. (rhagddarmerth) To provide beforehand.
Rhagddarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (darn) A fore-piece.
Rhagddarpar, s. m.—pl. t. au (darpar) Previous order or disposition.
Rhagddarparawl, a. (rhagddarpar) Tending to furnish beforehand; providential.
Rhagddarparedig, a. (rhagddarpar) Being previously ordered; being previously furnished.
Rhagddarparedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddarparedig) The being previously furnished.
Rhagddarparedigaw, v. a. (rhagddarparedig) To render complete beforehand.
Rhagddarparedd, s. m. (rhagddarpar) The state of being previously furnished.
Rhagddarpariad, s. m. (rhagddarpar) A providing or ordering beforehand.
Rhagddarparu, v. a. (darpar) To furnish before.
Rhagddarparwch, s. m. (rhagddarpar) Support previously given.

> Na auturia fyned drwy yr boenynau ac y cynllwynau hyn, cyn i ti weddiaw am ragddarparwch Duw.

> Do not venture to go through these snares and ambuscades, before thou hast prayed for the provident support of God.
> R. Fychan, Ym. Duwioldeb.

Rhagddawd, s. m.—pl. rhagddodau (dawd) A prefix.
Rhagddawn, s. m.—pl. rhagddoniau (dawn) A previous gift or endowment.
Rhagddëall, s. m. (dëall) Previous knowledge.
Rhagddëalliad, s. m. (rhagddëall) A pre-apprehension.
Rhagddelw, s. f.—pl. t. au (delw) A prototype.
Rhagddelwad, s. m. (rhagddelw) Prefiguration.
Rhagddelwi, v. a. (rhagddelw) To prefigurate.
Rhagdderbyn, v. a. (derbyn) To receive before.
Rhagdderbynai, s. c. (rhagdderbyn) A prolepsis
Rhagdderbyniad, s. m. (rhagdderbyn) A receiving beforehand.
Rhagdderbyniawl, a. (rhagdderbyn) Previously receivable.
Rhagddewis, s. m. (dewis) A previous choice. v. a. To choose before.
Rhagddewisawl, a. (rhagddewis) Pre-elective.
Rhagddewisedig, a. (rhagddewis) Fore-chosen.
Rhagddewisiad, s. m. (rhagddewis) Pre-election
Rhagddial, s. m. (dial) A previous revenge.
Rhagddialiad, s. m. (rhagddial) A revenging beforehand.
Rhagddialu, v. a. (rhagddial) To revenge before.
Rhagddiddymiad, s. m. (diddymiad) A previous annihilation.
Rhagddiddymu, v. a. (diddymu) To annihilate beforehand.
Rhagddiogeliad, s. m. (diogeliad) A securing beforehand; a previously making safe.
Rhagddiogelu, v. a. (diogelu) To secure before.
Rhagddiogelwch, s. m. (diogelwch) A previous security.
Rhagddirnad, s. m. (dirnad) Presurmise.
Rhagddirnadawl, a. (rhagddirnad) Presurmising.
Rhagddirnadiad, s. m. (dirnad) A presurmising.
Rhagddirnadu, v. a. (dirnad) To presurmise.
Rhagddirymawl, a. (dirymawl) Tending to debilitate beforehand.
Rhagddirymiad, s. m. (dirymiad) A previously debilitating or enervating.
Rhagddirymu, v. a. (dirymu) To debilitate beforehand.
Rhagddodadwy, v. a. (rhagddawd) Capable of being placed before.
Rhagddodawl, a. (rhagddawd) Prepositive.
Rhagddodedig, a. (rhagddawd) Being prefixed.
Rhagddodedigaeth, s. m. (rhagddodedig) The act of placing before, a prefixing.
Rhagddodedigawl, a. (rhagddodedig) Prepositive
Rhagddodi, v. a. (rhagddawd) To prepose.
Rhagddodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddawd) Preposition.
Rhagddoniad, s. m. (rhagddawn) A gifting beforehand; a previously endowing.
Rhagddoniaw, v. a. (rhagddawn) To gift beforehand; to endow previously.
Rhagddoniawl, a. (rhagddawn) Tending to endow beforehand.
Rhagddor, s. f.—pl. t. au (dor) A fore-door; a wicket; a half-door.
Rhagddorig, s. f. dim. (rhagddor) A small wicket
Rhagddrws, s. m.—pl. rhagddrysau (drws) A fore-door, an outer door.
Rhagddryll, s. m.—pl. t. iau (dryll) A fore-piece.
Rhagddychweliad, s. m. (dychweliad) A returning beforehand.
Rhagddychwelyd, v. a. (dychwelyd) To return beforehand.
Rhagddychymyg, s. f.—pl. t. ion (dychymyg) A prior device or invention; a presupposal.
Rhagddychymygadwy, a. (rhagddychymyg) Capable of being devised beforehand.
Rhagddychymygawl, a. (rhagddychymyg) Previously devising; presuppositious.
Rhagddychymygedig, a. (rhagddychymyg) Devised beforehand; presupposed.
Rhagddychymygiad, s. m. (rhagddychymyg) A devising beforehand; a presupposing.
Rhagddychymygu, v. a. (rhagddychymyg) To devise beforehand; to presuppose.
Rhagddydd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (dydd) A prior day
Rhagddyddiad, s. m. (rhagddydd) An antidating.
Rhagddyddiaw, v. a. (rhagddydd) To antidate.
Rhagddyfaliad, s. m. (dyfaliad) A describing beforehand.
Rhagddyfalu, v. a. (dyfalu) To fore-describe.
Rhagddyled, s. f.—pl. t. ion (dyled) Prior debt.
Rhagddyledus, a. (rhagddyled) Previously due.
Rhagddymchwel, s. m. (dymchwel) A previous turn over. v. a. To turn over previously.
Rhagddymchweliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagddymchwel) A previously turning over.
Rhagddymchwelyd, v. a. (rhagddymchwel) To turn over beforehand.
Rhagddysg, s. m. (dysg) Previous instruction.
Rhagddysgawl, a. (rhagddysg) Tending to instruct beforehand.
Rhagddysgiad, s. m. (rhagddysg) A previously instructing.
Rhagddysgu, v. a. (rhagddysg) To fore-learn.
Rhagddywedawl, a. (dywedawl) Gainsaying.
Rhagddywededig, a. (dywed) Beforementioned.
Rhagddywediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (dywediad) A gainsaying; a speaking previously.
Rhagedrych, v. a. (edrych) To look before.
Rhagedrychiad, s. m. (rhagedrych) A foreseeing.
Rhagegawr, s. m. (egawr) An opening before. v. n. To open before.
Rhagegorawl, a. (rhagegawr) Opening before.
Rhagegori, v. a. (rhagegawr) To open before.
Rhagegoriad, s. m. (rhagegawr) A fore-opening.

Rhageisiau, s. m. (eisiau) A prior want.
Rhageistedd, v. a. (eistedd) To be presiding.
Rhageisteddawl, a. (rhageistedd) Presiding.
Rhageisteddiad, s. m. (rhageistedd) One that sits before; a president.

Rhageisteddiad cantref, nid amgen y troedawg, cerwynaid o fedd a dal i'r brenin bob blwyddyn.

A president of a hundred, that is to say, the foot-holder, a hogshead of mead shall he pay to the king every year. Welsh Laws.

Rhagenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (enw) A pronoun.
Rhagenwad, s. m. (rhagenw) Prenomination.
Rhagenwawl, a. (rhagenw) Prenominal.
Rhagenwedig, a. (rhagenwad) Before-named, fore-mentioned. Rhagenwedigion, premises.
Rhagenwi, v. a. (rhagenw) To premise.
Rhagerchi, v. a. (erchi) To pre-require.
Rhagethol, v. a. (ethol) To pre-elect.
Rhagetholawg, a. (rhagethol) Pre-electing.
Rhagetholedig, a. (rhagethol) Fore-chosen.
Rhagetholedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagetholedig) A pre-election.
Rhagetholi, v. a. (rhagethol) To pre-elect.

Duw a'i hetholes ac a'i rhagetholes,
A'i phreswyliaw a wnal.

God did choose it and did choose it before-hand, and he will dwell in it. D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

Rhagetholiad, s. m. (rhagethol) A pre-election.
Rhagetholwr, s. m.—pl. rhagetholwyr (rhagethol—gwr) One who chooses beforehand.
Rhagfai, s. m.—pl. rhagfeiau (bai) A prior fault.
Rhagfarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (barn) Prejudice.
Rhagfarnawl, a. (rhagfarn) Prejudging.
Rhagfarnedig, a. (rhagfarn) Prejudicate.
Rhagfarnedigaeth, s. f. (rhagfarnedig) Prejudication; a previous adjudication.
Rhagfarnedd, s. m. (rhagfarn) Prejudicialness.
Rhagfarniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagfarn) A prejudging, a prejudication.
Rhagfarnu, v. a. (rhagfarn) To condemn beforehand, to prejudge, to prejudicate.
Rhagfarnwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfarnwyr (rhagfarn—gwr) One who prejudges.
Rhagfed, a. (rhag) Foremost, or anterior.
Rhagfedd, s. m. (medd) Preoccupancy.
Rhagfeddal, a. (meddal) Being soft before.
Rhagfeddalâad, s. m. (rhagfeddal) A softening beforehand.
Rhagfeddalu, v. a. (rhagfeddal) To soften before.
Rhagfeddiad, s. m. (rhagfedd) Preoccupation.
Rhagfeddiannawl, a. (rhagfeddiant) Preoccupying, belonging to preoccupation.
Rhagfeddiannedig, a. (rhagfeddiant) Preoccupied, possessed beforehand.
Rhagfeddianniad, s. m. (rhagfeddiant) Preoccupation, prepossession.
Rhagfeddiannu, v. a. (rhagfeddiant) To preoccupy
Rhagfeddiannwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddiannwyr (rhagfeddiant—gwr) A preoccupier.
Rhagfeddiannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagfeddiant) A preoccupier, a prior possessor.
Rhagfeddiant, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddiannau (rhagfedd) Preoccupancy.
Rhagfeddu, v. a. (rhagfedd) To prepossess.

Goreu ym o'm rheen ragfeddu
Rhwydd araith o brifiaith brydu.

Best for me from my Creator to be pre-endowed with the fluent oratory of the poetry of the primitive tongue. Elidr Sais.

Rhagfeddwl, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddylian (meddwl) A previous thought. v. a. To preconceive.
Rhagfeddwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddwyr (rhagfedd—gwr) A preoccupier.
Rhagfeddyliad, s. m. (rhagfeddwl) Precogitation.
Rhagfeddyliaw, v. a. (meddwl) To precogitate.

Yna y dywawd Arthur—Meddyliwch bawb am gynghor da grymus; ac yr awrhon, o unfryd, rhoddwch eich cynghor, ac yn ddoeth rhagfeddyliwch pa beth a fo iawn i ateb.

Then said Arthur, think every one of you of a good and energetic counsel; and in this conjuncture, with one mind, give your advice, and wisely precogitate what may be proper to be answered. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhagfeddylied, v. a. (meddwl) To foredeem.
Rhagfeddyliedig, a. (meddyliad) Precogitated.
Rhagfeddyliwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfeddylwyr (rhagfeddwl—gwr) One who precogitates.
Rhagfeiad, s. m. (rhagfai) A criminating beforehand; a blaming beforehand.
Rhagfeiaw, v. a. (rhagfai) To criminate before hand, to blame beforehand.
Rhagflaen, s. m. (blaen) A fore point, a fore end.
Rhagflaenawl, a. (rhagflaen) Preceding, antecedent, foregoing.
Rhagflaenawr, s. m.—pl. rhagflaenorion (rhagflaen) A predecessor; an anticipater.
Rhagflaenedig, a. (rhagflaen) Anticipated.
Rhagflaenedigaeth, s. m. (rhagflaenedig) The state of being anticipated.
Rhagflaenedigawl, a. (rhagflaenedig) Tending to anticipate; tending to take the lead.
Rhagflaeniad, s. m. (rhagflaen) A going forward; a going before; precession; anticipation.
Rhagflaeniadawl, a. (rhagflaeniad) Tending to anticipate.
Rhagflaenorawl, a. (rhagflaenawr) Relating to precedency; introductory.
Rhagflaenori, v. a. (rhagflaenawr) To take the lead or precedency.
Rhagflaenu, v. a. (rhagflaen) To anticipate.
Rhagflaenwr, s. m.—pl. rhagflaenwyr (rhagflaen—gwr) A preceder; a precursor.
Rhagflaenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagflaen) A preceder; a precursor, a forerunner.
Rhagflas, s. m.—pl. t. au (blâs) A foretaste.
Rhagflasu, v. a. (rhagflas) To foretaste.
Rhagflin, a. (blin) Previously weary.
Rhagfliniad, s. m. (rhagflin) A tiring beforehand.
Rhagflinaw, v. a. (rhagflin) To tire beforehand.
Rhagfod, s. m.—pl. t. au (bod) A prior existence.
Rhagfodawl, a. (rhagfod) Previously existing.

Tri rhagfodolion doethineb: deddfoldeb, tangnefeddoldeb, a dwyfoldeb.

The three pre-existent views of wisdom: morality, peaceableness, and piety. Catwg ab Gwynlliw Filwr.

Rhagfodd, s. m. (bodd) Previous pleasure.
Rhagfoddawl, a. (rhagfodd) Tending to please beforehand.
Rhagfoddiad, s. m. (rhagfodd) A pleasing before.
Rhagfoddiaw, v. a. (rhagfodd) To please before.
Rhagfoel, a. (moel) Bald or bare before.
Rhagfraint, s. m.—pl. rhagfreintiau (braint) A prerogative.
Rhagfras, a. (bras) Of ample presence.
Rhagfrawd, s. f.—pl. rhagfrodau (brawd) A sentence beforehand, prejudication.
Rhagfryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (bryd) A previous design or intention.
Rhagfrydiad, s. m. (rhagfryd) A designing beforehand; a premeditating.
Rhagfrydiaw, v. a. (rhagfryd) To design beforehand; to premeditate.
Rhagfuan, a. (buan) Quick in front; quickly moving forward.

Rhagfum ei feirch rhag rhyn gawr;
Yn nydd gwyth adwyth oedd ei lafnawr
Pan grysiai Gynon gan wyrdd wawr.

Quick in front his steeds before the shock of the shout of war; in the day of wrath destruction were his blades, when Cynon girded himself with the green dawn. Aneurin.

Rhagfur, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mur) A contramure.
Rhagfuriad, s. m. (rhagfur) A raising a contramure; a forming a counterscarp.
Rhagfuriaw, v. a. (rhagfur) To make a contramure, to form a counterscarp.
Rhagfwriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagfwrw) A forecasting; predetermination.
Rhagfwriadawl, a. (rhagfwriad) Predetermining.
Rhagfwriadu, v. a. (rhagfwriad) To predetermine, to foredesign, to foredoom.
Rhagfwriadus, a. (rhagfwriad) Premeditating.
Rhagfwrw, v. a. (bwrw) To forecast, to foredeem.
Rhagfyfyr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (myfyr) Forecast.
Rhagfyfyrdawd, s. m.—pl. rhagfyfyrdodau (rhagfyfyr) Premeditation, precogitation.
Rhagfyfyriad, s. m. (rhagfyfyr) A premeditating, a precogitating.
Rhagfyfyriaw, v. a. (rhagfyfyr) To premeditate; to contemplate beforehand.
Rhagfyfyriawl, a. (rhagfyfyr) Premeditating.
Rhagfyfyriedig, a. (rhagfyfyriad) Premeditated.
Rhagfyfyriwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfyfyrwyr (rhagfyfyr—gwr) One who premeditates.
Rhagfygwth, s. m.—pl. rhagfygythion (bygwth) A previous threat.
Rhagfygythiad, s. m. (rhagfygwth) A previously threatening.
Rhagfygythiaw, v. a. (rhagfygwth) To threaten beforehand.
Rhagfygythiawl, a. (rhagfygwth) Threatening beforehand.
Rhagfygythiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagfygythwyr (rhagfygwth—gwr) One who threatens beforehand.
Rhagfynag, s. m. (mynag) A prior declaration.
Rhagfyned, v. a. (myned) To go before.
Rhagfynedawl, a. (rhagfyned) Preceding.
Rhagfynediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagfyned) A precession; a going before or in advance.
Rhagfynegawl, a. (rhagfynag) Prenunciating.
Rhagfynegi, v. a. (rhagfynag) To prenunciate, to declare beforehand.
Rhagfynegiad, s. m. (rhagfynag) Prenunciation.
Rhagfyr, s. m. (byr) That is short before; the first month of the year, according to ancient calculation, beginning at the winter solstice; it is now the name for December.
Rhagfyrâad, s. m. (rhagfyrâu) A foreshortening.
Rhagfyrâawl, a. (rhagfyrâu) Foreshortening.
Rhagfyrâu, v. a. (rhagfyr) To foreshorten.
Rhagffer, a. (ffer) Strong-fronted.
Rhagffordd, s. f.—pl. rhagffyrdd (ffordd) A forward road, an advance way.
Rhagfforddawl, a. (rhagffordd) Belonging to an advance road.
Rhagffysg, s. m. (ffysg) A forward haste.

Terfysg yn rhagffysg yn rhagffer a wnaeth,
Twrf tôn ffraeth Ffraw aber.

A tumult in the forward haste in the mighty front he made, the din of the noisy wave of the efflux of Fraw. Cynddelw, m. E. ab M. ab Iddon.

Rhagffysgiad, s. m. (rhagffysg) A hastening before; a hastening forward.
Rhagffysgiaw, v. a. (rhagffysg) To hasten before.
Rhagffysgiawl, a. (rhagffysg) Tending to hasten forward.
Rhaggadarn, a. (cadarn) Strong in front.
Rhaggadarnâad, s. m. (rhaggadarnâu) A strengthening before; a strengthening in front.
Rhaggadarnâawl, a. (rhaggadarnâu) Tending to strengthen beforehand.
Rhaggadarnâu, v. a. (rhaggadarn) To strengthen before; to strengthen in front.
Rhaggaer, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (caer) Any advance-work in fortification; an outwork; the suburbs of a city.
Rhaggais, s. m. (cais) A prior attempt.
Rhagganfod, s. m. (canfod) A foresight. v. a. To see before; to foresee.
Rhaggau, v. a. (cau) To shut before.
Rhaggauad, s. m. (rhaggau) A shutting before.
Rhaggeiniad, s. m.—pl. rhaggeiniaid (ceiniad) A precentor.
Rhaggeisiad, s. m. (rhaggais) A previously attempting or seeking.
Rhaggeisiaw, v. a. (rhaggais) To attempt beforehand; to seek previously.
Rhaggeisiawl, a. (rhaggais) Previously trying.
Rhaggerdded, s. m. (cerdded) A walk before.
Rhaggerddediad, s. m. (rhaggerdded) A walking before, or a walking in advance.
Rhaggiliad, s. m. (ciliad) A previously receding.
Rhaggiliaw, v. a. (ciliaw) To recede previously.
Rhagglod, s. f. (clod) A former fame.

Cynneddf i Bowys cnyosod yn aer
Yn aros eu rhagglod.

The characteristic of Powys is the giving the advance stroke in battle, awaiting their former fame. Cynddelw.

Rhagglud, s. f. (clud) A heap before, or in front.
Rhaggludaw, v. a. (rhagglud) To heap before.

Rhaggludawdd ei gleddyf uch gwain;
Rhaglym fu yn pannu penain.

The sword above the sheath raised a heap in front; severe its forward course dismaying chiefs. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Rhaggludiad, s. m. (rhagglud) A heaping before.
Rhagglyw, s. m. (clyw) A previous hearing.
Rhagglywed, v. n. (rhagglyw) To hear before.
Rhaggnaif, s. m. (cnaif) A shearing before.
Rhaggneifiad, s. m. (rhaggnaif) A shearing before, a shearing the front.
Rhaggneifiaw, v. a. (rhaggnaif) To shear before.
Rhaggnöad, s. m. (cnöad) A previously chewing.
Rhaggnöawl, a. (cnöawl) Previously chewing.
Rhaggnöi, v. a. (cnoi) To chew previously.
Rhaggraff, s. m. (craff) A previous impression. a. Previously impressed; having foresight.
Rhaggraffawl, a. (rhaggraff) Tending to impress previously; inducing foresight.
Rhagraffiad, s. m. (rhaggraff) A previously impressing; a previously perceiving.
Rhaggraffu, v. a. (rhaggraff) To impress before.
Rhaggri, s. f. (cri) A cry or shout before.
Rhaggrybwyll, s. m. (crybwyll) A previous hint.
Rhaggrybwyllaw, v. a. (rhaggrybwyll) To intimate previously; to mention beforehand.
Rhaggrybwylledig, a. (rhaggrybwyll) Before intimated; beforementioned.
Rhaggrybwylliad, s. m. (rhaggrybwyll) A previously intimating; a previously mentioning.
Rhaggydunaw, v. a. (cydunaw) To agree before.
Rhaggymmer, s. m. (cymer) A previous taking, a previous receipt.
Rhaggymerawl, a. (rhaggymer) Previously receiving, or taking.
Rhaggymeredig, a. (rhaggymer) Being previously received or taken.
Rhaggymeriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaggymer) A taking beforehand; a prolepsis.

Rhaggymeriadawl, a. (rhaggymeriad) Of an anticipating tendency; proleptical.
Rhaghanfod, s. m. (hanfod) Pre-existence.
Rhaghanfodawl, a. (rhaghanfod) Pre-existent.
Rhaghanfodi, v. a. (rhaghanfod) To pre-exist.
Rhaghanfodiad, s. m. (rhaghanfod) A pre-existing; a pre-existence.
Rhaghawl, s. f.—pl. rhagholion (hawl) A previous question or claim.
Rhagheuddawl, a. (heuddawl) Premeriting.
Rhagheuddu, v. n. (heuddu) To premerit.
Rhagholi, v. a. (rhaghawl) To question before.
Rhagholiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaghawl) A questioning beforehand.
Rhagiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhag) A getting before; a coming before; a stopping.
Rhagial, v. a. (rhag) To controvert.
Rhagisel, a. (isel) Having the fore part low.
Rhagladd, v. a. (lladd) To cut before.
Rhagladdawl, a. (rhagladd) Cutting in front.
Rhagladdiad, s. m. (rhagladd) A cutting before.
Rhaglafar, s. m. (llafar) A harangue made before or in public. a. Prolocutory.

Arglwydd, nid rhaid iddo fod yn rhaglafar; ac wrth hyny y gelwir yn un o dri mud gorsedd.

A sovereign, it is not requisite for him to be prolocutory; and therefore he is called one of the three mutes of court.
Welsh Laws.

Rhaglafarawl, a. (rhaglafar) Speaking before.
Rhaglafariad, s. m. (rhaglafar) A speaking before.
Rhaglafaru, v. a. (rhaglafar) To speak before.
Rhaglafarwr, s. m. (rhaglafar—gwr) A prolocutor.
Rhaglam, s. m.—pl. t. au (llam) A forward step.
Rhaglamiad, s. m. (rhaglam) A stepping before.
Rhaglamu, v. a. (rhaglam) To step forward.
Rhaglaw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (llaw) A deputy, a surrogate; a lieutenant; a vice-president.
Rhaglawd, s. m. (llawd) A first increase.
Rhaglawiaeth, s. f. (rhaglaw) The office, or jurisdiction of a deputy; a lieutenancy; a prefecture; a vice presidency.
Rhaglawiaethawl, a. (rhaglawiaeth) Belonging to the office of a deputy or lieutenant.
Rhaglawiaethu, v. a. (rhaglawiaeth) To perform the function of a deputy or lieutenant.
Rhaglawiaw, v. a. (rhaglaw) To make a deputy.
Rhaglawn, s. m. (llawn) A first filling or gathering in. Cylch rhaglawn, cylch rhaglawd, the circuit of first fruits, certain dues anciently paid by tenants to their lords.
Rhaglef, s. m. (llef) A proclamation.
Rhaglefain, v. a. (rhaglef) To proclaim.
Rhaglewych, s. m. (llewych) Illumination before.
Rhaglewychiad, s. m. (rhaglewych) A lighting first
Rhaglewychu, v. (rhaglewych) To illume before.
Rhaglith, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (llith) A preface.
Rhaglithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaglith) A making an introductory discourse.
Rhaglithiaw, v. a. (rhaglith) To preface.
Rhaglithiawl, a. (rhaglith) Prefatory, introductory
Rhaglithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhaglithwyr (rhaglith—gwr) One who makes a preface.
Rhaglofydd, s. m. (rhaglaw) A vicegerent.
Rhaglun, s. m.—pl. t. iau (llun) A prior form.
Rhagluniad, s. m. (rhaglun) A preforming.
Rhagluniaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaglun) The act of forming beforehand; providence.
Rhagluniaethawl, a. (rhagluniaeth) Providential.
Rhagluniaethu, v. a. (rhagluniaeth) To carry on the dispensation of providence.
Rhagluniaethus, a. (rhagluniaeth) Providential.
Rhagluniaw, v. a. (rhaglun) To preform; to forecast, to foresee, to provide.

Sawl a ragluniodd ef, y rhai hyny hefyd a alwodd.

Such as he has formed before, those also he has called.
W. Salisbury.

Rhagluniawl, a. (rhaglun) Tending to form beforehand.
Rhagluniedig, a (rhaglun) Performed.
Rhaglwgr, s. m. (llwgr) A prior corruption.
Rhaglwybr, s. m.—pl. t. au (llwybr) A previous path; a path in front.
Rhaglwybraw, v. a. (rhaglwybr) To open a path before; to clear the way in front.
Rhaglwybrawl, a. (rhaglwybr) Tending to open a path before.
Rhaglyd, s. m. (llyd) Providence, forecast.
Rhaglydaw, v. a. (rhaglyd) To use forecast.
Rhaglydawl, a. (rhaglyd) Providential.
Rhaglyfn, a. (llyfn) Previously smooth.
Rhaglyfnawl, a. (rhaglyfn) Tending to make smooth beforehand.
Rhaglyfniad, s. m. (rhaglyfn) A previously making smooth.
Rhaglyfnu, v. a. (rhaglyfn) To smooth before.

Gwelai rhagluniaeth Duw yn dda raglyfnu peth ar y byd, drwy athrawiaeth y Groegiaid.

The divine providence saw it good previously to smooth the word a little, through the knowledge of the Greeks.
C. Edwards, H. y Ffydd.

Rhaglygrawl, a. (rhaglwgr) Tending to corrupt beforehand.
Rhaglygriad, s. m. (rhaglwgr) A previously corrupting.
Rhaglygru, v. a. (rhaglwgr) To first corrupt.
Rhaglym, a. (llym) Sharp before; sharp-pointed.

Cynon lary fron—rhaglym ei waewawr.

Cynon of humane breast, sharp in front the pushing of his spear.
Aneurin.

Rhaglymiad, s. m. (rhaglym) A sharpening before; acumination.
Rhaglymu, v. a. (rhaglym) To sharpen before; to make sharp-pointed.
Rhaglys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (llys) An inferior court; the court of a comot, a court leet.
Rhaglyw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (llyw) A deputy governor.
Rhaglywiad, s. m.—pl. raglywiaid (rhaglyw) One who governs as a deputy.

Gosodwn fod—rhaglywiaid cymydau dros Gymmru.

We appoint that there be deputy constables of comots over Wales.
Gosod. Rhuddlan.

Rhaglywiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaglyw) A deputy governor, a vice presidency, a prefecture.
Rhaglywiaethawl, a. (rhaglywiaeth) Belonging to the office of a deputy or lieutenant.
Rhaglywiaethu, v. a. (rhaglywiaeth) To perform the function of a deputy governor.
Rhaglywiaw, v. a. (rhaglyw) To rule as a deputy.
Rhaglywiawd, s. m. (rhaglyw) The function of a deputy governor.
Rhaglywiawdr, s. m.—pl. rhaglywiodron (rhaglywiawd) A deputy governor.
Rhagllaw, adv. (llaw) Henceforth, in future.
Rhagnaid, s. f. (naid) A leap before.
Rhagnawdd, s. m. (nawdd) A refuge or protection before; a preservative.
Rhagnedd, s. m. (nedd) A station before.

Gwelir lafar lain——
A llu rhagnedd
Yn rhagyrwedd,
Yn nydd gwnedd
Yn nghywrysedd.

There will be seen the noisy blade, and a host in an opposing station threatening, in the day of struggle in conflict. Aneurin.

Rhagnerthawl, a. (rhagnerth) Tending to strengthen beforehand.
Rhagnerthiad, s. m. (rhagnerth) A previously strengthening.
Rhagnerthu, v. a. (rhagnerth) To strengthen beforehand.
Rhagneuadd, s. f. (neuadd) A hall of entrance.
Rhagnod, s. m.—pl. t. au (nod) A mark before.
Rhagnodawl, a. (rhagnod) Marking before.
Rhagnodi, v. a. (rhagnod) To mark before.
Rhagnodiad, s. m. (rhagnod) A marking before.
Rhagnoddawl, a. (rhagnawdd) First protecting.
Rhagnoddi, v. a. (rhagnawdd) To protect before.
Rhagnoddiad, s. m. (rhagnawdd) A protecting beforehand.
Rhagnoeth, a. (noeth) Naked before.
Rhagnoethi, v. a. (rhagnoeth) To make naked before; to expose the front.
Rhagnoethiad, s. m. (rhagnoeth) A making naked before; an exposing of the front.
Rhagnyth, s. m.—pl. t. od (nyth) A prepared nest.
Rhagnythawl, a. (rhagnyth) Tending to nestle.
Rhagnythiad, s. m. (rhagnyth) A preparing a nest.
Rhagnythu, v. a. (rhagnyth) To prepare a nest.

Rhagnythed iar cyn dodwy.

Let the hen prepare a nest before laying. Adage.

Rhagnythydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagnyth) One who prepares a nest.
Rhagochel, v. a. (gochel) To avoid previously.
Rhagocheliad, s. m. (rhagochel) A previously avoiding.
Rhagochelyd, v. a. (rhagochel) To avoid previously
Rhagodawl, a. (rhagawd) Coming before, coming against, coming in opposition.
Rhagodfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (rhagawd) A place for coming against; an ambuscade.
Rhagodi, v. a. (rhagawd) To come before, to come against; to oppose.
Rhagodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagawd) A coming before, a coming against.
Rhagodli, v. n. (rhagawdl) To form a leading rhyme.
Rhagodliad, s. m. (rhagawdl) A forming a leading rhyme.
Rhagodlig, a. (rhagawdl) Having the quality of a leading rhyme.

Pan fo y gysain ragodlig yn ddauwynebawg, ni eill y gynghanedd fod yn groes ddymchweledig.

When the first rhyming consonant has a double aspect, the consonancy cannot be a reverted transition. Gr. Roberts.

Rhagodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagodwyr (rhagawd—gwr) One who comes before or against.
Rhagodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagawd) One who comes before or against; an opposer.
Rhagoddef, s. m. (goddef) A previous suffering.
Rhagoddefawl, a. (rhagoddef) Previously passive.
Rhagoddefiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagoddef) A suffering beforehand.
Rhagofal, s. m.—pl. t. on (gofal) Precaution.
Rhagofaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagofal) A taking previous care, a taking precaution.
Rhagofalu, v. a. (rhagofal) To take precaution.
Rhagofalus, a. (rhagofal) Careful beforehand.
Rhagofalwr, s. m.—pl. rhagofalwyr (rhagofal—gwr) One who takes previous care.
Rhagofyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gofyn) A pre-requisite; an adjunct requisite.

Tair swydd llys: canghellawr, canllaw, neu bleidiwr, a rhingyll; sef rhagofynion llys eu gelwir, càn y gellir llys hebddynt.

The three adjunct offices of a court: a chancellor, a conductor, or partisan, and an apparitor; for they are called adjunct requisites, as a court can be held without them. Trioedd Dyfnwal.

Rhagofyn, v. a. (gofyn) To bespeak.
Rhagofynawl, a. (rhagofyn) Bespeaking.
Rhagofyniad, s. m. (rhagofyn) A bespeaking.
Rhagolwg, s. m. (golwg) Prospect; foresight.
Rhagolwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (olwyn) Fore-wheel.
Rhagolygawd, s. m. (rhagolwg) A prospection.
Rhagolygawl, a. (rhagolwg) Prospective.
Rhagolygiad, s. m. (rhagolwg) A foreseeing.
Rhagolygu, v. a. (rhagolwg) To look forward.
Rhagongl, s. f. (ongl) A saliant angle.
Rhagonglaidd, a. (rhagongl) Tending to a saliant angle; of the nature of a saliant angle.
Rhagongli, v. a. (rhagongl) To form a saliant angle
Rhagongliad, s. m. (rhagongl) A forming a saliant angle.
Rhagor, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhag—gor) The state of being before; excellence; attribute; superiority; difference; more. Rhagorion, excellencies; yn rhagor, in a greater degree, more. Mae rhagor mawr rhyngot ti a mi, there is a great difference betwixt thee and me.

Tair dyben barddoniaeth; gwellâu moes a defawd; cynnal heddwch; a moli pob daionus a rhagor.

The three intentions of bardism; to improve manners and habit; to maintain peace; and to praise all the good and the excellent. Barddas.

D'ofn a drig, dwfn dy ragor,
Od ofnir màn dwfn o'r mor.

Thy dread will remain, profound thy superiority, if a profound part of the sea be dreaded. Rhys Cain.

Ei rad——
Archaf ar air, a chaf yr awron
Er ei wir gariad, a'i ragorion,
Ac er a wyddiad o geryddon—
Er ei wyth allu, a'i archollion.

His grace I crave verbally, and at the present hour I shall have it, for the sake of his true love, and his attributes, and on account of what he has known of reproaches; for the sake of his eight energies, and his wounds. G. ab I. ab Llywelyn Fychan.

Rhagorawl, a. (rhagor) Excellent, or superior.
Rhagorbarch, s. (rhagor—parch) Pre-eminency.
Rhagorbryd, s. m. (rhagor—pryd) Superior appearance.
Rhagorbwyll, s. m. (pwyll) Superior discretion.
Rhagorddawn, s. m. (rhagor—dawn) Superior talent or endowment.
Rhagorddull, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhagor—dull) A superior form.
Rhagorddwyn, a. (rhagor—dwyn) Bearing a superiority; excelling. Pethau godidogion a rhagorddwyn, eminent and superlative things.
Rhagorddysg, s. (rhagor—dysg) Superior learning.
Rhagoredig, a. (rhagor) Being made superior.
Rhagoredigaeth, s. m. (rhagoredig) Superiority.
Rhagoredd, s. m. (rhagor) Excellentness.
Rhagoresgyn, v. a. (goresgyn) To come upon first. s. m. A prior coming upon; a prior conquest.
Rhagoresgynawl, a. (rhagoresgyn) Belonging to prior conquest.
Rhagoresgyniad, s. m. (rhagoresgyn) A previously overcoming or surmounting.
Rhagorfraint, s. m.—pl. rhagorfreintiau (braint) A prerogative.
Rhagorgamp, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagor—camp) Superior feat or exploit.
Rhagorgampus, a. (rhagorgamp) Pancratical.
Rhagori, v. a. (rhagor) To go before, to go beyond; to excel, to surpass; to cause a difference; to differ.
Rhagoriad, s. m. (rhagor) An excelling, a surpassing; a differing.
Rhagoriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagor) A state of being beyond, or surpassing; difference.

Tri rhagoriaeth cauu: iawn fydryddu, iawn ddyfalu, ac iawn ymddwyn.

The three excellencies of song: just prosody, just description, and just tendency. Barddas.

Rhagoriaethawl, a. (rhagoriaeth) Relating to excellence; differential.
Rhagoriaethu, v. a. (rhagoriaeth) To form a state of excellence; to make a difference.
Rhagoriannawl, a. (rhagoriant) Surpassing, superlative; differential.
Rhagoriannu, v. a. (rhagoriant) To render superlative; to create a difference.
Rhagoriant, s. m. (rhagor) Excellence; difference

Pob peth anweledig, megys angel, a folir herwydd yr ansawdd, ac y rhagoriant y sydd arno.

Every thing invisible, as an angel, is praised according to the nature, and excellence appertaining to it. Barddas.

Rhagoriawd, s. m. (rhagor) The act or state of excelling; a difference.
Rhagoriawdr, s. m. (rhagoriawd) One who excels.
Rhagorineb, s. m. (rhagor) Excellency, superiority; preference; difference.
Rhagoroldeb, s. m. (rhagorawl) Preference.
Rhagorolrwydd, s. m. (rhagorawl) Excellentness.
Rhagosawd, v. a. (gosawd) To set previously; to set before, to prefix.
Rhagosodawl, a. (rhagosawd) Prepositive.
Rhagosodedig, a. (rhagosawd) Being set before; fore-appointed, pre-established; prefixed.
Rhagosodedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagosodedig) Pre-establishment, pre-ordinance.
Rhagosodedigawl, a. (rhagosodedig) Prepositive.
Rhagosodiad, s. m. (rhagosawd) A setting before.
Rhagosodwr, s. m.—pl. rhagosodwyr (rhagosawd gwr) One who sets before.
Rhagraith, s. f.—pl. rhagreithiau (rhaith) A previous adjustment; a prejudication.
Rhagran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) A prior share.
Rhagranawl, a. (rhagran) Of a prior sharing.
Rhagraniad, s. m. (rhagran) A previously sharing.
Rhagranu, v. a. (rhagran) To share previously.
Rhagre, s. f. (rhe) A first setting off, a preamble.
Rhagred, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhed) A prior course.
Rhagredawl, a. (rhagred) Forerunning, antecedent, procatarctic.
Rhagredeg, v. a. (rhagred) To forerun.
Rhagrediad, s. m. (rhagred) A forerunning.
Rhagredwr, s. m.—pl. rhagredwyr (rhagred—gwr) A precursor, a forerunner, a harbinger.
Rhagreithiad, s. m. (rhagraith) A previously rectifying; consideration.
Rhagreithiannawl, a. (rhagreithiant) Tending to previous rectitude; deliberative.
Rhagreithiannu, v. a. (rhagreithiant) To make a previous adjustment.
Rhagreithiant, s. m. (rhagraith) Previous adjustment; deliberation.
Rhagreithiaw, v. a. (rhagraith) To adjust beforehand; to consider.

Rhagreithia dy air cyn noi ddodi.

Consider thy word before it is given. Adage.

Gwedy darffo i yr henuriaid ragreithiaw eu synwyr, a chadarnau ei dull trwy dwng, yna y dylyant y brawdwyr, fyned ar neilltu, a barnu herwydd yr henuriaid.

When the elders shall have finished considering their sentiment, and supported its form by oath, then the judges ought to go aside, and pass sentence according to the elders. Welsh Laws.

Rhagreithiawl, a. (rhagraith) Previously rectified.
Rhagreithiedig, a. (rhagreithiad) Previously rectified; considered, deliberated.
Rhagreithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagreithwyr (rhagraith—gwr) One who rectifies before-hand.
Rhagreithus, a. (rhagraith) Considerate.
Rhagrif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhif) A prior number.
Rhagrifaw, v. a. (rhagrif) To reckon beforehand.
Rhagrifawl, a. (rhagrif) Of previous numbering.
Rhagrifiad, s. m. rhagrif) A reckoning before.
Rhagrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhith) Hypocrisy.
Rhagrithiad, s. m. (rhagrith) A practising of hypocrisy; dissimulation.
Rhagrithiannawl, a. (rhagrithiant) Of an hypocritical disposition.
Rhagrithiannu, v. a. (rhagrithiant) To use hypocrisy; to put on appearance.
Rhagrithiannus, a. (rhagrithiant) Apt to practise hypocrisy or dissimulation.
Rhagrithiant, s. m. (rhagrith) Simulation.
Rhagrithiaw, v. a. (rhagrith) To use hypocrisy.
Rhagrithiawg, a. (rhagrith) Using hypocrisy.
Rhagrithiawl, a. (rhagrith) Hypocritical.
Rhagrithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhagrithwyr (rhagrith—gwr) A dissimulator, a hypocrite.
Rhagrithus, a. (rhagrith) Hypocritical.
Rhagrodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhodd) A gift before.
Rhagroddedig, a. (rhagrodd) Being previously given.
Rhagroddi, v. a. (rhagrodd) To give beforehand.
Rhagroddiad, s. m. (rhagrodd) A giving before.
Rhagroddwr, s. m—pl. rhagroddwyr (rhagrodd—gwr) One who gives beforehand.
Rhagruthr, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhuthr) A rushing forward; a rushing to the front.
Rhagruthraw, v. a. (rhagruthr) To rush before.

Gwaew onen rethren a ragruthrai:
Rhag ofn gwir golofn gwyr a ffiai.

A goring ashen spear he would rush forward; for fear of a trusty pillar heroes would flee away.
Heilyn Fardd, neu Ll. Brydydd Hodnant.

Rhagruthrawl, a. (rhagruthr) Rushing before.
Rhagruthriad, s. m. (rhagruthr) A rushing before; a rushing forward.
Rhagrwym, s. m. (rhwym) A previous bond or tie.
Rhagrwymaw, v. a. (rhagrwym) To bind before.
Rhagrwymawl, a. (rhagrwym) First binding.
Rhagrwymedig, a. (rhagrwym) Bound before.
Rhagrwymiad, s. m. (rhagrwym) A previously binding.
Rhagrwystr, s. m. (rhwystr) A previous hinderance or obstacle.
Rhagrwystraw, v. a. (rhagrwystr) To preclude.
Rhagrwystrawl, a. (rhagrwystr) Previously hindering; precluding.
Rhagrwystriad, s. m. (rhagrwystr) A previously hindering or precluding.
Rhagrybudd, s. m. (rhybudd) Premonishment.
Rhagrybuddiad, s. m. (rhagrybudd) Premonition
Rhagrybuddiaw, v. a. (rhagrybudd) To forewarn.
Rhagrybuddiawl, a. (rhagrybudd) Premonitory.
Rhagrybuddiwr, s. m. (rhagrybudd—gwr) A premonisher, a forewarner.
Rhagsaf, s. f. (saf) A stand before or in front.
Rhagsail, s. f. (sail) A prior foundation.
Rhagsain, s. f.—pl. rhagseiniau (sain) A prior or leading sound.
Rhagsathr, s. m. (sathr) A tread before.
Rhagsathrawl, a. (rhagsathr) Treading before.
Rhagsathriad, s. m. (rhagsathr) A treading before; a treading in front.
Rhagsathru, v. a. (rhagsathr) To tread before.
Rhagsefydlawg, a. (sefydlawg) Pre-established.
Rhagsefydliad, s. m. (sefydliad) A fixing or establishing beforehand, a pre-establishing.
Rhagsefydlu, v. a. (sefydlu) To pre-establish.
Rhagsefyll, v. a. (sefyll) To stand before.
Rhagseiliad, s. m. (rhagsail) A laying a previous foundation.
Rhagseiliaw, v. a. (rhagsail) To lay a previous foundation.

Rhagseiniad, s. m. (rhagsain) A sounding before
Rhagseiniaw, v. a. (rhagsain) To sound before.
Rhagseiniawl, a. (rhagsain) Previously sounding
Rhagsen, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sen) A prior reproof.
Rhagsènawl, a. (rhagsen) Previously reproving.
Rhagsèniad, s. m. (rhagsen) A first reproving.
Rhagsènu, v. a. (rhagsen) To reprove before.
Rhagswydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (swydd) A prior office; an adjunct office.
Rhagswyddiad, s. m. (rhagswydd) A filling a prior office; a previously officiating.
Rhagswyn, s. f. (swyn) Preventive charm.
Rhagswynaw, v. a. (rhagswyn) To charm before
Rhagswynawl, a. (rhagswyn) Fore-charming.
Rhagswyniad, s. m. (rhagswyn) A charming beforehand; a preventive charm.
Rhagsylw, s. m. (sylw) A previous remark.
Rhagsylwad, s. m. (rhagsylw) A previously remarking or noticing.
Rhagsylwi, v. a. (rhagsylw) To remark before.
Rhagsyll, s. m. (syll) A look forward or before.
Rhagsylliad, s. m. (rhagsyll) A looking forward.
Rhagsyllu, v. a. (rhagsyll) To look forward.
Rhagsyniad, s. m. (syniad) Pre-apprehension.
Rhagsyniawl, a. (syniawl) Premeditating.
Rhagsynied, v. a. (synied) To premeditate.
Rhagsyniedig, a. (rhagsyniad) Premeditated.
Rhagsyniedigaeth, s. m. (rhagsyniedig) The exercise of previous thought, premeditation.
Rhagsyniedigawl, a. (rhagsyniedig) Inducing premeditation.
Rhagsyniwr, s. m.—pl. rhagsyniwyr (syniwr) One who premeditates.
Rhagu, v. a. (rhag) To go before, to go in front; to get before; to oppose, to withstand.
Rhagus, a. (rhag) Tending to go before; opposing; contrary, adverse.
Rhagwahan, s. m. (gwahan) A leading division.
Rhagwahanawl, a. (rhagwahan) Belonging to a leading division.
Rhagwahaniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagwahan) A forming a leading division.
Rhagwahannod, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagwahan—nod) A leading division point, a semicolon.
Rhagwahanu, v. a. (rhagwahan) To form a leading division; to use a semicolon.
Rhagwan, s. m. (gwan) An advance or front division.
Rhagwanawl, a. (rhagwan) Belonging to an advanced division.
Rhagwaniad, s. m. (rhagwan) A forming an advanced division.
Rhagwant, s. m.—pl. t. au (gwant) The advanced division, a term in prosody for the accented part of the second pause of a verse, of Unawdl union, or the fifth syllable, concatenating with a preceding sound.
Rhagwanu, v. a. (rhagwan) To make a division or opening before.

Cyfran yn rhagwan rhag byddinawr.

A party opening a forward way before the hosts. Aneurin.

Rhagwas, s. m.—pl. rhagweision (gwas) A preceding minister; a harbinger; a deputy servant; a term used for the article, by some grammarians; and by others for the adverb.

Gwas i ragwas: nes, gwas i was y cwn.

A servant to an underservant; or, a servant to the servant of the dogs. Adage.

Rhagwasanaeth, s. m. (gwasanaeth) Previous servitude; a prior ministration.
Rhagwasanaethawl, a. (rhagwasanaeth) Previously serving; a ministring before.
Rhagwasanaethiad, s. m. (rhagwasanaeth) A serving beforehand.
Rhagwasanaethu, v. a. (rhagwasanaeth) To serve beforehand; to minister before.
Rhagwedd, s. f. (gwedd) A presence; a front.

Rhagwedd rhoddid i feirdd y byd.

A countenance was given to the bards of the world. Taliesin.

Gwyr Gogledd yn nghyntedd yn eu cylchyn
Yn mherfedd eu rhagwedd y disgynyn.

The men of the North, in the portal around them, in the midst of their place of presence descended. Golyddan, Arm. Prydain.

Rhagweini, v. a. (gweini) To serve before.
Rhagweinydd, s. m.—pl. t. iaid (rhagweini) One who ministereth before.

Tri rhagweinyddiaid doethineb: addysg ddeddfawl, arfer weithredawl, a serch awenawl.

The three precursors of wisdom: moral instruction, an active habit, and an implanted fondness. Catwg Ddoeth.

Rhagwel, s. m. (gwel) Foresight, or prescience.

Da nad pell rhagwel dyn.

It is happy that the prescience of man extends not far. Adage.

Rhagweladwy, a. (rhagwel) Capable of being foreseen.
Rhagweled, v. a. (rhagwel) To foresee.

Angen a rhagwelir ni ddaw byth ar ddoeth.

Need that is foreseen will never come upon the wise. Adage.

Yna y dywawd Arthur—Pa beth bynag ar a ragweler yn dda yn y blaen ygan ddoethion, pan ddeler ar y gweithred haws y dyoddefer.

Thereupon Arthur says, whatever thing shall be foreseen by the wise as good in the beginning, when we come into action it will be borne with greater ease. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhagwelediad, s. m. (rhagweled) A foreseeing.
Rhagweledig, a. (rhagweled) Foreseen.

Ni thebygaf fi gallu o neb o honam ni roddi cynghor gwerthforach, na chrynôach, na doethach, no'r hwn a ragfeddyliawdd rhagweledig ddoethineb yr arglwydd Arthur.

I do not think that any of us could give a more valuable advice, or more complete, or wiser than this, which the provident wisdom of the lord Arthur has preconcerted. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhagweledigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhagweledig) The act of foreseeing.
Rhagweledigaw, v. a. (rhagweledig) To render foreseen.
Rhagweledigrwydd, s. m. (rhagweledig) The state of being foreseen.
Rhagwelgar, a. (rhagwel) Apt to foresee.
Rhagweliad, s. m. (rhagwel) A foreseeing.
Rhagweliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhagweliad) One who foresees.
Rhagwelwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwelwyr (rhagwel—gwr) One who foresees.
Rhagwerth, s. m. (gwerth) A prior sale.
Rhagwerthawl, a. (rhagwerth) Relating to a previous selling.
Rhagwerthiad, s. m. (rhagwerth) A selling beforehand; a previous selling.
Rhagwerthu, v. a. (rhagwerth) To sell beforehand.
Rhagwerthwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwerthwyr (rhagwerth—gwr) One who sells beforehand.
Rhagwiriad, s. m. (gwiriad) A previously affirming or certifying.
Rhagwiriaw, v. a. (gwiriaw) To certify beforehand
Rhagwiriawl, a. (gwiriawl) Previously certifying.
Rhagwiriwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwirwyr (gwiriwr) One who certifies beforehand.
Rhagwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (gwisg) A fore-garment; a prior dress.
Rhagwisgaw, v. a. (rhagwisg) To dress previously
Rhagwisgiad, s. m. (rhagwisg) A first dressing.

Rhagwn, s. m. (rhag) A scarecrow.
Rhagwybod, v. n. (gwybod) To foreknow.
Rhagwybodadwy, a. (rhagwybod) Capable of being foreknown.
Rhagwybodaeth, s. f. (rhagwybod) Precognition.
Rhagwybodawl, a. (rhagwybod) Belonging to prescience.
Rhagwybodus, a. (rhagwybod) Prescient.
Rhagwyl, s. f. (gwyl) A previous watch.
Rhagwyliad, s. m. (rhagwyl) A fore watching.
Rhagwylied, v. a. (rhagwyl) To watch before.
Rhagwyliwr, s. m.—pl. rhagwylwyr (rhagwyl—gwr) One who watches before.
Rhagwyneb, prep. (gwyneb) Before, in presence. a. Ensuing, forthcoming, following.

Yn y flwyddyn rhagwyneb y llas Tomas archesgob.
In the year ensuing was slain Thomas archbishop.
Caradawg o Langarfan.

Rhagwynebawl, a. (rhagwyneb) Tending to come forward, forthcoming.
Rhagwynebiad, s. m. (rhagwyneb) A coming before, a coming forward.
Rhagwynebu, v. a. (rhagwyneb) To come before.
Rhagwys, s. f.—pl. t. iau (gwys) A previous summons; a premonition, a forewarning.

Rhyddug—
Y rhagwys o Loegrwys lin
Y rhag bron y brenin.

He brought the forewarning of the Loegrian race to the king's presence. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhagwysiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagwys) A previously citing; a forewarning.
Rhagwysiaw, v. a. (rhagwys) To cite previously.
Rhagwysiawl, a. (rhagwys) Premonitory.
Rhagyma, adv. (yma) Henceforth; hence.
Rhagymadrawdd, s. m.—pl. rhagymadroddion (ymadrawdd) A prolegomena, a preface.
Rhagymadroddawl, a. (rhagymadrawdd) Prefatory
Rhagymadroddi, v. a. (rhagymadrawdd) To make a preface, or introduction.
Rhagymadroddwr, s. m.—pl. rhagymadroddwyr (rhagymadrawdd—gwr) A prefacer.
Rhagymddwyn, s. m. (ymddwyn) A prolepsis.
Rhagymegnïad, s. m. (ymegnïad) A previous exertion of one's self.
Rhagymegnïaw, v. a. (ymegnïaw) To exert one's self beforehand.
Rhagymegnïawl, a. (ymegnïawl) Previously exerting one's self.
Rhagymgadw, v. a. (ymgadw) To refrain previously; to keep one's self beforehand.
Rhagymgais, s. f. (ymgais) A previous attempt.
Rhagymgeisiad, s. m. (rhagymgais) A previously attempting or trying.
Rhagymgeisiaw, v. a. (rhagymgais) To attempt before; to exert one's self beforehand.
Rhagymgeisiawl, a. (rhagymgais) Previously attempting, trying or seeking.
Rhagymgodawl, a. (ymgodawl) Previously rising.
Rhagymgodi, v. a. (ymgodi) To raise one's self beforehand.
Rhagymgodiad, s. m. (ymgodiad) A previously raising one's self.
Rhagymgudd, s. m. (ymgudd) A previous hiding of one's self.
Rhagymguddiad, s. m. (rhagymgudd) A previously hiding one's self.
Rhagymguddiaw, v. a. (rhagymgudd) To hide one's self previously.
Rhagymguddiawl, a. (rhagymgudd) Previously hiding one's self.

Rhagymgymeryd, v. a. (ymgymeryd) To take one's self beforehand.
Rhagymgyrch, s. m. (ymgyrch) A previous resort.
Rhagymgyrchawl, a. (rhagymgyrch) Previously resorting mutually.
Rhagymgyrchiad, s. m. (rhagymgyrch) A previously resorting mutually.
Rhagymgyrchu, v. a. (rhagymgyrch) To resort beforehand mutually.
Rhagymladd, v. a. (ymladd) To fight before.
Rhagymladdawl, a. (rhagymladd) Fore-fighting.
Rhagymladdiad, s. m. (rhagymladd) A fighting before.
Rhagymlid, v. a. (ymlid) To pursue before.
Rhagymlidiad, s. m. (rhagymlid) A previously pursuing, or following.
Rhagymlidiawl, a. (rhagymlid) Fore-pursuing.
Rhagymorchest, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ymorchest) A previous exertion of one's self.
Rhagymorchestawl, a. (rhagymorchest) Tending to previous exertion of one's self.
Rhagymorchestiad, s. m. (rhagymorchest) A previously exerting of one's self.
Rhagymorchestu, v. a. (rhagymorchest) To exert one's self beforehand.
Rhagymrith, s. m. (ymrith) A previous appearance
Rhagymrithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhagymrith) A previously appearing.
Rhagymrithiaw, v. a. (rhagymrith) To appear beforehand.
Rhagymrithiawl, a. (rhagymrith) Tending to appear beforehand.
Rhagymroddawl, a. (ymroddawl) Tending to become previously resigned.
Rhagymroddi, v. a. (ymroddi) To resign one's self beforehand, to become previously resigned.
Rhagymroddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhoddiad) A previously resigning one's self.
Rhagymrwymaw, v. a. (ymrwymaw) To become bound beforehand; to fore bind one's self.
Rhagymrwymawl, a. (ymrwymawl) Tending to become previously bound.
Rhagymrwymiad, s. m. (ymrwymiad) A becoming previously bound.
Rhagyna, adv. (yna) Thenceforth, thenceforward.
Rhagyno, adv. (yno) Thenceforth, from that point of place or time forward.
Rhagynys, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ynys) An adjacent or neighbouring island.

Tair rhagynys tir Gwynedd.
The three adjacent isles of the land of Gwynedd.
L. G. Cathi.

Rhagyrwedd, s. f. (gyr—gwedd) A forbidding aspect; a threatening.

A ganwyf i'm rhwyf o'm rhagwedd,
Rhagor na'm rhad, na'm rhagyrwedd.—

What I may sing to my chief from my reception, more than my favour, than my threatening.— Cynddelw.

Rhagysbys, a. (ysbys) Previously known.
Rhagysbysawl, a. (rhagysbys) Premonstrating.
Rhagysbysiad, s. m. (rhagysbys) A previously shewing or declaring; a premonishing.
Rhagysbysu, v. a. (rhagysbys) To make known beforehand; to premonish.
Rhagysgrif, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ysgrif) A prior writing; a prescript.
Rhagysgrifaw, v. a. (rhagysgrif) To write beforehand; to write for, to prescribe.
Rhagysgrifawl, a. (rhagysgrif) Belonging to an original writing.
Rhagysgrifen, s. f. (rhagysgrif) A prior writing; an original writing.

Rhagysgrifenedig, a. (rhagysgrifen) Being previously written.

Rhagysgrifeniad, s. m. (rhagysgrifen) A writing beforehand.

Rhagysgrifenu, v. a. (rhagysgrifen) To write beforehand.

Rhagysgrifiad, s. m. (rhagysgrif) A previously writing.

Rhagysgythrawl, a. (ysgythrawl) Fore-lopping.

Rhagysgythriad, s. m. (ysgythriad) A previously lopping.

Rhagysgythru, v. a. (ysgythru) To lop before.

Rhagystafell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ystafell) An antechamber.

Rhagystawd, s. f.—pl. rhagystodion (ystawd) A prior layer; a foremost layer.

Rhagystodawl, a. (rhagystawd) Belonging to a foremost layer.

Rhagystodi, v. a. (rhagystawd) To form a prior layer; to put a forward layer.

Rhagystodiad, s. m. (rhagystawd) A putting a previous layer; to put a foremost layer.

Rhagystum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ystum) A prior bend or form.

Rhagystumiad, s. m. (rhagystum) A previously bending or forming.

Rhagystumiaw, v. a. (rhagystum) To mould into form beforehand.

Rhagystumiawl, a. (rhagystum) Belonging to previous formation.

Rhagystyr, s. m. (ystyr) A first idea; forethought.

Rhagystyriad, s. m. (rhagystyr) A considering beforehand, precogitation.

Rhagystyriaw, v. a. (rhagystyr) To precogitate.

Rhagystyriawl, a. (rhagystyr) Precogitating.

Rhagystyried, v. a. (rhagystyr) To precogitate.

Rhagystyriedig, a. (rhagystyriad) Being previously considered.

Rhagystyriwr, s. m.—pl. rhagystyriwyr (rhagystyr—gwr) One who precogitates.

Rhai, s. pl. aggr. (rha) Such as be separate or standing forward; a few, some. Dyro i mi rai, give some to me; rhyw rai, some ones, some persons.

> Pe caffai pawb a fynai,
> Ni byddai hiraethawg neb rhai.
>
> If every body could obtain what he wished, not any would be longing. Adage.
>
> Rhan o bob addysg, rhai 'n bibyddion,
> Weithiau rhai ereill yn grythorion,
> Ereill yn delynorion wyl uchel,
> Rhai a a lle'dd el, ereill a ddon'.
>
> A little of every lore, some being pipers, now and then some others being crowders, others being harpers on the high festival, some go where he goes, others come. L. G. Cothi.

Rhaiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhai) A radiation.

Rhaiadawl, a. (rhaiad) Radiating, radiant.

Rhaiadr, s. m.—pl. rheieidr (rhaiad) A spout or stream of falling water, a cataract.

> Rhed drwy'r main rheieidr mellt.
>
> There will pervade the rocks cataracts of lightening. Gro. Owain.
>
> A rhaiadr o win yn nghylch rhiau
> Hydyr, mywn aur a gwydr muner gwawdau.
>
> And a cataract of wine surrounding chiefs of intrepidity, in the gold and glass of the exciter of eulogies. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Rhaiadrawl, a. (rhaiadr) Tending to spout forward as a cataract.

Rhaiadriad, s. m. (rhaiadr) A spouting forward as a cataract.

Rhaiadru, v. n. (rhaiadr) To spout out, to flow or to stream in a cataract.

Rhaiadu, v. n. (rhaiad) To radiate, to gleam.

Rhaib, s. f.—pl. rheibiau (rha—ib) A seizing or catching in the clutches, a snatch; a greediness, or voracity; a bewitching. Rhaib yr angeu, gwanc yr angeu, newyn y pridd, a craving appetite sometimes attending the mortal turn of a disease.

Rhaid, s. m.—pl. rheidiau (rha—id) An impetus; need, necessity. Rheidion, necessaries.

> Gosgordd Mynyddawg, eurawg yn rhaid,
> Gwerth eu gwledd o fedd fu eu heneid.
>
> The retinue of Mynyddog, abounding with gold in necessity, the price of their feast of mead were their souls. Aneurin.
>
> Unben ni'th elwir yn nydd rhaid:
> Och, Cynddilig, na buost wraig!
>
> A leader, thou wilt not be called in the day of trial: Oh, Cynddilig, that thou wert not a woman! Llywarch Hen.
>
> Troi rhaid yn rhinwedd.
>
> To make a virtue of necessity. Adage.

Rhaid, a. (rha—id) Needful, necessary. Rheitiach fyddai i ti gadw dy arian, more necessary would it be for thee to keep thy money; mae yn rhaid i hyny fod, it is necessary for that to be.

> Tri amser celfyddyd; pan fo iawn, pan fo hardd, a phan fo raid.
>
> The three times of an art: when it is proper, when it is well-seeming, and when it is necessary. Barddas.

Rhaid, adv. (rha—id) It is necessary. Rhaid imi fod yno, I must be there: A raid i tithau? must thou likewise? na raid, it is not necessary.

> Nid rhaid i ddedwydd ond ei eni.
>
> The prudent has no occasion but to be born. Adage.
>
> Nid rhaid dodi cloch am fwnwgl yr ynfyd.
>
> It is not necessary to put a bell round the neck of a fool. Adage.
>
> Nid rhaid dangaws diried i gwn.
>
> It is not necessary to point the mischievous to the dogs. Adage.

Rhaidd, s. f.—pl. rheiddiau (rha—idd) A ray; what is cast forward; spear. Rhaidd ysgyrion, a shivered lance.

Rhaien, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhai) A ray, the ray-fish.

Rhail, s. f.—pl. rheilion (rha—il) That divides, or parts off; that is divided; a rail; a paddle-staff, a paddle. Cad-rail, a war fence. There is a dike of this kind, still called the Cat Rail, crossing the south-east of Scotland, in a north-east direction, from the borders of Northumberland to Gala Shiels in Selkirshire.

Rhain, s. pl. aggr. (rha—in) Lances, spears.

> Nid ysgafael i neb ddwyn biw moel;
> Cyd ceglwch rhag gwyr rhain rhuddion.
>
> Is it not fair prey for any one to take a bald cow; support each other against them with ruddy spears. Taliesin.

Rhain, a. (rha—in) Having a tendency to run forward or to pervade.

Rhaint, s. m. (rhain) That runs through.

Rhaith, s. f.—pl. rheithiau (rha—ith) That is straight forward, right, or just; that is set right; decision, verdict; right; law; a jury. Rhaith gwlad, the law or voice of the country.

> Rhaith gwlad yw llw dengwyr a deugaint o wyr tirlawg dan y brenin.
>
> The jury of a country is the oath of fifty men, of those who hold land under the king. Welsh Laws.
>
> Pen rhaith yw Duw.
>
> God is supreme arbiter. Dr. S. Cent.

Rhal, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rha) A particular, a specific part; a characteristic. Dyn o ral rhyfedd wyd ti, thou art a person of an odd disposition. Sil.

> Hyd yr amser, yn mhob rhal,
> Y pery'r dial creulawn,
> O flynyddau ar Brydain ber,
> Yw dwy a hanner inlawn.
>
> The length of the time, in every particular, that the cruel vengeance shall continue, of years over Britain fraught with sweets, are exactly two and a half. H. William o Ploenau Gwent.

Rhaledd, s. m. (rhal) Particularity; characteristic

Rhaliad, s. m. (rhal) A characterizing.

Rhalu, v. a. (rhal) To characterize; to form a trait of disposition.

Rham, s. m. (rha—am) A rise over, a reach over or beyond.

Rhamant, s. f.—pl. t. au (rham) A rising up, an extending over, a vaulting, or springing; an omen, sign, or token of future events; a figurative expression; a romance. a. Rising boldly.

> Mae'n rhamant fy moliant mau.
>
> My praise is of a tendency to exalt. G. Ll. ab D. ab Einion.
>
> Gwiw iddi rhwymais gywyddau rhamant.
>
> Excellently have I combined highly-aspiring odes to her. D. ab Edmwnt.

Rhamanta, v. a. (rhamant) To rise or extend over; to reach to a distance; to dive into futurity; to divine, to observe by omens; to romance; to allegorize.

> Oer i'm yw'r barug, a'r ia,
> A'r mentyll, i ramanta.
>
> The hoar and the ice and the mantling clouds are chilling for me to be flowery in speech. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhamantawl, a. (rhamant) Of a soaring tendency; hyperbolical; romantic.

Rhamantedd, s. m. (rhamant) A state of soaring; figurative language.

Rhamantiad, s. m. (rhamant) A soaring; the using figurative language; a romancing.

Rhamantu, v. a. (rhamant) To use high-flown language; to speak in a romantic style.

Rhamantus, a. (rhamant) Highly soaring; romantic; hyperbolical; portentous.

Rhamantwr, s. m.—pl. rhamantwyr (rhamant—gwr) One who speaks in a figurative style.

Rhamiad, s. m. (rham) A rising over, a reaching over or beyond; a soaring.

Rhamp, s. m. (rham) A running or reaching out.

Rhamu, v. a. (rham) To rise over, to reach over or beyond; to soar, to vault.

Rhan, s. f.—pl. t. au (rha) A part, share, or portion; division. O ym rhan i, on my part; o ran nad elli, because thou canst not.

> Drycai pob anmhwyll ei ran.
>
> Every indiscretion spoils its part. Adage.
>
> Drycid anmhwyll ei ran.
>
> The indiscreet doth mar his share. Adage.

Rhan, adv. (rha) On the part of, in respect, on account of; because. Rhan hyny, serch hyny, in respect of that.

Rhanadwy, a. (rhan) Capable of being shared.

Rhanawg, a. (rhan) Having a share, or participating; being divided, or parted. s. m. One who shares, a participator.

Rhanawl, a. (rhan) Sharing, parting, or dividing.

Rhanc, s. m. (rha—anc) Desire, craving, want; appetite; voracity. a. Content, satisfactory.

> Dywawd y cawr, da yw y gwaith; rhanc bodd yw genyf.
>
> The giant said, the deed is good; it is content of mind to me. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.
>
> Rhanc fu gan bawb onaddynt gynghor Gwrlais.
>
> Satisfactory to all of them was the advice of Gwrlais. Brut y Breninoedd.
>
> A maint rhanc y grafanc grin.
>
> With all the greede of the niggard hand. D. ab Gwilym, i'r fran.

Rhancawl, a. (rhanc) Craving, or wanting.

Rhancbodd, s. m. (rhanc—bodd) Content, satisfaction, pleasure.

> O arlwyddes ddaionus, pa bynag pwy wyd, mi adolygaf i ti yn yddyf, os gelly fod yn rhancbodd genyd, fy helpu allan o'r gors halawg hon!
>
> Oh, beneficent lady, whosoever thou art, I humbly intreat thee, if it can be a pleasure to thee, to help me out of this noxious slough! Marchawg Crwydrad.

Rhancboddawl, a. (rhancbodd) Tending to give contentment or pleasure; satisfactory.

Rhancboddiad, s. m. (rhancbodd) A yielding satisfaction of mind.

Rhancboddiaeth, s. m. (rhancbodd) Satisfaction of mind; enjoyment, pleasure.

> Yr holl rancboddiaeth hyny, myfi a'i parodiaf i ti, a miloedd rhagor hefyd, eb yr arlwyddes Gwaeider.
>
> The whole of that enjoyment, I will prepare it for thee, and thousands beside likewise, said the lady Frailty. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Rhancboddiaw, v. a. (rhancbodd) To yield satisfaction of mind or contentment; to please.

Rhanciad, s. m. (rhanc) A craving, a wanting.

Rhancu, v. a. (rhanc) To crave, or to want.

Rhandir, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (rhan—tir) A portion of land; an inheritance; a shareland; a certain quantity of land. +

> Cabla dy fro dda i'n gwydd ni,
> A'th randir, a thro yndi.
>
> Run down thy good country in our presence, and thy inheritance, and turn thyself therein. L. G. Cothi.
>
> Pedair rhandir yn mhob gafael; pedair gafael yn mhob tref.
>
> Four sharelands in every tenement: four tenements in every hamlet. Welsh Laws.

Rhandwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhan—twy) A dividend, a portion, or allotment.

Rhandy, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan--ty) A house-room, an apartment where a guest dwells.

Rhanedig, a. (rhan) Shared, parted, divided.

Rhanedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhanedig) Distribution, the act of sharing or dividing.

Rhanedigaethawl, a. (rhanedigaeth) Distributive.

Rhanedigawl, a. (rhanedig) Distributive.

Rhanedd, s. m. (rhan) The state of participating.

> Ni'm gwnel heb ranedd
> Moli'th drugaredd.
>
> It will not make me without a share, to praise thy mercy. Taliesin, Armes Dydd Brawd.

Rhangymerawl, a. (rhan—cymerawl) Participial.

Rhangymeriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan—cymeriad) A participle.

Rhangymeriadawl, a. (rhangymeriad) Participial.

Rhangymeryd, v. a. (rhan—cymeryd) To take in part, to take in allotment.

Rhaniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan) A parting, sharing, or dividing; partition, distribution.

Rhaniator, ger. (rhaniad) In dividing.

Rhaniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhaniad) A divisor.

Rhanitor, sup. (rhan) To be sharing.

Rhant, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhan) That separates.

Rhanu, v. a. (rhan) To part, to share, to divide, to distribute; to fix an allowance. Dylid rhanu arno, he ought to be allowanced.

> Na chryned llaw a rano i reidus.
>
> May the hand not tremble that distributes to the needy. Adage.
>
> Duw a ranodd
> Nef a gafodd.
>
> God did dispense, heaven he did obtain. Adage.
>
> Dyn a ran da yn ei raid;
> Duw a ran da i'r enaid.
>
> Man distributes a benefit according to his want; God distributes a benefit to the soul. Guto y Glyn.

Rhanwr, s. m.—pl. rhanwyr (rhan—gwr) A sharer, a distributer, an allotter.

> Lleiaf rhan rhan rhanwr.
>
> The least share the share of a sharer. Adage.

Rhang, s. f. (rha—ang) An over content.

Rhangawl, a. (rhang) Tending to fulfil.

Rhangiad, s. m. (rhang) A fulfilling, a pleasing.

Rhangu, v. a. (rhang) To render replete; to fulfil; to satisfy, to render content.

Y cleddyf a ddarfu ei wrtaith; a'i roddi a orug Cai yn llaw Wrnach Gawr, y malpai i edrych a rangei ei fodd.

The sword was put in order; and Cai gave it into the hand of Gwrnach the Giant, as if it were to see if it would answer his purpose. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Can rhangawdd bodd yr Arglwydd ei bobl dda ddwyd.

For the will of the Lord was fulfilled by his good and prudent people. D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

Rhangus, a. (rhang) Tending to fulfil.

Rhangwr, s. m.—pl. rhangwyr (rhang—gwr) One who makes over-full; a fulfiller.

Rhasg, s. f. (rhy—asg) That is forcibly shaved off.

Rhasgl, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhasg) A slicer; a draw-knife, a tool used by carpenters.

Rhasgliad, s. m. (rhasgl) A slicing, a paring.

Rhasgliaw, v. a. (rhasgl) To cut with a slicer.

Rhasgliwr, s. m.—pl. rhasglwyr (rhasgl—gwr) One who slices.

Rhath, s. m.—pl. t. au (rha—ath) A smooth eminence, mound, or hill.

Y fedwen bardd—a ddaeth o'r rhath,
Nid oes ei bath yn bod.

The fair birch, which came from the hill, its like doth not exist. Gr. Morys.

Rhathawl, a. (rhath) Stripping; rubbing.

Rhathedig, a. (rhath) Stripped, rubbed, rasped.

Rhathell, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhath) A rasp.

Rhathelliad, s. m. (rhathell) A rasping, a grating

Rhathellu, v. a. (rhathell) To rasp, to grate.

Rhathiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhath) A making bare or plain; a stripping, a rubbing off.

Rhathu, v. a. (rhath) To make clear, bare, plain, or smooth; to rub off, to rub; to strip; to rasp, to grate. Rhathu plu, to strip feathers off; rhathu dail, to strip off leaves; rhathu croen, to strip off a skin. Sil.

Rhathu y croen oddiar gefn a'i dyco.

To strip the skin from the back of him that bears it. Adage.

Rhathwr, s. m.—pl. rhathwyr (rhath—gwr) One who makes bare, rubs, or strips off.

Rhau, s. f.—pl. rheuoedd (rha) A band, a chain. Cethern gaeth-rau, an infernal crew confined in chains.

Rhaw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rha) That collects together; a shovel. Rhaw dywarch, a paring shovel; rhaw fawn, a peat cutter.

Rhawaid, s. f.—pl. rhaweidiau (rhaw) A shovelfull; as much as a spade will hold.

Rhawbal, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhaw—pal) A kind of spade made all of one piece of wood, having the head rounded and edged with iron.

Rhawbalar, s. f. (rhawbal) A delving spade.

Rhawch, s. m. (rha—wch) That is imminent; that is extreme or urgent.

——Teyrnfeirdd, neus gwddawch,
Periglew glew a glywsawch,
Pair Prydain, pryd nad oedd rawch.

Royal bards, do you not know; you heard of extreme unction administered to a hero, the chief of Britain, when it was not seasonable. Ll. P. Moch, m. G. ab C. ab Owain.

Rhawd, s. f.—pl. rhodion (rha—wd) A way, course, or race; a rout. Rhawd o goed, a float or raft of trees; rhawd o foch, a drove of pigs.

Can orfod cymmod o'm camweddau,
Cyn wyf rawd beddrawd ymhlith beddau,
Cyn dyfod chwerw gyfnod chwedlau,
Cyn adfant puchiant pechodau,
Duw a'm gad cariad y mywn caerau nef;
Duw a glyw fy llef ym llug frydiau.

By obtaining reconciliation for my iniquities, ere I am resorting the earthly course amongst the graves, ere the tide of bitter tales occur, ere the return of remorse for sins, may God in his love grant me the mansions of heaven; God will hear my voice for my lukewarm thoughts. Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Rhawden, s. f. dim. (rhawd) A footstep.

Rhawdd, s. m. (rha—wdd) That is clear or open.

Rhawel, s. m. (rhaw) That is clustered.

Rhawffon, s. f.—pl. rhawffyn (rhaw—ffon) A shovel-handle.

Rhawg, adv. (yrhawg) For a long while.

Rhwydd fydd rhawg, dyledawg les,
Ai caffo hi mewn cyffes.

At liberty for a long while, a meritorious good, will he be who obtains it in confession. I. ab R. ab I. Llwyd, i Offeren.

Fy wyneb, am ddyn fanwallt,
Ni bydd y rhawg heb ddwr hallt.

My face, on account of the fair one with fine hair, it will not be for a long time without salt tears. Bedo Brwynllys.

Rhawiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaw) A shovelling.

Rhawiaw, v. a. (rhaw) To throw with a shovel.

Rhawiwr, s. m. (rhaw—gwr) A shoveller.

Rhawlech, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhaw—llech) A slice, or shovel.

Rhawn, s. m. aggr. (rhy—awn) The long or coarse hair of beasts, the hair of a horse's tail. Telyn rawn, a harp strung with hair; rhaff rawn, a hair rope; carthen rawn, a hair cloth; rhawn a bogel, a line and plummet; rhawn yr ebawl, colt's tail, stonewort; rhawn y gaseg, mare's tail; rhawn y march, horse-tail.

Rhawnawg, a. (rhawn) Having long hair.

Rhawngoch, a. (rhawn—coch) Having red hair. Y rhawngoch, y rhonellgoch, the redstard.

Rhawni, v. n. (rhawn) To grow into long hair.

Rhawniad, s. m. (rhawn) A growing of long hair.

Rhawnt, s. m. (rhawn) Vigour, spirit, vivacity.

Yn llawen rhull, yn llawn rhawnt.

Exuberantly merry, full of spirit. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhawnyn, s. m. dim. (rhawn) A coarse hair.

Rhawol, s. m. (rhaw) A cluster, or a bunch.

Rhawr, s. f.—pl. rhorau (gawr) A roar, as of the sea or a cataract.

Rhawter, s. f. (rhawd) A multitude in motion.

Rhawtiad, s. m. (rhawd) A hurrying onward.

Rhawtiaw, v. a. (rhawd) To proceed onward in a hurrying manner; to rout.

Rhawtiawl, a. (rhawd) Hurrying; routing.

Rhawtiwr, s. m.—pl. rhawtwyr (rhawd—gwr) One who hurries forward.

Rhawth, s. m. (rha—wth) Greediness. a. Greedy

Yr oedd efe yn bwyta yn rhawth rhag maint ei newyn.

He was eating greedily from the greatness of his hunger. Hanes Geraint.

RHE, s. f. r.—pl. t. on: A swift motion, a run. a. Fleet, speedy; active.

A'm rhoddes meirch rhe,
Rhewydd a danaf,

He bestowed on me fleet steeds, neighing under me. Taliesin.

Oedd re redaint dan forddwyd Geraint,
Garhirion.——

There were swift runners under the thigh of Geraint, with long shanks. Llywarch Hen.

Byddai re y rhuthrwn i waew.

I was active in thrusting a spear. Llywarch Hen.

Rhëad, s. f. (rhe) A running, a currency.

Rhëadawl, a. (rhead) Running, current.

Rhëadu, v. a. (rhëad) To cause a running.

Rhëan, s. f. (rhe) That runs; a streamlet.

Rhëawd, s. f. (rhe) The act or faculty of running

Rhëawdr, s. m.—pl. rhëodron (rhëawd) That performs a race or course.

Yn myw Rhun rhëawdr dyhedd.

In the lifetime of Rhun the runner of a course of peace.

Rhëawl, a. (rhe) Running, or current.

Rheb, s. m. (rhe—eb) A run by, a going off.

Rhebydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rheb) That takes away or destroys; a destroyer, a desolator.

Dygogladd gwenyg gwyn Gyngreawdr Fynydd
Morfa Rhianedd, Maelgwn rebydd.

The waves lave about the white Cyngreawdyr Mountain of Morva Rhianedd, the destruction of Maelgwn. Gwalchmai.

Ni thycia rybudd, hael rebydd, rhacdaw.

Warning is of no avail against him, the generous spoiler. Llygad Gwr.

Gwelais rhag Owain Eingl en haddoed,
Ac o du Rhibyll rebydd yn ngraid.

I saw before Owain the Angles meet their fate, and by the side of the Rhibyll the destroyer arrayed in fierceness. Gwalchmai.

Rhecawd, s. m.—pl. rhecodau (rheg) That is hackneyed or over-used.
Rheciad, s. m. (rheg) A hackneying, or abusing.
Reciain, v. a. (rheg) To make frequent use of a thing, to overwork.
Rheciaw, v. a. (rheg) To use much, to hackney.
Rheciwr, s. m. (rheg—gwr) A hackneyer.
Rhech, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhy—ech) A forcible breaking out; a report; a fart.
Rhechain, v. a. (rhech) To make report; to fart.
Rhechawl, a. (rhech) Breaking wind.
Rhechdor, s. m.—pl. rhechdyr (rhach—tor) That forcibly breaks out or ravages.

Traethaf, canmolaf canmil gwyr ysgwn,
Hawdd esgyn eu heryr;
Calchdoed saith rifed syr,
Cylch fy rhwyf yn ei rechdyr.

I will record, I will celebrate a hundred thousand aspiring men, whose eagle freely soars; glittering mails seven times the stars outnumbering surround my chief in his irruptions. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Gwrawl hawl hwysgynt hynt hirlidiawg,
A'i rechdyr, a'i wyr, wynt waredawg.

A manly pursuit they followed through a long wrathful course; his irruptions with his men they were humane. Llygad Gwr, i L. ab G. ab Madawg.

Rhechdyr Croesoswallt cryslassant am ddraig.

The devastators of Croesoswallt they have hastened round the chief. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhechiad, s. m. (rhech) A breaking wind.
Rhechlyd, a. (rhech) Apt to be breaking wind.
Rhechwr, s. m.—pl. rhechwyr (rhech—gwr) One who breaks wind.
Rhed, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhe—ed) A course, a race
Rhedadwy, a. (rhed) Capable of running.
Rhedain, v. a. (rhed) To run continually.
Rhedain, a. (rhed) Running; fleet, swift.

Rhedain gorwydd, rhwydd pob traeth.

Swift the steed, open every strand. Llefoed.

Rhedant, s. m.—pl. rhedaint (rhed) A courser.

Bid fuan redaint.

Be swift the racers. Llywarch Hen.

Oedd re redaint dan forddwyd Geraint.

There were fleet runners under the thigh of Geraint. Llywarch Hen.

Rhedator, ger. (rhed) In running, in coursing.
Rhedawl, a. (rhed) Current; running, racing. Rhedolion, wanderers, or strayers.
Rhedawr, s. m.—pl. rhedorion (rhed) A runner.
Rhededig, a. (rhed) Being made to run.
Rhedeg, s. m. (rhed) A course, a run, a race. a. Running.

Nid ar redeg y mae aredig.

Not upon the run is ploughing to be done. Adage.

Rhedeg, v. a. (rhed) To perform a course, to run; to race, to run a race.
Rhedegai, s. c. (rhedeg) One that runs, a racer.
Rhedegain, v. a. (rhedeg) To run continually.
Rhedegal, s. m. (rhedeg) Running matter. Rhedegal y derw, rhedegawg y derw, tree lichen.
Rhedegawd, s. m. (rhedeg) The act of running.
Rhedegawg, a. (rhedeg) Running, current. Rhedegawg y derw, tree lichen, or liverwort.
Rhedegdwys, a. (rhedeg—twys) Being led on a running pace.
Rhedegfa, s. f.—pl. rhedegfëydd (rhedeg) A place of running, a course. Haul yn ei redegfa, the sun in his course.
Rhedegfan, s. f. (rhedeg—man) A race-course.
Rhedegfarch, s. m.—pl. rhedegfeirch (rhedeg—march) A running horse.
Rhedegfrys, a. (rhedeg—brys) Of quick haste.
Rhedegiad, s. m. (rhedeg) A running, a racing.
Rhedegwr, s. m.—pl. rhedegwyr (rhedeg—gwr) A man who runs, a runner.
Rhedegydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhedeg) A runner.
Rhedfa, s. f.—pl. rhedfëydd (rhed) A course.
Rhedfawr, a. (rhed) Apt to run much.

Rhedfawr gorwyddawr ar des.

Steeds are apt to run about much in hot weather. Tysilio.

Rhedgun, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhed—cun) A wedge.
Rhediad, s. m. (rhed) A running; a currency.

Dyn rhydiar yn dwyn rhediad
Gormes ar lawes y wlad.

An impertinent fellow taking a range of intrusion on the skirt of the country. Ieh. ab. D. Llwyd, i Ringyll.

Rhediannawl, a. (rhediant) Current, running.
Rhediannu, v. a. (rhediant) To give currency.
Rhediant, s. m. (rhed) A currency, a course.
Rhediedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhediad) A racer.
Rhediter, sup. (rhed) To be running.
Rhedle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhed—lle) A place for running, a course.

Ger llaw gwyr las gyrau llawn,
Rhedle y dyfroedd rhadlawn—
Rhodiais.

By the purple borders that were replete, the course of grateful waters, I did range. Dr. S. Cent.

Rhednwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhed—nwyf) A smuggled commodity.
Rhedu, v. a. (rhed) To run, to race, to course.

Nid a red a geiff y bedd.

It will not be him that runs who will get the benefit. Adage.

I bant y rhed y dwfr.

The water will run to the hollow. Adage.

Rhedus, a. (rhed) Apt to run about, straying.

Calonig beirdd byd bachedd rhedusion.

The portion of the bards of the world is the life of wanderers. Cynddelw.

Rhedusaw, v. a. (rhedus) To render straying; to become vagrant; to be of strolling habit.
Rhedusiad, s. m.—pl. rhedusiaid (rhedus) A wanderer, a strayer, or a stroller.
Rhedwas, s. m.—pl. rhedweision (rhed—gwas) A running-footman.
Rhedweli, s. f.—pl. t. on (rhed—gweli) An artery
Rhedwelïawg, a. (rhedweli) Having arteries.
Rhedwelïawl, a. (rhedweli) Arterial.
Rhedwr, s. m.—pl. rhedwyr (rhed—gwr) A man who runs; a runner.
Rhedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhed) A runner.
Rhedyn, s. pl. aggr. (rhed) Fern. Rhedyn y cadnaw, marchredyn gwryw, male fern; rhedyn benyw, female shield-fern; rhedyn y derw, or llawredynen, and rhedyn y fagwyr, common polypody; rhedyn y clogwyn, or rhedyn y graig, forked spleenwort; rhedyn cyfrdwy, osmund royal; rhedyn eryraidd, or adain redyn, brakes; rhedyn gwib, rough spleenwort; rhedyn mair, heath shield-fern: rhedyn gogofau, common scaly spleenwort; marchredyn, wall-fern.

Byddai well genyf fyw ar y mynydd, a bwyta gwraidd rhedyn nog ymostwng iddynt.

I would rather live on the mountain, and eat the roots of fern, than submit to them. Adage.

Rhedyna, v. a. (rhedyn) To gather fern.
Rhedynach, s. m. dim. (rhedyn) Filmy leaved fern
Rhedynaidd, a. (rhedyn) Of the nature of fern.
Rhedynawg, a. (rhedyn) Abounding with fern. s. f. A place where fern grows.
Rhedyndir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhedyn—tir) Fern land; or land overgrown with fern.
Rhedyneg, s. f. (rhedyn) A fern brake.
Rhedynen, s. f. dim. (rhedyn) A single fern.
Rhedyniach, s. pl. dim. (rhedyn) Small fern.
Rhedynllwyn, s. m. (rhedyn—llwyn) A fern brake

Ydd wyf yn dobyg i'w ddwyn
I danllwyth mewn rhedynllwyn.

Carrying that round me, I am like a blaze in a fern-brake. I. Du y Bilwg i'r Gwn Coch.

Rhedynos, s. pl. dim. (rhedyn) A fern-brake.

Ymchwelynt ar ffo, gan ymddirgelu ac ymguddiaw yn ngogofau, a llwynau, a rhedynosydd, ac elltydd, a diffwynau, a chorsydd, a dyryswch, a cheryg, ac yn mhob rhyw leoedd ereill.

The returned on retreat, with secreting themselves and hiding themselves in caves, and groves, and fern-brakes, and cliffs, and steeps, and bogs, and wilds, and stones, and in every other place of the kind. Buch. G. ab Cynan.

Rhedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—edd) A joint.
Rheddawl, a. (rhedd) Being separated or jointed.
Rheddedig, a. (rhedd) Being separate or jointed.
Rheddiad, s. m. (rhedd) A jointing; articulation.
Rheddu, v. a. (rhedd) To open by a joint.
Rheen, s. m. (rhe—en) A pervading principle; an epithet for the supreme being; the Lord.

Awch rhoddaf arawd orawen gyffes:
Awch rhoddes awch rheen
Wrth awch bodd awch bod yn llawen;
Wrth awch bryd awch braint o Feigen.

To you I dedicate an oration of ingenuous confidence: To you your Lord has granted with contentment of mind that you should be glad; according to your desire your privilege from Meigen. Cynddelw, Gwel. Powys.

Rhef, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhe—ef) That is collected together, or thick; a bundle. a. Bundled; thick. Cyfrefed ag y myno, as thick as he pleases.

Ys dir lladd y llafn wrth refed y troed.

It is certain the blade will cut from the handle being so thick. Adage.

Rhefawg, a. (rhef) Binding or encompassing. s. f. That binds or contains; a binder, a bandage

Nyddu pedair gwialen, a gwneuthur pedair rhefawg i rwymaw Oliver a orugynt.

The twisting of four rods, and making four bandages to bind Oliver was what they did. H. Car. Mag.—Mabinogion.

Rhefawl, a. (rhef) Thickening, aggregating.
Rhefder, s. m. (rhef) Bigness about, thickness.
Rhefdra, s. m. (rhef) Thickness, an aggregate.
Rhefedd, s. m. (rhef) Thickness.
Rhefiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhef) A thickening.
Rhefiannawl, a. (rhefiant) Of a tendency to thicken in compass.
Rhefiannu, v. a. (rhefiant) To render thick in compass.
Rhefiannus, a. (rhefiant) Tending to render or to become thick round.
Rhefiant, s. m. (rhef) Thickness or bigness.
Rhefl, s. m. (rhef) That tends to grow thick.
Rheflawg, a. (rhefl) Being grown thick or full; blubbering.
Rheflu, v. a. (rhefl) To grow thick or blubbering.
Rhefr, s. f.—pl. rhefrau (rhef) The gut of the fundament, the anus. Rhefr medel, the last of a company of reapers.
Rhefrawg, a. (rhefr) Having a large fundament.
Rhefrawl, a. (rhefr) Belonging to the anus.
Rhefrrwth, a. (rhefr—rhwth) Loose in the anus.
Rhefrrwym, s. m. (rhefr—rhwym) Costiveness.
Rhefrrwymaw, v. a. (rhefrrwym) To render costive; to become costive.
Rhefrrwymawl, a. (rhefrrwym) Costive.
Rhefrrwymiad, s. m. (rhefrrwym) A rendering costive; a becoming costive.
Rhefrrwymus, a. (rhefrrwym) Being costive.
Rhefu, v. a. (rhef) To thicken in compass.
Rheffyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (rhaff) A small rope.
Rheffynawl, a. (rheffyn) Relating to cording.
Rheffyniad, s. m. (rheffyn) A cording, a tying with a rope.
Rheffynu, v. a. (rheffyn) To tie with a rope.
Rheffynwr, s. m.—pl. rheffynwyr (rheffyn—gwr) A corder; one who uses a rope.
Rheg, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhe—eg) A sending out, or utterance; a present, a gift; a giving up, or consigning; a ban, a curse, or imprecation.

——Caraf canu canred,
Can a'm rhoddes fy rheen reg eidduned.

I love to sing of the redemption, as thus my God has conferred a longed-for gift. Llywelyn Fardd.

Marw fyddafi o'r clefyd hwn, a gwraig arall a fyni dithau; a rheg dofydd ynt y gwreigedd weithon.

I shall be dead of this disease, and then another wife wilt thou take; and the blessing of the Lord are the women now. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Nid adwyth rheg ni haedder.

A curse that is not deserved will do no harm. Adage.

Rhegadwy, a. (rheg) Capable of being given.
Rhegain, v. a. (rheg) To be sending out a murmuring noise; to mutter, to whisper.

Ni ddaw henaint lwyd-haint loes
I regain byth i Regoes.

Age oppressed with hoary influence will never come to Rhegoes to make a muttering. Gronw Wiliam.

Rhegawl, a. (rheg) Consigning, giving; cursing.
Rheged, s. f. (rheg) Liberality, or bounty.

Dyw Iau——daliwyd yn ebrwydd
Gwir wared, ior rheged rhwydd,
Gwawr eurglod, ein gwir arglwydd.

On Thursday was apprehended suddenly the true ransom, the sovereign of free bounty, a glorious light, our true Lord. Gruffudd ab yr Ynad Coch.

Rhegedig, a. (rheg) Consigned, presented, cursed.
Rhegedd, s. m. (rheg) The state of being given up; a cursed state.
Rhegen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. od (rheg) A name for some birds of a screaking note. Rhegen yr yd, rhegen y rhych, sofliar, the crex, dakerhen, or quail; rhegen y dwfr, a water-ousel.

Ni thaw mwy no rhegen yn y rhych.

He will not be silent more than the quail in the furrow. Adage.

Rhegi, v. a. (rheg) To consign, to give up; to present; to curse, to imprecate.
Rhegiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rheg) A consigning, a giving up; a presenting; a cursing.
Rheglyd, a. (rheg) Apt to curse, cursing.
Rhegofydd, s. m. (rheg—ofydd) The shedder of gifts.
Rhegu, v. a. (rheg) To consign; to give; to present; to curse, to imprecate.
Rhegwr, s. m.—pl. rhegwyr (rheg—gwr) One who utters, gives, or consigns; a curser.
Rhegydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rheg) One who consigns or gives up; a presenter; a curser.

Rheiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhai) A radiating.
Rheian, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhai) A streak. Rheian las, a blue streak or weal.
Rheianawg, a. (rheian) Having streaks or weals.
Rheianawl, a. (rheian) Tending to streak.
Rheianu, v. a. (rheian) To streak, or to stripe.
Rheiaw, v. a. (rhai) To radiate; to gleam.
Rheiawg, a. (rhai) Abounding with radiation.

Dybu brenin Lloegr yn lluyddawg;
Cyd daeth ef nid aeth yn warthegawg:
Ni yn Eryri yn rheiawg.

The king of England came with a numerous host; though he came he did not return with spoil: We were gleaming in Eryri. Meilyr.

Rheiawl, a. (rhai) Darting, gleaming, shooting.
Rheiawr, s. m. (rhai) That darts or that gleams.

Crau cyrchynt, cynnullynt reiawr,
Yn cynan mal taran twrf aesawr.

Blood they sought, the gleamers assembled, tumultuous like thunder the din of shields. Aneurin.

Rheibes, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhaib) A witch.
Rheibiad, s. m. (rhaib) An overpowering; a forcing from; a fascination, a bewitching.
Rheibiadaeth, s. m. (rheibiad) Witchery.
Rheibiadu, v. a. (rheibiad) To overcome by invincible power; to fascinate.
Rheibiadus, a. (rheibiad) Fascinating, bewitching
Rheibiadwy, a. (rheibiad) Capable of being overcome or fascinated.
Rheibiaeth, s. m. (rhaib) Rapacity; witchery.
Rheibiannawl, a. (rheibiant) Fascinating.
Rheibiannu, v. a. (rheibiant) To fascinate.
Rheibiannus, a. (rheibiant) Fascinating.
Rheibiant, s. m. (rhaib) A forcibly possessing; fascination; a bewitching.
Rheibiator, ger. (rheibiad) In fascinating.
Rheibiaw, v. a. (rhaib) To snatch by force; to captivate, to fascinate, to bewitch.
Rheibiawg, a. (rhaib) Having a power; rapacious, fascinous, bewitching.
Rheibiawl, a. (rhaib) Forcing, overpowering; fascinating, bewitching.
Rheibiedig, a. (rheibiad) Being taken by force; fascinated, bewitched.
Rheibiedigaeth, s. m. (rheibiedig) Fascination.
Rheibiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rheibiad) One who forcibly captivates, a fascinator.
Rheibioldeb, s. m. (rheibiawl) The state of being captivated or fascinated.
Rheibioli, v. a. (rheibiawl) To render fascinating.
Rheibitor, sup. (rhaib) To be captivating.
Rheibiwr, s. m.—pl. rheibwyr (rhaib—gwr) A captivator, a fascinator.
Rheibog, s. f. (rhaib) The power of digestion.

A cholli rheibog aeth ei chylla 'n lludw.

And losing a power of digestion her stomach became as ashes. Madawg Dwygraig.

Rheibus, a. (rhaib) Rapacious; bewitching.

Rheibusaf un yn holl wlad Gymmru
Yw'r un deudroediawg a wyr lefaru.

The most rapacious one in the whole country of Wales is the one with two legs who is wont to harangue. Adage.

Rheibusaw, v. a. (rheibus) To become rapacious.
Rheibusrwydd, s. m. (rheibus) Rapaciousness.
Rheidedd, s. m. (rhaid) Necessity, or want.

Tori newyn tlawd bob tro,
A syched lle bo rheidedd.

Breaking the hunger of the poor at all times, and the want of drink where necessity exists. Slanc. S. Hywel.

Rheidgnawd, s. m. (rhaid—gnawd) A natural or habitual need.

Nid gair gau, ef goreu gwron——
Hyd warawd rheidgnawd rheidusion.

It is no false word, he is the most virtuous person, for relieving the habitual need of necessitous ones. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Rheidiad, s. m. (rhaid) A necessitating.
Rheidiannawl, a. (rheidiant) Necessitating.
Rheidiannu, v. a. (rheidiant) To necessitate.
Rheidiant, s. m. (rhaid) Necessity, or need.
Rheidiaw, v. a. (rhaid) To necessitate, to need.
Rheidiawg, a. (rhaid) Necessitous, necessary.
Rheidiawl, a. (rhaid) Necessary, needful.
Rheidiolaeth, s. m. (rheidiawl) Necessariness.
Rheidioldeb, s. m. (rheidiawl) Necessariness.

Tri chyfystyr doethineb; rheidioldeb, moddoldeb, a buddioldeb.

The three considerations of wisdom; necessity, means, and benefit. Catwg Ddoeth.

Rheidiolder, s. m. (rheidiawl) Necessariness.
Rheidioledd, s. m. (rheidiawl) Requisiteness.
Rheidioli, v. a. (rheidiawl) To render necessary.
Rheidiolrwydd, s. m. (rheidiawl) Necessariness.
Rheidrwydd, s. m. (rhaid) Necessity, or need.
Rheidus, a. (rhaid) Necessitous, needy. Rheidusion, needy ones, beggars.

Gwedi dawed Braint Hir i borth Hamwnt i dir, ef a gymerai wisg rheidus amdano, ac yn rhith anghenawl kerdded—ac ymgymysgu â rheidusion a orug, y rhai a oeddynt yn araws alusen yn mhorth llys y brenin.

After the coming of Braint to the port of Hamont to land, he put on a begger garb, and under the appearance of want he proceeded, and mixed with necessitous ones, the which were waiting for alms in the gate of the king's palace. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rheidusaidd, a. (rheidus) Somewhat needy.
Rheidusaw, v. a. (rheidus) To become necessitous.
Rheidusddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rheidus—dyn) A necessitous person.
Rheidusedd, s. m. (rheidus) Neediness, poverty.
Rheidusni, s. m. (rheidus) Neediness, poverty.
Rheidusrwydd, s. m. (rheidus) Necessitousness.
Rheidusyn, s. m. dim. (rheidus) A pauper.
Rheidwg, s. m. (rhaid) A necessary thing.
Rheidwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhaid) A voyage.

Gruffudd a esgynws ei long ac a ymchwelws o'i reidwy hyd yn Aber Menai.

Grufudd ascended his ship and returned from his expedition unto Aber Menai. Buch. Gr. ab Cynan.

Rheiddiad, s. m. (rhaidd) A casting rays.
Rheiddiaw, v. a. (rhaidd) To beam, to cast rays; to lance, or to cast a lance.

Ar bob rhai rheiddiai yn eur-rhoddawg.

Upon all he would beam with golden bounty. Meilyr.

Rheiddiawd, s. m. (rhaidd) A radiation; a lancing
Rheiddiawg, a. (rhaidd) Having rays; pervading, apt to cast forward; bearing a lance.

Rheiddiawg achenawg ar ffo.

The necessitous on flight is violently impelled. Adage.

Rheiddin a'm rhoddes Hywel
Rheiddiawg, feiniawg, fanawg fil;
Cefais gan dreth orddethol
Tarw teg Talgarth yn ngwarthal.

Freely did Hywel bestow on me a scattering, sleek, and spotted beast; I obtained as a choice contribution the fair bull of Talgarth in the yoke. Cynddelw, i H. ab Ieuaf.

Rheiddiawl, a. (rhaidd) Radiating; lancing.
Rheiddiawr, s. m. (rhaidd) That beams; lancer.
Rheiddin, a. (rhaidd) Tending to radiate or to dart; pervading; profuse.

Duw Dofydd dymrhydd reiddin awen ber,
Mal o bair Cyridwen.

God the supreme ruler on me bestows the ready melodious muse, as if from the cauldron of Cyridwen. Ll. P. Moch.

Rheiddlym, a. (rhaidd—llym) Sharp-lanced.
Rheiddrudd, a. (rhaidd—rhudd) Ruddy-lanced.

Rheiddun, s. m. (rhaidd) One who darts or throws forward; a profuse one, one who thrusts.

> Dy hil—
> O Faelgwn Gwynedd, gwinfaeth reiddun.

Thy descent is from Maelgwn Gwynedd, a wine-fostered profuse one. Gwalchmai.

Rheiddus, a. (rhaidd) Radiating, darting; pervasive; profuse, or lavish.

Rheiddwar, a. (rhaidd—gwar) Mildly profuse.

Rheiddyn, s. m. dim. (rhaidd) A dart, or glance.

Rheiniad, s. m.—pl. rheiniaid (rhain) A lancing.

> Bid las lluarth; bid diwarth eiriad;
> Bid rheiniad yn nghyfarth;
> Bid wraig ddrwg a mynych warth.

Let the camp be green; let the peacemaker be void of reproach; be there a spearing in the defile; be the bad woman bearing frequent shame. Llywarch Hen.

Rheiniaw, v. a. (rhain) To use a lance, to lance.

Rheiniawg, a. (rhain) Having a lance, lance-bearing. s. m. A spear-bearer.

> Er yfais i win o gawg,
> Ef a ragwan rhag rheiniawg:
> Esgyll gwawr oedd gwaewawr Dawg.

For what of wine I from a cup have drank, he would rush forward against the lance-bearer: the gleamings of the spear of Dawg were as the wings of the morning. Llywarch Hen.

Rheiniawl, a. (rhain) Lancing, or spearing.

Rheiniwr, s. m.—pl. rheiniwyr (rhain—gwr) A lancier; one who bears a lance.

Rheinydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhain) A lancier.

Rheithawr, s. m.—pl. rheithorion (rhaith) Rector

Rheitheg, s. f. (rhaith) Canon of speech.

Rheithfawr, a. (rhaith) Of great rectitude. Rheithforion, severely just ones.

> Dofydd ren reithfawr, gwawr gwir.

The Supreme Lord strictly just, light benign. Cynddelw.

Rheithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhaith) The act of setting right; regulation.

> Ni ddylai fod gair yn anmhur Gymmraeg, sef yn wrthwyneb i reithiad, ac iawnbwyll, ac anian, ac amcan.

There should not be a word of impure Welsh; that is, contrary to regulation, and just sense, and nature, and intention. Llywelyn o Langewydd.

Rheithiadawl, a. (rheithiad) Canonical.

Rheithiadu, v. a. (rheithiad) To establish a principle of right; to fix a canon or rule.

Rheithiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (rheithiad) A principle of regulation, a canon.

Rheithiadus, a. (rheithiad) Canonical, regular.

Rheithiaw, v. a. (rhaith) To set right, to establish as law; to appoint a jury.

Rheithiawg, a. (rhaith) Having an established rule, law, or canon; having a jury.

Rheithiawl, a. (rhaith) Established as a law.

Rheithiawr, s. m. (rhaith) A right principle.

Rheithioli, v. a. (rheithiawl) To render canonical

Rheithioreg, s. f. (rheithiawr) Rhetoric.

Rheithiwr, s. m. (rhaith) One who sets right, one who gives effect to law; one sworn to do right; a juryman, a juror.

> Llw rheithiwr yw bod yn debycaf gantho fod yn wir yr hyn a dyngo.

The oath of a juror implies that what he swears appears most likely to him to be true. Welsh Laws.

Rheithleu, s. m. (rhaith—lleu) The light of righteousness, the luminary of justice.

> Cyd rybwyf gan fy rhwyf, rwy gwna
> Rheen rheithleu rhau rad gyfa;
> Rhadlawn doeth rwyf cyfoeth coffa.

Whilst I shall have been with my director, amply may the Supreme Being, the light of justice to princes, perform a complete act of grace; may he regard the bountiful ruler of the realm.

Rheithwraig, s. f.—pl. rheithwreigedd (rhaith—gwraig) A jury-woman.

Rhel, s. m. (rhe) That is flagging or trailing.

Rhelyw, s. m. (rhel) What comes after; a trail; remainder; rest, or residue.

Rhem, s. m. (rhe—em) That is apt to run out to extreme; that projects out.

Rhemawg, a. (rhem) Having a protuberance.

Rhemeiniaw, v. a. (rhamant) To swagger.

> Mae efe yn myned i remeiniaw yno.

He is going there to be swaggering.

Rhemiad, s. m. (rhem) A running out, a swelling out; a projecting.

Rhemial, s. m. (rham) A confused talk; a muttering, a murmuring. v. a. To make a muttering noise.

> Pa remial, ar bob tailfainc,
> A gaid o'th god gyda'th gainc?

What muttering on every front form, is had from thy bag along with thy song? Sir Dafydd Trefor.

Rhemiala, v. a. (rhemial) To make a muttering.

Rhemialus, a. (rhemial) Muttering, babbling.

Rhemmwth, s. m. (rhemp) A gorbelly, a paunch.

Rhemmog, s. f. (rhemp) A swelling paunch.

Rhemp, s. f. (rhem) An extreme; an excess; that is notorious. Mae rhemp arno, he is under an infatuation. a. Bewitched, infatuated. Mae hi yn rhemp, she is bewitched, or notoriously bad.

> Canmawl rhemp fo'n ddawn.

Some eccentricity accompanies excellence. Adage.

Rhempiad, s. m. (rhemp) A running to extreme; a rendering notorious; a becoming notorious; infatuation; a bewitching.

Rhempian, v. a. (rhemp) To snatch up, to devour greedily. Ei rempian a wnant i gyd, they will snatch it all up.

Rhempiaw, v. a. (rhemp) To run to an extreme; to bewitch; to be infatuated.

Rhempiwr, s. m.—pl. rhempwyr (rhemp—gwr) One who snatches up; a gormandizer.

Rhempus, a. (rhemp) Notorious; infatuated.

Rhempusrwydd, s. m. (rhempus) Notoriousness; the state of being infatuated.

Rhen, s. m. (rhe—en) A pervading principle; an influence; the Eternal.

Rhenc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rheng) A row, a rank.

Rhenciad, s. m. (rhenc) A placing in a row.

Rhenciaw, v. a. (rhenc) To dispose in a row.

Rhenciedig, a. (rhenciad) Placed in a row.

Rhenciwr, s. m.—pl. rhenciwyr (rhenc—gwr) One who places in a row or rank.

Rhent, s. m.—pl. t. i (rhen) An influx; a coming in; an income: rent.

> Nid rhent ond diwydrwydd.

There is no income like industry. Adage.

> Gwawd yn Ngwent rent aroglau,
> Ac ymborth, a thorth, a thir o'r gorau.

The characteristic of Gwent is the produce of perfumes, and meat, and a loaf, and land of the best. Sypyn Cyfeiliawg.

> Gwr ni wyr groni arian;
> Ond y rhent yn dair rhan;
> Un i'w lys, a'i win o'i law,
> Wrth yr aelwyd i'w threuliaw;
> Yr ail i weiniad a rydd;
> At yr adail mae'r trydydd.

A man who knows not what it is to hoard money; for the income is in three portions; one for his hall, where the wine circulates from his hand, at the fire-side to be enjoyed; the second to the poor he gives; towards the building is the third. Gutto y Glyn.

Rhentawl, a. (rhent) Yielding a produce; belonging to income; belonging to rent.

Rhentiad, s. m. (rhent) A producing; a yielding an income; a renting.

Rhentu, v. a. (rhent) To produce, to get a produce; to have an income; to rent.

Rheng, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (rhe—eng) A row, a rank.

Rheng ddulas rhwng y ddwyfan.

A purple streak between the two banks. R. Ddu, i Alun.

Rhengiad, s. m. (rheng) A placing in a row.
Rhengiaw, v. a. (rheng) To set in a row, or rank.
Rhengiawl, a. (rheng) Running in rows.
Rhengiedig, a. (rhengiad) Being set in a row.
Rhengiwr, s. m.—pl. rhengiwyr (rheng—gwr) One who places in a row.
Rheodig, a. (rhëawd) Persevering on a course.

Dothyw i Ddewi, ddiffreidiad teg,
Rhys mawr, Mon wledig, reodig reg.

There came to Dewi, of fair protection, after a great career, the Sovereign of Mon, with a continuing gift. Gwyn. Brycheiniawg.

Rheol, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhe—ol) Rule, or order.

Goruchel Rhen, reol diffryd;
Goludawg arglwydd goleuad byd,
Gorpwyf, Greawdr nef, nerth y geryd,
Gobryd gwreled gwledd yn bedd ynyd!

The Most High Eternal, whose providence is a refuge; mighty Lord the light of the world, be there to me, Creator of heaven, strength from thee, in due time to see a feast in felicity without end! Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Pawb ol-yn-ol
Gwnaent trwy reol
Ran wyliau,
O nos i nos
Fal chwant aros
Cyfarosau.

Every body in succession would according to rule bear a part in vigils, from night to night, as if wishfully waiting for presents. Madawg ab Gwallter.

Rheolaidd, a. (rheol) Orderly, or regular.
Rheoledig, a. (rheol) Ordered, or regulated.
Rheoledigaeth, s. f. (rheoledig) Regulation.
Rheoleiddiad, s. m. (rheolaidd) A rendering regular; a becoming orderly or regular.
Rheoleiddiaw, v. a. (rheolaidd) To render orderly.
Rheoleiddrwydd, s. m. (rheolaidd) Canonicalness.
Rheoli, v. a. (rheol) To order, to rule, to sway.
Rheoliad, s. m. (rheol) An ordering, a directing.
Rheolus, a. (rheol) Orderly; easily ruled.
Rheolusedd, s. m. (rheolus) Orderliness.
Rheolusrwydd, s. m. (rheolus) Orderliness.
Rheolwr, s. m.—pl. rheolwyr (rheol—gwr) One who orders; a ruler, a conductor.
Rheonllys, s. m. (rhe—llys) Rhubarb.
Rhes, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhe—es) A row, or rank.
Rhesawl, a. (rhes) Belonging to a row or rank.
Rhesedig, a. (rhes) Being ranged or set in a row.
Rhesel, s. m.—pl. t. i (rhes) A rack, a grate.
Rheselawg, a. (rhesel) Having a rack or grate.
Rheseliad, s. m. (rhesel) A forming into a rack.
Rheselu, v. a. (rhesel) To form a rack or grate.
Rhesiad, s. m. (rhes) A placing in a row.
Rhesiaw, v. a. (rhes) To place in a row or rank.
Rhest, s. m. (rhes) What is set in parallel rows.
Rhestl, s. m.—pl. rhestlau (rhest) A rack.
Rhestog, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhest) Plaited mat.
Rhestr, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhest) Array, rank.
Rhestraidd, a. (rhestr) Partly ranged in rows.
Rhestrawg, a. (rhestr) Having rows or ranges; plaited, or matted; rowed, s. f. A plaited target, or buckler.
Rhestrawl, a. (rhestr) Ordinal; arrayed. Rhestrolion, ordinal numbers.
Rhestredig, a. (rhestr) Ranged or arrayed.
Rhestredigaeth, s. m. (rhestredig) Arrangement.
Rhestriad, s. m. (rhestr) A ranging; a marshalling.
Rhestrig, s. f. dim. (rhestr) A row, or range.

Callestrig restrig yn lle rhwystrom.

A flinty ridge where we should be impeded. T. Prys.

Rhestru, v. a. (rhestr) To range, to marshal.
Rhestrwr, s. m.—pl. rhestrwyr (rhestr—gwr) A man who sets in order, a marshaller.

Rhesu, v. a. (rhes) To set in a row, to range.
Rheswydd, s. pl. aggr. (rhes—gwydd) Joists.
Rheswyddaw, v. a. (rheswydd) To lay joists.
Rheswydden, s. f. dim. (rheswydd) A joist.
Rhetgyr, s. m. (rhed—cyr) A projecting snout.

Oian y parchellan, y parchell dedwydd,
Na chladd dy retgyr yn mhen mynydd.

Hark, thou pigling, the happy pig, burrow not thy snout on the top of the mountain. Myrddin.

Rheth, s. f. (rhe) A pervading quality.
Rhethr, s. f.—pl. rhethrau (rhethr) That pervades or runs into.
Rhethrawr, s. m. (rhethr) That thrusts a pike.
Rhethren, s. f. dim. (rhethr) A pike, a lance.

—Dy hwyl i Brydain
With dorf briw i'th wisg wen,
A'th ruthr i'r maes a'th rethren,
—Llwydded!

Thy course to Britain, while opening a track in thy white garb, and thy onset to the field with thy pike, be thou prosperous! G. Ll. ab D. ab Einion

Rhĕu, v. a. (rhe) To run about; to move.

Eiddil hen hwyr yd re.

Slender the aged, slowly he moves along. Llywarch Hen.

Rheuedd, s. m. (rheu) Activity, agility, speed.

Mor yw eilon mygr maint ei rheuedd.

How great the activity of the beauteous hinds! Hywel ab Owain

Dynia wl bobl ni-borthant iawnedd,
Iawn i Dduw difanw eu rheuedd.

Human kind who maintain not equity, it is just for God to take away their activity. Cynddelw.

Rheuedda, v. n. (rheuedd) To obtain activity.
Rheueddawl, a. (rheuedd) Of an active nature.
Rheufawl, a. (rhau—mawl) Of continuous praise.

Erglyw ddig tlawd yn goodawl erchi
Trugaredd iti, fy rhi rheufawl!

Hear the querulous wretch habitually craving mercy of thee, my Lord, whose praise is universal. Elidr Sais.

Rheufedd, s. m. (rheu—medd) Moveable property; affluence, plenty.

Rheufedd teyrnedd ti biau i drais.

The property of princes is thine by force. Ll. P. Moch.

Hil Iorwerth cannerth cain wallaw rheufedd.

The race of Iorwerth maintains the splendid distribution of wealth. Bleddyn Fardd.

Rheufeddawg, a. (rheufedd) Having abundance.

Pan fai gyfluydd o wyr gwychawg,
Atgoryn' deyrnedd yn rheufeddawg.

If there should be an assemblage of gallant men, the leaders would return with abundance. Meilyr.

Rhew, s. m. (rhe) That is beyond a current state, or become fixed; ice, frost.

Lleihäe rhew, lleihäe glew.

As the ice is diminished, activity is diminished. Adage.

Dybydd rhew i lyffant.

There will be frost for the frog. Adage.

Hawd dirywi rhew no dirywo rhyw.

It is easier to unfreeze ice than to change the nature of a thing. Adage.

Rhewi, v. a. (rhew) To produce ice; to freeze.
Rhewiad, s. m. (rhew) A producing ice; a becoming ice, a freezing.
Rhewiedig, a. (rhewiad) Become iced; frozen.
Rhewin, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhew) A sudden glide, fall, or slip; a downfal, destruction, ruin. a. Ruinous.

A draig Mon, mor ddrud ei eillydd yn aer,
Y bu terfysg taer, a haer boll;
A rhagddo rhewys dwys dyfysrl,
A rhewin, a thrin, a tharanc cymmri.

Against the dragon of Mon, so bold his kindred in the slaughter, there was a violent tumult, and insulting claims; and before him ran dire confusion, and ruin, with conflict, and the end of preeminence. Gwalchmai.

Rhewiniad, s. m. (rhewin) A slipping, or falling down; a ruining; ruination.

Rhewiniaw, v. a. (rhewin) To cause to slip or to fall; to destroy; to ruin.

Py ddyrchefis mynydd cyn rhewiniaw elfydd!

Who uplifted the mountains before the elements fell! Taliesin.

A rhewiniaw Gwynedd
O'i heithaf a'i pherfedd.

And destroy Gwynedd from its utmost bound to its centre. Taliesin.

Rhewiniawd, s. m. (rhewin) The act of falling.

Rhewiniawg, a. (rhewin) Ruinous, decayed.

Rhewiniawl, a. (rhewin) Falling, ruinous.

Rhewintor, sup. (rhewin) To be falling.

Diwedd pob rhwyf rhewintor.

The end of every leader is to be falling. Taliesin.

Rhewlyd, a. (rhew) Freezing, or frosty.

Rhewlydrwydd, s. m. (rhewlyd) Frostiness.

Rhewydd, s. m. (rhew) Instability, fickleness; wantonness, lust. a. Fickle; wanton, lustful.

Gnawd gan rewydd rychwerthin.

The wanton is apt to laugh much. Adage.

Can rewydd nid pell fydd rhin.

With wantonness the secret will not continue long. Adage.

Breuddwyd a welwn neithwyr,
Ys celfydd ei dehonglo;
Rhydreithir i rewydd;
Nis gwybydd ar nis gwelo.

A dream I happened to see last night, clever he must be who can explain it; it shall be declared to the wanton; it will not be known to such as do not see it. Meigant.

Rhewyddawl, a. (rhewydd) Apt to be wanton.

Rhewyddiad, s. m. (rhewydd) A wantoning.

Rhewyddu, v. a. (rhewydd) To satisfy lust.

Rhewyddu, mal anifeiliaid.

To satisfy lust, like beasts. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhewyn, s. m. dim. (rhew) A drain, a gutter.

Rhewys, a. (rhew) Wanton; lusting. Caseg rewys, a proud mare. Welsh Laws.

RHI, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. That is an origin; a source; a sire; a chief.

Gnawd rhiau eu rhadau yn wasgarawg.

Characteristic for chiefs that their bounties are spread abroad. Adage.

Dwyn fy rhwyf, a dwyn fy rhiydd;
Dwyn fy ner, fy nen cywelthydd!

Take away my prince, and take my chiefs; take my sovereign, my supreme supporter! Deinioel.

Yr haf——
Gwnai fwyalch hygarfalch gerdd,
Y glyngoed yn llawn glan-gerdd;—
A'r eos ar ir wiail:
Rhion prydyddion dail.

The summer would make the blackbird of lovely emulating note, and woody glade to teem with song; and on the verdant sprays the nightingales, the chiefs of minstrels among leaves. D. ab Gwilym, i'r Haf.

Rhïad, s. m. (rhi) An originating; a rendering as a source.

Rhiadwn, s. m. (rhiad) That is notable or special; that is eminent or supreme.

Rhugl yn ymwrthryn rhyn rhiadwn.

Successfully withstanding the terror of the supreme sire. Aneurin.

Rhïaidd, a. (rhi) Relating to a source or sire.

Rhïal, s. f. (rhi—al) A special or original stock, a primary race or lineage.

Un o dri chyforddwy Ynys Prydain, a ddyweinid gan Caswallawn—drwy for hyd yn nhir Gell Llydaw, a hanoeddynt o rial y Cymmry.

One of the three invading armies of the Isle of Britain, which was conducted by Caswallawn over the sea to the land of the Gauls of Llydaw, was descended from the primary stock of the Cymmry. Trioedd.

Rhïallu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhi—gallu) The power of a sovereign, army of a country; also the number of one hundred thousands.

Deg myrdd yn y rhiallu, deg rhiallu yn y fynta, deg mynta yn y gatyrfa.

Ten myriads in the riallu, ten times the rialls in the mynta, ten times the mynta in the catyrva.

Rhïan, s. f.—pl. t. edd (rhi) A woman in the prime of life; a dame, a lady.

Tair gwreigedd Arthur, sef oeddynt ei dair prif rian; nid amgen, Gwenhwyfar ferch Gwryd Gwent; a Gwenhwyfar ferch Gwythr fab Greidiawl, a Gwenhwyfar ferch Ogyrfan Gawr.

The three wives of Arthur, who were his three principal ladies; namely, Gwenhwyfar daughter of Gwryd Gwent, Gwenhwyfar daughter of Gwythyr ab Greidiol, and Gwenhwyfar daughter of Ogyrfan the Great. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhianaidd, a. (rhïan) Feminine; lady-like.

Rhianon, s. f. (rhïan) A paragon of the female sex; a goddess, a mythological person.

Ei phryd a guddiwyd a phridd;
Dygn gofion rianon rodd!

Her countenance has been covered with earth; severe the recollections of the goddess given! Gor. Gyriawg.

Rhiant, s. m.—pl. rhïaint (rhi) A parent.

Nac anmharcha yth riaint, na bugeilydd allawr.

Be not irreverent to thy parents, nor the pastor of the altar. Catwg Ddoeth.

Cas anmharchu rhiaint.

It is hateful to be disrespectful to parents. Adage.

Rhiawd, s. m. (rhi) The being a source or origin; parental state, the state of being eminent or chief.

Sef y caiff y pencenedl ei drwydded yn mraint ei riawd.

The head of a tribe shall have his maintenance under the privilege of his parentality. Trioedd Dyfnwal.

Rhïawdr, s. m.—pl. rhïodron (rhïawd) Chieftain.

Rhïawl, a. (rhi) Belonging to a chieftain.

Rhib, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhi—ib) What is thinly laid in a row or streak; a dribblet.

Rhibiad, s. m. (rhib) A scattering in a scanty row; a streaking; a dribbling.

Rhibiaw, v. a. (rhib) To place in a scanty row.

Rhibiawl, a. (rhib) With intermissions; dribbling.

Rhibib, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhi—pib) A reed pipe.

Un a chrwth——
O'r lle bai arall a'i bib,
A rhyw abwy a rhibib.

One with a fiddle, where another might be with his pipe, and some dirty chap with a hautboy. L. G. Cothi.

Rhibin, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhib) A narrow row, streak, or scanty dribblet.

Rhibiniad, s. m. (rhibin) A throwing into a narrow row or streak; a dribbling.

Rhibiniaw, v. a. (rhibin) To lay in a narrow row or streak, to make a dribbling row.

Rhibiniawl, a. (rhibin) Running in narrow streaks.

Rhibyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhib) A row, as of hay. Dyfed. The same as carfanau and rhencau.

Rhic, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi—ic) A notch, a groove.

Rhiciad, s. m. (rhic) A notching; a grooving.

Rhician, v. a. (rhic) To be notching, to groove.

Rhiciaw, v. a. (rhic) To notch; to groove.

Rhiciawg, a. (rhic) Having a notch, notched.

Rhiciawl, a. (rhic) Notching, or grooving.

Rhiciedig, a. (rhiciad) Being notched, grooved.

Rhicwr, s. m.—pl. rhicwyr (rhic—gwr) A notcher.

Rhid, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhy—id) That is secreted; that oozes, or drains; semen, sperm.

Rhidiad, s. m. (rhid) A secretion; an oozing; a draining; impregnation; a blissoming.

Rhidiaw, v. a. (rhid) To secrete; to drain; to impregnate with sperm; to blissom.

Pan fo addoed ar y geifr y bychod a rhidiir.

When the goats have their season the bucks will be drained. Adage.

Rhidiawg, a. (rhid) Abounding with secretion; having an oozing or drain; having sperm.

Rhidiawl, a. (rhid) Secretory; oozing, draining.

Rhidiedig, a. (rhidiad) Secreted; impregnated.

Rhidyll, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhid) A riddle, a sieve.

Rhidylliad, s. m. (rhidyll) A riddling; a sifting.

Rhidylliaw, v. a. (rhidyll) To riddle, to sift.

Rhidys, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhid) A very small stream or rill; a drain.

——Rhyd oesoedd:
Wrth ridysiau meinion
Profodd megys prifafon.

For ages it will run: compared with little rills it has proved a primary stream. Rice Jones.

Rhidysiad, s. m. (rhidys) A flowing in a rill.

Rhidysiaw, v. n. (rhidys) To flow in a very small quantity; to flow as a rill; to dribble.

Rhidd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi—idd) That is centrical; that is an obstacle; that repels.

Rhiddiad, s. m. (rhidd) A rendering centrical; a becoming centrical; a repelling.

Rhiddiaw, v. a. (rhidd) To place centrical; to repel, to drive back; to recoil.

Rhïedd, s. m. (rhi) Paternal governance.

Duw a'm dug, ym dogn anrhydedd,
I'w wenwlad, i'w rad, i'w riedd.

God will take me, for my complete honour, to his blest kingdom, to his grace, to his governance. Cynddelw.

Rhïeddawg, a. (rhïedd) Having high origin.

Eirig ei rethren rieddawg.

Splendid his commanding spear. Taliesin, i Wallawg.

Braisg rebydd, yn rhydd, yn rhwydd nawd
Y gwna Rhys rieddawg o diawd.

The mighty ravager, freely and with good nature Rhys would make the poor one noble. Cynddelw.

Rhïeddawl, a. (rhïedd) A paternal authority.

Rhïeddu, v. a. (rhïedd) To have authority.

Rhïeingader, s. f. (rhïan—cader) The seat or throne of a lady or queen.

Rhïeinged, s. f. (rhïan—ced) A female treasure.

Gwyn ei fyd padyw Duw yd rangwy
Rhieinged.——

Blessed is he on whom God may bestow a female treasure. Gwalchmai.

Reieingerdd, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhïan—cerdd) A song or eulogy in praise of the fair sex.

Rhieingerdd Efa a fawrëynt;
Tremyn y treiddwni trefn a gedwynt.

The female eulogy on Eva they would extol, with a glance I could observe the order they were used to keep. Cynddelw.

Rhïeingylch, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhïan—cylch) The circuit of the female, by which vassals furnished a table for the queen, in certain cases.

Unwaith yn y flwyddyn y gwedda i bawb fyned yn lluydd i orwlad, gyda'r brenin, os myn; ac yna y frenines a ddyly rieingylch.

Once in the year it is meet for every body to go in the army, to the borders, with the king, if he requires; and then the queen is entitled to a female circuit. Welsh Laws.

Rhieiniaidd, a. (rhïan) Feminine.

Rhieiniaidd fun, rhanodd fudd.

Delicate maid, she has distributed a bounty. D. ab Gwilym, i Angharad.

Rhieiniawl, a. (rhïan) Feminine, abounding with female softness.

Mae Gwenhwyfar——
Yn rhieiniawl,
Yn rhagorawl
Yn nhrugaredd.

Gwenhwyvar, of feminine softness, in mercy doth excel. Gronw Ddu.

Rhieni, s. pl. aggr. (rhïant) Parentage; forefathers, ancestry; parents.

Rhieni dyn yw ei dad, a'i hendad, a'i orhendad.

A person's ancestry are his father, and his grandfather, and his great grandfather. Welsh Laws.

Rhienïaeth, s. m. (rhïeni) Parentage, ancestry.

Rhienïawl, a. (rhieni) Relating to ancestry.

Rhïes, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhi) A dame, or a lady.

Rhif, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhi—if) That divides, or separates; a number.

Rhifadwy, a. (rhif) Capable of being reckoned.

Rhifaw, v. a. (rhif) To number, to numerate.

Lliw ewynfriw teg rhag ton nawfed,
Nawfed ran ym poen, er pan aned,
Nis rhyborthes neb na thebyced
Ni rifafi ar fun fod yn galed.

That is of the hue of the fair spraying foam before the ninth wave, the ninth share of my pain, since she was born, no one has felt or imagined. I will not reckon of the damsel that she is cruel. Cynddelw, i Eva ech Madawg.

Rhifawl, a. (rhif) Numeral, or numerical.

Rhifed, s. m. (rhif) A number, numeration.

Rhifed syr syrthiasant yn ngrau,
O'th gyunygn, o'th gynnefodau.

Of the number of the stars they fell in blood, from thy conflict, from thy stratagems. Gwalchmai.

Rhifedi, s. m. (rhifed) A number.

Rhifedig, a. (rhifed) Numbered. Rhifedigion, those that are numbered.

Rhifedigaeth, s. m. (rhifedig) Numeration.

Rhifedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifed) Numerator.

Rhifedyddawl, a. (rhifedydd) Numerary.

Rhifedyddiaeth, s. m. (rhifedydd) The science or skill of numbering.

Rhifedd, s. m. (rhif) Numerousness; number.

Rhifgoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhif—coel) The property of chance belonging to numbers.

Rhifgoelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifgoel) Numerist.

Rhifiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhif) A numbering.

Rhifiannawl, a. (rhifiant) Numerary.

Rhifiannu, v. a. (rhifiant) To numerate.

Rhifiant, s. m. (rhif) Numeration.

Rhifiawg, a. (rhif) Having a number; numerous.

Cadarn fab Madawg rifiawg reufedd.

The mighty son of Madawg of multitudinous wealth. G. ab D. ab Tudyr.

Rhifiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifiad) Numerator.

Rhifnod, s. c.—pl. t. au (rhif—nod) A numeral.

Rhifnodawl, a. (rhifnod) Numerical.

Rhifnodi, v. a. (rhifnod) To numerate.

Rhifnodiad, s. m. (rhifnod) Numeration.

Rhifnodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhifnod) Numerator

Rhifrill, s. f. (rhif—rhill) A numerical notch.

Rhifwr, s. m.—pl. rhifwyr (rhif—gwr) One who numbers, a reckoner.

Rhifydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhif) A numberer.

Rhifyddeg, s. f. (rhifydd) Science of numbers.

Rhifyddegawl, a. (rhifyddeg) Arithmetical.

Rhifyddegwr, s. m.—pl. rhifyddegwyr (rhifyddeg—gwr) An arithmetician.

Rhifyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhifydd) A female accountant, or arithmetician.

Rhifyddiaeth, s. m. (rhifydd) Numeration.

Rhifyn, s. m. dim. (rhif) A single number.

Rhiff, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi—iff) That tends to divide or to separate.

Rhifft, s. m. (rhiff) That is divided or cleaved.

Rhiffwnt, s. m. (rhi—ffwnt) The jaundice.

Rhig, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhi—ig) A notch; a groove, also a pillory.

Rhigaw, v. a. (rhig) To notch; to indent.

Rhigawd, s. m.—pl. rhigodau (rhig) A pillory.

Rhigawl, a. (rhig) Notching; indenting.

Rhigiad, s. m. (rhig) A notching, a grooving.

Rhigu, s. m. dim. (rhig) A notch; a groove.

Rhignedd, s. m. (rhign) A notched or furrowed part; a notch or indenting.

> Cei wrach i grafu dy gefu, a dynai y gïau a'r gwythi gyda phob bys, o gawc dy wegil i rigneidd dy din.
>
> Thou shalt have a hag to scratch thy back, who would draw the muscles and the veins with every finger, from the nape of thy neck to the partition of thy buttock. Araeth Gwgan.

Rhigodi, v. a. (rhig) To put in a pillory.
Rhigol, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (rhig—ol) A grove; a trench, a furrow; a drill; a small ditch, a drain
Rhigolawg, a. (rhigol) Grooved; furrowed; having a trench or drain.
Rhigoli, v. a. (rhigol) To groove; to trench.
Rhigoliad, s. m. (rhigol) A grooving; a trenching
Rhigolwr, s. m.—pl. rhigolwyr (rhigol—gwr) One who makes a groove or trench.
Rhigolydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhigol) What makes a groove or trench; a groove-plane.
Rhigwm, s. m.—pl. rhigymau (rhig) A long rote.
Rhigymiad, s. m. (rhigwm) A saying by rote.
Rhigymu, v. a. (rhigwm) To say by rote.
Rhigymwr, s. m.—pl. rhigymwyr (rhigwm—gwr) One who speaks by rote.
Rhil, s. m. (rhi—il) An interstice.
Rhill, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi—ill) A row; a small trench or furrow; a drill.
Rhilliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhill) A drilling.
Rhilliaw, v. a. (rhill) To trench; to drill.
Rhilliawg, a. (rhill) Trenched; drilled.
Rhilliedig, a. (rhilliad) Being drilled.
Rhilliwr, s. m.—pl. rhilliwyr (rhill—gwr) One who trenches; a driller.
Rhim, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi) A rim, or edge.
Rhimiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhim) An edging.
Rhimiaw, v. a. (rhim) To edge, or to rim.
Rhimiawl, a. (rhim) Edging, or rimming.
Rhimiedig, a. (rhimiad) Being rimmed.
Rhimp, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhim) An edge, rim, or boundary; a limit, or ending.
Rhimpyn, s. m. (rhimp) A close; rhyme.
Rhimpyniad, s. m. (rhimpyn) A terminating, or ending; a rhyming.
Rhimpynu, v. a. (rhimpyn) To form an ending, or termination; to rhyme.
Rhimyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (rhim) A rim.
Rhimynawl, a. (rhimyn) Being formed to a rim.
Rhimyniad, s. m. (rhimyn) A forming an edge.
Rhimynu, v. a. (rhimyn) To make a rim or edge.
Rhin, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi—in) That runs through or pervades; a channel which carries off lesser waters; in draining a name for the secondary dykes, which receive the small ditches, and convey the water to the gwyth fawr, or great channel; a farrow between lands. Powys. also a pervading quality, a virtue; a secret, a mystery; a charm.

> Gochel ddammegu dy rin.
>
> Beware to allegorize thy secret. Adage.
>
> Rhin deuddyn cyfrin yw,
> Rhin tridyn cannyn ai clyw.
>
> The secret of two persons is a mutual pledge; the secret of three persons a hundred persons will hear. Adage.
>
> Pob math rin a doethineb
> Sydd arnad yn anad neb.
>
> Every kind of virtue and wisdom thou dost possess above any one. T. Prys.
>
> Y gair deddf cyntaf sydd yn gwahardd rhiniau, a swynion, a chyfareddion.
>
> The first expression of the law doth forbid mysteries, and charms, and incantations. Elucidarius.

Rhinaw, v. a. (rhin) To endue with a hidden quality; to be mysterious; to use spells.

> Gwasgarawd saint am glawdd caer,
> A minnau a rinaf
> Ysgwyd bydd briw cyn techaf.
>
> May the torrents spread about the wall of the fort, and I will divine that the shield will be broken ere I recede. Llywarch Hen.

Rhinc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhing) A creak; a gnash; a continued sharp noise; also the quail. Rhinc y tes, rhinc y llin, the sand-cricket; glo rhinc, a sort of hard coal.

> Canu rhinc o'r cenau rhonca.
>
> The tottering whelp muttering his clack. T. Aled.

Rhinciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhinc) A creaking.
Rhinciaw, v. a. (rhinc) To creak; to gnash.

> Cenfigen——
> Rhincian y bydd, yn rhonca
> A'i chras-fant, arw-ddant ar dda.
>
> Envy, with her lantern jaw, will be gnashing a snaggling tooth on what is good. Gro. Owain.

Rhinciaw, v. a. (rhinc) To creak, to gnash.
Rhinciawl, a. (rhinc) Creaking; gnashing.
Rhincyn, s. m. dim. (rhinc) A creak, a clink; a gnash, a grinding noise; a habit of scolding. Cadw rhincyn, to keep scolding continually.
Rhinddysg, s. m. (rhin—dysg) A cabala.
Rhinddysgiad, s. m. (rhinddysg) A following of cabalistic learning.
Rhinddysgawd, s. m. (rhinddysg) Cabalistic lore.
Rhinddysgawdr, s. m.—pl. rhinddysgodron (rhinddysg) A cabalist.
Rhinfawr, a. (rhin) Endowed with great virtue.

> Cai feddygon——
> Eu galw'n dduwiau, brau bryd
> Wyr rhinfawr, yn yr henfyd.
>
> Physicians had the appellation of gods, open of countenance the greatly endowed men, in the ancient world. L. Morris.

Rhiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhin) A pervading; an enduing with some hidden quality or virtue; a using of mystery; a charming.
Rhiniaw, v. a. (rhin) To pervade; to endue with a quality or virtue; to use mystery, to charm, to talk secrets, to whisper.
Rhiniawg, a. (rhin) Having some hidden quality, or virtue; possessed of a mystery or secret.
Rhiniawl, a. (rhin) Relating to a secret quality or virtue; mysterious.
Rhiniedig, a. (rhiniad) Rendered mysterious.
Rhiniwr, s. m.—pl. rhinwyr (rhin—gwr) One possessed of some hidden virtue or power; one possessed of a secret; or dealer in spells.

> Maent fal y neidr fyddar, yr hon a gau ei chlustiau, ac ni wrendy ar lais y rhinwyr.
>
> They are like the deaf adder, which shuts her ears, and will not listen to the voice of the charmers. Dr. Davies.

Rhinon, s. m. (rhin) A pattern of virtue.
Rhint, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhin) A groove, a notch.
Rhintach, a. (rhint) Grooved; notched; jagged.
Rhintachrwydd, s. m. (rhintach) Jaggedness.
Rhinwedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhin—gwedd) A virtue; a mystery; a sacrament. Rhinweddau da, good qualities: Saith rinwedd eglwys, the seven sacraments of the church.

> Os da gwaed mewn oes deg wedd,
> Er hyny gwell yw rhinwedd.
>
> If in the splendid scene of life noble blood is prized, nevertheless virtue is more excellent. Elis Rowland.

Rhinweddawg, a. (rhinwedd) Having virtue.
Rhinweddawl, a. (rhinwedd) Being virtuous.
Rhinweddiad, s. m. (rhinwedd) A conferring of virtue; a becoming possessed of virtue.
Rhinweddiaeth, s. f. (rhinwedd) The practice of virtue; virtuous conduct.

Rhinweddoldeb, s. m. (rhinwedd) Virtuousness.
Rhinweddolder, s. m. (rhinwedd) Virtuousness.
Rhinweddoli, v. a. (rhinweddawl) To render virtuous; to become virtuous.
Rhinweddu, v. a. (rhinwedd) To endue with virtue; to acquire a virtuous habit.
Rhinweddus, a. (rhinwedd) Virtuous.
Rhinweddusaw, v. a. (rhinweddus) To render virtuous; to become virtuous.
Rhinweddusrwydd, s. (rhinwedd) Virtuousness.
Rhinwraig, s. f.—pl. rhinwreigedd (rhin—gwraig) A woman who performs mysteries or charms.
Rhing, s. m. (rhi—ing) A creak, or clink.
Rhingwar, s. m. (rhing—gwar) A clamp.
Rhingyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhing) A citer, an apparitor, a summoner, a sergeant.

Tri enw rhingyll y sydd; gwaedd gwlad, a garw gychwedl was y cyngheliwr, a rhingyll.

The three names of an apparitor; the cry of a country, and the chancellor's terrible talebearer, and the apparitor. Welsh Laws.

Ieuan Fedyddiwr oedd ringyll o flaen yr Iesu.

John the Baptist was a harbinger before Jesus. Elucidarius.

Rhingyllaeth, s. m. (rhingyll) Serjeantship.

Gwrthodes rywyr ringyllaeth.

It rejected unseasonable serjeantship. Cynddelw.

Rhingylliad, s. m. (rhingyll) A performing the office of an apparitor.
Rhingyllu, v. a. (rhingyll) To do the duty of a serjeant or an apparitor.
Rhiolawd, s. m. (rhiawl) Management.
Rhiolawdr, s. m.—pl. rhiolodron (rhiolawd) A manager, a ruler, or a director.
Rhioledd, s. m. (rhiawl) Management, or sway.
Rhioli, v. a. (rhiawl) To manage, to rule.
Rhion, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (rhi) A sire.
Rhip, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhib) That runs with intermission; an overskip.
Rhipai, s. c. (rhip) A hatchel. See heislan.
Rhipiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhip) An over-skipping
Rhipiaw, v. a. (rhip) To pass over, to skip.
Rhipiawg, a. (rhip) Abounding with intermissions or lapses.
Rhipiawl, a. (rhip) Tending to skip or pass over.
Rhipiedig, a. (rhipiad) Being over-skipped.
Rhipiwr, s. m.—pl. rhipwyr (rhip—gwr) One who passes over, or skips.
Rhis, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhi—is) That tends to a point; that is broken into points; mince.
Rhisellt, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhis) A grater, a rasp.
Rhisg, s. m. aggr. (rhy—isg) Bark, or rind.

Mal y rhisg am y pren.

Like the bark about the tree. Adage.

Rhisgaw, v. n. (rhisg) To bark; to strip off bark.
Rhisgawg, a. (rhisg) Having bark or rind.
Rhisgawl, a. (rhisg) Belonging to the bark.
Rhisgedig, a. (rhisg) Barked; stripped of bark.
Rhisgen, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhisg) A vessel made of bark; a dish, or bowl.

Rhisgen, ffyrling a dal;—Rhisgen ymenyn tair dyrnfedd o led, a thair dyrnfedd o dewedd, heb foel.

A bark dish, its value is a farthing;—A bowl of butter is three hands in breadth, and three hands in thickness, without a top. Welsh Laws.

Rhisgiad, s. m. (rhisg) A forming of bark; a barking, or a stripping of bark.
Rhisgl, s. m. (rhisg) Bark, rind, or peel.
Rhisglad, s. m. (rhisgl) A forming of bark; a stripping of bark, a barking.
Rhisglaw, v. n. (rhisgl) To form bark; to bark.
Rhisglawg, a. (rhisgl) Having bark or rind.
Rhisgledig, a. (rhisgl) Barked; stripped of bark.
Rhisglen, s. f. dim. (rhisgl) A piece of bark.
Rhisglyn, s. m. dim. (rhisgl) A piece of bark.
Rhisgyn, s. m. dim. (rhisg) A piece of bark; a vessel of bark.
Rhisgynaid, s. m.—pl. rhisgyneidiau (rhisgyn) The quantity contained in a bark bowl. Rhisgynaid o ymenyn, a bark bowlful of butter.
Rhit, s. m. (rhi) A tendency or move forward.
Rhith, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi—ith) That tends to break out or to appear; an outward form, shape, or figure; appearance, guise; embryo.

Blaenu cledd athrawd a rhith gwirionedd.

To point the sword of detraction with the semblance of truth. Adage.

Yn mhob rhith y daw angeu.

In every shape death will come. Adage.

Felly, 'mhob rhith felltithiawl
Gwyslo y dyn a gais diawl.

Therefore, in every cursed shape the devil doth man entice. T. Prys.

Rhithedd, s. m. (rhith) Apparentness, semblance
Rhithgwsg, s. m. (rhith—cwsg) Apparent sleep.
Rhithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhith) An appearing, a seeming; a taking a shape, or form.
Rhithiadwy, a. (rhithiad) Capable of appearing; capable of taking a shape or form.
Rhithiannawl, a. (rhithiant) Being apparent.
Rhithiannu, v. a. (rhithiant) To make an appearance; to take a form; to become apparent.
Rhithiant, s. m. (rhith) Appearance; semblance.
Rhithiator, ger. (rhithiad) In appearing.
Rhithiaw, v. a. (rhith) To tend to break out; to appear; to seem; to be formed or shaped; to become an embryo; to knit, as fruit; to change from one form to another.

Angeu——
Yn mhob cyfrith y rhithi.

Death, in every combination thou dost appear. Ieuan Tew.

Rhithiawg, a. (rhith) Having an appearance.
Rhithiawl, a. (rhith) Appearing, or seeming.
Rhithiedig, a. (rhithiad) Having appeared.
Rhithiogaeth, s. m. (rhithiawg) The state or act of appearing; a particular form.

Ail rithiogaeth y rhyw cyntaf o'r droell-ymadrawdd yw gwatwar gerdd.

The second variety of the first species of figurative expression is irony. H. Perri.

Rhithiogi, v. a. (rhithiawg) To endue with an appearance; to have an appearance.
Rhithioli, v. a. (rhithiawl) To make apparent.
Rhithitor, sup. (rhith) To be appearing.
Rhithiwr, s. m.—pl. rhithwyr (rhith—gwr) An appearer, a seemer; a dissembler.
Rhiw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhi) A slope, or side of a mountain. It forms the names of many places; as Rhiwlas, green slope; Rhiwfelen, yellow slope, and the like.
RHO, s. m. r. That is put or extended from.
Rhöad, s. m. (rho) A giving, or a bestowing.
Rhöawl, a. (rho) Giving, or bestowing.
Rhoc, s. m. (rhy—oc) That shoots out in different ways; a motion in different directions.
Rhocas, s. m. (rhoc) A stripling, or youth.
Rhocian, v. a. (rhoc) To be moving in contrary directions; to rock.
Rhocos, s. pl. dim. (rhoc) Points, or irregularities shooting out; broken particles. Mae y llaeth wedi suraw, oni weli di o yn rhocos? the milk is sour, dost thou not see it broken?
Rhoch, s. f. (rhy—och) A broken or rough utterance; a grunt, a groan.

Rhochain, v. a. (rhoch) To grunt like swine.
Rhochan, s. m. (rhoch) A grunting; a groaning.
Rhochi, v. a. (rhoch) To grunt; to growl.
Rhochiad, s. m. (rhoch) A grunting; a groaning.
Rhochus, a. (rhoch) Grunting, or grumbling.
Rhod, s. f.—pl. t. au (rho—od) An orb, a circle; a wheel; the ecliptic; the space between the solstices; a season. Tröad y rhod, the turning of the circle, or the solstitial change.

Codi rhai y caed y rhod,
A'u gostwng o frig ystod.

It was found that the wheel exalted some, and lowered them from the summit of the station. Edm. Prys.

Rhodawg, a. (rhod) Having a wheel; wheeled; orbed. s. f. That is wheeled, or orbed; an epithet for a shield; that wheels; any wheeled vehicle; a chariot.

Boddawg ei rodawg i rodiaw torfoedd.

Ready is his chariot to range amid armies. Cynddelw.

Piau y rhodawg rudd faran aerfle;
A'i baerflaidd gyr ei ban,
Pwy briw uch browys-farch can;
Pwy ei henw, hynod gyfrau?

To whom belongs the car of the crimson face of the field of slaughter; and who its desolating wolf on its front, who deals wounds above the white prancing steeds; what his name, whose lot is so glorious? Llywarch Llaety.

Rhodawl, a. (rhod) Of the form of a wheel; orbical; wheeling; turning; having a tendency to turn about; vagrant, wandering.

Ban yd ran ei rad i rodolion byd;
Balch ei fenwyn; beilch ei faon.

Conspicuously he distributes his bounty to the wandering ones of the world; aspiring is his mind; proud are his subjects. Gwalchmai.

Rhodawr, s. f.—pl. rhodorion (rhod) That wheels, that forms an orb; an epithet for a shield; a chariot; also the goatsucker.

Caeawg, cynhorawg men y delai;
Diffyn yn mlaen bun, modd y delai
Twll tal ei rodawr, yn y clywai
Awr, ni roddai nawdd, maint dilynai.

Caeawg, supreme wherever he appears; affording protection to the maid, as the front opening of his chariot comes where he hears a shout, no mercy would he grant, whilst he pursued. Aneurin.

Rhodedd, s. m. (rhawd) A state of going forward.
Rhodell, s. f. (rhod) A whirl, a spindle; the cat's tail, or reed-mace; also called cynffon y gath.
Rhodellen, s. f. dim. (rhodell) A whirl for a spindle. It is also called chwarwen.
Rhodellaidd, a. (rhodell) Apt to whirl or whisk.
Rhodellawg, a. (rhodell) Having whirls or turns.
Rhodelliad, s. m. (rhodell) A whirling, a twirling
Rhodellu, v. a. (rhodell) To whirl, or to twirl.
Rhoden, s. f. dim. (rhawd) A switch, a whip.
Rhodfa, s. f.—pl. rhodfeydd (rhod) A circular course, an orbit.
Rhodiad, s. m.—pl. rhodiaid (rhawd) A goer up and down, a wanderer, a stroller.
Rhodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhod) A wheeling.
Rhodiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhodiad) A perambulator, one who walks about.

Nid diffeithwch gwenith a luddio ffordd rhodiadur.

The wheat that obstructs the way of the perambulator is not a wilderness. Adage.

Rhodian, s. m. (rhawd) A being traversing.
Rhodiana, v. a. (rhodian) To be traversing; to be going about; to walk about.
Rhodianawl, a. (rhodian) Ambulatory, strolling.
Rhodiar, s. f. (rhawd) That traverses, a ranger.

Hyglaer arf, rydaer rodiar byddinoedd,
I floedd ufeliar.

A glittering weapon, the vehement ranger through armies, a consuming fire to thousands. Einion Lern.

Rhodiaw, v. a. (rhawd) To traverse, to ambulate, to walk about, to take a walk, to range.

Nid da rhodio yn y gwawl,
Lle dalo diawl y ganwyll.

It is not good to walk in the light, where the devil holds the candle. Adage.

Rhodd fy ngwyl, rhwydd fy ngolud;
Rhad i'r beirdd yw rhodiaw'r byd.

The gift of my festival, gratuitous is my wealth; it is free for the bards to traverse the world. Llywarch Bentwrch.

Rhodiawg, a. (rhawd) Given to strolling.
Rhodiawl, a. (rhawd) Ambulatory; strolling.
Rhodiedig, a. (rhodiad) Being walked or strolled
Rhodiena, v. a. (rhodian) To walk up and down.
Rhodienad, s. m. (rhodian) A strolling about.
Rhodienai, s. f. (rhodian) A gadding gossip.
Rhodienawl, a. (rhodian) Ambulatory; vagrant.
Rhodienwr, s. m.—pl. rhodienwyr (rhodian—gwr) An ambulator; a stroller.
Rhodiwr, s. m.—pl. rhodiwyr (rhawd—gwr) An ambulator, one who walks about.
Rhodl, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhawd) A paddle; a scull:
Rhodlath, s. f. (rhawd—llath) A walking staff.
Rhodle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhawd—lle) A course

Ceint yn addfwyn rodle yn more rhag Urien
Yn cwydd am ein traed gwaed ar ddien.

Briskly in the glorious course, before Urien with the dawn, round our feet falls the blood where death prevails. Taliesin.

Ein rheiddun——
Yn rhodle gwyach gwyarllyn.

Our leader in the course of the vulture of the blood stream. Cynddelw.

Rhodli, v. a. (rhodl) To paddle, to scull.
Rhodliad, s. m. (rhodl) A paddling, a sculling.
Rhodlwr, s. m.—pl. rhodlwyr (rhodl—gwr) A paddler.
Rhodlydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhodl) A paddler.
Rhodol, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhawd) A paddle, a scull.
Rhodre, s. f. (rhawd—rhe) A career, a course.

Megys ei hendad, o'i rad rodre.

Like his grandfather, in his bounteous course. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhodres, s. m. (rhyodres) Ostentation, vainglory; a flaunting, or swaggering.
Rhodresaidd, a. (rhodres) Apt to be ostentatious; somewhat pragmatical; flaunting.
Rhodresawl, a. (rhodres) Ostentatious.
Rhodresgar, a. (rhodres) Pragmatical; flaunting.
Rhodresgarwch, s. m. (rhodres) Superciliousness
Rhodresiad, s. m. (rhodres) A practising of ostentation; a swaggering, a flaunting.
Rhodresolrwydd, s. m. (rhodres) Superciliousness
Rhodresu, v. a. (rhodres) To act ostentatiously; to swagger, to flaunt.

Lle rhodreser,
Yno neser,
Ar eu treser,
Y rhai trawsion.

Where a great display is made, there be the resort, in full bustle, of froward men. T. Prys.

Rhodresus, a. (rhodres) Ostentations, flaunting.
Rhodreswr, s. m.—pl. rhodreswyr (rhodres—gwr) An ostentatious man; a swaggerer.
Rhodri, s. m. (rhod—rhi) Raddish; also called rhuddygl.
Rhodwedd, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhod—gwedd) An orbicular course; a course.

Ni derfydd awen i ar darwedd traul,
Tra fo lloer a haul ar eu rhodwedd.

The muse will not be exhausted from excess of use, while there shall be moon and sun on their course. Phylip Brydydd.

Rhodwr, s. m. (rhod—gwr) A wheeler.
Rhodwydd, s. m. (rhawd—gwydd) An open course; a centry ground.

Ar rodwydd Forlas gwyliaf.

On the course of Morlas I will watch. Llywarch Hen.

Ni theilr o wir, o wrelddrwydd braing,
A brwysgaw yn rhodwydd,
Ebediw gwr briw braw dygwydd,
Yn nydd brwydr, rhag bron ei arglwydd.

From truth, from great heroism, and rushing on the war course, there shall not be paid the heriot of a wounded man, falling dreadfully in the day of battle, in the presence of his lord. Cynddelw.

Rhodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rho) A gift, a present. a. Given, gratis.

Nid edrychir yn llygad march rhodd.

The eye of a gift horse will not be examined. Adage.

Rhodd gwyr Erging.

The gift of the men of Erging. Adage.

Yn rhodd, fy athraw, beth yw gobenydd cerdd, a chymeriad, a thwyll gynghanedd?

Graciously, my master, what is the pause of a song, and repetition, and false consonancy? T. Prys.

Rhoddadwy, a. (rhodd) Capable of being given.
Rhoddai, s. c. (rhodd) That gives; a dative case.
Rhoddawg, a. (rhodd) Abound with gift; giving.

Py beris ceiniawg
O ariant rhoddawg?

Who caused coin of current silver? Taliesin.

Rhoddawg braw llaw i drengi.

The spreader of terror is a hand to destroy. Taliesin.

Rhoddawl, a. (rhodd) Giving, or conferring.
Rhoddedig, a. (rhodd) Given. Rhoddedigion, data.

Tri phrif roddedigion Duw: awen, deall, a rhadferthwch.

The three chief gifts of God; genius, understanding, and virtue. Catwg Ddoeth.

Rhoddedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhoddedig) Donation.
Rhoddedigawl, a. (rhoddedig) Giving; dative.
Rhoddfawl, a. (rhodd—mawl) Praise-bestowing.
Rhoddfawr, a. (rhodd) Greatly giving; sacred.
Rhoddfyged, a. (rhodd—myged) Of gift.
Rhoddged, a. (rhodd—ced) Munificent.
Rhoddgymer, a. (rhodd—cymer) Gift-receiving.
Rhoddgymeriad, s. m. (rhoddgymer) A giving.
Rhoddgymeriawd, a. (cymer) Gift-reception.
Rhoddgymeriawdr, s. m. (rhoddgymeriawd) A receiver or accepter of gifts.
Rhoddgymeryd, v. a. (rhodd—cymeryd) To receive or to accept gifts.
Rhoddi, v. a (rhodd) To give, to bestow, to confer.

Goreu gwaredred, goredwyn ffaw,
Gobrynu gobrwy gobwyll o honaw;
Gwerth ym rhoddaist, ddyn dyniawl andaw,
A'th roddaf gyssul heb gas ynddaw;
Pan fyno Duw dy ddifurlaw
O dyllest present, a phreswyl fraw,
Ced a'th fo di golud goleu anaw.

The best deliverance, of glorious cognizance, to purchase a reward meet of consideration; for the value thou hast bestowed on me, mortal man attend, I give the council in which no hate doth lurk: When God shall please to dissolve thee from thy present state, and dwelling of disgust, be thou possessed of the treasure of the sons of glory. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Rhoddiad, s. m.—pl. rhoddiaid (rhodd) A giver, a donor; also, a giving, or bestowing.

Ef yn wyl yn olud roddiad.

He is diffidently the bestower of wealth. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhoddiannawl, a. (rhoddiant) Donative; giving.
Rhoddiannu, v. a. (rhoddiant) To make donation.
Rhoddiant, s. m. (rhodd) A donation, a behest.
Rhoddiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhoddiad) A donor.
Rhoddwr, s. m.—pl. rhoddwyr (rhodd—gwr) A giver.
Rhogl, s. m.—pl. rhoglau (rhy—ogl) The power or sense of smelling; smell, scent.
Rhoglawg, a. (rhogl) Having a smell, scented.
Rhogledig, a. (rhogl) Being smelled; scented.
Rhogledd, s. m. (rhogl) The state of having a smell; scentedness.
Rhogli, v. a. (rhogl) To smell; to scent.

O rogli rhogla ddiniweidrwydd.

In scenting have the scent of harmlessness. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Rhogliad, s. m. (rhogl) A smelling, a scenting.
Rhogliant, s. m. (rhogl) A smelling; a scenting.
Rhoglus, a. (rhogl) Olfactory; olidous; the stinking goose-foot.
Rhoi, v. a. (rho) To give, to bestow, to present.

Rhaid rhoi deall i alltud.

It is necessary to give information to a stranger. Adage.

Ni rown ni garai o groen chwanen am dy gynghor.

I would not give the thong of a flea-skin for thy advice. Adage.

I wan trist y rhoid win trwm;
I gadarn y rhoid godwm.

To the dejected weakling thou wouldest give heady wine; to the mighty thou wouldest give a fall. G. ab Ieuan Hen.

Daw, trwy dan dig anian——
I roi cadarn farn ar fyd.

He will come, with consuming fire, to give a mighty judgement on a world. H. D. ab Ifan.

Rhòl, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rho—ol) A roll, a cylinder. Mae fe yn rhol, he is like a buck.
Rholaidd, a. (rhol) Tending to roll, rolling.
Rholbren, s. m. (rhòl—pren) A rolling-pin.
Rholbreniad, s. m. (rholbren) A working with a rolling-pin.
Rholbrenu, v. a. (rholbren) To use a rolling-pin.
Rhòlen, s. f. dim. (rhòl) A roll, a roller. Dyna rolen o lodes, there is a bouncing lass.
Rholiad, s. m. (rhòl) A rolling; a turning round.
Rholian, v. a. (rhòl) To be rolling about.
Rholiaw, v. a. (rhòl) To roll. Rholiaw gwlan, to card wool into rolls for spinning.
Rholiawg, a. (rhòl) In the form of a roll, rolled.
Rholiwr, s. m. (rhòl—gwr) One who rolls.
Rholyn, s. m. dim. (rhòl) A roll, a roller. Rholyn o wlan, a roller of wool: rholyn o ddyn, a fat hale man.
Rhon, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rho—on) A tail; also a pike, or lance. Gwlan rhoniau, the wool of tails: rhon barcud, dovetail, in joinery.
Rhonc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhy—onc) A swag.
Rhonca, a. (rhonc) Sinking, falling, swagging.
Rhoncäedd, s. m. (rhonca) A sinking or falling state, swagginess; a hollowness.
Rhonciad, s. m. (rhonc) A sinking; a swagging; a becoming hollow, loose, or goggling.
Rhoncian, v. a. (rhonc) To swag; to goggle.
Rhonco, a. (rhonc) Swaggy; goggling.
Rhonell, s. f.—pl. t. od (rhawn) The whisk or the whole hair of a tail; a tail. Rhonell y march, marchronell, the horsetail; rhonell y wennol, axe-vetch; rhonell y ci, the dog's-tail grass; rhonell y cadnaw, fox-tail grass; rhonell y gath, cat's-tail grass.
Rhonellawg, a. (rhonell) Having a tail.
Rhonellgoch, a. (rhonell—coch) Red-tailed. Y rhonellgoch, y rhawngoch, y dinboeth, coch y berllan, the redstart.
Rhongymynian, s. f. (rhon—cymynn) A kind of battle-axe with a long handle; a poetical epithet for Arthur's battle-axe.
Rhonos, s. pl. dim. (rhon) Small particles.
Rhont, s. f.—pl. t. iau (rhon) A frisk, a skip.
Rhonta, v. a. (rhont) To frisk, to gambol.
Rhontai, s. c. (rhont) One who gambols.
Rhontëig, a. (rhonta) Apt to gambol; frisky.
Rhonten, s. f. dim. (rhont) A frisker.
Rhontiad, s. m. (rhont) A gamboling, a frisking.
Rhontyn, s. m. dim. (rhont) A frisker.

Rhonwyn, a. (rhon—gwyn) White-tailed.

Madyn ronwyn, ryenwir
Meingi gwych, myni gig ir.

White tailed reynard, surnamed the clever slender dog, thou wilt have fresh flesh. R. Goch Eryri.

Rhonyn, s. m. dim. (rhon) A small body, or particle, of a cylindrical form.
Rhos, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (rhy—os) That is parched; a dry meadow; a moor. Gwair rhos, moor-land hay. It forms the name of many places.
Rhos, s. pl. aggr. What is convolved; roses. Rhos cochion, red roses; rhos gwynion, white roses; rhos y cwn, dog-roses. See Breila.
Rhosaidd, a. (rhos) Tending to be parched.
Rhosawg, a. (rhos) Abounding with dry grass.
Rhosawl, a. (rhos) Of a parching nature.
Rhosb, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—osb) A whim, a trick. Gware rhosbau, to play at crambo.

A boffo ei rosb hoffed a'i cosb.

He that loves his whim let him love him who corrects it. Adage.

Rhosba, v. a. (rhosb) To play at crambo.
Rhosbai, s. c. (rhosb) One who plays at crambo; a doggerel rhymster.
Rhosbawl, a. (rhosb) Belonging to crambo play.
Rhosbêig, a. (rhosba) Apt to play at crambo.
Rhosbiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhosb) A playing at crambo; a making of doggerel rhymes.
Rhosbwr, s. m.—pl. rhosbwyr (rhosb—gwr) One who makes doggerel rhymes.
Rhosdir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhos—tir) Dry ground.
Rhosedd, s. m. (rhos) A state of extending over; superabundance, superfluity.
Rhoslyd, a. (rhos) Of a parched quality.
Rhoslydu, v. n. (rhoslyd) To become parched.
Rhost, s. m. (rhy—ost) That is dried or crimped; that is browned; a roast. a. Roast, roasted.

Cael rhost, aid er bost, adar y bwn.

Obtaining roasted meat, for the sake of boast, and bitterns too. L. G. Cothi.

Rhostawg, s. m. (rhost) A plover. It is also called bronddu y twynau. Rhostawg coch, the red godwit.
Rhostiad, s. m. (rhost) A roasting; a toasting.
Rhostiaw, v. a. (rhost) To roast; to toast.
Rhostiawl, a. (rhost) Tending to roast, roasting.
Rhostiedig, a. (rhostiad) Roasted; toasted.
Rhostiwr, s. m. (rhost—gwr) A roaster.
Rhosyn, s. m. dim. (rhos) A rose. It is otherwise called breila and breily. Rhosyn y mynydd, blodau y brenin, mountain rose.
Rhoth, a. (f. of rhwth) Loose, hollow, swaggy.
RHU, s. m. r. A forcible sending out; a loud utterance; a roar.
Rhuad, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhu) A roaring; a talking loudly; loquacity.
Rhuadaidd, a. (rhuad) Apt to roar; noisy.
Rhuadawl, a. (rhuad) Roaring; blustering.
Rhuadu, v. a. (rhuad) To make a roaring.
Rhuadus, a. (rhuad) Roaring; loquacious.
Rhuadusaw, v. a. (rhuadus) To render loquacious, to become loquacious.
Rhuadwr, s. m.—pl. rhuadwyr (rhuad—gwr) A roarer; a boaster, a blusterer.
Rhuadwy, a. (rhuad) Roaring; loquacious. Llew rhuadwy, a roaring lion.
Rhuain, a. (rhu) Roaring; blustering.
Rhuaw, v. a. (rhu) To roar; to talk loudly; to bluster. Rhua tarw yna, a bull roars there.
Rhuawd, s. m. (rhu) A roaring; a loud talk.
Rhuawdr, s. m.—pl. rhuodron (rhuawd) A roarer.
Rhuawl, a. (rhu) Roaring; loquacious.
Rhuch, s. m. (rhy—uch) A coat, a film, a husk.
Rhuchaw, v. a. (rhuch) To coat over, to husk.
Rhuchawl, a. (rhuch) Tending to coat over.
Rhuchen, s. f. dim. (rhuch) A coat, a skin; a leathern jerkin; a web in the eye.

Mychiad a rhuchen o groen amdano.

A swineherd with a coat of skin about him. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Rhuchiad, s. m. (rhuch) A coating, a husking.
Rhuchiaw, v. a. (rhuch) To coat over, to husk.
Rhuchiedig, a. (rhuchiad) Coated, husked.
Rhuchion, s. pl. (rhuch) Husks, gurgions.
Rhuchionaidd, a. (rhuchion) Apt to be husky.
Rhuchionawg, a. (rhuchion) Having husks.
Rhuchioni, v. a. (rhuchion) To clear of husks.
Rhuchionllyd, a. (rhuchion) Full of husks.
Rhuchionyn, s. m. dim. (rhuchion) An outside covering, or film; a thin husk.
Rhuchiwr, s. m.—pl. rhuchiwyr (rhuch—gwr) One who skins, one who clears of husks.
Rhud, s. m. (rhy—ud) A cast or drive forward: rue; also called gorddawn.
Rhudd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhy—udd) A ruddy or crimson colour. a. Ruddy, crimson; callow.

Yn Llongborth gwelais i waedfrau,
Ac elorawr rhag arfau,
A gwyr rhudd rhag rhuthr angau.

In Llongborth I saw a blood stream, and biers because of arms, and red men from the assault of death. Llywarch Hen.

Rhuddain, a. (rhudd) Of a crimson colour.
Rhuddaur, s. m. (rhudd—aur) Ruddy gold.
Rhuddaw, v. a. (rhudd) To make of a crimson colour; to become of a crimson hue.
Rhuddawg, a. (rhudd) Having a redness. Y rhuddawg, the redbreast.
Rhuddawl, a. (rhudd) Tending to redden.
Rhuddbar, s. f. (rhudd—par) A ruddy spear.
Rhudded, s. m. (rhudd) A red streak; a path.
Rhuddedig, a. (rhudded) Being made ruddy.
Rhuddel, s. f. (rhudd) A ruddy tinge; a glow.

Y seren——
Yn ganaid ruddel felen.

The star appearing a luminary of yellow glow. Iolo Goch.

Rhuddell, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhudd—eli) A red salve.
Rhuddelin, a. (rhuddel) Of a ruddy tinge.
Rhuddell, s. f. (rhudd) A crimson colour; red ochre, or ruddle, also called nod coch; measles.
Rhuddellen, s. f. (rhuddell) One of a ruddy hue.

Y ferch hygar ruddellen.

The maid that is a lovely one of rosy hue. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhuddelliad, s. m. (rhuddell) A streaking with crimson, a staining with crimson.
Rhuddellu, v. a. (rhuddell) To stain with crimson.
Rhuddem, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhudd—gem) A ruby.

Ac y dan ruddem ruddaur fodrwy.

And beneath the ruby a ring of ruddy gold. Cynddelw.

Rhudden, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhudd) What is of a crimson hue; a red streak; a ruby.
Rhuddenu, v. a. (rhudden) To streak with red.
Rhudderw, a. (rhudd—erw) Surrounded with red. Marwor rhudderw, red glowing embers.
Rhuddfa, s. f.—pl. rhuddfëydd (rhudd) A reddened spot; a spot of ground parched or made bare of grass.
Rhuddfäawg, a. (rhuddfa) Abounding with crimson spots: An epithet for a warrior, synonymous with rhuddfanawg.

Helm-gribawg rhuddfäawg fydd.

With helm high-crested stained with crimson he will be. Adage.

Rhuddfan, s. f. (rhudd—man) A crimson spot.
Rhuddfanawg, a. (rhuddfan) Crimson spotted.

Tri rhuddfanogion Ynys Prydain: Arthur, Morgan Mwynfawr, a Rhun fab Beli. Sef pan elynt i ryfel, ni fynai neb araws gartref rhag maint eu cerid.

The three crimson spotted ones of the isle of Britain; Arthur, Morgan the Courteous, and Rhun the son of Beli. Because, when they went to war, no body would wish to stay at home, as they were so greatly beloved. Trioedd.

Rhuddfanu, v. a. (rhuddfan) To spot with red.
Rhuddfedel, s. f. (rhudd—medel) A ruddy reap.

Rhuddfedel rhyfel a eidduni.

The crimson reap of war is thy delight. Aneurin.

Rhuddfelyn, s. m. (rhudd—melyn) An orange yellow. a. Of an orange yellow.
Rhuddgoch, s. m. (rhudd—coch) A crimson red, pink, purple colour. a. Of a pink colour.
Rhuddgochedd, s. m. (rhuddgoch) The state of being of a pink colour.
Rhuddgochi, v. a. (rhuddgoch) To turn to a pink.
Rhuddgochni, s.m. (rhuddgoch) The state of being of a pink colour.
Rhuddiad, s. m. (rhudd) A turning to a pink.
Rhuddiant, s.m. (rhudd) A turning to a pink.
Rhuddin, s. m. (rhudd) The heart of timber.

——Yw'r pren gwin;
A Rhydderch ydyw'r rhuddin.

——Is the vine tree; and Rhydderch is the heart of oak. H. Cae Llwyd.

Rhuddinaw, v. n. (rhuddin) To form a core.
Rhuddinawg, a. (rhuddin) Having sound wood.
Rhuddinedd, s. m. (rhuddin) The soundness of timber.
Rhudding, s. m. (rhudd) The heart of timber.
Rhuddion, s. pl. aggr. (rhudd) Gurgions. Rhuddion gwenith, the husks or bran of wheat.
Rhuddionawg, a. (rhuddion) Having gurgions.
Rhuddioni, v. a. (rhuddion) To clear of gurgions.
Rhuddionllyd, a. (rhuddion) Full of gurgions.
Rhuddlas, s. m. (rhudd—glas) A crimson blue.
Rhuddlasiad, s. m. (rhuddlas) A turning purple.
Rhuddlasu, v. a. (rhuddlas) To turn purple.
Rhuddlesni, s. m. (rhuddlas) A purple colour.
Rhuddlwyd, s.m. (rhudd—llwyd) A russet colour.
Rhuddlwydaw, v. n. (rhuddlwyd) To turn of a russet colour; to make of russet colour.
Rhuddos, s.pl. dim. (rhudd) Marigold. Rhuddos y morfa, or rhuddos y gors, marsh marigold.
Rhuddwern, s. pl. aggr. (rhudd—gwern) The bird-cherry trees.
Rhuddwernen, s. f. (rhuddwern) A bird-cherry.
Rhuddyg, s. m. (rhudd) That is of crimson hue.
Rhuddygl, s. m. (rhuddyg) Raddish. Rhuddygl Mawrth, or rhuddygl y meirch, march-ruddygl, horse-raddish.
Rhuedd, s. m. (rhu) A roaring; loquacity.
Rhueinell, s. f. (rhuain) A clarion.

——Gwydyr a'i can,
Corn rhueinell ein gellgwn.

Gwydyr sounds it, the clarion horn of our hounds. Cynddelw.

Rhuf, s. m. (rhu) That tends forward; that breaks out; that is of a reddish hue.
RHUFAIN, s. f. Rome. Dinas Rhufain, the city of Rome.
Rhufeiniad, s. m.—pl. rhufeiniaid (rhufain) A Roman, or inhabitant of Rome.
Rhufeiniaidd, a. (rhufain) Romanized.
Rhufeinig, a. (rhufain) Roman; of Rome.
Rhufell, s. f.—pl. t. od) (rhuf) A roach.
Rhufon, s. m. (rhuf) That is reddened.
Rhug, s. m. (rhu) That is apt to move; that abounds with breaks or points.

Rhugl, s. f. (rhug) Quickness; friction. a. Of free motion; free, ready; fluent; rife.
Rhuglaidd, a. (rhugl) Apt to be in motion.
Rhuglaw, v. a. (rhugl) To move about briskly; to use dexterity or readiness; to clear, to clear away, to smooth, to rub. Rhugla y baw i ffwrdd, shovel away the dirt.
Rhuglchwyrn, a. (rhugl—chwyrn) Of apt fluency.
Rhugledig, a. (rhugliad) Being cleared; rubbed.
Rhugledd, s. m. (rhugl) A brisk motion; friction; readiness; fluency. Rhugledd ymadrawdd, fluency of speech.
Rhuglen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (rhugl) A drum.
Rhuglfar, s. m. (rhugl—bar) Of ready wrath.
Rhuglfwng, a. (rhugl—blwng) Apt to be sullen.
Rhuglgroen, s. f. (rhugl—croen) A rattle made of a dry hide, with stones in it, carried on a pole, used for scaring animals away.
Rhugliad, s. m. (rhugl) A moving briskly; a rubbing, a friction; a clearing away.
Rhuglwr, s. m.—pl. rhuglwyr (rhugl—gwr) One who rubs, makes smooth, or clears away.
Rhull, a. (rhu) Apt to break out; luxuriant; frank, free; rash, or hasty. Rhoddi yn rhull, to give frankly.

O derfydd i'r brenin ddodi nebun rhull, anghyfrwys yn frawdwr.——

*If the king should have appointed any one rash and inexperienced to be a justiciary.*—— Welsh Laws.

Enwir ef rull i werin.

He will be called frank to the multitude. Llefoed.

Rhullder, s. m. (rhull) Luxuriance; profusion; promptness; rashness; frankness.
Rhulldra, s. m. (rhull) The state of being rife; frankness; rashness.
Rhulledd, s. m. (rhull) Rifeness; frankness.
Rhullfalch, a. (rhull—balch) Rashly proud.

Lles bychan byan yw bod yn rhullfalch,
A'r hoilfyd fal tlurf rhod.

Small and transitory the benefit from being thoughtlessly proud, while the universe is like a wheel. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhulliad, s. m. (rhull) A being rife; a going on rashly; a frankly acting.
Rhulliant, s. m. (rhull) Rashness; frankness.
Rhum, s. m. (rhu) That tends out; that projects, that swells out.
Rhumawg, s.m. (rhum) Having a rotundity. s. f. A paunch, a rotundity of belly.
Rhumen, s. f. dim. (rhum) The paunch, or belly.

Nid iachach yr enaid er llenwi y rhumen.

The soul is not more sane for filling of the paunch. Adage.

Rhumiad, s. m. (rhum) A forming a paunch.
Rhumwth, s. m. (rhum) A greedy-gut.
Rhun, s. m. (rhu—un) That is grand or awful.
Rhuon, s. m. (rhu) A ravager; a warrior.
Rhus, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhu) A beginning of motion; that starts out; a starting off, a recoil; a start from the effect of shyness; also an epithet for a fox, like reynard in English. In Siluria, the first starter of a fox calls hwi rhus! for which he gets a fee from the hunters.
Rhusaeth, s. m. (rhus) The act of starting.
Rhusaw, v. a. (rhus) To start off; to flit away; to start with fear; to hesitate.
Rhusawg, a. (rhus) Starting; hesitating; shy.
Rhusawl, a. (rhus) Starting; hesitating; shy.
Rhusedig, a. (rhus) Being made to start.
Rhusedd, s. m. (rhus) A state of starting; a state of hesitation; shyness.
Rhusfa, s. f.—pl. rhusfeydd (rhus) A starting.
Rhusgar, a. (rhus) Apt to start; restive.

Rhusgarwch, s. m. (rhusgar) Aptness to start.
Rhusiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhus) A beginning to move; a starting; a hesitation.
Rhusiant, s. m. (rhus) A starting; hesitation.
Rhusoglyd, a. (rhusawg) Apt to start; restive.
Rhusogrwydd, s. m. (rhusawg) The state of being subject to starting; restiveness.
Rhuswr, s. m.—pl. rhuswyr (rhus—gwr) A starter.
Rhuth, s. m. (rhu) A break out; a rush.
Rhuthr, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhuth) A sudden drive, gust, or rushing; an attack, assault, or onset; a stretch; a good while.

Yn Llongborth gwelais i wythaint,
Ac elorawr mwy no maint,
A gwyr rhudd rhag rhuthr Geraint.

In Llongborth I beheld the desolation of wrath, and biers not to be numbered, and warriors stained with blood from the assault of Geraint. Llywarch Hen.

Gwedy treuliaw rhuthr o amser, Caswallon ac Edwyn—a ymchwelasant trach eu cefn i eu gwlad.

After consuming a length of time, Caswallon and Edwyn returned back to their country. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhuthrad, s. m. (rhuthr) A rushing forward.
Rhuthraw, v. a. (rhuthr) To make an onset, to rush, to assault, to fly or run at.
Rhuthrawg, a. (rhuthr) Apt to rush, apt to attack. Tarw rhuthrawg, a vicious bull.
Rhuthrawl, a. (rhuthr) Rushing, assaulting.
Rhuthredig, a. (rhuthrad) Being rushed upon.
Rhuthredd, s. m. (rhuthr) A state of rushing.
Rhuthriad, s. m. (rhuthr) A rushing onward.
Rhuthrlam, s. m. (rhuthr—llam) A rushing leap.
Rhuthrlym, a. (rhuthr—llym) Rushingly fierce or outrageous.
Rhuthrnaid, s. f.—pl. rhuthrneidiau (rhuthr—naid) A ramping leap.
Rhuthrwr, s. m.—pl. rhuthrwyr (rhuthr—gwr) One who rushes forward; an assaulter.
Rhuthrwyllt, a. (rhuthr—gwyllt) Rushingly wild, outrageous, or furious.
Rhuwch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhu) An exterior coat, a rug; a rough garment. Gogr rhuwch, a ranging sieve, a bolter.

Rhuwch mab aillt LX a dal:
Rhuwch taiawg XXX a dal.

A free tennant's rug is of the value of sixty pence: a villain's rug is worth thirty pence. Welsh Laws.

Rhuwchen, s. f. dim. (rhuwch) An exterior coat; a rough cloak; a rug.
Rhuwr, s. m.—pl. rhuwyr (rhu—gwr) A roarer; a loquacious or noisy person.
RHW, s. m. r. What breaks or grows out.
Rhwawg, a. (rhw) Abounding with growth; having hair, full of hairs. Dyn rhwawg, a very hairy man, or one who has a thick strong beard. Sil. Iestyn Farfrwawg, Iestyn with the thick beard.
Rhwb, s. m. (rhw—wb) A rub; a chafe.
Rhwbiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwb) A rubbing.
Rhwbiaw, v. a. (rhwb) To rub; to chafe.
Rhwbiawl, a. (rhwb) Rubbing, tending to rub.
Rhwbiwr, s. m. (rhwb—gwr) One who rubs.
Rhwch, s. m. (rhw) That is rough; a grunt.

Rhyw i hwch ei rhwch.

Genial to the sow is her grunt. Adage.

Rhwchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwch) A grunting.
Rhwchial, s. m. (rhwch) A grunting, such as a hog makes when he is shrill with it.
Rhwchiala, v. a. (rhwchial) To keep grunting.
Rhwchiaw, v. a. (rhwch) To grunt; to grumble.
Rhwchiawl, a. (rhwch) Grunting, grumbling.
Rhwchws, s. m. (rhwch) A ray, or a skate.
Rhwd, s. m. (rhw—wd) What generates on a surface; rust; also the smut in corn. Rhwd haiarn, iron mould; rhwd lli, the crust or sediment left by a flood; rhwd tomydd, the draining of dunghills.
Rhwdawg, a. (rhwd) Covered with rust, rusty, of a rusty colour. Y rhwdawg, the redbreast; also called Y rhuddawg, bronrhuddyn, and brongoch.
Rhwf, s. m. (rhw) That breaks out; that swells or puffs out; a ravager.
Rhwg, s. m. (rhw) That projects; a rub.
Rhwgl, s. m. (rhwg) That tends to reach.
Rhwgn, s. m. (rhwg) A rub, a friction; a place rubbed or worn away.
Rhwm, s. m. (rhy—wm) That tends inward.
Rhwmnai, s. m. (rhwmyn) That runs through; a main channel. There are several rivers so called. Gwin rhwmnai, rhenish wine.
Rhwmp, s. m. (rhwm) A borer, an auger.

Rhwmp, dwygeiniawg a dal.

A large auger, its value is two-pence. Welsh Laws.

Rhwmyn, s. m. (rhwm) That perforates.
Rhwn, s. m. (rhy—wn) That covers over.
Rhwnc, s. m. (rhy—wnc) A snort, a snore. Rhwnc yn ngwddw, a rattle in the throat.
Rhwnciad, s. m. (rhwnc) A snorting; a guggling.
Rhwncian, s. m. (rhwnc) A snorting; a guggle.
Rhwncianu, v. a. (rhwncian) To make a continual snorting; to make a guggling.
Rhwnciaw, v. a. (rhwnc) To snort; to guggle.
Rhwnciawl, a. (rhwnc) Snorting; guggling.
Rhwnen, s. f. (rhwn) A single pear.
Rhwnsi, s. m. (rhwn—si) A rough-coated horse.
Rhwnt, s. m. (rhwn) That covers over.
Rhwnyn, s. pl. aggr. (rhwn) Pears. They are also called gellaig, eraint, and peranau.
Rhwnynen, s. f. dim. (rhwnyn) One of pears.
Rhwng, s. m. (rhy—wng) Intermediacy.
Rhwng, prep. (rhy—wng) Between. Rhyngof, rhyngwyf, rhyngthof, rhyngthwyf, between me; rhyngot, rhyngthot, between thee; rhyngo, rhyngtho, between him; rhyngi, rhyngthi, between her; rhyngom, rhyngthom, between us; rhyngoch, rhyngthoch, between you; rhyngynt, rhyngthynt, between them.

Cant punt yn y flwyddyn yw y gwahaniaeth rhwng dos a dyre.

A hundred pounds a year is the difference between go and come. Adage.

Rhws, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (rhws) A fertile country; a cultivated region, as opposed to the wilds. It is synonymous with bro.
Rhwsg, s. m. (rhws) That tends out, that is bulky; that is luxuriant. a. Bulky; luxuriant, fertile. Tir rhwsg, rank land, that is rich, or apt to overrun with fern and the like.
Rhwtiad, s. m. (rhwd) A corroding; a chafing.
Rhwtiaw, v. a. (rhwd) To corrode; to fret, to rub.
Rhwtiawg, a. (rhwd) Having a fret or chafe.
Rhwtiawl, a. (rhwd) Corroding; chafing.
Rhwtiedig, a. (rhwtiad) Corroded; chafed.
Rhwtion, s. pl. aggr. (rhwd) Particles; dregs.
Rhwtioni, v. a. (rhwtion) To produce dregs.
Rhwtws, s. pl. dim. (rhwd) Small unconnected particles; dregs, dross.
Rhwtionllyd, a. (rhwtion) Drossy, or dreggy.
Rhwth, s. m. (rhw—wth) That is open or wide. a. Wide, open, gaping, yawning; greedy.

Rhwy, s. m. (rhw) That runs out, or through; excess, superfluity.

Nid mawr i'th gerid,
Os rhwy a erchid.

Not greatly wouldest thou be loved, if thou shouldest ask for too much. Adage.

Rhwy, adv. (rhw) Too much, to excess; utterly.

A gwyno rhwy ni rygwynfan.

He that complains of too much does not complain at all. Adage.

Angeu cad orddwy, rhwy rhymcoddes;
Angen a'm lludd gwen; gwae, rwy golles
——Cadwallawn!

The death of devastating war has afflicted me to excess; necessity refrains my smile; alas, utterly lost is Cadwallon! Cynddelw.

Rhwyad, s. m. (rhwy) A producing excess; the fish called a pike.

Rhwyaw, v. a. (rhwy) To produce an excess.

Rhwyawl, a. (rhwy) Excessive, superfluous.

Rhwych, s. f. (rhwy) That extends out.

Rhwyd, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhwy) That abounds with openings or holes; a net. Rhwyd gibliad, a hoop net; rhwyd dyn, a drag net; rhwyd eog-iaid, rhwyd balleg, ballegrwyd, a salmon net; rhwyd ddwyffon, a net between two staffs; rhwyd aden, a wing net; rhwyd adara, a birding net.

Detholais fy rhwyf yn rhwyd gelynion,
Gal ynial yn mblymnwyd.

I have chosen my leader as the snare of foes, a wild opponent in the conflict. Cynddelw, i Wenwynwyn.

Rhwydadwy, a. (rhwyd) Capable of being netted.

Rhwydaw, v. a. (rhwyd) To make a net, to net; to take in a net; to entangle, to ensnare.

Rhwydawg, a. (rhwyd) Reticulated, netted.

Rhwydawl, a. (rhwyd) Reticular, ensnaring.

Rhwth free-fol rhwydol, rhodia y creigiau,
Rhefrau, was mwythau, a'th osmeithia.

With thy loose rotten belly entangled, stroll about the rocks, son of dainties, entrails shall be thy food. R. Goch Bryri, i lwynawg.

Rhwydedig, a. (rhwyd) Reticulated; ensnared.

Rhwyden, s. f. dim. (rhwyd) A net; a caul.

Rhwydiad, s. m. (rhwyd) Reticulation, netting.

Rhwydronell, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhwyd—rhonell) A lace; a snare, a gin.

Rhwydwaith, s. m. (rhwyd—gwaith) A net-work, a caul.

Rhwydwëydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwyd—gwëydd) A net-maker.

Rhwydwr, s. m. (rhwyd—gwr) A net man.

Rhwydd, a. (rhwy) Open, clear, or free of obstruction; easy to be accomplished; easy, frank; prosperous; tolerable, pretty well. Rhwydd ganu, tolerable singing. adverb, Tolerably. Rhwydd iach, tolerably well; rhwydd debyg, tolerably like.

Rhwydd ni bo dyrys.

What is not entangled is unobstructed. Adage.

Ni welais i lam rhwydd i ewig.

I have not seen an unobstructed leap for a doe. Adage.

Rhwyddäad, s. m. (rhwydd) A rendering clear free, or easy; a becoming unobstructed.

Rhwyddadwy, a. (rhwydd) Capable of being free, easy, or unobstructed.

Rhwyddaidd, a. (rhwydd) Somewhat open or easy

Rhwyddâu, v. a. (rhwydd) To clear of obstruction; to make easy; to facilitate, to speed.

Rhwyddaw, v. a. (rhwydd) To free, to clear, to make easy; to become unobstructed.

Rhwyddawl, a. (rhwydd) Facilitating, freeing.

Rhwyddâwr, s. m.—pl. rhwyddâwyr (rhwyddâu—gwr) One who clears from obstruction.

Rhwydd-deb, s. m. (rhwydd) Clearness from obstruction; facility; success, prosperity. Rhwydd-deb iti! Success attend thee!

Rhwydded, s. f. (rhwydd) Free course; success.

Rhwyddedig, a. (rhwydd) Being facilitated.

Rhwyddfodd, s. m. (rhwydd—bodd) A free will, good pleasure. a. Of free will.

Rhwyddfudd, s. f. (rhwydd—budd) Benefit easily obtained. a. Liberal of benefit.

Rhwyddgadw, v. (rhwydd—cadw) To keep freely.

Ni'm rhwyddgeidw Rhodri.

Rhodri will not freely support me. Gwalchmai.

Rhwyddgael, v. a. (rhwydd—cael) To get easily.

Rhwyddged, s. f. (rhwydd—ced) Treasure easily obtained. a. Free of treasure.

Rhwyddgof, s. m. (rhwydd—cof) A clear memory.

Rhwyddhynt, s. f. (rhwydd—hynt) Free course.

Rhwyddiad, s. m. (rhwydd) A rendering clear, open, easy, or unobstructed; a facilitating.

Rhwyddiannawl, a. (rhwyddiant) Facilitating.

Rhwyddiannu, v. a. (rhwyddiant) To render clear, easy, or unobstructed, to make facile.

Rhwyddiant, s. m. (rhwydd) Facility, or easiness.

Rhwyddiator, ger. (rhwyddiad) In facilitating.

Rhwyddineb, s. m. (rhwydd) The state of being clear, easy, or unobstructed.

Tri rhagoriaeth mydr; cywreindeb, rhwyddineb, ac accan ber.

The three excellencies of metre; accuracy, volubility, and harmonious accent. Barddas.

Rhwydditor, sup. (rhwydd) To be facilitating.

Rhwyddles, s. m. (rhwydd—lles) Unobstructed benefit. a. Of unrestrained advantage.

Rhwyddlwyn, s. m. (rhwydd—llwyn) The speedwell; also called llysiau Llywelyn. Rhwyddlwyn blewynawg, germander speedwell.

Rhwyddoldeb, s. m. (rhwyddawl) The state of being clear, easy, or unobstructed.

Rhwyddoli, v. a. (rhwyddawl) To facilitate.

Rhwyddrad, s. m. (rhwydd—rhad) Free grace; free bounty. a. Of unrestrained grace.

Rheiddrudd roddiad, rhwyddrad rhun.

A ruddy-lanced distributer, a prodigal of unrestrained bounty. Cynddelw, i Wenwynwyn.

Rhwyddred, s. f. (rhwydd—rhed) A free course. a. Of unobstructed course.

Rhwyddrwysg, s. m. (rhwydd—rhwysg) Free sway a. Of unrestrained sway.

Rhwyddyn, s. m. (rhwydd) That is loose or easy.

Rhwyddyndawd, s. m. (rhwyddyn) Facility.

Rhwyddynedd, s. m. (rhwyddyn) The state of being free, easy, or unrestricted.

Yn wir dymbi——
Rhwyddynedd buddedig rhoesedd rhiydd rheithau.

In truth to me there shall come the freedom of the advantageous abundance of the chiefs of the laws. Taliesin.

Rhwyddynu, v. a. (rhwyddyn) To facilitate.

Rhwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwy) That tends forward, impels, or directs; a tendency forward; ambition; a commander, a ruler; also an oar. Llong ddwyrwyf, dwyrwyfan, a ship with two oars.

Yr haf hynaws, rhwyf hinon,
O'm serch amdanad mae'm son!
Dychwel yn ol i'r dolydd
Yn drum draw er gwisgaw gwydd.

Thou genial summer, sovereign of serenity, my theme is of my love for thee! Return to the dales again, in fair order there to deck the wood. D. ab Gwilym.

Balchion, trawsion, mawr yw'n rhwyf,
Tra fo'm ar nwyf yn porthi.

Proud ones, froward ones, great is our arrogance, whilst on our passion we are borne. T. ab Ieuan Madawg.

Rhwyfad, s. m. (rhwyf) An impelling forward; a directing; a swaying.

Rhwyfadain, s. f. (rhwyf—adain) A guiding wing; a guiding or impelling fin.

> Tan dy fron——
> Ddwy adain dda odiaeth;
> Ac ar dy gefn gwryd gain,
> I fodo dy rwyfadain.
>
> Beneath thy breast two wings excellently good; and on thy back of fair extent, to move along, thy directing fins. T. Prys, i'r gleisiad.

Rhwyfadur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwyfad) One who sways; a ruler; a guider, a director.

Rhwyfai, s. c. (rhwyf) That sways, dominator.

Rhwyfain, v. a. (rhwyf) To be swaying.

Rhwyfan, s. m. (rhwyf) That sends or directs forward; rule, sway, direction. "Oer rwyfan tymhestl," the cold sway of the tempest.

Rhwyfan, v. a. (rhwyf) To guide, to direct; to bear sway, to dominate.

> Rhyarfelddiaf naf nerthawg ddygyrchu,
> Yn rhwyfan teulu, rhwyf teuluawg.
>
> With confidence I will venture to approach the mighty chief, conducting a family, a lord of a numerous race. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn ab Iorwerth.
>
> Llaw orthrech wrth rwyfan Mordwy.
>
> An overpowering hand whilst swaying on the watery course. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhwyfanawl, a. (rhwyfan) Swaying; directing.

Rhwyfanes, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwyfan) A female who rules, guides, or directs.

Rhwyfaniad, s. m. (rhwyfan) A swaying; a directing; domination.

Rhwyfaniaeth, s. m. (rhwyfan) Domination.

Rhwyfanu, v. a. (rhwyfan) To dominate.

Rhwyfanus, a. (rhwyfan) Dominative; ruling.

> Gweisionain ffraeth bid arfaethus;
> Yd fyddant wyr rhamaut ryd rwyfanus.
>
> Loquacious youths let them be full of designs; aspiring men will be of imperious course. Myrddin.

Rhwyfaw, v. a. (rhwyf) To tend forward; to guide; to impel; to rule, to sway; also to row.

Rhwyfawl, a. (rhwyf) Ruling, swaying; directing; rowing.

Rhwyfedig, a. (rhwyf) Swayed; directed; rowed

Rhwyfenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwyfan) A ruler.

> Y profwy fy marddrin,
> Gysefin och cynran,
> Bedd Rhufawn rwyfenydd ran.
>
> So as to prove my bardic lore, of superior lot, this is the grave of Rhuvon with the aspect of an imperious one. Taliesin.

Rhwyfiad, s. m. (rhwyf) A tending forward; a directing; a swaying; a rowing.

Rhwyfiadawl, a. (rhwyfiad) Dominative.

Rhwyfiadu, v. a. (rhwyfiad) To dominate.

Rhwyfiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhwyfiad) One who sways, rules, or directs; a governor.

> Oiana barchellan——
> Cladd yn lle argel yn argoedydd,
> Rhag erwys Rhydderch Hael, rhwyfiadur ffydd.
>
> Listen, little pig: burrow in a secret place in the bordering woods, for fear of the chase of Rhydderch the Generous, leader of the faith. Myrddin.

Rhwyfiadus, a. (rhwyfiad) Dominative.

Rhwyfiant, s. m. (rhwyf) Domination.

Rhwyfiator, ger. (rhwyfiad) In directing.

Rhwyfineb, s. m. (rhwyf) Guidance; sway.

Rhwyfitor, sup. (rhwyf) To be swaying.

Rhwyfolaeth, s. m. (rhwyfawl) Dictatorship.

Rhwyfoldeb, s. m. (rhwyfawl) A state of sway, direction, or authority; a dictatorial state.

Rhwyfoli, v. a. (rhwyfawl) To render dominant; to become possessed of sway, to become dictatorial.

Rhwyfus, a. (rhwyf) Fond of sway; haughty.

> Gwnae ddilyn cynghor gwyr boneddigion ieuainc rhwyfus yn gynt no dangosiad gwyr araf doethion.
>
> He would follow the advice of proud young men of noble rank sooner than the direction of moderate wise men. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Rhwyfusaw, v. a. (rhwyfus) To render imperious or haughty; to become dictatorial.

Rhwyfusedd, s. m. (rhwyfus) Imperiousness.

Rhwyfwr, s. m.—pl. rhwyfwyr (rhwyf—gwr) One who leads or impels forward; a rower.

Rhwyfydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwyf) One who guides or directs; a rower.

Rhwyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwy) A rent, a rupture

Rhwygadwy, a. (rhwyg) Capable of being rent.

Rhwygaw, v. a. (rhwyg) To rend, or to tear.

Rhwygawl, a. (rhwyg) Rending, lacerating.

Rhwygedig, a. (rhwyg) Rent, torn, lacerated.

Rhwygiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwyg) A tearing.

> Por cynghor rhagor, parau rwygiad trin,
> Paun gwirodion win, pen gwarediad.
>
> A chief of superior council who would continue the tearing of conflict, the displayer of wassail wine, supreme deliverer. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhwygiant, s. m. (rhwyg) A tearing, a rending.

Rhwygiator, ger. (rhwygiad) In tearing.

Rhwygitor, sup. (rhwyg) To be tearing.

Rhwygwr, s. m. (rhwyg—gwr) A tearer.

Rhwyl, s. m.—pl. t. on (rhwy) An open space; a clear enclosed spot; a ring-fence; court.

> Rhwyl Careg Hofa cafas ynddaw
> Cawdd Saeson, lladron yn eu lludwaw.
>
> The hall of Careg Hova had in it the affliction of Saxons, thieves who were reduced to dust. Llygad Gwr, i Gr. Maelawr.

Rhwylaw, v. a. (rhwyl) To make an opening; to form a paddock, or enclosure.

Rhwylwaith, s. m. (rhwyl—gwaith) Open-work; a curious interlaced work.

Rhwyll, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwy) A narrow aperture, a hole; a mortise; an interstice; a passage; a casement; also a fretwork, or open-work. Rhwyllau botymau, button-holes; rhwyllau gwëydd, brwydau gwëydd, a weaver's reeds.

> A rhwyll yn nghanol pob rhod.
>
> And a fretwork in the midst of every circle. W. Lleyn, i fen.
>
> Tri llew, glas fal yr asur,
> Trwy wyllt dan, a'r tair rhwyll dur.
>
> Three lions, blue like azure sky, through vehement fire, and the three frets of steel. Iolo Goch, i arfau Llychlyn.

Rhwyllaw, v. a. (rhwyll) To make narrow aperture; to make fretwork; to make lattice-work. Rhwyllaw edafedd, to wind thread.

Rhwyllawg, a. (rhwyll) Abounding with holes or interstices; fretted, consisting of lattice-work, chequered, cross-barred.

> Yr oedd hen wisg o ball rhwyllawg amdeni.
>
> There was an old garment of fretted velvet about her. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Rhwylledig, a. (rhwyll) Perforated with crevices; fretted, grated; latticed.

Rhwylliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwyll) A forming of narrow apertures; a fretting; a grating, a making lattice-work.

Rhwyllwaith, s. m. (rhwyll—gwaith) A fret-work

Rhwyllwr, s. m.—pl. rhwyllwyr (rhwyll—gwr) One who makes interstices, or fretwork.

Rhwym, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwy) That circumscribes or contains; a bond, a tie. a. Bound.

> Dyga ran dy garennydd;
> Dwg ni o'n rhwym dygn yn rhydd!
>
> Take the portion of thy kindred; take us from our severe bond and set us free! Iolo Goch, i O. Glandwr.

Rhwymaw, v. a. (rhwym) To bind, to tie. Rhwymaw gwartheg, to tie or to house cattle.
Rhwymawl, a. (rhwym) Tending to bind; binding; restrictive; obligatory.
Rhwymbleth, s. f.—pl. t. i (rhwym—pleth) An entwined wreath.
Rhwymed, s. m. (rhwym) A bounden state.
Rhwymedi, s. m. (rhwym) That keeps bound; a power to bind or to restrain.

> Ymadel heb rwymedi;
> A thost ymadel a thi!
>
> To part without a power to prevent, and afflicting is it to part with thee! W. Lleyn.

Rhwymedig, a. (rhwym) Bounden, tied; obliged
Rhwymedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwymedig) The state of being bound; restriction.

> Dygai, o'i rwymedigaeth,
> Dau lu i nef, da elw a wnaeth.
>
> He conducted, owing to his confinement, two hosts to heaven; a good deed he thus performed. Hop. Tho. Phylip.

Rhwymedigaw, v. a. (rhwymedig) To render bounden; to become bounden.
Rhwymedigawl, a. (rhwymedig) Obligatory.
Rhwymedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwym) Obligee
Rhwymedd, s. m. (rhwym) A bounden state.
Rhwymiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwym) A tying; a binding; a bandage; restriction; obligation.
Rhwymiannawl, a. (rhwymiant) Restrictive.
Rhwymiannu, v. a. (rhwymiant) To make a restriction, to make an obligation.
Rhwymiant, s. m. (rhwym) Restriction; bond.
Rhwymwr, s. m.—pl. rhwymwyr (rhwym—gwr) One who binds.
Rhwymydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwym) A binder.
Rhwymyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (rhwym) A band, a bandage; a swathe, a swaddling-band. Rhwymyn y coed, black briony.
Rhwymynawl, a. (rhwymyn) Tying, binding.
Rhwymyniad, s. m. (rhwymyn) A tying on a bandage; a swaddling.
Rhwymynu, v. a. (rhwymyn) To tie on a bandage; to swaddle.
Rhwymynwr, s. m.—pl. rhwymynwyr (rhwymyn—gwr) One who puts on a bandage.
Rhwyn, s. m. (rhwy) A stretching round, a wind, or twist.
Rhwynaw, v. a. (rhwyn) To stretch round.
Rhwyniad, s. m. (rhwyn) A stretching round.
Rhwyoli, v. a. (rhwyawl) To render excessive or superfluous; to become prodigal.
Rhwys, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwy) Vigour; wantonness; luxuriance. a. Vigorous, lively, wanton; luxuriant.

> Tydi yr haf, tad y rhwys,
> A'th goed-frig berth gaeadfrwys,
> Cawn genyd y byd o'i ben.
>
> Thou summer, father of vigour, with thy fair vegetating branches thickly spreading, of thee we shall have the world all before us. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhwysaw, v. a. (rhwys) To render vigorous; to render luxuriant; to become vigorous.
Rhwysawg, a. (rhwys) Full of vigour; luxuriant

> Y gog——
> A thraserch i'th iaith rwysawg
> Yn minio gwawd—Clyw fi.
>
> The cuckoo, with thy lively language filled with fond love, expressing praise, listen to me. D. ab Gwilym.

Rhwysawl, a. (rhwys) Invigorating; enlivening.
Rhwysdawd, s. m. (rhwys) Vigorousness; luxuriance; liveliness, wantonness.
Rhwysdeb, s. m. (rhwys) Vigorousness; vivacity
Rhwysder, s. m. (rhwys) Vigorousness; vivacity.
Rhwysdra, s. m. (rhwys) Vigorousness; luxuriance, fertility; liveliness; wantonness.

Rhwysedig, a. (rhwys) Invigorated; enlivened.
Rhwysedd, s. m. (rhwys) Vigorousness; vivacity.
Rhwysfawr, a. (rhwys) Full of vigour; greatly luxuriant; full of vivacity.
Rhwysg, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—gwysg) A career, a course; forwardness; sway, pomp, grandeur. Rhwysg malwen, a snail's track; mae efe yn fawr ei rwysg, he takes upon himself great sway.
Rhwysgaw, v. a. (rhwysg) To make a career, to run a course; to go forward, to risk; to take upon one's self to sway, to be forward.
Rhwysgawd, s. m. (rhwysg) The act of taking a career or swaying; a taking a career.
Rhwysgawg, a. (rhwysg) Having an open course or career; having sway; froward.
Rhwysgawl, a. (rhwysg) Going an unrestrained course; risking, swaying; forward.
Rhwysgedig, a. (rhwysg) Being made to run headlong; unrestrained.
Rhwysgedd, s. m. (rhwysg) The state of having unobstructed course or sway.
Rhwysgfawr, a. (rhwysg) Of great sway; of pomp
Rhwysgfowredd, s. m. (rhwysgfawr) Greatness of sway; unrestrained course; pomposity.
Rhwysgiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwysg) A taking an unrestrained course; a swaying.
Rhwysgl, s. m. (rhwysg) A tendency to go headlong.
Rhwysglaw, v. a. (rhwysgl) To run headlong.
Rhwysgliad, s. m. (rhwysgl) A going headlong.
Rhwysglyd, a. (rhwysg) Froward, or restive.
Rhwysgus, a. (rhwysg) Apt to start, starting. March rhwysgus, a starting horse.
Rhwysgwr, s. m.—pl. rhwysgwyr (rhwysg—gwr) One who takes an unrestrained course.
Rhwysiad, s. m. (rhwys) An invigoration.
Rhwysiannawl, a. (rhwysiant) Invigorating.
Rhwysiannu, v. a. (rhwysiant) To invigorate; to become vigorous; to luxuriate.
Rhwysiant, s. m. (rhwys) An invigoration.
Rhwysineb, s. m. (rhwys) Vigorousness.
Rhwysogi, v. a. (rhwysawg) To render vigorous; to become vigorous; to luxuriate.
Rhwysoldeb, s. m. (rhwysawl) Vigorousness.
Rhwysolder, s. m. (rhwysawl) Vigorousness.
Rhwysoledd, s. m. (rhwysawl) Vigorousness.
Rhwysoli, v. a. (rhwysawl) To invigorate.
Rhwystr, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—gwyst) Opposition, hinderance, impediment, let, or obstacle.

> Nid trais ond tan;
> Nid rhwystr ond dwfr.
>
> There is no violence but fire; there is no obstruction but water Adage.

Rhwystrad, s. m. (rhwystr) An opposing; a hindering; opposition, obstruction.
Rhwystradwy, a. (rhwystr) Capable of opposing, obstructing, or hindering.
Rhwystraw, v. a. (rhwystr) To go before; to oppose, to hinder; to become hindered.
Rhwystrawg, a. (rhwystr) Abounding with opposition or hinderance; restrictive.
Rhwystrawl, a. (rhwystr) Opposing, hindering.
Rhwystredig, a. (rhwystr) Opposed, hindered.
Rhwystredigaeth, s. m. (rhwystredig) The act of opposing, obstruction, hinderance.
Rhwystredigawl, a. (rhwystredig) Obstructive.
Rhwystredd, s. m. (rhwystr) A state of opposition
Rhwystri, s. m. (rhwystr) Hinderance, or let.

> Yn myned i ynys Enlli,
> Er ymwared o bob rhwystri.
>
> Going to the Isle of Enlli, for deliverance from every obstruction. Cataeg.

Rhwystriad, s. m.—pl. rhwystriaid (rhwystr) An obstructor, a hinderer.
Rhwystriadawl, a. (rhwystriad) Obstructive.
Rhwystrus, a. (rhwystr) Having opposition or obstacle; hindering, entangled, encumbered.
Rhwystrusaw, v. a. (rhwystrus) To render obstructive; to become obstructive.
Rhwystrusedd, s. m. (rhwystrus) Obstructiveness
Rhwystrusi, s. m. (rhwystrus) Hinderance.
Rhwystrusrwydd, s. m. (rhwystrus) A state of opposition or hinderance; cumbersomeness.
Rhwystrwr, s. m.—pl. rhwystrwyr (rhwystr—gwr) A hinderer, an obstructor.
Rhwyswawd, s. m. (rhwys—gwawd) Vigorous flow of genius.
Rhwyth, s. m. (rhwy) That pervades; juice.

Ardwyaf, profaf prifwawd, nis cyll,
Eurged rhaith yfed, nid rhwyth efyll.

I will manage, I will essay a high strain of praise, not to perish, to the golden law of drinking, not of crab-tree juice. Prydydd Brwen.

Rhwythaw, v. a. (rhwyth) To pervade.
Rhwythawl, a. (rhwyth) Pervasive, penetrant.
Rhwythawr, s. m.—pl. rhwythorion (rhwyth) A pervader. Rhwythawr llawr, the pervader of the ground.
RHY, s. m. r.—pl. t. on. The state of being beyond or over; excess. It is used very generally as a preposition of emphasis, especially with verbs. Prefixed to the preterite of a verb it forms the preterpluperfect tense; with the present tense, it implies the action done in a signal manner: and with the future it implies a time still further. Ni rygymwelsynt, they had not previously seen one another.

Nid da rhy o ddim.

The excess of any thing is not good. Adage.

Rhy, adv. (rhy, s.) Over, beyond, too much; very, excessively; too. It is often compounded with the first and second pronouns singular and plural: as rhym dorai, it would much concern me: rhyth welid, thou wert previously seen: Dofydd rhy'n digones, the Lord did abundantly provide for us.

Rhy ddirwy, dyrawr ei hollon;
Rhy ddylawch eirchiad ag eirchion;
Rhy ddyladd yn ddrud ran canaon cnud;
Rhy ddylus alltudion.

He fines excessively, he impels his claims; greatly he encourages petitioners with gifts; most boldly he slays the portion of the whelps of sculk; he completely keeps off strangers. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Rhanwr pob pwnc rhy uniawn:
Rhan ar wir yn rhanu'r iawn.

The giver of every point most just; a party on the side of truth dispensing justice. L. G. Cothi.

Rhyachub, v. a. (achub) Completely to save.
Rhyachubaw, v.a. (rhyachub) Completely to save
Rhyachubawl, a. (rhyachub) Fully saving.
Rhyachubiad, s. m. (rhyachub) A fully saving.
Rhyachwyn, v.a. (achwyn) To complain overmuch
Rhyachwynawl, a. (rhyachwyn) Too complaining
Rhyachwyniad, s. m. (rhyachwyn) A complaining overmuch; a greatly complaining.
Rhyadaw, v. a. (gadaw) To leave utterly.
Rhyadawiad, s. m. (rhyadaw) A leaving utterly.
Rhyadfarn, s. f. (adfarn) A full rejudgment.
Rhyadfarniad, s. m. (rhyadfarn) A rejudging.
Rhyadfarnu, v. a. (rhyadfarn) To rejudge entirely; to revoke a judgment.

Os addef a wna yr amddiffynwr, adfered i'r hawlwr yr eiddo, yn herwydd rhyadfarnu y gyfraith a fu gynt.

If the defendant shall make an acknowledgement, let him restore to the claimant the property, so as to rejudge entirely the sentence formerly given. Welsh Laws.

Rhyaddaw, v. a. (addaw) To promise greatly.
Rhyaddawiad, s. m. (rhyaddaw) A promising overmuch.
Rhyaddewid, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhyaddaw) A too great a promise.
Rhyafael, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gafael) Too great a hold; an excessive grasp.
Rhyafaelgar, a. (rhyafael) Grasping overmuch.
Rhyafaeliad, s. m. (rhyafael) An over-grasping.
Rhyal, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (al) Procreation.
Rhyaledd, s. m. (rhyal) Procreativeness.
Rhyaliad, s. m. (rhyal) A procreating.
Rhyalu, v. a. (rhyal) To procreate, to beget.
Rhyalus, a. (rhyal) Procreative; procreant.
Rhyall, s. m. (gall) Superior power. a. Of superior power; invincible.

Coronawg faban, medd bardd arall,
Mydonwy esgob, a fydd ryall.

The crowned infant, says another bard, Mydonwy the bishop, will be invincible. Rhys Nanmor.

Rhyallad, s. m. (rhyall) Supreme power.

Pen a borthaf yn angad fy llaw,
Llary udd llywiai wlad
Pen post Prydain rhyallad.

A head I bear in the grasp of my hand, a mild sovereign who governed a country, the chief pillar of Britain's supreme power. Llywarch Hen.

Rhyallu, v. a. (rhyall) To have superior or complete power; to be fully competent.

Aryneigiaw ac ofnau a orug Coel ymladd yn ei erbyn; canys ei glod a gadarnasai na ryallasai un brenin gwrthwynebu iddo.

Coel became intimidated and fearful of fighting against him; for his fame had strengthened the idea that not one sovereign could have had the power to withstand him. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyamcan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (amcan) Too great a design.
Rhyamcanawl, a. (rhyamcan) Over designing.
Rhyamcaniad, s. m. (rhyamcan) A designing overmuch.
Rhyamcanu, v.a. (rhyamcan) To design overmuch.
Rhyanfodd, s. m. (anfodd) Over difficulty of pleasing or giving satisfaction.
Rhyanfoddawg, a. (rhyanfodd) Being too difficult to please; very hard to please.

Ni cheiff rhyanfoddawg rybarch.

He that is over difficult to please will not get much respect. Adage.

Rhyanfoddiad, s. m. (rhyanfodd) A displeasing overmuch; a satisfying with difficulty.
Rhyanfoddiaw, v.a. (rhyanfodd) To over-displease
Rhyanfon, v. a. (anfon) To send fully.

Gosodes Duw, megys brenin cyfoethawg, llys arddercbawg iddo, a elwir teyrnas nef;—ac i'r llys hono y rhagweles ef ryanfon ohono rif hysbys o etholedigion.

God, like a powerful king, established for him a magnificent court, which is called the kingdom of heaven; and to that court he foresaw that he should have to send a certain number of chosen ones. Elucidarius.

Rhyanfonawl, a. (anfon) Completely sending.
Rhyanfoniad, s. m. (anfon) A sending fully.
Rhyanhael, a. (anhael) Illiberal to excess.
Rhyanllad, a. (anllad) Wanton to excess.
Rhyanlladrwydd, s. m. (rhyanllad) Excess of wantonness; a state of excessive lust.
Rhyanlladu, v. (rhyanllad) To be too wanton.
Rhyanllofi, v. a. (anllofi) To over-enrich.

Cwrwf o'i yfed,
A chain drefred,
A chain dudded,
Ym rhyanllofed.

Ale to be drank, and fair habitation, and splendid raiment, there have been profusely bestowed on me. Taliesin.

Rhyanllofiad, s. m. (anllofiad) A profusely enriching; an endowing overmuch.
Rhyannog, s. m. (annog) Too much excitement. v. a. To excite overmuch.

Rhyannogawl, a. (rhyannog) Over exciting.
Rhyannogi, v. a. (rhyannog) To excite greatly.
Rhyannogiad, s. m. (rhyannog) An exciting overmuch; a greatly impelling.
Rhyannosbarth, s. m. (annosbarth) Excess of indiscrimination.
Rhyannosbarthawl, a. (rhyannosbarth) Very indiscriminate.
Rhyannosbarthu, v. a. (rhyannosbarth) To render or become too indiscriminate.
Rhyannwyd, s. m. (annwyd) Excess of chilliness.
Rhyar, s. m. (rhy—ar) Great agitation; a torrent.
Rhyaraf, a. (araf) Slow overmuch.
Rhyarafedd, s. m. (rhyaraf) Excess of slowness.
Rhyarafu, v. a. (rhyaraf) To make too slow.
Rhyarfeiddiad, s. m. (arfeiddiad) A behaving with too much assurance.
Rhyarfeiddiaw, v. a. (arfeiddiaw) To dare or to presume overmuch.
Rhyarfeiddiawl, a. (arfeiddiawl) Too presuming, apt to take too great a liberty.
Rhyarfer, s. f. (arfer) Excess of use.
Rhyarferiad, s. m. (rhyarfer) An over-using.
Rhyarferu, v. a. (rhyarfer) To use overmuch.
Rhyarganfod, v. a. (arganfod) To perceive completely, to over-scrutinize.
Rhyarw, a. (garw) Very rough; very severe.
Rhyattal, v. a. (attal) To stop overmuch.
Rhyattaliad, s. m. (rhyattal) A stopping or withstanding overmuch.
Rhyathu, v. a. (athu) To go completely.

Gloew, wedi caffael y gaer, a'i goresgyn, a gwasgaru y muroedd, cychwyn a wnai ar ol Gweirydd: a ryathoedd hyd yn Nghaer Wynt.

Gloew, after having obtained the city, and subdued it, and demolished the walls, what he did was to set off after Gweirydd, who had gone as far as Winchester. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyawd, s. m. (rhy) A producing an extreme.
Rhyawl, a. (rhy) Tending to an extreme.
Rhyb, s. m. (rhy—yb) Tendency forward.
Rhyball, a. (pall) Extremely fallible or faulty.
Rhyballiad, s. m. (rhyball) A failing extremely.
Rhyballu, v. a. (rhyball) To fail extremely.
Rhybarawd, a. (parawd) Extremely ready.
Rhybarch, s. m. (parch) Excess of respect. a. Overmuch of respect; extreme regard.

Ni bydd rybarch rhagynnefin.

Too much familiarity will not be over-respected. Adage.

Rhybarchu, v. a. (rhybarch) To respect much.
Rhybech, s. m. (pech) Excess of sin. a. Very sinful.
Rhybechu, v. a. (rhybech) To sin extremely.
Rhybed, s. m. (ped) That is fixed by clinching.
Rhybediad, s. m. (rhybed) A clinching.
Rhybediaw, v. a. (rhybed) To clinch.
Rhybenyd, s. m. (penyd) Extreme penitence.

Addwyn rhybenyd i bechawd.

Happy is extreme penance for sin. Taliesin.

Rhybenydiad, s. m. (rhybenyd) A performing extreme penance.
Rhybenydiaw, v. a. (rhybenyd) To perform extreme penance; to be over-penitent.
Rhybinc, a. (pinc) Over-affected; too smart.
Rhybinciaw, v. a. (rhybinc) To adorn overmuch; to be too affected.
Rhyblanu, v. a. (planu) To plant fully.
Rhyblyg, a. (plyg) Over doubled; redoubled.
Rhyblygiad, s. m. (rhyblyg) Reduplication.
Rhyblygu, v. a. (rhyblyg) To double completely.
Rhyborth, s. m. (porth) Complete support.
Rhyborthi, v. a. (rhyborth) To maintain or to support completely.

Llys Owain, ar braidd yd rhyborthed erioed.

The hall of Owain, on spoil it has been completely supported always. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Beirdd ganhelw gaanerth berth rhyborthes.

Bards claiming a splendid portion he greatly maintained. Cynddelw.

Rhyborthiad, s. m. (rhyborth) A completely bearing or upholding.
Rhybrid, a. (prid) Fully equivalent; of full price.
Rhybridiad, s. m. (rhybrid) A rendering or becoming fully equivalent; full expiation.
Rhybridiaw, v. a. (rhybrid) To expiate fully.
Rhybrin, a. (prin) Extremely scarce or scanty.
Rhybrinder, s. m. (rhybrin) Extreme scarcity.
Rhybrudd, a. (prudd) Extremely pensive or sad.

A chwardded Palestina gaeth
Ei chwerthin aeth yn rhybrudd.

And let enthralled Palestina smile: her laughter is turned extremely sad. Edm. Prys.

Rhybruddiaw, v. n. (rhybrudd) To be very sad.
Rhybrudd-der, s. m. (rhybrudd) Extreme sadness
Rhybrydu, v. a. (prydu) To give a full description, to sing completely.

Mydwyf Daliesin;
Rhyphrydaf iawnllin,
Parhawd hyd ffin
Yn nghynnelw Elffin.

I am Taliesin, I will fully sing of the just offspring: let it continue to the end in the right of Elfin. Taliesin.

Rhybryn, s. m. (pryn) That is previously secured; that is fully purchased.
Rhybryniad, s. m. (rhybryn) A previously securing; a purchasing beforehand.
Rhybrynu, v. a. (rhybryn) To secure fully or previously; to purchase previously.

Rhybrynawdd barfawg a eirch.

A bearded one has previously made sure of what he may ask for. Adage.

Rhybrysur, a. (prysur) Over-bustling, over-busy.
Rhybrysuraw, v. a. (rhybrysur) To hasten extremely; to be in extreme bustle or hurry.
Rhybrysurdeb, s. m. (rhybrysur) Overhastiness.
Rhybuch, s. m. (puch) Earnest longing.
Rhybuchaw, v. a. (rhybuch) To wish earnestly.

Nid estyn llaw ni rybuch calon.

The hand will not reach what the heart does not long for. Adage.

Rhag beiau rhiau, yni renid budd,
Dy rybydd, Ruffydd, a rybuchid.

For the faults of chieftains, if there shall be no distribution of profit, thy warning, Gruffydd, would be earnestly sought for. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhybuched, s. f. (rhybuch) The fulfilment of the will; a donation of a gift asked for.

Caraf a'm rhoddes rybuched medd.

I love the one who gave me the wished-for boon of mead. H. ab Owain.

Bychan iawn o rybuched
A gair genyfi o ged.

Very little indeed as a boon will be had of treasure from me. Gr. Gryg.

Y neb y rhoddo y brenin dir iddo yn gyfarwys, neu yn rhybuched arall.——

To whomsoever the king shall give land as an acknowledgement for service, or any other donation.—— Welsh Laws.

Rhybuchedig, a. (rhybuch) Earnestly longed-for.

Gwedi caredigion gusanau a geiriau rhybuchedig, ar fyrder, megys ymadrawdd arall, hi a fynegis o'i brawd ansawdd y llys; ac a ddangoses iddo y dewin, yr oedd yn ei geisiaw.

After affectionate kisses and endearing words, presently, turning to another discourse, she declared to her brother the condition of the court; and she shewed him the wizard, whom he was seeking for. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhybuchiad, s. m. (rhybuch) A desiring earnestly.
Rhybuchiannawl, a. (rhybuchiant) Inducing earnest longing or desire.

Rhybuchiannu, v. a. (rhybuchiant) To cause earnest longing; to be earnestly wishing.
Rhybuchiant, s. m. (rhybuch) Earnest longing.
Rhybuchwr, s. m.—pl. rhybuchwyr (rhybuch—gwr) One who desires earnestly, a craver.
Rhybudd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pudd) Warning, admonishment. Mae ef tàn ei rybudd na wnelo hyny, he is under warning that he may not do so.

Rhybudd i ddedwydd.

A warning to the provident. Adage.

Tri pheth a ddyly pawb ei ddiolch: gwahawdd, rhybudd, ac anrheg.

Three things every body should be thankful for; invitation, warning, and a present. Trioedd.

Rhybuddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhybudd) An admonishing, or warning; admonition.
Rhybuddiaeth, s. m. (rhybudd) The act of warning.

Diwraidd rhybuddiaeth a dewredd i ddyn;
Y ddwygamp fynawg yn ddigwymp fonedd.

Of no avail shall foresight and bravery be to man; two happy virtues of firm foundation. Sefnyn.

Rhybuddiaw, v. a. (rhybudd) To give warning.

Rhybuddiaw trwch ni weryd.

To warn the giddy will be of no avail. Adage.

Rhybuddiawl, a. (rhybudd) Admonitory.
Rhybuddiedig, a. (rhybuddiad) Being warned.
Rhybur, a. (pur) Extremely pure or clear.
Rhyburaw, v. a. (rhybur) To purify completely.

A'th iolwyf: ryburwyf cyn no'm poeni.

May I adore thee; may I be completely purified before I am punished. Meilyr.

Rhyburawl, a. (rhybur) Very purifying.
Rhyburiad, s. m. (rhybur) A purifying extremely.
Rhybwyll, s. m. (pwyll) First impression of idea.
Rhybwylliaw, v. a. (rhybwyll) To give a first idea.
Rhybwylliad, s. m. (rhybwyll) A producing a first thought or consideration.
Rhybwys, s. m. (pwys) Extreme weight.
Rhybwysaw, v. a. (rhybwys) To press extremely.
Rhybwysawl, a. (rhybwys) Superponderant.
Rhybwysiad, s. m. (rhybwys) A pressing extremely; superponderation.
Rhybwyth, s. m. (pwyth) A retort; an over-pay. Talu rhybwyth, To make retaliation.
Rhybwythaw, v. a. (rhybwyth) To retort.
Rhybwythiad, s. m. (rhybwyth) A retorting.
Rhych, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—ych) A trench, a furrow; the furrow in ploughed land.
Rhychawg, a. (rhych) Having trenches.
Rhychawl, a. (rhych) In the form of a trench.

Mil o erwydd o dir rhychawl i fesur gwialén Hywel Dda.

A thousand acres of ridged land according to the rod of Hywel the Good. Welsh Laws.

Rhychawr, s. m.—pl. rhychorion (rhych) That is in the furrow; an epithet for the ox that draws on the furrow side in a yoke.
Rhychdir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhych—tir) Ridged land; arable land.
Rhychganwyr, s. m. (rhych—canwyr) A groove plane.
Rhychiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhych) A furrowing, a trenching; a chamfering.
Rhychiedig, a. (rhychiad) Furrowed, trenched.
Rhychu, v. a. (rhych) To trench; to furrow.
Rhychwai, a. (chwai) Over-hasty; very quick.
Rhychwal, s. f. (chwal) An extreme spread.
Rhychwaliad, s. m. (rhychwal) A scattering extremely; a spreading overmuch.
Rhychwalu, v. a. (rhychwal) To scatter extremely Rhychwanegawl, a. (rhychwaneg) Superadding.
Rhychwanegiad, s. m. (chwaneg) Superaddition.
Rhychwanegu, v. n. (chwanegu) To superadd.
Rhychwant, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—chwant) An overreach, an utmost stretch; a span.

Meined o wasg mewn y tant
Chwi amdrouch i'm dau rychwant.

So slender of waist within the zone; you would turn yourself in my two spans. T. Aled.

Rhychwantiad, s. m. (rhychwant) A spanning.
Rhychwantu, v. a. (rhychwant) To span.

Mae efe yn rhychwantu yr wybren.

He is spanning the firmament. Morgan Llwyd.

Rhychwardd, s. m. (chwardd) Excessive laughter.
Rhychwarddiad, s. m. (rhychwardd) A laughing excessively; a setting up a horse laugh.
Rhychwarddu, v. a. (rhychwardd) To laugh excessively or overmuch.
Rhychware, s. m. (chware) Excess of play. v. a. To play overmuch; to play to excess.
Rhychwarëus, a. (rhychware) Over-playful.
Rhychweidawd, s. m. (rhychwai) Over-briskness.
Rhychweidra, s. m. (rhychwai) Extreme briskness.
Rhychweiedd, s. m. (rhychwai) Over-quickness.
Rhychwerthin, s. m. (chwerthin) Excessive laughter. v. a. To laugh excessively.
Rhyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—yd) That is full of motion; a course; a passage; a ford.

Moled pawb y rhyd fal y caffo.

Let every body praise the ford as he finds it. Adage.

Y ddau frenin a nesynfyynghyd yn mherfedd y rhyd, ac ymgyfarfod; ac ar y gosawd cyntaf, y gwr a oedd yn lle Arawn a osodes ar Hafgan.

The two kings approached together in the middle of the ford, and encountered one another, and on the first attack, the person who was in the stead of Arawn laid upon Havgan. H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.

Rhydaen, s. m. (taen) An excessive spreading.
Rhydaeniad, s. m. (rhydaen) An over-spreading.
Rhydaenu, v. a. (rhydaen) To spread overmuch.
Rhydaer, a. (taer) Too violent; too importunate.
Rhydaeredd, s. m. (rhydaer) Over-importunity.
Rhydaf, s. m. (rhy—taf) An overspreading.
Rhydafl, s. m. (tafl) An excessive throwing.
Rhydafliad, s. m. (rhydafl) A throwing excessively.
Rhydaflu, v. a. (rhydafl) To throw extremely.
Rhydain, s. f. (rhyd) That is full of motion; the young of deer, a fawn. It is also called rhydawl.

Rhaid fydd i'r hydd——
Arawn y rhydain arab.

It will be meet for the stag to stay for the gladsome fawn. Llywelyn Moel.

Rhydal, s. m. (tal) An over-payment.
Rhydaliad, s. m. (rhydal) An over-paying; a retorting; a retaliation.
Rhydalu, v. a. (rhydal) To over-pay; to retort.

A rhythal y Drindawd traha.

And the Trinity will retaliate presumption. Llefoed.

Rhydarf, s. f. (tarf) Excessive rout or flight.
Rhydarfaidd, a. (rhydarf) Of a tendency to scare away extremely.

Rhydarfaidd aerfiaidd eurfiaen rhodawg.

The quickly routing wolf of slaughter with golden bossed shield. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Rhydarfiad, s. m. (rhydarf) An over-scaring.
Rhydarfu, v. a. (rhydarf) To over-scare.
Rhydasg, s. f. (tasg) An excessive task.
Rhydasgiad, s. m. (rhydasg) An overtasking.
Rhydasgu, v. a. (rhydasg) To fix an over-task.
Rhydaw, s. m. (taw) Extreme silence, taciturnity.
Rhydawg, a. (rhyd) Having full course or run.
Rhydawl, a. (rhyd) Being full of agitation or motion. It is also an epithet for a fawn.
Rhydech, s. m. (tech) Extreme aptness to skulk.

Rhydechiad, s. m. (rhydech) A skulking greatly.
Rhydechu, v. a. (rhydech) To skulk extremely; to become completely concealed.

Ni rydecho rhyddygir.

Who will not conceal himself greatly will be completely taken away. Llefoed.

Rhydechwr, s. m.—pl. rhydechwyr (rhydech—gwr) One who skulks overmuch; a coward.
Rhydedig, a. (rhyd) Being made into a ford.
Rhydedd, s. m. (tèdd) Presidency, or supremacy.
Rhydeddawg, a. (rhydedd) Having supremacy.
Rhydeddawl, a. (rhydedd) Apt to be supreme.
Rhydeddiad, s. m. (rhydedd) A making supreme.
Rhydeddu, v. a. (rhydedd) To render supreme or exalted; to become exalted.
Rhydeddus, a. (rhydedd) Superior, or exalted.
Rhydeg, a. (rhy—teg) Extremely fair or fine.
Rhederig, a. (terig) Excessive or continual aptitude to copulate; a term applied to barren animals. Buwch rhyderig, a cow that doth not calve; hwch rhyderig, a barren sow.
Rhydewi, v. n. (rhydaw) To be very tacit.

Ni rygar trugar tra syberwyd;
Ni rydaw anaw o'i anwylyd.

The merciful will not be over fond of extreme pride; the minstrel will not be quite silenced about the object of his love. Cynddelw, i Dduw.

Rhydgoch, s. m. (rhwd—coch) A rusty red; a russet colour; also called rhuddlwyd.
Rhydiad, s. m. (rhyd) A forming a ford; a fording.
Rhydiad, s. m. (rhwd) A rusting; a corrotion.
Rhydiaw, v. a. (rhyd) To form a ford; to ford.

Hawdd rhydiaw ffrwd pisodyn.

It is easy to ford the stream of a piddle. Adage.

Rhydiawg, a. (rhyd) Having a rippling course; having a ford.
Rhydiawl, a. (rhyd) Relating to a ford.
Rhydid, s. m. (tid) That is out of bond; liberty.
Rhydle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhyd—lle) A passage place, a fording place; opportunity.
Rhydlyd, a. (rhwd) Full of rust; rusty.

Bid lyfn dy baderau; bid rydlyd dy arfau.

Be thy beads smooth, be thy weapons rusty. Adage.

Rhydlydrwydd, s. m. (rhydlyd) Rustiness.
Rhydlydu, v. a. (rhydlyd) To become rusty.
Rhydni, s. m. (rhwd) Rustiness, or rust.
Rhydo, s. m. (to) A complete covering.
Rhydöad, s. m. (rhydo) A covering over fully.
Rhydogaeth, s. m. (rhydawg) Deliverance.

O Dduw na chaem rydogaeth
Y 'strain oddiwrth y boncaeth!
Os tebygan' idd eu rhyw
Angharuaidd yw'r genedlaeth.

Would to God we had a deliverance of our tribe from the whole! If they prove like their kind unamiable is the generation. W. Davies o Lanfair Fawr.

Rhydöi, v. a. (rhydo) To cover over fully; to overspread; to overwhelm.

Seithenyn, saf di allan,
Ac edrych werydre faranres:
Mor Maes Gwyddno rhydoes.

Seithenyn, do thou stand out, and behold the fertile land of thy subjects: the sea has overspread the plain of Gwyddno. Gwyddno.

Rhydollt, s. m. (rhwd—ollt) Saw-dust.
Rhydraeth, s. m. (traeth) The state of being pre-uttered.
Rhydraethawd, s. f. (rhydraeth) A prediction.
Rhydraethiad, s. m. (rhydraeth) A predicting.
Rhydraethu, v. a. (rhydraeth) To predict.

Diau ddarogant
I Addaf a'i blant
Y rydraethysant
Y proffwydi.

A certain prophecy with respect to Adam and his progeny the prophets did predict. Meilyr.

Rhydraidd, s. m. (traidd) Extreme pervation.
Rhydrais, s. m. (trais) Extreme violence.
Rhydraul, s. f. (traul) Excess of consumption; excessive waste; excess of expence.
Rhydraws, a. (traws) Extremely thwarting; excessively froward or perverse.
Rhydreiddiad, s. m. (rhydraidd) A pervading extremely; superimpregnation.
Rhydreiddiaw, v. a. (rhydraidd) To pervade extremely, to penetrate thoroughly.
Rhydreisiad, s. m. (rhydrais) A using extreme violence; a tyrannizing to excess.
Rhydreisiaw, v. a. (rhydrais) To use extreme violence; greatly to tyrannize.
Rhydres, s. m. (tres) Arrogance; pragmaticalness.
Rhydresawl, a. (rhydres) Pragmatical.
Rhydresgar, a. (rhydres) Arrogant, assuming; ostentatious, supercilious, flaunting.
Rhydresgarwch, s. m. (rhydres) Arrogance, assumingness, pragmaticalness; superciliousness.
Rhydreuliad, s. m. (rhydraul) A consuming extremely; a wasting overmuch.
Rhydreuliaw, v. a. (rhydraul) To consume to excess; to waste overmuch.
Rhydrig, s. m. (trig) Over-continuance or delay.
Rhydrigaw, v. a. (rhydrig) To tarry too long.
Rhydrigiad, s. m. (rhydrig) An over-tarrying.
Rhydrist, a. (trist) Extremely dejected or sad.
Rhydristwch, s. m. (rhydrist) Extreme sadness.
Rhydrws, s. m. (trws) Too much dressing.
Rhydrwsiad, s. m. (rhydrws) An over-dressing.
Rhydrwsiaw, v. a. (rhydrws) To deck extremely.
Rhydu, v. a. (rhwd) To generate rust, to rust.

Ni ad, mwy no'i dad, o'i dy,
Ar y frwydr, arf i rydu.

No more than his father, will he suffer, from his house, for a weapon to rust, in time of battle. Gut. Owain, m. T. Llwyd.

Rhydweli, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhyd—gweli) An artery.

Mae briw saeth i'm ber-ais i,
A thrwy dal wyth rhydweli.

There is an arrow wound below my rib, and through my temple a throbbing vein. S. Tudyr.

Rhydwf, s. m. (twf) Excess of growth; exuberance.
Rhydwll, s. m.—pl. rhydyllau (twll) A perforation.
Rhydwng, s. m. (twng) An anathema.
Rhydwr, s. m.—pl. rhydyrau (twr) An over-heap.
Rhydyddiad, s. m. (tyddiad) A completing an arrangement, bargain, or compact; a final settlement.
Rhydyddiaw, v. a. (tyddiaw) To complete an arrangement, bargain, or compact. Dyfed.
Rhydyfawl, a. (rhydwf) Tending to overgrow.
Rhydyfiad, s. m. (rhydwf) An overgrowing; a supercrescence, superexcrescence.
Rhydyfu, v. n. (rhydwf) To overgrow.
Rhydylliad, s. m. (rhydwll) A perforating.
Rhydyllu, v. a. (rhydwll) To perforate.

A'i ddwylaw ir-waed o ddolurion;
A'i draed oll lleisiad rhydyllyson'.

And his hands reeking with blood from wounds; and his feet all livid they pierced extremely. G. ab Ieu. ab Ll. Fychan.

Rhydyn, a. (tyn) Overtight; overstress.
Rhydyniad, s. m. (rhydyn) A drawing overmuch, a superstraining.
Rhydynu, v. a. (rhydyn) To draw to excess.
Rhydyngawl, a. (rhydwng) Anathematical.
Rhydyngiad, s. m. (rhydwng) An anathematizing.
Rhydyngu, v. a. (rhydwng) To anathematize.

Llias pawb pan rydyngir.

Every body will be put away when there shall be anathematizing. Adage.

Rhydyriad, s. m. (rhydwr) An over-heaping.

Rhydyru, v. a. (rhydwr) To over-heap; to gather together extremely.

> Attan rhydyran', o'i lan lioedd;
> Rhyddylif cynnif can fodd Dofydd.
>
> To us they will flock extremely, of his fair multitude; misery will be fully relieved through the will of the Supreme. Llywelyn Fardd, i Gadfan.

Rhydd, s. m. (rhy—ydd) The state of being open, loose, or at large; liberty, freedom.

> Tri chyntefigaeth cyflwr dyn: cynnull cyntaf ar wybodaeth, cariad, a nerth, heb angeu; ac nis gellir hyn yn mraint rhydd a dewis cyn dyndawd; ac y tri hyn a elwir y tri gortrech.
>
> The three primitial things in the state of humanity: the accumulations of knowledge, love, and power, without undergoing dissolution; and this cannot be done as of liberty and choice previous to humanity; and these three are called the three victories. Barddas.

Rhydd, a. (rhy—ydd) Open, loose, at large; free.

> Or tery dyn rhydd ddyn caeth, taled ddeuddeg ceiniawg iddo.
>
> If a free person shall strike a bondman, let him pay to such twelve pence. Welsh Laws.
>
> Nid oedd yr all a fai can ddoethed a Helen Luyddawg yn y celfyddydau rhydd.
>
> There was not another that was so wise as Helen the Warlike in the liberal sciences. Gr. ab Arthur.
>
> Mae rhai a'u golwg yn rhydd,
> Yn gweled beiau' gilydd.
>
> There are some with their sight unrestrained, perceiving the faults of each other. G. ab Hywel ab Tudyr.

Rhyddâad, s. m. (rhyddâu) A loosening, an enlarging, a freeing; liberation.

Rhyddâawl, a. (rhyddâu) Loosening, enlarging.

Rhyddadeni, v. (dadeni) To be fully reproduced.

Rhyddadl, s. f.—pl. rhyddadlau (dadl) Excess of dispute, contention, or debate.

Rhyddadliad, s. m. (rhyddadl) An over-disputing.

Rhyddadlu, v. a. (rhyddadl) To over-dispute.

Rhyddail, s. pl. aggr. (dail) Over-leaves; the second growth of leaves.

Rhyddal, v. a. (dal) An excessive holding.

Rhyddaliad, s. m. (rhyddal) A holding to excess.

Rhyddaly, v. a. (rhyddal) To hold overmuch.

Rhyddarogan, s. f.—pl. t. au (darogan) A superior prediction.

Rhyddaroganiad, s. m. (rhyddarogan) A delivering a superior oracle or prognostication.

Rhyddaroganu, v. a. (rhyddarogan) To deliver a superior prediction.

> Morini Brython,
> Rhyddaroganyn';
> A medi heon
> Am Hafren afon.
>
> The Morini Britons, their fate will be fully predicted; and the reaping of heroes about Havren river. Taliesin.

Rhyddâu, v. a. (rhydd) To set open, to loosen, to set at large; to free, to liberate; to deliver, to release, to acquit.

Rhyddawn, s. m.—pl. rhyddoniau (dawn) Superior gift, endowment, or virtue.

Rhyddawr, s. m. (dawr) Extreme concern.

Rhyddâwr, s. m.—pl. rhyddâwyr (rhyddâu—gwr) One who sets free, one who loosens.

Rhydded, s. f. (rhydd) A state of liberty, freedom.

Rhyddedawg, a. (rhydded) Having liberty; enlarged, released, exempted, dispensed with.

Rhyddedogi, v. a. (rhyddedawg) To set at liberty; to render exempted; to become at liberty.

Rhyddeisyf, s. m. (deisyf) Earnest entreaty. v. a. To entreat earnestly; to crave overmuch.

Rhyddeisyfawl, a. (rhyddeisyf) Greatly entreating

Rhyddeisyfiad, s. m. (rhyddeisyf) An entreating earnestly; a craving or begging overmuch.

Rhyddeisyfu, v. a. (rhyddeisyf) To entreat greatly

Rhydderchafawl, a. (derchafawl) Over-exalting.

Rhydderchafiad, s. m. (derchafiad) An exalting overmuch, a being uplifted overmuch.

Rhydderchafu, v. a. (derchafu) To over-exalt.

> Byddinoedd Cadwaladr cadr y deuant;
> Rhydderchafwynt Cymmry; cad a wnâant.
>
> The hosts of Cadwaladr mightily they would come; they would extremely exalt the Cymmry; they would bring on a battle. Golyddan.

Rhyddiaeth, s. m. (rhydd) A state of freedom.

Rhyddiaith, s. f. (rhydd—iaith) Free language.

Rhyddiant, s. m. (rhydd) Relaxation; liberation.

Rhyddïawg, a. (dïawg) Lazy overmuch.

Rhyddid, s. m. (rhydd) Liberty, freedom; immunity, exemption; licence, leave.

> Tri chyflwr hanfod bywedigion; cyflwr abred yn anwn, cyflwr rhyddid yn nyndawd, a chyflwr cariad, sef gwynfyd, yn y nef.
>
> The three states of existence of living beings; the state of inchoation in the great deep, the state of liberty in humanity, and the state of love, that is felicity, in heaven. Barddas.

Rhyddieithaidd, a. (rhyddiaith) Like prose.

Rhyddieithawl, a. (rhyddiaith) Prosaic.

Rhyddifeichiaw, v. a. (difeichiaw) To exonerate bail fully; to free a surety fully.

Rhyddifoneddu, v. a. (difoneddu) To divest completely of nobility.

Rhyddig, a. (dig) Extremely wroth or angry.

Rhyddigon, s. m. (digon) A more than enough.

Rhyddigonedd, s. m. (digon) Over-sufficiency.

Rhyddigoni, v. a. (rhyddigon) To satiate.

Rhyddillyn, a. (dillyn) Smart to excess.

Rhyddillynedd, s. m. (rhyddillyn) Affectation.

Rhyddineb, s. m. (rhydd) Exemption from restraint, freedom, facility, readiness, fluency.

Rhyddïogi, v. n. (rhyddïawg) To become extremely lazy, or indolent.

> Ni cofn noeth yn ysgall;
> Pawb pan ryddïoger yd ball.
>
> The naked is not bold amongst thistles; every body when rendered very idle, will fail. Taliesin.

Rhyddiriad, s. m. (diriad) Excess of iteration; a being troublesome to excess; a being very mischievous.

Rhyddiriaw, v. a. (diriaw) To iterate to excess.

> Un rodd orwag ni ryddiriwn o ged.
>
> One empty gift of treasure I would not greatly importune. Gro. Owain.

Rhyddiriawl, a. (diriawl) Excessively iterating.

Rhyddisgyn, s. m. (disgyn) A bringing down fully. v. a. To alight completely.

Rhyddisgyniad, s. m. (rhyddisgyn) A completely bringing down or alighting.

Rhyddisgynu, v. a. (rhyddisgyn) To bring or put down completely; to alight fully.

> Gwedi dawed ohono hyd geriiaw glyn, oedd yn agaws i gaer Caint, ef gweles yn y lle hono llu gwyr Rhufain ag eu pebylliau ac eu lluestau, gwedi rhyddisgynu yn y glyn.
>
> After he had come close to a valley, which was near to Canterbury, he saw in that place the army of the men of Rome, with their tents and their booths having been quite taken down in the valley. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyddodawl, a. (dodawl) Superinducing.

Rhyddodi, v. a. (dodi) To superinduce.

Rhyddodiad, s. m. (dodiad) Superinduction.

Rhyddoeth, a. (doeth) Wise overmuch.

Rhyddoethedd, s. m. (rhyddoeth) Over-wisdom.

Rhyddogn, s. m. (dogn) An over-quantity.

Rhyddognedd, s. m. (rhyddogn) Over-quantity.

Rhyddogni, v. a. (rhyddogn) To give an over-quantity; to satiate.

> Aele o'm dygnedd ydd ym dogned;
> Rhyddognais fawr-gerdd am ei fawr-ged.
>
> With grievous severity I have been portioned; I dedicated a superfluity of exalted song for his great treasure. Cynddelw, i Gadwallon.

Rhyddogniad, s. m. (rhyddogn) A giving an over-quantity; a satiating.

Rhyddoniad, s. m. (rhyddawn) A gifting with superior talent or endowment.
Rhyddoniaeth, s. m. (rhyddawn) Superior gift.

Gwn na welwn——
Wr un faeth ryddoniaeth rym,
Na gwaladr a wnai Gwilym.

I know that we shall not see a person of like education with the energy of superior talent, nor such a leader as Gwilym would make. Rhys Goch Eryri.

Rhyddoniaw, v. a. (rhyddawn) To gift in a superior manner.

Dirieidion ddynion, ni ryddonych, Tad,
Dirydd ffydd ffod, brad a'i bredych.

Mischievous men, whom thou dost not endow with grace, Father, without a way to escape through faith, ruin will destroy them. Cashodyn.

Rhyddorawl, a. (rhyddawr) Of extreme concern.
Rhyddori, v. a. (rhyddawr) To give extreme concern; to be extremely concerned.
Rhyddoriad, s. m. (rhyddawr) A rendering or becoming of great concern.
Rhyddrent, s. m. (rhydd—rhent) Gavel-kind. Sil.
Rhyddrud, a. (drud) Over-bold; dear to excess.
Rhyddwyllys, s. m. (rhydd—gwyllys) Free will.

Ein rhyddwyllys nid ydyw yn cyfarwyddaw rhad Duw; ond rhad Duw yn cyfarwyddaw ein rhyddwyllys.

Our free will doth not influence the grace of God; but the grace of God doth influence our free will. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Rhyddwyn, v. a. (dwyn) To over-carry.
Rhyddyd, s. m. (rhydd) Liberty, or freedom.
Rhyddyddiad, s. m. (dyddiad) A making a compact
Rhyddyddiaw, v. a. (dyddiaw) To make a compact
Rhyddygiad, s. m. (dygiad) An over-carrying; superfetation, superconception.
Rhyddygn, a. (dygn) Being excessively severe.
Rhyddygnawl, a. (rhyddygn) Over-toiling.
Rhyddygnu, v. a. (rhyddygn) To toil to excess.
Rhyddygwydd, v. n. (dygwydd) To over-happen.
Rhyddygwyddawl, a. (rhyddygwydd) Previously happening or coming to pass.
Rhygddygwyddiad, s. m. (rhygddygwydd) A previously happening; superconsequence.
Rhyddygyd, v. a. (dygyd) To over-carry; to superferate; to take away overmuch.
Rhyddyhun, a. (dyhun) Previously slumbering.
Rhyddyhunaw, v. a. (rhyddyhun) To be taking a slumber previously.

Rhyddyhunaf ennyd.

I will previously take a nap awhile. Taliesin.

Rhyddylawch, s. m. (dylawch) Excess of solace.
Rhyddylif, s. m. (dylif) A complete flowing away.
Rhyddylifaw, v. a. (rhyddylif) To be flowing or passing away completely.
Rhyddylochi, v. a. (rhyddylawch) To encourage extremely; to be cherishing greatly.

Rhyddylawch eirchiad ag eirchion.

He will extremely cherish the petitioner with requests. Cynddelw.

Rhyddylochiad, s. m. (rhyddylawch) A cherishing or protecting extremely.
Rhyddylud, s. m. (dylud) Extreme pursuit.
Rhyddyludaw, v. a. (rhyddylud) To follow, or to pursue excessively. Rhyddglud alltudion, foreigners he persues extremely.
Rhyddyly, v. n. (dyly) To be fully incumbent.

Rhyddyly dilain gwleiddiadon,
Rhyddylif cynnif cadfaon;
Rhyd erwyll rwyf, draig rhodolion, eirchiaid
Rhydalant eu rhoddion.

The feasting ones ought to be extremely instigated fully to cause the affliction of fields of battle to pass away; a chief of gloomy course, the resort of wanderers, petitioners who will fully repay their gifts. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Rhyddymunaw, v. a. (dymunaw) To desire earnestly, to wish extremely.
Rhyddymunawl, a. (dymunawl) Extremely desirous; extremely wishful.
Rhyddymuniad, s. m. (dymuniad) A desiring earnestly; a wishing extremely.
Rhyddyoddef, v. a. (dyoddef) To suffer greatly.
Rhyddyoddefiad, s. m. (rhyddyoddef) A suffering or bearing extremely.
Rhyddyrchawl, a. (dyrchawl) Apt to over-exalt.
Rhyddyrchiad, s. m. (dyrchiad) An over-exalting.
Rhyddyrchu, v. a. (dyrchu) To over-exalt.
Rhyddyrllid, v. a. (dyrllid) To flow extremely.

Rhyddyrllid fy ngherdd yn nghelnion o fedd
Yn nghyntedd teyrnon.

My muse will be greatly made to flow in carousals of mead in the hall of princes. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Rhyddysg, s. m. (dysg) Profound learning.
Rhyddysgawl, a. (rhyddysg) Being over-learned.
Rhyddysgiad, s. m. (rhyddysg) A learning greatly
Rhyddysgu, v. a. (rhyddysg) To instruct profoundly; to become extremely learned.

Rhyddysgaf ddysgywen feirddion.

I will profoundly instruct illustrious bards. Cynddelw.

Rhyddysgwyl, v. a. (dysgwyl) To be expecting extremely, or earnestly looking for.
Rhyddysgwyliad, s. m. (rhyddysgwyl) A being expecting extremely.
Rhyddysgwyliaw, v. a. (rhyddysgwyl) To be expecting extremely.
Rhyddysgyrch, s. m. (dysgyrch) Excess of resorting
Rhyddysgyrchawl, a. (rhyddysgyrch) Being resorting extremely.
Rhyddysgyrchiad, s. m. (rhyddysgyrch) A being resorting extremely.
Rhyddysgyrchu, v. a. (rhyddysgyrch) To be resorting extremely.

Rhaith anolaith rhyddysgyrchasant:
Yn ngorphen eu trethau angeu a wydant.

The maxim of devastation they have resorted to extremely: in the conclusion of their impositions they experienced death. Gwlyddan.

Rhyddywediad, s. m. (dywediad) A previously saying, a fully declaring.
Rhyddywedyd, v. a. (dywedyd) To say previously; to declare fully.

Gwedi gweled o Wl Caisar y llythyr hwnw, yn ddianmod parotoi ei lynges a oruc, ac aros gwynt, wrth ei lenwi o'i weithred, yr hyn a ryddywedasai Gaswallawn.

After Julius Cæsar had seen that letter, immediately he prepared his fleet, and waited for wind, which should accomplish the act that he had before intimated to Caswallon. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyedd, s. m. (rhy) The state of being extreme.
Rhyeiddil, a. (eiddil) Extremely slender, or slim
Rhyeiddilaw, v. a. (rhyeiddil) To render extremely slender; to become very slender.
Rhyeiddiliad, s. m. (rhyeiddil) A making extremely slender, a becoming very slim.
Rhyeiddilwch, s. m. (rhyeiddil) Great slenderness
Rhyeistedd, s. m. (eistedd) A sitting before; presidency. v. a. To sit over; to preside.
Rhyeisteddawl, a. (rhyeistedd) Presiding.
Rhyeisteddiad, s. m. (rhyeistedd) A presiding.
Rhyeni, v. n. (geni) To be born previously.

Ar glawr elfydd
Ei gystedlydd
Ni ryaned.

On the face of the earth, his equal was not born before. Taliesin.

Rhyerchi, v. a. (erchi) To beseech earnestly.

Rhybrynwys a ryerchis.

He has bought very dear who has importuned much. Adage.

Rhyerfyniad, s. m. (erfyniad) An entreating or imploring extremely.
Rhyerfyniaw, v. a. (erfyniaw) To entreat extremely, to implore earnestly.
Rhyerfyniawl, a. (erfyniawl) Extremely imploring, earnestly beseeching.
Rhyesgeulus, a. (esgeulus) Over-careless.
Rhyesgeulusaw, v. a. (rhyesgeulus) To act extremely careless; to be over-careless.
Rhyesgeulusdawd, s. m. (rhyesgeulus) Extreme carelessness, or negligence.
Rhyesgeulusiad, s. m. (rhyesgeulus) A neglecting overmuch; a being careless overmuch.
Rhyesgyn, s. m. (esgyn) An ascent before; an ascent over. v. a. To ascend before.
Rhyesgynawl, a. (rhyesgyn) Previously ascending.
Rhyesgyniad, s. m. (rhyesgyn) A previously ascending; an ascending overmuch.
Rhyesgynu, v. a. (rhyesgyn) To ascend beyond.
Rhyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhy) That enlarges or swells out; what is rife or abundant; a swell or puff out; arrogance, pride; also a berry; a currant.

Afraid i briddin afryn,
Rh'of fi a Duw, faint fo rhyf dyn,
Lluniaw baich llawn o bechod:
Lle rhyfedd i falchedd fod!

It is needless for frail clay, between me and God, however great man's presumption may be, to form a full load of sin: what a place for pride to exist! Gwil. ab Sefnyn, i benglog.

Rhyfab, s. m.—pl. rhyfeibion (rhy—mab) A boy under age, or an infant. Welsh Laws.
Rhyfaeddawl, a. (rhyfaedd) Being much dragged.
Rhyfaeddiad, s. m. (rhyfaedd) A dragging much.
Rhyfaeddu, v. a. (rhyfaedd) To drag about extremely; to buffet extremely.
Rhyfael, s. f. (mael) Excessive gain or profit.
Rhyfaeliad, s. m. (rhyfael) A gaining excessively.
Rhyfaelu, v. a. (rhyfael) To gain extremely.
Rhyfaeth, s. m. (maeth) Much nurture.
Rhyfaethawl, a. (rhyfaeth) Greatly nourishing.
Rhyfaethiad, s. m. (rhyfaeth) A nourishing greatly; a being over-nursed.
Rhyfaethu, v. a. (rhyfaeth) To over-nourish.
Rhyfagawl, a. (magawl) Much nursed.
Rhyfagiad, s. m. (magiad) An over-nursing.
Rhyfagl, s. f.—pl. rhyfaglau (magl) A snare.
Rhyfagliad, s. m. (rhyfagl) An ensnaring.
Rhyfaglu, v. a. (rhyfagl) To ensnare fully.
Rhyfagu, v. a. (magu) To rear up or to nourish extremely; to be over-nursed.

Twyllid rhyfegid rhyfygaid.

Deceived has he been who has been much nourished with presumption. Adage.

Nid perthyn rhyfig rhyfegais i'm bryd.

Not proper the presumption that I have much nourished in my mind. Cynddelw.

Rhyfagwyr, s. f. (magwyr) An advanced wall.

Clod wellwell cludaw allan
Goed mawr yn ffagodau man;
O wartha'r rhai'n wrth yr hwyr
Arfogion a'u rhyfagwyr.

With increasing fame carrying out large trees as tiny bundles; behind these at evening came armed men having their entrenchment. H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys.

Rhyfai, s. m.—pl. rhyfeiau (bai) Extreme fault.
Rhyfaidd, s. m. (baidd) An over-daring.
Rhyfail, s. m. (mail) Prepossession.
Rhyfaint, s. m. (maint) Excess of quantity.

Ffawg i ddiawg nid rhyfaint.

Prosperity to the idle is not an excess. Adage.

Rhyfalu, v. a. (malu) To grind very small.
Rhyfaniad, s. m. (maniad) A making an extreme impression, a making an over-effect.
Rhyfànu, v. a. (mànu) To make an extreme mark or impression.

Ffawd i ddiriaid ni ryfain.

Prosperity to the mischievous will not take effect. Adage.

Rhyfarn, s. f. (barn) An over-opinion; prejudice.
Rhyfarnawl, a. (rhyfarn) Prejudging.
Rhyfarniad, s. m. (rhyfarn) A judging overmuch; a condemning extremely.
Rhyfarnu, v. a. (rhyfarn) To judge overmuch; to condemn extremely; to prejudge.
Rhyfas, a. (bas) Extremely or very shallow.
Rhyfasiad, s. m. (rhyfas) A rendering very shallow; a becoming extremely shallow.
Rhyfasu, v. a. (rhyfas) To render very shallow; to become very shallow.
Rhyfawl, a. (rhyf) Assuming or arrogant.
Rhyfawl, s. f. (mawl) Extreme praise; flattery.
Rhyfawr, s. m. (rhyf) A frequent stretching about or scrambling.
Rhyfawrth, s. m. (mawrth) The beginning of the storms of March.
Rhyfawrthin, s. f. (rhyfawrth—hin) The equinoxial weather or storms of March.

Mawrth a'i ryfawrthin.

March with its spring-forerunning weather. Iolo Goch.

Rhyfedd, a. (medd) Being over possession or scope; wonderful, marvellous, strange.

Iach rydd rhyfedd pa gwyn.

With health at liberty it is wonderful what the complaint. Adage.

Rhyfeddawd, s. f.—pl. rhyfeddodau (rhyfedd) What is surprising or extraordinary, a rarity; a wonder, a miracle.

Rhewydd pob rhyfeddawd.

Every wonder is changeable. Adage.

Rhyfeddawl, a. (rhyfedd) Wonderful, strange.
Rhyfeddeb, s. f. (rhyfedd) Exclamation, admiration; a term in rhetoric.
Rhyfeddoldeb, s. m. (rhyfeddawl) Extraordinariness; miraculousness; marvellousness.
Rhyfeddoli, v. a. (rhyfeddawl) To render marvellous; to become wonderful.
Rhyfeddolrwydd, s. m. (rhyfedd) Wonderfulness.
Rhyfeddu, v. a. (rhyfedd) To wonder, to marvel.
Rhyfeddwl, s. m.—pl. rhyfeddyliau (meddwl) An over-thought; a previous thought.
Rhyfeddyliad, s. m. (rhyfeddwl) Premeditation.
Rhyfeddyliaw, v. a (rhyfeddwl) To premeditate.

Nid porthi penyd rhyfeddyliais.

To undergo penance I have not premeditated. Cynddelw.

Rhyfeiad, s. m. (rhyfai) An over-criminating.
Rhyfeiaw, v. a. (rhyfai) To over-criminate.
Rhyfeiddiad, s. m. (rhyfaidd) An over-daring.
Rhyfeiddiaw, v. a. (rhyfaidd) To over-dare.
Rhyfeiliad, s. m. (rhyfail) A prepossessing.
Rhyfeiliaw, v. a. (rhyfail) To prepossess.
Rhyfeilus, a. (rhyfail) Prepossessing.
Rhyfeïus, a. (rhyfai) Over-faulty.
Rhyfel, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (bel) War, or warfare.

Golochwyd diawl annog rhyfel.

The religion of the devil is to instigate war. Adage.

Yn mhob rhyfel mae gofal.

In every warfare there is anxiety. Adage.

Mae gobaith gwr o ryfel, nid gobaith neb o'r bedd.

There is hope for a man from war, there is no hope for any one from the grave. Adage.

Gwiliwch y droell——
A fo cryf a fag rhyfel;
Rhyfel a fag rhyw afar
Tlodi, byth at lid a bar;
Tylodi, trueni trwch
A fo caeth, a fag heddwch.

Beware of the wheel: that is powerful will beget war; war will beget some misfortune of poverty, ever disposed to anger and wrath; poverty, distressful the misery of such as be captive, will beget peace. T. Aled.

Rhyfela, v. a. (rhyfel) To war, to wage war.
Rhyfelawd, s. m. (rhyfel) An hostile act.
Rhyfelawg, a. (rhyfel) Belligerous; belligerent.
Rhyfelbeiriant, s. m. (peiriant) A war engine.
Rhyfeldir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhyfel—tir) A place where war is carried on, a seat of war.

Pa ryfeldir bynag y cerddynt ynddo, ni wnelid drwg iddynt.

What hostile land soever they might walk in, no harm would be done to them. Breidd. Maxen.

Rhyfeledig, a. (rhyfel) Being warred. Arfau rhyfeledig, warlike implements.
Rhyfeledigaeth, s. m. (rhyfeledig) The act of carrying on war.
Rhyfelfa, s. f. (rhyfel) A seat of war.
Rhyfelgar, a. (rhyfel) Apt to war, warlike.
Rhyfelgarwch, s. m. (rhyfelgar) Warlikeness.
Rhyfeliad, s. m. (rhyfel) A waging of war.
Rhyfeloffer, s. m. (rhyfel—offer) A war engine.
Rhyfelogi, v. a. (rhyfelawg) To render warring; to become subject to wars and fightings.
Rhyfelogrwydd, s. m. (rhyfelawg) A state of war
Rhyfelu, v. a. (rhyfel) To war, to wage war.
Rhyfelus, a. (rhyfel) Warring, belligerent.
Rhyfelusaw, v. a. (rhyfelus) To render warring.
Rhyfelusrwydd, s. m. (rhyfelus) A state of war.
Rhyfelwr, s. m.—pl. rhyfelwyr (rhyfel—gwr) A warrior, or a man of war.

Cas a fo ryfelwr llesg, ac ni ddymuno heddwch o flaen rhyfel.

Odious is he who is a feeble warrior, and doth not desire peace rather than war. Adage.

Rhyfelwynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhyfel—gwynt) A hurricane.
Rhyfelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhyfel) A warrior.
Rhyfer, a. (mer) Over-teeming with moisture.
Rhyferad, s. m. (rhyfer) A drivelling.

Rhuo a wnai a rhyw nad,
A briw ferw, ab ryferad.

He would mutter with a sort of din, and grind his spittle, the drivelling monkey. D. ab Gwilym, i'r lafawd.

Rhyferig, a. (rhyfer) Drivelling, snivelling.
Rhyferth, s. m. (rhy—merth) A violent gust.
Rhyferthin, s. m. (rhyferth) A violent gushing.

Yna y disgynai rhyferthin o wylaw ar Amic.

Thereupon a severe gust of weeping fell upon Amic. Cyd. Emlyn ac Amic.

Rhyferthwy, s. m. (rhyferth—gwy) An inundation, a torrent; a tempest. Rhyferthwy Mawrth, the tempest of the vernal equinox; Rhyferthwy Medi, the tempest of the autumnal equinox

Hir argae a fag ryferthwy.

A long damming will collect a torrent. Adage.

Un o'r tri engir ddichwain—dychryn y tan rhyferthwy, pan hollted y ddaiar hyd anwn, ag y difaed y rhan fwyaf o bob byw.

One of the three awful events; the tremulation of the torrent fire, when the earth was rent to the great deep, so that the greatest part of every life was destroyed. Barddas.

Rhyferthwyad, s. m. (rhyferthwy) An overflowing, an over-whelming, an inundating.
Rhyferthwyaw, v. a. (rhyferthwy) To overspread in a torrent, to overflow.
Rhyferthwyawg, a. (rhyferthwy) Having an inundation; apt to overflow.
Rhyferthwyawl, a. (rhyferthwy) Overwhelming.
Rhyferw, s. m. (berw) An over-boiling.
Rhyferwad, s. m. (rhyferw) An over-boiling.
Rhyferwi, v. a. (rhyferw) To over-boil.
Rhyfeth, s. m. (meth) Extreme failing.
Rhyfethiant, s. m. (rhyfeth) Extreme debility.
Rhyfethu, v. n. (rhyfeth) To fail extremely.
Rhyfiad, s. m. (rhyf) A stretching out; an arrogating, or assuming.
Rhyfig, a. (rhyf) Apt to be assuming.
Rhyflin, a. (blin) Over-tiresome; teasing.
Rhyflinaw, v. a. (rhyflin) To over-tire.
Rhyflinder, s. m. (rhyflin) Extreme tiresomeness
Rhyfod, v. (bod) To be before; to be fully.

Minnau o'm rhadau, rhymfuant
Yn rhuddaur, yn rhwydd arddaniant.

I also from my gifts, which were to me completely of ruddy gold, was in ample honour. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhyfodd, s. m. (bodd) Unrestrained desire.
Rhyfoddawg, a. (rhyfodd) Of unconstrained will.

Rhyfoddawg rhy fawr a wyl.

The over-indulged casts his eye on too much. Adage.

Rhyfoddiaw, v. a. (rhyfodd) To give full will.
Rhyfoes, s. f.—pl. t. au (moes) Over-ceremony.
Rhyfoeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (moeth) Extreme daintiness; an over-pampered state.
Rhyfoethus, a. (rhyfoeth) Being over-dainty.
Rhyfoli, v. a. (rhyfawl) To praise extremely.

Rhyfolant anant anaw cymer;
Rhyfolir ei wir, ei orober.

The minstrels of accordant melody will greatly praise; his justice, his exploit will be greatly praised. Ein. ab Gwgawn, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Rhagores cares, cerydd ni haeddai!
Rhai a'i rhyfolai, llawr hufelydd.

The fair lover did excel, she could not merit reproach; some would flatter her, abject as the ground. Sefnyn, i Wenhwyfar.

Rhyfoliant, s. m. (rhyfawl) Extreme praise.
Rhyfon, s. pl. aggr. (rhyf) Currants.
Rhyforiad, s. m. (rhyfawr) A stretching about, a scrambling; a sawing the air with the hands.
Rhyforiaw, v. a. (rhyfawr) To stretch about; to scramble; to saw the air with the hands.

I Fangor, i ryforiaw,
Gwr cul, bob dyw Sul y daw.

To Bangor, to scramble about, the meagre wight will on every Sunday come. R. ab Dafydd Llwyd.

Rhyfrys, s. m. (brys) Precipitation. a. Precipitate; impatient, over-hurrying.

Rhys rhyfrys emys, amiged brydyddion;
Rhys hysbys ei lys ar les cerddorion.

Rhys with impatient steeds, and bards of many gifts; Rhys whose court is conspicuous for the benefit of minstrels. Einion Offeiriad.

Rhyfrysiad, s. m. (rhyfrys) A hurrying extremely; an acting with impatience.
Rhyfrysiaw, v. a. (rhyfrys) To make too much haste, to precipitate.
Rhyfrysiawl, a. (rhyfrys) Over-hastening.
Rhyfunaw, v. a. (rhyf—unaw) To unite fully.
Rhyfus, a. (rhyf) Apt to bear away; presuming.
Rhyfusaw, v. a. (rhyfus) To render presuming; to become stubborn or froward.
Rhyfusedd, s. m. (rhyfus) Stubbornness.
Rhyfwydd, s. pl. (rhyf—gwydd) Currant trees.
Rhyfwydden, s. f. dim. (rhyfwydd) A currant tree
Rhyfychan, s. m. (bychan) Extreme littleness. a. Very little; too little, over-small.

Nid gwell gormodd no rhyfychan.

Excess is not better than too little. Adage.

Rhyfychawd, s. m. (bychawd) Extreme smallness

Rhwy fu rhyfychawd gynnen.

The very little contention was too much. Adage.

Rhyfyg, s. m. (rhyf) Presumption, arrogance.
Rhyfygaid, s. m. (rhyfyg) Presumption.
Rhyfygawl, a. (rhyfyg) Presuming, insolent.
Rhyfygiad, s. m. (rhyfyg) A presuming.
Rhyfygu, v. a. (rhyfyg) To presume, to dare; to act arrogantly or insolently.
Rhyfygus, a. (rhyfyg) Presumptuous, arrogant.
Rhyfygusaw, v. a. (rhyfygus) To render presumptuous; to become presuming.
Rhyfygusedd, s. m. (rhyfyg) Presumptuousness.
Rhyfygusrwydd, s.m. (rhyfyg) Presumptuousness.
Rhyfygwr, s. m.—pl. rhyfygwyr (rhyfyg—gwr) One who presumes, an arrogant man.
Rhyfynych, a. (mynych) Frequent overmuch.
Rhyfynychiad, s. m. (rhyfynych) A frequenting overmuch; an occurring too often.
Rhyfynychu, v. a. (rhyfynych) To render very frequent; to frequent overmuch.
Rhyfysg, s. m. (mysg) Extreme mixture; confusion. a. Confused.
Rhyfysgiad, s. m. (rhyfysg) A confusion.
Rhyfysgu, v. a. (rhyfysg) To confuse.
Rhyffaeth, a. (ffaeth) Over ripe, too mellow.
Rhyffaethiad, s. m. (rhyffaeth) A rendering over-mellow; a becoming over-mellow.
Rhyffaethu, v. a. (rhyffaeth) To render over-mellow; to become over-mellow.
Rhyffie, s. m. (ffie) An extreme verge or border.
Rhyffiwch, a. (ffiwch) Extremely apt; very rife.
Rhyffo, s. m. (ffo) Extreme flight or escape.
Rhyffoad, s. m. (rhyffo) A fleeing overmuch.
Rhyffoi, v. a. (rhyffo) To flee overmuch.
Rhyffrau, s. m. (ffrau) An extreme flow; a respiration; a violent breathing.
Rhyffreuad, s. m. (rhyffrau) A respiring.
Rhyffreuaw, v. a. (rhyffrau) To respire greatly.

> Rhyfeddaf—
> Nas gwddant yn ddiau,
> Enaid pwy ei hadnau;
> Pwy bryd ei haelodau;
> Py barth pan ddyhea;
> Py wynt a ryffrea.
>
> I am surprised that they know not, without a doubt, concerning the soul, which is her seat; her members of what form; through what part she causes to pass out; what air she doth respire. — Taliesin.

Rhyffrom, a. (ffrom) Extremely irritable or testy
Rhyffromi, v. a. (rhyffrom) To taunt or to irritate overmuch; to become very testy.
Rhyffromiad, s. m. (rhyffrom) A taunting overmuch, a becoming very testy.
Rhyffrost, s. m. (ffrost) Extreme vaunting.
Rhyffrostiad, s. m. (rhyffrost) A vaunting or swaggering overmuch.
Rhyffrostiaw, v. a. (rhyffrost) To over-vaunt.
Rhyffrostiawl, a. (rhyffrost) Extremely vaunting.
Rhyg, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhy—yg) Rye.

> Po hynaf fo y rhyg tebycaf fydd i'w dad.
>
> By so much older the rye may be the more like it will be to its father. — Adage.
>
> Coll mab Collfrewi a ddoai a gwenith a haidd gyntaf i Ynys Prydain, lle nid oedd cyn no hyny namyn ceirch a rhyg.
>
> Coll the son of Collvrewi brought wheat and barley first into the Isle of Britain, where there were before then only oats and rye. — Trioedd.

Rhyga, v. a. (rhyg) To gather or collect rye.
Rhygabl, s. m. (cabl) Extreme calumny.
Rhygablaidd, a. (rhygabl) Very calumnious.
Rhygabledd, s. m. (rhygabl) Extreme calumny.
Rhygabliad, s. m. (rhygabl) A calumniating extremely; a greatly scandalizing.
Rhygablu, v. a. (rhygabl) To shew extreme contempt; to calumniate extremely.

> A glywch chwi, ddeon, a ddywedir;
> A ddywed rhian ni rygeblir?
>
> Do you hear, strangers, what is said; what a lady says it will not be severely derided! — Cynddelw.

Rhygadw, v. a. (cadw) To keep extremely.
Rhygaffael, v. a. (caffael) To over-get; to obtain previously.

> Pencerdd a ddyly bedair ar ugaint y gan bob gwraig a gysgo gan wr, or nis rhygaffo y genti gynt.
>
> A chief of song is entitled to twenty-four pence from every woman who sleeps with a husband, if he has not previously obtained it of her. — Welsh Laws.

Rhygaffaeliad, s. m. (rhygaffael) An over-obtaining; a previously getting.
Rhygais, s. m. (cais) An over-attempt or trial.
Rhygall, a. (call) Extremely discreet.

> Ni bydd cyfoethawg rhygall.
>
> The powerful will not be discreet overmuch. — Adage.

Rhygalledd, s. m. (rhygall) Excess of cunning.
Rhygallineb, s. m. (rhygall) Excess of cunning.
Rhygam, a. (cam) Extremely crooked.
Rhygamiad, s. m. (rhygam) A bending extremely, an over-bending.
Rhygamu, v. a. (rhygam) To bend extremely.
Rhygant, s. m.—pl. t. au (cant) An extreme or outmost circle.
Rhyganu, v. a. (canu) To sing before.

> Cerdd newydd i'm rhebydd rhygaint
> Cain awen, gan awel bylgaint.
>
> A new song to my chieftain the exalted muse has before sung, with the gale of the morning. — Cynddelw.

Rhygardd, s. m. (cardd) A violent drive or thrust
Rhygarddiad, s. m. (rhygardd) A chasing or driving overmuch; a violently afflicting.
Rhygarddu, v. a. (rhygardd) To over-impel.

> Rhygarddwys fy ais;
> Fy nghalon, neud dores!
>
> My bosom has been severely racked; my heart, is it not broken! — Llywarch Hen.

Rhygariad, s. m. (cariad) Extreme fondness.
Rhygaru, v. a. (caru) To love extremely.

> Ti a noddyd
> A rygeryd
> O bob carchar.
>
> Thou wouldest protect such as thou shouldest dearly love from every bondage. — Taliesin.

Rhygas, s. m. (cas) Extreme hate. a. Very hateful.

> Rhygas rhywelir.
>
> That is extremely hated will be seen too soon. — Adage.
>
> A glywaisti a gant Rhydderch,
> Trydydd hael serchawg serch;
> Gnawd rhygas gwedi Rhyserch?
>
> Hast thou heard how Rhydderch sang, the third generous one of cordial affection; common is extreme hate after extreme love! — Engl. y Clywed.

Rhygasâad, s. m. (rhygasâu) An over-hating.
Rhygasâu, v. a. (rhygas) To hate extremely.
Rhygastelliad, s. m. (castelliad) A completely spreading round.
Rhygastellu, v. a. (castellu) To raise a complete fence round about.
Rhygawdd, s. m. (cawdd) An extreme affront.
Rhygawg, a. (rhyg) Abounding with rye.
Rhygawl, a. (rhyg) Of the quality of rye.
Rhyged, s. f. (ced) Excess of treasure. a. Very bountiful; lavish; prodigal.
Rhygeisiad, s. m. (rhygais) An over-attempting.
Rhygeisiaw, v. a. (rhygais) To over-attempt.
Rhygel, s. m. (cel) A complete concealment.
Rhygeliad, s. m. (rhygel) A fully concealing.
Rhygelu, v. a. (rhygel) To conceal fully.

> Ni rygelir drygiam.
>
> Misfortune will not be fully concealed. — Adage.

Rhygen, s. f. dim. (rhyg) A grain of rye.

Rhygethlig, a. (cethlig) Excelling in song.
Rhygethlydd, s. m. (cethlydd) A master in song.

Unlle rhygethlydd, rhygethlig,
Rhyddeisyfaf; rhychanaf i wledig.

The station of the complete songster, excellent of song, I ardently desire; I will greatly sing to a sovereign. Taliesin.

Rhygil, s. m. (cil) A complete recession.
Rhygiliad, s. m. (rhygil) A fully receding.
Rhygiliaw, v. a. (rhygil) To recede fully.
Rhygipiaw, v. a. (cipiaw) To snatch violently.
Rhygloff, a. (cloff) Extremely lame or halting.
Rhygloffedd, s. m. (rhygloff) Extreme lameness.
Rhygloffi, v. a. (rhygloff) To lame extremely.
Rhygloffiad, s. m. (rhygloff) A rendering very lame; a becoming extremely lame.
Rhyglud, s. m. (clud) An over-carriage.
Rhygludaw, v. a. (rhyglud) To over-carry.
Rhygludiad, s. m. (rhyglud) An over-carrying.
Rhyglydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhwgl) Desert, merit

Myn waison, ryglyddion clod;
Mwy no neb myn ei nabod.

He will have attendants, fame-deserving ones; more than any body he will cause himself to be known. Ieu. Tew, i Syr E. Herbert.

Rhyglyddaidd, a. (rhyglydd) Of a meritorious or a deserving tendency.
Rhyglyddawd, s. m. (rhyglydd) A meriting.
Rhyglyddawl, a. (rhyglydd) Meritorious.
Rhyglyddedig, a. (rhyglydd) Merited, deserved.
Rhyglyddedigaeth, s. m. (rhyglyddedig) Meritoriousness.
Rhyglyddiad, s. m. (rhyglydd) A meriting.
Rhyglyddiannawl, a. (rhyglyddiant) Meritorious
Rhyglyddiannu, v. a. (rhyglyddiant) To render meritorious; to become deserving.
Rhyglyddiannus, a. (rhyglyddiant) Meritorious.
Rhyglyddiannusaw, v. a. (rhyglyddiannus) To render meritorious; to become deserving.
Rhyglyddiant, s. m.—pl. rhyglyddiannau (rhyglydd) Merit, desert, worth, reward, claim.
Rhyglyddu, v. n. (rhyglydd) To deserve, to merit

Galwes Arthur ar bawb i un lle, i dalu eu gwasanaeth iddynt; a hyny fal y rhyglyddynt.

Arthur called every body to one place, to reward them for their service, and that according as they might deserve. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyglyw, s. m. (clyw) A full hearing; a previous hearing.
Rhyglywed, v. a. (rhaglyw) A fully hearing; a previously hearing.
Rhygnawg, a. (rhwgn) Having friction; having scores or hacks.
Rhygnawl, a. (rhygn) Rubbing; scoring.
Rhygnbren, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhygn—pren) A stick for scoring upon, a tally.
Rhygnedig, a. (rhwgn) Rubbed, chafed; scored.
Rhygnedd, s. m. (rhwgn) A state of friction; the state of being scored or hacked.
Rhygnell, s. f. (rhwgn) A whipsaw.
Rhygnen, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwgn) A file.
Rhygniad, s. m. (rhwgn) A rubbing, a chafing; a scoring; a hacking.
Rhygnogrwydd, s. m. (rhygnawg) The state of being rubbed, chafed, or scored.
Rhygnu, v. a. (rhwgn) To rub, to chafe; to score; to hack.

Rhag Teifi, yn tori twr maen,
Rhygnasant rif naw cant celain.

Before Teivi, demolishing a stone tower, they scored the number of nine hundred corpses. H. ab Owain.

Rhygnwr, s. m.—pl. rhygnwyr (rhwgn—gwr) One who rubs; a scorer.
Rhygoddawl, a. (rhygawdd) Very insulting.
Rhygodded, s. f. (rhygawdd) Extreme insult.
Rhygoddedig, a. (rhygodded) Extremely thwarted
Rhygoddi, v. a. (rhygawdd) To vex extremely.

A rygoddwy glew, gogeled rhagddaw:
Gnawd yw o'i ddygnaw ddefnydd codded.

Who greatly insults the brave, let him beware; from his being irritated generally proceeds a cause of trouble. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Rhygoddiad, s. m. (rhygawdd) A thwarting extremely or overmuch.
Rhygoddiant, s. m. (rhygawdd) Extreme vexation; extreme insult.
Rhygoddwr, s. m.—pl. rhygoddwyr (rhygawdd—gwr) One who vexes extremely.
Rhygoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (coel) Superstition.
Rhygoeledd, s. m. (rhygoel) Superstitiousness.
Rhygoeliad, s. m. (rhygoel) A believing overmuch
Rhygoeliaw, v. a. (rhygoel) To believe overmuch.
Rhygoelus, a. (rhygoel) Being superstitious.
Rhygoll, s. f. (coll) Extreme loss. a. Over apt to lose.

Lloegr aeth o'r llaw rygoll;
I'r llaw gref yr aeth Lloegr oll.

England is gone from the greatly losing hand; to the strong hand is all England gone. D. Llwyd, i Henri VI.

Rhygolled, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhygoll) Extreme loss.
Rhygolledig, a. (rhygolled) Being totally lost.
Rhygolledu, v. a. (rhygolled) To cause extreme loss; to damage extremely.
Rhygolli, v. a. (rhy—goll) To lose overmuch.

Ni rygollwyf Duw o ddewredd byd:
Ni rygolles nef ni fo ynfyd.

May I not totally lose God through the gaiety of the world: he has not completely lost heaven who is not mad. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhygrëad, s. m. (crëad) A perfectly creating.
Rhygred, s. f. (cred) Over-belief; credulity.
Rhygrediad, s. m. (rhygred) An over-believing.
Rhygredu, v. n. (rhygred) To be credulous.
Rhygreu, v. a. (creu) To create perfectly.

Ac yn oreu dyn Duw rhygreus.

And the best man God did perfectly create him. Gwalchmai.

Rhygrin, a. (crin) Being extremely brittle.
Rhygrinaw, v. n. (rhygrin) To become extremely dry, parched, or brittle.
Rhygriniad, s. m. (rhygrin) An over-drying.
Rhygronawl, a. (cronawl) Tending to collect overmuch; very accumulating.
Rhygroni, v. a. (croni) To collect overmuch.
Rhygroniad, s. m. (croniad) An over-collecting.
Rhygu, s. m. (cu) Over-fondness. a. Over-fond.

Rhygu pob rhyfychawd.

Over-precious every thing very small. Adage.

Ni bu rygu na bai rygas.

There has been no over-fondness but there would be excess of hate. Adage.

Rhygudd, s. f. (cudd) A full hiding. a. Being completely concealed.
Rhyguddiad, s. m. (rhygudd) A fully hiding.
Rhyguddiaw, v. a. (rhygudd) To hide fully.

Och mor drwm yw ych marw draw:
Och roi gwedd i'ch rhyguddiaw!

Alas! how sad that you should yonder die: to put a covering so completely to hide you how direful! Rhys Fynglwyd.

Rhygwellt, s. m. (rhyg—gwellt) Rye-grass.
Rhygwsg, s. m. (cwsg) Extreme sleep.
Rhygwydd, s. m. (cwydd) An extreme fall.
Rhygwyddaw, v. n. (rhygwydd) To fall extremely
Rhygwyddawl, a. (rhygwydd) Tending to fall extremely; being very apt to tumble.
Rhygwyddiad, s. m. (rhygwydd) An over-falling.
Rhygwyn, s. f. (cwyn) Extreme complaint.
Rhygwynaw, v. a. (rhygwyn) To complain extremely; to be very querulous.

Rhychwynant anant anhawddgoll teyrn
Teyrnedd Cymmru oll.

Minstrels will extremely deplore the hard-to-be-lost prince of all the princes of Wales. D. ab Llosgwrn Mew.

Rhygwynawl, a. (rhygwyn) Very querulous.
Rhygwyniad, s. m. (rhygwyn) A complaining extremely, a being very querulous.
Rhygybydd, s. m. (cybydd) A complete miser.

Nid gwell ryhael, anfael fydd,
Yn rhoi ei gwbl, no rhygybydd.

Not better the over-liberal than the greatest miser, disadvantage will ensue in giving his all. D. ab Edmwnd.

Rhygybyddawl, a. (rhygybydd) Over-miserly.
Rhygybydd-dawd, s. m. (rhygybydd) Extreme niggardliness or stinginess.
Rhygybydd-dra, s. m. (rhygybydd) Extreme miserliness; over-stinginess.
Rhygybyddu, v. a. (rhygybydd) To act very niggardly, to be over miserly or stingy.
Rhygyfarch, s. m. (cyfarch) A presentment.
Rhygyfarchawl, a. (rhygyfarch) Presenting.
Rhygyfarchiad, s. m. (rhygyfarch) A presenting.
Rhygyfarchu, v. a. (rhygyfarch) To present.
Rhygyfariad, s. m. (cyfariad) A fully meeting.
Rhygyfaru, v. a. (cyfaru) To meet fully.

Anfon cenad a wnai at ei ferch, i fynegi iddi y rhyw anghyfnerth a rygyfarai ag ef.

He sent a messenger to his daughter, to inform her of the peculiar misfortune that had completely met with him. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhygylch, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (cylch) A periphery.

Deg mlynedd, cymyredd cylch,
Ar hugain yw ei rhygylch.

Three times ten years, that circle of renown
Will solemn Saturn's revolution crown.
Ed. Richard, i Sadwrn.

Rhygylchiad, s. m. (rhygylch) A going round an orbit; a performing a revolution.
Rhygylchu, v. a. (rhygylch) To go round an orbit.
Rhygynnal, v. a. (cynnal) To support fully.
Rhygynnaliad, s. m. (rhygynnal) A fully supporting, maintaining, or upholding.
Rhygynnar, a. (cynnar) Over-early.
Rhygynnaredd, s. m. (rhygynnar) Over-earliness.
Rhygynnarwch, s. m. (rhygynnar) Prematureness
Rhygynnil, a. (cynnil) Over-exact; over-sparing.
Rhygynnilaw, v. a. (rhygynnil) To act too exactly; to be over-sparing.
Rhygynniledd, s. m. (rhygynnil) Over-exactness.
Rhygynniliad, s. m. (rhygynnil) A being over-exact; a being over-sparing.
Rhygynnilwch, s. m. (rhygynnil) Over-exactness.
Rhygynnull, v. a. (cynnull) To heap together overmuch, to over-collect.
Rhygynnullaw, v. a. (rhygynnull) To gather together overmuch, to over-collect.

Baich rhygynnullais
O bechawd annyfais;
Rhyddyergrynais
O'i gymhelri.

A load I have over-heaped of inconsiderate sin; I have been trembling extremely from the distress of it. Meilyr.

Rhygynnulliad, s. m. (rhygynnull) A heaping or collecting together overmuch.
Rhygynnyg, v. a. (cynnyg) To over-offer.
Rhygynnygiad, s. m. (rhygynnyg) A making an extreme offer.
Rhygyng, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwg—yng) An ambling pace.
Rhygyngawd, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambling.
Rhygyngawg, a. (rhygyng) Of ambling pace.
Rhygyngedd, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambling pace.
Rhygyngen, s. f. (rhygyng) A rattle in the throat
Rhygyngfarch, s. m.—pl. rhygyngfeirch (rhygyng—march) An ambling horse.
Rhygynghan, s. f. (cynghan) Superior accordance.
Rhygynghaniad, s. m. (rhygynghan) An according excellently.
Rhygynghanu, v. n. (rhygynghan) To accord excellently.

Cred a ched a cherdd rhygynghain i'th blaid.

Faith and treasure and song do befit extremely in thy company. Cynddelw.

Rhygyngiad, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambling.
Rhygyngu, v. a. (rhygyng) To amble, to go with an ambling pace; to stalk.
Rhygyngydd, s. m. (rhygyng) An ambler.
Rhygyrch, s. m. (cyrch) An over-resort.
Rhygyrchawl, a. (rhygyrch) Over-resorting.
Rhygyrchiad, s. m. (rhygyrch) An over-resorting.
Rhygyrchu, v. a. (rhygyrch) To over-resort.

Rhyllarychynt, rhygyrchynt yn nghleddyfar
Arllwybr gwrid arth gwrys diarchar.

They would greatly moderate, they would greatly assemble in the sword-conflict of the crimson track of the ruthless bear of tumult. Taliesin.

Rhygyrchwr, s. m.—pl. rhygyrchwyr (rhygyrch—gwr) One who resorts overmuch.
Rhygyrhaedd, v. a. (cyrhaedd) To reach over.
Rhygyrhaeddawl, a. (rhygyrhaedd) Tending to reach over; an over-extending.
Rhygyrhaeddiad, s. m. (rhygyrhaedd) A reaching or extending over.
Rhygyrhaeddyd, v. a. (rhygyrhaedd) To reach over, to reach beyond.
Rhygysgawl, a. (rhygwsg) Over sleeping.
Rhygysgiad, s. m. (rhygwsg) An over-sleeping.
Rhygysgu, v. a. (rhygwsg) To sleep overmuch.
Rhygysgwr, s. m.—pl. rhygysgwyr (rhygwsg—gwr) One who over-sleeps.
Rhygystlwn, s. m. (cystlwn) Much intercourse.
Rhygystlynawl, a. (rhygystlwn) Of much intercourse or connexion.
Rhygystlynedd, s. m. (rhygystlwn) A state of much intercourse or connexion.

Yn rhygystlynedd o benaeth weision,
Rhyddybydd Lyminawg,
A fydd wr chwannawg
I weresgyn Mon.

In the close alliance of the sovereign's servants, Llyminoc will first appear, who will be an ambitious man, to subdue Mon. Taliesin.

Rhygystlyniad, s. m. (rhygystlwn) A carrying on much intercourse; a forming close alliance.
Rhygystlynu, v. a. (rhygystlwn) To have much intercourse; to form close alliance.
Rhygystlynwr, s. m.—pl. rhygystlynwyr (rhygystlwn—gwr) One of much intercourse.
Rhygywir, a. (cywir) Extremely exact.
Rhygywiraw, v. a. (rhygywir) To make very exact; to be over exact or accurate.
Rhygywiredd, s. m. (rhygywir) Extreme exactness
Rhyhael, a. (hael) Liberal overmuch.
Rhyhaeledd, s. m. (rhyhael) Over liberality.
Rhyhawd, s. m. (hawd) An extreme shoot up.
Rhyher, s. f. (hèr) Excess of defiance.

Dychymmydd tristyd byd a rhyher.

The misfortune of the world will bear with much irritation. Golyddan.

Rhyheriad, s. m. (rhyher) A brandishing about extremely; a defying greatly.
Rhyheriaw, v. a. (rhyher) To brandish extremely.
Rhyherw, s. f. (herw) Excess of roving.
Rhyherwa, v. a. (rhyherw) To rove about extremely; to stray overmuch.
Rhyhiraeth, s. m. (hiraeth) Extreme longing.
Rhyhiraethawl, a. (rhyhiraeth) Over-longing.

Rhyhiraethiad, s. m. (rhyhiraeth) A longing or wishing extremely.
Rhyhiraethu, v. a. (rhyhiraeth) To long or to wish extremely.

Endewais i eaws s'm rhyhiraeth er gwyl.

I have listened to a nightingale that has caused me extreme longing since I saw her. Gwalchmai.

Rhyhiraethus, a. (rhyhiraeth) Apt to long much.
Rhyhodi, v. a. (rhyawd) To soar greatly.
Rhyhodig, a. (rhyhawd) Extremely aspiring.

Doddwyf Dyganwy i amryson;
Ellyngais fy arglwydd yn ngwydd deon,
A Maelgwyn, fwyaf ei achwyson,
Elffin pendefig rhyhodigion.

I came to Dyganwy to contend; I liberated my lord in the presence of strangers, and of Maelgwn, the greatest in arguments: Elffin the sovereign of greatly aspiring ones.
Taliesin, i feib Llyr.

Rhyhoddiad, s. m. (hoddiad) Over-facilitating.
Rhyhoddiaw, v. a. (hoddiaw) To over-facilitate.
Rhyhoff, a. (hoff) Extremely fond, over-fond.
Rhyhoffawl, a. (rhyhoff) Apt to be over-fond.
Rhyhoffi, v. a. (rhyhoff) To be over-fond.
Rhyhoffiad, s. m. (rhyhoff) An over-loving.
Rhyhwyr, a. (hwyr) Too late; high time; far-extending. Mae yn rhyhwyr ini beidiaw, it is high time for us to leave off.

Hydyr ydd a clod, rod ryhwyr,
Hyd ydd aeth hwyl haul a syr.

Fame will swiftly fly the far extending circle, which the course of sun and stars have traced. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhyhwyrâad, s. m. (rhyhwyr) A rendering over-late; a growing over-late.
Rhyhwyrâu, v. (rhyhwyr) To become over-late.
Rhyhwyredd, s. m. (rhyhwyr) An over-lateness.
Rhyhy, a. (hy) Over-bold, over-forward.
Rhyhyd, a. (hyd) Extremely long, over-long.

Gwae fab dyn——
Caru gwyd yn rhyhyd yn rhwy!

Woe to the son of man from loving vice for too long to excess.
Cynddelw.

Rhyhyder, s. m. (hyder) Excess of confidence.
Rhyhyderiad, s. m. (rhyhyder) A confiding much.
Rhyhyderu, v. a. (rhyhyder) To confide much.
Rhyhyderus, a. (rhyhyder) Over-confiding.
Rhyladd, v. a. (lladd) To cut off completely.
Rhyladdiad, s. m. (rhyladd) A fully cutting off.
Rhylaes, a. (llaes) Trailing or falling very low.
Rhylafur, s. m. (llafur) Over-labouring.
Rhylafuriaw, v. a. (rhylafur) To labour much.
Rhylafuriawl, a. (rhylafur) Very laborious.
Rhylam, s. m.—pl. t. au (llam) An over-step.
Rhylamawl, a. (rhylam) Over-stepping.
Rhylamiad, s. m. (rhylam) An over-stepping.
Rhylamu, v. a. (rhylam) To over-step.
Rhylanw, s. m. (llanw) An over-fulness.
Rhylar, a. (llar) Very mild or soothing.
Rhylarwch, s. m. (rhylar) Extreme mildness.
Rhylarychiad, s. m. (rhylarwch) A much assuaging.
Rhylarychu, v. a. (rhylarwch) To assuage greatly.
Rhylas, a. (glas) Very blue; very livid. 'Rhylaswedd fy nghran!' Of very pale hue my brow!
Rhylasiad, s. m. (rhylas) A making very blue.
Rhylasu, v. a. (rhylas) To become very blue.
Rhylathr, a. (llathr) Extremely glittering.
Rhylathraidd, a. (rhylathr) Extremely glittering.
Rhylathrawl, a. (rhylathr) Very glittering.
Rhylathredd, s. m. (rhylathr) Extreme glitter.
Rhylathriad, s. m. (rhylathr) A making very glittering, a polishing extremely.
Rhylathru, v. a. (rhylathr) To make very glittering, to polish extremely; to glitter much.
Rhylawn, a. (llawn) Redundant, over-full.
Rhylawnder, s. m. (rhylawn) A redundance.

Rhylawnedd, s. m. (rhylawn) A redundance.
Rhylawni, v. (rhylawn) To make redundant.
Rhyle, s. m. (lle) An over-place; superiority.

Ystryw chwerw, nid chwerisu i ryle.

A bitter trick, not diversions for superiority. Gwalchmai.

Rhylëad, s. m. (rhyle) An over-placing; a giving a superior place.

Prif gyfarch gelfydd par rylëad.

An artful first greeting will ensure an over placing. Taliesin.

Rhylëawl, a. (rhyle) Tending to over-place.
Rhylef, s. m. (llef) An extreme cry.
Rhylefain, v. a. (rhylef) To cry out much.
Rhylenwi, v. a. (rhylanw) To over charge, to fill over; to abound to excess.
Rhylesgu, v. a. (rhy—llesgu) To relax.
Rhylid, s. m. (llid) Extreme rage or anger.
Rhylidiad, s. m. (rhylid) A greatly irritating.
Rhylidiaw, v. a. (rhylid) To irritate greatly.
Rhylithr, s. m. (llithr) That is slippery overmuch; a diarrhœa. a. Too slippery.
Rhylithraw, v. a. (rhylithr) To slip extremely.
Rhylithrawl, a. (rhylithr) Very slippery.
Rhylithredd, s. m. (rhylithr) Extreme slipperiness.
Rhylithriad, s. m. (rhylithr) A slipping extremely.
Rhyliw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (lliw) A high colour.
Rhyliwiad, s. m. (rhyliw) A colouring highly.
Rhyliwiaw, v. a. (rhyliw) To colour highly.
Rhyliwiawg, a. (rhyliw) Of high colour.
Rhylofi, v. a. (llofi) To bestow greatly.

O'r dawn rhylofaist rhy lafar wyf.

From the talent thou hast amply conferred too loquacious am I!
Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Rhylofiad, s. m. (llofiad) A greatly bestowing.
Rhylog, s. m.—pl. t. au (llog) Over-hire.
Rhylogawl, a. (rhylog) Relating to over-hire.
Rhylogi, v. a. (rhylog) To over-hire; to deal usuriously.
Rhylogiad, s. m. (rhylog) An over-hiring.
Rhylosg, s. m. (llosg) An extreme burning.
Rhylosgedd, s. m. (rhylosg) Extreme burning.
Rhylosgi, v. a. (rhylosg) To burn extremely.
Rhylosgiad, s. m. (rhylosg) Over-burning.
Rhyludd, s. m. (lludd) Extreme hinderance.
Rhyluddiad, s. m. (rhyludd) A hindering much.
Rhyluddiaw, v. a. (rhyludd) To hinder greatly.
Rhylun, s. m. (llun) A complete form; a preform.
Rhyluniad, s. m. (rhylun) A fully forming.
Rhyluniaeth, s. m. (rhylun) Complete formation.
Rhyluniaethawl, a. (rhyluniaeth) Tending to complete formation.
Rhyluniaethiad, s. m. (rhyluniaeth) Preformation.
Rhyluniaethu, v. a. (rhyluniaeth) To form completely; to preform.

O'm iaith y rhyluniaethir
Air, nid gwael arnad y gwir.

From my language will be completely formed a report of thee, the truth will be no disgrace. D. ab Gwilym, i Ifor.

Rhyluniaw, v. a. (rhylun) To form fully.
Rhylwgr, s. m. (llwgr) Extreme damage or hurt.
Rhylwnc, s. m. (llwnc) An extreme swallow.
Rhylwyth, s. m. (llwyth) An over-load.
Rhylwythaw, v. a. (rhylwyth) To over-load.
Rhylwythawg, a. (rhylwyth) Over-loaded.
Rhylwythiad, s. m. (rhylwyth) Over-loading.
Rhyly, a. (lly) Extremely apt to move.

Yn gerdd gyfiod rod ryly.

Being an amicable song of the most aptly moving circle.
Prydydd Bychan.

Rhylygrawl, a. (rhylwgr) Tending to damage extremely; extremely defiling.

Rhylygredd, s. m. (rhylwgr) The state of being extremely damaged; extreme defilement.
Rhylygriad, s. m. (rhylwgr) A damaging extremely; a defiling extremely.
Rhylygru, v. a. (rhylwgr) To damage extremely; to pollute extremely.
Rhylyncawl, a. (rhylwnc) Fully swallowing.
Rhylynciad, s. m. (rhylwnc) A fully swallowing.
Rhylyncu, v. a. (rhylwnc) To swallow fully.
Rhyll, s. m. (rhy—yll) A rift, cleft, or parting.
Rhym, s. m. (rhy—ym) That stretches round.
Rhym, pronom. prep. (rhy—ym) Signally mine; me signally; me before.

Rhym a fai biw blith yr haf;
Rhym a fai eddystrod y gauaf:
Rhym a fai win gloew.——

Peculiarly mine were the milch kine of summer; peculiarly mine were the harnessed steeds of winter; peculiarly mine was the sparkling wine.—— Taliesin.

Rhym gelwir yn ffyrf, yn ffyrg arab hwyl
Yn arabhawl derfysg.

I particularly shall be called the powerful, the quick of blithesome course in the joy-inciting tumult. Cynddelw.

Rhodri mawr rhwym llawr; rhym lloffes,
A rydd budd i bawb ei gymhes.

Great Rodri the ground doth bind; he before endowed me, who gives to every one his appropriate good.
Ll. P. Moch, i R. ab Owain.

Rhymofyn, v. a. (ymofyn) Peculiarly to enquire, seek, or demand.

Rhymofyn Culwydd cyreifiaint;
Ei folawd rhy bydd rhy caint.

The Fountain of love peculiarly demands contrition; his praise will be supremely the first of songs.
Melgant, m. Cynddylan.

Rhymofynawl, a. (rhymofyn) Peculiarly enquiring or demanding.
Rhymofyniad, s. m. (rhymofyn) A peculiarly enquiring or demanding.
Rhyn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhy—yn) That reaches, shoots, or extends into; that causes to run into; a principle of motion; impulse; a shiver, or shake; dread; an instant; a small space; a small quantity; a point, or cape. s. f. Rhen, a torrent, a brook. Hence Aeddren and Onren.

O amddifad feibion ac ereill ryn.

Of orphan children and others a few. Taliesin.

Rhyn, a. (rhy—yn) Pervading; agitating, shivering; terrible.

Mynaist gyfarfod yn gyfarfawg
A Gwenwynwyn, ryn rwyf lluosawg.

Thou didst seek to meet in arms with Gwenwynwyn, the terrible chief of many hosts. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Ys gorwyn ewyn rhyn yn rhedeg;
Ys gwrdd yn Ionawr mawr morgroeg.

Supremely white is the shivering foam in running; in January how mighty the great surging of the sea. D. Benfras.

Rhyn, pronom. prep. (rhy—yn) Ours peculiarly; us signally; us before.

Ni'm gatwy Rheen yn rhan faddeu!
Rhoddysid i Dduw yn an dechreu,
Rhod per paradwys parau goleu;
Rhyn parasai Duw heb ddim eisieu.

May my Creator not leave me in the discarded party! There was given of God to us our beginning, in the blissful circle of paradise of continuing light; us originally God had caused void of every want. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Rhynaidd, a. (rhyn) Tending to be shivering.
Rhynaig, a. (rhyn) Tremulous, or trembling.
Rhynawd, s. m. (rhyn) Pervasion, a running into; agitation; that is fleeting or passing; a moment; a while; a small space; a small quantity. Rhynawd yn y coed, a little way in the wood.

Digawn yw gware rhynawd.

Sufficient is the play of a moment. Adage.

Rhag rhynawd tan dychyffrwy mwg.

From the agitation of fire smoke will be raised. Taliesin.

Rhynawl, a. (rhyn) Agitating; shivering.
Rhyndawd, s. m. (rhyn) A shivering, a quake.
Rhyned, s. f. (rhyn) That runs in; a small space, a small quantity; a moment.
Rhynedig, a. (rhyn) Agitated; shivered.
Rhynedd, s. m. (rhyn) A state of agitation.
Rhyni, s. m. (rhyn) An agitating, or trembling.

Oian a phorchellan, a phorchell ryni
Tenes yw fy llen, nid llonydd imi.

Listening with a pigling, with a little pig of trembling, this is my covering, for me there is no contentment. Myrddin.

Rhyniad, s. m. (rhyn) An agitation; a shivering.
Rhyniaw, v. a. (rhyn) To pervade; to agitate; to have instinct; to follow instinct.

O saith lafanad——
Un yw a ryniaf;
A dau y tynaf;
A thri a waeddaf;
A phedwar a flasaf;
A phump a welaf;
A chwech a glywaf;
A saith a rogleuaf.

Of seven faculties: one is what I know by instinct; with the second I touch; with the third I call; with the fourth I taste: with the fifth I see; with the sixth I hear; with the seventh I smell. Taliesin.

Ci i dynu, march i ryniaw,
Eidion i waa, hwch i dyraw.

A dog to pull, a horse to move, a kine to gore, a sow to burrow.
Taliesin.

Rhyniawg, a. (rhyn) Being pervaded; being agitated; having instinct.
Rhyniawl, a. (rhyn) Pervasive; apt to agitate.
Rhynion, s. pl. (rhyn) Oats cleared of the husks.
Rhynllyd, a. (rhyn) Full of shivering.
Rhynllydrwydd, s. m. (rhynllyd) Shiveringness.
Rhynswch, s. m.—pl. rhynsychau (rhyn—swch) The trunk of an elephant.
Rhynu, v. a. (rhyn) To cause an emotion; to extend into; to cause a shivering or quaking; to shiver, to shake with cold, to be chilled. Wyf yn rhynu, I am shivering with cold.
Rhyngad, s. m. (rhwng) Intervention.
Rhyngadwy, a. (rhyngad) Capable of intervening, capable of fulfilling.

Rhyngadwy fodd genym bob pwnc ohoni.

Agreeable to our will is every article of it.
Braint Swydd y Waen.

Rhyngawd, s. m. (rhwng) An intervention.
Rhyngawg, a. (rhwng) Having intervention. s. m. That mediates.

Bid ryngawg cleirch.

Let an elder be a mediator. Llywarch Hen.

Rhyngawl, a. (rhwng) Intervening; mediate.
Rhyngawr, s. m. (rhwng) That intervenes.
Rhyngdawd, s. m. (rhwng) Intervention.
Rhyngedig, a. (rhwng) Intervening.
Rhyngedd, s. m. (rhwng) Intermediateness.
Rhyngiad, s. m. (rhwng) An intervention.
Rhynglinell, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwng—llinell) An intervening line.
Rhynglinellawl, a. (rhynglinell) Interlineary.
Rhynglinelliad, s. m. (rhynglinell) Interlineation.
Rhynglinellu, v. a. (rhynglinell) To interline.
Rhyngsang, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhwng—sang) A diacope, in rhetoric.
Rhyngu, v. a. (rhwng) To intervene; to mediate; to bring to pass; to content. "A rync dy fodd di hyny?" Will that be agreeable to thy will?
Rhyodidawg, a. (godidawg) Superexcellent.
Rhyodres, s. m. (godres) Ostentation, or pomp.

Caffant fyrdd o feirddion eu lles
O foli Rodri ryodres.

A myriad of bards will find their good from praising the pomp of Rhodri. Ll. P. Moch.

Oedd chynghorfynt can y teyrnasoedd pell i wrtho, maint clod ei lys, a rhyodres ei deulu.

Envy filled the kingdoms far from him, for the fame of his court and the pomp of his family. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyoddef, v. a. (goddef) To bear extremely.
Rhyoddefawl, a. (rhyoddef) Over-patient.
Rhyoddefiad, s. m. (rhyoddef) A bearing much.
Rhyoddefu, v. a. (rhyoddef) To bear extremely.
Rhyoed, s. m. (oed) Over-age, extreme age.
Rhyoedran, s. m. (rhyoed) Extreme age.
Rhyoedranus, a. (rhyoedran) Superannuated.
Rhyofal, s. m. (gofal) Extreme care.
Rhyofalu, v. a. (rhyofal) To act very cautiously; to be over-anxious.
Rhyofalus, s. m. (rhyofal) Over-careful.
Rhyofn, a. (ofn) Extreme terror or fear.
Rhyofnawg, a. (rhyofn) Over-fearful.
Rhyofni, v. a. (rhyofn) To fear extremely.
Rhyofniad, s. m. (rhyofn) A fearing extremely.
Rhyogwydd, s. m. (gogwydd) An over-bias.
Rhyogwyddaw, v. a. (rhyogwydd) To over-bias.
Rhyogwyddawl, a. (rhyogwydd) Over-inclining.
Rhyogwyddiad, s. m. (rhyogwydd) An inclining extremely; an over-biassing.
Rhyorchwyl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (gorchwyl) An over-performance, supererogation.
Rhyorchwylaw, v. (rhyorchwyl) To supererogate.
Rhyorchwyliad, s. m. (gorchwyl) Supererogation.
Rhyorchwylus, a. (rhyorchwyl) Supererogatory.
Rhyoresgyn, s. m. (goresgyn) A full subjection.
Rhyoresgynawl, a. (rhyoresgyn) Fully subduing.
Rhyoresgyniad, s. m. (rhyoresgyn) A fully subduing; a completely overcoming.
Rhyoresgynu, v. (rhyoresgyn) To subdue fully.
Rhyorfod, v. a. (gorfod) To overcome fully; to be fully necessitated.

Gwedi gweled o Wl Caisar ryorfod arno, ynghyd ag ychydig o'i nifer ydd ai ar ffo yn ei longau, a chymeryd diogelwch y mor yn amddiffyn iddo.

After Julius Cæsar had perceived that he was completely overcome, with a small part of his army he retreated to his ships, and took the security of the sea for his protection. Gr. ab Arthur.

Rhyorfodawg, a. (rhyorfod) Being completely overcome; under full subjection.
Rhyorfodawl, a. (rhyorfod) Tending to overcome completely.
Rhyorfodiad, s. m. (rhyorfod) A fully over-coming, a making a complete conquest.
Rhyorugaw, v. a. (gorugaw) To perform, to make completely, to accomplish fully.

Rhygorug Duw dda—
Rhygorug fy awen,
I foli fy rhen:
Mydwyf Taliesin,
Araeth lif dewin.

God originally formed good; he originally formed my muse, to praise my sovereign: I am Taliesin with flowing speech of prophecy. Taliesin.

Rhyorugawl, a. (gorugawl) Tending to do fully.
Rhyorugiad, s. m. (gorugiad) A doing fully.
Rhyosgoew, a. (gosgoew) Having a very contrary direction or bearing.
Rhyran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) Extreme part.
Rhyranawl, a. (rhyran) Tending to over-divide.
Rhyraniad, s. m. (rhyran) An over-dividing.
Rhyranu, v. a. (rhyran) To over-divide.
Rhyrawd, s. f. (rhawd) An extreme course.
Rhyred, s. f. (rhed) An extreme running.

Ac ys ini feddyg, a fedd gwared an gau,
A dodwn innau yn ymddiried;
Yssef arglwydd nef a nerthaed,
I ddiofryd gwyd gwedi rhyred.

And to us there is a physician, who has the power to put away our falsity, and let us then place our dependence; for it is the Lord of heaven who is endued with power, to put aside vice after an excessive course. Gwalchmai.

Rhyredawl, a. (rhyred) Tending to run beyond.
Rhyredeg, v. a. (rhyred) To run extremely.
Rhyrediad, s. m. (rhyred) A running extremely.
Rhyrif, s. m. (rhif) An over-number.
Rhyrifaw, v. a. (rhyrif) To over-number.
Rhyrifawl, a. (rhyrif) Supernumerary.
Rhyrifiad, s. m. (rhyrif) An over-numbering.
Rhyrith, s. m. (rhith) A prior appearance.
Rhyrithiad, s. m. (rhyrith) A previously appearing; an over-appearing.
Rhyrithiaw, v. a. (rhyrith) To appear before.
Rhyrithiawl, a. (rhyrith) Previously appearing.
Rhyrodiad, s. m. (rhyrawd) A rambling overmuch.
Rhyrodiaw, v. a. (rhyrawd) To ramble overmuch.
Rhyrodiawl, a. (rhyrawd) Apt to stroll much.
Rhyrodd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhodd) An over-gift.
Rhyroddawl, a. (rhyrodd) Over-giving.
Rhyroddi, v. a. (rhyrodd) To give overmuch.
Rhyroddiad, s. m. (rhyrodd) An over-giving.
Rhyrwym, s. m. (rhwym) Extreme stricture.
Rhyrwymaw, v. a. (rhyrwym) To bind extremely.
Rhyrwymawl, a. (rhyrwym) Over-binding.
Rhyrwymiad, s. m. (rhyrwym) An over-binding.
Rhyrys, s. m. (rhys) Extreme strait or difficulty.

Nis deubi ryrys.

There would not come a great difficulty. Taliesin.

Rhyrysiaw, v. a. (rhyrys) To hesitate extremely.
Rhyrysiawl, a. (rhyrys) Extremely hesitating.
Rhys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (rhy—ys) Extreme ardency; extreme tendency; aptitude to set off, begin, pervade, or to overrun; a rushing; a strait; a trial, a difficulty.

Dywed Myrddin y dawai
Y rhys a'r aflwydd ar rai.

Myrddin said that there would come a certain difficulty and misfortune upon some. Ieuan Tew.

Rhys, pronom. prep. (rhy—ys) That signally; of that particularly.

Rhys gwollychwyf rwyf rhyfeddau,
Can digones Duw o'i ddefnyddiau.

That above all may I adore the Lord of wonders, since God has formed him from his materials. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Rhysaeth, s. m. (rhys) The act of putting in a moving tendency; a putting in a course; a running a course; a straitening.
Rhysail, s. f.—pl. rhyseiliau (sail) An extreme or first foundation.
Rhysawl, a. (rhys) Rushing; over-running.
Rhyse, s. m. (se) Extreme fixedness; the state of being quite fixed or determined.

Gnawd gwedi rhyserch ryse.

Frequently after extreme fondness comes excess of obstinacy. Gwalchmai.

Rhysedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhws) Superfluity, excess, an over-abundance.

Gwell golud no rhysedd.

Better are means than superfluity. Adage.

Rhysedd, s. m. (rhys) A rush, or violent course.

Pan amug Tegeingl, teg rhysedd
Rhysfa cad Cadelling fonedd
Oedd tramawr trameirw yn dyhedd.

When he defended Tegeingl, splendid the career on the course of battle of Cadell's progeny, innumerable those to death consigned falling to silence. Cynddelw m. O. Gwynedd.

Rhysedda, v. a. (rhysedd) To rush on; to rush into difficulty or trial.

Gwell dyhudd no rhysedda.

Better is forbearance than to rush into contest. Adage.

Gwell rhwydd no rhysedda.

Better what is easy than to encounter difficulties. Llefoed.

Rhyseddawg, a. (rhysedd) Having superfluity.

Rhyseddu, v. a. (rhysedd) To make a superfluity.

Rhyseiliad, s. m. (rhysail) A laying a complete foundation.

Rhyseiliaw, v. a. (rhysail) To lay a complete foundation.

Gwedi rhyserch rysiliaw cas.

Commonly after over-fondness hate is completely implanted. Gwalchmai.

Rhyseiliawg, a. (rhysail) Having a complete foundation; completely implanted.

Rhyseiliedig, a. (rhysail) Completely founded.

Rhysel, s. m. (sel) A stedfast look, a stare.

Rhyseliad, s. m. (rhysel) A viewing stedfastly.

Rhyselu, v. a. (rhysel) To view stedfastly.

Rhysen, s. f.—pl. t. au (sen) An extreme rebuke

——Emrys hen
A ddyrysedd, pond oedd rysen
Braich haelwen brau uwchelwyr.

Old Ambrose became embarrassed, was it not an extreme check, he that was the frank and liberal arm of nobility! Mered. ab Rosser.

Rhysenawl, a. (rhysen) Severely checking.

Rhysèniad, s. m. (rhysén) A severely chiding.

Rhysènu, v. a. (rhysen) To chide extremely.

Rhyserch, s. m. (serch) An over-fondness.

Rhyserchawg, a. (rhyserch) Being over-fond.

Rhyserchawl, a. (rhyserch) Over-fondling.

Rhyserchiad, s. m. (rhyserch) A loving greatly.

Rhyserchu, v. a. (rhyserch) To love extremely.

Rhysèu, v. a. (rhyse) To remain firm; to be very stubborn.

Dy glud feirdd ynt beirdd i'th hardd glas;
Dy gleddyf dy glod rhyseu.

Thy assembling bards are gay in thy sumptuous mansion; thy sword hath firmly established thy fame. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Rhysfa, s. f.—pl. rhysfëydd (rhys) A course.

Rhysgain, a. (rhwsg) Tending to overrun.

Rhysgawg, a. (rhwsg) Being covered with luxuriancy; overgrown. Tir rhysgawg, land overgrown or run wild.

Rhysgawl, a. (rhwsg) Tending to be overgrown.

Rhysgiad, s. m. (rhwsg) A growing luxuriantly; an overgrowing, a running wild.

Rhysgwydd, s. m. (rhys—cwydd) Succour; patronage, protection.

Rhysgwydd gweddw, car dieithriaid.

The succour of the widow, the friend of strangers. R. Pritchard o Landdyfri.

Rhysgwyddaw, v. a. (rhysgwydd) To succour.

Rhysgwyddawl, a. (rhysgwydd) Succouring.

Rhysgwyddiad, s. m. (rhysgwydd) A succouring.

Rhysgyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhys—gyr) Violence; a furious assault, onset, or attack.

Nodded ni'm rhodded rhag rhysgyr arfau,
Arfod Cai a Bedwyr.

Protection was not afforded me against the violence of arms, like the stroke of Cai and Bedwyr. Elidr Sais, m. Edn. Fychan.

Rhysgyrawl, a. (rhysgyr) Furiously assaulting.

Rhysgyriad, s. m. (rhysgyr) A fiercely assaulting.

Rhysgyru, v. a. (rhysgyr) To assault fiercely.

Rhysiad, s. m. (rhys) A rushing violently; agitation; a straitening; or a putting to trial.

Rhysiannawl, a. (rhysiant) Fiercely rushing.

Rhysiannu, v. a. (rhysiant) To rush onward.

Rhysiant, s. m. (rhys) A rushing course.

Rhysiaw, v. a. (rhys) To rush violently; to straiten; to entangle.

Rhysiawg, a. (rhys) Full of violence; straitened.

Rhysiawl, a. (rhys) Violently-rushing; tending to straiten or cause obstruction.

Rhysiedig, a. (rhysiad) Rendered violent.

Rhysiedig a dig, y dyrn ei ddannedd
Rhysedd mehin-wledd.

Ardent and angry, his teeth work a profusion of a feast of lard. D. ab Gwilym, i R. Meigen.

Rhysod, s. pl. aggr. (rhys) Burning embers; glowing cinders; also called marwor.

Rhysodi, v. n. (rhysod) To turn to embers.

Rhysodiad, s. m. (rhysod) A turning to embers.

Rhysodyn, s. m. dim. (rhysod) A hot ember.

Rhysu, v. a. (rhys) To render straitened or difficult; to entangle. Gwallt wedi rhysu, hair become entangled.

Rhyswr, s. m.—pl. rhyswyr (rhys—gwr) A man inured to violence, difficulty, or trial; a champion, a combatant; a savage.

Syll di raco dan rhyswr.

See thou yonder the fire of a savage. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Y mynydd hagen, y bu y frwydr ynddo, a elwir gwlad y Mynydd Carn; sef yw hyny mynydd y garnedd; canys yno y mae dirfawr garnedd o fain a dan yr hon y claddid rhyswr yn nghynoesoedd gynt.

Now the mountain, on which the battle was, is called by the people of the country the Carn Mountain; that is to say, the mountain of the tumulus; for in that place there is an immense heap of stones, under which was buried a champion in primitive ages of antiquity. Buch. Gr. ab Cynan.

Rhyswriaeth, s. m. (rhyswr) The warfare of a champion; warfare.

Gwynedd yn rhysedd yn rhyswriaeth glyw,
A glywsant man yd aeth,
Mal torf nyw terfysg alaeth;
Mal ton trais trystion tros draeth.

Gwynedd in conflict in the warfare of the chief, they heard where he went, like a host whom grief doth not move; like an usurping wave, of brisk tumult, over the strand. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Rhyswydd, s. pl. (rhws—gwydd) Privet wood.

Er angelwch bywyd,
Rhyswydd a gwyddfyd.——

For life's security, privet and woodbine.—— Taliesin.

Rhyswydden, s. f. dim. (rhyswydd) Privet tree.

Rhysyn, s. m. dim. (rhys) A burning ember.

Rhysyrch, s. m. (syrch) Extreme affection.

Tremyn Llywelyn llyw rhysyrch Prydain,
Prid i Loegr ei ddiwyrch.

Behold Llywelyn the idolized chief of Britain, whom Lloegr has cause not to love. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Rhysyrchawl, a. (rhysyrch) Very affectionate.

Rhysyrchiad, s. m. (rhysyrch) A loving greatly.

Rhysyrchu, v. a. (rhysyrch) To love extremely.

Rhytion, s. pl. aggr. (rhwd) Particles worn off by friction; scourings.

Rhyth, pronom. prep. (rhy—yth) Thee signally; thine extremely or signally.

Mi ryth iolaf, buddig Feli,
Ab Mynogan ri;
Rhygeidw teithi
Ynys Fel Beli:
Teithiawg oedd iddi.

I will thee fervently worship, victorious Beli, son of Mynogan the chief; Beli will preserve the rights of the Honey island: for he was qualified for it. Mawl Beli.

Rhythawl, a. (rhwth) Tending to gape or to open widely; yawning.

Rhythedd, s. m. (rhwth) A state of gaping.

Rhythfol, s. m. (rhwth—bol) A gorbelly.

Rhythfoliawg, a. (rhythfol) Gorbellied.

Rhythgi, s. m. (rhwth—ci) A greedy dog.

Rhythgnawd, s. m. (rhwth—cnawd) Bloated flesh

Rhythiad, s. m. (rhwth) Distention, a gaping.

Rhythni, s. m. (rhwth) A state of gaping.

Rhython, s. pl. aggr. (rhwth) Cockles. Rhython y brain, clams.

Rhythu, v. a. (rhwth) To stretch out, to make wide, open, or large. Rhythu llygaid, to open the eyes very wide, to stare.

Rhythwch, s. m. (rhwth) A gaping, a yawning.

> Bum banw, bum banhwch,
> Bum gawr yn rhythwch.
>
> I have been a bear, I have been a sow, I have been a shout in a tumult. Taliesin.

Rhythwr, s. m.—pl. rhythwyr (rhythu—gwr) One who gapes; a yawner.

Rhyw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhy—yw) A kind, a species, a sort; a sex; some.

> Eild rhyw ar barth pa yw.
>
> Let kind belong to what is meet. Adage.
>
> Pob byw wrth ei ryw yr aeth.
>
> Every living to his kind is joined. Llawdden.

Rhyw, a. (rhy—yw) Some. Rhyw rif, some number; rhyw rai, some ones; rhyw faint, some quantity; rhyw dro, some time.

Rhyw, adv. (rhy—yw) It is genial or natural.

> Rhyw i fab iwrch lamu.
>
> It is genial for the young roe to skip. Adage.

Rhywad, s. m. (gwad) Extreme denial.

Rhywadawl, a. (rhywad) Being fully denying.

Rhywadu, v. a. (rhywad) To deny extremely.

Rhywan, s. m. (gwan) An extreme division; an extreme wound or stab.

Rhywaniad, s. m. (rhywan) A dividing extremely; a wounding extremely.

Rhywanu, v. a. (rhywan) To make an extreme division; to wound extremely.

Rhywared, s. m. (gwared) Full deliverance.

Rhywaredawl, a. (rhywared) Tending to complete deliverance.

Rhywarediad, s. m. (rhywared) Full deliverance

Rhywaredu, v. a. (rhywared) To deliver fully.

Rhywasgar, s. m. (gwasgar) Extreme dispersion.

Rhywasgarawg, a. (rhywasgar) Being extremely scattered or dispersed.

Rhywasgarawl, a. (rhywasgar) Tending to scatter extremely; a greatly dispersing.

Rhywasgariad, s. m. (rhywasgar) A scattering extremely; a being greatly dispersed.

Rhywasgaru, v. a. (rhywasgar) To scatter much.

Rhywawg, a. (rhyw) Having a sexual distinction, sexual, of a particular kind.

Rhywbeth, s. m. (rhyw—peth) Something.

Rhywbryd, s. m. (rhyw—pryd) Sometime. adv. Sometime, once on a time; formerly.

Rhyweilydd, s. m. (gweilydd) One that is very sparing, parsimonious, or frugal.

Rhyweilyddu, v. n. (rhyweilydd) To be very sparing, to be over parsimonious.

> Gogwybydd Dafydd doddyf Elfri,
> Na rhyweilydd ni rwyoli.
>
> Conscious is Davydd of the maxim of Elvri, that to be profuse will not make us very sparing. Ll. P. Moch, i D. ab Owain.

Rhywel, s. m. (gwel) Extreme sight; foresight.

Rhyweled, v. a. (rhywel) To see beyond.

> Perygl rhyfel rhywelwn;
> A pha fyd hefyd yw hwn.
>
> The danger of war we foresee; and what a world likewise is this. Dr. S. Cent.

Rhyweledig, a. (rhywel) Being foreseen.

Rhyweliad, s. m. (rhywel) A foreseeing.

Rhywfaint, s. m. (rhyw—maint) Some quantity.

> Cred air o bob deg a glywi, a thi a gei rywfaint bach o wir.
>
> Believe a word of every ten thou shalt hear, and thou wilt obtain some little truth. Adage.

Rhywerth, s. m. (gwerth) Extreme price.

Rhywerthiad, s. m. (rhywerth) An over-selling, a selling extravagantly.

Rhywerthu, v. a. (rhywerth) To over-sell.

Rhywestliad, s. m. (gwestliad) A tormenting.

Rhywestlu, v. a. (gwestlu) To torment greatly.

Rhywfan, s. f. (rhyw—man) A particular place. adv. Somewhere.

Rhywiad, s. m. (rhyw) A giving a specific character; a partaking of a specific character.

Rhywiaeth, s. m. (rhyw) Distinction of species.

Rhywiaw, v. a. (rhyw) To endue with a specific or sexual distinction; to be specific; to partake of a sort or species.

Rhywiawg, a. (rhyw) Kindly, kind; genial; of good kind. Anifel rhywiawg, a kind animal; tir rhywiawg, land of good quality.

> Ni cheir gwlan rhywiawg ar glun gafr.
>
> No fine wool can be had from a goat's shoulder. Adage.

Rhywiawl, a. (rhyw) Special; sexual.

Rhywiogaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhywiawg) The state of being specific, or of a particular sort; distinction, sort, or species.

> Tair prif rywiogaeth y sydd ar gerdd; mawl, galar, a duchan.
>
> There are three primary distinctions of song; eulogy, elegy, and satire. Barddas.

Rhywiogaethawl, a. (rhywiogaeth) Generical.

Rhywiogaethiad, s. (rhywiogaeth) Specification.

Rhywiogaethu, v. a. (rhywiogaeth) To endue with a specific distinction.

Rhywiogaidd, a. (rhywiawg) Somewhat genial.

Rhywiogedd, s. m. (rhywiawg) Genialness.

Rhywiogeiddiad, s. m. (rhywiogaidd) A rendering or becoming genial in a degree.

Rhywiogeiddiaw, v. a. (rhywiogaidd) To render somewhat genial; to become somewhat genial.

Rhywiogeiddrwydd, s. m. (rhywiogaidd) A genial or kindly disposition.

Rhywiogi, v. a. (rhywiawg) To render genial or kindly; to become genial.

Rhywiogrwydd, s. m. (rhywiawg) Genialness.

Rhywiolaeth, s. m. (rhywiawl) Sexual distinction; a specific difference.

Rhywioli, v. a. (rhywiawl) To render specifically different; to have a specific difference.

Rhywir, s. m. (gwir) Complete truth. a. Very true; too true.

> Rhygas pob rhywir.
>
> Extremely offensive is every naked truth. Adage.

Rhywiriad, s. m. (rhywir) A fully certifying.

Rhywiriaw, v. a. (rhywir) To certify fully.

Rhywlaw, s. m. (gwlaw) Excessive rain.

Rhywlawiad, s. m. (rhywlaw) A raining greatly.

Rhywlawiaw, v. (rhywlaw) To rain excessively.

Rhywle, s. m. (rhyw—lle) A certain place. adv. Somewhere.

Rhywneuthur, v. a. (gwneuthur) To over-perform, to supererogate.

Rhywneuthurawl, a. (rhywneuthur) Supererogatory; tending to over do.

Rhywneuthuriad, s. m. (rhywneuthur) Supererogation; an over doing.

Rhywogaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhywawg) The state of being specific; a kind, or species.

Rhywr, s. m.—pl. rhywyr (gwr) One that is more than human.

Rhywres, s. m. (gwres) Extreme warmth.

> Mawr Dduw digones
> Haul haf a'i rywres;
> Ac ef digones
> Budd coed a maes.
>
> The great God did cause the sun of summer with its extreme warmth; and he did cause the abundance of the wood and field. Taliesin.

Rhywresawg, a. (rhywres) Being over warm.

Rhywresawl, a. (rhywres) Over-heating.

Rhywresiad, s. m. (rhywres) An over-heating.

Rhywresogi, v. n. (rhywresawg) To acquire too much warmth, to cause over-heat.

Rhywresu, v. n. (rhywres) To become too warm.

Rhywrys, s. m. (gwrys) Extreme ardency or zeal. a. Over-ardent.

Yn mhryffwn rywrys
Yn rhwyoli gwrys
Yn Mhrydain Ynys
Gwys an gwesti.

In the height of extreme ardency augmenting of zeal in the British Isle he proclaims our visitations.
Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Rhywrysiad, s. m. (rhywrys) A rendering over-ardent; a becoming very ardent or zealous.
Rhywrysiaw, v. a. (rhywrys) To act with extreme ardency or warmth.
Rhywrysiawl, a. (rhywrys) Being very ardent.
Rhywun, s. m. (rhyw—un) Some one, somebody.
Rhywyl, s. m. (gwyl) A very sharp look out.
Rhywyliad, s. m. (rhywyl) A watching greatly.
Rhywyliaw, v. a. (rhywyl) To watch extremely.
Rhywyllt, a. (gwyllt) Extremely wild.
Rhywylltiad, s. m. (rhywyllt) A rendering very wild; a becoming extremely wild.
Rhywylltiaw, v. a. (rhywyllt) To make extremely wild; to scare extremely.
Rhywynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (gwynt) A hurricane.

Ardwyad can-cad——
Ys cynt no rhywynt uch rudd wybren.

The master of a hundred conflicts: being more active than the violent wind over the ruddy atmosphere. Ll. P. Moch.

Rhyŵyr, a. (gŵyr) Oblique overmuch.
Rhyŵyraw, v. a. (rhyŵyr) To make over-oblique.
Rhyŵyrawl, a. (rhyŵyr) Of extreme obliquity.
Rhyŵyriad, s. m. (rhyŵyr) A rendering extremely oblique; a becoming over-oblique.
Rhywystl, s. m.—pl. t. on (gwystl) An over-pledge; a previous pledge.
Rhywystlaw, v. a. (rhywystl) To give an over-pledge; to pledge previously.
Rhywystlawg, a. (rhywystl) Over-pledged.
Rhywystliad, s. m. (rhywystl) An over-pledging.
Rhywyth, s. m. (gwyth) Extreme violence.
Rhywythaw, v. a. (rhywyth) To enrage extremely; to be extremely enraged.
Rhywythawg, a. (rhywyth) Full of extreme rage.
Rhywythiad, s. m. (rhywyth) An enraging extremely; a being extremely enraged.
Rhŷymadaw, v. a. (ymadaw) To go away utterly; to forsake utterly.
Rhŷymadawiad, s. m. (rhŷymadaw) A going away utterly; a forsaking utterly.
Rhŷymgadw, v. a. (ymgadw) To keep or preserve one's self fully; fully to abstain.
Rhŷyrawl, a. (gyrawl) Extremely impulsive.
Rhŷyriad, s. m. (gyriad) A driving extremely.
Rhŷyru, v. a. (gyru) To drive on extremely.

S.

SA, s. m. r. A negative of motion; a state of opposition; a fixed state; a firm, steady, or even state; a standing.
Sach, s. f.—pl. t. au (sa—ach) A sack, or bag. Sach diawl, a demoniac, or one possessed.
Sachaid, s. f.—pl. sacheidiau (sach) A sackful.
Sachawl, a. (sach) Sacking, or bagging.
Sachbwn, s. m. (sach—pwn) A bale.
Sachedig, a. (sach) Being put in a sack, sacked.
Sachell, s. f. dim. (sach) A small sack, or a bag.
Sachelliad, s. m. (sachell) A bagging; a padding, or stuffing out, as with wool or the like.
Sachellu, v. a. (sach) To bag; to stuff in; to pad.
Sachiad, s. m. (sach) A putting in a sack.
Sachlian, s. m. (sach—llian) Sackcloth.
Sachu, v. a. (sach) To put in a sack, to stuff.
Sachwisg, s. f. (sach—gwisg) Sackcloth covering.
Sachwr, s. m.—pl. sachwyr (sach—gwr) A man who sacks or puts in a bag.
Sad, a. (sa—ad) Permanent, firm; discreet, sober. Merch sad, a discreet woman.

Sai yn sad heb un gadwyn.

She will stand firmly without any chain. R. Dafydd Llwyd.

Sadell, s. f.—pl. t. i (sad) A dorser, or a pannel.
Sadelliad, s. m. (sadell) A putting on a packsaddle.
Sadelliaeth, s. m. (sadell) The use of a packsaddle.
Sadellu, v. a. (sadell) To put on a packsaddle.
Sadellwr, s. m.—pl. sadellwyr (sadell—gwr) A maker of packsaddles.
Sadiad, s. m. (sad) A rendering firm or steady.
Sadiaw, v. a. (sad) To render firm or steady.
Sadiawl, a. (sad) Of a firm or steady tendency.
Sadiedig, a. (sad) Rendered firm or steady.
Sadrwydd, s. m. (sad) Firmness, steadiness.
Sadwrn, s. m. (sad—gwrn) A fixt or firm point; a centre point: also the name of Saturn.

Sae, s. m. (sa) A kind of woollen stuff, say.

Gwisg a ddanfoned——
Is dail yt, o sae du.

A robe has been sent to thee, under the leaves, of black say.
D. ab Gwilym.

Saen, s. f.—pl. t. i (sa—en) A vehicle, a carriage.
Saer, s. m.—pl. seiri (sa—er) A wright, an artificer, an artisan. Saer coed, saer pren, prensaer, a carpenter; saer maen, maensaer, a stonemason; saer melin, a millwright; saer priddfaen, a bricklayer; saer cist, a cabinet-maker; saer llong, a shipwright; saer llestri gwellt, a straw-joiner.

Pen saer pob perchenawg.

Every proprietor is the chief artificer. Adage.

Un o dri madgyrfinyddion Ynys Prydain—Morddal Gwr Gweilgi, saer Ceraint ab Greidiawl, a ddysges waith maen a chalch gyntaf i genedl y Cymmry.

One of the three beneficial inventors of the Isle of Britain; Morddal the Man of the Torrent, the architect of Ceraint son of Greidiol, who first taught the work of stone and lime to the nation of the Cymmry. Trioedd.

Saeraidd, a. saer) Wright-like, workman-like.
Saerawl, a. (saer) Artificial; architectural.
Saeriad, s. m. (saer) A forming a wright or artisan.
Saeriannawl, a. (saeriant) Architectonic.
Saeriannu, v. a. (saeriant) To practise or carry on architecture or the work of a wright.
Saeriant, s. m. (saer) Architecture.
Saerni, s. m. (saer) A wright's work.
Saernïaeth, s. m. (saerni) The calling of a wright or artificer; the art of building or framing; mechanism; architecture.
Saernïaethawl, a. (saernïaeth) Architectonic.
Saernïaethiad, s. m. (saernïaeth) A constructing a piece of work, or mechanism.
Saernïaethu, v. a. (saernïaeth) To carry on the calling of a wright; to construct a piece of work or mechanism.

Saernïaidd, a. (saerni) Like the work of an artist; masterly; mechanical; architectonic.
Saernïaw, v. a. (saerni) To work as a wright.
Saernïawl, a. (saerni) Architectural.
Saernïeiddiad, s. m. (saernïaidd) A rendering workman-like; a becoming mechanical.
Saernïeiddiaw, v. a. (saernïaidd) To render workman-like; to become mechanical.
Saernïeiddrwydd, s. m. (saernïaidd) Masterliness, as a wright, that is workman-like.
Saeru, v. a. (saer) To work as an artisan.
Saerwaith, s. m. (saer—gwaith) A wright's work.
Saesoneg, s. f. (saeson) The Saxon language; the English language.
Saesones, s. f. (saeson) An English-woman.
Saeson, s. pl. (sais) Saxons; Englishmen.
Saesonach, s. pl. dim. (saeson) Saxon hordes.
Saesonaidd, a. (saeson) Saxon-like; English.
Saesoniad, s. m.—pl. saesoniaid (saeson) A Saxon.

> Synwyr yr holl Saesoniaid.
>
> The sense of all the Saxons. Llawdden.

Saesonig, a. (saeson) Saxon, or English.
Saesyn, s. m. dim. (sais) An Englishman.
Saeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (sa—aeth) An arrow.

> Gwnelid seth saeth i syberw: or
> Gwnelid serch saeth syberw.
>
> Let love make an arrow for the courteous. Adage.

Saethawd, s. m. (saeth) The act of shooting.
Saethawl, a. (saeth) Tending to shoot; ejective.
Saethbenig, s. m. (saeth—pen) Arrow-grass.
Saethebawl, s. m.—pl. saethebolion (saeth—ebawl) A cast foal, an epithet for a young colt.

> Ni ddylyir daly ebawl yn ol ei fam; a hwnw a elwir saethebawl.
>
> It is not proper to lay hold of a colt after its dam; and that is called a cast foal. Welsh Laws.

Saethedig, a. (saeth) Being ejected or shotten.
Saethflew, s. m. aggr. (saeth—blew) The hairs which rise through the fur, in some animals.
Saethiad, s. m. (saeth) A shooting; ejection.
Saethiant, s. m. (saeth) The act of shooting.
Saethlys, s. m. (saeth—llys) Common arrowhead.
Saethu, v. a. (saeth) To shoot, or to dart.

> Haws barnu no saethu.
>
> It is easier to judge than to shoot. Adage.
>
> Nid rhydd i neb saethu anifel y bo helwriaeth arno, pan fo yn ei esmwythdra, tan boen colli ei fwa a'i saeth i arglwydd y tir.
>
> It is not free for any body to shoot an animal of the chace, when it shall be in its state of rest, under pain of forfeiting his bow and his arrow to the lord of the land. Cyfraith Hely.

Saethwr, s. m.—pl. saethwyr (saeth—gwr) A shooter; an archer.
Saethwriaeth, s. m. (saethwr) The act of shooting; archery.
Saethwrym, s. m.—pl. t. iau (saeth—gwrym) The sagittal suture.
Saethyd, s. m. (saeth) A shooting, or a darting.
Saethydd, s. m. (saeth) A shooter; an archer.

> ——Cariad
> Saethodd, briwodd fi i'm bron:
> Syth euddaw y saethyddion.
>
> ——Love did shoot, did wound me in my breast: the sturdy idol of the archers. S. Tudyr.

Saethyta, v. a. (saethyd) To shoot, or dart about; to frolick; to banter, to jest.

> Dywawd Ysbyddaden Bencawr: Na saethyta fi bellach, onid dy farw a fyni.
>
> Said Ysbyddaden Bencawr: banter me no further, unless thou hast a mind to die. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Saethytawl, a. (saethyd) Frolicksome.
Saethytiad, s. m. (saethyd) A playing of frolick.
Saf, s. f. (sa) A stand; the act of standing.
Safadwy, a. (saf) Capable of standing; permanent, lasting, durable.
Safaeth, s. m. (saf) A standing still, rest; a stand.
Safawl, a. (saf) Standing; permanent; resting.
Safdal, s. m. (saf—tal) Pitching money paid for stands in a fair.
Safdoll, s. f. (saf—toll) Pitching toll.
Safedig, a. (saf) Being made to stand; established, fixed, confirmed.
Safedigawl, a. (safedig) Having a tendency or power of standing. Enw safedigawl, noun substantive. G. Roberts.
Safedd, s. m. (saf) A fixed state, stationariness.
Safiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (saf) A remaining still, or resting; a standing; stature.

> Sai yn sad heb un gadwyn;
> Safiad fal dafad ar dwyn.
>
> She will stand firmly without any chain; a standing like a sheep on the hill. R. Dafydd Llwyd, i hen gilieg.

Safiadawl, a. (safiad) Stationary, standing.
Safiadu, v. a. (safiad) To render stationary; to become stationary.
Safiannawl, a. (safiant) Stationary, standing.
Safiannu, v. a. (safiant) To render stationary; to become stationary.
Safiant, s. m. (saf) The act of standing; posture.
Safiator, ger. (safiad) In standing.
Savitor, sup. (saf) To be standing.
Safle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (saf—lle) A station.

> Syfled pob mis o'i safle
> Ac aed a gwyl gyd ag e.
>
> Removed be every month from its place, and let the festival go along with it. Gro. Owain.

Safn, s. f.—pl. t. au (saf) The upper region of the mouth; the mouth, the chop.

> Cau dy safn, ac agor dy glust a'th lygad.
>
> Shut thy mouth, and open thine ear and thine eye. Adage.

Safnaid, s. f.—pl. safneidiau (safn) A chopful, a mouthful.
Safnawg, a. (safn) Having a large wide mouth.
Safnawl, a. (safn) Relating to the palate.
Safndrom, a. (safn—trom) Of heavy jaw, of drawling enunciation.
Safndrwm, a. (safn—trwm) Drawling.
Safndrymedd, s. m. (trwm) Slowness of speech.
Safneidiad, s. m. (safnaid) A taking a mouthful.
Safneidiaw, v. (safnaid) To swallow by mouthfuls.
Safniad, s. m. (safn) A mouthing; a gaping.
Safnrwth, a. (safn—rhwth) Wide-mouthed.
Safnrythiad, s. m. (safnrwth) A stretching the mouth widely; a gaping.
Safnrythni, s. m. (safnrwth) Wideness of mouth.
Safnrythu, v. a. (safnrwth) To open the mouth widely, to gape.
Safnrythwr, s. m.—pl. safnrythwyr (safnrwth—gwr) One who makes a wide mouth.
Safu, v. a. (saf) To stand; to become fixed.

> Ni saif gogan ar gadarn.
>
> Slander will not fix on the mighty. Adage.

Safwr, s. m.—pl. safwyr (saf—gwr) A stander.
Safwyr, s. m. (saf—gwyr) Savour; odour, scent.

> Safwyr hwn sy fwy'r hanner,
> Fal pwn o afalau per.
>
> The odour of this is greater by half, like a load of sweet apples. D. ab Edmwnd.

Safwyraw, v. a. (safwyr) To produce a savour.
Safwyrawl, a. (safwyr) Savoury; odorous.
Safwyrber, a. (safwyr—per) Sweet-savoured.
Safwyriad, s. m. (safwyr) A savouring.
Safwyrus, a. (safwyr) Savoury; odorous.
Saff, s. m. (sa) That stands or shoots out.

Saffar, s. m. (saff) A spike, a spire.

Ergrynant eu bar, seirff saffar sen.

They will tremble at their rage, serpents with sting of reproof. Cynddelw.

Saffrwm, s. m. (saffr) Saffron, or crocus.
Saffrymu, v. a. (saffrwm) To blend with saffron.
Saffwn, s. m. (saff) A beam, or a shaft.

Saffwn praff edlid ysid ei saffar.

A shaft, of ample wrath is its spike. Cynddelw.

Saffwy, s. f.—pl. t. on (saff) A pike or a lance.

Rhuddbraff ei saffwy, ni syll àll olwg
O olud nas rhoddwy.

Ruddy and thick his lance, he fixes not his sight on wealth that he will not bestow. Cynddelw.

Gwr praff wrth baladr saffwy.

An athletic man by the shaft of a lance. Iolo Goch.

Saffwyad, s. m. (saffwy) A using a pike or lance.
Saffwyaw, v. a. (saffwy) To use a pike or lance.
Saffwyawg, a. (saffwy) Having a pike or lance.

Ni thraethai na welai Cynon celain
Yn seirchiawg saffwyawg.——

He could make no declaration that Cynon would not see a corpse in harness bearing a lance.— Aneurin.

Saffwyawl, a. (saffwy) Belonging to a pike.
Saffwyawr, s. m. (saffwy) A lancier, a pikeman.
Saffr, s. m. (saff) Saffron. Meddygon Myddfai.
Sag, s. m. (sa—ag) A squeeze of the gullet.
Sagfa, s. f.—pl. sagfëydd (sag) That is closed up, a choke; a squeeze in the gullet.
Sagiad, s. m. (sag) A squeezing together; a stifling
Sagiaw, v. a. (sag) To close up, to choke; to stifle; to squeeze in the chops.
Sagiawl, a. (sag) Choking, or stifling.
Sagiedig, a. (sagiad) Choked, or stifled.
Sagmwrn, s. m. (sag—mwrn) A strangle, a choke.
Sagmwrniad, s. m. (sagmwrn) A strangling.
Sagmwrniaw, v. a. (sagmwrn) To strangle, to throttle, or to choke.
Sagmwrniawl, a. (sagmwrn) Strangling, choking.
Sagmwrnlwr, s. m.—pl. sagmwrnlwyr (sagmwrn—gwr) A s:rangler, a throttler, a choker.
Sai, s. m. (sa) That is still or at rest.
Saib, s. m. (sa—ib) The state of standing about; a state of rest or leisure; sedateness; a state of musing or study. a. Sedate, quiet, resting.

Pwy berchen moes awen saib;
Pwy a'i tramwy o'r trimaib!

Who is possessed of the morality of studious genius; who will travel it of the three seas! Edm. Prys.

Said, s. m.—pl. seidiau (sa—id) That is inserted; the tongue or the part of a tool that is inserted in the handle; a haft, or hilt. Cleddyf crynsaid, a sword with a round handle.

A gwn ni saif, gwan o said,
Deirawr y pechaduriaid.

And I know there will not stand, being weak of stem, the sinners for three hours even. W. Middleton.

Saig, s. m.—pl. seigiau (sa—ig) Mess; a meal.

Yr ail saig anrhydeddusaf yn y llys a ddyly y penteulu ei chaffael: a hyny yn gyntaf gwedi y brenin.

The second most honourable dish in the palace is due for the patron of the family to obtain; and that the first after the king. Welsh Laws.

Sail, s. f.—pl. seiliau (sa—il) A base, foundation, or ground-work.

Tair sail awen; rhodd Duw, ymgais dyn, a damwain bywyd.

The three foundations of genius; the gift of God, the exertion of man, and the event of life. Barddas.

Tair sail gwybodaeth: pwyll, anian, a thyst.

The three bases of knowledge; reason, nature, and evidence. Barddas.

Saim, s. m.—pl. seimiau (sa—im) Grease.

Sain, s. m.—pl. seiniau (sa—in) A sound, a tone.

Gwr cres wyd, garw ei sain;
Dred byd, heb droed, heb adain.

A wonderful being art thou, of sound terrific; the ranger of the world, without foot, without wing. D. ab Gwilym, i'r gwynt.

Sais, s. m. (sai) That is still, quiet, or soft.
Sais, s. m.—pl. saeson. A Saxon; an Englishman.
Saith, s. m.—pl. seithiau (sa—ith) That separates; that is separated; an essence; a cauldron; a crucible; the number seven. a. Seven. Traeth saith, a small sandy cove in Llanarth, Ceredigion

Saith mlynedd y darogenir deill.

For seven years will blindness be prognosticated. Adage.

Sal, s. f. (sa—al) A safety; plight; relief.

Drwg yw'r sal, afal ofid,
Drychin gorllewin a llid.

Bad, as the apple of discord, is the plight of anger-stemming storm. D. ab Gwilym.

Gwae saf yr enaid heb sal
Rhag blinder, heb gwbl andal,
O thry fal y troes y corff.——

Woe to the soul without a relief from trouble, without complete release, if it turns as the body has turned. D. ab Gwilym.

Sal, a. (sa—al) Safe, secure; precious; hale.

Aur sal ym a roes o'i law.

Precious gold he gave me from his hand. D. ab Edmund.

Salaidd, a. (sal) Somewhat hale or firm.
Salâu, v. a. (sal) To render sane, or safe.
Salder, s. m. (sal) Safety, good plight.
Salw, a. (sal) Vile, base, sorry, frail; poor; ill, sick. Dillad seilwon, poor clothes; gwartheg seilwon, poor cattle; tir salw, poor land; dyn salw, a sick man; pa fyd sydd arnat? go salw, how goes the world with thee? rather indifferent.
Salwâad, s. m. (salwâu) A rendering frail or mean; a becoming frail or despicable.
Salwâawl, a. (salwâu) Of a frail tendency.
Salwâu, v. a. (salw) To render frail or mean; to become frail or despicable; to become ill.

Ti a ymgeisi a mi, y boreu, pan na chaffych fi; am iti gasau gwybyddiaeth, ac am na dderbyniaist ofn Duw, nag ufyddau i'm cynghor, ond salwâu fy ngheryddiaeth.

Thou wilt be seeking for me, in the morning, when thou shalt not find me; for that thou hast hated knowledge, and because thou didst not receive the fear of God, nor follow my advice, but despise my reproof. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Salwder, s. m. (salw) Frailty, meanness; illness.

Nid ahar y gwnaeth, nid saeth salwder.

He did not act abortively, his not the arrow of frailty. Cynddelw.

Salwdra, s. m. (salw) Frailty, debility, illness.
Salwedd, s. m. (salw) Illness; sorriness.
Salwin, a. (salw) Of a frail nature.
Salwinaw, v. a. (salwin) To render frail, or ill.
Salwineb, s. m. (salwin) Frailty, debility.
Salwiniad, s. m. (salwin) A becoming debilitated.
Salwwedd, s. f. (salw—gwedd) A frail appearance.

Maddeu y Suliau
Moduau salwwedd!

Setting aside the Sabbaths, meanly-seeming manners. Iolo Goch.

Sall, s. m. (sy—all) That is out, or exposed.
Sallawg, a. (sall) Being exposed; outcast.

Differ fi, fy Ner, rhag nych uffern gnud,
A'r pryfed caled, collawgfrych syniawg,
Afrwydd swydd sallawg, treisglawg treisglych.

Protect me, my Lord, from the torment of hell fiends, and the hard reptiles, bristled with rattling stings, the entangled outcast region, rent with the clang of stunning bells. Casnodyn.

Salledd, s. m. (sall) Externalness; outwardness.
Salliad, s. m. (sall) A turning out; a sallying.
Sallt, s. m.—pl. t. au (sall) An exterior estate.
Sall tawg, a. (sallt) Having an exterior.
Salltiad, s. m. (sallt) A going out; a sallying.

Salltring, s. m.—pl. t. au (sallt—rhing) Snuffers; also called Gleiniadur.

Salltu, v. a. (sallt) To go out, to go off; to go away to hide, whilst the eyes of the seeker is covered, in the play of hide and seek. Gware salltu, the play of hide and seek. Sil. It is also called Mic ymguddiaw.

Samp, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy—amp) A mole, or mark on the skin.

San, s. m. (sa—an) The state of being out, beside, apart, or divested; a state of being wary; a gaze; a maze. a. Aware; wary.

Sànawl, a. (sàn) Gazing; amazed, stupified.

Sànedig, a. (sàn) Being made to gaze; amazed.

Sànedigaeth, s. m. (sànedig) Amazement.

Sàniad, s. m. (sàn) A gazing; a rendering amazed.

Sant, s. m.—pl. seintiau (san) A saint. a. Holy.

Santaidd, a. (sant) Sanctified, hallowed, holy.

Santawl, a. (sant) Saintly, hallowed, or holy.

Santeiddiad, s. m. (santaidd) Sanctification.

Santeiddiaeth, s. m. (santaidd) Sanctification.

Santeiddiaw, v. a. (santaidd) To sanctify.

Santeiddiawg, a. (santaidd) Having holiness.

Santeiddiawl, a. (santaidd) Sanctified, holy.

Santeiddiedig, a. (santeiddiad) Sanctified.

Santeiddiedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (santeiddiedig) Sanctification.

Santeiddiedigawl, a. (santeiddiedig) Of a sanctifying or hallowing tendency.

Santeiddrwydd, s. m. (santaidd) Holiness.

Santes, s. f.—pl. t. au (sant) A female saint.

Santolaeth, s. m. (santawl) Sanctitude.

> Eglur oedd o'i santolaeth a'i fuchedd.
>
> He was conspicuous for his sanctity and his course of life. Gr. ab Arthur.

Sànu, v. a. (san) To gaze; to astonish, to amaze.

Sang, s. f.—pl. t. au (sa—ang) A tread; a trample.

Sangad, s. f.—pl. t. au (sang) A treading.

Sangawd, s. m. (sang) The act of treading.

> Breithgad gwyr,
> Brydiau Llyr,
> Lloegr ddifrawd;
> Bri Brython
> Braint Saeson
> Sangawd.
>
> The confused conflict of men, like the shore swells, Lloegr's ruin; the glory of the Brython is the trampling of the privilege of Saxons. Cynddelw.

Sangawl, a. (sang) Treading; trampling.

Sangedig, a. (sang) Trodden; trampled.

Sangedigaeth, s. m. (sangedig) The act of treading.

Sangiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sang) A treading.

Sangiar, s. f. (sang) A treading place; a doorway, a gateway.

Sangu, v. a. (sang) To tread; to trample.

> Na sang ar droed ci chwerw.
>
> Tread not on the foot of a surly dog. Adage.

Sangwr, s. m.—pl. sangwyr (sang—gwr) Treader.

Sar, s. m. (sa—ar) That is on or along; that is apt to cast down; fury, insolence; insult.

Sarâad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sarân) A throwing upon; a discarding; an abusing, an insulting, an affronting; an injuring; a disgracing; reproach; offence.

> Tair ffordd y gwnair sarâad i'r brenin: un yw, pan dorer ei nawdd, pan roddo nawdd i ddyn a'i ladd; ail yw, pan ddel dau frenin ar eu cyd-derfyn o achaws ymarfoll, ac yn ngwydd y ddau frenin lladd o wr i'r naill wr i'r llall; trydydd yw, camarferu ei wraig.
>
> In three ways may an insult be given to the king: one is, when his protection is broken, from his giving protection to a person and who may be killed; the second is, when two kings come upon their mutual bounderies, for the sake of an interview, and in the presence of the two kings, a man belonging to one kills a man of the other side; the third is, to have improper connexion with his wife. Welsh Laws.

Sarâadu, v. a. (sarâad) To give an insult.

Sarâadus, a. (sarâad) Insulting, affrontive.

Sarâawl, a. (sarâu) Abusive; insulting.

Sarâed, s. f.—pl. t. au (sarân) Abuse; insult, affront, offence; injury; reproach.

> Mi ei tangnefeddaf ef a'r ennerawdr; canys, o gwnaeth ef sarâed i mi, digawn o iawn yw cenyf innau, ei fod ef yn erchi fy nhrugaredd.
>
> I will pacify him and the emperor; for, if he has done me an injury, enough of satisfaction is it with me then, that he doth crave my mercy. Gr. ab Arthur.

Sarâu, v. a. (sar) To throw off; to abuse; to insult; to affront; to offend; to injure.

> Pwybynag a sarâo eu gilydd, o werin—Deheubarth, Gwynedd, Powys, a Lloegr, taled bedair bu a phedwar ugaint ariant.
>
> Whosoever shall insult another, of the people of South Wales, North Wales, Powys, and England, let him pay four cows and four-score pieces of silver. Welsh Laws.

Sarâus, a. (sarâu) Insulting, offensive; abusive.

Saraüsaw, v. a. (sarâus) To become insulting.

Saraüsdra, s. m. (sarâus) A disposition to insult.

Saraüsedd, s. m. (sarâus) Offensiveness; abuse.

Saraüsrwydd, s. m. (sarâus) Offensiveness.

Sarch, s. m.—pl. seirch (sar) What is upon, or covers; a piece of harness.

Sarchawl, a. (sarch) Covering, as a harness.

Sarchiad, s. m. (sarch) A harnessing; a furnishing.

Sarchu, v. a. (sarch) To cover, as with harness.

Sard, s. m.—pl. t. iau (sar) A beat down; a rebuff.

Sardiad, s. m. (sard) A beating down; a rebuffing; a chiding, a chastising.

Sardiaw, v. a. (sard) To beat down; to rebuff; to chastise, to reprove, to rebuke, to chide.

> Sardia feilch yn sorod fan;
> Od oes gwg nid ysgogan.
>
> He would beat down proud ones to dust; if there be a frown he will not go aside. Ieuan Brydydd.
>
> Ar hyny mi drown at Ffolineb, ac a ddechreuais ei sardo.
>
> Upon that I turned to Folly, and I began to rebuke her. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Sardiawl, a. (sard) Beating down; chastising.

Sardiedig, a. (sardiad) Beaten down; chastised.

Sardiwr, s. m.—pl. sardiwyr (sard—gwr) One who beats down; a chastiser, a rebuker.

Sardd, s. m.—pl. t. au (sar) That is recumbent.

Sarddain, a. (sardd) Reptile, or creeping.

Sarddan, s. f.—pl. t. au (sardd) A creeping thing.

Sarddawl, a. (sardd) Reptilitious, reptile.

Sarddedig, a. (sardd) Being rendered creeping.

Sarddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sardd) A causing to creep, a creeping.

Sarddu, v. a. (sardd) To cast down; to creep.

Sarddus, a. (sardd) Causing to creep, or crawl.

Sarddusaw, v. a. (sarddus) To render creeping.

Sarddusdra, s. m. (sarddus) A creeping state.

Sarddusrwydd, s. m. (sarddus) A creeping state.

Sarf, s. m. (sar) That is prone, or on the ground.

Sarff, s. f.—pl. seirff (sar) A serpent; also the true service-tree.

> Gwelem wely haiarn yn dwym coch, yn yr hwn yr oedd gwraig yn gorwedd yn noeth, a sarff yn ei braichleido.
>
> We could perceive an iron bed red hot, in which there was a woman lying naked, with a serpent embracing her. Marchawg Crwydrad.
>
> Nerth sarff yn ei chloren.
>
> The strength of a serpent in her tail. Adage.

Sarffaidd, a. (sarff) Like a serpent; serpentine.

Sarffawl, a. (sarff) Of the nature of a serpent.

Sarffes, s. f. (sarff) A female serpent.

Sarffwydd, s. pl. aggr. (sarff—gwydd) Service trees

Sarffwydden, s. f. (sarffwydd) True service tree.

Sariad, s. m. (sar) A rendering haughty or arrogant; a becoming overbearing.

Sarid, s. m. (sar) What is thrown over; what is given additionally in selling; an overplus.
Sarig, a. (sar) Haughty, froward, stern; saucy.
Sarita, v. a. (sarid) To collect remains.
Sarllach, s. m. (sar—llach) Riotous mirth.

Ef a glywai gerddau, a gloddest, a sarllach, yn y neithiawr.

He could hear songs, and feasting, and riotous mirth, in the marriage. H. Gwn—Mabinogion.

Sarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (sar) What is laid down or along; a litter; a causeway; stepping stones.
Sarnaidd, a. (sarn) Like a floor, or pavement.
Sarnawl, a. (sarn) Strewing, or covering as a crust, or pavement; like a causeway.
Sarnedig, a. (sarn) Strewed; laid as a causeway.
Sarniad, s. m. (sarn) A laying or strewing along; a littering; a making a causeway.
Sarnllyd, a. (sarn) Tending to cover; strewing.

Gadawai y dilyw laid sarnllyd ar ei ol.

The deluge left an incrustating mire after it. Ier. Owain.

Sarnu, v. a. (sarn) To strew, to spread; to trample
Sarnwr, s. m.—pl. sarnwyr (sarn—gwr) One who strews along; a trampler.
Sarnydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sarn) One who strews; one who lays a causeway.
Sarth, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sar) A reptile; a scorpion; a serpent; a hedgehog; a severe sarcasm.
Sarthawl, a. (sarth) Reptilitious, reptile.
Sarthes, s. f.—pl. t. au (sarth) A reptile.
Sarthu, v. a. (sarth) To creep or crawl along.
Sarug, a. (sar) Haughty, froward, stubborn; severe; surly, stern; dogged, cynical.

Madawg oedd marchawg meirch sarug cain;
Wr ail Cynfawr Cadgaddug;
Dywan garu! Duw a'n gorug
Dan sygu poen dygn pan y dug.

Madog was a cavalier with splendid high-mettled steeds; a man like Cynfawr the Lowering Cloud of Battle; gone is our idol! God brought us under the yoke of pain by taking him away. Sefnyn.

Sarugaidd, a. (sarug) Somewhat severe or surly.
Sarugaw, s. a. (sarug) To render froward, stern, or surly; to become stern or surly.
Sarugawl, a. (sarug) Apt to be stern or surly.
Sarugedd, s. f. (sarug) Frowardness; surliness.
Sarugiad, s. m. (sarug) A rendering haughty, froward, or severe; a becoming surly.
Sarugrwydd, s. m. (sarug) Frowardness, perverseness; surliness, asperity.
Sarugyn, s. m. dim. (sarug) A froward one; a surly fellow, a sour cur.
Sath, s. m. (sa—ath) The state of being set, put, or fixed; a state of opposition.
Sathan, s. m. (sath) An adversary; Satan.

Trefnaist daiar fawr, a'i chlawr achlan;
Trefnaist wern uffern, affaith Sathan
Trefred i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofan'.

Thou didst order the ample earth, with the whole of its surface; thou didst order the slough of hell, the portion of Satan, a habitation for worms, where they shall be striving. Casnodyn.

Sathanes, s. f. (sathan) A female devil.
Sathar, s. m. (sath) A tread; a trample. a. Treading; trampling. Meirch sathar, trampling steeds.

Meirw sengi, mal seri sathar.

The treading of the dead, like the trampling of furies. Ll. P. Moch.

Sathr, s. m. (sath) A tread; a trampling.
Sathraid, a. (sathr) Trodden; trampled.
Sathrawl, a. (sathr) Treading, trampling.
Sathredig, a. (sathr) Trodden, trampled.
Sathrfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sathr) A trodden place.
Sathriad, s. m. (sathr) A treading, a trampling.
Sathrsarn, s. f. (sathr—sarn) A trodden place.
Sathru, v. a. (sathr) To tread; to trample.
Sathrwr, s. m.—pl. sathrwyr (sathr—gwr) A treader, a trampler.
Saw, s. f. (sa) That encloses, or causes to stop.

Oedd braw saw Saeson Clawdd y Cnwcin.

Terror was the stop of the English of Cnwcin Dyke. D. Benfras.

Sawch, s. m. (sa—awch) A heap, a pile; a load.
Sawchi, v. a. (sawch) To heap up, or to pile.

Digon sawchi anfad
Yn erbyn dofyddiad.

Enough of loading of iniquity against the coming of the Lord. Taliesin.

Sawd, s. m.—pl. sodion (sa—awd) Drift, tendency; juncture; plight; extremity; limit, border, or verge; a siege. Sawd y mor, a sea beach; wyf dan sawd oer, I am under a sad plight. Mordwy sawd, a voyage of extremity.
Sawdawl, a. (sawd) Tending, verging; limiting.
Sawdiad, s. m. (sawd) A tending, a verging.
Sawdiaw, v. a. (sawd) To tend, to verge.
Sawdl, s. m.—pl. sodlau (sawd) A heel. Sawdl y crydd, mercury goosefoot.
Sawdr, s. m. (sawd) A verge; a juncture.
Sawdriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sawdr) A joining.
Sawdriaw, v. a. (sawdr) To join; to soder.

Sawdriaw yn ael, sad yw'r nod.

Joining in the brow, sad is the mark. Bedo Brwynllys, i ael merch.

Sawdur, s. m. (sawd) Juncture; soder.
Sawduriad, s. m. (sawdur) A joining; a sodering.
Sawduriaw, v. a. (sawdur) To join; to soder.

I efail o ddail ydd aeth,
Ac ennill clod ac anerch,
Ac a'i llaw sawduriaw serch.

To a forge of leaves she repaired, gaining fame and compliment, and with her hand rivetting fondness. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Sawdwr, s. m.—pl. sawdwyr (sawd—gwr) A man of the verge or border; a soldier.
Sawdd, s. m.—pl. soddion (sa—awdd) A bottom; a depth; a sink, a sinking, or plunging in; a root, or power of numbers. a. Sinking.

Cai urddas ffordd y cerddych,
Hyd dwr sawdd, a daiar sych.

Thou shalt have honour the way thou goest, over sinking water and dry earth. Ed. Dafydd.

Sawell, s. f.—pl. t. i (saw) An outlet; a smoke hole, a chimney.

Tri pheth a yrant wr o'i dy; cronglwyd ddyferllyd, sawell fyglyd, a gwraig geintachlyd.

Three things that will cause a man to leave his house; a roof through which water drops in, a smoky chimney, and a scolding wife. Catwg Ddoeth.

Mad dodes ei forddwyd dros obell
Ei orwydd, o wng ac o bell;
Pyll pwyll tan drwy sawell.

Early he threw his thigh over the saddle of his horse, on the near and off side; Pyll whose course is like fire through a chimney. Llywarch Hen.

Yn sawell ym gyrawr.

Into a hole me impelling. Taliesin.

Sawf, s. m. (saw) That is stopt or standing.
Sawiad, s. m. (saw) A stopping or standing.
Sawl, s. pl. aggr. (sa—awl) That is out or not in reach. pron. Those. a. Such.

Dysg hyd angau; ac angau i'r sawl na ddysgo.

Learn until death; and death to such as will not learn. Adage.

Sawyr, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sa—gwyr) Savour, taste.
Sawyriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sawyr) A rendering savoury; a becoming savoury.
Sawyriannawl, a. (sawyriant) Tending to savour.
Sawyriannu, v. a. (sawyriant) To make savoury.
Sawyriant, s. m. (sawyr) A making savoury.
Sawyriaw, v. (sawyr) To savour; to yield odour.

Sawyrus, a. (sawyr) Savoury, odorous.
Sawyrusaw, v. a. (sawyrus) To render savoury; to become savoury, or odorous.
SE, s. f. r.—pl. t. on. That continues, remains, is fixed, or stated; a star.

Ef cyrch cerddorion,
Se syberw seon.

To him minstrels will resort, the star of magnificent stars. Taliesin.

Astrus chwedl——
All yrth, all syrth se.

A woeful tale: like the concussion, like the fall of a star. Gwalchmai.

Se, adv. As stated, to wit, so, thus.

Se y meddyliais ei cheisiaw.

So I have thought to obtain her. D. ab Gwilym.

Sëad, s. m. (se) A stating, or a fixing.
Sëawl, a. (se) Being stated or fixed.
Seb, s. m. (se—eb) A tendency to hem in.
Sebach, a. (seb) Straitened, confined; shrill.

Syranai'r wrach, sebach son,
Syre! prawf 'falau surion.

Then muttered the hag, of squeaking tone, Sir, thou shalt taste sour apples. T. Penllyn.

Sebon, s. m. (seb) Soap. Agalen o sebon, a bar of soap.
Sebonaidd, a. (sebon) Like soap; soapy.
Sebonawg, a. (sebon) Abounding with soap.
Sebonawl, a. (sebon) Saponaceous, soapy.
Seboni, v. a. (sebon) To soap; to lather.
Sebonllyd, a. (sebon) Soapy, dawbed with soap.
Sebonwr, s. m.—pl. sebonwyr (sebon—gwr) A soap-man, a dealer in soap; a soapmaker.
Sebonydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sebon) A soapmaker.

Gwell dwylaw y cigydd no dwylaw y sebonydd.

Better the hands of the butcher than the hands of the soapmaker. Adage.

Sech, a. (f. of sych) Dry, dried, or parched.
Sechi, v. a. (sach) To fill a sack; to stuff.
Sechiad, s. m. (sach) A bagging, or a stuffing.
Sedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (se—edd) The state of being without motion; a seat.

Cydyfed medd ar sedd serch!
Cydgerdded coed a gordderch.

Drinking together of mead on the seat of love; together walking woods with a mistress. D. ab Gwilym.

Sedda, v. a. (sedd) To sit habitually, to sit often.
Seddawg, a. (sedd) Being in a sitting posture.
Seddawl, a. (sedd) Sedentary, or sitting.
Seddedig, a. (sedd) Seated; made to sit.
Seddiad, s. m. (sedd) A being seating, a sitting.
Seddoldeb, s. m. (seddawl) Sedentariness.
Seddoli, v. a. (seddawl) To render sedentary.
Seddu, v. a. (sedd) To seat; to become seated.
Sef, a. (se—ef) Certain; truly. adv. To wit, that is to say, namely.

Sef, a ladd a gyhudd.

Thus, he that kills will accuse. Adage.

Sef a lwydd i fed ei chelu.

Truly it will prosper for disgrace that it be concealed. Adage.

Sef y gwelai wraig winea delediw.

So he could perceive a beautiful brown woman. H. Peredur.

Sefnig, s. f. dim. (safn) The gullet, the throat.
Sefyd, v. a. (saf) To stand, to become still.

Da yw a saif ac ni waner.

That will stand and not be separated is good. Adage.

Sefydl, s. m. (sefyd) That is stationary.
Sefydlawg, a. (sefydl) Standing, stationary; steady, staple, stedfast, constant.
Sefydledig, a. (sefydl) Stationed; settled.
Sefydledigaeth, s. m. (sefydledig) Settledness.
Sefydledigrwydd, s. m. (sefydledig) Settledness.
Sefydliad, s. m. (sefydl) An establishing.
Sefydlogrwydd, s. m. (sefydlawg) Stability.
Sefydlu, v. a. (sefydl) To settle, to make to stand, to establish, to fix.
Sefydlwr, s. m. (sefydl—gwr) An establisher.
Sefydlydd, s. m. (sefydl) An establisher.
Sefydlyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (sefyd—llyn) A plash.
Sefyll, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (saf) A standing, a position. v. a. To stand.

Tri dyn a safant yn hawl a braint brodyr a chwiorydd: amddifad, gweddw, ac alltud.

Three persons who stand in the right and privilege of brothers and sisters: an orphan, a widow, and a stranger. Barddas.

Sefyllfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sefyll) A standing place, a station, a situation.
Sefyllfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (sefyll—màn) A standing place, a station; a fixed abode.
Sefyllfod, s. f. (sefyll—bod) A fixed abode.

Erbyn i mi ddadebru, gwelwn ein bod wedi dawed i ryw sefyllfod.

By the time that I was recovered, I could see that we were come to some station. Ellis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Sefylliad, s. m. (sefyll) A stationing; a standing.
Sefyllian, v. a. (sefyll) To stand often; to loiter.
Sefylliannawl, a. (sefylliant) Stationary.
Sefylliannu, v. a. (sefylliant) To render stationary, to become stationary.
Sefylliannwr, s. m. (sefyllian—gwr) A loiterer.
Sefylliant, s. m. (sefyll) A stationing.
Sefylliaw, v. a. (sefyll) To fix a station.
Sefylliawg, a. (sefyll) Being apt to stand; loitering. s. m. A loiterer.
Sefylliwr, s. m. (sefyll—gwr) One who stations.
Seg, s. m. (se—eg) That is without access.
Segaidd, a. (seg) Like a covering.
Segan, s. f.—pl. t. au (seg) A covering, a cloak.

Segan cariad rhianedd;
Guto'r mawl gyllywr medd,
Mi biau'r hag.——

The love cloak of the ladies; Guto the panegyrist, a lodger amongst mead, know that mine is the garment. I. ab H. Swrdwal.

Segawl, a. (seg) Tending to envelope.
Segenfab, s. m. (segen—mab) Gownsman, monk.
Segiad, a. (seg) An enveloping; a cloaking.
Segr, s. m. (seg) That keeps apart; that is apart or enclosed; that is sacred; a memorial.
Segrawl, a. (segr) Being secret or apart.
Segredig, a. (segr) Being secreted or hidden.
Segrffug, a. (segr—ffug) Secretly false. Urddawl segrffug, a noble secretly false. Taliesin.
Segriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (segr) A secreting.
Segru, v. a. (segr) To secret, to put apart.
Segrwydd, s. m. (seg) The state of being enclosed
Segur, a. (cur) Being composed; void of trouble, or at leisure, or idle.

Llygad y segur a wel.

The eye of the one at leisure will see. Adage.

Ni moch wna da dyn segur.

An idle man will not soon do any good. Adage.

Segura, v. a. (segur) To pursue ease or leisure; to be at leisure; to be idle; to trifle.

Y rhai a alwyd i weinidogaeth y gair, y maent wedi eu galw i wasanaeth poenus, ac nid i segura.

Those who have been called to the ministry of the word, they are called to a laborious service, and not to be idling about. Ier. Owain.

Segurdawd, s. m. (segur) Idleness, or laziness.

Segurdawd a meddwdawd a wnant grogyddion yn gyfoethawg.

Idleness and drunkenness will make hangmen rich. Adage.

Segurddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (segur—dyn) Idler.

Seguredd, s. m. (segur) A state of leisure.
Seguren, s. f. dim. (segur) An idling female.
Seguriad, s. m. (segur) An enjoying of leisure.
Segurllyd, a. (segur) Loving leisure; idle.
Segurwas, s. m. (segur—gwas) An idle youth.
Segurwr, s. m.—pl. segurwyr (segur—gwr) One who enjoys leisure; an idler.
Seguryd, s. m. (segur) A state of leisure or ease.

> Tri pheth sydd yn llygru y byd: balchder, afraid, a seguryd.
>
> Three things do corrupt the world: pride, excess, and idleness. Barddas.

Seguryn, s. m. dim. (segur) An idler.
Seibiad, s. m. (saib) A standing at leisure.
Seibiannawl, a. (seibiant) Leisureable.
Seibiaeth, s. m. (saib) A state of rest; sabbath.
Seibiannu, v. a. (seibiant) To procure leisure.
Seibiant, s. m. (saib) A standing about, a resting, or stopping; a respite; leisure.
Seibiaw, v. a. (saib) To stand about, to take respite; to be at leisure.
Seibiawl, a. (saib) Leisurely; resting, at rest.
Seidiad, s. m. (said) An insertion; the insertion of a tong into the handle.
Seidiaw, v. a. (said) To insert; to insert a tool into a handle.
Seidiawg, a. (said) Having an insertion; tonged.
Seidyn, s. m. dim. (said) The part of a tool that is inserted in the hilt.
Seifiad, s. m.—pl. seifiaid (saf) A stander.
Seigen, s. f. dim. (saig) A little mess or meal.
Seigiad, s. m. (saig) A messing; a taking a meal.
Seigiaw, v. a. (saig) To mess, to partake of a meal; to serve up dishes or messes.
Seigiawl, a. (saig) Relating to a mess or meal.
Seigiwr, s. m.—pl. seigwyr (saig—gwr) A messer
Seilddar, s. f.—pl. seildderi (sail—dar) A main beam or pillar; a prop; a foundation pile.
Seilddarluniad, s. m. (darluniad) An ichnography
Seilddor, s. f.—pl. t. au (sail—dor) A threshold.
Seiler, s. f.—pl. t. i (sail) A foundation space; a ground floor; a cellar.
Seilfaen, s. m.—pl. seilfeini (sail—maen) A foundation stone.
Seilgam, a. (sail—cam) Having a wry tread.
Seilgamiad, s. m. (seilgam) A treading awry.
Seilgamu, v. a. (seilgam) To tread a sole awry.
Seiliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sail) A foundation.
Seiliannawl, a. (seiliant) A base, or foundation.
Seiliannu, v. a. (seiliant) To make a foundation.
Seiliant, s. m. (sail) Relating to foundation.
Seiliaw, v. a. (sail) To found, to lay a foundation.
Seiliawd, s. m. (sail) A being made a foundation.
Seiliawg, a. (sail) Having a foundation.
Seiliedig, a. (seiliad) Having a foundation laid.
Seiliedigaeth, s. m. (seiliedig) The act of founding
Seiliwr, s. m. (sail—gwr) One who founds.
Seilwaith, s. m. (sail—gwaith) Ground-work.
Seilydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sail) A founder.
Seimiad, s. m. (saim) A greasing.
Seimiaw, v. a. (saim) To grease, to make greasy.
Seimiawg, a. (saim) Abounding with grease.
Seimiawl, a. (saim) Of a greasy quality.
Seimiedig, a. (saim) Greased; made greasy.
Seimiwr, s. m.—pl. seimiwyr (saim—gwr) Greaser
Seimlyd, a. (saim) Of a greasy quality.
Seindraws, a. (sain—traws) Transversely sounding. Cynghanedd seindraws, a transversely sounding consonancy.
Seindwll, s. m. (sain—twll) A sound-hole.
Seinfawr, a. (sain) Sonorous, of great sound.
Seinfwrdd, s. m. (sain—bwrdd) A sounding-board
Seinglawr, s. m. (sain—clawr) A sounding-board
Seingroes, a. (sain—croes) Transversely sounding. Cynghanedd seingroes, a transversely sounding consonancy.
Seingudd, a. (sain—cudd) Of concealed sound.
Seinguddgyswllt, s. m. (seingudd—cyswllt) A junction of concealed sound.
Seinguddgysylltgroes, a. (seinguddgyswllt) Being of transversely conjoined concealed sound.
Seinguddhannergysylltgroes, a. (seingudd—hanner—cyswllt—croes) Being of half transversely conjoined concealed sound.
Seiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sain) A sounding.
Seiniannawl, a. (seiniant) Productive of sound.
Seiniannu, v. a. (seiniant) To produce a sound.
Seiniant, s. m. (sain) A making a sound.
Seiniaw, v. a. (sain) To sound, to resound.
Seiniawd, s. m. (sain) A resounding, a sounding.
Seiniawdr, s. m.—pl. seiniodron (seiniawd) That yields a sound.

> Molwch yr Arglwydd——
> Molwch ef ar seiniodron glych.
>
> Praise ye the Lord; praise him ye bells that are high sounding. D. Ddu Hiraddug.

Seiniawg, a. (sain) Having a sound or tone.
Seiniawl, a. (sain) Sounding; toned.
Seiniedig, a. (seiniad) Sounded; toned.
Seiniedigaeth, s. m. (seiniedig) Act of sounding.
Seiniwr, s. m.—pl. seiniwyr (sain—gwr) One who sounds or makes a sound.
Seintiad, s. m. (saint) A canonization.
Seintiaw, v. a. (saint) To canonize.
Seintiawl, a. (saint) Sanctified, saintly.
Seintiedig, a. (seintiad) Canonized, sainted.
Seintiolaeth, s. m. (seintiawl) Sanctitude.
Seintwar, s. f. (saint—gwar) A sanctuary.

> Seintwar i'r adar ydwyd.
>
> The sanctuary of the feathered tribe art thou. H. Machno, i y Ddeildy.

Seirch, s. pl. aggr. (sarch) Equipage, horse trappings, furniture, or harness, a set of harness.

> Gwr gwiw uch ei amliw seirch,
> A roddai feirch i eirchiad.
>
> A superior man on his many-coloured trappings, who would give horses to the suitor. Taliesin.
>
> Dyphorthynt ei seirch meirch rhygyngawg.
>
> Ambling steeds conveyed his equipage. Meilyr.

Seirchiad, s. m. (seirch) A harnessing.
Seirchiaw, v. a. (seirch) To harness, to equip.
Seirchiawg, a. (seirch) Harnessed, equipped.
Seirchiawl, a. (seirch) Belonging to harness.
Seirchiedig, a. (seirchiad) Harnessed, equipped.
Seiriad, s. m. (ser) A sparkling like stars.
Seirian, s. m.—pl. t. au (ser) A sparkling.

> Nid oes yna dy hanner,
> Na'th draian, liw seirian ser.
>
> There is not in that place thy half, nor thy third, thou so bright as the glittering of stars. D. ab Gwilym.

Seirianad, s. m. (seirian) A sparkling.
Seirianaidd, a. (seirian) Tending to sparkle.
Seirianawl, a. (seirian) Sparkling, glittering.
Seirianu, v. a. (seirian) To sparkle, to twinkle.
Seirnial, v. a. (sarn) To trample down.
Seisoneg, s. f. (saeson) The English tongue.
Seisonig, a. (saeson) Saxon; English.
Seisonigaw, v. a. (seisonig) To turn into English; to imitate the English.
Seithblyg, s. pl. aggr. (saith—plyg) Seven folds.
Seithdant, s. pl. aggr. (saith—tant) Seven strings; a heptachord. a. Seven-stringed.
Seithdro, s. pl. aggr. (saith—tro) Seven turns; seven times. a. Of seven turns.

Seithddeg, s. m. (saith—deg) Seventy.
Seithddegfed, s. m. (seithddeg) A seventieth.
Seithddegwaith, s. pl. aggr. (seithddeg—gwaith) Seventy times. a. Seventy times.
Seithfan, s. pl. aggr. (saith—ban) Seven verses or lines. a. Of seven lines.
Seithfanawg, a. (seithfan) Having seven verses.
Seithfed, s. f. (saith) A seventh. a. Seventh.

Cel dy benyd ar dy seithfed.

Thou shalt take thy penance on thy seventh. Tysilio.

Seithfetdydd, s. m. (seithfed—dydd) The seventh day, the ancient name for Sunday.
Seithganfed, s. m. (seithgant) A seven hundredth
Seithgant, s. pl. (saith—cant) Seven hundreds.
Seithganwaith, s. pl. (seithgant—gwaith) Seven hundred times. a. Seven hundred times.
Seithi, s. m. (sath) Frustration; disappointment.

Cerddorion allan heb ran seithi.

Minstrels abroad without a portion of disappointment. Myrddin.

Seithiawl, a. (saith) Septenery, of seven.
Seithmlwydd, s. pl. aggr. (saith—blwydd) Seven years. a. Septennial.
Seithnalen, s. f. (saith—dalen) Tormentil.
Seithnyn, s. pl. aggr. (saith—dyn) Seven persons. a. Consisting of seven persons.
Seithochr, s. pl. aggr. (saith—ochr) Seven sides; a heptagon. a. Seven sided.

A seithochr waew ym saethawdd;
A seith-wawd cymhendawd cawdd.

With a seven-sided spear she shot me; with sevenfold flow of insulting eloquence. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Seithochrawg, a. (seithochr) Heptagonal.
Seithochrawl, a. (seithochr) Heptagonal.
Seithochri, v. a. (seithochr) To be seven-sided.
Seithongl, s. pl. aggr. (saith—ongl) Seven angles; a septangle. a. Septangular.
Seithonglawg, a. (seithongl) Septangular.
Seithongli, v. a. (seithongl) To render septangular, or to render of seven angles.
Seithor, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gor) Seven regions or sides; a heptagon. a. Of seven regions.
Seithrad, s. pl. aggr. (saith—rhad) Seven endowments, seven virtues. Seithrad esgob, the seven endowments of a bishop.
Seithran, s. pl. aggr. (saith—rhan) Seven parts; that is of seven parts. a. Of seven parts.

Saith meib Eliffer, saith gwyr ban brofer,
Saith gwaew ni ochel yn eu seithran.

The seven sons of Eliffer, seven men when tried by seven spears they shun not on their seven parts. Taliesin.

Seithranawl, a. (seithran) Of seven parts.
Seithrif, s. pl. aggr. (saith—rhif) Seven numbers; seven times a number. a. Seven times the number.
Seithrifed, a. (seithrif) Seven times the number.
Seithsill, s. pl. aggr. (saith—sill) Seven syllables; that consists of seven syllables.
Seithsillawg, a. (seithsill) Of seven syllables.
Seithug, a. (sath) Being frustrated; futile, vain.
Seithwaith, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gwaith) Seven times. a. Seven times.
Seithwedd, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gwedd) Seven forms; that is of seven forms. a. Septiform.
Seithwr, s. pl. aggr. (saith—gwr) Septemviri. a. Consisting of seven men.
Seithwriaeth, s. m. (seithwr) Septemvirate.
Seithygiad, s. m. (seithug) A frustrating, a rendering futile; a becoming futile.
Seithygiaeth, s. m. (seithug) A frustration.
Seithygiant, s. m. (seithug) A frustration.
Saethygiaw, v. a. (seithug) To frustrate, to render futile or vain; to disappoint.
Seithygiawl, a. (seithug) Frustrating.
Sel, s. m. (se—el) An espying, sight at a distance
Seldeb, s. m. (sel) Keen-sightedness.
Selder, s. m. (sel) Keen-sightedness.
Seldra, s. m. (sel) Keen-sightedness.
Seldrem, s. f.—pl. t. au (sel—trem) A prospect; a perspective view; a vanishing line or point; arrangement; what is placed in a straight line; a layer, as of corn after the reaper.

Pwyll, a chrebwyll, a sylwedd, a seldrem, a barn, a dychymyg, ac ystyr, a meddwl; ac o hyn godidawg Gymmraeg a ddeillia.

Reason, idea, observation, perspicuity, judgement, invention, significancy, and thought; and from these the excellency of the Welsh language proceeds. Barddas.

Ni ad fy nhrem seldrem sech.

My sight leaves not a dry prospect. D. ab Gwilym.

Seldremiad, s. m. (seldrem) A putting in prospect
Seldremiaw, v. a. (seldrem) To put in prospect; to place in view; to lay in a strait line or row.

Teilyngdawd a theithi yr iaith Gymmraeg—yw adrawdd—pob peth er a allo y meddwl a'r bryd ei ddychymmyg, a'i seldremiaw, ac ei sylweddu.

The merit and characteristics of the Welsh language are, that it can express every thing, which the thought and the mind may be able to conceive, to arrange, and to substantiate. Barddas.

Seldremiawg, a. (seldrem) Perspicuous.
Seldremiawl, a. (seldrem) Perspicacious.
Seldremiwr, s. m.—pl. seldremwyr (seldrem—gwr) One who makes perspicuous.
Seldremu, v. a. (seldrem) To place perspicuously; to place in layers.
Seledig, a. (sel) Perceived, or observed.
Seledigaeth, s. m. (seledig) Observation.
Seliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sel) A descrying, an espying; perception; observation. Dyn seliad, a person of observation, or of quick wit.
Seliadwy, a. (seliad) Perceivable, observable.
Seliannawl, a. (seliant) Perceptive.
Seliannu, v. a. (seliant) To render perceptive.
Seliant, s. m. (sel) Perception, observation.
Selsig, s. f.—pl. t. od (sal—sig) A sausage.

No bela i fel, no gwraig i selsig.

Than a marten to honey, than a woman to a pudding. Adage.

Selsigen, s. f. dim. (selsig) A pudding, a sausage.
Selu, v. a. (sel) To espy, to perceive, to behold; to gaze.

Cael dirgelu
Clwyf annelu
Cair dy selu
Croew des haelion.

Being able to conceal the wound of the arrow shot, an opportunity can be had to behold thee, the warm luminary of generous ones. W. Llyn.

Seiliaist, cryf eiliaist bob eur afalon;
Seliaist, a deliaist ffordd yr hudolion;
Selu, annelu yr ael yn wiwlon,
Synwyraidd llwyraidd lle y cellwelrion.

Thou didst found, thou didst firmly build all throbbing cares; thou didst espy, thou didst take the way of deluders; beholding, aiming at the brow supremely smiling love, the passing sensible scene of sportive ideas. W. Llyn.

Selus, a. (sel) Apt to espy; perspicacious.
Selusaw, v. a. (selus) To render perspicacious.
Selusdra, s. m. (selus) Perspicacity.
Selwedd, s. m. (sel—gwedd) Perceptivity.
Selweddawl, a. (selwedd) Perspicacious.
Selweddiad, s. m. (selwedd) A perceiving.
Selweddu, v. a. (selwedd) To endue with perceptivity; to exert perspicacity.
Selweddus, a. (selwedd) Perspicacious.
Selwr, s. m.—pl. selwyr (sel—gwr) An espyer.
Selydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sel) An espyer.
Sellt, s. m. (sallt) A limit or border.
Sellti, s. m. (sellt) An exploring; a seek out, the play of hide and seek.

Selltiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sellt) Exploration.
Selltu, v. a. (sellt) To explore, to seek out.
Sèn, s. f.—pl. t. au (sy—en) The state of being extended; that is capable of affecting; a taunt, a scoff; a chide.
Senadwy, a. (sèn) Liable of being chided.
Senaidd, a. (sèn) Invective, reproachful.
Senawl, a. (sèn) Censorious; taunting, scoffing, reprehending; reproaching.
Senedig, a. (sèn) Scoffed, reproached, rebuked.
Senedigaeth, s. m. (senedig) Reprehension.
Senedigawl, a. (senedig) Reprehensive.
Senedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (sen) A synod; a senate. Senedd wyllt, wild senate; an epithet used for the bishop's visitation.
Senedda, v. a. (senedd) To resort to a synod.
Seneddawl, a. (senedd) Synodal; senatorial.
Seneddu, v. a. (senedd) To form a synod.
Seneddwr, s. m.—pl. seneddwyr (senedd—gwr) A member of a synod; a senator.
Seneddwriaeth, s. m. (seneddwr) Senatorship.
Senferw, a. (sèn—berw) Censure-brooding.
Sèngar, a. (sèn) Censorious; taunting, scoffing.
Sengarwch, a. (sèngar) Censoriousness, reproachfulness; aptness to chide.
Sèniad, s. m. (sèn) A reprehension, a chiding.
Senoldeb, s. m. (sènawl) Censoriousness.
Senolder, s. m. (sènawl) Censoriousness.
Senoli, v. a. (sènawl) To render censorious.
Senolrwydd, s. m. (sènawl) Censoriousness.
Sensigl, s. m.—pl. t. on (sèn—sigi) The great daisy, or white ox-eye.
Sènu, v. a. (sèn) To censure, to chide, to reprehend; to reproach; to taunt, to scoff.
Senw, s. m. (sèn) That is past a chide; boldness.

> Enw heb senw.
>
> A name without dignity. — Adage.
>
> Enw heb senw oedd ei henw hi.
>
> A name without dignity was her name. — Iolo Goch.

Senwad, s. m. (senw) A giving boldness.
Senwawl, a. (senw) Tending to embolden.
Senwi, v. a. (senw) To give confidence.
Sènwr, s. m.—pl. senwyr (sen—gwr) A censurer.
Senyllt, s. m. (sèn) A seneschal; a constable.

> Ceneu fab Llywarch ddihafarch ddrud,
> Nid ef borthi gwarth gorsedd:
> Senyllt a'i lestri llawn medd.
>
> Ceneu the son of Llywarch magnanimously bold, he would not support the reproach of a convention: a seneschal with his vessel full of mead. — Aneurin.

Sengi, s. m. (sang) A treading; a trampling v. a. To tread about; to trample.
Sèr, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sy—er) That tends to, that is apt to enclose; a bill, a tool so called.

> Ser, dimai a dal.
>
> A bill-hook, its value is a halfpenny. — Welsh Laws.

Ser, s. pl. aggr. (se—er) Stars. Poets also give them the appellations of syr, and in the singular se and sy. Ser-ysgall, common star-thistle.

> Cyffoled a'r cwn yn cyfarth y ser.
>
> As foolish as the dogs barking the stars. — Adage.
>
> Ser y bore a ddwyreynt,
> Yn llu i gydganu gynt.
>
> The stars of the morning were wont to rise, assembled to sing in harmony of yore. — Gro. Owain.

Seraidd, a. (ser) Like stars; sideral; starred.
Serawg, a. (ser) Starry, studded with stars.
Serawl, a. (ser) Sideral, astral, starry.
Serch, s. m. (ser) Appulsion; desire; affection, love. Serch anllad, wanton desire: rhois fy serch arnat, I have placed my affection on thee.

> Trafn llugyrn a'i liw lafn Lloegr elyfu;
> Treigla'm bron anerch serch disyrchu.
>
> He leads the horns of battle with his gleaming sword the ruin of England; to him my breast returns the greeting of love incessant. — G. ab M. ab Dafydd.
>
> Ei gasbeth a'i argosbion,
> Gwr meddw serch a gormodd son.
>
> With his odious instrument and its torments, a fellow drunk with love and noisy to excess. — H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys.

Serch, prep. (ser) With respect to, because of, for. adv. Notwithstanding. Ni wiw iti serch hyny, it is no use for thee because of that; ni waeth ganto serch hyny, he is not sorry notwithstanding that.
Serchaidd, a. (serch) Tending to excite desire.
Serchawg, a. (serch) Having desire; amorous.

> Eiddig——
> Ni ddaw hwn oni ddaw haf;
> Rhoed ei gyfoed o'r gauaf;
> A rhan serchogion yw'r haf.
>
> The jealous one—he will not come unless summer comes: cotemporary with him was winter given; and the portion of loving ones is summer. — D. ab Gwilym.

Serchawl, a. (serch) Exciting love; lovely.
Serchedig, a. (serch) Being rendered loving.
Serchedd, s. m. (serch) A state of desire; fondness.
Sercheiddiad, s. m. (serchaidd) A disposing to love
Sercheiddiaw, v. a. (serchaidd) To dispose to fondness; to become disposed to fondness.
Serchfawr, a. (serch) Very fond or affectionate.
Serchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (serch) Appulsion; a desiring; a creating love or fondness.
Serchiadaeth, s. m. (serchiad) A causing to love.
Serchiadawl, a. (serchiad) Love-exciting.
Serchiadu, v. a. (serchiad) To excite fondness.
Serchiant, s. m. (serch) Affection, fondness.
Serchiator, ger. (serchiad) In loving or fondling.
Serchitor, sup. (serch) To be loving or fondling.
Serchlawn, a. (serch) Amorous, full of love.
Serchlondeb, s. m. (serchlawn) Amorousness.
Serchlonedd, s. m. (serchlawn) Amorousness.
Serchloni, v. a. (serchlawn) To fill with love.
Serchogaeth, s. m. (serchawg) State of fondness.
Serchogaidd, a. (serchawg) Somewhat amorous.
Serchogeiddiad, s. m. (serchogaidd) A rendering or becoming somewhat amorous.
Serchogeiddiaw, v. a. (serchogaidd) To render somewhat loving; to become a little amorous.
Serchogi, v. a. (serchawg) To render fond or amorous; to become amorous.
Serchogiad, s. m. (serchawg) A rendering fond or amorous; a becoming amorous.
Sercholdeb, s. m. (serchawl) Amorousness.
Sercholi, v. a. (serchawl) To become amorous.
Serchu, v. a. (serch) To desire; to affect; to be affected; to have affection; to love.
Serchus, a. (serch) Creating fondness; agreeable.
Serchusaw, v. a. (serchus) To tend to fondness.
Serchusdra, s. m. (serchus) Fondness.
Serchusedd, s. m. (serchus) Lovingness, fondness.
Serchusrwydd, s. m. (serchus) Desirableness; agreeableness; affectionateness, fondness.
Serchwr, s. m.—pl. serchwyr (serch—gwr) One who fixes his desire; one who is fond or loving.
Serddewin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ser—dewin) An astrologer, one who foretells by the stars.
Serddewindeb, s. m. (serddewin) Astrology.
Serddewiniad, s. m. (serddewin) A divining by the stars; a practising of astrology.
Serddewiniaeth, s. m. (serddewin) Astrology.
Serddewiniaw, v. a. (serddewin) To astrologize.
Serddewiniawl, a. (serddewin) Astrological.

Seren, s. f. dim. (ser) A star. Seren wallttawg, seren gynffonawg, seren y gynffon, seren losgyrnawg, a blazing star, a meteor.

Mawr yw seren y morwyr;
Mwy yw no swru o'r mau syr.

Grand is the star of the mariners; greater than a crowd of tiny spangles. L. G. Cothi.

Ni roe neb, ac ni rown i
Seren bren er ei sori.

Nobody would give, and I would not give a star of wood for offending him. Gr. Gryg.

Serenawl, a. (seren) Sparkling like a star.
Sereniad, s. m. (seren) A sparkling.
Serenig, s. f. dim. (seren) An asterisk.
Serenllys, s. pl. (seren—llys) Starwort.
Serenu, v. a. (seren) To sparkle, to glitter.
Serenwyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (seren—gwyl) Epiphany. It is also called Ystwyll.
Serenyn, s. m. dim. (seren) The vernal squill.
Serf, a. (sy—erf) Whirling; dizzy or giddy.
Serfan, a. (serf) Tending to dizzy; dizzied.
Serfanawl, a. (servan) Startling; staring.
Serfaniad, s. m. (serfan) A startling.
Serfanu, v. a. (servan) To start; to stare; to dizzy. Serfanu llygaid, to turn about the eyes wildly; to astonish.
Serfawl, a. (serf) Whirling; dizzying.
Serviad, s. m. (serf) A startling; a dizzying.
Serfu, v. a. (serf) To startle; to dizzy.
Serfyll, a. (serf) Dependent; ready to fall, unsteady, waggling: shattered; crazy.

Serfyll oer bebyll yw'r byd;
Somwr ar bob rhyw symyd.

A crazy cold tent is the world; a deceiver on every sort of change. S. Tudyr.

Serfylldra, s. m. (serfyll) Craziness.
Serfylliad, s. m.(serfyll) A crazing, a shattering.
Serfylliaw, v. a. (serfyll) To craze, to shatter.
Serfyllrwydd, s. m. (serfyll) Craziness.
Serfyllus, s. m. (serfyll) Tending to fall; tending to become crazy.
Seri, s. pl. aggr. (sar) Sullen ones, furies.

Meirw sengi, mal seri sathar.

The treading of the dead, like the trampling of furies. Ll. P. Moch.

Serig, a. (ser) Starred, studded with stars.
Serigl, s. m. (serig) That is spangled, or studded. a. Studded with stars. Arfau serigl friw, arms with spangled surface.

Edein-feirch a seirch serigl cynwe.

Winged steeds and harness with spangled borders. Ll. P. Moch.

Seriglaw, v. a. (serigl) To stud with stars.
Serigliad, s. m. (serigl) A spangling.
Serliw, s. m. (ser—lliw) Starlight.

Meillion teg, mae llonaid twyn,
Man serliw mynwes irlwyn.

Fair spangles, which will fill the bush, the minute starlight of the bosom of the verdant grove. Ieu. Deulwyn, i fedwen.

Serloew, s. m. (ser—gloew) A star-glow. Mae yn serloew heno, it is a star-glow to-night, or it is very starry. Sil.
Serloew, a. (ser—gloew) Star-glowing.
Sernial, v. a. (sarn) To graze, to rase; to jar.
Serofydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ofydd) Astronomer.
Serofyddawl, a. (serofydd) Astronomical.
Serofyddiaeth, s. m. (serofydd) Astronomy.
Seroli, v. a. (serawl) To proceed as the stars.
Seroliaeth, s. m. (serawl) The starry system.

Rhy gron yw hon ar ei hynt,
Plwyfogaeth seroliaeth sant.

Round to excess is this one on her course, through the community of the solemn starry system. D. ab Gwilym, i'r Uwud.

Seron, s. m. (ser) The system of the stars.

Seronawl, a. (ser) Astronomical.
Seroni, s. m. (seron) To systemize the stars; to pursue or study the science of astronomy.
Seronydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (seron) Astronomer.

Tri gwyn seronyddion Ynys Prydain: Idris Gawr, a Gwydion, mab Don, a Gwyn ab Nudd; a chan faint eu gwybodau am y ser, a'u hanianau, au hansoddau, y darogenynt a chwenychid ei wybod.

The three excelling astronomers of the Isle of Britain: Idris the Mighty, and Gwydion son of Don, and Gwyn son of Nudd; and from the magnitude of their discoveries, respecting the stars, their natures and their dispositions, they could foretel whatever might be desired to be known. Trioedd.

Serth, s. (ser) Inclination, tendency, bias, or fall; a steep.
Serth, a. (ser) Inclining, tending, falling; steep, abrupt, slippery; obscene.

Fflam danllyd ynfyd anferth
Yw tyfiad swydd tafawd serth.

The fiery flame of monstrous folly is the fruit of the office of a foul tongue. Ed. Morris.

Serthadwy, a. (serth) Capable of precipitancy.
Serthaidd, a. (serth) Somewhat inclined.
Serthair, s. m.—pl. sertheiriau (serth—gair) An obscene word or expression.
Serthallt, s. f. (serth—gallt) A steep cliff.
Serthan, s. f. (serth) A precipice, a cliff.
Serthawl, a. (serth) Precipitous; obscene.
Serthedig, a. (serth) Inclined; precipitated.
Serthedd, s. m. (serth) Inclinedness; steepness; abruptness; slipperiness; obscenity.
Sertheiriawg, a. (serthair) Having obscene words
Serthfrwnt, a. (serth--brwnt) Grovellingly filthy.
Serthfryntni, s. m. (serthfrwnt) Grovelling filthiness or obscenity.
Serthi, s. m. (serth) A falling tendency; slipperiness; obscenity.
Serthiad, s. m. (serth) An inclining, a tending; a rendering steep; a becoming obscene.
Serthiannawl, a. (serthiant) Tending to be precipitous or steep.
Serthiannu, v. a. (serthiant) To render steep or declivous; to become steep.
Serthiant, s. m. (serth) Precipitancy, steepness.
Serthrwydd, s. m. (serth) A precipitous state.
Serthu, v. a. (serth) To render precipitous; to become steep; to act obscenely.
Serthus, a. (serth) Precipitous; declivous; obscene, vulgar.
Serthusaw, v. a. (serthus) To render precipitous; to become steep; to grow vulgar.
Serthusdra, s. m. (serthus) A precipitous state; vulgarity.
Serthusedd, s. m. (serthus) Steepness; vulgarity.
Serthusrwydd, s. m. (serthus) Steepness.
Serthyd, s. m. (serth) A steep or falling tendency; vulgarity, obscenity.

Tri harddwch cerdd; mawl heb drath, nwyf heb anlladrwydd, a duchan heb serthyd.

The three ornaments of song; praise without flattery, gaiety without licentiousness, and satire without vulgarity. Barddas.

Serw, a. (ser) That is flat and opake or dull.
Serydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ser) An astronomer.
Seryddawl, a. (serydd) Astronomical.
Seryddiaeth, s. m. (serydd) Astronomy.

Y dyn a garaf nis digerais,
Yn seryddiaeth Don
Yn swydd Gaernarfon,
Lle bu ron dragon
Dreigau Emrais.

The man I respect, whom I have not ceased to love, studying the astronomy of Don in the county of Caernarvon, where the shaft of the chief of the dragons of Emrais has been. Gr. ab D. ab Tudur.

Seryddiannawl, a. (seryddiant) Astronomical.
Seryddiannu, v. a. (seryddiant) To follow the science of astronomy.

Seryddiant, s. m. (serydd) Astronomy.

Seryla, v. a. (ser) To gaze upon; to spare. Er seryla yr arian hyd yr eithaf, though sparing of the money to the utmost.

Seth, a. (f. of syth) Stiff, rigid; being set or put up; erect, upright; disdainful.

Sëu, v. a. (se) To render fixed, or stated.

Sew, s. m.—pl. t. ion (se) Gravy; jelly.

Sewed, s. m. (se—gwed) Discourse of the stars.

Sewedawl, a. (sewed) Descriptive of the stars.

Sewedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sewed) Astronomy.

Sewedyddawl, a. (sewedydd) Astronomical.

Sewedyddiaeth, s. m. (sewedydd) Astronomy.

Sewlyd, a. (sew) Abounding with gravy.

Sewyd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (se—gwyd) A diffusion of stars. Sewyd am loer, a sprinkling of stars round the moon. Taliesin.

SI, s. m. r. A hiss, a whiz; a buz; a tingling noise.

Sïad, s. m. (si) A hissing, a whizzing; a buzzing.

Siâd, s. f.—pl. t. au (sy—iad) The top of the skull, the crown of the head; the cranium.

> Eilliaw treell——
> Ar ei siâd, eres ydiw.
>
> Shaving a ring on his noddle, strange it is. I. R.
>
> Duw a wyr synwyr dy siâd,
> Sorth a bair dy siarad.
>
> God knows what sense thy head contains, anger causes thy talk. T. Prys.

Siadfoel, a. (siâd—moel) Bald-pated.

Siar, s. m. (si—ar) An articulate sound.

Siarad, s. m.—pl. t. au (siar) A talking, a talk.

> Gwaeddodd fal siarad gwyddau.
>
> He cried out like the gabbling of geese. D. ab Gwilym.

Siaradach, s. m. (siarad) Chitchat, babbling, garrulity, dicacity.

Siaradaidd, a. (siarad) Talkative, or prating.

Siaradawl, a. (siarad) Talking, or speaking.

Siaradfa, s. f.—pl. siaradfëydd (siarad) A talking place, or a gossip shop.

Siaradgar, a. (siarad) Querulous, prating, talkative, garrulous, fond of talking.

Siaradgarwch, s. m. (siaradgar) Garrulity.

Siaradu, v. a. (siarad) To make a talking.

Siaradus, a. (siarad) Talkative, loquacious.

> Tripheth nid hawdd eu rhifaw; banynau y goleu, geiriau benyw siaradus, a dichellion cybydd.
>
> Three things that are not easily numbered; the particles of light, the words of a talkative female, and the schemes of a miser. Catwg Ddoeth.

Siaradusaw, v. a. (siaradus) To render talkative; to become talkative.

Siaradusedd, s. m. (siaradus) Talkativeness.

Siaradusrwydd, s. m. (siaradus) Talkativeness.

Siaradwr, s. m.—pl. siaradwyr (siarad—gwr) A talker; a prater.

Siaradwraig, s. f.—pl. siaradwreigedd (siarad—gwraig) A talking woman, a gossip.

Siared, v. a. (siar) To talk, to chat, to discourse.

> Siared cymaint a mab Seithgudyn.
>
> To talk as much as the son of Seven-locks. Adage.
>
> Siared cymaint a Merddin ar bawl.
>
> To talk as much as Merddin on a pole. Adage.

Sïaw, v. a. (si) To hiss, to whiz, to buz; to tingle

Sïawl, a. (si) Hissing, whizzing, buzzing.

Sib, s. m. (si—ib) That tends to involve or to encircle.

Sibol, s. pl. aggr. (sib) Young onions, scallions.

Sibolen, s. f. dim. (sibol) A young onion.

Sibr, s. m. (sib) That is imbibed or taken in.

Sibrad, s. m. (sibr) A dressing with sauce.

Sibraw, v. a. (sibr) To sauce, to do with sauce.

Sibrydawl, a. (sibrwd) Doing with sauce.

Sibwl, s. pl. aggr. (sib) Young onions, scallion.

Sibylen, s. f. dim. (sibwl) A small or young onion a scallion.

Siciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sig) A steeping.

Siciant, s. m. (sig) A steeping, a seething.

Siciaw, v. a. (sig) To steep, to wet; to wash.

Siciawl, a. (sig) Steeping, or seething.

Siciedig, a. (siciad) Steeped, seethed, wetted.

Sicion, s. pl. aggr. (sig) Steepings, washings.

Sicioni, v. a. (sicion) To make steepings.

Sid, s. m. (si—id) A wind, a round, a circling.

Sidan, s. m.—pl. t. au (sid) Silk, satin. Sidan y waen, cotton-grass, sidan y brain, hair-weed.

Sidana, v. a. (sidan) To collect silk.

Sidanaidd, a. (sidan) Like silk, silky. Gwallt sidanaidd, silky hair.

Sidanawg, a. (sidan) Having silk; in silk.

> Gwaedlen am ben yn beithiawg,
> A golo cer man-ro meiniawg
> Gelynion Saeson sidanawg.
>
> A veil of blood over the head conspicuous, and burying by the beach of small stones the Saxon foes arrayed in silk. Ll. P. Moch.

Sidanawl, a. (sidan) Of the quality of silk.

Sidanblu, s. pl. (sidan—plu) Down feathers.

> Gwelem rai ar welyau sidanblu yn ymdrybaeddu mewn trythyllwch.
>
> We could perceive some on beds of down; wallowing in voluptuousness. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Sidanen, s. f. dim. (sidan) That is silken, or made of silk. It is the name of an old tune; also an epithet for a fine woman; and has been applied particularly to queen Elizabeth.

Sidaniad, s. m. (sidan) A making of silk; a making silky.

Sidanion, s. pl. aggr. (sidan) Silken things, silk-mercery.

Sidanu, v. a. (sidan) To make silk; to wind; to make silky, or smooth: to coax, to wheedle. Nyddu a sidanu, to twist and to wind.

> Mae y diawl yn dda tra y sidaner.
>
> The devil is civil as long as he is coaxed. Adage.

Sidanwe, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (sidan—gwe) A silk web.

Sidanwëydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sidanwe) A silk-weaver.

Sidanwr, s. m.—pl. sidanwyr (sidan—gwr) A silkman.

Sidanydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sidan) Silk-mercer.

Sidedd, s. m. (sid) A state of twirling.

Sidell, s. f.—pl. t. i (sid) A winder; a whirl; the rim of a wheel; a fly-wheel.

Sidellawg, a. (sidell) Having a whirl or wheel.

Sidelliad, s. m. (sidell) A whirling round.

Sidellu, v. a. (sidell) To whirl round.

> Ys dy lafn, goris dau lu
> Ysdyllen yn sidellu.
>
> A blade that is trusty, between two hosts a gleam whirling round. T. Prys.

Sidellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sidell) A winder.

Sider, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sid) That winds or twirls; that is in ringlets; lace, fringe.

Sidera, v. a. (sider) To form into ringlets.

Sideraidd, a. (sider) Like twirls or ringlets.

Siderawg, a. (sider) That is made up of winds or ringlets; full of fringes; fringed; laced.

> Marchawg siderawg doriad.
>
> A cavalier decked with lace. D. ab Ieuan Ddu, i darw.

Siderawg, a. (sider) Formed into ringlets; fringed

Sideriad, s. m. (sider) A twirling into ringlets; a fringeing.

Siderogrwydd, s. m. (siderawg) The state of being in ringlets, or fringed.

Sideru, v. a. (sider) To make ringlets; to plait; to fringe; to make lace; to lace.

Siderwr, s. m.—pl. siderwyr (sider—gwr) A maker of fringe.

Siderydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sider) Fringe maker.

Sidi, s. f. (sid) A state of revolution. Caer sidi, a zone of revolving, the zodiac; also called caer sidin, and caer sidydd.

Sidin, a. (sid) Winding, or revolving.

> Mi a fum yn nghadair flin
> Uwch caer sidin;
> A hono yn troi sydd
> Rhwng tri elfydd.

> I have been in a toilsome seat, above the revolving zone; and that continues turning between three elements. Taliesin.

Sidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sid) The agent of revolving; the zodiac. Caer sidydd, the circle of the zodiac, the ecliptic.

Sidyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (sid) A whirl, a turn round, the circumference or rim of a wheel. Sidyll troell, the rim of a spinning wheel; Troi yn sidyll, to turn in a twirl.

Siff, s. m. (si—iff) An intermitted noise.

Siffr, s. m. (siff) A rustle; a whisper.

Siffraw, v. a. (siffr) To rustle; to murmur.

Siffrwd, s. m. (siffr) A soft rustling; a murmuring; a whispering. v. a. To rustle; to murmur; to whisper.

Sig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (si—ig) A shatter; a bruise.

Sigaw, v. a. (sig) To shock, to craze, to shatter; to bruise.

Sigawl, a. (sig) Crazing, shattering; bruising.

Sigiad, s. m. (sig) A shattering; a bruising.

Sigl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sig) A shake, a rocking; a stir. a. Shaking, rocking. Sigl-din y gwys, sigl-din sionc, tinsigl y gwys, brith y fuches, the wag-tail; Sigl dyhoedan, siglaethan, neu linsilioia, the play of swinging.

Sigladwy, a. (siglad) Capable of being shaken.

Siglaeth, s. m. (sigl) A shaking; a swinging.

Siglaethan, s. f. dim. (sigl) A play of swinging.

Siglaw, v. a. (sigl) To shake, to rock; to stir; to be shaken. Sigla law, shake hand. Dimet.

> Agor ei law i bob ci a siglo ei gynffon arno.

> He opens his hand to every dog that wags his tail at him. Adage.

> Rhag bod y sul heb siglaw.

> For fear of being on Sundays without stirring. Adage.

Siglawg, a. (sigl) Having a shaking.

Sigledig, a. (sigl) Shaked, rocked; stirred.

Sigledigaeth, s. m. (sigledig) A shaking.

Sigledd, s. m. (sigl) The state of being shaken.

Siglen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. ydd (sigl) What shakes or rocks; a swing; a quag. Siglen donen, siglen donc, siglen denyn, a swing rope.

Siglenawg, a. (siglen) Abounding with quags.

Siglwr, s. m.—pl. siglwyr (sigl—gwr) A shaker, a rocker; a stirrer.

Sil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (si—il) That is produced, or brought forth; issue, progeny; seedling; spawn, or fry; also the cleansing or hulling of grain. Sil pysgod, fry of fish; sil penweig, herring fry: Eisin sil, husks or hullings of oats.

Silen, s. f. dim. (sil) A single issue; a seedling; a single spawn or fry.

Sili, s. m. (sil) A state of teeming, a shoaling.

Siliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sil) A producing; a spawning; a hulling of grain; grain that is hulled.

Siliadu, v. a. (siliad) To produce an issue; to produce a spawning.

Siliannawl, a. (siliant) Belonging to the act of producing; spawning.

Siliannu, v. a. (siliant) To cause an issuing; to cause a spawning.

Siliant, s. m. (sil) The state of being produced, or issued; a spawning; a hulling of grain.

Siliaw, v. a. (sil) To produce, to bring forth; to spawn; to hull grain. Siliaw ceirch, to hull oats.

Siliawg, a. (sil) Having issue; having spawn.

Silied, s. m. (sil) That is produced; cleared grain, as the grits of oats, and the like.

Siliedig, a. (siliad) Produced as young; spawned; divested or separated from the hull.

Siliedyn, s. m. dim. (siliad) An individual issue; a single grain divested of the hull.

Silod, s. pl. aggr. (sil) Seedlings, spawns, fry, or young fishes. Silod brithion, brith y gro, samlets; silod y mor, sea fry; silod y dom, brithylliaid y dom, pysgod y gath, sticklebacks.

Silodi, v. a. (silod) To issue seedlings, fry, or spawn; to form a fry.

Silodyn, s. m. dim. (silod) A single one of a fry.

Silyn, s. m. dim. (sil) A single issue, a single seedling, fry, or spawn.

Sill, s. f.—pl. t. au (si—ill) A component part, fragment, or element; a syllable: a word. Ni chlywais i sill amdani, I have not heard a syllable about her. Sil.

> Heb wybod——
> Na ffurf un sill ar ei phen,
> Na thoriad un llythyren.

> Knowing not the form of one syllable apart, nor the cutting of a single letter. Ieu. ab Hywel Swrdwal.

Silldrwm, a. (sill—trwm) Of a heavy syllable.

Silleb, s. f.—pl. t. au (sill—eb) An elementary part of speech: a syllable.

Sillebawl, a. (silleb) Elementary of speech.

Sillebiad, s. m. (silleb) A forming the elements of speech.

Sillebu, v. a. (silleb) To syllabize; to form the elements of speech.

Silliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sill) A forming of syllables; a spelling.

Silliadaeth, s. m. (silliad) The system or formation of syllables.

> Un aball ni adnebydd——
> Yn ngeirian'r ansoddau sydd;
> Na'u banau 'mhob gobenydd,
> A llef silliadaeth hefyd.

> A feeble one doth not recognise, in words, what qualities there are; nor their feet in every pause, and the accent of the syllabic system. Ieu. ab Hywel Swrdwal.

Silliadawl, a. (silliad) Syllabic, syllabical.

Silliadu, v. a. (silliad) To syllabize; to spell.

Silliaw, v. a. (sill) To arrange into elements or parts; to syllabize.

Silliawg, a. (sill) Consisting of elements; consisting of syllables.

Silliedig, a. (silliad) Formed of syllables.

Silliedigaeth, s. m. (silliedig) Formation of elementary parts or syllables.

Sillt, s. f.—pl. t. au (sill) An elementary part; a syllable.

> Deall silltau sy'n gwau'r gerdd,
> Yw cyweirgorn cywirgerdd.

> To understand the syllables which combine the song is the key of correct versification. Ieu. ab Hywel Swrdwal.

Silltaer, s. f.—pl. t. au (sillt—aer) A connection of links: a chain. Silltaerau heieirn oddieithr arfau, links of iron on the outside of the armour.

Silltaeren, s. f.—pl. t. au (silltaer) A link.

> Caeau silltaerenau serch,
> Er gwawd y tafawd, hoew-ferch,
> A roddais.——

> Wreaths of the links of love, for the praise of the tongue, lively maid, which I bestowed. D. ab Gwilym.

Silltiad, s. m. (sillt) A forming an elementary part; a forming a kindred.

Silltiaw, v. a. (sillt) To connect, to form a part; to be joined, to be a component part.

> O faith wylfa'r byd, af i'th elfydd;
> At Adda silltia', a'i eilltydd.
>
> From the tedious station of the world, I will go to thy element; to Adam I will become connected, and his progeny. Ieuan Brydydd Hir.

Silltiawg, a. (sillt) Consisting of parts; having syllables.

Silltiawl, a. (sillt) Component, kindred.

Silltiedig, a. (silltiad) Connected by parts; formed into syllables.

Silltydd, s. m. (sillt) That forms an elementary or a component part; a kindred.

Sillydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sill) A syllabary.

Sillyddiad, s. m. (sillydd) An arranging of syllables

Sillyddiaeth, s. m. (sillydd) The system of arranging syllables; prosody.

> Trefn sillyddiaeth oedd gaeth gynt,
> I bob gair bawb ei gerynt.
>
> The order of prosody was strict of yore, to every word each his kindred one. Ieuan ab Hywel Swrdwal.

Sillyddu, v. a. (sillydd) To arrange syllables.

Sim, s. m.—pl. t. od (si—im) That is light, flippant, or full of motion.

Simach, s. m. (sim) A monkey, an ape.

> Cymwythach corach a simach.
>
> The mutual complacency of the pigmy and the monkey. Adage.

Simdde, s. f.—pl. t. au (sim—de) A chimney.

Simer, s. m. (sim) Levity, trifling; a frisk.

Simera, v. a. (simer) To play or frisk about; to trifle, to dally.

Simiawl, a. (sim) Full of motion, flippant.

Simne, s. f.—pl. t. iau (sim—ne) A chimney.

Simp, s. m. (sim) The state of being instable; a flutter.

Simpl, a. (simp) Tottering, ready to fall.

Simplaidd, a. (simpl) Seeming to fall.

Simplaw, v. a. (simpl) To totter.

Simpliad, s. m. (simpl) A tottering.

Simsan, a. (sim—san) Tottering, ready to fall.

Simwr, s. m.—pl. t. au (sim—wr) A kind of vesture; a chimmar.

Sin, s. m. (si—in) That is an outside or surface; donation, alms.

> Sin dynion gweinion o gan;
> Sin i ereill sy'n arian.
>
> The alms of poor persons of white flour; the alms of others be in money. L. G. Cothi.

Sinach, s. m.—pl. t. au (sin) A mere or landmark; a balk, a ridge; jungle; but, in Rhos and about Conwy, it is any spot of wild land in a cultivated field.

> Terfyn dwy erw, dwy gwys, a hwnw a elwir sinach.
>
> The boundary of two acres consists of two furrows, and that is called a ridge. Welsh Laws.

Sinachad, s. m. (sinach) A cutting into dribblets. Paid â sinachad y bara, cease with mangling the bread. Dyfed.

Sinachu, v. a. (sinach) To cut into dribblets.

Sindal, s. m. (sin—tal) Sindon, fine linen; cambric

> A Dewi fab Sant sindal dudded.
>
> And Dewi son of Sant with a fine linen vest. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Sindw, s. pl. aggr. (sin—tw) That is forced to the surface; the scoria or cinders of a forge.

Siniad, s. m. (sin) A burning to cinders.

Siniaw, v. a. (sin) To reduce to cinders; to become cinders.

Siniawg, a. (sin) Abounding with cinders. s. f. The part of a hearth which holds the cinders.

Siniawl, a. (sin) Of the quality of cinders.

Sinid, s. m. (sin) Surface, or scum.

Sinidr, s. m. (sinid) The scoria or dross of iron.

Sinidraw, v. a. (sinidr) To form dross.

Siob, s. f.—pl. t. au (si—ob) A tuft; a tassel.

Sioba, s. f. dim. (siob) A tuft; the crest of a bird.

Siobawg, a. (siob) Having a tuft, tufted.

Siobo, s. m. dim. (siob) A tuft; a sprinkle used in throwing holy water.

> Tynai Collen y siobo allan, ac a fwriai y dwfr bendigaid am eu penau; ac ar hyny y diflanynt o'i olwg.
>
> Collen pulled out the sprinkler, and he threw the holy water over them; and upon that they vanished out of his sight. Buchedd Collen.

Siobyn, s. m. dim. (siob) A small tuft.

Siobynawg, a. (siobyn) Tufted; crested.

Siobynu, v. a. (siobyn) To form a small tuft.

Sioch, s. f.—pl. t. au (si—och) That spreads out; bushy hair.

Siochen, s. f. dim. (sioch) A small tuft of hair; a bushy tuft.

Siochi, v. a. (sioch) To form a tuft, to make bushy.

Siol, s. m. (si—ol) The top of the head; the skull.

Siolyn, s. m. dim. (siol) A noddle.

Sionc, a. (si—onc) Brisk, nimble, active; flippant

Sioncaidd, a. (sionc) Somewhat brisk.

Sioncawl, a. (sionc) Tending to vivacity.

Sioncedd, s. m. (sionc) Briskness, nimbleness.

Sionci, v. a. (sionc) To make brisk; to become brisk, or lively.

Sioncrwydd, s. m. (sionc) Briskness, vivacity.

> Ond mawr na fedrai sioncrwydd Ffrainc
> Rygyngu cainc rhag angau!
>
> How odd it is that the briskness of France should not devise to trip some tune to escape from death! Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Siopos, s. pl. aggr. (siob) What is all in shatters; a mass bruised or beat together.

Sipiad, s. m. (sib) A sipping, a drawing with the lips, a drawing the lips together.

Siplan, s. m. (sib) A sipping, a smacking of lips.

Sipian, v. a. (sib) To keep sipping; to sip.

Sipiaw, v. a. (sib) To draw the lips.

Sipiawl, a. (sib) Sipping, drawing the lips.

Sipiedig, a. (sipiad) Sipped, drawn with the lips.

Sipiwr, s. m.—pl. sipiwyr (sib—gwr) A sipper.

Sipyn, s. m. dim. (sib) A single sip.

Sir, s. m. (si—ir) Cheer, solace, comfort.

Siriad, s. m. (sir) A cheering, a comforting.

Siriaw, v. a. (sir) To cheer, to be cheered.

Siriawl, a. (sir) Cheering, or cheerful.

Siriedig, a. (siriad) Cheered, comforted.

Sirioldeb, s. m. (siriawl) Cheerfulness.

Sirioledd, s. m. (siriawl) Cheerfulness.

Sirioli, v. a. (siriawl) To make cheerful; to become cheerful.

Sis, s. m. (si—is) A sharp low sound; a whisper.

Sisial, s. m. (sis) A gossip. v. a. To whisper.

Sisiala, v. a. (sisial) To keep whispering.

Sisialawg, a. (sisial) Full of whispering.

Sisialu, v. a. (sisial) To whisper, to mutter.

Sisialwr, s. m.—pl. sisialwyr (sisial—gwr) A whisperer; a gossiper.

Sisiw, v. imper. (sis) Only used to drive fowls.

Sistrain, v. a. (sis) To whisper, to buzz.

Sitell, s. f.—pl. t. i (sid) A whisk, a brush.

Sitelliad, s. m. (sitell) A whisking round.

Sitellu, v. a. (sitell) To whisk round.

Sitiad, s. m. (sid) A whirling, a whisking round.

Sitiaw, v. a. (sid) To whirl, to whisk round.

Sitiawl, a. (sid) Whirling, whisking round.

Sitiwr, s. m.—pl. sitiwyr (sitiaw—gwr) One who whirls, turns, or goes round.

Saith awr y buan'
Yn cadw'r berllan,
Cyn cwrdd a Satan,
Sitiwr Tartara.

Seven hours had they been guarding the garden, before meeting with Satan, the ranger of Tartarus. Awdl Fraith.

Sitr, s. m. (sid) That jags, or that shreds.
Sitrach, s. m. (sitr) That is in jags or shreds, like a beaten end of a stick.
Sitrachawg, a. (sitrach) Jagged, or in shreds.
Sitrachiad, s. m. (sitrach) A jagging, a shredding
Sitrachu, v. a. (sitrach) To jag, or to shred.
Siw, s. m. (si) A hiss. Siw! An exclamation used in driving fowls away.

Nid oedd na siw na miw.

There was nor hiss nor mew. Adage.

Siwen, s. m. (siw) An epithet for the mermaid, the general name for which is morforwyn.
Siwr, s. m.—pl. siwyr (si—gwr) A hisser.
SO, s. f. r. A spread out, along, or over.
Sob, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy—ob) A tuft; a bunch, a cluster; a mass.
Soba, s. f. dim. (sob) A small tuft, bunch, cluster, or mass.
Soban, s. f. dim. (sob) A small tuft, or bunch.
Socan, s. f. dim. (sog) A wallower. Socan eira, socas lwyd, a fieldfare.
Socas, s. f. (sog) A wallower; the fieldfare.
Socyn, s. m. dim. (sog) A pig; an urchin, a boy, in droll style.
Soch, s. f. (so—och) A sink, or a drain.
Sodawl, a. (sawd) Tending to fix, implant, or settle; characteristic.
Sodi, v. a. (sawd) To constitute, to fix, or to set.
Sodiad, s. m. (sawd) A constituting, a fixing, or implanting.
Sodlawg, a. (sawdl) Having a heel, heeled.
Sodli, v. a. (sawdl) To heel; to trip the heel.
Sodliad, s. m. (sawdl) A heeling; a tripping.
Sodwedd, s. f. (sawd—gwedd) A characteristic.
Soddadwy, a. (sawdd) Capable of being sunk.
Soddawl, a. (sawdd) Sinking; plunging.
Soddedig, a. (sawdd) Being sunk or plunged.
Soddedigaeth, s. m. (soddedig) The act of sinking
Soddi, v. a. (sawdd) To sink, to submerge.
Soddiad, s. m. (sawdd) A sinking; a plunging.
Soddwr, s. m.—pl. soddwyr (soddi—gwr) A sinker
Soeg, s. m. (so—eg) That is puffed by seething; grains of malt; draff.

A fegir gyda moch a ddysg fwyta soeg.

That is bred with swine will learn to eat grains. Adage.

Yr hwch a dau a fwyty y soeg.

The silent sow eats the draff. Adage.

Hwch dy gyfaillai, hi a ddysg iti fwyta soeg.

Be a sow thy companion, she will teach thee to eat grains. Adage.

Soegen, s. f. dim. (soeg) A swaggy female.
Soegi, v. a. (soeg) To puff up with moisture; to steep; to slabber.
Soeglyd, a. (soeg) Puffed by steeping; slabbered
Soeglydrwydd, s. m. (soeglyd) A steeped state; slabbiness.
Sofl, s. m.—pl. soflydd (sawf) Stubble.
Soflawg, a. (sofl) Having stubble, stubbly.
Sofliar, s. f.—pl. soflieir (sofl—iar) A quail; also called Rhinc.
Soflyn, s. m. dim. (sofl) A single stubble.
Sog, s. f. (so—og) A wallow, a spread.
Soga, a. (sog) Wallowing; slovenly. Geneth soga, a slovenly girl. Sil.

Som, s. f.—pl. t. au (sy—om) A vacuity, a void; a balk, a disappointment.
Somawl, a. (som) Disappointing, balking.
Somedig, a. (som) Disappointed, balked.
Somedigaeth, s. f. (somedig) Disappointment.

Nid somedigaeth ond gwraig.

There is no deception equal to a woman. Adage.

Somedigawl, a. (somedig) Disappointing.
Somedd, s. m. (som) A disappointment.
Somgar, a. (som) Apt to disappoint.

Somgar a soma ei hunan yn y diwedd.

The deceitful will deceive himself at last. Adage.

Somgarwch, s. m. (somgar) Aptness to balk.
Somi, v. a. (som) To balk, to disappoint.

Y cryf a'r doeth—
Disymwth dau a somir.

The strong and the wise, two that suddenly will be deceived. E. Evan o Aber Dar.

Somiad, s. m. (som) A disappointing, a balking.
Somiant, s. m. (som) A disappointment.
Somwr, s. m.—pl. somwyr (som—gwr) A balker; a disappointer, a deceiver.
Son, s. m.—pl. t. ion (so—on) A noise; a report; a rumour; a mention. v. a. To noise; to report; to mention. Mae son amdani, there is talk about her; na wna son amdanad, do not cause a talk about thee:—Na son, do not say so; taw a son, hold thy tongue.

Son am y son amdano,
Ni cheir son dda o hano.

To talk of the talk about him, no good talk will be had from that. Adage.

A fo doeth, ar fyd weithion,
A dwys air, fo dau i son.

Such as be wise, at present on the world, with a significant word, he will cease with talking. T. Prys.

Sonfawr, a. (son) Noisy, or rumbling.
Songryf, a. (son—cryf) Of powerful noise.
Soniad, s. m. (son) A noising, a reporting, a rumouring, a mentioning.
Sonial, s. m. (son) A continued noise. v. a. To keep a continual noise.

O edwedd Morial
A gwedi Rhys mawr y sonial.

For the disappearing of Morial, and after Rhys great the lamentation. Llywarch Hen.

Soniaw, v. a. (son) To noise; to report; to rumour; to make mention; to talk. Gostega bawb a sonio amdanad, silence every body that shall talk about thee.

Soniwn bellach am—ddyledswyddau teuluaidd.

We will mention now about domestic duties. Theo. Evans.

Soniawl, a. (son) Noising, reporting, rumouring.
Soniawr, s. m. (son) That is noisy, or loud.

Ein henaid a drywanasai drwy garawg soniawr ei li.

Our soul had been made to pass through a brook of noisy flood. D. Ddu, ps. 124.

Soniedig, a. (soniad) Noised, reported, rumoured, mentioned, talked.
Soniwr, s. m.—pl. soniwyr (son—gwr) A man who makes a report or rumour; a mentioner; a talker.
Sopen, s. f.—pl. t. i (sob) Any mass squeezed or trussed together; a bundle, a truss. Sopen o gaws, a ball of cheese curds; sopen o flew, a bundle of hair; sopen o wair, a truss of hay. Dos, y sopen front, Go, thou dirty baggage.
Sopenawg, a. (sopen) Being squeezed into a mass.
Sopeniad, s. m. (sopen) A squeezing into a mass, a making into a bundle.
Sopenu, v. a. (sopen) To bundle, to truss.

Sopiad, s. m. (sob) A pressing together into a mass; a bundling, a trussing.
Sopiaw, v. a. (sob) To press together into a mass; to bundle, to truss.
Sòr, s. m. (sy—or) The state of being pressed upon, chafed, or irritated; the being displeased or silently angry; sullenness. a. Sullen, sulky; angry; harsh, grating; sullen.

Dial yn sòr am dori
Da glos, Duw, dy eglwys di.

Avenge harshly, for breaking a goodly sanctuary, God, thy church. Ieu. Llwyd ab Gwilym.

Sòriad, s. m. (sòr) A displeasing; a becoming displeased, sullen, or sulky.
Sòradwy, a. (sòrad) Capable of displeasing.
Sòrawl, a. (sòr) Displeasing, tending to sullenness.
Soredig, a. (sorad) Displeased, offended.
Soredigaeth, s. m. (soredig) The act of displeasing; displeasure, sullenness.
Sòri, v. a. (sòr) To press upon; to chafe; to displease, to offend; to render sullen or sulky; to become displeased or offended; to grow sullen or sulky. Ystafell sòri, a sulking room: Na sòra wrth dy fwyd, do not quarrel with thy victuals.

Nid sòri yt ar dy fam.

Be there not for thee to be sulky to thy mother. Adage.

Ni fydd am nid fo,
Na bryn, na thyno,
Na rhynawd godo
Rhag gwynt pan soro.

There can be no where free, nor hill, nor dale, nor the least of shelter from the wind when it shall rage. Taliesin.

Sòriad, s. m.—pl. sòriaid (sòr) A grating, chafing, or irritating; a becoming offended, sullen, or sulky.

Saer dy fawl, sòriad wyf fi.

The author of thy praise, an offended one am I. R. Ddu.

Sòriannawl, a. (sòriant) Tending to displeasure, offensive; tending to sullenness.
Sòriannu, v. a. (sòriant) To cause displeasure, offence, or sullenness.
Sòriant, s. m. (sòr) Displeasure, disgust, offence; sullenness.
Sòrig, a. (sòr) Apt to take offence; sulky.
Sòrllyd, a. (sòr) Apt to grow angry, or sulky.
Sorllydrwydd, s. m. (sorllyd) Aptness to be offended, or sulky.
Sorod, s. pl. aggr. (sòr) Small particles, parts, or fragments; shatters; dregs, dross, sordes; also called surwd.
Sorodi, v. a. (sorod) To yield dross or dregs.
Sorth, s. f. (sòr) That is sudden, imminent, or upon; chance.
Sorth, a. (sòr) Sudden; imminent, falling; unwieldy; slothful; rude, rough, fell.

Ffydd dda i'n cadw'n hoff ddiwerth,
O ffwrn a safn uffern sorth.

Wholesome faith to keep us pleasantly without price, from the furnace and the jaw of precipitous hell. S. Mawddwy.

Soth, s. m. (sy—oth) That is on the outside.
Sothach, s. pl. aggr. (soth) Refuse, dross.

Llyw a'm dysgawdd hawdd boddiaw gerdd berffaith,
Nid fal sothach-iaith beirdd caith Caeaw.

A chief has instructed me with facility to acquire the perfect song, not like the refuse-speech of the slavish bards of Caeo. Sefnyn.

Sothachlyd, a. (sothach) Abounding with refuse.
Sothachu, v. a. (sothach) To cast a refuse.
SU, s. m. r. That tends to pervade; a buzz.
Suad, s. m. (su) A buzzing; a lulling; a lullaby.
Suaw, v. a. (su) To hush, to lull to rest.
Suawl, a. (su) Hushing, lulling to rest.
Sucan, s. m. (sug) Any thing seethed, or steeped; washbrew, gruel, flummery; small beer. Sucan blawd, cawl dwr, water gruel; sucan gwyn, brwchan, caudle, made with soured or seethed oatmeal, and sweetened.

Gwell sucan meddiant no gwin cardawd.

Better is small beer that is one's own than wine on charity. Adage.

Sucanaidd, a. (sucan) Of a washy quality.
Sud, s. m. (su—ud) A first glance; an exterior; appearance; condition, fashion, shape. A wyt ti yn dda dy sud? Art thou in a good way?
Sudd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (su—udd) That pervades or sinks in; moisture; juice, sap.
Suddadwy, a. (sudd) Capable of pervading; capable of containing juice.
Suddas, s. m. (sudd) A sinking, an immersion. Clych suddas, water bubbles.
Suddaw, v. a. (sudd) To sink in, to pervade; to sink; to become sunk. Suddaw llong, to sink a ship.
Suddawl, a. (sudd) Tending to sink in, or to pervade; sinking.
Suddedig, a. (sudd) Pervaded as moisture; sunk.
Suddiad, s. m. (sudd) A sinking, a plunging.
Suddiant, s. m. (sudd) Pervasion of moisture; a sinking.
Sug, s. m.—pl. t. ion (su—ug) An imbibing principle; a suck, or drawing; what is imbibed; juice, sap.
Sugaeth, s. m. (sug) The state of being juicy; moisture; succulence.
Sugaethan, s. m. (sugaeth) What is suckled; washbrew, caudle; a poultice.
Sugaw, v. a. (sug) To imbibe; to fill with juice; to have juice.
Sugawl, a. (sug) Imbibing; juicy; succulent.
Sugedig, a. (sug) Imbibed; filled with juice.
Suger, s. m. (sug) Extracted juice; cyder.
Sugiad, s. m. (sug) An imbibing of juice; a becoming juicy.
Suglian, s. m. (sug—llian) A cerecloth, a drawing plaister.
Sugn, s. m. (sug) A suck: sugn y geifr, woodbine, or honey-suckle.
Sugnad, s. m. (sugn) A sucking, an imbibing.
Sugnai, s. c. (sugn) That sucks or imbibes.
Sugnaw, v. a. (sugn) To suck, to imbibe.
Sugnawl, a. (sugn) Sucking, imbibing.
Sugnbeiriant, s. m. (sugn—peiriant) An hydraulic machine; a pump.
Sugnbib, s. f.—pl. t. au (sugn—pib) A drawing pipe; a syringe.
Sugndraeth, s. m.—pl. sugndreuthydd (sugn—traeth) A quicksand.
Sugndrec, s. m. (sugn—trec) A pump.
Sugnedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sugnad) A sucker; a pump.
Sugneiydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sugnai) A pumper.
Sugnfor, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sugn—mor) A vortex in the sea; a quicksand.
Sugngostrel, s. m.—pl. t. au (sugn—costrel) A sucking-bottle.
Sugniad, s. m. (sugn) A sucking, or imbibing.
Sugnwr, s. m.—pl. sugnwyr (sugn—gwr) One who sucks, or imbibes.
Sugnwydr, s. m.—pl. sugnwydrau (sugn—gwydr) A cupping-glass.
Sugnydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sugn) A pump.

Sugolaeth, s. m. (sugawl) Succulency.
Sugoli, v. a. (sugawl) To render juicy; to become juicy or succulent.
Sugr, s. m.—pl. sugron (sug) An extracted juice crystalized; sugar.
Sugraw, v. a. (sugr) To sugar; to sweeten.
Sugrawl, a. (sugr) Of the quality of sugar.
Sul, s. m.—pl. t. iau (su—ul) That extends round; the sun. Dydd Sul, Sunday; also called Dyw-sul, Dydd yr Arglwydd, and simply Sul. Sul, a gwyl, a gwaith, Sunday, holiday, and work-day; Sul y gweddiau, rogation Sunday.
Sulgwyn, s. m. (sul—gwyn) Whitsunday.
Sulw, s. m. (sul) Observation, notice, remark. Dal sulw, take notice.
Sulwy, s. m. (sulw) A scope round; exploration.
Sum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (su—um) Amplitude, magnitude, bulk, size; sum. Nid oes ynddo fawr o sum, it is of no great bulk.
Sumiad, s. m. (sum) A bestowing amplitude, or magnitude; a becoming of bulk; a making observation as to size; a summing.
Sumiaw, v. a. (sum) To endue with amplitude, or magnitude; to sum; to deduce the size or bulk of a thing by poising it in the hand.
Sumiawl, a. (sum) Relating to amplitude.
Sumiedig, a. (sumiad) Endued with bulk; measured as to size; summed.
Sumiwr, s. m.—pl. sumwyr (sum—gwr) One who deduces the size of a body.
Sur, s. m. (su—ur) The state or quality of sourness; an acid. a. Sour, acid; stale. Llaeth sur, sour milk; afalau surion, crab apples; eirin surion, sloes.

Ni chair afal per ar bren sur.

No sweet apple can be had from a sour tree. Adage.

Suraidd, a. (sur) Somewhat sour, subacid.
Suran, s. f.—pl. surain (sur) The sorrel. Surain yr yd, sheep's sorrel; suran y maes, suran y waen, common sorrel; surain y fran, sorrel; surain kirion, tafol y dwfr, great water dock; surain codawg, winter cherry; surain y coed, surain y gog, surain tairdalen, wood sorrel.
Suranen, s. f. dim. (suran) A sorrel. Suranen gadawg, dagrau addaf, winter-cherry plant.
Suraw, v. n. (sur) To sour, to turn sour; to make sour.
Surawl, a. (sur) Of a sour tendency.
Surber, a. (sur—per) Of an acid sweetness.
Surfwg, s. m. (sur—bwg) Sillabub.
Surdeb, s. m. (sur) Acidity, sourness; tartness.
Surder, s. m. (sur) Acidity, sourness; tartness.
Surdoes, s. m. (sur—toes) Sour dough, leaven.
Surdoesawg, a. (surdoes) Having leaven.
Surdoesawl, a. (surdoes) Leavening.
Surdoesi, v. a. (surdoes) To leaven.
Surdra, s. m. (sur) Acidity, or sourness.
Surdrwnc, s. m. (sur—trwnc) Stale urine.
Suredig, a. (sur) Acidulated or soured.
Suredd, s. m. (sur) Acidness, sourness.
Surfedd, s. m. (sur—medd) A syrup.
Surfelys, a. (sur—melys) Of an acid sweetness.
Surian, s. f.—pl. suriain (sur) A cherry.

Eurais wawd——
Er hoen blodau surian.

I have ornamented an eulogy for her who is of the hue of the cherry blossoms. H. ab Ein. Llygliw.

Surni, s. m. (sur) Sourness, tartness, acidity.
Surwern, s. f. (sur—gwern) A sour swamp; also an epithet for hell, consonant to the bardic theology.

Affaith gaith gethern, surwern nid sych,
Lle mae llawer gwae waethwrych anegor
Llu du——

Hell, the receptacle of a slavish crew, a sour swamp that dries not, where there is many a woe dismally uprising without relief of the black host. Casnodyn.

Suryn, s. m. dim. (sur) Any acid thing.
Sut, s. m. (sud) An exterior; appearance; manner, condition, plight; shape. Pa sut sydd? How goes it? Neidia yna: Pa sut? Jump to there: which way? How?

Wrth sut eu haraith ar son
Yr adwaenir y dynion.

By the manner of their discourse in talking will the persons be known. Ieu. Brydydd Hir.

Sutiad, s. m. (sut) A seeming; giving a manner, form, or shape; a suiting.
Sutiaw, v. a. (sut) To endue with a manner, plight, or shape; to adapt, to suit.
Sutiawl, a. (sut) Relating to manner, condition, or shape; adapted, suiting, befitting.
Süwr, s. m.—pl. süwyr (su—gwr) A husher.
SW, s. m. r. That remains, that is on, fixed upon, or exterior.
Swb, s. m. (sw) That is piled, heaped, or pressed together; a bundle.
Swba, s. m. dim. (swb) A small bunch.
Swbach, s. m. (swb) That is drawn together in a heap.
Swbachiad, s. m. (swbach) A shrinking up.
Swbachu, v. a. (swbach) To shrink up; to become shrunk up or decrepit.
Swci, s. m. (swg) That is soaked; steepings. Oen swci, oen llawfaeth, a lamb reared by hand; llo swci, a calf reared by hand.
Swch, s. f.—pl. sychod (sw—wch) A snout; a soc. Swch aradr, ploughshare; swch esgid, the point of a shoe.

Sychu y swch i fyned i'r pridd.

To wipe the share to go into the soil. Adage.

Swchiad, s. m. (swch) A snouting, a turning about with the snout.
Swchiaw, v. a. (swch) To snout; to search with the snout, as a pig, or a dog; also to share a plough.
Swchiawl, a. (swch) Belonging to the snout; belonging to a ploughshare.
Swd, s. m. (sw—wd) An exterior; appearance, manner, condition, plight; shape. Sil.
Swdd, s. m. (sw—dd) A frame, beams put together to support any thing; what is piled together.
Swdden, s. f.—pl. t. i (swdd) A beam.
Swf, s. m. (sw) That is on; a spot, a space.
Swg, s. m. (sw—wg) A soak, or imbibing.
Swga, a. (swg) Tending to soak; soaked; filthy. Mor swga wyt ti! how filthy thou art!
Swgan, s. f. (swg) A slut, or a slattern.
Swgawl, a. (swg) Tending to soak; soaking, drenching.
Swgiaw, v. a. (swg) To soak; to become soaked, to become flaccid; to become filthy.
Swgiad, s. m. (swg) A soaking, a drenching; a growing flaccid; a becoming filthy.
Swl, s. m. (sw—wl) A flat space, or surface, the ground; soil, dirt.
Swl, a. (sw—wl) Flat; grounded, soiled.

Salw'th gais, swl-iaith gyson;
Saf uwch y dylath a son.

Feeble is thy attempt, with thy plain uniform speech; perch above the rafter and talk away. D. ab Gwilym, i'r wennol.

Swla, a. (swl) Being grounded, or covered with soil; dirty. Sil.

Swll, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (sw—wll) That is clear or open; a scene, a prospect.

Swllt, s. m.—pl. sylltau (swll) That has a clear surface; a shilling; money; treasure.

> Rhois ar ferch draserch a drig,
> Esyllt wedd, a swllt eiddig.
>
> I have fixed on a fair one fondness that will remain, with the form of Esyllt, and the treasure of a jealous cuff. D. ab Gwilym.
>
> Y gaer a gymerynt, a chuddiedig swllt y ciwdodwyr a rannynt.
>
> The city they got possession of, and the concealed treasure of the citizens they divided. Gr. ab Arthur.

Swm, s. m. (sw—wm) The state of being together.

Swmer, s. m.—pl. t. i (swm) That supports, or keeps together; a beam. Swmer càr, the hind part of a drag or dray, which holds up the load.

Swmerfarch, s. m.—pl. swmerfeirch (swmer—march) A sumpter-horse.

Swmeriad, s. m. (swmer) A supporting, upholding, or propping; a fixing a beam.

Swmeru, v. a. (swmer) To support, uphold, or prop; to fix a beam.

Swml, s. m.—pl. symlau (swm—yl) A goad.

Swmwl, s. m.—pl. symylau (swm—wl) A goad.

> Syml iawn roi swmwl ynnod.
>
> It was very simple to put a goad in thee. Llywelyn Moel.

Swn, s. m.—pl. syniau (sw—wn) A noise; a sound. Swn taran, the noise of thunder; swn llu, the noise of a multitude.

Swniad, s. m. (swn) A noising; a sounding.

Swnial, v. a. (swn) To make a continual noise; to make a clattering; to ring.

Swniaw, v. a. (swn) To noise; to sound.

Swniawl, a. (swn) Noisy, loud, sounding.

Swniedig, a. (swniad) Being noised, or sounded.

Swniwr, s. m.—pl. swniwyr (swn—gwr) One who makes a noise; a sounder.

Swp, s. m.—pl. sypiau (swb) A squeezed lump or mass; a heap; a pile; a bunch, a cluster. Gwnaf di yn swp yn dy groen, I will beat thee all to a mummy; dyma fo yn un swp, here it is all in a heap.

Swpws, s. pl. aggr. (swp) A heap of things squeezed or beat together.

Swr, s. m. (sw) That is surly, sullen, or cross; a surly one.

Swr, a. (sw) Surly, sullen, sulky, cross. Dyn swr iawn, a very illnatured man.

Swri, s. m. (swr) Surliness; sullenness; a snarling, a barking. Swri! swri! words used to invite a dog to one.

Swrn, s. m.—pl. syrnau (sy—wrn) A small opening, space, or separation; a somewhat, a quantity, a little; the joint next to the foot of a quadruped; the pastern-joint or fetlock-joint.

> A swrn hyd Ddywsadwrn sydd.
>
> And a good space till Saturday there is. D. ab Gwilym.

Swrnach, s. m. (swrn) A snarl, or a grin.

Swrnach, v. a. (swrn) To grin, or to snarl.

Swrndaraw, v. a. (swrn—taraw) To cut or knock the pastern-joints together.

Swrth, s. m. (swr) That is sudden, imminent, or falling.

Swrth, a. (swr) Sudden; imminent, falling; drowsy; unwieldy; slothful; rude, rough, fell. Dywedi yn swrth, thou speakest roughly. Sil.

> Swrth pob diawg.
>
> Every lazy one is clumsy. Adage.
>
> Mor swrth y syrthiodd march Paen!
>
> How suddenly fell the steed of Paen! Llywarch Hen.
>
> Swrth oedd ei fyn'd, syrthiodd fo
> Drwy oer ing i dir ango.
>
> Sad was his departing, he fell through severe affliction to the land of oblivion. Ed. Samuel.

Swrthdrwm, a. (swrth—trwm) Of a drowsy heaviness.

Swrthlyd, a. (swrth) Apt to be drowsy.

Swrthyn, s. m. dim. (swrth) A clumsy one.

Swrw, s. m. (swr) Surly, snarling; sullen.

Swrwd, s. pl. aggr. (swr) Parts, fragments; shatters; dross, sordes. Mae e yn swrwd yn ei groen, he is all to shatters in his skin.

Swta, s. m. (swd) That is volatile, flying, or sudden; also soot. a. Volatile, flying, sudden.

> Llu satan mewn lliw swta.
>
> Satan's host in livery of soot. Iolo Goch.

Swtan, s. m.—pl. swtain (swd) A whiting pout. It is called bawd melinydd, and cod lwyd.

Swtiad, s. m. (swt) A flying about; a being of sudden motion.

Swtiaw, v. a. (swt) To fly about; to be volatile or sudden.

Swtr, s. m. (swd) A sudden crack, or crash.

Swtrach, s. pl. aggr. (swtr) Dross, dregs.

Swtrws, s. pl. aggr. (swtr) That is bruised. Tori yn swtrws, to bruise to a mash.

Swth, s. m. (sw—wth) A frame, or what keeps together; a pile, a heap.

Swy, s. m. (sw) That is on, over, or exterior.

Swyd, s. m. (swy) That extends over; awe.

Swydaw, v. a. (swyd) To awe, to intimidate.

Swydawl, a. (swyd) Tending to awe.

Swydiad, s. m. (swyd) A creating an awe.

Swydus, a. (swyd) Tending to awe.

Swydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (swy) Employ, office, duty; suit; service, with respect to tenure; also a jurisdiction; a shire. Tir a swydd wrtho, land with service attached to it; tir heb swydd, land free of service: Eis yno yn un swydd, I went there on purpose.

> Drwg y swydd ni thal ei gwasanaethu.
>
> Bad is the office that is not worth serving. Adage.
>
> A gado swydd afrwyddawl
> Y gyfraith ddiffaith i ddiawl.
>
> And leave the intricate pursuit of the wicked law to the devil. Efan Llwyd Ieffry.

Swyddawg, a. (swydd) Having an office. s. m.—pl. swyddogion. An officer. Swyddogion y llys, the officers of the court; swyddogion bwyd a llyn, purveyors of meat and drink; swyddawg y dollfa, an officer of the customs.

Swyddawl, a. (swydd) Official, of office.

Swyddfa, s. f.—pl. swyddfeydd (swydd) A place of business, or office.

Swyddgar, a. (swydd) Officious, full of business.

Swyddgarwch, s. m. (swyddgar) Officiousness.

Swyddogaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (swyddawg) The sway or extent of any office; the jurisdiction of a county.

> Had swyddogaeth a dyfant yn mhob tir.
>
> The seeds of office will grow in every land. Adage.

Swyddogawl, a. (swyddawg) Belonging to office.

Swyddogedig, a. (swyddawg) Officered.

Swyddoges, s. f.—pl. t. au (swyddawg) A female officer.

Swyddogi, v. a. (swyddawg) To hold an office.

Swyddogiad, s. m. (swyddawg) A holding an office.

Swyddwial, s. f.—pl. swyddwiail (swydd—gwial) A rod of office.

Swyddwialen, s. f. (swyddwial) A rod of office.

Swyddwr, s. m.—pl. swyddwyr (swydd—gwr) An officer.

Swyddymgais, s. m. (swydd—ymgais) A seeking or looking after office.

Swyddymgeisiad, s. m. (swyddymgais) A seeking after an office.

Swyddymgeisiaw, v. a. (swyddymgais) To seek after an office.

Swyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (swy) That is on the surface; froth; yeast; also suet. See Ysgai.

Maer y biswal a gaiff swyf a bloneg ysgrubl y llys.

The land steward shall have the suet and the lard of the animals of the palace. Welsh Laws.

Swyfaw, v. n. (swyf) To produce a scum or surface; to yield suet; to turn to suet.

Swyfawg, a. (swyf) Having a scum; having suet.

Swyfedd, s. m. (swyf) That becomes a surface or coating; suet.

Swyfen, s. f. (swyf) Scum, froth, or top.

Swyfi, s. m. (swyf) Scum, froth, or top.

Swyfiad, s. m. (swyf) A yielding scum or surface; a yielding suet.

Swyl, s. f.—pl. t. on (swy) A saving.

Swyliaw, v. a. (swyl) To save, or to put by.

Swyliaw ar y cilyn diweddaf.

To save when reduced to the last scrap. Adage.

Swyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (swy) A preservative, protection, or comfort; a remedy; a charm. Dwfr swyn, holy water; swyn ddrwg, bad comfort.

Gwae fi na allaf, ha ferch!
Dy ddwyn gan wneuthur swyn serch.

Woe to me that I cannot, oh maid! bear thee away by making a love charm. Ieuan Tew.

Swyna, v. a. (swyn) To collect preservatives or remedies; to deal in charms.

Swynaw, v. a. (swyn) To apply a preservative, comfort or cure; to charm; to bless; to save harmless; to excuse.

A'm swynasai Math,
Cyn bum diaered:
A'm swynwys i Wdion,
Mawr-nur y Brython:
O Eurwys, o Euron,
O Euron, o Fedron,
O bump pummwnt celfyddon
Athrawon ail Math.

Math had given one preserving means, before that I was made immortal; I was also made secure by Gwdion, the mighty profound of the Brython; by Eurwys, by Euron, by Euron by Medron, by five times five hundred thousand arts of doctors equal to Math. Taliesin.

Duw o nef a'th swynas.

God of heaven hath blessed thee. L. P. Moch.

Swynawg, a. (swyn) Possessed of a preserving virtue.

Swynawl, a. (swyn) Preservative; tending to comfort; curative; blessing; tending to charm.

Swynedig, a. (swyn) Furnished with a preservative, or remedy; endued with a charm.

Dwfr a halen swynedig yn y bedydd.

Consecrated water and salt in the baptism. Ll. Gwyn Hergest.

Swynedigaeth, s. f. (swynedig) The act of preserving or remedying by some hidden virtue; a preserving by charm.

Swynedigawl, a. (swynedig) Tending to preserve or to remedy by any hidden virtue.

Swynfri, s. m. (swyn—bri) The daisy.

Swyngyfaredd, s. f.—pl. t. ion (swyn—cyfaredd) An amulet; witchcraft.

Swyngyfareddawg, a. (swyngyfaredd) Possessed of witchcraft.

Swyngyfareddawl, a. (swyngyfaredd) Belonging to witchcraft.

Swyngyfareddiad, s. m. (swyngyfaredd) A practising of witchcraft.

Swyngyfareddu, v. a. (swyngyfaredd) To practise or deal in witchcraft.

Swyngyfareddwr, s. m. (swyngyfaredd—gwr) A dealer in witchcraft.

Swyniad, s. m. (swyn) A preserving, a comforting; the applying of a remedy; a charming; a blessing; a saving harmless; an excusing.

Swynogl, s. f.—pl. t. au (swynawg) An amulet, a charm.

Yno Ffolineb a wisgai amdanaf ryw arall o harnais, yr hon a elwir oferogoniant—a'm hanogai i ofyn cynghor i wreigedd y swynoglau, yn wrthwyneb i gyfraith Duw.

Thereupon Folly arrayed me in another sort of attire, which is called vainglory—that would instigate me to ask counsel from women who deal in charms, contrary to the law of God. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Swynogli, v. a. (swynogl) To apply a preservative; to apply a remedy; to charm; to fascinate.

Y geiriau hyny a'm swynoglai i, megys ag yr oedd hir genyf, o eisiau cael gweled y llys hafaidd hwnw.

Those words fascinated me, as it was tedious to me, for want of getting to see that palace of summer days. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Swynogliad, s. m. (swynogl) Fascination.

Swynoglwr, s. m.—pl. swynoglwyr (swynogl—gwr) A dealer in spells, a fascinator.

Swynwr, s. m.—pl. swynwyr (swyn—gwr) One who uses a preservative, or remedy; a comforter; a dealer in amulets, or charms; a magician. Swynwr drwg wyt ti, thou art a Job's comforter.

Swynwraig, s. f.—pl. swynwreigedd (swyn—gwraig) A woman who deals in charms.

Swynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (swyn) A wizard.

Swys, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy—wys) A scope round; emotion; impulse; a throb, a throw.

Cynnyddwn ninnau, heb swysau saeth,
Can an Duw fry freniniaeth.

We also shall grow up, without the arrow throws, in the kingdom of our God on high. Cynddelw.

Swysaw, v. a. (swys) To fill with emotion.

Swysawg, a. (swys) Having emotion, or impulse.

Bid ewynawg ton tu porth Wygyr,
Bid swysawg serchawg, banawg breyr.

Foamy be the wave towards the port of Gwygyr, anxious be the lover, exalted be the chieftain. Gwalchmai.

Swysawl, a. (swys) Tending to give impulse.

Swysiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (swys) A producing emotion, impulse, or feeling.

Swyson, s. pl. aggr. (swys) Emotions; passions.

SY, s. m. r. That is, existeth, or remaineth; that is fixed or stated; a star. v. n. Is, existeth, or hath a being. It is used as a prefix in composition.

Pwybynag sy heb wraig sy heb ymryson.

Whoever is without a wife is without contention. Adage.

Syber, a. (swb—er) Having a low tendency; of good conduct, sober, staid.

Tri hardd byd: dwyfawl, celfydd, a syber.

The three ornaments of the world: the pious, the ingenious, and the one of sober conduct. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Syberedig, a. (syber) Being rendered of sober demeanour.

Syberi, s. m. (syber) A good demeanour; neatness; sobriety.

Syberw, a. (syber) Stately, magnificent, noble; courteous, generous; supercilious, haughty, highminded; elegant. Meirch syberw, proud steeds; ach syberw, a noble lineage.

Y neb a ddyweto yn syberw, neu yn hagr, wrth y brenin, taled deir-bu camlwrw.

Whoever shall speak superciliously, or unseemly, to the king, let him pay three kine for compensation of injury. Welsh Laws.

A rhag syberwed Rolant ef a edewis iddo gysgu.

And from Rolant being so magnanimous he suffered him to sleep. H. Car. Mag—Mabinogion.

Pan glywer bod enw brenin iddynt, syberwach fyddant.

When it shall be heard that they possess the name of a king, more arrogant will they be. Gr. ab Arthur.

Syberwad, s. m. (syberw) A rendering stately.
Syberwaidd, a. (syberw) Tending to be stately.
Syberweiddrwydd, s. m. (syberwaidd) Stateliness
Syberwi, v. a. (syberw) To make stately, to become noble, high, or elated; to become elegant Syberwyd, s. m. (syberw) Stateliness, magnificence, nobleness; courtesy, generosity, munificence; highmindedness; haughtiness, elegance. Rhodd a syberwyd gorsedd, the grant and courtesy of a convention. Barddas.

Gwell syberwyd no bonedd.

Better is courtesy than nobility. Adage.

Er dy syberwyd, pwylla wrtho heno.

For thy honour, be considerate to him this night. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Llawer a beris Rolant eu colli o wyrda, o'i syberwyd ef.

Many did Rolant cause to perish of brave men, owing to his highmindedness. H. Car. Mag—Mabinogion.

Sybid, s. m. (swb) That is all in a heap.
Sybidan, s. f. dim. (sybid) A weakly female.
Sybidyn, s. m. dim. (sybid) A worthless fellow.
Sybwb, s. m. (swb—wb) A rumple, a pressing out of shape.
Sybwbiad, s. m. (sybwb) A tumbling about; a rumpling.
Sybwbiaw, v. a. (sybwb) To toss, to rumple.
Sybwbiwr, s. m. (sybwb) A tosser, a rumpler.
Sybwll, s. m.—pl. sybyllau (sy—pwll) A puddle, or a plash.
Sybwrn, s. m.—pl. sybyrnau (sy—bwrn) Bundle
Sybwydd, s. pl. aggr. (swb—gwydd) Pines, or fir-trees.
Sybwydden, s. f. dim. (sybwydd) A pine-tree.
Sybyllawg, a. (sybwll) Having puddles, plashy.
Sybylldir, s. m. (sybwll—tir) Plashy ground.
Sybyllu, v. a. (sybwll) To make plashy.
Sybyrnawg, a. (sybwrn) Bundled, trussed.
Sybyrnawl, a. (sybwrn) Like a bundle.
Sybyrniad, s. m. (sybwrn) A bundling.
Sybyrniaw, v. a. (sybwrn) To bundle.
Sybyrnyn, s. m. dim. (sybwrn) A little bundle.
Sych, s. m. (sy—ych) Drought. a. Dry. Dillad sychion, dry clothes.

Tri pheth anhawdd eu caol: dwfr sych, tan gwlyb, a gwraig dawgar.

Three things difficult to be obtained: dry water, wet fire, and a silent wife. Adage.

Tri pheth a gryffant y corff: gorwedd ar wely caled, wybren oerllyd, a bwyd sych.

Three things that strengthen the body: a laying on a hard bed, a cold atmosphere, and dry victuals. Adage.

Sychadwy, a. (sych) Capable of drying.
Sychawl, a. (sych) Tending to dry, drying.
Sychbilen, s. f.—pl. t. au (sych—pilen) A dry film.
Sychder, s. m. (sych) Drought, or dryness.
Syched, s. m. (sych) Drought; thirst. Gad imi dori fy syched, let me quench my thirst.

Dymunaw ydd wyf y dydd y cyfarfyddom ni ynghyd; canys syched eu gwaed hwynt y sydd arnaf.

I am wishing for the day when we shall meet together; for a thirst after their blood is upon me. Gr. ab Arthur.

Sychedawl, a. (syched) Tending to cause thirst.
Sychediad, s. m. (syched) A thirsting; a causing thirst.
Sychedig, a. (syched) Being made dry; thirsty.
Sychedigaeth, s. m. (sychedig) A causing to be dry, or thirsty.
Sychedigawl, a. (sychedig) Tending to make dry
Sychedigrwydd, s. m. (sychedig) A dried state.
Sychedu, v. n. (syched) To thirst, to be thirsty.
Sychedwr, s. m.—pl. sychedwyr (syched—gwr) A thirster.
Sychedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (syched) A thirster.
Sychfa, s. f.—pl. sychfëydd (sych) A drying place
Sychgernyn, s. m. dim. (sych—cernyn) A dry scale, or scurf.
Sychin, s. f. (sych—hin) Dry weather.
Sychinawg, a. (sych—hin) Being dry weather.
Sychiad, s. m. (sych) A drying, a siccation.
Sychiadu, v. a. (sychiad) To desiccate, to siccate.
Sychiannawl, a. (sychiant) Desiccative, desiccant
Sychiannu, v. a. (sychiant) To desiccate.
Sychiant, s. m. (sych) Desiccation, siccation.
Sychin, s. f. (sych) Drought, or dry weather.

Hau ar y sychin, plana ar y gwlybin.

Sow on the dry weather, plant on the wet weather. Adage.

Sychmer, s. m. (sych—mer) Paroxism of a hectic
Sychnych, s. m. (sych—nych) A dry pining.
Sychnychdawd, s. m. (sychnych) Consumption.
Sychnychiad, s. m. (sychnych) A pining of tabes.
Sychnychu, v. n. (sychnych) To pine with a tabes.
Sychrwyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (sych—rhwyd) A dry web, or film, on the eye; also called sychgernyn, sychbilen, and rhuchen.
Sychu, v. a. (sych) To dry, to wipe dry; to become dry. Sycha dy drwyn, wipe thy nose.

Hyd y daw y gwlaw, ac y gwlych gauaf;
Hyd y chwyso haf, a hyd y sych;
Ni'm dawr o ungerdd ond tra cerddych;
Ni'm dawr o fawredd pan orweddych.

Whilst rain shall come, and winter drowns; whilst summer sweat provokes, and whilst it dries; I shall not be concerned for any course but whilst thou dost sojourn; I shall care not for honour when thou shalt be laid down. Ior. Fynglwyd.

Sychwr, s. m.—pl. sychwyr (sych—gwr) A dryer; a wiper.
Sychwydd, s. pl. aggr. (sych—gwydd) Dry wood; fuel; also called tanwydd, and cynud.
Sychydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sych) A desiccant.
Sydyn, a. (swd) Abrupt, quick, sudden.
Sydynrwydd, s. m. (sydyn) Abruptness.
Sydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (sy) That is, existeth, or remaineth; rest. v. n. Is, existeth, or hath a being. Pwy sydd yna? who is there?

Freuer wen, brodyr a'th fu,
Pan glywynt gywrenin llu,
Ni echwyddai sydd ganthu.

Fair Freuer, brothers hast thou had, when they should hear the din of army, their abode would not be left to cover them. Llywarch Hen.

Gwae hi y ddraig goch, canys ei haball sydd yn brysiaw.

Woe to her, the red dragon, for her destruction is approaching. Darogan yr Eryr.

Syddawl, a. (sydd) Relating to being or dwelling.
Syddiad, s. m. (sydd) A being, a remaining.
Syddu, v. a. (sydd) To exist, to abide, to dwell.
Syddyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (sydd) A habitation; a tenement.

Cawn sedd, liw can, i'n syddyn,
Cain wiail a glasddail glyn.

We shall have a seat, thou of blossom hue, for our abode, the fair branches and the green leaves of the glen. D. ab Gwilym.

Syddynawl, a. (syddyn) Tenementary, of a farm.
Syddyniad, s. m. (syddyn) A holding a tenement
Syddynu, v. a. (syddyn) To take up a settled abode; to hold a tenement.
Syddynwr, s. m.—pl. syddynwyr (syddyn—gwr) fixed inhabitant; a husbandman, a farmer.
Syfa, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (swf) A riddle; also called rhidyll.

A gollir yn y syfa a gair yn y gwagr.

What is lost in the riddle will be found in the sieve. Adage.

Syfag, s. f.—pl. t. au (swf—ag) That is outspreading.

Pwybynag a friwo dy, taled—am y pollon syfagau, ceiniawg.

Whoever damages a house, let him pay for the poles for outspreadings, a penny. Welsh Laws.

Syfal, a. (sy—mal) Fickle, changeable.
Syfalâad, s. m. (syfal) A rendering fickle.
Syfalâu, v. a. (syfal) To render fickle; to become fickle or uncertain.
Syfaldawd, s. m. (syfal) Fickleness, uncertainty.
Syfalu, v. a. (syfal) To act with fickleness.
Syfi, s. pl. aggr. (swf) Strawberries; also called mefys.

Lle aml y syfi aml y neidredd.

Where the strawberries abound there snakes abound. Adage.

Syfïen, s. f. dim. (syfi) A single strawberry.

Syfïen yn mola hwch.

A strawberry in a sow's belly. Adage.

Syfl, s. m. (swf) A tendency to move.
Syflad, s. m. (syfl) A moving, a stirring.
Syflawg, a. (syfl) Having motion or stir.
Syfliad, s. m. (syfl) A moving, a stirring.
Syflwr, s. m.—pl. syflwyr (syfl—gwr) A stirrer.
Syflyd, v. a. (syfl) To move, to stir; to be moved. Na syfled un oddyna, let no one stir from there; o syfli, if thou stirrest.
Syfn, a. (swf) Of a firm quality.
Syfnawl, a. (syfn) Of a firm quality.
Syfngnawd, s. m. (syfn—cnawd) Firm flesh.

Gwisg na ddiosg saith noswaith,
Gwasgawd mwythus syfngnawd maith.

A garment that she will not put off for seven nights, the shelter of a delicate plump firm flesh. D. ab Gwilym.

Syfniad, s. m. (syfn) A making firm.
Syfnu, v. a. (syfn) To make firm or hard.
Syfr, a. (swf) Tending to make hard or severe.
Syfrdan, s. m. (syfr—tan) A state of giddiness.

Yn mhob man syfrdan sydd,
A blinaw heb lawenydd.

In every place there is distraction, and weariness void of pleasure. D. Benfras.

Syfrdan, a. (syfr—tan) Giddy, dizzy; stupified; delirious.

Col! medd y frân, syfrdan son
Ddygan, pan gaffai ddigon;
Felly'r gwyr a ffilgarant.

Col! quoth the raven, slandering with crazy noise, when she has had enough; so the men who falsely love.
D. ab Dafydd Llwyd.

Syfrdanaidd, a. (syfrdan) Tending to be giddy, dizzy, or crazy; somewhat stupified.
Syfrdanawl, a. (syfrdan) Stupifying.
Syfrdandawd, s. m. (syfrdan) Giddiness, dizziness; stupefaction; delirium; craziness.
Syfrdander, s. m. (syfrdan) Giddiness; craziness.
Syfrdanedd, s. m. (syfrdan) Giddiness, craziness.
Syfrdaniad, s. m. (syfrdan) A making giddy, dizzy, or crazy; a stupifying.
Syfrdanu, v. a. (syfrdan) To make giddy, or dizzy, to stupify; to astonish; to become giddy, dizzy, or stupified.
Syfrdanus, a. (syfrdan) Tending to make giddy or dizzy; stupifying.
Syfrdanwr, s. m.—pl. syfrdanwyr (syfrdan—gwr) One who makes giddy; a stupifier.
Syfriad, s. m. (syfr) A rendering severe.
Syfru, v. a. (syfr) To render hard or severe.
Syfyd, s. m. (swf) That is gradual, that forms a space.
Syg, s. f.—pl. t. iau (sy—yg) A chain formed of links; a trace; also called tid, and rhau. Bonsyg, the chain extending from the plough beam to the yoke.

Sygan, s. m. (sy—can) A whisper; a mutter.
Syganawl, a. (sygan) Whispering, muttering.
Syganiad, s. m. (sygan) A whispering, muttering.
Syganu, v. a. (sygan) To whisper, to mutter.

Syganai'r bi cyni cwyn.

The pie would be muttering a burden of complaint.
D. ab Gwilym.

Sygn, s. f.—pl. sygnau (syg) A circle; a zodiacal sign.

Bu Alexander, byd lywiadur;
Hyd sygnoedd nefoedd ni bu segur.

There has been Alexander, the ruler of the world; even to the signs of heaven he was not idle. Cynddelw.

Sygog, s. f. (sy—gog) A shove, a move.
Sygogi, v. a. (sygog) To move about, to fidget; to be restless or fidgetting.
Sygogiad, s. m. (sygog) A fidgetting, a being restless.
Syl, s. f. (sy—yl) A surface, ground, or foundation.
Sylch, s. f.—pl. t. au (syl) A furrow.
Sylchdan, s. m. (sylch—tan) A wheel plough.
Sylchiad, s. m. (sylch) The opening a surface.
Sylfa, s. f.—pl. t. on (syl) A foundation.
Sylfaen, s. f.—pl. sylfeini (syl—maen) A foundation stone.
Sylfaenedig, a. (sylfaen) Having a base stone.

Rhaid i'r duwiolion fod mor sylfaenedig na ellir eu siglaw; mor blantaidd na ellir eu cyfrwysaw.

It is necessary for the godly to be so established that they cannot be moved; so like children that they cannot be made crafty.
Morgan Llwyd, Y Tri Aderyn.

Sylfaeniad, s. m. (sylfaen) A laying a foundation stone; a foundation.
Sylfaenu, v. a. (sylfaen) To lay a foundation stone; to found.
Sylfaenwr, s. m.—pl. sylfaenwyr (sylfaen—gwr) One who lays a foundation stone.
Sylfaenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sylfaen) A founder.
Sylfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (swl—man) A foundation.
Sylfanawl, a. (sylfan) Foundatory.
Sylfaniad, s. m. (sylfan) A laying a foundation.
Sylfon, s. m.—pl. t. au (swl—bon) A subject.
Sylgyngan, v. a. (swl—cyngan) To speak with a low voice, to mutter.
Syliad, s. m. (syl) A making a foundation.
Sylu, v. a. (syl) To make a foundation.
Sylw, s. m.—pl. t. au (swl) Observation, sight, view, regard, notice. Dal sylw, to take notice.
Sylwad, s. m. (sylw) A regarding, or observing.
Sylwaew, s. m. (syl—gwaew) A radical disease.

Nid sylwaew onid salwedd.

Not a radical ailing but indisposition. Gr. Gryg.

Sylwedig, a. (sylwad) Being observed.
Sylwedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (sylw) Observation.
Sylwedd, s. m.—pl. t. au (syl—gwedd) Substance.

Sylwedd yw pob ysbryd; ac nid yw y byd a welir ond cysgawd o'r byd nis gwelir, yr hwn sy drwy y byd yma.

Every spirit is substance; and the world that is seen is but a shadow of the world that is not seen, and which pervades this world. Morgan Llwyd.

Sylweddawg, a. (sylwedd) Having substance.
Sylweddawl, a. (sylwedd) Substantial; corporeal.
Sylweddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (sylwedd) Substantiating.
Sylweddiannawl, a. (sylweddiant) Substantiating.
Sylweddiannu, v. a. (sylweddiant) To substantiate.
Sylweddiannus, a. (sylweddiant) Substantiating.
Sylweddiant, s. m. (sylwedd) Substantiality.
Sylweddogi, v. a. (sylweddawg) To substantiate.
Sylweddogiad, s. m. (sylweddawg) A rendering substantial, substantiation.

Sylweddoldeb, s. m. (sylweddawl) Substantialness, reality; corporature, materiality.
Sylweddolder, s. m. (sylweddawl) Substantialness.
Sylweddoldra, s. m. (sylweddawl) Substantialness.
Sylweddoli, v. a. (sylweddawl) To render substantial, to realize; to consolidate.
Sylweddoliaeth, s. m. (sylweddawl) Materialism.
Sylweddolrwydd, s. (sylweddawl) Substantialness.
Sylweddu, v. a. (sylwedd) To make of substance.
Sylweddus, a. (sylwedd) Substantial; corporeal.
Sylweddusaw, v. a. (sylweddus) To make substantial; to become substantial.
Sylweddusder, s. m. (sylweddus) Substantialness.
Sylweddusrwydd, s. (sylweddus) Substantialness.
Sylweddwr, s. m.—pl. sylweddwyr (sylwedd—gwr) One who treats of substance or matter.
Sylwi, v. a. (sylw) To observe, to regard, to notice.

Tri pheth a ddylid sylwi yn benaf ar bob peth: anian, agwedd, a gweithred.

Three things should be principally regarded as to every thing: nature, appearance, and action. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Sylwyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sylw) A pryer.

Nid sylwyn ond cybydd.

There is no one that is such a pryer as a miser. Adage.

Syll, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sy—yll) A gaze, a stare; the act of beholding; sight, view.
Syllbeiriannaeth, s. m. (syllbeiriant) The science of optics.
Syllbeiriannawl, a. (syllbeiriant) Relating to optics
Syllbeiriant, s. m.—pl. syllbeiriannau (syll—peiriant) An optical instrument.
Sylldy, s. m.—pl. t. au (swll—tŷ) A shop. Brethyn sylldy, fine woollen cloth.
Syllgar, a. (syll) Keen of sight; speculative.
Syllgarwch, s. m. (syllgar) Speculativeness.
Sylliad, s. m. (syll) A gazing, a staring; a looking, a beholding; observation.
Sylliannawl, a. (sylliant) Speculative.
Sylliannu, v. a. (syll) Observation, speculation.
Sylliaw, v. a. (syll) To gaze; to behold, to observe.
Sylliawg, a. (syll) Endued with observation.
Sylliedig, a. (sylliad) Being observed; endued with observation.
Syllt, s. m. (syll) That is fair or clear; a look.
Sylltiad, s. m. (swllt) A forming a surface.
Sylltiawg, a. (swllt) Having an exterior.
Sylltiawl, a. (swllt) Of a fair exterior.
Sylltty, s. m.—pl. t. au (swllt—ty) A treasury.
Sylltu, v. a. (syllt) To make a fair surface.
Syllu, v. a. (syll) To gaze, to stare; to look; to behold; to observe. Syll di raco, behold thou yonder.

Sefwch allan forwynion a syllwch werydre Cynddylan,
Llys Pengwern neud tandde!

Stand ye out virgins and behold the fair region of Cynddylan, is it not with flame pervaded! Llywarch Hen.

Du sy well wedi syllid.

Black is better after it has been seen. L. G. Cothi.

Syllwg, s. f. (syll) An open prospect.
Syllwr, s. m.—pl. syllwyr (syll—gwr) A spectator.
Syllwydr, s. m.—pl. syllwydrau (syll—gwydr) A spyglass.
Syllwydryn, s. m. dim. (syllwydr) A spyglass.
Syllwydrwr, s. m.—pl. syllwydrwyr (syllwydr—gwr) An optician.
Syllyr, s. m. (syll) That is open or prospective.
Sym, s. m.—pl. t. iau (sy—ym) That is integral; that is whole or complete.

Digrif oeddym o sym serch;
A meinir yn ymaserch.

Happy were we from the enjoyment of love; and the fair one resigning herself. D. ab Gwilym.

Symaeth, s. m. (sym) A middle or central state; a state of ease.
Symawl, a. (sym) Integral; middling. Pa syt yr wyt ti? symawl: How dost thou do? pretty well.
Symedd, s. m. (sym) An integral condition.
Symerth, s. m. (sym—erth) Integral energy; simple power.
Symiad, s. m. (sym) A rendering integral.
Symiannawl, a. (symiant) Penetrating.
Symiannu, v. a. (symiant) To penetrate; to apprehend, to comprehend.
Symiant, s. m. (sym) Penetration; apprehension.
Symiaw, v. a. (sym) To penetrate; to apprehend.

Ni sym twyll mo bwyll y byd.

Deceit will not comprehend the sense of the world. Edm. Prys.

Symiedig, a. (symiad) Being comprehended.
Symiwr, s. m.—pl. symiwyr (sym—gwr) One who enters into, penetrates, or perceives.
Syml, s. m. (sym) That is simple. a. Simple.
Symlad, s. m. (syml) A pointing; a simplifying.
Symlant, s. m. (syml) Pointedness, simplicity.
Symlawg, a. (syml) Of a simple nature.
Symledig, a. (symlad) Pointed; simplified.
Symledd, s. m. (syml) Simplicity, plainness.

Un o dair prif orchest bardd: celfyddyd gyfan rwydded ei deall nis gellir cynnefinach o'r symledd.

One of the three chief excellencies of a bard; art so easily comprehended that nothing more known can be produced as to simplicity. Barddas.

Symlen, s. f. dim. (syml) A simple one. Symlen ben bys, the name of an old tune.
Symliad, s. m. (syml) A pointing, a simplifying.
Symliaw, v. a. (syml) To point, to simplify.
Symlogen, s. f. dim. (symlawg) A simple female, a simple yielding girl.
Symlu, v. a. (swml) To point; also to goad.

Symlau dur yn symlu dyn.

Like points of steel goading man. Iolo Goch, i'w farf.

Cysgu wedi symlu son
A wnaethant, bobl annoethion.

After driving on the talk the foolish people went to sleep. D. ab Gwilym.

Symlwr, s. m.—pl. symlwyr (swml—gwr) One who points; a goader.
Symlyn, s. m. dim. (syml) A simpleton.
Symlynaidd, a. (symlyn) Like a simpleton.
Symu, v. a. (sym) To render integral; to become whole or complete.
Symud, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sy—mud) Motion. v. a. To move, to remove; to change place.
Symudadwy, a. (symud) Capable of moving.
Symudaw, v. a. (symud) To move, to remove.

Symudaw addef rhag drwg.

To move an abode for fear of evil. Adage.

Tri pheth y sydd a melldigedig y neb a'u symuto; ffin tir, hynt dwfr, ac arwydd ffordd ac arllwybr.

There are three things that renders accursed such as shall remove them; a land mark, a watercourse, and a finger-post. Catwg Ddoeth.

Symudawg, a. (symud) Being moved.
Symudawl, a. (symud) Moving, moveable.
Symudedig, a. (symud) Moved, removed.
Symudedigaeth, s. m. (symudedig) A removal.
Symudedigawl, a. (symudedig) Transitive.
Symudfa, s. f.—pl. symudfëydd (symud) A transition.

Symudfa ar dyniadau a chyweirdannau.

A transition of the tractions and key strings. Cerddwriaeth.

Symudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (symud) The act of moving, a moving; transmutation; conveyance.
Symudiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (symudiad) One that transmutes.

Symudliw, a. (symud—lliw) Of various shades of colours; of changing hues; shot with divers colours.
Symudoldeb, s. m. (symudawl) Moveableness.
Symudolder, s. m. (symudawl) Mobility.
Symudoli, v. a. (symudawl) To render moveable; to become moveable or transitive.
Symudolrwydd, s. m. (symudawl) Moveableness.
Symudwr, s. m.—pl. symudwyr (symud—gwr) A mover, a remover.
Symudydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (symud) A mover.
Symwl, s. pl. aggr. (sym—wl) Common primroses. These were held in great veneration amongst the Britons, on account of their many medicinal virtues.
Symwth, a. (sy—mwth) Of interrupted motion.

Un a braw aeth yn ei bron,
Mor symwth, am air Simon.

One became with her bosom filled with dread, so embarrassed because of the word of Simon. D. ab Edmwnd, i Fair.

Symwy, s. m. (sym) Ample, prominent.
Symylawg, a. (swmwl) Having a point or goad.
Symylen, s. f. dim. (symwl) A primrose.

Mor ddiwair a symylen.

As uncontaminated as a primrose. Adage.

Symyliad, s. m. (swmwl) A goading.
Symylu, v. a. (swmwl) To egg on, to goad.
Symythawl, a. (symwth) Interruptive.
Symythiad, s. m. (symwth) Interruption.
Symythu, v. a. (symwth) To interrupt; to embarrass.
Syn, s. m. (sy—yn) That is upon or with; sense, feeling, sensibility, perception. a. Feeling, sensible, of quick sensation; overcome with feeling, concerned; amazed; stunned; confounded. Newydd syn iawn yw hwn, this is very distressing news.

Gnawd syn syml anghyfiaith.

A simple stranger to a language must seem confused. Adage.

Syna, v. imper. (syn) Feel, be concerned; perceive; behold.
Sŷnaidd, a. (syn) Somewhat sensitive.
Syndawd, s. m. (syn) Sensation; amazement; concern; the state of being stunned.
Syndeb, s. m. (syn) Sensation; anxiety. Teimlwn ryw syndeb ynof, I felt a kind of sensation within me.
Sŷnder, s. m. (syn) Sensation; concern.
Sŷndra, s. m. (syn) Sensation; perceptivity.
Synedig, a. (syn) Having the sense affected; astonished, stunned.
Synedigaeth, s. m. (synedig) Sensation; astonishment, the act of stunning.
Synedigawl, a. (synedig) Sensitive; tending to stun
Synedigrwydd, s. m. (synedig) Sensitiveness.
Synfeddwl, s. m.—pl. synfeddyliau (syn—meddwl) Deep thought.
Synfeddyliad, s. (synfeddwl) A deeply thinking.
Synfeddyliaw, v. a. (synfeddwl) To think or meditate feelingly.
Syniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (syn) Sensation, feeling. Syniad y cnawd, carnal sensation.

Tri pheth a gynnull addysg; synwyr, syniad, a dichwain.

Three things accumulate instruction; reason, feeling, and incidence. Barddas.

Syniadawl, a. (syniad) Sensitive; sensuous.
Syniadwy, a. (syniad) Capable of sense; sensible.
Syniannawl, a. (syniant) Sensitive; sentimental.
Syniannu, v. a. (syniant) To give sensation; to become sensitive; to be sentimental.
Syniannus, a. (syniant) Sentimental.
Syniannusaw, v. a. (syniannus) To render sentimental; to become sentimental.
Sŷniant, s. m. (syn) Sensation; sentiment.
Syniaw, v. a. (syn) To feel, to perceive; to be sensible; to consider; to consult; to make up the mind. Synia y tylawd, consider the poor.

Cai fawr glod er cymmodi:
Synia, ferch: cussana fi.

Thou shalt have great praise for becoming reconciled: think, fair one: come kiss me. Bedo Brwynllys.

Duw a orug y nefoedd o ddeall: yr haul a'r lloer ei syniant, canys hwynt a gadwant eu cylch, ac a droant drachefn iddo ar eu rhoddes; y ddaiar ei synia, canys hi a ddwg ffrwythau a'u gwreiddiau yn amserawl ac yn wastad; yr afonydd ei syniant, canys hwynt a ymchwelant drachefn i'r lle y llithront o hono; y mor a'r gwynnoedd ei syniant, canys hwynt a ufuddant iddo, ac orphwysant pan i harcho iddynt yn ddiannod.

God formed the heavens in wisdom: the sun and the moon do acknowledge him, for they preserve their course, and will return again to him who gave them; the earth doth acknowledge him, for she bears fruits with their roots in season and continually; the rivers do acknowledge him, for they recur again to the place from whence they glide; the sea and the winds acknowledge him; for they submit to him, and they rest when he commands them, without delay. Elucidarius.

Syniawg, a. (syn) Having the sense affected.
Syniawl, a. (syn) Sensible, perceptive, considerate
Syniedig, a. (syniad) Considered; perceived.
Syniedigaeth, s. m. (syniedig) The faculty of feeling or knowing by the sense; sensation; consideration; contemplation.
Syniedigawl, a. (syniedig) Cognitive, perceptive, sensitive; considerate; contemplative.
Synig, a. (syn) Having a sensation.
Synigl, s. m. (synig) That stimulates, or eggs.
Syniglaw, v. a. (synigl) To agitate, to stimulate.
Synigliad, s. m. (synigl) A stimulation.
Syniolaeth, s. m. (syniawl) Perceptivity.
Synioldeb, s. m. (syniawl) Sensibility: perceptibility; consciousness; contemplation.
Syniolder, s. m. (syniawl) Sensibleness.
Synioldra, s. m. (syniawl) Sensibleness.
Synioledd, s. m. (syniawl) Considerateness.
Synioli, v. a. (syniawl) To render sensible; to become sensible or considerate.
Syniolrwydd, s. m. (syniawl) Considerateness.
Sŷnu, v. a. (syn) To observe or to look stedfastly; to beware; to be affected; to be amazed, or surprised; to be overpowered with feeling; to be stunned. Syni pan weli di fo, thou wilt be astonished when thou seest it; tarawai fi onid seddwn yn synu, he struck me so that I was stunned.
Sŷnwr, s. m.—pl. sŷnwyr (syn—gwr) One whose sense is affected or looks astonished.
Synwyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (syn—gwyr) Rational sense, wit; meaning. Synwyr pen, synwyr cyffredin, common sense.

Nid dysg heb synwyr.

There is no learning without sense. Adage.

Gwell synwyr no chyfoeth.

Wit is better than wealth. Adage.

Tair colofn synwyr; eglurdeb, llawnder, a chyfiawnder.

The three supports of sense; perspicuity, amplitude, and justness. Barddas.

Y llyn dyfnaf o'r afon
Lleiaf fo haf yw ei son;
Y doeth ni ddywed a ŵyr;
Nid o son y daw synwyr.

The deepest pool in the river, the least in the summer month its noise: the wise utters not all he knows; it is not from noise that sense proceeds. Gw. ab Ieuan Hen.

Synwyraidd, a. (synwyr) Sensible, rational.
Synwyraw, v. a. (synwyr) To endue with sense, to make rational; to become sensible or rational; to gather sense.

Brenin myr a syr a'm synwyro!

The sovereign of mobilities and stars, may he endue me with sense! Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Trawd angeu ferau fadden fyddan';
Tra hy yw pob dyn na synwyran',
Trymder Lucifer a'i loes affan.

Pierced by death's flying shafts they will be; bold to excess are all men that they will not think of the sad state of Lucifer with his pang of conflict. Casnodyn.

Synwyrawl, a. (synwyr) Sensible, rational.

Nid synwyrawl ond cydwybodus;
Nid cydwybodus ond cywir.

There is none sensible but the conscientious; no one is conscientious but the equitable. Adage.

Synwyrbell, a. (synwyr—pell) Of profound sense
Synwyrbwl, a. (synwyr—pwl) Dull-witted.
Synwyrdeb, s. m. (synwyr) Sensibleness.
Synwyredig, a. (synwyr) Being endued with sense
Synwyrddoeth, a. (synwyr—doeth) Sensibly wise
Synwyreb, s. f. (synwyr) A sentence; paragraph
Synwyredd, s. m. (synwyr) Rationality.
Synwyreg, s. f.—pl. t. au (synwyr) A complete expression of the sense, or a sentence.
Synwyrfa, s. f. (synwyr) A sensory.
Synwyrfas, a. (synwyr—bas) Shallow-witted.
Synwyrfawr, a. (synwyr) Pregnant with sense.
Synwyrgael, a. (synwyr—cael) Wit-acquiring.
Synwyrgall, a. (synwyr—call) Keen-witted.
Synwyrgar, a. (synwyr) Sententions.
Synwyrgarwch, s. m. (synwyr) Sententiousness.
Synwyrgoll, a. (synwyr—coll) Reason-losing.
Synwyriad, s. m. (synwyr) An enduing with sense; a becoming rational.
Synwyrlawn, a. (synwyr) Pregnant with sense.
Synwyrlym, a. (synwyr—llym) Sharp-witted.
Synwyroldeb, s. m. (synwyrawl) Sensibleness, the state of being endowed with good sense.
Synwyrolder, s. m. (synwyrawl) Sensibleness.
Synwyroledd, s. m. (synwyrawl) Sensibleness.
Synwyroli, v. a. (synwyrawl) To render sensible; to become sensible or rational.
Synwyroliad, s. m. (synwyrawl) Sensualization.
Synwyrolrwydd, s. m. (synwyrawl) Sensibleness.
Synwyrus, a. (synwyr) Sensible, discreet.
Synwyrusaw, v. a. (synwyrus) To render sensible; to become sensible.
Synwyrusdra, s. m. (synwyrus) Sensibleness.
Synwyrusrwydd, s. m. (synwyrus) Sensibleness.
Synwyrwan, a. (synwyr—gwan) Weak-witted.
Sypiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (swp) A heaping, or squeezing together; a bundling; a bunching.
Sypiaw, v. a. (swp) To heap or squeeze together; to bundle or lap together; to form into a bundle or heap. Mi dy sypiaf di, I will squeeze thee to a mummy.
Sypiawl, a. (swp) Tending to heap or press together; being made into a bundle.
Sypiedig, a. (sypiad) Being bundled together.
Sypiwr, s. m.—pl. sypiwyr (swp—gwr) One who heaps or bundles together.
Sypyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (swp) A small bundle or packet; a little heap or mass.
Sypyniad, s. m. (sypyn) A forming a bundle.
Sypynu, v. a. (sypyn) To form a bundle.
Syr, s. pl. aggr. (inflection of ser) The stars.

Trefnaist syr a myr morawl dylan;
Trefnaist daiar fawr a'i chlawr achlan.

Thou hast regulated stars and fluctuations of ocean tide; thou hast regulated the ample earth, and its surface all complete. Casnodyn.

Syrch, s. m. (serch inflected) Appulsion; approach; desire, affection, love.
Syrchawl, a. (syrch) Tending to cause desire.
Syrchiad, s. m. (syrch) A causing desire or love.
Syrchu, v. a. (syrch) To cause approach; to fill with desire; to cause love.
Syrn, adv. (inflection of swrn) Partly, half. Syrn deg, tolerably fair; syrn debyg, somewhat like syrn galed, rather hard; syrn gryf, pretty strong.
Syrniad, s. m. (swrn) A forming into small shares.
Syrnu, v. a. (swrn) To divide into parts.
Syrnyn, s. m. dim. (swrn) Some quantity, a very little, ever so little.
Syrth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (swrth inflected) A fall, a chance, a lot; a sort; inclination, propensity; also the offal, small parts, or cuttings off a carcase, as the feet, head, entrails, and the like. a. Falling, inclining, or steep. Gwedi syrth, after the fall.

A dim syrth nid ymaerthwn.

With any propensity I would not demean myself. Rhys ab Rhys Brydydd.

Tri pheth o'u deall a barant heddwch: syrth anian, hawl cyflawnder, a llafar gwirionedd.

Three things from being understood will produce peace: the tendency of nature, pursuit of equity, and the promulgation of truth. Barddas,

Amcan cerdd, o bob rhyw a syrth, yw helaethu dêall a phwyll; ac amlâu doethineb.

The design of poetry of every kind and tendency, is to enlarge the understanding and mind; and to increase wisdom. Barddas.

Syrthfa, s. f.—pl. syrthfëydd (syrth) Fallen state.

Cofiais hefyd y cariad, yr hwn a ddangosai ef i mi, pan y tynai ef fi allan o syrthfa pechawd.

I have remembered too the love, which he shewed to me, when the drew me out from the fallen state of sin. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Syrthiad, s. m. (syrth) A falling, a tumbling.
Syrthiadwy, a. (syrthiad) Capable of falling.
Syrthiannawl, a. (syrthiant) Of a falling tendency
Syrthiannu, v. a. (syrthiant) To render of a falling tendency; to become apt to fall.
Syrthiannus, a. (syrthiant) Of a falling tendency.
Syrthiant, s. m. (syrth) A falling; propensity.
Syrthiaw, v. a. (syrth) To fall, or to tumble.

Syrthid mefl o gesail.

Evil wish is made to fall from the bosom. Adage.

Yna y syrthynt y gwyr brathedig yn mhlith y byddinoedd, megys y syrthiai yd y cynauaf, pan fyddynt y medelwyr da yn amrysou.

Then the wounded men were falling amongst the hosts, as the corn of harvest might fall, when the skilful reapers strive together. Gr. ab Arthur.

Cydwybod lan a gan yn ber,
Pan syrthio'r ser i'r ddaiar.

A clear conscience will sweetly sing, when stars shall fall toward the earth. Iolo Morganwg.

Syrthiawl, a. (syrth) Falling, or tumbling.
Syrthiedig, a. (syrthiad) Fallen, or tumbled.

Pawb a'i droed ar syrthiedig.

Every one with his foot on the fallen. Adage.

Syrthineb, s. m. (syrth) Propensity, tendency.
Syrthiwr, s. m.—pl. syrthiwyr (syrth—gwr) One who falls or tumbles down.
Syrthni, s. m. (swrth) A heavy or unwieldy state; listlessness, torpitude.

Nid diogi ond syrthni;
Nid syrthni ond pechawd.

The essence of idleness is torpitude; the essence of torpitude is sin. Adage.

Syth, s. m. (sy—yth) The state or quality of being stiff, rigid, or erect; that has a tendency to stiffen; that is put up, set, or erect; also size, or cement, as glue, starch, or paste; a stiffening.

Degle'n nes, dwy glun esyth
Diflas wyt, dan daflu syth.

Draw nearer, with thy two spindle shanks, disagreeably thou art, throwing thy slaver. Gr. Gryg, i D. ab Gwilym.

Syth, a. (sy—yth) Stiff, rigid; being set or put up; erect, upright; disdainful.

Sythaf ac urddaf, mewn gorddwy, o'm iaith,
All Math mab Mathonwy.

The most erect and most honourable, in the post of danger, of any who speak my speech, like Math son of Mathonwy. Gw. Tew.

Sythadwy, a. (syth) Capable of being made stiff, or rigid; capable of being made erect.
Sythaw, v. a. (syth) To stiffen with size; to cement
Sythawl, a. (syth) Tending to make stiff, or rigid; tending to erectness; perpendicular.
Sythdant, s. m.—pl. sythdannau (syth—tant) A string that is of sharp discordancy.
Sythdeb, s. (syth) Stiffness, rigidness; erectness
Sythder, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, rigidity; erectness.
Sythdoes, s. m. (syth—toes) Putty.
Sythdra, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, rigidity, erectness
Sythedig, a. (syth) Stiffened; being made erect.
Sythedd, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, rigidity; erectness
Sythfalch, a. (syth—balch) Rigidly-proud.
Sythfalchedd, s. m. (sythfalch) Stiff pride.
Sytni, s. m.—pl. t. on (syth) That stiffens or keeps erect; a beam in a building.
Sythiad, s. m. (syth) A rendering stiff, or rigid; a setting upright; a becoming erect, or perpendicular.
Sythiannawl, a. (sythiant) Tending to stiffness, or rigidity; tending to erectness.
Sythiannu, v. a. (sythiant) To render of a stiff quality; to tend to erectness; to become of a stiff or rigid nature.
Sythiant, s. m. (syth) A stiffening; erection, or a setting upright.
Sytholdeb, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to rigidity; a tendency to erectness.
Sytholder, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to be stiff; a tendency to erectness.
Sytholdra, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to be erect.
Sytholedd, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to erectness.
Sytholi, v. a. (sythawl) To render, or to become of a stiff tendency; to tend to erectness.
Sytholrwydd, s. m. (sythawl) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to erectness.
Sythrwydd, s. m. (syth) Stiffness, erectness.
Sythu, v. a. (syth) To stiffen, to make rigid or erect; to put up, or to set erect; to stiffen with size; to starch; to become erect.
Sythus, a. (syth) Of a stiffening quality; tending to erectness.
Sythusaw, v. a. (sythus) To render of a rigid quality; to tend to erectness; to become of a rigid quality.
Sythusdeb, s. m. (sythus) A tendency to be stiff; a tendency to erectness.
Sythusder, s. m. (sythus) A tendency to be rigid; a tendency to erectness.
Sythusdra, s. m. (sythus) Aptitude to be stiff or rigid; aptitude to erectness.
Sythusedd, s. m. (sythus) Aptness to be stiff; tendency to erectness.
Sythusrwydd, s. m. (sythus) A tendency to stiffness; a tendency to erectness.
Sythwr, s. m.—pl. sythwyr (syth—gwr) One who makes stiff, rigid, or erect; one who becomes rigid or erect.

Syw, s. m. (sy) That is circling, stated, or regular. a. Constant, stated, regular; trim, smart

Nid syw ond y bi.

There is nothing so smart as the magpie. Adage.

Gores bod——
Morwyn yn syw.

It is best for a maid to be smart. Catwg Ddoeth.

Dewi mawr Mynyw syw sywedydd.

Great Dewi of Mynyw a constant observer of the stars.

Y daeth i Fynyw syw synwyrau.

There came to Mynyw constant intellects.

Mab Sant syw gormant, gormes haint ni ad.

The son of Sant of constant plenitude, no affliction of pestilence will be suffer to remain. Gw. Brycheiniawg, i Ddewi.

Y lloer——
Moliannus yw ei syw swydd.

The moon, praiseworthy is her constant duty. D. ab Gwilym.

Sywdeb, s. m. (syw) Constancy; statedness; regularity; trimness, smartness.
Sywder, s. m. (syw) Constancy; smartness.
Sywdra, s. m. (syw) Constancy; smartness.
Sywed, s. m. (sy—gwed) Astronomy.
Sywedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (sywed) A speaker of the stars; an astronomer; an astrologer.

Ni chain sywedydd yn unfron.

An astronomer will not be restricted to one breast. Adage.

Talhaiarn y sydd
Mwyaf sywedydd.

Talhaiarn is the greatest astronomer. Taliesin.

Selyf swynedig sywedydd,
Mab gwledig gorfawr gwarthegydd.

Selyf the consecrated astronomer, the son of a sovereign the possessor of immense herds. Meigant, m. Cynddylan.

Selyf ben sywedyddion.

Selyf the chief of astronomers. Ll. P. Moch.

Sywedyddawl, a. (sywedydd) Astronomical.
Sywedyddiaeth, s. m. (sywedydd) Astronomy.
Sywiad, s. m. (syw) A rendering uniform; a trimming, a making smart.
Sywiaw, v. a. (syw) To make uniform; to trim.

Sywiwch y llysenwair——
Sywiwch, didrwyniwch dreinwydd.

Trim ye the herbaceous hay—trim ye; nip ye off the tops of the thorn-woods. Edm. Prys.

Sywiawl, a. (syw) Tending to render regular.
Sywidw, s. f. (sy—gwid) A titmouse; also called yswidw, and yswigw.

Sywidw, iso ydwyd
Was y dryw, a'i sawdiwr wyd.

The titmouse, there below thou art the servant of the wren, and his soldier too art thou. Guto y Glyn.

Sywin, a. (syw) Being in constant turning.
Sywinaw, v. a. (sywin) To use continually.

Sywinaw yr arian yn ddim.

To dissipate the money to nothing. Adage.

Sywiniad, s. m. (sywin) A continually using.
Sywydd, s. m.—pl. t. on (sy—gwydd) Star-knowledge.

A'm swynwys sywydd
Sywyddon.

I have been made safe from harm by the astrology of astrologers Taliesin.

Sywyddaw, v. a. (sywydd) To study star-knowledge; to astrologize.

Sywydd sywedydd;
Ercwlf sywesid.

The astrologer doth astrologize; Ercwlf was regulated. Taliesin.

Sywyddawl, a. (sywydd) Having star-knowledge.
Sywyddiad, s. m. (sywydd) An astrologizing.

TA, s. m. r. That spreads or extends onward; a superior or supreme one. Y ta urddawl, the noble superior.

Tab, s. m. (ta—ab) A spread over; a surface.

Tabar, s. m.—pl. tebyr (tab—ar) A tabard.

Tabar hir tew i barau.

A long tabard, thick to last. T. Aled, am wn.

Y celynllwyn——
Tew byr-wallt was tabar-wyrdd.

The holly-bush, a thick short-haired youth in green tabard. D. ab Gwilym.

Tabwrdd, s. m.—pl. tabyrddau (tab—gwrdd) A tabour, a drum.

Tabyrddawl, a. (tabwrdd) Tabouring; drumming

Tabyrddiad, s. m. (tabwrdd) A tabouring.

Tabyrddu, v. a. (tabwrdd) To tabour; to drum.

Tabyrddwr, s. m.—pl. tabyrddwyr (tabwrdd—gwr) A tabourer; a drummer.

Tacl, s. m.—pl. t. au (tag) That combines; an instrument, or tool.

Taclau, s. pl. aggr. (tacl) Implements, tackling; accoutrements, equipage, furniture.

Tacledig, a. (tacl) Being put in repair.

Tacliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tacl) A repairing.

Taclu, v. a. (tacl) To put in order, to accoutre; to dress, to deck, to trim; to repair, or to set right. Taclu melin, to repair a mill; taclu esgidiau, to mend shoes.

A daclwys a gerddwys.

He that hath made ready hath set off. Adage.

Taclus, a. (tacl) Being in order; accoutred; trim, neat, or tidy; complete. Dynes daclus iawn yw hi, she is a very tidy woman; dyna i ti dro taclus, there is for you a pretty piece of business.

Taclusaw, v. a. (taclus) To put in order; to set to right; to render neat or tidy.

Tacluseder, s. m. (taclus) Orderliness; neatness.

Taclusdra, s. m. (taclus) Orderliness; neatness.

Taclusedd, s. m. (taclus) A compact state.

Taclusiad, s. m. (taclus) A putting in order; a repairing; a smartening up.

Taclusiant, s. m. (taclus) The act of putting in order, or repair.

Taclusrwydd, s. m. (taclus) Orderliness; neatness

Tacluswr, s. m.—pl. tacluswyr (taclus—gwr) One who puts in good order or repair.

Tach, s. m. (ta—ach) That spreads, vanishes, or is diffused.

Tachwedd, s. m. (tach—gwedd) A receding appearance, a tending to a conclusion; an end or annihilation; a somewhat, a little quantity, or space; a remnant; also the month of November. Tachwedd o ariant, a small sum of money; tachwedd o yd, a small quantity of corn; amser tachwedd, the time of receding, or latter end of the season, the time of fattening cattle; that is from midsummer to the winter solstice.

Pan amug Tegeingl, teg rysedd,
Oedd tramawr tremynal tachwedd;
Oedd tremid cyfnewid cochwedd
Cleddyfal clau dywal diwedd!

When he defended Tegeingl, of splendid course, great beyond bounds appeared destruction; there was rapidly seen the interchange of red stains from the incessant sword-gashes of ruthless termination. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Llys hysbys y gwys, nid gwyd, cer Aeron,
Carwraidd gymhlegyd;
Lloegrwys dachwedd arfeddyd,
Llafn awchlym yn ngrym, yn ngryd.

A court conspicuous for resort; not of vice, by Aeron, of amiable concern; its maxim is the extermination of the Lloegrwys, with the ardently keen blade in energy, in the conflict. Hillyn.

Tachweddawl, a. (tachwedd) Tending to an end.

Tachweddiad, s. m. (tachwedd) A causing to disappear; a bringing to an end; a determining.

Tachweddu, v. a. (tachwedd) To cause to disappear; to bring to an end; to terminate.

Llyr ofn aer frwysgddofn, a'r freisgddu frondor;
Llawch feirdd, ior angor Eingl dachweddu.

Dreadful as Llyr in the precipitously-deep slaughter, with the black overwhelming shield; he protects the bards, the steady chief exterminating the Angles. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ta—ad) That spreads a continuity; a father. Tad a mam, father and mother; tad cu, a father of fondness, an epithet for taid, or grandfather, in some parts of Wales; but in some districts of Powys tad da, or good father, is a grandfather, and tad cu, a great grandfather, or hendad, and hendad cu, is a gorhendad, or great great grandfather: Tad gwyn, a stepfather, in North Wales, but the same as tad cu, in parts of the South: Tad yn nghyfraith, a father in law; tad bedydd, a godfather.

Nid cynghor ond tad.

There is no counsel like a father. Adage.

Llaw mab yn llwrw ei dad.

The hand of a son in the skirt of his father. Adage.

Tadaeth, s. m. (tad) Fatherhood, paternity.

Tadaidd, a. (tad) Fatherly, or paternal.

Tadawg, a. (tad) Having a father; patronal.

Tadawl, a. (tad) Belonging to a father; fatherly; tutelar, patronal.

Alectus oedd yn Llundain yn gwneuthur gwylfa i'r tadolion ddwywau.

Alectus was in London holding a festival to the tutelary gods. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tadenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tad—enw) Patronymic.

Tadenwawg, a. (tadenw) Patronymical.

Tadenwawl, a. (tadenw) Patronymical.

Tadenwogawl, a. (tadenwawg) Patronymical.

Tadiad, s. m. (tad) A fathering; a becoming a father.

Tadladd, s. m. (tad—lladd) A father-killing.

Tadladdawl, a. (tadladd) Parricidial.

Tadladdiad, s. m. (tadladd) A killing a father.

Tadleiddiadawl, a. (tadleiddiad) Parricidial.

Tadmaeth, s. m. (tad—maeth) A foster-father.

Tadmaethawl, a. (tadmaeth) Belonging to a foster-father.

Tadmaethu, v. a. (tadmaeth) To act as a foster-father; to become as a foster-father.

Tadogaeth, s. m. (tadawg) Paternity, or fatherhood; also the origin of a word, etymology.

Tadogaethawl, a. (tadogaeth) Belonging to paternity; etymological.

Tadogaidd, a. (tadawg) Fatherly in a small degree

Tadogair, s. m.—pl. tadogeiriau (tadawg—gair) A radical word, or etymon.

Tadogawl, a. (tadawg) Patronal, patronymic.

Tadogi, v. a. (tadawg) To assign a father to; to have a father.

Tadolaidd, a. (tadawl) Somewhat fatherly.
Tadoldeb, s. m. (tadawl) Fatherliness, paternity.
Tadoli, v. n. (tadawl) To become fatherly; to become a father.
Tadoliad, s. m. (tadawl) A rendering fatherly or paternal; a becoming paternal.
Tadoliaeth, s. m. (tadawl) Fatherhood.
Tadu, v. a. (tad) To father; to become a father.
Tadus, a. (tad) Paternal, or fatherly.
Tadusaw, v. n. (tadus) To render fatherly; to become fatherly.
Tadusedd, s. m. (tadus) State of being fatherly.
Tadusrwydd, s. m. (tadus) Fatherliness.
Tadws, s. m. (tad) The sire of an animal.
Tadwy, s. m. (tad) Paternal; tutelar.

> Mor fydd llwydd llonydd llaw dadwy;
> Mor attreg pob chweg pan chwerwy.
>
> So prosperous will be the tranquillity of the paternal hand; so repugnant will be every sweet when it becomes bitter. Cynddelw.

Tadwys, s. m. (tad—gwys) A fatherhood, a father's side, connexion, or kindred.

> Cyn dwyn coron Llundain, ac y deyrnwialen, o'r Saeson, Dyfnwal Moelmud oedd frenin ar yr ynys hon; a mab oedd efe i iarll Cernyw, o ferch brenin Lloegr: a gwedi diffodd tadwys y freniniaeth y cafas yntau y deyrnas o gogel wrth fod yn ŵyr i frenin.
>
> Before the crown of London, and the sceptre, were taken by the Saxons, Dyfnwal Moelmud had been king over this island; and he was son to the earl of Cornwall, by a daughter of the king of Lloegria: and after the paternity of the sovereign power had become extinct he then obtained the kingdom by the distaff, as being the grandson of a king. Welsh Laws.

Tadwysiad, s. m. (tadwys) The obtaining or arriving at the state of fatherhood.
Tadwysiaw, v. a. (tadwys) To form a fatherhood.
Tadwysiawl, a. (tadwys) As to a fatherhood.
Taen, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ta—en) A spread; a sprinkle; a layer. Taen toniar, the spread of a wave.
Taenadwy, a. (taen) Capable of spreading or diffusing; expansible.
Taenawd, s. m. (taen) Expansion; respersion.
Taenawl, a. (taen) Spreading, expansive.
Taenedig, a. (taen) Expanded; sprinkled.
Taenedigaeth, s. m. (taenedig) Expansion.
Taenell, s. f.—pl. t. au (taen) A small spread; a sprinkle; a small layer.
Taenellaidd, a. (taenell) Somewhat sprinkled.
Taenellawg, a. (taenell) Having a sprinkle.
Taenelledig, a. (taenell) Besprinkled, aspersed.
Taenelliad, s. m. (taenell) A sprinkling, a strewing
Taenelliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taenelliad) A sprinkler, one who strews.
Taenellu, v. a. (taenell) To sprinkle, to besprinkle, to asperse, to strew.
Taenellwr, s. m.—pl. taenellwyr (taenell—gwr) One who sprinkles, or strews.
Taenellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taenell) A sprinkler.
Taenfa, s. f.—pl. taenfëydd (taen) A spread of hay. Dyfed. The llanerch of N. Wales.
Taenferw, a. (taen—berw) Spreadingly boiling.

> Golwg diserchawg, syberw, ceinmyg,
> Lliw golau tonau taenferw gwenyg.
>
> An aspect void of wantonness, courteous, magnificent, like the light hue of the breakings of the expandingly boiling waves. Casnodyn.

Taeniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (taen) A spreading.
Taeniator, ger. (taeniad) In expanding.
Taenitor, sup. (taen) To be expanding.
Taenotor, sup. (taenawd) To be expanded.
Taenu, v. a. (taen) To spread, to expand; to sprinkle; to become spread, or scattered. Taenu y gwely, to make the bed; lledu y gwely, Gwent; and cyweiriaw y gwely, in N. Wales.
Taenwr, s. m.—pl. taenwyr (taen—gwr) A spreader; a strewer; a resperser.
Taenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taen) A spreader.
Taer, s. m. (ta—er) The state of being eager, ardent, urgent, or importunate.
Taer, a. (ta—er) Eager, earnest, ardent, urgent, importunate.

> Taer ringyll wyt ti'r angau,
> Difrawd tost yw dy fryd tau!
>
> An urgent messenger art thou, oh death! severely bent on ruin is thy design. Rhys Jones.
>
> A draig Mon, mor ddrud ei esillydd yn aer,
> Y bu terfysg taer, a haer holi.
>
> With the dragon of Mon, so bold his kindred in the slaughter, there was urgent tumult and insulting claim. Gwalchmai.

Taeraidd, a. (taer) Somewhat eager or urgent.
Taerannog, s. m. (taer—annog) Eager excitation. v. a. To excite urgently.
Taerawg, a. (taer) Being eager; importunate.
Taerawydd, s. f. (taer—awydd) Ardent inclination
Taerawl, a. (taer) Apt to be eager, or urgent.
Taerboen, s. f.—pl. t. au (taer—poen) Severe pain.
Taerdeb, s. m. (taer) Eagerness, earnestness.
Taerder, s. m. (taer) Eagerness; importunity.
Taerdra, s. m. (taer) Eagerness; ardency.
Taerdrais, s. m. (taer—trais) Violent oppression.
Taerdyn, a. (taer—tyn) Violently straining.
Taerdyniad, s. m. (taerdyn) A pulling ardently.
Taerdynu, v. a. (taerdyn) To pull ardently.
Taerddadl, s. f.—pl. taerddadlau (taer—dadl) An eager or violent dispute.
Taerddadliad, s. m. (taerddadl) A vehemently disputing; ardent disputation.
Taerddadlu, v. a. (taerddadl) To dispute violently.
Taerddymunaw, v. a. (taer—dymunaw) To desire earnestly.
Taerddymuniad, s. m. (taer—dymuniad) A desiring earnestly; an ardent desire.
Taeredig, a. (taer) Being eagerly disposed.
Taeredd, s. m. (taer) Eagerness, earnestness, ardency, vehemency; importunity.
Taererchi, v. a. (taer—erchi) To crave earnestly.
Taerfaith, a. (taer—maith) Ardently continuing.
Taerfalch, a. (taer—balch) Ardently proud.

> Taerfalch fal Gwalchmai.
>
> Ardently proud like Gwalchmai. Cynddelw.

Taerfar, s. m. (taer—bar) Ardent wrath. Torf taerfar, a host of ardent wrath.
Taerferw, a. (taer—berw) Violently boiling.
Taerferwi, v. a. (taerferw) To boil violently.
Taerflin, a. (taer—blin) Severely tiring.
Taerflinaw, v. a. (taerflin) To tire severely.
Taergais, s. m. (taer—cais) An eager attempt.
Taergeisiad, s. m. (taergais) A trying eagerly.
Taergeisiaw, v. a. (taergais) To try eagerly.
Taergwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (taer—cwyn) An earnest or vehement complaint.
Taergwynaw, v. a. (taergwyn) To complain earnestly.
Taeriad, s. m. (taer) An acting eagerly in opposition; an insisting; a contending.
Taeriant, s. m. (taer) Importunity; contention.
Taerlew, a. (taer—glew) Ardently persevering. Taerlew bar, an ardently driving shaft.
Taerloes, s. f.—pl. t. au (taer—gloes) A severe pang
Taerni, s. m. (taer) Eager opposition; importunity.
Taeru, v. a. (taer) To act with eagerness; to aver or to affirm vehemently, to insist; to contend.
Taerwr, s. m.—pl. taerwyr (taer—gwr) One who importunes; a contender.
Taerwres, s. m. (taer—gwres) Ardent heat.

Taerwrys, s. m. (taer—gwrys) Fierce contention.
Taeth, s. m. (ta—eth) That pervades; essence.
Taethawl, a. (taeth) Essential; fertilizing.
Taethedig, a. (taeth) Rendered of a fertilizing quality.
Taethiad, s. m. (taeth) A rendering of a fertilizing quality.
Taethu, v. a. (taeth) To render fertilizing.
Taethus, a. (taeth) Essential; fertilizing.
Taf, s. m.—pl. teifion (ta—af) A spread.
Tafad, s. m. (taf) A spreading; extension.
Tafal, s. f.—pl. tafeli (taf) A balance.

Mihangel, dirgel ei dal,
Dyfod a wna a'r dafal.

Michael, with veiled front, come he will with the balance. Math. ab Llywelyn Goch.

Tafar, s. m. (taf) That spreads or displays.
Tafarch, s. m. (taf—arch) A cricket bat. Pel dafarch, a cricket ball.
Tafarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (taf—arn) A tavern.
Tafarndy, s. m.—pl. t. au (tafarn—ty) A tavern.
Tafarnwr, s. m.—pl. tafarnwyr (tafarn—gwr) A tavern-keeper.
Tafarth, s. m. (tafar) That is spread or laminated.
Tafawd, s. m.—pl. tafodau (taf) A tongue. Tafawd drwg, a scolding; tafawd cloch, a bell clapper:—Tafawd yr hydd, the sole fish; tafawd yr ych, the burt fish:—Also the name of many plants—Tafawd y bwch, or tafawd yr afr, common viper's bugloss; tafawd yr hydd, hart's tongue; tafawd y ci, broad-leaved pondweed; tafawd yr ych, tafawd y fuwch, borage; tafawd yr oen, hoary plantain; tafawd y llew, bristly ox-tongue; tafawd y march, horse tongue; tafawd y neidr, adder's tongue; tafawd yr eden, common stitchwort; tafawd yr hedydd, larkspur; tafawd yr wydd, sneeze-wort yarrow; tafawd yr ych anwyw, evergreen alkanet; tafawd yr ych culddail, small bugloss.

Goreu gwraig, gwraig heb dafawd,

The best wife is a wife without a tongue. Adage.

Da daint rhag tafawd.

The teeth are good to stop the tongue. Adage.

Un o dri deifnogion cerdd a cheudawd cenedl y Cymmry: Gwyddon Ganhebon, a wnai gerdd dafawd gyntaf o'r byd.

One of the three improvers of science and the art of composition of the nation of the Cymmry: Gwyddon Ganhebon, who was the first in the world that made vocal song. Barddas.

Tafawdlysg, a. (tafawd—llysg) Of slow moving tongue; plaintive.

Yn ffyrdd cyrdd cerdd dafawdlysg,
Yn brydydd, yn brifardd dysg.

In the ways of songs of the plaintive muse, a poet, a primary bard of learning. Cynddelw.

Tafawl, a. (taf) Spreading, expanding; an epithet for the various kinds of the dock plant. Dail tafawl, dock leaves; tafawl y mor, golden dock; tafawl y dwfr, tafawl hirion, great water-dock; tafawl mair, tafawl cochion, tobacco; tafawl newydd, gwellt newydd, new herbage. Welsh Laws.
Tafell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (taf) Any flat mass, piece, or spread, a tablet; a slice. Tafell o fara, a slice of bread.

Rhoi y dorth a gofyn y dafell.

To give a loaf and ask for the slice. Adage.

Fis Mai caf weled bun yn——
Dyfod dan wyrddion defyll.

The month of May I shall see the maid resting under green foliages. D. ab Gwilym.

Tafellan, s. f. dim. (tafell) A small slice.
Tafellawg, a. (tafell) Being in thin masses; being in slices.
Tafelliad, s. m. (tafell) A spreading into a thin mass; a slicing.
Tafellu, v. a. (tafell) To form into a slice or flat mass; to slice; to spread as foliage.
Tafl, s. m.—pl. taflau (taf) A spread, a cast; a throw, a fling; a balance. Ffon dafl, a sling; taflau, a pair of scales.
Tafladwy, a. (tafl) Capable of being thrown down
Taflan, s. f.—pl. tafleni (tafl) A balance.
Taflawd, s. f.—pl. taflodydd (tafl) A spread, or covering; a roof; the space next to the roof in a building; a loft, a garret. Taflawd y genau, the roof of the mouth; taflawd wair, a hay-loft; taflawd ieir, a hen-roost.
Taflawg, a. (tafl) Having a throw; projectile.
Tafled, s. f. (tafl) That serves for throwing.
Tafledig, a. (tafl) Being thrown, or flung.
Tafledigaeth, s. m. (tafledig) The act of throwing; projection; interjection.
Tafledigawl, a. (tafledig) Tending to throw.
Tafledydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tafliad) A hurler, a flinger.

Tithau——
Tafledydd, defnyddwydd da,
Brath y lleidr.——

Thou too, the flinger, with well-seasoned wood, wound the thief. D. ab Gwilym, am Rys Gwgan.

Taflen, s. f.—pl. t. au (tafl) That is spread out; a tablet; a table of figures.
Taflenawl, a. (taflen) Tabular.
Tafleniad, s. m. (taflen) A tabulation.
Taflenu, v. a. (taflen) To tabulate.
Taflfaen, s. m.—pl. taflfeini (tafl—maen) A hurling stone.
Taflhual, s. m.—pl. t. au (tafl—hual) The gesses of a hawk.

Y penhebogydd a ddyly groen hydd, yr hydref, ac y gwanwyn groen ewig, i wneuthur menyg wrth arwain ei adar, a thaflhualau.

The chief falconer ought to have a stag skin in autumn, and in the spring the skin of a doe, to make gloves for leading his birds, and for gesses. Welsh Laws.

Tafliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tafl) A throwing.
Tafliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tafliad) A thrower.
Taflnerth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tafl—nerth) A projectile power.
Taflodawl, a. (taflawd) Interjective.
Taflodi, v. a. (taflawd) To interject.
Taflodiad, s. m.—pl. au (taflawd) Interjection.
Taflrwyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (tafl—rhwyd) A casting net.
Taflrym, s. m. (tafl—grym) Projectile force.
Taflu, v. a. (tafl) To throw, to cast, to fling, to hurl, to project. It is synonymous with taclu, bwrw, lluchiaw, taenu.

Mal dall yn taflu ei ffon.

Like the blind throwing his staff. Adage.

Gwell march hagr a'm dyco no march teg a'm taflo.

Better is an ugly horse that will carry me than a fine horse that will throw me. Adage.

Taflwr, s. m.—pl. taflwyr (tafl—gwr) A thrower.
Taflydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tafl) A thrower.
Tafodaeth, s. m. (tafawd) Language.
Tafodawg, a. (tafawd) Having a tongue.

Tri phrif dafodogion llys: arglwydd, brawdwr, a mach.

The three primary speakers of a court: the lord, the justiciary, and the bail. Trioedd Dyfnwal.

Tafodawl, a. (tafawd) Belonging to the tongue.
Tafodi, v. a. (tafawd) To tongue; to use the tongue; to scold.

Tafodiad, s. m. (tafawd) A tonguing.

Tafodiaeth, s. m. (tafawd) The action of the tongue, articulation of the voice; enunciation.

Tafodiawg, a. (tafawd) Having a tongue, tongued; having a good tongue; an epithet for an advocate or pleader; also for a single verbal evidence.

Tafodlafar, a. (tafawd—llafar) Articulated or expressed by the tongue.

Tafodleferydd, s. m. (tafodlafar) Articulation of the tongue; a speaking out, or by rote; verbal evidence. Dyweda ar dafodleferydd, say it off by heart.

Tafodogaeth, s. m. (tafodawg) The use of the tongue.

Tafodrudd, a. (tafawd—rhudd) Red-tongued; in the laws, an accessary to murder by information of the one to be murdered.

Tafodruddiaeth, s. m. (tafodrudd) A red-tongued act; a felonious information.

> Cyntaf o naw affaith galanas yw tafodruddiaeth: mynegi y neb a ladder i'r neb a'i laddo.
>
> The first of the nine abetments of felony is the reddening of the tongue: the informing of the one to be slain to him who shall slay him. Welsh Laws.

Tafodrwym, a. (tafawd—rhwym) Tongue-tied.

Tafodrydd, a. (tafawd—rhydd) Loose-tongued.

Tafodrydd-deb, s. m. (tafodrydd) Freedom of tongue.

Tafodrydd-der, s. (tafodrydd) Freedom of tongue.

Tafodrydd-dra, s. m. (tafodrydd) Freedom of tongue.

Tafodwr, s. m.—pl. tafodwyr (tafawd—gwr) One who uses his tongue.

Tafodwst, s. m. (tafawd—gwst) The tongue disease, incident to cattle, which swells the tongue so as to cause suffocation. It is called y bothell, in South Wales.

Tafodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tafawd) One who useth his tongue; a declaimer.

Tafolawg, a. (tafawl) Abounding with docks.

Tafolen, s. f. dim. (tafawl) A dock leaf: tafolen goch, or tafolen waedlyd, bloody-veined dock; tafolen grych, curled dock; tafolen mair, or trython, sharp dock.

Tafoli, v. n. (tafawl) To grow dock leaves.

Tafu, v. a. (taf) To overspread, to spread.

Taffithlen, s. f. dim. (ta—ffithlen) A glider.

Tag, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ta—ag) The state of being stuffed, or clogged; a strangle. Tag aradr, restharrow, or cammock; also called hwp yr ychain, and tegwch meinwen.

Tagadwy, a. (tag) Capable of being choked.

Tagawl, a. (tag) Clogging; strangling.

Tagedig, a. (tag) Clogged; strangled, choked.

Tagedigaeth, s. m. (tagedig) The act of clogging; a choking.

Tagedigawl, a. (tagedig) Obstructive; strangling.

Tagell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (tag) A barb, any thing growing to the throat; a double chin; a dewlap; a wattle.

Tagellaidd, a. (tagell) Tending to form a double chin; somewhat like a dewlap.

Tagellawg, a. (tagell) Barbed; having a double chin; having a dewlap, or wattle.

Tagelliad, s. m. (tagell) A forming a double chin; a forming a dewlap, or wattle.

Tagellu, v. a. (tagell) To make a double chin; to grow as a double chin, dewlap, or wattle.

Tagellwag, a. (tagell—gwag) Having an empty or loose double chin.

Tagfa, s. f.—pl. tagfëydd (tag) An obstructed place; an obstruction; a stifling, a strangling, a strangle, a choke.

Tagfagl, s. f.—pl. t. au (tag—magl) A springe.

Tagiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tag) A choking.

> Cafas tagiad ei enw o herwydd ei fod yn attal cyweirdant a thyniad ryw amser pan ddel mewn cerdd.
>
> The clogging had its name on account of its stopping the key note and the drawing sometimes when it occurs in music. Cerddwriaeth.

Tagiant, s. m. (tag) A clogging; a choking.

Taglys, s. m. (tag—llys) Small bindweed: taglys yr yd, black bindweed; taglys mawr, great bindweed; also called tagwydd.

Tagu, v. a. (tag) To obstruct, to stop or clog up; to stifle, to strangle, to choke.

> Brawd yw mygu i dagu.
>
> Suffocation is brother to choking. Adage.

Tagwr, s. m.—pl. tagwyr (tag—gwr) A choker.

Tagwydd, s. m. (tag—gwydd) Great-bindweed.

Tagwyg, s. m. aggr. (tag—gwyg) Tufted vetch.

Tai, s. m.—pl. teiau (ta) A stretch or a reach; the state of being stretched or at rest; the state of being held or possessed: also houses, used for the regular plural tyau.

Taiad, s. m. (tai) An overspreading; an enclosing.

Taiaw, v. a. (tai) To spread over; to close in.

Taiawg, a. (tai) Having an overspread; rustic, rude; having land on servile tenure. s. m.—pl. taiogion. A vassal, a villain, tenant in villanage; a tike, a churl, a husbandman, a peasant. Dyn taiawg, a clownish person.

> Taiawg y bydd taiawg cyd bo coronawg.
>
> The clown will be clownish though he should wear a crown. Adage.
>
> Traian byw y taiogau, ac eu marw, a ddaw i'r maer ac y canghellawr.
>
> The third of the live-stock of the villains, and of their dead-stock, shall come to the steward and the chancellor. Welsh Laws.

Tail, s. m. (ta—il) A spreading or growing principle; the surface of the earth, or soil; manure; dung, muck.

> Yn ei arch a'i dywarchen
> Dan y tail, mae'r dwned hen.
>
> In his shrine with his clod, beneath the soil, the ancient lore is put. Ieuan Madawg, m. Syr D. Trefor.

Tain, s. m. (ta—in) That is of a spreading quality.

> O fysg dy werin tain tawch
> Dy haeddiant, Duw, dy heddwch.
>
> From amongst thy people the dissipation of the mist will be by thy merit, God, thy peace. H. D. ab Ifan.

Taiogaeth, s. m. (taiawg) Vassalage.

Taiogaidd, a. (taiawg) Somewhat rustic.

Taiogdref, s. f.—pl. t. i (taiawg—tref) A villain-town.

> Tair rhandir a fydd yn y daiogdref, yn mhob un o'r ddwy y bydd tri thaiawg; a'r drydedd yn borfa iddynt.
>
> There shall be three sharelands in a villain town; in each one of the two there shall be three villains; and the third shall be a pasture for them. Welsh Laws.

Taiogawl, a. (taiawg) Appertaining to a villain.

Taiogeiddiad, s. m. (taiogaidd) A rendering rustic; a becoming rusticated.

Taiogeiddiaw, v. a. (taiogaidd) To render rusticated; to become rusticated.

Taiogeidd-dra, s. m. (taiogaidd) Rusticity.

Taiogeiddrwydd, s. m. (taiogaidd) Boorishness.

Taioges, s. f.—pl. t. au (taiawg) A rustic female.

Taiogi, v. a. (taiawg) To make rustic; to become rustic.

Taiogrwydd, s. m. (taiawg) Boorishness, rusticity.

> Gwell boneddigrwydd no thaiogrwydd.
>
> Nobility is better than boorishness. Adage.

Taiogyn, s. m. dim. (taiawg) A rude fellow.

Taid, s. m.—pl. teidiau (ta—id) That has spread a contingence; a grandfather. But in parts of Powys, and South Wales, taid is a great great grandfather; in others it is a father in the fifth degree, hendaid in the sixth, and gorhendaid in the seventh degree: See Tad.—Taid a nain, a grandfather and grandmother.

Tair, s. f. (ta—ir) Three of feminine gender. a. Three, speaking of females. Tair merch, tair o ferched, three women.

Tair ffynnon gwybodaeth: crebwyll, ystyriaeth, a dysgeidiaeth.

The three fountains of knowledge: imagination, meditation, and learning. Barddas.

Tairth, s. m. aggr.—pl. teirthion (tarth) An ague.

Tais, s. f.—pl. teision (ta—is) That spreads round; a cover, a daiz, a canopy; a cake.

Taith, s. f.—pl. teithiau (ta—ith) A journey.

Cam dros y trothwy yw hanner y daith.

A step over the threshold is half the journey. Adage.

Meian a ddyl ei daith.

Meian deserves his journey. Adage.

Taiwr, s. m.—pl. taiwyr (tai—gwr) A rustic man.

Brad werthu ei bryd i wr
A fwytâai fwyd taiwr.

It was deceitful to sell his meal to a man who would eat the food of a ploughman. Syr Lewys Meudwy.

Tal, s. f.—pl. t. ion (ta—al) A space spread out or over; that is even or clear; clearance; pay, reward, requital; an equivalent, or value. Pa a dal hwna? what is the value of that?

Llyna Forfudd ddiledryw,
A gaf o dal: gofid yw.

Behold, Morfudd of undebased race, what of recompence I get: it is grief! D. ab Gwilym.

Dynion sy'n cael daioni;
Dydd tal yw pob dydd i ti.

The multitudes are receiving benefit; a day of payment is every day to thee. Hywel ab Reinallt.

Tàl, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tŷ—al) That is over, that tops, that is fronting, or upon; a front; the forehead. a. Towering; tall. In the names of places it answers to end; as Tal-y-Bont, Bridgend: In the names of men it denotes front; as Taliesin, Fair-front; Talariant, Silver-front; Talhaiarn, Iron-front.

Ffawd pawb yn ei dâl.

Every body's fortune is in his forehead. Adage.

Dy lewych, ddyn dâl ewyn,
Dy gorff a luniodd Duw gwyn.

'Twas heav'n thy form, thy bloom, that gave,
Thy forehead like the foamy wave. S. Tudyr.

Telynior tàl awenydd,
Trwythaw beirdd mewn traethau bydd.

The harper, blest with lofty muse,
The bards in briny floods imbrues. Guto y Glyn.

O deir-llith y gwnaf darllain clod Efa,
O dalau India hyd wal Lundain.

In three lectures I will read the praise of Efa, extending from the frontiers of India to the wall of London. L. G. Cothi.

Talâad, s. m. (tàl) To elevate; to grow tall.

Taladwy, a. (tal) Capable of being paid; payable.

Cusan cariad taladwy
Cefais: ni ddymunais mwy.

A kiss as due to faithful love
She gave; for that alone I strove. S. Tudyr.

Taladdurn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tal—addurn) A front ornament; a moulding.

Taladdurnaw, v. a. (taladdurn) To adorn the front.

Taladdurnawg, a. (taladdurn) Having an ornamented front.

Taladdurniad, s. m. (taladdurn) An adorning the front.

Talaeth, s. f.—pl. taleithiau (tàl) A front region; a frontier; a province, or dependent territory.

Ynys Prydain a gynnelir dan un goron a thair talaeth.

The isle of Britain is held under one crown and three principalities. Welsh Laws.

Talaidd, a. (tàl) Somewhat high; tallish.

Talais, s. f. (tal—ais) An empanneled jury.

A deuddeg o brydyddion,
Yn dalais deg, dilys don.

With twelve poets, a fair jury, of certain voice. W. Cynwal.

Talais o wyr maintioli,
Trefn bardd, rhwng 'y mardd a mi.

A jury of men of property, a fair order, between my bard and me. Edm. Prys.

Talaith, s. f.—pl. taleithion (tàl—aith) A band worn round the head; a frontlet, a headband; a chaplet; a radial crown; a diadem.

Talar, s. f.—pl. taleri (tàl—ar) A headland in a field, at the end of ridges; a cross-ridge.

Talarawg, a. (talar) Having cross-ridges.

Talariad, s. m. (talar) A forming cross-ridges.

Talaru, v. a. (talar) To form cross-ridges.

Talarw, a. (tàl—garw) Roughly fronted.

Teleirw yn nghyngrain yn nghyfran brwydr, tal ysgwyd eurgrwydr torynt yn fuan.

The rough-fronted ones in the mutual struggle of the share of the battle, the front of the gold-covered shield they would quickly break. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Talâu, v. a. (tàl) To make high; to grow tall.

Talawd, s. m. (tal) A payment, a requital.

Talawdr, s. m.—pl. talodron (talawd) A payer.

Talawg, a. (tàl) High-fronted; bold-faced.

Talawr, s. m. (tal) One who makes equable; a rewarder; a payer.

Ef tarddo talawr,
Tardded nef i lawr.

When the remunerator shall appear let the heaven appear below. Taliesin, armes dyddbrawd.

Talben, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tal—pen) A settled price or standard value. In order to adjust transactions of barter, the law affixed to every thing a settled mean value; and if any article given in payment fell short of its standard, the deficiency was made good in money.

Talbenig, a. (talben) Of current value. Talbenigion, things of standard value.

Eidion a dalo ddeg ar ugaint yw huyn talbenig;—Sef yw ba talbenig, gwartheg heb dderchafael gydag hwynt o arian mydywydd.

An ox that is worth thirty pence is a kine of standard value.—Kine of standard value are those with which no advancement is made of kine-qualifying money. Welsh Laws.

Talbenigiad, s. m. (talbenig) A regulating to a standard value.

Talbenigiaw, v. a. (talbenig) To regulate to a standard value; to become of standard value.

Talbenigrwydd, s. m. (talbenig) The state of being of standard value.

Talbenu, v. a. (talben) To set a mean price.

Talbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (tàl—pren) A front log, or a stock of wood placed behind the fire; the same as talpentan.

Talcen, s. m.—pl. t. i (tàl—cen) The fore part or end of anything; the forehead; the end, of a building; the head, of a barrel, and the like.

Nid edrych angau pwy decaf ei dalcen.

Death doth not regard who hath the fairest forehead. Adage.

Gradd pob un yn ei dalcen.

Every one's condition is in his forehead. Adage.

Talcenawg, a. (talcen) Having a fore part or end; having a forehead; ample-fronted.

Talcenawl, a. (talcen) Relating to the fore part or end; belonging to the forehead.

Talceniad, s. m. (talcen) A forming a forepart or end; a forming a forehead.
Talcenu, v. a. (talcen) To form a fore part or end; to form a forehead; to butt with the forehead. Talcenu ty, to raise the gable end of a house; talcenu baril, to put in the end of a barrel.
Talch, s. m.—pl. teilchion (ta—alch) A piece, a fragment, any thing broken; grist, or coarse meal. Dyna fo wedi tori yn deilchion man, there it is broken all to shatters.
Talchaidd, a. (talch) Somewhat broken or brayed.
Talchawg, a. (talch) Consisting of broken parts.
Talchedig, a. (talch) Made into fragments; fracted. Talchedigion, broken things.
Talcheiddiad, s. m. (talchaidd) A rendering somewhat broken; a rendering half broken.
Talcheiddiaw, v. a. (talchaidd) To render somewhat broken; to become partly broken.
Talcheiddrwydd, s. m. (talchaidd) A half broken state or condition.
Talchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (talch) A making into fragments; a shattering.
Talchu, v. a. (talch) To fract, to break in pieces; to make grit.
Talchwr, s. m.—pl. talchwyr (talch—gwr) A man who fracts; a shatterer; one who makes grit.
Talchydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (talch) One who brays; a shatterer; one who makes grit.
Taldal, a. (tàl repeated) Being front to front.

A'm daliawdd, be hawdd, bu hy,
Daldal yn nghongl y deildy.

He that caught me, if easy, was bold, tete-a-tete in the corner of the bower. D. ab Gwilym.

Talder, s. m. (tàl) Loftiness; tallness, stature.
Taldra, s. m. (tâl) Loftiness; tallness, stature.
Taldrwch, s. m.—pl. taldrychion (tal—trwch) bushiness, of the front; a forelock. a. Of front thickness; front-covered. Gwallt taldrwch, hair that is thick over the forehead.
Talddrws, s. m.—pl. talddrysau (tàl—drws) A front door.

Penteulu a ddyly eistedd ar y tàl isaf i'r neuadd, ag ei law aswy ar y talddrws.

The patron of the family ought to sit at the lower end of the hall, with his left hand towards the front door. Welsh Laws.

Taledig, a. (tal) Being paid; requited, rewarded.
Taledigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (taledig) Payment, remuneration.
Taledigawl, a. (taledig) In a course to be paid; remunerative.
Taleithiad, s. m. (talaeth) A forming a province.
Taleithiaw, v. a. (talaeth) To form a province.

Am luniaw gwr yn mlaen, gynt,
Iuda lwyth a daleithynt.

For producing a man to lead, of yore, the tribe of Iuda they formed into a principality. S. Brwynawg.

Taleithiawg, a. (talaith) Wearing a diadem. s. m. One who wears a princely crown.

Tri thaleithiawg cad Ynys Prydain; Trystan mab Tallwch, Huail mab Caw, a Chai mab Cynyr Ceinfarchawg; ac un oedd daleithiawg arnaddynt hwyntau ill tri, Bedwyr mab Pedrawg oedd hwnw.

The three diademed chiefs of the Isle of Britain; Trystan son of Tallwch, Huail son of Caw, and Cai son of Cynyr the Splendid Knight; and one was a diademed chief over them three, this was Bedwyr son of Pedrog. Trioedd.

Taleithiawl, a. (talaeth) Being provincial.
Taleithiedig, a. (talaith) Diademed.
Taleithig, s. f. dim.—pl. t. ion (talaith) A fillet, a bandlet; a bandlet, in heraldry.
Taleithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (talaeth) A provincial.
Talfa, s. f.—pl. talfëydd (tàl) A front place; a pediment; a projection.
Talfäawg, a. (talfa) Having a pediment.
Talfäedig, a. (talfa) Pedimented; projected in front.
Talfainc, s. f.—pl. talfeinciau (tàl—mainc) A front form; a throne.

Holl Ffrainc, ei thalfainc, ei thir,
A'i choron uwch a yrir.

All France, her throne, her wide domain,
And crown, will higher honour gain. S. Tudyr.

Talfedel, s. f. (tàl—medel) Garden angelica.
Talflodau, s. pl. aggr. (tàl—blodau) Festoons.
Talflodeuwaith, s. m. (talflodau—gwaith) Festoon-work.
Talflodeuyn, s. m. dim. (talflodau) A festoon.
Talfoel, a. (tàl—moel) Having a bald front.
Talfoeledig, a. (talfoel) Being grown bald-fronted
Talfoeledd, s. m. (talfoel) A bald-fronted state.
Talfoeli, v. a. (talfoel) To render bald-fronted; to become bald-fronted; to expose the front.
Talfoeliad, s. m. (talfoel) An exposing the front.
Talfoelni, s. m. (talfoel) Front-baldness.
Talfrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tàl—brith) A variegated front. a. Of many-coloured front.

Arwr a dwy ysgwydd y dan
Ei dalfrith, ag all teth Prwydan,
Bu trydar yn aerfre, bu tan,
Bu ehud waewawr bu buan.

His painted front on ample shoulders soars,
Which marks the hero, swifter in his course
Than Prwydan, when the sound of war he hears,
And sees the thick incessant gleams of spears. Aneurin.

Talfrithaw, v. a. (talfrith) To adorn the front.
Talfrithawg, a. (talfrith) Of variegated front.
Talfrithedig, a. (talfrith) Front-painted.
Talfrithiad, s. m. (talfrith) A variegating the front
Talfriw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tàl—briw) A front wound or cut. a. Having a cut or bruised front.

Llu meithlion cein-gatrawd rwydd rialls,
O Ddindywydd yn nysn-wydd o'n dyfnu,
Ysgwyd rygn rhag tarw trin talfriw fu.

Our faithful band in martial pomp array'd
Wean'd from Dindywydd's deep and woody glade,
Clash'd front-bruis'd shields before the bull of war. Aneurin.

Talfriwaw, v. a. (talfriw) To cut or hurt the front.
Talfriwedig, a. (talfriw) Front-bruised.
Talfriwiad, s. m. (talfriw) A cutting the front.
Talfwrdd, s. m.—pl. talfyrddau (tàl—bwrdd) The front or upper table in a hall.
Talfyr, a. (tàl—byr) Short-fronted, short towards the front; brief, abrupt.
Talfyradwy, a. (talfyr) Capable of being foreshortened; recissable.
Talfyredig, a. (talfyr) Foreshortened; abridged.
Talfyredigaeth, s. m. (talfyredig) The act of foreshortening; abridgment.
Talfyredigawl, a. (talfyredig) Tending to foreshorten; abbreviative.
Talfyriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (talfyr) A foreshortening; abbreviation; recission.
Talfyru, v. a. (talfyr) To foreshorten; to abridge.
Talfyrwr, s. m.—pl. talfyrwyr (talfyr—gwr) A foreshortener; an abbreviator.
Talffrwyn, s. f.—pl. t. i (tàl—ffrwyn) The front-stall or fillet of a bridle.
Talgainc, s. f.—pl. talgeinciau (tàl—cainc) A browantler.
Talgeinciad, s. (talgainc) A forming browantlers.
Talgeinciaw, v. n. (talgainc) To form browantlers.
Talgeinciawg, a. (talgainc) Having browantlers.
Talgell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tàl—cell) A pantry.
Talgellawg, a. (talgell) Having a pantry.
Talgrib, s. f.—pl. t. au (tàl—crib) The frontboard that holdes the spindle of a spinning-wheel.
Talgron, s. f.—pl. talgrynion (tàl—cron) That is round fronted; an abrupt turn; an inflection.

a. Front-turning; inflective. Sain dalgron, an inflective sound, a dipthong: Talgron gadr, of strong inflection, as gwaew; talgron leddf, of soft inflection, as hwew; talgron fud, mutely inflective, as gwyw; talgron gota, of short inflection, as marw; talgron wib, of transitive inflection, as gwawd.

Talgrwn, s. m.—pl. talgrynion (tàl—crwn) That is round-fronted; precipitance. a. Precipitate, straightway.

> Oed a'm rhian——
> A wnaethwn yn dalgwrn deg.
>
> An assignation with my love I made
> Straightways to meet her in the shelter'd glade.
> D. ab Gwilym.

Talgrych, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tàl—crych) A rough front; a wrinkled front. a. Rough-fronted; frowning. Dyna genawon talgrychion, those are rough-headed whelps.

> Dirlaid, nid telaid, talgrych wythlonder.
>
> Mischievous, not comely, is rough fronted cruelty.
> Cesnodyn.

Talgrychedd, s.m. (talgrych) Rough-fronted state

Talgrychiad, s.m. (talgrych) A ruffling the brow, a frowning.

Talgrychni, s. m. (talgrych) Roughness of the forehead.

Talgrychu, v. a. (talgrych) To knit the brow.

Talgrychwr, s. m. talgrychwyr (talgrych—gwr) One who knits his brows; a frowner.

Talgryf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tàl—cryf) That is hard-fronted. a. Hard-fronted; impudent.

> Talgryfion a chaled-galon ydynt hwy.
>
> Impudent ones and hard-hearted are they. Ezekiel 2. 7.

Talgryfâad, s. m. (talgryf) A rendering impudent; a becoming impudent.

Talgryfâu, v. a. (talgryf) To render impudent; to have effrontery.

Talgryfder, s. m. (talgryf) Effrontery.

Talgrynadwy, a. (talgrwn) Capable of inflection; capable of abbreviation.

Talgrynedig, a. (talgrwn) Inflected; abridged; precipitate; without hesitation.

Talgrynawl, a. (talgrwn) Inflective; precipitate.

Talgryniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (talgrwn) A rounding the front; inflection; precipitation.

Talgrynu, v. a. (talgrwn) To inflect; to precipitate.

Talgrynrwydd, s. m. (talgrwn) Roundness of front; aptness for inflection; promptness.

> Gwedi dysylu sail y ffydd—y mae yn dysgu pawb i rodiaw mewn talgrynrwydd cydwybod.
>
> After comprehending the ground-work of faith, every body becomes instructed how to walk in rectitude of conscience.
> W. Salisbury.

Talgrynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (talgrwn) An inflector; an abbreviator; that precipitates.

Talgudyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tàl—cudyn) A fore-lock; a love-lock. Hardded ei thalgudynau ariant, How beautiful her silver fore-locks.

Talgudynawg, a. (talgudyn) Having fore-locks.

Talgwn, s. m. (tal—cwn) A high front. a. High-fronted.

Talgynawd, s. m. (talgwn) Erection of the front.

> Ni bu cyfergyriad, ni bu gynnwys
> Talgynawd Urien y rhag Powys.
>
> He was not an aggressor, the uplifted front of Urien appeared not before Powys. Taliesin.

Talgynedig, a. (talgwn) Being with elated front.

Talgynu, v. a. (talgwn) To uplift the front.

Taliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tal) A clearing, discharging, or paying; payment; remuneration.

Taliadawl, a. (taliad) Tending to clear, or to pay off; remunerative.

Taliadu, v. a. (taliad) To make a clearing or payment; to make a remuneration.

Taliant, s. m. (tal) A payment; requital.

Taliator, ger. (taliad) In paying; in requiting.

Talitor, sup. (tal) To be paying; to be requiting.

Talm, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (talym) Any thing that comes on abruptly; an impression; a short space, a while, a good while; a small quantity; a some, or somewhat; much, a range of any thing in motion; a clap of thunder. Pa sut yr wyt er ys talm? How art thou since this good while? Ni welais i moni er ys hir dalm o amser, I have seen nothing of her for this long space of time: Nid oes dipyn o dalm arno, there is not the least impression upon him: Mwy o dalm, more by much.

> Saith salm i gadw talm o'n tir.
>
> Seven psalms to keep scarcity from our land.
> Gr. Hiraethawg.
>
> Nawdd y pengwastrawd yw hyd y parâo talm y march cyntaf: Neu, hyd tra parâo rodeg y march buanaf.
>
> The protection of the head groom is whilst the course of the quickest horse shall continue: Or, whilst the run of the fleetest horse continues. Welsh Laws.
>
> Ond talm gwedi, sef yn y chwechod oes, newidiai eglwys Rufain ei barfer.
>
> But a short space after, that is in the sixth age, the church of Rome changed its practice. C. Edwards, H. y Ffydd.

Talmedig, a. (talm) Interrupted; broken off; concluded.

Talmedd, s. m. (talm) Interruptedness.

Talmeithr, s. m. (talm—eithr) That is exempt from interruption. a. Uninterrupted.

Talmiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (talm) An affecting or coming on suddenly; a cessation.

Talmig, a. (talm) Having a course, having a sudden impulse; freakish. Teuluwas talmig, a freakish domestic.

Talmu, v. a. (talm) To cause to come on abruptly; to be abrupt; to make impression, to move, to work upon; to assign a course or range; to make summary or brief; to draw to a conclusion, to draw to an end; to be at an end. Wyf yn talmu ar henaint, I am drawing to an old age: Wyf ar dalmu, I am just at an end.

> Nid yw yn talmu ar fy nghalon, hyd y dydd heddyw, i mi bechu.
>
> It is not impressive upon my heart, to the present day, that I have sinned. S. Trefredyn.

Talmus, a. (talm) Tending to break off.

Talmyrth, s. m. (talm—yrth) That suddenly strikes upon; an impression.

Talogi, v. a. (talawg) To render high-fronted; to become high-fronted or bold.

Talogiad, s. m. (talawg) A making haughty.

Talogrwydd, s. m. (talawg) Haughtiness.

Talon, s. m. (tàl) The protuberance of the belly.

Talp, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tàl) A mass, a lump, a piece. Prynu wrth y talp, prynu wrth y llaw, prynu yn y crynswth, prynu yn y cyfan, to buy by the lump, or piece.

Talpen, s. f. dim. (talp) A knoll, a knob.

Talpiad, s. m. (talp) A making into lumps.

Talpiaw, v. a. (talp) To form into lumps.

Talpiawg, a. (talp) Being in lumps.

Talpiedig, a. (talp) Broken into masses.

Talpentan, s. m. (tal—pentan) The fire-back.

Talrwn, s. m.—pl. talryniau (tal—grwn) A head ridge in a field, or a headland.

Talryniad, s. m. (talrwn) A forming a headland.

Talryniaw, v. a. (talrwn) To form a headland in a field.

Talryniawg, a. (talrwn) Having a head ridge.

Talu, v. a. (tal) To make even or clear, to discharge, or to pay; to requite, to reward; to be worth; to answer a purpose. Os pryni hwn cei dalu amdano, if thou buyest this thou shalt pay for it: Pa á dal hwna? What is that worth? Pa beth a dal son am hyny? What is the use of talking about that?

Gwael y peth ni thal ei ofyn.

It is a poor thing that is not worth asking for. Adage.

Y gwlaw a'r hinon a dalant yn gywir y naill i'r llall.

The rain and the fair weather will repay equitably the one to the other. Adage.

A gorelwo taled i'r crythawr.

He who dances let him pay the fiddler. Adage.

Talwg, a. (tàl—gwg) Toweringly frowning.

——Ar bob ty talwg
Simneiai lle magai mwg.

On all highly-frowning houses chimneys where smoke generates. Iolo Goch i lys O. Glandwr.

Talwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tàl—gwisg) What is worn on the forehead, a head-dress.

Talwr, s. m.—pl. talwyr (tàl—gwr) A person who requites; a payer.

Talwrn, s. m.—pl. talyrnau (tàl—gwrn) What projects forward.

Talym, s. m.—pl. talmau (tàl) Any thing that comes on abruptly; an impression; a short space, a while; a good while; a small quantity; a some, or somewhat; a range of anything in motion; a clap of thunder. Ni buaist yma er ys talm, thou hast not been here for this good while.

Oedd cywir ei air erioed;
Oedd hael talym diwael telaid.

Ever equitable was his word; he was the generous one of a period undebased and splendid Prydydd Bychan, m. Bleddyni.

Tall, s. m. (ta—all) A spread out or over.

Tallawg, a. (tall) Being spread out or over.

Talliad, s. m. (tall) A spreading out or over.

Tallu, v. a. (tall) To make a spread out or over.

Tallwch, s. m. (tall) The state of being spread.

Tam, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ta—am) A stretch over so as to take in; as much as can be bitten off; a morsel, a bite.

Hoff tam mab ni charer.

Sweet is the morsel of a child disliked. Adage.

Nid tam o giniaw amaeth.

Not a morsel of a ploughman's dinner. D. ab Gwilym.

Tama, s. m. (tam) Hard food, or that is to be masticated, as bread and flesh; and what is taken with it, as butter and the like, is called enllyn.

Colli——
Ei thymyr tlawd, a'i thama,
A'i chaws, drwg yw gnaws a'i gwna.

Losing her poor estate, her bread, and her cheese, sad is the condition that is the cause. Madawg Dwygraig.

Tamaid, s. m.—pl. tameidiau (tam) The quantity taken by a bite, a morsel, a bit, a bite, or mouthful. Bu raid iddo hel ei damaid, he was obliged to beg his subsistence: Yr wyt yn braff dy damaid, thou goest on with ample bite, or with good appetite: Hwda damaid, take a bite: tamaid y cythraul, devil's bit scabious.

Bara ac ymenyn yw un tamaid.

Bread and butter make one morsel. Adage.

Tameidiad, s. m. (tamaid) A forming a morsel; a breaking off a morsel.

Tameidiaw, v. a. (tamaid) To break into mouthfuls, to make morsels, to take bites; to bite off a morsel.

Tameidiawl, a. (tamaid) Like a mouthful.

Tameidiwr, s. m.—pl. tameidiwyr (tamaid—gwr) One who takes a mouthful.

Tameidyn, s. m. dim. (tamaid) A little mouthful.

Tamiad, s. m. (tam) A forming into bits.

Tamig, s. m. dim.—pl. t. ion (tam) A small morsel or bite.

Tamigaw, v. a. (tamig) To take a nibbling bite; to nibble; to nib.

Tamigawl, a. (tamig) Nibbling; nipping.

Tamigiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tamig) A nibbling.

Tammhorth, s. m. (tam—porth) Sustenance.

Neud angeu Ffreuer a'm de heno!
Am dammhorth brodyrdde,
Dihunaf, wylaf fore!

How the death of Freuer makes me solitary to-night! For the sustenance of the community, I will be awake, I will early weep. Llywarch Hen.

Neur syllais i ddinlle Frecon?
Ffreuer werydre
Hiraeth am dammhorth frodyrdde!

Have not I gazed on the camp plot of Wrecon? The fair patrimony of Freuer regrets the lost sustenance of the community. Llywarch Hen.

Tamp, s. m. (tam) That is pervasive.

Tampawg, a. (tamp) A fit of passion or anger.

Gochel y tampawg tros awr; gochel y gwedwst tros fywyd.

Avoid a passion fit for an hour; avoid babbling for ever. Adage.

Tampr, s. m.—pl. tamprau (tamp) A taper.

Maeddai hi ef a thampr cwyr, can nid oedd wialen genti, oni aeth ei enaid ohono agawr.

She did beat him with a wax taper, not having a stick by her, so that his soul went out of him almost. Brut. y Saeson.

Tampriad, s. m. (tampr) A forming a taperlight; a burning as a torch.

Tampru, v. a. (tampr) To make a taper light; to burn as a torch.

Tamyn, s. m. dim. (tam) A small bit or morsel.

Tan, s. m.—pl. t. au (ta—an) An expanding principle; a cause of expansion; fire.

Awen heb ddoethineb, tan yn llaw ffolineb.

Talent without wisdom is a fire in the hand of folly. Adage.

Tri pheth sydd ar eu cynnydd: tan, sef goleuni; dëall, sef gwirionedd; ac enaid, sef bywyd: a gorfod a wnant ar bob peth; ac yna diwedd abred.

Three things are on their increase: fire, which is light; intellect, which is truth; and soul, which is life: and they will overcome all things; and then there will be an end of the inchoative state. Barddas.

Tri chas-elyn dyn: tan, dwfr, ac arglwydd.

The three cherished foes of man: fire, water, and a governor. Catwg Ddoeth.

Tan y sy gorfforawl; ac ni allai i gyfryw hyny boeni ysbryd.

The fire is material; and what is of such a nature could not torment a spirit. Hanes Gwido.

Tàn, s. m. (ty—an) A spread or expansion; continuity. a. Spreading; flat, low; continuous. prep. To, till, until, as far; under, beneath, below. adv. Along; under. Tàn yr oes hon, till this age; tàn ammod, under covenant; y goreu tàn haul, the best under the sun. A verb, of the infinitive mood, preceded by tan, forms a participle. Dyna hi yn myned tàn ganu, there she is going singing along.

Pruddhed ni's parodd hi
Tan ael un tan eleni.

Dejection she has not caused beneath one brow until this year. W. Wyn.

Ei blwyf, yn gwbl ofeg,
Yw ei lu, dan ei law deg.

His parish, with entire concern, is his host, under his fair hand. L. G. Cothi, i Syr H. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tanaf, pronom. prep. (tàn) Under me. Tanad, under thee; tano, under him, or it; tani, under her; tanom, under us; tanoch, under you; tanynt, tanaddynt, under them. See Am prefixed to it, in amdanaf.—Maent yn codi dani, they are making an insurrection.

Y Deau, bid hyd y bo,
A dwy Wynedd y dano.

The South, as long as it endures, and the two Gwynedds, be they under him. L. G. Cothi.

Tanadwy, a. (tan) Ignitable; capable of being fired
Tanaidd, a. (tan) Somewhat fiery, partly fiery.
Tanawg, a. (tan) Abounding with fire.
Tanawl, a. (tan) Expansive; igneous, fiery.

A dàn yr ennaint hwnw y gosodes ef dan heb ddifoddi byth, yn wreichion nac yn lludw; namyn pan ddechreuai ddifoddi yna eilwaith ydd ymchwelai yn danolion.

Under that unction be placed a fire ever without being extinguished, in sparks nor in ashes; but when it should begin to be extinguished, then again it would return in fiery particles. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tanawl, a. (tan) Spreading, expanding.
Tanbaid, a. (tan—paid) Having the expansive power stopped; violent, vehement, fervent. Llosgi yn danbaid, to burn vehemently; dyn tanbaid, a passionate man.

Y bwa——
Tanbaid ei naid yn ei ol;
Tanbeidiach no'r tan bydol.

The bow, violent its bound in returning: more violent than the natural fire. T. Aled.

Tanbeidiad, s. m. (tanbaid) A rendering violent or vehement; a becoming violent.
Tanbeidiaw, v. a. (tanbaid) To render violent or ardent; to become violent.
Tanbeidiawl, a. (tanbaid) Of a violent tendency.
Tanbeidrwydd, s. m. (tanbaid) Violence.
Tanbeiriant, s. m.—pl. tanbeiriannau (tan—peiriant) A fire-engine.
Tanboer, s. m. (tan—poer) A spitfire. a. Fire-spitting.
Tanboerawl, a. (tanboer) Fire-spitting.
Tanboeri, v. a. (tanboer) To spit fire.
Tanboeriad, s. m. (tanboer) A spitting of fire.
Tanboerwr, s. m.—pl. tanboerwyr (tanboer—gwr) One who spits fire.
Tanc, s. m. (tan) A state of expansion; space; an unobstructed state; ease; a tranquil state; peace

Archaf danc cyn tranc, trwy eirioled.——

I crave for peace before dissolution, through intercession.—— Ll. P. Moch.

Tair clwdawd nawdd a ddaethant i Ynys Prydain; ac yn nhanc a chenad cenedl y Cymmry y doynt, heb arf, heb osawd; cyntaf oedd clwdawd Celyddon yn y Gogledd; ail oedd yr al Wyddyl, ac yn yr Alban y maent; trydydd, gwyr Galedin, a ddoynt yn y llongau moelion hyd yn Ynys Wyth, pan soddes eu gwlad.

The three tribes of refuge who came to the Isle of Britain; and under the peace and consent of the nation of the Cymmry did they come, without weapon, without assault; the first was the tribe of Celyddon in the North; the second was the primitive Gwyddelians, and in the Alban they remain; thirdly, the men of Galedin, who came in the bare ships to the Isle of Wyth, when their country was inundated. Trioedd.

Tancwd, s. m. (tàn—cwd) The scrotum.
Tanchwa, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tan—chwa) Fire blast, the fire damp, or noxious vapour in mines.
Tanchwydd, s. m. (tan—chwydd) An inflammatory swelling.
Tandawd, s. m. (tan) Ignition; a conflagration.
Tanddaiar, s. m. (tàn—daiar) Subterrany.
Tanddaiarawg, a. (tanddaiar) Subterranean.
Tanddaiarawl, a. (tanddaiar) Subterraneous.

Pan yw yn enw yr Iesu i bob glin blygu, yn gystal i'r nefolion, a daiarolion, ac i danddaiarolion.

That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, as well of things in heaven, and things in earth, and of things under the earth. W. Salisbury.

Tanddaiaroldeb, s. m. (tanddaiarawl) Subterraneousness; an under-ground state.
Tanddaiaroli, v. a. (tanddaiarawl) To render subterraneous; to become subterraneous.
Tandde, s. m. (tan—de) That is pervaded by fire; an inflammation.

Y gfaiarllys sy dda rhag tandde a gwres.

The brooklime is good against inflammation and heat. Ll. Meddyginiaeth.

Tanddewin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tan—dewin) One who divines by fire.
Tanddewiniad, s. m. (tanddewin) A divining by fire.
Tanddewiniaeth, s. m. (tanddewin) Pyromancy.
Tanddewiniaw, v. a. (tanddewin) To divine by fire.
Tanddodi, v. a. (tàn—dodi) To place under.
Tanddodiad, s. m. (tàn—dodiad) A placing under.
Tanddwyn, v. a. (tàn—dwyn) To subdue.
Tanddygai, s. m. (tanddygyd) A subtrahend.
Tanddygiad, s. m. (tàn—dygiad) Subduction, subtraction.
Tanddygyd, v. a. (tàn—dygyd) To subdue, to subtract.
Tanedig, a. (tan) Being spread, expanded.
Tanedigaeth, s. m. (tanedig) The act of spreading.
Tanen, s. f. dim. (tan) A small particle of fire, a spark.
Tanfa, s. f.—pl. tanfeydd (tan) An explosion; a fire damp; also called tanchwa.
Tanfaen, s. m.—pl. tanfeini (tan—maen) A fire-stone, a pyrite.
Tanfer, s. m. (tan—ber) Fiery violence.

Pryder am danfer, prydaf iddaw;
Prydais i rwyf trais, cyn trail athaw;
A thal eurfual a fu eiddiaw.

Sorrow for violence, I will sing to him; I have before sung to the leader of power, before the silent ruin; and of the boon of the golden horn he was possessed. Cynddelw, m. Riryd.

Tanfre, s. m. (tan—bre) A pile of fire.

Molawd yw yn ngnif, mal yn danfre,
Edein-feirch a seirch serygl cynwe.

He is the theme of praise in the toil, like a conflagration, winged steeds with studded harness forming the front line. Ll. P. Moch.

Tanffiam, s. f.—pl. t. au (tan—ffiam) A fiery flame.
Tanffiamawl, a. (tanffiam) Fire-flaming.
Tanffiamiad, s. m. (tanffiam) A flaming with fire.
Tanffiamu, v. a. (tanffiam) To make a fire flame; to brandish a fire flame; to be in a fiery flame. Angelion yn tanffiamu, angels flaming with fire.
Tanffon, s. f.—pl. tanffyn (tan—ffon) A poker.
Tangelfydd, a. (tan—celfydd) Pyrotechnic.
Tangelfyddawl, a. (tangelfydd) Pyrotechnical.
Tangelfyddyd, s. f.—pl. t. on (tangelfydd) Pyrotechny.
Tanglawdd, s. m.—pl. tangloddiau (tàn—clawdd) An undermine, a mine.
Tangloddiad, s. m. (tanglawdd) An undermining.
Tangloddiaw, v. a. (tanglawdd) To undermine.
Tangloddiawg, a. (tanglawdd) Undermined.
Taniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tan) A firing; ignition.
Taniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tau) A spreading.
Taniadawl, a. (taniad) Tending to fire, igniferous.
Taniadu, v. a. (taniad) To make a firing.
Tanial, v. a. (tan) To fire, to set on fire.

Rhydalas mab Gradd, rwydd ei araith,
Cymmru yn danial, rhyfel ar gaith.

The son of Gradd, of fluent speech, retaliated, Wales burning, war on the slaves. Ym. Lludd y Bychan.

Taniaw, v. a. (tan) To fire; to set on fire.
Taniedig, a. (taniad) Being fired, set on fire.
Taniedigaeth, s. m. (taniedig) A setting on fire.
Tanlen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tan—llen) A fire-skreen.
Tanlwydd, a. (tàn—llwydd) Subject, obedient.

Tanlwyddiad, s. m.—pl. tanlwyddiaid (tanlwydd) A subject.

Duw a'ch rhwyddo oll i fod—yn danlwyddiaid ffyddlawn, yn frodyr anesgor.

God prosper you all to be faithful subjects, to be inseparable brethren. H. Perri.

Tanllachar, a. (tan—llachar) Fire-gleaming.

Tanllestr, s. m.—pl. tanllestri (tan—llestr) A lanthorn.

Rhy bell yw ym ddirprwyaw
Llatai drud i'w llety draw——
Na dwyn o'm blaen danllestri,
Na physt cwyr, pan fo hwyr hi.

Too far is it for me to commission an audacious messenger to her lodging yonder; nor to have born before me lamps nor tapers of wax, when it happens to be late. D. ab Gwilym.

Tanlli, s. m. (tan—lli) A fire glow. a. Ignifluous; span new.

Cyllell——
Tanlli gallestr dur-restr don
Ufyl wrych efail wreichion.

A knife span new, steel-rayed striking from the flint spirting fire like sparks of a forge. Rhys Goch Eryri.

Tanlliw, s. m. (tan—lliw) Flame-colour. a. Of flame-colour; bran new.

Tanllwynawg, s. m. (tan—llwynawg) Alopecia.

Tanllwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (tan—llwyth) A great blazing fire.

Tanllyd, a. (tan) Fiery, full of fire.

Tanllydrwydd, s. m. (tanllyd) Fieriness.

Tanllydu, v. a. (tanllyd) To render fiery; to grow fiery.

Tannawg, a. (tant) Having sudden starts, or flights

Tanniad, s. m. (tant) A stretching; a starting; a causing a sudden impulse; a throbbing.

Tannorth, s. m. (tan—dorth) An overspreading; a substitute.

Pan ddyfu y Mab Rhad oedd raid wrtho,
Er porth, yn dannorth a dawn arno.

When the Son of Grace did come, there was a necessity for him, as a help, as a substitute endowed with virtue. D. Benfras.

Tannu, v. a. (tant) To stretch; to start, to give a sudden impulse; to throb, to ache; to stretch a string.

Tano, prep. (tàn) Below, beneath.

Tano, pronom. prep. (tàn) Under it, under him.

Tanoedd, prep. (tàn) Under, beneath, below.

Tanogan, s. m.—pl. t. au (tan—gogan) Pyromancy.

Tanoganawl, a. (tanogan) Belonging to pyromancy.

Tanoganiad, s. m. (tanogan) A divining by fire.

Tanoganu, v. a. (tanogan) To divine by fire.

Tanradd, s. f.—pl. t. au (tàn—gradd) An inferior rank.

Tanre, s. f. (tan—rhe) A fire course. a. Pervaded by fire.

Tanrew, s. m. (tan—rhew) A nipping frost.

Tànrif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tàn—rhif) An inferior number.

Tànryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tàn—rhyw) An inferior kind.

Tansang, s. f.—pl. t. au (tàn—sang) An under-tread.

Tansangawl, a. (tansang) Subpedaneous.

Tansangiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tansang) An under-treading.

Tansangu, v. a. (tansang) To under-tread.

Tansawdd, s. m.—pl. tansoddion (tàn—sawdd) Submersion.

Tansoddawl, a. (tansawdd) Submersing.

Tansoddi, v. a. (tansawdd) To submerge.

Tansoddiad, s. m. (tansawdd) A submersion.

Tanswydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (tàn—swydd) An inferior office.

Tanswyddawg, a. (tanswydd) Subaltern. s. m. A subaltern; a subdelegate.

Tanswyddiad, s. m. (tanswydd) A subdelegation.

Tant, s. m.—pl. tannau (tan) A stretch, or distension; a sudden start, or impulse; a spasm, a throb, or agony; a gust of passion, flight, or whim; what is stretched; a string; a string of a musical instrument. Rhyfedd yw dy dannau di, thou hast strange whims; tannau o lawenydd, sudden fits of joy; tannau gwylltion, wild fits; tannau poethion, violent passions; tannau dolur, the prickings or agonies of a sore; tannau yr ewinrew, the sharp pains occasioned by being frost-bitten: Tant telyn, a harp string; tant rhwyd, a net-line.

Tantawr, s. m.—pl. tantorion (tant) A player on a stringed instrument; a musician.

Nerth tantawr yn ei fys;
Nerth llwrf ei droed hyfrys.

The power of the musician is in his finger; the power of the timid is in his nimble foot. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Tantiad, s. m. (tant) A stretching, or tightening; a starting; a taking a sudden fit; a throbbing; a stringing.

Tantiaw, v. a. (tant) To stretch, to tighten; to start, to cause a sudden impulse; to take a fit; to produce a spasm; to throb; to string.

Tanu, v. a. (tàn) To spread, to scatter.

Tanu, v. a. (tan) To fire, to set on fire.

Hawdd tanu crinwellt.

It is easy to fire parched grass. Adage.

Hawdd tanu eithin crinion, nid hawdd eu diffawdd.

It is easy to fire parched furze, it is not easy to extinguish them. Adage.

Tanwaith, s. m. (tan—gwaith) Fire-work.

Tanwr, s. m.—pl. tanwyr (tan—gwr) A fire-man; a fuel-man.

Tànwr, s. m.—pl. tànwyr (tàn—gwr) A spreader.

Tanwyd, s. m. (tan—gwyd) A breaking out of fire.

Tanwydyn, s. m. (tanwyd) A fiery meteor.

Mal rhod tanwydyn tros elfydd,
Mal ton teithiawg Llwyfenydd.

Like an orb of kindling meteor over the humid plain, like the bursting wave is he who justly sways Llwyfenydd. Taliesin.

Tanwydr, s. m.—pl. tanwydrau (tan—gwydr) A burning-glass.

Tanwydd, s. m. (tan—gwydd) Fire-wood.

Tanysgrif, s. f. (tàn—ysgrif) A subscription.

Tanysgrifaw, v. a. (tanysgrif) To underwrite.

Tanysgrifiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tanysgrif) An underwriting.

Tangnef, s. m. (tanc—nef) Celestial expansion; tranquillity, peace.

Aed lle mae'r eang dangnef;
Ac aed y gerdd gydag ef!

May he go to where there is extensive tranquillity; and with him go the song! Iolo Goch, m. D. ab Gwilym.

Tair ciwdawd addwyn Ynys Prydain: cyntaf oedd cenedl y Cymmry, a ddoynt gyda Hu Gadarn i Ynys Prydain, sef ni fynai ef wlad a thiroedd o ymladd ac ymlid, eithr o gyfiawnder ac yn nhangnef; ail oedd al y Lloegrwys, a ddoynt o dir Gwasgwyn, ac a hanoeddynt o brif genedl y Cymmry; trydydd oeddynt y Brython, ac o dir Llydaw y daethynt, ac eu hanas o gysefin al y Cymmry.

The three beneficent tribes of the Isle of Britain: the first was the nation of the Cymmry who came with Hu the Mighty to the Isle of Britain, who would not possess nor country nor lands through fighting and persecution, but of equity and in peace; the second was the stock of the Lloegrians, who came from the land of Gwasgwyn, and were descended from the primitive nation of the Cymmry; the third were the Brython, and from the land of Llydaw they came, having their descent from the primary stock of the Cymmry. Trioedd.

Tangnefawl, a. (tangnef) Tranquillous.

Tangnefedd, s. m. (tangnef) A state of celestial expansion; heavenly tranquillity; tranquillity.

Crist, ti——
Oen tangnefedd a heddwch!

Christ, thou Lamb of heavenly rest and peace! Guto y Glyn.

Crist creawdr——
Crist cell, colofn tangnefedd.

Christ the Creator, Christ the mysterious one, the pillar of tranquillity. Ll. P. Moch.

Tangnefeddawl, a. (tangnefedd) Tranquillizing.
Tangnefeddiad, s. m. (tangnefedd) A tranquillizing; a producing peace.
Tangnefeddu, v. a. (tangnefedd) To tranquillize.
Tangnefeddus, a. (tangnefedd) Tranquillous. Heddwch tangnefeddus, tranquil peace.
Tangnefeddusaw, v. a. (tangnefeddus) To render tranquillous; to become tranquillizing.
Tangnefeddusder, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.
Tangnefeddusdra, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.
Tangnefeddusedd, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.
Tangnefeddusiad, s. m. (tangnefeddus) A rendering tranquillous; a becoming tranquillous.
Tangnefeddusrwydd, s. m. (tangnefeddus) Tranquillousness.
Tangnefeddwr, s. m.—pl. tangnefeddwyr (tangnefedd—gwr) A tranquillizer; a peace-maker.
Tangnefiad, s. m. (tangnef) A tranquillizing.
Tangnefig, a. (tangnef) Tranquillous.

Gwledig pob tangnefig.

Patriotic is every thing tranquillous. Adage.

Tangnefoldeb, s. m. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness; a state of peace.
Tangnefolder, s. m. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness; a state of peace.
Tangnefoledd, s. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness.
Tangnefoli, v. a. (tangnefawl) To render tranquil; to become tranquil.
Tangnefolrwydd, s. m. (tangnefawl) Tranquillousness.
Tangnefu, v. a. (tangnef) To tranquillize.

Amherawdr mor a thir,
Caffwyf nef, lle tangnefir!

Sovereign of sea and land, may I obtain heaven, where tranquillity takes place! Dafydd y Coed.

Tangnefus, a. (tangnef) Tranquillous.

Hywel Dda—a lywodraethai yn gydwybodus yn mhob iawnder tangnefus.

Hywel the Good was wont to govern conscientiously in every tranquillizing equity. Car. Llangarfan.

Tangnefusaw, v. a. (tangnefus) To render tranquillous; to become tranquillous.
Tangnefusedd, s. m. (tangnefus) Tranquillousness
Tangnefusiad, s. m. (tangnefus) A rendering tranquillous; a becoming tranquillous.
Tangnefusrwydd, s. m. (tangnefus) Tranquillousness.
Tangnefwr, s. m.—pl. tangnefwyr (tangnef—gwr) A tranquillizer.
Tangnefydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tangnef) A tranquillizer.
Tangwedd, s. f. (tanc—gwedd) A tranquil aspect.
Tangweddawg, a. (tangwedd) Of tranquil aspect.

Ystadl tir Penprys a Gwallawg,
Teyrn teyrnedd tangweddawg.

The support of the land of Penbrys and Gwallawg, the king of the kings of tranquil aspect. Taliesin.

Tangweddawl, a. (tangwedd) Tranquillous.
Tangweddiad, s. m. (tangwedd) A tranquillizing.
Tangweddu, v. a. (tangwedd) To tranquillize.
Tangweddus, a. (tangwedd) Tranquillous.
Tangwystl, s. m.—pl. tangwystlon (tanc—gwystl) A pledge of tranquillity; a hostage of peace. Tref tangwystl, a town delivered as a pledge of peace.

Pan ddyholer tangwystl yn hir o dir Gwynedd,
Dybydd seithgantlong o hynt gan wynt gogledd.

When there shall be a long seeking for a pledge of peace from the land of Gwynedd, there will be seven hundred ships on a course with the northern wind. Merddin, Hoianau.

Tangwystlaw, v. a. (tangwystl) To give a pledge of tranquillity.
Tangwystliad, s. m. (tangwystl) A pledging of peace or tranquillity.
Tangwystlwr, s. m.—pl. tangwystlwyr (tangwystl—gwr) One who pledges peace.
Tap, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tab) A projecting ledge or shelf; a projecting rock. Tap esgid, the heel of a shoe.
Tapiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tap) A shelving, a ledging
Tapiaw, v. a. (tap) To form a step, or ledge.
Tapiawg, a. (tap) Abounding with steps, shelves, or ledges; abounding with precipices.
Tapig, s. m. dim. (tap) A small step, or ledge.
Taplas, s. m.—pl. t. on (tap—llas) A gambol; a dance.

O gwledycha meddwawg, a chariad y gwreigedd, a seguryd, a thaplas, a gwyddbwyll, colla y glewder ac y nerthoedd.

If drunkenness should reign, and the love of women, and idleness, and dancing, and chessplaying, lost will be the courage and the strength. Brut. y Breninoedd.

Taplasa, v. a. (taplas) To gambol; to dance.
Taplasawl, a. (taplas) Skipping; dancing.
Taplasiad, s. m. (taplas) A skipping; a dancing.
Taplasu, v. a. (taplas) To gambol; to dance.
Taplaswr, s. m.—pl. taplaswyr (taplas—gwr) A person who gambols.
Tapyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (tap) A small projection, ledge, or shelf. Tapyn ffust, tapig ffust, the capping of a flail.
Tapynu, v. a. (tapyn) To form a ledge or shelf.
Tar, s. m. (ta—ar) A pervading principle.
Tarad, s. m. (tar) A pervasion, a striking through; taste, flavour.
Taradr, s. m.—pl. t. on (tarad) That pervades; a ray; a piercer; an auger. Taradr y coed, the woodpecker.

Huan haf——
Hebrwng trwy wydr terydr tes.

Sun of summer, send through the glass rays of heat. D. ab Gwilym.

Taradr perfedd, ceiniawg a dal.

A medium auger its value is a penny. Welsh Laws.

Taradriad, s. m. (taradr) A penetrating, a piercing, a boring.
Taradru, v. a. (taradr) To penetrate, to pierce; to bore with an auger.
Taradrydd, s. m. (taradr) One who bores.
Taran, s. f.—pl. t. au (tar) That pervades, impels, or gives a shock; a clap of thunder, a thunder. Mellt a tharanau, lightnings and thunders: Maen taran, a thunderstone.

Tan a dwr yn ymwriaw
Yw taranau dreigiau draw.

Fire and water striving for mastery are the thunders of yonder lightnings. D. ab Gwilym.

Y march——
A'i wddf anwar fal taran,
A'i ffroenau dig fal ffwrn dan.

The horse with neck like thunder, brooking no restraint, and his nostrils ardent as a fiery furnace. Gro. Owain.

Taran, a. (tar) Of goodly size or magnitude.

Cymerai Gwdion ei hudlath ac y terewis Gilfathwy yni fydd yn daran ewig.

Gwdion took his wand of illusion and struck Gilfathwy, so that he becomes a well sized hind. Mabinog i Math.

Taranad, s. m. (taran) A thundering, fulmination.
Taranadu, v. a. (taran) To make a thundering or fulmination.
Taranawg, a. (taran) Charged with thunder.
Taranawl, a. (taran) Fulminant, thundering.
Tarandrwst, s. m. (taran—trwst) A thunder-rumbling. a. Thunder-rumbling.

Homer——
Daw, a'i farn darandrwst,
I gad——

Homer will repair, with his thunder-rumbling taste, to maintain the battle. Gro. Owain.

Tarandwrf, s. m. (taran—twrf) A thunder-tumult; a thunderstorm. a. Thunder-dinning.
Taraniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (taran) Intonation, fulmination; a thundering.
Taranoldeb, s. m. (taranawl) A fulminatory state.
Taranolder, s. m. (taranawl) A fulminant state.
Taranoli, v. a. (taranawl) To render fulminant; to become fulminant.
Taranolrwydd, s. m. (taranawl) A fulminant state.
Taranon, s. m. (taran) That is pervasive; that is impulsive, or apt to produce a shock; a thunderer.
Taranu, v. a. (taran) To fulminate; to thunder. Ofni pan darano, thou wilt fear when it thunders.

Pindar——
A'i luoedd o'l gylchoedd gant
Hyd trinoedd y taranant.

Pindar with his hosts about him in hundred bands, they will thunder through the wars. Gro. Owain.

Taranus, a. (taran) Fulminant, thunderous.

Mi af——
Lle ni wypo neb fy hynt,
Ar agwedd gwynt taranus.

I will go where no one may know my course, just like the thundering wind. Gofalus.

Taranwlaw, s. m. (taran—gwlaw) A thunder-shower.
Taranwr, s. m.—pl. taranwyr (taran—gwr) A thunderer.

Ni threchai neb ond y Taranwr hollalluawg fy nerth.

No one but the almighty Thunderer would overcome my power. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Taranydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taran) A thunderer.
Taraw, s. m. (tar) A shock, a collision, a stroke; an effect or impression; a hit. Nid oes arni fawr o daraw, she is under no great hardship: Ti elli hyny heb daraw yn y byd, thou canst do so without any trouble in the world.

O dair ffordd y sarèir pob dyn yn y byd: o daraw, a gosawd, a dwyn trais i arno.

By three means may every person in the world be insulted: by striking, and attacking, and by forcing from him. Welsh Laws.

O bai âr Siasper daro,
Trwy fil y tarawai fo.

If any difficulty should be on Jasper, through a thousand would he strike. L. G. Cothi.

Taraw, v. a. (tar) To produce a shock, or collision; to strike, to hit; to affect. Taraw â ffon, to strike with a stick: Tarewais wrthi o ddamwain, I met her by chance: Taraw dy glun i lawr, seat thyself down.

Meddyg a ddyly, pan darawer dyn ar ei ben, o bob asgwrn uch creuan bedair ceiniawg gota; asgwrn is creuan pedair ceiniawg cyfraith.

A doctor should have, when a person shall be struck on the head, for every bone on the skull region four curtailed pence; a bone below the cranium four pence in law. Welsh Laws.

Tarawd, s. m. (tar) A pervasion; impulsion.
Tarawiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (taraw) A collision.
Tarawwr, s. m.—pl. tarawwyr (taraw—gwr) A striker, or one who gives a stroke.
Tarawydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taraw) A striker.
Tardd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tar) A state of breaking through, issuing, or proceeding from; an issue, or vent, a bubbling, flow, or spring; a budding, or sprouting.

Tri pheth tardd o'r tri un cyntefig: pob bywyd, pob daioni, a phob gallu.

There are three things the effect of the three primeval unities: all of life, all of good, and all of power. Barddas.

Tarddawg, a. (tardd) Having an issue or spring.
Tarddawl, a. (tardd) Issuing; springing.

Rhag daran Cynan tan tarddawl;
Cadwaladr a'i cwyn.

Before the front of Cynan there was the issuing fire; Cadwaladr mourns it. Taliesin.

Tarddadwy, a. (tardd) Capable of breaking out, issuing, or springing.
Tarddain, v. a. (tardd) To break out, to ooze.
Tarddedig, a. (tardd) Being sprung; being made to break out, or to appear; derived.
Tarddedigaeth, s. m. (tarddedig) The act of breaking through, issuing, or springing.
Tarddell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (tardd) An issue, a spring
Tarddelliad, s. m. (tarddell) A running out, or springing. Tarddelliad gwaed, a hemorrhage.
Tarddellu, v. a. (tarddell) To issue, to spring, or to run out; to bubble out.
Tardden, s. f.—pl. t. i (tardd) The orifice of any efflux or issue; the mouth of a spring.
Tarddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tardd) A pervasion; a breaking out, emanation, effusion, or eruption, an issuing; a derivation; a proceeding; a springing; a spouting; a budding.
Tarddiadawl, a. (tarddiad) Effluent, effusive, efflorescent.
Tarddiadu, v. a. (tarddiad) To cause an effusion or springing; to become effusive.
Tarddiannawl, a. (tarddiant) Pervasive; eruptive; tending to issue; derivative.
Tarddiannu, v. a. (tarddiant) To render pervasive or eruptive; to become a spring.
Tarddiannus, a. (tarddiant) Tending to cause an effusion or breaking out.
Tarddiannusaw, v. a. (tarddiannus) To render effusive; to become of a springing tendency.
Tarddiannusrwydd, s. m. (tarddiannus) Effusiveness, a tendency to break out.
Tarddiant, s. m.—pl. tarddiannau (tardd) An issuing, or proceeding; an emanation.
Tarddoldeb, s. m. (tarddawl) Effusiveness; a state of springing or breaking out.
Tarddolder, s. m. (tarddawl) A state of breaking out, springing, or effusion.
Tarddoldra, s. m. (tarddawl) Effusiveness.
Tarddoli, v. a. (tarddawl) To render effusive; a breaking out; to become effusive.
Tarddu, v. a. (tardd) To pervade; to cause to break out; to break out, to issue, to proceed, to emanate; to spring, to bud, to sprout. Dacw y wawr yn tarddu, yonder see the dawn appearing.
Tarddus, a. (tardd) Tending to break out.
Tarddusaw, v. a. (tarddus) To render effusive; to become of a tendency to break out.
Tarddusedd, s. m. (tarddus) Aptness to break out.
Tarddwraint, s. m. (tardd—gwraint) A tetter.
Tarddwreinnen, s. f. dim. (tarddwraint) A ringworm, or tetter; also called tarwden, tarwyden, and taroden. Sil.
Tarddwreinnyn, s. m. dim. (tarddwraint) A tetter
Tared, s. m. (tar) That is uttered; noise, clamour.

Bei cyman cain dared wedi cyffraw cad.

Consonant was the joyous clamour after the agitation of battle. Aneurin.

Taredd, s. m. (tar) A tendency to pervade.
Tarell, s. f. dim. (tar) An issue, or a spring.

Taren, s. f.—pl. t. i (tar) What breaks through or shoots out; a spot; a tump, or knoll; a spot of wild land, overgrown with furze. Taren o dir, a spot of ground. Taren hwyr, rather late. Dyfed.

> Bu mewn hir garchar y gan Owain, mewn diffeithwch a thareni.
> He was in long confinement under Owain, in wilds and brakes.
> Brut. W. Llwyn.

Tarenawg, a. (taren) Abounding with excrescences, tumps, or knolls.
Tarenawl, a. (taren) Tending to grow out.
Tareniad, s. m. (taren) A growing out; a forming a tump or knoll.
Tarenig, s. f. dim. (taren) A small tump.
Tarenu, v. n. (taren) To form a tump.
Tarf, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tar) A violent throw out, or expulsion; a sudden drive; a scattering; a scaring; dispersion; flight.

> Rhys rwy anaw,
> Gwanai drwy gorf,
> A barf ar farf,
> Ac Eingl ar darf,
> Godwrf gilaw.
>
> Rhys the theme of the muse, he would break through a ring, with beard on beard, and Angles on flight, avoiding the rising storm.
> Seisyll Bryf-fwrch.

Tarfaidd, a. (tarf) Tending to scatter; scaring.
Tarfawg, a. (tarf) Being driven; scared.
Tarfawl, a. (tarf) Expulsive, scaring.
Tarfedig, a. (tarf) Expelled, dispelled, chased, driven away, put to flight; scared.
Tarfgryd, s. m. (tarf—cryd) The common feverfew; also called amranwen.
Tarfhutan, s. m.—pl. t. od (tarf—hutan) A scarecrow.
Tarfiad, s. m. (tarf) A violently driving out, dispersing, or expelling; a scaring.
Tarfiadu, v. a. (tarfiad) To cause a dispersion; to cause a scaring.
Tarfle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tarf—lle) A place of flight. Tarfle Saeson, the Saxons' place of flight.
Tarflyd, a. (tarf) Easily scared; skittish.
Tarflydrwydd, s. m. (tarflyd) Aptness to scare.
Tarfu, v. a. (tarf) To expel; to chase; to put to flight; to scare. Twrf a darf ar awen, tumult will dismay the muse.

> Llais dalen yn y gwynt a darf gydwybod euawg.
> The rustling of a leaf in the wind scares a guilty conscience.
> Adage.

Tarfus, a. (tarf) Expulsive; tending to scare.
Tarfusaw, v. a. (tarfus) To render expulsive; to become dismayed.
Tarfusdra, s. m. (tarfus) A state of dismay.
Tarfwgan, s. f. (tarf—gwgan) Perforated St. John's wort.
Tarfwr, s. m.—pl. tarfwyr (tarf—gwr) A putter to flight; a scarer.
Tarfydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tarf) That puts to flight; a scarer.
Targ, s. m. (tar) A percussion; a clash.
Targed, s. f.—pl. t. i (targ) A target.
Tariad, s. m. (tar) A striking against, a collision; a stopping; a staying, a tarrying.
Tarian, s. f.—pl. t. au (tar) A clasher; a shield; defence. Llach a tharian, lightning and thunder. Casnodyn.

> Goreu tarian cyfiawnder.
> The best shield is righteousness. Adage.
>
> Car dy gymydawg, ond na ro iddo na'th gledd na'th darian.
> Love thy neighbour, but give him not thy sword nor thy shield.
> Adage.
>
> Nid amddiffyn ond tarian.
> The only defence is a shield. Adage.

Tariana, v. a. (tarian) To clash a shield; to make use of a shield.
Tarianad, s. m. (tarian) The using a shield.
Tarianaidd, a. (tarian) Like a shield.
Tarianawg, a. (tarian) Having a shield.

> Aswynaf nawdd hawdd haelon Dëeubarth,
> Dieuborth cerddorion,
> A'th dwrf o'th darianogion,
> A'th dorf o'th deyrn-feibion.
>
> I will secure the ready protection of the generous ones of South Wales, the sure support of minstrels, and thy host of shield-bearing men, and thy throng of princely sons.
> Cynddelw, i Rys ab Gruffudd.

Tarianedig, a. (tarian) Being shielded.
Tarianedigaeth, s. m. (tarianedig) The act of shielding.
Tarianu, v. a. (tarian) To shield, to use a shield.
Tarianwr, s. m.—pl. tarianwyr (tarian—gwr) One who makes use of a shield.
Tarianydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tarian) A shielder.
Tariaw, v. a. (tar) To strike against, to come in contact; to stop; to stay, to tarry.
Tarlais, s. m.—pl. tarleisiau (tar—llais) A piercing noise.
Tarleisiad, s. m. (tarlais) A making a sharp noise.
Tarleisiaw, v. a. (tarlais) To make a clashing noise.
Tarleisiawg, a. (tarlais) Having a harsh noise.
Tarleisiawl, a. (tarlais) Yielding a harsh noise.
Tarleisiwr, s. m.—pl. tarleiswyr (tarlais—gwr) One who makes a harsh noise.
Tarlwnc, s. m. (tar—llwnc) An eructation.
Tarlwng, s. m. (tar—llwng) An eructation.
Tarlynciad, s. m. (tarlwnc) A belching.
Tarlyncu, v. a. (tarlwnc) To belch, to eructate.
Tarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tar) A wipe, the act of wiping up any liquid, or absorbing.
Tarnawl, a. (tarn) Absorbent, drying.
Tarnedig, a. (tarn) Absorbed, dried up.
Tarniad, s. m. (tarn) An absorption.
Tarnu, v. a. (tarn) To absorb, to dry up.

> Peirian faban, tarn dy ddagrau.
> Commanding prince, wipe thy tears. Merddin.
>
> Llywarch hen, na fydd di wyl,
> Trwydded a gefi di anwyl:
> Tarn dy lygaid, taw nag wyl.
>
> Old Llywarch, be thou not abashed, cheering reception thou shalt have: wipe thine eyes, be silent and weep not.
> Llywarch Hen.

Taroden, s. f. dim. (tarawd) A tetter.
Tarodwll, s. m.—pl. tarodyllau (taraw—twll) A punch-hole.
Tarth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tar) Vapour, exhalation.

> Golaith dy esgarant amgant dy fro,
> Mal tan twym tarth yn yd fo.
>
> The slaughter of the foes about the borders of thy country, like fire it heats a vapour where it happens to be. Taliesin.

Tarthadwy, a. (tarth) Capable of evaporating.
Tarthain, v. a. (tarth) To cause a continual exhalation; to puff out the breath.
Tarthawg, a. (tarth) Abounding with vapour.
Tarthawl, a. (tarth) Vaporous; foggy.
Tarthedig, a. (tarth) Being evaporated.
Tarthedigaeth, s. m. (tarthedig) Vaporation.
Tarthiad, s. m. (tarth) Evaporation, exhalation.
Tarthlyd, a. (tarth) Apt to be vaporous; foggy.
Tarthlydrwydd, s. m. (tarthlyd) Fogginess.
Tarthu, v. a. (tarth) To exhale, to rise in vapour.
Tarthus, a. (tarth) Vaporiferous; hazy.
Tarthusaw, v. a. (tarthus) To render vaporiferous; to become vaporiferous.
Tarthusdra, s. m. (tarthus) Vaporiferousness.
Tarthusedd, s. m. (tarthus) Vaporiferousness.
Tarthusrwydd, s. m. (tarthus) Vaporiferousness.
Tarw, s. m.—pl. teirw (tar) That strikes against; a bull. Tarw trefgordd, a bull kept by a township; tarw trin, tarw cad, tarw byddin, a bull of conflict, bull of battle, bull of armies.

Nerth tarw yn ei ddwyfron.

The strength of a bull is in his breast. Adage.

Gwerth tarw trefgordd yw tarw arall, a allo lamu, a buwch o'i flaen ac arall yn ei ol.

The value of a township bull is another bull, which can leap, with a cow before him and another after him. Welsh Laws.

Tri tharw cad Ynys Prydain: Cynfawr Cad Cadawg mab Cynwyd Cynwydion, Gwenddolau mab Ceidiaw, ac Urien ab Cynfarch.

The three bulls of conflict of the Isle of Britain: Cynvawr Cad Cadawg son of Cynwyd Cynwydion, Gwenddolau son of Ceidiaw, and Urien son of Cynvarch. Trioedd.

Tarwain, s. m. (tar—gwain) A spout, a gush; a flutter. v. a. To spout; to be spouting, to gush; to flutter.

Gweiais i gelain fain a brain ar gnawd,
Ac arall ar darwain gwall grain cleddyfawd.

I beheld a delicate corpse with crows feeding on flesh, and another on a flutter from the fell wound of a sword stroke. Golyddan, dar. Cadwaladr.

Gwaedlaw ar darwedd, gwaed ar darwain.

A blood-hand at work, blood in a state of spouting. Cynddelw.

Tarwedd, s. m. (tar—gwedd) The state of being pervaded; a ferment.

Taraw y rhisg hwnw, yn ddogn rhwng dwylaw, a'i ddodi ar darwedd mewn llestr i suraw, a'i fragodi a llaeth geifr.

Put that bark in a bundle between both hands, and place it in a steep in a vessel to sour, then breaking it with goat's milk. Meddygon Myddfai.

Ac odduch gwadnau gwaed ar darwedd.

And above the soles of the feet blood on a ferment. Llygad Gwr.

Ni dderfydd awen i ar darwedd traul.

Genius will not be exhausted from the operation of wear. Ph. Brydydd.

Tarweddadwy, a. (tarwedd) Fermentable.
Tarweddawg, a. (tarwedd) Having a ferment.
Tarweddawl, a. (tarwedd) Fermentarious.
Tarweddedig, a. (tarwedd) Fermented.
Tarweddiad, s. m. (tarwedd) Fermentation.
Tarweddu, v. a. (tarwedd) To put in a state of pervasion; to ferment.
Tarweddus, a. (tarwedd) Fermentative.
Tarwgi, s. m.—pl. t. on (tarw—ci) A bull-dog.
Tarwhaid, s. f.—pl. tarwheidiau (tarw—haid) The bull swarm, the second swarm of bees that leaves the hive.
Tas, s. m.—pl. t. au (ta—as) That hems in, combines, or binds together; fascia; a band.
Tasawl, a. (tas) Tending to combine.
Tasedd, s. m. (tas) A combined state.
Tasel, s. m.—pl. t. i (tas) A bandage; a sash; a fringe; a tassel.
Taselawg, a. (tasel) Sashed; fringed; tasselled.
Taseliad, s. m. (tasel) A sashing; a fringing; a tasselling.
Taselu, v. a. (tasel) To sash; to fringe; to tassel.
Tasg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tas) That is set aside, that is fixed; a bond, a pledge; that is settled, or agreed, as to be done; a job, a piece of work; a task. Medi ar dasg, to reap by the piece; gweithiaw ar dasg, to work by the job; a roi di dasg i mi? wilt thou give me a job?

Haws gcnyd, trwy naws gynnydd,
Ar dasg, bob amser o'r dydd,
Pigaw gwenith.——

More ready art thou, with increasing avidity, on task every hour of the day, to pick up wheat. D. ab Gwilym, i'r fran.

Tasgawl, a. (tasg) Tending to bind, being fixed, rated, or set as a job; starting, springing.
Tasged, s. f. (tasg) That is tense or strict.
Tasgedig, a. (tasg) Bound, settled, or fixed to be done; set as a task, or job.

Tasgell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (tasg) A bandlet, a band, what fastens or confines; a bunch, a whisk; a handful; also a closet, or pantry. tesgyll o flodau, bunches of flowers; tasgell o wellt, tusw o wellt, a whisk of straw; tasgell clo, the spring of a lock.

——Tusw gwyrdd,
Tesgyll yn sefyll yn sofl.

A green whisk, bunches standing like stubble. D. ab Gwilym, i Fedwen.

Tasgellawg, a. (tasgell) Being in bundles.
Tasgelliad, s. m. (tasgell) A tying, a forming into a bunch or whisk.
Tasgellu, v. a. (tasgell) To tie, to form into a small bundle, to form a whisk.
Tasgiad, s. m. (tasg) A binding, a settling to be done, a rating; a setting a job or task.
Tasgu, v. a. (tasg) To set, settle, assign, or fix; to rate; to job; to task; also to spring, to rebound, to start, or to leap back; to cause to start; to urge. Na thasga arni, do not urge her to do much. Tan yn tasgu o bedolau march, fire striking from the shoes of the horse. Dyf.

Llew glew gleifdym, grym gryd flemychu;
Llorf corf cad, ceinlad canon dasgu.

A courageous lion with keen blade, of gleaming energy in the conflict; the pillar of the centre of battle, assigning a task to the composer of song. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tasgwr, s. m.—pl. tasgwyr (tasg—gwr) One who assigns a task.
Tasgydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tasg) A tasker.
Tasiad, s. m. (tas) A tying or combining together.
Tasiaw, v. a. (tas) To tie together, to combine.
Tau, s. m. (ta) A stretch, a reach; the state of being at rest; the state of being held or possessed. v. a. To stretch out, to extend; to become still, or silent.
Tau, pron. (ta) Thine. It is used after a noun in the genitive case; as y tad tau, the father thine.

Gwartheg arall yn adnau,
Pan fo chwecaf ni bydd tau.

The cattle of another in pledge, when it shall be most fair they will not be thine. Adage.

Taw, s. m. (ta) The state of being spread or extended; rest, quiet; silence. a. Still; silent. Gyru taw ar un, to urge silence upon one; gyru daw arno, make him to be silent; awr daw, a silent hour.

Teyrn tud anaw,
Ys mau i gwynaw,
Oni fwyf y dydd taw.

The sovereign of the region of harmony, it is my lot to mourn him, until I shall be at the day of silence. Taliesin, Gorchan Cynfelyn.

Boloch fydd daw.

Mischief will be silent. Adage.

Goreu taw taw tewi.

The best silence the silence of silencing. Adage.

Taw, conj. (ta) That. It is used in Gwent and Dyfed, synonymously with mai. Clywais taw e oedd, I have heard that it was him; gwedir taw celwydd yw, it is said that it is a falsehood.

Pan wybu taw o gyfoeth Herod yr hanoedd, ef ei danfones at Herod.

When he knew that of the dominion of Herod he was descended, he sent him to Herod. W. Salisbury.

Tawch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taw) That rises, or stretches over; vapour, exhalation, steam, damp, haze, fog. a. Humid, hazy, foggy. Mor tawch, a hazy sea; also the name of the German Ocean. Clych tawch, bubbles.

Y llong——
Lladd bellbell y'th gymhellir
Lle mae tawch, lle ammhau tir.

Thou ship, to cut farther and farther thou wilt be impelled, where there is a haze, where land is imagined.
Morys ab Llywelyn.

Cawn dywydd cain-dawel,
Nid tawch a gwynt uchel.

We shall have weather fairly-serene, not an overcast with high wind.
D. Williams.

Ni wys heddyw na suddir;
Och, roi mor tawch rho'm a'r tir!

It is not known to-day but we may sink; woe that a hazy sea is placed between us and the land!
T. Aled.

Dwr a wylais——
Dafnau tawch, wedi f'un tad!

Tears I have wept, thick drops, after my only father.
L. Morganwg.

Tawchlyd, a. (tawch) Vaporous, hazy; sultry.
Tawd, s. m. (taw) A spread, a distension.
Tawdd, s. m.—pl. toddion (taw) What is in a dissolved state; a melting. a. Melted. Toddion, drippings, as of meat that is roasting: Delw dawdd, a molten image.
Tawddgyrch, s. m. (tawdd—cyrch) That is meltingly recurrent; a term in prosody.
Tawddleddf, a (tawdd—lleddf) Meltingly-pliant; a term in prosody.
Tawddlestr, s. m. (tawdd—llestr) A melting-pot.
Tawed, s. m. (taw) A state of silence.
Tawedawg, a. (tawed) Tacit, silent, reserved.

Tawedawg, tew ei ddrwg.

The reserved is full of mischief.
Adage.

Nid tawedawg ond goddefus;
Nid goddefus ond synwyrawl.

No one is silent but the patient; no one is patient but the sensible.
Adage.

Tawedig, a. (taw) Silenced, being hushed.
Tawedogrwydd, s. m. (tawedawg) Taciturnity.

Goreu o gampau doethineb tawedogrwydd.

The best of the feats of wisdom is taciturnity.
Adage.

Tawedwst, a. (tawed—gwst) Murmuring.
Tawel, a. (taw—el) Calm, tranquil, serene, gentle; silent. Dyn tawel, a tacit person. Taweled yw yr hin! How serene the weather is!

Tawel awel, ti hirglyw:
Odid a fo moledyw,
Nam Urien, can nid yw!

Gently-breathing gale, wistfully art thou heard: scarcely is there one meriting fame, after Urien, since he is not!
Llywarch Hen.

Tros y rhiw tores yr haul
Wen bore wyneb siriol:
Mae'n deg min dydd,
Tawel tywydd.

Over the brow of the hill the sun has spread the morning smile of cheering countenance; fair is the verge of day, serene the weather.
Gro. Owain.

Tawelaidd, a. (tawel) Calm in a small degree.
Tawelawg, a. (tawel) Abounding with calmness.
Taweldra, s. m. (tawel) Calmness; serenity.
Taweledig, a. (tawel) Calmed, tranquillized.
Taweledigaeth, s. m. (taweledig) The state of being made calm or serene.
Taweledd, s. m. (tawel) Calmness, serenity.
Taweli, s. m. (tawel) A calm or still state.
Taweliad, s. m. (tawel) A calming, a stilling.
Taweliannawl, a. (taweliant) Tranquillous.
Taweliannu, v. a. (taweliant) To produce calmness; to become a calm.
Taweliannus, a. (taweliant) Tranquillous.
Taweliant, s. m. (tawel) A making serene.
Tawelin, a. (tawel) Of a calm tendency.

Oen Duw——
Brenin tawelin wyt ti!

Lamb of God, a tranquillizing king art thou.
H. D. ab Ifan.

Tawelu, v. a. (tawel) To calm, to tranquillize, to soothe; to silence; to become calm or serene: Pan dawelo ton y mor, when the wave of the sea grows calm: Ti ddyn, tawela dy far, thou man, calm thy rage.
Tawelus, a. (tawel) Of a serene tendency.
Tawelusaw, v. a. (tawelus) To render of a serene tendency; to become tranquillous.
Tawelusder, s. m. (tawelus) Tranquillousness.
Tawelusdra, s. m. (tawelus) Tranquillousness.
Tawelusrwydd, s. m. (tawelus) Tranquillousness, calmness, serenity.
Tawelwch, s. m. (tawel) Calmness, serenity; gentleness; stillness. Tawelwch angeu, the stillness of death.
Tawelwr, s. m.—pl. tawelwyr (tawel—gwr) A calmer, one who makes still.
Tawf, s. m. (taw) A stretched or extended state.
Tawg, s. f. (taw) That is lengthened, or stretched out in length.
Tawgar, a. (taw) Disposed to be silent.

Doeth pob tawgar.

Wise is every silent one.
Adage.

Tawiad, s. m. (taw) A quelling, a silencing.
Tawl, s. m.—pl. tolion (ta—awl) A cast off, a throw; a take off; a separation; a cut off; an interruption; a diminishing.

Goronwy rwysg greidiawl,
Caer ar aer, car arwrawl,
Cedeirn ostwng, deilwng dawl.

Goronwy of ardent course, the bulwark of battle, a heroic friend, the debaser of the mighty ones, a meritorious throw.
G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tawlfwrdd, s. m.—pl. tawlfyrddau (tawl—bwrdd) A throw board, a certain game, seemingly like the present game of backgammon.

Tawlfwrdd chweugaint a dal; ac fal hyn y rhenir, triugaint ar y werin wynion, a thriugaint ar y brenin a'i werin.

A throw-board its value is six score pence; and is thus proportioned, three score on the white men, and three score on the king and his men.
Welsh Laws.

Tawlffon, s. f.—pl. tawlffyn (tawl—ffon) A throwing staff, an engine for throwing darts.
Tawlgar, a. (tawl) Apt to put aside; apt to throw off; interruptive.
Tawlgarwch, s. m. (tawlgar) Apt to put aside, aptness to throw off.
Tawliad, s. m. (tawl) A casting off; a throwing; a taking off; a separating; a cutting off; a diminishing; an interrupting.
Tawlnerth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tawl—nerth) Projectile force.
Tawlrym, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tawl—grym) Projectile power.
Tawlu, v. a. (tawl) To cast off, to throw; to take off; to separate; to interrupt.

Gwell asyn a'm dyco no march a'm tawlo.

Better an ass that will carry me than a horse that will throw me.
Adage.

Tawr, s. m.—pl. torion (taw) A covering, surface

Awn i'r llwyni arilonaidd,
A theced tawr y llawr llaidd.

Let us go to the pleasure inciting groves, as the covering of the luxuriant ground is so fair.
D. ab Gwilym.

TE, s. m. r. That is spread or extended.
Teb, s. m. (te—eb) The state of being assimilated; a type.
Tebed, s. m. (teb) A prospect, a spectacle.

Pell debed hyd o Iwerddon,
Teg ffaw ddilysgiaw Cesarogion.

A far prospect if extending from Ireland, the splendid preeminence of sending away the men of Cæsar.
Ym. Lludd. Mawr.

Gwelais, o arfawd aerfab Gruffudd,
Rhalluoedd trwch, tebed wosudd.

I have seen, from the stroke of the warlike son of Gruffudd, broken armies, a scene of wonder.
Gwalchmai.

Tebedawg, a. (tebed) Having a prospect.

A'i lasawg tebedawg tra mordwy alon.

With his blue streamer displayed whilst the foes range the sea. Aneurin.

Tebedu, v. a. (tebed) To render prospective.

Tebig, a. (teb) Similar, like; probable.

Nid ef a byrth dyn ei debig.

A person will not bear his like. Adage.

Tebu, v. a. (teb) To assimilate; to typify.

Tebyg, a. (teb) Similar, like. Tebyg iawn, very likely. Tebyced yw hwn i ti! how like this is to thee! Tebycaf peth, the most likely thing.

Tri pheth tebyg y naill i'r llall: ysgubawr deg heb yd, mail deg heb ddiawd, a merch deg heb ei geirda.

Three things similar to one another: a fine barn without corn, a fine goblet without drink, and a fine woman without her reputation. Catwg Ddoeth.

Nid tebyg hyn i ddrych cenadau: ef tebycach hyn i elynion, a fynynt wneuthur trais, a goresgyn gwladoedd.

This is not like the appearance of messengers; more like is this to enemies, that would commit a trespass, and conquer countries. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tebygadwy, a. (tebyg) Capable of being like; comparable; presumable.

Tebygawl, a. (tebyg) Tending to be like or similar; likely, probable, presumptive. Tebygawl genyf y byddi di yno, I presume that thou wilt be there.

Tebygedig, a. (tebyg) Being likened; assimilated; compared; imagined.

Tebygiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tebyg) A likening, a comparing; a thinking probable.

Tebygiaeth, s. m. (tebyg) The act of likening or comparing; comparison; imagination.

Nid wyf fi ar fedr dannod un pechawd iddo, yn amgen no thrwy ymadrawdd o debygiaeth.

I am not upon the intention of upbraiding him with one sin, otherwise than through speaking from comparison. S. Trefredyn.

Tebygiannawl, a. (tebygiant) Tending to similitude; comparative; conjectural.

Tebygiannu, v. a. (tebygiant) To make a similitude; to make a comparison.

Tebygiant, s. m. (tebyg) A similitude.

Tebygoldeb, s. m. (tebygawl) Similarity; probableness.

Tebygoli, v. a. (tebygawl) To render similar; to render likely or probable; to compare.

Tebygolrwydd, s. m. (tebygawl) Similarity; likeliness, likelihood, probability.

Tebygrwydd, s. m. (tebyg) Similitude; likelihood; probableness; conjecture.

Tebygu, v. a. (tebyg) To render similar; to assimilate; to compare; to presume, to think probable, to deem, to conjecture; to be like.

Hen a wyr, ieuanc a debyg.

The aged knows, the young supposes. Adage.

Cas a debyco orfod o falchder.

Hateful is he that thinks to overcome through haughtiness. Adage.

Tebygaf ni wyddant hwy ddim i wrth filwriaeth, wrth eu bod yn preswyllaw eithr y byd yn mewn yr eigiawn; ac ysgafn, herwydd y tebygaf, fydd eu cymhell hwynt i dalu teyrnged.

I think it likely that they know nothing of military matters, from their being inhabiting without the world in the ocean; and easy, as I imagine, will it be to compel them to pay tribute. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tebygwr, s. m.—pl. tebygwyr (tebyg—gwr) One who supposes, one who compares.

Tecâad, s. m. (teg) A rendering fair or fine; a becoming fair or beautiful.

Tri thecâad cerdd: bardd grebwyll, bardd berthynas, a bardd gywreingamp ar fydrau.

The three ornaments of song: fine conception, fine connexion, and a fine masterly skill in the metres. Barddas.

Tecâawl, a. (tecâu) Tending to make fair or fine; tending to become fair.

Tecâu, v. a. (teg) To make fair; to become fair.

Teclyn, s. m. dim. (tacl) A tool, an instrument.

Tech, s. m. (te—ech) A sculk, a lurk, a hide.

Techawg, a. (tech) Of a disposition to sculk.

Techawl, a. (tech) Sculking, or lurking.

Techiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tech) A sculking.

Techial, s. m. (tech) A frequent sculking. v. a. To be sculking continually.

Techialu, v. a. (techial) To sculk continually.

Techu, v. a. (tech) To sculk, to lurk, to lie hidden

Cynddylan, ni thechai troedfedd byth.

Cynddylan, he would never sculk a foot. Llywarch Hen.

Aerwalch eirf ni theirf, ni thelch.

The slaughter-hawk of arms will not recede, will not sculk. Prydydd Bychan.

Techus, a. (tech) Disposed to sculk or lurk.

Techusaw, v. a. (techus) To render sculking; to become disposed to sculk.

Techusdra, s. m. (techus) Aptness to sculk.

Techwr, s. m.—pl. techwyr (tech—gwr) A sculker, a lurker.

Techydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tech) A sculker.

Techyn, s. m. dim. (tech) A sculking fellow.

Ted, s. m. (te—ed) A stretch, a distended state.

Tedu, v. a. (ted) To stretch out, to distend.

Tedyn, s. m. dim. (ted) Anything distended.

Tedd, s. m. (te—edd) A spread; a display; a range, a row.

Nifer hyn, os nef ar hynt
Am ei gael, i'mogelynt,
Wedi'r cig rhost, fost feithrin,
Ar liain gwyn fain, a gwin,
A'r gwleddau, a'r gwarau gwiwreg,
A'r gwreigedd eurwedd, tedd teg.

This number, if heaven were of course to be obtained, they would keep themselves aloof; after the roasted viand, a boasted fare, and the fine white linen and wine, and the feasts, and the emulating games, and the women bedecked with gold, a fair display. S. Cent.

Teddawg, a. (tedd) Being spread, displayed.

Teddawl, a. (tedd) Spreading, displayed.

Teddiad, s. m. (tedd) A spreading out; a displaying; a disposing in a row.

Teddu, v. a. (tedd) To spread out, to display.

Teddus, a. (tedd) Tending to spread or display.

Teddyf, s. m. (tedd) A socket, a hollow for receiving a handle, or the like.

Y gof llys a ddyly—gwneuthur rheidiau y llys yn rhad, eithr tri pheth; sef ynt y rhai hyny, gwarthaf chant callawr, a chwll cwlltr, a theddyf bwyall gynnud a phen gwaew.

The smith of the palace ought to perform all the jobs of the palace gratuitously, except three things; those are particularly, the rim of a pot, the edge of a coulter, and the socket of a hatchet and of a spear head. Welsh Laws.

Tefawg, a. (taf) Respectable, or of repute. Dyn tefawg, a respectable person. Dyfed.

Tefig, a. (taf) Over-spreading; sovereign.

Pen aig o nef, pen a'n gwnaeth,
Pen defig pob pen difeth.

The supreme source of heaven, the supreme that made us, the sovereign head of every infallible head. L. G. Cothi.

Tefin, a. (taf) Of a spreading tendency.

Tefydd, s. m. (taf) That is ample or large.

Tefyddawg, a. (tefydd) Having possession. Dyn tefyddawg, a person of consequence.

Tefu, v. a. (taf) To spread, to become spread.

Teg, a. (te—eg) That opens out, that is clear or smooth; clear, fair; beautiful, pretty, bland. Hin deg, fair weather; chwarae teg, fair play; gwartheg teg, fine cattle.

A ddialo air hagr rhoed ateb teg.

He that would revenge a harsh word let him give a gentle reply. Adage.

Ni thyr pen er dywedyd yn deg.

The head will not break on account of speaking fairly. Adage.

Teg yd gan yr aderyn ar berwydd bren,
Uch pen Gwen, cyn ei olo tan dywarch;
Briwai galch Llywarch Hen.

Fair the song of the bird on the apple tree, over the head of Gwen, before he was covered under the sod; he was wont to bruise the armour of old Llywarch. Llywarch Hen.

Tegâad, s. m. (tegâu) A rendering fair or fine; an adorning; a becoming fair.

Tegâawl, a. (tegâu) Tending to render fair; tending to become fair; beautifying.

Tegaidd, a. (teg) Somewhat fair; fairish.

Tegan, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (teg) A pretty thing, a toy, a bauble, a jewel.

Anwybodus a ddengys yn fuan a wyr, fal plentyn yn dangaws tegan.

The ignorant will quickly shew all he knows, like a child shewing his toy. Adage.

Teganaidd, a. (tegan) Like a plaything.

Teganawg, a. (tegan) Having a plaything.

Teganwaith, s. m. (tegan—gwaith) Toywork.

Teganwr, s. m.—pl. teganwyr (tegan—gwr) A toyman.

Tegâu, v. a. (teg) To render clear, smooth, or fair, to beautify; to appease; to become clear, smooth, or fair.

Tegawl, a. (teg) Tending to make fair.

Tegedd, s. m. (teg) Fairness, clearness, fineness.

Tegeirian, s. m. (teg—eirian) Orchis, cullions, or dog's stones, also called baldar, ceilliau y ci, eirin y ci, tegeirian y waen, meadow orchis.

Tegid, s. m. (teg) Fairness, or beauty.

Tegrwydd, s. m. (teg) Fairness, fineness.

Tegu, v. a. (teg) To make fair, to beautify.

Tegwch, s. m. (teg) Clearness, fairness, fineness; beauty; fine weather. Gwir degwch, perfect beauty.

Tegwch a gosgedd dyniawl—cynt y derfydd ac y diflana, nog anwadalwch blodau y gwanwyn.

The beauty and symmetry of the human form, will sooner end and vanish, than the fleetingness of the blossoms of the spring. Hanes Diwedd Arthur.

Tegwedawg, a. (teg—gwedawg) Fair spoken.

Tegwedd, s. f. (teg—gwedd) A fair appearance. a. Of a fair appearance.

Tegwel, s. m. (teg—gwel) A fair countenance. a. Of a fair aspect.

A phan ei ieuenctyd ymaith,
A'i degwel digam,
——Ni ddaw eilwaith.

So when youth shall pass away, with its fair aspect, it will not come a second time. H. Morus.

Tegychawl, a. (tegwch) Of a tendency to fairness; beautifying, adorning.

Tegychiad, s. m. (tegwch) A rendering fair or fine; an embellishing; a becoming fair.

Tegychu, v. a. (tegwch) To render of a clear or fair aspect; to adorn, to embellish; to become fair; to become fine weather.

Teidiawg, a. (taid) Having a grandfather.

Teidiawl, a. (taid) Belonging to a grandfather.

Teilai, s. m. (tel) The dipsacus, or teasel: teilai gwyllt, wild teasel; teilai mawr, fuller's teasel

Teilaw, v. a. (tail) To spread manure.

Teilawg, a. (tail) Manured, having dung.

Teilchion, s. pl. aggr. (talch) Fragments, pieces, shatters. Dyna fo yn deilchion man, there it is all in shatters.

Teilfa, s. f. (tail) A place for manure; a dunghill

Teilfforch, s. f.—pl. teilffyrch (tail—fforch) A dung-fork.

Teiliad, s. m. (tail) A spreading of manure.

Teiliedig, a. (teiliad) Covered with manure.

Teilig, a. (tel) Tending to cover, enveloping.

Teiling, a. (tel) Meet to cover, enveloping; meet. Lluryg deiling, an enveloping armour.

Nog y bydd cyfing gwlydd teiling gwledd.

Than there shall be scanty the covering delicacy of the banquet G. ab Gwrgenau.

Teiliwr, s. m.—pl. teiliwyr (teln—gwr) A maker of habits, a tailor.

Teiliwriaeth, s. m. (teiliwr) A tailor's trade.

Teiliwriaw, v. a. (teiliwr) To work as a tailor.

Teilw, a. (tel) Gentle, or yielding; complying.

Owain——
Gwr telaid teulnoedd lochi;
Gwr teilw, teilwng ei foli.

Owain, a comely man protecting of families; a meek man, worthy to be praised. H. Foel ab Grifri.

Teilwng, a. (tal—wng) Worthy, meritorious; merited, deserved, genuine.

Teilwr, s. m.—pl. teilwyr (tail—gwr) A manurer; a dungman, a muckman.

Teilyngawl, a. (teilwng) Tending to render worthy; meritorious.

Teilyngdawd, s. m. (teilwng) Merit, desert, right, deservedness, worthiness.

Cyfodes Eudaf iarll Erging ac Euas yn erbyn y tywysogion, a ry adawsai Cystenyn yn cynnal yr ynys wrth Rufeinlawl deilyngdawd.

Eudaf the earl of Erging and Euas rose against the princes, which had been left by Constantine to maintain the island under the Roman jurisdiction. Gr. ab Arthur.

Teilyngdra, s. m. (teilwng) Meritoriousness.

Teilyngedig, a. (teilwng) Being deserved.

Teilyngedd, s. m. (teilwng) Meritoriousness.

Teilyngiad, s. m. (teilwng) A rendering worthy.

Teilyngrwydd, s. m. (teilwng) Worthiness.

Teilyngu, v. a. (teilwng) To render worthy; to think worthy; to vouchsafe.

Teilyngus, a. (teilwng) Tending to make worthy.

Teilyngwr, s. m.—pl. teilyngwyr (teilwng—gwr) One who makes worthy.

Teimlad, s. m.—pl. t. au (teimyl) A sensation.

Teimladaidd, a. (teimlad) Somewhat sensible.

Teimladawl, a. (teimlad) Of a feeling nature.

Teimladedig, a. (teimlad) Endued with feeling.

Teimladedd, s. m. (teimlad) Feelingness.

Teimladrwydd, s. m. (teimlad) Feelingness.

Teimladwy, a. (teimlad) Capable of feeling, sensible; capable of being felt.

Teimlaw, v. a. (teimyl) To feel; to feel by the touch; to be sensible.

Hen y teimler ergydion a gaed yn ieuanc.

In age will be felt the blows that have been obtained in youth. Adage.

Na fyno weled ei ynfydrwydd heddyw, fe ei teimla e fory.

He that desires not to see his foolishness to-day he will feel it to-morrow. Adage.

Trais y cedeirn a'u hymdrin
Ar y llafurgar werin,
Gwae a'u teimyl! gwae dysgethrin!

The tyranny of the mighty and their trespass on the laborious multitude, woe to such as feel them! dreadful woe! Geraint Fardd Glas.

Teimlawd, s. m. (teimyl) Feeling, sensation.

Teimledig, a. (teimyl) Being felt; touched.

Teimledigaeth, s. m. (teimledig) A being endued with feeling.

Teimlfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (teimyl) The seat of feeling.

Teimliad, s. m.—pl. teimliaid (teimyl) A feeling, a touching.

Teimlwr, s. m.—pl. teimlwyr (teimyl—gwr) A feeler.

Teimlydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (teimyl) A feeler, a toucher.

Iubal oedd dad pob teimlydd telyn ac organ.

Jubal was the father of every one who handles the harp and organ. Genesis 4. 21.

Teimyl, s. m. (tem) The faculty of feeling.

Teirawdl, s. pl. aggr. (tair—awdl) Three rhymes. a. Consisting of three rhymes. Englyn teirawdl, englyn milwr, triban.

Teirawr, s. pl. aggr. (tair—awr) Three hours. a. Of three hours duration.

Teirblwydd, s. pl. aggr. (tair—blwydd) Three years. a. Of three years.

Teircaill, s. m. (tair—caill) The small ragwort.

Teirdalen, s. pl. aggr. (tair—dalen) Three leaves. a. Three-leaved, trefoil. Surain teirdalen, wood-sorrel.

Teirgwaith, s. pl. aggr. (tair—gwaith) Three times. a. Of three times.

Doeth a dwyllir deirgwaith, ni thwyllir drud ond unwaith.

The wise will be deceived three times, the bold will be deceived but once. Adage.

Teiriaith, s. pl. aggr. (tair—iaith) Three languages. a. Of three languages.

Teirieithawg, a. (teiriaith) Having three languages

Teirnos, s. pl. aggr. (tair—nos) Three nights. a. Of three nights.

Teirodlawg, a. (teirawdl) Having three rhymes.

Teirongl, s. pl. aggr. (tair—ongl) Three angles; that is of three angles. a. Of three angles.

Teironglawg, a. (teirongl) Triangular.

Teirongli, v. a. (teirongl) To form a triangle.

Teirrhan, s. pl. aggr. (tair—rhan) Three parts or shares. a. Of three shares.

Teirrhanawl, a. (teirrhan) Tripartite.

Teirthon, s. f. (tarth) An ague fit; a fever.

Pedair teirthon y sydd.

There are four sorts of fevers. Meddygon Myddfai.

Teisban, s. f.—pl. t. au (tais—pan) A middle space, a central point; an origin, or stock; what spreads out, an overspread; any cloth worked over; a piece of tapestry; a quilt; a hassock; a kind of seat or stool made of straw-work; otherwise called tinpan; also an epithet for a fat heavy wench. Teisban y ddwyffroen, the gristle that divides the nostrils: Doda deisban arno yn ei wely, put a quilt over him in his bed.

Gwaethaf i'r yd rhyfel teisban.

The worst for the corn is an intestine war. Adage.

Oed Crist 777——y bu ryfel teisban rhwng y Deheuwyr a'u brenin.

The year of Christ 777 there was an intestine war between the South Wales men and their king. Carad. Llangarfan.

Teisbanawg, a. (teisban) Having a central space; central, intestine; having a spread.

Teisbanteulu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (teisban—teulu) The central place of a family; a family stock; a representative of a family.

Galwes Hywel ato holl bencenedloedd gwlad, a'u teisbanteuluoedd, a phob doethion a dysgedigion o wyr llên a lleygion, yn ddygynnull gorsedd, hyd y Ty Gwyn.

Hywel called to him all the heads of tribes of the country, with their family representatives, and all the wise and the learned men of the laity and the clergy, in a general convention, to the White House. Car. Llangarfan.

Teisbantyle, s. m. (teisban—tyle) A dormitory squab or couch; a centre or representative of a family; a mediator, an arbitrator.

Teisbantyle, sef yw hwnw gwr cyfrwng, yn llys, ac yn llan, ac yn nghammawn, ac yn mhob pellenigaeth; efe a fydd o ddoethion y genedl, gan raith penteuloedd y genedl, ac yn gydgyfarail ag y pencenedl, yn mhob rhaith a dygynnull gwlad.

The representative, who is the mediating man, in court, and in congregation, and in combat, and in every foreign affair; he is to be of the wise men of the tribe, by the vote of the heads of families of the tribe, and to be a coadjutor with the head of the tribe, in every vote and convention of a country. Trioedd Dyfnwal.

Tri marchogaeth a ddyrchaif fraint dyn, pryd as gallo hwynt: marchogaeth i luydd, a dadlau, a llan. Sef fydd efe yna teisbantyle; ac mwy fydd y gosb am ei ladd, no phetai ar ei wedd ei hun.

Three cavalcades extend the right of a man, at the time he can perform them: to ride to warfare, to a court of law, and to church. For he is then a family representative; and more will be the punishment for killing him, than if he were on his own concern. Welsh Laws.

Teisbanu, v. a. (teisban) To form a central space; to originate; to spread out; to form a hassock.

Teisen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (tais) A cake. Teisen briodas, a bride cake.

Goreu rhan o'r deisen an à gaffr.

The best share of the cake is the one that is obtained. Adage.

Teisenan, s. f. dim. (teisen) A little cake.

Teiseniad, s. m. (teisen) A caking.

Teisenig, s. f. dim. (teisen) A small cake.

Teisenu, v. a. (teisen) To form into a cake.

Teithawl, a. (taith) Wayfaring, itinerant.

Teithdrwydded, s. f.—pl. t. au (taith—trwydded) A passport.

Teithedig, a. (taith) Journeyed, or travelled.

Teithgynnwys, s. m. (taith—cynnwys) A passport.

Teithi, s. m. (taeth) Faculty, quality, characteristic; the peculiar trait, which distinguishes one thing from others; the peculiar state of a being, or its perfection. Teithi gwraig, the female catamenia. Welsh Laws.

Teithi trais yw, llef, a chorn, a chwyn.

The characteristics of trespass are, a shout, and horn, and complaint. Welsh Laws.

O hola dyn 24 i'r mach, a dywedyd o'r amddiffynwr mai 12 a ddyly efe, aed yr hawl yn edryd y mach; ac os yntau a ddywed mai am 6 cheiniog y rhoed efe yn fach, taled y cwbl, am na wnaeth teithi mach, am na ddywed yr un o'r ddau edryd.

If a person should sue the bail for twenty-four pence, and the defendant should say that what he owes is twelve pence, let the claim be referred to the statement of the bail; but if he should say that for six-pence he was held to bail, let him pay the whole, forasmuch as he did not perform the functions of a surety, because he declares neither of the two statements. Welsh Laws.

Teithi cath yw, bod yn gyfglust, gyflygad, gyfewin, gyflosgwrn, difan o dan, a lladd llygod, ac na chatterica bob lloer, ac na yso ei chenawon: a'i gwerth yw ei theithi.

The perfections of a cat are, that she be complete in ears, complete in eyes, complete in nails, complete in tail, not spotted with fire, and killing mice, and that she doth not go a rutting every moon, and that she devours not her young; and her value are her perfections. Welsh Laws.

Mi Feilyr Brydydd, bererin i Bedr,
Porthawr a gymmedr gymmes deithi.

I Meilyr the Poet, a pilgrim to Peter, a porter who regulates appropriate perfections. Meilyr.

Teithiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (taith) A travelling.

Am y fun——
Adwythedig ei deithiadau
A fwrw bradau drwy fawr brydiad.

On account of the fair one, vexatious his journeyings, who forms deceptions, through great study. Gwilym Owain.

Teithiannawl, a. (teithiant) Itinerary.

Teithiannu, v. a. (teithiant) To make a journey.

Teithiannus, a. (teithiant) Itinerant.

Teithiant, s. m. (taith) A journeying.

Teithiator, ger. (teithiad) In journeying.

Teithiaw, v. a. (taith) To travel, to journey.

Teithïawg, a. (teithi) Having faculties, qualities, or traits; characteristic; perfect as to character.

Arddwyreaf hael o hil Rodri;
Ardwyad gorwlad, gwerlin teithi;
Teithiawg Prydain,
Twyth afrdwyth Owain,
Teyrnain nj grain, ni grawn rei.

I will exalt the bounteous one of the offspring of Rodri; the curber of the country's border, endued with the characteristics of an illustrious race; having a right to Britain's throne, Owain the active one in the course of wrath, a prince who will not succumb, who hoards not pelf. Gwalchmai.

I neuadd Arthur, namyn mab brenin gwlad teithiawg, neu i gerddawr a ddyco ei gerdd, ni ater i mewn.

Into the hall of Arthur, except the son of a king of a country of acknowledged right, or to an artist who brings his art, none will be suffered to enter. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Teithiawl, a. (taith) Journeying, travelling.

Teithïawl, a. (teithi) Of perfect concurrency, character, faculty, or quality; characteristic; perfect. Anifel teithïawl, a beast in which all natural qualities are perfect : March teithïawl, a sound horse.

Nawfeddydd Mai y dyly buwch fod yn deithïawl; dawed llaeth o ben pob teth iddi; ac ymdaith o'i llo naw cam yn ei hol.

The ninth day of May a cow ought to be complete as to natural qualities; the milk coming through the end of every dug; and that her calf walk nine paces after her. Welsh Laws.

Teithiedig, a. (teithiad) Journeyed, travelled.

Teithig, a. (taith) Being characteristical.

Teithigrwydd, s. m. (teithig) Characteristicalness.

Ych yn ei gyflawn deithigrwydd.

An ox in his complete state of natural qualities. Welsh Laws.

Teithiwr, s. m.—pl. teithiwyr (taith—gwr) A journeyer, a traveller.

Teithlyfr, s. m.—pl. t. au (taith—llyfr) A journey-book, an itinerary.

Teithwg, s. m. (taith) A wayfaring, a journeying.

Teithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (taith) A traveller.

Teithygawl, a. (teithwg) Belonging to wayfaring.

Teithygiad, s. m. (teithwg) A making a journey.

Teithygu, v. a. (teithwg) To make a journey.

Tèl, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—el) That is straight, that is drawn tight or strict, that is on a stretch, a tightness; a stricture; that keeps on a stretch, or props up; a straight line; a warp, in weaving; telau are also teats, as of a sow, and of a bitch; also a suppressed laugh, titter, or giggle. a. Tight, strict, compact, stretched, on the stretch; straight, prompt. Dàl yn dèl ar y gwir, to keep strictly to the truth. Daethost yn dèl iawn y ffordd hono, thou didst come very exactly that way.

Dos a'th dèl, was ffel; nes ffoli, rhodia
Ar hyder dy feistri.

Away with thy titter, thou sly fellow; until thy folly is complete, range about on the credit of thy mastery. Huw Daf. Probert.

Tel, s. m.—pl. t. au (te—el) That is even, regular, smooth, or compact; that is fair; a regulator, or standard measure of capacity, and of length; in South Wales, a corn measure, equal to 5½ bushels, and in North Wales 4 bushels, divided into 8 parts. In some places Tèl is for capacity, and Ystaca, for long measure; but in others they are reversed. a. Even, regular, compact; fair.

Telai, s. m.—pl. teleion (tèl) That is strained or even; that is regular; a kind of thistle; the teasel. Telai gwyllt, teilai gwyllt, the common or wild teasel.

Telaid, s. m. (tèl) That is stretched, or tightened; that is even, smooth, or of fair appearance. a. Fair, beautiful, graceful. Teleidion, graceful ones, the graces.

Llary delaid honaid hael.

A mild graceful one famed for being generous. Bleddyn Fardd.

Ef mwyaf, y medd adroddiaid;
Ef haelaf, ef tecaf telaid.

He is the greatest, as minstrels declare; he the most generous, he the fairest graceful one. Ll. P. Moch, i R. ab Owain.

Gnawd tawel yn delaid.

It is genial for the silent to be graceful. Adage.

Bendigwch Dduw telaid.

Bless ye God full of grace. Dafydd Ddu.

Telaid, s. m.—pl. teleidiau (tel) The measure, or contents, of a tel, a tel-full.

Telaidd, a. (tel) Somewhat strained, tight, even, or compact; harmonious.

Telain, v. a. (tèl) To put on a stretch; to break out as a suppressed laugh; to titter, to giggle.

Telain, a. (tel) Being on the stretch; being made smooth, fair or tight.

Telan, s. f.—pl. t. au (tèl) A harp; but telyn is now the general name for it.

Telawd, s. m. (tèl) The act of stretching or tightening.

Telawr, s. m.—pl. telorion (tèl) A warbler; the goldfinch, also called pinc; telawr y coed, the woodlark.

Telc, s. m. (tèl) A straightened state; a shrink.

Telciad, s. m. (telc) A shrinking, a crimpling.

Telcu, v. a. (telc) To shrink up, to crimple.

Telchyn, s. m. dim. (talch) A small fragment.

Teled, s. m. (tel) That is stretched or strained.

Teledawg, a. (teled) Being on the stretch, or straitened. s. m. A jealous one.

Teledig, a. (tel) Handsome, or comely.

Teledigrwydd, s. m. (teledig) Handsomeness.

Telediw, a. (teled) Compact; perfect; of fair aspect, comely, handsome, beautiful. Gwas telediw, a handsome youth; rhian delediw, a beautiful woman; eidion telediw, a beast that is perfect in its kind.

Telediwrwydd, s. m. (telediw) Compactness; comeliness, handsomeness; gracefulness.

Ych a ymadawo a'i delediwrwydd, ni ddylëid ei ddamdwng yn gymaint a 60; canys ei werth yn ei delediwrwydd oedd 60.

An ox that shall lose his perfectiveness, should not be subject to a rate equal to 60 pence; for his value in his perfectiveness was 60 pence. Welsh Laws.

Helen Lüyddawg, pryd hono hagen a'i theledirwrwydd, ni cheffid yn yr ynysedd yn ei chylch a'i cyffelypai.

Helen with the numerous host, as to her form then and her gracefulness, there should not be found in the islands round her any to compare with her. Gr. ab Arthur.

Teleidiad, s. m. (telaid) A rendering comely, beautiful, or graceful; a becoming comely, or graceful.

Teleidiaw, v. a. (telaid) To render comely, elegant, or graceful; to become comely or graceful.

Teleidiawg, a. (telaid) Abounding with comeliness, elegance, or grace.

Teleidiawl, a. (telaid) Tending to render comely, or graceful; tending to become elegant.

Teleidrwydd, s. m. (telaid) Comeliness; elegance; gracefulness.

Teleiddiad, s. m. (telaidd) A rendering even, consonant, or harmonious.

Teleiddiaw, v. a. (telaidd) To produce harmony; to practise minstrelsy.

Teleiddwr, s. m.—pl. teleiddwyr (telaidd—gwr) A minstrel, a songster.

Cwyned cerddorion cynnil,
A theleiddwyr, mwynwyr mil.

Let correct musicians complain, and minstrels, a thousand pleasant men. Wat. ab Hywel. m. T. W. Hywel, bardd a thelynior.

Teleiddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (telaidd) A songster.

Teleiniad, s. m. (telain) A playing the harp.

Teleiniaw, v. a. (telain) To play the harp.

Teleiniwr, s. m.—pl. teleinwyr (telan—gwr) A harper. Ll. Llandaf.

Teler, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) That keeps tight or stretched: a stretcher; a compact, or condition. Teler llif hir, the handle, and frame, of a long saw: Ar y teleran hyny, on those conditions. Dyfed.

Telg, s. m. (tel) A straitened state, a shrink, a crimple.

Telging, a. (telg—ing) Constricted; crimpled.

Wyt telging, enaid Talgarth.

Thou art constricted, thou soul of Talgarth. D. ab Edmwnt.

Telgorn, s. m.—pl. telgyrn (tel—corn) A hautboy.

Telgwn, s. m. (telc—wn) A rebound; a stagger.

Telgwng, s. m. (telg—wng) A crimpling.

Telgynawd, s. m. (telgwn) A resiliency.

Telgyniad, s. m. (telgwn) A rebounding.

Telgynu, v. a. (telgwn) To rebound; to stagger.

Telgyngawd, s. m. (telgwng) A crimpling.

Telgyngawg, a. (telgwng) Crimpling; staggering.

Telgyngiad, s. m. (telgwng) A crimpling.

Telgyngu, v. a. (telgwng) To crimple; to stagger, to falter. Cei ddyrnawd a wna i ti delgyngu, thou shalt have a blow that will cause thee to stagger.

Teli, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) The being compact, or tight; exactness; an art.

Teliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) A rendering stretched, a tightening; a making smooth or fair.

Telïad, s. m. (teli) A rendering compact; an acting ingeniously.

Telïaidd, a. (teli) Being compact, or tightly put together; ingenious. Dyn telïaidd iawn, a very ingenious person. Sil.

Chwi sydd heb——
Na bri teliaidd, na braint
Hoenus, ond a fyn henaint.

You are without any ingenious pre-eminence, or active quality, save what old age doth claim. Gro. William.

Teliaw, v. a. (tel) To strain, to tighten; to make accordant.

Telïaw, v. a. (teli) To put compactly together; to practise any ingenious art.

Ai Ceraint Fardd Glas yn fardd teliaw at Aelfryd frenin Lloegr.

Ceraint the Blue Bard went as a bard of art to Alfred king of England. Ed. Dafydd.

Telid, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèl) That is combined tightly; a compact frame; elegance; gracefulness.

Gwneynt eu perorion
Oferwynt heb don;
Gwneynt eu telidau
Yn oes oesau
Dydwyth dyddycawd
O ddyfnwedydd gwawd.

Their musicians would produce a fruitless wind without sound; their instruments would ever make from the effect of vibration a profound flow of praise. Taliesin.

Telitor, sup. (tal) To be requiting; to be paying.

Os llygrir yd i neb yn ymyl trefgordd, ac na chaffo y perchenawg ddaly un llwdn arno, cymered efe grair a doed i'r dref: ac or tyngant iw diarnabod, taleut yr yd i rif y llwdn: a'r gyfraith hono a elwir telitor gwedi halawglw.

If the corn of any one shall be damaged on the border of a township, and the owner shall not be able to catch one beast upon it, let him take the relicks and then come to the town; and if they shall swear an oath of ignorance of the fact, let them pay for the corn to the number of the beast: and that law is called paying after a polluted oath. Welsh Laws.

Teliw, a. (tèl) Being stretched or expanded.

Telm, s. f.—pl. t. au (tel) A gimcrack; a toy; a springe.

Y fiaren——
Telm yw ar lethr bron talar.

The briar, a snare is it on the headland slope. D. ab Gwilym.

Telma, v. a. (telm) To play with toys; to trifle.

Telmaidd, a. (telm) Toyish; like a snare.

Telmiad, s. m. (telm) A toying; a laying a snare.

Telmu, v. a. (telm) To form a toy; to snare.

Telmyn, s. m. dim. (telm) A little toy; a trap.

Telori, v. a. (telawr) To warble, to be warbling.

Telpyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (talp) A small lump.

Telpynawg, a. (telpyn) Having small lumps.

Telpyniad, s. m. (telpyn) A forming small lumps.

Telpynu, v. a. (telpyn) To form small lumps.

Telu, v. a. (tèl) To put on a stretch, to strain; to make compact or regular.

Telwr, s. m.—pl. telwyr (tèl—gwr) One who strains; one who makes compact.

Telydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tèl) One who strains or draws tight; a harmonist.

Telyn, s. f.—pl. t. au (tèl) What is stretched, what is compact or straight, what is in even row; a harp; also the ribs and whole side of a carcase, when divided into two. Sil.

Pencerdd a ddyly i gan y cerddorion ieuainc, pan ymadawont a thelyn rawn, a mynu bod yn gerddorion cyweithas, ac yn eirchiaid, pedair ar ugaint o ariant yn ei obrwy.

The master of art ought to receive from young minstrels, when they leave off the hair-strung harp, and desire to become associated minstrels, and suitors, the sum of twenty-four of silver for his fee. Welsh Laws.

Nid oes nag angel, na dyn,
Nad wyl pan gano delyn.

There is nor angel, nor man, but would weep, when the harp resounds. D. ab Edmwnt.

Telynai, s. c.—pl. telyneion (telyn) A harpist.

Telynaidd, a. (telyn) Of the form of a harp.

Telynawr, s. m.—pl. telynorion (telyn) A harpist.

Telyn aur telynorion,
Ti sydd yn tewi a son!

The golden harp of the harpists, thou are becoming silent! D. ab Edmwnt, m. S. Bos.

Cor o saint——
Cu eu hodlau cybydlef,
Gwynion delynorion nef.

A choir of saints, lovely their accordant strains, the white-robed minstrels of heaven. Gro. Owain.

Telyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (telyn) A harping.

Telyniawr, s. m. (telyn) A harp player.

Telyniwr, s. m.—pl. telyniwyr (telyn—gwr) A harper, a harp player.

Telynores, s. f.—pl. t. au (telynawr) A female harpist.

Enwawg yth wnair, gair gyrddbwyll,
Armes, telynores twyll.

Eminent art thou made, of thought profound, the word, predicting thee the fair minstrel of deceit. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Telynoriad, s. m. (telynawr) A playing a harp.

Telynoriaw, v. a. (telyn) To play on the harp.

Telynwr, s. m.—pl. telynwyr (telyn—gwr) Harper

Telyr, s. m. (tèl) That constricts, or tightens.

Telyraw, v. a. (telyr) To keep on the stretch; to keep on, to persevere. Pa le buost, er ys llawer dydd, yr hen was, yn telyraw? Where hast thou been, for these many days, old boy, keeping it up? Sil.

Telyw, s. m. (tel) A covering, a garment.

Llem awel, llwm beayd er byw,
Pan orwisg coed telyw haf;
Terydd glaf wyf heddyw.

Sharp the gale, it is bare punishment to live, when the woods wear the robe of summer: I am severely ill this day. Llywarch Hen.

Tell, s. m. (te—ell) The state of being stretched over. a. Being stretched over.

Telliad, s. m. (tell) A stretching over; a covering.

Tellu, v. a. (tell) To stretch over; to cover.

Tellwedd, s. f. (tell—gwedd) A covered aspect; a covered state; an amnesty, or indemnity, in law.

Meddyg a ddyly gymeryd tellwedd i gan y genedl am archolledig, o bydd marw o'r feddyginiaeth a wnel efe; ac onis cymera, gwrthebed dros ei weithred.

A doctor ought to require an amnesty from the family for the wounded, in case he should die under the operation he may perform; and if he doth not take it, let him answer for his act. Welsh Laws.

Dall fyddar eyn tellwedd!

Blind and deaf before the grave! Gr. ab Gwrgenau.

Tellweddiad, s. m. (tellwedd) A burying in oblivion; a giving a release.

Tellweddu, v. a. (tellwedd) To bury in oblivion; to grant a release; to save harmless.

Tem, s. m. (te—em) A round spread or space.

Temig, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (tam) A particle, a small part, or portion. Yn demigau, by parts, by morsels, severally, or particularly. Sil.

Teml, s. m.—pl. t. au (tem) A temple, a church.

Teml, s. m. (tem) That is extended or expanded; that extends; a seat, a place of sitting.

Yn eistedd ar deml o irfrwyn—gweled macwy.

Sitting on a seat of green rushes, a youth was seen. H. Arthur—Mabinogion.

Temliad, s. m. (teml) A forming an expanse; a forming a seat; a forming a temple.

Temlu, v. a. (teml) To form an expanse; to form a seat.

Ten, a. (f. of tyn) Stretched, drawn, tight.

Tenau, a. (tan) Thin, rare, rarefied; lean.

Teneu, a. (tan) Thin, rare, rarefied; lean.

Teneuâad, s. m. (teneuâu) Attenuation.

Teneuâawl, a. (teneuâu) Tending to thinness, attenuating, rarefying.

Teneuad, s. m. (tenau) Emaciation, attenuation; rarification; a making thin.

Teneuadwy, a. (teneuad) Capable of thinning.

Teneuâu, v. a. (tenau) To make thin, to attenuate; to rarefy; to become thin.

Teneuaw, v. a. (tenau) To make thin; to become thin, to emaciate.

Teneuawl, a. (tenau) Tending to thinness, attenuating, emaciating.

Teneudeb, s. m. (tenau) Thinness; tenuity.

Teneuder, s. m. (tenau) Thinness; leanness.

Teneudra, s. m. (tenau) Thinness; leanness.

Teneuedig, a. (teneuad) Being thinned.

Teneuedd, s. m. (tenau) Thinness, tenuity.

Teneurwydd, s. m. (tenau) Thinness; leanness.

Teneuwe, s. f. (tenau—gwe) A fine web.

Tenewyn, s. m. (tan—gewyn) What is extended or stretched; a flank of an animal.

Tenlli, s. m. (tan—lli) That is thinly wove; Linsey-woolsey; shalloon.

Ni bydd tenlli yn llawdr rhingyll.

There shall be no shalloon in the trowse of a serjeant. Welsh Laws.

Tennyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (tant) A cord, a rope, a halter. Tennyn pen bawd, a rope made by twisting the stuff about the thumb.

Tent, s. m. (ten) That is stretched, or drawn tightly; a tent. a. Tightly drawn.

Mewn crys gwyn, tyn mal tent,
Yr af finnau i'r fynwent.

In a white shirt, tight like a tent, I also shall go to the grave. Bedo Brwynllys.

Y llong—Gweilgilgan gweilgi,
Coedwig dent, ceidw Iago di.

The ship, with a wake foaming the torrent, with stretched group of timbers, Iago will thee preserve. Rhys Nanmor, i'r llong.

Teng, s. m. (te—eng) That is tough. a. Tough, tenacious.

Tengl, s. f.—pl. t. au (teng) A girth.

Tengliad, s. m. (tengl) A tying with a girth.

Tenglu, v. a. (tengl) To tie with a girth.

Tengyn, s. m. (teng) That is tenacious; obstinacy. a. Tenacious, obstinate.

Dwys dengyn ydd ymleddyn' aergwn.

With persevering obstinacy the dogs of war would fight. Aneurin.

Gan rian ryfel dengyn.

With chiefs of inveterate war. Myrddin.

Teon, s. m. (te) That overspreads or is superior.

Yn ngharnial meirch marchogion;
Yn ngharneddian tau teon.

In the prancing of the steeds of knights, amid the stone piles, thine the superior. Llywelyn Fardd Cywryd.

Tepyn, s. m. dim. (tap) A small ledge or step.

Tepyniad, s. m. (tepyn) A forming a step.

Tepynu, v. a. (tepyn) To form a step or ledge.

Ter, s. m. (te—er) That is fine, clear, or transparent. a. Clear, fine, transparent, pure, clarified, purified.

Tèr, s. m. (ty—er) A state of ardency; aptness to pervade, or to break out.

Teraidd, a. (ter) Somewhat clear or pure.

Terawg, a. (tèr) Having ardency or avidity.

Terawl, a. (ter) Clarifying, purifying.

Terc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tèr) A jerk, a jolt.

Terciad, s. m. (terc) A jerking, a jolting.

Tercu, v. a. (terc) To jerk, or to jolt.

Terch, s. f.—pl. t. au (ty—erch) Any fastening by which a thing is suspended; a loop. Terch rhwng dwy gostrel, a fastening between two bottles.

Costrel a'i therch wrth erchwyn.

A bottle with its loop to the bedside. Bedo Brwynllys.

Terchawg, a. (terch) Having a loop, furnished with a string or the like, to hang by.

Terchiad, s. m. (terch) A looping, a furnishing with anything to hang by.

Terchu, v. a. (terch) To loop, to furnish with a cord, or the like, to hang by.

Terchwyn, s. m. (terch) That serves to suspend or to uphold.

Detholais fy rhwyf yn rhad welling mawr,
Yn llwythfawr llawr llaw derchwyn.

I have selected my leader a magnificent shedder of gifts, greatly loading the ground with upholding hand. Cynddelw, i Wenwynwyn.

Teredig, a. (ter) Being made clear; clarified; purified.

Teredigaeth, s. m. (teredig) Clarification.

Teredd, s. m. (ter) A pure or clarified state.

Terf, a. (tèr) Being extreme or outward.

Terfan, v. a. (terf) To render extreme; to produce a crisis; to become extreme.

Terfedig, a. (terf) Being rendered extreme.

Terfenydd, s. m. (terfan) An extremity or crisis; the time of the copulation of cattle. Terfenydd buwch, buwch derfenydd, buwch wasawd, the time of a cow's seeking the bull.

Terfyll, s. m. (terf) That is puffed out; plump.

Terfyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (terf) An extremity, a limit, a termination. Mae yr amser ar derfyn, the time is just at an end; wyf ar derfyn, I am just at an end.

Endewelsi waneg o Wynnofi dir,
I am derfyn mawr meibion Bell.
Oedd hydraidd wychr llyr yn llenwi;
Oedd hydr am ddylan gwynfan genti;
Hyll oedd ei deddf, hwyrddeddf holi;
Hallt oedd ei dagrau digrawn heli.

I listened to a wave from Gwynnofi land, round the ample border of the sons of Bell. Impetuous was its course filling over the strand; incessantly round the shore she uttered woes; not repulsive was her law, a tardy law to sue; her tears from the exhaustless brine were salt. Ein. ab Gwalchmai, m. Nest.

Terfynadwy, a. (terfyn) Determinable.

Terfynai, s. c. (terfyn) That terminates.

Terfynawl, a. (terfyn) Conclusive, ending.
Terfynedig, a. (terfyn) Determined, ended.
Terfynedigaeth, s. m. (terfynedig) Determination, conclusion.
Terfynedigawl, a. (terfynedig) Of a limiting tendency, restrictive, determinate.
Terfynfa, s. f. (terfyn) A boundary spot.
Terfyniad, s. m. (terfyn) A terminating.
Terfynoldeb, s. m. (terfynawl) Finiteness.
Terfynolder, s. m. (terfynawl) Finiteness.
Terfynoldra, s. m. (terfynawl) Finitude.
Terfynoledd, s. m. (terfynawl) Conclusiveness.
Terfynoli, v. a. (terfynawl) To render conclusive; to become conclusive.
Terfynolrwydd, s. m. (terfynawl) Conclusiveness.
Terfynu, v. a. (terfyn) To fix a bound, to limit, to determine, to conclude.

Meddwl dyn, Duw a'i terfyn.

The thought of man, God doth determine. Adage.

Terfynwr, s. m.—pl. terfynwyr (terfyn—gwr) One who concludes or terminates.
Terfynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (terfyn) A concluder, a finisher, a determiner.
Terfysg, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tèr—mysg) Confusion, commotion, tumult, disturbance.

Pan nad oedd plant i Lles, a ddylai gynnal y deyrnas yn ei ol; wrth hyny y cyfodes ciwdodawl derfysg y rhwng y Prydeiniaid ac y Rhufeiniawl gyfoeth.

Since there were no children to Lles, who had a right to govern the kingdom after him; upon that there arose a civil commotion between the Britons and the Roman dominion. Gr. ab Arthur.

Terfysgaidd, a. (terfysg) Apt to to be riotous.
Terfysgawg, a. (terfysg) Full of tumult.
Terfysgawl, a. (terfysg) Tumultuous.
Terfysgblaid, s. f. (terfysg—plaid) A tumultuous faction.
Terfysgedig, a. (terfysg) Rendered tumultuous.
Terfysgedigaeth, s. m. (terfysgedig) The act of raising a tumult.
Terfysgedd, s. m. (terfysg) Tumultuousness.
Terfysgiad, s. m. (terfysg) A making a tumult.
Terfysglyd, a. (terfysg) Apt to be tumultuous; riotous, mutinous.
Terfysglydrwydd, s. m. (terfysglyd) Tumultuousness, riotousness, factiousness.
Terfysgu, v. a. (terfysg) To raise a tumult; to become tumultuous; to be in an uproar.

Terfysga; dalla, mal deillion mewn braw,
Eu bryd a'u hamcanion.

Render tumultuous; blind, like blind ones in terror, their purpose and their designs. H. D. ab Ifan.

Terfysgus, a. (terfysg) Tumultuous.
Terfysgwr, s. m.—pl. terfysgwyr (terfysg—gwr) One who makes a tumult.
Terfysgydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (terfysg) One who makes a tumult.
Tèri, v. n. (tèr) To grow sullen, to sculk. Mae efe yn tèri ar ei fwyd, he is quarrelling with his meat.
Teriad, s. m. (ter) A rendering clear, a clarifying; a purifying.
Tèriad, s. m. (tèr) A rendering ardent; irritation.
Terica, v. a. (terig) To irritate; to become irritated; to rut, to go a ratting.
Terig, a. (tèr) Ardent, poignant; severe, harsh; also an epithet for the season of copulation of cats, and some other animals.

Bwcled ful——
Lleuad aur yn llaw derig.

A buckler like a golden moon in an ardent hand. Rhys Nanmor

Terigaw, v. a. (terig) To render ardent or severe; to become harsh or severe.
Terigiad, s. m. (terig) A rendering severe or harsh; a becoming fierce or severe.
Terllyd, a. (tèr) Outrageous; sullen.
Terllydrwydd, s. m. (terllyd) Outrageousness.
Terllydu, v. a. (terllyd) To render outrageous; to become outrageous.
Term, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (tèr) An extreme point, a crisis, a limited space of time, a term; a drinking bout.

Gwell angeu o'm rhyddhau, na'm cnlyngir
No thorf 'mhen a therm hir.

Better death that I might be released, than to distract my head with a long term. T. Aled.

Termiad, s. m. (term) A limiting of time, a fixing a term; a making a drinking bout.
Termiaw, v. a. (term) To limit a time, to fix a term; to keep up a drinking bout.
Termud, a. (tèr—mud) Tacit, silent.

Rhai trallwfyr tra llafar eu son;
Ac ereill taerlew termudion.

Some very cowardly extremely loud in their talk; and others perseveringly brave being silent ones. Ll. P. Moch.

Termudaw, v. a. (termud) To render tacit or silent; to become silent.
Termudedd, s. m. (termud) Taciturnity.
Termudiad, s. m. (termud) A rendering tacit; a becoming tacit or silent.
Termudrwydd, s. m. (termud) Taciturnity.

Goreu moes termudrwydd.

The best behaviour is taciturnity. Adage.

Tern, s. m. (tèr) That is ardent or vivid, or full of motion. a. Of an ardent or vehement nature.
Terniad, s. m. (tern) A moving ardently.
Ternu, v. a. (tern) To move or turn ardently.
Terogen, s. f. dim. (tèrawg) A female miser.
Terogi, v. a. (terawg) To render full of avidity; to become full of avidity.
Terogyn, s. m. dim. (terawg) A miserly churl.
Terth, s. m.—pl. t. au (tèr) A bung.
Terthain, v. a. (tarth) To pant for breath.
Teru, v. a. (ter) To purify, to clear, to clarify; to render fine or smooth. Teru mel, to clarify honey.
Tèru, v. a. (tèr) To act sullenly; to grow sullen, to pout, to sulk. Teru ar fwyd, sori ar fwyd, to quarrel with the victuals. Sil.
Tèrwr, s. m.—pl. tèrwyr (tèr—gwr) A sullen man.
Terwr, s. m.—pl. terwyr (ter—gwr) A purifier, a clarifier, or one who makes clear.
Tèrwyn, a. (ter—gwyn) Of a violent disposition; ardent, fervent; strong.
Terwynaidd, a. (terwyn) Somewhat ardent.
Terwynawl, a. (terwyn) Of an ardent tendency.
Terwyndeb, s. m. (terwyn) Ardentness.
Terwynder, s. m. (terwyn) Ardency, vehemency.
Terwyndra, s. m. (terwyn) Ardency, vehemency.
Terwynddrud, a. (terwyn—drud) Very bold.
Terwynfalch, a. (terwyn—balch) Highly proud.
Terwyniad, s. m. (terwyn) A rendering ardent; a becoming ardent; a glowing.
Terwyniaw, v. a. (terwyn) To render ardent; to become ardent; to glow.
Terwynu, v. a. (terwyn) To render ardent; to become ardent; to glow.

Ei gyd-dirogion yn cam-derwynu wrtho.

His fellow-countrymen unjustly becoming enflamed against him. H. Geraint—Mabinogion.

Terydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ter) A refiner.

Terydd, a. (tèr) Ardent, vehement, full of activity, volatile; swift, nimble.

—Torfoedd terydd eu gawr, trwm eu dyar.

Hosts of vehement shout, heavy their din. Taliesin.

Teryddawl, a. (terydd) Tending to render ardent or vehement; apt to be volatile.

Pummed bwystnou
Ar holl wibion
Egipteion;
Gwelsid miled,
O drwm aeled
Deryddolion.

The fifth was destruction upon all the flying things of the Egyptians; the animals were seen, through severe disease, maddened ones. Taliesin.

Teryddiad, s. m. (terydd) A rendering ardent, vehement, or full of activity.

Teryddu, v. a. (terydd) To render rapid; to grow rapid.

Teryg, s. m. (tèr) An incrustation, a crust, or any thing clotted on the surface, incrusted dirt. Mae teryg ar dy sodlau, there is a crust of dirt on thy heels.

Teryll, a. (tèr) Ardently glancing. Golwg teryll, an ardently-glancing eye, a piercing eye.

Teryllaidd, a. (teryll) Tending to glance ardently

Terylliad, s. m. (teryll) A glancing ardently.

Teryllu, v. a. (teryll) To glance ardently; to look fiercely.

Tes, s. m. (te—es) A spreading of rays; sunheat, sunshine, hot weather. Graid is used for it in South Wales generally.

Cydwymed a'r tes.

As warm as the sunshine. Adage.

Edrych harddwch yr haul yn ei des, ac nid yn ei friw.

Look at the beauty of the sun in its shining, and not in its disk. Adage.

Morfudd glaer——
Mal haul ymylau hoewles,
Mamaeth tywysogaeth tes.

Bright Morfudd, like a sun with rays of active beneficence, the mother of the sovereignty of heat. D. ab Gwilym.

Dillad i noeth——
A gwely, a thy, a thes aelwyd.

Clothing for the naked, and bed, and house, and the warmth of a hearth. Gwalchmai.

Tesa, v. a. (tes) To gather warmth; to wanton.

Tesach, s. m. (tes) Fullness of heat; wantonness.

Tesain, a. (tes) Abounding with warmth.

Tesaint, s. m. (tesain) A state teeming with warmth; cheeringness, gladness.

Meifod wen——
A'i balchwyr, a'i balchwir tesaint.

Fair Meivod, with its eminent men, and its soaring truth of gladness. Cynddelw.

Tesawg, a. (tes) Abounding with heat; abounding with sunshine, sunny, hot.

Un o'r tri engir ddichwain—yr haf tesawg, pan aethynt y coedydd a'r llysiau ar dan, gàn angerdd gwres yr haul, a cholli llawer o ddynion, ac anifeiliaid, a rhywiau adar, a phryfed, a choedydd, a llysiau, yn anesgorawl.

One of the three awful events: the hot summer, when the woods and the herbs took fire, from the vehemency of the heat of the sun, and many men being lost, and cattle, and species of birds, and animals, and woods, and herbs, irretrievably. Trioedd.

Tesawl, a. (tes) Affording warmth or heat.

Tesfawr, a. (tes) Abounding with much heat.

Tesiad, s. m. (tes) A dispensing warmth.

Tesiant, s. m. (tes) A producing warmth.

Testun, s. m.—pl. t. au (tes—tun) A theme, or subject of investigation.

Erioed ni welais yr un,
Euraid wystl, a roe destun.

Never have I seen one, of golden pledge, that would propose a subject. D. ab Gwilym.

Testunaw, v. a. (testun) To set a subject or theme

Teth, s. f.—pl. t. au (te—eth) A teat, a dug, or pap. Tethau y gaseg, honeysuckle; also called gwyddfid.

Tethaidd, a. (teth) Like a teat or dug.

Tethan, s. f. dim. (teth) A small teat.

Tethawg, a. (teth) Having teats or dugs.

Tethawl, a. (teth) Papillary, belonging to teats.

Tethiad, s. m. (teth) A forming a teat.

Tethu, v. n. (teth) To grow into a teat.

Teulu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tau—llu) A family, or household; a clan, or tribe. Y teulu, y tylwyth teg, bendith eu mamau, fairies: Cwn teulu, fairy dogs.

Tri diwair deulu Ynys Prydain—teulu Cadwallawn ab Beli, pan fuynt hualogion; teulu Gafran mab Aeddan, pan fu yn y ddifancoll; a theulu Gwenddolau ab Ceidio, yn Arderydd, a ddaliasynt yr ymladd bythefnos a mis wedi lladd eu harglwydd.

The three faithful clans of the isle of Britain: the clan of Cadwallon son of Beli, when they were fettered together; the clan of Gavran son of Aeddan, when he was in the overwhelming wreck; and the clan of Gwenddolau son of Ceidio in Arderydd, who carried on the war for a fortnight and a month after the death of their lord. Trioedd.

Teuluaeth, s. m. (teulu) Domestic economy; social intercourse; hospitality.

Brodyr teuluaeth: bardd, ysgolaig, a dadgeiniad.

The brothers of social life: a bard, a scholar, and a reciter. Adage.

Teuluaidd, a. (teulu) Belonging to a family, or household; domestic, familiar.

Teuluaeth, s. m. (teulu) Domestic economy.

Teuluawg, a. (teulu) Having a family.

Teuluawl, a. (teulu) Belonging to a family.

Teuluedd, s. m. (teulu) Familiarity; concord.

Ar ol talu yr alanas, bid teuluedd tragywyddawl rhwng y ddwy genedl.

After paying the fine of homicide, let there be eternal concord between the two generations. Welsh Laws.

Teulueidd-dra, s. m. (teuluaidd) Domesticity.

Teulueiddiad, s. m. (teuluaidd) A domesticating, a familiarizing; a becoming hospitable.

Teulueiddiaw, v. a. (teuluaidd) To domesticate; to become hospitable.

Teulueiddrwydd, s. m. (teuluaidd) Domesticness; hospitality.

Ac ni char gwanar genym
Ond teulueiddrwydd rwydd rym.

And the distributor loves with us but hospitality of liberal power. S. Mawddwy.

Teuluwas, s. m.—pl. teuluweision (teulu—gwas) A domestic servant.

Nid oes—i'th deuluwas
Awr daw, ond wylaw gwlaw glas.

There is not for thy household servant a silent hour, but to weep the pearly drops. D. ab Gwilym.

Teuluwr, s. m.—pl. teuluwyr (teulu—gwr) Household man, a family man; a hospitable man.

Teulüwriaeth, s. m. (teulüwr) Household economy, domestic order; hospitality.

Teuluwraig, s. f.—pl. teuluwreigedd (teulu—gwraig) A housewife.

Teulüydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (teulu) One who domesticates; a family man.

Teulüyddawl, a. (teulüydd) Apt to familiarize.

Teulüyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (teulüydd) Housewife

Teuluyddiaeth, s. m. (teulüydd) The act of domesticating; a domestic state.

Tew, s. m.—pl. t. ion (te) That is thick, or gross; fat. a. Thick, gross, fat, plump; frequent, or abundant. Croen tew, a thick skin; dyn tew, a fat person; y mor sy dew o bysgod, the sea is thick of fishes.

Tew y beiau lle teneu y cariad.

Thick are the faults where the affection is slender. Adage.

Tewâad, s. m. (tewâu) A thickening.
Tewâawl, a. (tewâu) Tending to thicken.
Tewaidd, a. (tew) Somewhat thick or gross.
Tewâu, v. a. (tew) To thicken; to condense; to fatten; to become thick; to grow fat.
Tewban, s. m. (tew—pan) That is thickened by beating, or by fulling.
Tewbanawg, a. (tewban) Being thickened by milling; an epithet for several thick-leaved plants. Y dewbanawg, canwyll yr adar, y banawg, clust y fuwch, the great mullein, or high-taper; y dewbanawg fechan, cowslip; y dewbanawg wen wryw, gwynddail, menyg y merched, rose-campion; yr hanner-pan, white-mullein.
Tewder, s. m. (tew) Thickness; denseness, density; fatness.
Tewdor, s. m. (tew—tor) A thick cover; a thick shelter or defence. a. Of a thick covering or shade. Tarw tewdor, a thick-breasted bull; tewdor annedd, a thickly covered habitation.

Bid yth arfaeth i'r tri——
Can dug pum-wan Crist pumoes o gaeth,
O ing, o gyfing gymydogaeth,
O angor tewdor tud alaeth.

Be thy practice devoted to the three, as the five wounds of Christ brought the five ages out of thraldom; from a strait, from a constrained society, from the tenacity of the thick shade of the region of woe. Cynddelw.

Gwrdd fyddin feiddiad yn nhewdor.

One who attacks a powerful host in the thickest part. Cynddelw.

Uchel-lan Gadfan ger glan glas-for,
Ni chollir ei thir nac ei thewdor.

The choir of Cadvan by the shore of a blue sea, its land will not be lost, nor its thick crop. Llywelyn Fardd.

Tewdra, s. m. (tew) Thickness, density.
Tewdrwch, s. m. (tew—trwch) Density, solidity. a. Thick in bulk, solid.

Ein heneidiau nid ydynt yn tarddu o gorff, neu ddefnydd tewdrwch annhreiddiadwy.

Our souls do not originate from a body, or dense matter not to be pervaded. Ier. Owain.

Tewdwr, s. m. (tew—twr) This is a thick heap.
Tewdws, s. m. (tew—tws) A thick assemblage. a. Thickly collected. Y twr tewdws, the pleiades.
Tewi, s. m. (taw) A keeping silent, a holding one's tongue. v. a. To keep silent, to hold one's tongue.

Nid doethineb ond tewi.

There is no wisdom like holding the tongue. Adage.

Tawed doeth, annoeth ni thau.

Let the wise be silent, the unwise will not cease talking. Llywarch Hen.

Tawn, tawn, goreu yw tewi;
Am hwn nid ynganwn i.

Let us silence, let us silence, it is best to be silent; about this we will not utter a word. Iolo Goch.

Tewiad, s. m. (tew) A thickening, a condensing.
Tewlaeth, s. m. (tew—llaeth) Thick milk. Llwyn y tewlaeth, the bell-flower.
Tewlyd, a. (tew) Tending to grow thick.
Tewu, v. a. (tew) To thicken; to grow thick.
Tewwch, s. m. (tew) Thickness, denseness.
Tewychaidd, a. (tewwch) Partly tending to thicken, or condense.
Tewychawl, a. (tewwch) Of thickening tendency
Tewychedig, a. (tewwch) Condensed; spissated.
Tewychedd, s. m. (tewwch) Spissitude.
Tewychiad, s. m. (tewwch) A thickening.
Tewychiannawl, a. (tewychiant) Condensing.
Tewychiannu, v. a. (tewychiant) To condensate.
Tewychiant, s. m. (tewwch) Condensation.
Tewychu, v. (tewwch) To thicken, to condense.

Tewyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (te—gwyn) A firebrand, or a torch; a burning coal.

Tewyn a than yn mhob pen.

A brand with a fire in both ends. Adage.

Tewynawl, a. (tewyn) Tending to produce light.
Tewynllyd, a. (tewyn) Apt to produce light.

Callestr tanllestr tewynllyd,
O waith gof yn boeth i gyd.

A flint fire-pan aptly striking fire, the work of a smith altogether hot. T. Prys, on two pistols.

Teyrn, s. m.—pl. t. edd (te—gyrn) A sovereign, a king, a supreme ruler.

Truan teyrn heb ei osgordd.

A sovereign is miserable without his train. Adage.

Tarw——
Cyrn, mal yn deyrn, y dwg,
Mawr gwynion, yn Morganwg.

The bull, like a sovereign, carries horns large and white, in Morganoc. D. ab Ieuan Ddu.

Teyrnaidd, a. (teyrn) Like a sovereign.
Teyrnaig, s. f. (teyrn—aig) A supreme origin.

Teyrnaig arwar arfolltor gwen
Teyrngerdd awen amgen am gor.

The sovereign source of tranquillity receiving the smile of the peculiar royal song of the muse round the circle. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Teyrnain, a. (teyrn) Having sovereignty.
Teyrnair, s. m. (teyrn—gair) A royal word.
Teyrnas, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (teyrn) A kingdom.

Bwyf yn heddwch—gloew deyrnas
Gwledig nef a llawr a llwyr ddinas,
Llary argiwydd llawer llewyn gwanas.

May I inherit the peace of the glorious kingdom of the Supreme of heaven and earth and the whole universe, the beneficent Lord of many central radiations. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Teyrnasawl, a. (teyrnas) Having a kingdom.
Teyrnasiad, s. m. (teyrnas) A reigning, a reign.
Teyrnasiaeth, s. m. (teyrnas) The rule of a kingdom; a reign.
Teyrnasu, v. a. (teyrnas) To govern a kingdom, to perform the functions of a king, to reign.
Teyrnawg, a. (teyrn) Having a king.
Teyrnawl, a. (teyrn) Belonging to royalty.
Teyrndlws, s. m.—pl. teyrndlysau (teyrn—tlws) A jewel or part of regalia.
Teyrndreth, s. f.—pl. t. i (teyrn—treth) A tribute.
Teyrnddrud, a. (teyrn—drud) Royally bold.
Teyrnedd, s. m. (teyrn) Sovereignty, kingship.

Prydain ab Aedd Mawr a wnai wladoliaeth a theyrnedd gyntaf ar Ynys Prydain; a chyn no hyny nid oedd o iawn namyn a wnelid o addwynder, na deddf namyn y trechaf treisied.

Prydain son of Aedd the Great formed a body politic and sovereignty first in the Isle of Britain; and previously there was of justice only what might be done through kindness of disposition, nor any law but the strongest might oppress. Trioedd.

Teyrnes, s. f.—pl. t. au (teyrn) Female sovereign.
Teyrnfar, s. m. (teyrn—bar) A kingly wrath.
Teyrnfardd, s. m.—pl. teyrnfeirdd (teyrn—bardd) A royal bard.
Teyrnfoes, s. f. (teyrn—moes) A kingly demeanour.

Teyrnfoes eirioes eiriachader
Teyrnedd ai gwyl, a gwelator.

A splendid kingly demeanour to be imploring, princes behold it, and it will be seen. Cynddelw, i O Gwynedd.

Teyrnfrad, s. m. (teyrn—brad) Treason against a sovereign; high treason.
Teyrnfradu, v. a. (teyrnfrad) To commit treason against a sovereign.
Teyrnfradwr, s. m.—pl. teyrnfradwyr (teyrnfrad—gwr) A traitor against a king.
Teyrnfradwriaeth, s. m. (teyrnfradwr) High treason.

Teyrnfro, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (teyrn—bro) A country under the rule of a king.
Teyrnfudd, s.f.(teyrn—budd) Benefit of the king.
Teyrnged, s.f.—pl. t. oedd (teyrn—ced) Tribute

Gwedi clybod o Gloew Cesar y chwedl hwnw, yna a anfonws Fespasian, i gymbell Gweirydd ar dangnefedd â gwyr Rhufain, ac i dalu y gnotaedig deyrnged.

After Claudius Cæsar had heard that report, he then sent Vespasian, to prevail on Gweirydd to be on terms of peace with the men of Rome, and to pay the accustomed tribute. Gr. ab Arthur.

Teyrngerdd, s. f.—pl. t. i (teyrn—cerdd) Royal song.
Teyrngoron, s. f.—pl. t. au (teyrn—coron) A diadem.
Teyrnialen, s. f. dim. (teyrn—ialen) A sceptre.

Yn yr ystafell hono yr oedd cader, yn yr hon yn fawredig yr oedd tywysawg yn eistedd—ac yn ei law deyrnialeu.

In that chamber there was a chair, in which majestically there was seated a prince, and holding in his hand a sceptre. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Teyrnlaw, s. f. (teyrn—llaw) A royal hand.
Teyrnles, s. m. (teyrn—lles) The good of a king.
Teyrnlid, s. m. (teyrn—llid) Royal wrath.
Teyrnlin, s. m. (teyrn—llin) Royal line.
Teyrnlw, s. m. (teyrn—llw) A royal oath.
Teyrnogaeth, s.f. (teyrnawg) A kingly office.
Teyrnogi, v. a. (teyrnawg) To render kingly; to become regal.
Teyrnoldeb, s. m. (teyrnawl) A regal state.
Teyrnolder, s. m. (teyrnawl) Regality.
Teyrnoledd, s. m. (teyrnawl) Royalty.
Teyrnoli, v. a. (teyrnawl) To render regal.
Teyrnolrwydd, s. m. (teyrnawl) Regality.
Teyrnon, s. m. (teyrn) A princely one.

Selyf yngnad—
Bu gwell nog udd
Mab teyrnon;
Bu gnawd berthon
O'i gywaithydd.

Selyf the judge, superior to him was the son of a royal chief, wealth was eventual from having his support. Taliesin.

Teyrnwal, s. f. (teyrn—gwal) A regal couch.
Teyrnwalch, s. m.—pl. teyrnweilch (teyrn—gwalch) An aspiring prince.
Teyrnwarth, s. m. (teyrn—gwarth) Royal shame.
Teyrnwas, s. m.—pl. teyrnweision (teyrn—gwas) A royal youth.

Dinas teyrnas teyrnwais ohen
Teyrnwalch din Emrais:
Bu da dethol a gefais;
Bu doeth fal y detholais.

The bulwark of the kingdom of yielding princely youths is the aspiring lord of the castle of Emrais: a choice good fortune I obtained; wise was the course I chose. Cynddelw.

Teyrnwawd, s. m. (teyrn—gwawd) Royal eulogy.
Teyrnwawl, s. m. (teyrn—gwawl) Royal splendor.
Teyrnwawr, s.f. (teyrn—gwawr) Dawn of royalty
Teyrnwialen, s. f. (teyrn—gwialen) A sceptre.
TI, s. m. r. That is in; that is separate; that is distinct. pron. Thee; thou. I ti a mi da peidiaw, for thee and me it is good to desist: Ti yw y dyn, thou art the person.

Gwna iawn, ti a gei iawn amdano.

Do justice, thou shalt have justice in return for it. Adage.

Tal am dy wawd, cyn toll;
Twyll y prydyddion wyt ti.

Pay for thy praise, ere it be curtailed: the delusion of the poets art thou. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Tib, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—ib) A particle; a bit.
Tiboeth, s. m. (tib—oeth) A pure particle. It was the name of a rare book, left by Beuno in the church of Clynawg, and said to have been written by Twrog, in the beginning of the seventh century.

Llygad fal gloiw gawod coeth,
Tebyg i faen y tiboeth.

An eye like the pure shower crystal, to be compared to the pure drop gem. Syp. Cyfeiliawg.

Tic, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—ic) A particle.
Ticiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tic) A forming into small particles.
Ticial, v. a. (tic) To produce small particles, or drops; to drain the last drops, in milking.
Ticyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (tic) A particle, a small bit, a little scrap.

Mae pob ticyn yn dicyn, ebai y dryw, pan biswys yn y mor.

Every little is a little, said the wren, when he pissed in the sea. Adage.

Tid, s. f.—pl. t. au (ti—id) A draught chain. Bwrw tidau, to let drivel, to fall, to drivel, to tiddle.
Tidaw, v. a. (tid) To fasten with a chain or rope, to chain.
Tidawg, a. (tid) Having a chain, chained.
Tidawl, a. (tid) Belonging to a chain; like a chain.
Tidiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tid) A chaining.
Tidiedig, a. (tidiad) Being fastened with a chain.
Tidmwy, s. m.—pl. t. au (tid—mwy) A tedder.
Tidmwyad, s. m. (tidmwy) A teddering.
Tidmwyaw, v. a. (tidmwy) To tie, to tedder.

Cymer a fo yn dy feddiant,
A thidmwya dy fawrchwant,
Haws no'u cadw cynnull ariant.

Take of what is in thy possession, and restrain thy cupidity; it is easier than to keep to collect money. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Tidraff, s. f.—pl. t. au (tid—rhaff) A chain-rope.
Tifar, a. (ti—bar) Repentant, contrite.
Tifariad, s. m. (tifar) A repenting; repentance.
Tifaru, v. a. (tifar) To repent, to be sorry.

Tifaru fal y gwr a laddwys ei filgi.

To repent like the man who killed his greyhound. Adage.

Mae yn rhy hwyr tifaru,
Yn ol i'r fagl gynnu.

It is too late to repent, after the trap hath sprung. Adage.

Tifarus, a. (tifar) Repenting, penitent.
Tifedd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—medd) An heir.

Plant Tudyr—haelion penteulu
A thifeddion, iaith fydded,
Gwynedd; pedwar cydwedd ced.

The children of Tudyr, generous chiefs of tribes, and heirs (ominous be the words) of Gwynedd; four alike for gifts. Iolo Goch.

Tifeddadwy, a. (tifedd) Hereditable; inheritable.
Tifeddawg, a. (tifedd) Having inheritance.
Tifeddawl, a. (tifedd) Hereditary; inheriting.
Tifeddedig, a. (tifedd) Being inherited.
Tifeddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (tifedd) An inheritrix.
Tifeddiad, s. m. (tifedd) An inheriting.
Tifeddiaeth, s. m. (tifedd) Inheritance.
Tifeddiaethu, v. a. (tifeddiaeth) To form an inheritance.
Tifeddogi, v. a. (tifeddawg) To endow with an inheritance; to have an inheritance.
Tifeddogrwydd, s. m. (tifeddawg) The state of being inherited.
Tifeddoldeb, s. m. (tifeddawl) The state of being hereditary.
Tifeddoli, v. a. (tifeddawl) To render hereditary.
Tifeddolrwydd, s. m. (tifeddawl) The state of being hereditary.
Tifeddu, v. a. (tifedd) To inherit; to possess.
Tifeddus, a. (tifedd) Hereditary; possessory.
Tifeddusaw, v. a. (tifeddus) To render hereditary, to become hereditary.

Tifeddusrwydd, s. m. (tifeddus) The state of being hereditary.
Tifeddwr, s. m.—pl. tifeddwyr (tifedd—gwr) An inheritor.
Tifeiriad, s. m. (tifar) A repenting.
Tifeiriannawl, a. (tifeiriant) Tending to repentance, or remorse.
Tifeiriannu, v. a. (tifeiriant) To produce repentance, or remorse.
Tifeiriannus, a. (tifeiriant) Tending to repentance, or remorse.
Tifeiriant, s. m. (tifar) Repentance, remorse.

Mair Fawdlen, seren y saint,
Y dwf oreu difeiriaint.

Mary Magdalene, the luminary of saints, the choicest fruit of repentance. Gutyn Ceiriawg.

Tifeirwch, s. m. (tifar) Repentance, remorse.

Tifeirwch newydd am hen bechawd.

New remorse for an old sin. Adage.

Til, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—il) A minute particle.
Tiliad, s. m.—pl. tiliaid (til) A small fly like a gnat.
Tim, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—im) A little.
Timyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (tim) A small particle; a little bit, a small matter.

A ryddywedais i hyd hyn,
I Wenddydd wasaf unbyn,
Dydderbid cymaint timyn.

What I have predicted until now, to Gwenddydd the idol of princes, it shall come to pass to the smallest tittle. Cyf. Merddin.

Tin, s. f.—pl. t. au (ti—in) A tail, a bottom, a breech. Tin y cwd, the bottom of the bag: Tin y nyth, bach y nyth, the tail of the nest, or the least of the brood; tin y gler, the tail of the minstrels, a poetaster: Tinion yr yd, the light grains of corn: Tin ab, the ape's breech, a fault in prosody, being the full rhyme, as used in English versification.
Tinagored, a. (tin—agored) Open tailed. Tinagored, the common medlar; also called y dindoll.
Tinaw, v. a. (tin) To form a tail; to stretch out the posteriors.
Tinawg, a. (tin) Having a tail; having large posteriors.
Tinawl, a. (tin) Belonging to the posteriors.
Tinbais, s. f.—pl. tinbeisiau (tin—pais) A petticoat.
Tinben, adv. (tin—pen) Head to tail. Tinbendrosben, tin-drosben, topsy-turvy.
Tinbleth, a. (tin—pleth) Tail-twined.
Tinboeth, a. (tin—poeth) Hot-tailed. Y dinboeth, arseamart; also called elinawg: y tinboeth, y tingoch, the redstart, a bird so called.
Tinbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (tin—pren) The bracer.
Tinc, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ting) A tink, a tinkle.
Tinceirddiad, s. m.—pl. tinceirddiaid (tincerdd) A doing tinkery work.
Tinceirddiaeth, s. m. (tincerdd) Tinkery.
Tinceirddiaw, v. a. (tincerdd) To work as a tinker.
Tinceirddiawl, a. (tincerdd) Belonging to a tinker's work.
Tincerdd, s. m.—pl. tinceirddion (tin—cerdd) The tail of a craft, a tinker.
Tincerddiaeth, s. m. (tincerdd) Tinkery.
Tinciad, s. m. (tinc) A tinking, a tinkling.
Tincial, v. a. (tinc) To tinkle, to tingle; to draw the last milk, in milking.
Tincian, v. a. (tinc) To tink, to tinkle, to tingle; to draw the last milk; to drain the last drops. Ni waeth i ti dewi na thincian, thou mayest as well be silent as to be dinning.
Tinciaw, v. a. (tinc) To tink, to tinkle; to ring.
Tincion, s. pl. aggr. (tinc) The last-drawn milk.
Tincwd, s. m. (tin—cwd) The bottom of a bag.

A fyno fod yn bencwd, na wnaed a wedd i dincwd.

He that would be the top of a bag, let him not commit what suits the bottom of a bag. Adage.

Tindafliad, s. m. (tin—tafliad) A throwing the tail, a shaking the tail.
Tindaflu, v. a. (tin—taflu) To throw the tail; to winch.
Tindew, a. (tin—tew) Fat-buttocked.
Tindin, adv. (tin repeated) Tail to tail.
Tindoll, a. (tin—toll) Having the tail sink. Y dindoll, the common medlar.
Tindopiaw, v. a. (tin—topiaw) To flounce.
Tindraphen, adv. (tin—tra—pen) Arse over head.
Tindraws, a. (tin—traws) Cross-tailed.
Tindro, s. m. (tin—tro) A turn of the tail.
Tindroed, s. m. (tin—troed) The didapper.
Tindroi, v. a. (tin—dro) To turn the tail.
Tindrom, a. (tin—trom) Heavy-tailed.
Tindrosben, adv. (tin—tros—pen) Arse over head.

Bedeirawr y bu daraw
Annyben dindrosben draw.

For four hours there was yonder a tedious topsy-turvy contest. Morgan Elfael.

Tindrwm, a. (tin—trwm) Heavy-tailed.
Tinfoel, a. (tin—moel) Bare-tailed. Breuan dinfoel, a round-bottomed quern.
Tingloff, a. (tin—cloff) Lame in the hip.
Tingloffedd, s. m. (tingloff) Lameness of the hip.
Tingloffi, v. a. (tingloff) To render lame in the hip; to become lame in the hip.
Tingloffni, s. m. (tingloff) A limping, a halting.
Tingoch, a. (tin—coch) Red-tailed. Aderyn tingoch, aderyn rhawngoch, gwas y seiri, the bullfinch.
Tingrach, a. (tin—crach) Scabby-tailed.
Tingrechi, s. m. (tingrach) Scabbiness of the tail.
Tiniaw, v. a. (tin) To turn tail.
Tinlach, a. (tin—llach) Broad-bottomed; squabby
Tinlethu, v. a. (tin—llethu) To overlay.
Tinllachiad, s. m.—pl. tinllachiaid (tinlach) A broad-bottomed one.
Tinllom, a. (tin—llom) Bare-bottomed.
Tinllwm, a. (tin—llwm) Bare-bottomed.
Tinllwyd, s. m. (tin—llwyd) Wild-tansy.
Tinnoeth, a. (tin—noeth) Bare-tailed.
Tinpen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tin—pen) A hassock or straw stool. Tinpen fagu, a nursing-stool.
Tinred, s. f. (tin—rhed) A tail running.
Tinroth, a. (tin—rhoth) Open-tailed.
Tinrwth, a. (tin—rhwth) Open-tailed.
Tinrythiad, s. m. (tinrwth) A tail opening.
Tinrythu, v. a. (tinrwth) To open tail.

Nycha'r frân—
Yn dwyn rhuthr dan dinrythu.

Behold the crow making an assault while spreading out the tail. D. ab Gwilym.

Tinsigl, s. m. (tin—sigl) A wagtail. Tinsigl y gwys, brith y fuches, the field wagtail; tinsigl y dwfr, the water wagtail or kingsfisher.
Tinsiglad, s. m. (tinsigl) A shaking the tail.
Tinsiglaw, v. a. (tinsigl) To shake the tail.
Tinwyg, a. (tin—gwyg) Open-tailed.
Tinwygydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tinwyg) One with open tail.

Menaich—ynt ar eu brasgig;
Braisgon dinwygyddion dig.

The monks, they feast on their fat viands; the surly pampered open tailed ones. Dr. S. Cent.

Ting, s. m. (ti—ing) A crinkle; a tingle.

Tingaw, v. a. (ting) To draw up, or to contract; to tingle.

Y glyw glew dywal, ni dal, ni ding.

The chief brave and fierce, that will not concede, that will not flinch. Cynddelw.

Tingawl, a. (ting) Crinkling; tinking.

Tingiad, s. m. (ting) A crinkling; a tinking.

Tip, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tib) A particle, a bit, or small fragment. Dyma fo wedi tori yn dipiau man, here it is broken all to shatters.

Tipyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tip) A point; a small particle, bit, or piece. Tipynau crynion, round particles: Taled imi o dipyn i dipyn, it has been paid to me by little and little: O dipyn i beth, from a little to some.

Tipyniad, s. m. (tipyn) A forming a small bit, or particle.

Tipynu, v. a. (tipyn) To form into a small bit, to divide into particles.

Tir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ti—ir) Land; earth, soil, ground. Tir sych, sychdir, dry land; tir llân, glebe land; tir bwrdd y llys, land for the table of the palace; tir cyfrif, tir cyllidus, land liable to a tax or rent, copyhold land; tir swch a chwlltr, land under socage tenure; tir diffoddedig, alienated land; tir gwelyawg, land held by gavel kind; tir gwydd, tir gwyddwyr, wood land turned into arable; tir ar, arable land; tir y faerdref, demesne land.

Un o dri chyfarwysawg Ynys Prydain: Hu Gadarn, a ddangoses y ffordd i aru tir gyntaf i genedl y Cymmry.

One of the three gift-bestowers of the Isle of Britain: Hu the Mighty, who shewed the way to plough land first to the nation of the Cymmry. Trioedd.

Yno y caiff Brython
Eu tir, a'u coron;
A'r bobl estronion
A ddiflanna.

Then the Brython shall obtain their land, and their crown; and the foreign people shall disappear. Ionas Athraw o Fynyw.

Tìr, s. m. (ty—ir) That extends, or continues.

Tiraeth, s. m. (tir) Continuity, continuation.

Tiraw, v. a. (tir) To extend in continuity.

Tirawg, a. (tir) Continual; continuative.

Truan im', wr glan rhy galonawg,
Tori fy llygaid tirawg yn wylaw!

Miserable for me, after the agreeable man courageous to excess, I burst my eyes with continual weeping! L. G. Cothi.

Tirdra, s. m. (tir—tra) Land detention, one of the three causes for rejecting witnesses in trials respecting land, which was when the witness had an issue undetermined upon it.

Tirdra, neu drais am dir y sy lys ar wybyddiaid.

Land detention, or forcible occupation of land, is a cause of rejection of cognizees. Welsh Laws.

Tirdriniad, s. m. (tir—triniad) A dressing of land.

Tirdriniaeth, s. m. (tir—triniaeth) Land dressing.

Tirdriniawl, a. (tir—triniawl) Agricultural.

Tirddiwyll, s. m. (tir—diwyll) Agriculture.

Tirddiwylliad, s. m. (tirddiwyll) A practising of agriculture.

Tirddiwylliaw, v. a. (tirddiwyll) To practise agriculture.

Tirddiwylliawd, s. m. (tirddiwyll) Agriculture.

Tirddiwylliawdr, s. m.—pl. tirddiwylliodron (tirddiwylliawd) An agriculturist.

Annogai y brenin y tirddiwylliodron i ddiwylliaw y ddaiar.

The king was wont to urge the husbandmen to cultivate the earth. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tirddiwylliawdwr, s. m.—pl. tirddiwylliawdwyr (tirddiwylliawd—gwr) An agriculturist.

Tirddiwylliodraeth, s. m. (tirddiwylliawdr) The practice of agriculture.

Tirf, a. (tìr) Fresh, vigorous, luxuriant, rich, lively, fat.

Y rhai a blanwyd yn nhy yr Arglwydd, a flodeuant yn nghynteddoedd ein Duw: Ffrwythant eto yn eu henaint; tirfion ac iraidd fyddant.

Those that have been planted in the house of the Lord, will flourish in the courts of our God: They will bring forth fruit again in their old age; fresh and lively they will be. Psalm 92. 13.

Tirfâad, s. m. (tirf) A freshening; a fattening.

Tirfâawl, a. (tirf) Tending to enrich.

Tirfâu, v. a. (tirf) To freshen; to enrich.

Tirfdra, s. m. (tirf) Freshness, richness.

Tiriad, s. m. (tir) A landing, a making land.

Tiriadu, v. a. (tiriad) A making a landing.

Tiriaeth, s. m. (tir) What has respect to land.

Tiriaethawl, a. (tiriaeth) Agrarian.

Tiriaw, v. a. (tir) To land; to turn up the ground; to come to land, to come ashore.

Rhyw iddo diriaw ereill diredd.

It is habitual for him to land in other lands. Llygad Gwr.

Wedi ein tiriaw i Syracusa y trigasem yno dridiau.

After we came to land to Syracuse we abided there for three days. W. Salisbury.

Tiriawg, a. (tir) Having land, or landed.

Tiriawl, a. (tir) Terreous, or earthly.

Tiriedig, a. (tiriad) Being made land; landed.

Tiriogaeth, s. m. (tiriawg) Landed property.

Gorpo teyrnfar tywysogaeth brud
Ar Brydain diriogaeth.

May his royal energy obtain the predicted sovereignty over the territory of Britain. Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Tiriogawl, a. (tiriawg) Agrarian; belonging to the possession of land.

Tiriogi, v. a. (tiriawg) To possess land.

Tirion, s. m. (tìr—ion) A source of continuance; a familiar spot; a situation, or station.

Ei threthau yw traethadurion,
A gyfyd yn gyfoethogion:
A hynaf henw henyw o'i thirion,
Handid rhyd rhwng ei dwy afon.

Its tributes are orators, who shall rise up possessors of wealth; and the oldest name, which proceeded from its situation, it must be the ford between its two rivers. Cynddelw i Feifod.

Dwyn Dafydd o'i dud ac o'i dirion!

Taking away Dafydd out of his land and out of his familiar spot! Ll. P. Moch.

Tirion, a. (tir—ion) Pleasant, pleasing, genial; kind, courteous; lovely, delightful. Lle tirion, a pleasant place; dyn tirion, a courteous person; O, dirioned ydyw hi! Oh, how lovely she is!

Ei deurudd dirion
A gar y gwirion,
A llu coed irion,
Lle cadeiriant.

Her lovely cheeks the innocent doth love, and the inmates of verdant woods, where they spread themselves. W. Lleyn.

Tirionaidd, a. (tirion) Of a tendency to delight.

Tirionawl, a. (tirion) Delighting, pleasing.

Tiriondeb, s. m. (tirion) Pleasantness; kindness. courteousness; loveliness; gentleness.

Tirionder, s. m. (tirion) Pleasantness; kindness.

Tiriondra, s. m. (tirion) Pleasantness; kindness.

Tirionedd, s. m. (tirion) Pleasantness; kindness.

Tirioneiddiad, s. m. (tirionaidd) A rendering somewhat pleasing; a becoming pleasing.

Tirioneiddiaw, v. a. (tirionaidd) To render somewhat pleasing; to become rather pleasing.

Tirioneiddrwydd, s. m. (tirionaidd) Pleasingness.

Tirioni, v. a. (tirion) To render pleasant or pleasing; to render kind or lovely; to become pleasant or genial; to be kind or compassionate; to become delightful; to become gentle. O, tiriona wrtho, da dithau! Oh, be compassionate to him, that is a good creature!

O daw gwedi, dig ydwyf;
Trwy na ddel, tirioni 'ddwyf.

If afterwards he come, I am angry grown; so he comes not, I am becoming pleasant. I. ab Hywel Gwyn.

Tirioniad, s. m. (tirion) A rendering pleasant, delightful, or lovely; a becoming pleasant.
Tirionus, a. (tirion) Pleasing; delighting.
Tirionusaw, v. a. (tirionus) To render pleasing, or delightful; to become pleasing.
Tirionusedd, s. m. (tirionus) Pleasingness.
Tirionusrwydd, s. m. (tirionus) Pleasingness.
Tirionwch, s. m. (tirion) Pleasantness, delectableness; kindness, genialness, suavity, courteousness; loveliness; gentleness.

Pan fo Mon a'i thirionwch,
O wres fflam, yn eirias fflwch.

When Mona and its pleasantness shall be, from the heat of destructive flame, a fervid ember. Gro. Owain.

Tirogedd, s. m. (tirawg) Continuity.
Tirwibiad, s. m.—pl. tirwibiaid (tir—gwibiad) A landloper; a vagrant.
Tis, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ti—is) A sneeze.
Tisiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tis) A sneezing.
Tisian, v. a. (tis) To sneeze, to keep sneezing.
Tisiaw, v. a. (tis) To sneeze, to sternutate.
Tisiawg, a. (tis) Having a sneezing.
Tisiawl, a. (tis) Tending to sneeze, sneezing.
Tisiedig, a. (tisiad) Sneezed, or sternutated.
Tisiwr, s. m.—pl. tisiwyr (tis—gwr) A sneezer.
Titen, s. f. dim. (tid) That turns, or spins; the name of a small fly like a gnat.
Titiad, s. m.—pl. titiaid (tid) A sort of small fly, like a gnat. Titiaid are also called gwibed bach, and tiliaid.
Titw, s. f. (tid) Puss, a fond name for a cat.
Titr, s. m.—pl. t. au (tid) That makes a whirl, or spin. Titr bach, the name of one of the 24 measures in music.
Tithau, pron. (ti—tau) Thyself; thou also.

Car beddwch, a Duw a'th gar dithau.

Love peace, and God will love thee then. Adage.

Mi Lywarch; tithau Lywelyn
Mychdeyrn cedyrn.

I am Llywarch; and thou art Llywelyn sovereign of the mighty ones. Ll. P. Moch.

Tlawd, s. m.—pl. tlodion (tylawd) That is poor or needy, the poor. a. Poor.
Tlodaidd, a. (tlawd) Somewhat poor, or needy.
Tlodedig, a. (tlawd) Being rendered poor.
Tlodedd, s. m. (tlawd) Poverty, poorness.

A glywaisti a gant Heledd,
Ferch Cyndrwyn, fawr ei rhewfedd:
Nid rhodol da a wna dlodedd.

Hast thou heard what Heledd sang, the daughter of Cyndrwyn, of great wealth: it is not the giving of goods that causes poverty. Eng. y Clywed.

Tloden, s. f. dim. (tlawd) A poor female.
Tlodi, s. m. (tlawd) Poverty. v. a. To make poor, to impoverish; to become poor.
Tlodiad, s. m. (tlawd) A making poor, an impoverishment.
Tlodrwydd, s. m. (tlawd) Poverty, neediness.
Tlodus, a. (tlawd) Necessitous, needy.
Tlodusaw, v. a. (tlodus) To render necessitous; to become necessitous.
Tlodusdeb, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.
Tlodusder, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.
Tlodusdra, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.
Tlodusedd, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.

Tlodusrwydd, s. m. (tlodus) Necessitousness.
Tlodyn, s. m. dim. (tlawd) A poor fellow.
Tlos, a. (f. of tlws) Pretty, or handsome.

Digio, dàl aur Degau dlos,
Ydyw bechawd, heb achos.

To be offended, thou with golden front like beauteous Tegau, is a sin, and without cause. S. Tudyr.

Tlosen, s. f. dim. (tlos) A pretty little female.
Tlosgain, a. (tlos—cain) Pretty and splendid. Bun dlosgain, a maid pretty and fine.
Tlws, s. m.—pl. tlysau (ty—llws) Any thing pretty; a jewel. a. Pretty, beautiful.

Goreu un tlws gwraig dda.

The best jewel of any is a good wife. Adage.

— Geiriau dy fin,
Tlysau dy frawd Taliesin.

The words of thy lips, are the beauties of thy brother Taliesin. H. ab Huw Bardd Coch.

Tlysaidd, a. (tlws) Somewhat pretty.
Tlysair, s. m.—pl. tlyseiriau (tlws—gair) A fine word; a bon mot.
Tlysawg, a. (tlws) Abounding with jewels.
Tlysawl, a. (tlws) Of a pretty appearance.
Tlysedd, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.
Tlysgist, s. f.—pl. t. iau (tlws—cist) A cabinet for jewels.
Tlysi, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.
Tlysiad, s. m. (tlws) A rendering pretty.
Tlysiant, s. m. (tlws) A rendering pretty.
Tlysni, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.
Tlysrwydd, s. m. (tlws) Prettiness, handsomeness.
Tlysu, v. a. (tlws) To render pretty.
Tlysyn, s. m. dim. (tlws) A pretty thing.
TO, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. That is out or over; an exterior, a surface; a covering; a layer; a generation; the covering of a house, a roof. Tan do, under cover: pedol a'i tho o hoelion, a horse shoe with its set of nails: Am y to a elo to arall a ddaw, for the generation that passes away another generation will come; y to a ddel, the generation to come: To ar do, stratum super stratum: To gwellt, a thatch roof; to ceryg, a slate roof: Adar y to, sparrows.

Ni wyddant —
Pwy a ennillo o'r do y sydd.

They know not who would get the advantage of the race that is. Meilyr.

Nid dim gan y to yma,
Trwy lid oll ond treulio da.

This generation thinks of nothing, altogether in a rage, but of wasting property. T. Aled.

Töad, s. m. (to) A covering, or spreading over; a roofing.
Töadwy, a. (töad) Capable of being covered.
Töawg, a. (to) Having a covering; being roofed.
Töawl, a. (to) Belonging to a covering, or roof.
Tob, s. m. (to—ob) A summit, or a top.
Tobren, s. m.—pl. t. i (to—pren) A thatcher's dibber or stick.
Tobyn, s. m. dim. (tob) A summit, or highest point. Dibyn dobyn, impending top, an expression used in childish play.
Toc, s. m. (to—oc) That is upon or over; that is instantaneous, short or abrupt; a hat, a cap, or bonnet.
Toc, adv. (toc, s.) Instantly, forthwith, presently, shortly. Mi af yno toc, I will go there presently; toc a da, presently and in good time.
Tocen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. au (toc) That is cut or docked.
Toci, s. m. (toc) That is cut into a piece; what is cut out; an allowance.

Tociad, s. m. (toc) A cutting off; clipping.

Tociaw, v. a. (toc) To curtail, to clip, to trim, to dock.

> Darfu i'r dinistriwr mawr wanâu grym lIaweroedd ar y ffordd, ac a docioidd eu hadenydd hwynt yn dost, fal na bu mo'r gallu ynddynt byth mwyach i ehedeg yn uchel.
>
> The great destroyer has enfeebled the energy of many on the way, and has clipped their wings dreadfully, so that there was no power in them ever after to fly on high. Ier. Owain.

Tociawg, a. (toc) Having a clipping, or docking; having a ticket, or ticketed.

Tociawl, a. (toc) Clipping, docking; ticketing.

Tociedig, a. (tociad) Being curtailed; clipped.

Tociwr, s. m.—pl. tociwyr (toc—gwr) A clipper, one who clips or docks.

Tocyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (toc) A short piece or slip; a ticket. Tynu tocyn, to draw a lot; dewis ai byraf docyn ai hiraf docyn, choose whether the shortest lot or the longest lot.

Tocynawl, a. (tocyn) Belonging to a ticket.

Tocyniad, s. m. (tocyn) A ticketing.

Tocynu, v. a. (tocyn) To ticket, to draw lots.

Tochawl, a. (tawch) Moistening, soaking; hazy.

Tochi, v. a. (tawch) To render moist, to soak; to thicken; to become humid; to become foggy or hazy.

Tochiad, s. m. (tawch) A soaking; a hazing.

Todawl, a. (tawd) Being stretched in contact.

Todi, v. a. (tawd) To stretch over; to constrict.

Todiad, s. m. (tawd) A constriction; a junction.

Todyn, s. m. dim. (tawd) That stretches over.

Toddadwy, a. (tawdd) Capable of being melted.

Toddaid, s. m. (tawdd) That is in a melting state; that is of a melting nature; the name of a species of metre, consisting of nineteen syllables. Y doddaid felen, common butterwort; y doddaid wên, or toddedig, the white rot, or marsh pennywort.

Toddawl, a. (tawdd) Dissolving, or melting.

Toddedig, a. (tawdd) Dissolved, melted. Toddedigion, liquids, in grammar: Y doddedig rudd, the rosasolis: y doddedig wèn, ladies bedstraw, a herb used instead of rennet.

Toddedigaeth, s. m. (toddedig) The act of melting

Toddedigawl, a. (toddedig) Of a tendency to melt

Toddi, v. a. (tawdd) To melt, to dissolve; to become melted.

> Ni thawdd dyled er ei haros.
>
> A debt will not dissolve in waiting for it. Adage.
>
> Gormes mawr a dawdd o flaen glewder bach.
>
> Great oppression will melt away before a little courage. Adage.

Toddiad, s. m. (tawdd) A melting, a dissolving.

Toddiannawl, a. (toddiant) Dissolvent.

Toddiannu, v. a. (toddiant) To make a solution.

Toddiant, s. m. (tawdd) A solution, a melting.

Toddion, s. pl. (tawdd) Meltings; dripping.

Toddwr, s. m.—pl. toddwyr (tawdd—gwr) A melter, or one who dissolves; a smelter.

Töed, s. m. (to) A covering; a roofing.

> Ystafell Cynddylan a'm gwân,
> Ei gweled heb doed, heb dân!
>
> The hall of Cynddylan wounds me, to see it without covering, without fire! Llywarch Hen.

Töedig, a. (töed) Covered, or roofed.

Toes, s. m. (taw) Dough, or paste of bread.

Toesaidd, a. (toes) Somewhat like dough.

Toesawg, a. (toes) Abounding with dough.

Toesawl, a. (toes) Of a doughy quality.

Toeseg, s. f. (toes) A kneading trough.

Toesi, v. a. (toes) To make dough; to become dough.

Toesiad, s. m. (toes) A making into dough.

Toeslyd, a. (toes) Doughy or like dough.

Toeslydrwydd, s. m. (toeslyd) Doughiness.

Toesyn, s. m. dim. (toes) A lump of dough.

Tofi, v. a. (tawf) To draw out; to place in a range.

Tofiad, s. m. (tawf) A drawing out in a range.

Tofrwyn, s. pl. aggr. (to—brwyn) Thatch-rushes.

Togi, v. a. (tawg) To elongate, to extend.

Toi, v. a. (to) To cover over, to put a layer over; to cover in, or to roof, to thatch, to slate, or to tile a building.

> Tai y cyfreithwyr a doir a chrwyn y cyfreithgar.
>
> The houses of the lawyers are covered with the skins of the litigious. Adage.

Tol, s. m. (to—ol) that covers or includes; that separates; that is loud.

Tolach, s. m. (tol) A moan. v. a. To moan.

Tolc, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tol) An impression or hollow made by a blow; a dent, a dinge.

> Ni roed tolc yn yr iad tau.
>
> A dent has not been given in that head of thine. O. ab Llywelyn Moel.

Tolciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tolc) A forming a hollow, or lapse; a punching, or driving in; a denting, a creasing, a dinging.

> Y tolciadau sydd yn gwasanaethu yn lle bwâadau, ac y plethiadau yn tegau rhwng tyniadau a chyweirdannau.
>
> The stops serve instead of bowings: and the shakes modulate between drawings and chords. Cerddoriaeth.

Tolciaw, v. a. (tolc) To make a hollow, or impression by a blow; to dent, to crease, to dinge.

Tolciawg, a. (tolc) Having falls, dents, or creases.

Tolciedig, a. (tolciad) Being impressed, or dented by any force; dinged.

Tolciwr, s. m.—pl. tolciwyr (tolc—gwr) One who makes a mark, or dent, by a blow.

Tolch, s. f.—pl. t. au (tol) A coagulated mass, a clod.

Tolchedig, a. (tolch) Clotted, coagulated.

Tolchen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tolch) A clod, a coagulated mass. Tolchen o waed, a clotted mass of blood.

Tolchenawg, a. (tolchen) Full of clotted masses.

Tolcheniad, s. m. (tolchen) A forming a clod.

Tolchenu, v. a. (tolchen) To form into a clod.

Tolchi, v. a. (tolch) To form a coagulated mass; to clod; to become clotted.

Tolchiad, s. m. (tolch) A clotting, a coagulating.

Tolfaen, s. m.—pl. tolfeini (tol—maen) An omen stone.

Tolgorn, s. m.—pl. tolgyrn (tol—corn) A trump, or a clarion.

Toli, v. a. (tawl) To curtail; to diminish; to put aside, to spare; to take from, to deal out.

> Hawdd toli yn helaeth o dorth gwr arall.
>
> It is easy to deal amply from another man's loaf. Adage.
>
> Gwr eurfudd diludd heb doli.
>
> A man of unrestrained gifts of gold without sparing. H. Foel ab Griffri.
>
> Morfudd——
> Tal am dy wawd cyn toli;
> Twyll y prydyddion wyt ti.
>
> Morvudd, pay for thy praise before a diminution takes place; the delusion of the poets art thou. Dafydd ab Gwilym.

Toliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tawl) A diminishing; a privation; a sparing.

Toliannawl, a. (toliant) Privative, curtailing.

Toliannu, v. a. (toliant) To make a diminution; to cause a privation.

Toliant, s. m. (tawl) A diminution, a privation; a saving, a sparing.

Tollaw, v. a. (tawl) To diminish; to curtail; to take away, to deprive; to save, to spare.

Hawt tollaw no huriaw.

It is easier to spare than to hire. Adage.

Ni tholles fy lles llyw rhybudd;
Ni thollaf a ganaf heb gudd.

The portended chief has not restricted my bliss; I will not restrain what I sing without disguise. Cynddelw.

Toliedig, a. (tawl) Diminished, taken away.
Toliwr, s. m.—pl. toliwyr (toli—gwr) A diminisher; one who puts aside, or spares.
Tolo, s. m. (tol) That is overwhelming; heavy; loud; a pound weight.

Cyglyu dòn drom ei tholo.

Hear the wave of sullen din. Llywarch Hen.

Tolws, s. m. (tol) That makes a roar, a roarer.
Toll, s. f.—pl. t. au (ty—oll) A fraction; custom, or toll.

Toll fawr a wna doll fechan.

A great toll will produce a small toll. Adage.

Ystafell Cynddylan neud athwyd heb fedd!
Mae yn medd dy ysgwyd,
Hyd tra fu ni bu doll giwyd.

The hall of Cynddylan art thou not gone devoid of mead! thy shield is in the grave, which whilst remaining was no broken shelter. Llywarch Hen.

Tolladwy, a. (toll) Capable of being tolled.
Tollawg, a. (toll) Having a toll, tolled.
Tolledig, a. (toll) Being exacted as toll.
Tollfa, s. f.—pl. tollfëydd (toll) A place to receive toll; a receipt of custom; a custom house.
Tolli, v. a. (toll) To subtract, or to take a part from; to exact toll, or custom; to toll.
Tolliad, s. m. (toll) A subtracting, a taking a part away; a taking custom, or toll; a tolling.
Tolliant, s. m. (toll) A toll, or custom.
Tollrydd, s. m. (toll—rhydd) Free of custom; toll-free. Aeth y tir yn dollrydd, the land is become free of toll.
Tollwr, s. m.—pl. tollwyr (toll—gwr) One who takes toll, or custom.

Brodyr cyweithas, arglwydd, tollwr, a chythraul.

Confederate brothers, a lord, a toll-gatherer, and the devil. Adage.

Tollydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (toll) A toll-gatherer.
Tom, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (to—om) A mound, a heap, a tumulus; a heap of dirt; dung.

Tom Elwyddan neus gwlych gwlaw:
Mae Maodyn y danaw;
Dyn fal Gynon i gwynaw!

The mound of Elwyddan how drenched by rain: Maodyn is under it; a man whom Cynon is left to mourn! Llywarch Hen.

Tomawd, s. m. (tom) A monument; a tomb.

Gwae ddyn nad ystyr
Ydd â yn ehegyr,
Cyn rhythr tymyr,
Tomawd faenfedd.

Woe to the man who will not consider that he may ruefully go, before a short space, to the stone grave with its monument. D. Ddu Hiraddug.

Tomawg, a. (tom) Having a heap; covered with dung; mucky.
Tomdail, s. m. (tom—tail) Dung manure.
Tomen, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (tom) A mound, a tumulus, a hillock; a dunghill.

A gasglo domen a gaiff un car cywir.

He that collects a dunghill will have one faithful friend. Adage.

Pob ci a fydd gun ar ei domen ei hun.

Every dog will be a lord on his own dunghill. Adage.

Tomfoi, v. a. (tom—moi) To drop dung.

Gwerth porchell o'r nos y ganer yni el i domfoi, ceiniawg.

The value of a pig from the night it is brought forth until it goes to drop dung, a penny. Welsh Laws.

Tomi, v. a. (tom) To make a heap; to dung.
Tomiad, s. m. (tom) A forming a heap; a dropping of dung.
Tomlyd, s. m. (tom) Abounding with dung.
Tomlydu, v. a. (tomlyd) To render mucky.
Tomwr, s. m.—pl. tomwyr (tom—gwr) One who heaps; a muck-man.
Tòn, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ty—on) A surface, an outer coating, peel, paring, or skin; also, lay land, or unploughed land; a green. Ton las, glasdon, a greensward.

Dar a dyfwys ar y ton:
Gwedi gwaedffrau, a briw bron,
Gwae a gar wyd amryson!

An oak has grown on the green: after blood-spilling, and the wounded breast, woe to him that loves the vice of contention! Robert T. Normandi.

Tòn, s. f.—pl. t. au (f. of twn) That breaks out, that is broken; a breaker, a surge, or wave. a. Shattered, broken.

Ni nofia mewn un afon
Y doeth yn erbyn y don.

Not in any river will the wise swim against the wave. Ed. Dafydd.

Oedd amliw tònau, twn amhar eu naid,
Nid oeddynt dilafar:
Tòn heli beiaeth trwy far,
Tòn arall gwall goch gwyar.

Many-coloured were the waves, broken and of mixed din their course, they were not void of sound: a wave of brine ample in its rage, another dreadful wave red with gore. Ll. P. Moch.

Bid grafangawg iar; bid trydar lew;
Bid ynfyd ymladdgar;
Bid tòn calon gàn alar.

A hen scratches with her claws; a lion roars: the fool is fond of brawls; the heart is broken oppressed with woe. Llywarch Hen.

Ton, s. f.—pl. t. au (to—on) A tone, an accent.

Un adlam a Thelamon,
Eneid-lyw teg, difreg don.

Of the same fate as Telamon, a fair superior soul, of unbroken accent. H. y Coed.

Tònawg, a. (tòn) Abounding with breaks, abounding with breakers or waves; turbulent, froward, stubborn.
Tònawl, a. (tòn) Breaking like a surge.
Tonc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ty—onc) A tink, a ring. Cei eithaf tonc, thou shalt have extreme joy. Dyfed.
Tonciad, s. m. (tonc) A tinking, a ringing.
Tonciaw, v. a. (tonc) To tinkle, to ring.
Tònen, s. f. dim. (tòn) A surface, an outer coating, peel, or paring; a cuticle; also, a bog, or quag.
Tonfryd, a. (tòn—bryd) Of a rough disposition.
Tongar, a. (ton) Sonorous, resounding.
Tòni, v. a. (tòn) To form a surface; to become covered with a skin, or cuticle; to pare, to peel.
Toniad, s. m. (ton) A making a tone, or accent.
Tòniad, s. m. (tòn) A forming a surface; a forming a cuticle, a paring, a peeling.
Toniadur, s. m. (toniad) That forms an accent.
Toniar, s. f. (tòn) A plank, a shingle.
Tòniar, s. f.—pl. tonieri (tòn) A breaker, a surge, or wave.

Gwirawd Owain llary, llachar ei derfysg
Ar derfyn ei esgar,
Balch y daw yn llaw llucbfar:
Meddw ei therf, medd ei thoniar.

The cup of Owain the mild, whose tumult gleams on the border of his foe, proudly it comes on the wrath-dispensing hand, drunk its surrounding votaries, its wave is mead. Cynddelw.

Toniardy, s. m.—pl. t. au (toniar—ty) A house or booth made of boards.
Toniaru, v. a. (tòniar) To lay planks, to board.
Toniaw, v. a. (ton) To tone, to accent.

Tonogi, v. a. (tònawg) To raise breakers or billows; to rise in billows; to become boisterous or turbulent.
Tonogiad, s. m. (tònawg) A raising of breakers; a rising in waves, or surges; a becoming turbulent.
Tonogrwydd, s. m. (tònawg) The state of rising in surges; turbulence.
Tonwaed, s. m. (tòn—gwaed) A blood clod.
Tonwen, a. (tòn—gwèn) White-skinned.
Tonwryg, a. (tòn—gwryg) Rising in billows; turbulent.
Tonwrygiad, s. m. (tonwryg) A rising in billows; a becoming turbulent.
Tonwrygiaw, v. a. (tonwryg) To raise surges; to rise in surges; to become turbulent.
Tonwyn, a. (tòn—gwỳn) White-skinned.
Tonydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ton) An accenter.
Tonyddiaeth, s. (tonydd) A tonation, accentation.

> Tonyddiaeth helaeth hylawn,
> A gair, mewn llafair a gawn.
>
> A tonation ample and complete, and a word, in expression we obtain. Meirig Dafydd.

Top, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tob) A top; a stopple.
Topiad, s. m. (top) A topping, a cresting.
Topiaw, v. a. (top) To top, to form a crest.
Topiawg, a. (top) Having a top, or crest.
Topiawl, a. (top) Tending to form a top.
Topiwr, s. m.--pl. topiwyr (top--gwr) One who tops
Topyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. au (top) A top, a bunch, bush of hair; a topple; a stopple.

> Erfynied f'm rhwyf ydd wyf ei dda—
> A warawd topyn felyn fwin.
>
> I sue to my chief for his goods, that renders unnecessary a top, a yellow knob. Gr. ab D. ab Tudyr.

Topyniad, s. m. (topyn) A forming a top.
Topynu, v. a. (topyn) To form a top, or crest.
Tòr, s. m. (ty—or) A break, a rupture; a cut; an interruption, a cessation, a discontinuation. Tòr calon, a heart breaking.
Tòr, s. f.—pl. t. au (to—or) A swell out, a bulge, a prominence; a belly; the lower part of the belly. Tòr y mynydd, the swell of the mountain; tòr y llaw, the ball of the hand; tòr tarian, the convex or outside of a shield.

> Tyfid enderig o'i dòr.
>
> The steer grows from his belly. Adage.

Tòradwy, a. (tòr) Capable of being broken.
Toraeth, s. f.—pl. toreithiau (tòr) Produce, profit; fecundity, fruitfulness; abundance, store. Nid oes dim toraeth ohono, there is no good to be had out of him.

> Mawr yw toraeth yr aflwydd.
>
> Great is the store of the unfortunate. Adage.
>
> Mawr toraeth aflwydd ban fyno.
>
> Great is the store of misfortune when he commands. Adage.

Torammod, s. (tòr—ammod) Breach of covenant.
Torarfoll, s. f. (tòr—arfoll) Breach of faith.
Torawg, a. (tòr) Having a prominence; big-bellied; an epithet applied to a sow, a bitch, and a cat, when big with young.
Torawl, a. (tòr) Tending to spread round; prominent.
Torbwt, s. m.—pl. torbytiaid (tòr--pwt) A turbot.
Torcalon, s. m. (tòr—calon) A heart-breaking.
Torcalonus, a. (torcalon) Heart-breaking.

> Ystyriaeth dorcalonus ydyw ein bod ni bob dydd yn myned ymaeth oddiwrth ein dedwyddwch.
>
> It is a heart-breaking consideration that we should be every day going away from our happiness. Ios. Rhys.

Torch, s. f.--pl. tyrch (tòr) A wreath; a collar; a badge of distinction, worn by the ancient Britons, which it was a point of honour for a warrior to preserve from being lost to the enemy in battle. Tynu am y dorch, to strive for the torques: Mi dynaf y dorch a thi, I will pull the torques with thee.

> Braich uwch balennyn llenyrch;
> Brychwaith ei braich a'i thyrch.
>
> A handle above the point of the fields; of fretwork its handle and its wreaths. Rhys Trem, i fwelad.

Torchawg, a. (torch) Having a wreath, coil, or turn; wreathed, coiled, twisted, turned up; wearing a torques.
Torchawl, a. (torch) Wreathing, twisting, coiling
Torchawr, part. (torch) Wreathing, entwining.

> Gwefrawr godrwyawr torchawr am ran.
>
> Amber-beads in ringlets entwining round the temples. Aneurin.

Torchedig, a. (torch) Wreathed, twisted; coiled
Torchi, v. a. (torch) To wreath, to twist, to twine; to coil, to gather into a chain; to turn up. Torcha dy lewys, turn up thy sleeves.

> Torchi gwraidd tywarch a gro
> I'r gwynt, ac i'r wybr, ganto.
>
> Turning up the roots of sods and gravel into the wind, and into the air, by him. L. Morganwg.

Torchiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (torch) A wreathing.
Torchwr, s. m.—pl. torchwyr (torch—gwr) A coiler, a wreather, a twister.
Tordain, s. m. (tor—tain) A spread out in a lolling manner. v. a. To loll.
Tordanawl, a. (tordain) Swelling out the belly.
Tordaniad, s. m. (tordain) A lolling on the belly.
Tordanu, v. a. (tordain) To spread out the belly.
Tordor, adv. (tor repeated) Belly to belly.
Tordyn, a. (tor—tyn) Tight stomached; full-bellied; high-stomached, proud-stomached.

> Bydd dordyn wrth elynion man,
> Fel chwythu tan mewn sbrod.
>
> Be high-stomached to petty foes, like blowing the fire amongst dross. Edm. Prys.

Tordyniad, s. m. (tordyn) A stretching the belly.
Tordynu, v. a. (tordyn) To tighten the belly.
Tordd, s. m. (tor) A murmur, a din, a tumult.
Torddawl, a. (tordd) Murmuring, tumultuous.
Torddiad, s. m. (tordd) A murmuring, a raising a din.
Torddu, v. a. (tordd) To murmur, to make a din.
Torddus, a. (tordd) Murmuring, tumultuous.
Tored, s. m. (tor) That expands round. a. Vast.
Tòredig, a. (tòr) Broken, fractured, cut.
Toredlu, s.—pl. t. oedd (tored—llu) A vast host.

> Mynegid iddo fod yr amherawdr wedi lluestu yn agaws yno, a thoredlu gantho; ac yn y lle ydd oedd Arthur a luestws ar lan afon
>
> It was told him that the emperor had encamped near to that place, having a vast host with him; and in the spot where he was Arthur encamped on a river side. Gr. ab Arthur.

Toredwynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tored—gwynt) A whirlwind.

> Twrf toredwynt mawr uch mor diffaith.
>
> The din of a mighty whirlwind over a desert sea. Llygad Gwr.
>
> Torynt toredwynt uch teg adfan.
>
> They would burst a whirlwind over a fair retreat. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Toreithiad, s. m. (toraeth) A forming a store.
Toreithiannawl, a. (toreithiant) Of a productive tendency, tending to store.
Toreithiannu, v. a. (toreithiant) To cause abundance; to become abundant.
Toreithiant, s. m. (toraeth) Abundance; store.

Toreithiaw, v. a. (toraeth) To render productive, or abundant, to yield increase; to be productive.
Toreithiawg, a. (toraeth) Having produce, plenty, or abundance; profitable, yielding increase.
Toreithiawl, a. (toraeth) Productive, abundant.
Toreithiedig, a. (toreithiad) Made abundant.
Toreithus, a. (toraeth) Productive, abundant.
Toreithusaw, v. a. (toreithus) To render productive; to become productive.
Toreithusdra, s. m. (toreithus) Productiveness.
Toreithusrwydd, s.m. (toreithus) Productiveness
Torf, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tor) A croud, a throng, a multitude; a troop; a host.

Godwrf——
Teulu Madawg, mur eglur,
Mal gawr torf teulu Arthur.

The murmur of the tribe of Madawg, a conspicuous bulwark, like the host shout of the tribe of Arthur. Cynddelw.

——Gorddrud ei lasfer,
Drud rwyf torf twrf llanw yn aber.

Impetuous to extreme his blue shaft, the bold leader of a host tumultuous as a flood in the mouth of a river. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Torfa, s. f.—pl. torfëydd (torf) An assembled host; also the number of one thousand millions

Deg degwaith yw cant, deg cant yn y fil, deg mil yn y myrdd, deg myrdd yn y mwnt, deg mwnt yn y rhiallu, deg rhiallu yn y fwnda, deg mwnda yn y dorfa, deg torfa yn y gattyrfa fawr: y rhif mwyaf yw hwnw.

Ten ten times is a hundred, ten hundreds in a thousand, ten thousands in a myriad, ten myriads in a hundred thousand, ten hundred thousands in a million, ten millions in the cumulus, ten cumuluses in the aggregate multitude, ten aggregate multitudes in the great protecting host: the greatest number is that.

Torfagl, s. f. (tor—magl) That breaks or dissipates a stye; the eyebright, or wild English clary, also called gloewlys, and goleudrem.
Torfawg, a. (torf) Having a host; multitudinous

Owain——
Diofn cad cedeirn dorfogion.

Owain dauntless in the battle of mighty ones assembled together H. Foel ab Griffri.

Torfiad, s. m. (torf) An assembling of a host.
Torflawdd, s. m. (tor—blawdd) A spreading tumult, or uproar.
Torfloddiad, s. m. (torflawdd) An expanding of a tumult.

Dym cyfarwyddiad Unbwch dywal,
Diwng chwerthin mor ryfel dorfloddiad
Urien.——

May the furious Unbwch lead me on, like the sullen agitation of the sea is the war expanding tumult of Urien. Llywarch Hen.

Torfu, v. a. (torf) To collect a host, to assemble in a body.
Torfynwgl, a. (tòr—mynwgl) Neck breaking.
Torfynygliad, s. m. (torfynwgl) A breaking the neck; a casting headlong; a prostration.
Torfynyglu, v. a. (torfynwgl) To cause a neck-breaking, to break the neck; to cast headlong.
Torgeingl, s. f.—pl. t. au (tor—ceingl) A girth.
Torgest, s. f.—pl. t. i (tor—cest) A hernia.
Torgestawg, a. (torgest) Having a hernia.
Torgestiad, s. m. (torgest) A forming a hernia.
Torgestu, v. a. (torgest) To form a hernia.
Torgoch, a. (tor—coch) Red-bellied; an epithet for the red char fish of the Alpine lakes.
Torgochiad, s. m.—pl. torgochiaid (torgoch) A red-bellied one; a red char fish; also called brithyll melyn.
Tòri, v. a. (tòr) To break, to make a rupture; to cut; to become broken.

Un o dri gorchestwaith Ynys Prydain: Llong Nefydd Naf Neifion a ddug ynddi wryw a benyw, pan dores llyn llion.

One of the three superior exploits of the isle of Britain: the ship of Nevydd Nav Neivion, which carried in it male and female when the aggregate of floods broke out. Trioedd.

Pei gwnelthit fy nghynghor i, ni thorit gyfreithiau y llys erddo.

If thou hadst done my advice, thou wouldst not break the laws of the court on his account. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Tòriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tòr) A breaking, a making a rupture; a cutting; a becoming broken; a cessation, a breaking off, a breaking in, or taming. Tòriad y dydd, the break of day: Nid oes arno dòriad yn y byd, he is not under the least regulation in the world.

Gofyn i ddall a ydyw yn doriad gwawr.

Asking of the blind whether it is break of day. Adage.

Toriadawl, a. (tòriad) Fractive, fracturing.
Toriadu, v. a. (tòriad) To make a break.
Toriannawl, a. (tòriant) Fractory.
Toriannu, v. a. (tòriant) To make a fraction.
Tòriant, s. m. (tòr) A fraction, a fracture.
Toriator, ger. (tòriad) In breaking.
Toriedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tòriad) A fracturer
Toritor, sup. (tòri) To be breaking.
Torlaith, s. m. (tòr—llaith) White hellebore.
Tòrlan, s. f.—pl. tòrlènydd (tòr—glàn) A broken bank, a bank worn away by water.

Gellir yfed yr afon, ond nid ellir bwyta y dòrlan.

The river may be drank, but the bank cannot be eaten. Adage.

Torlla, s. f.—pl. t. od (tòr—lla) A slattern.
Torllengig, s. m. (tòr—llengig) A hernia.
Torllwyd, a. (tòr—llwyd) Having the prominence or belly of a grey colour. Y dorllwyd, the wild tansy, or silverweed; also called torllwydig, and torllwydog, y dinllwyd, gwyn y merched.
Torllwydog, s. f. (torllwyd) The wild tansy.
Torllwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (tor—llwyth) The burden of the belly; the burden of the womb; an epithet for a litter of pigs, and for other animals that bring forth several at once.

Hwch a fwrw, o chyfeirir,
Dorllwyth o dylwyth i dir:
Yn myn'd rhwng Arfon a Mon
Y chwery freichiau hirion.

A sow that will cast, if resorted to, a litter of progeny on the land: visiting between Arvon and Mon she plays about her long arms. Gr. ab Hyw. ab Tudyr, i Ysgraff.

Torm, s. f. (tòr) That is stretched or crouded round.
Tormach, s. m. (tòr—mach) A forfeit of bail; contempt of court; hardship.
Tormaen, s. m. (tòr—maen) That breaks the stone; the saxifrage; also called maen-had, and llyfnwy.
Tormaenawl, a. (tormaen) Lithontriptic.
Tormaenwydd, s. m. (tormaen—gwydd) Sassafras-tree, or stone-dissolver.
Tormennawg, a. (torment) Having a surrounding assemblage.

Anesgor dy far, fur tormennawg.

Unavoidable thy wrath, host-surrounding bulwark. Llygad Gwr.

Tormenniad, s. m. (torment) A pressing or crouding round.
Tormennu, v. a. (torment) To croud round; to croud together in conflict.

Mae yntau oreu un tormennawg;
Tormennoedd anlloedd an llyw tiriawg.

He also is the best of any host surrounded one; our leader amply possessing land, caused riches to surround. Gwalchmai.

Torment, s. m. (torm) The state of pressing round; a conflicting host; a conflict; torment

Teyrnllyw teyrnas terfysg torment.

A supreme leader of a kingdom the tumult of conflict. Ll. P. Moch.

Tryliw ei ysgwyd ysgydwir yn nhorment.

Three-coloured his shield that is made to move in conflict. Cynddelw.

Godwrf a glywaf am glawr leithon hir;
Hydyr ei wir ar Saeson:
Teulu Madawg, mur galon,
Mal twrf tormennoedd Cynon.

A murmur I hear along the surface of the far-extending leithon; its truth is confidence to the Saxons: of the tribe of Madawg, a bulwark against foes, like the tumult of the conflicts of Cynon. Cynddelw.

Tormiad, s. m. (torm) A gathering round.

Tormiannawg, a. (tormiant) Being surrounded by retinue.

Gwr tormiannawg cyfoethawg.

A magnificent wealthy man. Mabinogi.

Tormiannu, v. a. (tormiant) To form a surrounding retinue.

Tormiant, s. m. (torm) A surrounding assemblage

Tormu, v. a. (torm) To assemble round.

Tormwyth, s. m. (tòr—mwyth) Feverfew.

Tormyn, s. m. (torm) A surrounding croud.

Tormynawg, a. (tormyn) Surrounded by retinue.

Tormynogaeth, s. m. (tormynawg) The state of having a surrounding retinue.

Torogen, s. f. dim. (tòrawg) A big-bellied one; a tike.

Torogenawg, a. (torogen) Full of tikes.

Torogeniad, s. m. (torogen) A breeding of tikes.

Torogenu, v. a. (torogen) To breed tikes.

Toroges, s. f. (torawg) A big-bellied one.

Torogi, v. a. (torawg) To make a big belly, to swell the belly; to cause a gestation; to become big-bellied; to become big with young.

Yn Ganga y mae llyswod a thrichant troedfedd yn eu hyd; ac yno y mae pryfed tebyg i wreigedd, a dwy fraich iddynt, chwe cufydd yn eu hyd; ac o'r rhai hyny y toroca yr eliffant, ac yn y tonau y soddant, ac yn y mor hwnw y magant; ac yn eu cibinau y dichawn dynion adlamu.

In Ganga there are eels having three hundred feet in their lengths; and therein are animals like women, having two arms, six cubits in their lengths; and those gestate from the elephant, and in the waves they sink, and in the sea there they rear their young; and in their shells men might move about. Delw y Byd.

Torogiad, s. m. (torawg) A making a big belly, a swelling the belly; a causing a gestation; a becoming big with young.

Torogwr, s. m.—pl. torogwyr (torawg—gwr) One who swells out the belly.

Torogyn, s. m. dim. (torawg) A big-bellied one.

Toron, s. f.—pl. t. au (tawr) That spreads over; a plot in a garden laid out in beds; a decking out of a table; a mantle, or cloak.

Toronaeth, s. m. (toron) The act of decking out.

Toronawg, a. (toron) Having a mantle.

Tarw a gaf: Pond hir y gwallt
Toronawg.——

A bull I shall get: surely the covering hair is long. T. Penllyn.

Toronawl, a. (toron) Mantling, cloaking.

Toroni, v. a. (toron) To deck out, to cover over, to spread out a table, to spread a feast; to cover with a mantle, to mantle, to cloak.

Glewlwyd Gafaelfawr a dynai y pair oddiar y tan, pan oedd yn —'Toroni tair ynys.'——

Glewlwyd with mighty grasp pulled the cauldron off the fire, when he was feasting three islands. Iolo Goch.

Toroniad, s. m. (toron) A spreading over, a decking, or covering; a mantling.

Torp, s. m. (tor) A round mass, a lump.

Torpell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (torp) A small mass or lump; any thick or coagulated matter formed into a mass; a clod; a dumpling.

Torpellawg, a. (torpell) Abounding with masses, or clods; formed into lumps.

Torpelliad, s. m. (torpell) A clotting.

Torpellu, v. a. (torpell) To clod, to form a lump.

Torpwth, s. m. (tor—pwth) A short big-bellied person; a squab.

Tors, s. f.—pl. t. au (tawr) A covering.

Teiroes i'r corff, tors aur cerdd.

Three lives to the person, the golden shelter of song. H. Arwystli.

Torsed, s. f.—pl. t. i (tors) A rug, a coverlid; also called cadwy.

Torsed gogyfled a'r gwydd.

A rug of equal breadth with the loom. L. G. Cothi.

Torsi, v. a. (tors) To deck, or cover over.

Torsiad, s. m. (tors) A decking over.

Torstain, a. (tors—tain) Prominent, bulging.

Y bwa——
Hirfain a thorstain ni thyr.

The bow long and slender and bulging out that will not break. T. Prys.

Torsyth, a. (tor—syth) Swaggering out the belly stiffly, stiff-stomached.

Torsythaidd, a. (torsyth) Rather stiff-stomached.

Torsythawg, a. (torsyth) Swaggering.

Torsythawl, a. (torsyth) Apt to swagger.

Torsythiad, s. m. (torsyth) A swaggering, a swelling out the belly.

Torsythni, s. m. (torsyth) A swaggering.

Torsythu, v. a. (torsyth) To stiffen the belly.

Torth, s. f.—pl. t. au (ty—orth) That supports, or sustains; a loaf of bread.

Torthawl, a. (torth) Being like a loaf.

Torthi, v. a. (torth) To form into a compact mass; to harden, to settle; to cake. Gwair wedi torthi, hay after it is settled.

Torthiad, s. m. (torth) A forming a loaf.

Torwen, a. (tòr—gwèn) White-bellied.

Torwenwyn, s. m. (tòr—gwenwyn) Rue.

Torwyn, a. (tor—gwŷn) White-bellied.

Torympryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tòr—ympryd) A breakfast; also called borefwyd, tori cythlwng.

Pan oeddwn yn ymdrwsiaw, Melysigrwydd a'i chwaer Meddwdawd a ddoai i mewn, y rhai a barotöes i mi fy nhorympryd.

When I was dressing myself, Voluptuousness, with her sister Drunkenness, came in, who prepared for me my breakfast. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Torymprydiad, s. m. (torympryd) A breakfasting.

Torymprydiaw, v. a. (torympryd) To breakfast.

Toryn, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tawr) An outer-covering, a mantle, a cloak; a cope, or sacerdotal vesture.

Ni byddaf na thoryn dwyn na chapan gwlaw.

I will not be a carrying cloak nor rain cap. Adage.

Torynawg, a. (toryn) Having a mantle.

Toryniad, s. m. (toryn) A cloaking, a mantling.

Torynu, v. a. (toryn) To cloak, to mantle.

Tos, s. m. (ty—os) A quick jerk; a toss; a snatch.

Tosed, s. m. (tos) A snatch; a rapine.

Tosiad, s. m. (tos) A jerking; a tossing.

Tosiaw, v. a. (tos) To jerk; to snatch; to toss.

Tost, a. (to—ost) Severe, harsh; violent; toasted.

Tost fydd ar ddyn pan gaffo ddewis.

It is hard on a person when he is put to his choice. Adage.

Mae yn dost ar a ddymunai farw; mae yn dostach ar ei ofno.

It is grievous on such as would wish to die; it is more grievous on such as would dread it. Adage.

Tostaidd, a. (tost) Somewhat severe or harsh.

Tostalar, s. m. (tost—galar) Severe grief.

Tostalariad, s. m. (tostalar) A severely grieving.

Tostalaru, v. a. (tostalar) To grieve severely.

Pa oedfaon gwerthfawr a gollwyd!—hwynthwy, y rhai a'u hesgeulusasant, a dostalarant am danynt yn oes oesoedd.

What precious opportunities have been lost! they who have neglected them, will deeply lament about them for age of ages. Ier. Owain.

Tostalarus, a. (tostalar) Severely grieving.
Tostawl, a. (tost) Of a severe quality.
Tostedig, a. (tost) Being made severe or harsh.
Tostedd, s. m. (tost) Severity, pungency, harshness; also the stranguary.
Tostfrwyn, s. pl. aggr. (tost—brwyn) Sea rushes.
Tostfrwynen, s. f. dim. (tostfrwyn) A sea rush.
Tosti, v. a. (tost) To cause violent pain, to rack, to torture; also to feel for, or to be pained.

Mal dala gel bendoll ym tostes yr haiarn dur!

Like catching an open headed leech the steely iron pained me! H. Culhwch.

Tosti a thruanu wrtho a orug.

To take pity and to commiserate with him was what he did. Hanes No.

Tostiad, s. m. (tost) A causing severity; a torturing
Tostlym, a. (tost—llym) Poignant, acrimonious.
Tostlymder, s. m. (tostlym) Acrimoniousness.
Tostlymdra, s. m. (tostlym) Acrimoniousness.
Tostlymrwydd, s. m. (tostlym) Acrimoniousness.
Tostur, s. m. (tost) Misery, severe plight.
Tosturâad, s. m. (tosturâu) A commiseration.
Tosturâawl, a. (tosturâu) Commiserating.
Tosturâu, v. a. (tostur) To commiserate, to pity.

Nid ystyr hon dosturâu!

No idea to compassionate hath she! T. Aled.

Tosturi, s. m. (tostur) Compassion, pity, mercy.
Tosturiad, s. m. (tostur) A pitying, a taking pity.
Tosturiaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (tostur) Compassion.

A aeth dy dosturiaethau
Oll ymaith am ein gwaith gau?

Are all thy tender mercies fled away on account of our deceitful art? D. Richard Glan y Morfa.

Tosturiannawl, a. (tosturiant) Compassionate.
Tosturiannu, v. a. (tosturiant) To compassionate.
Tosturiant, s. m. (tostur) Compassion, pity.
Tosturiaw, v. a. (tostur) To compassionate, to pity.
Tosturiawg, a. (tostur) Compassionate.
Tosturiawl, a. (tostur) Compassionate; piteous.

Pan glywai Rhad Duw fy nghwynfan tosturiawl, hi o'i daioni a estynai i mi ieian aur, ac a orchmynai imi ddodi fy llaw erni.

When the Grace of God heard my pitiful complaint, she out of her goodness extended to me a golden rod, and desired me to place my hand upon it. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Tosturiedig, a. (tosturiad) Commiserated, pitied.
Tostnrioldeb, s. m. (tosturiawl) Compassionateness
Tosturiwr, s. m.—pl. tosturiwyr (tostur—gwr) One who takes compassion.
Tosturus, a. (tostur) Compassionate; piteous.
Tosturusaw, v. a. (tosturus) To soften to pity; to become compassionate; to render piteous; to become piteous.
Tostnrusrwydd, s. m. (tosturns) Compassionateness
Töwr, s. m.—pl. towyr (to—gwr) One who forms a covering, one who roofs; a thatcher, a tiler, a slater.
Tprue, s. m. A noise made in calling cattle.

Tprue loi! lo llwm ei gynffon,
Prin o rodd.——

Come my calves! avoid that bare-tailed calf, a niggardly gift. Mad. Dwygraig.

Tra, s. m. (ty—rha) An extreme, an extremity; an excess; a turn; whatever is, thing. It is also prefixed in composition. Paid a gwneuthur tra, do not be over nice.

Gwolychaf wledig, pendefig pob fa,
Gwr a gynnall y nef, argiwydd pob tra.

I will adore the Supreme, the sovereign of every region, he that upholds the heaven, the Lord of every thing. Taliesin.

As gynnull gwenyn, ac nis mwynâa,
Medd hidlaid molaid, molud i bob tra.

The bees collect, and they do not enjoy it, the distilled mead delightful, the delight of every extremity. Taliesin.

Tra, prep. (ty—rha) Over, above; beyond. Tra mynydd, over the mountain; tra mor, beyond sea; tra dy gefn, beyond thy back.
Tra, adv. (ty—rha) Over; very, excessively; whilst, as long as, so long as.

Tra dichell tra dycholl.

Excess of cunning excess of loss. Adage.

Amlaf y mel tra hitler.

Honey is most frequent whilst it is put through a sieve. Adage.

Doeth dyn tra tawo.

A person is wise whilst he keeps silent. Adage.

O gwyl di ddyn gael dy dda,
A chymer tra fych yma:
Na fydd cybydd, celfydd call,
I ddwyn aur i ddyn arall.

See, oh man! when thou obtainest thy wealth, and enjoy it whilst thou shalt be here: be not a miser, of cunning scheme, to hoard gold for another person. S. Tudyr.

Träannog, s. m. (annog) Extreme excitement. v. a. To excite beyond measure.
Träannogiad, s. m. (träannog) Extreme excitation
Träannos, s. m. (annos) A chasing extremely. v. a. To drive overmuch.
Träannosiad, s. m. (träannos) A chasing greatly.
Träarglwyddiaethiad, s. m. (arglwyddiaethiad) A governing tyrannically; a domineering.
Träarglwyddiaethu, v. a. (arglwyddiaethu) To exercise dominion to excess; to domineer.
Traberw, s. m. (berw) An over-boil.
Traberwad, s. m. (traberw) An over-boiling.
Traberwedig, a. (traberw) Over-boiled.
Traberwi, v. a. (traberw) To over-boil.
Trablawdd, s. m. (blawdd) Extreme activity. Trablawdd ffosawd, the extreme velocity of gashing.
Trablawr, s. m. (blawr) Extremely gloomy.
Trabloedd, s. f. (bloedd) A great outcry.
Trabloeddi, v. a. (trabloedd) To make an outcry.
Trabloeddiad, s. m. (trabloedd) A making an outcry.
Trabludd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (bludd) Trouble, toil, pains, business; turmoil, tumult.

Ni welais i lys
Môr lwys edmyg——
A thrydar meibion,
A thro cerddorion,
A thrabludd gweision
Gosymddeithig.

I have not beheld a court so fair and solemn, with the noise of youths, and the turn of minstrels, and the bustle of servants serving the feast. D. ab Ieuan Ddu.

Trabluddiad, s. m. (trabludd) A troubling.
Trabluddiaw, v. a. (trabludd) To trouble, to teaze.
Trabluddiawg, a. (trabludd) Full of trouble.
Trabluddiawl, a. (trabludd) Troublous, teazing.
Trabluddiedig, a. (trabludd) Troubled, teazed.
Trabluddiwr, s. m.—pl. trabluddiwyr (trabludd—gwr) A troubler, a teazer.
Trablwng, a. (blwng) Extremely surly.
Trablwydd, adv. (blwydd) Beyond the year.
Trablwyddyn, adv. (trablwydd) Beyond the year.
Trabrys, s. m. (brys) Extreme haste, or hurry.
Trabrysgar, a. (trabrys) Extremely hasty.
Trabrysiad, s. m. (trabrys) An over-hastening.
Trabrysiaw, v. a. (trabrys) To over-hasten.
Trabuan, a. (buan) Extremely quick.
Trabychan, a. (bychan) Extremely small.
Trabychaniad, s. m. (trabychan) A making extremely little.
Trabychanu, v. a. (trabychan) To make extremely little; to depreciate extremely.
Trabywiawg, a. (bywiawg) Extremely lively.
Trach, s. m.—pl. t. au (tra) A hill protruded as it were into low ground. Trach Dindyrn, a hill over Tintern Abbey; also a hill near Denbigh, with a farm house in front of it, called Taldrach.

Trach, adv. (tra) Beyond; beside; at; aside.

Canmawl doeth trach ei gefn, a merch o flaen ei gwyneb.

Praise the wise behind his back, and a woman before her face. Adage.

Trin dygwydd trwch trach ei lafnawr.

A dreadful fall of slaughter beneath the stroke of his blade. Aneurin.

Trachadw, v. a. (cadw) To keep extremely.

Trachaer, s. f.—pl. t. au (caer) Advanced wall.

A thori trachaer Roma.

And breaking the advanced wall of Rome. Taliesin.

Trachaled, a. (caled) Extremely hard.

Trachalediad, s. m. (trachaled) A hardening extremely.

Trachaledu, v. a. (trachaled) To harden extremely

Trachall, a. (call) Extremely cunning.

Trachallder, s. m. (trachall) Extreme cunning.

Trachariad, s. m. (cariad) Extreme love.

Tracharu, v. a. (caru) To love to excess.

Trachas, s. m. (cas) Extreme hatred.

Caraf trachas Lloegr.

I love the extreme enmity of England. H. ab O. Gwynedd.

Trachasiad, s. m. (trachas) A hating extremely.

Trachasu, v. a. (trachas) To hate extremely.

Trachawdd, s. m. (cawdd) Excess of vexation.

Trachefn, adv. (cefn) Behind the back; again.

Trachelfydd, a. (celfydd) Extremely skilful.

Trachgefn, adv. (trach—cefn) Behind the back.

Trachil, s. m. (cil) An extreme recess.

Trachiliad, s. m. (trachil) A receding extremely.

Trachiliaw, v. a. (trachil) To recede extremely.

Trachoddi, v. a. (trachawdd) To vex extremely.

Trachoddiad, s. m. (trachawdd) A vexing extremely.

Trachoddiant, s. m. (trachawdd) Extreme vexation; extreme offence.

Trachraff, a. (craff) Of very keen hold; of extremely keen perception.

Trachraffiad, s. m. (trachraff) A taking a very keen hold; extreme perception.

Trachraffu, v. a. (trachraff) To take very keen hold; to perceive extremely.

Trachrin, a. (crin) Extremely brittle or fragile.

Trachrinaw, v. a. (trachrin) To render extremely brittle; to become extremely brittle.

Trachryn, s. m. (cryn) Extreme shaking.

Trachrynawl, a. (trachryn) Tending to shake extremely.

Trachryniad, s. m. (trachryn) A shaking extremely

Trachrynu, v. a. (trachryn) To shake extremely.

Trachu, a. (cu) Extremely fond or loving.

Trachudd, s. m. (cudd) Extreme obscurity.

Trachuddiad, s. m. (trachudd) A hiding to excess.

Trachuddiaw, v. a. (trachudd) To hide to excess.

Trachuddiedig, a. (trachudd) Extremely hidden.

Trachuedd, s. m. (trachu) Over fondness.

Trachul, a. (cul) Extremely narrow.

Trachulaw, v. a. (trachul) To narrow extremely.

Trachuledd, s. m. (trachul) Extreme narrowness.

Trachur, s. m. (cur) Extreme beat or throb.

Trachuraw, v. a. (trachur) To beat extremely.

Trachwannawg, a. (trachwant) Extremely greedy

Trachwant, s. m.—pl. t. au (chwant) Immoderate desire: lust; covetousness; ambition.

Tri gwrthgefnyddion daioni: balchder, llid, a thrachwant.

The three contrasts of goodness: pride, wrath, and ambition. Catwg ab Gwynllw Filwr.

Hawdd tangnefedd rhwng twyll a thrachwant.

It is easy to make peace between deceit and cupidity. Adage.

Trachwant a brad a ddoynt i Ynys Prydain ar farch euraid.

Cupidity and treachery came to the island of Britain on a golden horse. Adage.

Trachwanta, v. a. (trachwant) To lust extremely.

Trachwantaidd, a. (trachwant) Tending to lust.

Trachwantawl, a. (trachwant) Extremely coveting.

Trachwantiad, s. m. (trachwant) A coveting extremely, a lusting extremely.

Trachwantu, v. a. (trachwant) To lust extremely.

Ei olud i gyd, ar gais, a'i deulu,
A'i dy, drwy chwantu, a drachwantais.

His wealth altogether, in idea, and his family, and his house, through coveting, I coveted extremely. H. D. ab Ifan.

Trachwantus, a. (trachwant) Extremely covetous.

Tlawd pob trachwantus.

Every covetous one is poor. Adage.

Trachwantusaw, v. a. (trachwantus) To render extremely covetous; to become full of avidity.

Trachwar, a. (chwar) Extremely active or playful. Trin trachwar, a conflict extremely active.

Trachwennych, v. (trachwant) To covet extremely

Trachwennychiad, s. m. (trachwennych) A coveting extremely.

Trachwennychu, v. a. (trachwennych) To covet extremely.

Trachwiliad, s. m. (chwiliad) A searching much.

Trachwiliaw, v. a. (chwiliaw) To search to excess.

Trachwres, s. m. (trach—gwres) Extreme heat; ambition.

Prenial yw i bawb ei drachwres.

"The path of glory leads but to the grave." Taliesin.

Pummed yw y perfedd, neb nis cyfannedd,
Rhag maint trachwres haul.——

The fifth is the middle, which nobody doth inhabit, because of the extreme heat of the sun. Taliesin.

Trachwsg, s. m. (cwsg) Excess of sleep.

Trachwydd, s. m. (cwydd) Extreme fall.

Trachwyddaw, v. a. (trachwydd) To fall greatly.

Trachwyddawl, a. (trachwydd) Tending to fall extremely.

Trachwyddedig, a. (trachwydd) Extremely fallen

Trachwyddiad, s. m. (trachwydd) A falling extremely.

Trachwyl, s. f. (chwyl) An extreme course.

Trachwylaw, v. a. (trachwyl) To make an extreme course or revolution.

Trachwyliad, s. m. (trachwyl) A making an extreme course.

Trachwymp, s. m. (cwymp) An extreme fall.

Trachwympaw, v. a. (trachwymp) To fall greatly.

Trachwympawl, a. (trachwymp) Tending to fall extremely.

Trachwympiad, s. (trachwymp) A falling greatly.

Trachwyn, s. f. (cwyn) Extreme complaint.

Trachwynaw, v. a. (trachwyn) To complain extremely.

Trachwynawl, a. (trachwyn) Extremely plaintive.

Trachwyniad, s. m. (trachwyn) A complaining extremely; an over complaining.

Trachwys, s. m. (chwys) Excessive sweat.

Trachwysawl, a. (trachwys) Tending to sweat excessively.

Trachwysiad, s. m. (trachwys) A sweating much.

Trachwysu, v. a. (trachwys) To sweat extremely.

Trachwyth, s. m. (chwyth) An extreme blast.

Trachwythawl, a. (trachwyth) Greatly blowing.

Trachwythiad, s. (trachwyth) A blowing greatly.

Trachwythu, v. a. (trachwyth) To blow much.

Trachyflawn, a. (cyflawn) Over-complete.

Trachyflawnder, s. m. (trachyflawn) Over-completion; the state of being over-full.

Trachyflawnedig, a. (trachyflawn) Over-completed, preterpluperfect.
Trachyflawnedd, s. m. (trachyflawn) Over-completeness.
Trachyflawni, v. a. (trachyflawn) To render over-complete.
Trachyflawniad, s. m. (trachyflawn) A rendering over-complete.
Trachyfoeth, s. m. (cyfoeth) Excess of means.

Nef dref drachyfoeth.

Heaven a seat of extreme enjoyment. Dr. S. Cent.

Trachyfoethawg, a. (trachyfoeth) Having excess of means; extremely rich.
Trachyfoethi, v. a. (trachyfoeth) To endow with excess of means.
Trachyfoethiad, s. m. (trachyfoeth) An endowing with excess of means.
Trachyfoethogi, v. a. (trachyfoethawg) To enrich extremely.
Trachyfoethogiad, s. m. (trachyfoethawg) An enriching extremely.
Trachyfrif, s. m. (cyfrif) An over-reckoning.
Trachyfrifaw, v. a. (trachyfrif) To over-reckon.
Trachyfrifawl, a. (trachyfrif) Supernumerary.
Trachyfrifiad, s. m. (trachyfrif) A making an over-reckoning.
Trachyfrwys, a. (cyfrwys) Extremely cunning.
Trachyfrwysaw, v. a. (trachyfrwys) To render extremely cunning; to be very cunning.
Trachyfrwysdra, s. m. (trachyfrwys) Extreme cunningness.
Trachyffraw, s. m. (cyffraw) Extreme agitation.
Trachyffröad, s. m. (trachyffraw) A causing extreme agitation.
Trachyffroi, v. a. (trachyffraw) To agitate greatly.
Trachymhwys, a. (cymhwys) Extremely connected; very befitting.
Trachymhwysaw, v. a. (trachymhwys) To render extremely connected.
Trachymhwysdra, s. m. (trachymhwys) Extreme connectedness or fitness.
Trachymhwysiad, s. m. (trachymhwys) A rendering extremely connected or fit.
Trachymmen, a. (cymmen) Extremely fluent of speech.
Trachymmendawd, s. m. (trachymmen) Extreme fluency of speech.
Trachymmeniad, s. m. (trachymmen) A discoursing extremely eloquent.
Trachymmenu, v. a. (trachymmen) To use extreme fluency of speech.
Trachymysg, a. (cymysg) Over-mixed.
Trachymysgawl, a. (trachymysg) Tending to mix extremely.
Trachymysgedd, s. m. (trachymysg) The state of being extremely mixed.
Trachymysgiad, s. m. (trachymysg) A mixing extremely.
Trachyndyn, a. (cyndyn) Extremely stubborn.
Trachyndynawl, a. (trachyndyn) Tending to be extremely obdurate.
Trachyndyniad, s. m. (trachyndyn) A being extremely obstinate.
Trachyndynu, v. a. (trachyndyn) To act extremely stubborn, or obstinately.
Trachynhen, s. f. (cynhen) Extreme contention.
Trachynhenawl, a. (trachynhen) Extremely contentious, or quarrelsome.
Trachynheniad, s. m. (trachynhen) A contending or quarrelling extremely.

Trachynhenu, v. a. (trachynhen) To contend extremely; to be very quarrelsome.
Trachynhwrf, s. m. (cynhwrf) Extreme agitation, bustle, or tumult.
Trachynhyrfawl, a. (trachynhwrf) Extremely agitating, very tumultuous.
Trachynhyrfiad, s. m. (trachynhwrf) A causing extreme agitation.
Trachynhyrfu, v. a. (trachynhwrf) To agitate extremely, to ruffle extremely.
Trachynnil, a. (cynnil) Extremely exact.
Trachynnilaw, v. a. (trachynnil) To act with extreme exactness; to be extremely sparing.
Trachynnildeb, s. m. (trachynnil) Extreme exactness; extreme sparingness.
Trachynnyg, s. m. (cynnyg) An extreme attempt. v. a. To make an extreme attempt.
Trachynnygiad, s. m. (trachynnyg) A making an extreme attempt.
Trachynnygiaw, v. a. (trachynnyg) To make an extreme attempt.
Trachywed, s. m. (cywed) An extreme uniformity or congeniality. a. Very uniform.

Granwyalon trychion trachywed eiddun,
Trachwyddynt ben o draed.

Pale cheeks mangled highly congenial to them, they fell excessively head and feet confused. Cynddelw.

Trachywedd, s. m. (cywedd) Extreme conformity. a. Extremely conformable.

Llew Cemais llym drais drychywedd.

The lion of Cemais of severe sway extremely habitual. Llygad Gwr.

Trachyweddiad, s. m. (trachywedd) A conforming extremely; a becoming extremely adapted.
Trachyweddu, v. a. (trachywedd) To conform extremely; to be extremely adapted.

Edrywant trachwant trachywedd an cnawd.

The trace of ambition pervades extremely our carnal nature. Gr. ab Gwrgeneu.

Trachywir, a. (cywir) Extremely exact or just.
Trachywiraw, v. a. (trachywir) To render extremely exact; to be very exact.
Trachywirdeb, s. m. (trachywir) Extreme exactness; extreme justness.
Trachywiriad, s. m. (trachywir) A rendering extremely exact; a becoming extremely just.
Trachywrain, a. (cywrain) Extremely accurate; extremely ingenious.
Trachywreindeb, s. m. (trachywrain) Extreme accuracy; extreme ingenuity.
Trachywreiniad, s. m. (trachywrain) A rendering extremely accurate.
Trachywreiniaw, v. a. (trachywrain) To render extremely accurate.
Trad, s. m. (tra—ad) That runs or spreads out.
Trada, a. (da) Extremely good, very good.
Tradaionus, a. (daionus) Extremely good.
Tradedwydd, a. (dedwydd) Extremely happy.
Tradedwyddwch, s. m. (tradedwydd) Extreme happiness.
Tradestl, a. (destl) Extremely smart.
Tradestledd, s. m. (tradestl) Extreme smartness.
Tradestliad, s. m. (tradestl) A trimming extremely.
Tradestlu, v. a. (tradestl) To smarten extremely.
Tradestlus, a. (tradestl) Apt to be over-smart.
Tradewr, a. (dewr) Over-brave; foolhardy.
Tradewredd, s. m. (tradewr) Foolhardiness.
Tradichell, s. f.—pl. t. ion (dichell) Extreme craft.
Tradichellgar, a. (tradichell) Extremely crafty.

Tradichelliad, s. m. (tradichell) A making use of extreme craft.
Tradichellu, v. a. (tradichell) To use extreme craft
Tradichlyn, a. (dichlyn) Extremely assiduous.
Tradichlyniad, s. m. (tradichlyn) A using extreme assiduity.
Tradichlynu, v. a. (tradichlyn) To use extreme assiduity; to be extremely assiduous.
Tradiflas, a. (diflas) Extremely insipid.
Tradiflasdawd, s. m. (tradiflas) Extreme insipidity.
Tradiflasiad, s. m. (tradiflas) A disgusting extremely; a becoming very insipid.
Tradiflasu, v. a. (tradiflas) To disgust extremely.
Tradifrif, a. (difrif) Extremely serious.
Tradifrifaw, v. a. (tradifrif) To act very seriously; to be extremely serious.
Tradifrifawl, a. (tradifrif) Extremely serious.
Tradifrifiad, s. m. (tradifrif) A using extreme seriousness; a being very serious.
Tradifrifwch, s. m. (tradifrif) Extreme seriousness
Tradigawn, a. (digawn) Over-sufficient.
Tradigonawl, a. (tradigawn) Over-sufficing.
Tradigonedd, s. m. (tradigawn) Over-sufficiency.
Tradigoni, v. a. (tradigawn) To over-suffice.
Tradigrif, a. (digrif) Extremely diverting.
Tradigrifaw, v. a. (tradigrif) To divert extremely.
Tradigrifwch, s. m. (tradigrif) Extreme pleasantry
Tradilyn, v. a. (dilyn) To follow to excess.
Tradilyniad, s. m. (tradilyn) A following to excess.
Tradillyn, a. (dillyn) Extremely smart.
Tradillyniad, s. m. (tradillyn) A rendering extremely smart; a becoming very smart.
Tradillynu, v. a. (tradillyn) To render extremely smart; to become very smart.
Tradirgel, a. (dirgel) Extremely secret.
Tradirgeliad, s. m. (tradirgel) A rendering extremely secret; a becoming very secret.
Tradirgelu, v. a. (tradirgel) To render extremely secret; to become very secret.
Tradiwyd, a. (diwyd) Extremely industrious.
Tradiwydiad, s. m. (tradiwyd) A using extreme industry; a being very industrious.
Tradiwydiaw, v. a. (tradiwyd) To act with extreme industry; to be extremely assiduous.
Tradrwg, a. (drwg) Extremely bad or naughty.
Tradrygioni, s. m. (drygioni) Extreme badness.
Tradrygionus, a. (tradrygioni) Very iniquitous.
Tradwy, s. m. (tra—dwy) The third day to come.
Tradwy, adv. (tra—dwy) Three days hence.
Tradwys, a. (dwys) Very dense; very constant.
Tradwysaw, v. a. (tradwys) To render extremely dense; to become extremely dense.
Tradwysiad, s. m. (tradwys) A rendering extremely dense; a becoming extremely dense.
Tradyfal, a. (dyfal) Extremely persevering.
Tradyfaliad, s. m. (tradyfal) A persevering extremely.
Tradyfalu, v. a. (tradyfal) To persevere greatly.
Tradynawl, a. (dynawl) Superhuman.
Tradynoldeb, s. m. (tradynawl) A superhuman state.
Tradynoli, v. a. (tradynawl) To render superhuman; to become superhuman.
Tradysgedig, a. (dysgedig) Extremely learned.
Tradd, s. m.—pl. t. au (tra—add) Extreme motion. Eidion ac y tradd arno, a beast that has the scouring.
Traddawd, s. m. (dawd) A delivery over.
Traddiad, s. m. (tradd) A moving violently.
Traddodawl, a. (traddawd) Tending to deliver over; surrendering.
Traddodedig, a. (traddawd) Delivered over, surrendered; delivered as a tradition.
Traddodi, v. a. (traddawd) To deliver over; to surrender, to give up; to deliver as a tradition.
Traddodiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traddawd) A delivering over; a surrendering; a tradition.
Traddodiadawl, a. (traddodiad) Traditionary.
Traddodiadu, v. a. (traddodiad) To deliver over; to deliver by tradition.
Traddodiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traddodiad) A traditionist.
Traddodwr, s. m.—pl. traddodwyr (traddawd—gwr) One who delivers over.
Traddodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traddawd) One who delivers over, one who surrenders.
Traddu, v. a. (tradd) To produce violent motion.
Traddygawl, a. (dygawl) Tending to transfer.
Traddygiad, s. m. (dygiad) A transferring.
Traddygyd, v. a. (dygyd) To carry over; to carry, or to lead, from one place to another.
Traed, s. pl. aggr. (tra—ed) That whereby transition is effected; feet. It is used as a plural for Troed, a foot, instead of the regular plural Troedau.

> I galon wan da traed buan.
>
> For a weak heart nimble feet are good. Adage.

Träegwan, a. (egwan) Extremely feeble.
Träeiddil, a. (eiddil) Extremely slender.
Träeiddilaw, v. a. (träeiddil) To make very slender; to become extremely slender.
Träeiddiliad, s. m. (träeiddil) A making extremely slender; a becoming extremely slender.
Träeiddilwch, s. (träeiddil) Extreme slenderness.
Träerchyll, a. (erchyll) Extremely horrible.
Träerchylldawd, s. (träerchyll) Extreme horror.
Träerchylliad, s. m. (träerchyll) A rendering extremely horrible; a becoming very horrid.
Träerchyllu, v. a. (träerchyll) To render extremely horrid; to become very horrible.
Träesgud, a. (esgud) Extremely nimble.
Träesgudaw, v. a. (träesgud) To render extremely nimble; to become very nimble.
Träesgudrwydd, s. (träesgud) Over nimbleness.
Traeth, s. m.—pl. treuthydd (tra—eth) An extremity, or outside; that is clear, or open; a tract; the margin, shore, or sandy beach of the sea, or the sand between high and low water marks.

> Pwybynag a bieuffo dir yn nglan traeth, efe bieufydd gyfled ac y tir o'r traeth; a gwnaed gored arno os myn.
>
> Whosoever owns land on the margin of a strand, he shall own as much in breadth as the land of the strand; and he may form a wear upon it if he will. Welsh Laws.

Traethad, s. m. (traeth) A spreading out; a forming a tract; a treating; a declaring, or uttering.
Traethadur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traethad) One that treats or declares.

> Pan brofer traethawd traethadurion call,
> Nid colledig fy nghyfeillion.
>
> When the treatise of those who treat skilfully is tried, my companions will not be losers. Cynddelw.

Traethadwy, a. (traethad) Utterable, effable.
Traethator, ger. (traethad) In reciting.
Traethawd, s. m.—pl. traethodau (traeth) A discourse, a treatise, a tract.

> Rhwych wych wenwawd,
> Rheg deg draethawd a draethitor.
>
> The splendid scope of fair eulogy, be the gift of polished discourse that is discoursed. Seisyll Bryf-fwrch.

Traethawdl, s. f.—pl. traethodlau (traeth—awdl) A recitative ode; also called traethodyn.
Traethawl, a. traeth) Tending to open, expressive.

Traethawr, s. m. (traeth) That utters or expresses.
Traethawyr, s. m. (traeth—awyr) Sand sky, or clouds when they are much broken.
Traethedig, a. (traethad) Being spread out; being uttered, treated, or expressed.
Traetheg, s. f. (traeth) Science of declamation.
Traethell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (traeth) A sandbank.
Traethellfor, s. m. (traethell—mor) A sea that breaks over a sandbank.
Traethelliad, s. m. (traethell) A forming a sandbank.
Traethellu, v. a. (traethell) To form a sandbank.
Traethen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (traeth) A sand-drift.
Traethiad, s. m. (traeth) A treating; a diction.
Traethitor, sup. (traeth) To be reciting; to be discoursed of.
Traethodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traethawd) One who makes a treatise.
Traethodyn, s. m. dim. (traethawd) A recitative verse, a sort of free versification.

> Traethodyn, neu draethawdl, a wnair ar yr un a fyner o'r pumgolofn, neu y gyhydedd hwyaf, yn gyplau unawdl.
>
> A recitative or reciting ode, is composed upon any one that may be desired of the five fundamental metres, or the longest metricity, in unirhyme couplets. Barddas.

Traethoriaeth, s. m. (traethawr) Declamation.
Traethu, v. a. (traeth) To utter, to relate, to rehearse, to discourse; to treat.

> Nid rhaid tafawd i draethu serch.
>
> A tongue is not necessary for declaring love. Adage.
>
> Tenefan a draethws y deyrnas trwy heddwch a thangnefedd.
>
> Tenevan treated the kingdom through peace and tranquillity. Bryt. Gwallter o Rydychain.

Traethwr, s. m.—pl. traethwyr (traeth—gwr) One who utters, or relates, a discourser.
Traethydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traeth) A treater.
Traf, s. m. (tra) A strain, a stir; a scour.
Trafael, s. f.—pl. trafaelion (tra—mael) Extreme effort; trouble, travail.

> Trafael a chur, gyda dolur, gwedi dallad
> Trwm gymeraist, traws yn prynaist,
> O'r pren crocmad.
>
> Trouble and affliction, with pain, after apprehension, heavily thou didst receive, opposing all thou didst redeem us, from the crucifying tree. Cusnodyn.

Trafaeliad, s. m. (trafael) A travailing.
Trafaelu, v. a. (trafael) To travail, to toil.
Trafaelus, a. (trafael) Harassing, travailing.
Trafaes, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (traf) A stir, or bustle. 'Trafaes ac amryson,' Bustle and contention.
Trafawd, s. f.—pl. trafodau (traf) A stirring, a turning about; a bustle; an intermeddling; labour, pains, trouble.

> Po mwyaf y drafawd mwyaf fydd y gorfod.
>
> The more the pains may be the more will be the necessity. Adage.
>
> O drafodion yr ystyr y tardd y deall;
> O drafodion y deall y tardd y meddwl.
>
> From the impulses of the sense proceeds the understanding; from the impulses of the understanding proceeds the thought. Geraint Fardd Glas.
>
> Neud dyfod trafod trafn alltudedd hir,
> Y mor dros dir enwir anwedd!
>
> Does there not exist the affliction of a course of tedious banishment, the sea completely over a sinful land! G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Trafel, s. m.—pl. t. au (traf) That stirs, or works; a press; a hatchel.
Trafiwnc, s. m.—pl. traflyncau (traf—llwnc) A greedy swallow, a guzzle.
Traflwng, s. m. (traf—llwng) A guzzle.
Traflyncawl, a. (traflwnc) A guzzling.
Traflynciad, s. m. (traflwnc) A guzzling.
Traflyncu, v. a. (traflwnc) To swallow greedily.

> Ni chefais i fawr o aros, nad dyma fi yn ngolwg allawr fawr arswydus, lle gwelwn y brenin dychrynadwy yn traflyncu cig a gwaed dynion, a mil o fan angeuod o bob twll yn ei borthi.
>
> I obtained only a short stay, but here I was in sight of a large dreadful altar, where I perceived the terrible king devouring the flesh and blood of men, with a thousand tiny deaths from every corner supplying him. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Traflyncwr, s. m. (traflwnc) A greedy swallower.
Trafn, s. m.—pl. t. au (traf) That causes a stir, turn, or motion; a stir; a bustle; a course; a turn; an impulse. Carw mawr-drafn, the greatly moving stag; dyfeis-drafn, the invention-moving.

> Trafn gwaew eurllafn gwyarllyd.
>
> The course of a golden-bladed spear imbrued with gore. H. ab O. Gwynedd.
>
> Lle mae pen brawd Cystenyn Fendigaid,
> Llafn drafn y drin.
>
> Where is deposited the head of the brother of Constantine the Blessed, the blade of the course of conflict. R. Goch Eryri.
>
> Cartrefaf, trefnaf trafnau goleuni,
> Trwy foli fy Rhi tra fwyf innau.
>
> I will fix my home, I will prepare for the paths of light, by adoring my Lord whilst I exist. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.
>
> Argledfad trefnad trafn broydd gwynfyd,
> A'm try o gywyd ym tragywydd.
> Ein crair wyd, Fab Mair, morach gynnydd,
> A'n llawen awdur, a'n lluniedydd!
>
> The upholder of the system of the course of the regions of happiness, will turn me from a falling state to my eternity. Our hope art thou, Son of Mary, dispensing bliss, and our joyful teacher, and our former! G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Trafnawl, a. (trafn) Ranging; revolving; changing, mutable.
Trafnedig, a. (trafn) Ranged; being made to turn, revolve, or change.
Trafniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trafn) A ranging, a making a turn, a revolving; a changing.
Trafnid, s. m. (trafn) A range, a turn; a change; exchange; commerce.
Trafnidaeth, s. m. (trafnid) Intercourse, commerse, exchange; business. Pa drafnidaeth sy ganddo? in what line of business is he?
Trafnidiad, s. m. (trafnid) A carrying on intercourse, or commerce; a bartering.
Trafnidiaw, v. a. (trafnid) To carry on intercourse, or commerce; to exchange, to barter.

> O derfydd i ddyn fynu gwerthu ych o'r cyfar a rygyfarodd ynddo, ni ddyly ei werthu, na ei drafnidiaw, yni ddarffo y cyfar.
>
> If a man should desire to sell an ox out of joint ploughing wherein he has ploughed, he ought not to sell it, nor to exchange it, until he completes the joint ploughing. Welsh Laws.

Trafnidiawg, a. (trafnid) Having intercourse, commerce, or exchange.
Trafnidiawl, a. (trafnid) Commercial.
Trafnidiwr, s. m.—pl. trafnidiwyr (trafnid—gwr) One who has intercourse; a trafficker.
Trafnidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trafnid) Trafficker.
Trafnig, a. (trafn) Of aptitude to range, or to revolve; mutable, declinable.

> Tri o enwau nid trafnig.
>
> Three of names not declinable. Llawdden.

Trafnoldeb, s. m. (trafnawl) A state of ranging, or revolving; mutableness.
Trafnu, v. a. (trafn) To range; to revolve; to mutate.
Trafnus, a. (trafn) Ranging; revolving.
Trafnusaw, v. a. (trafnus) To render ranging, or revolving; to become mutable.
Trafnusdeb, s. m. (trafnus) A state of ranging, or revolving; mutableness.
Trafnusder, s. m. (trafnus) Mutableness.
Trafnusdra, s. m. (trafnus) Mutability.
Trafnusrwydd, s. m. (trafnus) A state of ranging, or revolving; mutableness.

Trafnwr, s. m.—pl. trafnwyr (trafn—gwr) A ranger, one who revolves.
Trafodadwy, a. (trafawd) Capable of stirring.
Trafodaeth, s. m. (trafawd) The act of stirring; a bustle; an intermeddling.
Trafodawl, a. (trafawd) Stirring; bustling.
Trafodi, v. a. (trafawd) To stir, to turn about; to bustle; to strive; to intermeddle.

> Bran y gant chwedl gàn wawr,
> Wrth a'i holai'n ei hattawr;
> Doeth ni threfyd nyw ymdawr.
>
> A crow did sing her adage with the dawn, to such as questioned her on her outset; the wise who doth not take pains doth not regard himself. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.
>
> Gwyr a aeth Gattraeth gan wawr;
> Trafodynt yn hedd yn eofnawr.
>
> Men went the Cattraeth with the dawn; they would strive in peace with audacity. Aneurin.

Trafodiad, s. m. (trafawd) A stirring, a turning about: a bustling; a striving: an intermeddling
Trafodiaeth, s. m. (trafawd) The act of stirring; a bustling; an intermeddling; a transaction. Trafodiaeth y byd hyn, the transaction of this world. Sil.
Trafodus, a. (trafawd) Apt to stir; bustling.
Trafodusaw, v. a. (trafodus) To render bustling or striving; to become bustling.
Trafodusedd, s. m. (trafodus) A stirring state.
Trafodusrwydd, s. m. (trafodus) A stirring state, tumultuousness.
Trafodwr, s. m.—pl. trafodwyr (trafawd—gwr) One who stirs; a bustler; a striver; an intermeddler.
Trafodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trafawd) A stirrer; a bustler; an intermeddler.
Trafoliad, s. m. (boliad) A gormandizing.
Trafoliaw, v. a. (boliaw) To gorge the belly.
Trafoliwr, s. m.—pl. trafoliwyr (trafoliaw—gwr) A gorger, a gormandizer.
Trafu, v. (traf) To stir, to agitate; to scour, to purge.
Trafus, a. (traf) Apt to stir, or to agitate.
Trafusaw, v. a. (trafus) To produce a stirring.
Trafusder, s. m. (trafus) A stirring state.
Trafusedd, s. m. (trafus) A commotion.
Trafusrwydd, s. m. (trafus) An agitated state.
Traff, s. m. (tra) A spread; a scatter.
Traffaeth, a. (ffaeth) Over-mellow.
Traffaethiad, s. m. (traffaeth) A rendering over-mellow; a becoming extremely mellow or rich.
Traffaethu, v. a. (traffaeth) To render over-mellow; to become over-mellow.
Traffaith, s. m.—pl. traffeithiau (paith) A plot.
Traffeithus, a. (traffaith) Plotting. Dynion traffeithus, plotting men.
Trafferth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traff—erth) Business, painstaking, toil, trouble; a great to do. Mae arno lawer o drafferth amdani, he is in great taking about her.

> Trafferth ych hyd echwydd.
>
> The toil of the ox till the afternoon. Adage.

Trafferthawg, a. (trafferth) Full of bustle.
Trafferthawl, a. (trafferth) Bustling, toiling.
Trafferthedig, a. (trafferth) Being busied.
Trafferthiad, s. m. (trafferth) A toiling.
Trafferthiant, s. m. (trafferth) Busy toiling.
Trafferthu, v. a. (trafferth) To bustle, to be busy; to be busily employed; to be toiling.
Trafferthus, a. (trafferth) Bustling, full of business; toiling, laborious; troublous.
Trafferthusaw, v. a. (trafferthus) To render toiling; to become toiling or laborious.
Trafferthusdra, s. m. (trafferthus) Laboriousness.
Trafferthusrwydd, s. m. (trafferth) Toilsomeness
Trafferthwr, s. m.—pl. trafferthwyr (trafferth—gwr) A bustler, a toiler.
Traffiad, s. m. (traff) A making a stir; a spreading
Traffu, v. a. (traff) To make a stir; to spread.
Traffull, s. m. (ffull) Extreme bustle, or haste.
Traffulliad, s. m. (traffull) A bustling greatly.
Traffulliaw, v. a. (traffull) To bustle greatly.
Traffun, s. f. (ffun) Extreme panting. a. Having extreme panting.
Traffunaw, v. a. (traffun) To pant extremely.
Traffuniad, s. m. (traffun) A panting extremely.
Traffwyr, s. m. (ffwyr) Extreme impulse, or gust; an extreme drive; an extreme assault.

> Drudlwyr ei draffwyr iar draffun feirch
> O'i drafferth rhag Fortun.
>
> Altogether bold his most violent assault on steeds extremely panting from his exertion before Mortun. Cynddelw i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Traffwyraw, v. a. (traffwyr) To impel greatly.
Traffwyriad, s. m. (traffwyr) A greatly driving.
Traffysg, s. m. (ffysg) Extreme hurry or haste.
Traffysgiad, s. m. (traffysg) A hurrying greatly.
Traffysgiaw, v. a. (traffysg) To hurry greatly.
Traffysgiawl, a. (traffysg) Extremely bustling.
Trag, adv. (tra) Beyond; beside; at; aside.
Tragalar, s. m. (galar) Extreme grief.
Tragalariad, s. m. (tragalar) A grieving greatly.
Tragalaru, v. a. (tragalar) To grieve extremely.
Tragalarus, a. (tragalar) Very grievous.
Tragall, s. m. (gall) Extreme power or might.
Tragallu, v. n. (tragall) To be extremely able.
Tragallnawg, a. (tragallu) Having over-power.
Tragalluedd, s. m. (tragallu) Extreme power.
Tragarw, a. (garw) Extremely rough or harsh.
Tragerwin, a. (tragarw) Extremely harsh.
Tragerwinaw, v. a. (tragerwin) To render extremely harsh; to become extremely rough.
Tragerwindeb, s. (tragerwin) Over harshness.
Traglew, a. (glew) Extremely clever.
Traglewder, s. m. (traglew) Extreme cleverness; extreme bravery.
Tragloes, s. f. (gloes) An extreme pang.
Tragloesawl, a. (tragloes) Extremely painful.
Tragloesi, v. a. (tragloes) To pain extremely.
Tragloesiad, s. (tragloes) A paining extremely.
Tragloew, a. (gloew) Extremely clear.
Tragloewder, s. m. (tragloew) Extreme clearness
Tragloewi, v. a. (tragloew) To render extremely clear, pellucid, or transparent.
Tragoes, s. f. (trag—oes) An after age. adv. Beyond age, after age.

> I Wenddydd y dywedaf;
> Oes tragoes dysgoganaf:
> Wedi Cadwaladr, Cyndaf.
>
> To Gwenddydd I will declare; age after age I will foretell: after Cadwaladr, Cyndav. Cyfoesi Merddin.

Tragoesawl, a. (tragoes) Relating to after age.
Tragoesi, v. a. (tragoes) To render of an after age; to become of an after age.
Tragoesiad, s. m. (tragoes) A rendering of an after age; a becoming of an after age.
Tragofal, s. m.—pl. t. on (gofal) Extreme care.
Tragofaliad, s. m. (tragofal) A taking extreme care; a being very anxious.
Tragofalu, v. a. (tragofal) To take extreme care; to be very careful.
Tragofalus, a. (tragofal) Extremely careful.
Tragolau, a. (golau) Extremely luminous.
Tragoleuad, s. m. (tragolau) A greatly enlightening, a becoming extremely enlightened.
Tragoleuaw, v. a. (tragolau) To illume greatly.

Tragolud, s. m. (golud) Extreme wealth.
Tragoludaw, v. a. (tragolud) To render extremely wealthy.
Tragoludawg, a. (tragolud) Very wealthy.
Tragor, s. m. (gor) Superabundance, superfluity.
Tragorawl, a. (tragor) Excessive; transcendental
Tragori, v. a. (tragor) To render transcendental; to become transcendent.
Tragoriad, s. m. (tragor) A transcending.
Tragoriaeth, s. m. (tragor) Transcendency.
Tragoriant, s. m. (tragor) Transcendency.
Tragoroldeb, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragorolder, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragoroldra, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragoroledd, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellence.
Tragoroli, v. a. (tragorawl) To render superexcellent; to transcend.
Tragoroliad, s. m. (tragorawl) A transcending.
Tragorolrwydd, s. m. (tragorawl) Superexcellentness; pre-eminence.
Tragorthrwm, a. (gorthrwm) Extremely oppressive
Tragorthrymawl, a. (tragorthrwm) Tending to be extremely oppressive.
Tragorthrymder, s. m. (tragorthrwm) Extreme oppression.
Tragorthrymiad, s. m. (tragorthrwm) A greatly oppressing, a tyrannising greatly.
Tragorthrymu, v. a. (tragorthrwm) To oppress extremely.
Tragoruch, a. (goruch) Most supreme.
Tragoruchder, s. m. (tragoruch) Superexcellence, supereminency; extreme altitude.
Tragoruchel, a. (tragoruch) Extremely elevated.
Tragwael, a. (gwael) Extremely frail.
Tragwaelder, s. m. (tragwael) Extreme frailty.
Tragwaelu, v. a. (tragwael) To render extremely frail; to become extremely frail.
Tragwall, s. m. (gwall) Extreme failing.
Tragwallder, s. m. (tragwall) Extreme fallacy.
Tragwalledd, s. m. (tragwall) Extreme fallacy.
Tragwallu, v. a. (tragwall) To fail extremely.
Tragwallus, a. (tragwall) Extremely fallible.
Tragwan, a. (gwàn) Extremely weak.
Tragwander, s. m. (tragwan) Extreme weakness.
Tragwaniad, s. m. (tragwan) A weakening extremely.
Tragwànu, v. a. (tragwan) To weaken greatly.
Tragwarth, s. m. (gwarth) Extreme disgrace.
Tragwarthiad, s. m. (tragwarth) A disgracing extremely.
Tragwarthu, v. a. (tragwarth) To disgrace extremely.
Tragwarthus, a. (tragwarth) Very disgraceful.
Tragwelw, a. (gwelw) Extremely pale.
Tragwelwad, s. m. (tragwelw) A turning pale.
Tragwelwedd, s. m. (tragwelw) Extreme paleness
Tragwelwi, v. a. (tragwelw) To turn very pale.
Tragwerth, s. m. (gwerth) Over-value.
Tragwerthiad, s. m. (tragwerth) An over-valuing; an over-selling.
Tragwerthu, v. a. (tragwerth) To over-sell.
Tragwiw, a. (gwiw) Most excellent, most worthy
Tragwiwdeb, s. (tragwiw) Extreme worthiness.
Tragwr, s. m. (gwr) A superior man.
Tragwrawl, a. (tragwr) Extremely masculine.
Tragwres, s. m. (gwres) Extreme heat.

> Doal cysgu arno: sef a wnai ei weision ystafell castellu tarianau yn ei gylch ar beleidr gwaewawr rhag y tragwres.
>
> Sleep came upon him: thereupon his chamberlains did spread a skreen with shields around him on the shafts of spears against the extreme heat. Breuddwyd Maxen Wledig.

Tragwresawg, a. (tragwres) Extremely hot.
Tragwresawl, a. (tragwres) Extremely heating.
Tragwresiad, s. m. (tragwres) A heating greatly
Tragwresu, v. a. (tragwres) To heat greatly.
Tragwth, s. m. (gwth) An extreme push.
Tragwthiad, s. m. (tragwth) A pushing greatly.
Tragwthiaw, v. a. (tragwth) To push extremely.
Tragwydd, a. (gwydd) Being beyond presence or cognition; eternal.
Tragwyddawg, a. (tragwydd) Eternal, ever.
Tragwyddawl, a. (tragwydd) Being beyond cognizance, or knowledge; eternal.
Tragwyddogder, s. m. (tragwyddawg) Eternalness

> Pa hyd, Arglwydd!——
> A drig dig dy dragwyddogder!
>
> How long, Lord! will thy wrath endure to eternity! M. Middleton.

Tragwyddoldeb, s. m. (tragwydd) Eternity.
Tragwyddoli, v. a. (tragwyddawl) To eternize.
Tragwyl, a. (gwyl) Extremely bashful.
Tragwylaw, v. a. (tragwyl) To render extremely bashful; to become very bashful.
Tragwylder, s. m. (tragwyl) Extreme bashfulness
Tragwyn, a. (gwŷn) Extremely white.
Tragwyniad, s. m. (tragwyn) A whitening greatly
Tragwŷnu, v. a. (tragwyn) To whiten extremely
Tragŵyr, a. (gŵyr) Extremely oblique.
Tragŵyraw, v. a. (tragŵyr) To render extremely oblique; to become extremely oblique.
Tragŵyredd, s. m. (tragŵyr) Extreme obliquity.
Tragŵyriad, s. m. (tragŵyr) A rendering extremely oblique.
Tragyr, s. m. (gyr) Extreme impulse.
Tragyrawl, a. (tragyr) Extremely impulsive.
Tragyriad, s. m. (tragyr) A driving extremely.
Tragyru, v. a. (tragyr) To drive extremely.
Tragywydd, a. (cywydd) Being beyond cognition; eternal, everlasting. adv. Eternally.

> Dyro ran i'th wàn, wynfyd wrthddrych hawl,
> O'th wlad fad feidriawl, er mawl mynych,
> I'th wledd, llyw buchedd, lle y bych dragywydd.
>
> Grant a share to thy supplicant, an object having claim on happiness, of thy kingdom commensurate with good, for incessant praise, in thy banquet, Lord of life, where thou art to eternity. Casnodyn.

Tragywyddaw, v. a. (tragywydd) To eternize.
Tragywyddawg, a. (tragywydd) Of eternal duration.
Tragywyddawl, a. (tragywydd) Eternal, ever.
Tragywyddogder, s. (tragywyddawg) Eternalness.
Tragywyddoldeb, s. m. (tragywyddawl) Eternity
Tragywyddolder, s. m. (tragywyddawl) Eternity

> Y dydd cyntaf y gwnai ef ddydd tragywyddolder, sef yw hyny lleufer ysbrydawl.
>
> The first day he made the day of eternity, that is to say spiritual light. Elucidarius.

Tragywyddoledd, s. m. (tragywyddawl) Eternalness.
Tragywyddoli, v. a. (tragywyddawl) To eternalize; to eternize; to perpetuate.

> Gwerthu a thragywyddoli tir.
>
> To sell and to perpetuate land. Welsh Laws.

Tragywyddoliad, s. m. (tragywyddawl) Eternization, a making eternal; a perpetuating.
Tragywyddoliaeth, s. m. (tragywyddawl) Eternization.

> Nid ynt tri tragywyddawl, namyn un tragywyddawl; sef yw hyny un diwahan yw tragywyddoliaeth y tri.
>
> They are not three eternals, but one eternal; that is to say one undivisible is the eternity of the three. Llyfr Didrys Llanddewi Brefi.

Tragywyddolrwydd, s. m. (tragywyddawl) Everlastingness, eternalness.

Traha, s. m. (tra—ha) Extreme exultation; haughtiness, arrogance, presumption.

Gnawd wedi traha tranc hir.

After presumption a lasting perdition follows. Adage.

Gnawd o ben drythyll draha.

From the mouth of the affluent presumption is natural. Adage.

Tair traha gadarn cenedl y Cymmry y gelwir y tair cyforddwy.

The three mighty presumptions of the nation of the Cymmry the three universal expeditions were called. Trioedd.

Gwae a goddwy Duw drwy syberwyd,
Traha a'i syrth yn mhoen yn mhell ddeincryd.

Woe to him that offends God through pride, presumption shall cast him down in torment in the extreme gnashing of teeth. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Trahâad, s. m. (traha) A rendering arrogant; a becoming arrogant, a presuming.

Trahâawg, a. (traha) Arrogant, presuming.

Tri thrahâawg Ynys Prydain; Sawyl Benuchel, Pasgen, mab Urien, a Rhun, mab Einiawn.

The three arrogant ones of the isle of Britain; Sawyl Benuchel, Pasgen son of Urien, and Rhun son of Einion. Trioedd.

Trahâawl, a. (traha) Presumptuous.

Trahardd, a. (hardd) Extremely handsome.

Traharddiad, s. m. (trahardd) A rendering extremely handsome; a becoming of extremely fine growth.

Traharddu, v. a. (trahardd) To render extremely handsome; to become very comely.

Trahâu, v. a. (traha) To render arrogant, to fill with presumption; to become arrogant.

Trahâus, a. (traha) Arrogant, haughty.

Trahausder, s. m. (trahâus) Haughtiness.

Trahausdra, s. m. (trahâus) Arrogance.

Trahausedd, s. m. (trahâus) Arrogance.

Trahausfalch, a. (trahâus—balch) Arrogantly-proud.

Trahawdd, a. (hawdd) Extremely easy.

Trahawl, s. f.—pl. traholion (hawl) An extreme claim.

Trahelaeth, a. (helaeth) Extremely ample.

Trahelaethiad, s. m. (trahelaeth) A rendering extremely ample.

Trahelaethu, v. a. (trahelaeth) To render extremely ample; to become very extended.

Traheini, a. (heini) Extremely brisk or lively.

Trahen, a. (hen) Extremely old or aged.

Trahenu, v. a. (trahen) To grow extremely old.

Trahir, a. (hir) Extremely long; very tedious.

Trahiriad, s. m. (trahir) A lengthening greatly.

Trahiriaw, v. a. (trahir) To lengthen extremely.

Trahoen, s. f. (hoen) Extreme vivacity.

Trahoff, a. (hoff) Most lovely; very engaging.

Trahoffi, v. a. (trahoff) To like extremely.

Trahoffiad, s. m. (trahoff) A liking extremely.

Traholi, v. a. (trahawl) To make an over claim; to question extremely.

Traholiad, s. m. (trahawl) A making an extreme claim; questioning extremely.

Trahòni, v. a. (hòni) To assert extremely.

Trahòniad, s. m. (hòniad) An asserting greatly.

Trahurt, a. (hurt) Extremely foolish.

Trahurtiad, s. m. (trahurt) A crazing extremely; a becoming extremely foolish.

Trahurtiaw, v. a. (trahurt) To render extremely crazy; to become extremely foolish.

Trahwyl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (hwyl) Extreme course.

Trahwyliad, s. m. (trahwyl) A making an extreme course.

Trahwyliaw, v. a. (trahwyl) To make an extreme course.

Trahy, a. (hy) Extremely bold or daring.

Trahyder, s. m. (hyder) Extreme confidence.

Trahyderiad, s. m. (trahyder) A confiding extremely; an over-confiding.

Trahyderu, v. (trahyder) To confide extremely.

Trahyfryd, a. (hyfryd) Extremely happy.

Trahyfrydawl, a. (trahyfryd) Greatly pleasing.

Trahyfrydiad, s. m. (trahyfryd) A rendering extremely happy; a becoming greatly pleased.

Trahyfrydu, v. a. (trahyfryd) To make extremely happy; to be extremely pleased.

Trahyll, a. (hyll) Extremely frightful.

Trahylliad, s. m. (trahyll) A scaring extremely; a becoming extremely ugly.

Trahyllu, v. a. (trahyll) To scare extremely; to make very ugly.

Trahynaws, a. (hynaws) Extremely goodnatured

Trahynawsedd, s. m. (trahynaws) Extreme kindness of disposition.

Trahynod, a. (hynod) Extremely remarkable.

Trahynodi, v. a. (trahynod) To render extremely remarkable.

Trahynodiad, s. m. (trahynod) A rendering extremely remarkable.

Trai, s. m. (tra) An extreme state; a decrease, diminishing, or lessening; an ebb, an ebb tide. Distyll trai, low water mark.

Myfi a farchyg, ac a sai,
Ac a gerdda yn drwm gesla'n trai:
Myfi y gwr a ddaliai Gai.

I do ride, and do stand, and pensively walk on the brink of the ebbing tide: I am the person who would catch Cai. Ymdd. Arthur a Gwenhwyfar.

Mal llyn melin ar drai.

Like a mill pond on the ebb. Adage.

Traidd, s. m. (tra—idd) A passage or pervasion, a pierce through; a strait, passage, or narrow sea.

Traig, s. m. (tra—ig) That tends over.

Traigl, s. m.—pl. treiglion (traig) A turn over, a turn, a roll; a revolution; an accidence; a walk about, a case, in grammar.

Traigl maen hyd wastad.

The rolling of a stone to the level. Adage.

Traill, s. m.—pl. treillion (tra—ill) A drawing over; a trail, a drawing out; a turn; a circumstance. Traill o bysgod, a draught of fishes.

Gwr yw Ieuan—
Garw ei draill a girad ron.

Ieuan is a person of terrible course with a destructive spear. Owain Waed Da.

Mewn das beth y mae'n debig
I draill y ci a'r dryll cig.

In two things it is similar to the circumstance of the dog with the piece of meat. Ior. Fynglwyd.

Train, s. m.—pl. treinion (tra—in) A run out, a stroll, a stray; a scattering; a reporting of news. Aur ar drain, gold spread abroad.

Gwelais eu trychui, trichant celain;
Gwelais wedi cad coludd ar drain.

I saw their mangled state, three hundred bodies; I saw after conflict entrails on a spread. Cynddelw.

Yn dda da ei ryw, yn ddi drain,
A goreu yn Nghymmru gywrain.

A property good in its kind, void of being hackneyed, and the best in fair Wales. D. Benwyn.

Nid ai y rhai'n ar drain draw,
Amrwd wedd, i 'mwradwyddaw.

These would not go yonder on a stroll, with raw countenance, to brood over mutual scandal. W. Cynwal.

Trais, s. m.—pl. treisiau (tra—is) A break of bound; rapine; ravishment, violence; oppression.

Pa beth bynag a gaffer o drais, a thwyll, a chadernyd, nid o ddyled y cynnelir hwnw.

Whatsoever is obtained by violence, and deceit, and power, such is not maintained through justice. Gr. ab Arthur.

Traith, s. m.—pl. treithion (tra—ith) An utterance, or expression; a treatise.

A chanmawl gwaith traith, lle trig
Bronfraith mewn coed ar brenfrig.

To commend the performance is an expression, wherever the thrush abides on the twig of a tree in woods. R. Goch Eryri.

Trallafur, s. m. (llafur) Excessive labour.
Trallanw, s. m. (llanw) An over-filled state.
Trallawd, s. m.—pl. trallodion (llawd) Adversity, affliction.

Drwg trallodau, gwaeth hebddynt.

Bad are afflictions, it is worse without them. Adage.

Trallodion yw ffyn yr ysgwl sydd yn esgyn i'r nefoedd.

Afflictions are the staves of the ladder that ascends to heaven. Adage.

Trallawen, a. (llawen) Extremely merry.
Trallawenu, v. a. (trallawen) To render extremely glad; to become extremely merry.
Trallawn, a. (llawn) Extremely full.
Trallawnder, s. m. (trallawn) Extreme fulness.
Tralleddf, a. (lleddf) Being extremely flat.
Tralleddfawl, a. (tralleddf) Tending to flatten extremely.
Tralleddfiad, s. m. (tralleddf) A flattening extremely; an inclining extremely.
Tralleddfu, v. a. (tralleddf) To decline extremely.
Trallenwad, s. m. (trallanw) An over-filling.
Trallenwi, v. a. (trallanw) To over-fill.
Tralles, s. m. (lles) Supreme benefit.
Trallesawl, a. (tralles) Extremely beneficial.
Trallesiad, s. m. (tralles) A benefiting extremely.
Trallesu, v. a. (tralles) To benefit extremely.
Trallid, s. m. (llid) Extreme anger.
Trallidiad, s. m. (trallid) A greatly irritating.
Trallidiaw, v. a. (trallid) To irritate extremely.
Trallidiawg, a. (trallid) Extremely angry.
Tralliw, s. m. (lliw) Excess of colour.
Tralliwiad, s. m. (tralliw) An over-colouring.
Tralliwiaw, v. a. (tralliw) To over-colour.
Trallodawl, a. (trallawd) Afflicting, vexing.
Trallodedig, a. (trallawd) Being afflicted.
Trallodi, v. a. (trallawd) To afflict, to vex.
Trallodiad, s. m. (trallawd) An afflicting.
Trallodus, a. (trallawd) Afflicting, vexatious.
Trallodusaw, v. a. (trallodus) To render afflicted; to render afflicting; to become afflicting.
Trallodusedd, s. m. (trallodus) Afflictedness.
Trallodusrwydd, s. m. (trallodus) Afflictedness.
Trallodwr, s. m.—pl. trallodwyr (trallawd—gwr) One who afflicts.
Trallon, a. (llon) Extremely pleased within.
Trallonaidd, a. (trallon) Tending to yield extreme inward pleasure.
Trallonder, s. m. (trallon) Extreme inward pleasure
Tralloni, v. a. (trallon) To give extreme delight or inward satisfaction; to be extremely pleased.
Tralloniad, s. m. (trallon) A yielding extreme inward pleasure.
Trallonydd, a. (llonydd) Extremely quiet.
Trallonyddiad, s. m. (trallonydd) A quieting extremely; a becoming very quiet.
Trallonyddu, v. a. (trallonydd) To render extremely quiet; to become extremely quiet.
Trallonyddwch, s. m. (trallonydd) Extreme quietness.
Trallosg, s. m. (llosg) An extreme burning.
Trallosgach, s. m. (trallosg) A state of extreme burning; extreme lust.
Trallosgi, v. a. (trallosg) To burn extremely.
Trallosgiad, s. m. (trallosg) A burning extremely.
Trallusg, s. m. (llusg) Extreme dragging.
Trallusgaw, v. a. (trallusg) To drag extremely.
Trallusgawl, a. (trallusg) Dragging extremely.
Trallusgiad, s. m. (trallusg) A pulling or dragging after extremely.
Trallwybr, s. m.—pl. trallwybrau (llwybr) An extreme path; extreme hazard.

Neu nas trawd trallawd trallwybr eisiau;
Archaf arch i Dduw, a'n dodas nef,
Nas doto Pedr gloiau
Ym lluddias ym addas er mau!

May we not be visited by the affliction to walk the extreme path of poverty; I beseech of God, who dispenses heaven to us, that Peter may not lay on locks, to hinder me to my appropriate place for myself! Ein. ab Gwalchmai.

Trallwybraw, v. a. (trallwybr) To make out an extreme path; to go an extreme path.
Trallwybriad, s. m. (trallwybr) A going on an extreme path; a going into extreme hazard.
Trallwydd, s. m. (llwydd) Extreme prosperity.
Trallwyddaw, v. a. (trallwydd) To prosper greatly
Trallwyddiad, s. m. (trallwydd) A prospering extremely; a being very fortunate.
Trallwyddiannawl, a. (trallwyddiant) Extremely prosperous or fortunate.
Trallwyddiannu, v. a. (trallwyddiant) To cause extreme prosperity; to become very prosperous
Trallwyddiannus, a. (trallwyddiant) Extremely prosperous or fortunate.
Trallwyddiant, s. m. (trallwydd) Great prosperity

Nid gelyn ond trallwyddiant.

There is no enemy like too much prosperity. Adage.

Trallwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (llwyth) Extreme load.
Trallwythaw, v. a. (trallwyth) To overload.
Trallwythawg, a. (trallwyth) Overloaded.
Trallwythawl, a. (trallwyth) Tending to overload.
Trallwythedig, a. (trallwyth) Overloaded.
Trallwythiad, s. m. (trallwyth) An overloading.
Trallydan, a. (llydan) Extremely broad.
Trallydander, s. m. (trallydan) Extreme breadth.
Trallydaniad, s. m. (trallydan) A rendering extremely broad; an over-expanding.
Trallydanu, v. a. (trallydan) To render extremely broad; to become extremely expanded.
Trallym, a. (llym) Extremely sharp, or acute.
Trallymder, s. m. (trallym) Extreme sharpness.
Trallymiad, s. m. (trallym) A sharpening extremely; a becoming very sharp or severe.
Trallymu, v. a. (trallym) To sharpen extremely.
Tram, s. m. (tra—am) An extreme range round.
Tramain, a. (main) Extremely fine or slender.
Tramaint, s. m. (maint) Extreme size. a. Immense

Meifod—
A'i balchradd, a'i balchrodd tramaint.

Meivod with its proud degree, and its proud gift immense. Cynddelw.

Tramantawl, s. f. (mantawl) An over-balance.
Tramantoli, v. a. (tramantawl) To over-balance.
Tramanwl, a. (manwl) Extremely accurate, exact, or nice; very careful.
Tramanyliad, s. m. (tramanwl) A rendering extremely exact; a becoming very careful.
Tramanylu, v. a. (tramanwl) To render extremely accurate; to become very exact.
Tramanylwch, s. m. (tramanwl) Extreme accuracy; extreme attention.
Tramawl, s. f. (mawl) Extreme praise.
Tramawr, a. (mawr) Exremely large; immense, infinite.
Tramawrâad, s. m. (tramawr) A magnifying extremely.
Tramawrâu, v. a. (tramawr) To magnify extremely; to become extremely large.

Tramawredd, s. m. (tramawr) Extreme greatness.
Trambydiaw, v. n. (tram—pydiaw) To become exposed to great danger.
Tramdaw, s. m. (tram—taw) Extreme silence.

Ni wiw cwynaw—
Na cheisiaw tramdaw yn y trymder!

It is useless to complain, or to seek an excess of silence in the sad event! Llywelyn Fardd.

Tramdawiad, s. m. (tramdaw) A causing a deep silence; a becoming extremely silent.
Trameinder, s. m. (tramain) Extreme fineness, or slenderness.
Trameddal, a. (meddal) Extremely soft.
Trameddalder, s. m. (trameddal) Extreme softness
Trameddaledd, s. m. (trameddal) Extreme softness
Trameddaliad, s. m. (trameddal) A softening extremely.
Trameddalu, v. a. (trameddal) To soften greatly.
Trameddw, a. (meddw) Extremely drunk.
Trameddwad, s. m. (trameddw) Over intoxication
Trameddwi, v. a. (trameddw) To intoxicate extremely; to get very drunk.
Tramelys, a. (melys) Extremely sweet.
Tramelysder, s. (tramelys) Extreme sweetness.
Tramelysiad, s. m. (tramelys) A rendering extremely sweet; a becoming very sweet.
Tramelysu, v. a. (tramelys) To sweeten extremely.
Trameth, s. m. (mêth) Extreme failure.
Tramethiant, s. m. (trameth) Extreme debility.
Tramglwydd, s. m. (tram—clwydd) A stumble.
Tramglwyddaw, v. a. (tramglwydd) To fall over, to tumble, to stumble.

Ni lwydda ond a dramglwydda.

No one shall prosper but who shall tumble. Adage.

Tramglwyddiad, s. m. (tramglwydd) A tumbling over, a stumbling.
Tramgoll, s. f. (tram—coll) Extreme loss.
Tramgolli, v. a. (tramgoll) To lose extremely.
Tramgwydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tram—cwydd) A downfal, a tumble, a stumble.

Gnawd wedi traha tramgwydd.

After presumption a fall is a natural consequence. Adage.

Tramgwyddaw, v. a. (tramgwydd) To tumble.

Ni lwyddodd ond a dramgwyddodd.

No one has prospered but who has fallen. Adage.

Tramgwyddawl, a. (tramgwydd) Stumbling.
Tramgwyddedig, a. (tramgwydd) Stumbled.
Tramgwyddfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tramgwydd) A stumbling-block.
Tramgwyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tramgwydd) A stumbling, a falling, or tumbling down.
Tramgwyddwr, s. m.—pl. tramgwyddwyr (tramgwydd—gwr) A stumbler, one who falls.
Tramhwyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (tram—hwyl) An extreme course.

Mal rhod yn troi tramhwyliau,
Trallawd maith trachymhell trethau.

Like the universe revolving immense courses, a tedious affliction is the severely compelling of taxes. Taliesin.

Tramhwyliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tramhwyl) A taking an extreme course.
Tramhwyliaw, v. a. (tramhwyl) To make an extreme course.
Tramodd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (modd) Extreme means or ability.
Tramoddawl, a. (tramodd) Beyond possibility.
Tramoddiad, s. m. (tramodd) A rendering beyond means; a rendering impossible.
Tramoddiaw, v. (tramodd) To render impossible
Tramoed, adv. (tra—ym—oed) Beyond my time.
Tramolawd, s. f. (tramawl) Extreme praise.
Tramoli, v. a. (tramawl) To praise extremely.
Tramoliannu, v. a. (tramoliant) To praise extremely; to flatter.
Tramoliannus, a. (tramoliant) Extremely commendable.
Tramoliant, s. m. (tramawl) Extreme praise.
Tramor, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (mor) A place beyond sea. a. Transmarine; foreign.

Nid mor heb dramor.

There is no sea without a transmarine region. Adage.

Y mynyddoedd ac y fforestydd a gynnalai y brenin yn ddiffaith iddo ei hun; megys y gallo dderbyn alltudion tramor yn wyr iddo; ac i aw roddi yn nghyfarwys; ac i aw briodoli yn gardotir i fynachlogydd.

The mountains and the forests the king preserved as waste for himself; so that he might receive transmarine exiles to become his men; and to give it as a gratuity; and to appropriate it as eleemosynary land to monasteries. Welsh Laws.

Tramorawl, a. (tramor) Transmarine.
Tramoredig, a. (tramor) Being made transmarine. Tramoredigion, transmarine things.
Tramori, v. a. (tramor) To render transmarine; to pass beyond sea; to become transmarine.
Tramp, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tram) A ramble. Myned ar y tramp, to set out on the ramble.
Trampiad, s. m. (tramp) A rambling.
Trampiaw, v. a. (tramp) To ramble, to tramp.
Trampiawl, a. (tramp) Rambling, tramping.
Trampiwr, s. m.—pl. trampiwyr (tramp—gwr) A rambler, a tramper.
Tramwy, s. m. (tram) A transit; a going about.
Tramwy, v. a. (tram) To go about; to go often; to frequent, to resort; to pass over, to traverse.

A glywaist a gant y fronfraith:
Pan dramwyich dros ddiffaith
Na fid elyn dy gydymaith.

Didst thou hear what the thrush did sing: When thou dost traverse the wilderness, 'be not an enemy thy companion.' Eng. y Clywed.

Tramwyad, s. m. (tramwy) A traversing.
Tramwyadwy, a. (tramwyad) Traversible.
Tramwyaeth, s. m. (tramwy) The act of going about, or traversing.
Tramwyaw, v. a. (tramwy) To traverse.
Tramwyawl, a. (tramwy) Traversing.
Tramwyedig, a. (tramwyad) Traversing; transitory; traversed.

Hardd gweled y planedau,
A'u llwybr yn y gylchwybr gau:
Tremiadau tramwyedig,
A chall yn deall eu dig.

It is magnificent to behold the planets, with their course in the empty surrounding ether: of transitory aspects, whose frown the cunning doth understand. Gro. Owain.

Tramwyedigaeth, s. m. (tramwyedig) The act of going about or traversing.
Tramwyfa, s. f.—pl. tramwyfëydd (tramwy) A traversed place.
Tramwyn, a. (mwyn) Extremely genial or kind.
Tramwywr, s. m.—pl. tramwywyr (tramwy—gwr) A traverser; a traveller.
Tramwyydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tramwy) A traverser.
Tramynych, a. (mynych) Extremely frequent.
Tramynychiad, s. m. (tramynych) A frequenting extremely; a becoming very frequent.
Tramynychu, v. a. (tramynych) To frequent extremely; to become very frequent.
Tramynydd, s. m. (mynydd) That is over a mountain. a. Beyond the mountain; tramontane.
Tramynyddawl, a. (tramynydd) Tramontane.

Tran, s. m.—pl. t. au (tra—an) A space, a stretch; a district, or region.

> Gwr heb werth ni wyr chwerthin,
> Tran fain oud bod tro'n i fin.

> A man without property he knows not how to laugh, with a slender stretch only there is a twist in his mouth. Huw Dwn.

Tranawf, s. m. (nawf) An over-swim.
Tranawl, a. (tran) Belonging to a region.
Tranc, s. m. (tra—anc) A cessation; exhaustion; end; decease; departure; dissolution, death.

> Rhag draig Mon——dwys dyfyngi,
> A rhewin, a thrin, a thranc cymmri
> Ar gad gad greudde,
> Ar gryd gryd graendde,
> Ac am Dal Moelfre
> Mil fanieri.

> Against the dragon of Mona perpetual confusion, ruin, toil, and an end of pre-eminence ran before him; in conflict upon conflict pervaded with gore; in carnage upon carnage of horrid forms; and round the front of Moelvre a thousand banners waving. Gwalchmai.

> Od â i'r drin, hyd awr dranc,
> Drwy Ddaw y gall dewr ddianc.

> Should he go to the conflict, until the hour of departure, through God the brave may escape. Rhys Cain.

Trancadwy, a. (tranc) Perishable; exhaustible.
Trancawl, a. (tranc) Perishing, vanishing.
Tranced, s. f.—pl. t. i (tranc) An earthen vessel or cup, such a cup with a handle as is in common use.
Trancedig, a. (tranc) Perishing, evanescent.
Trancedigaeth, s. m. (trancedig) A state of perishing or vanishing.
Trancedigrwydd, s. m. (trancedig) Perishableness.
Trancedu, v. a. (tranced) To lade with a cup.
Trancell, s. f. (tranc) A quantity of liquor drank at once, a draught.
Tranciad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tranc) An exhausting; a coming to an end; dissolution.
Trancu, v. a. (tranc) To exhaust; to bring to an end; to perish, to pass away, to die.
Tranerth, s. m. (nerth) Extreme strength.
Tranerthawl, a. (tranerth) Extremely potent.
Tranerthu, v. a. (tranerth) To strengthen extremely.
Traniad, s. m. (tran) A stretching; a laying out a space.
Tranial, s. m. (tran—ial) A clear space; a field of battle.

> Prydain par praff drydar dranial;
> Prydyddiou gadair gadr ynial.

> Britain the cause of the ample tumult of the hostile field; the throne of poets of mighty energy. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

> Barf ar farf, ac arf yn greuled,
> Tal trathal tranial trachaled.

> Beard on beard, and weapon imbrued with blood, front over front, a field of battle most dreadful. Cynddelw.

Tranoeth, s. m. (noeth) That is extremely naked; that is over or beyond the night; the next morning. adv. On the next morning, on the morrow.

> Ni elwir daw hyd tranoeth.

> Coming will not be so called till the morrow. Adage.

> Drwg trennydd wrth dranoeth.

> Bad is the third day to the morrow. Adage.

Tranoethi, v. a. (tranoeth) To make very bare.
Tranofiad, s. m. (tranawf) Transnation.
Tranofiaw, v. a. (tranawf) To over-swim.
Tranofiawl, a. (tranawf) Over-swimming.
Tranos, s. m. (nos) A time beyond the night; a future night. adv. After the night.

Tranu, v. a. (tran) To stretch; to lay out a space.
Tranwyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwyd) Extreme passion.
Tranwydaw, v. a. (tranwyd) To render extremely passionate; to become extremely passionate.
Tranwydawl, a. (tranwyd) Extremely passionate.
Tranwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (nwyf) Extreme liveliness or vivacity.
Tranwyfaw, v. a. (tranwyf) To enliven extremely; to become very lively.
Tranwyfawl, a. (tranwyf) Extremely animating or exhilarating.
Tranwyfus, a. (tranwyf) Extremely brisk.
Tranydd, s. m. (dydd) A time beyond the day; a future day. adv. After the day.
Trang, s. m.—pl. t. au (tranc) A cessation; exhaustion; end, decease, death. a. Ceasing, vanishing. Ar drang, at the point of death.

> Dar a dyfwys yn ngwynnau,
> A thwrf, a thrin, a thrangau:
> Gwae a wyl na bo golau!

> An oak has grown in the downs, abounding with tumult, and conflict, and deaths: woe to him that sees that it is not light! Robert Tywysawg Normandi.

> Credwn——
> Ei fyn'd ar drang gloes angau
> Dros dyn, i ufydd dristau.

> We believe his going on the departure of the pang of death, for man, humbly to sorrow. Huw Arwystl.

> Llefwa teyrnedd lliaws dyfrydedd;
> Am ddyfrys eu trengi
> Trangai truaf trueni!

> Princes have given room for a multitude of woes; for the hastening of their departure most destructive, most miserable of misery. Gwalchmai, i D. ab Owain.

Trangawl, a. (trang) Perishing, vanishing.
Trangedig, a. (trang) Being perished.
Trangiad, s. m. (trang) A perishing; dissolution.
Trangu, v. a. (trang) To perish, to pass away.
Traoed, s. m. (oed) Extreme delay.
Traoedi, v. a. (traoed) To delay extremely.
Traoediad, s. m. (traoed) A delaying extremely.
Traoer, a. (oer) Extremely cold or chill.
Traoeri, v. a. (traoer) To cool extremely; to become extremely cold.
Traoeriad, s. m. (traoer) A cooling extremely.
Traoes, s. f. (oes) Extreme age. a. Over-age.
Traoesawl, a. (traoes) Superannuated.
Traoesi, v. n. (traoes) To become of extreme age; to be superannuated.
Traoesiad, s. m. (traoes) Superannuation.
Traofn, s. m. (ofn) Extreme fear or dread.
Traofnawg, a. (traofn) Extremely timid.
Traofni, v. a. (traofn) To fear extremely.
Traofniad, s. m. (traofn) A fearing extremely; a frightening extremely.
Traphlith, adv. (tra—plith) In a most confused state.
Traphont, s. f.—pl. traphynt (tra—pont) The other side of a bridge. adv. On the other side of the bridge.

> Nid pont heb draphont.

> There is no bridge without a place beyond bridge. Adage.

Traphwyll, s. m. (tra—pwyll) Extreme impulse.
Traphwys, s. m. (tra—pwys) Extreme pressure.
Trarif, s. m. (rhif) An over number.
Trarifaw, v. a. (trarif) To over-reckon.
Trarifawl, a. (trarif) Supernumerary.
Tras, s. f.—pl. t. au (tra—as) Kindred, relationship, affinity. According to the ancient laws, a person who could prove his descent through nine degrees was a free native. Proof of collateral relationship was also required in the ninth degree, for that determined the family of a person; and this was necessary, as the whole family was liable to be fined for the crimes of its members, rated according to proximity of kindred.

Descending kindred.

1 Tad, mam, father, mother.
2 Mab, merch, son, daughter.
3 Wyr, wyres, grandson, grand-daughter.
4 Gorwyr, gorwyres, son, daughter, in the 3d degree.
5 Hengaw, hengawes, son, daughter, in the 6th degree.
6 Gorhengaw, gorhengawes, son, daughter, in the 7th degree.

Ascending kindred.

1 Tad, mam, father, mother.
2 Tad cu, mam gu, grandfather, grandmother, or hendad, henfam.
3 Gorhendad, gorhenfam, a father, mother, in the 4th degree.
4 Taid, nain, a father, mother, in the 5th deg.
5 Hendaid, hennain, a father, mother, in the 6th degree.
6 Gorhendaid, gorhennain, a father, mother, in the 7th degree.

Collateral kindred descending.

1 Brawd, chwaer, brother, sister.
2 Cefnderw, cyfnitherw, male cousin, female cousin.
3 Cyfyrderw, second cousin.
4 Ceifn, third cousin.
5 Gorcheifn, fourth cousin.
6 Ysgiwion neu plant cyfyrderw, third cousins.
7 Gwrthysgiwion, neu plant plant cyfyrderw, fourth cousins.
8 Caw, cawes, son, daughter, in the 4th degree.
9 Gorchaw, gorchawes, son, daughter, in the 5th degree.
10 Gerni, seventh cousin.
11 Gwrtherni, eighth cousin.

Or thus:

1 Cefnderw
2 Cyfyrderw
3 Plant cyfyrderw
4 Ceifn
5 Gorcheifn
6 Gwystyn, neu gorchudd
7 Gorchwystyn neu gorchwant
8 Car trig, neu goreiddyn
9 Car clud.

Collateral Kindred.

1 Ewythr, modryb, uncle, aunt.
2 Nai, nith, nephew, niece.
3 Cyfnai, cyfnith, nephew, niece, in the 2d deg.
4 Gorchyfnai, gorchyfnith, nephew, niece, in the 3d degree.
5 Clud, collateral relative in the 4th degree.
6 Car clud, car a chlud, a collateral relative in the 5th degree.
7 Gwrth clud, a collateral relative in the 6th degree.
8 Car o waed, a collateral relative in the 7th degree.

Trasaidd, a. (tras) In some degree related.

Trasail, s. f.—pl. traseiliau (sail) Extreme base.

Trasain, s. f. (sain) An extreme sound.

Trasalw, a. (salw) Extremely frail or poor.

Trasalwder, s. m. (trasalw) Extreme frailty.

> A Duw a'm troswy o'm trasalwder ataw,
> I iawn obeithiaw a wybyther!
>
> And may God bring me out of my extreme wretchedness to him, rightly to hope for what is known. Llywelyn Fardd.

Trasawdd, s. m. (sawdd) Extreme sinking.

Trasawg, a. (tras) Having kindred.

Trasawl, a. (tras) Belonging to kindred.

> Tros wledydd trasawl ydwyd.
>
> Over countries thou art connected by kindred. Iolo Goch.

Trasedig, a. (tras) Connected by kindred.

Trasedd, s. m. (tras) A kindred state.

Trasefyll, v. a. (sefyll) To over-stand; to persist; to be permanent.

Traseiddiad, s. m. (trasaidd) A rendering partly related; to be connected by kindred.

Traseiddiaw, v. a. (trasaidd) To form a slight relationship; to become slightly related.

Traseiddrwydd, s. m. (trasaidd) Slight relationship; common kindred.

> Cymerwn angraifft oddiwrth Priaf, brenin Troia, yr un a fu yn blodeuaw mewn traseiddrwydd, a chyfoeth, anrhydedd a gallu.
>
> Let us take an example from Priam, king of Troy, he who has been flourishing in extensive kindred and dominion, honour and power. Marchawg Crwydred.

Traseifiad, s. m.—pl. traseifiaid (seifiad) That stands extremely firm.

> Y Ty yn y Penryn—
> Traseifiad trefad lle trig
> Treth hail ar lân Traeth Helig.
>
> The house in the peninsula, an extreme permanent support of society where it is, serving out a revenue on the bank of the Sand of Helig. Rhys Goch Eryri.

Traseiliad, s. m. (trasail) A forming an extreme base or foundation.

Traseiliaw, v. a. (trasail) To lay an extreme base.

Traseiniad, s. m. (trasain) A sounding greatly.

Traseiniaw, v. a. (trasain) To sound extremely.

Traseiniawl, a. (trasain) Very sonorous.

Trasen, s. f. (sen) An extreme reproach.

Trasènawl, a. (trasen) Very reproachful.

Trasèniad, s. (trasen) A reproaching extremely.

Trasènu, v. a. (trasen) To reproach extremely.

Traserch, s. m. (serch) Excess of fondness, a doting, dotage.

> Nid breniniaeth ond serch;
> Nid ynfydrwydd ond traserch.
>
> There is no empire like that of love, there is no foolishness like dotage. Adage.
>
> Morganwg—
> Lle tros ran o'm traserch:
> Lle dewr mab, lle diwair merch.
>
> Morganwg, to where a portion of my fondness is directed; where the son is bold, where the daughter is chaste. D. ab Gwilym.

Traserchawg, a. (traserch) Extremely loving.

Traserchawl, a. (traserch) Apt to dote.

Traserchiad, s. m. (traserch) A doting, a fondling.

Traserchu, v. a. (traserch) To love extremely.

Traserchus, a. (traserch) Apt to dote.

Traserth, a. (serth) Extremely precipitous; very steep.

Traserthiad, s. m. (traserth) A rendering extremely precipitous; a becoming very steep.

Traserthu, v. a. (traserth) To render extremely precipitous; to become very steep.

Trasg, s. m. (tra—asg) That is laid together.

Trasgl, s. m.—pl. t. au (trasg) A rake.

Trasiad, s. m. (tras) A forming a kindred; a becoming connected by kindred.

Trasoddawl, a. (trasawdd) Tending to sink greatly

Trasoddi, v. a. (trasawdd) To sink extremely.
Trasoddiad, s. m. (trasawdd) A sinking greatly.
Trasom, s. m. (som) Extreme deception.
Trasomawl, a. (trasom) Extremely deceiving.
Trasomgar, a. (trasom) Extremely deceiving.
Trasomi, v. a. (trasom) To deceive extremely; to disappoint extremely.
Trasomiad, s. m. (trasom) A deceiving greatly; a disappointing extremely.
Trason, s. m. (son) Excess of noise or talk.
Trasoniad, s. m. (trason) A talking extremely.
Trasoniaw, v. a. (trason) To talk extremely.
Trasoniawl, a. (trason) Extremely noisy.
Trasu, v. a. (tras) To connect by kindred; to become connected by kindred.
Trasur, a. (sur) Extremely sour or acid.
Trasuraw, v. a. (trasur) To sour extremely.
Trasuriad, s. m. (trasur) A souring extremely.
Traswydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (swydd) An over office or employment.
Traswyddawg, a. (traswydd) Having an over-office. s. m. One who fills an over-office.
Traswyddgar, a. (traswydd) Over-officious.
Traswyddgarwch, s. m. (traswyddgar) Over-officiousness.
Trasych, a. (sych) Extremely dry or parched.
Trasychiad, s. m. (trasych) A drying extremely.
Trasychu, v. a. (trasych) To dry extremely.
Trasylw, s. m. (sylw) Extreme notice or regard.
Trasylwad, s. m. (trasylw) A regarding much.
Trasylwi, v. a. (trasylw) To notice extremely.
Trasyn, a. (syn) Extremely concerned.
Trasyndawd, s. m. (trasyn) Extreme concern.
Trasyniad, s. m. (trasyn) Much consideration.
Trasyniaw, v. a. (trasyn) To feel extremely; to consider extremely.
Trasyniawl, a. (trasyn) Extremely sensible; of extreme consideration.
Trasynu, v. a. (trasyn) To concern or to amaze extremely; to be extremely concerned.
Trasyth, a. (syth) Extremely stiff or erect.

Y balchaf, trawsaf trasyth,
Lleiaf ei barch yn mhob lle byth.

The proudest, the most froward extremely stiff, the least his respect ever in every place. D. ab Edmwnd.

Trasythiad, s. m. (trasyth) A rendering very stiff or erect; a becoming very erect.
Trasythu, v. a. (trasyth) To render extremely erect; to become very erect.
Trathal, s. f. (tal) An over-payment.
Trathaliad, s. m. (trathal) An over-paying.
Trathalu, v. a. (trathal) To over-pay.
Trathanawl, a. (tanawl) Extremely expanding.
Trathaniad, s. m. (taniad) A spreading greatly.
Trathanu, v. a. (tanu) To expand extremely.
Trathardd, s. m. (tardd) An excess of spring, or breaking out.
Tratharddawl, a. (trathardd) Tending to spring, or break out extremely.
Tratharddiad, s. m. (trathardd) A springing, issuing, or breaking out extremely.
Tratharddu, v. a. (trathardd) To issue greatly.
Trathasg, s. f. (tasg) An extreme task.
Trathasgawl, a. (trathasg) Being an over task.
Trathasgiad, s. m. (trathasg) A tasking much.
Trathasgu, v. a. (trathasg) To task extremely.
Trathaw, s. m. (taw) Extreme silence.
Trathebyg, a. (tebyg) Extremely similar.
Trathebygiad, s. m. (trathebyg) A rendering very similar; a becoming very like.
Trathebygu, v. a. (trathebyg) To liken much.
Tratheg, a. (teg) Extremely fair or open.
Tratheilwng, a. (teilwng) Extremely worthy.
Tratheilyngiad, s. m. (tratheilwng) A rendering extremely worthy; to merit extremely.
Tratheilyngu, v. a. (tratheilwng) To render extremely worthy; to become very worthy.
Trathelaid, a. (telaid) Extremely elegant.
Tratheneu, a. (teneu) Extremely thin.
Tratheneuad, s. m. (tratheneu) A rendering extremely thin; a becoming very thin.
Tratheneuaw, v. a. (tratheneu) To make extremely thin; to become very thin.
Trather, a. (ter) Extremely pure or clear.
Tratheriad, s. m. (trather) A purifying greatly.
Tratheru, v. a. (trather) To purify extremely.
Tratherwyn, a. (terwyn) Extremely ardent.
Tratherwyniad, s. m. (tratherwyn) A rendering extremely ardent; a becoming very ardent.
Tratherwynu, v. a. (tratherwyn) To render extremely ardent; to become extremely ardent.
Tratheryll, a. (teryll) Extremely piercing.
Trathes, s. m. (tes) Extreme warmth; extreme sun-heat.
Trathew, a. (tew) Extremely thick.
Trathewâad, s. m. (trathew) A thickening extremely.
Trathewâu, v. a. (trathew) To over-thicken.
Trathewi, v. a. (trathaw) To render profoundly silent; to become very silent.

A Ffranc trwch trathewys.

And the wounded Frank became profoundly silent. Gwalchmai.

Trathirion, v. a. (tirion) Extremely pleasing.
Trathirionad, s. m. (trathirion) A rendering extremely pleasant or genial; a becoming very pleasing.
Trathirioni, v. a. (trathirion) To render extremely pleasant; to become very pleasing.
Trathòri, v. a. (tòri) To break extremely.
Trathòriad, s. m. (tòriad) An over-breaking.
Trathost, a. (tost) Extremely severe.
Trathostur, s. m. (trathost) Extreme pity.
Trathosturi, s. m. (trathostur) Extreme pity.
Trathosturiad, s. m. (trathostur) A pitying extremely, a commiserating much.
Trathosturiaw, v. a. (trathostur) To commiserate extremely.
Trathosturiawl, a. (trathostur) Extremely commiserating; greatly pitying.
Trathraul, s. f. (traul) Extreme consumption, wear, waste, or charge.
Trathreuliad, s. m. (trathraul) A consuming extremely; an over-wasting.
Trathreuliaw, v. a. (trathraul) To consume extremely; to over-waste.

Byd a fydd byd, heb wynt, heb wlaw,
Heb ormod eredig, heb drathreuliaw;
Tir digawn fydd un erw i naw.

The world will be a world, without wind, without rain, without too much ploughing, without consuming to extreme; sufficiency of land will one acre be for nine. Gwasgar. Myrddin.

Trathrin, s. m. (trin) Extreme striving; extreme strife or conflict.
Trathriniad, s. m. (trathrin) A busying about extremely; a striving extremely.
Trathriniaw, v. a. (trathrin) To strive extremely.
Trathriniawl, a. (trathrin) Extremely bustling.
Trathro, s. m. (tro) An extreme turn.
Trathröad, s. m. (trathro) A turning much.
Trathröawl, a. (trathro) Tending to turn much.
Trathroi, v. a. (trathro) To turn extremely.
Trathrwm, a. (trwm) Extremely heavy.
Trathrwst, s. m. (trwst) Extreme noise.

Trathrymâad, s. m. (trathrwm) A rendering extremely heavy; a becoming very heavy.

Trathrymâu, v. a. (trathrwm) To render extremely heavy; to become extremely heavy.

Trathrymder, s. m. (trathrwm) Extreme heaviness or pressure.

Trathrystiad, s. m. (trathrwst) A making an extreme noise or tumult.

Trathrystiaw, v a. (trathrwst) To make an extreme noise or tumult.

Trathrystiawl, a. (trathrwst) Extremely noisy.

Trathwf, s. m. (twf) Extreme growth.

Trathwg, s. m. (twg) Extreme prosperity.

Trathwr, s. m.—pl. trathyrau (twr) An extreme heap or aggregate.

Trathwrf, s. m. (twrf) Extreme tumult.

Trathwym, a. (twym) Extremely warm.

Trathwymnaw, v. a. (trathwymyn) To heat extremely; to become extremely hot.

Trathwymniad, s. m. (trathwymyn) A heating extremely.

Trathwymyn, a. (trathwym) Extremely hot.

Trathyciad, s. m. (trathwg) A thriving, increasing, or prospering extremely.

Trathyciannu, v. a. (trathyciant) To cause extreme prosperity; to become very prosperous.

Trathyciannus, a. (trathyciant) Extremely prosperous or successful.

Trathyciant, s. m. (trathwg) Extreme increase.

Trathyciaw, v. n. (trathwg) To increase extremely, to be very prosperous.

Trathyfawl, a. (trathwf) Of extreme growth.

Trathyfiad, s. m. (trathwf) An overgrowing.

Trathyfiant, s. m. (trathwf) An overgrowth.

Trathyfu, v. a. (trathwf) To grow extremely.

Trathylawd, a. (tylawd) Extremely poor.

Trathylodedd, s. m. (trathylawd) Great poverty.

Trathylodi, v. n. (trathylawd) To become very poor. s. m. Extreme poverty.

Dau annhwyllbyd, trachyfoeth a thrathylodi.

The two indiscretions of the world, extreme wealth and extreme poverty. Adage.

Trathyn, a. (tyn) Extremely tight, or strained.

Trathynâad, s. m. (trathyn) An over-tightening.

Trathynâu, v. a. (trathyn) To over-strain.

Trathyndra, s. m. (trathyn) Over-tightness.

Trathyner, a. (tyner) Extremely tender.

Trathyneru, v. a. (trathyner) To render extremely tender; to become very tender.

Trathyniad, s. m. (trathyn) An over-pulling.

Trathynu, v. a. (trathyn) To over-pull; to drag.

Trathyrfawl, a. (trathwrf) Very tumultuous.

Trathyrfiad, s. m. (trathwrf) A making an extreme tumult.

Trathyrfu, v. a. (trathwrf) To make an extreme tumult or turmoil.

Trathyriad, s. m. (trathwr) An over-heaping.

Trathyru, v. a. (trathwr) To over-heap.

Trathywyll, a. (tywyll) Extremely dark.

Trathywylliad, s. m. (trathywyll) A darkening extremely.

Trathywyllu, v. a. (trathywyll) To darken extremely.

Trathywyllwch, s. (trathywyll) Great darkness.

Trâu, v. a. (tra) To pass over, to go beyond; to go through; to bore.

Traul, s. f.—pl. treulion (tra—ul) Diffusion; wear, waste, consumption; expence, cost, charge, or disbursement. Traul daint ac ystlys, expence of food and raiment: Traul yr haul, the sun's course.

Da traul ceiniawg a weryd traul dwy.

Good is the cost of a penny that saves the cost of two. Adage.

Edifar cybydd am draul.

A miser is sorry for the expence. Adage.

Traul ateb ataf a ddanfonynt.

A consuming answer to me they were wont to send. Cynddelw.

Traw, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tra) An advance, a progress, a lead, education; a distant, a farther, or other side.

Hol dwfr o draw i'r afon.

To fetch water from the other side of the river. Adage.

Edrych yn y drych dy draw,
A'th wyneb yn cethinaw.

Behold in the mirror thy advance, and thy countenance becoming ugly. D. ab Gwilym.

Aeth a'm dillynion tòn teg;
Rhydodd fi ar fy rhedeg:
Aeth yn deg ag a fegais
Erioed, traw oer yw'r trais.

He bereaved me of my jewels of beauteous aspect; he marred me in my course: he has fairly gone with all I ever reared, a chill lesson is the severe dealing! Gr. ab Rhys, m. ei blant.

Traw, a. (tra) Advancing; progressive; leading, teaching. I ba le yr ei di? Where art thou going? O, draw draw, O, a good way yonder.

Diofryd a roddaf——
Dros ei gadu'n draw geden
I dyfu gauaf-gnu gen.

A vow I will give, for leaving it an over-running bush to grow as the chin's winter-fleece. Iolo Goch.

Traw, adv. (tra) Beyond, over, on the other side; yonder.

Treiddiom ni; a mi a Morgant,
Traw deufor; cynghor cynghorant,
Traith ymdaith yn faith anfethiant,
Traeth a bryn a phenryn a phant,
Traw ni ludd trylaw ail Rolant.

May we penetrate; that is I and Morgant, beyond two seas; the council of correlatives; enjoins a journey tediously without flagging, over strand and hill and headland and vale, a progress that none will hinder expert even as Rolant. Casnodyn.

Trawaeth, s. m. (traw) Advancement, progression; that comes forward; a circumstance; a leading, or bringing onward; education.

Bwriodd fi mewn diffriwch
Brad gelyniaeth, trawaeth trwch.

It threw me into the sadness of treacherous enmity, an unfortunate circumstance. Syr Owain ab Gwilym.

Trawaidd, a. (traw) Progressive; conducive.

Trawawl, a. (traw) Tending to bring onward; disciplinary.

Trawd, s. m.—pl. trodion (tra) A transit, a course; a pass; a journey.

Nid oes darogan, dyn truan drawd,
O'r gwr an goreu maddeu meddwdawd.

There is no prophecy, oh man of miserable course, that he who made us forgives drunkenness. Ein ab Gwalchmai.

Trwy frys, o'i lys lwys dwys deisyfu,
Trwy drawd y geudawd trwy ffawd ffynnu,
——Archaf Dduw o'i du.

Through haste, his splendid court anxiously longing for, through the range of the imagination, through the prospering of happiness, I pray to God to take his part. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Glud a drud ar drawd aehrugar;
Glyw ei ryw, ef rwyf ufeliar.

A leading one and a hero on the dreadful course; it is his nature to be supreme, he that guides the conflagration. Llywelyn Fardd.

Trawdad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traw—tad) A leading father; a patriarch.

Trawdd, s. m. (tra) A transit; a move onward; a pass; a penetration.

Trawddysg, s. m. (traw—dysg) A leading instruction; fundamental instruction; doctrine.

Arwedd fardd hardd yn mhob hynt,
A thrawddysg athraw iddynt.

A conducting bard handsome in every course, and a teacher of profound learning to them. Daf. Benwyn, m. R. Iorwerth.

Trawed, s. m. (traw) Advancement; the state of being over or at the top.

Trawedig, a. (trawed) Being advanced, disciplined.

Trawedigaeth, s. m. (trawedig) Discipline.

Trawedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trawed) A disciplinarian.

Trawen, s. f. (traw) That is over, or up.

> Owain——
> Dygwystlir iddo o dir Alclud Gogledd;
> Draig yw yn dyhedd drawen yn y Deheu.
>
> Owain, to him hostage will be given from the land of Alclud in the North; he is a leader stilling insurrection in the South. Gwalchmai.

Traweniad, s. m. (trawen) An over-passing; an over-rising; insurrection.

Trawenu, v. a. (trawen) To pass or rise over.

Trawf, s. m. (traw) An advance, pass, or turn over.

Trawiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traw) An advancing, a forwarding; a rearing, educating, or maturing; a going over; a surpassing.

> Y fwyalchen——
> Tref wanwyn yw'r tewlwyn tau,
> Twr adail y trawiadau.
>
> Thou thrush, thy thick bush is the dwelling of the spring, the tower of the edifice of competitions. D. ab Gwilym.

Trawiadawl, a. (trawiad) Tending to effect an advance or forwardness; instructive.

Trawiadu, v. a. (trawiad) To make an advance or progress; to educate; to effect a passing over.

Trawiadur, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trawiad) One who advances, a forwarder; one who educates; one who goes over, or beyond; one who surpasses.

> Y fwyalchen——
> Trydar syw, trawiadur serch.
>
> The thrush of smart chirping, the master of the art of love. D. ab Gwilym.

Trawial, s. m.—pl. t. au (traw) A sneezing.

Trawialu, v. a. (trawial) To sneeze.

Trawiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trawiad) One who causes to advance, one who perfects; an instructor.

Trawien, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (traw) A vale, a defile or pass, between mountains.

Trawn, s. m. (traw) That is over or superior.

Trawo, adv. (traw) On the distance; on the farther side; on the other side; over, beyond.

> Canmoled pawb y bont a'i dyco drawo.
>
> Let every body praise the bridge that brings him over. Adage.

Traws, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tra) A transverse direction; a traverse; a cross or refractory one. a. Adverse, cross. Torasant ar eu traws gan ddig, they burst themselves with rage.—It is prefixed in composition.

> Ni roddi hwn, wraidd hynaws,
> Erioed led ei droed i draws.
>
> He, who is manly and generous, never gave the breadth of his foot to the froward. D. Nanconwy.
>
> Angen y gyhydedd draws yw ban nawsill; a hyd pennill o bedwar i un ban ar bymtheg.
>
> The characteristic of the cross metricity is a verse of nine syllables: and the length of the stanza from four to sixteen verses. Barddas.
>
> Trawsion, ail Meirion mawredd, un ofeg,
> Trafn mawrdeg difreg dyfr gymyredd.
>
> Froward ones, like Meirion of magnificence, of the same design, in the unbroken course greatly fair of combining water rolling. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Trawsachwyn, s. m. (achwyn) A counter complaint. v. a. To recriminate.

Trawsachwynawl, a. (trawsachwyn) Recriminating.

Trawsachwyniad, s. m. (trawsachwyn) A recrimination; a recriminating.

Trawsaddysg, s. m. (addysg) A contrary doctrine.

Trawsaddysgiad, s. m. (trawsaddysg) A teaching in opposition.

Trawsaddysgu, v. a. (trawsaddysg) To instruct contrarily, to teach in opposition.

Trawsagawr, s. m. (agawr) A transverse opening. v. a. To open across.

Trawsagorawl, a. (trawsagawr) Tending to open transversely.

Trawsagori, v. a. (trawsagawr) To open across; to become open across.

Trawsagoriad, s. m. (trawsagawr) An opening transversely.

Trawsaidd, a. (traws) Apt to be contrary.

Trawsair, s. m.—pl. trawseiriau (traws—gair) A metonymy.

Trawsdyle, s. m. (tyle) The cross way or upper end of a dwelling.

Trawsamcan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (amcan) A cross purpose; an adverse design.

Trawsamcaniad, s. m. (trawsamcan) A purposing or designing adversely.

Trawsamcanu, v. a. (trawsamcan) To pursue a cross purpose.

Trawsariad, s. m. (ariad) A cross-ploughing.

Trawsaru, v. a. (aru) To cross-plough.

Trawsbwyth, s. m. (pwyth) A cross-stitch.

Trawsbwythaw, v. a. (trawsbwyth) To cross-stitch, to overcast.

Trawsbwythiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawsbwyth) A cross-stitching or overcasting.

Trawschwedl, s. m.—pl. t. au (chwedl) A hyperbaton.

Trawschwedliad, s. m. (trawschwedl) A speaking contradictory expressions.

Trawschwedlu, v. a. (trawschwedl) To utter adverse expressions; to speak in contradiction.

Trawsder, s. m. (traws) Crossness, adverseness.

Trawsdeyrn, s. m.—pl. t. au (teyrn) An usurper.

Trawsdeyrnedd, s. m. (trawsdeyrn) Usurpation.

> Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau a wahoddes y Saeson gyntaf i'r ynys hon, yn gynllawiaid iddo yn ei drawsdeyrnedd.
>
> Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau invited the Saxons first into this island, as auxiliaries for him in his usurpation. Trioedd.

Trawsdori, v. a. (tòri) To cut a cross cut.

Trawsdoriad, s. m. (tòriad) A cross-cutting.

Trawsdyn, s. m. (tyn) That is pulled cross-wise.

Trawsdyniad, s. m. (trawsdyn) A pulling cross-wise; a distorting.

Trawsdynu, v. a. (trawsdyn) To distort; to draw aside; to pull cross-wise.

Trawsddawd, s. m. (dawd) A transverse position.

Trawsddodawl, a. (trawsddawd) Transpositional.

Trawsddodi, v. a. (trawsddawd) To transpose.

Trawsddodiad, s. m. (trawsddawd) An antithesis; a metathesis; transposition.

Trawsddwyn, s. m. (dwyn) Transportation.

Trawsddygiad, s. m. (dygiad) Transportation.

Trawsedig, a. (traws) Being crossed.

Trawsedd, s. m. (traws) The state of being transverse, adverse, or cross; crossness, refractoriness, frowardness.

Trawselfen, s. f.—pl. t. au (elfen) A contrary element.

Trawselfeniad, s. m. (trawselfen) Transubstantiation, transelementation.

Trawselfenu, v. a. (trawselfen) To transubstantiate.

Trawselfydd, s. m. (elfydd) A contrary element.

Trawselfyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawselfydd) Transubstantiation, transelementation.
Trawselfyddu, v. a. (trawselfydd) To transubstantiate.
Trawsenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (enw) Metonymy.
Trawsenwad, s. m. (trawsenw) Transnomination; a forming a metonymy.
Trawsenwawl, a. (trawsenw) Metonymical.
Trawsenwi, v. a. (trawsenw) To form a metonymy
Trawsfalch, a. (balch) Frowardly-proud.
Trawsfalchedd, s. m. (trawsfalch) Froward pride
Trawsfarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (barn) A cross judgment, a contradictory opinion.
Trawsfarniad, s. m. (trawsfarn) A judging adversely; a contrary decision.
Trawsfarnu, v. a. (trawsfarn) To judge adversely
Trawsfedd, s. m. (medd) Wrong possession.
Trawsfeddiannawl, a. (trawsfeddiant) Having possession wrongfully.
Trawsfeddiannu, v. a. (trawsfeddiant) To possess wrongfully; to usurp.
Trawsfeddiant, s. m. (trawsfedd) Usurpation.
Trawsfeddu, v. a. (trawsfedd) To possess adversely, to possess wrongfully.
Trawsflwng, a. (blwng) Frowardly-sullen.
Trawsfor, a. (mor) Being across the sea.
Trawsforawl, a. (trawsfor) Transmarine.
Trawsforedig, a. (trawsfor) Being rendered transmarine.
Trawsfraint, s. m.—pl. trawsfreinniau (braint) Usurpation of right.

> Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau a roddes Iddel fab Gotta, o drawsfraint, unbennaeth Ynys Prydain.
>
> Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau gave to his son Gotta, by usurpation, the monarchy of the isle of Britain. Trioedd.

Trawsfreinniad, s. m. (trawsfraint) An usurping of right.
Trawsfreinniaw, v. a. (trawsfraint) To usurp a right.
Trawsfreinniawl, a. (trawsfraint) Relating to an usurped right.
Trawsfud, s. m. (mud) A transit; migration.
Trawsfudaw, v. a. (trawsfud) To emigrate.
Trawsfudawl, a. (trawsfud) Migratory.
Trawsfudiad, s. m. (trawsfud) Transmotion; a migrating.
Trawsgainc, s. f.—pl. trawsgeinciau (cainc) A cross-bough.
Trawsgan, s. f. (can) An adverse song; a satire.
Trawsganiad, s. m. (trawsgan) A satirizing.
Trawsganu, v. a. (trawsgan) To satirize.
Trawsgerdded, s. m. (cerdded) Transmigration. v. a. To transmigrate.
Trawsgerddediad, s. m. (trawsgerdded) A transmigrating.
Trawsglud, s. m. (clud) Transportation.
Trawsgludaw, v. a. (trawsglud) To transport.
Trawsgludiad, s. m. (trawsglud) Transportation.
Trawsglwm, s. m.—pl. trawsglymau (clwm) A cross-knot; a node.
Trawsglwyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (clwyd) Cross hurdle.
Trawsglwydd, s. m. (clwydd) A transportation.
Trawsglwyddaw, v. a. (trawsglwydd) To transport
Trawsglwyddawl, a. (trawsglwydd) Transporting.
Trawsglwyddiad, s. m. (trawsglwydd) A transporting.
Trawsgryf, a. (cryf) Frowardly strong.
Trawsgymeriad, s. m. (cymeriad) Metalepsis.
Trawsgymeryd, v. a. (cymeryd) To take or to accept adversely.
Trawsgynnal, v. a. (cynnal) To hold adyersely.
Trawsgynnaliad, s. m. (trawsgynnal) A holding or supporting adversely.
Trawsgynghanedd, s. f. (cynghanedd) A contrasted consonancy.
Trawsgynghaneddiad, s. m. (trawsgynghanedd) A forming a coutrasted consonancy.
Trawsgynghaneddu, v. a. (trawsgynghanedd) To form a contrasted consonancy.
Trawshediad, s. m. (hediad) Transvolation.
Trawsiad, s. m. (traws) A crossing; a putting crosswise.
Trawsineb, s. m. (traws) Adverseness, frowardness.

> A wyr neb drawsineb serch.
>
> Does any body know the frowardness of love! Ieuan Dyfi.

Trawslath, s. f.—pl. t. au (llath) A bar or beam placed transversely; a toft of a boat.
Trawslathiad, s. m. (trawslath) A laying a transverse beam or toft.
Trawslathu, v. a. (trawslath) To lay a transverse beam; to fix a toft.
Trawslëad, s. m. (llëad) Translocation.
Trawslinell, s. f.—pl. t. i (llinell) A cross line.
Trawslusg, s. m. (llusg) Transverse trailing. a. Transversely-drawing. Cynghanedd drawslusg, a transversely trailing consonancy.
Trawslusgaw, v. a. (trawslusg) To drag across.
Trawslusgiad, s. m. (trawslusg) A dragging across.
Trawslyw, s. (llyw) An adverse guide or steerer.
Trawslywiad, s. m. (trawslyw) A guiding adversely; a misgoverning.
Trawslywiaw, v. a. (trawslyw) To guide contrarily; to steer across; to govern frowardly.
Trawsosawd, s. m. (gosawd) To transpose.
Trawsosodawl, a. (trawsosawd) Transposing.
Trawsosodi, v. a. (trawsosawd) To transpose.
Trawsosodiad, s. m. (trawsosawd) Metathesis; a transposition.
Trawsrwym, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhwym) A cross band
Trawsrwymaw, v. a. (trawsrwym) To bind across.
Trawsrwymawl, a. (trawsrwym) Relating to cross binding.
Trawsrwymiad, s. (trawsrwym) A binding across.
Trawsryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (rhyw) A cross breed.
Trawsrywiad, s. m. (trawsryw) A transexion.
Trawsrywiaw, v. a. (trawsryw) To transpeciate.
Trawst, s. m.—pl. t. iau (traws) A rafter.
Trawstiad, s. m. (trawst) A laying a rafter.
Trawstiaw, v. a. (trawst) To lay a rafter.
Trawsu, v. a. (traws) To render cross or adverse.
Trawswch, s. f.—pl. trawsych (traw—swch) A whisker. Gwas heb drawswch arno, a youth without mustaches.
Trawswyr, a. (gŵyr) Transversely oblique.
Trawswyraw, v. a. (trawswyr) To render transversely oblique.
Trawswyrawl, a. (trawswyr) Tending to transverse obliquity.
Trawswyredd, s. m. (trawswyr) Transverse obliquity.
Trawswyriad, s. m. (trawswyr) A turning transversely oblique.
Trawsylwedd, s. m. (traw—sylwedd) A contrary substance.
Trawsylweddiad, s. m. (trawsylwedd) Transubstantiation.
Trawsylweddu, v. a. (trawsylwedd) To transubstantiate.
Trawsymddwyn, s. m. (ymddwyn) A metaphor.
Trawsymmod, s. m. (ymmod) A moving over; a moving adversely.

Trawsymmodawl, a. (trawsymmod) Tending to move adversely.
Trawsymmodi, v. a. (trawsymmod) To move adversely.
Trawsymmodiad, s. m. (trawsymmod) A moving adversely; transmotion.
Trawsymud, v. a. (traw—symud) To transpose.
Trawsymudawl, a. (trawsymud) Transposing.
Trawsymudiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawsymud) A transposition.
Trawsymsymud, s. m. (ymsymud) A mutual moving over; a self moving over.
Trawsymsymudaw, v. a. (trawsymsymud) To move over mutually; to move one's self over.
Trawsymsymudawl, a. (trawsymsymud) Mutually moving over; self-transporting.
Trawsymsymudiad, s. m. (trawsymsymud) A mutually moving over; a moving one's self over.
Trawu, v. a. (traw) To forward, to lead onward; to mature, to perfect; to cause to excel.

> Eiriolu, trawu, Duw tri: O Arglwydd,
> Erglyw ar fy ngweddi!
>
> Intercede, make perfect, Triune God; O Lord, hearken to my prayer! H. D. ab Ifan.

Trawus, a. (traw) Tending to bring forward.
Trawusaw, v. a. (trawus) To render progressive; to render instructive; to become instructive.
Trawusrwydd, s. m. (trawus) Instructiveness.
Traymanerch, s. m. (ymanerch) Excess of mutual greeting. v. a. Mutually to greet over-much.
Traymannos, s. m. (ymannos) Extreme self-excitation. v. a. To excite one's self extremely.
Traymaraws, s. m. (ymaraws) Excess of mutual forbearance. v. a. Mutually to forbear extremely Traymbarotöad, s. m. (ymbarotöad) Extreme mutual preparation; extreme self-preparation.
Traymbarotoi, v. a. (ymbarotoi) Mutually to prepare over-much; to prepare one's self over-much
Traymboeni, v. a. (ymboeni) Mutually to afflict severely; to take extreme pains.
Traymboeniad, s. m. (ymboeniad) Mutually afflicting or toiling extremely.
Traymdaith, s. f. (ymdaith) An excess of travelling.
Traymdeithiaw, v. a. (traymdaith) To travel over-much.
Traymdrosi, v. a. (ymdrosi) Mutually to drive over-much; to over-hurry one's self.
Traymdynawl, a. (ymdynawl) Over-contentious.
Traymdyniad, s. m. (ymdyniad) Extreme contention; a contending over-much.
Traymdynu, v. a. (ymdynu) To contend much.
Traymddadledd, s. m. (ymddadledd) Extreme mutual disputation.
Traymddadliad, s. m. (ymddadliad) A mutually disputing extremely.
Traymddadlu, v. a. (ymddadlu) Mutually to dispute extremely.
Traymdderiad, s. m. (ymdderiad) A mutually wrangling extremely.
Traymdderu, v. a. (ymdderu) Mutually to wrangle extremely.
Traymddiriad, s. m. (ymddiriad) An over-confiding
Traymddiried, v. a. (ymddiried) To confide over-much.
Traymddwyn, s. m. (ymddwyn) An over-bearing of one's self. v. a. To over-bear one's self.
Traymddygiad, s. m. (ymddygiad) An over-carrying one's self.
Traymegnïad, s. m. (ymegnïad) Over-exertion.
Traymegnïaw, v. a. (ymegnïaw) To over-exert one's self.
Traymegnïawl, a. (ymegnïawl) Over-exerting.
Traymerlid, s. m. (ymerlid) An extreme mutual persecution. v. a. Mutually to persecute extremely.
Traymerlidiad, s. m. (traymerlid) A persecuting one another extremely.
Traymestyn, s. m. (ymestyn) An over-stretch of one's self. v. a. To over-stretch one's self.
Traymestynawl, a. (traymestyn) Tending to be over-stretching.
Traymestyniad, s. m. (traymestyn) An over-stretching or over-extending of one's self.
Traymgais, s. m. (ymgais) An over-attempt.
Traymgeisiad, s. m. (traymgais) An over-attempting, or over-exerting.
Traymgeisiaw, v. a. (traymgais) To over-exert.
Traymgeisiawl, a. (traymgais) Tending to over-attempt; apt to over-exert.
Traymlid, s. m. (ymlid) An over-pursuit. v. a. To pursue over-much.
Traymlidiad, s. m. (traymlid) An over-pursuing.
Traymlidiaw, v. a. (traymlid) To over-pursue.
Traymlidiawl, a. (traymlid) Apt to over-pursue.
Traymoedi, v. a. (ymoedi) Mutually to delay over-much; to keep one's self away over-much.
Traymoediad, s. m. (ymoediad) A mutually delaying over-much; a keeping one's self away over-much.
Traymorchestawl, a. (ymorchestawl) Tending to exult extremely in an exploit.
Traymorchestiad, s. m. (ymorchestiad) An exulting extremely in an exploit.
Traymorchestu, v. a. (ymorchestu) To exult extremely in an exploit.
Traymryson, s. m. (ymryson) Extreme competition or emulation.
Traymrysonawl, a. (traymryson) Very emulous.
Traymrysoni, v. a. (traymryson) To engage in extreme competition.
Traymrysoniad, s. m. (traymryson) Extreme competition, or emulation.
Traymsènawl, a. (ymsènawl) Mutually apt to reproach over-much.
Traymsèniad, s. m. (ymsèniad) A mutually reproaching over-much; a reproaching one's self extremely.
Traymsènu, v. a. (ymsènu) Mutually to reproach overmuch; to reproach one's self extremely.
Traymsoddawl, a. (ymsoddawl) Apt to sink one's self extremely.
Traymsoddi, v. a. (ymsoddi) To sink one's self extremely.
Traymsoddiad, s. m. (ymsoddiad) A sinking one's self extremely.
Traymsythawl, a. (ymsythawl) Apt to make one's self extremely erect.
Traymsythiad, s. m. (ymsythiad) A making one's self extremely erect.
Traymsythu, v. a. (ymsythu) To make one's self extremely erect.
Traymwadawl, a. (ymwadawl) Of extreme self-denial; mutually denying greatly.
Traymwadiad, s. m. (ymwadiad) A denying one's self extremely.
Traymwadu, v. a. (ymwadu) To deny one's self extremely.
Tre, s. f. (ty—rhe) A resort; a homestead; a hamlet; a town. Trebaried, Tredegar, mansions so called.
Trec, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—rhec) An implement; harness geer. Trec mèn, cart harness.

Treciad, s. m. (trec) A furnishing, a harnessing.
Treciaw, v. a. (trec) To furnish, to equip out.
Treciawl, a. (trec) Furnishing, harnessing.
Treciedig, a. (treciad) Furnished, harnessed.
Treciwr, s. m.—pl. treciwyr (trec—gwr) A furnisher, a harnesser, a dresser out.
Trecyn, s. m. dim. (trec) An implement, a tool.
Trech, a. (tre—ech) Superior, passing; of superior power: It is generally used for trechach, stronger, more powerful.

Trech gwlad nog arglwydd:
Trech glew no gwlad.

A country is more powerful than a prince; a great man is more powerful than a country. Adage.

Trech arfer nog arfaeth.

Habit is stronger than resolution. Adage.

Trech angen no dewis.

Necessity is stronger than choice. Adage.

Trech dygwydd no dealt.

Chance is more powerful than wit. Adage.

A fo trechaf treisied.

He that is strongest let him oppress. Adage.

Trech a gais nog a geidw.

Stronger is he who obtains than who keeps. Adage.

Trechad, s. m. (trech) A getting the better.
Trechawl, a. (trech) Vanquishing, conquering.
Trechedig, a. (trech) Vanquished, conquered.
Trechedd, s. (trech) Superiority; stronger state.
Trechiad, s. m.—pl. trechiaid (trech) An overcoming one, a vanquisher, a victor.

Arddwyreaf naf—
Aerdorf gorf gwrid derwyn ei naid
I gynnif ar gynaygn trechiad.

I will extol a chief, the strength of the slaughtering band, whose leap is ardently fierce to depredate on the security of conquerors. Ll. P. Moch, i Rodri.

Trechiannawl, a. (trechiant) Overpowering.
Trechiannu, v. a. (trechiant) To obtain superiority, to obtain a conquest.
Trechiannus, a. (trechiant) Overpowering.
Trechiant, s. m. (trech) An overcoming.
Trechryni, s. m. (trech—rhyni) Aptitude for superiority; ambition.

Dychyrch cyfarwydd; dychyfarwyd a mi;
O drechryni y tri, ydd ym treulwyd.

The informed will resort; I have been visited; owing to the passion for superiority of the three, I have been consumed. Gwalchmai.

Trechu, v. a. (trech) To overpower, to overcome; to conquer; to surpass; to be superior.
Trechwr, s. m.—pl. trechwyr (trech—gwr) One who overcomes, a vanquisher.
Tred, s. f.—pl. t. i (tre—ed) A course, or place of resort; a hamlet.—Coed Andred, Caer Andred, the Weald of Kent: Tred Eleirch, a district on Rumney in Monmouthshire, called by the English Swanton.
Tredd, s. f.—pl. t. au (tre—edd) That is over, that is taken off or from; a crop, or growth; corn; also the same as treth, contribution of corn; a tribute, or tax.
Tref, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (tre) A dwelling place; a homestead; a hamlet; a township; a town. Pwy sydd yn nhref? Who is at home? It forms the names of many places, as Tref Ithel, Ithelham; Trefa, Hamburg; and the like. As the name of a single house it answers to the English Ham.

Nid tref ond nef.

There is no dwelling place but heaven. Adage.

Ni châr morwyn mab o'i thref.

A damsel loves not a youth of her own hamlet. Adage.

Pedair rhandir a fydd yn mhob tref; y tair yn gyfanneddol, ac y bedwaredd yn borfa i'r tair.

Four sharelands there are in every hamlet; the three inhabited, and the fourth as pasture to the three. Welsh Laws.

Trefa, s. f.—pl. trefëydd (tre) A place of resort, assembly, or dwelling. Trefa y tylwyth teg, a fairy circle: Trefa o yd, a thrave of corn; also a quantity of sheaves laid on the threshing-floor.
Trefad, s. f. (tref) A domicil, a habitation; a dwelling, or inhabiting.

Trefad fy hendad a'i hundy.

The dwelling of my ancestor and his dormitory. D. Benfras.

Cynnyddesid llawr llwyr drefad.

Over the ground had accumulated complete inhabitancy. Gwalchmai.

Trefan, s. f. dim. (tref) A small hamlet.
Trefawg, a. (tref) Having a home, or town.
Trefawl, a. (tref) Relating to a home, or town.
Trefedig, a. (trefad) Settled, inhabited; colonized. Trefedigion, settlers, or colonizers.
Trefedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefedig) The act of settling, or colonizing; the state of being settled, a colony.
Trefgordd, s. f. (tref—cordd) The round or limit of a hamlet, a township; community.
Trefiad, s. m.—pl. trefiaid (tref) That maketh a home; that dwelleth; that is domestic; a sparrow.
Trefiannawl, a. (trefiant) Belonging to inhabitancy or habitation.
Trefiannu, v. a. (trefiant) To form an inhabitancy, to form a habitation.
Trefiant, s. m. (tref) Habitancy, habitation.
Trefig, a. (tref) Homely, domestic. Gwr trefig, a domestic man.
Treflawg, a. (traf) Tending to turn about. Gweflau treflawg, pouting lips.
Treflys, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tref—llys) A court leet.
Trefn, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (trefn) The state of being disposed in connection; arrangement, system, order.

Hawdd dadfar o drefn.

It is easy to accomplish by good order. Adage.

Nid oes yn uffern ond eisieu trefn dda.

There is in hell but the want of good order. Adage.

Trefnadwy, a. (trefn) Capable of arrangement.
Trefnau, s. pl. aggr. (trefn) Utensils, implements.

Llewyssynt afonoedd
Tai a threfnau,
A thyleau,
A chellau bwyd.

They devoured rivers, houses and utensils, and couches, and provision rooms. Taliesin, Plaau yr Aipht.

Y brawd ieuaf bian yr eisyddyn arbenig ac wyth erw, ac y trefnau oll.

The youngest brother owns the principal tenement, and all the implements. Welsh Laws.

Trefnawl, a. (trefn) Orderly, systematic.
Trefnedig, a. (trefn) Ordered, systemized.
Trefnedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (trefnedig) Regulation, adjustment; ordinance.
Trefnfawr, a. (trefn) Well-ordered.
Trefngar, a. (trefn) Orderly, well-ordered.
Trefngarwch, s. m. (trefngar) Orderliness.
Trefniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefn) A regulating, arranging, or ordering.
Trefniadu, v. a. (trefniad) To make an arrangement, order, system, or regulation.
Trefniannawl, a. (trefniant) Systematical.
Trefniannu, v. a. (trefniant) To systemize.
Trefniant, s. m. (trefn) System.
Trefniawd, s. m. (trefn) Regulation.

Trefniawdr, s. m.—pl. trefniodron (trefniawd) A regulator; a systemizer.

Trefniawdr, llwyr hyawdr lloer a huan,
Trefnaist a furfaist, o fyrf amcan,
Trefnau ammhrylau geuau a gan.

Thou regulator, perfect organizer of moon and sun, thou didst ordain and thou didst form, by ample design, the unrestrained powers of the lips that sing. Casnodyn.

Trefnid, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefn) Arrangement; management; disposal; settlement; order.

Trefnidaeth, s. m. (trefnid) The act of arranging, managing, or ordering; management.

Gwraig briawd a folir am drefnidaeth, a'i gofal dros ei theulu, a'i serch at ei gwr a'i phlant.

A married woman is to be praised on account of management, and her care for her family, and her love to her husband, and her children. Barddas.

Trefnidaw, v. a. (trefnid) To make an arrangement, or disposition; to manage.

Trefnidawl, a. (trefnid) Economical.

Trefnidedd, s. m. (trefnid) Economy.

Trefnidiad, s. m. (trefnid) An economizing.

Trefnidwr, s. m.—pl. trefnidwyr (trefnid—gwr) An economist; a manager.

Trefnidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trefnid) An economist, a manager.

Trefniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trefniad) One who disposes, or puts in order; a disposer.

Trefnoldeb, s. m. (trefnawl) Orderliness.

Trefnolder, s. m. (trefnawl) Orderliness.

Trefnoldra, s. m. (trefnawl) Orderliness.

Trefnoli, v. a. (trefnawl) To render orderly.

Trefnu, v. a. (trefn) To dispose, to arrange, to connect or to put in order; to regulate; to manage; to appoint, to settle.

Trathawd o'th folawd filoedd gyman:
Trefnaist syr, a myr morawl dylan;
Trefnaist ddaiar fawr a'i chlawr achlan;
Trefnaist wern uffern, affaith sathan.

Thousands in concert declare thy praise: thou hast regulated stars, and seas of fluctuating tide; thou hast regulated the ample earth with its surface all complete; thou hast regulated the dark region of hell, with respect to Satan. Casnodyn.

Trefnus, a. (trefn) Being arranged, put in order, or disposed; orderly, methodical; well arranged, being in good order, compact, neat, decent.

Trefnusaw, v. a. (trefnus) To render orderly, to put in good order.

Trefnusdeb, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.

Trefnusder, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.

Trefnusdra, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.

Trefnusedd, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.

Trefnusrwydd, s. m. (trefnus) Orderliness.

Trefnwr, s. m.—pl. trefnwyr (trefn—gwr) One who regulates, or arranges, an orderer.

Trefnydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trefn) An orderer.

Trefnyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trefnydd) The practice of an economist.

Trefnyddiaeth, s. m. (trefnydd) Economy.

Trefnyddiaw, v. a. (trefnydd) To economize.

Trefred, s. f. (tref—rhed) An inhabited region; a homestead, a domicil, a habitation.

Gnawd diogelder yn nhrefred.

Security is obtained in an inhabited place. Adage.

Gwell bach yn nhrefred no mawr yn alltred.

Better the little in an inhabited place than the great in a wilderness. Adage.

Treftad, s. f. (tref—tad) Patrimony, heritage.

Caranmael oedd ddiaidd:
Ac oedd oddiholedig treftad,
A geisiwys Caranmael.—

Caranmael was void of ambition; and clear from every claim the patrimony, which Caranmael did seek. Llywarch Hen.

Treftadaeth, s. f. (treftad) A patrimony.

Treftadawg, a. (treftad) Having a patrimony, or heritage; an inheritor. s. m.—pl. treftadogion. One who has a patrimony, one in possession of a paternal estate; an heir.

Myfi ei gunnethof ef yn dreftadawg.

I myself have made him possessed of an inheritage. Brut y Brenhinedd.

Treftadawl, a. (treftad) Patrimonial, hereditary.

Treftadiad, s. m. (treftad) A forming a patrimony or heritage.

Treftadoges, s. f.—pl. t. au (treftadawg) A female who inherits; a heiress.

Treftadu, v. a. (treftad) To form a patrimony.

Treftadwr, s. m.—pl. treftadwyr (treftad—gwr) One who establishes a patrimony.

Trefu, v. a. (tref) To form a place of resort; to make a home; to inhabit.

Treiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trai) A decreasing, or abating, a diminution; an ebbing.

Treiaw, v. a. (trai) To decrease, to lessen; to abate; to ebb.

Trugarawg Ddofydd,
Treia fy ngherydd!

Merciful Creator, lessen my chastisement! Gwalchmai.

Treiaw Goronwy, trafn morlwy medd:
Cof garw o'i lwyr farw!

Goronwy to be taken away, the tide of mead will turn: Sad the reflection that he should be completely dead! G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Treiawl, a. (trai) Tending to decrease, lessen, or abate; ebbing, neapy.

Treidiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tred) A coursing; a resorting.

Treidiaw, v. a. (tred) To course, to range.

Y cyffylawg—
Trist big, hen goedwig a gar,
Treidia, adwyau daiar.

The woodcock, with drooping bill, loving an ancient woody dell, he would range the crannies of the ground. D. ab Gwilym.

Treidiawl, a. (tred) Ranging; resorting.

Treiddgof, s. m. (traidd—cof) A wounded mind.

Pell ym traidd treiddgof o'i rygolled!

Deeply doth piercing memory pierce me for his sad loss! Cynddelw.

Treiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traidd) A penetrating.

Treiddiadwy, a. (treiddiad) Penetrable.

Treiddiaw, v. a. (traidd) To penetrate; to pervade

Colofn hawl heiliaw
Costwin, drin dreiddiaw,
Cant anant anaw
Aelaw alaf.

The pillar of the prerogative of serving costly wine, bursting the conflict, minstrels sing with melody of purest store. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Treiddiawg, a. (traidd) Being penetrated.

Treiddiawl, a. (traidd) Penetrating; pervading.

Treiddiedig, a. (treiddiad) Penetrated; pervaded.

Treiddiedigawl, a. (treiddiedig) Penetrative.

Treiddioldeb, s. m. (treiddiawl) Piercingness.

Treiddiolder, s. m. (treiddiawl) Penetrability.

Treiddiolrwydd, s. m. (treiddiawl) Piercingness.

Treiddiwr, s. m.—pl. treiddiwyr (traidd—gwr) One who penetrates, a piercer.

Treiddle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (traidd—lle) A resorting place.

Treiddyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (traidd) A ridge of high ground running into a vale.

Treiedig, a. (treiad) Decreased, abated, ebbed.

Treiedigaw, v. a. (treiedig) To render lessened.

Treiedigawl, a. (treiedig) Tending to decrease.

Treigiad, s. m.—pl. treigiaid (treigl) One who roves about, a wanderer.

Treigladwy, a. (treiglad) Declinable.

Treiglaw, v. a. (treigl) To turn, to revolve, to circulate; to pass through; to migrate; to wander about. Treiglaw gair, to decline a word: Ffon dreiglaw, a walking stick.

Maen a dreigla ni fysygla.

The stone that rolls will not gather moss. Adage.

Tri phen angen y sy cyn cyflwyr wybodaeth: treiglaw yr abred, treiglaw y gwynfyd, a chof o'r cyfan hyd yn anwn.

There are three primary necessities before perfect knowledge be obtained: to traverse the inchoation, to traverse the world of light, and a recollection of the whole to the lowest point of existence. Barddas.

Mal ydd oedd Braint Hir yn treiglaw yn mhlith yr anghanogion, enycha chwaer iddo yn dawed allan o'r llys.

As Braint Hir was going about amongst the mendicants, behold a sister of his coming out from the court. Gr. ab Arthur.

Treiglawd, s. m. (traigl) A turning, a rolling.

Treiglddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traigl—dyn) A wandering person, a wanderer, a stroller.

Treigled, s. m. (traigl) A turning, rolling, or revolving; a strolling.

Ni ddaw mad mynych dreigled.

A frequent changing will bring no good. Adage.

Treigledig, a. (treigled) Turned; declined.

Treigledigaeth, s. m. (treigledig) The act of turning, rolling, or revolving; a revolution; a wandering.

Treigledgar, a. (treigled) Apt to turn about; rolling, revolving; apt to wander.

Ni fysygla maen treigledgar.

A rolling stone gathers no moss. Adage.

Treigledlys, s. m. (treigled—llys) Knotgrass.

Treiglfardd, s. m.—pl. treiglfeirdd (traigl—bardd) An itinerant bard.

Ni'm gwna tro treiglfeirdd un amser;
Ni'm twyll pwyll pan ym cyfarcher.

He will not serve me the turn of the itinerant bards at any time; reason will not deceive me when I am greeted. Cynddelw.

Treiglgar, a. (traigl) Apt to turn; turning, rolling; apt to wander, straying, ambulatory.

Treiglgarwch, s. m. (treiglgar) A state of turning or rolling; a wandering state.

Treigliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traigl) A turning, a revolving, a circulating, a passing through, a traversing; a migration; a wandering; a declension.

Treigliannawl, a. (treigliant) Circulating.

Treigliannu, v. a. (treigliant) To effect a turning, revolution, or circulation.

Treigliant, s. m. (traigl) A turning, a rolling, a revolution, a circulation; a strolling.

Treiglwaith, s. f. (traigl—gwaith) A certain time. adv. Once on a time.

Treiglwaith pan ydoedd Cadwallon, y Sulgwyn, yn Llundain yn daly llys, a Peanda a ddoai ar y brenin; a gofyn iddo pa achaws na ddothoedd Oswy Aelwyn ei hunan i'r llys, annod un tywysawg o'r Saeson.

Once on a time when Cadwallon was, during Whitsuntide, in London holding a court, Peanda came before the king; and was asked what was the cause that Oswy the Whitebrowed had not come himself to the court, more particularly than any prince of the Saxons. Gr. ab Arthur.

Treiglwr, s. m.—pl. treiglwyr (traigl—gwr) One who turns or rolls; a stroller.

Treilliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (traill) A trolling; a rolling; a dredging.

Treilliaw, v. a. (traill) To turn, to roll; to traverse; to dredge.

Treilliedig, a. (treilliad) Trolled; dredged.

Treilliwr, s. m.—pl. treilliwyr (traill—gwr) A troller; a traverser; a dredger.

Treiniad, s. m. (train) A straying, a strolling; a scattering; a spreading of news.

Treiniaw, v. a. (train) To stray, to stroll.

Treiniawl, a. (train) Straying; scattering.

Treisachub, s. m. (trais—achub) A forcible saving; a rescue. v. a. To rescue forcibly.

Treisachubaeth, s. m. (treisachub) Forcible rescue

Treisachubiad, s. m. (treisachub) A rescuing.

Treisddwyn, s. m. (trais—dwyn) Forcible taking.

Cymmro addwyn, caf o'i dreisddwyn cof o dristyd!

The generous Welshman, on account of the tearing away of him, I shall have a mind of sadness! Rhiserdyn.

Treisddygiad, s. m. (dygiad) A forcibly taking.

Treisfedd, s. m. (trais—medd) That is possessed by force or oppression.

Treisfeddiannawl, a. (treisfeddiant) Relating to forcible possession.

Treisfeddiannu, v. a. (treisfeddiant) To possess by force; to usurp.

Treisfeddiant, s. m. (treisfedd) Usurpation.

Treisfeddu, v. a. (treisfedd) To possess forcibly.

Treisgael, s. m. (trais—cael) A forcible attainment. a. To obtain forcibly.

Treisged, s. f. (trais—ced) Usurped treasure.

Treisgip, s. m. (trais—cip) A forcible snatch. a. Forcibly snatching.

Treisgipiad, s. m. (treisgip) A forcibly snatching.

Treisgipiaw, v. a. (treisgip) To snatch forcibly.

Treisglad, s. m. (tresgl) A clattering.

Treisglaw, v. a. (tresgl) To stun, to clatter.

Treisglawg, a. (tresgl) Clattering; dinning.

Differ fi, fy Ner, rhag nych uffern gnud—
A'r pryfed caled collawgwrych syniawg,
Afrwydd swydd sallawg treisglawg tresglych,
A phob rhyw ddistryw.

Protect me, my God, against the torment of the crew of hell, and the hard-coated reptiles bristling with noisy stings, the ill-fated outcast-region full of the uproar of distracting bells, and every kind of ruin. Casnodyn.

Treisiad, s. m.—pl. treisiaid (trais) That oppresseth or ravisheth; also a steer, a heifer.

Treisiaeth, s. m. (trais) Oppression; ravishment.

Treisiannawl, a. (treisiant) Oppressive.

Treisiannu, v. a. (treisiant) To effect an oppression or tyranny.

Treisiant, s. m. (trais) Oppression; force.

Treisiaw, v. a. (trais) To force; to take by violence; to ravish; to spoil, to rob; to oppress.

Traha, a threisiaw gweiniaid,
A ddifa 'r etifeddion.

Presumption, and to oppress the weak, will destroy the inheritors. Adage.

Nid oedd hawdd, llew aerfawdd lluydd,
Ei dreisiaw ger drws deufynydd.

It were not easy, the lion of the tumultuous slaughter of warfare, to force him on the defile of two mountains. Llygad Gwr, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Treisiawg, a. (trais) Apt to force; oppressing.

Treisiawl, a. (trais) Tending to force, to ravish, or to commit violence; extorsive; oppressive.

Treisiedig, a. (treisiad) Forced, ravished.

Treisig, a. (trais) Apt to force; oppressive. s. m. That abounds with power to force.

Arllaw lles, arlleng tres treisig.

The ready-handed in doing good, the ready bar to the sway of the oppressive. Cynddelw.

Am unig treisig y traws iolaf Dduw,
A ddigawn iach o glaf.

For the only oppressor of the froward I will adore God, who is able to restore the sick to health. Ll. P. Moch.

Treisigaw, v. a. (treisig) To render oppressive; to become oppressive.

Treisigrwydd, s. m. (treisig) Oppressiveness.

Treisioldeb, s. m. (treisiawl) Oppressiveness.

Treisioli, v. a. (treisiawl) To render oppressive;

Treisiolrwydd, s. m. (treisiawl) Oppressiveness.

Treisiwr, s. m.—pl. treisiwyr (trais—gwr) A forcer, a ravisher; an oppressor.

Ac i'r treisiwyr, ac i'r trawsion,
Terfyn elo,
Yn lle delo
Llu dawiolion.

So to the oppressors, and to the froward ones, may there come an end, where comes a host of godly men. W. Middleton.

Treisledrad, s. m. (trais—lledrad) Rapine.

Treisln, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (trais—llu) A rapacious host.

Tremynud trwm ynof y chwant
Tremynu treislu tros llant.

Sadly was observed in me a desire to observe an oppressing host over the stream. Casnodyn.

Treiswaew, s. f. (trais—gwaew) Spear of rapine.

Treiswg, s. m. (trais) A frown of oppression. a. Oppression-frowning.

Gwanach a digiach ym dwg
Dy olwg treiswg trosof.

More feeble and more troubled in every way thy oppression-frowning eye doth bring me. Gr. ab D. ab Tudyr.

Treiswriaeth, s. m. (treisiwr) The act of a forcer, ravisher, or oppressor.

Treisydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trais) A forcer.

A Dafydd, dreisydd drosedd, cyn golo,
Ni bu o Gymmro ei gymmrodedd.

And David, the oppressor of frowardness, before sepulture there was not a Welshman his equal in worth. D. Benfras.

Treithiad, s. m. (traith) A treating; a reciting.

Treithiaw, v. a. (traith) To treat, to discourse.

Tafawd a draith, buchedd a ddengys.

A tongue recites, but the conduct shews. Adage.

Treithiawl, a. (traith) Treating, reciting.

Treithiedig, a. (treithiad) Being treated.

Treithiwr, s. m.—pl. treithiwyr (traith—gwr) One who treats, a discourser.

Treithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traith) A reciter.

Trem, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ty—rhem) Sight, look.

Trembeiriannaeth, s. m. (trembeiriant) An optician's trade.

Trembeiriannawl, a. (trembeiriant) Relating to optical instruments.

Trembeiriannu, v. a. (trembeiriant) To furnish optical instruments.

Trembeiriannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trembeiriant) An optical instrument maker.

Trembeiriant, s. m.—pl. trembeiriannau (trem—peiriant) An optical instrument.

Tremiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trem) An observing.

Tremiannawl, a. (tremiant) Observant.

Tremiannu, v. a. (tremiant) To make observation; to cast a look.

Tremiant, s. m.—pl. tremiannau (trem) Observation; appearance, aspect.

Diau oedd ganto na welsai dremiant erioed cân deced a hi ar arall.

Certain it was to him that he had never seen an appearance so fair as she on another. H. Peredur—Mabinogion.

Tremiator, ger. (tremiad) In observing.

Tremiaw, v. a. (trem) To look, to observe.

Tremiawl, a. (trem) Looking, observing.

Tremid, s. m. (trem) Appearance, object.

Mab Tegwared hael hawl dremid galon;
Gal ag ef ni borthid.

The son of Tegwared the generous questions the appearance of foes; an enemy could not subsist with him. Cynddelw.

Tremidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tremid) Observer.

Tremiedig, a. (tremiad) Observed; eyed.

Tremitor, sup. (tremid) To be observing.

Tremiwr, s. m.—pl. tremiwyr (trem—gwr) A looker, an observer, one who eyes.

Tremrudd, a. (trem—rhudd) Of red aspect.

Tremwyllt, a. (trem—gwyllt) Of wild aspect.

Tremyd, s. m. (trem) The state of being seen.

Tremydiad, s. m. (tremyd) An apparition.

Tremydiad mynydd, manod tew ni'th ludd,
Ni'th losgo eiry na rhew.

Thou phantom of the mountain, no thickly driven snow will obstruct thee, may neither snow nor frost affect thee. Llywarch Llaety.

Tremydiaw, v. a. (tremyd) To raise a phantom; to appear as a phantom.

Tremydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trem) A looker.

Tremyddiaeth, s. m. (tremydd) Science of optics.

Tremyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tram) Contempt; disparagement. Tremyg barn, contempt of judgment.

Tremyg gwys yw na ddelo dyn y dydd y galwer i'r llys.

A contempt of summons is that a person comes not on the day he is called to the court. Welsh Laws.

Tremygiad, s. m. (tremyg) A contemning, a slighting. Tremygiad llys, contempt of court.

Tremygiawl, a. (tremyg) Contemning.

Tremygiedig, a. (tremygiad) Contemned.

Tremygu, v. a. (tremyg) To contemn, to slight.

Tremygus, a. (tremyg) Contemptuous.

Tremygwr, s. m.—pl. tremygwyr (tremyg—gwr) A contemner, a slighter.

Tremyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (trem) Sight, look, aspect, view; a glance.

Dyd! was o ddu a melyn:
Wrth hir edrych dy dremyn,
Tybiais dy weled cyn hyn.

Hold! young man of black and yellow; by long observing thy aspect, methought I saw thee before this. Eng. Arthur a Gwenhwyfar.

Tremynawd, s. m.—pl. tremynodau (tremyn) An object.

O bydd hen, nid mwy y synia ar y dysg,—nog ar dremynodau ereill a welo.

If he be old, no more will he look, upon learning than upon other objects he may see. Welsh Laws.

Tremynawl, a. (tremyn) Observant, looking.

Tremynfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tremyn) A watch-tower.

Tremyngar, a. (tremyn) Observant; keen-eyed.

Tremyngarwch, s. m. (tremyngar) Aptness to observe or to look about.

Tremyngwsg, s. m. (tremyn—cwsg) A light sleep.

Tremyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tremyn) An apparition, a phantom; also an epithet for a boar.

Y naill yw yn ennill had
Ai tarw main, ai tremyniad.

Either of the two he is, begetting seed, or a sleek bull, or an apparition. Guto y Glyn.

Tremynt, s. m. (trem) Sight, look; a glance.

Tremynu, v. a. (tremyn) To look about, to scout.

Oedd tramawr tremynai tachwedd.

Immense the ruin seemed. Cynddelw.

Yn Aber Taradr yn tremynu.

In Aber Taradr observing. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Eilgad trom y tremynasant
Udd addien uch Dygen Dyfnant.

In a second heavy conflict they observed the comely chief above Dygen Dyvnant. Ll. P. Moch.

Tremynwr, s. m.—pl. tremynwyr (tremyn—gwr) An explorer, or a scoret.

A glywaisti a gant Gwiawn,
Dremynwr, golwg uniawn:
Duw cadarn a farn pob iawn.

Hast thou heard what Gwion sung, an observer of steady sight: the mighty God will judge every right. Eng. y Clywed.

Tremynawriaeth, s. m. (tremynwr) The employment of an explorer.
Tremynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tremyn) An explorer, one employed to observe; a centinel.
Tremynyddiaeth, s. m. (tremynydd) The employment or duty of an explorer.
Tren, s. m. (ty—rhen) Force; rapidity; fury.

Gnawd Sais, nis cwynais, yn cwynaw ei ben;
A gnawd odduch tren ymwyraw.

Many a Saxon, what I lamented not, has been made to complain of his head; and, from high insolence, made to bend himself. D. Benfras.

Tren, a. (ty—rhen) Impetuous, forcible, furious; powerful, strenuous. Mae efe yn edrych yn dren iawn, he looks very furious: Afon dren iawn yw hon, this is a very rapid river. Sil.

Cain cynnwyre, croch tòn dren;
Cyrchid carw dan frig derwen;
Edwyn anffawd ei pherchen.

Fair upspreading dawn, hoarse the furious wave; the stag repairs under the branches of the oak: misfortune doth recognize her possessor. Ystyffan Bardd Teilo.

Trenaidd, a. (tren) Somewhat impetuous.
Trenawl, a. (tren) Impetuous; strenuous.
Treniad, s. m. (tren) An acting impetuously.
Trenig, a. (tren) Impetuous, or furious.
Trenllif, s. m. (tren—llif) A rapid torrent. Sil. It is as Cefnllif, is used in North Wales.
Trent, s. m. (tren) Force; rapidity; fury.
Trenu, v. a. (tren) To act impetuously.
Trenus, a. (tren) Impetuous; strenuous.
Trenusaw, v. a. (trenus) To render impetuous, or strenuous; to become impetuous.
Trenusdeb, s. m. (trenus) Impetuosity, rapidity.
Trenusder, s. m. (trenus) Impetuousness.
Trenusdra, s. m. (trenus) Rapidness.
Trenusedd, s. m. (trenus) Rapidity; quickness.
Trenusrwydd, s. m. (trenus) Impetuousness, rapidness; strenuousness.
Trenydd, s. m. (tra—dydd) The third day to come, the day after to-morrow. adv. Two days hence, the day after to-morrow.
Trenyddiawl, a. (trenydd) Relating to the third day to come.
Trengawl, a. (tranc) Perishing, vanishing.
Trengi, v. n. (tranc) To pass away, to be passing away, to expire, to be at an end; to give up the ghost. Mae y dydd yn trengi, the day is at an end.

Trengid golud, ni threinc molud.

Wealth passeth away, but fame will not pass away. Adage.

Trengidydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tranc) A destroyer.
Trengwr, s. m.—pl. trengwyr (tranc—gwr) One who is at an end, an expiring man.
Tres, s. f.—pl. t. i (ty—rhes) That is on the stretch, or in exertion, labour, pains, trouble; a trace, or chain, for drawing; a stroke, as with a rod or whip.
Tresawg, a. (tres) Being on the stretch.
Tresawl, a. (tres) Straining; exerting; bustling.
Tresg, s. m. (tres) That is on a stretch.
Tresgl, s. m. (tresg) Tormentil. It is also called tresgl melyn, tresgl yr eithin, or melyn yr eithin; tresgl y moch, the common tormentil.
Tresglen, s. f. dim. (tresgl) A thrush; also called bronfraith, pen y llwyn. Y dresglen lwyd, the shrite; y dresglen goch, crecer, socen eira, the swine-piper.
Tresglerddyn, s. m. (tres—clerddyn) A sturdy vagabond.
Tresiad, s. m. (tres) A putting on a stretch, or straining; a whipping.
Tresiaw, v. a. (tres) To labour; to belabour. Cei dy dresiaw, thou shalt be belaboured.
Tresiwr, s. m.—pl. tresiwyr (tres—gwr) One who belabours or thrashes.
Trest, s. m. (tres) That is strained or stretched.
Trestl, s. f.—pl. trestlau (trest) That strains; a stretcher, a frame; a trestle.

Y ddau drestl, a'r holl ddodrefn.

The two trestles, and all the furniture. D. ab Gwilym.

Trestlawg, a. (trestl) Having a stretcher.
Trestliad, s. m. (trestl) A furnishing with a stretcher; a framing.
Trestlu, v. a. (trestl) To furnish with a stretcher, trestle, or frame; to frame.
Tresu, v. a. (tres) To put on a trace or chain.
'Treth, s. f.—pl. t. i (tre—eth) That is over; that is taken off or from; a crop, growth, or produce; a crop of corn; otherwise called llafur; also an allowance, contribution, rate or tax; tribute. Y dreth fawr, the land-tax.

Gwelais wehelyth ac eu trefnau tryth.

I saw the progeny of a stock with their means of tributes. Gwalchmai.

Trethadwy, a. (treth) Taxable, ratable.
Trethawg, a. (treth) Having a rate or tax.
Trethawl, a. (treth) Tributary; taxed.

Terfysg ac anghydundeb y rhwng ein hendadau ni ny hunain a ddygynt wyr Rhufain i yr ynys hon; ac o drais y gwnaynt yn drethawl.

Tumult and dissention amongst our own ancestors brought the men of Rome into this island; and through oppression they made it tributary. Gr. ab Arthur.

Trethedig, a. (treth) Rated, or taxed.
Trethiad, s. m. (treth) A rating, a taxing.
Trethu, v. a. (treth) To rate, or to tax.
Trethwr, s. m.—pl. trethwyr (treth—gwr) A taxer.
Treulfawr, a. (traul) Expensive; wasteful.
Treulfawredd, s. m. (treulfawr) Expensiveness.
Treulgadw, v. n. (traul—cadw) To be going on consuming.
Treulgar, a. (traul) Profuse, or prodigal.
Treulgarwch, s. m. (treulgar) Profuseness.
Treuliad, s. m. (traul) Consumption; an expending; digestion.
Treuliadwy, a. (traul) Capable of consuming.
Treuliaw, v. a. (traul) To consume, to wear out; to expend; to digest; to be worn out.

Nid coll darfod o'r daint a dreulied yn yeu y gadwyn.

The tooth has not been quite a loss that has been consumed in destroying the chain. Adage.

Treuliawd, s. m. (traul) Expence; digestion.
Treuliedig, a. (treuliad) Consumed; expended.
Treuliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (treuliad) A consumer; an expender.
Treuliwr, s. m.—pl. treuliwyr (traul—gwr) A consumer; an expender; a digester.
Trew, s. m. (tra) A sneeze, the act of sneezing.

Nid un-trew na dau i angeu.

Nor one sneeze nor two will end in death. Adage.

Nac un-trew na dau ni nawdd rhag angeu.

Nor one sneeze nor two will protect from death. Adage.

Trewi, v. a. (trew) To sneeze, to sternutate.
Trewiad, s. m. (trew) A sneezing; a sneeze.
Trewlwch, s. m. (trew—llwch) Sneeze-dust; snuff
Trewydd, s. m. (traw) A push forward, a push off, or a driving to a distance.

Tòn wen orewyn wychr wrth drewydd.

White foam-crowned wave bold in its impulse forward. H. ab Owain.

Trewyddiad, s. m. (trewydd) A pushing forward, a pushing off, a driving to a distance.

Trewyddu, v. a. (trewydd) To push forward, to push off, to drive to a distance.

Y ddeilen a drewydd gwynt,
Gwae hi ei thynged
Hen hi, eleni ganed!

This leaf that is driven onward by the wind, woe to it its fate: old is it, this year born! Llywarch Hen.

Trewyn, s. m. (traw) A means of leading away; persuasion.

Trewynawl, a. (trewyn) Persuasive; diverting.

Trewyniad, s. m. (trewyn) A persuading, an averting or leading from; persuasion.

Trewynu, v. a. (trewyn) To persuade, to dissuade, to prevail with; to part those who fight; to pacify.

Trewynwr, s. m.—pl. trewynwyr (trewyn—gwr) One who leads; a persuader.

Pob barnwr, trewynwr trin,
Dysgwch.——

Every judge, and pacifier of broils, instruct.—— W. Middleton.

Trewynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trewyn) Persuader

Trewynyddiaeth, s. m. (trewynydd) The office of a persuader or pacificator.

Trewynyn, s. m. (trewyn) Yellow loose-strife.

Tri, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—rhi) That is firm, fixed, permanent, or in continuity; three. a. Three. The number three was adopted, by the ancient Britons, as a means of facilitating the use of oral tradition; consequently a great deal of their historical memorials, and moral maxims, have been put into the form, which from the number of articles classed together under each head, are called TRIOEDD, or Triades.

Tri dyn y sydd: dyn i Dduw, a wna dda dros ddrwg; dyn i ddyn, a wna dda dros dda, a drwg dros ddrwg; a dyn i ddiawl, a wna ddrwg dros dda.

There are three sorts of men: a man to God, who does good for evil; a man to man, who does good for good, and evil for evil; and a man to the devil, who does evil for good. Barddas.

Tri dyn a wnant cyfannedd lle bont: bardd, gof, a thelynawr.

There are three persons who create society where they are: a bard, a smith, and a harper. Trioedd.

Tri yw Duw Celi, colofn deon,
Trwy rad, ac un nad, ceiniad canon:
Trech yw ef Tad nef, naf gleinion radau,
No'r creaduriau gorau gwron.

The God of Mystery is Three, the support of emanated beings, through grace, and one benign, the theme of song: More powerful is he, the Father of heaven, Lord of glorious attributes, than the creatures of excelling virtue. Casnodyn.

Triad, s. m. (tri) A forming a triad.

Triadawl, a. (triad) Belonging to a triad.

Triadu, v. a. (triad) To make into three.

Triaelawd, s. m. (tri—aelawd) That consists of three members. a. Consisting of three members

Triaelodawg, a. (triaelawd) Of three members.

Triannawg, a. (triant) Having a triad.

Triannawl, a. (triant) Tertian; triadic.

Trianniad, s. m. (triant) A forming a triad.

Triannu, v. (triant) To tertiate; to make a triad

Triant, s. m. (tri) That is in three; a triad.

Triarbymtheg, s. m. (tri—ar—pymtheg) Eighteen. a. Eighteen, or consisting of eighteen.

Triarddeg, s. m. (tri—ar—deg) Thirteen.

Triawd, s. m. (tri) A forming a triad.

Triawg, a. (tri) Having three, of three.

Triawl, a. (tri) Belonging to three or triad. 'Y triawl Dduw,' the triadic God.

Triban, s. m.—pl. t. au (tri—ban) That consists of three parts; a triplet, or verse of three lines

Mesurau cyn cof y bernir y gorchanau, a thriban milwr, a thraethodyn; sef oeddynt er yn oes oesoedd.

Metres from time immemorial are primary canons, warrior triplet, and recitative, judged to be; that is they were from age of ages. Barddas.

Tribanawg, a. (triban) Of three parts; triplet.

Tribanawl, a. (triban) Triplicate; tripled.

Tribandawd, s. m. (triban) Triplicity.

Tribaniad, s. m. (triban) Triplication.

Tribaniaeth, s. m. (triban) Triplicity.

Triban Milwr—nid o gyhydedd, eithr o'i dribaniaeth, ac ei fraint o awdl a brithfan, y tyf ei ansawdd.

The warrior triplet, not from equal metricity, but from its triplicity, and its property of rhyme and varied verse arises its character. Barddas.

Tribanu, v. a. (triban) To triplicate; to triple.

Tribedd, s. m.—pl. t. i (tri—bedd) That has three feet; a tripod. a. Three-footed.

Triblaen, s. m. (tri—blaen) That has three points

Tribys, s. m. (tri—bys) That has three fingers.

Tribysig, a. (tribys) Of three fingers.

Hwch trigauaf tribysig:—Hwch dribysig yn ei hysgwydd, ac yn ei hais, ac yn ei chlun, a gaiff y brenin yn ddawnbwyd gauaf.

A sow of three winters three fingers in thickness:—A sow of three fingers in her shoulder, and in her ribs, and in her haunch, shall the king have as a winter's provision-gift. Welsh Laws.

Trichanfed, a. (trichant) Three hundredth.

Trichanmil, s. m. (trichant—mil) The number of three hundred thousand. a. Three hundred thousand.

Trichanmilfed, a. (trichanmil) Three hundred thousandth.

Trichant, s. m. (tri—cant) Three hundred.

Trichanwaith, s. pl. (trichant—gwaith) Three hundred times. a. Three hundred times.

Dy ysgwyd rhwygwyd rhagod trichanwaith
Trichan-gwyth gyfarfod.

Thy shield before thee torn has been three hundred times in three hundred wrathful conflicts. Ll. P. Moch, i R. Gryg.

Trichorn, s. m. (tri—corn) That has three horns.

Trichorniawg, a. (trichorn) Having three horns.

Tridant, s. m. (tri—dant) A trident. a. Three-toothed.

Trideg, s. m. (tri—deg) Three tens; thirty.

Trideintiawg, a. (tridant) Having three teeth.

Tridiau, s. m. (tri—diau) The space of three days

Tridieuawl, a. (tridiau) Relating to three days.

Tridincod, s. m. (tri—dincod) That has three pips or seeds. a. Having three pips.

Tridincodawg, a. (tridincod) Having three seeds; a medlar with three seeds.

Tridull, s. m. (tri—dull) That is of three forms. a. Triform.

Tridulliawg, a. (tridull) Having three forms.

Tridyblyg, s. m. (tri—dyblyg) That has three folds. a. Threefold.

Wyf hen, wyf unig, wyf anelwig oer,
Gwedy gwely cenmyg;
Wyf truan, wyf tridyblyg.

I am old, I am alone, I am debilitated and cold, after the magnificent couch; I am wretched, I am bent three times. Llywarch Hen.

Tridyblygawl, a. (tridyblyg) Triplicate.

Tridyblygiad, s. m. (tridyblyg) Triplication.

Tridyblygu, v. a. (tridyblyg) To triplicate.

Tridyn, s. pl. (tri—dyn) Three persons.

Rhin tridyn cannyn ei clyw.

The secret of three persons a hundred persons will hear it. Adage.

Trifforch, s. m. (tri—fforch) That has three prongs. a. Three pronged.

Trifforchawg, a. (trifforch) Three-pronged.

Trifforchi, v. a. (trifforch) To trifurcate.

Trig, s. m. (tri—ig) A stay, a fixed state.

Trigad, s. m. (trig) A staying, tarrying, or remaining fixed.

Trigadiad, s. m.—pl. trigadiaid (trigad) A sojourner, inhabitant, or dweller.

Trigadwy, a. (trigad) Capable of staying, dwelling or remaining.

—Cedwis hwy,
Rhag adwyth yn drigadwy.

He preserved them, against harm, securely. L. G. Cothi.

Trigauaf, s. m. (tri—gauaf) That is of three winters. a. Of three winters old.

Trigaw, v. a. (trig) To stay, to tarry; to be stationary; to remain; also to dwell; to starve, to perish, as with cold. Nis gallaf pe trigwn, I cannot for the life of me.

Canmawl dy fro
A thrig yno.

Praise thy country and tarry there. Adage.

Tricid can ni wahodder.

He stays since he is not invited. Adage.

Gwedi darffo y cylch, deued y penteulu ar y brenin, a thriced ygyd ag ef hyd yn mhen y flwyddyn.

After the circuit is ended, let the patron of the family come upon the king, and let him abide with him until the end of the year. Welsh Laws.

Pa beth a'n gedir i ohiriaw!
Nid oes le y cyrcher rhag carcher braw;
Nid oes le y triger: och o'r trigaw!

Why should we be spared to linger; there is not a place to be resorted to from the prison of dread; there is not a place to be stayed in: away with staying! G. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Trigawl, a. (trig) Tarrying, abiding, dwelling. Trigolion, inhabitants.

Trigfa, s. f.—pl. trigfëydd (trig) An abode.

Trigfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (trig) A dwelling-place.

Trigfanawl, a. (trigfan) Belonging to a dwelling-place or a residence.

Trigfaniad, s. m. (trigfan) A making a dwelling-place; a fixing a residence.

Trigfanu, v. a. (trigfan) To make a dwelling-place; to fix a residence.

Trigiad, s. m. (trig) A tarrying, an abiding.

Trigiannawl, a. (trigiant) Residentiary.

Trigianniad, s. m. (trigiant) A residing.

Trigiannu, v. a. (trigiant) To make a residence, to reside, to dwell, to inhabit.

Trigiannus, a. (trigiant) Residentiary, resiant.

Trigiannydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trigiant) An inhabitant.

Cas ty heb drigiannydd.

Odious is a house without an inhabitant. Catwg.

Trigiant, s. m. (trig) Residence, habitation.

Trigias, s. f. (trig) Residence, habitation.

Trigiaw, v. a. (trig) To stay, to tarry, to abide. 'Cybydd ni thrigiaf,' a miser I will not remain.

Trigiawd, s. m. (trig) A residing, a dwelling.

Trigiawdwr, s. m.—pl. trigiawdwyr (trigiawd—gwr) A resider, a dweller; an inhabitant.

Trigiawdr, s. m.—pl. t. on (trigiawd) A resiant, a resident, a dweller.

Trigiedig, a. (trigiad) Being dwelled in.

Trigle, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (trig—lle) A dwelling-place

Trilliw, s. m. (tri—lliw) That is of three colours. a. Tri-coloured. Tansy violet, or heart's ease.

Trilliwiawg, a. (trilliw) Of three colours.

Trillwyf, s. m. (tri—llwyf) That has three stories. a. Of three stories.

Trillwyfan, s. m. (trillwyf) That is of three stories. a. Of three stories.

Trillwyfanawg, a. (trillwyfan) Of three stories.

Trimarch, s. pl. (tri—march) Three horses. a. Of three horses.

Trimarchfen, s. f.—pl. t. i (trimarch) A car or cart drawn by three horses.

Trimarchwys, s. pl. aggr. (trimarch—gwys) Men driving three horses.

Trimin, s. m. (tri—min) That has three edges. a. Three-edged.

Triminiawg, a. (trimin) Having three edges.

Trimis, s. m. (tri—mis) A space of three months.

Trimisawl, a. (trimis) Of three months; quarterly.

Trimisyr, s. m. (trimis) That is of three months.

Trimisyriad, s. c.—pl. trimisyriaid (trimisyr) That is three months old.

Trin, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tri—in) That is persevering or continual; that is complete or of three parts; the act of meddling, or handling; a managing, or conducting any affair; labour, trouble; a quarrel, a battle.

Iachaf o fwyd bara; iachaf o enllyn llaeth: iachaf o ddiawd graianddwr nant; iachaf gwaith trin y ddaiar; iachaf o lawenydd cerdd dant.

The most healthy of victuals bread; the most healthy of sauce milk; the most healthy of drink water from a gravel-bedded brook; the most healthy work cultivating land; the most healthy gaiety an instrumental song. Adage.

Rhin elid yn drin;
Elid rhin yn drin.

A secret grows to a quarrel. Adage.

Trin, v. a. (tri—in) To meddle, to handle; to manage, to conduct any business; to labour at; to quarrel; to trim, or to scold. Trin tir, to dress land: Trin tafawd, to let the tongue run.

Triniodd y byd, traenwir,
Trwy iawn hap i'w hoedran hir.

He bustled in the world, wicked in the extreme, with good luck to the end of his long life. Ph. S. Phylip.

Trinai, s. c.—pl. trineion (trin) That meddles, or conducts an affair; a bustler; one who conflicts

Trais deon trineion nwy try,
Traws trydar trydydd haiaraillu!

The oppression of foreigners will not the conflicting ones turn away, with the froward tumult of the third iron host!
Cynddelw, i'r Argl. Rhys.

Bu cedeirn o'r tri trineion
Trual Efrai, afrddwl Groegion.

There were mighty ones of the three men of conflict, the ruin of the Hebrews, the affliction of the Greeks.
Ll. P. Moch, i D. ab Owain.

Trinaw, v. a. (trin) To meddle; to conduct an affair; to bustle; to conflict.

Trinawg, a. (trin) Full of bustle; conflicting.

Trinawl, a. (trin) Bustling; conflicting.

Trindawd, s. m. (trin) The Trinity.

Ni chais ymweled a'r Drindawd,
Onis ceisi yn yr Undawd.

Attempt not to seek for the Trinity unless thou lookest for him in the Unity. Adage.

Trindodawl, a. (trindawd) Trinitarian.

Trindodaeth, s. m. (trindawd) Trinitarianism.

Trindodi, v. a. (trindawd) To form a trinity.

Trindodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trindawd) A trinitarian.

Trined, s. m. (trin) A trinity, that is of three.

Carennydd y sydd herwydd trined.

A connection exists with respect to the Trinity. Meilyr.

Glyned Duw trined ym trugarddawn.

May the Trinity God cause my attribute of mercy to continue.
Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Tringar, a. (trin) Intermeddling, officious.

Tringarwch, s. m. (tringar) Aptness to meddle.

Triniad, s. m. (trin) A meddling, a handling; a managing, a dealing; an intermeddling; a quarrelling.

Triniaeth, s. m. (trin) A meddling; management; dealing; an undertaking.

Triniaw, v. a. (trin) To persevere in any matter; to meddle; to manage, to conduct.

Triniawl, a. (trin) Managing, conducting.

Triniator, ger. (triniad) In managing.

Triniedig, a. (triniad) Managed, conducted.
Triniedigaeth, s. m. (triniedig) Management; cultivation.
Trinitor, sup. (trin) To be managing.
Triniwr, s. m.—pl. triniwyr (trin—gwr) A manager, or one who carries on any affair.
Trinogaeth, s. m. (trinawg) The act of managing, or carrying on any dealing; traffick.
Trinydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trin) A manager.
Triochr, s. m. (tri—ochr) That has three sides.
Triochrawg, a. (triochr) Having three sides.
Triochri, v. a. (triochr) To render trilateral.
Triochriad, s. m. (triochr) A rendering trilateral.
Triochryn, s. m. (triochr) That is trilateral.
Triodawl, a. (triawd) Belonging to a triad.
Triodi, v. a. (triawd) To form a triad.
Triogi, v. a. (triawg) To render of three.
Triogiad, s. m. (triawg) A rendering to consist of three.
Trioldeb, s. m. (triawl) The state of being tertiated.
Trioli, v. a. (triawl) To tertiate.
Trioliad, s. m. (triawl) A tertiation.
Trip, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—rhip) A trip.
Tripa, s. c. (trip) The bowels or guts.
Tripiad, s. m. (trip) A tripping, a falling.
Tripian, v. a. (trip) To be tripping.
Tripiaw, v. a. (trip) To trip, to stumble.

> A dreisio gwan, o'i droi is cil,
> E dripia Mab Duw'r epil.
>
> He that oppresses the weak, by turning him behind, the Son of God will cause his race to fall. Sefnyn.

Triphen, s. m. (tri—pen) That has three heads. a. Three headed.
Triphlyg, s. m. (tri—plyg) That has three folds. a. Triplicate.
Triphlygiad, s. m. (triphlyg) Triplication.
Trisill, s. m. (tri—sill) That consists of three elements or syllables. a. Of three syllables.
Trisillawg, a. (trisill) Having three syllables.
Trist, a. (ty—rhist) Pensive, sorrowful, sad.

> Trwch fawn yth farnaf, Dafydd;
> Trist a fu Dyddgu o'r dydd!
>
> Very unlucky I deem thee, David; sorrowful was Dyddgu of the day! Gr. Gryg.

Tristâad, s. m. (trist) A sorrowing.
Tristâawl, a. (tristâu) Tending to deject.
Tristáu, v. a. (trist) To render sorrowful, to become sad or pensive.
Tristedd, s. m. (trist) Pensiveness, sadness, dejection.
Tristiad, s. m. (trist) A sorrowing, a rueing.
Tristiaw, v. a. (trist) To cause sorrow or sadness.
Tristlawn, a. (trist) Sorrowful, or rueful.
Tristlondeb, s. m. (tristlawn) Ruefulness.
Tristlonder, s. m. (tristlawn) Ruefulness.
Tristlondra, s. m. (tristlawn) Ruefulness.
Tristlonedd, s. m. (tristlawn) Sorrowfulness.
Tristloni, v. a. (tristlawn) To render sorrowful; to become sad or rueful.
Tristlonrwydd, s. m. (tristlawn) Sorrowfulness.
Tristwch, s. m. (trist) Pensiveness, or sadness.

> Adfyd pob hir dristwch.
>
> Every lasting sorrow is adversity. Adage.

Tristyd, s. m. (trist) Sadness, or sorrow.
Tritham, s. m. (tri—tam) That consists of three bites or bits.
Trithamaid, s. m. (tritham) An epithet for a large sort of oyster.
Trithant, s. m. (tri—tant) That consists of three strings; the rebeck.
Trithri, s. m. (tri repeated) Three times three.
Trithro, s. m. (tri—tro) That is of three turns.
Trithroed, s. m. (tri—troed) That consists of three feet. a. Three-footed.
Trithroediawg, a. (trithroed) Three-footed.
Trithu, s. m. (tri—tu) That is of three sides.
Trithuawg, a. (trithu) Trilateral, three-sided.
Triugain, s. m. (tri—ugain) Sixty. a. Sixty.
Triugaint, s. m. (triugain) Sixty. a. Sixty.
Triugeinfed, s. m. (triugain) Sixtieth. a. Sixtieth.
Triugeiniawl, a. (triugain) Sexagesimal.

> March glas teithiawl triugeiniawl.
>
> A grey horse perfect and of the value of threescore pence. Welsh Laws.

Triugeinwaith, s. pl. (triugain—gwaith) Threescore times. a. Threescore times.
Triunaw, v. a. (tri—unaw) To unite three in one.
Triunawd, s. m. (tri—unawd) A Trinity.
Triunawl, a. (tri—unawl) Triune.
Triundawd, s. m. (tri—undawd) A Trinity in unity

> Goleua'n ffydd galon ffawd,
> Trwy iawnder, Duw triundawd.
>
> Illume our faith, with a happy heart, through righteousness, thou God of Trinity in unity. T. Ll. Dele Powel.

Tro, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—rho) A turn; a while, a time; a lax. Tro da, a good turn; o dro i dro; from time to time; tros dro, for a while; y tro yma, this time; rhai troion, sometimes; rhyw dro, sometime.
Tröad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tro) A turning; conversion.

> ——Ar wydd tir ar,
> A glyw droadau'r gloew drydar,
> Oll o'i galon cyll y galar.
>
> On the border of the cultivated land, he who hears the turns of the sprightly chirping, entirely from his heart he will lose his grief. C. Dwttwn.

Tröadwy, a. (tröad) Capable of turning.
Tröawl, a. (tro) Turning, rolling, revolving.
Troch, s. f.—pl. t. ion (tro—och) A spray; a lave.
Troch, a. (f. of trwch) Cut, broken; maimed; unlucky, desperate, fell.

> Cymynid ar dres droch lynges lyr.
>
> Cut off was on a sudden the fell fleet of the torrent. Gwalchmai.

Trochadwy, a. (troch) Capable of being bathed.
Trochawl, a. (troch) Bathing, immersing.
Trochedig, a. (troch) Bathed, immersed.
Trochedigaeth, s. f. (trochedig) The act of bathing
Trochfa, s. f.—pl. trochfeydd (troch) A bathing-place; a bathing.
Trochgader, s. f. (troch—cader) A duckingstool.
Trochi, v. a. (troch) To immerse, to dip, to duck, to plunge, to bathe.

> Lluest Cadwallawn ar Feinin,
> Llew llu lluosawg ei werin,
> Twrf mawr trochas ei orddin.
>
> The camp of Cadwallon on Meinin, the lion of the host of numerous train, a great tumult drenched his skirt. Llywarch Hen.

Trochiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (troch) An immersion.

> Tres trachwres trochiad ei wrymder.
>
> The bustle of ambition is the immersion of his energy. Cynddelw.

Trochiant, s. m. (troch) A splashing; immersion.
Trochion, s. pl. (troch) Splashings; suds, lather.
Trochioni, v. a. (trochion) To raise a lather.
Trochionllyd, a. (trochion) Abounding with froth.
Trochwr, s. m.—pl. trochwyr (troch—gwr) An immerser, a bather.
Trochydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (troch) A dipper, a plunger, a diver; a bather. Trochydd mawr, the great northern diver; trochydd bach, the grey speckled diver; trochydd gwddfgoch, the red-necked diver; trochydd danneddawg, the lesser dun diver.

Trodawl, a. (trawd) Transitive; passing over.

Trodi, v. a. (trawd) To make a transit; to pass onward; to journey.

Trodiad, s. m. (trawd) A passing onward.

Trodwen, s. f. (trawd—gwen) A starling.

Troddail, s. pl. aggr. (tro—dail) Flowers in festoon. Cor o droddail, a bower of leaves.

Troddawl, a. (trawdd) Progressive; forwarding.

Troddedig, a. (trawdd) Being passed onward.

Troddi, v. a. (trawdd) To make a transit; to move onward, to make a progress.

> Gwen wrth Lawen ydd wylas neithwyr:
> Arthur ni thechas:
> Aedd a drawdd ar glawdd Gorlas.
>
> Gwen on Llawen he did watch last night: Arthur never retreated: the slaughter he passed through on the dyke of Gorlas. Llywarch Hen.
>
> Rhoi rhan o'th dorth gàn, a'th ginio i lu,
> Heb le i wenwyno;
> A'th gi, cyn troddi un tro,
> A'th fran, aeth yn farw yno.
>
> Giving a share of thy white loaf and thy dinner to a multitude, without room to grumble: and thy dog, before moving forward one step, and thy crow, there did die. D. Ll. ab Ll. ab Gruffudd.

Troddiad, s. m. (trawdd) A transition, a passing over; progression.

Troed, s. m.—pl. traed (traw—ed) A foot. It forms the names of many plants: Troed y ceiliawg, cock's-foot grass; troed y golomen, llysiau y cwlwm, columbine; troed yr hedydd, lark spur, troed ysgyfarnawg, meillion cedenawg, hare's-foot trefoil; troed yr asen, yr arllegawg, garlick hedge-mustard; troed yr arth, bear's foot; troed yr aderyn, common bird's foot; troed y tarw, llysiau y tarw, ballwort; troed yr wydd, goose foot; troed y cyw, hedge parsley; troed y gath, mountain cat's foot, field cypress; troed y gywen, water purslain; troed y dryw, field ladies' mantle; troed y barcud, common meadow-rue; troed yr ebawl, marsh marigold; troed yr erydd, celery-leaved crow foot; troed y llew, ladies' mantle.

> Pan lithro doeth, pob ffol a dery droed arno.
>
> When the wise slips, every fool will stamp a foot upon him. Adage.

Troedawg, a. (troed) Having a foot. s. f. A fetlock; a fetter.

Troedawl, a. (troed) Belonging to the foot, pedal.

Troed-draws, a. (troed—traws) Splay-footed.

Troed-droed, adv. (troed repeated) Foot to foot.

Troedfedd, s. f.—pl. t. i (bedd) A foot measure.

Troedfeddawl, a. (troedfedd) Of a foot measure.

Troedfeddu, v. a. (troedfedd) To divide into feet.

Troedfyr, a. (troed—byr) Short-footed.

Troedgall, a. (troed—call) Having the foot turned out; club-footed.

Troedgam, a. (troed—cam) Wry-footed.

Troedhir, a. (troed—hir) Long-footed.

Troediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (troed) A footing.

Troediant, s. (troed) A setting a foot, a footing.

> Cair y gair ffres yn ngwaith yr hen feirdd, cyn cael o'r Saesonog droediant yn Ynys Prydain.
>
> The word fresh is to be found in the works of the old bards, before the Saxons had footing in the isle of Britain. Llywelyn Sion.

Troediaw, v. a. (troed) To foot; to use the foot; to tread; to kick.

Troediawg, a. (troed) Having feet, footed. s. m. A pedifer; a foot-holder. He is also called rhageisteddiad.

> Troediawg a ddyly ddaly traed y brenin yn ei arffed, o'r pan ddechreuo eistedd yn ei gyfeddach yni el i gysgu; ac y ddyly gosi y brenin; ac yn gyhyd a hyny o ysbaid gwylied ef y brenin rhag gwall.
>
> The footman ought to hold the feet of the king in his lap, from the time when he begins to sit in his conviviality to the time he goes to sleep; and he ought to scratch the king; and during such a space let him guard the king against accident. Welsh Laws.

Tröedig, a. (tröad) Turned, converted; being disposed to turn. Tröedigion, proselytes.

> Addaf grin gribin, grwbach dig;
> Addaf glaf gleiriach troedig.
>
> Adam the rotten rake, a surly hunch; Adam a diseased rambling vagabond. Hywel Ystorym.

Tröedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (tröedig) Circulation.

Tröedigawl, a. (tröedig) Circulating, revolving.

Troedlas, s. f.—pl. t. au (troed—llas) A treadle.

Troedlath, s. f.—pl. t. au (troed—llath) Treadle.

Troedle, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (troed—lle) A trodden place; a place of resort. Troedle hysbys, a well-known place of resort.

Troedlen, s. f.—pl. t. i (troed—llen) A foot-board; a treadle.

Troedlydan, a. (troed—llydan) Broad-footed.

Troednoeth, a. (troed—noeth) Barefooted.

> A heuo ddrain na cherdded yn droednoeth.
>
> Who sows thorns let him not walk barefooted. Adage.

Troednoethi, v. a. (troednoeth) To make barefoot.

Troednoethiad, s. m. (troednoeth) Discalceation.

Troedogi, v. a. (troedawg) To fetter, to shackle.

Troedogiad, s. m. (troedawg) A fettering.

Troedraw, s. f. (troed—rhaw) A foot-spade.

Troedrudd, a. (troed—rhudd) Of a ruddy foot. s. f. The stinking cranebill; also called llysiau y llwynawg, mynawyd y bugel, pig yr aran.

Troedsych, a. (troed—sych) Dry-footed, dry foot.

Troedwst, s. f. (troed—gwst) A foot disease; gout.

Troedwstawl, a. (troedwst) Podagrical, gouty.

Troedyn, s. m. dim. (troed) A little foot.

Troedysgafn, a. (troed—ysgafn) Light-footed.

Troell, s. f.—pl. t. au (tro) That effects a turn; a whirl, a wheel for turning, spinning, or winding; a reel; a pulley; a windlass, a screw; a trope. Troellau melin, the pinions of mill-work; troell nyddu, a spinning wheel. Aderyn y droell, the goatsucker.

> Tori llinyn troell einioes.
>
> To break the thread of the wheel of life. G. Ll. ab Ll. Fychan.

Troellaidd, a. (troell) Like a wheel or whirl.

> Cryman digofaint Duw:—Amlwg yw fod y gair yn myned dan yr arwyddocaad cyffelybiaethawl troellaidd.
>
> The sickle of the wrath of God:—It is manifest that the expression comes under the denomination that is comparative of the nature of a trope. Ier Owain.

Troellawg, a. (troel) Having a turn, whirl, or wheel; of the form of a whirl, or screw, or ringlet; brocaded; having the marks called watered, on silks or stuffs; grained, as appearing on boards.

> Trilliw gwych troellawg oedd—
> Y tarw.
>
> Of three gay hues in ringlets was the bull. S. Ceri.

Troelledig, a. (troell) Twirled; in ringlets.

Troellen, s. f.—pl. t. i (troell) A whirl, a twirl.

Troellenaidd, a. (troellen) Like a whirl.

Troellenawg, a. (troellen) Composed of whirls, or ringlets; formed like a cobweb; brocaded, flowered.

Troelleniad, s. m. (troellen) A forming into whirls, or ringlets.

Troellenu, v. a. (troellen) To form a whirl; to form into ringlets.

Troellgorun, s. m. (troell—corun) Moss rush.

Troellhoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (troell—hoel) A screw-nail.

Troellhoeliad, s. m. (troellhoel) A screwing.

Troellhoeliaw, v. a. (troellhoel) To screw.

Troelli, v. a. (troell) To put in a whirling motion; to turn as a whirl, or wheel; to turn as a screw; to screw. Gwagr troelli, a sieve used in cleaning corn.

Troelliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (troell) A whirling.

Troelliannawl, a. (troelliant) Of a whirling or spinning motion.

Troelliannu, v. a. (troelliant) To produce a whirling motion.

Troelliant, s. m. (troell) A whirling motion.

Troellig, s. f. (troell) The spurrey.

Troellrych, s. m.—pl. t. au (troell—rhych) The counterpart of a screw, or the groove that receives it.

Troellrychiad, s. m. (troellrych) A grooving or forming the concave part of a screw.

Troellrychiaw, v. a. (troellrych) To groove the concave part of a screw.

Troellwaith, s. m. (troell—gwaith) Wheel-work; the movement of a clock or watch.

Troellweithiad, s. m. (troellwaith) A making of wheel-work.

Troellweithiaw, v. a. (troellwaith) To make wheel-work.

Troellweithiwr, s. m.—pl. troellweithiwyr (troellwaith—gwr) One who makes wheel-work.

Troellymadrawdd, s. m.—pl. troellymadroddion (troell—ymadrawdd) A figurative speech, tropology.

Troellymadroddi, v. a. (troellymadrawdd) To express in figurative speech.

Troellymadroddiad, s. m. (troellymadrawdd) A making use of figurative speech.

Troen, s. f.—pl. t. au (tro) A turn; a twirl; a while, a good while. Ni buaist er ys troen yma, thou hast not been here this good while. Powys.

Troetys, s. m.—pl. t. au (troed—ys) A snare. Sil.

Troeth, s. f. (trwyth) Wash; lye; urine.

Troethai, s. c. (troeth) A chamber pot.

Troethbair, a. (troeth—pair) Diuretical.

Troethi, v. a. (troeth) To void urine.

Troethiad, s. m. (troeth) A voiding urine.

Troethlif, s. m. (troeth—llif) A diabetes.

Trofa, s. f.—pl. trofëydd (tro) A place of turning or revolving; a turn; a tropic; a glance.

> Gweiais, ar drofa golwg,
> Gwen ber.——
>
> I saw, with a glance of the eye, a sweet smile. Bedo Brwynllys.

Trofâad, s. m. (trofâu) A turning; a revolving; a transition.

Trofâawl, a. (trofâu) Turning; flexuous.

Trofâedd, s. m. (trofa) Tortuosity, flexure.

Trofäeg, s. f.—pl. t. au (trofa) A trope.

Trofan, s. f.—pl. t. au (tro—man) A tropic.

Trofanawl, a. (trofan) Tropical, of the tropic.

Trofâu, v. a. (trofa) To make a turn.

> Mal neidr fyddar yn trofâu,
> Tan gau ei chlustiau cyndyn.
>
> Like the deaf adder winding round, with closing her repulsive ears. Edm. Prys.

Trofâus, a. (trofa) Flexnons; tortuons.

Trofawl, a. (trawf) Tending to pass over; transitive; tending forward.

Trofedig, a. (trawf) Being made transitive; being led forward; being instructed, disciplined. Trofedigion neu awenyddion, disciples or students. Barddas.

Trofedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (trofedig) The act of transition; the act or state of forwarding; a discipleship.

Trofiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawf) A transition; a passage; a clause. Trofiadau caniadaeth, the transitions of music.

Trofiant, s. m. (trawf) A pass over; transition.

Trofus, a. (trawf) Tending to pass over.

Trofusder, s. m. (trofus) A transitive state.

Trohidl, s. m. (tro—hidl) An instrument for the twisting of ropes.

Troi, v. a. (tro) To turn. Troi tir, to plough land: Troi âr, to chide; tro arni, chide her.

> Euawg a dry y cellwair yn wir.
>
> The guilty will turn the jesting to truth. Adage.
>
> Gwae a dro o glun i glun,
> Ac ni fedda beth ei hun.
>
> Woe to him that turns from side to side, and who possesses nothing for himself. Adage.
>
> Try allan ddynion trillu,
> A sydd, a fydd, ac a fu—
> Ger bron ynad.
>
> There will turn out of men three hosts, that be, that will be, and that have been, in the presence of the judge. Gro. Owain.
>
> Grym a gwendid, trôent o'r endid.
>
> Strength and weakness, they turn from the birth. Adage.

Troiad, s. m. (troi) A turning, a circling.

Troiadur, s. m.—pl. t. on (troiad) That effects a turning or transition.

Troiadr, s. m.—pl. t. on (troiad) That forms a transition or turn.

> Cefais er na fedrais fydr,
> Gyfwrdd draw a'r gerdd droiadr.
>
> I obtained, though I knew no metre, a contact there with the song that abounds with transition. I. ab R. ab Ieuan Llwyd.

Tròl, s. c.—pl. t. iau (ty—rhòl) A cylinder, a roller; a roll; a small cart, otherwise called càr tròl; also, a round fat man. Berfa dròl, a wheelbarrow.

Tròlaid, s. f.—pl. troleidiau (tròl) A cart load.

Tròlaidd, a. (tròl) Cylindrical, like a roll.

Tròlen, s. f. (tròl) A roundlet; a fat female.

Tròliad, s. m. (tròl) A trolling, a rolling.

Tròlian, v. a. (tròl) To troll, to keep rolling.

Tròliaw, v. a. (tròl) To troll, to trundle.

Tròliedig, a. (tròliad) Trolled; trundled.

Tròliwr, s. m.—pl. troliwyr (tròl—gwr) A troller; one who rolls; a trundler.

Tròlyn, s. m. dim. (tròl) A roller; a fat one. Tròlyn o ddyn, a chubby person.

Tròlynaidd, a. (tròlyn) Of the form of a roll.

Tròlynawg, a. (tròlyn) Cylindrical.

Tròlyniad, s. m. (tròlyn) A making a roll.

Tròlynu, v. a. (tròlyn) To form a cylinder.

Trom, a. (f. of trwm) Heavy, weighty; sad.

Tromfron, s. f. (bron) A grief-oppressed breast.

Tromgad, s. f. (trom—cad) A main battle.

Tromleddf, a. (trom—lleddf) Gravely inflective, a term in prosody for syllables like ceirw.

Tromsain, s. f.—pl. tromseiniau (trom—sain) A grave accent.

Tron, s. f.—pl. t. au (tro—on) A circle, a round; a throne.

Trònawl, a. (trawn) Transcendent.

Trònawl, a. (tròn) Relating to a periphery.

Tròni, v. a. (trawn) To render superior.

Tròni, v. a. (tròn) To rim; to form a periphery.

Tròniad, s. m. (trawn) A transcending.

Trôniad, s. m. (trôn) A forming a circle, round.

Tros, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tro—os) That is over or placed across, a transverse bar; a lock.

Tros, prep. (tro—os) Over; for, instead of. adv. Over. Teg dros ben, supremely fair; da dros ben, excellently good: Ei drosto ar redeg, thou wilt go over it on full speed.—Trosof, trostof, over or for me; trosot, trostot, over or for thee; troso, trosto, over or for him and it; trosi, trosti, over or for her; trosom, trostom, over or for us; trosoch, trostoch, over or for you; trosynt, trostynt, over or for them.

Dycid chwant dros ben y cant.

Cupidity snatches over a hundred. Adage.

Gwna dda dros ddrwg, uffern ni'th dwg.

Do good for evil, hell will not have thee. Adage.

A ddadla dros ei fai, a wna ddau ddiawl o un cythraul.

He that pleads for his fault makes two devils out of one fiend. Adage.

Ni doddynt dros for etwaeth,
Pobl anhyfaeth Nanhyfer.

They come not over sea again, the uncivilized people of Nanhyver. Meilyr.

Trosadwy, a. (tros) Capable of being driven over.

Trosedig, a. (tros) Diverted, or turned aside.

Trosedd, s. m. (tros) Transgression, trespass.

Troseddadwy, a. (trosedd) Transgressible.

Troseddawg, a. (trosedd) Full of transgression.

Troseddawl, a. (trosedd) Transgressing.

Troseddedig, a. (trosedd) Being transgressed.

Troseddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trosedd) Transgression.

Troseddu, v. a. (trosedd) To transgress; to err.

Troseddwr, s. m.—pl. troseddwyr (trosedd—gwr) A transgressor.

Trosel, s. m.—pl. t. i (tros) A plashed fence.

Troselu, v. a. (trosel) To plash a fence.

Trosenw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tros—enw) A name that is put for another.

Trosenwad, s. m. (trosenw) Transnomination.

Trosenwawl, a. (trosenw) Relating to transnomination.

Trosenwi, v. a. (trosenw) To put one name for another.

Trosfa, s. f.—pl. trosfëydd (tros) A place for turning to. Trosfa gyffredin, a common for turning cattle to.

Trosfynediad, s. m. (tros—mynediad) Metabasis.

Trosglud, s. m. (tros—clud) A conveyance over.

Trosgludaw, v. a. (trosglud) To carry over.

Trosgludawl, a. (trosglud) Transporting.

Trosgludiad, s. m. (trosglud) A transportation.

Trosglwydd, s. m. (tros—clwydd) A carrying over; a transfer; a conveyance.

Trosglwyddadwy, a. (trosglwydd) Transferrable.

Trosglwyddaw, v. a. (trosglwydd) To transport; to carry over; to transfer; to convey.

Trosglwyddawl, a. (trosglwydd) Transferring.

Trosglwyddedig, a. (trosglwydd) Transported; transferred; conveyed over; consigned. Trosglwyddedigion, those that are carried over.

Trosglwyddedigaeth, s. m. (trosglwyddedig) The act of conveying over or transferring.

Trosglwyddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trosglwydd) A carrying over, a transporting; a transferring; a consigning.

Trosglwyddwr, s. m.—pl. trosglwyddwyr (trosglwydd—gwr) A transporter.

Trosgl, a. (f. of trwsgl) Clumsy, or stumbling.

Angen y gyhydedd drosgl yw ban chwesill; a hyd y pennill o bedwar ban i wyth ban.

The requisite of the clumsy metricity is a verse of six syllables; and the length of the stanza from four verses to eight. Barddas.

Trosi, v. a. (tros) To turn out, to send over, to convey; to move onward; to move about. Trosi gwartheg, to drive out cattle; Troi a throsi, to turn and move about: Trosi parth a henaint, to verge towards old age.

Eich chwerthin a drosa yn wylaw.

Your laughter will turn to weeping. Cyd Englyn ac Awdl.

Morganwg—
Lle trosa ran o'm hanerch.

Morganwg, where a portion of my fondness strays. D. ab Gwilym.

Trosi ei hwyliau a orug Fespasian, a disgynu yn mhorth Totenes a orugynt; ac wedi caffael tir onaddynt, cyrchu a wnaeynt gaer Penhwylcoed.

To hoist his sails was what Vespasian did; and descend in the port of Totness did they; and when they had reached land, they approached the castle of Penhwylcoed. Gr. ab Arthur.

Troso, pronom. prep. (tros) Over a person or thing; for or on account of a person or thing.

Trosodd, prep. (tros) Over; beyond. adv. Over.

Trosol, s. m.—pl. t. ion (traws—ol) A lever; a bar, or bolt, which is placed across any thing.

Mal wy ar drosol.

Like an egg on a post. Adage.

Trosoli, v. a. (trosol) To work with a lever.

Trosoliad, s. m. (trosol) A working a lever.

Trosoliaw, v. a. (trosol) To work a lever.

Trosoliedig, a. (trosol) Being worked as a lever.

Trosolwaew, s. f. (trosol—gwaew) A lever-beam.

Trosolwydd, s. (trosol—gwydd) Wooden leaver.

Trosten, s. f.—pl. t. i (trawst) A long rod.

Trosto, pronom. prep. (tros) Over a person or thing; for or on account of any one.

Pawb drosto ei hunan, Duw drosom ni gyd.

Every body for himself, God for us all. Adage.

Haws dywedyd mynydd na myned trosto.

It is easier to say mountain than to go over it. Adage.

Trostr, s. m.—pl. t. au (trawst) A slider.

Gwregys y cleddyf o gordwal du, a throstrau goreuraid arno.

The girdle of the sword of black leather, with gilt sliders on it. Breudd. Rhonabwy.

Troterth, s. m.—pl. t. od (trawd—erth) A trotter.

Cyfrwy a roist nis caf ar werth;
Dyro eto ym droterth.

A saddle thou didst give such as I can not have on sale; give me again a trotter. T. Prys.

Trotiad, s. (trawd) A trotting, a going on a trot.

Trotial, v. a. (trawd) To keep trotting.

Trotian, v. a. (trawd) To keep trotting.

Y march—
Traed tano y trotienynt.

The horse, under him feet would continue trotting. Gw. Tew Hen.

Trotiaw, v. a. (trawd) To trot, to go on a trot.

Trotiawl, a. (trawd) Trotting, apt to trot.

Trotiwr, s. m.—pl. trotiwyr (trawd—gwr) One who trots, a trotter.

Troth, s. m. (tro—oth) That tends through.

Troth, prep. (tro) Through, from side to side.

Dygyrch bar careg creg ei hadnain,
Llid y mywn tynged treiddied troth main.

She assaults the top of the stone with her hoarse clamour, the wrath borne by fate let it burst through the rock. Taliesin, Mic Dinbych.

Trothi, s. m. (troth) A state of passing through.

Trothwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (troth) A threshold.

Cybydd am drothwy ty y lladron.

The miser is about the threshold of the house of thieves. Adage.

Trowynt, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (tro—gwynt) A whirlwind.

Tru, s. m. (ty—rhu) An outcast; wretchedness.

Tru, a. (ty—rhu) Being outcast: wretched.

Tru mòr anghall dall dull anelrian
Troedd, trwy gymwedd a gymeran'.

Piteous that so indiscreetly blind the unseemly way of the transgression, which through avidity they take. Casnodyn.

Truad, s. m. (tru) A causing misery; a turning to misery or wretchedness.

Truaidd, a. (tru) Somewhat wretched or piteous.

Truan, a. (tru) Feeble, slender; poor, wretched, miserable, pitiful. Wyt yn edrych yn druan iawn, thou dost look very poorly. Druan bach! poor little thing! Druan hỳny! poor dear that it was! O druan! oh poor thing! Truaned yw! how miserable it is!

Gwell rhy draws no rhy druan.

Better too perverse than too wretched. Adage.

O druelnion ddagreuoedd y llithra hifhau.

Of piteous tears she then let fall. Dar. Merddin.

Truanâad, s. m. (truanâu) A rendering miserable, a becoming miserable.

Truanaidd, a. (truan) Somewhat miserable.

Truanâu, v. a. (truan) To render wretched; to become miserable or wretched.

Truanawg, a. (truan) Full of wretchedness.

Truanawl, a. (truan) Tending to misery.

Truander, s. m. (truan) Piteousness; misery.

Truanedig, a. (truan) Being made wretched.

Truanedd, s. m. (truan) Wretchedness.

Fy sylwedd, truanedd trig,
Niwl ydyw anweledig!

My substance, a wretchedness of existence, is only a mist invisible! H. ab Huw Fardd Coch.

Truaneiddiad, s. m. (truanaidd) A rendering miserable; a becoming wretched.

Truaneiddiaw, v. a. (truanaidd) To render miserable; to become miserable.

Truaneiddrwydd, s. m. (truanaidd) Miserableness

Truanen, s. f. dim. (truan) A poor little female.

Truanes, s. f. (truan) A wretched female.

Truaniad, s. m. (truan) A rendering wretched; a becoming wretched.

Truanu, v. a. (truan) To pity, to commiserate; to become feeble, poor, wretched, or miserable. Truana wrtho! have pity on him!

Truaw, v. a. (tru) To render piteous; to become piteous, or wretched.

Truawl, a. (tru) Miserable, piteous, wretched.

Truawr, a. (tru) Wretched, or miserable.

Gwell rhy draws no rhy druawr.

Better is it to be too overbearing than too abject. Catwg Ddoeth.

Trudd, s. m. (tru) A break through, a burst.

Truedig, a. (truad) Being made wretched.

Truedd, s. m. (tru) Wretchedness, misery.

Trueddu, v. a. (truedd) To render wretched; to become miserable.

Trueddus, a. (truedd) Piteous, or wretched.

Trueiddiad, s. m. (truaidd) A rendering wretched; a becoming wretched.

Trueiddiaw, v. a. (truaidd) To render wretched; to become wretched.

Trueiniad, s. m.—pl. trueiniaid (truan) A wretched one.

Trueiniaw, v. a. (truan) To render miserable; to become miserable or pitiful.

Trueiniawl, a. (truan) Tending to misery.

Trueinig, a. (truan) Full of misery.

Y rhai enwir y sy drueinig ac eisiwedig.

The wicked ones are wretched and necessitous. Elucidarius.

Trueinrwydd, s. m. (truan) Wretchedness.

Trueiniwr, s. m.—pl. trueinwyr (truan—gwr) A wretched man.

Trueni, s. m. (truan) Misery, wretchedness.

Bid lygad Duw ar drueni.

Be the eye of God on wretchedness. Adage.

Truenus, a. (truan) Miserable, wretched.

Truenusaw, v. a. (truenus) To render miserable, to become wretched.

Truenusdra, s. m. (truenus) Pitifulness.

Truenusedd, s. m. (truenus) Piteousness.

Truenusrwydd, s. m. (truenus) Miserableness.

Truenyn, s. m. dim. (truan) A poor little wretch.

Trugar, a. (tru—car) Compassionate, or merciful.

Tri dyn a ddylid bod yn drugar wrthynt: alltud, gweddw, ac amddifad.

Three persons that should be dealt with mercifully: the stranger, the widow, and the orphan. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

A'th orchymynaf gàn y mawr drugar,
Plaid a gar plant Addaf.

I commend thee to the mighty compassionate, he that loves the children of Adam. Cynddelw.

Gwr a gynnail nef, gwir addef gwar,
Gwawr gwerthfawr bòed trugar.

He that upholds heaven, the true mansion of peace, the precious light be he merciful. Bleddyn Fardd.

Trugarâad, s. m. (trugarâu) Commiseration.

Trugarâawl, a. (trugarâu) Commiserating.

Trugarâu, v. a. (trugar) To commiserate.

A'm trugarawg Arglwydd, trugarâed wrthyf,
A mi i wrtho na'm gwrthoded!

And my merciful Lord, may he have mercy on me; and me from him let him not reject. Gwalchmai.

Trugarâus, a. (trugarâu) Compassionate.

Trugarawg, a. (trugar) Merciful; pitying.

Addoli Duw yw bod yn gyfiawn, yn ufydd, ac yn drugarawg.

To worship God is, to be just, humble, and merciful. Adage.

Trugarawl, a. (trugar) Commiserating.

Trugarâwr, s. m.—pl. trugarâwyr (trugarâu—gwr) One who compassionates.

Trugarddawn, s. m. (trugar—dawn) A merciful disposition.

Glyned Duw trined yn trugarddawn !
O fawr nen Merfyniawn.

May the Trinity God continue my gift of mercy from the great sovereign of the tribe of Mervyn. Ll. P. Moch.

Trugaredig, a. (trugar) Compassionated.

Trugaredd, s. m.—pl. t. au (trugar) Compassion.

Car dy Ddaw——
Athraw gwir a thrugaredd.

Love thy God, the Lord of truth and mercy. Huw Dwn.

Trugareddawg, a. (trugaredd) Merciful.

Trugareddawl, a. (trugaredd) Commiserating.

Trugareddfa, s. f. (trugaredd) A merey-seat.

Trugarogrwydd, s. m. (trugarawg) Mercifulness.

Trul, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tru) A tool used for turning or trilling of holes.

Truliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trul) A trilling a hole.

Truliaw, v. a. (trul) To trill a hole.

Trull, s. m. (ty—rhull) A store; a store of liquor.

Beirdd gynnull am drull, am dri llad.

Bards assembling round a store, round three delicacies. Cynddelw.

Trulliad, s. m.—pl. trulliaid (trull) One who serves out or draws liquor, a butler.

Y trulliad a ddyly drulliaw y llyn, a rhoddi i bawb herwydd y dylyo.

The drawer ought to draw the liquor and to give to every body according to his due. Welsh Laws.

Trulliadaeth, s. m. (trulliad) Butlership.

Trulliades, s. f.—pl. t. au (trulliad) A female butler.

Trulliaw, v. a. (trull) To serve out liquor.

Tridyn a'r trillyn yn eu trulliaw.

Three persons with the three liquors solacing them. L. G. Cothi.

Trulliedig, a. (trulliad) Being served with liquor

Trulliwr, s. m.—pl. trulliwyr (trull—gwr) A server of liquor, a butler.

Trum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—rhum) A ridge, a back. Trum y mynydd, ridge of the mountain; trum y ty, the roof of the house; trum grwn, the elevated part of a ridge of land; rhych a thrum, furrow and ridge.

Treftad i iithau yw'r trum
Tan gastell teg ei ystum.

An inheritance for thee is the ridge beneath a castle of splendid aspect. Iolo Goch.

Trumain, a. (trum) Having a ridge, coped.

——Nid eiddaw o Wynedd
Namyn farn drumain fain fedd.

Of Gwynedd he owns nothing, save the coped heap of the narrow grave. Einion Wan.

Truman, s. c.—pl. trumain (trum) A ridge.

Gwelais drydar crain ar drumain mor.

I saw a grovelling tumult on the ridges of the sea. Cynddelw.

Trumbeithin, s. pl. (trum—beithin) Ridge tiles.

Trumbeithinen, s. f. (trumbeithin) A ridge tile.

Trumbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (trum—pren) A keel.

Trumiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trum) A ridging.

Trumiaw, v. a. (trum) To ridge, to make a ridge. to cope, or to trim into a ridge. Trumiaw grwn, to trim or raise a ridge, in a field; trumiaw ty, to form the coping of a house.

Trwm yw'r plwm yn trumiaw'r plas,
To dulas tai duwiolion.

Heavy is the lead coping the nave, the gloomy roof of the houses of religious people. L. Morganwg, i Fynachlog Nedd.

Trumiawg, a. (trum) Having ridges; ridged.

Trumiawl, a. (trum) Ridging, coping.

Trumwydd, s. m. (trum—gwydd) A keel.

Trus, s. m. (ty—rhus) A ward, or a guard.

Trusi, s. m. (trus) That is an obstacle or guard.

Ef dodes rhag tres trusi tewdor.

He put before the brunt the thickly covering guard. Aneurin.

Trusiad, s. m.—pl. trusiaid (trus) That wards.

Ef ysgrud, ef drud, ef drusiad.

He is of compact frame, he is daring, he is a bulwark. Ll. P. Moch.

Trusiaw, v. a. (trus) To ward off, to guard.

Trusiawl, a. (trus) Warding, or guarding.

Truth, s. m. (ty—rhuth) Loose unmeaning talk; flattery, fawning, wheedling.

Truthad, s. m. (truth) A fawning, a wheedling.

Truthadwy, a. (truthad) That may be wheedled.

Truthan, s. c.—pl. truthain (truth) A wheedler.

Y truthan a'i traethai;
Croesanaeth croew a soniai.

The wheedler would declare it; sheer ribaldry would he talk. D. ab Gwilym, i R. Meigen.

Truthgar, a. (truth) Apt to fawn or to wheedle.

Truthgarwch, s. m. (truthgar) Aptness to fawn.

Truthiad, s. m.—pl. truthiaid (truth) A sycophant

Truthiaith, s. f. (truth—iaith) A fawning; flattering language, adulation.

Truthiaw, v. a. (truth) To fawn, or to wheedle.

Truthiawg, a. (truth) Fawning, or fondling.

Truthiawl, a. (truth) Apt to fawn or wheedle.

Truthiedig, a. (truthiad) Being wheedled.

Truthiwr, s. m.—pl. truthiwyr (truth—gwr) A fawner, a wheedler.

Trw, s. m. (ty—rhw) A turn, or whirl; a state of penetrating or pervading; that is thoroughly or quite. It is prefixed in composition.

Trw, prep. (ty—rhw) Through, or by.

Nid oes ini ymladd a gwyr rhaco, namyn—trw ymadroddion cluer, ceisiaw tangnefeddu ag wynt.

We have not to fight with yonder men, but, through open expressions, to endeavour to make peace with them. Brut. y Breninoedd.

Trwb, s. m. (ty—rhwb) That is rubbed.

Trwc, s. m.—pl. trycion (trw) That is rounded; a turn; a truck.

Moes y march diawg——
Trwc lawrodd trwcwl erwch,
Traws ful hardd, trwsa fal hwch.

Give me a lazy steed, the handsel truck, a truckle for your sake, a froward comely ass, a lump like a sow. Ieu. ab Huw.

Trwca, s. m.—pl. t. od (trwc) A bowl, a cup.

Trwcwl, s. m. (trwc) A rundle; a truckle.

Moes drwcwl—o farch——
Clustdrwm, llopandrwm, pendrist.

Give me a truckle of a steed, ear-drooping, heavy-footed, hanging his head. Ieu. ab Huw.

Trwch, s. m. (ty—rhwch) A cut into, an incision; a section; a thickness or depth; a churl. O drwch tribys, of the depth of three fingers.

Chwannawg trwch i drin.

The churl is addicted to contention. Adage.

Trwch, a. (ty—rhwch) Cut; broken, maimed; unlucky; desperate, fell.

Trefnwyd hwynt i'm tra ofal;
Trwch fum gyfarfod a'r tri.

They have been ordained to frighten me extremely; I was unlucky to meet with the three. D. ab Gwilym, i eiddig.

Trwd, s. m. (trw) That is circulating; that pervades, or passes through.

Trwl, s. m.—pl. trylau (trw) A pack; a cushion; a couch. Trwl o ddyn, a lump of a man.

Trwli, s. m. (trwl) That is round and bulky. Trwli mwli, a fat squabby woman.

Trwliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trwl) A bundling up.

Trwlian, v. a. (trwl) To heap together; to roll together.

Trwliaw, v. a. (trwl) To bundle; to roll.

Trwlyn, s. m. dim. (trwl) A soft heap or lump. Trwlyn o ddyn, a fat chub of a man.

Trwm, s. m.—pl. trymion (ty—rhwm) That is heavy, a pressure.

O bob trwm trymaf henaint.

Of every pressure the most pressing is old age. Adage.

Trwm, a. (ty—rhwm) Heavy, weighty; sad.

Trymaf dial yw dirmyg.

The heaviest revenge is contempt. Adage.

Marw Morgenau, marw Cyfrenin,
Marw Morien mur trin:
Trymaf oed am dy addoed ti, Ferddin!

Morgenau dead, Cyvrenin dead, Morien the bulwark of conflict dead: most sad the lingering that thou art left, O Merddin! Cyfoesi Merddin.

Trwmgalon, s. m. (trwm—calon) One with a heavy heart. a. Heavy at heart.

Afiach pob trwmgalon.

Diseased is every heavy hearted one. Adage.

Trwmorddig, a. (trwm—gorddig) Sullenly shy.

Trwn, s. m.—pl. trynion (trw—wn) A circle.
Trwnc, s. m. (ty—rhwnc) Urine; lye, or stale.
Trwncrwydd, a. (trwnc—rhwydd) Diuretic.
Trwncrwyddai, s. c. (trwncrwydd) A diuretic.
Trwodd, prep. (trw) Through. adv. Through.
Trwpa, s. m.—pl. t. od (trwb) A washing-tub; a hod; also a trollop.
Trws, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—rhws) A covering garment; a trouse; dress, or habiliment.
Trwsa, s. m.—pl. trwsëydd (trws) A packet; a truss.

Ni chwery cath, ewinlew,
Dros ei blwydd, hen drwsa blew.

A cat, with nail of sure gripe, will not play beyond her year, the old truss of hair. Iolo Goch.

Trwsëyn, s. m. dim. (trwsa) A packet; a truss.
Trwsgl, a. (trwsg) Clumsy, bungling.
Trwsglaidd, a. (trwsgl) Somewhat clumsy.
Trwsgliaith, s. f. (trwsgl—iaith) Awkward speech
Trwsglyn, s. m. dim. (trwsgl) A bungler.
Trwsiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trws) A dressing, a cloathing; habiliment, raiment, dress.
Trwsiadawl, a. (trwsiad) Relating to dress.
Trwsiadu, v. a. (trwsiad) To clothe, to dress.
Trwsiadus, a. (trwsiad) Dressed; decked out.
Trwsiaw, v. a. (trws) To dress; to deck, to trim, to garnish, to adorn.
Trwsiedig, a. (trwsiad) Dressed, or habited.
Trwsiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trwsiad) A dresser
Trwsiwr, s. m.—pl. trwsiwyr (trws—gwr) A dresser, one who prepares.
Trwst, s. m.—pl. trystiau (try—wst) A noise, a din; a sound; a rustling; a rattling.

Nid cymaint Bleddyn a'i drwst.

Bleddyn is not so great as his noise. Adage.

Trwstan, a. (trwst—an) Clumsy; unsteady, apt to tumble; unlucky.
Trwstanaidd, a. (trwstan) Somewhat clumsy.
Trwstaneiddiad, s. m. (trwstanaidd) A rendering rather clumsy; a becoming rather clumsy.
Trwstaneiddiaw, v. a. (trwstanaidd) To render somewhat clumsy; to become apt to stumble.
Trwstaneiddrwydd, s. m. (trwstanaidd) Clumsiness, aptness to stumble; unluckiness.
Trwstaneiddwch, s. m. (trwstanaidd) Clumsiness
Trwstaniad, s. m. (trwstan) An acting clumsily; a becoming clumsy.
Trwstanu, v. a. (trwstan) To act clumsily.
Trwstanwch, s. m. (trwstan) Clumsiness.
Trwstyll, s. m.—pl. t. on (trwst) What makes a tumult, din, or murmur.
Trwth, s. m.—pl. trythion (ty—rhwth) That is apt to expand.
Trwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (trw) A pass through.
Trwy, prep. (trw) Through; by, by the means of. Trwyof, through me; trwyot, through thee; trwyo, through him, or it; trwyi, through her; trwyom, through us; trwyoch, through you; trwyynt, through them.

Tafawd teg a â trwy y byd.

A fair tongue will go through the world. Adage.

Twyll trwy ymddiried.

Deception through confiding. Adage.

Adrawdd gwir trwy Ddnw a gaf,
I'r byd, ac nis arbedaf.

Declare the truth through God, I shall have to do to the world, and I will not spare. Ieuan Tew.

Cymer drwy wychder dy ran;
Gad i ereill gadw arian.

Take through a nobleness of spirit thy share; leave to others to hoard money. Meredydd ab Rhys.

Mi awn at ddeuwr o'm iaith—
Trwy'r las iaen, trwy'r maen mynor,
Trwy dân maith, trwy dònau mor.

I would resort to two persons of common speech with me, through the blue sheet of ice, through the marble stone, through extensive fire, through the waves of the sea. L. G. Cothi.

Trwyad, s. m. (trwy) Permeation, pervasion.
Trwyadl, a. (trwyad) Active, alert, smart, lively; playful, sportive.

Am araeth drwyadl gadair gysou
Rhym gelwir gyfrwys yn llys Don.

For the sportive fancy of harmonious poesy, I am called skilful, in the court of Don. Taliesin, Cadair Cyridwen.

Trwyadledd, s. m. (trwyadl) Sprightliness.
Trwyadlu, v. a. (trwyadl) To render alert, smart, or sprightly; to become sprightly.
Trwyaw, v. a. (trwy) To permeate, to pervade.
Trwyawg, a. (trwy) Pervasive, pervading.
Trwyawl, a. (trwy) Tending to pervade.
Trwyd, s. m. (trwy) A burst, or pass through. a. Bursting, or passing through.

Ceffid eu ceinllith, cwn cynllwyd;
Ceffynt feryon forefwyd;
Ceffitor ymdwr am drwyd, hefelydd
Twrch terydd i ar fwyd.

Obtaining their dainty food, the grey-headed dogs; were the kites to obtain a morning meal; a gathering together will be obtained round a pass, like the fierce boar on his feast. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Y tro a aeth, i'r twrch trwyd,
I Ddafydd a addefwyd.

The fortune that befel the bursting boar, to David has been promised. L. G. Cothi.

Trwydaw, v. a. (trwyd) To penetrate; to burst.
Trwydawg, a. (trwyd) Being penetrated.
Trwydawl, a. (trwyd) Penetrating; bursting.
Trwydiad, s. m. (trwyd) A penetrating.
Trwydoll, a. (trwy—toll) Being burst through.
Trwydwll, a. (trwy—twll) Bursted through.
Trwydd, s. m. (trwy) A passage through; a bore
Trwydd, prep. (trwy) Through; by; with, or by means of. Trwyddof, through me; trwyddot, through thee, trwyddo, through him; trwyddi, through her; trwyddy, through it; trwyddom, through us; trwyddoch, through you; trwyddont, through them.
Trwyddaw, v. a. (trwydd) To pass through.
Trwyddawg, a. (trwydd) Having a passage.
Trwyddawl, a. (trwydd) Tending to perforate.
Trwydded, s. f.—pl. t. au (trwydd) A passage through, a pass; a passport, freedom of passing and repassing; licence, leave; the act of passing through; reception; provision, or maintenance; fruition.

Mi a wn eu trwydded,
A'u tro a'u cerdded.

I know their reception, and their course and their journey. Taliesin.

Efrydd fydd dechrau
Dyn, dewraidd dyrfau;
A'i ddiwedd ef diau,
Angau ynged:
Ac nid oes gochel gochwerw drwydded,
Gwely anghlaear daiar dudded!

Frail is the beginning of man, of gallant exploits; and his end is certain, death so closely pressing; and there is no avoiding the bitter passage, the uncheering bed of the earthly covering. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Rhoddi trwydded iddo, a'i weision, o fwyd a diawd, a dillad.

Giving a welcome to him, and his servants, of victuals, and drink, and clothes. Cyd. Emlyn ac Amic.

Trwyddedawg, a. (trwydd ed) Having a passage, or pass; having liberty of passing and repassing; having admittance as a guest. s. c.—pl. trwyddedogion. One who has leave of egress or ingress; a licentiate; a free guest. Tri thrwyddedawg llys Arthur, the three free guests of the court of Arthur.

Na ddal dy dŷ wrth gynghor dy drwyddedawg.

Keep not thy house according to the advice of thy guest. Adage.

Drwg a drefna wrth ei drwyddedawg.

Badly off is he who manages by the advice of his guest. Adage.

Nid trwyddedawg ond dinair.

There is no free traveller like a penny. Adage.

Trwyddedawl, a. (trwydded) Relating to the free passing through; licensing.

Trwyddedig, a. (trwydded) Freely admitted.

Trwyddedogaeth, s. f. (trwyddedawg) Freedom of passing through.

Tair braint beirdd Ynys Prydain: trwyddedogaeth lle yr elont, nas dycer arf noeth yn eu herbyn, a gair eu gair hwy ar bawb.

The three privileges of the bards of the isle of Britain: freedom of sojourning wherever they go, that a naked weapon be not borne against them, and that their word be taken before every one. Barddas.

Trwyddedogi, v. a. (trwyddedawg) To permit a free passage.

Trwyddedogiad, s. m. (trwyddedawg) A rendering of free passage, permission of passing.

Trwyddedogrwydd, s. m. (trwyddedawg) Freedom of passing through, free admission.

Trwyddedu, v. a. (trwydded) To pass through; to give free reception.

Trwyddedwr, s. m.—pl. trwyddedwyr (trwydded—gwr) One who freely passes through.

Trwyddedwraig, s. f.—pl. trwyddedwreigedd (trwydded—gwraig) A free female ranger.

Trwyddedwraig llen bedwenl,
Trig a dyhudd, Forfudd, fi!

The free ranger of the glade of birches, stay and solace me, O, Morvudd! D. ab Gwilym.

Trwyddew, s. m. (trwydd) What perforates; a piercer, a borer.

Trwyddiad, s. m. (trwydd) A passing through.

Trwyddyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (trwydd) A passage through; a pass; leave of ingress and regress; licence, admittance; fare; provision.

Trwyll, s. f.—pl. t. au (trwy) What turns round; a swivel, or ring, on a pivot; a ring in a swine's nose.

Dodi trwyll yn ei drwyn.

To put a ring in his nose. Adage.

Mi yn son am Wyl Fair; ti yn son am drwyll mochyn.

I talking about Lady Day; thou talking about a pig's ring. Adage.

Esgynais i fynydd mewn cerbyd, yr hon oedd a thrwyll o aur, a dau farch gwynion yn ei dynu.

I mounted up in a chariot the which had a ring of gold, and two white steeds drawing it. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Trwyllaw, v. a. (trwyll) To form a swivel, or ring, to turn round on a pivot; to ring a pig's nose; to trawl, or to fish by trawling.

Da trwyllaw trwyn mochyn a fo yn tiriaw.

It is well to ring a pig's nose that turns the ground. Adage.

Trwyllawg, a. (trwyll) Having a swivel, or ring.

Trwylliad, s. m. (trwyll) A swivelling; a forming a ring; a forming a pivot.

Trwyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (trwy) A point; a snout; a nozzle; a nose. Trwyn y llo, snapdragon.

Sychu trwyn y swch i fyned i'r pridd.

To wipe the point of the share before it goes into the soil. Adage.

Trwynaw, v. a. (trwyn) To nozzle; to nose, to smell with the nose close to a thing.

Trwynawg, a. (trwyn) Having a snout or nose.

Trwynawl, a. (trwyn) Belonging to the snout; nasal.

Trwynbant, a. (trwyn—pant) Having the nose falling in.

Trwynbica, a. (trwyn—pica) Having a turned up nose; snub-nosed.

Trwynbwt, a. (trwyn—pwt) Snub-nosed.

Trwyndwn, a. (trwyn—twn) Broken-nosed.

Trwynedig, a. (trwyn) Snouted; nosed.

Trwynfawr, a. (trwyn—mawr) Large-nosed.

Trwynfyr, a. (trwyn—byr) Short-nosed.

Trwynffrwyn, s. f.—pl. t. au (trwyn—ffrwyn) A nose-band of a bridle.

Trwynffychain, v. a. (trwyn—ffychain) To snort, to snuffle. s. m. A snorting, a snuffling.

Trwynffychain ac agori ei safn a orug.

Snorting and opening his jaw was what he did. H. Bown—Mabinogion.

Trwyngauad, a. (trwyn—cauad) Having the nose closed up.

Trwyngorn, a. (trwyn—corn) Horn-snouted.

Trwyngorniawg, a. (trwyngorn) Having a horned nose. s. m. A rhinoceros.

Trwyngrwm, a. (trwyn—crwm) Having an aquiline nose.

Trwyngrych, a. (trwyn—crych) Crinkle-nosed.

Trwyngrychiad, s. m. (trwyngrych) A crinkling the nose.

Trwyngrychu, v. a. (trwyngrych) To nose crinkle.

Trwynhir, a. (trwyn—hir) Long-nosed.

Trwyniad, s. m. (trwyn) A nosing, a snouting.

Trwynllem, a. (f. of trwynllym) Sharp-nosed.

Trwynllif, s. m. (llif) A running at the nose.

Trwynllifaw, v. n. (trwynllif) To run at the nose.

Trwynllifawg, a. (trwynllif) Snivelly.

Trwynllym, a. (trwyn—llym) Sharp-nosed.

Trwynsor, a. (trwyn—sor) Apt to turn the nose; apt to take a huff. Y trwynsor, the stinking goose-foot.

Trwynsori, v. n. (trwynsor) To turn up the nose; to take a huff.

Trwynsoriad, s. m. (trwynsor) A turning up the nose, a taking a huff.

Trwynswch, s. m. (trwyn—swch) Tip of the nose.

Trwyo, prep. (trwy) Through. adv. Through, to the other side.

Trwyogaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (trwyawg) The act or state of passing through; pervasion.

Tair trwyogaeth cerdd: trylen, trynwyf, a thrynawd.

The three pervasions of song: thorough learning, thorough vigour, and thorough nature. Barddas.

Trwyogedd, s. m. (trwyawg) Pervasiveness.

Trwyogi, v. a. (trwyawg) To render pervading; to become pervasive.

Trwyth, s. f.—pl. t. i (trwy) What pervades; a solvent, dissolvent, or menstruum; lye; a decoction. Twrch Trwyth, the bursting boar.

Trwythadwy, a. (trwyth) Capable of being affected by a menstruum or lye.

Trwythaw, v. a. (trwyth) To make a solvent or menstruum; to steep in lye; to wash in hot suds.

Trwythawl, a. (trwyth) Belonging to a solvent or menstruum; steeped in lye.

Trwythedig, a. (trwyth) Being steeped in lye.

Trwythi, s. m. (trwyth) A menstruum; lye.

Trwythiad, s. m. (trwyth) A forming a solvent or menstruum; a steeping in lye.

Trwythwr, s. m.—pl. trwythwyr (trwyth—gwr) One who steeps in lye.

Try, s. m. (ty—rhy) Aptness to go beyond, to turn, to go to the other side, or to go through.

prep. Through. adv. Through.—It is used as a prefix in composition.

Didraw aeth dry, aeth o dref.

Wandering, he went through, he went from home.
Ieuan Rhaiadr.

Tryad, s. m. (try) A passing through; pervasion.
Tryal, s. m.—pl. t. au (try—al) A homestead.
Tryarllais, a. (try—arllais) Of a stunning voice. Dyn tryarllais, a person with a stunning voice.
Tryaw, v. a. (try) To render thorough.
Tryawch, s. f. (try—awch) A pervading energy to attract; magnetism.
Tryawchiad, s. m. (tryawch) A magnetising.
Tryawchu, v. a. (tryawch) To magnetise.
Tryb, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—rhyb) The state of being connected or blended.
Trybaeddiad, s. m. (try—baeddiad) A daubing thoroughly; a wallowing completely.
Trybaeddu, v. a. (try—baeddu) To daub thoroughly
Trybawl, a. (tryb) Tending to blend or to mix.
Trybed, s. f.—pl. t. au (try—ped) A brandiron.
Trybedd, s. f.—pl. t. au (try—pedd) A stay, or support; a trivet, or brandiron. Trybedd yr ysgwydd, the collar-bone.
Trybeddawg, a. (trybedd) Of thorough footing.
Trybeddawl, a. (trybedd) Thoroughly supporting.
Trybeddiad, s. m. (trybedd) A making a stay.
Trybeddu, v. a. (trybedd) To make a stay.

Trybeddiad rhawd rhag eu dawed.

Let the band make a firm stay against their coming. Taliesin.

Trybelid, a. (try—pelid) That is thoroughly penetrating; perspicuous, luminous.

Trybelid wylain a wylynt arnaf.

The quickly kenning sea-mews gazed upon me. Cynddelw.

Morwyn a welais, mor drybelid,
Mirain gall, o bell a bell glywid.

A damsel I beheld, so elegant, transcendently wise, who from a throne would be far heard of. Ior. Fychan.

Cywod, di was Asaf esill, erfid fawr-lawr;
Gnawd o synwyrfawr farn drybelid.

Arise, thou youth of the line of Asav, meet on the grand scene; from the greatly wise we expect a perspicuous sentence.
Phylip Brydydd.

Trybelidiad, s. m. (trybelid) A penetrating thoroughly; a making perspicuous.

Llu Maelgwn bu ysgwn y daethan',
Aerwyr ced, trybelidiad gwaedlan.

The hosts of Maelgwn it was fortunate that they came, the warriors of liberality, the illumination of the gory plain.
Ym. Taliesin a Merddin.

Trybelidiaw, v. a. (trybelid) To penetrate thoroughly; to become perspicuous.
Trybelidrwydd, s. m. (trybelid) Perspicuousness.
Trybelyd, a. (try—pelyd) Thoroughly radiant.
Trybelydr, s. m. (trybelyd) A thorough radiance.
Trybelydrawg, a. (trybelydr) Thoroughly radiant.
Trybelydriad, s. m. (trybelydr) A radiating through.
Trybelydru, v. a. (trybelydr) To radiate through.
Trybest, s. m. (tryb) Bustle, or commotion.
Trybestawd, s. m. (trybest) A bustling state.

Atebwis Flamddwyn, fawr drybestawd,
A ddodynt yn ngwystlon?——

Then replied Flamddwyn, of mighty bustle, would they give in as hostages? Taliesin.

Trybestiad, s. m. (trybest) A bustling.
Trybestu, v. a. (trybest) To bustle, to bluster.
Trybestyd, s. m. (trybest) Bustle; officiousness.
Tryblith, s. m. (try—plith) A chaos.
Tryboeth, a. (poeth) Being thoroughly hot.
Tryboethi, v. a. (tryboeth) To heat thoroughly.
Tryboethiad, s. m. (tryboeth) A thoroughly heating.

Trybola, s. m. (trybawl) A mixture; a wallowing place, a mire where swine wallow.
Tryboli, v. a. (trybawl) To huddle; to wallow.
Tryboliad, s. m. (trybawl) A huddling; a wallowing
Trybwl, a. (try—pwl) Thoroughly dull.
Trybwyll, s. m. (pwyll) Thorough reason. a. Thoroughly rational; of a penetrating mind.
Trybwyllaw, v. a. (trybwyll) To endue with a penetrating mind; to exert a penetrating mind.
Trybwyllawg, a. (trybwyll) Of a penetrating mind.
Trybwylliad, s. m. (trybwyll) An endowing with a penetrating mind; penetration of mind.
Trybwyllus, a. (trybwyll) Of a penetrating mind.
Trybylawg, a. (trybwl) Being pervaded or loaded with what is thick and heavy. Hin drybylawg, thick gloomy weather, without rain.
Trybyliad, s. m. (trybwl) A pervasion of dullness.
Trybylu, v. a. (trybwl) To pervade with dullness.
Tryciad, s. m. (trwc) A dragging heavily; a failing, a flagging.
Tryciaw, v. a. (trwc) To cause to fail; to flag.

Draig hir, pan drycial ereill——
Mawr ei yoni.

The towering leader, when others should fail, great his energy.
T. Alaw.

Tryciaw ardal tir Cawnis.

To cause to fail the region of the land of Cawnis.
Hywel Reinallt.

Tryciawl, a. (trwc) Flagging, dragging.
Tryciedig, a. (tryciad) Being made to flag.
Trych, s. m. (ty—rhych) An opening; a scope.
Trychad, s. m. (trwch) A cutting off, excision.
Trychadwy, a. (trychad) Capable of being cut.
Trychawl, a. (trwch) Cutting, mangling, lopping.
Trychddawn, a. (trwch—dawn) Endued with a cutting quality.
Trycheb, s. f.—pl. t. au (trwch) The figure called a tmesis, whereby a word is divided by the interposition of another.
Trychedig, a. (trwch) Being cut or bisected.
Trychedd, s. m. (trwch) The state of being lopped
Trychfa, s. f.—pl. trychfeydd (trwch) A cut or chopping-place.
Trychgyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trwch—cyf) A chopping-block.
Trychiad, s. m.—pl. trychiaid (trwch) A cutter, a lopper; that makes an incision or excision.

A'i lyw cyfarfu cyfwyrain a thrin,
A thrychiaid gwerin Caerfyrddin fain.

And his leader met insurrection and tumult, and the manglers of the people of Caervyrddin built of stone.
Ein. ab Gwgawn, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Trychiedig, a. (trwch) Being cut off; truncated.
Trychiedigaeth, s. m. (trychiedig) An incision.
Trychiedigawl, a. (trychiedig) Incisive, incisory.
Trychiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trychiad) A cutter, a lopper.
Trychineb, s. m. (trwch) The state of being cut off; disaster, calamity; mischief.

Ar fyrder y daw amser cynhauaf iddi; sef yw hyny amser aflwydd, trychineb, a dialedd.

Shortly there will come the time of harvest for her; that is to say, the time of misfortune, mischief, and vengeance. Ier. Owain.

Trychinebawl, a. (trychineb) Calamitous.
Trychinebiad, s. m. (trychineb) A causing a calamity or mischief; a becoming disastrous.
Trychinebu, v. a. (trychineb) To cause a calamity; to become calamitous.
Trychinebus, a. (trychineb) Disastrous, fell.
Trychion, s. pl. aggr. (trwch) Cuttings; shreds.
Trychionyn, s. m. dim. (trychion) A shred.
Trychlam, s. m.—pl. t. au (trwch—llam) A disastrous or sad step.

Trychni, s. m. (trwch) Disaster, calamity, mishap, misfortune.

Trychni, nid hawdd ei ochel.

Disaster, it is not easy to avoid it. Adage.

——Aeth fy mwa i
Yn dri-chnap, anian drychni.

My bow is gone in three pieces, a woeful accident.
D. ab Gwilym.

Trycholdeb, s. m. (trychawl) A mangled state.
Trycholedd, s. m. (trychawl) A mangled state.
Trycholi, v. a. (trychawl) To render mangled; to become cut and mangled.
Trychu, v. a. (trwch) To cut, to cut into, to make an incision; to lop.

Trychwys Eingl: trychion eu hadawai.
I Loegrwys hwysgynt lletgynt nid llai,
Cyn llas.——

He mangled the Angles: mangled ones he would leave them.
To the Lloegrians the devastation of wrath not the less, though he be slain. Cynddelw, m. Cadwallon.

Gwinllan sydd i ym hanwylyd—ac ef a drychodd winwryf ynddi.

To my well beloved there is a vineyard: and he cut a wine-press in it. Isaiah 5. 2.

Trychwan, s. m. (trwch—gwan) A slit, a split.
Trychwanawg, a. (trychwan) Having slits. Llenlian drychwanawg, a veil cloth full of slits.
Trychwanu, s. m. (trychwan) To slit, to split.
Trychwil, a. (try—chwil) Thoroughly searching.
Trychwiliaw, v. a. (trychwil) To search keenly.
Trychwn, s. m. (try—cwn) That bursts or rises through. a. Bursting through.
Trychwr, s. m.—pl. trychwyr (trwch—gwr) A cutter, a lopper.
Trychwydd, s. m. (trych—gwydd) A glance of the present; a glance or view of knowledge.

Cerddgar cyfarwar cyfarwydd yw Duw
Diweddwr cyn trychwydd;
A'm rhoddes, nid rhodd gwaradwydd,
Trech Wynedd, haelonedd hylwydd.

The calm pleasure of the love of song is cognizable with God, he that determines before the glance of knowledge; he who gave, not the gift of disgrace, that Gwynedd, prosperous in liberality, should prevail. Cynddelw, m. O. Gwynedd.

Trychwyddaw, v. a. (trychwydd) To obtain visual knowledge.
Trychwyddawl, a. (trychwydd) Visibly present.
Trychwyddiad, s. (trychwydd) A visibly knowing
Trychwyl, s. f. (trw—chwyl) A course through.
Trychwylaw, v. (trychwyl) To circulate through.
Trychwyliad, s. m. (trychwyl) A circulating through.
Trychwys, s. m. (trw—chwys) A sweat through.
Trychwysawl, a. (trychwys) Transuding.
Trychwysiad, s. m. (trychwys) Transudation.
Trychwysu, v. a. (trychwys) To transude.
Trychwyth, s. m. (trw—chwyth) A blast through.
Trychwythawl, a. (trychwyth) Blowing through.
Trychwythiad, s. (trychwyth) A blowing through.
Trychwythu, v. a. (trychwyth) To blow through.
Trychydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trwch) A cutter, a lopper.
Trychyn, s. m. dim. (trwch) A small cut, a nip.
Tryd, s. m. (try) That tends through. a. Apt to penetrate, or to run through.

Annelais rhwng fy nwylaw
Fwa, yw dryd a fu draw.

I aimed between my hands a yew bow, pervading was the shock.
D. ab Gwilym.

Trydan, s. m. (trw—tan) A pervading principle of expansion, a pervading fire; electric fluid.
Trydanawl, a. (trydan) Belonging to the electric fluid.
Trydaniad, s. m. (trydan) An electrifying.
Trydaniaeth, s. m. (trydan) Electricity.
Trydanu, v. a. (trydan) To electrify.
Trydar, s. f. (tryd—ar) A pervading noise; a chirp, a chatter; a din, a tumult.

Oedd ryn rudd ebyr o'r gwyr gwar;
Oedd ran feirw fwyaf o'r drydar;
Oedd amliw tònau, twn amar eu naid
Nid oeddynt dilafar.

There ran dreadful streams of red from the silent men; dead were they the greatest part of the tumult; motley-tinted were the waves, breaking in discordant course, they were not failing in utterance. Ll. P. Moch.

Trydar, v. a. (tryd—ar) To make a pervading noise; to chirp, to chatter; to din.
Trydarawl, a. (trydar) Chirping; chattering.
Trydariad, s. m. (trydar) A chatting; a dinning.
Trydaru, v. a. (trydar) To chirp, to chatter.
Trydarwr, s. m.—pl. trydarwyr (trydar—gwr) One who makes a chatter.
Trydarydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trydar) Chatterer.
Tryde, s. f. (tryd) A third. a. Third.
Trydedydd, s. m. (tryd—e—dydd) The third day; the third day of the week. Bardism.
Trydedd, s. f. (tryd—edd) A third. a. Third.
Trydeddwaith, s. f. (trydedd—gwaith) Third time
Trydewaith, s. (tryde—gwaith) The third time.
Trydiad, s. m. (tryd) A pervasion. Trydoll drydiad, the pervasion of destruction.
Trydolwyn, s. f. (tryd —olwyn) Course of a wheel

Am eurfro, am eurfron terwyn,
Torf anwar trydar trydolwyn.

Round the golden region, round the golden presence fierce, a ruthless host makes a tumult like the passing wheel.
Cynddelw, i'r argl. Rhys.

Trydon, s. f. (tryd) That is pervasive. Y drydon, the stinking goose-foot; also called trwynsor.
Trydon, a. (try—ton) Thoroughly toned.

Trydon dy fàn ar lanerch
Trydar syw, trawiadur serch.

Full-toned thy strain on the glade, with smart chirp, the exciter of love. D. ab Gwilym, i fwyalch.

Trydwan, s. m. (tryd—gwan) Four days to come. adv. Four days hence.
Trydwll, s. m.—pl. trydyllau (trw—twll) A hole through any thing, a perforation. a. Perforated
Trydy, s. m. (tryd) The third. a. Third.
Trydydyn, s. m. (trydy—dyn) A third person.
Trydydd, s. m. (tryd—ydd) A third, one out of three. a. Third.

Trydydd anhebgor brenin yw ei benteulu; y ddau ereill ynt ei offeiriad teulu, ac ei ynad llys.

The third indispensable of a king is his patron of the family; the other two are his domestic chaplain, and his judge of the palace. Welsh Laws.

Pan welai Llyr nad oedd ganddo nemawr wrth ei osgordd, ond ei fod ar ei drydydd, cywilyddiaw a wnai.

When Llyr perceived that he had not many in his retinue, but that he was on his third, he became abashed. Gr. ab Arthur.

Trydyddiad, s. m. (trydydd) A forming a third.
Trydyddu, v. a. (trydydd) To tertiate.
Trydygwr, s. m. (trydy—gwr) A third person.
Trydylledig, a. (trydwll) Perforated, bored.
Trydylliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trydwll) Perforation.
Trydyllu, v. a. (trydwll) To perforate.
Trydyllwr, s. m.—pl. trydyllwyr (trydwll—gwr) One who perforates.
Trydyllydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trydwll) Perforator.
Trydd, s. m. (try) That is thoroughly.
Trydded, s. f.—pl. t. au (trydd) Passage through.
Tryddedawg, a. (trydded) Having a free passage.
Tryddedawl, a. (trydded) Passing through.
Tryddediad, s. m. (trydded) A passing through.
Tryddedu, v. a. (trydded) To pass through.
Tryddedwr, s. m.—pl. tryddedwyr (trydded—gwr) A passenger.

Tryddedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trydded) A passer through, a passenger.
Tryddyd, s. m. (trydd) A passage through.
Tryf, s. m. (try) That is thorough.
Tryfal, s. m.—pl. t. au (tryf—al) What has three corners; a triangl. Tryfal cyfochrawg, equilateral-triangle; tryfal daugyfochr, isoceles-triangle; tryfal anghyfochrawg, a scalenous-triangle; tryfal lleddf, oblique-angular triangle.
Tryfaledd, s. m. (tryfal) The state of having three points or angles; the bottom of a fork, or where it divides.
Tryfaliad, s. m. (tryfal) A forming a triangle.
Tryfalu, v. a. (tryfal) To form a triangle.
Tryfall, a. (trw—mall) Thoroughly evil.

Nid mall tryfall ond diogi.

There is no evil thoroughly evil but idleness. Adage.

Tryfalledd, s. m. (tryfall) A state thoroughly evil.
Tryfalliad, s. m. (tryfall) A rendering thoroughly evil; a becoming thoroughly evil.
Tryfallu, v. a. (tryfall) To render thoroughly evil; to become evil thoroughly.
Tryfan, s. m. (try—man) That is spotted through. Dail y tryfan, alan mawr, the petasites, or butter-burr.
Tryfar, s. m. (trw—bar) Thorough wrath. a. Malignant.
Tryfarus, a. (tryfar) Thoroughly malignant.
Tryfawl, a. (tryf) Being thorough or complete.
Tryfer, s. f.—pl. t. i (tryf) A forked spear, or harpoon.

A thryfer brwydr a thrafod.

And the barbed shaft of battle and tumult. Iolo Goch.

Tryferawg, a. (tryfer) Having a bearded spear.
Tryferiad, s. m. (tryfer) A harpooning.
Tryferu, v. a. (tryfer) To spear; to harpoon. 'Tryferai alon,' he transfixt the foes.
Tryferw, s. m. (trw—berw) A thorough boil. a. Thoroughly boiling.
Tryferwad, s. m. (tryferw) A boiling through.
Tryferwi, v. a. (tryferw) To boil through.
Tryferwr, s. m.—pl. tryferwyr (tryfer—gwr) A spearer; a harpooner.
Tryfesur, s. m.—pl. t. au (trw—mesur) A diameter
Tryfesuraw, v. a. (tryfesur) To form a diameter.
Tryfesurawl, a. (tryfesur) Diametrical.
Tryfesuriad, s. m. (tryfesur) A measuring a diameter.
Tryfol, s. m. (try—bol) That is all belly.
Tryfoliad, s. m. (tryfol) A gormandizing.
Tryfoliaw, v. a. (tryfol) To gormandize.
Tryfoliawg, a. (tryfol) Gormandizing.
Tryfoliwr, s. m.—pl. tryfoliwyr (tryfol—gwr) A gormandizer, a greedy-gut.
Tryfrad, s. m. (trw—brad) Thorough treachery.
Tryfrith, a. (trw—brith) Streaked, diversified, or spotted all through; thoroughly mixed; swarming, or teeming. Mae y mor yn dryfrith o bysgod, the sea is swarming with fish.
Tryfrithaw, v. a. (tryfrith) To variegate thoroughly; to mix all through; to be swarming.
Tryfrithiad, s. m. (tryfrith) A variegating thoroughly; a mixing thoroughly; a swarming.
Tryfrwyd, s. m. (trw—brwyd) The state of darting through and through. a. Interweaving.
Tryfrwydaw, v. a. (tryfrwyd) To run through backwards and forwards.

Yn tryfrwyd peleidr.

Javelins darting through backwards and forwards. Aneurin.

Tryfrwydawl, a. (tryfrwyd) Interweaving.
Tryfrwydiad, s. m. (tryfrwyd) An interweaving.
Tryfwg, s. m. (try—mwg) Thorough smoke.
Tryfygawl, a. (tryfwg) Tending to smoke through.
Tryfygiad, s. m. (tryfwg) A thorough fumigation.
Tryfygu, v. a. (tryfwg) To fumigate through.
Tryfyned, v. a. (trw—myned) To go through.
Tryfynediad, s. m. (tryfyned) A going through, a passing through; pervasion.
Tryfyw, a. (trw—byw) Thoroughly alive.
Tryfywiad, s. m. (tryfyw) A thoroughly animating.
Tryfywiaw, v. a. (tryfyw) To animate thoroughly.
Tryfywiawg, a. (tryfyw) Thoroughly animated.
Tryffaeth, a. (trw—ffaeth) Thoroughly mellow.
Tryffaethawl, a. (tryffaeth) Tending to make thoroughly mellow.
Tryffaethder, s. (tryffaeth) Thorough mellowness.
Tryffaethiad, s. m. (tryffaeth) A thoroughly mellowing.
Tryffaethu, v. a. (tryffaeth) To mellow thoroughly
Tryffin, s. f. (trw—ffin) A thorough boundary.
Tryffiniad, s. m. (tryffin) A making a boundary through.
Tryffiniaw, v. a. (tryffin) To make a boundary through.
Tryffiniawl, a. (tryffin) Thoroughly bounding.
Tryffraw, a. (trw—ffraw) Thoroughly agitated.
Tryffwn, s. m. (try—ffwn) Thorough prosperity.

Am Drefan dryffwn rhag eiriolydd.

About Trevan complete prosperity before the intercessor. Meilyr.

Tryffwrch, s. m.—pl. tryffyrch (trw—ffwrch) The commencement of a forking, or ramification. Tryffwrch pren, the part of a tree where it becomes forked.
Trylais, s. m.—pl. tryleisiau (trw—llais) A thorough voice. a. Of thorough voice.

Cyfarchais, yn drylais, draw,
Well iddi'n gan i'w llwyddaw.

I greeted, distinctly of voice, yonder, to her a better fare in song for her prospering. D. ab Gwilym, i'r gog.

Trylanw, s. m. (trw—llanw) A thorough fulness.
Trylaw, s. f. (try—llaw) A complete hand. a. Thoroughly handy; dexterous.

Amdryni drylaw drylen.

Encompassed with wrath, dexterous, of thorough training. Aneurin.

Trylawn, a. (trw—llawn) Thoroughly full.
Trylawnder, s. m. (trylawn) Thorough fulness.
Trylawni, v. a. (trylawn) To fill thoroughly.
Trylawniad, s. m. (trylawn) A filling thoroughly.
Trylef, s. m. (trw—llef) A thorough utterance. a. Of thorough utterance, of complete voice.

Llew trylew, trylef ei geinlaid.

The lion altogether brave, completely of voice his minstrels. Ll. P. Moch, i R. ab Owain.

Trylefawl, a. (trylef) Of complete utterance.
Trylefiad, s. m. (trylef) A rendering of complete utterance.
Trylefu, v. a. (trylef) To render of complete utterance; to render articulate.
Tryleisiad, s. m. (trylais) A rendering of complete voice.
Tryleisiaw, v. a. (trylais) To articulate clearly.
Tryleisiawl, a. (trylais) Of clear articulation.
Trylen, s. f.—pl. t. i (trw—llen) Thorough learning. a. Thoroughly learned.
Trylenwad, s. m. (trylanw) A thoroughly filling.
Trylenwawl, a. (trylanw) Tending to fill thoroughly

Trylenwi, v. a. (trylanw) To fill thoroughly.
Tryles, s. m. (trw—lles) A thorough benefit.
Trylesawl, a. (tryles) Thoroughly beneficial.
Trylesiad, s. m. (tryles) A thoroughly benefiting.
Trylesu, v. a. (tryles) To benefit thoroughly.
Trylew, a. (trw—glew) Thoroughly collected; full of capability; very brave.

Ef drylew yn rhiw,
A'i dorf drylwyn wiw,
A'i darian dryliw droch.

He abundant in resources on the pass, with his excelling host of dexterous movement, and his shield broken and pervaded with stains. Cynddelw.

Trylewder, s. m. (trylew) The state of thorough resource or ability; thorough bravery.
Trylewdid, s. m. (trylew) Thorough resource of mind; thorough bravery.
Trylewych, s. m. (trw—llewych) Translucency.
Trylewychawl, a. (trylewych) Translucent.
Trylewychiad, s. (trylewych) A lighting through.
Trylewychu, v. a. (trylewych) To shine through.
Trylid, s. m. (trw—llid) Thorough rage.
Trylidiad, s. m. (trylid) A thoroughly angering.
Trylidiaw, v. a. (trylid) To enrage thoroughly; to become thoroughly angry.
Trylidiawg, a. (trylid) Thoroughly wrathful.
Trylif, s. m. (try—llif) A thorough flow.
Trylifaw, v. a. (trylif) To flow through.
Trylifawl, a. (trylif) Flowing through.
Trylifiad, s. m. (trylif) A flowing through.
Trylith, s. m. (trw—llith) A thorough training.
Trylithawr, s. m.—pl. trylithorion (trylith) That is thoroughly trained.
Trylithiad, s. m. (trylith) A thoroughly training.
Trylithiaw, v. a. (trylith) To train thoroughly.
Trylithiawl, a. (trylith) Tending to train thoroughly; of a thoroughly alluring tendency.
Trylithr, a. (trw—llithr) Thoroughly gliding.
Trylithraw, v. a. (trylithr) To glide through.
Trylithrawl, a. (trylithr) Apt to glide through.
Trylithriad, s. m. (trylithr) A gliding through.
Tryliw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (trw—lliw) A pervading colour. a. Being stained through, of one pervading hue; deeply coloured. 'Tarian dryliw goch,' a shield thoroughly stained with red.
Tryliwiad, s. m. (tryliw) A colouring through.
Tryliwiaw, v. a. (tryliw) To pervade with colour, to stain through; to make of a deep dye, to engrain.
Tryliwiawg, a. (tryliw) Of a thorough colour.
Tryliwiedig, a. (tryliw) Thoroughly coloured.
Tryloes, s. f.—pl. t. au (trw—gloes) A pang that penetrates through.
Tryloesi, v. a. (tryloes) To strike a pang through.
Tryloesiad, s. m. (tryloes) A striking a pang through
Tryloew, a. (trw—gloew) Diaphanous, transparent
Tryloewad, s. m. (tryloew) A rendering transparent.
Tryloewdeb, s. m. (tryloew) Transparency.
Tryloewder, s. m. (tryloew) Transparency.
Tryloewdra, s. m. (tryloew) Transparency.
Tryloewi, v. a. (tryloew) To render transparent.
Trylon, a. (trw—llon) Being thoroughly glad.
Trylonder, s. m. (trylon) Thorough gladness.
Tryloni, v. a. (trylon) To render thoroughly glad; to become pleased thoroughly.
Tryloniad, s. m. (trylon) A gladdening thoroughly.
Trylosg, s. m. (llosg) Thorough ignition. a. Thoroughly burnt.
Trylosgi, v. a. (trylosg) To burn thoroughly.
Trylosgiad, s. m. (trylosg) A burning thoroughly.
Trylwg, s. m.—pl. trylygon (trw—llwg) Perspective.
Trylwyn, a. (trw—llwyn) Very quick, ready, or dexterous; ingenious; thoroughly complete. Gwr trylwyn, a man of quick capacity; ach drylwyn, an illustrious pedigree.

Terfysg a thrylew a thrylwyn frondor.

A tumult against the thoroughly brave with a quickly shifting shield. Cynddelw.

Dawn ysym yn iawn, yn ddyn ethrylith
A thrylwyn bwylliadau.

A talent I justly possess, being a person of capacity with quick perceptions. Ein. ab Gwalchmai.

Trylwynaw, v. a. (trylwyn) To render thoroughly quick or expert; to become thoroughly quick.
Trylwyndeb, s. m. (trylwyn) Thorough dexterity.
Trylwynder, s. m. (trylwyn) Thorough dexterity.
Trylwyndra, s. m. (trylwyn) Thorough quickness.
Trylwyniad, s. (trylwyn) A rendering thoroughly quick; a becoming thoroughly quick or expert.
Trylwyr, a. (trw—llwyr) Thoroughly complete.
Trylwyraw, v. a. (trylwyr) To render thoroughly complete; to become thoroughly complete.
Trylwyrdeb, s. m. (trylwyr) Thorough completeness.
Trylwyrder, s. m. (trylwyr) Thorough completeness, a state quite entire.
Trylwyrdra, s. m. (trylwyr) Thorough completeness, or thorough entirety.
Trylwyriad, s. m. (trylwyr) A thoroughly completing or making entire.
Trylwys, a. (trw—glwys) Thoroughly hallowed.
Trylwysder, s. m. (trylwys) Thorough holiness.
Trylwysaw, v. a. (trylwys) To render thoroughly pure, holy, or delectable; to become thoroughly holy.
Trylwysiad, s. m. (trylwys) A hallowing thoroughly
Trylygawl, a. (trylwg) Relating to perfect vision; perspective.
Trylygiad, s. m. (trylwg) A perspectively viewing; a forming a perspective.
Trylygu, v. a. (trylwg) To view perspectively.
Trylym, a. (trw—llym) Thoroughly keen.
Trylymder, s. m. (trylym) Thorough keenness.
Trylymdra, s. m. (trylym) Thorough keenness.
Trylymiad, s. m. (trylym) A rendering thoroughly keen, sharp, or severe.
Trylymu, v. a. (trylym) To sharpen thoroughly.
Trylyn, a. (try—glyn) Thoroughly adherent.
Trylyniad, s. m. (trylyn) A thoroughly adhering.
Trylynu, v. a. (trylyn) To adhere thoroughly.
Trym, s. m. (ty—rhym) That is compact. a. Compact; energetic; trim.

Nid wyf i'ch oedi——
Ion trym, ond rhag ofn un tro
Gaswaith i arall geisio.

I am not for putting you off, energetic lord, but for fear of the one disgusting turn of another making an attempt. D. Benwys.

Mae 'n y nef yn gartrefig,
Llew trym, a dyna lle trig.

He is in heaven residing, the energetic lion, and there he will remain. Tho. W. Hywel.

Trymâad, s. m. (trymâu) A rendering heavy or weighty; a becoming heavy; a saddening.
Trymâawl, a. (trymâu) Of a tendency to make heavy; saddening.
Trymaidd, a. (trwm) Somewhat heavy or sad.
Trymâu, v. a. (trwm) To make heavy, to sadden; to become heavy; to become sad or dejected.
Trymder, s. m. (trwm) Heaviness, weightiness, depression, sadness; dejectedness, sorrow.
Trymdra, s. m. (trwm) Heaviness; sadness.
Trymdrais, s. m. (trwm—trais) Heavy oppression.
Trymdde, a. (trwm—de) Pervaded with heaviness; sad; drooping.

Trymeiddiad, s. m. (trymaidd) A rendering somewhat heavy; a becoming rather heavy.
Trymeiddiaw, v. a. (trymaidd) To render somewhat heavy; to become rather heavy.
Trymeidd-dra, s. m. (trymaidd) A some degree of heaviness or pressure.
Trymeiddrwydd, s. m. (trymaidd) Some degree of heaviness or pressure.
Trymedd, s. m. (trwm) Heaviness; sadness.
Trymfraw, s. m. (trwm—braw) Heavy dread.
Trymfron, s. f. (trwm—bron) Sad breast.
Trymfryd, s. m. (trwm—bryd) Depression of mind, pensiveness; sorrow.

> Morfudd——
> Afraid it ddala trymfryd.
> Am bren, na bedwen o'r byd.
>
> Morvudd, needless is it for thee to harbour sadness, about a tree, or any birchen in the world. D. ab Gwilym.

Trymfrydiad, s. m. (trymfryd) A rendering depressed in mind; a becoming dejected.
Trymfrydig, a. (trymfryd) Oppressed in mind.
Trymfrydigrwydd, s. m. (trymfryd) Pensiveness.
Trymgur, s. m. (trwm—cur) A heavy throb.
Trymguraw, v. a. (trymgur) To beat heavily.
Trymguriad, s. m. (trymgur) A beating heavily.
Trymgwsg, s. m. (trwm—cwsg) A heavy sleep.
Trymgwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (trwm—cwyn) A heavy complaint.
Trymgwynaw, v. (trymgwyn) To complain sadly.
Trymgwyniad, s. m. (trymgwyn) A complaining heavily.
Trymgysgiad, s. m. (trymgwsg) A sleeping heavily.
Trymgysgu, v. a. (trymgwsg) To sleep heavily.
Trymhun, s. f. (trwm—hun) A heavy sleep.
Trymhunaw, v. a. (trymhun) To sleep heavily.
Trymhunawl, a. (trymhun) Heavily sleeping.
Trymhuniad, s. m. (trymhun) A sleeping heavily.
Trymhwrdd, s. m. (trwm—hwrdd) A heavy push.
Trymhyrddawl, a. (trymhwrdd) Heavily pushing.
Trymhyrddiad, s. (trymhwrdd) A pushing heavily
Trymhyrddig, a. (trymhwrdd) Lumpish, blockish.
Trymhyrddigaw, v. a. (trymhyrddig) To render a blockhead; to become dull and heavy.
Trymhyrddigrwydd, s. m. (trymhyrddig) Lumpishness, blockishness.
Trymiad, s. m. (trym) A rendering energetic.
Trymiaw, v. a. (trym) To render energetic; to become energetic; to become trim.
Trymiawg, a. (trym) Having compactness; having energy; having trimness.
Trymiawl, a. (trym) Of a compact tendency.
Trymlwyth, s. m.—pl. t. i (trwm—llwyth) A heavy load.
Trymlwythaw, v. a. (trymlwyth) To load heavily.
Trymlwythawg, a. (trymlwyth) Heavily laden.
Trymly, s. m. (trwm—lly) A heavy look.
Trymlŷad, s. m. (trymly) A rendering sluggish.
Trymlŷaw, v. a. (trymly) To render sluggish.
Trymlŷawg, a. (trymly) Heavily drooping; drowsy, flagging. Hin drymlŷawg, heavily oppressing weather.
Trymlyogder, s. m. (trymlŷawg) Drowsiness.
Trymlyogi, v. a. (trymlŷawg) To render drowsy.
Trymlyogrwydd, s. (trymlŷawg) Drowsiness.
Trymog, s. f. (trym) One that is compact or trim.

> Rhodda'is fy mryd ar gaffaw;
> Rhowch drymog llorpog i'm llaw.
>
> I set my mind on obtaining one; give a trim one with large limbs into my hand. Ieu. ab Huw, i ferch ddiawg.

Trymswrth, a. (trwm—swrth) Heavily sluggish.
Trymsyrthni, s. m. (trymswrth) Drowsiness.
Trymysg, s. m. (try—mysg) Confusion.
Trymysgawl, a. (trymysg) Tending to confuse.
Trymysgiad, s. m. (trymysg) A confusion.
Trymysgu, v. a. (trymysg) To blend through and through; to confuse.

> Nid hawdd trymysg ar gall.
>
> It is not easy to bring confusion on the cunning. Adage.

Tryn, s. m.—pl. t. i (ty—rhyn) Ardency, fierceness. a. Ardent, fierce, sharp, stern. Dyn a golwg tryn iawn, a person with a very stern look. Sil.
Trynaidd, a. (tryn) Of an ardent tendency.
Trynawf, s. m. (trw—nawf) A swim through.
Trynawl, a. (tryn) Of an ardent quality; of a fierce or stern quality.
Trynaws, s. m. (trw—naws) A temper or quality that pervades.
Trynawsedd, s. m. (trynaws) A pervading temperament or nature.
Trynawsi, v. a. (trynaws) To pervade with a quality or disposition.
Trynawsiad, s. m. (trynaws) A pervading with a quality, disposition, or nature.
Trynedd, s. m. (tryn) Ardency; fierceness.
Trynerth, s. m. (trw—nerth) Thorough strength.
Trynerthawl, a. (trynerth) Thoroughly strong.
Trynerthedd, s. m. (trynerth) Thorough strength.
Trynerthiad, s. m. (trynerth) A thoroughly strengthening.
Trynerthu, v. a. (trynerth) To strengthen thoroughly.
Trynodd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trw—nodd) A pervading juice, or fluid.
Trynoddawl, a. (trynodd) Tending to ooze through.
Trynoddi, v. a. (trynodd) To ooze through.
Trynoddiad, s. m. (trynodd) An oozing through.
Trynoddlyd, a. (trynodd) Thoroughly oozing.
Trynofiad, s. m. (trynawf) A swimming through.
Trynofiaw, v. a. (trynawf) To swim through.
Trynofiawl, a. (trynawf) Tending to swim through
Trynwyd, s. m.—pl. t. au (trw—nwyd) A pervading emotion, energy, or passion.
Trynwydaw, v. a. (trynwyd) To pervade with an emotion or passion.
Trynwydawg, a. (trynwyd) Having a pervading emotion or passion.
Trynwydawl, a. (trynwyd) Being thoroughly impassioned.
Trynwydiad, s. m. (trynwyd) A pervading with an emotion or passion.
Trynwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (trw—nwyf) Thorough liveliness, thorough vivacity.
Trynwyfaw, v. a. (trynwyf) To render thoroughly brisk or lively; to become full of gaiety.
Trynwyfawl, a. (trynwyf) Thoroughly lively.
Trynwyfiad, s. m. (trynwyf) A rendering full of vivacity; a becoming thoroughly animated or enlivened.
Trynwyfus, a. (trynwyf) Full of vivacity.
Trynwyfusaw, v. a. (trynwyfus) To render full of vivacity; to become thoroughly animated.
Trynwyfusrwydd, s. m. (trynwyfus) A state of thorough liveliness.
Tryred, s. f. (trw—rhed) A run through.
Tryredawl, a. (tryred) Being running through.
Tryredeg, v. a. (tryred) To run through.
Tryrediad, s. m. (tryred) A running through.
Tryrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trw—rhith) A thorough appearance.
Tryrithiad, s. m. (tryrith) An appearing through.

Tryrithiaw, v. a. (tryrith) To appear through.
Tryrithiawl, a. (tryrith) Appearing through.
Tryryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (try—rhyw) A perfect kind. a. Thorough-bred.
Tryrywiad, s. m. (tryryw) A rendering of a perfect kind; a becoming of perfect kind.
Tryrywiaw, v. a. (tryryw) To render of perfect kind; to become of a perfect kind.
Tryrywiawg, a. (tryryw) Being of perfect kind.
Tryrywiawl, a. (tryryw) Of a perfect kind.
Trysain, s. f.—pl. tryseiniau (trw—sain) A thorough sound. a. Of complete sound.
Trysawdd, s. f.—pl. trysoddion (trw—sawdd) A cube root.
Trysawr, s. m.—pl. trysorau (trws) A treasure.
Tryseiniad, s. m. (trysain) A thoroughly sounding
Tryseiniaw, v. a. (trysain) To sound perfectly.
Tryseiniawl, a. (trysain) Of a perfect sound.
Trysglaidd, a. (trwsgl) Somewhat awkward.
Trysgledd, s. m. (trwsgl) Awkwardness.
Trysgleidd-dra, s. m. (trysglaidd) Awkwardness.
Trysgleiddiad, s. m. (trysglaidd) A rendering clumsy or awkward; a becoming awkward.
Trysgleiddiaw, v. a. (trysglaidd) To render clumsy; to become clumsy or awkward.
Trysgleiddrwydd, s. m. (trysglaidd) Awkwardness.
Trysorawl, a. (trysawr) Belonging to treasure.
Trysorfa, s. f.—pl. trysorfeydd (trysawr) A treasury.
Trysori, v. a. (trysawr) To treasure, to store up.
Trysoriad, s. m. (trysawr) A treasuring.
Trysorwr, s. m.—pl. trysorwyr (trysawr—gwr) A treasurer.

> Rhys y Fel Ynys flaenawr——
> Trysorwr pob cerddawr.
>
> Rhys the sovereign of the Honey Island, the treasurer of every minstrel. D. Nanmor.

Trysorydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (trysawr) A treasurer
Trystan, s. c. (trwst) A noisy one, a blusterer.
Trystfawr, a. (trwst) Of great tumult or din.
Trystforedd, s. m. (trystfawr) A blusteringness.
Trystiad, s. m. (trwst) A blustering, a clattering.
Trystian, v. a. (trwst) To keep a clattering.
Trystiaw, v. a. (trwst) To make a noise; to rattle; to rustle; to bluster, to bustle.

> Methu a wna cnawd—mal blodau—
> Neu ddail y gwydd, pan ddel gwynt
> I drystiaw'n arw drostynt.
>
> The body shall fall, like flowers, or the leaves of the wood, when wind shall come to bluster harshly over them. D. Jones o Lanfair.

Trystiawg, a. (trwst) Full of noise; clattering; blustering.
Trystiawl, a. (trwst) Blustering, clattering.
Trystiwr, s. m.—pl. trystiwyr (trwst—gwr) A blusterer, a clatterer.
Tryswn, s. m. (try—swn) A thorough noise. a. Thoroughly noisy.
Trysyniad, s. (tryswn) A making a noise through Trysyniaw, v. a. (tryswn) To noise through.
Trysyniawl, a. (tryswn) Thoroughly noisy.
Trythain, a. (trwth) Expanding, swelling out.
Trythawl, a. (trwth) Tending to expand out.
Trythfa, s. f. (trwth) A stretching place.
Trythgwd, s. m.—pl. trythgydau (trwth—cwd) A bag or satchel that is made to draw together.

> Sef yw trythgwd: y llawgydau ag a fo ynddynt, eithr aur neu ariant, o bydd lle cedwir tlysau.
>
> A distending bag is thus considered: the hand-bags in which there may be every thing, except gold and silver, if they be where jewels are kept. Welsh Laws.

Trythiad, s. m. (trwth) An expanding out.
Trython, s. m. (try—tòn) The sharp dock.

Trythu, v. a. (trwth) To expand or swell out.
Trythwch, s. m. (trwth) The state of being expanded or filled out.
Trythwr, s. m.—pl. trythwyr (trwth—gwr) One who expands himself out.
Trythyll, a. (trwth) Voluptuous; addicted to pleasure; wanton; indulgent.

> Drwg ddichwain trythyll.
>
> Evil is the destiny of one addicted to pleasure. Adage.
>
> Trythyll maen yn llaw esgud.
>
> Wanton is a stone in an expert hand. Adage.
>
> Nid oes edn——
> A'i thruth oll ei thrythyllach.
>
> There is not a bird with all her dotage more wanton. D. ab Gwilym, i fwyalch.

Trythyllaidd, a. (trythyll) Rather voluptuous.
Trythylliad, s. m. (trythyll) A living voluptuously; a taking enjoyment, a taking pleasure.
Trythyllu, v. a. (trythyll) To live voluptuously; to take enjoyment; to follow pleasure.
Trythyllwch, s. m. (trythyll) A state of ease or enjoyment; voluptuousness; pleasure.

> Megys y ceiff y rhai da drythyllwch o ddirfawr ewyllys; felly y ceiff y lleill chwerwedd o ddirfawr drueni.
>
> In the manner that the good ones shall obtain the enjoyment of extreme free will; so the others shall obtain the bitterness of extreme misery. Elucidarius.

Trythyllwg, s. m. (trythyll) A state of ease, voluptuousness, or enjoyment; pleasure.

> Trythyllwg drwg ei ddichwain.
>
> Pleasure is of evil consequence. Adage.
>
> Trythyllwg a ddwg i ddyn
> Dialedd o'i hir ddilyn.
>
> Pleasure will bring to a person vengeance from long pursuing it. Hywel Cilan.
>
> Nid oedd o'r teyrnasoedd a allai ymgyffelybu o gyfoeth, a thrythyllwg, ac amlder pob da ynddi, ag Ynys Prydain.
>
> There was not of the kingdoms that could vie in power, and enjoyment, and the abundance of every blessing in it, as the isle of Britain. Gr. ab Arthur.

Trythyllwr, s. m.—pl. trythyllwyr (trythyll—gŵr) A voluptuary, a man who takes his enjoyment.
Tryw, s. m. (try) That pervades, that is continual, or constant; constancy; a trace, what gives perception; knowledge, skill; truth. a. Universal; constant; true. Y tryw, the agrimony.

> Tryw i hwch dyrfu.
>
> It is natural for a sow to burrow. Adage.

Trywal, s. m. (try—gwal) That is spread through
Trywan, s. f. (trw—gwan) An opening or gash through; a thrust through; a stab. a. Being run through.

> Erchwynawg esgar, ysgwyd trywan,
> Yr yfais i'th lys Leisiawn gyman
> Eurmydeddawg lyn, erbyn eurban.
>
> Thou the opposer of the foe, with perforated shield, I have quaffed in thy elegant court of Lleision the golden-waving liquor received in golden cup. Cynddelw, i F. ab Meredudd.

Trywanawl, a. (trywan) Tending to open a passage through; transfixing, stabbing.
Trywanawr, s. pl. (trywan) Acts of stabbing.

> Gwawr trywanawr trin, Elffin eil-ffawd,
> Gwisgaist amdanad gwasgawd lluryg.
>
> Thou dawn of the gashing of conflict, second to Elfin in fortune, thou didst array thyself in a covering of lorica. Ll. Goch ab Meurig Hen.

Trywaniad, s. m. (trywan) An opening a passage through; a thrusting through; a stabbing.
Trywanoldeb, s. m. (trywanawl) A state of having a passage through; the state of being transfixed.

Trywanu, v. a. (trywan) To divide or open through; to pierce, thrust, or burst through; to transfix.

Trillu aeth o Gymmru gynt;
Trwy Wynedd y trywenynt.

Three hosts went from Wales of yore; through Gwynedd they penetrated. Guto y Glyn.

Dywan wan, trywan trwyddi:
Dywed an dawed Geri.

Perambulate a course, pass through it: say that we visit Ceri. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Trywanwr, s. m.—pl. trywanwyr (trywan—gwr) One who opens a passage through; a transfixer

Trywar, a. (trw—gwar) Thoroughly tame or mild

Trywedd, s. m. (tryw) A trace by scent.

Tryweddiad, s. m. (trywedd) A tracing by scent.

Tryweddu, v. a. (trywedd) To trace by scent.

Trywel, s. m. (trw—gwêl) A vision through. a. Perspicuous.

Gwelant yn gyfloew a thrywel, mal hon yw y farn ac y ddosbarth gyfiawn ar gerdd.

They will see clearly and perspicuously, that this is the just sentiment and regulation with respect to the system of verse. Ed. Dafydd.

Tryweled, v. a. (trywel) To see through.

Trywelediad, s. m. (trywel) A seeing through.

Trywiad, s. m. (tryw) A pervading through.

Trywiaw, v. a. (tryw) To pervade, to run through; to become continual, or constant.

Trywydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (tryw) A trace, a scent; intimation. Trywydd ceinach, scent of a hare.

Trywyddawl, a. (trywydd) Having a trace.

Trywyddiad, s. m. (trywydd) A forming a trace; a following a scent.

Trywyddu, v. a. (trywydd) To trace, to follow a scent.

Trywyllt, a. (try—gwyllt) Thoroughly wild.

Trywyn, a. (try—gwyn) Thoroughly happy.

Trywynawl, a. (trywyn) Tending to pervade with bliss; of a conciliatory temper.

Trywyngar, a. (trywyn) Apt to diffuse happiness

Gwrfan esgob Teilaw—gwr doeth haelionus ydoedd—ac a ddyddiai yn drywyngar yn mhob ymrysonau.

Gwrvan the bishop of Teilo, he was a wise liberal man, and he was wont to arbitrate with a conciliatory effect in all disputes. Caradawg o Langarfan.

Trywyniad, s. m. (trywyn) A conciliating.

Trywyniaw, v. a. (trywyn) To conciliate.

Trywynwr, s. m.—pl. trywynwyr (trywyn—gwr) A reconciler, one who conciliates.

TU, s. m. r.—pl. t. oedd. That forms a side; a side, a region, a part. Tu a thraw, towards yonder; tu ag yma, towards here: Tu yma, this side; tu yma, that side; tu acw, yonder side; tu hwnt, tu draw, the other side, beyond.

Tu ni fyno Duw ni lwydd.

The side that God wills not will not prosper. Adage.

Teneu fy ysgwyd ar aswy fy nhu:
Cu bwyf hen, as gallaf,
Ar rodwydd Morlas gwyliaf.

This my shield on the left of my side: though I be old, if I am able, on the course of Morlas I will watch. Llywarch Hen.

Tua, adv. (tu—â) Towards, in a direction to. It is used when a consonant follows.

I-gam o-gam, mal gwr boneddig yn rhodiaw y ffordd tua nef.

Zig-zag like a gentleman perambulating the road towards heaven. Adage.

Tuag, adv. (tu—ag) Towards. It is used instead of tua when a vowel follows.

Gwedi treiglaw pob tref,
Teg edrych tuag adref.

After rambling every town, it is pleasant to look towards home. Adage.

Tuagat, prep. (tuag—at) Towards. Tuagataf, towards me; tuagatat, towards thee; tuagato, towards him or it; tuagati, towards her; tuagatom, towards us; tuagatoch, towards you; tuagatynt, towards them.

Tuallan, s. m. (tu—allan) An outside. a. Outside. prep. On the outside. adv. Outward.

Tuaw, v. a. (tu) To form a side; to side.

Tuawl, a. (tu) Relating to a side or party.

Tuch, s. m. (ty—uch) A grunt, a grumble.

Tuchan, s. m. (tuch) A sighing; a groaning.

Tuchanawl, a. (tuchan) Grunting, grumbling.

Tuchaniad, s. m. (tuchan) A groaning.

Tuchanllyd, a. (tuchan) Apt to grumble.

Tuchanu, v. a. (tuchan) To grunt, to groan.

Ni thuchwn ond o'th achaws.

I would not grumble but on thy account. D. ab Gwilym.

Tuchanus, a. (tuchan) Apt to grunt; grumbling.

Tuchanwr, s. m.—pl. tuchanwyr (tuchan—gwr) A grunter, a grumbler, a groaner; a murmurer

Tuchaw, v. a. (tuch) To grunt, to grumble.

Tuchiad, s. m. (tuch) A grunting, a grumbling.

Tud, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—ud) A surface; a region, a district.

Moes pob tud yn ei dud.

The custom of every place in its place. Adage.

Penaf udd Gruffudd, graid eryr Prydain,
Priodawr tud allmyr.

A supreme lord is Grufudd, the ardent eagle of Britain, the proprietor of a transmarine region. Ll. P. Moch, i R. ab Owain.

Gweled y bum a golwg
Goludoedd drwy'r gwledydd drwg;
Gweled na chaid eu golud;
Ac nid hael ugain o'u tud;
Gweled yn Elfael haelion;
Gweled nad hael gwlad ond hon.

Observing with an eye I have seen the riches in bad countries; thus seeing that their wealth could not be had; and that there were not twenty liberal ones on the surface of them; seeing in Elvael liberal ones; and seeing that there was no liberal country but this. L. G. Cothi.

Tudalen, s. m. (tu—dalen) A side of a leaf.

Tudalenawg, a. (tudalen) Having a page.

Tudalenawl, a. (tudalen) Paginal, paged.

Tudaleniad, s. m. (tudalen) A paging.

Tudalenu, v. a. (tudalen) To form a page.

Tudaw, v. a. (tud) To form a surface or region.

Tudfach, s. m.—pl. t. au (tud—bach) A stilt.

Tudgi, s. m.—pl. t. on (tud—ci) A terrier.

Tudhaul, s. m. (tud—haul) A sunning place.

Tudlath, s. f.—pl. t. au (tud—llath) Meting rod.

Tudlëau, s. pl. (tud—lle) Brogues.

Tudwed, s. m. (tud—gwed) A sward, or sod.

Llwyr losged ei thudwed a'i tho.

Completely burnt was its ground and its roof. Ll. P. Moch.

Tudwedd, s. f. (tud—gwedd) The face of the earth; the sward, or sod.

Mor druenus——
Ar ddeurudd Fadawg fod tudwedd!

How miserable that on the cheeks of Madawg there should be the sod! Gwalchmai.

Tudd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—udd) That is over, or that covers; an obscurity, or shade; gloom; smoke, vapour.

Tuddad, s. m. (tudd) A covering, or enveloping.

Tuddadwy, a. (tuddad) Capable of being covered

Tuddaw, v. a. (tudd) To cover, to envelope.

Pian y bedd yn yr ynys,
Ai tudd mor a goror gwrys!
Bedd Meigen mab Rhun, rwyf llys.

Who owns the grave in the island, which the sea covers with a border of tumult! The grave of Meigen son of Rhun, the regulator of a court. Eng. Beddau Milwyr.

Tuddawg, a. (tudd) Being covered, enveloped.

Tuddawl, a. (tudd) Tending to cover over.

Tudded, s. f.—pl. t. au (tudd) A covering.

Gwas ystafell biau hen ddillad y brenin oll, eithr ei dudded grawys.

The groom of the chamber owns all the old clothes of the king, except his Lent garment. Welsh Laws.

Tuddedawg, a. (tudded) Having a covering.
Tuddedawl, a. (tudded) Belonging to a garment.
Tuddediad, s. m. (tudded) A putting on a garment.
Tuddedu, v. a. (tudded) To put on a covering.
Tuddedyn, s. m. dim. (tudded) A covering.

Pob tuddedyn dinesig xxiv a dal: pob tuddedyn pentan viii.

Every town-wrought garment twenty-four pence is its value: every homespun garment eight pence. Welsh Laws.

Can ni bo i dalawdr namyn tri thuddedyn, efe a ddyly dalu y ddau.

Since there should be to a debtor only three garments, he ought to part with two in payment. Welsh Laws.

Tuedd, s. m. (tu) The state of being on a side; a coast, a region, district; inclination, proneness, tendency.

A oes bryd mor ysbrydawl
A bod ar ffordd——
Tuedd cymyredd mawr;
Tref Rufain tyrfa ryfawr!

Is there any season so spiritual as to be on the road, a course of great estimation, to the city of Rome over-teeming in population! R. Ddu.

Mellt, gwlaw, mwg, fo eu dwg hyd ar
Duedd eithafion daiar.

Lightning, rain, smoke, it bears them to the region of the extremities of the earth. W. Middleton.

Tueddadwy, a. (tuedd) Capable of being rendered inclined or partial.
Tueddawg, a. (tuedd) Having inclination, partial.
Tueddawl, a. (tuedd) Tending to a side; partial, inclined; conducive.
Tueddedig, a. (tuedd) Being made partial.
Tueddfryd, s. m. (tuedd—bryd) Bent of the mind.
Tueddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tuedd) Inclination.
Tueddogi, v. a. (tueddawg) To render partial; to take a side; to become partial.
Tueddoldeb, s. m. (tueddawl) Tendency; partiality; inclinedness; conduciveness.
Tueddolder, s. m. (tueddawl) Tendency; partiality
Tueddoli, v. a. (tueddawl) To render inclined or partial; to become partial.
Tueddoliad, s. m. (tueddawl) A rendering inclined or partial; a becoming partial.
Tueddolrwydd, s. m. (tueddawl) Inclinedness.
Tueddu, v. a. (tuedd) To incline, to bias.
Tueddus, a. (tuedd) Tending to make partial.
Tueddusaw, v. a. (tueddus) To render partial; to become inclined or partial.
Tueddusrwydd, s. m. (tueddus) Inclinedness.
Tueddwr, s. m.—pl. tueddwyr (tuedd—gwr) An incliner, one having partiality.
Tuell, s. f.—pl. t. i (tu) A covert, a cover.

Y tri pheth y dyly gwr faeddu ei wraig: am roddi peth ni ddylyo ei roddi; ac am ei chaffel gan wr a dan duell; ac am unaw mefl ar ei farf.

The three things for which a husband ought to beat his wife: for giving away what she ought not to give; for finding her with a man under a covert; and for wishing disgrace on his beard. Welsh Laws.

Tuelliad, s. m. (tuell) A forming a covert.
Tuellu, v. a. (tuell) To form a covert; to take to a covert.

Tuellu bydd tua lle bo,
Tir i werth tery wrtho.

Taking to a covert he will be about where he stays, land for sale he will find out. S. Brwynawg.

Tufaes, s. m. (tu—maes) An outside. a. Outside. prep. On the outside. adv. Outward.

Tufewn, s. m. (tu—mewn) An inside. a. Inside. prep. Inside. adv. Inwardly.

Gwell tufewn bwth no thufaes castell.

Better withinside a hut than outside of a castle. Adage.

Tufewnawl, a. (tufewn) Internal, inward.
Tuhwnt, s. m. (tu—hwnt) The further side, the off side, the other side. prep. On the further side, on the other side.
Tul, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—ul) An envelop; a shroud.
Tuli, s. m. (tul) That envelopes; a shroud.
Tuliad, s. m. (tul) An enveloping, a shrouding.

Gwythi aur, gwaith Essyllt;
O'i gnawd yn gwan yn dan gwyllt;
Tuliad am fwcled dilys:
Enwais ar awch nai syr Rhys.

Golden veins, of Essyllt's art, from his flesh shooting in wild fire; an envelop round a safely-guarding shield; I have anxiously named the nephew of Sir Rhys. Rhys Tren.

Tuliaw, v. a. (tul) To envelop; to shroud.
Tum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tu—um) A bend, or turn.
Tumiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tum) A forming a bend.
Tumiaw, v. a. (tum) To form a bend, or angle.
Tumiawg, a. (tum) Having a bend, or angle.
Tumiawl, a. (tum) Tending to form a bend.
Tumon, s. f. (tum) A bender, the rower or hinder region of the back, the spine; the part of a carcase called a saddle; one of the twelve prime pieces of a stag.
Tun, s. m. (tu—un) That pierces or pervades.
Tunad, s. m. (tun) A piercing, a pervading.
Tunaw, v. a. (tun) To pierce, or to pervade.
Tunawl, a. (tun) Piercing, pervading.
Tur, s. m. (tu—ur) A change of side, or a reverse.
Turiad, s. m. (tur) A reversing, a turning out.
Turiaw, v. a. (tur) To reverse, to turn up.
Turiawl, a. (tur) Reversing, turning.
Turn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tur) A turn. a. Round.

Mae'n ei gylch er mwyn ei gil,
Dwrn byr mor durn a baril.

There is about it, for the sake of the one behind it, a short handle as round as a barrel. L. G. Cothi, i'r cleddyf.

Turnen, s. f. dim. (turn) That turns; a whirl; a turner's wheel; the wood in the centre of a wheel, or the shaft. Turnen melin, the wood in the centre of a millstone wherin the spindle is fastened.
Turniad, s. m. (turn) A turning, a whirling.
Turniaw, v. a. (turn) To turn round, to whirl; to do turnery work.
Turs, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tur) A snout, or chops.
Tursiad, s. m. (turs) A making a snout.
Tursiaw, v. a. (turs) To make a snout.
Tursyn, s. m. dim. (turs) A snout, or chop.
Tus, s. m. (tu—us) That binds or wraps.
Tusiad, s. m. (tus) A binding or wrapping.
Tusiaw, v. a. (tus) To bind round; to wrap.
Tusw, s. m.—pl. t. au (tus) A whisp, a whisk, a small bundle, a bunch.
Tuswad, s. m. (tusw) A whisping, a whisp.
Tuswaw, v. a. (tusw) To form a whisp, or bundle.
Tuswawg, a. (tusw) Having a whisp or bundle.
Tuswy, s. m.—pl. t. on (tusw) A whisp, a bunch.
Tuth, s. m. (ty—uth) A trot. Tuth blaidd, the trudge of a wolf; tuth march, the trot of a horse.
Tuthfawr, a. (tuth) Greatly trotting.
Tuthiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tuth) A trotting.
Tuthiaw, v. a. (tuth) To trot, to go on a trot.

Daethost dan agwrdd duthiaw,
Ar frys rhag arnom fraw.

Thou didst come with mighty driving, in haste lest we should be in dread. M. ab Gro. Gethin, i Ddyfrdwy.

Tuthiawg, a. (tuth) Having a trot; trotting.

Tuthiawl, a. (tuth) Trotting, going on a trot.
Tuthiedig, a. (tuthiad) Being made to trot.
Tuthiwr, s. m.—pl. tuthiwyr (tuth—gwr) A man who trots, or a trotter.
Tuthwraig, s. f.—pl. tuthwreigedd (tuth—gwraig) A trotting-woman; a gadding gossip.
TW, s. m. r. A rise up or out; a drive, an urging; sway. It is also the imperative of the verb.

Tw! farch benthyg.

Gee on! hired horse. Adage.

Twa, v. a. (tw) To drive, to impel, to urge on.
Twb, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—wb) A round lamp. Twb y dail, a chevin, a chub fish.
Twc, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tw) A cut, clip, or chip.
Twca, s. m.—pl. t. od (twc) A kind of knife.
Twciad, s. m. (twc) A clipping, a docking.
Twciaw, v. a. (twc) To clip, to dock, to trim.
Twciwr, s. m.—pl. twciwyr (twc—gwr) A clipper.
Twdd, s. m. (tw) That pokes or juts out.
Twddf, s. m.—pl. tyddfau (twdd) What pokes out.

Ai twddf sy yt, ai oddfyn?

Is it a hunch or an excrescence that thou hast? D. ab Edmwnt.

Tweg, s. f. (tw—eg) A shock or bush of hair.

Teg o dwf yw tweg dyn,
Tent haul, mal tannau telyn.

Fair of growth is the hair of the nymph, a sun's radiation like the strings of a harp. D. ab Edmwnt, i wallt.

Twf, s. m. (tw—wf) A growth; an increase.

Mall can efain,
Mal twf tir Gwyain.

Soft the bloom of avens, like the growth of the soil of Guienne. Adage.

Gwr difai o'i gryd i'w fedd,
A yr twf ar ei ddedd.

A man faultless from his cradle to his grave, will bring increase on his issue. W. Lleyn.

Twff, s. m. (tw—wff) A rise, a lift; a tuft.
Twg, s. m. (tw—wg) That is forward; luck.

Por y tir yn peri twg
Ar y gwin yn Morganwg.

The lord of the soil causing prosperity on the wine in Morganwg. D. ab Gwilym, i Ifor.

Haf——
Yn llenwi dail i'm llanerch,
A thwg ar las amlwg serch.

The summer filling my glade with leaves, and a prospering of the conspicuous fit of love. D. ab Gwilym.

Twl, s. m.—pl. tylau (ty—wl) That is rounded or smooth; a toft.

O gorfydd, na dydd na dau,
Dori'r talar drwy'r tylau.

If there should be an occasion on one day or another, to break up the headland through the tofts. Ll. Goch y Dant.

Twlc, s. m.—pl. tylciau (twl) A dent, a hollow; a small cot, or hovel; a stye. Heb na thy na thwlc, without either house or hovel. Is Aled.

Neidiai——
Ci coch o dwlc moch i mi.

A red dog leaped from the pig stye upon me. D. ab Gwilym.

Twlch, s. m.—pl. tylchau (twl) A round mass, a heap; a tump, or knoll; a pile. Tylchau, the Knolls, a hilly district in Glamorgan so called.

Bu bwlch, bu twlch tandde.

There was an opening, there was a pile pervaded with flame. Aneurin.

Twlff, s. m.—pl. tylffau (twl) A round lump.
Twlffen, s. f. dim. (twlff) A bulky female. Dyna globen o dwlffen, see there a load of a chubby one
Twlffyn, s. m. dim. (twlff) A fat bulky person.
Twli, s. m. (twl) Buckram, stiff cloth.
Twlo, s. m. (twl) A bulk; a booth, a hut.
Twll, s. m.—pl. tyllau (tw—wll) A hole; a pit; a cavern; a dimple. Twll olp, an oilet hole; twll yn ei boch, dimple in her cheek.
Twm, s. m. (ty—wm) A round heap.
Twmffed, s. m.—pl. t. i (twm—ffed) A funnel.
Twmffedu, v. a. (twmffed) To use a funnel.
Twmp, s. m.—pl. tympiau (twm) A tump.
Twmpan, s. f. dim. (twmp) A round mass; an epithet for a fat female.
Twmpath, s. m.—pl. t. au (twmp) A hillock, a knap, a tump; also a bush. Twmpathau, a sort of games.

Gwneuthur mynydd o dwmpath myrion.

Making a mountain of an ant hill. Adage.

Y twmpath lle claddid Rhys a'i wyr a elwir Bryn y Beddau.

The tump where Rhys and his men were buried is called the Hill of the Graves. Caradawg o Langarfan.

Twmpathawg, a. (twmpath) Abounding with tumps or knolls; covered with bushes.
Twmpathiad, s. m. (twmpath) A forming a tump; a forming a bush.
Twmpathu, v. a. (twmpath) To form a tump or knoll; to form a bush.
Twmpethyn, s. m. dim. (twmpath) A small hillock.
Twmpiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (twmp) A dropping.
Twmpian, v. a. (twmp) To continue dropping, or falling; to drop; to let fall suddenly; to nod, or to drop, as the head does when a person is overcome with sleep; to strike upon, to stamp, to flap, to thump.
Twmpiaw, v. a. (twmp) To drop, to fall.
Twmpiawl, a. (twmp) Dropping, falling.
Twn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—wn) A break, or rising up of a surface; a scaling, a splint; a fracture. a. Having the surface broken; scaled, splintered; fractured, broken. Esgyrn twnion, splintered bones: Bara twn, broken bread.
Twnadwy, a. (twn) Capable of being fractured.
Twnc, s. m. (ty—wnc) That is brought forward or upon; a deposit; the chief rent. Twnc y brenin, the king's rent.
Twnedig, a. (twn) Being broken, fractured.
Twnfriw, a. (twn—briw) Broken to pieces.

Lliaws twr twnfriw.

Many a tower broken to shatters. Gwalchmai.

Twniad, s. m. (twn) A breaking, a fracturing.
Twniaw, v. a. (twn) To break, to fracture.
Twnrif, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twn—rhif) A broken number, or fraction.
Twnrifaw, v. a. (twnrif) To reckon fractionally.
Twnrifawg, a. (twnrif) Consisting of fractions.
Twnrifawl, a. (twnrif) Fractional.
Twnrifedd, s. m. (twnrif) Fractions.
Twnrifiad, s. (twnrif) A reckoning fractionally.
Twnrifyn, s. m. (twnrif) A fractional number.
Twng, s. m. (ty—wng) That is brought forward, destined, fated, or assigned; that is pledged, or alledged; a lot or share; a plight, troth, or oath; a pledge of homage; a yearly acknowledgement due to the lord of the soil, according to the laws of Wales; also a certain ration of corn due from tenant to landlord.

Nid twng ond a fyno Duw.

There is no destiny but what God wills. Adage.

Mi wn eu trwydded,
Eu tro, eu cerdded,
Eu twng, a'u tynged.

I know their course, their turn, their walk, their lot, and their destiny. Taliesin.

Twr, s. m.—pl. tyrau (tw—wr) A heap, a pile, an aggregate; a tower.

> Yr aur, ei adel sy raid
> Yn dwr i ryw ddyn diriaid.
>
> The gold, it must needs be left a heap for some mischievous person. S. Tudyr.
>
> Tair tid fal y twr tewdws.
>
> Three chains like the pleiades. D. ab Edmund.

Twra, s. m. dim. (twr) An aggregate, a mass.

> Twra, bid crog a'i tyrawdd.
>
> The heap, hang him who heaped it! D. ab Gwilym, i gawg eira.

Twrch, s. m.—pl. tyrchod (tw—wrch) That raises burrows, or heaps up; a hog; a splayed boar. Twrch daiar, a mole.—Twrch Trwyth, mab Taredd Wledig, The hog of the Spray, son of the monarch Taredd, a personage often introduced in ancient tales. Such brooks as sink into the ground are generally called Twrch, or the Burrower.

> Nid ungerdd twrch ag eaws.
>
> Not of the same song the pig and the nightingale. Adage.
>
> Nerth twrch yn ei afach.
>
> The strength of a hog in his hind legs. Adage.
>
> Son wrth foch am orchestion twrch.
>
> Discourse with swine about the feats of a hog. Adage.

Twrd, s. m.—pl. tyrdau (twr) A shallow tub; also called mit, twrnel, and twred.

Twrdd, s. m.—pl. tyrddau (tw—wrdd) A tumult.

> Yn ebyr——
> Twrdd ac anferth ryferthwy
> Dygyfor, ni fu for fwy.
>
> In the mouths of rivers, tumult and dreadful torrent of meeting waters, there never was a greater sea. Gwenwe Owain.

Twred, s. m. (twr) That is raised, or piled; a pile; a turret; a tub.

> Dyred, hen dwred eira,
> Diddawn wyd.——
>
> Come along, thou old snow ball; void of good art thou. R. Goch, Eryri.

Twrf, s. m.—pl. tyrfoedd (twryf) That rises; is high, or loud; a stir, a tumult; that is drawn together; or shrunk. Twrf ac eniwed, riot and damage; twrf cyfraith, a tumult of law: Twrf gïau, contraction of sinews: Tyrfau, thunder claps. Sil.

> Attleng torf rhag twrf cammawn,
> Mal twrf ebyr yn llyr llawn.
>
> The foremost rank of a host before the turmoil of combat, like the turmoil of the mouths of rivers when full of flood. Cynddelw, i O. ab Madawg.
>
> Twrf yw llosgi tai neu dori aradr.
>
> A tumult is the burning of houses, or breaking of a plough. Welsh Laws.

Twriad, s. m. (twr) A turning or throwing up.

Twriaw, v. a. (twr) To raise up, to heap; to turn up. Moch yn twriaw tir, swine turning up the ground.

Twriawl, a. (twr) Tending to turn or throw up.

Twrll, s. m.—pl. t. au (twr) A round mass, or lump. Twrll torllaes, a bulky one with a swagging belly.

Twrlla, s. m.—pl. t. od (twrll) A round-bellied one; a mountain mouse, a marmot.

Twrllach, s. m.—pl. t. au (twrll) A round lump; a bulky squab. Rhyd y Twrllachau, the Ford of the Lumps, a place so called.

Twrllachiad, s. m.—pl. twrllachiaid (twrllach) One with a bulky body.

Twrlläes, s. f.—pl. t. au (twrlla) A bulky one.

> Twrllëesau torlleision.
>
> Round bulky ones with low bellies. T. Aled, i gawg.

Twrn, s. m.—pl. tyrnau (tw—wrn) A round, what revolves, or circulates; a turn. Twrn da, a good turn; twrn drwg, an ill turn.

> P'le bynag, diorwag dwrn
> Yr adeilais ar dalwrn,
> ——ffynodd.
>
> In whatever spot, not vain the turn, the building I have reared on a headland, it prospered. D. ab Gwilym.
>
> Gwna Suddas, gwn ei soddi
> Difara' twrn, dy frad ti.
>
> Judas brought about treachery to thee, an event most to be repented of, I know that he sunk. D. ab Rhys, o Feni.
>
> Rhai'n dda'i tyrnau, tonau tan;
> Rhai'n ddrwg o'r hen ddarogan.
>
> Some whose turns are good, waves of fire; some are evil of ancient predictions. B. Rhys, i'r planedau.

Twrnel, s. m.—pl. t. i (twrn) A tub; a vat.

Tws, s. m. (tw—ws) An extreme; an outlet.

Twsel, s. f.—pl. t. i (tws) A tap, a faucet.

> Can feddwed a'r dwsel.
>
> As drunk as the faucet. Adage.

Twselig, s. f. dim. (twsel) A small faucet.

Twt, s. m. (tw—wt) That is simple, whole, complete, or having an interval with respect to any thing else; a drive; a puff.

> Gormodd iaith yw twt ar farch.
>
> Too much speech is tut to a horse. Adage.

Twt, a. (tw—wt) Being whole or complete; having an interval; complete; neat.

Twtach, s. m. (twt) A dispnœa, hard breathing.

Twti, s. m. (twt) The state of being simple, whole, or unconnected with any thing else; an intermittent state.

Twtiad, s. m. (twt) A making an intermission; a making neat or trim.

Twtial, v. a. (twt) To make intermission; to loiter.

Twtiaw, v. a. (twt) To intermit; to render a thing complete by itself; to make neat.

Twtnais, a. (twt—nais) Altogether neat.

Twtne, s. m. (twt—ne) A simple hue; dun.

Twtneisiad, s. m. (twtnais) A making quite neat.

Twy, s. m. (tw) That is extreme, that surrounds, that hems in; check, stop, restraint.

Twyad, s. m. (twy) A hemming in; a checking.

Twyaw, v. a. (twy) To hem in; to check, to restrain; to curb; to manage.

Twyawg, a. (twy) Hemming in; checking.

Twyawl, a. (twy) Hemming in; checking.

Twyg, s. f.—pl. t. au (twy) A garment; a toga.

> Ni chymeraf gymun gan esgymun fynaich,
> Ag eu twygau ar eu clun;
> A'm cymuno Duw ei hun.
>
> I will not receive a communion from accursed monks, with their cloaks on their hips; who communes with me let him be God himself. Cyfoesi Myrddin.
>
> Braidd y medd, dan bridd a main
> Dig ei le, dwyg o liain!
>
> Scarcely doth he possess, under earth and stones in doleful plight, a wrapper of cloth! L. G. Cothi.

Twygaw, v. a. (twyg) To cover, to wrap over; to cover with a toga.

Twygawg, a. (twyg) Having a garment; wearing a toga.

Twygawl, a. (twyg) Belonging to a garment.

Twygiad, s. m. (twyg) A wrapping round with a garment; a putting on a toga.

Twyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (twy) That is masked: deception, illusion; deceit, fraud.

Tan enw pwyll y daw twyll.

Under the name of reason deceit will come. Adage.

Pan aned dysg daeth twyll i'n mysg;
Pan ddysger dysg daw gwir i'n mysg.

When learning was born delusion came amongst us; when learning shall become learned truth will come amongst us. Adage.

Gwedi myned Gortheyrn yn frenin, anfon a orug i geisiaw pawb i ddeol y Pichtiaid: nacau a orug y Prydeiniaid; ac erchi iddo, o gwnathoedd dwyll iddynt, wneuthur iawn, neu dderbyn a ddelai ato.

After Gortheyrn had become king, he sent to get every body to expel the Picts: what the Britons did was to refuse him: then desiring of him, if he had committed a fraud to them, to make retribution, or to abide what might befal him. Gr. ab Arthur.

Twyllad, s. m. (twyll) A deceiving, deception.
Twylladwy, a. (twyllad) That can be deceived.
Twyllaw, v. a. (twyll) To deceive, to disappoint; to beguile, to cheat, to defraud.

Twyllaw arall twyllaw yth bunan.

To deceive another is to deceive thyself. Adage.

Twyllaw arall yn fawr twyllaw yth hun yn fwy.

To deceive another greatly is to deceive thyself more. Adage.

A wnel dwyll ef a dwyllir.

He that worketh deceit will be deceived. Adage.

Twyllawd, s. m. (twyll) The act of deceiving.
Twyllawdl, s. f. (twyll—awdl) False rhyme.
Twyllawdr, s. m. (twyllawd) A deceiver.
Twyllawg, a. (twyll) Full of deception.
Twyllawr, s. m.—pl. twyllorion (twyll) A deceiver.
Twyllchware, s. m. (twyll—chware) False play.
Twyllchwareu, v. a. (twyllchware) To play falsely
Twyllchwarëus, a. (twyllchware) Falsely playing.
Twyllchwarëydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twyllchware) One who plays cheatingly.
Twylleb, s. f. (twyll) Sophistry, sophism.
Twylledig, a. (twyll) Being deceived, cheated.
Twylledigaeth, s. m. (twyll) The act of deceiving.
Twyllfarchnata, v. a. (twyll—marchnata) To practise fraud in trading.
Twyllfawr, a. (twyll) Full of deceit, or fraud.
Twyllforwyn, s. f.—pl. t. ion (twyll—morwyn) A false maid.

Os twyllforwyn a geffir, heb wad, ei chrys a dorir tu rhagddi a thra ei chefn, ac oddiyna ei gwr a ddyry iddi enderig, gwedi iraw ei losgwrn; ac o dichona hi ei attal herwydd ei losgwrn, cymered hi ef yn ei hegweddi.

If a false maid shall be found, without defence, her shift shall be cut on the fore side and behind her, and then her husband shall give her a steer, whose tail has been greased; so if she shall be able to stop him by his tail, let her have him for her separate settlement. Welsh Laws.

Twyllgam, s. m.—pl. t. au (twyll—cam) False step.
Twyllgar, a. (twyll) Deceptious, apt to cheat.
Twyllgynghanedd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twyll—cynghanedd) False consonancy.
Twyllgynghaneddiad, s. m. (twyllgynghanedd) A forming a false consonancy.
Twyllgynghaneddu, v. a. (twyllgynghanedd) To form false consonancy.
Twyllodli, v. a. (twyllawdl) To form false rhyme.
Twyllodliad, s. m. (twyllawdl) A forming of false rhyme.
Twyllodrus, a. (twyllawdr) Deceiving, deceitful; fraudulent, false; crafty.

Tri chas Duw, a dyn: golwg ymladdgar, tafawd twyllodrus, ac anbri drygionus.

The three hated by God and man: a look denoting war, a deceitful tongue, and a mischievous disposition. Cotog Ddoeth.

Twyllodrusaw, v. a. (twyllodrus) To render deceitful; to become deceitful.

Twyllodrusedd, s. m. (twyllodrus) Deceitfulness.
Twyllodrusrwydd, s. m. (twyllodrus) Deceitfulness.
Twyllofaint, s. m. (twyll) Deceitful conduct, circumvention, that is unawares.
Twyllrin, s. m. (twyll—rhin) A false secret.

Ac os mi ai haedd berwydd twyllrin,
Ni'm bo un cyfaith namyn Cain.

And if I deserve it on account of false secret, may I meet with no conversing friend excepting Cain. Gwalchmai.

Twyllwr, s. m. twyllwyr (twyll—gwr) A deceiver.

Nid twyll twyllaw twyllwr.

It is no deceit to deceive a deceiver. Adage.

Twyllwriaeth, s. m. (twyllwr) The practice of a deceiver.
Twym, s. m. (twy) A heat; a flush. Twym y mynydd, mountain heat, a disease among cattle. a. Hot, warm.

Iachus arogli bara twym, afiachus ei fwyta.

It is healthy to smell warm bread, it is unhealthy to eat it. Adage.

Cydwymed a'r pathew.

As warm as the dormouse. Adage.

Twymad, s. m. (twym) Calefaction, a heating.
Twymadwy, a. (twymad) Capable of being heated.
Twymaw, v. a. (twym) To calefy, to warm.

Cynt y twyma gwaed no dwfr.

Sooner will blood grow warm than water. Adage.

Twymawl, a. (twym) Tending to make warm.
Twymdra, s. m. (twym) Warmth, hotness.
Twymdwyr, a. (twym—twyr) Lukewarm.
Twymdwyrad, s. m. (twyr) A making lukewarm.
Twymdwyraw, v. a. (twyr) To make lukewarm.
Twymedig, a. (twymad) Being warmed, heated.
Twymedd, s. m. (twym) Warmth, warmness.
Twymnaw, v. a. (twymyn) To warm, to heat.
Twymnawl, a. (twymyn) Tending to warm.
Twymnder, s. m. (twymyn) Warmth, hotness.
Twymndra, s. m. (twymyn) Warmth, heat.
Twymnedig, a. (twymyn) Being warmed.
Twymnedd, s. m. (twymyn) A warm state.
Twymniad, s. m. (twymyn) A warming.
Twymnwr, s. m.—pl. twymnwyr (twymyn—gwr) One who heats, a warmer.
Twymp, s. m. (twym) That is warm or cheering.

Eur-air penraith, aerwymp twymp pob taith,
Aergorf llorf Lloegr-laith, gwaith gwythlonaf.

A golden word is the fiat of the supreme, the brightly fair solace of every course, the war-bulwark with a shaft slaying the English, most wrathful work. G. ab M. ab Dafydd, i Owain.

Twymyn, s. m. (twym) A heat, a flush; a fever. Y dwymyn doben, the mumps, a disease in the head so called. a. Hot, warm.
Twyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (twy) A hillock; also a tuft; a bush. Ar dwyn, on an eminence, conspicuous.
Twynaw, v. n. (twyn) To form a tump; to tuft.
Twynawg, a. (twyn) Abounding with tumps.
Twyndir, s. m. (twyn—tir) Hilly ground.
Twynen, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (twyn) A sand-hill.
Twyniad, s. m. (twyn) A forming a tump.
Twynyn, s. m. (twyn) A tump; a tuft; a bush.
Twyogi, v. a. (twyawg) To manage, to restrain.
Twyr, s. m. (twy) That is agitated or heated. a. Agitated; freshened, parched, torrid.
Twyrad, s. m. (twyr) An agitation; a parching.
Twyraw, v. a. (twyr) To agitate; to parch, to heat.
Twys, s. m.—pl. t. au (twy) A top, a tuft, a head, a heap. Twys yd, ear of corn.
Twysaw, v. a. (twys) To top, to tuft; to spire.

Twysawg, a. (twys) Being a top; having a top, or tuft; having a spire, eared.
Twysawl, a. (twys) Topping; tufting, spiring.
Twysen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (twys) An ear of corn.

Twysen lawn a ostwng ei phen; twysen wag a saif yn syth.

A full ear lowers its head; an empty ear stands up straight. Adage.

Twysenawl, a. (twysen) Spiring, earing.
Twyseniad, s. m. (twysen) A spiring, a shooting into ears.
Twysenig, s. f. dim. (twysen) A single ear.
Twysenu, v. a. (twysen) To spire, to ear.
Twysg, s. m.—pl. t. au (twys) A mass, a heap; a quantity; some quantity, some part; the quantity of yarn usually contained on a spindle.

Mae wedi dirwyn ei dwysg.

He has gone his length. Adage.

Tes gloew teg, twysg liw tywyn,
A haul a ddattodai hyn.

Fair clear radiancy, some dawn of shining, and the sun would this dissolve. D. ab Gwilym, i'r rhew.

Twysgaw, v. a. (twysg) To amass, to heap, to collect a certain quantity; to get to a head, to get on, to get to an end with any thing; to limit. Yr wyf yn twysgaw ar fy arian yn arw, I am getting through with my money sadly.

All yn disgyn, alon dwysgaw,
Wrth aer-frwysgaw Arthur freisgedd.

When descending, the foes consuming, like in stalking through the slaughter to the greatness of Arthur. D. ab Edmunt, i Rys o Fon.

Y fyntai a dwysgai ato.

The multitude gathered to him. W. Salisbury.

Twysgawl, a. (twysg) Tending onward, proceeding; collective, aggregating.
Twysged, s. f.—pl. t. au (twysg) A mass; a quantity; a good deal; a certain portion, some.

Yr wybodaeth y buom trwy ein bywydau yn ei chasglu, nid yw llawer o honi ond anwybodaeth yn unig; a thwysged o honi yn waeth.

The knowledge that we have been through our lives collecting, much of it is nothing but sheer ignorance; and some of it is worse. Ies. Rhys.

Twysgen, s. f. dim. (twysg) A quantity; a good deal; a certain quantity or portion; some.
Twysgiad, s. m. (twysg) A proceeding, a going on; a getting through; a limiting; a collecting.
Twysgwr, s. m.—pl. twysgwyr (twysg—gwr) One who proceeds; one who goes through; a limiter.
Twysiad, s. m. (twys) A topping; a spiring.
Twyth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twy—yth) A spring, or pliancy; aptness to proceed; celerity, dispatch. Dyn hydwyth, a tractable person.

Arddwyreaf hael o hil Rodri,
Ardwyad gorwlad, gwerlin teithi;
Teithiawg Prydain,
Twyth afrdwyth Owain,
Teyrnain ni grain ni grawn rai.

I will exalt the generous one of the line of Rodri, the curber of the bordering country, endued with gifts of an illustrious stock; the heir of Britain, ambition the passion of Owain, the princely one who submits to none, who hoards no treasures. Gwalchmai.

Twythad, s. m. (twyth) A springing, a bounding.
Twythadwy, a. (twythad) Capable of springing.
Twythaw, v. a. (twyth) To spring, to bound.
Twythawd, s. m. (twyth) The act of springing.
Twythawg, a. (twyth) Having spring, elastic.
Twythawl, a. (twyth) Springing, bounding.
Twythedig, a. (twythad) Being made elastic.
Twythedigaeth, s. m. (twythedig) The act of rendering elastic; a springing.
Twythfalch, a. (twyth—balch) Aspiringly proud.

Nest ——
Golwg gwalch dwythfalch o brif deithi.

Nest with eye of a hawk aspiringly proud, of princely origin. Gwalchmai.

Twythfawr, a. (twyth) Greatly springing.

Arglwydd teithiawg twythfawr yn arfau,
Yn arfrwydr byddinawr;
Argae torf rhag twrf aesawr,
Argleidriad fleiniad, flaidd gawr.

A rightful sovereign greatly energetic in arms, in the superior toil of martial feats; the bulwark of a host before the tumult of shields, the overshadowing leader, the wolf of the shout. Cynddelw, i Wenwynwyn.

Twythiad, s. m. (twyth) A springing, resilition.
Twythiannawl, a. (twythiant) Of a tendency to spring or bound; resilient; of an elastic quality
Twythiannu, v. a. (twythiant) To cause a springing or resiliency; to make a rebound.
Twythiant, s. m. (twyth) Elasticity; resiliency.
Twythig, a. (twyth) Springing, elastic; rising.
Twythigrwydd, s. m. (twythig) Aptness to spring.
Twythus, a. (twyth) Apt to spring or bound.
Twythusaw, v. a. (twythus) To render elastic.
Twythusdra, s. m. (twythus) Aptness to spring.
Twythusrwydd, s. m. (twythus) Aptness to spring
Twythwal, s. m. (twyth—gwal) Elastic couch.

Pell o Fon fain ydwyti, dwythwal, weriu
Esmwyth ysydd yn asserw gyfrin.

Far from pleasant Mon art thou, soft place of repose, whose inhabitancy is at ease enjoying a splendid solitude. Gwalchmai.

Twythwalch, s. m.—pl. twythweilch (twyth—gwalch) A springing hawk.
TY, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. A being about or going on; that is inclusive; a house. Ty ac anlloedd, house and chattels. It is a prefix in composition, implying a state of being going on or being in.

Athraw pawb yn ei dy.

Every body is master in his house. Adage.

Ni wyr dyn nad el o'i dy.

A man knows nought who goes not out of his house. Adage.

Gwae y ty lle nas clywer llais cerydd.

Woe to the house where the voice of reproof is not heard. Adage.

Nid allan o'i ffordd a grwydra i dy derwydd.

He is not out of his way who strays to the house of the druid. Adage.

Tyad, s. m. (ty) A housing; a domifying.
Tyaeth, s. m. (ty) A house establishment; a household. Perchen tyaeth, the owner of a household.

Mae Duw ei hun yn gorchymyn yn neillduawl i bob perchen tyaeth athrawiaethu ei deulu.

God himself doth command particularly that every owner of a household should instruct his family. Row. Fychan, Ym. Dduwioldeb.

Tyaid, s. m.—pl. tyeidiau (ty) A houseful.
Tyaidd, a. (ty) Like a house; domestic.
Tyaw, v. a. (ty) To house, to put in a house; to domify.
Tyawg, a. (ty) Having a house, or housed.
Tyawl, a. (ty) Belonging to a house, domestic.
Tyb, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ty—yb) Opinion, notion, sentiment, thought; suspicion.

Celwydd ni wna ond cilwg;
Nid da heb droed un tyb drwg.

A falsehood will only create an angry look; no bad opinion is commendable without a foundation. G. ab I. ab Llywelyn Fychan.

Tybgar, a. (tyb) Opinionated; suspectful.
Tybgarwch, s. m. (tybgar) Opinionativeness; suspectfulness, suspiciousness.
Tybiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyb) A supposing, a suspecting, an imagining, a thinking.
Tybiant, s. m. (tyb) Opiniation, opinion.

Tybiaw, v. (tyb) To opine, to suppose, to suspect.

Cas a dybio ei fod yn well no neb ar bob peth ac yntau yn waethaf oll.

Odious is he who thinks that he is better than any body in every thing and he being the worst of all. Adage.

A dybiwys a gamsynwys.

He that hath suspected hath mistaken. Adage.

Tybiawl, a. (tyb) Supposing, suspecting.
Tybied, v. a. (tyb) To suppose, to suspect.
Tybiedig, a. (tybiad) Supposed, imagined.
Tybiedigawl, a. (tybiedig) Putative, opiniative.
Tybiwr, s. m.—pl. tybiwyr (tyb—gwr) An opiniator, a supposer, a suspecter.
Tybost, s. m.—pl. tybyst (ty—post) A house-post.

Y tybost, pedair ceiniawg cyfraith yw ei werth.

A house-post, four lawful pence is its value. Welsh Laws.

Tybus, a. (tyb) Apt to suppose, suspecting.
Tybusaw, v. a. (tybus) To render suspecting; to become suspicious, to be suspectful.
Tybusrwydd, s. m. (tybus) Suspectfulness.
Tybwg, s. m. (tyb) The state of being supposed.
Tybygadwy, a. (tybwg) Supposable, imaginable.
Tybygawl, a. (tybwg) Suppositive; supposed.
Tybygiad, s. m. (tybwg) An imagining.
Tybygiedig, a. (tybygiad) Supposed, imagined.
Tybygoldeb, s. m. (tybygawl) Suppositiousness.
Tybygoli, v. a. (tybygawl) To render suppositious; to become suppositive.
Tybygoliaeth, s. m. (tybygawl) Supposition.
Tybygolrwydd, s. m. (tybygawl) Imaginariness.
Tybygwr, s. m.—pl. tybygwyr (tybwg—gwr) A supposer, one who imagines.
Tyciad, s. m. (twg) A prospering, a succeeding; a prevailing; a befitting.
Tyciannawl, a. (tyciant) Prospering; prevailing; tending to suit or to agree with.
Tyciannu, v. a. (tyciant) To cause prosperity, or success; to become successful.
Tyciannus, a. (tyciant) Prosperous; lucky.
Tyciannusaw, v. a. (tyciannus) To render prosperous; to become successful.
Tyciannusdra, s. m. (tyciannus) Prosperousness.
Tyciannusrwydd, s. m. (tyciannus) Prosperousness, successfulness.
Tyciant, s. m. (twg) Prosperity, success; meetness
Tyciaw, v. a. (twg) To prosper, to succeed; to prevail; to befit, to suit, to agree with.

Yn lle y bo y da
Y rhoir ac y tycia.

Where there is property, there will be given and it will prosper. Adage.

Nid oedd yn Ffrainc wr a dycia iddo gyhydreg ag Emrais.

There was not in France a man to whom it would succeed to contend with Emrais. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tyciawl, a. (twg) Prospering; prevailing.
Tyd, s. m. (ty—yd) That is continuous or whole.
Tydain, s. m. (ty—tain) The centre of expansion, the centre of fire; that is universally pervasive; an epithet for the sun. Tydain Tad Awen, or Tydain Father of the Muse, is a personage often alluded to in the Triades and in our poetry, as the founder of the bardic system; and he probably was so named on account of his superior genius; as, in such a case, the epithet was not improperly applied to him, in a metaphorical sense. It is remarkable that, in the mythology of the Greeks and Romans, Apollo had similar attributes with the Tydain of the Cymmry; and therefore he was probably the same person; and was feigned to be the sun from the cogency of the original epithet. I believe Tydain to have been a real person; yet it were easy to turn the whole into an allegory, supported by a verse, which says that his grave was in Bron Aren; for Bron means the breast, and the swell of a hill, often applied in the names of places; Aren, also is the appellative of several hills, descriptive of their smoothness, and it means smooth or eloquent, with respect to composition.

Bedd Tydain Tad Awen
Yn ngodir Bron Aren.

The grave of Tydain Father of the Muse in the boundary region of Bron Aren. Eng. Beddau Milwyr.

Tydalaeth, s. m. (ty—talaeth) House-porch.
Tydi, pron. (ty—ti) Thou. Tydi dyhun, tydi yth hun, tydi dy hunan, tydi yth hunan, thou thyself.

Tydi, Arglwydd, rwydd rinweddau bob awr,
A roddед dan llawr, fawr fwriadau;
Tydi, Duw, gwedi gwawdau cof ydyw
Cyfodaist i'th radau.

Thou, Lord, at all times freely dispensing virtues, wert placed beneath the sod, great the designs; thou, God, afterwards, memorable themes of praise, didst rise in thy blessings. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Tyddfawg, a. (twddf) Having a jutting, hunchy.
Tyddfawl, a. (twddf) Tending to jut out.
Tyddfiad, s. m. (twddf) A jutting or projecting.
Tyddfu, v. a. (twddf) To poke out, to jut out.
Tyddiad, s. m. (twdd) A spreading or laying out.
Tyddu, v. a. (twdd) To spread out, to lay out.
Tyddyn, s. m.—pl. t. od (twdd) Land under cultivation; a farm, a tenement.

Pedair erw yn mhob tyddyn a ddyly fod; pedwar tyddyn yn mhob rhandir: deuddeg erw a thriugaint a fydd yn y rhandir gyfreithiawl, rhwng rhwydd a dyrys, a choed a maes, a gwlyb a sych, eithr yr orfottref.

There ought to be four acres in every messuage; four messuages in every shareland: there are to be seventy-two acres in a lawful shareland, between the open and the wild, and wood and field, and wet and dry, except the accessory township. Welsh Laws.

Awn i aredig y tyddyn,
Sy rhwng y ty a'r odyn.

Let us go to plough the field that is between the house and the kiln. D. ab Gwilym.

Tyddynawl, a. (tyddyn) Relating to a tenement.
Tyddynyn, s. f. dim. (tyddyn) A small tenement.
Tyedig, a. (tyad) Being housed; domified.
Tyfadwy, a. (twf) Capable of growing.
Tyfawl, a. (twf) Growing or vegetating.
Tyfedig, a. (twf) Being grown or vegetated.
Tyfiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (twf) A growing.
Tyfiannawl, a. (tyfiant) Vegetative, growing.
Tyfiannu, v. a. (tyfiant) To produce vegetation.
Tyfiannus, a. (tyfiant) Tending to vegetate.
Tyfiannusaw, v. a. (tyfiannus) To render vegetative; to become vegetative.
Tyfiant, s. m. (twf) A growth, or vegetation.
Tyfu, v. a. (twf) To grow; to cause to grow.

Had dysteiniaid a dyfant yn mhob tir;
Had synwyr braidd y tyfant yn un tir.

The seed of placemen will grow in every land; the seed of reason scarcely will they grow in any land. Adage.

Dar a dyfwys yn meillion,
A chan a'i briw ni bi gron:
Gwae wr wrth ei gaseion.

An oak hath grown amidst the trefoils, and since it has been wounded it is not round: woe to a man amongst his foes. Robert Tywysawg Normandi.

Tyfwr, s. m.—pl. tyfwyr (twf—gwr) A grower.
Tygiad, s. m. (twg) A prospering, a succeeding,
Tygiaw, v. a. (twg) To prosper, to befit.

Yn ngwlad Tegaingl y tygia,
Am glod a wn, ym gael da.

In the county of Tegaingl it will prosper, for the fame I confer, for me to obtain a benefit. O. ab S. ab Rhys, ab Hy. Coetmor.

Tyhun, pron. (ty—hun) Thyself. See Tydi.
Tyhunan, pron. (tyhun) Thyself, thou thyself.

Tylad, s. m. (twl) A making smooth; a forming a smooth toft.
Tylaith, s. m. (ty—llaith) That destroys.
Tylath, s. f.—pl. t. au (ty—llath) A house beam.
Tylawd, a. (ty—llawd) Poor, needy, being in want, being bereaved.

Ffawd ar ol ffawd a wnaat ddyn yn dylawd.

Luck after luck will make a person poor. Adage.

Tylcyn, s. m. dim. (twlc) A small hovel.
Tylchawg, a. (twlch) Abounding with knolls.
Tylchiad, s. m. (twlch) A forming a knoll.
Tylchu, v. a. (twlch) To form a knoll or tump.
Tyle, s. m.—pl. t. au (twl) A gentle swell or elevation, a small bank or rising hill, a down; a toft, the site of a building; a couch. It forms the names of several places; as Tyle Denis Powys; Tyle Forgan; Tyle Garw; Tyle y Gawl; Tyle Tref Gatwg. Tyle Ysgawd, or Scottish Tyle, an old appellation for Ireland.

Treiddiant——
Tai a threfnau,
A thylëau,
A chellau bwyd.

They will pervade houses and furniture, and couches, and meat closets. Taliesin.

Yn nghyfarfod clod cludfeirdd dyle,
Yn nghyfrwys gynnwys gan wawr y se.

In the convention of fame on the area of the assembling bards, in an intellectual reception in the glory of the stars. Ll. P. Moch.

Pan edrychynt y dyle, nid oedd arnei namyn byrwellt dystlyd chweinllyd.

When they surveyed the couch, there was upon it only broken straw dusty and full of fleas. Breidd. Rhonabwy.

Tylinad, s. m. (glin) A kneading of dough.
Tylinaw, v. a. (glin) To knead, to work dough.

Mae gwaith Gildas wedi myned trwy ddwylaw y mynaich; gwyr a fedrynt yn dda ddigawn dylinaw pob peth i'w dybenion eu hunain.

The work of Gildas hath past through the hands of the monks; men who knew well enough how to mould every thing to their own purposes. Evan Evans.

Tylinedig, a. (tylinad) Being kneaded.
Tylinwr, s. m. (tylinaw—gwr) A kneader.
Tylodaidd, a. (tylawd) Somewhat poor or needy.
Tylodedd, s. m. (tylawd) Poverty, poorness.
Tylodi, s. m. (tylawd) Poverty, or poorness.

Nid oes gan gyfiawnder na golud na thylodi.

Equity has neither wealth nor poverty. Adage.

Amledd cybydd ys tylodi arno.

A miser's abundance is poverty to him. Adage.

Nid tylodi ond clefyd.

There is no poorness like disease. Adage.

Tylodus, a. (tylawd) Tending to make poor.
Tylodusaw, v. a. (tylodus) To render poor.
Tylodusedd, s. m. (tylodus) Impoverished state.
Tylodusrwydd, s. m. (tylodus) State of poverty.
Tylotyn, s. m. dim. (tylawd) A poor person.
Tylu, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ty—llu) A household.
Tylüaidd, a. (tylu) Familiar; sociable, domestic.
Tylüedd, s. m. (tylu) The state of being a household, socialness, sociableness.

Mad ganed o genedl fonedd,
Mawr wledig mawrwlad tylüedd.

Blessed was he born of a noble race, the great sovereign of the great country of society. Cynddelw, i Dysilio.

Tylüeiddiad, s. m. (tylüaidd) A familiarizing.
Tylüeiddiaw, v. a. (tylüaidd) To familiarize.
Tylüeiddrwydd, s. m. (tylüaidd) Familiarness.
Tylüwr, s. m.—pl. tyluwyr (tylu—gwr) A family man, a domestic man.
Tylwyth, s. m.—pl. t. au (ty—llwyth) A household, a family; kinsfolk; a tribe. Y tylwyth teg, bendith eu mamau, gwreigedd unwyl, y teulu, aerial beings, sylphs, gnomes, or fairies; but they are not considered of a diminutive form, as the fairies are, in English tales.

Byw ar dir y tylwyth teg.

To live on the land of the fairy tribe, or by unknown means. Adage.

Tylwythaw, v. a. (tylwyth) To form a family.
Tylwythawg, a. (tylwyth) Having a household, having a family, or kindred; having a great family; populous.

Tylwythawg dyrfa yr annuwiawl, ni bydd fuddiawl.

The ungodly of extended household, it shall not be prosperous. Doethineb c. 3.

Tylwythiad, s. m. (tylwyth) A forming a family.
Tylwythogi, v. a. (tylwythawg) To form a household or family.
Tylwythogrwydd, s. m. (tylwythawg) The state of having a family.
Tylywodraeth, s. m. (ty—llywodraeth) House management, household economy.
Tyllawg, a. (twll) Having holes, perforated.
Tyllfras, a. (twll—bras) Of ample opening.

Gwen forddwyd tyllfras
A wyliis neithwyr yn ngoror rhyd Forlas:
A chan bu mab ym ni thechas.

Gwen with thigh of wide opening did watch last night on the border of the ford of Morlas; and as he was my son he fled not. Llywarch Hen.

Tyllgrug, s. m. (twll—crug) The opening of the ground in dry weather.
Tylliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (twll) A boring.

Pan oeddwn yn sefyll ac yn rhyfeddu gyfynged y tylliad, mi welwn ben wiber yn myned i mewn, ac yn gyfnaid yn dawed yn ei hol yn gyfnewydd ac yn ieuanc.

When I was standing, and wondering how narrow was the perforation, I beheld an old serpent going in, and immediately coming back renovated and young. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Tylliedig, a. (tylliad) Bored, or perforated.
Tylliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tylliad) A borer.
Tyllogi, v. a. (tyllawg) To make full of holes.
Tyllogrwydd, s. m. (tyllawg) The state of being full of holes, poronsness.
Tyllu, v. a. (twll) To make a hole, to bore.

Y dafn a dyll y gareg, nid o gryfder ond o fynych syrthiaw.

The drop will perforate the stone, not through strength but from often falling. Adage.

Tyllwr, s. m.—pl. tyllwyr (twll—gwr) One who bores a hole, or perforates.
Tyllydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (twll) A borer.
Tym, s. m. (ty—ym) A principle of extension, a principle of enlargement; a tendency to enlarge; space.
Tymher, s. m. (tymp) Temperament.
Tymheraidd, a. (tymher) Temperamental.
Tymherawl, a. (tymher) Temperamental.
Tymhereiddiad, s. m. (tymheraidd) A rendering temperamental; a becoming temperate.
Tymhereiddiaw, v. a. (tymheraidd) To render temperate; to become temperate.
Tymhereiddrwydd, s. m. (tymheraidd) Temperateness.
Tymheriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymher) A tempering
Tymheriedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tymher) One who renders temperate.
Tymheru, v. a. (tymher) To temper; to mollify.
Tymherus, a. (tymher) Temperate.
Tymherusaw, v. a. (tymherus) To render temperate; to become temperate.
Tymherusdra, s. m. (tymherus) Temperateness.
Tymherusedd, s. m. (tymherus) Temperateness.
Tymherusrwydd, s. m. (tymher) Temperateness.
Tymherwr, s. m. (tymher—gwr) A temperer.

Tymherydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tymher) A seasoner
Tymhest, s. m. (tymp) That breaks out.
Tymhestl, s. f.—pl. tymhestledd (tymhest) A tempest, a storm.
Tymhestlaidd, a. (tymhestl) Tempestive.
Tymhestlawg, a. (tymhestl) Tempestuous.
Tymhestliad, s. m. (tymhestl) A tempesting.
Tymhestlu, v. a. (tymhestl) To tempest.

> Mal ydd oeddynt efelly yn ymladd o bob parth, ar warthaf yr eigiawn, eaycha yn ddisyfyd y gwynhiau gwrthwyneb yn chwythu, ac yn tymhestlu y weilgi, ac yn gwasgaru y llongau i amryfeilion draethau.
>
> As they were in that manner fighting on all sides, upon the face of the ocean, behold suddenly the adverse winds blowing, and tempesting the torrent, and dispersing the ships to various shores. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tymhestlus, a. (tymhestl) Tempestuous.
Tymhig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tymp) A prickle, a twitch, a stinging.
Tymhigaw, v. a. (tymhig) To twitch, to prickle.
Tymhigawl, a. (tymhig) Twitching, pricking.
Tymhigiad, s. m. (tymhig) A twitching.

> Gallai fod i ddyn, cyn y credai ef cariad Duw tuagato yn Nghrist, mesur mawr o ymostyngiad cyfreithiawl, a thymhigiad calon.
>
> A person might have, before he believed in the love of God towards him in Christ, a great degree of obedience according to the law, and pricking of conscience. S. Trefredyn.

Tymhigiedig, a. (tymhigiad) Being twitched.
Tymhigwr, s. m.—pl. tymhigwyr (tymhig—gwr) A twitcher, a stinger.
Tymig, a. (tym) Ample; seasonable, timely, of full time, mature, efficient.

> Nid oes o ddyn——
> Ond tywarchen dymig bruddlen, domawg briddled!
>
> There is nothing of man but the clod an extending gloomy veil, miry and composed of dust! Grw. Ddu.

Tymmor, s. m.—pl. t. au (tym—mor) Season.

> Hinon heddwch a wna bob tymmor yn haf.
>
> The halcyon days of peace make every season like summer. Adage.

Tymmoraidd, a. (tymmor) Tending to be seasonable; seasonable; fit, befitting. Byw yn dymmoraidd, to live comfortably.
Tymmorawl, a. (tymmor) Temporal; seasonable.
Tymmordy, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymmor—ty) A house that is managed by the season; a house that is held by the season, or tenanted at will.
Tymmoreidd-dra, s. m. (tymmoraidd) Seasonableness; comfortableness.
Tymmoreiddiad, s. m. (tymmoraidd) A rendering seasonable; a becoming seasonable.
Tymmoreiddiaw, v. a. (tymmoraidd) To render or become seasonable; to render fitting.
Tymoreiddrwydd, s. m. (tymmoraidd) Seasonableness; comfortableness.
Tymmoreiddwch, s. m. (tymmoraidd) Seasonableness; comfortableness.
Tymmorgwaith, s. m. (tymmor—gwaith) A certain season, a certain time.
Tymmori, v. a. (tymmor) To make a season.
Tymmoriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymmor) A making a season; a fixing a season.
Tymmoroldeb, s. m. (tymmorawl) Seasonableness
Tymhyr, s. m.—pl. t. au (tymp) A temporality.

> Pwyllai Forgant ef a'i wyr,
> Fy neol a llosgi fy nhymhyr.
>
> Morgant and his men would rush onward, expelling me and burning my native place. Llywarch Hen.
>
> Fy mrodyr a'm tymhyr a gwynaf!
>
> My brothers and my native land I mourn! Llywarch Hen.
>
> Lluest Cadwallon heno
> Trathir yn nhymhyr Penfro.
>
> The encampment of Cadwallon to-night in the extreme of the temporality of Penvro. Llywarch Hen.
>
> Ni rydd rhwyfeg eryr
> Hyd troed o'i dymhyr,
> Rhag ofyn herwyr
> Yn herw ystawd.
>
> He that is of eagle course will not give the length of his foot of his temporality, for fear of depredators in the path of depredation. Gwalchmai, i F. ab Meredudd.

Tymhyraw, v. a. (tymhyr) To attemperate, to temper; to moderate. Tymhyra fo yn dda, temper it well.
Tymhyrawl, a. (tymhyr) Attemperate.
Tymhyriad, s. m. (tymhyr) A tempering.
Tymhyroldeb, s. m. (tymhyrawl) Temperateness
Tymp, s. m. (tym) Enlargement; the act or time of bringing forth; birth; season.

> Budd cyn tymp.
>
> Profit before the birth. Adage.

Tyn, s. m. (ty—yn) A pull, a draught; a stretch; a tendency, or inclination.

> Ni phaid Prydeiniaid a'u tyn.
>
> The Britons will not refrain from their inclination. D. ab I Ddu.

Tyn, a. (ty—yn) Stretched, tight, strait, tightly stuffed or pressed; stubborn, pertinacious.

> Pe tynaf fo y llinyn cyntaf y tyr.
>
> The tightest the string may be the sooner it will break. Adage.
>
> Gochel y pechawd cyntaf, canys y mae lleng yn dyn wrth ei sawdl.
>
> Avoid the first sin, for there is a legion close at its heel. Adage.

Tynâad, s. m. (tynâu) A tightening, a straining.
Tynâawl, a. (tynâu) Tightening, straining.
Tynâu, v. a. (tyn) To tighten, to strain.
Tynawl, a. (tyn) Drawing, straining, pulling.
Tynchwydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyn—chwydd) A tumour.
Tynder, s. m. (tyn) Stretchedness, tightness, straitness; rigidity, rigour; austerity; stubbornness.

> Rhag balchder, tynder y tir,
> Gwared fi, Arglwydd geirwir.
>
> From the pride, the stubbornness of the land, deliver me righteous Lord. H. D. ab Ifan.

Tyndir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (twn—tir) A fallow.
Tyndra, s. m. (tyn) Tightness, or straitness.
Tyndrec, s. m.—pl. t. iau (trec) A draught geer.
Tyndrecyn, s. m. dim. (tyndrec) An elevatory, a chirurgical instrument so called.
Tynedig, a. (tyn) Being drawn or pulled.
Tynedigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (tynedig) Attraction
Tynedigawl, a. (tynedig) Attractive, drawing.
Tynedigolrwydd, s. m. (tynedig) Attractiveness.
Tynell, s. f.—pl. t. i (tyn) A barrel; a tun.
Tynellaid, s. f.—pl. tynelleidiau (tynell) The quantity contained in a tun.
Tynelliad, s. m. (tynell) A filling a tun.
Tynellu, v. a. (tynell) To fill a tun.
Tyner, a. (tyn) Tender, lenient; assuasive.

> Gair tyner dadl galed.
>
> Tender word hard argument. Adage.

Tynerâad, s. m. (tynerâu) A rendering tender, an assuaging; a becoming tender.
Tynerâawl, a. (tynerâu) Tending to soften.
Tyneraidd, a. (tyner) Somewhat tender.
Tynerâu, v. n. (tyner) To become tender.

> Y llu——
> Er gradd ei drugareddau
> Duw Ner rhoed hwy i dynerâu!
>
> The multitude, according to the degree of his mercies, may the Lord God incline them to become gentle. H. D. ab Ifan.

Tynerawl, a. (tyner) Of a soothing nature.
Tyneredig, a. (tyner) Being made tender.

Tyneredd, s. m. (tyner) Tenderness, leniency.

Tyneriad, s. m. (tyner) A making tender; emollition, mollification.

Tyneriant, s. m. (tyner) Emollition; leniency.

Tynernwyf, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyner—nwyf) A tender passion.

Tyneru, v. a. (tyner) To soften, to assuage, to lenify, to make tender; to become tender.

Tynerus, a. (tyner) Of a tender quality.

Tynerusaw, v. a. (tynerus) To render lenient; to become tender, or lenient.

Tynerusrwydd, s. m. (tynerus) Tenderness.

Tynerwch, s. m. (tyner) Tenderness, lenity.

Tynfa, s. f.—pl. tynfëydd (tyn) A draught.

> A oedd y fath rin a thynfa yn llais yr anwylyd i ennill yr hen eglwys gynt!
>
> Was there such a charm and attraction in the voice of the lover to gain the old church formerly! Ier. Owain.

Tynfach, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyn—bach) A harpago, the gaffle of a cross-bow.

Tynfaen, s. m. (tyn—maen) A loadstone.

Tynfalch, a. (tyn—balch) Stubbornly proud.

Tynfalchedd, s. m. (tynfalch) Stubborn pride.

Tynfarch, s. m. (tyn—march) A draught horse.

Tynhegl, s. f. (tyn—hegl) A stretching limb.

> Gorewynawg tou, tynhegl ebrwydd.
>
> Crowned with foam the wave, of stretching limb the quick one. H. ab Owain Gwynedd.

Tynhug, s. f.—pl. t. au (tyn—hug) A close coat.

Tyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tyn) A pulling, a drawing, a tension; a pull, a draught; deduction. Tyniadau a chyweirdannau, modulations and chord-strings.

Tyniar, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tyn—iar) A bubble.

Tyniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tyniad) A drawer.

Tynlath, s. f. (tyn—llath) A draught-tree.

Tyno, s. m. (twn) A plain area, a plat, or plot; a dale; a green. Tyno Coch, the old name of Ceredigion.

> Coed, maes, tyno, a bryn.
>
> Wood, field, dale, and hill. Taliesin.
>
> Nid oes dwyn, na dwys dyno,
> Yn nenta glyn Nant y Glo—
> Na wyddost.
>
> There is nor tump nor tedious dale, about the dingle of Nant y Glo, but thou knowest. D. ab Gwilym.

Tynraff, s. f. (tyn—rhaff) A drawing rope.

Tynrwyd, s. f. (tyn—rhwyd) A dragnet.

Tynrwydd, s. m. (tyn) Rigidity, or tightness.

Tynrwym, s. m. (tyn—rhwym) A tight bandage.

Tynrwymaw, v. a. (tynrwym) To bind tightly.

Tynrwymiad, s. m. (tynrwym) Astriction.

Tỳnu, v. a. (tyn) To draw, to pull, to lug. Tỳna hi gan bwyll, draw her on gently. Dyfed.

> Cylion a dynant at y mel.
>
> The wasps will draw to the honey. Adage.
>
> Na thyn chware ar dolawg;
> Na fydd ry hyf ar rywiawg.
>
> Draw no play from a savage; be not over encroaching on the good-natured. Llywarch Hen.
>
> Hawdd tỳnu dannedd blaidd, ond hwyr y tỳnir o hano ei anian.
>
> It is easy to draw a wolf's teeth, but it will be long before his nature is pulled out of him. Adage.
>
> Anturiwn, hwyliwn heli a thonau,
> A thynwn fed yn rhi,
> Ynad pob gwlad rad roddi,
> Un ion athrawon a thri.
>
> Let us venture, let us range the brine and waves, and let us draw towards our Lord, the judge of every nation, dispensing grace, one supreme of lords and three. Casnodyn.

Tynwr, s. m.—pl. tynwyr (tyn—gwr) A puller.

Tynwydd, s. m. (tyn—gwydd) Direction, information, intelligence.

Tynwyddaw, v. a. (tynwydd) To direct, to guide

Tynwyddawl, a. (tynwydd) Directing, informing.

Tynwyddiad, s. m. (tynwydd) Direction, guidance

Tynwyddwr, s. m.—pl. tynwyddwyr (tynwydd—gwr) One who directs, or an informer.

Tynwyddyd, s. m. (tynwydd) Direction, guidance, information, intelligence. A elli di roi tynwyddyd i mi am dano? canst thou give me intelligence about it? Sil.

Tyngad, s. m. (twng) A making a deposition, a plighting; a swearing; adjuration.

Tyngadwr, s. m.—pl. tyngadwyr (tyngad—gwr) An exorcist; an adjurer.

Tynged, s. f.—pl. t. ion (twng) Destiny, fate, fortune, luck. Tynged ddrwg iddo! Bad luck to him!

> Goreu tynged diwedd da.
>
> The best fortune is a good end. Adage.
>
> Nid i bob amddawd tynged.
>
> Fate is not attached to every circumstance. Adage.
>
> Trech tynged nog arfaeth.
>
> Fate is more powerful than resolution. Adage.
>
> Ni ell dyn ochel tynged.
>
> A person cannot avoid fate. Adage.

Tyngedawl, a. (tynged) Belonging to destiny.

Tyngedfen, s. f.—pl. t. au (tynged—men) The fated or sworn necessity, fate, destiny.

> Nid oes nawdd rhag tyngedfen.
>
> There is no refuge against destiny. Adage.

Tyngedfenawg, a. (tyngedfen) Being fated.

Tyngedfenawl, a. (tyngedfen) Belonging to fate; fatal; fortunate; predestined.

Tyngedfeniad, s. m. (tyngedfen) A rendering liable to fate; predestination.

Tyngedfenoldeb, s. m. (tyngedfenawl) The state of being subject to destiny; fatality.

Tyngedfenoli, v. a. (tyngedfenawl) To subject to fate; to become destined.

Tyngedfenolrwydd, s. m. (tyngedfenawl) A state subject to destiny.

Tyngedfenu, v. a. (tyngedfen) To predestinate.

Tyngedfenus, a. (tyngedfen) Predestinarian.

> O ffol drwg tyngedfenus! O ddelw ynfyd! O ogyrgawd dyn! nid oes genyd fwy o ddeall no chan anifel.
>
> Oh thou foolish one evil of destiny! Oh vain image! Oh less than a shadow of a man! thou hast no more understanding than belongs to a beast. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Tyngedfenwr, s. m.—pl. tyngedfenwyr (tynged-fen—gwr) A fatalist; a predestinator.

Tyngediad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tynged) Exorcism.

Tyngedig, a. (tynged) Being sworn. Mae ef yn o dyngedig, he is rather addicted to swearing.

Tyngedigawl, a. (tyngedig) Juratory.

Tyngediad, s. m. (tynged) Adjuration.

Tyngedu, v. a. (tynged) To make a pledge; to adjure. Wyf yn dy dyngedu i fyned allan, I do adjure thee to go out.

> Arthur nis bogelaf;
> Naw cant cad a'i tyngedaf:
> O'm lleddir, minnau a laddaf.
>
> Arthur I will not be intimidated by; nine hundred battles I will adjure him: if I should be killed, I too will kill. Ymdd. Trystan a Gwalchmai.

Tyngedwr, s. m. (tynged—gwr) An exorcist.

Tyngiad, s. m. (twng) A swearing, a deposing.

Tyngnaith, s. f. (twng—naith) A sanctuary.

> I'w tyngnaith ceisiant dangnef,
> Y gwyr oll o'i fangor ef.
>
> To their sanctuary they will seek for tranquillity, all the men of his high choir. Ieu. Sais ab Rhydderch, i Iilttyd.

Tyngnawdd, s. m. (twng—nawdd) Sworn protection.

Tyngu, v. a. (twng) To render fixed or unalterable; to depose; to swear, to take an oath; to adjure. Tyngu anudon, to swear a false oath.

Ni ddawr dirlad pa dyng.

The mischievous cares not what he swears. Adage.

Mal hyn y bu y dangnefedd rhyngddynt: nid amgen, talu o Henri—dirfawr swmp o ariant i Lowys, fab brenin Ffrainc, trwy dyngu ohono yntau deyrnas Lloegr yn dragywyddawl.

In this manner was there peace between them; that is to say, by Henry's paying an immense sum of money to Louis, the son of the king of France, through his adjuring on his part the kingdom of England for ever. Brut y Saeson.

Tyngwr, s. m.—pl. tyngwyr (twng—gwr) A swearer.
Tyrawl, a. (twr) Heaping, or accumulating.
Tyrch, s. m. (torch) That consists of circles.
Tyrchaidd, a. (twrch) Hoggish, or like a hog.
Tyrchawl, a. (twrch) Belonging to a pig, or hog.
Tyrches, s. f.—pl. t. od (twrch) A splayed sow. Twrch a thyrches, a splayed boar and splayed sow.
Tyrchiad, s. m. (twrch) A burrowing, as a pig.
Tyrchu, v. a. (twrch) To turn up; to burrow.
Tyrchwr, s. m. (twrch—gwr) A mole-catcher.
Tyrchyn, s. m. dim. (twrch) A little hog; a hoggish fellow.
Tyrddain, v. a. (twrdd) To be blustering, to storm.
Tyrddan, s. m. (twrdd) A blustering, a turmoil.
Tyrddiad, s. m. (twrdd) A blustering, a storming.
Tyrddu, v. a. (twrdd) To bluster, or to storm.

Triged yno ny fro fras,
Tyrdded mewn tai o urddas.

Let him abide there in the rich country, let him bluster in houses of renown. Tho. Llywelyn.

Tyrddwr, s. m. (twrdd—gwr) A blusterer.
Tyredig, a. (twr) Heaped, or accumulated.
Tyrfa, s. f.—pl. tyrfëydd (twrf) A multitude.

Un dyrfa a wna derfysg,
Rhag i'r llall gael mael i'n mysg.

One host raiseth a tumult, lest the other should obtain an advantage amongst us. H. D. ab Ifan.

Tyrfain, v. a. (twrf) To be blustering, to storm. s. m. A storm, a tumult.

Mal gwaith Arderydd gwyth ar dyrfain cad.

Like the battle of Arderydd wrath in the storm of conflict. Cynddelw.

Tyrfâu, v. a. (twrf) To cause a drawing together; to be contracted.
Tyrfedig, a. (twrf) Being heaped; being drawn together; contracted.
Tyrfiad, s. m. (twrf) A heaping; a turning up, as swine do the ground; a contraction, or shrinking.
Tyrfu, v. a. (twrf) To draw together; to rise tumultuously; to contract, to shrink.

Tòn tyrfid, toid erfid.

The wave is boisterous, it covers the shore. Llywarch Hen.

Eidion i wan, hwch i dyrfu.

An ox to spread, a sow to turn up. Taliesin.

Tyriad, s. m. (twr) A heaping; accumulation.
Tyriaw, v. a. (twr) To heap up; to turn up.
Tyru, v. a. (twr) To heap, to pile; to make a heap, to amass, to collect, to accumulate.

Am benaeth ydd ym, am benaf terwyn
Tyrant beirdd am olaf.

Around a chief we are, around the chiefest of the fierce bards will gather together after wealth. Cynddelw, i O. ab Madawg.

Tyrwn, s. m.—pl. tyrynod (twr) A sand-bank; also called tywoden and traethell.
Tyrwr, s. m.—pl. tyrwyr (tyru—gwr) A heaper.
Tysmwy, s. m.—pl. t. on (tws—mwy) A throbbing, a palpitation; horror, trembling. Tysmwy ar un wedi gweled ellyll, horror upon one after seeing a monster.

Nid esmwyth hyn o dysmwy;
Ni bu boen ar farw-groen fwy.

Not comfortable this fit of shivering; there never was a benumbed skin in greater pain. D. ab Gwilym.

Tysmwyad, s. m. (tysmwy) A throbbing, a palpitating; a trembling with fear.
Tysmwyaw, v. a. (tysmwy) To throb; to tremble with fear.
Tysmwyawl, a. (tysmwy) Throbbing; shivering.
Tyst, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ty—yst) One who testifies.
Tystiad, s. m. (tyst) A testing, a witnessing.
Tystiant, s. m.—pl. tystiaint (tyst) A witness.
Tystiaw, v. a. (tyst) To testify, to bear witness.
Tystiawl, a. (tyst) Testifying, witnessing.
Tystiedig, a. (tystiad) Being testified or witnessed
Tystiolaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (tystiawl) Testimony.
Tystiolaethawl, a. (tystiolaeth) Testimonial.
Tystiolaethiad, s. m. (tystiolaeth) A testifying.
Tystiolaethu, v. a. (tystiolaeth) To give a testimony; to bear witness.
Tystiolaethwr, s. m.—pl. tystiolaethwyr (tystiolaeth—gwr) One who gives testimony; testifier.
Tystiwr, s. m. (tystiaw—gwr) A testifier.
Tysyn, s. m. dim. (tws) The bottom of a ball of yarn or thread.
Tytmwy, s. m.—pl. t. au (twt—mwy) A loop; a clasp; a buckle.

Tytmwy ar adwy ydoedd,
Tant coed, ar nant cadarn oedd—
Y fiaren.——

A fastening on a gap is it, the string of the wood, across a dingle strong was the brier. D. ab Gwilym.

Tytmwyad, s. m. (tytmwy) A fastening with a loop, clasp, or buckle.
Tytmwyaw, v. a. (tytmwy) To fasten with a loop, clasp, or buckle; to buckle.
Tytmwyawg, a. (tytmwy) Having a fastening loop
Tytmwyedig, a. (tytmwyad) Fastened by looping.
Tyw, s. m. (ty) That tends to over-spread.
Tywall, s. m. (tyw—gwall) A pour; a spill. v. a. To pour; to shed, to spill.
Tywalliad, s. m. (tywall) A pouring; a shedding.
Tywallt, s. m. (tywall) A pour; a spill. v. a. To pour; to shed, to spill.
Tywalltawg, a. (tywallt) Having a pouring.
Tywalltawl, a. (tywallt) Pouring, spilling.
Tywalltedig, a. (tywallt) Being poured out.
Tywalltiad, s. m. (tywallt) A pouring; a shedding.
Tywalltiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tywalltiad) One who makes a pouring; a pourer.
Tywalltu, v. a. (tywallt) To pour; to shed.
Tywalltwr, s. m.—pl. tywalltwyr (tywallt—gwr) A pourer; a shedder.
Tywalltydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tywallt) A pourer.
Tywarch, s. m. aggr. pl. tyweirch (tyw—arch) A spreading element; a sod, a clod, a turf.

Nid oes dim dyfnfawn, ond digon o dywarch yn y Wyddgrug.

There is no deep peat, but plenty of turf in the Wyddgrug. Ed. Llwyd.

Tywarchawg, a. (tywarch) Turfy, glebous; swardy
Tywarchawl, a. (tywarch) Turfy, or glebous.
Tywarchawr, s. m.—pl. tywarchorion (tywarch) That is of the sod; an epithet for the ox in a yoke on the turf side, as opposed to rhychawr, or the one that walks in the furrow.

Tywarchen, s. f.—pl. t. i (tywarch) That is over or covering, a stratum; an element, a constituent matter; a sod, a clod. Y pum tywarchen, the five elements. Barddas.

Y ddwy dywarchen yr â pawb iddynt; y nef ac y ddaiar.

The two elements into which every body go; the heaven and the earth. Trioedd Athronl.

Syrthiynt y rhai brathedig, a'r ergydiau yn eu hymysgaroedd; a chan amled y rhedai y dywarchen o'r gwaed, a chyd bai disyfyd ddeheuwynt yn llyncu eiry i'r mor.

The wounded ones were falling, with the propelled shafts in their bowels; and so abundantly did the sod run with blood, as if a sudden south wind were sinking the snow into the sea. Gr. ab Arthur.

Tywarchiad, s. m. (tywarch) A forming of glebe, turf, or sod; a swarding.

Tywarchlyd, a. (tywarch) Turfy, swardy, glebous.

Tywarchu, v. a. (tywarch) To form turf or sod; to sward; to cover with turf.

Cyn gweryd gorôfer digu,
Cyn annaws tywaws tywarchu
Fy nghnawd, tywarchen o bobtu,
Bwyf gwas Duw cyn nom gostegu!

Before the bed frail in the extreme and unlovely, before the ungenial spread of covering with turf my flesh, a sod on either side, may I be a servant of God ere I be silenced! Elidr Sais.

Tywas, s. m.—pl. tyweision (ty—gwas) A house servant, a domestic.

Dy gynnogn ni gynnail y tywas.

Thy debtor will not maintain the domestic. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Tywawd, s. m.—pl. tywodydd (tyw) Sand.

Tywel, s. m.—pl. t. i (tyw) A cloth, a towel. Tyweli caws, cheese cloths.

Tywell, a. (f. of tywyll) Dark, obscure, dusky.

Nos da i'r ynys dywell;
Ni wn oes un ynys well.

Good night to the dusky isle; I know not that there is a better isle. Ll. Goch ab Meurig Hen.

Tywerchyn, s. m. dim. (tywarch) A clod, a sod.

Tywi, s. m. (tyw) The state of being spread

Tywiad, s. m. (tyw) A spreading over.

Tywiaw, v. a. (tyw) To spread about.

Tywiawl, a. (tyw) Tending to overspread.

Tywodaidd, a. (tywawd) Arenaceous; like sand.

Tywodawg, a. (tywawd) Having sand; sandy.

Tywodawl, a. (tywawd) Arenaceous; sandy.

Tywodi, v. a. (tywawd) To sand; to become sand.

Tywodiad, s. m. (tywawd) A forming of sand.

Tywodlyd, a. (tywawd) Sandy, full of sand.

Tywodlydrwydd, s. m. (tywodlyd) Sandiness.

Tywodwlydd, s. m. (tywawd—gwlydd) Sandwort.

Tywodyn, s. m. dim. (tywawd) A grain of sand.

Tywota, v. a. (tywawd) To gather sand.

Tywu, v. a. (tyw) To spread about, to dilate.

Tywydd, s. m. (tyw) That is of a spreading principle; the atmosphere; the weather.

Hwn ar dywydd dydd, a wnaeth deuddyn ben;
Hwynt a gad o briddyn.

He, on the expansion of day, did form two primitive persons; they were had from earthly substance. L. G. Cothi.

Am y tywydd gorea tewi.

About the weather it is best to be silent. Adage.

Tywyll, s. m. (ty—gwyll) Dark; dusk, gloom. a. Dark; dusky, gloomy.

Llewychid gwir yn nhywyll.

The truth shines in the dark. Adage.

Ystafell Cynddylan ys tywyll heno,
Heb dan, heb oleuad:
Elid amdaw am danad!

The hall of Cynddylan is dark this night, without fire, without light: a deadly silence goes about thee! Llywarch Hen.

Tywyllawd, s. m. (tywyll) An obscuration.

Tywyllawdr, s. m.—pl. tywyllodron (tywyllawd) One who makes obscure or dark.

Tywyllawr, s. m. (tywyll) An obscurer.

Tywylledig, a. (tywyll) Darkened, obscured.

Tywylliad, s. m. (tywyll) A darkening, an obscuring.

Tywyllu, v. a. (tywyll) To darken, to obscure; to grow dark, to become obscure, to grow dusky or gloomy.

Tywyllwch, s. m. (tywyll) Darkness, obscurity.

Tywyllwg, s. m. (tywyll) Darkness, obscurity.

Tywyllwr, s. m.—pl. tywyllwyr (tywyll—gwr) A darkener, one who renders obscure.

Tywyn, s. m.—pl. t. ydd (tyw) A spread; a strand; a ray, or beam of light.

Blin yw ar bob blaennewydd,
Blodeuyn o dywyn dydd.

Troubled is it on every change, a flower from the light of day. D. ab Gwilym, i'r Urnad.

Tywynawg, a. (tywyn) Having a splendor.

Tywynawl, a. (tywyn) Shining, resplendent.

Tywynedig, a. (tywyn) Being made shining.

Tywynedigaeth, s. m. (tywynedig) Resplendency

Tywynedigrwydd, s. m. (tywynedig) Shiningness

Tywyniad, s. m. (tywyn) A shining, a radiating.

Tywynu, v. a. (tywyn) To shine, to cast a lustre.

Tan o fron y tyno fry
Tywynodd.——

Fire from the bosom of the expanse above did shine. Iolo Goch, i seren wib.

Tywynwg, s. m. (tywyn) A shiningness.

Tywynygawl, a. (tywynwg) Resplendent.

Tywynygiad, s. m. (tywynwg) Illumination.

Tywynygu, v. a. (tywynwg) To cast a splendor.

Y fell a wneler yn rhin nant,
Hi a dywynyg yn ngwydd cant.

The crime that is committed in the secret of the dingle, it will reflect a light in the presence of a hundred. Adage.

Tywys, s. m. (ty—gwys) A lead, or guidance. v. a. To lead, to conduct.

Lliaws gorwydd——
Lliaws gwineu ffadw ffrawdd tywys.

Many a steed, many of dusky bay prancing in the lead. Gwalchmai.

Tywysaw, v. a. (tywys) To lead, or to conduct.

Tywysawg, a. (tywys) Having a lead. s. m.—pl. Tywysogion. A leader, a prince.

Mynych i'r praidd bod ar wall pan fo tywysawg yr enderig.

Frequently must the herd be astray when the steer is a leader. Adage.

Tywysawl, a. (tywys) Leading, conducting.

Tywysedig, a. (tywys) Being conducted or led.

Tywysel, s. f.—pl. t. i (tywys) A plug.

Tywysg, s. m. (ty—wysg) A procession. v. a. To proceed forward.

Bu, o Gadwaladr hyd at Gwilym Bastardd, ugain brenin o'r Saeson olynol, a thrichanmlynedd y buant yn tywysg.

There have been, from Cadwaladr down to William Bastard, twenty kings of the Saxons in succession, and three hundred years they continued going on. Brut y Saeson.

Tywysgaw, v. a. (tywysg) To proceed onward.

Tywysgawl, a. (tywysg) Tending to go onward.

Tywysgiad, s. m. (tywysg) A proceeding forward.

Tywysiad, s. m. (tywys) A leading, a conducting.

Tywysogaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (tywysawg) Principality.

Tywysogaidd, a. (tywysawg) Like a leader.

Tywysogawl, a. (tywysawg) Like a leader.

Tywysogeiddiad, s. m. (tywysogaidd) A rendering princely; a becoming princely.

Tywysogeiddiaw, v. a. (tywysogaidd) To render princely; to become princely.

Tywysogeiddrwydd, s. m. (tywysogaidd) Princeliness.

Tywysoges, s. f.—pl. t. au (tywysawg) A princess.

Tywyswr, s. m.—pl. tywyswyr (tywys—gwr) A man who leads.

U.

UB, s. m. r. That is out, or extreme; that is high, or loud; a howl, a loud cry.

Ubain, v. a. (ub) To howl, to utter doleful cries. s. m. A howling.

Gwae hwynt y gethern,
A fynant uffern
Byth gwedi yma;
Yn y mae ubain,
Yn y mae llefain,
A llawer pla.

Woe to them the fiends, who seek for hell ever after the present; where there is howling, where there is wailing, and many a torment. Ion. Athraw.

Uban, s. m. (ub) A howling, a loud crying.

UCH, s. f. r.—pl. t. ion. That breaks out, or rises; a sigh.

Oedd uch yn nghawdd,
Neud Urien ei blawdd!

If there is a cry in distress, is it not Urien who drives it away! Taliesin.

Uch, a. (uch, s.) Being over or above; higher.

Uch, prep. (uch, s.) Above, over. a. Higher, used for uchach.

Gnawd uch pen dedwydd diddos.

Accordant over the head of the prudent is a shelter. Adage.

Uchad, s. m. (uch) The act of rising higher.

Uchaf, a. (uch) Upmost, uppermost, highest.

A gair Duw yn uchaf.

With the word of God uppermost. Adage.

Uchafael, s. m. (uchaf) A going aloft; ascension.

Gostwng a fu'r cyfrwng cael
A chyfod Iau'r Uchafael.

Humiliation was the intermediate act, and a resurrection on Ascension Thursday. Ieuan Deulwyn.

Uchafed, a. (uchaf) Being over or above. Lledr uchafed, upper leather.

Uchafedu, v. a. (uchafed) To make a top part; to vamp.

Uchafedd, s. m. (uchaf) Loftiness, pre-eminence.

Uchafiad, s. m. (uchaf) A rising over or above.

Uchafiaeth, s. m. (uchaf) Supremacy, superiority.

Llyma fal y dosparthant deyrnasau Cymmru yn dair rhan: un a bia uchafiaeth ar y ddwy: nid amgen nog Aberffraw pia y bendefigaeth.

Behold the manner they divide the kingdoms of Wales into three parts: one possesses supremacy over the two; that is to say, Aberffraw has the sovereignty. Trioedd.

Uchafiaethawl, a. (uchafiaeth) Appertaining to supremacy.

Uchafiaetholdeb, s. m. (uchafiaethawl) A state of supremacy or superiority.

Uchafiaethu, v. a. (uchafiaeth) To create supremacy; to exercise superiority.

Uchanedd, s. m. (uch—anedd) The gums. Dodi mel ar uchanedd plentyn, to apply honey to the gums of a child. Dyfed.

Uchanian, s. f. (uch—anian) A superior nature. a. Of superior nature; supernatural.

Uchanianaeth, s. f. (uchanian) Metaphysics.

Uchanianawl, a. (uchanian) Metaphysical.

Uchanianoldeb, s. m. (uchanianawl) A state of superior nature; supernaturalness.

Uchanianolder, s. (uchanianawl) Supernaturalness

Uchanianoli, v. a. (uchanianawl) To render of superior nature; to become of superior nature; to become supernatural.

Uchanianolrwydd, s. m. (uchanianawl) A state of superior nature; supernaturalness.

Uchanianu, v. a. (uchanian) To render of superior nature; to become of superior nature; to become supernatural.

Ucharn, s. m.—pl. t. edd (uch—arn) The region of the ankle; the ankle; the same as uffarn.

Uchaw, v. a. (uch) To heighten, or to elevate.

Uchawl, a. (uch) Relating to height; elevating.

Uchdeb, s. m. (uch) Highness, loftiness, height.

Uchder, s. m. (uch) Highness, loftiness, height.

Uchdeyrn, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (uch—teyrn) A sovereign prince.

Uchdeyrnas, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (uchdeyrn) A superior realm or kingdom.

Uchdeyrnedd, s. m. (uchdeyrn) Supreme monarchy

Uchdra, s. m. (uch) Loftiness, altitude, height.

Uched, a. (uch) High, elevated, or exalted.

Pum ucher uched pan achubed Ffrainc,
Pan ffaraon foed.

Five elevated vespers were bad when France was saved, when mighty ones were put to flight. H. ab Owain Gwynedd.

Uchediad, s. m. (uched) A soaring, an elevation.

Uchedu, v. a. (uched) To soar; to elevate.

Uchedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (uched) A soarer.

I gysgu gyda throad yr ych,
A chodi gyda'r uchedydd.

To sleep with the turning out of the ox, and to rise with the lark. Adage.

Uchedd, s. m. (uch) Highness, loftiness, altitude; grandeur; a top, or surface.

Uchel, a. (uch—el) High, lofty; towering; stately. It is prefixed in composition. 'Molwch ef yn yr uchelion,' Praise him in the high-places.

A ddringo yn rhy uchel, fe dyr y brigyn dano.

He that climbs too high, the branch will break under him. Adage.

Darfu'r gauaf, darfu'r oerfel,
Darfu'r gwlaw a'r gwyntoedd uchel;
Daeth y gwanwyn glas eginog,
Dail i'r llwyn, a dol feillionog.

Past is the winter, past is the cold, past is the rain and the high winds; the green vegetating spring is come, leaves to the grove, and the dale covered with trefoils. Ed. Mathew, o Forganwg.

Uchelawg, a. (uchel) Having height or altitude: yr uchelawg, the misseltoe; also called uchelwor, uchelfa, uchelfal, and uchelfar.

Ucheldad, s. m. (uchel—tad) A supreme father.

Uchelder, s. m.—pl. t. au (uchel) Loftiness, height.

Y Duw anfeidrawl—
Fy llygaid i fy hun ei gwel,
Ar dirion uchelderau.

The incomprehensible God, my own eyes shall him behold, on pleasant heights. Elis Wyn.

Ucheldir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (uchel—tir) High land

Ucheldra, s. m. (uchel) Highness, or elevatedness

Ucheldrem, s. f.—pl. t. iau (uchel—trem) A high look. a. Of supercilious look.

Ucheldremiad, s. (ucheldrem) A highly looking.

Ucheldremiaw, v. a. (ucheldrem) To look highly.

Ucheldremiawl, a. (ucheldrem) Highly looking.

Ucheldrum, a. (uchel—trum) A high ridge.

Ucheldrumiad, s. m. (trum) A forming a high ridge

Ucheldrumiaw, v. a. (ucheldrum) To form a high ridge.

Ucheldrumiawg, a. (ucheldrum) Being high ridged

Ucheldyb, s. m.—pl. t. iau (uchel—tyb) A high opinion. a. Of a high opinion.

Ucheldybiaw, v. a. (ucheldyb) To hold a high opinion.

Ucheledig, a. (uchel) Being heightened, elevated.
Ucheledd, s. m. (uchel) Altitude, elevatedness.
Uchelfa, s. f.—pl. uchelfëydd (uchel) High place.
Uchelfaer, s. m. (uchel—maer) A high constable.
Uchelfal, s. m. (uchel—bal) The misseltoe.
Uchelfalch, a. (uchel—balch) Of stately pride.
Uchelfalchedd, s. (uchelfalch) High-mettledness.
Uchelfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchel—màn) High place
Uchelfar, s. m. (uchel—bar) A high summit; also the misseltoe, otherwise called uchelfa, uchelfal, uchelwydd, uchellawg, uchellawr, pren awyr, and gwysgonllys.

—Cor goelfain
Uchelfar uchelfab Owain.

The circle of the oracle stone of the high branch of the elevated son of Owain. Cynddelw.

Uchelfawr, a. (uchel) Eminently great or grand.
Uchelfeddwl, s. m. (uchel—meddwl) Lofty mind.
Uchelfen, s. f.—pl. t. au (uch—elfen) A superior element.
Uchelfryd, s. m. (uchel—bryd) A lofty mind. a. High-minded, magnanimous.
Uchelgaer, s. f. (uchel—caer) A high rampart.
Uchelgaerawg, a. (uchelgaer) Of high rampart.
Uchelgais, s. f. (uchel—cais) A lofty attempt.
Uchelgeisiaw, v. a. (uchelgais) To make a lofty attempt; to be ambitious.
Uchelgrug, s. m. (uchel—crug) A lofty tump.

O fro Echelfiaint uchelgrug.

From the region of Echelviaint of elevated peak. Ll. P. Moch.

Uchelgyllid, s. m. (uchel—cyllid) A chief rent; an annual tribute of corn.
Uchelhed, s. f. (uchel—hed) A high flight or soar.
Uchelhediad, s. m (uchelhed) A high-flying.
Uchelhedydd, s. m. (uchelhed) A high-flier.
Ucheliad, s. m. (uchel) A making lofty, a heightening; a becoming elevated.
Ucheliant, s. m. (uchel) Elevation, exaltation.
Uchelradd, s. f. (uchel—gradd) A high degree.
Uchelraddawg, a. (uchelradd) Of a high degree.
Uchelraddiad, s. m. (uchelradd) Of a high degree.
Uchelraddu, v. a. (uchelradd) To raise to a high degree.
Uchelraith, s. f.—pl. uchelreithiau (uchel—rhaith) A grand jury.
Uchelred, s. f. (uchel—rhed) An elevated course.
Uchelreithiad, s. m. (uchelraith) A forming a grand jury.
Uchelreithiaw, v. a. (uchelraith) To form a grand jury; to act as a grand jury.
Uchelreithiwr, s. m.—pl. uchelreithiwyr (uchelrhaith—gwr) A grand jury man.
Uchelryw, s. m.—pl. t. iau (uchel—rhyw) A superior kind. a. Of superior kind; highborn.
Uchelsaf, s. f. (uchel—saf) High standing.
Uchelsain, s. f. (uchel—sain) A high note.
Uchelsant, s. m. (uchel—sant) A superior saint.

Eurbarch uchelsaint braint breniniawl.

The gloriously revered superior saints of royal privilege. Bleddyn Fardd.

Uchelsantaeth, s. m. (uchelsant) A hierarchy.
Uchelswydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchel—swydd) A high office.
Uchelswyddawg, a. (uchelswydd) Having a high office. s. m.—pl. uchelswyddogion, A high officer
Uchelsyth, a. (uchel—syth) Being highly erect.
Uchelsythiad, s. m. (uchelsyth) A rendering highly erect.
Uchelsythu, v. a. (uchelsyth) To be highly erect.
Uchelu, v. a. (uchel) To make high, to exalt.
Uchelurdd, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchel—urdd) High order
Uchelurddas, s. f.—pl. t. au (uchelurdd) High dignity.
Uchelurddaw, v. a. (uchelurdd) To raise to a high order, rank, or station.
Uchelurddiad, s. m. (uchelurdd) A raising to a high order, rank, or dignity.
Uchelwaed, s. m. (uchel—gwaed) High blood.
Uchelwr, s. m.—pl. uchelwyr (uchel—gwr) A high man; a gentleman; a freeholder.

Un lle y dyly mab fod yn arglwydd ar ei dad o gyfraith: o derfydd i uchelwr roddi ei ferch i'w alltud ei hun, a bod meibion iddynt, a gwedi hyny marw yr uchelwr, a chaffel o feibion yr alltud famwys o dir eu hendad; y rhai hyny fyddant arglwyddi ar eu tad, o famwys, a dawed eu tad yn rhan yr alltudion: sua y bydd y mab yn arglwydd ar ei dad.

There is one case where a son ought to be lord over his father by law: if a freeholder should have given his daughter to his own alien, and they have children, and then the freeholder dies, and the children of the alien obtain maternal right to the land of their grandfather; those ones will be lord over their father, through maternity, as their father comes under the division of the aliens: so therefore the son becomes lord over his father. Welsh Laws.

Uchelwriaeth, s. m. (uchelwr) The rank or state of a gentleman, or freeholder.
Uchelwyl, s. m. (uchel—gwyl) A high festival.
Uchelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (uchel) A superior.

Lle bydd uchelydd ar ychydig.

Where there is lord over a little. Hywel Ystoryn.

Uchelyddiaeth, s. m. (uchelydd) The state of a superior.
Uchell, s. f. (uch) What is on high or aloft.
Uchellawg, a. (uchell) Having a lofty site.
Uchellawr, s. m. (uchell) What is most exalted; the misseltoe.

Caing uchellawr triugaint a dal.

A branch of misseltoe sixty pence is its value. Welsh Laws.

Uchenaid, s. f.—pl. ucheneidion (uch—enaid) The rising or groan of the soul; a sigh.

Uchenaid gwrach ar ol ei hawd.

The sigh of an old woman after her caudle. Adage.

Am frig Moreiddig mawr raid we'ygordd
Ar Loegr fwrw uchenaid.

For the top of Moreiddig great the necessity for the clan of England to cast a sigh. Rhisiart Iorwerth.

Ucheneidiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (uchenaid) A sighing
Ucheneidiaw, v. a. (uchenaid) To utter sighs.
Ucheneidiawl, a. (uchenaid) Sighing, apt to sigh.
Ucheneidiwr, s. m. (uchenaid—gwr) A sigher.
Ucher, s. m. (uch) An overcast; the evening.

Pa decaf y bore, hacraf yr ucher.

The more fine the morning, the more rough the evening. Adage.

Ucher a ddaw gan ddryghin.

A gloom will come with the storm. Adage.

Cadfan—
Bendigaid a daith o'i gyweithydd,
Pan doeth i'r cyfoeth, beunoeth, beunydd;
Pan dyfu chwant syllu ar esillydd.
Yn mher Aber Menwenfer ucher echwydd.

Cadvan, blessed is whoever travels through his assistance, when he comes into the country, by night, by day; when a desire of beholding came on a progeny, in the sweet estuary of Menwenver of tranquil evening. Llywelyn Fardd.

Ucherawl, a. (ucher) Being overcast; evening.
Ucherddaw, s. m. (ucher—daw) Evening tide.

Mor deg y gelli di gall arwyddaw
Merwerydd echwydd ac ucherddaw.

So fair canst thou discreetly delineate the tranquil ocean and evening tide. D. Benfras.

Uchergyd, s. m. (uch—ergyd) A high shock.

Mal uchergyd gwynt wrth onwydd.

Like the high shock of the wind on ash trees. Taliesin.

Ucheriad, s. m. (ucher) An overcasting; a becoming evening.
Ucheru, v. a. (ucher) To overcast; to become evening. Pan ucherai y dydd, when the day drew to a close.

·Ucherwyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ucher—gwyl) Evening tide watch; a vesper, or vigil.
Uchfraint, s. m.—pl. uchfreintiau (uch—braint) A supreme right, a prerogative.
Uchfreintlys, s. m. (uchfraint—llys) A court of superior privilege.
Uch-hed, s. f. (uch—hed) A superior flight.
Uch-hedeg, v. a. (uch-hed) To fly in a higher course
Uch-hedfa, s. f. (uch-hed) A superior flight.
Uch-hediad, s. m. (uch-hed) A superior flying.
Uchiad, s. m. (uch) A heightening; exaltation.
Ucho, prep. (uch) Above. adv. Above, over.

Y byd go domlyd a deimlais i gyd,
A chwaen o iechyd a chwennychais;
Am olud y byd mi a wylais dwr byw,
Am ucho wirdduw mi a chwerddais!

The world of frail tendency I have experienced all, and a state of health I have desired; after the wealth of the world I have wept living water, concerning the true God above I have laughed
L. G. Cothi.

Uchod, prep. (uch) Above. adv. Above, over head. Nef uchod a daiar isod, heaven above and earth beneath.
Uchuch, prep. (uch, repeated) Above and above.

Gwynlluch eiry uchuch aches dolydd.

White driving snow above and above the surface of the dales.
Iorwerth Fychan.

UD, s. m. r. That is high, loud, or shrill; a howl; a blast of a clarion or trumpet.
Udaw, v. a. (ud) To howl, to yell; to yelp.

Aruthredd gweled y diefyl, y seirff, ac y dreigiau! a chan wreichion y tan y gwelant wy; wyntau hagen a'r sermain truanaf ganddynt; ac yn udaw, ac yn wylaw, ac yn ymffust.

Dreadful thing to behold the devils, and the serpents, and the dragons! and it is from the sparks of the fire that they see; they besides keep up the most miserable outcry, and are howling, and weeping, and striking one another. Elucidarius.

Udawg, a. (ud) Full of howling; yelling.
Udawl, a. (ud) Howling, yelling; yelping.
Udfa, s. f.—pl. udfëydd (ud) A howling, yelling.
Udgan, s. f. (ud—can) A sound of a trumpet.
Udganawl, a. (udgan) Sounding as a trumpet.
Udganiad, s. m. (udgan) A sounding a trumpet.
Udgann, v. a. (udgan) To sound a trumpet.
Udganwr, s. m.—pl. udganwyr (udgan—gwr) A trumpeter.
Udgorn, s. m.—pl. udgyrn (ud—corn) A trumpet

Udgorn angau yw peswch sych.

The trumpet of death is a dry cough. Adage.

Udiad, s. m. (ud) A making a howling, a yelling.
Udlais, s. m.—pl. udleisiau (ud—llais) A howling noise.

——Bar oedd
Eigion udlais genedloedd.

Furious was the deeply howling cry of nations.
W. Middleton.

Udlef, s. (ud—llef) Ejaculation; howling voice.
Udlefain, v. a. (udlef) To make a howling cry.
Udlefawg, a. (udlef) Having a howling cry.
Udlefawl, a. (udlef) Of a howling cry.
Udlefiad, s. m. (udlef) A making a howling cry.
Udon, s. m. (ud—on) A solemn cry; an imprecation.
Udonawl, a. (udon) Being imprecated.
Udoni, v. a. (udon) To make imprecation.
Udoniad, s. m. (udon) An imprecating.
Udoniaeth, s. m. (udon) An imprecation.
Udwr, s. m.—pl. udwyr (ud—gwr) A howler.
UDD, s. m. r. That is over, above, or superior; a chief; a lord. Mor Udd, the name of the British Sea, or King's Channel.

Gruffudd mynawg udd mynud;
Mynud wrth folud, wrth filwyr bu gwridd,
Bu gorddwy ar allmyr.

Grufudd the courteous master of civility; civility to the song of praise, towards the warriors he was furious, he was the trouble of regions beyond the seas. D. ab Ll. Mynyw, m. G. ab Cynan.

Uddyf, a. (udd—yf) Humble, obedient, meek.

A fynych genyf finnau,
Uddyf y tyf a fydd tau.

What thou wouldest likewise have from me, obsequiously will grow up what will be thine. H. ab D. ab I. ab Rhys.

Uddyfâad, s. m. (uddyfâu) Obedience.
Uddyfâu, v. a. (uddyf) To humble; to obey.
Uddyfdawd, s. m. (uddyf) Obedience; humility.
UF, s. m. r. That is over, spread, or diffused.
Ufel, s. m.—pl. t. ion (uf—el) Elementary fire; a spark of fire.

Ai un hynt gwynt, ai un dwfr mor,
Ai un ufel tan twrf diachor!

Is there but one course to the wind, is there but one to the water of the sea, is there but one to the spark of fire of irresistible tumult! Taliesin.

Rhuthr uthr ufel,
Rhynawd awel
Rhyfel febin.

Like the dread assault of fire, like the chilling of the gale is the war of youth. Cuhelyn.

Ti angau——
Nis llysg ufel,
Nis lludd oerfel,
Nis lladd arfau.

Thou death, that fire will not burn, that cold will not obstruct, that arms will not slay. Iolo Goch.

Ufelai, s. c. (ufel) That generates fire, that is elementary of fire; oxygen.
Ufelaidd, a. (ufel) Of fiery tendency; sulphurous
Ufelawg, a. (ufel) Full of fiery particles.
Ufelfre, s. f. (ufel—bre) A fire hill; a volcano. The name of a hill in Pembrokeshire, giving name to a comot.
Ufeliar, s. m. (ufel) That generates fire; that yields sparks or flame; sulphur.

Llywelyn, cyd laddwy trwy far,
Cyd llosgwy nid llesg ufeliar.

Llywelyn, whilst he slays through wrath, whilst he burns not feeble the sulphur flame. Ll. P. Moch.

Llas Asser aerllew, aerllyd ufeliar,
Aerbeir bar baedd erfid;
Llyw glyw glewdraws yn ngofid,
Llew torf tarian eur-gymid.

The slaughter-lion Asser fell! in wrath
As fiery flame the boar with scathing lance,
In difficulty brave as guide and chief,
With gold rim shield a lion of the host.
Cynddelw, m. t. O. Gwynedd.

Ufelin, a. (ufel) Of a fiery nature, generating fire; oxygen.
Ufelu, v. a. (ufel) To generate fire; to ignify, to ignite.
Ufelydd, s. m. (ufel) That is on fire.

Dwr ar fain drwy'r erw a fydd
Dân fil yn dan ufelydd.

Beneath the noble beast along the plain water to sparkling fire kindles upon the stones. T. Aled, i farch.

Ufelyddiad, s. m. (ufelydd) Ignition, an igniting.
Ufelyddiaeth, s. m (ufelydd) Pyrotechny.
Ufelyn, s. m. (ufel) The element of fire.

Saith tan ufelyn
Saith cad cyferbyn,
Seithfed Cynfelyn
I bob cynfan.

The seven fires of the pervading element are seven hosts in opposition, the seventh is Cynfelyn to every foremost station.
Ymdd. Taliesin a Merddin.

Rhoes hi ffagl yn yr odyn
Ond aeth yn uan ufelyn.

She put a flame in the kiln so that it became a fire of conflagration. D. ab Gwilym.

Ufell, a. (uf—ell) Obsequious, or humble.
Ufelldawd, s. m. (ufell) Obsequiousness.

Ufydd, a. (uf—ydd) Humble, obedient, meek.

Dy ddelw wyl, lle'r wyf rydd
D'eaws wyf, dy was ufydd.

Thy bashful image, where I am at liberty thy nightingale I am, and thy obedient servant. L. G. Cothi.

Ufyddâad, s. m. (ufyddâu) An obeying; a becoming humble, humiliation; obedience.
Ufyddâawl, a. (ufyddâu) Of obedient disposition
Ufyddaidd, a. (ufydd) Tending to humility.
Ufyddâu, v. a. (ufydd) To obey; to be humble.

Yn y faint hono y gorddyfnasam ni ei chaffael a'i meddu, hyd na wddiam ni ufyddâu i gaethiwed; a hono hagen pei celynt y duwiau ei dwyn i cenym, ni a lafuriem yn y faint y gallem oc yn holl nerth o'i hattal yn eu herbyn.

In such a degree we were accustomed to obtain and enjoy it, so that we know not how to be humbled to servitude; and this, peradventure were the Gods to attempt to deprive us of it, we would exert ourselves to the utmost of all our power to preserve against them. Brut y Breninoedd.

Ufyddaw, v. a. (ufydd) To obey; to humble.
Ufyddawl, a. (ufydd) Obedient, or humble.
Ufyddâwr, s. m.—pl. ufyddâwyr (ufyddâu—gwr) One who obeys.
Ufydd-dawd, s. m. (ufydd) Humility, obedience.
Ufydd-dra, s. m. (ufydd) Humbleness, obedience
Ufyddfryd, s. m. (ufydd—bryd) Humble mind. a. Of an obsequious disposition.
Ufyddgar, a. (ufydd) Obsequious; dutiful.
Ufyddgarwch, s. m. (ufyddgar) Obsequiousness.
Ufyddiad, s. m. (ufydd) A humbling; an obeying
Ufyddiannawl, a. (ufyddiant) Of a humbling tendency; tending to obedience.
Ufyddiannu, v. a. (ufyddiant) To be obedient.
Ufyddiannus, a. (ufyddiant) Of a humiliating tendency; disposed to obedience.
Ufyddiannusaw, v. a. (ufyddiannus) To render obedient; to become obedient.
Ufyddiant, s. m. (ufydd) Obedience; humility.
Ufyddoldeb, s. m. (ufyddawl) Humbleness.
Ufyddolder, s. m. (ufyddawl) Humbleness.
Ufyddolrwydd, s. m. (ufyddawl) Humbleness.
Ufyddwr, s. m. (ufydd—gwr) An obedient man.
Ufyll, a. (uf—yll) Obsequions, or humble.
Ufylldawd, s. m. (ufyll) Obsequiousness.
Ufyllder, s. m. (ufyll) Humility; meekness.

Rhag hirddilyd prid, praw ufyllder bryd,
Rhi y byd a'm dyd dysg a challder.

Against over-pursuing of an object, the experience of an humility of mind, the lord of the world will give me instruction and discretion. G. ab M. ab Dafydd.

UFF, s. m. r. That straitens, closes, or confines.
Uffarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (uff—arn) The ankle; also called ucharn, ffer, and migwrn.

Y rhingyll a ddyly goesau yr ychain ac y gwartheg, a gaffer o'i gyhudd ef, i wneuthur cwranau cyfawch a'i uffernau.

The serjeant ought to have the legs of the oxen and the cows, which shall be obtained through his informing, for making buskins reaching up to his ankles. Welsh Laws.

Uffern, s. f.—pl. t. i (uff—ern) A strait or confined drift; the state of reprobation in the bardic doctrine of transmigration; the infernal region, hell.

Nid oes ar uffern ond eisiau ei threfnu.

There is in hell only the want of being put in order. Adage.

Hunanoldeb yw y diawl duaf yn uffern.

Selfishness is the blackest devil in hell. Adage.

Y diawl ffolaf yn uffern yw hunandyb.

The simplest devil in hell is self-conceit. Adage.

Yr aderyn a facer yn uffern yn uffern y myn drigaw.

The bird that is reared in hell, in hell he will seek to dwell. Adage.

Uffernaidd, a. (uffern) Like hell, or hellish.

Uffernawl, a. (uffern) Infernal, or hellish.

I ti y mae caniad i gerdded trwy awyrawl ffyrdd, ac uffernolion dai, a threiglaw datarolion dillaid: Dywed i mi pa ddaiar a fyn ych ei phreswyliaw ohonaf.

For thee there is liberty to traverse through aërial paths, and infernal mansions, and to assign the destiny of terrestrial beings: inform me what region thou wouldest have me to dwell therein. Brut y Breninoedd.

Ufferngi, s. m. (uffern—ci) A hell-hound.
UG, s. m. r. That is over or exterior; that closes upon or envelops.
Ugain, s. m.—pl. ugeiniau (ug) That has a completion, or close; the close of reckoning; twenty. a. Twenty.
Ugaint, s. m.—pl. ugeinniau (ugain) Twenty.

Ugaint, teg; deg-ar-ugaint, cryf; deugaint, goludawg; deg-a-deugaint, doeth; a thros eu hoedranau, nid gwiw son am y naill na'r llall.

Twenty, fair; thirty, strong; forty, bustling about wealth; fifty, wise; and as to those in the extremes of their ages, it is not worth while to make mention of the one or the other. Adage.

Ugeinfed, s. f. (ugain) The twentieth.
Ugeiniawl, a. (ugain) Belonging to twenty.
Ugeinplyg, s. m. (ugain—plyg) That is twenty-fold. a. Twenty-fold.
Ugeintro, s. m. (ugain—tro) That consists of twenty turns. a. Of twenty turns.
Ugeintroed, s. m. (ugain—troed) That has twenty feet. a. Of twenty feet.
Ugeinwaith, s. pl. (ugain—gwaith) Twenty times.
UL, s. m. r. That is humid, or damp. a. Humid, damp, or muggy. Mae yn ul iawn heddyw, it is very muggy to-day: Mae yr ud yn rhy ul iddei falu, the corn is too damp to be ground: Mae y gwair yn rhy ul iddei gywain, the hay is too moist to be carried off. Sil.
Ulai, s. c. (ul) That generates humidity or moisture; hydrogen.
Ulaw, v. a. (ul) To render moist or humid; to smother; to become close, damp, or muggy; to heat by closeness, to generate hydrogen.
Uliad, s. m. (ul) A filling with humidity; a smothering; a growing close, or muggy; a heating by laying close together; a producing hydrogen.
Uliar, s. m. (ul) A humid nature; a phlegmatic habit.

Un a fo a'i ardymyr o'r uliar a fydd wineu, o herwydd nad yw ei natyr ond egwan; yn yr ail cyfarwel hwy a fydd fyrion a thewion y bobl a font o'r uliar—a hwy a fyddant diffrwythach no phobl o'r cyfnawydau ereill, o herwydd eu hoerfel

One whose constitution is of the phlegmatic habit is apt to be of brown complexion, because their nature is but feeble: in a second respect they who are of a phlegmatic habit will be short and fat; and they will be less energetic than people of other dispositions, because of their cold nature. Meddygon Myddfai.

Ulw, s. m. (ul) That is divested of the principle of moisture; the remains of any thing burnt; ashes; cinders. Mae fo wedi llosgi yn ulw, it is become burnt to cinders.
Ulwaidd, a. (ulw) Like smothered hot ashes.
Ulwawg, a. (ulw) With remains of combustion.
Ulwyn, s. m. (ulw) The scoria or remains of any burnt matter; ashes, embers, or cinders.
ULL, s. m. r. That bursteth out; that is sudden, or abrupt.
Ullda, s. m. (ull—ta) That has sudden starts; an oaf; a dolt.
Ulldach, s. m. (ull—tach) An oaf, a changeling.
Ulliad, s. m. (ull) A bursting out; a sudden drive or impulse.
UM, s. m. r. That spreads out or about.
UN, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. That is individual, that is identified as one; one. Yr un un, the same one, the very same, idem, eadem. It is a prefix in composition.

Cared pob un ei gynhenfref.

Let every one love his native place. Adage.

Tri un cyntefig y sydd; ac nis gellir amgen nog un o honynt: un Duw, un gwirionedd, ac un pwnc rhyddyd, sef y bydd lle bo cydbwys pob gwrth.

There are three primitial ones; and nothing otherwise than one of them can possibly be: one God, one truth, and one point of liberty; that is where every opposition equiponderates. Barddas.

Gwell mared gwr nog un gwraig.

Better is the activity of a man than that of a woman. Adage.

Un, a. (un, s.) One; identical, of the same, same. Nid yw fal yr un un, he is not like the same one.

Un gadernyd, un fryd fry,
Un fraint, un feddiant, un frys,
Un allu, un ewyllys—Un Duw.

Of one energy, of one mind above, of one pre-eminence, of one possession, of one impulse, of one power, of one will: one God. Iolo Goch.

Yn awr ydych un radoedd
A'ch hael dad.——

At present you are of the same attributes as your generous grandsire. S. Cain.

Unad, s. m. (un) A making into one; union.

Unagwedd, s. m. (agwedd) One appearance. a. Of similar appearance.

Unarbymtheg, s. m. (un—ar—pymtheg) Sixteen. a. Sixteen.

Unarddeg, s. m. (un—ar—deg) Eleven. a. Eleven

Unaw, v. a. (un) To make into one; to unite; to accord, to agree.

Unawdl, s. f. (awdl) A single rhyme. a. Unirhyme.

Unawl, a. (un) Belonging to one; uniting.

Unawr, s. f. (awr) A single hour. a. Of one hour.

Unbaladr, a. (paladr) Of one shaft; of one or the same verse.

Unbaladrawg, a. (unbaladr) Of one shaft; of one or the same verse.

Unban, s. m. (ban) Being of one verse or line.

Unbanawg, a. (unban) Having one verse.

Unben, s. m.—pl. unbyn (pen) A one head, a one supreme, a monarch; also a complimentary appellation, like sir.

Tri unben rhaith Ynys Prydain: un, Caswallawn ab Lludd ab Beli ab Mynogan; ail, Caradawg ab Brân ab Llyr Llediaith; trydydd, Owain ab Macsen wledig: sef o raith gwlad a chenedl y doded arnynt yr unbenaeth, lle nad oeddynt hynafiaid.

The three jury monarchs of the Isle of Britain: the first, Caswallon son of Lludd son of Beli son of Mynogan; second, Caradog son of Bran son of Llyr of Barbarous speech; third, Owain son of Maxen the patriot; that is to say, through the juratory election of the country and nation was the monarchy given them, when they were not elders. Trioedd.

Tri tharw unben Ynys Prydain: Elmur mab Cadair, Cynhafal mab Argad, Afaon mab Taliesin: Tri meib beirdd oeddynt.

The three bull chieftains of the Isle of Britain: Elmur son of Cadair, Cynhaval son of Argad, Avaon son of Taliesin; They were three sons of bards. Trioedd.

Ha unben! Duw a'ch noddo; ni ddaeth gwestai erioed o honai a'i fywyd gantho.

Oh sir! God protect you; there never escaped a guest from me with his life. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Unbenaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (unben) Sovereignty. Unbenaeth Prydain, the sovereignty of Britain; the name of a national hymn, now lost, which used to be sung before the armies, on the onset of battle. Probably, this was some piece of music, to which different words were adapted, agreeably to the incidents of the times; but all tending to impress an idea, consonant to the title of the piece, that the welfare of the British Monarchy was the object contended for: thus all the different chiefs of the island, in their quarrels, were impelled by a national maxim, ostensibly to be supporting the supreme government.

Y bardd teulu a geiff eidion o bob anrhaith y bo wrth ei dwyn gyda'r teulu; a rhan gwr hefyd, mal pob teuluwr arall; yntau a gan Unbenaeth Prydain rhagddynt, yn nydd cad ac ymladd.

The bard of the household shall have a beast out of every spoil he bears a part in taking with the family; and the share of a man besides, like every other individual of the family; and he then shall sing the Monarchy of Britain before them, in the day of battle and war. Welsh Laws.

Unbenaethawl, a. (unbenaeth) Monarchical.

Unbenaethiad, s. m. (unbenaeth) A forming a monarchy or sovereignty.

Unbenaethu, v. a. (unbenaeth) To establish a monarchy or sovereignty.

Unbenaidd, a. (unben) Monarchal; royal.

Bonedd hon unbenaidd had.

Her descent of royal progeny. Meurig Dafydd.

Unbenawl, a. (unben) Monarchal; royal.

Unbenes, s. f.—pl. t. au (unben) A female monarch; also a title of respect, equivalent to lady and madam.

Arglwydd, ni thycia i neb ymlid yr unbenes rhaco; ni wyddwn i farch cynt yn y cyfoeth no hwn; ac ni thycia i mi ei hymlid!

Lord, it will avail nobody to pursue yonder lady: I knew of no swifter horse in the kingdom than this; and it doth not avail me to pursue her! H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.

Unbenesaidd, a. (unbenes) Appertaining to a female monarch; like a queen; royal.

Gwrth y rhod trwod y traidd,
Ynysig unbenesaidd.

The reverse of the wheel through thee will run, thou little isle seeming like a queen. Gro. Owain, i Fon.

Unbeniad, s. m.—pl. unbeniaid (unben) That is one head, a monarch; a sovereign.

Tri glewion unbeniaid Ynys Prydain; Cynfelyn Wledig, Caradawg ab Brân, ac Arthur: sef y gorthrechaint eu galon, hyd nas gellid namyn o frad a chynllwyn eu gorfod.

The three brave sovereigns of the Isle of Britain: Cyvelyn the Patriot, Caradog son of Bran, and Arthur; that is to say, they would obtain success over their enemies, so that it were not possible except by treachery to overcome them. Trioedd.

Unbenig, a. (unben) Monarchical, monarchal.

Unbenigder, s. m. (unbenig) Monarchicalness.

Unbenigdra, s. m. (unbenig) Monarchicalness.

Unbenigrwydd, s. m. (unbenig) Monarchicalness.

Unbriodas, s. f. (un—priodas) Monogamy.

Uncorn, s. m.—pl. uncyrn (corn) That has one horn; an unicorn.

Mi cadw——
Rhag cyrn yr uncyrn encyd.

Me preserve awhile from the horns of the unicorns. W. Middleton.

Undad, s. m. (tad) A same father. a. Of the same father.

Undanc, a. (tanc) Being united in tranquillity.

Undawd, s. m. (un) A state of being one.

Boed ef y byddwyf, gwedi beddrawd,
Cyd a'r Undaw mawr yn ei undawd.

Be it that I may exist, after the course of the grave, with the great one God in his unity. Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Undeb, s. m. (un) Unity. Undeb a brawdgarwch, unity and brotherly love.

Undeg, s. m. (deg) Eleven. a. Eleven.

Undegawl, a. (undeg) Belonging to eleven.

Undegfed, s. m. (undeg) An eleventh. a. Eleventh

Undeg fad awen: undegfed awydd
A wefnydd fy nhynged,
O'm gwawd rhan, o'm baeth, o'm barddged,
O walch falch, o Weilchiawn giwed.

Eleven goodly themes; the eleventh wish my destiny will produce, with respect to my share of praise, of my elevation, of my bardic treasure, from a towering battlement, from the Gwalchian tribe. Cynddelw, Gwelygorddau Powys.

Under, s. m. (un) Unity, simpleness, singleness.

Gorwech, o ran bonedd, yw y peth a saif ar under hanfod ac ansawdd, ar bob cymhleth hanfod ac ansawdd.

Superior, with respect to origin, is the thing which stands upon simpleness of existence and quality, over every complex existence and quality. Barddas.

Undodiad, s. m.—pl. undodiaid (undawd) Unitarian.
Undodiaeth, s. m. (undawd) Unitarianism.
Undon, s. f. (ton) That is of one tone or voice. a. Monotonous.
Undonydd, s. m. (undon) A monotonous one.
Undonyddiaeth, s. f. (undonydd) Monotony.
Undras, s. f. (tras) That is of the same kindred. a. Of the same kindred.
Undrwch, a. (trwch) Of eqnal thickness.
Undud, s. m. (tud) Sameness of region. a. Of the same region.

> Gogoniant——
> I'r Drindawd Undawd undud preswylydd.
>
> Glory to the Trinity of Unity the inhabitant of the same region.
> D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

Undull, s. m. (dull) Same form or manner. a. Of the same form.
Unduw, s. m. (duw) The same or one God.
Undwf, s. m. (twf) That is of one growth. a. Of the same growth.
Undydd, s. m. (dydd) One day; same day. a. Of one day. Undydd a blwyddyn, a year and a day.
Undyddiawg, a. (undydd) Of a single day.

> Ni ddyly neb gymeryd mach yn undyddiawg.
>
> No body ought to take bail as of one day. Welsh Laws.

Undyn, s. m. (dyn) A single person.

> Gwae undyn a wnel gant yn drist.
>
> Woe to the one person who makes a hundred sorrowful. Adage.
>
> O caf fy nghledd ar fy nghlun,
> A'm llaw ddeau i'm diffyn,
> Ai gwaeth finnau nog undyn?
>
> If I obtain my sword by my side, and my right hand to defend me, am I then more despicable than any person!
> Ymdd. Trystan a Gwalchmai.

Unddalen, s. f. (dalen) One leaf; one page; same leaf. a. Of one leaf; of the same leaf.
Unddalenawg, a. (unddalen) Monopetalous.
Unddawn, s. m. (dawn) Sameness of attribute. a. Of one attribute; of the same endowment.

> ——Uch archengylion,
> Unddonion neifion nerth heb dreugi—
> Unduw ynt wyntau a diau dri.
>
> Over archangels, lords of attributes—coequal ones with power never failing, one God are they and truly three. Gwalchmai.

Unddefnydd, s. m. (defnydd) That is of the same material. a. Homogenial.
Unddull, s. f. (dull) Unity of form. a. Uniform.
Uned, s. m. (un) Unity; accordance, concurrence; entreaty, solicitation.

> Archaf i Dduw drwy uned.
>
> I will ask of God through entreaty. Llywelyn Fardd.

Unesgar, s. m. (esgar) Sameness of foe. a. Having the same enemy, of common foe.

> Cymmodi a wnaynt, a myned ungar unesgar.
>
> They were reconciled, and became of common friend of common foe. Gr. ab Arthur.

Unfaint, s. m. (maint) Unity of size. a. Of the same size, of equal magnitude.
Unfan, s. m. (màn) The same place. Safa yn ei unfan yn wastad, he stands in his one place continually.
Unfath, s. m. (math) Unity of sort. a. Of the same sort, similar.
Unfed, s. m. (un) The order of one; a first. a. Being in the order of one; first.
Unfed-dydd, s. m. (unfed—dydd) The first day.
Unfin, s. m. (min) A one edge. a. One-edged.
Unfiniawg, a. (unfin) Having one edge.
Unfodd, s. m. (modd) Sameness of mode. a. Of the same manner; similar.
Unfraint, s. m. (braint) Sameness of rank, right, or privilege. a. Of the same rank.

> O bydd amryson rhwng deuddyn unfraint am derfyn, ac na wyper gwirionedd y rhyngddynt, tynged pob un ei derfyn; a gwedi hyny rhaner y tir amryson.
>
> If there shall be contention between two persons of equal rank respecting a boundary, and the truth be not manifest between them, let each one swear his boundary; and after that let the land of contention be divided. Welsh Laws.

Unfri, s. m. (bri) Sameness of privilege. a. Of equal privilege.
Unfryd, s. m. (bryd) One mind, sameness of intention. a. Of one mind, unanimous.

> Nid unfryd ynfyd a chall.
>
> Not of the same mind the simple and the cunning. Adage.
>
> Nid unfryd cybydd a chorodyn.
>
> Not of the same mind the miser and the liberal. Adage.

Unffunud, s. f. (ffunud) Sameness of appearance. a. Of the same appearance; exactly alike.
Unffurf, s. m. (ffurf) Sameness of form. a. Of the same form; uniform.
Ungar, s. m. (car) Sameness of friend. a. Of common friend.
Unged, s. f. (ced) Sameness of treasnre. a. Of one treasure, having one treasure in common.
Ungoel, s. f. (coel) Sameness of belief. a. Of one belief, of the same creed.

> Deon, unged, ungoel,
> Ys berth, yd borthir yn wyl.
>
> The supreme arbiter, of universal bounty, of universal belief, that is holy, he is served with humility. Cynddelw.

Ungor, s. f. (cor) That is of one turn or twist. a. Of a single turn or twist. Edaf ungor, a single twisted thread.

> Cadarnach yw yr edaf yn gyfrodedd nog yn ungor.
>
> Stronger is the thread of double twist than of single twist. Adage.

Ungorn, s. f. (corn) That is of one turn. a. Of a single turn. Edaf ungorn, the same as edaf ungor.
Ungwaith, s. m. (un—gwaith) A particular turn, or purpose. The same as unswydd.

> Ungwaith merched y gwledydd
> Ei edrych fo fal drych fydd.
>
> The sole work of the girls of the countries round will be to gaze at it as at a mirror. I. ab Hywel Swrdwal.

Ungwr, s. m. (gwr) One man; any man.
Ungyfun, a. (cyfun) Uniformly the same.

> Tri banogion pob byw yn nghylch y gwynfyd; swydd, braint, ac awen; ac nis gellir dau yn bod yn ungyfun yn mhob peth; gàn y bydd cyflawn pob un yn y bo bànawg arno; ac nid oes cyflawn ar ddim, heb y maint oll a ddichon fod o hano.
>
> The three peculiar distinctions of every living being in the circle of felicity; vocation, privilege, and disposition; and it is not possible for two beings to be uniformly the same in every thing; for every one will have a plenitude of what is essentially peculiar in him; and there is no plenitude of any thing, without having it in a degree that comprehends the whole of it that can exist. Barddas.

Unhaen, s. f. (haen) A single layer, or spread. a. Of one spread or stratum.
Unhawl, s. f. (hawl) A sole claim. a. Of single claim, of common claim.
Unhwyl, s. f. (hwyl) A sole course. a. Of one course, of a common course.
Unhyd, s. m. (un—hyd) A single length. a. Of one length; of the same length, or duration.
Uniad, s. m. (un) A making one; a uniting.
Uniaith, s. f. (iaith) A single speech. a. Of one language, of a common speech.
Uniannawl, a. (uniant) Tending to unite.
Uniannu, v. a. (uniant) To produce union.
Uniant, s. m. (un) The state of being one.

Uniawn, s. m. (iawn) That is right, straight, or direct. a. Right, straight, direct; upright, perfect, just. Rhed yno yn uniawn, run there directly: Mi af yn uniawn deg, I will go immediately.

Lluniwr pob deall uniawn,
A llyfr cyfraith yr iaith iawn.

The former of every just idea, the law book of the perfect language. Gr. Gryg, i D. ab Gwilym.

A fo'n enwog fyw'n uniawn,
Fe rydd Duw fawredd a dawn.

He who nobly leads a righteous life, God will give him greatness and virtue. S. Tudyr.

Unig, a. (un) Sole, only, lonely, lonesome, single, solitary, singular. O yr unig! How singular!

Digawn Duw da i unig.

God is able to help the solitary. Adage.

Hydr anaw unig.

Confident is the song of the solitary. Adage.

Uniganedig, a. (unig—ganedig) Only-begotten.

Unigaw, v. a. (unig) To render sole; to become sole, single, or solitary.

Unigawl, a. (unig) Of a solitary or singular quality; ununited, independent. Y naw unigolion, the nine digits.

Unigder, s. m. (unig) Solitariness, loneliness.

Unigdra, s. m. (unig) Solitariness, loneness.

Unigedd, s. m. (unig) Solitude, or loneliness.

Unigenid, a. (unig—genid) Only-born.

Unigffydd, a. (unig—ffydd) Of singular faith.

Unigffyddiad, s. m.—pl. unigffyddiaid (unigffydd) A solifidian.

Unigiad, s. m. (unig) A rendering solitary.

Unigoldeb, s. m. (unigawl) Singularness.

Unigolder, s. m. (unigawl) Singularness.

Unigoli, v. a. (unigawl) To render solitary or singular; to become singular.

Unigolrwydd, s. m. (unigawl) Solitariness.

Unigrwydd, s. m. (unig) Loneliness, solitariness.

Unionad, s. m. (uniawn) A straightening, a righting, a making even, a rectifying.

Uniondeb, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness, rectitude, uprightness; straightness; evenness.

Unionder, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness; straightness.

Uniondra, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness; directness.

Unionedd, s. m. (uniawn) Rightness; directness.

Uniongongl, s. f.—pl. t. au (uniawn—congl) A right angle.

Uniongonglawg, a. (uniongongl) Rectangular.

Uniongred, s. f. (uniawn—cred) Orthodoxy. a. Of right belief, orthodox.

Uniongyrch, s. m. (uniawn—cyrch) A direct course. a. Of a direct course; immediate.

Yr ysbryd a henyw o Dad yr ysbrydoedd; yr hwn a elwir felly, mae yn debygawl, o herwydd eu henyw hwynt o hono ef yn uniongyrch, heb fod ailachosion yn cydgerdded, nac yn cyfryngu dim oll.

The spirit proceeded from the Father of spirits; who is so called, it is probable, because of their proceeding from him immediately without second causes being concurring, or contributing any thing at all. Ior. Owain.

Uniongyrchawl, a. (uniongyrch) Directly proceeding.

Uniongyrchiad, s. m. (uniongyrch) A directly or immediately proceeding.

Uniongyrchu, v. a. (uniongyrch) To proceed directly; to proceed straightly.

Unioni, v. a. (uniawn) To straighten, to rectify; to make even; to become straight.

Unionran, s. f. (uniawn—rhan) An exact portion.

Unionraniad, s. m. (unionran) A sharing exactly.

Unionranu, v. a. (unionran) To share exactly.

Unionred, s. f. (uniawn—rhed) A direct course. a. Directly recurrent.

Unionrwydd, s. m. (uniawn) Straightness.

Unionserth, a. (uniawn—serth) Straightly falling.

Unionserthawl, a. (unionserth) Of a perpendicular fall or dip.

Unionserthiad, s. m. (unionserth) A dipping or falling perpendicularly.

Unionserthu, v. a. (unionserth) To dip or fall perpendicularly.

Unionsyth, a. (uniawn—syth) Directly erect.

Unionsythawl, a. (unionsyth) Tending to a perpendicular erectness.

Unionsythiad, s. m. (unionsyth) A rendering perpendicularly erect.

Unionsythu, v. a. (unionsyth) To render perfectly erect or upright.

Unionwr, s. m. (uniawn—gwr) A straightener.

Unionydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (uniawn) Straightener.

Unlef, s. f. (llef) Sameness of tone. a. Of one tone, of the same sound; monotonous.

Awdl yw sain unlef y geiriau gobenyddiawl.

Rhyme is the unison sound of the terminating words. Barddas.

Unllaw, s. f. (llaw) One hand. a. One-handed, single-handed.

Bwrw a'th unllaw, cais a'th ddwylaw.

Cast with thy one hand, get with thy two hands. Adage.

Unllawiawg, a. (unllaw) Having one hand.

Unllawiawg fydd mammaeth.

A nurse is single-handed. Adage.

Unlle, s. m. (lle) One place, same place; any place, any where. Ni bum yn unlle, I have not been any where.

Unlled, s. m. (lled) One breadth. a. Of one breadth, of equal breadth.

Unllef, s. m. (llef) Sameness of tone or voice. a. Of the same voice, unison.

Unlliw, s. m. (lliw) Sameness of colour. a. Of one colour.

Adar o'r unlliw a dynant i'r unlle.

Birds of a colour will flock together. Adage.

Unlliwiawg, a. (unlliw) Having one colour.

Unllygad, s. m. (llygad) One eye. a. One-eyed.

Unllygeidiawg, a. (unllygad) Monoculous.

Unllygeidiawg a ddyly cant.

The one-eyed ought to have a hundred. Adage.

Unllygeidiawg fydd brenin yn ngwlad y deillaid.

The one-eyed will be a king in the country of the blind ones. Adage.

Unman, s. f. (man) Same place, sameness of place; any where. a. Of the same place.

Gwir tros byth yn yr unman.

The truth for ever in the same place. Adage.

Nid llai y crefydd yn unman no lle bo mwyaf y dadlu am dano.

Not less the religion any where than in the place where there is most disputing about it. Adage.

Unmodd, s. m. (modd) Sameness of mode; any wise. a. Of the same mode.

Unnawd, s. m. (nawd) Sameness of nature. a. of the same nature or quality.

Unnaws, s. f. (naws) Sameness of disposition or temper. a. Of the same temper.

Unne, s. m. (un—gne) That is one colour. a. Of one hue, of the same hue. Unne geirw, equal in hue to the torrents.

Unnerth, s. m. (nerth) Sameness of power. a. Of one power, of equal might.

Trindawd yn gwarawd a'n gwarant,
Tri uniawn unnerth gogoniant:
Trwy y Tad, a Rhad yn rheiddiant,
Trwy y Mab gwnaed bawb bob grymiant.

The Trinity our deliverance and our security, three perfect of coequal power in glory; through the Father, with Grace concomitant, through the Son, all were made of every energy. Cynddelw.

Unodliaeth, s. f. (unawdl) Sameness of rhyme.

Ni ddylai gydsain fod yn nechreu y sill olaf o air yr awdl yn amgen a fo yn yr unodlaeth.

The consonant ought not to be in the beginning of the last syllable of the word of the rhyme different from what may be in the unity of rhyme. Barddas.

Unodlawg, a. (unawdl) Having unity of rhyme.

Unodledd, s. m. (unawdl) The state of being of continued rhyme; unirhyme.

Unodli, v. a. (unawdl) To agree in rhyme.

Nid unodla sillaf daigron ond ag un daigron arall o'r un bwys a hi.

An inflective syllable will agree in rhyme only with another inflective syllable of the same accent with itself. W. Middleton.

Unodliad, s. m. (unawdl) A forming unirhyme.

Unoed, s. m. (un—oed) One age, same age, sameness of age. a. Of one age, of equal age; of the same time.

Fym pedwar prif-gas erymoed,
Ymgyfarfyddynt yn unoed:
Pas a henaint, haint a hoed.

My four principal foes through life, they have met together in unity of time: cough and old age, disease and grief. Llywarch Hen.

Unoes, s. f. (un—oes) One life; same age, sameness of age. a. Of one age; cotemporary.

Unoldeb, s. m. (unawl) Unity; identicalness.

Unolder, s. m. (unawl) Identicalness, sameness.

Unoldra, s. m. (unawl) Sameness, similarity.

Unoli, v. a. (unawl) To render united, to accord; to become the same; to identify.

Unoliad, s. m. (unawl) Unition; accordance.

Unoliaeth, s. m. (unawl) The state of being the same or identified; accordance.

Yn nghred ni weled, unoliaeth Gwalchmai,
Wr well.——

In christendom there has not been seen, the likeness of Gwalchmai, a better man. T. Aled, i T. Salesbri.

Unoliant, s. m. (unawl) Unition; integration.

Unolrwydd, s. m. (unawl) Sameness, similarity.

Unon, s. m. (un—on) Particularity; doubt, question, supposition. v. a. To suppose. Ni raid unon y doi di yma, there is no need to suppose that thou wilt come here.

Er bod dy ddyben di yn nesu o fewn ychydig ddalenau yn fy llyfr diwomlant i; eto nid rhaid i ti unon soddi at Luciffer.

Notwithstanding that thy end draws near within a few leaves in my unerring volume; yet thou needest not to fear of sinking to Lucifer. Elis Wyn, Bardd Cwsg.

Unparth, s. m. (parth) One part. a. Of one part.

Unpeth, s. m. (peth) One thing, same thing. a. Of one thing.

Unplyg, s. m. (plyg) One double or fold. a. Of one double or fold.

Unraith, s. f. (rhaith) Sameness of right or law. a. Of equal law, of equal right.

Unran, s. f. (rhan) One share. a. Of one share.

Unrwydd, s. m. (un) A state of being one.

Unrwysg, s. m. (rhwysg) Sameness of course or sway. a. Of the same sway.

Unryw, s. m. (rhyw) A same kind, a same sex; same. a. Of the same kind.

Unrywiaeth, s. m. (unryw) A rendering of the same kind; identity.

Unsain, s. f. (sain) An unison. a. Unison.

Unsawd, s. f. (sawd) A same state. a. Of the same state.

Unseiniad, s. m. (unsain) A forming an unison.

Unseiniaw, v. a. (unsain) To form an unison.

Unseiniawg, a. (unsain) Having one sound.

Unsill, s. f. (un—sill) One syllable. a. Of one syllable.

Unsillawg, a. (unsill) Having one syllable.

Unsud, s. m. (sud) Same state. a. Of one state.

Unswd, s. m. (swd) Same state. a. Of one state, of the same condition. Unswd ac unswd, so and so.

Unswn, s. m. (swn) A same sound. a. Of the same sound.

Unswydd, s. m. (swydd) A same office or business; one purpose. a. Of one business or purpose. Eis yno yn unswydd, I went there on purpose.

Unsylwedd, s. m. (sylwedd) Sameness of substance. a. Of one substance, or material.

Unsylweddawg, a. (unsylwedd) Consubstantial.

Unsylweddawl, a. (unsylwedd) Homogeneal.

Unsylweddiad, s. m. (unsylwedd) A rendering of the same substance; a becoming homogeneal.

Untaith, s. f. (taith) One journey. a. Of the same journey.

Unteithiawg, a. (untaith) Having one journey.

Untref, s. f. (tref) Sameness of habitation. a. Of the same habitation or town.

Nid untref gwadd ac eryr.

Not of one habitation a mole and an eagle. Adage.

Untri, s. m. (un—tri) Three united in one.

Untro, s. m. (tro) One turn. a. Of one turn.

Untroed, s. m. (troed) One foot. a. One-footed.

Untroedawg, a. (untroed) Having one foot.

Untu, s. m. (tu) One side. a. One sided.

Untuawg, a. (untu) One-sided; partial. Cyfrwy untuawg, a side-saddle.

Taw, gwyn untuawg annoeth,
A beiaw.

Be silent, thou complainant partial and unwise, with finding fault. H. D. ab Ifan.

Untuawg fwng ond teg fydd,
Ac yn hardd fal gwawn hirddydd?

The one-sided mane is it not fair, and beautiful like the long day's gossamer. T. Aled, i Farch.

Untuawl, a. (untu) Belonging to one side.

Untuogrwydd, s. m. (untuawg) The state of being on one side; partiality.

Untuolrwydd, s. m. (untuawl) A one-sided state.

Unwaith, s. f. (un—gwaith) One time. a. Of one time. adv. Once, at one time.

A fo drwg unwaith a wyr fod yn ddrwg yr eilwaith.

He that is bad one time knows how to be bad a second time. Adage.

Unwaith yr aeth yr arlwyddes i nofaw hi a foddes.

Once the lady went to swim she was drowned. Adage.

Unwedd, s. f. (un—gwedd) Sameness of appearance, similitude. a. Similar; uniform, constant, equable. adv. Alike.

Y doeth a'r annoeth unwedd,
O gyrau'r byd gyr i'r bedd.

The wise and the unwise alike, from the extremities of the world he sends to the grave. Ed. Samuel.

Unweddawg, a. (unwedd) Having a fellow or partner. s. c. A monogamist.

Unweddawl, a. (unwedd) Uniform; of one aspect.

Unwr, s. m.—pl. unwyr (gwr) A man who unites agrees, or accords.

Unwyneb, s. m. (gwyneb) Sameness of face. a. Of the same face or surface.

Unwynebawg, a. (unwyneb) Having one face.

Geill cyssain ragodlig fod weithiau yn unwynebawg; sef, heb wneuthur dim ond terfynu y rhagddarn, mal—

'A'm try amgen o'm trymgwsg.'

A consonant of the leading rhyme may sometimes be of one aspect; that is, without performing any thing more than to terminate the former pause, as in the above verse. Gr. Roberts.

Unyd, s. m. (un) The state of being one; continuity; a state of being thoroughly united; alike. a. Being united, continual, or uninterrupted; like. adv. As one, continually; like.

Cadr fab Grufydd
Gwawr Eiddionydd,
Gweirydd unyd.

The mighty son of Grufydd, the luminary of Eiddionydd, the same as Gweirydd. Rhisierdyn.

Gwel, ddyn, adeilad byfryd,
O lawr i nen yn unyd.
Daiarfyd dirfawr.

Behold, O man, a pleasant structure rise, from the bottom to the summit all complete, the immense terrestrial world. Elis Wyn, Bardd Cwsg.

UR, s. m. r. That is extreme, over, or superior; that is essential, or pure; that is sacred, holy, or inviolable.

Urael, s. m. (ur) That is of pure element; amianthus, asbestos; also the cloth made of that fossil.

Urael yw llieinwisg o'r manweiddiaf, o'r maen ystinos, ac a olchid a'r tan, wedi y budreddai.

The Urael is a cloth garment of the finest texture, made of the asbestos stone, and which used to be cleansed with the fire, after it had been soiled. Adrodd. Pryd Mab Duw.

Ar dyrau gwynion, ar dai urael,
Mawr y mae ei—fryd.

On white towers, on houses of amianthus, great is his delight. L. G. Cothi.

Mab addwyn o rwym urael maith,
Mab Arglwydd yr Israel.

A beatific Son out of a bandage of ample asbestos, the Son of the the Lord of Israel. L. G. Cothi.

Urdd, s. f.—pl. t. au (ur) A dignified order, rank, or class; a sacred order.

——Yn gweddiaw
Ar Dduw nef ei urddau naw.

Praying to God of heaven and his orders nine. I. ab Rh. ab Ieuan Llwyd.

Urddain, a. (urdd) Abounding with dignity.

I feirdd dwfn dyfydd a gofiain';
I Gynddelw oedd arddelw urddain.

To bards profound will be preserved what they commemorate; to Cynddelw it was his honourable claim. Cynddelw, m. O. Gwynedd.

Urddas, s. f.—pl. t. au (urdd) Dignity; a sacred order; church hierarchy, or orders.

Deuparth urddas enw da.

Two parts of dignity is a good name. Adage.

Yn mhob ennill y mae anrhydedd,
Yn mhob anrhydedd y mae urddas,
Yn mhob urddas y mae braint,
Yn mhob braint y mae dyledswydd.

In every gain there is honour, in every honour there is respect, in every respect there is privilege, in every privilege there is a duty. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Urddasoedd——
A wnaeth ef, ei iawnwaith oedd.

Hierarchies be created, his righteous work was that. Dr. S. Cent.

Urddasaidd, a. (urddas) Relating to dignified or holy orders; honorary.

Urddasawg, a. (urddas) Having sacred orders; dignified. s. m.—pl. urddasogion, A dignitary.

Urddasawl, a. (urddas) Relating to dignified rank; relating to sacred orders; dignified; honourable.

Urddasedig, a. (urddas) Dignified; ordained.

Urddaseiddiad, s. m. (urddasaidd) A dignification.

Urddaseiddiaw, v. a. (urddasaidd) To render dignified, or honorary; to become dignified.

Urddaseiddrwydd, s. m. (urddasaidd) A dignified state.

Urddasiad, s. m. (urddas) A dignification; a conferring of holy orders.

Urddasoldeb, s. m. (urddasawl) A dignified state.

Urddasoldeb swydd yw ei chyflawni yn gyfiawn.

The honourableness of an office is to fulfil it justly. Adage.

Urddasolder, s. m. (urddasawl) Honourableness.

Urddasoldra, s. m. (urddasawl) Honourableness.

Urddasoli, v. a. (urddasawl) To render dignified; to become dignified.

Urddasolrwydd, s. m. (urddasawl) Honourableness

Urddasu, v. n. (urddas) To dignify, to honour; to confer orders.

Urddaswr, s. m.—pl. urddaswyr (urddas—gwr) A dignifier; one who confers orders.

Urddaw, v. a. (urdd) To confer dignity, rank, or order; to confer holy orders; to ordain.

Dyn a urdd y lle, ac nid urdd y lle y dyn.

A man honours the station, and the station honours not the man. Adage.

Urdd wledig llurig llu aergrain;
Urddws Duw diwyrnawd Owain!

A patriot dignifies the arms of a host ranging through slaughter; God has ordained the day of Owain! Cynddelw, m. O. Gwynedd.

Urddawd, s. m. (urdd) A dignification; an ordaining.

Urddawg, a. (urdd) Having dignity or orders.

Urddawl, a. (urdd) Relating to dignity, rank, or order; dignified; honorable.

Seiniad pob ceiniad canon cerdd eiliad,
Seiliad aur ddeiliad o waed urddolion.

Proclaimed by every songster is the regular composition of song, the subject is the golden branch from the blood of exalted ones. H. Llwyn.

Urddawn, a. (urdd) Of dignified or exalted state.

Beirdd wogawn bardd urddawn urddwch,
Urddawl cerdd, can edifeirwch.

Ye energetic bards, do honour to an honourable bard, the graduated of song, through repentance. Cynddelw.

Urddedig, a. (urdd) Dignified; being ordained.

Prydai y prydyddion——
Gan rwyf Bangor, gor goron urddedig.

The poets would poetize before the chief of Bangor, the chair of a dignified crown. Iorwerth Beli.

Urddedigaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (urddedig) Ordination.

Urddedigaw, v. a. (urddedig) To render dignified; to ordinate; to become dignified.

Urddedigawl, a. (urddedig) Tending to dignify.

Urddedigrwydd, s. m. (urddedig) A dignified state

Urddeiniad, s. m. (urddain) Dignification.

Urddeiniaw, v. a. (urddain) To render dignified.

Urddeiniawl, a. (urddain) Dignifying; tending to honour.

Mae'r pen ffydd, Dofydd dwyfawl, gyda thi
I'th urddoni eneth urddeiniawl.

The object of the faith, the Divine Regulator, is with thee, to exalt thee, thou honoured virgin. D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

Urdden, s. f. (urdd—gen) A superior intelligence or genius; a sacred intelligence. a. Of superior genius.

Awdl urdden amgen amgall digawn.

A different song of superior intellect amply comprehensive. Cynddelw.

Gwanai yn nghynghor eilsor Medrawd
Mal Urien urdden, a'i amgyffrawd.

He that is second to Medrod would distinguish in council, like Urien of exalted genius, with his comprehension. Meilyr.

Gwyr Powys——
Cad orllawes orllawen,
Pedair cynneddf, cadw cadyr urdden,
Ar ddeg yr dugant o Feigen.

The Men of Powys, in far-extending battle triumphant, fourteen prerogatives, the preservation of mighty pre-eminence of genius, they bore from Meigen. Cynddelw.

Urddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (urdd) A dignifying, a conferring of honour; a giving of degree, rank, or order; an ordaining.

Urddiain, a. (urdd) Abounding with dignity.

Dywawd Derwyddon——
O wyron Owain,
Ar wyneb Prydain
Un urddiain Llundain,
O lan deithi.

Druids declare, of the descendants of Owain, over the face of Britain one shall be supreme of London, of sacred character. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Urddiannawl, a. (urddiant) Dignifying.
Urddiannu, v. a. (urddiant) To create dignity.
Urddiannus, a. (urddiant) Dignifying, honouring.
Urddiannusaw, v. a. (urddiannus) To render dignified; to become honourable.
Urddiant, s. m. (urdd) Dignification; ordination.
Urddiator, ger. (urddiad) In dignifying.
Urddin, a. (urdd) Being honoured or exalted.

Cyfoethawg Duw urddin.

The powerful God of exalted state. Taliesin.

Urddineb, s. m. (urddin) A dignified state.
Urddoldeb, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state; the state of being ordained.
Urddolder, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddoldra, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddoledd, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddoles, s. f.—pl. t. au (urddawl) A female who holds dignity or rank.
Urddoli, v. a. (urddawl) To render dignified; to ordinate, to ordain.
Urddoliad, s. m. (urddawl) A dignifying, a conferring of rank, degree, or orders; ordination.
Urddoliaeth, s. m. (urddawl) Ordination.
Urddolrwydd, s. m. (urddawl) A dignified state.
Urddon, s. m. (urdd) The grass-poly.
Urddoni, v. a. (urddawn) To exalt, to honour.
Urddoniad, s. m. (urddawn) A yielding dignity.
Urddoniant, s. m. (urddawn) Exaltation, honour.
Urddrad, s. m.—pl. t. au (urdd—rhad) An exalting virtue.
Urddun, s. m. (urdd) An exalted state or rank.
Urddunaw, v. a. (urddun) To honour, to exalt.
Urddunawl, a. (urddun) Tending to honour.
Urdduniad, s. m. (urddun) A dignification.
Urddunïannu, v. a. (urdduniant) To endow with pre-eminence.
Urdduniannus, a. (urdduniant) Tending to dignity
Urdduniant, s. m. (urddun) Pre-eminence, honour
Urddwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (urdd—gwisg) A robe of state, a dress of order.
Urddwr, s. m.—pl. urddwyr (urdd—gwr) A man who dignifies; one who confers orders.
Urddyn, s. m. (urdd) A dignified or exalted one.

Wyr Owain Prydain praff ddychryn galon——
Mab Iorwerth mad ganed urddyn.

The grandson of Owain of Britain, the ample terror of the foes; the son of Iorwerth, happily was the exalted one begotten. Ll. P. Moch.

Uriad, s. m.—pl. t. on (ur) That is pre-eminent, an exalted one; an elder.

Dug llawffon Aron uriad
Aeron a dail.——

The hand-stick of Aaron the elder bore berries and leaves. I. ab Hywel Swrdwal.

US, s. m. r.—pl. t. ion. What is a peel, or connected coating; also the husks of corn, or chaff. a. Outside; illusive; trifling, light, frail. It is a general termination of words of quality or adjectives; as gweddus, covered with decency, of a decent appearance, or seemly.

Adwaen hen farch us.

An old horse knows chaff. Adage.

Yr enaid, gochel rinwedd
Y corff us o'i felus fedd.

My soul, avoid the nature of the frail body and its honeyed enjoyment. D. ab Dafydd Llwyd.

Usaidd, a. (us) Like husk, or chaff; husky.
Usawg, a. (us) Abounding with husks or chaff.
Usion, s. pl. aggr. (us) Chaff, husks of corn.
Usiongrug, s. m. (usion—crug) A chaff heap.
Usioni, v. a. (usion) To yield husks or chaff.
Uslyd, a. (us) Abounding with chaff, full of chaff.
Uslydrwydd, s. m. (uslyd) Fulness of chaff.
Ust, s. m. (us) A silence; a hush, or hist. It is also the imperative verb: Hush!

Y taranau——
Duw a bair: ar ei air ant
Ust ewybr a dystawant.

Thunder-claps God doth cause; at his word they become a sudden silence and are stilled. D. Iepawr.

Ustiad, s. m. (ust) A silencing, a hushing.
Ustiaw, v. a. (ust) To silence, to quell, to hush.
Uswydd, a. (us—gwydd) Of peeled surface.

Lliwgoch ei lafnawr, aesawr uswydd.

Red-stained his blade, shield of tattered front. Llygad Gwr.

Gwr eurgiawr aesawr uswydd holli.

A hero splitting the gold-covered shield of tattered front. H. Foel ab Griffri.

Usyn, s. m. dim. (us) A single particle or chaff.

Usyn wyf, ac eisiaw nerth,
Ac angeu yn ogyngerth!

A frail chaff am I and wanting strength, with death in suspense! D. ab Gwilym.

Utgorn, s. m.—pl. utgyrn (udgorn) A trumpet.
UTH, s. m. r. That is extreme; extended.
Uthr, s. m. (uth) That stunneth. a. Awful, wonderful; astonishing; terrific; horrible.

Y cythraul acw uthr-was.

The fiend yonder a horrid spright. W. Lleyn.

Uthraidd, a. (uthr) Tending to astonish.
Uthraw, v. a. (uthr) To astonish, to amaze.
Uthrawl, a. (uthr) Astonishing, amazing.
Uthredig, a. (uthr) Astonished, terrified.
Uthredd, s. m. (uthr) Astonishment; horror.
Uthriad, s. m. (uthr) An astonishing.
Uthroldeb, s. m. (uthrawl) Astonishment; awfulness; horribleness.
Uthrolder, s. m. (uthrawl) Astonishment; awfulness; horribleness.
Uthroledd, s. m. (uthrawl) Astonishingness; awfulness; horribleness.
Uthroli, v. a. (uthrawl) To render astonishing; to render awful; to render terrified; to become awful; to become terrified.
Uthrolrwydd, s. m. (uthrawl) Awfulness.
Uwch, prep. (uch) Above, over; also used for uchach, higher, upper.

Uwch pen no dwy ysgwydd.

Higher a head than two shoulders. Adage.

Uwchder, s. m. (uwch) Highness, altitude.
Uwchdra, s. m. (uwch) Highness, altitude.
Uwchedd, s. m. (uwch) Highness, altitude.
Uwchel, a. (uwch) High, lofty; eminent.
Uwd, s. m. (wd) Any liquid thickened by boiling meal in it; hasty-pudding; bargoo; pap; or the like mixtures. Uwd peilliad, flour boiled in milk; uwd maidd glas, grits boiled in whey; uwd sugaethan, a poultice.

A fo aml ei fel rhoed ar ei uwd.

He who has abundance of honey let him put it in his pudding. Adage.

Uwdaidd, a. (uwd) Like hasty-pudding.
Uwdfys, s. m. (uwd—bys) The nursing finger, the fore-finger.

W.

W. THIS vowel's sound is an inflection of o; and it expresses a tendency from, out, or beyond; and when affixed to primitives, it gives them a contrary import; as in gwedd, that is wedded, if formed into gweddw, it denotes being beyond a wedded state, or a widow; so ul, moisture, becomes ulw, the remains what is deprived of moisture, as embers, or cinders: and with respect to the gender or words, the w denotes the masculine and o the feminine. It is used as an interjection expressive of alarm.

Wab, s. m.—pl. t. iau (ab) A slap, a stroke.

Wabiad, s. m. (wab) A slapping, a beating.

Wabiaw, v. a. (wab) To slap, to beat, to cuff.

Wabiwr, s. m.—pl. wabiwyr (wab—gwr) Slapper.

WB, s. m. r. The state of being expelled; the state of being out, over, or up. interj. It is expressive of anxiety: ah!

Wb wyr! nawdd nef rhagoch; er y byd na wnewch hyny: ni ddaeth neb erioed i erchi yr arch o Olwen a elai a'i fywyd ganto.

Avaunt ye men! God's protection before you! for the world do not so: no body ever came to demand Olwen who went away with his life. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Wb o'r hin, o'r wybr heno!

Out with the weather from the sky to-night! D. ab Gwilym.

Wbain, v. a. (wb) To keep howling, to howl.

Wbwb, interj. (wb repeated) It is expressive of distress, anxiety, and revolting.

WCH, s. m. r. A spread out, or expansion.

Wchw, interj. (wch) It is expressive of calling out for assistance: Hoa.

WD, s. m. r. That is extreme, extended, or stretched out.

Wedi, adv. (gwedi) After, afterwards; then.

Y da a el yn dy waith
Wedi'r el y daw'r eilwaith;
Dy ran o dir arianna,
Dy wlad oll a dal y da.

The property expanded in the work, after it is gone the second time it will come thy portion of rent producing land, thy whole country will the property make good. Iorwerth Fynglwyd.

Weithian, adv. (gwaith) This time, now, at length. It is used for y waith hon, y weithon, and weithion.

Weithian, adv. (gwaith) Sometimes, at times.

Eiddig——
Wrth glywed, tybied fod dyn,
E glyw weithiau drwst gwlithyn.

The jealous one in listening thinking there is a man, he sometimes hears the noise of the falling dew-drop. T. Prys.

Weithion, adv. (gwaith) This time, at length.

Weithon, adv. (gwaith) This time, now; at last.

Wel, v. imp. (gwel) Lo, behold, see, see now. conj. So, well. Wel dacw fo, lo yonder it is: wel diso, see now below: wel ducho, lo above: wel dyma iddi beth, well here is some for her: wel dyna i ti, see there now for you.

Wel, dyna weled anhawdd!

Well, that is a difficult perception! D. ab Gwilym.

Wela, v. imp. (wel) Lo, behold, see, see now; well. Wela dyma fi, see now here am I: wela paid, well then be quiet: wela hai, very well then, well then it shall be so.

WF, s. m. r. A flow, glide, or running out; that is liquid.

WFF, s. m. r. Motion from or out; expulsion.

Wfft, s. m. (wff) A push off; a slight, or scorn; a fie, an expression of disapprobation.

Wfft i'r dyn a wfftio bawb heb wybod mwy am dano.

Fie upon the person whom every body cries fie upon without knowing any more about him. Adage.

Wfftiad, s. m. (wfft) A pushing off scornfully; a shewing disapprobation with surprize; a crying fie upon.

Wfftiaw, v. a. (wfft) To push away with disapprobation; to cry shame; to cry fie.

WG, s. m. r. An overspread; an outside.

Whw, interj. It is expressive of calling out for assistance.

WI, interj. It is expressive of joy; Hey; heyday; oh.

O wi! O Dduw! y gynnifer gwaith ydd arfaethasant ieirll Caer gwrthwynebu i Ruffydd, ac nis gallasant!

O yes! O God! the number of times that the earls of Chester purposed to oppose Grufydd, and they could not! Buchedd G. ab Cynan.

Am fy ngwddf ei breichiau——
Wawr euraid: wi o'r aerwy!

Round my neck her arms, the golden luminary: oh, what a wreath! D. ab Gwilym.

Wi! o'r grefft yw ar ei grys:
Wi! o'r lliw ar y llewys!

Oh! what art there is on his vest: Oh! what a colour on the skirts! D. ab Gwilym, i bwn.

Wichwach, interj. (gwich) It expresses frolick.

Wihi, s. m. (wi) The whinnying of a horse.

Wihïad, s. m. (wihi) A whinnying, as a horse.

Wihïaw, v. a. (wihi) To whinny like a horse.

Winc, s. m.—pl. t. od (gwinc) A chaffinch.

WL, s. m. r. That is subtile, fine, or small.

WLL, s. m. r.—pl. yllod. A fragment, a fraction.

WM, s. m. r. That closes about; a covert; a void, or hollow.

Wmp, s. m. (wm) A covert, or a shade.

——Mal imp coedydd,
Wmp ar dalwrn ei fwrn fydd.

Like the shoots of trees, a shade on the headland its load will be. Llywarch Bentwrch.

WN, s. m. r. That is on, upon, close, or at; that is beginning or commencing; that tends to; that is of an energetic nature.

Wnc, s. m. (wn) The state of being close, at, or hard by; proximity. a. Close, near, hard by. prep. Near, nigh. adv. Here.

Dyweddi o wnc, galanas o bell.

Espousal from a neighbourhood, murder from afar. Adage.

Wnco, pron. m. (wnc) That one at a distance, speaking of the masculine; the feminine is onco. adv. There. Dyfed.

Wncw, adv. (wng) There; yonder.

Wng, s. m.—pl. yngon (wnc) The state of being close, at, or by. a. Close, near, hard by; strait. prep. Near, nigh. adv. Here. Engyrth yngaf, difficulty the most confined.

Ing yn ing yngon eangedd.

Strait in strait be proximities of amplitude. Adage.

Trwy a thrwy, wng a rhwng, y daethan';
Traw a thraw, undeeth Bran a Melgan.

Through and through, close and between, they came; over and over, of the same course Bran and Melgan. Myrddin.

WO, s. m. r. A motion out or ended; a call made to stop a horse. v. imper. Wo, stop, stand still.

Wö, s. m. The cry of hounds in chace.
WP, s. m. r. The state of being out or over.
WR, s. m. r. The state of being on, over, or at.
Wrch, s. m. (wr) That is high, or rotund.
Wrdd, s. m. (wr) Touch, contact; impulse.
Wrth, s. m. (wr) A touch, a contact, the state of being by, opposite, or against.
Wrth, prep. (wrth, s.) In contact, close to; by; with; in comparison, compared with. adv. While. Pa beth yw hyny wrth hyn? What is that compared with this? Wrth fyned heibio, in going by: Wrth liw dydd, by day light: Nid allaf wrth hyny, I cannot help that: Wrth ganu, while singing: Taraw wrth, to meet with: Dos wrth dy bwys, go taking thy time: Cadw oddi wrth y byd, keep from the world; ymneilldua i wrth y byd, separate thyself from the world: Y byd bo wrth eich bodd! be the world well with you! Dyfed. Mae y fuwch wrth ben ei hal, the cow is just in calving. Dyfed. Wrth is compounded with pronouns, and is declined thus—Wrthwyf, wrthof, by me; wrthyt, wrthot, by thee; wrtho, by him, or it; wrthi, by her; wrthym, wrthom, by us; wrthych, wrthoch, by you; wrthynt, by them. Ni elli wrtho, thou canst not help it: Wrtho ei hun, by himself.

Calon Sais wrth Gymmro.

The heart of an Englishman towards a Welshman. Adage.

Rhaid i'r fuwch wrth losgwrn.

Necessary to the cow the being with a tail. Adage.

WS, s. m. r. That is impulsive, that is precipitous; action, effort; ardour.
Wsg, s. m. (ws) That opens or separates.
Wst, s. m. (ws) A thrust, push, or drive; a gust; the hypochondria, the hip.
Wsw, s. m.—pl. t. od (ws) That abounds with impulse, or energy; an epithet for the horse; a steed.

Os gweywyr, ewch dros Gaer Wynt;
Os harnais wsw arnynt——
Ymgelwch.

If spears, go ye over Winchester; if on them steed harness be, hide yourselves. L. Mon.

WT, s. m. r. That is extreme, or outward; out.
Wtre, s. f.—pl. wtreydd (wt—rhe) A lane.
Wttres, s. f.—pl. t. au (wt—tres) A revel, a carousal.

Carw mewn cor!——
Cyn y ffair canu 'fferen,
A myn'd i wttres a merch,
A rhoddi neges Rhydderch.

A buck in a choir! before the bargain he sings a mass, and goes to revel with a damsel, and presents the gift of Rhydderch. G. ab Hywel ab Tudyr.

Wttresaidd, a. (wttres) Revelous, carousing.
Wttresawl, a. (wttres) Revelling, carousing.
Wttresgar, a. (wttres) Revelous, apt to feast.
Wttresgarwch, s. m. (wttresgar) Riotousness.
Wttresiad, s. m. (wttres) A revelling.
Wttresiaeth, s. f. (wttres) Loose festivity.

Lluniais mewn llanerch
Wttresiaeth traserch
I winfaeth wenferch.

I prepared in a glade a carousal of ardent love for a wine-nurtured damsel fair. D. Edward.

Wttresu, v. a. (wttres) To carouse, to revel.
Wttreswr, s. m.—pl. wttreswyr (wttres—gwr) A carouser, a riotous person, a spendthrift.
Wttreswyl, s. f.—pl. t. iau (wttres—gwyl) A carousal.
Wtr, s. m. aggr. (wt) The small light grain amongst corn.

Od oes wtr mewn das di.

If there be empty grain in a stack of thine. Ieuan Tew.

WTH, s. m. r. That expands or stretches out.
WY, s. m. r.—pl. t. au. That proceeds from; that is produced; an egg.

Mal wy ar drosol.

Like an egg on a lever. Adage.

A ddygo yr wy a ddwg yr iar.

He that steals the egg will steal the hen. Adage.

Wy, pronom. prep. Of or to the third person; of him, of her, of it; for which i, ei, i'w, iddei, are generally used. 'Hi yn fam wy thad,' She being mother to her father.
Wybr, s. f.—pl. t. au (gwybr) Firmament, or atmosphere; the sky; ether; the least possible thing.

Nid ysgafn ond wybr.

There is nothing so light as air. Adage.

Yr haul——
Ymddangaws erof, cof certh,
Yn entrych wybr, cyn anterth.

Thou sun, shew thyself for my sake, with sure sign, in the midst of the firmament, before the time of noon. G. Llwyd ab Dafydd.

Moesen fu farw o henaint;
Ni bu ar hwn wybr o haint.

Moses did die of old age; there was upon him not the smallest sign of disease. L. G. Cothi.

Wybraidd, a. (wybr) Like the firmament.

Mis Ebrill wybraidd gorthir;
Lluddedig ychain; llwm tir.

The month of April aerial is the horizon; fatigued the oxen; bare the land. Aneurin.

Wybraw, v. a. (wybr) To form a firmament; to move in the air; to soar into the air; to become aërial.
Wybrawl, a. (wybr) Firmamental; aërial.

Y paderau——
Gwlith wybrawl gwlaw wyth Ebrill.

The beads seem as aërial dew of April eight times purified. Ieuan Rhudd.

Wybreiddiad, s. m. (wybraidd) A rendering like the firmament; a becoming aërial.
Wybreiddiaw, v. a. (wybraidd) To render firmamental; to render aërial; to become like air.
Wybren, s. f.—pl. t. i (wybr) A firmament.

Ardwyad cancad——
Ys cynt no rhywynt uch rhudd wybren.

The swayer through a hundred battles, he is more quick than a storm-wind over the ruddy welkin. Ll. P. Moch, i Gr. ab Llywelyn.

Drwy'r wybrenydd y dydd a dan
Ei lwyrwych wely arian.

Through the skies the day doth spread his silver couch supremely gay. D. Ionawr.

Wybrenaidd, a. (wybren) Firmamental; atmospheric.
Wybrenawl, a. (wybren) Being firmamental; atmospheric.
Wybrgoel, s. f. (wybr—coel) Aëromancy.
Wybriad, s. c.—pl. wybriaid (wybr) That is of the firmament; that exists in the air.

Llamysten——
A'i hedlad ffalm wybriad ffwch.

The falcon with her gleaming flight a fizzing inhabitant of air. O. Brwtwn.

Wybriaeth, s. m. (wybr) Aërology; formation of air.
Wybrig, a. (wybr) Firmamental; atmospheric.
Wybrliw, s. m. (wybr—lliw) A cerulean hue.
Wybrwr, s. m.—pl. wybrwyr (wybr—gwr) One of the firmament; one who soars into the air; an aërologist.

Ni fynwn, er mwyn f'enaid,
Wybrwr llon, a'm bwriai'r llaid.

I would not, for the sake of my soul, have a lively flier in the air, that would throw me in the dirt. Ieu. ab Huw, i ofyn march diawg.

Wyd, v. (wy) Art, thou art. It is used for wyd ti, when no emphasis is required.
Wyengawl, a. (wy—engawl) Oviparous.
Wyengi, v. a. (wy—engi) To propagate by eggs.
Wyf, v. (wy) Am, I am. When the person is emphatically discriminated mi is used with it: Wyf fi yn barawd ond nid wyd ti, I am ready, but thou art not.

> Wyf tridyblyg hen, wyf anwadal drud,
> Wyf ehud, wyf anwar:
> Y sawl a'm carodd ni'm car!
>
> I am old three ways bent, I am sickly bold, I am heedless, I am wild; the one who has loved me loves me not! Llywarch Hen.

Wyl, s. m. (wy—yl) A gush out; a wail.
Wylad, s. m. (wyl) A wailing, a weeping.
Wylaw, v. a. (wyl) To wail, or to weep. Wyli ddagrau heilltion, thou wilt weep salt tears.

> Wylid ni wyl ei berchen.
>
> Let him weep who sees not his owner. Adage.
>
> Hawdd peri i fingam wylaw.
>
> It is easy to cause the wry-mouth to weep. Adage.
>
> Myfi wylaf am Ddafydd;
> A wylwyf fi eli fydd.
>
> Myself I will weep for Davydd; what I do weep it will be a salve. L. G. Cothi.

Wylof, s. m. (wyl—of) A weep, a wailing.
Wylofaeth, s. m. (wyl—of) The act of wailing.

> Clywais lef clais wylofaeth,
> Cnill dros y wlad irad aeth!
>
> I heard a cry of the breaking out of weeping, a knell over the country woefully hath gone! Ieu. Thomas.

Wylofain, v. a. (wylof) To wail, to weep.
Wylofedd, s. m. (wylof) A weeping, a wailing; mourning, lamentation.
Wylofi, v. a. (wylof) To wail, or to weep.
Wylofus, a. (wylof) Wailing; doleful.
Wyn, s. pl. aggr. (oen) Lambs. Wyn bach, little lambs.
Wyna, v. a. (wyn) To collect lambs; to yean.

> Os gefyn a gaiff dyn da
> Yn y chwaen, yn iach wyna.
>
> If fetters be a good man's lot in the event, adieu with collecting lambs. Llywelyn ab Gutyn.

Wyneb, s.m.—pl. t. au (gwyneb) A face, a visage; a surface. Wyneb uchel, of a high look; derbyn wyneb, a receiving the presence, a receiving fairly; ar y wyneb, upon the surface.

> Wyneb trist drwg a ery.
>
> A sad countenance awaits mischief. Adage.
>
> Tri pheth sydd ar wraig, a garo weled y cyntaf nis anghar y ddau arall: wyneb ei hun mewn drych; cefn ei gwr o bell, a gordderchwr yn ei gwely.
>
> Three things appertain to a woman, who loves to see the first she will not dislike to see the other two; her own face in a glass; her husband's back far off, and a paramour in her bed. Triordd.

Wynebawg, a. (wyneb) Having a face: faced.
Wynebawl, a. (wyneb) Belonging to the face.
Wynebiad, s. m. (wyneb) A facing, a fronting.
Wynebpryd, s. m. (wyneb—pryd) A countenance
Wynebu, v. a. (wyneb) To face, to front.
Wynebus, a. (wyneb) Of countenanoe, of goodly visage; seemly.
Wynebwarth, s. m. (wyneb—gwarth) A face covering; shame of face; blush of face; an affront; also the fine in law for an affront.

> Wynebwarth pawb ei sarhaed heb ddyrchafael.
>
> The affront fine of every one is his insult fine without advancement. Welsh Laws.
>
> Y drysawr, os ettail yr un o'r penswyddogion, taled iddo ei wynebwarth.
>
> The doorkeeper, if he obstruct any one of the chief officers, he must pay to him his blush of face. Welsh Laws.

Wynebwnïad, s. m. (wyneb—gwnïad) A fine-drawing in sewing.
Wynebwnïaw, v. a. (gwnïaw) To fine draw.
Wynebwr, s. m. (wyneb—gwr) A facer.
Wynos, s. pl. dim. (wyn) Lambkins.
Wyr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (wy—yr) That is spread, stretched, or extended; a grandson.

> Ni cherir yn llwyr
> Oni ddelo yr wyr.
>
> There will be no loving completely until the grandchild comes. Adage.
>
> Och, a Garm, a Diasbad, tair wyrion
> Bwlch, a Cyfwlch, a Sefwlch.
>
> Groan, Shout, and Scream, the three grandchildren of Gash, Tear, and Rent. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Wyrain, a. (wyr) Spreading, extending.

> Disgynnid yn drwm rhag alawfedd wyrain,
> Wyre llu llaes ysgwydawr.
>
> There was a heavy falling down from the spreading flow of mead, the spread of a host with trailing shields. Aneurin.

Wyraw, v. a. (wyr) To distend, to reach out.
Wyre, s. f. (wyr) A spread, an expanse. Yr Wyre Fawr, Yr Wyre Fach, The Great Spread, The Little Spread, rivers in Cardiganshire.
Wyres, s. f.—pl. t. au (wyr) A grand-daughter.
Wys, s. m. (wy—ys) Aptitude or tendency for motion.
Wysawg, a. (wys) Having aptitude; abounding with curreney or fluidity. Caer Wysawg, one of the old names of Oxford.
Wysg, s. m. (wys) A tendency forward, tendency, direction, bias; presence; a current, course, or stream. Ar wysg y Ceisariaid, in pursuit of the Romans: Llusga fe yn wysg ei draed, drag him with his feet foremost: Yn wysg dy drwyn, in the direction of thy nose.

> Canaid lu crau-dwysg
> A gerddant i'th wysg,
> Yn llu aur dor-frwysg,
> Yn llwyr dorf-rydd.
>
> A glorious blood-spilt host will come into thy presence, as a golden host conquering, a multitude completely free. D. Ddu o Hiraddug.
>
> Aethym——
> Yn wysg fy mhen yn esgud.
>
> I went in the direction of my head nimbly. D. ab Gwilym.

Wysg, adv. (wys) In a forward direction; forward. Dos wysg dy ben, go with thy head forwards, go headlong.
Wysgaw, v. n. (wysg) To move onward; to glide onward; to go headlong.
Wyt, v. (wyd) Art, thou art. When there is an emphasis required to distinguish the second person from any other Ti is added: Wyt yma, thou art here; wyt ti yna, ac nid arall, thou art there, and not another.

> Neud wyt wr aerdwr, ardwy efras cad
> Cedernyd Eneas.
>
> Surely thou art a man that is the bulwark of conflict, a sturdy swayer of battle of the prowess of Eneas. Ll. P. Moch, i L. ab Iorwerth.

Wyth, s. m.—pl. t. au (wy—yth) The state of being extended out, or separate from an identity; the number eight, eight. a. Eight.
Wythaw, v. a. (wyth) To form into eight, to make up eight; to divide into eight parts.
Wythawl, a. (wyth) Belonging to eight.
Wythban, s. m. (wyth—ban) That is of eight parts; that is of eight verses; that is of eight syllables. a. Of eight parts.
Wythbanawg, a. (wythban) Of eight parts; of eight verses; of eight syllables.
Wythblyg, s. m. (wyth—plyg) That is of eight folds. a. Of eight folds.
Wythblygawl, a. (wythblyg) Of eight folds.
Wythblygiad, s. m. (wythblyg) A forming of eight folds.

Wythblygu, v. a. (wythblyg) To render eight fold.

Wythdeg, s. m. (wyth—deg) Eighteen.

Wythdegfed, s. m. (wythdeg) Eighteenth.

Wythdro, s. m. (wyth—tro) That is of eight turns. a. Of eight turns.

Wythdroed, s. m. (wyth—troed) That is eight-footed. a. Eight-footed.

Wythdroedawg, a. (wythdroed) Having eight feet

Wythddeg, s. m. (wyth—deg) Eighty. a. Eighty.

Wythddegfed, s. m. (wythddeg) Eightieth.

Wythfed, s. m. (wyth) An eighth. a. Eighth.

Wythfedwaith, s. f. (wythfed--gwaith) Eighth time

Wythganfed, s. m. (wythgant) Eight hundredth.

Wythganfedwaith, s. f. (wythganfed—gwaith) The eight hundredth time.

Wythganmil, s. m. (wythgant—mil) Eight hundred thousands.

Wythganmilfed, s. m. (wythganmil) An eight hundred thousandth.

Wythgant, s. m. (wyth—cant) Eight hundred.

Wythganwaith, s. pl. (wythgant—gwaith) Eight hundred times.

Wythiad, s. m. (wyth) A forming of eight; a dividing into eight parts.

Wythmis, s. m. (wyth—mis) A space of eight months. a. Of eight months.

Wythmlwydd, s. m. (wyth—blwydd) That is of eight years. a. Of eight years.

Wythmlwyddawl, a. (wythmlwydd) Octennial.

Wythmlynedd, s. m. (wyth—blynedd) That is of eight years. a. Of eight years.

Wythmlyneddawl, a. (wythmlynedd) Octennial.

Wythnos, s. f.—pl. t. an (wyth—nos) That consists of eight nights; a week. Wythnos y gweddïau, rogation week. Anciently the days of the week were thus named—Unfetdydd, first day; deufetdydd, deuedydd, eilfetdydd, second day; trydedydd, third day; pedrydydd, fourth day; pummetdydd, fifth day; chwechetdydd, sixth day; seithfetdydd, seventh day.

Wythnos y llwynawg.

The week of the fox. Adage.

Wythnosawl, a. (wythnos) Weekly.

Wythnosi, v. a. (wythnos) To form a week, to divide into weeks.

Wythnosiad, s. m. (wythnos) A forming a week, a dividing into weeks.

Wythnydd, s. m. (wyth—dydd) A space of eight days. a. Of eight days.

Wythnyddiawl, a. (wythnydd) Of eight days.

Wythnyn, s. m. (wyth—dyn) That is of eight persons. a. Of eight persons.

Wythnynawl, a. (wythnyn) Of eight persons.

Wythochr, s. m. (wyth—ochr) An octagon.

Wythochrawg, a. (wythochr) Octagonal.

Wythochrawl, a. (wythochr) Octagonal.

Wythochri, v. a. (wythochr) To form an octagon.

Wythochriad, s. (wythochr) A forming an octagon.

Wythongl, s. m. (wyth—ongl) That has eight angles. a. Octangular.

Wythonglawg, a. (wythongl) Octangular.

Wythonglawl, a. (wythongl) Octangular.

Wythongli, v. a. (wythongl) To form an octangular figure.

Wythongliad, s. m. (wythongl) A forming an octangular figure.

Wythor, s. m. (wyth—or) That has eight borders. a. Of eight borders.

Wythorawl, a. (wythor) Of eight borders.

Wythori, v. a. (wythor) To make to consist of eight borders.

Wythoriad, s. m. (wythor) A making to consist of eight borders.

Wythran, s. f. (wyth—rhan) That has eight shares. a. Of eight shares or parts.

Wythranawl, a. (wythran) Relating to what consists of eight parts.

Wythryw, s. m. (wyth—rhyw) That consists of eight sorts. a. Of eight sorts.

Wythryw yd a thri o wair.

Eight sorts of corn and three of hay. D. ab Gwilym.

Wythrywiad, s. m. (wythryw) A forming into eight sorts or kinds.

Wythrywiaw, v. a. (wythryw) To form eight sorts.

Wythrywiawg, a. (wythryw) Of eight sorts.

Wythrywiawl, a. (wythryw) Of eight sorts.

Wythsill, s. f. (wyth—sill) That has eight syllables. a. Of eight syllables.

Wythsillawg, a. (wythsill) Having eight syllables.

Wythwaith, s. pl. (wyth—gwaith) Eight times.

Wythweithfed, s. f. (wythwaith) The eighth time.

Y.

Y. THIS is a derivative sound, whose origin is E, being short, open, and indistinct, and having much of the character of the Hebrew sheva, or that transient sound, which transpires between certain consonants. It is the mutation of O and W in some forms of construction, and it particularly forms the plural of monosyllables. It is also the article the, preceding the words with consonant initials; but before vowels, for the sake of euphony, it takes dd and r, as affixes, to form ydd, yr. With verbs it assumes an adverbial character; and often is a mere expletive sound.

Gwyn fyd y ferch a allo fod gan ei hunan.

Happy is the woman that can be by herself. Adage.

Ar ddiwedd y mae barnu.

On the conclusion is to be judging. Adage.

Arthur——
Yn mlaen llu Camlan y llas.

Arthur, in the front of the host of Camlan was he slain. L. G. Cothi.

YB, s. m. r. A state of expulsion; the state of being out, over, or up.

Ybain, v. a. (yb) To make a howling; to howl.

YCH, s. m. r. That is out, over, or before: a neat, bullock, or ox. Ychain, oxen.

Ni sengis yr ych du ar dy droed.

The black ox has not trodden on thy foot. Adage.

Gwell oen fy hun nog ych arall.

Better a lamb of my own than the ox of another. Adage.

Tal ychain yw treth a ddodes Mawd Waldeborff, o Gastell Paen yn Elfael, yn lle aredig cymhorth iddi, unwaith bob pedair blynedd.

Payment for oxen is a tax that was established by Mawd Waldeborf, of Paen's Castle in Elvael, instead of the assistant ploughing to her, once every four years. Defodau.

Ych, v. (ych, s.) Ye or you are; are ye, are you.
Ycha, v. imper. (ych) Lo, behold, see. Ycha acw, lo yonder.
Ychad, s. m. (ych) A coming in view.
Ychadaf, adv. (ychad) In a most conspicuous way.

Rhedegawg tòn ar hyd traeth:
Ychadaf torid arfaeth:
Cad o acdo gnawd ffo ar ffraeth.

Full of motion the wave along the strand: thus plainly a purpose is broken: a battle near him the prattler takes to flight. Llywarch Hen.

Ychwaen, adv. (chwaen) Peradventure, by chance
Ychwaith, conj. (chwaith) Neither, not even so.
Ychwaneg, s. m. (chwaneg) More. adv. More.
Ychwanegadwy, a. (ychwaneg) Capable of augmentation.
Ychwanegawl, a. (ychwaneg) Apt to augment.
Ychwanegedig, a. (ychwaneg) Being augmented
Ychwanegiad, s. m. (ychwaneg) Augmentation.
Ychwanegu, v. a. (ychwaneg) To augment.
Ychwardd, s. m. (chwardd) Tendency to laughter.
Ychwarddawl, a. (ychwardd) Tending to laughter.
Ychwarddiad, s. m. (ychwardd) A causing laughter
Ychwarddu, v. a. (ychwardd) To cause laughter.

Ychwerddais yn wych irddydd;
Yn wylaw y daeth yr ail dydd.

I laughed bravely the passing day; weeping came the second day. D. ab Ieuan Ddu.

Ychwarian, adv. (chwarian) In a gentle manner.

Cyfarchaf o echlysur byd,
A'm dawed ychwarian:
Pwy wledych wedi Cynan?

I will congratulate on account of the world, as I gently come forward: Who will reign after Cynan? Cyfoesi Merddin.

Ychwerig, adv. (chwerig) Playfully, sportively.
Ychwinsa, adv. (chwinsa) At present; immediately

Pan fo yn swperu ychwinsa ddechreu nos.

When he is supping just at the beginning of night. H. Bown—Mabinogion.

Ha wraig! y neb piau y gelain, ti ei gweli yma ychwinsa.

Ha woman! be to whom the corpse belongs, thou shalt see here immediately. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Ychydig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cyd) A little, a small quantity; a few. a. Little, small as to quantity and number. adv. Little.

Ychydig yn aml a wna llawer.

A little often will make much. Adage.

Ychydig a wneid am y nef pei diffoddid uffern.

Little would there be done for heaven if hell were extinguished. Adage.

Tri ychydig a wna colli llawer: ychydig o anwydau drwg, ychydig o wall, ac ychydig o ledrad.

Three small things will be the means of losing much: a little of angry passions, a little carelessness, and a little theft. Trioedd.

Ychydigaw, v. a. (ychydig) To lessen in quantity or number; to render few; to become few.
Ychydigawl, a. (ychydig) Tending to lessen.
Ychydigder, s. m. (ychydig) A littleness of quantity and number; fewness, paucity.

Goreu ar bob chware ychydigder.

The best of every play is a little. Adage.

Ychydigdra, s. m. (ychydig) Littleness, fewness.
Ychydigrwydd, s. m. (ychydig) Littleness, fewness
Ychydigyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (ychydig) A very little.

Y tir hwn—yr oedd rhyw ychydigynau o oleuni yn saethu i mewn iddo yn awr ac eilwaith.

This land, there were some small particles of light shooting into it at one time and at another. Ior. Owain.

YD, s. m. r.—pl. t. au That is; a being; corn. Yd byw, standing corn. It forms the termination of a class of nouns, and of some verbs in the infinitive mood. Yd meddw, darnel.

Po hynaf yr yd tebycaf fydd i'r byd.

By so much the older the corn more like it will be to the world. Adage.

Tew o frig y tyf yr on,
Tewach yw cardotcion;
Bai yd y gwellt a bwyd gwyr,
Rhy fan yw i'r Rhufeinwyr.

Thick of branches the ash doth grow, more thick are mendicants; if the grass were corn and food for men, too scanty it would be for the Romans. Ieu. Du. y Bilwg.

Yd, adv. (yd, s.) A particle idiomatically used, answering to it, that, and doth, in the formation of verbs; and it is often merely an expletive, used for euphony.

Trist yd gwyn pob colledig.

Sadly doth every condemned one complain. Taliesin.

Tarf cynnygn càn yd weler.

He would intimidate an opponent were he but seen. Ll. P. Moch.

Hir yd goffëir a goffaaf.

Long will be remembered what I record. D. Benfras.

Yda, v. a. (yd) To gather corn; to go about begging for corn.
Ydaidd, a. (yd) Like or of the nature of corn.
Ydawg, a. (yd) Abounding with corn, full of corn.
Ydawl, a. (yd) Belonging to corn, of the quality of grain.
Ydbys, s. pl. aggr. (yd—pys) Vetches. Ydbys tragwyddawl, cichlings.
Yd-dir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (yd—tir) Corn land.
Yd-dy, s. m.—pl. t. au (yd—ty) A granary.
Yden, s. f. dim. (yd) A grain of corn.
Ydfaes, s. m. (yd—maes) A corn field.
Ydfran, s. f.—pl. ydfrain (yd—bran) A rook.
Ydfwyd, s. m. (yd—bwyd) Food made of corn.

Ydfwyd i ddyn, cigfwyd i gwn.

Grain food for man, flesh food for dogs. Adage.

Tri ymborth dyn a baraat iechyd, hiroes, a synwyr gloew; ydfwyd, blithfwyd, a garddfwyd.

The three sustenances of man that will cause health, long life, and clear sense: food made of corn, milk food, and vegetable food. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Ydgeirch, s. pl. aggr. (yd—ceirch) Wild oats.
Ydgist, s. f.—pl. t. iau (yd—cist) A corn bin.
Ydgordd, s. f.—pl. t. au (yd—cordd) Corn-yard.
Ydi, v. (yd) Is; it is, he is, she is; is it, is he, is she.
Ydig, s. m. dim. (yd) Degenerate corn; cockle; it is also called gith.
Ydlan, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (yd—llan) A corn-yard.
Ydoedd, v. (yd—oedd) Was. Ydyw, is.
Ydwal, s. f.—pl. t. au (yd—gwal) A corn garth.
Ydwyd, v. (wyd) Art, thou art, art thou. Pwy ydwyd? who art thou? Ai Meilyr ydwyd? Art thou Meilyr?
Ydwyf, v. (wyf) Am; I am; am I. Ydwyf yma, I am here: a ydwyf? am I?
Ydych, v. (ych) Ye are, you are; are ye, are you.
Ydynt, v. (ynt) They are; are they. Dynion ydynt, they are men: ai dynion ydynt? are they men?

Bost a chelwydd, nid deubeth ydynt.

Boasting and lying, they are not two things. Adage.

Ydŷs, s. m. (yd—ŷs) The calender, or weevil.
Ydyw, v. (yw) Is; it is, he is, she is, when the particular person is known.

Dyn ni wna daioni neb
Ydyw un a dau wyneb.

A person who will do no good to any body is the one with two faces. O. Gwynedd.

YDD, s. m. r. That is moving before; that is conspicnous. a. Forward; conspicuons. It is the article the, used in common with yr, before nouns with vowel initials, as y is before those with consonants; with verbs it assumes an adverbial character; and it is frequently a mere expletive sound. It is nsed sometimes as a pronoun. It is also a termination of masculine nouns.

Ffordd Llaufaglen ydd air i nef.

By the way of Saint Mary Magdalen it is that we must go to heaven. Adage.

O erw i gant yr a gwr;
O ddwy i un ydd a anwr.

From an acre to a hundred will a man proceed; from two to one it is that the fribble falls. Ieuan Deulwyn.

Neum rhoddes i Run, rwyf iolydd, cantref,
A chant eidionydd!
Ac un rodd oedd well nog ydd.

Have I not been gifted by Rhun, a chief of celebrity, with district and a hundred kiue! but one gift was better than them. Llywarch Hen.

YF, s. m. r. That is of a flowing or liquid nature; a liquid; a moisture.

Yfadwy, a. (yf) Drinkable, capable of being drank

Yfawl, a. (yf) Relating to drinking.

Yfed, v. a. (yf) To drink. s. m. A drinking.

Yf dy gawl cyn oero.

Drink thy broth before it cools. Adage.

Ar ol yfed syched sydd.

After drinking there comes thirst. Adage.

Ac os yf un gwas afiach
I'w feddwi ef, e fydd iach.

And if any youth unwell shall drink so as to make him drunk, he will be well. Ieu. ab Gr. Leiaf, i'r cwrw.

Yfedgar, a. (yfed) Fond of drinking, or tippling.

Yfedgarwch, s. m. (yfedgar) Fonduess for drink.

Yfedr, s. m. (yfed) A drinking habit.

Yfetri, v. a. (yfedr) To drink often; to tipple.

Yfgar, a. (yf) Fond of drink, bibaceous.

Yfgarwch, s. m. (yfgar) Fondness for drink.

Yfiad, s. m. (yf) A drinking; a bibbing.

Yfory, s. m. (mory) To-morrow. adv. To-morrow.

Yfu, v. a. (yf) To drink; to imbibe, to suck.

Yfwr, s. m.—pl. yfwyr (yf—gwr) A drinker.

Yfwraig, s. f.—pl. yfwreigedd (yf—gwraig) A drinking woman.

YFF, s. m. r. A tendency out or from.

Yffi, s. m. (yff) A bit broken off; a particle.

Yffiaw, v. a. (yffi) To break off; to shiver.

Yffion, s. pl. aggr. (yffi) Fragments; shatters. Dyna fo yn yffion man, there it is all to shatters.

Yffiyn, s. m. (yffi) A piece, a shiver.

YG, s. m. r. The state of being open, or void.

YL, s. m. r. That is pervasive; that is apt to move; a moving agent. It is a termination of a class of words.

Yleni, s. (eleni) The present year. adv. This year.

YLL, s. m. r. That tends to part, or to separate.

Ylldryd, s. m. (yll—tryd) A vagabond, a stroller.

Ylliad, s. m. (yll) A ripping, or a dividing.

Yllt, s. m. (yll) A rip, rent, or parting.

Ylltyd, s. m. (yllt) A ripper; an epithet used for a plough.

Yllynedd, s. (llynedd) Last year. adv. Last year.

Yllyr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yll) A mole or want.

YM, s. m. r. That tends to identify; that is identic. It is a particle of very general use in composition. Prefixed to verbs, and verbal nouns, it makes a reflexion of the action on the agent or agents; as, golchi, to wash; ymolchi, to wash one's self: sènu, to chide; ymsènu, to chide mutually. It is also the pronoun my, used for my or vy in certain forms of construction: and, it is the personal verb, we are.

Am ŵyn, ym Crist, nwy ni'm cred!

About lambs, my Christ, he will not believe me more. Gute y Glyn.

Cynghorwr ar wr, yr a'i myno gwar;
Cynghorfynt ni gar wrth ai caro.
Caru ym myd i'm, a'm digaplo;
Cariad a'i bwyllaid i'm ni ballo;
Car an dadl dilys, a'm dewiso;
Carennydd Dofydd beunydd a'm bo!

A counsellor to man, for such as humbly seeks him; envy he will not harbour to who loves him. The love of my society be to me that shall not contemn me; love with his guidance to me let it not fail; the friend whose intercession is sure, may he elect me; the favour of the Creator be it daily to me! Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Yma, s. m. (ma) Here, this place. adv. Here, in this place.

Gwae'nt hwy y gethern
A fynant uffern
Byth gwedi yma.

Woe to them the crew, who seek for hell ever after the present. Ieu. Athraw.

A orchfygo yma a goronir fry.

That conquers here will be crowned above. Adage.

Ymachlud, s. m. (achlud) The act of enveloping. v. a. To obscure one's self; to obscure mutually; to become obscured.

Ymachludaw, v. a. (ymachlud) To be obscuring; to obscure mutually; to become obscured.

Ioseph a ymachludws gorff yr Iesu mewn llian glan.

Joseph shrouded the body of Jesus in clean linen.

Ymachludawl, a. (ymachlud) Tending to be enveloped or to be obscured.

Ymachludiad, s. m. (ymachlud) A becoming enveloped; a mutually obscuring.

Ymachludd, s. m. (achludd) The act of enveloping. v. a. To obscure one's self; to become obscured.

Y mae gwely i'm gelyn,
Lle'r ymachludd deurudd dyn.

To my foe there is a bed, where the cheeks of a nymph become obscured. M. ab Rhys.

Ymachluddaw, v. a. (ymachludd) To obscure one's self; mutually to obscure.

Ymachluddawl, a. (ymachludd) Tending to become obscured.

Ymachluddiad, s. m. (ymachludd) A becoming obscured; a mutually obscuring.

Ymachub, s. m. (achub) Self-security. v. a. To save one's self, to deliver one's self; to save mutually.

Cyfod, ddrygwas cas, cais laeth bronau moch,
Ymachub a'th glwyfau.

Arise, thou odious wicked chap, get thee milk of swine teats, deliver thyself of thy disorders. Madawg Dwygraig.

Ymachubaw, v. à. (ymachub) To save one's self, to deliver one's self; to save mutually.

Ymachubawl, a. (ymachub) Tending to self preservation; mutually preserving.

Ymachubiad, s. m. (ymachub) A saving one's self; a mutually saving.

Ymachubwr, s. m.—pl. ymachubwyr (ymachub—gwr) One who saves himself; one who mutually saves.

Ymachwyn, s. m. (achwyn) A complaint of one's self; a mutual complaint. v. a. To complain of one's self; to complain mutually.

Ymachwyniad, s. m. (ymachwyn) A complaining of one's self; a mutually complaining.

Ymachwynwr, s. m.—pl. ymachwynwyr (ymachwyn—gwr) One who complains of himself; a mutual complainer.

Ymadael, v. a. (gadael) To leave, to forsake, to quit; to depart; to leave mutually.

Ymadaw, v. a. (gadaw) To leave, to forsake; to depart; to elope; mutually to leave.

Llyma gynnifer ffordd yr ymedy dyn a'i dda, trwy drais, lledrad, anghyfarch, llog, adnau, benthyg.

Behold the various ways that a person will part with his property, through oppression, theft, trover, hire, pledge, loan. Welsh Laws.

Ymadawiad, s. m. (ymadaw) A leaving, a forsaking; a departing, egression; elopement.
Ymadawwr, s. m.—pl. ymadawwyr (ymadaw—gwr) One who leaves or forsakes.
Ymadferth, s. m. (adferth) Self-exertion. v. a. To exert one's self; to defend or help one's self.
Ymadferthawl, a. (ymadferth) Self-exerting; tending to mutual aid.
Ymadferthiad, s. m. (ymadferth) Self-exertion; a helping one's self.
Ymadferthu, v. a. (ymadferth) To exert one's self, mutually to aid.
Ymadferthwch, s. m. (ymadferth) A state of self-exertion.
Ymadfyw, s. m. (adfyw) Self-revival. a. To revive one's self; to become revived.
Ymadfywiad, s. m. (ymadfyw) A reviving of one's self; a becoming revived; reviviscence.
Ymadfywiaw, v. a. (ymadfyw) To revive one's self; to become revived, to come to life again.
Ymadgryfâad, s. m. (ymadgryfâu) A self-reinvigoration; a becoming strengthened.
Ymadgryfâawl, a. (ymadgryfâu) Self-reinvigorating.
Ymadgryfâu, v. a. (adgryfâu) To strengthen one's self again; to become reinvigorated.
Ymadgyweiriad, s. m. (adgyweiriad) A repairing of one's self; a becoming repaired.
Ymadgyweiriaw, v. a. (adgyweiriaw) To restore one's self to order; to become repaired.
Ymadlenwad, s. m. (adlenwad) A self-replenishing; a becoming replenished.
Ymadlenwawl, a. (adlenwawl) Self-replenishing; tending to become replenished.
Ymadlenwi, v. a. (adlenwi) To replenish one's self; to become replenished.
Ymadnabod, s. m. (adnabod) Self-knowledge; mutual acquaintance. v. n. To know one's self; to become acquainted.
Ymadnewyddawl, a. (adnewyddawl) Self-renovating; tending to become renewed.
Ymadnewyddiad, s. m. (adnewyddiad) Self renovation; a becoming renewed.
Ymadnewyddu, v. a. (adnewyddu) To renovate one's self; to become renewed.
Ymadolwyn, v. a. (adolwyn) To interest one's self; to entreat earnestly and often.
Ymadrawdd, s. m.—pl. ymadroddion (adrawdd) Discourse; a sentence or period, in discourse; speech. v. a. To discourse, to talk.

Heb awen dda——
Nis gwyr modd ymadroddion,
Na lliwiau beiau lle bon'.

Without a good genius, he knows not the form of sentences, nor the characters of faults where they exist. I. ab Hywel Swrdwal.

Ymadrawdd yw cynnulleidfa lliaws o eiriau ynghyd.

A sentence is a collection of a number of words together. Edeyrn Dafawd Aur.

Ymadred, s. f. (adred) A self-returning; a return.
Ymadredawl, a. (ymadred) Self-returning.
Ymadredeg, v. a. (ymadred) To return one's self back; mutually to return.
Ymadrediad, s. m. (ymadred) A returning one's self back; a mutually returning.
Ymadroddawl, a. (ymadrawdd) Discoursive.

Ymadroddi, v. a. (ymadrawdd) To discourse.
Ymadroddiad, s. m. (ymadrawdd) A discoursing.
Ymadroddiaeth, s. m. (ymadrawdd) Conversation.
Ymadroddiant, s. m. (ymadrawdd) Interlocution.
Ymadroddus, a. (ymadrawdd) Well-spoken.
Ymadroddwr, s. m.—pl. ymadroddwyr (ymadrawdd—gwr) A disconrser, an interlocutor.
Ymadwedd, s. m (adwedd) A self-returning.

I gaer ragorawl,
Ag arfaeth gwerfawl,
Ammodawl ymadwedd.

To an excellent city, with praise-worthy usage, under promise is a return. S. Fychan.

Ymadweddawl, a. (ymadwedd) Tending to bring one's self back.
Ymadweddiad, s. m. (ymadwedd) A bringing one's self to a former condition.
Ymadweddu, v. a. (ymadwedd) To bring one's self to a former state.
Ymaddasawl, a. (addasawl) Self-qualifying; mutually fitting.
Ymaddasiad, s. m. (addasiad) A qualifying one's self; a becoming qualified, meet, or proper.
Ymaddasu, v. a. (addasu) To qualify one's self; to to qualify mutually.
Ymaddaswr, s. m.—pl. ymaddaswyr (addaswr) One who makes himself fit or meet.
Ymaddaw, v. a. (addaw) To promise mutually; to bind one's self in a promise.

O derfydd i ddyn ymaddaw ag arall am beth, heb dystion yn y lle, nid amfod hwnw.

If a person should enter into a promise with another for a thing' without witnesses in the place, that is not a covenant. Welsh Laws.

Ymaddawiad, s. m. (ymaddaw) A mutually promising; a binding one's self in a promise.
Ymaelodi, v. a. (aelodi) To make one's self a member; to become a member.
Ymaelodiad, s. m. (aelodiad) A making one's self a member; a becoming a member.
Ymaes, prep. (maes) Without. adv. Without.
Ymafael, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gafael) A mutual hold; a wrestle, a struggle. v. a. To lay hold; to wrestle.

Nac ymafael a'i hael hi.

Do not connect thyself with her skirt. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymafaelgar, a. (ymafael) Apt to lay hold.
Ymafaelgarwch, s. m. (ymafaelgar) Aptness to lay hold mutually.
Ymafaeliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymafael) A laying hold mutually.
Ymafaelu, v. a. (ymafael) To lay hold; to lay hold mutually, to wrestle.
Ymafaelwr, s. m.—pl. ymafaelwyr (ymafael—gwr) One who lays hold; a wrestler.
Ymafaelydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymafael) One who takes hold; a wrestler.
Ymaflwr, s. m.—pl. ymaflwyr (gaflwr) One who lays hold; a wrestler.
Ymaflyd, s. m. (gaflyd) A mutual laying hold; a wrestle. v. a. To lay mutual hold; to lay hold; to wrestle. Ymaflyd cwymp, to wrestle a fall.
Ymagawr, s. m. (agawr) A becoming open.
Ymagenawl, a. (agenawl) Tending to become rifted or chapped.
Ymageniad, s. m. (ageniad) A becoming rifted.
Ymagenu, v. n. (agenu) To become rifted.
Ymagorawl, a. (ymagawr) Self-expanding; tending to become open.
Ymagori, v. n. (ymagawr) To become open or expanded; to open one's self.

Ymagoriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymagawr) A becoming open; an opening of one's self.

Ymagoryd, v. n. (ymagawr) To become open.

Ymagwedd, s. m. (agwedd) Self-conformity; mutual conformity.

Ymagweddawl, a. (ymagwedd) Self-conforming.

Ymagweddiad, s. m. (ymagwedd) A conforming one's self; a mutually conforming.

Ymagweddu, v. a. (ymagwedd) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.

Ymagweddwr, s. m.—pl. ymagweddwyr (ymagwedd—gwr) One who conforms himself.

Ymaith, adv. (maith) Hence, away. v. imp. Hence, avaunt, away. be gone. Dos ymaith, go away.

> A fwrw ymaith ei fywyd yn ddiachaws, marw dros y diawl y mae'
>
> He that throws away his life without cause, dies for the devil.
> Adage.

Ymalw, v. a. (galw) To continue calling; to invocate; to call mutually.

Ymalwad, s. m. (ymalw) A mutual calling.

Ymalltudaw, v. a. (alltudaw) To banish one's self; to become strange.

Ymalltudawl, a. (alltudawl) Self-estranging.

Ymalltudiad, s. m. (alltudiad) A self-estranging; a banishing one's self.

Ymallu, v. n. (gallu) To take to one's self power; to be able. Od ymeill, o dichawn, if he be able.

Ymalluaw, v. a. (ymallu) To endue one's self with power; to become able or capable.

Ymamlâad, s. m. (amlâad) A self-multiplying.

Ymamlâu, v. a. (amlâu) To self-multiply.

Yman, s. m. (man) Here, this place. adv. Here.

Ymanafawl, a. (anafawl) Tending to self-harm.

Ymanafiad, s. m. (anafiad) A self-hurting.

Ymanafu, v. n. (anafu) To hurt one's self.

Ymanafyd, v. n. (anafyd) To hurt one's self.

Ymanaws, s. m. (anaws) Self-excitement; mutual excitement. v. a. To excite one's self; to excite mutually.

Ymandaw, s. m. (andaw) A keeping one's self in listening or attention; a mutual listening. v. a. To keep one's self listening; to listen mutually.

> Drud a glud, gwladoedd ymandaw,
> Doeth a choeth, cyfoeth cyfunaw.
>
> A bold one and a leader, the admiration of countries, wise and precious, the subject of a kingdom's united prayer.
> Llygad Gwr, i Ruff. Maelawr.

Ymandawiad, s. m. (ymandaw) A keeping one's self in listening; a mutually listening.

Ymanfon, s. m. (anfon) A mutual sending. v. a. To send mutually.

> Mynych ymanfon dygn gofion dig
> Erof, arien ganwyll ryfig.
>
> Frequently she commissions severe remembrances of anger on my account, the splendidly cold luminary of presumption.
> Cynddelw.

Ymanfoniad, s. m. (ymanfon) A mutually sending.

Ymanerch, s. m.—pl. t. ion (anerch) A mutual greeting; congratulation. v. a. To congratulate.

> Saethodd o'i gloew-fron glau
> Serch ymanerch i minnau.
>
> She darted from her constant beauteous breast a love-shaft of congratulation to me. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Ymanerchawl, a. (ymanerch) Mutually greeting.

Ymanerchi, v. a. (ymanerch) To greet mutually.

Ymanerchiad, s. m. (ymanerch) A mutually greeting.

Ymannog, s. m. (annog) Mutual excitement; self-excitement. v. a. To excite one another; to self-excite.

Ymannos, adv. (yman—nos) The night past; the night before the present; the night before last; heretofore.

> Mynwn fy mod ymannos
> Yn tori pen Atropos.
>
> I could have wished to be the other night cutting off the head of Atropos. Guto y Glyn.
>
> Lleidr, y mewn dirus draserch,
> Ymannos fum: mynais ferch.
>
> A thief, in graceless dotage, the other night I was: I carried off a maid. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymanosawl, a. (ymanaws) Self-exciting; mutually exciting.

Ymanosiad, s. m. (ymanaws) A self-exciting; a mutually urging or exciting.

Ymanrheithiad, s. m. (anrheithiad) Self-spoliation; mutual spoliation.

Ymanrheithiaw, v. a. (anrheithiaw) To self-despoil; to despoil one another.

Ymanrheithiawl, a. (anrheithiawl) Self-despoiling; mutually despoiling.

Ymanurddaw, v. a. (anurddaw) To self-disfigure.

Ymanurddawl, a. (anurddawl) Self-disfiguring.

Ymanurddiad, s. (anurddiad) A self-disfiguring.

Ymangerddawl, a. (angerddawl) Tending to put one's self in a passion.

Ymangerddiad, s. m. (angerddiad) A making one's self violent.

Ymangerddu, v. a. (angerddu) To make one's self violent; to become impassioned.

Ymangwanegawl, a. (angwanegawl) Self-augmenting.

Ymangwanegiad, s. m. (angwanegiad) A self-augmenting.

Ymangwanegu, v. a. (angwanegu) To increase one's self.

Ymaraws, s. m. (araws) A bearing with; long-suffering. v. a. To bear with, to endure.

Ymarbed, s. m. (arbed) A self-restraint.

Ymarbedawl, a. (ymarbed) Self-refraining; mutually abstaining.

Ymarbediad, s. m. (ymarbed) A self-refraining; a mutually abstaining.

Ymarbedu, v. a. (ymarbed) To save one's self; to abstain; mutually to abstain.

Ymarbedus, a. (ymarbed) Self-restraining.

Ymarbedusaw, v. n. (ymarbedus) To become abstemious.

Ymarbod, s. m. (arbod) Self-preparation, self-introduction; self-manifestation; the state of being interested or concerned. v. a. To interest one's self, to be concerned. A oes dim ymarbod amdano? Is there no stirring about it?

> Duw a folir—yn gynneiliwr a gwaredwr, ac yn brynwr yn ei ail ymarbod o barth Mab, ac oll odd y rhinweddau, ac y perthynaidd briodoleddau.
>
> God is to be worshipped, as the upholder and saviour, and as a redeemer in his second interesting of himself with respect to the Son, and all of the virtues, and the appropriate attributes.
> Barddas.

Ymarbodawl, a. (ymarbod) Self-preparing.

Ymarbodi, v. a. (ymarbod) To prepare one's self; to become concerned or interested.

Ymarbodiad, s. m. (ymarbod) A preparing one's self; a becoming concerned about or interested.

Ymarbodus, a. (ymarbod) Being concerned about.

Ymarbodusaw, v. n. (ymarbodus) To become concerned or interested.

Ymarbodusrwydd, s. m. (ymarbodus) The state of being concerned, or interested.

Ymarbodwr, s. m.—pl. ymarbodwyr (ymarbod—gwr) One who prepares himself; one who interests himself.

Ymarbwyll, s. m.—pl. t. ion (arbwyll) A concerting. v. a. To be concerting.

Goreu gwaith celfydd ymarbwyll a'i amcan.

The best act of the ingenious is to be concerting with his invention. Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymarbwylliad, s. m. (ymarbwyll) A being concerting or considering.

Ymarddelw, s. m. (arddelw) A possession; a setting up a claim; a challenge. v. a. To make a profession; to set up a claim; to challenge.

Cael ymadrawdd hawdd a hi,
Ymarddelw serch bum erddi.

Obtaining an easy conversation with her, making profession of love I was for her sake. D. ab Gwilym, i Forfudd.

Ymarddelwad, s. m. (ymarddelw) A making a claim.

Ymardderchafael, s. m. (ardderchafael) A self-exalting. v. a. To become exalted.

Gwedi gwybod o Arthur bod ei ofn efelly ar bawb, ymardderchafael a orug yntau.

After it was known to Arthur that his dread was thus upon every body, he then uplifted himself. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymardderchafiad, s. m. (ardderchafiad) Self-exaltation; a becoming uplifted.

Ymardderchafu, v. a. (ardderchafu) To uplift one's self; to be self-exalted.

Ymardderchafus, a. (ardderchafus) Self-exalting.

Ymardderchawl, a. (ardderchawl) Self-exalting.

Ymardderchiad, s. (ardderchiad) Self-exaltation.

Ymardderchogawl, a. (ardderchogawl) Self-exalting.

Ymardderchogi, v. a. (ardderchogi) To self-exalt.

Ymardderchu, v. (ardderchu) To exalt one's self.

Ymarddysgwyl, s. m (arddysgwyl) A keeping one's self in expectation. v. a. To keep one's self in expectation.

Brysiaw a orugynt parth a'r mwg; a dynesu parth ag yno, dan ymarddysgwyl o bell, ynyfydd Dillus Farfawg yn deifaw baedd coed.

They made haste towards the smoke; and approaching towards there, by keeping on the watch from a distance, behold Dillus Longbeard scorching a wild boar. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Ymarddysgwyliad, s. m. (ymarddysgwyl) A keeping one's self in expectation.

Ymarddysgwyliaw, v. a. (ymarddysgwyl) To keep one's self in expectation.

Ymarddysgwylus, a. (ymarddysgwyl) Apt to keep one's self in expectation.

Ymarfaeth, s. m. (arfaeth) A self-exercising. v. a. To habituate one's self.

Brain a gant chwedl yn mhen traeth,
Wrth nas gellynt ymarfaeth:
Nid meddiant ond gwybodaeth.

A crow did sing her adage at the head of the sand, to those who could not habituate themselves: there is no possession like knowledge. Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymarfaethiad, s. m. (ymarfaeth) A self-habituating or inuring.

Ymarfawd, s. f. (arfawd) A self-arming.

Ymarfer, s. f.—pl. t. ion (arfer) The using of one's self; exercise, practice; habit, custom. v. a. To use one's self; to exercise.

Ymarferawl, a. (ymarfer) Self-exercising.

Ymarferiad, s. m. (ymarfer) A self-exercising.

Ymarferu, v. a. (ymarfer) To exercise one's self, to accustom one's self.

Ymarferwr, s. m.—pl. ymarferwyr (ymarfer—gwr) One who exercises himself.

Ymarfiad, s. m. (arfiad) A self-arming.

Ymarfodawl, a. (ymarfawd) Self-arming.

Ymarfodi, v. a. (ymarfawd) To deal blows mutually.

Ymarfogi, v. a. (arfogi) To arm one's self; mutually to arm.

Ymarfogiad, s. m. (arfogiad) An arming of one's self; a mutually arming.

Ymarfoll, s. m. (arfoll) A mutual reception; a becoming confederated.

Ymarfollu, v. a. (ymarfoll) To receive one another; to become mutually connected; to connect one's self; to become confederated.

Ar hyny pawb onaddynt a ymarfollynt hyd ar Eneas.

Upon that every one of them collected themselves together unto Eneas. H. Dared.

Ymarfolliad, s. m. (ymarfoll) A mutual reception; a becoming mutually connected; a becoming confederated.

Ymarfu, v. a. (arfu) To arm one's self.

Ymarial, s. m. (arial) A self-invigoration.

Ymarialiad, s. m. (ymarial) A self-invigorating; a becoming lively.

Ymarialu, v. a. (ymarial) To self-invigorate; to become full of animation.

Ymarialus, a. (ymarial) Self-invigorating.

Ymarlloes, s. m. (arlloes) A self-emptying. v. a. To empty one's self.

Ymarlloesi, v. a. (ymarlloes) To pour out one's self, to empty one's self.

Ymarlloesiad, s. m. (ymarlloes) A pouring out or emptying one's self.

Ymarllwys, s. m. (arllwys) A pouring out one's self. v. To empty one's self, to self-empty.

Ymarllwysawl, a. (ymarllwys) Self-emptying.

Ymarôad, s. m. (ymarôi) A keeping one's self in waiting; a bearing with; mutual forbearance.

Ymarôawl, a. (ymarôi) Keeping one's self in waiting; of a forbearing temper.

Ymarôi, v. a. (arôi) To bear with; to forbear.

Ymarosawl, a. (ymaraws) Apt to be waiting.

Ymarosi, v. a. (ymaraws) To keep one's self in waiting; to wait mutually.

Ymarosiad, s. m. (ymaraws) A keeping one's self in waiting; a mutually waiting.

Ymarôus, a. (ymarôi) Long-suffering, patient. 'Bydd ymarôus wrthyf,' be patient with me.

Ymarôwr, s. m.—pl. ymarôwyr (ymarôi—gwr) One who bears with.

Ymarswyd, s. m. (arswyd) A self-terrifying.

Ymarswydaw, v. a. (ymarswyd) To terrify one's self, to dread mutually.

Ymarswydawl, a. (ymarswyd) Self-terrifying.

Ymarswydiad, s. m. (ymarswyd) A self-terrifying

Ymarteithiad, s. m. (arteithiad) A self-torturing.

Ymarteithiaw, v. a. (arteithiaw) To self-torture.

Ymarteithiawl, a. (arteithiawl) Self-torturing.

Ymarteithiwr, s. m.—pl. ymarteithiwyr (arteithiwr) One who tortures himself.

Ymaruthraw, v. a. (aruthraw) To astonish one's self; mutually to astonish.

Ymaruthrawl, a. (aruthrawl) Tending to amaze one's self.

Ymaruthriad, s. m. (aruthriad) A making one's self amazed; a mutually astonishing.

Ymarwain, s. m. (arwain) A self conducting. v. a. To conduct one's self.

Hafren a——
Ddirwyn afonydd ereill;
Ac i'r mor, gwyr ymarwain,
Y rhed.——

Severn other rivers doth attract; and knowing how to conduct itself, runs to the sea. R. Fychan.

Ymarwar, s. m. (arwar) A calming one's self; a mutual assuagement. v. a. To calm one's self; to assuage one another.

Mal ymarwar Lludd a Llefelys.

Like the reconciliation of Lludd and Llevelys. Llywelyn Fardd.

Ymarwedd, s. m. (arwedd) Comportment, demeanour. v. a. To demean one's self, to behave.
Ymarweddawl, a. (ymarwedd) Self-demeaning.
Ymarweddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymarwedd) A demeaning one's self, a behaving; behaviour. Ymarweddiad da, good behaviour.
Ymarweddu, v. a. (ymarwedd) To self-demean.
Ymarweddwr, s. m.—pl. ymarweddwyr (ymarwedd—gwr) One who demeans himself.
Ymarweiniad, s. m. (ymarwain) A conducting or leading one's self.
Ymarweiniaw, v. a. (ymarwain) To lead one's self; mutually to lead.
Ymarweiniawl, a. (ymarwain) Self-leading.
Ymarwerthu, v. a. (arwerthu) To offer one's self to be bought, sold, or redeemed.

Archaf arch i'm Naf,
Y dewin doethaf,
Nid ymarwerthaf,
Heb ei wyrthiau.

I will implore a favour of my Lord, the Divine Being most wise, I will not offer to redeem myself, without his miracles.
Gr. ab yr Ynad Coch.

Ymaswyn, s. m. (aswyn) A self-excusing.

Twrf taerfaith goddaith gwaeanwyn
Teulu a thewlu a thewiwyn waewawr
A gwyr mawr ymaswyn.

Like the violently far-extending tumult of the conflagration of spring the tribe with a thick multitude bearing a thick grove of spears, and the mighty men mutually pledging.
Cynddelw, i'r argl. Rhys.

Ymaswynaw, v. a. (ymaswyn) To excuse one's self; to plead for one's self.
Ymaswynawl, a. (ymaswyn) Self-excusing.
Ymaswyniad, s. m. (ymaswyn) A self-excusing.
Ymateb, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ateb) A mutual answer.
Ymatebawl, a. (ymateb) Mutually answering.
Ymatebiad, s. m. (ymateb) A correspondence.
Ymatebu, v. a. (ymateb) To answer mutually.
Ymatgno, s. m. (ad—cno) A rumination.
Ymatgnôad, s. m. (ymatgno) A ruminating.
Ymatgnôi, v. a. (ymatgno) To ruminate.
Ymatgof, s. m. (ad—cof) A self-recollection.
Ymatgofiad, s. m. (ymatgof) A self-recollecting.
Ymatgofiaw, v. a. (ymatgof) To self-recollect.
Ymatgor, s. m. (atgor) A self-return. v. a. To return one's self.

Llu Prydain yn ymatgor.

The army of Britain returning itself back. Cynddelw.

Ymatgorawl, a. (ymatgor) A self-returning.
Ymatgudd, s. m. (ad—cudd) A self-revealing.
Ymatguddiad, s. m. (ymatgudd) A self-revealing.
Ymatguddiaw, v. a. (ymatgudd) To self-reveal.
Ymatguddiawl, a. (ymatgudd) Self-revealing.
Ymattreg, s. f. (attreg) A self-stopping; a mutual stop or demur.
Ymattregawl, a. (ymattreg) Self-stopping; mutually stopping.
Ymattregiad, s. m. (ymattreg) A self-stopping; a demurring with one's self; a mutually stopping.
Ymattregu, v. a. (ymattreg) To stop one's self; to stop one another; to demur mutually.
Ymattal, s. m. (attal) Self-restraint; continence. v. a. To restrain one's self; to live in abstinence, to contain one's self.
Ymattalgar, a. (ymattal) Self-restraining.
Ymattaliad, s. m. (ymattal) A self-restraining.
Ymattalrwydd, s. m. (ymattal) Abstemiousness.
Ymattalus, a. (ymattal) Self-restraining.
Ymawyddiad, s. m. (awyddiad) A filling one's self with desire.
Ymawyddu, v. a. (awyddu) To fill one's self with avidity or desire.
Ymbaffiad, s. m. (paffiad) A mutually boxing.
Ymbaffiaw, v. a. (paffiaw) To box mutually.
Ymbaffiwr, s. m.—pl. ymbaffiwyr (paffiwr) One who uses himself to boxing; a boxer.
Ymbaid, a. (paid) Self-refraining.
Ymbalfaliad, s. m. (palfaliad) A groping.
Ymbalfalu, v. a. (palfalu) To reach one's limbs in every direction; to grope out one's way.
Ymbalfalwr, s. m.—pl. ymbalfalwyr (palfalwr) One who gropes his way.
Ymbalffust, v. a. (ymbalf—ffust) To encounter. Gorfod ymbalffust a gofalu, obliged to strive and economize.
Ymball, s. m. (pall) A self-failure.
Ymballu, v. a. (ymball) To fall into error.
Ymbarchawl, a. (parchawl) Self-respecting.
Ymbarchiad, s. m. (parchiad) A self-respecting; a mutually respecting.
Ymbarchu, v. a. (parchu) To respect one's self; to respect mutually.
Ymbarotöad, s. m. (parotöad) A self-preparing.
Ymbarotöawl, a. (parotöawl) Self-preparing.
Ymbarotöi, v. a. (parotöi) To prepare one's self.

Deuparth taith ymbarotöi.

Two parts of a journey is to prepare one's self. Adage.

Ymbarotöi i gyhwrdd adfyd yw y ffordd nesaf at hawddfyd.

To prepare one's self to meet adversity is the nearest way to happiness. Adage.

Ymbawr, s. m. (pawr) The eating of pasture.
Ymbedawl, a. (pedawl) Being using one's feet; being ranged in order of battle.
Ymbediad, s. m. (pediad) A taking to one's feet; a ranging in order of battle.
Ymbedu, v. a. (pedu) To take to one's feet, to make use of the feet.

Gwedi darfod i'r Prydeiniaid o'r parth arall gwisgaw amdanaddynt ac ymbedu, nid ammodynt o pob parth newidiaw angeuolion ddyrnodau.

After the Britons on the other part had finished arming of themselves and putting themselves in array, they did not refrain from every side with exchanging deadly blows. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymbeidiad, s. m. (peidiad) A making one's self to cease; a desisting.
Ymbeidiaw, v. n. (peidiaw) To abstain, to desist.
Ymbeidiawl, a. (peidiawl) Abstaining, desisting.
Ymbellâad, s. m. (pellâad) A rendering one's self distant or far removed.
Ymbellâawl, a. (pellâawl) Tending to render one's self distant.
Ymbellâu, v. a. (pellâu) To render one's self distant; to be far removed.
Ymbenbleth, s. m. (penbleth) The distraction of one's own head.
Ymbenblethiad, s. m. (ymbenbleth) A distracting one's head.
Ymbenblethu, v. a. (ymbenbleth) To distract one's head.
Ymbennoethi, v. a. (pennoethi) To make one's head bare.
Ymbennoethiad, s. m. (pennoethiad) A making one's head bare.
Ymbesgi, v. a. (pesgi) To fatten one's self.
Ymbesgiad, s. m. (pesgiad) A fattening one's self.
Ymbil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pil) An entreaty, a petition. v. a. To entreat, to implore, to crave.
Ymbiliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymbil) An imploring.
Ymbiliaw, v. a. (ymbil) To implore, to crave.
Ymbiliwr, s. m.—pl. ymbiliwyr (ymbil—gwr) An implorer.
Ymbinciad, s. m. (pinciad) A trimming or smartening one's self.
Ymbinciaw, v. a. (pinciaw) To trim one's self. 'Hi a ymbinciai yn wych iawn,' she arrayed herself very finely.

Ymbinciawl, a. (pinciawl) Self-smartening.

Ymbinciwr, s. m.—pl. ymbinciwyr (pinciwr) One who smartens himself.

Ymblaid, s. f.—pl. ymbleidiau (plaid) A faction.

Tyn yr oes o tân yr iau echrysawl
A chroesion ymbleidiau.

Deliver the age from beneath a horrid yoke and adverse factions.
D. Thomas.

Ymbleidgar, a. (ymblaid) Apt to be factious.

Ymbleidgarwch, s. m. (ymbleidgar) Factiousness

Ymbleidiad, s. m. (ymblaid) An attaching one's self to a party or faction.

Ymbleidiaw, v. a. (ymblaid) To attach one's self to a party, to join a faction.

Ymbleidiawl, a. (ymblaid) Apt to join one's self to a party.

Ymbleidiwr, s. m. (ymblaid—gwr) One who attaches himself to a party.

Ymblethawl, a. (plethawl) Self-entwining.

Ymblethiad, s. m. (plethiad) A self-entwining.

Ymblethu, v. a. (plethu) To self-entwine.

Ymbluad, s. m. (pluad) A feathering itself.

Ymbluaw, v. a. (pluaw) To plume one's self.

Ymbluawl, a. (pluawl) Self-depluming.

Ymblufiaw, v. a. (plufiaw) To self-feather.

Mynag edn, miniawg ydwyd,
I b'le'r ai, ymblufiaw'r wyd?

Say bird, for thou art endowed with utterance, where art thou going, as thou art adjusting thy feather!
D. Ll. ab Ll. ab Gruffudd.

Ymblufiawl, a. (plufiawl) Self-feathering.

Ymblygawl, a. (plygawl) Self-bending.

Ymblygiad, s. m. (plygiad) A self-bending.

Ymblygu, v. a. (plygu) To bend one's self.

Ymblwyfaw, v. a. (plwyfaw) To attach one's self to a parish.

Ymblwyfiad, s. m. (plwyfiad) An attaching one's self to a parish.

Ymboenawl, a. (poenawl) Pains-taking.

Ymboeni, v. a. (poeni) To pain one's self.

Ymboerawl, a. (poerawl) Self-bespawling.

Ymboeri, v. a. (poeri) To bespawl one's self.

Ymboethawl, a. (poethawl) Self-heating.

Ymboethi, v. a. (poethi) To heat one's self.

Ymboethiad, s. m. (poethiad) A self-heating.

Ymborth, s. m. (porth) Sustenance, support.

Ymborth anwiredd yw aur ac arian.

The sustenance of iniquity are gold and silver. Adage.

Ymborthawl, a. (ymborth) Sustaining, supporting; alimentary.

Ymborthedig, a. (ymborth) Self-supported.

Ymborthi, v. a. (ymborth) To sustain one's self; to bear or carry one's self; to feed one's self; to feed.

Mair mad ymborthes ei beichiogi.

Mary well did make herself to bear her pregnancy. Meilyr.

Ar orwyddawd berth yd ymborthaf.

On splendid cavalcade I will be conveyed. Llywelyn Fardd.

A ddyco y god ymborthed o honi.

Who bears the bag let him feed himself out of it. Adage.

Ymborthiad, s. m. (ymborth) A sustaining one's self; a bearing one's self.

Ymborthianna, v. a. (ymborthiant) To seek self-support; to seek mutual support; to supply one another; to traffick.

Ymborthiannawl, a. (ymborthiant) Tending to self-support; mutually supporting.

Ymborthiannu, v. a. (ymborthiant) To afford self-support; to afford mutual support.

Ymborthiannus, a. (ymborthiant) Tending to self-support; tending to mutual support.

Ymborthiant, s. m. (ymborth) Self-supportation; mutual supportation.

Ymborthwr, s. m.—pl. ymborthwyr (ymborth—gwr) One who supports himself; a mutual supporter.

Ymbrawf, s. m. (prawf) A putting one's self to trial; experience; trial, essay; contest.

Am ddefodau a breiniau beirdd Ynys Prydain, mi a lwyr ymroddais i'r ymbrawf a allwn i rywfaint o les.

With respect to the customs and privileges of the bards of the Isle of Britain, I gave myself entirely to the trial whether I could afford some degree of benefit. Ed. Dafydd.

Ymbrestledd, s. m. (prestledd) The habit of giving mutual repartees.

Ymbrestliad, s. m. (prestliad) A mutually giving repartees.

Ymbrestlu, v. a. (prestlu) To repartee mutually.

Ymbriodawl, a. (priodawl) Tending mutually to marriage.

Ymbriodi, v. a. (priodi) To marry one's self; to become married, to intermarry.

Ymbrofawl, a. (ymbrawf) Self-trying.

Ymbrofedig, a. (ymbrawf) Being self- tried; being mutually tried.

Ymbrofi, v. a. (ymbrawf) To try together; to encounter; to vie; to try one's self; to experience.

Ni chawsan'—
Eithyr gwarth a gwrthryn wrth ymbrofi.

They obtained nothing but disgrace and repulse in contesting.
Ll. P. Moch.

Trefred i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofan'
Tros heol ysgol esgar boethfan.

The habitation of reptiles, where they will experience a fell course of ascent of a divided region of heat. Cotmodyn.

Dydd prawf yn y diffaith; yn y lle yr ymbrofynt eich tadau.

The day of trial in the wilderness; in the place where your fathers entered into temptation. D. Ddu o Hiraddug.

Ymbrofiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymbrawf) A mutually trying; a contesting; a trying one's self; an experiencing.

Ymbrofwr, s. m.—pl. ymbrofwyr (ymbrawf—gwr) One who mutually tries; a contester; one who tries himself.

Ymbryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pryd) The using of one's self to seasons; a fast.

Ymbrydiad, s. m. (ymbryd) A using one's self to seasons; a fasting.

Ymbrydiaw, v. a. (ymbryd) To use one's self to stated times or seasons; to observe seasons; to fast.

Ymbrydiawl, a. (ymbryd) Apt to use one's self to seasons; fasting.

Ymbrydiwr, s. m.—pl. ymbrydiwyr (ymbryd—gwr) One who observeth seasons; a faster.

Ymbryn, s. m. (pryn) Self-redemption.

Ymbrynawl, a. (ymbryn) Self-redeeming.

Ymbryniad, s. m. (ymbryn) A self-redeeming.

Ymbrynu, v. a. (ymbryn) To redeem one's self.

Os amddiffynwr a oddiwedd—cosber ef trwy garchar, neu ymbryned.

If it be the defendant who is cast, let him be punished by imprisonment, or let him redeem himself. Dyddfawd Rhuddlan.

Ymbrynwr, s. m.—pl. ymbrynwyr (ymbryn—gwr) One who redeems himself.

Ymbrysuraw, v. a. (prysuraw) To self-hasten.

Ymbrysurawl, a. (prysurawl) Self-hastening.

Ymbrysurdeb, s. m. (prysurdeb) A self-hastening.

Ymbrysuriad, s. m. (prysuriad) A hastening one's self.

Ymbrysurwr, s. m.—pl. ymbrysurwyr (prysurwr) One who hasteneth himself.

Ymburaw, v. a. (puraw) To purify one's self.

Ebai angeu, Tu draw i'r wal o'th ol y mae y purdan; canys yn dy fywyd y dylasit ymburaw.

Said a death, On the other side of the wall behind thee is the purgatory; for in thy life time thou shouldest purify thyself. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymburawl, a. (purawl) Self-purifying.

Ymburiad, s. m. (puriad) A self-purification.

Ymburwr, s. m.—pl. ymburwyr (purwr) One who purifies himself.

Ymbwyad, s. m. (pwyad) A self-buffeting.

Dy gyfoeth peunoeth, poen ymbwyad,
A gollais, i drais, drosedd ffysgiad.

Thy property, the infliction to one's self of pain, nightly I have lost, to rapine, the stroller's crime. Trahaiarn Brydydd Mawr.

Ymbwyaw, v. a. (pwyaw) To buffet one's self.

Ymbwyawl, a. (pwyawl) Self-buffeting.

Ymbwyll, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pwyll) Consideration, concern.

Addysg ffol ei ymbrawf; addysg doeth ei ymbwyll.

The instruction of the fool his experience; the instruction of the wise his consideration. Adage.

Duw Ysbryd Glan a folir—am ein darwedd i fywyd—a ffydd ddiffuant yn mhob ymbwyll yn Nghrist Iesu.

God the Holy Spirit is to be praised, for his leading us into life and unerring faith in every concern in Christ Jesus. Barddas.

Ymbwyllaw, v. a. (ymbwyll) To consider with one's self; to have consideration; to be concerned.

Ymbwyllgar, a. (ymbwyll) Considerate, rational.

Ymbwylliad, s. m. (ymbwyll) A considering with one's self; a concerning one's self.

Ymbwyllus, a. (ymbwyll) Apt to reason with one's self; considerate.

Ymbwyllwr, s. m. (ymbwyll—gwr) One who considereth with himself.

Ymbwyth, s. m. (pwyth) Self-exertion.

Ymbwythaw, v. a. (ymbwyth) To exert one's self; to vie mutually.

Am bethau teg ymbwythwn;
Am gig hydd, a magu cwn.

For fair things we will mutually strive; for the flesh of the stag, and the rearing of dogs. Llawdden.

Ymbwythawl, a. (ymbwyth) Self-exerting; mutually vieing.

Ymbwythiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymbwyth) An exerting of one's self; a mutual competition.

Ymbwys, s. m. (pwys) A self-pressure.

Ymbwysaw, v. a. (ymbwys) To weigh one's self; to cause one's self to weigh or incline; to press mutually.

Ymbwysawl, a. (ymbwys) Self-pressing; mutually pressing.

Ymbwysiad, s. m. (ymbwys) A weighing one's self; a self-pressing; a mutually pressing.

Ymbyd, s. m. (pyd) A self-danger.

Ymbydiad, s. m. (ymbyd) A self-endangering.

Ymbydiaw, v. a. (ymbyd) To endanger one's self

Ymbydiawl, a. (ymbyd) Self-endangering.

Ymbydiwr, s. m.—pl. ymbydiwyr (ymbyd—gwr) One who endangers himself.

Ymbyliad, s. m. (pyliad) A self-blunting.

Ymbylu, v. a. (pylu) To become self-blunted.

Ymchwaen, s. f. (chwaen) A self-yielding to chance.

Ymchwaenawl, a. (ymchwaen) Tending to yield one's self to chance.

Ymchwaeniad, s. m. (ymchwaen) A consigning one's self to chance.

Ymchwaenu, v. a. (ymchwaen) To consign one's self to chance.

Ymchwal, s. f. (chwal) A spread of one's self.

Ymchwaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymchwal) A self-spreading; a self-dispersion.

Ymchwalu, v. a. (ymchwal) To spread one's self.

Ymchwalwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwalwyr (ymchwal—gwr) One who spreads himself.

Ymchwant, s. m. (chwant) That yields to lust.

Ymchwanta, v. a. (ymchwant) To yield one's self to lust or desire.

Ymchwantiad, s. m. (ymchwant) A self-yielding to lust, a giving one's self to covet.

Ymchwedleua, v. (chwedleua) To chat together.

Ymchwedleuad, s. m. (chwedleua) Confabulation

Ymchwedleuaw, v. a. (chwedleuaw) To chat together.

Ymchwedleuawl, a. (chwedleua) Confabulatory.

Ymchwedliad, s. m. (chwedliad) A confabulation

Ymchwedlu, v. a. (chwedlu) To confabulate, to chat together.

Ymchwedlwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwedlwyr (chwedlwr) A confabulator.

Ymchweiliad, s. m.—pl. ymchweiliaid (ymchwal) One that returns or causes a return.

Daeth esgyrn gwr chwyrn ei ymchweilion;
Ymchweiliad tromgad, trwm ei gofion!

The bones of a hero of rapid revertings are come: the cause of the return of the heavy battle, sad the recollections of him! D. Benfras, i Lywelyn III.

Ymchwel, s. f. (chwel) A return; a reverse.

Ymchweladwy, a. (ymchwel) Reversible.

Ymchweledig, a. (ymchwel) Reversed.

Ymchweledigaeth, s. m. (ymchwel) Conversion.

Ymchweliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymchwel) Conversion

Ymchwelwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwelwyr (ymchwel—gwr) One who returns, a reverter; a converter

Ymchwelyd, v. a. (ymchwel) To return, to revert; to convert; to turn upside down, to overturn, to reverse. 'Ymchwelyd brawd,' to reverse a judgment.

Pwybynag a fyno yn llwyr gwybod breinniau y ffyrdd hyny, ceisied ef cyfreithiau Dyfnwal Moelmud, y rhai a ymchwelws Gildas o Gymmraeg yn Lladin.

Whosoever would completely know the privileges of those roads, let him procure the laws of Dyvnwal Moelmud, the which Gildas translated out of Welsh into Latin. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymchwerwad, s. m. (chwerwad) An embittering one's self; a mutually exasperating.

Ymchwerwi, v. a. (chwerwi) To self-embitter; to become exasperated; mutually to exasperate.

Ymchwiliad, s. m. (chwiliad) A self-searching.

Ymchwiliaw, v. a. (chwiliaw) To search one's self.

Ymchwilied, v. a. (chwilied) To self-scrutinize.

Ymchwiliwr, s. m.—pl. ymchwiliwyr (chwiliwr) One who searches himself.

Ymchwydd, s. m. (chwydd) A swelling of one's self.

Tri pheth mawr o ymchwydd ymborth ar waed: gele, borea, a rhyfelwr.

Three things great with self-swelling by feeding on blood: a leech, a tike, and a warrior. Adage.

Ymchwyddaw, v. a. (ymchwydd) To self-swell.

Ymchwyddawl, a. (ymchwydd) Self-swelling.

Ymchwyddedig, a. (ymchwydd) Self-inflated.

Beth er dawed o honynt atom, ag ymchwyddedig eiriau gwagedd, a dderbyniwn ni hwynt er mwyn hyny?

What, if they should come to us, with the pompous words of vanity, shall we receive them in consideration of that? Ier. Owain.

Ymchwyddiad, s. m. (ymchwydd) A self-puffing.

Ymchwyth, s. m. (chwyth) A self-blowing.

Ymchwythiad, s. m. (ymchwyth) Self-inflation.

Ymda, v. a. (ta) To be walking about.

Or ymdâa gwraig ei hunan.——

If a woman perambulates by herself. Welsh Laws.

Ymdacliad, s. m. (tacliad) A self-trimming.
Ymdaclu, v. a. (taclu) To trim one's self.
Ymdaclusaw, v. a. (taclusaw) To make one's self tidy; to trim one's self.
Ymdaclusiad, s. m. (taclusiad) A making one's self tidy.
Ymdacluswr, s. m.—pl. ymdacluswyr (tacluswr) One who makes himself tidy.
Ymdaenawl, a. (taenawl) Self-expanding.
Ymdaeniad, s. m. (taeniad) Self-expansion.
Ymdaenu, v. a. (taenu) To expand one's self.
Ymdaenwr, s. m.—pl. ymdaenwyr (taenwr) One who expands or spreads himself.
Ymdaerawl, a. (taerawl) Mutually disputing.
Ymdaeriad, s. m. (taeriad) A mutually disputing.
Ymdaeru, v. a. (taeru) To dispute together.

O ymdaeru i ymdaraw, o eiriau i arfau.

From mutual dispute to mutual blows, from words to arms.
Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymdaerwr, s. m.—pl. ymdaerwyr (taerwr) One given to disputation; a disputer.
Ymdafliad, s. m. (tafliad) A throwing one's self; a mutually throwing.
Ymdaflu, v. a. (taflu) To throw one's self; to throw mutually. Ymdaflu ag afalau dur, to throw at one another with iron balls, a kind of ancient game.
Ymdafodi, s. m. (tafodi) A wrangling. v. a. To wrangle together.

Tafawd ni chel ei ynl,
Gwaethaf dysg ymdafodi,
'Nid hwyr lle hawdd difriedi.

A tongue that doth not conceal its energy, the worst of acquirement is contention, it will not be long but it will easily do mischief.
Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Ymdafodiad, s. m. (tafodiad) A wrangling together.
Ymdafodwr, s. m.—pl. ymdafodwyr (tafodwr) One given to wrangling.
Ymdagelliad, s. m. (tagelliad) A forming to one's self a double chin; a bridling up one's self.
Ymdagellu, v. a. (tagellu) To bridle up one's chin.
Ymdaith, s. f.—pl. ymdeithiau (taith) A journey. v. a. To journey, to travel; to go, to walk.

Y barddorion a'r gwyr wrth gerdd a aynt ar ymdaith i glera, o dy Iestyn ab Gwrgant i dy Rhys fab Tudyr: a Rhys a oedd hael wrthynt.

The bards and the musicians went on a journey to exercise minstrelsy, from the house of Iestyn son of Gwrgant to the house of Rhys son of Tudyr: and Rhys was liberal to them.
Caradawg o Lan Carvan.

Ymdalpu, v. a. (talpu) To clod together.
Ymdan, s. m. (tan) A self-spreading. v. a. To spread one's self; to mount a horse.
Ymdanawl, a. (ymdan) Self-spreading.
Ymdaniad, s. m. (ymdan) A self-spreading.
Ymdanu, v. a. (ymdan) To spread one's self.
Ymdanc, s. m. (tanc) Mutual peace or amity.
Ymdaraw, v. a. (taraw) To strike mutually; to keep striking, or warding off blows; to fight it out, or to shift for one's self. Pa fodd yr wyt yn ymdaraw? How dost thou battle it out: How goes it with thee? Mi ymdarawaf yn lew, I shall get through very well.

Poni welwch chwi'r derw yn ymdaraw!

See you not the oaks striking together! Cynddelw.

Nid oedd farchawg, er ei gryfed, a feiddiai ymdaraw neu ymdrech ag ef.

There was not a knight, let him be ever so strong, who would dare to combat or to contend with him.
H. Bown—Mabinogion.

Ymdarawiad, s. m. (ymdaraw) A striking mutually; a warding off blows; a combating; a shifting for one's self.
Ymdarawus, a. (ymdaraw) Notable in shifting for one's self.
Ymdawdd, s. m. (tawdd) A self-dissolving.
Ymdaweliad, s. m. (taweliad) A self-assuaging.
Ymdawelu, v. a. (tawelu) To calm one's self; to grow calm; to recover from passion.
Ymdawr, s. m. (tawr) The being concerned.

Nerth penteulu ei ymdawr.

The strength of the patron of a family is his anxious care.
Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymdecâad, s. m. (ymdecâu) A making one's self fair; a self-beautifying.
Ymdecâawl, a. (ymdecâu) Tending to make one's self fair.
Ymdecâu, v. a. (tecâu) To self-beautify.
Ymdebygiad, s. m. (tebygiad) A making one's self similar.
Ymdebygu, v. a. (tebygu) To make one's self like.

Mewn tri pheth ydd ymdebyga dyn i Ddow: cyfiawnder, gwybodau, a thrugaredd.

In three things man doth make himself like God: righteousness, knowledge, and mercy. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Ymdeg, s. m. (teg) A self-adorning. a. Of native fairness.

Mal y peilliant ymdeg.

Like the flower of native beauty. Adage.

Ymdeimlaw, v. a. (teimlaw) To feel one's self.
Ymdeimliad, s. m. (teimliad) A self-feeling.
Ymdeithiad, s.m.—pl. t. au (ymdaith) A travelling
Ymdeithiaw, v. a. (ymdaith) To travel, to journey
Ymdeithiawg, a. (ymdaith) Travelling, journeying
Ymdeithiawl, a. (ymdaith) Travelling, journeying.
Ymdeithig, a. (ymdaith) Ready for travelling.

Lluddedig eu hoelion, ymdeithig eu hafwyn,
Gwlad wehyn fargodion.

Tired out their nails, ready for journeying their rein, the borderers of a ravaging country. Taliesin.

Ymdeithigrwydd, s. m. (ymdeithig) Aptness for travelling.
Ymdeithiocâad, s. m. (ymdeithiawg) A preparing one's self for travelling; a becoming wayfaring.
Ymdeithiocâawl, a. (ymdeithiawg) Tending to become wayfaring.
Ymdeithiocâu, v. a. (ymdeithiawg) To prepare one's self for travelling; to become wayfaring.
Ymdeithiwr, s. m.—pl. ymdeithiwyr (ymdaith—gwr) A traveller, a sojourner.
Ymdeithwastad, a. (ymdaith—gwastad) Of an even pace.
Ymdeithydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymdaith) A traveller, a sojourner.
Ymdeneuâad, s. m. (ymdeneuâu) A self-attenuation; a self-rarefying.
Ymdeneuâawl, a. (ymdeneuâu) Self-rarefying.
Ymdeneuâu, v. a. (teneuâu) To self-attenuate; to self-rarefy.
Ymderfyniad, s. m. (terfyniad) A mutually limiting; a self-limiting.
Ymderfynu, v. a. (terfynu) To limit mutually; to fix a limit to one's self.
Ymderfysgawl, a. (terfysgawl) Apt to put one's self in a tumult; mutually tumultuous.
Ymderfysgiad, s. m. (terfysgiad) A putting one's self in a tumult; a becoming agitated; a raising a tumult together.
Ymderfysgu, v. a. (terfysgu) To put one's self in a tumult; to raise a tumult together.
Ymderiad, s. m. (teriad) A self-purifying.
Ymderu, v. a. (teru) To self-purify.
Ymdesach, s. m. (tesach) A wanton dalliance. v. a. To give up one's self to wantonness.

Ymdesiad, s. m. (tesiad) A basking one's self in the sun.
Ymdesu, v. a. (tesu) To bask one's self in the sun.
Ymdewâad, s. m. (tewâad) A making one's self thick; a mutually thickening.
Ymdewâawl, a. (tewâawl) Self-thickening.
Ymdewâu, v. a. (tewâu) To self-thicken.
Ymdiraw, v. a. (tiraw) To stretch out one's self; to bask one's self; to enjoy one's self.

Mae deu-wres ym i'm diro,
Ei goed o'r glyn gyda'r glo.

There are two warmths for me to bask myself, his wood from the dingle with the coal. Guto y Glyn.

Ymdirioni, v. a. (tirioni) To make one's self pleasing; to become pleasing; to become mutually pleasing.

Wrth ym mron, drwy 'mdirioni,
Yn fy mywyd un a mi.

Close at my breast, by becoming mutually pleasing, through my life one with me. Edm. Prys.

Ymdirioniad, s. m. (tirioniad) A becoming mutually pleasing.
Ymdlysiad, s. m. (tlysiad) A self-beautifying.
Ymdlysu, v. a. (tlysu) To make one's self smart or pretty; to smug one's self up.
Ymdo, s. m. (to) A self-covering, a self-sheltering.
Ymdöad, s. m. (ymdo) A covering one's self.
Ymdoddawl, a. (ymdawdd) Self-dissolving.
Ymdoddi, v. a. (ymdawdd) To self-dissolve.
Ymdoddiad, s. m. (ymdawdd) To self-dissolve.
Ymdoi, v. a. (ymdo) To cover one's self.
Ymdolciad, s. m. (tolciad) A self-butting, or self-punching; a mutually butting.
Ymdolciaw, v. a. (tolciaw) To punch one's self; to butt one another.
Ymdoliad, s. m. (toliad) A becoming more sparing of one's self.
Ymdoliaw, v. a. (toliaw) To be more sparing of one's self; to spare one's self.

Cenawon Cymmry
Cunlaid a'i deffry
Cenedl a'i dyly,
Nid ymdolia.

The whelps of the Welsh are leaders who will rouse him, a generation that claims him, he will not reserve himself. D. Benfras, i Lywelyn III.

Ymdomi, v. a. (tomi) To bemire one's self.
Ymdomiad, s. m. (tomiad) A self-bemiring.
Ymdon, s. f. (ton) A self-breaking in waves.

Dar a dyfwys ar dir pen gallt
Ger ymdon mor Hafren:
Gwae wr na bai digon hen!

An oak did grow on the land on the cliff top by the self-spraying of the Severn sea: woe to the man that he should not be old enough. Robert T. Normandi.

Ymdòni, v. n. (ymdon) To break out in waves.
Ymdòniad, s. m. (ymdon) A breaking out in waves.
Ymdorchawl, a. (torchawl) To self-roll or coil.
Ymdorchi, v. a. (torchi) To roll one's self; to self-coil; to become entwined.
Ymdorchiad, s. m. (torchiad) A self-coiling.
Ymdordain, s. m. (tordain) A lolling. v. a. To loll, to stretch one's self along.
Ymdordynawl, a. (tordynawl) Self-gorging.
Ymdordyniad, s. m. (tordyniad) A gorging.
Ymdordynu, v. a. (tordynu) To self gorge.
Ymdorf, s. f. (torf) A thronging together.
Ymdorfawl, a. (ymdorf) Mutually thronging.
Ymdorfiad, s. m. (ymdorf) A jointly thronging.
Ymdorfu, v. a. (ymdorf) To throng mutually.
Ymdorfynygliad, s. m. (torfynygliad) A breaking one's neck; a throwing one's self headlong; a prostrating one's self.
Ymdorfynyglu, v. a. (torfynyglu) To break one's own neck; a throwing one's self headlong; a prostrating one's self.

Ar y bylchau a'r pyrth ydd ymdorfynyglynt i gyfarch gwell.

On the battlements and the gates they had prostrated themselves to make a salutation. H. Geraint—Mabinogion.

Ymdòri, v. a. (tòri) To be cutting one's self.

Nid ymdorir, ac nid ymfoelir drostynt.

Men shall not cut themselves, and shall not make themselves bald for them. Jeremi 16. 6.

Ymdòriad, s. m. (tòriad) To break one's self; to self-break; to become bursted; disruption.
Ymdorlwythaw, v. a. (torlwythaw) To self-gorge.

Ymdorlwythant â bwyd a diawd, ac yno porthant ei trachwantau.

They glut themselves, with victuals and drink, and then they satisfy their lusts. R. Vychan, Ym. Duwioldeb.

Ymdorlwythawl, a. (torlwythawl) Self-gorging.
Ymdorlwythiad, s. m. (torlwythiad) A self-gorging
Ymdrafael, s. f. (trafael) A mutual toiling.

Gwnaeth draillif gwyar uch Trallwng Elfael,
Pan fu ymdrafael drud ac erddrwng.

He caused a vast torrent of gore above Trallwng Elvael, when the mutual toiling bold and imminent took place. E. ab M. Rhaswd.

Ymdrafaeliad, s. m. (ymdrafael) A mutually toiling
Ymdrafawd, s. f. (trafawd) A mutual stirring; a bustling of one's self.
Ymdrafodawl, a. (ymdrafawd) Mutually stirring or bustling; self-bustling.
Ymdrafodi, v. a. (ymdrafawd) To make a mutual stir; to strive together; to conflict.

Doe'r pryd hwn yr oeddwn i
Drwy fedw yn ymdrafodi.

Yesterday at this time I was through birches hurrying myself. Llawdden.

Ymdrafodiad, s. m. ymdrafawd) A making a mutual stir; a striving together, a hurrying of one's self.
Ymdrafodwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrafodwyr (ymdrafawd—gwr) A mutual stirrer; a self-hurrier.
Ymdrafferth, s. f.—pl. t. ion (trafferth) A self-bustling.
Ymdrafferthawl, a. (ymdrafferth) Self-bustling.
Ymdrafferthiad, s. m. (ymdrafferth) A busying one's self.
Ymdrafferthu, v. a. (ymdrafferth) To busy one's self; mutually to bustle.
Ymdrafferthus, a. (ymdrafferth) Self-busying.
Ymdrafferthwr, s. m. (ymdrafferth—gwr) One who is full of bustle.
Ymdraffull, s. m. (traffull) A self-bustling.
Ymdraffulliad, s. m. (ymdraffull) A mutually bustling; a busying one's self.
Ymdraffulliaw, v. a. (ymdraffull) To keep one's self in a bustle; to bustle mutually.
Ymdraffulliwr, s. m.—pl. ymdraffulliwyr (ymdraffull—gwr) One who bustles greatly.
Ymdraigl, s. f. (traigl) A mutual turn; a self-turning.
Ymdrallodawl, a. (trallodawl) Mutually afflicting; self-vexing.
Ymdrallodi, v. a. (trallodi) To afflict mutually; to afflict one's self.
Ymdrallodiad, s. m. (trallodiad) A mutually afflicting; a self-afflicting.
Ymdrallodwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrallodwyr (trallodwr) A self-afflicter.
Ymdramwy, s. m. (tramwy) A mutual resorting; being using one's self to resort.
Ymdramwyad, s. m. (ymdramwy) A mutually resorting; a being resorting.

Ymdramwyaw, v. a. (ymdramwy) To resort mutually; to use one's self to resorting.

Ymdraphwyll, s. m. (traphwyll) A mutual impulsion; an opposing of one's self. v.a. To oppugn mutually; to oppose one's self.

> Dylid wrth senu y drwg ei dreiglaw yn llwyr o galon ac arfer dyn, yn ymdraphwyll a diawl.
>
> In rebuking evil it were proper to expel it utterly from the heart and the habit of man, in opposing one's self to the devil. Barddas.

Ymdras, s. f. (tras) Mutual relationship.

Ymdrasawl, a. (ymdras) Of joint relationship.

Ymdrasiad, s. m. (ymdras) A forming of mutual relationship; a becoming related.

Ymdrasu, v. a. (ymdras) To form mutual relationship; to become related.

Ymdrech, s. m. (trech) A mutual struggle.

> Archasai Brutus ei gadw i weled cadwent ac ymdrech rhyngddo ef a Corineus.
>
> Brutus had commanded him to be kept in order to see a combat and mutual striving between him and Corineus. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymdrechawl, a. (ymdrech) Mutually struggling.

Ymdrechfa, s. f. (ymdrech) A place of mutual strife; a contest.

> Nid oes i ni ddim i'w weled—yn nghreulondeb yr ymdrechfa.
>
> There is nothing for us to behold in the cruelty of the contest. C. Edwards, H. y Ffydd.

Ymdrechiad, s. m. (ymdrech) A jointly struggling.

Ymdrechu, v. a. (ymdrech) To mutually strive.

> Gorlleiaw gwaed am draed a ymdrychant,
> Amdrychion pan ymdrechasant.
>
> Blood will overflow round the feet of those who strive together, they were mangled ones when they strove together. Ll. P. Moch.

Ymdrechus, a. (ymdrech) Given to mutual strife.

Ymdrechwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrechwyr (ymdrech—gwr) A mutual striver or struggler.

Ymdrechydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymdrech) A mutual striver or struggler.

Ymdrefn, s. f. (trefn) A self-ordering.

Ymdrefnawl, a. (ymdrefn) Self-ordering.

Ymdrefniad, s. m. (ymdrefn) A self-ordering.

Ymdrefnu, v. a. (ymdrefn) To put one's self in order.

Ymdrefnwr, s. m. (ymdrefn—gwr) One who puts himself in order.

Ymdreidiad, s. m. (treidiad) An exercising one's self in walking; perambulation.

Ymdreidiaw, v. a. (treidiaw) To exercise one's self in walking.

> Wedi mynych ymdreidiaw o'r niferoedd o'r eglwys pwy gilydd, i wrandaw amryfal gywyddollaethau—dawed i'r llys a crugynt.
>
> After frequently exercising themselves in walking of the companies from one church to another, to hear various musical compositions, they came to the court. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymdreidiawl, a. (treidiawl) Being exercising one's self in walking; perambulatory.

Ymdreiddiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (treiddiad) A thrusting one's self through.

Ymdreiddiaw, v. a. (treiddiaw) To self-penetrate.

Ymdreiddiawl, a. (treiddiawl) Mutually penetrating; self-thrusting.

Ymdreiglaw, v. a. (traigl) To roll one's self.

Ymdreiglfa, s. f. (treiglfa) A place for rolling one's self in.

Ymdreigliad, s. m. (treigliad) A self-rolling.

Ymdreuliad, s. m. (treuliad) A self-consuming.

Ymdreuliaw, v. a. (treuliaw) To self-consume.

Ymdrin, s. m. (trin) Mutual striving; contention; variance; the act of busying one's self. v. a. To strive mutually; to busy one's self.

Ymdriniad, s. m. (ymdrin) A mutually striving; a busying one's self.

Ymdriniaeth, s. m. (ymdrin) Mutual strife; a self-busying.

Ymdro, s. m. (tro) A self-turning; self-course.

> Yn ymi udd lwysrudd, cas agro,
> Ffyddlawg, ffodiawg ei ymdro.
>
> To me belongs a chief of pleasing countenance, hating melancholy, faithful, fortunate in his career. Phylip Brydydd, i Rys Gryg.

Ymdröad, s. m. (ymdro) A turning one's self about; a delaying.

Ymdröawl, a. (ymdro) Self-turning about.

Ymdroch, s. m. (troch) A self-immersion.

Ymdrochawl, a. (ymdroch) Self-immersing.

Ymdrochi, v. a. (ymdroch) To bathe one's self; to plunge one's self in; to wallow.

Ymdrochiad, s. m. (ymdroch) A bathing one's self.

Ymdroi, v. a. (ymdro) To turn one's self; to delay; to loiter.

Ymdrws, s. m. (trws) A self-attiring.

Ymdrwsiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymdrws) A self-arraying; a dressing one's self.

Ymdrwsiadu, v. a. (ymdrwsiad) To self-trim.

Ymdrwsiaw, v. a. (ymdrws) To self-trim.

> Deuparth pryd ymdrwsiaw.
>
> Two thirds of appearance is to dress one's self. Adage.

Ymdrwsiawl, a. (ymdrws) Self-attiring.

Ymdrwsiwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrwsiwyr (ymdrws—gwr) A self-arrayer.

Ymdrybaeddawl, a. (trybaeddawl) Self-wallowing; mutually wallowing.

Ymdrybaeddiad, s. m. (trybaeddiad) A self-wallowing; mutually wallowing.

Ymdrybaeddu, v. a. (trybaeddu) To wallow, or to welter; to wallow mutually.

Ymdryboli, v. a. (tryboli) To self-wallow; to wallow mutually.

Ymdryboliad, s. m. (tryboliad) A wallowing one's self; a mutually wallowing.

Ymdrychawl, a. (trychawl) Mutually cutting.

Ymdrychiad, s. m. (trychiad) A mutually cutting.

Ymdrychu, v. a. (trychu) To cut mutually.

> Moch daw rhwng Saeson rhuthant ymdrychu.
>
> Speedily will come between Saxons the onset of mutual wounding. Taliesin.

Ymdryfoliad, s. m. (tryfoliad) Self-gorging.

Ymdryfoliaw, v. a. (tryfoliaw) To self-gorge.

Ymdryfoliwr, s. m.—pl. ymdryfoliwyr (tryfoliwr) One who gorges himself.

Ymdrymâad, s. m. (trymâad) A rendering one's self heavy; a becoming heavy.

Ymdrymâawl, a. (trymâawl) Tending to grow or become heavy.

Ymdrymâu, v. a. (trymâu) To become heavy.

> Mae pechodau dynion yn ymgynnyddu, ac yn ymdrymau, pan ydynt yn esgeulusaw gosodedigaethau cyhoeddus Duw.
>
> The sins of men are increasing, and becoming heavy, when they are neglecting the public institutions of God. Ier. Owain.

Ymdrythylliad, s. m. (trythylliad) A mutually enjoying; a self-enjoying.

Ymdrythyllu, v. a. (trythyllu) To enjoy mutually; to enjoy one's self.

Ymdrythyllwch, s. m. (trythyllwch) Mutual enjoyment; self-enjoyment.

Ymdrythyllwr, s. m.—pl. ymdrythyllwyr (trythyllwr) A self-enjoyer.

Ymdudd, s. m. (tudd) A self-envelopement.

Ymduddaw, v. a. (ymdudd) To envelope mutually; to envelop one's self, to self-envelope.

Ymduddawl, a. (ymdudd) Self-enveloping.

Ymduddiad, s. m. (ymdudd) A self-enveloping.
Ymdueddawl, a. (tueddawl) Self-inclining; apt to incline mutually.
Ymdueddiad, s. m. (tueddiad) A self-inclining; mutual inclination.
Ymdueddoli, v. a. (ymdueddawl) To incline one's self; to incline mutually.
Ymdueddu, v. a. (tueddu) To make one's self partial; to become partial, to incline one's self; to incline mutually.
Ymdueddwr, s. m.—pl. ymdueddwyr (tueddwr) One who inclines himself.
Ymdum, s. m.—pl. t. au (tum) A mutual bend; a self-bending.
Ymdumiad, s. m. (ymdum) A mutually bending; a bending one's self.
Ymdumiaw, v. a. (ymdum) To bend mutually; to bend or to mould one's self.
Ymdumiawl, a. (ymdum) Mutually bending into shape; self-bending.
Ymdwng, s. m. (twng) Mutual swearing.
Ymdwr, s. m. (twr) A self-heaping.
Ymdwyll, s. m. (twyll) Mutual deceit; self-deception.
Ymdwyllaw, v. a. (ymdwyll) To deceive mutually; to deceive one's self.
Ymdwylliad, s. m. (ymdwyll) A mutually deceiving; self-deception.
Ymdwymaw, v. a. (twymaw) To warm one's self.
Ymdwymiad, s. m. (twymiad) A self-warming.
Ymdwymnaw, v. a. (twymnaw) To self-warm.
Ymdwymniad, s. m. (twymniad) A warming of one's self.
Ymdwysgaw, v. a. (twysgaw) To limit mutually; to limit one's self.
Ymdwysgawl, a. (twysgawl) Mutually limiting; self-limiting.
Ymdwysgiad, s. m. (twysgiad) A mutually determining or limiting; a self-limiting.
Ymdwyth, s. m. (twyth) A mutual spring, aptness, or pliancy; a self-springing.
Ymdwythaw, v. a. (ymdwyth) To spring mutually; to spring one's self.
Ymdwythiad, s. m. (ymdwyth) A springing mutually; a self-springing.
Ymdŷad, s. m. (tŷad) A housing one's self.
Ymdŷaw, v. a. (tŷaw) To house one's self.
Ymdyn, s. m. (tyn) A mutual pull; contention.
Ymdynawl, a. (ymdyn) Mutually pulling.
Ymdyniad, s. m. (ymdyn) A mutually pulling; a contending, a striving mutually.
Ymdynu, v. a. (ymdyn) To pull or drag one another; to strive together, to contend. 'Ymdynu ar draws tanau,' to pull one another across fires.
Ymdynwr, s. m.—pl. ymdynwyr (ymdyn—gwr) One who pulls mutually; a contender.
Ymdyngawl, a. (ymdwng) Mutually swearing one's self.
Ymdynged, s. f. (ymdwng) A state of being mutually devoted; self-devotion.
Ymdyngedawl, a. (ymdynged) Mutually adjuring, self-devoting.
Ymdyngediad, s. m. (ymdynged) A mutually adjuring; a self-devoting.
Ymdyngedu, v. a. (ymdynged) To adjure mutually; to pledge one's self.
Ymdyngiad, s. m. (ymdwng) A mutually swearing; a swearing one's self.
Ymdyngu, v. a. (ymdwng) To swear mutually; to plight one's troth.

Bran a gant o frig gwydd
Yn nghlyw holl adar coedydd;
Doeth a ymdyng a Dofydd.

A crow sang from the top of the trees, in the hearing of all the birds of the woods: the wise unites himself with the Creator.
Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymdyrawl, a. (ymdwr) Mutually thronging.
Ymdyriad, s. m. (ymdwr) A jointly thronging.
Ymdyru, v. a. (ymdwr) To throng together.
Ymdystiaw, v. a. (tystiaw) To witness mutually; to self-testify.
Ymdystiawl, a. (tystiawl) Mutually testifying; self-witnessing.
Ymdywylliad, s. m. (tywylliad) A mutually darkening; a self-obscuring.
Ymdywyllu, v. a. (tywyllu) To darken mutually; to self-obscure.
Ymdywyn, s. m. (tywyn) A mutual shining; a self-shining.
Ymdywynawl, a. (ymdywyn) Mutually shining; self-shining.
Ymdywyniad, s. m. (tywyniad) A mutually shining; a self-shining; a becoming resplendent.
Ymdywynu, v. a. (tywynu) To shine mutually; to become resplendent.
Ymdywynyg, s. m. (tywynyg) A self-shining.
Ymdywynygawl, a. (tywynyg) Self-shining.
Ymdywynygiad, s. m. (ymdywynyg) A casting a mutual splendour; a becoming resplendent.
Ymdywynygu, v. a. (ymdywynyg) To cast a mutual splendour; to cause one's self to shine; to become splendid.

Rhod euraid a ymdywynygai ynghylch yr haul.

A golden circle became resplendent about the sun.
Elucidarius.

Ymddadchwyddaw, v. a. (dadchwyddaw) To divest one's self of swelling.
Ymddadchwyddiad, s. m. (dadchwyddiad) A divesting one's self of swelling.
Ymddadebrawl, a. (dadebrawl) Self-resuscitating.
Ymddadebriad, s. (dadebriad) Self-resuscitation.
Ymddadebru, v. a. (dadebru) To self-resuscitate.
Ymddadflinaw, v. a. (dadflinaw) To divest one's self of fatigue.
Ymddadfliniad, s. m. (dadfliniad) A divesting one's self of fatigue.
Ymddadgrymiad, s. m. (dadgrymiad) An unbending or raising one's self.
Ymddadgrymu, v. a. (dadgrymu) To unbend one's self from a bending posture.
Ymddadguddiad, s. m. (dadguddiad) A self-revealing.
Ymddadguddiaw, v. (dadguddiaw) To self-reveal.
Ymddadguddiawl, a. (dadguddiawl) Self-revealing
Ymddadl, s. f. (dadl) Mutual dispute.
Ymddadlawl, a. (ymddadl) Controversial.
Ymddadleithiad, s. m. (dadleithiad) A mutually dissolving; a self-dissolving.
Ymddadleithiaw, v. a. (dadleithiaw) To dissolve mutually; to self-dissolve.
Ymddadleithiawl, a. (dadleithiawl) Mutually dissolving; self-dissolving.
Ymddadleu, v. a. (ymddadl) To contend in words.
Ymddadleuad, s. m. (ymddadleu) Mutual disputation; jointly disputing.
Ymddadleuaw, v. a. (ymddadleu) To dispute mutually.
Ymddadlewychawl, a. (dadlewychawl) Tending mutually to reflect light; self-refracting.
Ymddadlewychiad, s. m. (dadlewychiad) A mutually reflecting light; a self-refraction.
Ymddadlewychu, v. a. (dadlewychu) To reflect light mutually; to self-refract.

Ymddadliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymddadl) A mutually arguing; controversy, contention.

Ymddadlu, v. a. (ymddadl) To dispute mutually; to use one's self in dispute.

Ymddadlwr, s. m.—pl. ymddadlwyr (ymddadl—gwr) A mutual disputer.

Ymddadlwythaw, v. a. (dadlwythaw) To divest one's self of a load.

Ymddadlwythawl, a. (dadlwythawl) Tending to disburden one's self.

Ymddadlwythiad, s. m. (dadlwythiad) A disburdening one's self.

Ymddadlydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymddadl) A disputant.

Ymddadwreiddiad, s. m. (dadwreiddiad) A self-eradicating.

Ymddadwreiddiaw, v. a. (dadwreiddiaw) To self-eradicate; to be plucked up by the root.

Pe byddai gennych ffydd gellych ddywedyd wrth y fasarnen hon, Ymdddadwreiddia.

If ye had faith, ye might say unto this sycamine tree, Be thou plucked up by the root. Luke 17. 6.

Ymddadwreiddiawl, a. (dadwreiddiawl) Tending to be self-eradicated.

Ymddaiariad, s. m. (daiariad) A self-burying.

Ymddaiaru, v. a. (daiaru) To burrow one's self.

Ymddal, s. m. (dal) The act of mutual holding; perseverance. v. a. To persevere.

Tri arddangaws doethineb: ymddal ar bwyll, ymddal ar awen, ac ymddal ar welliedigaeth.

The three indications of wisdom: a keeping after reason, a keeping after genius, and keeping after improvement. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Ymddaliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymddal) A mutually holding; a self-holding; that is holden; an opinion.

Yr Arglwydd a draethai hyny, i faeddu i'r llawr falch ymddaliad y Phariswr.

The Lord declared that, to beat to the ground the proud opinion of the Pharisee. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Ymddaliwr, s. m.—pl. ymddaliwyr (ymddal—gwr) One who mutually holds; one who holds himself.

Ymddalliad, s. m. (dalliad) A mutually blinding; a self-blinding.

Ymddallu, v. a. (dallu) To blind mutually; to blind one's self.

Mae gormod yn ymddallu wrth y tair tywysoges obry.

Too many do blind themselves with the three princesses below. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymddallus, a. (dallus) Being self-blinding.

Ymddallwr, s. m.—pl. ymddallwyr (dallwr) One who blinds himself.

Ymddanneddiad, s. m. (danneddiad) A mutually shewing the teeth, mutually snarling.

Ymddanneddu, v. a. (danneddu) To snarl mutually; to employ one's self in snarling.

Gwelwn rai yn ymwthiaw ac yn ymddanneddu am eu braint.

We could perceive some thrusting themselves forward and mutually snarling for their rank. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymddanneddwr, s. m.—pl. ymddanneddwyr (danneddwr) A snarler.

Ymddantiad, s.m. (dantiad) A shewing one's teeth

Ymddantu, v. a. (dantu) To shew one's teeth.

Megys corgi yn ymddantu a march rhygyngawg.

Like a cur dog snarling at an ambling steed. Theo. Evans.

Ymddangaws, s. m. (dangaws) A mutual shew; a shewing of one's self. v. a. To appear mutually; to shew one's self.

Ymddangosawl, a. (ymddangaws) Mutually appearing; self-exposing.

Ymddangosgar, a. (ymddangaws) Ostentatious.

Ymddangosgarwch, s. m. (ymddangosgar) Ostentatiousness.

Ymddangosiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymddangaws) A self-shewing, an appearing; an appearance.

Ymddangosiadawl, a. (ymddangosiad) Relating to self-shewing.

Ymddangosiadus, a. (ymddangosiad) Ostentatious

Ymddarostwng, s. m. (darostwng) Self-debasement. v. a. To debase one's self.

Ymddarostyngawl, a. (darostwng) Self-debasing.

Ymddarostyngiad, s. m. (darostwng) A lowering one's self, a humbling one's self; a self-debasing, condescension.

Ymddarostyngwr, s. m.—pl. ymddarostyngwyr (ymddarostwng—gwr) A self-debaser.

Ymddarpar, s. m. (darpar) Self-preparation.

Ymddarpariad, s. m. (darpar) A self-preparing.

Ymddarparu, v. a. (darpar) To self-prepare.

Ymddarparwr, s. m.—pl. ymddarparwyr (darpar—gwr) A self-preparer.

Ymddarwedd, s. f. (darwedd) A self-yielding.

Ynghylch 1111, yr oedd Owain ab Cadwgawn yn drygu yn ddiymarwedd o'i amgylch.

About the year 1111, Owain son of Cadwgan was ravaging without remorse all around him. Caradawg o Lan Carfan.

Ymddarweddawl, a. (darwedd) Self-conforming; of a pliant nature; mutually complying.

Ymddarweddiad, s. m. (darwedd) A self-conforming; a mutually complying.

Ymddarweddu, v. a. (darwedd) To conform one's self; to comply mutually.

Ymddattawd, s. m. (dattawd) A mutual loosening; a loosening of one's self.

Clywwn lais yn peri i minnau, wrth fy enw, ymddattawd: ar y gair, mi ym clywwn yn dechreu toddi, mal caseg eira yn ngwres yr haul.

I could hear a voice commanding me also, by my name, to loosen myself: at the word, I could feel myself beginning to melt, like a snowball in the heat of the sun. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymddattodawl, a. (ymddattawd) Self-loosening.

Ymddattodi, v. a. (ymddattawd) To loosen mutually; to loosen one's self.

Ymddattodiad, s. m. (ymddattawd) A mutually loosening; a loosening one's self.

Ymddefodwr, s. m.—pl. ymddefodwyr (defodwr) One who adheres to a custom.

Ymddeffraw, s. m. (deffraw) A self-waking. v. a. To wake one's self.

Ymddeffröad, s. m. (ymddeffraw) A self-waking.

Ymddeffröawl, a. (ymddeffraw) Self-waking.

Ymddeffröi, v. a. (ymddeffraw) Self-waking.

Ymddeintiad, s. m. (deintiad) A mutually snarling

Ymddeintiaw, v. a. (deintiaw) To snarl mutually.

Ymddenawl, a. (denawl) Mutually alluring; self-alluring.

Ymddeniad, s. m. (deniad) A mutually alluring; a self-alluring.

Ymddenu, v. a. (denu) To allure mutually; to allure one's self.

Ymddëodi, v. a. (deawd) To divest one's self.

Am Fadawg manawg mynw haelioni,
Medel glyw glewdraws mawe mynogi;
Am Owain Prydain, Pryderi hafal,
Prenial ymddial ymddeodi.

For Madawg, the distinguished centre of liberality, the bravely-froward leader whose store was sweet benignity; for Owain of Britain, equal to Pryderi, the casket of self-revenge is mutually cast off. Cynddelw.

Ymddëodiad, s. m. (ymddëodi) A divesting one's self of garments.

Ymddëol, s. m. (dëol) Mutual separation; self-separation; self-banishment.

Ymddëoli, v. a. (ymddëol) To separate mutually; to separate one's self; to banish one's self.
Ymddëoliad, s. m. (ymddëol) A mutually separating; a separating one's self.
Ymddëor, s. m. (dëor) The state of being hatched. v. a. To be hatched.

Cydwybod yw y nyth lle ydd ymddëor pob daioni.

Conscience is the nest where every good is hatched. Adage.

Ymddëorawl, a. (ymddëor) Being employed in hatching or brooding.
Ymddëori, v. a. (ymddëor) To be employed in hatching.
Ymddëoriad, s. m. (ymddëor) A being in the act of hatching.
Ymddèrawl, a. (dèrawl) Mutually taunting.
Ymdderbyn, s. m. (derbyn) Mutual reception. v. a. To receive mutually; to employ one's self in receiving.
Ymdderbyniad, s. m. (ymdderbyn) A mutually receiving; a being receiving.
Ymdderbyniaw, v. a. (ymdderbyn) To receive mutually; to be receiving.
Ymdderbyniawl, a. (ymdderbyn) Mutually rereceiving; being receiving.
Ymddèriad, s. m. (dèriad) A mutually taunting.
Ymddèru, v. a. (dèru) To taunt mutually.
Ymddïal, s. m. (dïal) A revenging one's self. v. a. To revenge one's self; to be revenged. Ysbryd ymddïal, a vindictive spirit.

Eu beddau a'u cudd gwyddwal
Ni lesaint heb ymddïal:
Gwrien, Morien, a Morial.

They whose graves are obscured by furze, they were not slain without avenging themselves: Gwrien, Morien, and Morial. B. Beddau Milwyr.

Ymddïalgar, a. (ymddïal) Revengeful, vindictive
Ymddïaliad, s. m. (ymddïal) A self-avenging.
Ymddïalu, v. a. (ymddïal) To avenge one's self.
Ymddïalydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymddïal) A self-avenger.
Ymddïang, s. m. (dïang) Self-escape. v. a. To extricate one's self.

Pan adnabu Gruffudd ab Cynan na allai ymddïang efelly, ydd aeth yn ysgraff y canonwyr yn Aberdaron, ac yn hono a dan rwyf ydd aynt yn Iwerddon.

When Grufudd son of Cynan perceived that he could not extricate himself so, he procured the ferry of the canons in Aberdaron, and in that, by the use of the oar, they went to Ireland. Hanes Gr. ab Cynan.

Ymddïangawl, a. (ymddïang) Self-extricating.
Ymddïangiad, s. m. (ymddïang) A self-escaping.
Ymddïarfiad, s. m. (dïarfiad) A self-disarming.
Ymddïarfogi, v. a. (dïarfogi) To self-disarm.
Ymddïarfogiad, s. m. (dïarfogi) A self-disarming.
Ymddïarfu, v. a. (dïarfu) To disarm one's self.
Ymddïargeliad, s. m. (dïargel) A divesting one's self of seclusion, a revealing one's self.
Ymddïargelu, v. a. (dïargelu) To divest one's self of seclusion; to manifest one's self.
Ymddïarialiad, s. m. (dïarialiad) A divesting one's self of wantonness.
Ymddïarialu, v. a. (dïarialu) To divest one's self of wantonness.
Ymddïaruthraw, v. a. (dïaruthraw) To divest one's self of astonishment.
Ymddïaruthriad, s. m. (dïaruthriad) A divesting one's self of astonishment.
Ymddïasgeniad, s. m. (dïasgeniad) A divesting one's self of blemish; a rendering one's self unpolluted.
Ymddïasgenu, v. a. (dïasgenu) To divest one's self of blemish or harm.
Ymddïawchiad, s. m. (dïawchiad) A divesting one's self of appetency or desire.
Ymddïawchu, v. a. (dïawchu) To divest one's self of appetency or eagerness.
Ymddibarchiad, s. m. (dibarchiad) A divesting one's self of respect.
Ymddibarchu, v. a. (dibarchu) To divest one's self of respect or reverence.
Ymddibetrusaw, v. a. (dibetrusaw) To divest one's self of hesitation; to cease hesitating.
Ymddibetrusiad, s. m. (dibetrusiad) A divesting one's self of hesitation.
Ymddiblaw, v. a. (diblaw) To daggle one's self.
Ymddibleidiad, s. m. (dibleidiad) A divesting one's self of a party.
Ymddibleidiaw, v. a. (dibleidiaw) To divest one's self of a party; to appeal from a decision.

Tri rhyw ymddibleidiaw y sydd herwydd cyfraith: cyntaf yw i wrth y plas i'r orsedd, ail yw yn y modd, trydydd yw yn y defnydd

There are three ways of appealing from a decision: the first is from the hall to the high court, the second is with respect to the form, the third is in the matter. Welsh Laws.

Ymddibleidiawl, a. (dibleidiawl) Respecting the being divested of a party.
Ymddibleidiwr, s. m.—pl. ymddibleidiwyr (dibleidiwr) One who recedes from a party.
Ymddiblethiad, s. m. (diblethiad) A divesting one's self of plaits or wreathes.
Ymddiblethu, v. a. (diblethu) To self-divest of plaits; to become unwreathed.
Ymddibliad, s. m. (dibliad) A self-daggling.
Ymddiblisgaw, v. a. (diblisgaw) To become divested of shell.
Ymddiblisgiad, s. m. (diblisgiad) A becoming divested of shell.
Ymddiboeni, v. a. (diboeni) To divest one's self of pain or labour.
Ymddiboeniad, s. m. (diboeniad) A divesting one's self of pain or labour.
Ymddiborthi, v. a. (diborthi) To divest one's self of support.
Ymddiborthiad, s. m. (diborthiad) A divesting one's self of support.
Ymddibwyllaw, v. a. (dibwyllaw) To divest one's self of impulse or of reason.
Ymddibwylliad, s. m. (dibwylliad) A divesting one's self of reason or wit.
Ymddibwysaw, v. a. (dibwysaw) To divest one's self of weight.
Ymddibwysiad, s. m. (dibwysiad) A divesting one's self of weight.
Ymddibynawl, a. (dibynawl) Self-suspending, self-impending; dependent.
Ymddibyniad, s. m. (dibyniad) A suspending one's self; a becoming dependent.
Ymddibynu, v. a. (dibynu) To suspend one's self; to render one's self dependent.
Ymddichelliad, s. m. (dichelliad) A making one's self cunning.
Ymddichellu, v. a. (dichellu) To furnish one's self with cunning or wiles.

Dichell ar bob dichell ymddichellu daioni.

An art above every art is to make one's self artful in goodness. Adage.

Ymddichoni, v. a. (dichoni) To become able.
Ymddichoniad, s. m. (dichoniad) A rendering one's self able or capable.
Ymddidoli, v. a. (didoli) To separate one's self; to separate mutually.
Ymddidoliad, s. m. (didoliad) A separating one's self; a mutually separating.

Ymddidresiad, s. m. (didresiad) A divesting one's self of bustle.

Ymddidresu, v. a. (didresu) To divest one's self of bustle or hurry.

Ymddidwyllaw, v. a. (didwyllaw) To undeceive one's self; mutually to undeceive.

Ymddidwylliad, s. m. (didwylliad) An undeceiving of one's self.

Ymddiddwyn, s. m. (diddwyn) A self-weaning. v. To wean one's self.

Rhaid ymddiddwyn a'r byd os eir i'r nef.

It is necessary to wean one's self from the world, if one is to go to heaven. Adage.

Ymddiddyrysiad, s. m. (diddyrysiad) A disentangling one's self.

Ymddiddyrysu, v. a. (diddyrysu) To disentangle one's self.

Ymddïeithraw, v. a. (dïeithraw) To render one's self unexceptionable.

Ymddïeithriad, s. m. (dïeithriad) A rendering one's self unexceptionable.

Ymddïenyddiad, s. m. (dïenyddiad) A making away with one's self.

Ymddïenyddu, v. a. (dïenyddu) To make away with one's self.

Ni ddyly arglwydd obedyw gwr a ymddïenyddo.

The lord is not entitled to the heriot of a man who puts an end to his own existence. Welsh Laws.

Ymddifa, v. a. (difa) To end one's self.

Ymddifâad, s. m. (ymddifa) A self-ending.

Ymddifad, a. (difad) Being destitute of good or comfort; fatherless or motherless. Plant ymddifad, orphan children.

Un wedd wyf yn ymddifad
A dyn wedi' fam a'i dad!

I am in the same manner void of comfort as a person after losing his father and mother! Owain Brixton.

Ymddifadiad, s. m. (ymddifad) A being made destitute; a becoming destitute.

Ymddifadu, v. a. (ymddifad) To bereave of comfort; to become destitute.

Ymddifanniad, s. m. (difanniad) A making one's self to vanish away.

Ymddifannu, v. a. (difannu) To make one's self to vanish.

Ymddifedi, s. m. (ymddifad) A state void of solace; the being destitute; deprivation; an orphan state.

Mwy ym cymhellir i wylaw nog i ddywedyd araeth ac ymadroddion uchel; sef achaws yw hyny truaned yw genyf i yr ymddifedi a'r gwander a ddamweiniws ini.

I am more compelled to weep than to speak an oration and high expressions; the reason of which is the wretchedness and the weakness that have happened to us. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymddifeiad, s. m. (difeiad) Self-exculpation.

Ymddifeiaw, v. a. (difeiaw) To self-exculpate.

Ymddifeichiad, s. m. (difeichiad) A clearing one's self from bail.

Ymddifeichiaw, v. a. (difeichiaw) To clear one's self from bail.

Ymddiflaniad, s. m. (diflanniad) A making one's self to vanish.

Ymddiflannu, v. a. (diflannu) To cause one's self to vanish.

Ymddiflinaw, v. a. (diflinaw) To divest one's self of fatigue; to refresh one's self.

Ymddifliniad, s. m. (difliniad) A divesting one's self of fatigue; a refreshing one's self.

Ymddifregawl, a. (difregawl) Tending to be sad.

Ymddifregiad, s. m. (difregiad) A rendering one's self serious.

Ymddifregu, v. a. (difregu) To render one's self void of frailty; to become serious. Ymddifregu a Duw, to address one's self seriously to God.

Ymddifreinniad, s. m. (difreinniad) A divesting one's self of privilege or right.

Ymddifreinniaw, v. a. (difreinniaw) To divest one's self of privilege or right.

Ymddifrodi, v. a. (difrodi) To rob one's self.

Ymddifrodiad, s. m. (difrodiad) A self robbing.

Ymddifwynaw, v. a. (difwynaw) To divest one's self of enjoyment.

Ymddifwyniad, s. m. (difwyniad) A divesting one's self of enjoyment.

Ymddifyddinaw, v. a. (difyddinaw) To become disbanded as an army.

Ymddifyddiniad, s. m. (difyddiniad) A becoming disbanded as an army.

Ymddifyrawl, a. (difyrawl) Self-diverting.

Ymddifyriad, s. m. (difyriad) A diverting one's self; a mutually diverting.

Ymddifyru, v. a. (difyru) To divert one's self; to divert one another.

Ymddiffawdd, s. m. (diffawdd) A self-extinguishing. v. a. To self-extinguish.

Ymddiffer, s. m. (differ) Self-protection; mutual defence or protection.

Ymddifferawl, a. (ymddiffer) Self-protecting.

Ymddifferiad, s. m. (ymddiffer) A self-protecting; mutual protection.

Ymddifferu, v. a. (ymddiffer) To defend one's self; to protect mutually.

Aynt hyd yn Mon, ac wynt a Grufudd; ac yno ydd ymddiferynt

They went as far as Mon, them and Grufudd; and there they defended themselves. Buch. Gr. ab Cynan.

Ymddifferwr, s. m.—pl. ymddifferwyr (ymddiffer—gwr) A self-defender.

Ymddiffoddawl, a. (ymddiffawdd) Self-extinguishing.

Ymddiffoddi, v. a. (ymddiffawdd) To self-extinguish.

Ymddiffoddiad, s. m. (ymddiffawdd) A self-extinguishing.

Ymddiffwys, s. m. (diffwys) The state of being imminent or impending; eventful.

Y galon—
Hon a bair cadair ceudawd,
Henw ymddiffwys, gyuawys gwawd.

The heart: it will cause the seat of imagination, eventful the name, to harbour praise. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymddiffwysaw, v. a. (ymddiffwys) To render one's self impending.

Ymddiffwysawl, a. (ymddiffwys) Self-impending.

Ymddiffwysiad, s. m. (ymddiffwys) A rendering one's self impending.

Ymddiffyn, s. m. (diffyn) Self-defence; mutual defence. v. a. To defend one's self.

Ymddiffynadwy, a. (ymddiffyn) Defensible.

Ymddiffynawl, a. (ymddiffyn) Self-protecting.

Ymddiffynedig, a. (ymddiffyn) Self-protected.

Ymddiffynfa, s. f.—pl. ymddiffynfëydd (ymddiffyn) A place of defence.

Ymddiffyniad, s. m. (ymddiffyn) A defending.

Ymddiffyniaeth, s. (ymddiffyn) System of defence

Ymddiffynu, v. a. (ymddiffyn) To self-defend.

Ymddiffynus, a. (ymddiffyn) Self-defending.

Ymddiffynwr, s. m.—pl. ymddiffynwyr (ymddiffyn—gwr) A defender, a protector.

Ymddiffynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymddiffyn) A defender.

Ymddigaloni, v. a. (digaloni) To dishearten one's self; to become disheartened.

Ymddigaloniad, s. m. (digaloniad) A disheartening one's self.

Ymddigariad, s. m. (digariad) A divesting one's self of love.

Ymddigaru, v. a. (digaru) To divest one's self of love or affection.

Ymddigasâad, s. m. (digasâad) A divesting one's self of hatred or enmity.

Ymddigasâu, v. a. (digasâu) To divest one's self of hatred or enmity.

Ymddigeliad, s. m. (digeliad) A self-revealing.

Ymddigelu, v. a. (digelu) To reveal one's self.

Ymddigeniad, s. m. (digeniad) A self-exfoliation

Ymddigenu, v. a. (digenu) To self-exfoliate.

Ymddigiad, s. m. (digiad) A making one's self angry; a becoming angry.

Ymddigiaw, v. a. (digiaw) To anger one's self.

Ymddigiawl, a. (digiawl) Tending to anger one's self; becoming angry.

Ymddigonad, s. m. (digonad) A self-sufficing.

Ymddigoni, v. a. (digoni) To self-suffice.

Ymddigrifâad, s. m. (digrifâad) A delighting one's self; a self-amusing.

Ymddigrifâu, v. a. (digrifâu) To amuse one's self; to delight one's self.

Ymddigrifaw, v. a. (digrifaw) To amuse one's self, to delight one's self; to make one's self happy.

Ymddigrifais yn dy gyfraith.

I have delighted in thy law. Psalm 119. 70.

Ymddigrifawl, a. (digrifawl) Tending to self-delight; becoming delighted.

Ymddigrifiad, s. m. (digrifiad) A self-delighting; a becoming delighted.

Ymddigrifwch, s. m. (digrifwch) Self-delight.

Ymddiguddiad, s. m. (diguddiad) A rendering one's self unhidden.

Ymddiguddiaw, v. a. (diguddiaw) To unhide one's self; to become unhidden.

Ymddigyfeilliad, s. m. (digyfeilliad) A divesting one's self of friendship.

Ymddigyfeilliaw, v. a. (digyfeilliaw) To deprive one's self of friendship.

Ymddigyfnerthiad, s. m. (digyfnerthiad) A divesting one's self of assistance.

Ymddigyfnerthu, v. a. (digyfnerthu) To divest one's self of assistance.

Ymddigyfoethi, v. a. (digyfoethi) To divest one's self of wealth or power.

Ymddigyfoethiad, s. m. (digyfoethiad) A divesting one's self of wealth.

Ymddigyfraniad, s. m. (digyfraniad) A divesting one's self of participation.

Ymddigyfranu, v. a. (digyfranu) To divest one's self of participation.

Ymddigyfrwyddaw, v. a. (digyfrwyddaw) To render one's self unpropitious.

Ymddigyfrwyddiad, s. m. (digyfrwyddiad) A rendering one's self unpropitious.

Ymddigyfyngiad, s. m. (digyfyngiad) A rendering one's self unstraitened.

Ymddigyfyngu, v. a. (digyfyngu) To render one's self unstraitened.

Ymddigyffröad, s. m. (digyffröad) A divesting one's self of agitation.

Ymddigyffröi, v. a. (digyffröi) To divest one's self of agitation or excitement.

Ymddigymhorthi, v. a. (digymhorthi) To deprive one's self of assistance.

Ymddigymhorthiad, s. m. (digymhorthiad) A depriving one's self of assistance.

Ymddigynheniad, s. m. (digynheniad) A divesting one's self of contention.

Ymddigynhenu, v. a. (digynhenu) To divest one's self of contention.

Ymddigysylltiad, s. m. (digysylltiad) A rendering one's self unconnected.

Ymddigysylltu, v. a. (digysylltu) To disconnect one's self.

Ymddigywilyddiad, s. m. (digywilyddiad) A divesting one's self of shame.

Ymddigywilyddiaw, v. a. (digywilyddiaw) To divest one's self of shame.

Ymddihafarchiad, s. m. (dihafarchiad) A divesting one's self of timidity or dread.

Ymddihafarchu, v. a. (dihafarchu) To divest one's self of timidity or fear.

Ymddihalogi, v. a. (dihalogi) To divest one's self of pollution.

Ymddihalogiad, s. m. (dihalogiad) A divesting one's self of pollution.

Ymddihatriad, s. m. (dihatriad) A divesting one's self of covering or dress.

Ymddihatru, v. a. (dihatru) To divest one's self of covering or dress.

Ymddiheiniad, s. m. (diheiniad) A divesting one's self of infection.

Ymddiheiniaw, v. a. (diheiniaw) To divest one's self of infection.

A'm bo gan Dduw—
Bod ar iawn, am ddawn ymddiheinio
Byd—

Please God, may I be on the right, for grace divesting myself of the infection of the world. Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Ymddiheurad, s. m. (diheurad) Self-vindication.

Ymddiheuraw, v. a. (diheuraw) To self-absolve; to vindicate one's self.

Ymddihoeni, v. a. (dihoeni) To self-enfeeble; to divest one's self of spirit; to pine one's self.

Ymddihoeniad, s. m. (dihoeniad) A divesting one's self of vivacity or spirits.

Ymddihuddaw, v. a. (dihuddaw) To self-uncover.

Ymddihuddiad, s. m. (dihuddiad) An uncovering of one's self; a becoming uncovered.

Ymddihunaw, v. a. (dihunaw) To self-wake.

Ymddihuniad, s. m. (dihuniad) A self-waking.

Ymddihwylaw, v. a. (dihwylaw) To disarray one's self; to disorder one's self.

Ymddihwyliad, s. m. (dihwyliad) A disarraying of one's self; a self-disordering.

Ymddilesiad, s. m. (dilesiad) A depriving one's self of benefit.

Ymddilesu, v. a. (dilesu) To deprive one's self of benefit or advantage.

Ymddilidiad, s. m. (dilidiad) A divesting one's self of wrath or anger.

Ymddilidiaw, v. a. (dilidiaw) To divest one's self of wrath; to become pacified.

Ymddiloni, v. a. (diloni) To divest one's self of cheerfulness; to make one's self sad.

Ymddiloniad, s. m. (diloniad) A divesting one's self of cheerfulness.

Ymddiluddaw, v. a. (diluddaw) To render one's self unobstructed or unrestrained.

Ymddiluddediad, s. m. (diluddediad) A divesting one's self of restraint; a divesting one's self of weariness.

Ymddiluddedu, v. a. (diluddedu) To divest one's self of restraint, or of weariness.

Ymddiluddiad, s. m. (diluddiad) A divesting one's self of obstruction.

Ymddilwythaw, v. a. (dilwythaw) To unload one's self, to unburden one's self.

Ymddilwythiad, s. m. (dilwythiad) A disburdening of one's self.

Ymddilygriad, s. m. (dilygriad) A divesting one's self of corruption.
Ymddilygru, v. a. (dilygru) To divest one's self of corruption.
Ymddilyn, s. m. (dilyn) The being in pursuit; mutual pursuit. v. a. To be in pursuit; to pursue mutually.
Ymddilynawl, a. (ymddilyn) Apt to be pursuing
Ymddilyngar, a. (ymddilyn) Apt to be pursuing.
Ymddilyniad, s. m. (ymddilyn) Being pursuing; a mutually pursuing.
Ymddilynwr, s. m.—pl. ymddilynwyr (ymddilyn—gwr) One who uses himself to pursue.
Ymddilysiad, s. m. (dilysiad) A self-securing.
Ymddilysu, v. a. (dilysu) To secure one's self.
Ymddilladiad, s. m. (dilladiad) A self-clothing.
Ymddilladu, v. a. (dilladu) To clothe one's self.
Ymddilliad, s. m. (dilliad) A self-folding.
Ymddilliaw, v. a. (dilliaw) To self-fold.
Ymddinerthiad, s. m. (dinerthiad) A self-enervating, a becoming debilitated.
Ymddinerthu, v. a. (dinerthu) To self-debilitate.
Ymddinidraw, v. a. (dinidraw) To disentangle one's self, to disembarrass one's self.
Ymddinidriad, s. m. (dinidriad) A disentangling of one's self.
Ymddiniweidiad, s. m. (diniweidiad) A rendering one's self harmless.
Ymddiniweidiaw, v. a. (diniweidiaw) To render one's self harmless.
Ymddinwyfaw, v. a. (dinwyfaw) To divest one's self of vivacity or spirit.
Ymddinwyfiad, s. m. (dinwyfiad) A divesting one's self of vivacity, life, or vigour.
Ymddïobeithiad, s. m. (dïobeithiad) A divesting one's self of hope.
Ymddïobeithiaw, v. a. (dïobeithiaw) To render one's self hopeless.
Ymddïodi, v. a. (dïodi) To supply one's self with drink; to be drinking.
Ymddïodiad, s. m. (dïodiad) A supplying of one's self with drink.
Ymddïofaliad, s. m. (diofaliad) A divesting one's self of care; a becoming careless.
Ymddïofalu, v. a. (diofalu) To divest one's self of care; to become careless.
Ymddïofidiad, s. m. (diofidiad) A divesting one's self of affliction.
Ymddïofidiaw, v. a. (dïofidiaw) To divest one's self of affliction.
Ymddïofni, v. a. (dïofni) To divest one's self of fear; to become fearless.
Ymddïofniad, s. m. (dïofniad) A divesting one's self of fear; a becoming fearless.
Ymddïofrydiad, s. m. (dïofrydiad) A rendering one's self decided, determined, or devoted.
Ymddïofrydu, v. a. (dïofrydu) To render one's self decided, resolved, or devoted.
Ymddïoganiad, s. m. (dïoganiad) A divesting one's self of reproach.
Ymddïoganu, v. a. (dïoganu) To divest one's self of reproach or scandal.
Ymddïogeliad, s. m. (dïogeliad) A self-securing.
Ymddïogelu, v. a. (dïogelu) To self-secure.
Ymddïogi, v. a. (diogi) To make one's self lazy.
Ymddïogiad, s. m. (dïogiad) A making one's self lazy or listless.
Ymddïoli, v. a. (dïoli) To divest one's self of a trace or footstep.
Ymddïoliad, s. m. (dïoliad) A divesting one's self of a trace or track.

Ymddireidiad, s. m. (direidiad) An employing one's self unnecessarily.
Ymddireidiaw, v. a. (direidiaw) To employ one's self unnecessarily.

Gwell peidiaw nag ymddireidiaw.
Better to desist than to employ one's self uselessly. Adage.

Ymddirgeliad, s. m. (dirgeliad) A making one's self private or secret.
Ymddirgelu, v. a. (dirgelu) To self-secret.
Ymddiriad, s. m. (diriad) Self-instigation; mutual instigation; confidence.

Gwaethaf twyll twyll ymddiriad.
The worst deceit is deceit through confidence. Adage.

Ymddiriaw, v. a. (diriaw) To self-instigate; to instigate mutually.

Methr a ymddir hamdden.
He that trusts to opportunity will be foiled. Adage.

Ymddiriawl, a. (diriawl) Being self-impelling.
Ymddiried, s. m. (diried) Mutual impulse; mutual dependence; confidence, trust. v. a. To give mutual impulse; to confide, to rely or depend upon.

Nid ymddiried ond cydymaith.
There is no trust like a companion. Adage.

Cas a ymddirieto i rodd.
Hateful is he that trusteth to a gift. Adage.

Tri pheth nid ellir ymddiried iddynt: iechyd i hen, hindda y gauaf, a diwydrwydd arglwydd.
Three things to which no trust can be given: health to the old, fair weather in winter, and the diligence of a lord. Adage.

Ymddiriediad, s. m. (ymddiried) A confiding.
Ymddiriedu, v. a. (ymddiried) To confide, to trust.
Ymddiriedus, a. (ymddiried) Confiding, trusting.
Ymddirmygiad, s. m. (dirmygiad) A self-contemning.
Ymddirmygu, v. a. (dirmygu) To self-contemn.
Ymddirper, s. m. (dirper) The being deserving.
Ymddirperiad, s. m. (ymddirper) A rendering one's self deserving or meriting.
Ymddirperu, v. a. (ymddirper) To render one's self deserving.
Ymddirprwy, s. m. (dirprwy) A mutual supply.
Ymddirprwyad, s. m. (ymddirprwy) A self-supplying; a getting one's place filled by proxy.
Ymddirprwyaw, v. a. (ymddirprwy) To supply one's self; to self-accommodate.
Ymddirwest, s. m. (dirwest) A self-refraining. v. a. To refrain one's self.

Goreu pob dirwest ymddirwest rhag trachwant.
The best refraining is to refrain one's self from cupidity.
Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymddirwyad, s. m. (dirwyad) A self-fining.
Ymddirwyaw, v. a. (dirwyaw) To fine one's self.
Ymddirwydaw, v. a. (dirwydaw) To extricate one's self, to become disentangled.
Ymddirwydiad, s. m. (dirwydiad) A disentangling one's self; a freeing one's self.
Ymddirwymaw, v. a. (dirwymaw) To unbind one's self, to liberate one's self.
Ymddirwymiad, s. m. (dirwymiad) A liberating or unbinding one's self.
Ymddirwystraw, v. a. (dirwystraw) To render one's self void of impediment or interruption.
Ymddirwystriad, s. m. (dirwystriad) A divesting one's self of hinderance or impediment.
Ymddirymiad, s. m. (dirymiad) A divesting one's self of energy or power.
Ymddirymiaw, v. a. (dirymiaw) To divest one's self of energy or power.
Ymddirywiad, s. (dirywiad) A self-degenerating.
Ymddirywiaw, v. a. (dirywiaw) To degenerate one's self; to become degenerate.

Ymddiscyn, s. m. (discyn) The act of bringing one's self down.
Ymddiscyniad, s. m. (ymddiscyn) A bringing one's self down; a self-dismounting.
Ymddiserchiad, s. m. (diserchiad) A divesting one's self of affection.
Ymddiserchu, v. a. (diserchu) To divest one's self of affection or fondness.
Ymddisomi, v. a. (disomi) To undeceive one's self; to become undeceived.
Ymddisomiad, s. m. (disomiad) A divesting one's self of disappointment.
Ymddiwalliad, s. m. (diwalliad) A self-satiating.
Ymddiwalltu, v. a. (diwalltu) To divest one's self of the head hair.
Ymddiwallu, v. a. (diwallu) To self-satisfy.
Ymddiweddu, v. a. (diweddu) To finish one's self.
Ymddiwreiddiad, s. m. (diwreiddiad) A self eradicating; a being unrooted.
Ymddiwreiddiaw, v. a. (diwreiddiaw) To eradicate one's self; to be plucked up by the root.
Ymddiwresiad, s. m. (diwresiad) A divesting one's self of heat.
Ymddiwresu, v. a. (diwresu) To divest one's self of heat or warmth.
Ymddiwydiad, s. m. (diwydiad) A rendering one's self diligent or persevering.
Ymddiwydiaw, v. a. (diwydiaw) To render one's self diligent or persevering.
Ymddiwygiad, s. m. (diwygiad) Self-reformation.
Ymddiwygiaw, v. a. (diwygiaw) To self-reform.
Ymddiwynaw, v. a. (diwynaw) To self-pollute.

Ymddiwynasant gan waed, mal na ellid cyhwrdd a'u dillad hwynt.

They have polluted themselves with blood, so that their garments could not be touched. Galarnad 4. 14.

Ymddiwyniad, s. m. diwyniad) A self polluting.
Ymddïysgogi, v. a. (dïysgogi) To render one's self unshaken or inflexible.
Ymddïysgogiad, s. m. (dïysgogiad) A rendering one's self unshaken or firm.
Ymddodawl, a. (dodawl) Self-depositing.
Ymddodi, v. a. (dodi) To deposit one's self.
Ymddodiad, s. m. (dodiad) A self-depositing.
Ymddofi, v. a. (dofi) To tame one's self.
Ymddofiad, s. m. (dofiad) A self-taming.
Ymddogni, v. a. (dogni) To self-allow.
Ymddogniad, s. m. (dogniad) Self-allowancing.
Ymddoleniad, s. m. (doleniad) A self-coiling.
Ymddolenu, v. a. (dolenu) To coil one's self.
Ymddoli, v. a. (doli) To self-curve; to become curved.
Ymddoliad, s. m. (doliad) A self-curving.
Ymddoniad, s. m. (doniad) A self-endowing.
Ymddoniaw, v. a. (doniaw) To self-endow.
Ymddori, v. a. (dori) To concern one's self.
Ymddoriad, s. m. (doriad) A self-concerning.
Ymddreliad, s. m. (dreliad) A rendering one's self churlish or boorish.
Ymddreliaw, v. a. (dreliaw) To render one's self churlish, froward or surly; to abuse mutually.
Ymddringaw, v. a. (dringaw) To use one's self to climb; to be climbing.
Ymddrychiad, s. m. (drychiad) A self-appearing.
Ymddrychiawl, a. (drychiawl) Self-apparent.
Ymddrychioli, v. a. (ymddrychiawl) To make one's self apparent; to become apparent.
Ymddrychioliad, s. m. (ymddrychiawl) A making one's self apparent; a becoming apparent.
Ymddrychu, v. a. (drychu) To make one's self to appear.

Ymddrygiad, s. m. (drygiad) A becoming bad.
Ymddrygu, v. a. (drygu) To become bad.
Ymddrylliad, s. m. (drylliad) A pulling one's self to pieces.
Ymddrylliaw, v. a. (drylliaw) To pull one's self to pieces; to pull to pieces mutually.
Ymdduad, s. m. (duad) A blackening one's self.
Ymdduaw, v. a. (duaw) To blacken one's self.
Ymdduchan, s. f. (duchan) A mutual lampoon.
Ymdduchanawl, a. (ymdduchan) Mutually jeering
Ymdduchaniad, s. m. (ymdduchan) A mutually lampooning; a using one's self to scoff.
Ymdduchanu, v. (ymdduchan) To scoff mutually.

Ei swydd—
Fu ymdduchanu a chant.

His employment was to lampoon mutually with a hundred.
Ieu. ab D. ab Owain.

Ymdduliad, s. m. (duliad) A self-beating; a mutually beating or thumping.
Ymdduliaw, v. a. (duliaw) To beat one's self; to beat mutually.
Ymddulliad, s. m. (dulliad) A self-modification; a mutually modifying.
Ymddulliaw, v. a. (dulliaw) To shape one's self; to modify mutually, to shape mutually.
Ymddwlw, s. m. (dwlw) A fancying one's self. v. a. To fancy in one's self.
Ymddwyn, s. m. (dwyn) A self comportment; gestation. v. a. To bear, comport, or demean one's self; to bear, or go with young.

Hwyra' tâl tâl ymddwyn.

The latest recompence is the recompence of deportment.
Adage.

Ymddwyre, s. m. (dwyre) A self-elevation. v. a. To elevate one's self.
Ymddwyrëad, s. m. (ymddwyre) A self-elevating.
Ymddyben, s. m. (dyben) Mutual conclusion; self-conclusion.
Ymddybenawl, a. (ymddyben) Mutually conclusive; self-concluding.
Ymddybeniad, s. m. (ymddyben) A mutually concluding; self-concluding.
Ymddybenu, v. a. (ymddyben) To end mutually; to conclude with one's self.
Ymddyberi, v. a. (dyberi) To be self-causing.
Ymddybleidiad, s. m. (dybleidiad) A connecting one's self with a party.
Ymddybleidiaw, v. a. (dybleidiaw) To connect one's self with a party; to be mutually espousing a party.
Ymddybleidiawl, a. (dybleidiawl) Being mutually espousing a party.
Ymddyblygiad, s. m. (dyblygiad) A self-bending; a mutually bending or folding.
Ymddyblygu, v. a. (dyblygu) To be doubling one's self; to be mutually bending.
Ymddyborthi, v. a. (dyborthi) To self-support.
Ymddyborthiad, s. m. (dyborthiad) Self-supportation.
Ymddychryniad, s. m. (dychryniad) A frightening one's self.
Ymddychrynu, v. a. (dychrynu) To self-frighten.
Ymddychwedliad, s. m. (dychwedliad) A being in mutual discourse.
Ymddychwedlu, v. a. (dychwedlu) To converse mutually.
Ymddychweliad, s. m. (dychweliad) A self-turning; a self-conversion; a mutually returning.
Ymddychwelyd, v. a. (dychwelyd) To self-turn; to self-convert; to turn back mutually.

Ymddyddan, s. m.—pl. t. ion (dyddan) A conversation. v. a. To converse or to discourse together.

Mae ymddyddanion drwg yn llygru moesau da.

Evil communications corrupt good manners. Adage.

Nid cerddgar ond ymddyddangar;
Nid ymddyddan ond am Dduw.

None so informed as the conversible person; no conversation like that concerning God. Adage.

Ymddyddanaidd, a. (ymddyddan) Communicative
Ymddyddanawl, a. (ymddyddan) Discoursing.
Ymddyddangar, a. (ymddyddan) Apt of discourse.
Ymddyddaniad, s. m. (ymddyddan) A conversing.
Ymddyddanu, v. a. (ymddyddan) To converse.
Ymddyddanwr, s. m.—pl. ymddyddanwyr (ymddyddan—gwr) A converser, a discourser.
Ymddyeithrad, s. m. (dyeithrad) A self-estranging; a mutually estranging.
Ymddyeithraw, v. a. (dyeithraw) To self-estrange, to estrange mutually.
Ymddyfaliad, s. m. (dyfaliad) A being guessing or figuring to one's self.
Ymddyfalu, v. a. (dyfalu) To be guessing or describing to one's self.

Ymddyfalu a gwrandaw ar glerwriaeth orwag, ac ofergerdd i leiau synwyr.

To be amusing one's self and listening to frivolous minstrelsy and vain song to weaken the understanding. Damegion.

Ymddyfalu meddw folaid;
Son yn ffraeth am gwrw Sanffraid.

To imagine in one's self a drunken panegyric: eloquently to talk of the ale of Santffraid. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymddyfeisiad, s. m. (dyfeisiad) A being imagining; a mutually devising.
Ymddyfeisiaw, v. a. (dyfeisiaw) To be imagining in one's self; to devise mutually.
Ymddyfetha, v. a. (dyfetha) To destroy mutually; to destroy one's self.
Ymddyfethiad, s. m. (dyfethiad) A mutually destroying; a self-destroying.
Ymddyfniad, s. m. (dyfniad) A becoming used.
Ymddyfnu, v. a. (dyfnu) To use one's self.
Ymddyfoliad, s. m. (dyfoliad) A being gorging one's self; a being mutually swelling.
Ymddyfoliaw, v. a. (dyfoliaw) To be gorging one's self; to be mutually gorging.
Ymddyfrysiad, s. m. (dyfrysiad) A being hurrying one's self; a being mutually hurrying.
Ymddyfrysiaw, v. a. (dyfrysiaw) To be hurrying one's self; to be mutually hurrying.
Ymddyfustlaw, v. a. (dy—bustlaw) To be mutually throwing out gall; to deal in mutual sarcasm.

Am ddau ystlys dwfr dofn afon
Ymddyfustlynt gynt gyureinion;
Ymddyfustlai lew ar lan Aeron berth,
Pan borthes eryron.

About the two sides of the stream of a deep river, comrades formerly were dealing gall to one another; thus a lion would be throwing out bitterness on the banks of fair Aeron, when he fed the eagles. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Ymddyfustliad, s. m. (bustliad) A being mutually throwing out gall or sarcasm.
Ymddyfyniad, s. m. (dyfyniad) A self-approximating; a self-summoning; a mutually approximating.
Ymddyfynu, v. a. (dyfynu) To self-approximate; to self-summon; to summon mutually.

Ymddyfynwch fy amcanion diniwed o ogoneddu enw Duw.

Enquire within yourselves as to my innocent intention of glorifying God. S. Trefredyn.

Ymddygeliad, s. m. (dygeliad) A being mutually concealing; a being self-concealing.

Ymddygelu, v. a. (dygelu) To be mutually concealing; to be self-concealing.

Rhys wyf fi, heb yntau, mab Tewdwr, arglwydd y cyfoeth hwn o fewn ychydig, ac yr awron yn wrthladdedig, ac yn ffoedig, ac yn ddiffanedig bellach ydd wyf yn ymddygelu yn y noddfa hon.

I am Rhys, replied he, the son of Tewdwr, the sovereign of this country a little while ago, but now expelled, and fleeing, being almost perishing, I am concealing myself in this sanctuary. Buch. Gr. ab Cynan.

Ymddygawl, a. (dygawl) Self-deporting; mutually deporting.
Ymddygiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (dygiad) Self-deportment; behaviour, deportment, demeanour.
Ymddygiadus, a. (ymddygiad) Relating to self-deportment or demeanour.
Ymddygnawl, a. (dygnawl) Self-tormenting.
Ymddygniad, s. m. (dygniad) A self-tormenting; a mutually tormenting.
Ymddygnu, v. a. (dygnu) To torment or to harrass one's self; to toil mutually.
Ymddygoddi, v. a. (dygoddi) To be mutually vexing; to be vexing one's self.
Ymddygoddiad, s. m. (dygoddiad) A mutually vexing; a vexing one's self.
Ymddygrymiad, s. m. (dygrymiad) A being bowing one's self; a being mutually bowing.
Ymddygrymu, v. a. (dygrymu) To be self-bowing; to be mutually bowing.
Ymddygrynöad, s. m. (dygrynöad) A being collecting one's self; a being mutually collecting.
Ymddygrynöi, v. a. (dygrynöi) To be self-collecting; to be mutually collecting.
Ymddygrysiad, s. m. (dygrysiad) A being hastening one's self; a being mutually hastening.
Ymddygrysiaw, v. a. (dygrysiaw) To be self-hastening; to be mutually hastening.
Ymddyguddiad, s. m. (dyguddiad) A being self-hiding; a being mutually hiding.
Ymddyguddiaw, v. a. (dyguddiaw) To be self-hiding; to be mutually hiding.
Ymddyguraw, v. a. (dyguraw) To be beating mutually; to be beating one's self.
Ymddyguriad, s. m. (dyguriad) A being mutually beating; a being beating one's self.
Ymddygwd, s. m. (dygwd) A self-striving. v. a. To employ one's self in toil; to be toiling.
Ymddygwydd, s. m. (dygwydd) A mutual befalling
Ymddygwyddaw, v. a. (ymddygwydd) To befal mutually; to be happening.
Ymddygwyddawl, a. (dygwydd) Mutually falling.
Ymddygwyddiad, s. m. (ymddygwydd) A mutually befalling.
Ymddygwympaw, v. a. dygwympaw) To be mutually falling; to be self falling.
Ymddygychwyn, v. a. (dygychwyn) To be mutually starting off; to be starting one's self.
Ymddygychwyniad, s. m. (ymddygychwyn) A being mutually starting; a being starting one's self Ymddygyd, s. m. (dygyd) Deportment. v. a. To demean one's self, to conduct one's self; to bear or go with young.

Mab Owain, gyfwyrain gaddug.
Mad ganed, mad fam a'i hymddug.

The son of Owain, of uprising tempest, fortunately was he born, fortunate the mother who bore him. Ll. P. Moch.

Ymddygyfeiriad, s. m. (dygyfeiriad) A mutually coming in opposition.
Ymddygyfeiriaw, v. a. (dygyfeiriaw) To be coming mutually in opposition.
Ymddygyfiad, s. m. (dygyfiad) A being mutually combining or becoming equal.
Ymddygyfiaw, v. a. (dygyfiaw) To be combining mutually.

Ymddygyfrane, s. m. (dygyfrane) A mutual intercourse. v. n. To have mutual intercourse.

Ymddygyffröad, s. m. (dygyffröad) A being self-agitating; a being mutually agitating.

Ymddygyffröi, v. a. (dygyffröi) To be self-agitating; to be mutually agitating.

Ymddygylchiad, s. m. (dygylchiad) A being mutually surrounding; a being surrounding one's self.

Ymddygylchu, v. a. (dygylchu) To be mutually surrounding; to be self-surrounding.

Ymddygymhell, v. a. (dygymhell) To be mutually instigating; to be self-instigating.

Ymddygymhelliad, s. m. (ymddygymhell) A being mutually instigating; a being putting one's self forward.

Ymddygymmod, s. m. (dygymmod) Self-reconciliation; a mutual reconciliation.

Ymddygymmodi, v. a. (ymddygymmod) To be reconciling one's self; to be mutually reconciling.

Ymddygymmodiad, s. m. (ymddygymmod) A being reconciling one's self; a being mutually reconciling.

Ymddygymysgiad, s. m. (dygymysgiad) A being mutually mixing; a being mixing one's self.

Ymddygymysgu, v. a. (dygymysgu) To be mutually mixing; to be mixing one's self.

Ymddygynnal, v. a (dygynnal) To be self-supporting; to be mutually upholding.

Ymddygynnaliad, s. m. (ymddygynnal) A being self-supporting; a being mutually upholding.

Ymddygynnull, s. m. (dygynnull) A self-collecting; a mutual collection. v. a. To collect one's self; to collect together.

Ymddygynnulliad, s. m. (ymddygynnull) A being collecting one's self; a being mutually collecting.

Ymddygynnwys, v. a. (dygynnwys) To be mutually receiving or containing; to be containing one's self.

Ymddygynnwysiad, s. m. (ymddygynnwys) A being mutually receivng or containing; a being containing one's self.

Ymddygyrchawl, a. (dygyrch) Mutually resorting.

Ymddygyrchiad, s. m. (dygyrch) A being mutually resorting; to be resorting.

Ymddygyrchu, v. a. (dygyrchu) To be mutually resorting; to be resorting.

Ymddygysgodi, v. a. (dygysgodi) To be self-sheltering; to be mutually sheltering.

Ymddygysgodiad, s. m. (dygysgodiad) A being sheltering one's self; a being mutually sheltering.

Ymddygystuddiad, s. m. (dygystuddiad) A being self-afflicting; a being mutually afflicting.

Ymddygystuddiaw, v. a. (dygystuddiaw) To be self-afflicting; to be mutnally aggrieving.

Ymddygythruddaw, v. a. (dygythruddaw) To be perturbating one's self; to be mutually perturbating.

Ymddygythruddiad, s. m. (dygythruddiad) A being perturbating one's self; a being mutually perturbating.

Ymddyhaeriad, s. m. (dyhaeriad) A being mutually asserting; a being asserting one's self.

Ymddyhaeru, v. a. (dyhaeru) To be mutually asserting; to be asserting one's self.

Ymddyhebu, v. a. (dyhebu) To be self-divesting.

> Tri nod cywir y sydd ar ddyn i ddiawl, ac nis gall ymddyhebu ag hwynt: ei air, ei olwg, a'i ymmod.
>
> There are three certain marks on a person who belongs to the devil, and he cannot divest himself of them: his word, his look, and his deportment. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Ymddyhenad, s. m. (dyhenad) A making one's self to pant; a mutually panting.

Ymddyheuaw, v. a. (dyheuaw) To make one's self to pant; to pant mutually.

Ymddyhewydiad, s. m. (dyhewydiad) A fixing a mutual affection or devotion; a devoting one's self; a self-resolving.

Ymddyhewydiaw, v. a. (dyhewydiaw) To fix a mutual affection; to devote one's self.

Ymddyhiraw, v. a. (dyhiraw) To use one's self to linger; to linger or to loiter mutually.

Ymddyhiriad, s. m. (dyhiriad) A using one's self to linger; a mutually lingering.

Ymddyholi, v. a. (dyholi) To be mutually questioning; to be questioning one's self.

Ymddyholiad, s. m. (dyholiad) A being mutually questioning; a being questioning one's self.

Ymddyhuddaw, v. n. (dyhuddaw) To be covering one's self; to be covering mutually; to appease one's self; to be mutually quieted.

Ymddyhuddiad, s. m. (dyhuddiad) A being covering one's self; a being mutually covering; a quieting one's self; a mutually appeasing.

Ymddyhysbyddiad, s. m. (dyhysbyddiad) A being mutually exhausting; a being self-exhausting.

Ymddyhysbyddu, v. a. (dyhysbyddu) To be mutually exhausting; to be self-exhausting.

Ymddylamiad, s. m. (dylamiad) A being self-rebounding; a being mutually rebounding.

Ymddylamu, v. a. (dylamu) To be self rebounding; to be mutually rebounding.

Ymddylathriad, s. m. (dylathriad) A being rendering one's self glittering.

Ymddylathru, v. a. (dylathru) To be making one's self to glitter.

Ymddylenwad, s. m. (dylenwad) A being filling one's self; a being mutually filling.

Ymddylenwi, v. a. (dylenwi) To be filling one's self; to be mutually filling or replenishing.

Ymddylifad, s. m. (dylifad) A being mutually flowing; a self-flowing.

Ymddylifaw, v. a. (dylifaw) To be mutually flowing; to be self flowing.

Ymddylochi, v. a. (dylochi) To protect mutually; to protect one's self.

Ymddylochiad, s. m. (dylochiad) A protecting mutually; a protecting one's self.

Ymddyludaw, v. a. (dyludaw) To employ one's self in pursuing; to adhere mutually.

Ymddyludiad, s. m. (dyludiad) A self adhering; a mutually adhering.

Ymddyluniad, s. m. (dyluniad) A self-delineation; a mutually delineating.

Ymddyluniaw, v. a. (dyluniaw) To delineate one's self; to delineate mutually.

Ymddylusgaw, v. a. (dylusgaw) To be dragging one's self; to be mutually dragging.

Ymddylusgiad, s. m. (dylusgiad) A being dragging one's self; a being mutually dragging.

Ymddylŷad, s. m. (dylŷad) A being mutually obliged; a rendering one's self obligatory.

Ymddylŷaw, v. a. (dylŷaw) To be mutually obligatory; to render one's self obligatory.

Ymddylyniad, s. m. (dylyniad) A being mutually adhering; a causing one's self to adhere.

Ymddylynu, v. a. (dylynu) To be mutually adhering; to cause one's self to adhere.

Ymddylliad, s. m. (dylliad) A mutually overshadowing; a self-overwhelming; a looking frowningly.

Ymddyllu, v. a. (dyllu) To overshadow mutually;

to overshadow one's self; to look frowningly; to stare with a stern look.

Dygryswys Flamddwyn yn bedwarllu,
Goddeu a Rheged i ymddyllu.

Flamddwyn hastened with four hosts, Goddeu and Rheged to overwhelm. Taliesin.

Ymddyllyngiad, s. m. (dyllyngiad) A being self-loosening; a being mutually liberating.
Ymddyllyngiaw, v. a. (dyllyngiaw) To be self-loosening; to be mutually loosening.
Ymddynesâad, s. m. (dynesâad) A being self-approximating; a being mutually approximating.
Ymddynesâu, v. a. (dynesâu) To be self-approximating; to be mutually approximating.
Ymddynesiad, s. m. (dynesiad) A self-approaching; a being mutually approaching.
Ymddynesu, v. a. (dynesu) To be drawing one's self near; to be mutually approaching.
Ymddynoethi, v. a. (dynoethi) To be self-denuding; to be mutually denuding.

Ymddynoethaist i arall heb fy llaw i.

Thou hast discovered thyself to another besides me. Esay lvii. 8.

Ymddynoethiad, s. m. (dynoethiad) A being denuding or exposing one's self; a being mutually making naked.
Ymddynwared, s. m. (dynwared) A being as a mimick. v. a. To be mimicking; to be mimicking one another.
Ymddynwarediad, s. m. (ymddynwared) A being employing one's self in mimickry; a being mutually mimicking.
Ymddŷoddef, v. a. (dŷoddef) To be self-suffering; to be mutually suffering.
Ymddŷoddefiad, s. m. (ymddŷoddef) A being self-suffering; a being mutually suffering.
Ymddŷoddeu, v. a. (dŷoddeu) To be bearing one's self; to be mutually bearing.

Bydd gydymaith gloywiaith glau:
Ymddyoddo'n well ymddyddau.

Be a true companion of lucid speech: accommodate thyself better to discourse. D. ab Gwilym, i'r bardd.

Ymddŷosg, s. m. (dŷosg) A self-disarraying.
Ymddŷosgi, v. a. (dŷosg) To undress one's self.
Ymddŷosgiad, s. m. (ymddŷosg) An undressing or disarraying of one's self.
Ymddyrchafael, s. m. (dyrchafael) A self-exalting. v. a. To exalt one's self; to exalt mutually.

Y mab hwnw, wedi ymddyrchafael, ymroddi a orug yn ngodineb.

That youth after exalting himself, gave himself up to adultery. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymddyrchafiad, s. m (dyrchafiad) A self-exalting; a mutually exalting.
Ymddyrchafiaeth, s. m. (dyrchafiaeth) Self-exaltation; self-advancement; mutual exaltation.
Ymddyrchafu, v. a. (dyrchafu) To exalt one's self; to exalt or to advance mutually.
Ymddyrchafwr, s. m.--pl. ymddyrchafwyr (dyrchafwr) One who exalts himself.
Ymddyrchawl, a. (dyrchawl) Raising one's self.
Ymddyrchiad, s. m. (dyrchiad) A self raising.
Ymddyrchu, v. a. (dyrchu) To uplift one's self.
Ymddyrnodiad, s. m. (dyrnodiad) A mutually boxing; a beating one's self.
Ymddyrnodiaw, v. a. (dyrnodiaw) To box one another; to thump one's self.
Ymddyröad, s. m. (dyröad) A being self-yielding
Ymddyröi, v. a. (dyröi) To be yielding one's self.

Yn wrol i'th fabolaeth
Ymddyro'n Gymmro, nid gwaeth.

Manfully through the time of thy youth be passing thyself as a Welshman, and no worse will come. I. Tew Brydydd Ieuanc.

Ymddyrwyddaw, v. a. (dyrwyddaw) To be facilitating one's self.
Ymddyrwyddiad, s. m. (dyrwyddiad) A being facilitating one's self.
Ymddyrwyn, s. m. (dyrwyn) A self-winding. v. a. To wind one's self; to wind up mutually.
Ymddyrwyniad, s. m. (ymddyrwyn) A winding of one's self; a mutually winding up.
Ymddyrysiad, s. m. (dyrysiad) A self-entangling; a mutually entangling.
Ymddyrysu, v. a. (dyrysu) To entangle one's self to entangle mutually.

Dichell a ymddyrysa yn ei chroglath ei hunan.

Craft will entangle herself in her own snare. Adage.

Ymddysbwyll, s. m. (dysbwyll) Self-consideration. v. a. To examine one's self.

Goreu gwaith synwyr ymddysbwyll diffuant.

The best act of the sense is undisguised examination of one's self. Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymddysbwylliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymddysbwyll) A considering one's self.
Ymddysbyddiad, s. m. (dysbyddiad) A self-depletion.
Ymddysbyddu, v. a. (dysbyddu) To empty one's self.
Ymddysgleiriad, s. m. (dysgleiriad) A making one's self to shine; a mutually glittering.
Ymddysgleiriaw, v. a. (dysgleiriaw) To make one's self to glitter; to glitter mutually.
Ymddysgiad, s. m. (dysgiad) A self-instructing; a mutually instructing.
Ymddysgori, v. a. (dysgori) To clamour mutually; to be clamouring.
Ymddysgoriad, s. m. (dysgoriad) A clamouring mutually; a keeping a clamour.
Ymddysgu, v. a. (dysgu) To instruct one's self; to instruct mutually.
Ymddysgwyl, s. m. (dysgwyl) A keeping one's self in expectation. v. a. To keep one's self expecting; to expect mutually.
Ymddysgwylgar, a. (ymddysgwyl) Apt to keep one's self expecting; mutually looking.
Ymddysgwyliad, s. m. (ymddysgwyl) A keeping one's self expecting; a mutually expecting.
Ymddysgyriad, s. m. (dysgyriad) A keeping one's self in screaming.
Ymddysgyriaw, v. a. (dysgyriaw) To scream mutually; to keep one's self in screaming.
Ymddystawiad, s. m. (dystawiad) A mutually silencing; a making one's self silent.
Ymddystewi, v. a. (dystewi) To become mutually silent; to make one's self silent.
Ymddŷunaw, v. a. (dŷunaw) To unite one's self; to unite together, to confederate.
Ymddŷuniad, s. m. (dŷuniad) A connecting one's self; a mutually uniting.
Ymddywadiad, s. m. (dywadiad) A being mutually denying; a being denying one's self.
Ymddywadu, v. a. (dywadu) To be mutually denying; to be denying one's self.
Ymddywalâad, s. m. (dywalâad) A mutually enraging; a making one's self furious.
Ymddywalâu, v. a. (dywalâu) To enrage mutually; to render one's self furious.
Ymddywasgiad, s. m. (dywasgiad) Self-compression; a being mutually squeezing.
Ymddywasgu, v. a. (dywasgu) To self-compress; to be mutually squeezing.
Ymddywediad, s. m. (dywediad) A mutually speaking; a keeping one's self speaking.

Ymddywedyd, v. a. (dywedyd) To speak mutually; to employ one's self in speaking.

> Gwedi darffo eistedd yn gyfreithlawl, yna y mae iawn i'r yngnad ddywedyd wrth y ddwy blaid, Ymddywedwch o gyfraith weithon.
>
> When the court shall be lawfully sitting, then it is right for the judge to say to the two parties, now do you mutually speak of law. Welsh Laws.

Ymddyweddïad, s. m. (dyweddïad) A mutually espousing; a coupling one's self.

Ymddyweddïaw, v. a. (dyweddïaw) To espouse mutnally; to become wedded or espoused; to yoke or join one's self.

> Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau a ymddyweddïas a Rhonwen ferch Hors.
>
> Vortigern with Repulsive Lips yoked himself with Rhonwen the daughter of Horsa. Trioedd.

Ymddywisgaw, v. a. (dywisgaw) To be dressing one's self; to be mutually arraying.

Ymddywisgiad, s. m. (dywisgiad) A being dressing one's self; a being mutually arraying.

Ymddywyn, s. m. (dywyn) A mutual blessing; a self-blessing. v. a. To bless mutually; to render one's self blessed.

> O treinc mab dyn heb ymddywyn a Duw.——
>
> If a son of man shall depart without sanctifying himself of God.—— Elaeth.

Ymddywynaw, v. a. (ymddywyn) To devote, to consecrate; to pay a vow.

Ymddywyniad, s. m. (ymddywyn) A mutually blessing; a consecrating or blessing one's self.

Ymddywynygu, v. a. (dywynygu) To appear resplendent.

> Ni thâl dim lle nad ymddywynyco ynddo ryw grynodeb.
>
> What there doth not appear conspicuous in it some connection is good for nothing. Cutwg Ddoeth.

Ymddywystlaw, v. a. (dywystlaw) To be mutually pledging; to be giving one's self a hostage.

Ymddywystliad, s. m. (dywystliad) A being mutually pledging; a being pledging or giving one's self as a hostage.

Ymëangiad, s. m. (ëangiad) A self-amplifying; a mutually giving space.

Ymëangu, v. a. (ëangu) To self-amplify; to enlarge mutually.

Ymebrwyddaw, v. a. (ebrwyddaw) To accelerate one's self.

Ymebrwyddiad, s. m. (ebrwyddiad) A self-accelerating; a mutually hastening.

Ymechrydiad, s. m. (echrydiad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually quaking.

Ymechrydu, v. a. (echrydu) To cause one's self to tremble; to tremble mutually.

Ymechrysiad, s. m. (echrysiad) A causing a mutual shock or terror; a rendering one's self shocking.

Ymechrysu, v. a. (echrysu) To cause mutual horror; to be self shocked.

Ymechwyna, v. a. (echwyna) To borrow or to lend mutually; to lend one's self.

Ymechwyniad, s. m. (echwyniad) A mutually lending; a lending one's self.

Ymedfryd, s. m. (edfryd) Self-restoration. v. a. To restore one's self, to renew one's self.

Ymedliw, s. m. (edliw) Mutual reproach; self-reproach.

Ymedliwiad, s. m. (edliw) A mutually reproaching; a self-upbraiding.

Ymedliwiaw, v. a. (ymedliw) To reproach mutually; to upbraid one's self.

Ymedliwied, v. a. (ymedliw) To upbraid mutually; to upbraid one's self.

Ymedrych, s. m. (edrych) To look mutually; to look at one's self.

Ymedrychgar, a. (ymedrych) Being apt to look about warily.

Ymedrychiad, s. m. (ymedrych) A mutually looking; a looking at one's self.

Ymedryd, s. m. (edryd) Self-restoration; mutual restoration. v. a. To restore one's self; to restore mutually.

Ymedrydiad, s. m. (ymedryd) Self-restoration; mutual restoration.

Ymeglurâad, s. m. (eglurâad) Self-manifestation; mutual illustration or manifestation.

Ymeglurâu, v. a. (eglurâu) To manifest one's self; to be mutually manifest.

Ymegluraw, v. a. (egluraw) To explain one's self; to explain mutually.

Ymegluriad, s. m. (egluriad) A self-explaining; a mutually explaining.

Ymegnïad, s. m. (egnïad) A self-exertion; mutual exertion.

Ymegnïaw, v. a. (egnïaw) To exert one's self; to exert mutually.

Ymegnïawl, a. (egnïawl) Self-exerting; of mutual exertion.

Ymegnïwr, s. m.—pl. ymegnïwyr (egnïwr) One who exerts himself.

Ymegori, v. a. (egori) To open one's self; to open mutually.

Ymegoriad, s. m. (egoriad) A disclosing one's self; a mutually opening.

Ymegwyddori, v. a. (egwyddori) To furnish one's self with principles or elements; mutually to instil principles.

Ymegwyddoriad, s. m. (egwyddoriad) A furnishing one's self with principles; a mutually instilling principles.

Ymehedeg, v. a. (ehedeg) To make one's self to fly; to fly mutually.

Ymehediad, s. m. (ehediad) A making one's self to fly; a mutually flying.

Ymeiddilaw, v. a. (eiddilaw) To diminish one's self; to enervate one's self.

Ymeiddiliad, s. m. (eiddiliad) Self-enervation.

Ymeiddunaw, v. a. (eiddunaw) To employ one's self in wishing; to wish mutually.

Ymeidduniad, s. m. (eidduniad) An employing one's self in wishing; a mutually wishing.

Ymeilliad, s. m. (eilliad) A shaving one's self.

Ymeilliaw, v. a. (eilliaw) To shave one's self.

> Ymfoela ac ymeillia am dy blant moethus.
>
> Make thee bald and poll thee for thy delicate children. Micah i. 16.

Ymeirgar, a. (geirgar) Querulous; loquacious.

Ymeirgarwch, s. m. (ymeirgar) A cavilling disposition.

Ymeiriach, s. m. (eiriach) A mutual deprecation. v. a. To deprecate mutually; to be deprecating.

Ymeiriad, s. m. (geiriad) Altercation; mutual war of words.

Ymeiriaw, v. a. (geiriaw) To contend in words.

Ymeiriawl, a. (eiriawl) An employing of one's self in interceding; mutual persuasion. v. a. To employ one's self in interceding; mutually to intercede.

> Uffern——
> Yny mae mawrwae heb ymeiriawl.
>
> Hell: in it there is extreme of woe without intercession. Bleddyn Fardd.

Ymeiriolad, s. m. (ymeiriawl) A mutual intercession; a mutual persuasion.

Ymeirioli, v. a. (ymeiriawl) To intercede mutually; to be interceding or persuading.

Ymeiriwr, s. m.—pl. ymeiriwyr (ymeiriaw—gwr) A talkative man.

Nid mynych gwr mawr ymeiriwr.

A talker is seldom a great man. Adage.

Ymeisiwaw, v. a. (eisiwaw) A making one's self destitute; mutually to make destitute.
Ymeisiwiad, s. m. (eisiwiad) A rendering one's self destitute; a mutually making destitute.
Ymeistedd, s. m. (eistedd) A mutual sitting; a seating one's self. v. a. To sit mutually; to seat one's self.
Ymeisteddiad, s. m. (ymeistedd) A mutually sitting; a seating one's self.
Ymelïad, s. m. (elïad) An annointing one's self.
Ymelïaw, v. a. (elïaw) To annoint one's self.
Ymelwa, v. a. (elwa) To seek self-profit; mutually to seek gain.
Ymelwad, s. m. (elwad) The employing one's self in seeking gain.
Ymelwain, v. a. (gelwain) To keep calling.
Ymen, s. m. (en) That is contained, pent, or dammed up. a. Being collected together.

Gwnai man y delai na myn doli gwin,
Mwy no dwfr melin ymen Deifi.

He would cause where he might come that he should not lack wine, more than the water of the mill of where there is a dam of Teivi. Madawg Dwygraig.

Ymeniwed, s. m. (eniwed) A self-hurting; a mutual hurting.
Ymeniwaw, v. a. (eniwaw) To hurt one's self; to cause mutual harm.
Ymenllibiad, s. m. (enllibiad) A mutually detracting; a self-scandalizing.
Ymenllibiaw, v. a. (enllibiaw) To detract mutually; to scandalize one's self.
Ymennyliad, s. m. (anneliad) A taking aim.
Ymennylu, v. a. (annelu) To employ one's self in aiming.

Y seren——
Minnau oedd yn ymennyl.

The star, I too was employing myself in viewing. Iolo Goch.

Ymennyn, s. m. (ennyn) A self-kindling. v. a. To self-kindle; to kindle mutually.
Ymennyniad, s. m. (ennyniad) A self-kindling; a mutually kindling.
Ymennynu, v. a. (ennynu) To self-kindle; to kindle mutually.
Ymenwad, s. m. (enwad) Self-nomination; a mutual naming.
Ymenwaediad, s. m. (enwaediad) A self-circumcising.
Ymenwaedu, v. a. (enwaedu) To self-circumcise.
Ymenwi, v. a. (enwi) To self-nominate, to nominate mutually.
Ymenwogi, v. a. (enwogi) To signalize one's self
Ymenwogiad, s. m. (enwogiad) A self-signalizing
Ymenydd, s. m.—pl. t. au (ym—enydd) The brain.
Ymenyddawl, a. (ymenydd) Belonging to the brain
Ymenydd-dro, s. m. (ymenydd—tro) A vertigo.
Ymenyddiad, s. m. (ymenydd) A braining.
Ymenyddu, v. a. (ymennydd) To form brains.
Ymenyn, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymen) Butter.

Tri enllyn iechyd: mel, ymenyn, a llaeth.

The three sauces of health: honey, butter, and milk. Adage.

Ymenynaidd, a. (ymenyn) Like butter.
Ymenynawl, a. (ymenyn) Of buttery nature.
Ymenyneiddiad, s. m. (ymenynaidd) A rendering like butter; a becoming like butter.
Ymenyneiddiaw, v. a. (ymenynaidd) To render like butter; to become like butter.
Ymenyniad, s. m. (ymenyn) A buttering.
Ymenynllyd, a. (ymenyn) Full of butter.
Ymenynu, v. a. (ymenyn) To form butter.
Ymëofni, v. a. (ëofni) To self-embolden; mutually to embolden.
Ymëofniad, s. m. (ymëofni) A making one's self bold: a mutually emboldening.
Ymëoni, v. a. (ëoni) To embolden one's self; to embolden mutually.
Ymëoniad, s. m. (ëoniad) A self-emboldening; a mutually emboldening.
Ymeppiliad, s. m. (eppiliad) A self-producing.
Ymeppiliaw, v. a. (eppiliaw) To self-produce.
Ymerbyn, s. m. (erbyn) The being in opposition or ready to receive. v. a. To be in opposition; to receive mutually.

Ydd oedd ymerbyn heb ymarbed.

There was a mutual encounter without self sparing. Cynddelw.

Ffoes Octa—hyd i Gaer Efrawc, at Osa ei gefnderw; a rhan arall i Gaer Alclwyd, ac yno ymerbyn ag Emrys.

Octa fled as far as the city of York, to Osa his cousin; and another division to the city of Alclwyd, and there putting himself in opposition to Emrys. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymerbyniad, s. m. (ymerbyn) One who employs himself in receiving; one who is in opposition; one mutually in opposition.

Cad ymerbyniaid enaid dichwant.

The mutual opponents of battle regardless of life. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Ymerbyniaw, v. a. (ymerbyn) To put one's self to receive or in apposition; to receive mutually Ymerbyniawl, a. (ymerbyn) Being in receiving.
Ymerbynied, v. a. (ymerbyn) To put one's self to receive or in apposition; to receive mutually Ymerbyniwr, s. m.—pl. ymerbyniwyr (ymerbyn—gwr) One who employs himself in receiving; one who places himself in apposition; a mutual receiver.
Ymerfyniad, s. m. (erfyniad) A being requesting or intreating; a mutually intreating.
Ymerfyniaw, v. a. (erfyniaw) To be requesting; to request mutually.
Ymergydiad, s. m. (ergydiad) A self-projecting; a mutually projecting or casting.
Ymergydiaw, v. a. (ergydiaw) To project one's self; to project mutually.
Ymerlid, s. m. (erlid) The employing one's self in pursuing; mutual persecution.
Ymerlidiad, s. m. (ymerlid) An employing one's self in pursuing or persecuting; a mutually persecuting.
Ymerlyn, v. a. (erlyn) To employ one's self in pursuing; to pursue mutually.
Ymerlyniad, s. m. (ymerlyn) An employing one's self in pursuing; a mutually pursuing.
Ymerlynwr, s. m.—pl. ymerlynwyr (ymerlyn—gwr) One who employs himself in pursuing; a mutual pursuer.
Ymerlynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymerlyn) One who employs himself in pursuing; one who pursues mutually.
Ymerthu, v. a. (erthu) To strive together.
Ymerwinad, s. m. (gerwinad) A self-exasperation; a mutually ruffling.
Ymerwinaw, v. a. (gerwinaw) To ruffle one's self; to exasperate mutually.
Ymerwinawl, a. (gerwinawl) Self-ruffling, mutually exasperating.
Ymesgar, s. m. (esgar) A self-separation; mutual separation. v. a. To separate one's self; to separate mutually.

Ymesgariad, s. m. (ymesgar) A separating one's self; a mutually separating.

Ymesgaru, v. a. (ymesgar) To separate one's self; to separate mutually.

Ymesgeulusaw, v. a. (esgeulusaw) To make one's self neglectful; to neglect mutually.

Ymesgeulusiad, s. m. (esgeulusiad) A causing one's self to neglect; a self-neglecting; a mutually neglecting.

Ymesgor, s. m. (esgor) The state of being delivered or brought to bed.

Ymesgori, v. a. (ymesgor) To be delivered.

Ymesgoriad, s. m. (ymesgor) A self-delivering.

Ymesgusodi, v. a. (esgusodi) To make excuse for one's self; to make a mutual excuse.

Ymesgyn, v. a. (esgyn) To cause one's self to ascend; to ascend mutually.

Ymesgyniad, s. m. (ymesgyn) A self-ascending; a mutually ascending.

Ymesmwythaw, v. a. (esmwythaw) To ease one's self; to relieve one's self.

Ymesmwythawl, a. (esmwythawl) Self-easing; tending to mutual ease.

Ymesmwythiad, s. m. (esmwythiad) A self-easing; a making mutually easy.

Ymestyn, s. m. (estyn) A self-stretching. v. a. To stretch one's self.

Ymestynawl, a. (ymestyn) Self-extending.

Ymestyniad, s. m. (ymestyn) A self-extending.

Ymethol, s. m. (ethol) Self-election; mutual election.

Ymetholi, v. a. (ymethol) To self-elect; mutually to elect.

Ymetholiad, s. m. (ymethol) A self-electing; a mutually electing.

Ymeuocâad, s. m. (euocâad) A making one's self guilty; a becoming mutually guilty.

Ymeuocâu, v. a. (euocâu) To make one's self guilty; to become mutually guilty.

Ymeuogi, v. a. (euogi) To make one's self guilty; to become mutually guilty.

Ymeuogiad, s. m. (euogiad) A making one's self guilty; a rendering mutually guilty.

Ymewinad, s. m. (ewinad) A using one's nails.

Ymewinaw, v. a. (ewinaw) To fasten one's nails.

Ymfachiad, s. m. (bachiad) A hooking one's self.

Ymfachu, v. a. (bachu) To hook one's self.

Ymfalchïad, s. m. (balchïad) A priding one's self

Ymfalchïaw, v. a. (balchïaw) To be self-proud.

> Pa hyd——
> Yr ymfalchiant yn eu drwg,
> Gan fygwth amlwg ffrostus!
>
> How long will they pride themselves in their wickedness, with manifest and scornful threat! Edm. Prys, Ps. 94.

Ymfanson, s. m. (manson) A muttering. v. a. To mutter to one's self.

Ymfarweiddiad, s. m. (marweiddiad) A deadening or mortifying one's self.

Ymfarweiddiaw, v. a. (marweiddiaw) To deaden one's self.

Ymfawdd, s. m. (bawdd) A self-drowning.

Ymfawrâad, s. m. (mawrâad) A self-magnifying; a magnifying mutually.

Ymfawrâu, v. a. (mawrâu) To self-magnify; to magnify mutually.

Ymfawrygiad, s. m. (mawrygiad) A magnifying one's self; a mutually magnifying.

Ymfawrygu, v. a. (mawrygu) To magnify one's self; to magnify mutually.

Ymfeiddiad, s. m. (beiddiad) A venturing one's self; a mutually daring.

Ymfeiddiaw, v. a. (beiddiaw) To venture one's self; to adventure, or dare mutually.

> Hawdd i bawb a thi i'th wyneb, am fudd,
> Ymfeiddiaw am ateb.
>
> It is easy for every body to look thee in thy face, for a gift, to presume for an answer. Gr. Rufel, i D. ab Owain.

Ymfelltithiaw, v. a. (melltithiaw) To self-curse; to curse mutually.

Ymfenwedigaw, v. a. (menwedigaw) To bless one's self; to bless mutually.

Ymfenwedigiad, s. m. (menwedigiad) A blessing one's self; a mutually blessing.

Ymfenwydaw, v. a. (menwydaw) To make one's self happy; to yield mutual happiness.

Ymfenwydiad, s. m. (menwydiad) A making one's self happy; a mutually giving happiness.

Ymfinial, v. a. (minial) To be mutually putting lips together; to kiss one another.

Ymfiniaw, v. a. (miniaw) Mutually to touch lips.

Ymflinaw, v. a. (blinaw) To tire one's self.

> Yn awr nac ymflined neb
> O'th wynian am ddoethineb.
>
> At present let no one trouble himself about thy hankerings after wisdom. Ed. Evan o Aber Dar.

Ymfliniad, s. m. (bliniad) A tiring one's self.

Ymfoddâad, s. m. (boddâad) A pleasing one's self

Ymfoddâu, v. a. (boddâu) To please one's self.

Ymfoddiad, s. m. (boddiad) A contenting one's self; a mutually contenting.

Ymfoddiaw, v. a. (boddiaw) To content one's self; to yield mutual contentment.

Ymfoddloni, v. a. (boddloni) To make one's self contented; to rest contented; to acquiesce; to content mutually.

Ymfoddloniad, s. m. (boddloniad) A self-contenting; a mutually contenting.

Ymfoeli, v. a. (moeli) To make one's self bald.

Ymfolach, s. m. (molach) Self-flattery; mutual flattery or wheedling.

Ymfolachiad, s. m. (ymfolach) A flattering one's self; a mutually flattering.

Ymfolachu, v. a. (ymfolach) To self-flatter.

Ymfolachus, a. (ymfolach) Self-flattering; apt to flatter mutually.

Ymfolachwr, s. m. (ymfolach) One who flatters himself; a mutual flatterer.

Ymfoldesiad, s. m. (boldesiad) A basking one's self in the sun.

Ymfoldesu, v. a. (boldesu) To be basking one's self in the sun.

Ymfolheulaw, v. a. (bolheulaw) To bask one's belly in the sun.

Ymfolheuliad, s. m. (bolheuliad) A basking one's belly in the sun.

Ymfoliaw, v. a. (boliaw) To gorge one's self.

Ymfolrythiad, s. m. (bolrythiad) A stretching out one's belly.

Ymfolrythu, v. a. (bolrythu) To stretch out one's belly.

Ymfonclustiad, s. m. (bonclustiad) A mutually boxing the ears.

Ymfonclustiaw, v. a. (bonclustiaw) To box the ears mutually.

Ymforiad, s. m. (moriad) An employing one's self in seafaring.

Ymforiaw, v. a. (moriaw) To employ one's self in seafaring.

Ymfrasâad, s. m. (brasâad) A self-fattening.

Ymfrasâu, v. a. (brasâu) To fatten one's self.

> Mae y goludawg yn ymfrasâu ar ddagrau y tylodion.
>
> The wealthy is fattening himself on the tears of the poor. Adage.

Ymfrawiad, s. m. (brawiad) A self-dismaying.
Ymfrawu, v. a. (brawu) To dismay one's self.
Ymfrawychiad, s. m. (brawychiad) A filling one's self with dismay.
Ymfrawychu, v. a. (brawychu) To fill one's self with dismay.
Ymfreicheidiad, s. m. (breicheidiad) A mutually embracing.
Ymfreicheidiaw, v. a. (breicheidiaw) To embrace mutually.
Ymfrithaw, v. a. (brithaw) To self-variegate.
Ymfrithiad, s. m. (brithiad) A self-variegating.
Ymfrochi, v. a. (brochi) To be in a fume.
Ymfrochiad, s. m. (brochiad) A putting one's self in a fume or chafe; a self-ruffling.
Ymfroni, v. a. (broni) To swell one's bosom.

> Mae llawer yn hoewfeilchion, yn ymfroni, ac yn ymosawd allan oreu y gallont.
>
> There are many in sprightly pride, swelling out their bosoms, and shewing themselves out as well as they are able.
> Morgan Llwyd.

Ymfrwydraw, v. a. (brwydraw) To engage one's self in battle; to fight mutually.
Ymfrwydriad, s. m. (brwydriad) An engaging one's self in battle; a mutually battling.
Ymfrysiad, s. m. (brysiad) A hastening one's self; a mutually hastening.
Ymfrysiaw, v. a. (brysiaw) To hasten one's self; to hasten mutually.
Ymfucheddiad, s. m. (bucheddiad) A conducting one's self in life.
Ymfucheddu, v. a. (bucheddu) To conduct one's self in life; to pass a life.

> A fyno ddial yn drwm ar ei elyn ymfuchedded yn lân.
>
> He that would revenge heavily on his foe let him conduct himself uprightly. Adage.

Ymfustlaw, v. a. (bustlaw) To self-embitter; mutually to deal in sarcasms.
Ymfustliad, s. m. (bustliad) An employing one's self in rancorous words; a mutually shewing rancour.
Ymfwriad, s. m. (bwriad) A purposing with one's self; a mutually designing or purposing.
Ymfwriadu, v. a. (ymfwriad) To employ one's self in purposing; to purpose mutually.
Ymfwynâad, s. m. (mwynâad) A self enjoying; a mutually enjoying.
Ymfwynâu, v. a. (mwynâu) To enjoy one's self; to enjoy mutually.
Ymfychaniad, s. m. (bychaniad) A lessening one's self; a mutually lessening or disparaging.
Ymfychanu, v. a. (bychanu) To lessen one's self; to be mutually lessening or depreciating.
Ymfydiaw, v. a. (bydiaw) To conduct one's self in the world.

> Goreu diwydrwydd ymfydiaw yn ddarbodawl.
>
> The best assiduity is to conduct one's self in the world circumspectly. Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymfyddinad, s. m. (byddinad) A self-embattling; a mutually embattling.
Ymfyddinaw, v. a. (byddinaw) To embattle one's self; mutually to embattle.

> Ffoes Hingestr a'i wyr i Gaer Cynan—a'u hymlid a orug Emrys; ac yno ymfyddinaw a lladd llawer o bobtu.
>
> Hingestr and his men fled to the fortress of Cynan; so Emrys pursued them; and thereupon they mutually array, and kill many on both sides. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymfyfyriad, s. m. (myfyriad) A contemplating with one's self.
Ymfyfyriaw, v. a. (myfyriaw) To contemplate with one's self.
Ymfygydiad, s. m. (mygydiad) A self-masking.
Ymfygydu, v. a. (mygydu) To mask one's self.
Ymfynteiad, s. m. (mynteiad) A joining one's self to a throng; a mutually flocking.
Ymfynteiaw, v. a. (mynteiaw) To unite one's self to a multitude; to flock mutually.
Ymfyrâad, s. m. (byrâad) A self-curtailing; a mutually shortening.
Ymfyrâu, v. a. (byrâu) To self-curtail.
Ymfyriad, s. m. (byriad) A self-shortening.
Ymfyriaw, v. a. (byriaw) To self-shorten.
Ymfywâad, s. m. (bywâad) A self-animating; a mutually enlivening.
Ymfywâu, v. a. (bywâu) To enliven one's self; to animate mutually.
Ymfywiocâad, s. m. (bywiocâad) A self-enlivening; a mutually animating.
Ymfywiocâu, v. a. (bywiocâu) To enliven one's self; to animate mutually.
Ymfywiogi, v. a. (bywiogi) To self-enliven; to become mutually animated.
Ymfywiogiad, s. m. (bywiogiad) A self-enlivening; a mutually enlivening.
Ymffieiddiad, s. m. (ffieiddiad) A self-loathing; a mutually loathing.
Ymffieiddiaw, v. a. (ffieiddiaw) To loathe one's self; to loathe mutually.
Ymffonodiad, s. m. (ffonodiad) A mutually cudgelling or dealing blows.
Ymffrost, s. m. (ffrost) A self-vaunting.
Ymffrostiad, s. m. (ymffrost) A self-vaunting.
Ymffrostiaw, v. a. (ymffrost) To self-vaunt.

> Cas a ymffrostio o'i gywilydd ei hun.
>
> Odious is he who prides himself of his own shame. Adage.

Ymffrwynaw, v. a. (ffrwynaw) To self-bridle.
Ymffrwyniad, s. m. (ffrwyniad) A self-bridling.
Ymffurfiad, s. m. (ffurfiad) A self-conforming; a mutually forming or shaping.
Ymffurfiaw, v. a. (ffurfiaw) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.
Ymffust, s. m. (ffust) A self-threshing; a mutual beating or boxing.
Ymffustiad, s. m. (ymffust) A self-threshing; a mutually threshing.
Ymffustiaw, v. a. (ymffust) To self-thresh; to beat one another.
Ymffyddiad, s. m. (ffyddiad) A plighting one's self; a plighting mutual faith.
Ymffyddiaw, v. a. (ffyddiaw) To plight one's faith; to plight a mutual troth.

> Rhaid yw dawed tair llaw ynghyd wrth roddi dyn yn fach: llaw y mach, a llaw y neb a'i rhoddo yn fach, a llaw y neb ei cymero, ac ymffyddiaw o law i law.
>
> It is necessary for three hands to come together on predering a person for bail: the hand of the bail, and the hand of him who gives him as bail, and the hand of the one who shall have accepted him, and to plight mutually from hand to hand.
> Welsh Laws.

Ymgabliad, s. m. (cabliad) A self-calumniating; a mutually calumniating.
Ymgablu, v. a. (cablu) To calumniate one's self; to calumniate mutually.
Ymgadarnâad, s. m. (cadarnâad) A self-strengthening; a mutually strengthening.
Ymgadarnâu, v. a. (cadarnâu) To self-strengthen; to strengthen mutually.

> Cas a ymgadarnâo mewn drwg.
>
> Odious is he who shall defend himself in evil. Adage.
>
> Rhyw i ddyn bechu, ond rhyw i ddiawl yn unig ymgadarnâu yn ei bechawd.
>
> It is natural for man to sin, but it is natural for the devil alone to defend himself in his sin. Adage.

Ymgadw, v. a. (cadw) To keep one's self; to contain one's self; to refrain, to forbear; to keep or guard mutually.

> Daeth Hors a Hingestyr at y brenin, i geisiaw caer neu gastell i ymgadw.
>
> Hors and Hingestyr came to the king, to obtain a fortress or castle to secure themselves. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgadwad, s. m. (ymgadw) A self-keeping; self-preservation; self-restraint.

Ymgadwynaw, v. a. (cadwynaw) To chain one's self; to chain mutually.

Ymgadwyniad, s. m. (cadwyniad) A self-chaining; a mutually chaining.

Ymgael, v. a. (cael) To obtain to one's self; to conceive; to obtain mutually; to meet together.

> Pa fam a'i hymgaoedd?
>
> What mother has conceived him? Mabinogi.
>
> Pa gyfarwydd a fydd imi o ymgael ag y gwr a ddywedi di?
>
> What certainty will there be for me of finding the person thou art speaking of? H. Pwyll—Mabinogion.

Ymgaethiwaw, v. a. (caethiwaw) To confine one's self; mutually to confine.

Ymgaffael, s. m. (caffael) Self-acquirement; mutual attainment. v. a. To be acquiring; to attain mutually.

Ymgaffaeliad, s. m. (ymgaffael) A self-acquiring; a mutually obtaining.

Ymgaffiad, s. m. (caffiad) A reaching out one's arms; a mutually catching or grasping at.

Ymgaffiaw, v. a. (caffiaw) To reach out one's arms to catch; to catch at mutually.

Ymgagliad, s. m. (cagliad) A bedaggling one's self.

Ymgaglu, v. a. (caglu) To bedaggle one's self.

Ymgaint, s. f.—pl. ymgeinniau (caint) The act of mutual bickering or scolding.

Ymgais, s. f.—pl. ymgeisiau (cais) An effort, an attempt; self-exertion. v. a. To make an effort; to attempt; to seek for; to seek mutually.

> Galledig pethau mawrion gan ymgais.
>
> Great things are possible with self-exertion. Adage.
>
> Tri pheth sydd yn ymgadarnâu beunydd, gan fod mwyaf yr ymgais atynt: cariad, gwybodaeth, a chyfiawnder.
>
> Three things are daily acquiring strength, since the attraction towards them is greater: love, knowledge, and equity. Barddas.
>
> Nid ymgais diriad â da.
>
> The mischievous will not exert himself towards good. Adage.

Ymgalediad, s. m. (calediad) A self-hardening; a mutually hardening.

Ymgaledu, v. a. (caledu) To harden one's self; to harden mutually.

Ymgaloni, v. a. (caloni) To hearten one's self; to encourage mutually.

Ymgaloniad, s. m. (caloniad) A heartening one's self; a mutually encouraging.

Ymgallâad, s. m. (callâad) A making one's self cunning; a becoming mutually cunning.

Ymgallâu, v. a. (callâu) To make one's self cunning or discreet; to be mutually cunning.

> Wrth ffo Iwl Caisar rhag y Prydeiniaid—glewach oedd y Ffreinc yn ceisiaw ei wrthladd o'u terfynau. A gwedi gweled o Iwl Caisar hyny ymgallâu a orug, ac nid ymroddes i bedrusder ymladd a'r bobl greulawn hono, namyn agori ei drysor.
>
> By Julius Cæsar's retreat from the Britons, more courageous were the French, in endeavouring to drive him from their boundaries. So when Julius Cæsar had seen that, what he did was to employ himself craftily, and he did not give himself up to the uncertainty of war with that ferocious people, but he opened his treasure. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymganlyn, v. a. (canlyn) To employ one's self in following; to follow mutually.

Ymganlyniad, s. m. (canlyniad) An employing one's self in following; a mutually following.

Ymganmawl, s. m. (canmawl) Self-praise; mutual praise. v. a. To praise one's self; to praise mutually.

Ymganmoli, v. a. (ymganmawl) To praise one's self; to praise mutually.

Ymganmoliad, s. m. (ymganmawl) A praising one's self; a mutually praising.

Ymganred, s. f. (canred) A mutual pursuit. v. a. To pursue or follow mutually.

> Nid ymganred,
> Nid ymddiried
> Neb i'w gilydd.
>
> There will be no mutual fellowship, there will be no confidence with any towards others. Taliesin.

Ymgangheniad, s. m. (cangheniad) A self-branching; a mutual ramification.

Ymganghenu, v. a. (canghenu) To branch out one's self; to branch mutually.

Ymgardodi, v. a. (cardodi) To employ one's self in charity; to practise mutual charity.

> Goreu crefydd cydymgardodi.
>
> The best religion is to practise mutual charity together. Adage.

Ymgardodiad, s. m. (cardodiad) An employing one's self in charity; a practising mutual charity.

Ymgaredigaw, v. a. (caredigaw) To be caressing mutually.

Ymgaredigiad, s. m. (caredigiad) A being mutually caressing.

Ymgariad, s. m. (cariad) The using one's self to love; a mutually loving.

Ymgarthiad, s. m. (carthiad) A self-cleansing.

Ymgarthu, v. a. (carthu) To self-purge.

Ymgaru, v. a. (caru) To habituate one's self in love; to love mutually.

> Nid ymgar y llateion.
>
> Confidents will not love one another. Adage.

Ymgasâad, s. m. (casâad) The using one's self in hating; a mutually hating.

Ymgasâu, v. a. (casâu) To fill one's self with hate; to become disgusted; to hate mutually.

> Mae oes heddyw, am swyddau,
> Megys hyn yn ymgasâu.
>
> The life of to-day, with respect to offices, is thus becoming disgusted. T. Aled.

Ymgasgliad, s. m. (casgliad) A self-collecting; a mutually aggregating or collecting.

Ymgasglu, v. a. (casglu) To self-collect; to collect mutually; to assemble mutually.

Ymgastelliad, s. m. (castelliad) A spreading one's self round; a mutually spreading round.

Ymgastellu, v. a. (castellu) To spread one's self round, to spread round mutually.

Ymgatâad, s. m. (ymgatâu) An employing one's self in battle; a mutually battling.

Ymgatâu, v. a. (catâu) To employ one's self in battle; to battle mutually.

Ymgathewrach, s. m. (cathewrach) A bickering together. v. a. To bicker together.

Ymgau, v. a. (cau) To shut one's self; to become closed; to shut mutually.

> Y brasder a ymgeuai am y llafn.
>
> The fat closed itself about the blade. Barnwyr 3. 22.

Ymgecraeth, s. m. (cecraeth) A mutual brawling.

Ymgecriad, s. m. (cecriad) A mutually brawling.

Ymgecru, v. a. (cecru) To brawl mutually.

Ymgefnogi, v. a. (cefnogi) To back one's self; to back mutually; to encourage one another.

Ymgefnogiad, s. m. (cefnogiad) A backing one's self; a mutually backing.

Ymgegiad, s. m. (cegiad) A mutually mouthing.
Ymgegu, v. a. (cegu) To mouth mutually.
Ymgegwr, s. m.—pl. ymgegwyr (cegwr) A mouther, a wrangler.
Ymgeingar, a. (ymgaint) Quarrelsome.

> Diriad bid ymgeingar.
>
> The mischievous let him be quarrelsome. Llywarch Hen.

Ymgeinniad, s. m. (ymgaint) A scuffling mutually.
Ymgeinniaith, s. m. (ymgaint—iaith) Quarrelsome language.

> Rhys Meigen——
> Gwaith ymgeinniaith a ganai i bawb.
>
> Rhys Meigen, the work of abusive language he would sing to every body. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymgeinniaw, v. a. (ymgaint) To scuffle; to scold.

> Daith drawe, ni wnei dithau drew
> Amgenach nog ymgeinniaw.
>
> Untoward the journey, thou wilt yonder do nothing else but quarrel. D. ab Gwilym, i Gr. Gryg.
>
> Yr oedd trwst gwreigedd yn ymgeinniaw yn eu mysg, a rhyferthwy fawr o eiriau, mal llif mewn afon.
>
> There was the din of women quarrelling together amongst them, and a great torrent of words, like a flood in a river. Morgan Llwyd.

Ymgeintach, s. m. (ceintach) Mutual scuffle. v. a. To bicker, to scuffle, or to scold mutually.
Ymgeintachiad, s. m. (ymgeintach) A mutually scuffling or quarrelling.
Ymgeisiad, s. m. (ymgais) A making an effort or attempt; self-exertion; mutual exertion; a mutual seeking.
Ymgeisiaw, v. a. (ymgais) To make an effort or attempt; to seek; to exert one's self; to make a mutual effort or attempt; to exert mutually.

> Yr oedd Eidol—yn ymgeisiaw â Hingestyr; ac o'r diwedd yr ymgefyn, ac ymladd oni bu y tan o'u harfau, mal mellt llechedenawl yn mlaen taran.
>
> Eidol was exerting himself to meet with Hingestyr; and at length they mutually met, and fought so that the fire was struck from their arms, like gleaming lightening before thunder. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgeisiwr, s. m.—pl. ymgeisiwyr (ymgais—gwr) One who makes an effort or attempt; one who exerts himself.
Ymgel, s. m. (cel) Self-concealment; mutual concealment.

> Yn mhob rhwy, yn mhob rhyfel,
> A welir hawdd ei ochel,
> Nid drwg ond drwg yn ymgel.
>
> In every extremity, in every war, what is seen is easily avoided, there is no mischief like mischief in concealment. Geraint.

Ymgelciad, s. m. (celciad) A self-sculking.
Ymgelciaw, v. a. (celciaw) To hide one's self slyly; to sculk mutually.
Ymgeledig, a. (ymgel) Self-concealed; mutually concealed.
Ymgeledd, s. m. (cel) A protection, or succour; a taking care; solicitude. Priodi er mwyn ymgeledd, to marry for the sake of being nursed. Nef a gadwo iddo ei ymgeledd! Heaven preserve to him his succour!

> Ni cheffir hoedl hir er ymgeledd.
>
> Long life will not be obtained with being careful. Adage.

Ymgeleddawl, a. (ymgeledd) Employing one's self in cherishing; mutually cherishing.
Ymgeleddiad, s. m. (ymgeledd) An employing one's self in screening; a cherishing.
Ymgeleddu, v. a. (ymgeledd) To take care of, to look after; to succour, to cherish, to nourish. Ymgeleddu yr iaith, to cultivate the language.
Ymgeleddus, a. (ymgeledd) Apt to cherish.
Ymgeleddwr, s. m. (ymgeledd) A cherisher.
Ymgeliad, s. m. (ymgel) A hiding one's self; a mutually hiding.

Ymgelu, v. a. (ymgel) To hide one's self; to hide mutually.

> Y gwr gwrdd uchel,
> A'r gwaew gwnedd awel,
> Pan el yn rhyfel
> Nid ymgela.
>
> The man ardently towering, with the spear making the gale to howl, when he goes into war he will not hide himself. D. Benfras, i Lywelyn III.

Ymgellwair, s. m. (cellwair) The being in jest; a mutual jesting.
Ymgellweiriad, s. m. (ymgellwair) A being jesting; a jesting with one another.
Ymgellweiriaw, v. a. (ymgellwair) To employ one's self in jesting; to jest mutually.
Ymgenfigeniad, s. m. (cenfigeniad) A making envious; a mutually envying.
Ymgenfigenu, v. a. (cenfigenu) To make one's self envious; to envy mutually.
Ymgernial, s. m. (cernial) A wrangling. v. a. To wrangle; to be cheek by jowl.
Ymgernodiad, s. m. (cernodiad) A knocking one another about the head.
Ymgernodiaw, v. a. (cernodiaw) To knock one another about the head.
Ymgerydd, s. m. (cerydd) Self-reprehension; mutual reproof or reprimand.
Ymgeryddiad, s. m. (ymgerydd) A self-reprehending; a mutually reprehending.
Ymgeryddu, v. a. (ymgerydd) To self-rebuke; to reprehend mutually.
Ymgestiad, s. m. (cestiad) A self-guzzling; a mutually guzzling.
Ymgestu, v. a. (cestu) To guzzle one's self; to guzzle mutually.
Ymgethriad, s. m. (cethriad) A self-urging; a mutually driving or egging on.
Ymgethru, v. a. (cethru) To drive one's self; to drive, to urge, or to importune mutually.
Ymgigaw, v. a. (cigaw) To go after the flesh.
Ymgigiad, s. m. (cigiad) A seeking carnal gratification.
Ymgigweiniad, s. m. (cigweiniad) An employing one's self in clutching of flesh; a mutually clutching.
Ymgigweiniaw, v. a. (cigweiniaw) To employ one's self in clutching of flesh; to mangle flesh mutually.
Ymgil, s. m. (cil) A self-retreating; a mutual recession or retiring.
Ymgiliad, s. m. (ymgil) A being retreating; a mutually retreating or receding.
Ymgiliaw, v. a. (ymgil) To be retreating; to retreat or to recede mutually.

> Trystan barabl difai,
> Yn nydd trin nid ymgiliai,
> Cydymaith it oedd Gwalchmai.
>
> Trystan of blameless conversation, in the day of conflict that would not be retreating, a comrade of thine was Gwalchmai. Eng. Gwalchmai a Thrystan.

Ymgiprys, s. m. (ciprys) A mutual brawl.
Ymgiprysiad, s. m. (ymgiprys) A mutually brawling, or scrambling.
Ymgiprysu, v. a. (ciprys) To wrangle mutually.
Ymgladdiad, s. m. (claddiad) A self-burrying.
Ymgladdu, v. a. (claddu) To bury one's self.
Ymgleddyfawd, s. m. (cleddyfawd) A mutual cutting with sword.
Ymgleddyfiad, s. m. (cleddyfiad) A mutually cutting or fencing with sword.
Ymgleddyfu, v. a. (cleddyfu) To use the sword mutually; to fence.
Ymglöad, s. m. (clöad) A locking one's self; a mutually locking.

Ymglodfori, v. a. (clodfori) To exalt one's self in fame; to celebrate mutually.

Y cenedloedd—ynddo ef yr ymglodforant.

The nations, in him they shall bless themselves. Ieremi 4. 2.

Ymglodforiad, s. m. (clodforiad) A self-exalting in fame; a mutually celebrating.

Ymglöi, v. a. (cloi) To lock one's self; to lock mutually.

Ymgloliad, s. m. (cloliad) A mutually babbling.

Ymglolian, v. a. (clolian) To babble mutually.

Ymgludaw, v. a. (cludaw) To self-carry; to carry mutually; to heap mutually.

Ymgludiad, s. m. (cludiad) A self-carrying; a mutually carrying or heaping.

Ymglwydd, s. m. (clwydd) The act of bringing one's self forward.

Ymglwyddaw, v. a. (ymglwydd) To bring one's self-forward; mutually to bring to pass.

Ymglymiad, s. m. (clymiad) A self-binding; a mutually binding.

Ymglymu, v. a. (clymu) To self-bind; to bind or tie mutually.

Ymglymynt yr hesg am fy mhen.

The sedges have wrapped themselves about my head. Ionah 2. 5.

Ymglywad, s. m. (clywad) A feeling one's self; a mutually feeling.

Ymglywed, v. a. (clywed) To feel one's self; to feel mutually.

Newn gorea angeu anghyfnorthi:
Nid ymglyw dyn byw o'r hyd fal fi!

Shall I not be overcome by death of pining grief: not a living person in the world feels himself like me!
Ein. ab Gwalchmai, m. Nest

Ymgnöad, s. m. (cnöad) A being gnawing.

Ymgnöi, v. a. (cnöi) To keep gnawing.

Ymgodi, v. a. (codi) To raise one's self.

Ymgodiad, s. m. (codiad) A raising one's self.

Ymgodymiad, s. m. (codymiad) A tumbling one's self; a mutually tumbling.

Ymgodymu, v. a. (codymu) To tumble one's self; to tumble mutually.

Ymgoddi, v. a. (coddi) To vex one's self; to vex or tease mutually.

Yn llys y Wyddgrug,
A Lloegr yn nghuddiug,
Llawer a'n goddug
Yn ymgoddi.

In the court of Gwyddgrug, whilst England is under a cloud, many will attract our notice afflicting themselves.
Ll. P. Moch.

Ymgoddiad, s. m. (coddiad) A vexing one's self; a mutually vexing or afflicting.

Ymgoeliad, s. m. (coeliad) A being believing; a mutually believing.

Ymgoeliaw, v. a. (coeliaw) To be believing; to believe mutually.

Ymgofiad, s. m. (cofiad) A self-recollecting; a mutually remembering.

Ymgofiaw, v. a. (cofiaw) To self-recollect; to remember mutually.

Ymgofleidiad, s. m. (cofleidiad) A being embracing; a mutually embracing.

Ymgofleidiaw, v. a. (cofleidiaw) To employ one's self in embracing; to embrace mutually.

Mae——
Adeg i ymgofleidiaw.

There is a time to embrace one another. L. Hopcyn.

Ymgoffâad, s. m. (coffâad) A self-recollecting.

Ymgoffâu, v. a. (coffâu) To self-recollect; to remember mutually.

Ymgoledd, s. m. (coledd) A self-cultivating; a mutual cultivation.

Ymgoleddiad, s. m. (ymgoledd) A being self-cultivating; a mutually cultivating.

Ymgoleddu, v. a. (ymgoledd) To self-cultivate; to cultivate mutually.

Ymgoleddwr, s. m. (ymgoledd—gwr) One who self-cultivates.

Ymgoll, s. m. (coll) A self-loss; a mutual loss.

Ymgolli, v. a. (ymgoll) To lose one's self; mutually to lose.

Ymgolliad, s. m. (ymgoll) A losing one's self; a losing one another.

Ymgomiaw, v. a. (comiaw) To be conversing.

Ymgorffiad, s. m. (corffiad) A self-embodying; a mutually embodying.

Ymgorffiaw, v. a. (corffiaw) To self-embody; mutually to embody.

Ymgorffolaethu, v. a. (corffolaethu) To self incorporate; to incorporate mutually.

Ymgorniad, s. m. (corniad) A mutually butting with horns.

Ymgorniaw, v. a. (corniaw) To butt one another with horns.

Ymgosbi, v. a. (cosbi) To punish one's self.

Ymgosbiad, s. m. (cosbiad) A punishing one's self; a mutually punishing.

Ymgosi, v. a. (cosi) To scratch one's self; to scratch one another.

Ymgosiad, s. m. (cosiad) A scratching of one's self; a mutually scratching.

Ymgrafangiad, s. m. (crafangiad) A self-clawing; a mutually clawing.

Ymgrafangu, v. a. (crafangu) To claw one's self; to claw one another.

Ymgrafiad, s. m. (crafiad) A scratching of one's self; a mutually scratching.

Ymgrafu, v. a. (crafu) To scratch one's self; to scratch mutually.

Nid oes ganddo yr ewinedd i ymgrafu.

He has not got the nails to scratch himself. Adage.

Ymgrafwr, s. m.—pl. ymgrafwyr (crafwr) One who scratches himself.

Ymgrebychiad, s. m. (crebychiad) A becoming crinkled; a mutually crinkling.

Ymgrebychu, v. a. (crebychu) To become crinkled; to crinkle mutually.

Ymgred, s. m. (crêd) A mutual pledge or plight; espousal; a self-pledging.

Ymgrediad, s. m. (ymgred) A mutually pledging; a pledging one's faith.

Ymgredu, v. a. (ymgred) To enter into mutual belief; to give mutual pledge.

Ymgrefiad, s. m. (crefiad) A being craving; a mutual craving.

Ymgrefu, v. a. (crefu) To employ one's self in craving; to crave mutually.

Ymgreiniad, s. m. (creiniad) A self-crawling along the ground.

Ymgreiniaw, v. a. (creiniaw) To be crawling.

Lle yr ymgreinio y march y gedy beth o'i flew.

Where the horse shall have rolled himself he will leave some of his hair. Adage.

Ymgreiriad, s. m. (creiriad) A swearing one's self on relicks; a mutually covenanting.

Ymgreiriaw, v. a. (creiriaw) To swear one's self; to covenant mutually.

Ymgreuloni, v. a. (creuloni) To become cruel; to become mutually cruel.

Ymgreuloniad, s. m. (creuloniad) A becoming cruel; a becoming mutually cruel.

Ymgripiad, s. m. (cripiad) To claw one's self; to claw or scratch one another.

Ymgripiaw, v. a. (cripiaw) To claw one's self; to scratch or claw one another.
Ymgroesi, v. a. (croesi) To cross one's self; to secure one's self; to be cautious, to be mindful, to beware. Gwell i ti ymgroesi, better for thee to beware.
Ymgroesiad, s. m. (croesiad) A securing one's self, a bewaring; a taking heed.
Ymgrogi, v. a. (crogi) To hang one's self.
Ymgrogiad, s. m. (crogi) A hanging one's self.
Ymgrothi, v. a. (crothi) To swell one's paunch.
Ymgrothiad, s. (croth) A swelling out one's paunch.
Ymgrwydrad, s. m. (crwydrad) A using one's self to stray; a mutually straying.
Ymgrwydraw, v. a. (crwydraw) To use one's self to stray; to wander mutually.
Ymgryfâad, s. m. (cryfâad) A self-strengthening; a mutually strengthening.
Ymgryfâu, v. a. (cryfâu) To strengthen one's self; to strengthen mutually.

Ymgryfâa ac ymwrola; nac arswyda ac nac ofna; canys yr Arglwydd dy Dduw sy gyda thi.

Fortify thyself and be of good courage! be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee. Joshua 1. 9.

Ymgrymawl, a. (crymawl) Self-prostrating; mutually prostrating.
Ymgrymiad, s. m. (crymiad) Self-prostration; a mutual prostration; a mutually bowing.
Ymgrymu, v. a. (crymu) To prostrate one's self; to prostrate mutually.
Ymgrymwr, s. m.—pl. ymgrymwyr (crymwr) One who prostrates himself.
Ymgrynâad, s. m. (crynâad) A rounding of one's self; a mutually rounding.
Ymgrynâu, v. a. (crynâu) To round one's self; to become rounded; to round mutually.
Ymgryniad, s. m. (cryniad) A causing one's self to tremble; a mutually trembling.
Ymgrynöad, s. m. (crynöad) A gathering one's self together; a making one's self tidy; a mutually collecting together.
Ymgrynöi, v. a. (crynöi) To gather one's self together, a making one's self tidy; a mutually collecting together.
Ymgrynu, v. a. (crynu) To cause one's self to tremble; to tremble mutually.
Ymgudd, s. m. (cudd) A hiding one's self.
Ymguddiad, s. m. (ymgudd) A hiding of one's self; a mutually hiding.
Ymguddiaw, v. a. (ymgudd) To hide one's self; to hide mutually.

Ymguddiaw ar gefn y gist.

To hide one's self on the top of the chest. Adage.

Ymguddiwr, s. m.—pl. ymguddiwyr (ymgudd—gwr) One who hides himself.
Ymgulâad, s. m. (culâad) A making one's self slender, or narrow; a mutually narrowing.
Ymgulâu, v. a. (culâu) To make one's self lean or slender; mutually to narrow.
Ymguraw, v. a. (curaw) To beat one's self; to beat mutually.
Ymguriad, s. m. (curiad) A self-beating; a mutually beating.
Ymgurwr, s. m.—pl. ymgurwyr (curwr) One who beats himself; one who employs himself in beating; a fighter.
Ymgusaniad, s. m. (cusaniad) A mutually kissing.
Ymgusanu, v. a. (cusanu) To kiss mutually.

Gwyr dda, lyn gyrai ddau lu
Am gas hen i 'mgusanu.

The fresh good liquor, it would send two hosts concerning an old grudge to kiss one another.
Ieu. ab Gruffudd Leiaf, i Gwrw Conwy.

Ymguwg, s. m. (cuwg) A putting on a frown; v. a. To put one's self in a frown.

Mi yn ymguwg, a'm plant yn ymgernial.

I putting on a frown, and my children altogether by the ears. Araeth Gwgon.

Ymgwydd, s. m. (cwydd) A self-falling; a mutual fall.
Ymgwyddaw, v. a. (ymgwydd) To cause one's self to fall; to fall mutually.
Ymgwyddiad, s. m. (ymgwydd) A falling of one's self; a mutually falling.
Ymgwynaw, v. a. (cwynaw) To be complaining; to complain mutually.
Ymgwynfan, v. a. (cwynfan) To keep one's self in continual wailing; to wail or to complain mutually.
Ymgwyniad, s. m. (cwyniad) A being complaining; a complaining mutually.
Ymgwynofain, v. a. (cwynofain) To employ one's self in complaining, to be mutually wailing.
Ymgyd, s. m. (cyd) A self-connection; a mutual union or junction; communion.

Tri pheth a gaiff dyn o gredu yn Nuw: a fo raid yn y byd, heddwch cydwybod, ac ymgyd a'r nefawl.

Three things will man obtain by believing in God: what may be necessary in the world, peace of conscience, and communion with the heavenly. Barddas.

Ymgydgam, s. m. (cydgam) A mutual dalliance. v. a. To dally mutually.

Cael——
A wnaetham ymgydgam gynt.

We obtained a mutual dalliance formerly. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymgydgori, v. a. (cydgor) To join one's self to a congregation; mutually to unite in a congregation.

Gwelygordd Emyr Llydaw a ddathoedd i'r ynys hon gyda Garmon ab Rhidigys, i adnewyddu cred a bedydd, ac ymgydgori yn Ynys Enlli a wnaynt.

The family of Emyr Llydaw came into this Island with Garmon son of Rhidigys, to renew the christian faith, and unite themselves in congregation in the isle of Enlli was what they did. Bonedd y Saint.

Ymgydgyfarch, s. m. (cydgyfarch) A self-congratulation; a mutual congratulation. v. a. To congratulate one's self; to congratulate mutually Ymgydgyfarchiad, s. m. (ymgydgyfarch) A self-congratulating; a mutually congratulating.
Ymgydiad, s. m. (ymgyd) A joining mutuallly; a coupling one's self.
Ymgydiaw, v. a. (ymgyd) To lay hold or to join mutually, to couple one's self; to grapple together.
Ymgydoesi, v. a. (cydoesi) To make one's self cotemporary; mutually to be cotemporary.
Ymgydoesiad, s. m. (cydoesiad) A making one's self cotemporary; a mutually becoming cotemporary.
Ymgydredeg, v. a. (cydredeg) To render one's self concurrent; a mutually concurring.
Ymgydrediad, s. m. (cydrediad) A being concurrent; to concur mutually.
Ymgydsyniad, s. m. (cydsyniad) A being consenting; a mutually consenting.
Ymgydsyniaw, v. a. (cydsyniaw) To be consenting; to consent mutually.
Ymgydsynied v. a. (cydsynied) To render one's self consenting; mutually to consent.
Ymgydwybodi, v. a. (cydwybod) To be mutually conscientious.
Ymgyfâad, s. m. (cyfaad) A making one's self whole; a becoming mutually whole.
Ymgyfadnabod, s. m. (cyfadnabod) A mutual acknowledgement; a self-acknowledgement.

Ymgyfadnabod, v. a. (cyfadnabod) To acknowledge mutually; to acknowledge one's self.

Ymgyfaddasiad, s. m. (cyfaddasiad) A mutually conforming; a rendering one's self mutually suitable.

Ymgyfaddasu, v. a. (cyfaddasu) To conform mutually; to adapt one's self.

Ymgyfaddaw, v. a. (cyfaddaw) To bind one's self in a mutual promise.

Ymgyfaddawiad, s. m. (ymgyfaddaw) A binding one's self in a mutual promise.

Ymgyfagweddiad, s. m. (cyfagweddiad) A self-conforming; mutual conformation.

Ymgyfagweddu, v. a. (cyfagweddu) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.

Ymgyfammodi, v. a. (cyfammodi) To covenant mutually; to self-covenant.

Ymgyfammodiad, s. m. (cyfammodiad) A mutually covenanting; a covenanting or agreeing for one's self.

Ymgyfaniad, s. m. (cyfaniad) A making one's self whole; a becoming mutually entire.

Ymgyfanu, v. a. (cyfanu) To make one's self whole; to become mutually entire.

Ymgyfarfod, s. m. (cyfarfod) A mutually meeting; a mutual contact; a mutual encounter. v. a. To meet mutually; to make a mutual onset.

> Ar yr ymgyfarfod cyntaf, ef a las pedwar cant o wyr Bradmwnt.
>
> On the first encounter there were slain four hundred of the men of Bradmont. H. Bown—Mabinogion.
>
> Eb Hywel—ni a ddygwn rhagddynt hwyntau yr eiddynt, o rhydd Duw cenlad i ymgyfarfod a hwynt.
>
> Hywel said: we will take from them too what they possess, if God will give permission for to come in mutual contact with them. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfarfodiad, s. m. (ymgyfarfod) A being meeting; a mutually meeting.

Ymgyfartaliad, s. m. (cyfartaliad) A making one's self equal, a comparing one's self; a mutually vieing.

Ymgyfartalu, v. a. (cyfartalu) To make one's self equal; to vie mutually.

> Pa dywysawg a elli ymgyfartalu i frenin Prydain, o gadernid a dewredd marchogion?
>
> What prince can put himself in competition with the king of Britain, as to the fortitude and gallantry of his knights? Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfarwyddaw, v. a. (cyfarwyddaw) To self-inform; mutually to direct or inform.

Ymgyfarwyddiad, s. m. (cyfarwyddiad) A directing one's self; a mutually directing.

Ymgyfateb, s. m. (cyfateb) Mutual correspondence. v. a. To correspond mutually.

Ymgyfatebawl, a. (ymgyfateb) Mutually corresponding.

Ymgyfatebiad, s. m. (ymgyfateb) A mutually corresponding.

Ymgyfathrach, s. m. (cyfathrach) A mutual connection.

Ymgyfathrachiad, s. m. (ymgyfathrach) A forming a mutual connection.

Ymgyfâu, v. a. (cyfâu) To render one's self whole; to become mutually whole.

Ymgyfeilliachu, v. a. (ymgyfeilliach) To join one's self in friendship; to contract a mutual friendship.

Ymgyferbynawl, a. (cyferbynawl) Being set in opposition; mutually opposing.

Ymgyferbyniad, s. m. (cyferbyniad) A coming in opposition; a mutually opposing.

Ymgyferbynied, v. a. (cyferbynied) To set one's self against; to counteract mutually.

> Nid oedd yr ail a fai can ddewred ag ef yn y deyrnas, ac a allai ymgyferbynied ag ef.
>
> There was not another who were as brave as he in the kingdom, and who could mutually contend with him. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfethl, s. m. (cyfethl) A mutual struggle. v. a. To be striving together.

> Damweiniws dau was ieuanc ardderchawg, y naill onaddynt yn nai i'r brenin, a'r llall yn nai i Afarwy fab Lludd cynhenu yn gware paled, ac o'r diwedd lidiaw am y fuddygoliaeth: ac ysef oedd enw nai y brenin Hirlas, ac enw y llall Cuhelyn: a gwedi ymlidiaw ac ymgyfethl ysgylfu cleddyf a wnai Cuhelyn a lladd pen Hirlas.
>
> Two noble young men, the one of them a nephew to the king, and the other a nephew to Afarwy son of Lludd, happened to dispute, in playing at ball, and at last to grow angry about the winning: and to be particular, the name of the king's nephew was Hirlas, and the name of the other Cuhelyn: then, after growing mutually angry and striving together, Cuhelyn drew his sword and cut off the head of Hirlas. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyfethliad, s. m. (ymgyfethl) A being striving; a mutually struggling.

Ymgyfethlu, v. a. (ymgyfethl) To be struggling; to struggle mutually.

Ymgyfhogi, v. a. (cyfhogi) To edge at one another mutually.

> Dysbeiliaw cleddyf a wnaynt ac ymgyfhogi.
>
> Draw sword was what they did and mutually cut at one another H. Owain ab Urien—Mabinogion.

Ymgyfhogiad, s. m. (cyfhogiad) A mutually edging at one another.

Ymgyfiad, s. m. (cyfiad) A making one's self equal; a mutually equalling.

Ymgyfiaw, v. a. (cyfiaw) To make one's self equal; to become mutually equal.

Ymgyfiawnâad, s. m. (cyfiawnâad) A self-justification; a mutually justifying.

Ymgyfiawnâu, v. a. (cyfiawnâu) To self-justify; to justify mutually.

> Pa fodd yr ymgyfiawnâwn?
>
> What way shall we justify ourselves? Genesis 44. 16.

Ymgyfiawniad, s. m. (cyfiawniad) A self-justifying; a mutually justifying.

Ymgyfiawnu, v. a. (cyfiawnu) To justify one's self; to justify mutually.

Ymgyflawni, v. a. (cyflawni) To self-complete; to become mutually complete.

Ymgyflawniad, s. m. (cyflawniad) A self-completing; a mutually completing.

Ymgyflëad, s. m. (cyflëad) A self-collocation; a mutual collocation.

Ymgyflesiad, s. m. (cyflesiad) A making one's self mutually beneficial.

Ymgyflesu, v. a. (cyflesu) To make one's self mutually beneficial.

Ymgyflëu, v. a. (cyflëu) To situate one's self; mutually to collocate.

Ymgyflogi, v. a. (cyflogi) To hire one's self; to hire mutually.

> Nid esmwyth ymgyflogi.
>
> It is not easy to hire one's self. Adage.

Ymgyflogiad, s. m. (cyflogiad) A hiring one's self; a mutually hiring.

Ymgyflogwr, s. m.—pl. ymgyflogwyr (cyflogwr) One who hires himself.

Ymgyflwynaw, v. a. (cyflwynaw) To be consociated; mutually to consociate.

> Tudfyl ferch Brychan a las gan y Saeson, pan oedd yn ymgyflwyn a'i thad.
>
> Tudvyl daughter of Brychan was killed by the Saxons, when she was visiting her father. Achau y Saint.

Ymgyflwyniad, s. m. (cyflwyniad) An associating one's self; a mutually associating.

Ymgyflychiad, s. m. (cyflychiad) A mutually connecting one's self.
Ymgyflychu, v. a. (cyflychu) To connect one's self mutually.

Ymgyfwyn a doeth, ac nac ymgyflych ag annoeth.

Consociate thyself with the wise, and do not connect thyself with the unwise. Adage.

Ymgyfnawsi, v. a. (cyfnawsi) To render one's self of the same temper; to become mutually of one temper.
Ymgyfnawsiad, s. m. (cyfnawsiad) A making one's self congenial.
Ymgyfnerthiad, s. m. (cyfnerthiad) A collecting one's strength together; a mutually assisting.
Ymgyfnerthu, v. a. (cyfnerthu) To collect together one's strength; to assist one another mutually.
Ymgyfnesiad, s. m. (cyfnesiad) Self-approximation; mutual approximation.
Ymgyfnesu, v. a. (cyfnesu) To self-approximate; mutually to approximate.
Ymgyfnewid, s. m. (cyfnewid) Self-transformation; a mutual change of one's self; a mutual interchange.
Ymgyfnewidiad, s. m. (ymgyfnewid) A self-transforming; a mutually interchanging.
Ymgyfnewidiaw, v. a. (ymgyfnewid) To transform one's self; to interchange mutually.
Ymgyfnydd, s. m. (cyfnydd) A self-intertwining; a mutual intertwining.

Yn ymgyfnydd ddydd neu ddau.

Intwining together a day or two. W. Cynwal.

Ymgyfnyddawl, a. (ymgyfnydd) Self-intertwining; mutually intertwining.
Ymgyfnyddiad, s. m. (ymgyfnydd) A self-intertwining; a mutually intertwining.
Ymgyfnyddu, v. a. (ymgyfnydd) To self-intertwine; mutually to intertwine.
Ymgyfodi, v. a. (cyfodi) To raise one's self; a mutually rising.

Y rhai a ymgyfodynt i ym herbyn a ddarostyngaist danaf.

Them who raised themselves against me hast thou subdued under me. 2 Samuel 22. 40.

Ymgyfodiad, s. m. (cyfodiad) A raising one's self; a mutually rising.
Ymgyfoethi, v. a. (cyfoethi) To enrich one's self; a mutually becoming rich.
Ymgyfoethiad, s. m. (cyfoethiad) A self-enriching; a mutually enriching.
Ymgyfoethogi, v. a. (cyfoethogi) To self-enrich; to be mutually enriched.
Ymgyfoethogiad, s. m. (cyfoethogiad) A self-enriching; a mutually enriching.
Ymgyfranc, s. m. (cyfranc) A bringing one's self into mutual contact; a mutually meeting. v. a. To bring one's self into mutual contact; to meet mutually.
Ymgyfraniad, s. m. (cyfraniad) A bringing one's self to participate; a mutually participating.
Ymgyfranogi, v. a. (cyfranogi) To render one's self participating; to become mutually participating.
Ymgyfranogiad, s. m. (cyfranogiad) A rendering one's self participating; a becoming mutually participating.
Ymgyfranu, v. a. (cyfranu) To bring one's self to divide mutually; a mutually partaking, dividing, or communicating.
Ymgyfred, s. m. (cyfred) Mutual concurrence.
Ymgyfredawl, a. (ymgyfred) Mutually concurrent
Ymgyfredeg, v. a. (ymgyfred) To run together mutually; to form a concourse.
Ymgyfrediad, s. m. (ymgyfred) A mutually running together; a mutually concurring.
Ymgyfreithgar, a. (cyfreithgar) Apt to be litigious; mutually litigious.
Ymgyfreithgarwch, s. m. (ymgyfreithgar) Aptness to be litigious; mutual litigiousness.
Ymgyfreithiad, s. m. (cyfreithiad) A being litigious; a mutually litigating.
Ymgyfreithiaw, v. a. (cyfreithiaw) To commit one's self to law; to bind one's self by law; to litigate mutually.

Gwell cydunaw yn ddrwg nog ymgyfreithiaw yn dda.

Better to agree badly than mutually to litigate well. Adage.

Ymgyfreithiwr, s. m. (cyfreithiwr) One who litigates.
Ymgyfrif, s. m. (cyfrif) A self-reckoning; a mutual reckoning.
Ymgyfrifaw, v. a. (ymgyfrif) To reckon one's self, to esteem one's self; mutually to reckon.
Ymgyfrifiad, s. m. (ymgyfrif) A reckoning one's self; self-estimation; a mutually reckoning.
Ymgyfrin, s. m. (cyfrin) A confederacy. v. a. To join in mutual secresy.

Goreu cyfeilliach ymgyfrin a dedwydd.

The best company is a communion with the happy. Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymgyfrinachiad, s. m. (cyfrinachiad) A being communicating mutual secrets.
Ymgyfrinachu, v. a. (cyfrinachu) To employ one's self in mutual secrets; to talk mutual secrets.

Ymgyfrinachasant yn ddichellgar yn erbyn dy bobl.

They have taken counsel together craftily against thy people. Psalm 83. 3.

Ymgyfrinaw, v. a. (cyfrinaw) To render one's self mysterious; to become mutually mysterious.
Ymgyfriniad, s. m. (cyfriniad) A rendering one's self mysterious; a becoming mutually mysterious; a joining together.
Ymgyfrithiad, s. m. (cyfrithiad) A making one's self to seem or to appear; a mutually appearing.
Ymgyfrithiaw, v. a. (cyfrithiaw) To make one's self to appear; mutually to seem or to appear
Ymgyfroddi, v. a. (cyfroddi) To render one's self contributary; mutually to contribute.
Ymgyfroddiad, s. m. (cyfroddiad) A making one's self to contribute; a mutually contributing.
Ymgyfrwch, s. m. (cyfrwch) A bringing one's self in contact; a mutual meeting. v. a. To put one's self in contact; to meet mutually.
Ymgyfrwyddaw, v. a. (cyfrwyddaw) To self-expedite; to become mutually expeditious.
Ymgyfrwyddiad, s. m. (cyfrwyddiad) A self-expediting; a mutually expediting.
Ymgyfunaw, v. a. (cyfunaw) To combine one's self; to combine mutually.

Ymgyfunaw a orug Gwrgi Garwlwyd a'i wyr ag Edelfled brenin y Saeson.

What Gwrgi Garwlwyd did was to unite himself with Edelfled king of the Saxons. Trioedd.

Ymgyfuniad, s. m. (cyfuniad) A self-uniting; a mutually uniting or combining.
Ymgyfwrdd, s. m. (cyfwrdd) A meeting together; a rencounter. v. a. To come into mutual contact.

Ymgyfyngiad, s. m. (cyfyngiad) A self-straitening, a mutually straitening.

Ymgyfyngu, v. a. (cyfyngu) To self-straiten, to straiten or embarrass mutually.

Ymgyffelybiad, s. m. (cyffelybiad) A self-comparison; a becoming mutually similar.

Ymgyffelybu, v. a. (cyffelybu) To compare one's self; to become mutually similar.

Ymgyffred, s. m. (cyffred) Self-comprehension; a mutual comprehension.

Ymgyffredawl, a. (ymgyffred) Self-comprehending; mutually comprehending.

Ymgyffrediad, s. m. (ymgyffred) A self-comprehending; a mutually comprehending.

Ymgyffredu, v. a. (ymgyffred) To self-comprehend; to comprehend mutually.

Ymgyffröad, s. m. (cyffröad) A self-agitating; a mutually agitating.

Ymgyffröawl, a. (cyffröawl) Self-agitating; mutually agitating or moving.

Ymgyffröi, v. a. (cyffröi) To agitate one's self; to become mutually agitated.

Ymgyhoeddi, v. a. (cyhoeddi) To announce one's self; to become mutually public.

Ymgyhoeddiad, s. m. (cyhoeddiad) A proclaiming or announcing one's self; a mutually proclaiming.

Ymgyhuddaw, v. a. (cyhuddaw) To accuse one's self; to accuse mutually.

> Pan el lladron i ymgyhuddaw, y ceiff cywiriaid eu da.
>
> When thieves go to accuse one another, honest people get their property. Adage.

Ymgyhuddiad, s. m. (cyhuddiad) A self-accusing; a mutually accusing.

Ymgyhwrdd, s. m. (cyhwrdd) A mutual contact. v. a. To bring one's self in contact; to meet mutually.

Ymgyhydiad, s. m. (cyhydiad) A rendering one's self co-extending.

Ymgyhydriad, s. m. (cyhydriad) A mutually vieing or emulating; a putting one's self in competition.

Ymgyhydru, v. a. (cyhydru) To put one's self in competition; mutually to emulate.

Ymgyhydu, v. a. (cyhydu) To make one's self co-equal in length; mutually to co-extend.

> Mae iawn i yr amddiffynwr ddangaws ei fraint, ac ymgyhydu ei fraint ag yr hawlwr.
>
> It is proper for the defendant to shew his right, and to compare mutually his right with the plaintiff. Welsh Laws.

Ymgyhyrddiad, s. m. (ymgyhwrdd) A becoming in contact; a mutually encountering.

Ymgyhyrddu, v. a. (ymgyhwrdd) To come in contact; mutually to come in contact.

Ymgyllaeth, s. m. (cyllaeth) The giving up one's self to grief; a mutual sorrow.

Ymgyllelliad, s. m. (cyllelliad) A cutting one's self with a knife; a mutually cutting with knives.

Ymgyllellu, v. a. (cyllellu) To cut one's self with a knife; to cut one another with knives.

Ymgymdeithasiad, s. m. (cymdeithasiad) A mutually consociating; a mutual incorporation; a connecting one's self with society.

Ymgymdeithasu, v. a. (cymdeithasu) To associate mutually; to associate one's self.

Ymgymedriad, s. m. (cymedriad) A proportioning or regulating one's self, a mutually proportioning.

Ymgymedroli, v. a. (cymedroli) To moderate one's self, mutually to moderate.

Ymgymedroliad, s. m. (cymedroliad) A self moderating, a mutually befitting.

Ymgymedru, v. a. (cymedru) To regulate mutually.

Ymgymeriad, s. m. (cymeriad) A taking one's self, a being taking, a mutually taking.

Ymgymeryd, v. a. (cymeryd) To take one's self, to be taking, to take mutually.

> Pe baech yma caech weled y tan tu draw i ych caerau ar ymgymeryd i ych llosgi hyd annwn.
>
> If you were here you should see the fire on the farther side of the walls just becoming kindled to burn you to nothing. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.
>
> Ymgymer ymaith a bwrw dy hun i'r mor.
>
> Take thyself away and cast thyself into the sea. W. Salisbury.

Ymgymesuraw, v. a. (cymesuraw) To proportion one's self, mutually to adapt.

Ymgymesuriad, s. m. (cymesuriad) A self-adaptation, a mutually proportioning.

Ymgymhariad, s. m. (cymhariad) A joining one's self in fellowship; a mutually becoming connected.

Ymgymharu, v. a. (cymharu) To pair one's self; to associate mutually.

> Gwyllt a gwar a 'mgymharant
> Er epil hil.——
>
> The wild and the tame will couple together to beget offspring. S. Phylip.

Ymgymhell, s. m. (cymhell) A self-urging; a mutual urging. v. a. To urge one's self; to urge mutually.

Ymgymhelliad, s. m. (ymgymhell) An urging one's self; a mutually urging.

Ymgymhwyllaw, v. a. (cymhwyllaw) To persuade one's self, to persuade mutually.

Ymgymhwylliad, s. m. (cymhwylliad) A reasoning one's self, a mutually persuading.

Ymgymhwysaw, v. a. (cymhwysaw) To adapt one's self, to adjust mutually.

Ymgymhwysiad, s. m. (cymhwysiad) A self-adapting; a mutually proportioning.

Ymgymmodi, v. a. (cymmodi) To make one's self agreeable; to reconcile one's self; to become mutually reconciled.

Ymgymmodiad, s. m. (cymmodiad) Self-reconciliation; mutual reconciliation.

Ymgymoni, v. a. (cymoni) To make one's self compact; to become mutually compact.

Ymgymoniad, s. m. (cymoniad) A rendering one's self compact; a mutually disposing.

Ymgymwynasiad, s. m. (cymwynasiad) A rendering one's self complacent, a becoming mutually courteous.

Ymgymwynasu, v. a. (cymwynasu) To render one's self complacent; to become mutually courteous.

> Goreu ar bob gwynfyd ymgymwynasu.
>
> The best of every happiness is to be mutually complacent. Adage.

Ymgymyreddiad, s. m. (cymyreddiad) A self-assuming, a mutually assuming.

Ymgymyreddu, v. a. (cymyreddu) To arrogate to one's self; to assume mutually.

Ymgymysgiad, s. m. (cymysgiad) A mixing one's self, a mutually mixing.

Ymgymysgu, v. a. (cymysgu) To mix one's self; to mix mutually.

Ymgymyniad, s. m. (cymyniad) A self-cutting; a mutual excision.

Ymgymynu, v. a. (cymynu) To cut one's self; to cut down mutually.

Mal yr oedd y byddinoedd yn ymfustaac yn ymgrwyn blith dra chymysg, ydd ymgafas Eidol a Hengyst ynghyd, ac ymgyfhogi a'r cleddyfau.

As the hosts were mutually dealing blows and cutting down one another mixed helter-skelter together, Eidol found an opportunity to come in contact with Hengist, and they mutually edged with the swords. Brut y Breninoedd.

Ymgyndyniad, s. m. (cyndyniad) A making one's self stubborn, a mutually being obstinate.

Ymgyndynu, v. a. (cyndynu) To be stubborn; to act with mutual obstinacy.

Ymgynddeiriogi, v. a. (cynddeiriogi) To madden one's self; to become mutually enraged.

Ymgynddeiriogiad, s. m. (cynddeiriogiad) A maddening one's self, a becoming mutually enraged.

Ymgynheniad, s. m. (cynheniad) A being contending, a mutually wrangling.

Ymgynhenu, v. a. (cynhenu) To contend, to wrangle mutually.

Goreu swydd——
Gan hwn oedd ymgynhenu.

The choicest office with this one was to employ himself in wrangling. Ieuan Tew.

Ymgynhesiad, s. m. (cynhesiad) A self-warming, a becoming mutually warmed.

Ymgynhesu, v. a. (cynhesu) To warm one's self, to become mutually warmed.

Ymgynhyrfiad, s. m. (cynhyrfiad) A self-agitating, a mutually disturbing.

Ymgynhyrfu, v. a. (cynhyrfu) To disturb one's self; to disturb mutually.

Ymgynnadl, s. f. (cynnadl) Mutual dispute or conversation.

Ymgynnadliad, s. m. (ymgynnadl) An employing one's self in conversation, a mutually conversing.

Ymgynnadlu, v. a. (ymgynnadl) To be conversing; to converse mutually.

Na chwennych ymgynnadlu â digllon.

Seek not to be disputing with an angry person. Catwg.

Ymgynnal, s. m. (cynnal) A self-support; mutual support. v. a. To support one's self; to contain one's self; to support one another.

Ymgynnaliad, s. m. (ymgynnal) Self-supportation, a mutually supporting.

Ymgynnefinaw, v. a. (cynnefinaw) To accustom one's self; to become mutually familiar.

Ymgynnefiniad, s. m. (cynnefiniad) A familiarizing one's self; a mutually habituating.

Ymgynnull, s. m. (cynnull) A self-collecting; a mutual gathering.

Ymgynnullaw, v. a. (ymgynnull) To self-collect; mutually to collect.

Gwedi ysbaid ychydig o ddyddiau enychaf Bran gwedi ymgynnullaw ei longau ac yn disgynu ar dir yr Alban.

After the space of a few days behold Bran after having his ships collected together making, a descent on the land ofAlban. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgynnulled y dyfredd y dan y nef yn un lle.

Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place. Genesis i. 9.

Ymgynnulliad, s. m. (ymgynnull) A self-collecting; a mutually assembling.

Ymgynnwys, s. m. (cynnwys) Self-compression; a mutual compactness; mutual admission.

Ymgynnwysaw, v. a. (ymgynnwys) To make one's self compact, to compress one's self; to contain one's self; mutually to compress; mutually to admit.

Ymgynnwysiad, s. m. (ymgynnwys) A containing one's self; a shrinking one's self; a mutually receiving or admitting.

Ymgynnyg, s. m. (cynnyg) A presenting one's self; a mutual offer. v. a. To offer one's self; to offer mutually.

Lle y mae Ysbryd Duw yn athraw, yno yr ydys wedi ein dodi ni i ddefnyddiaw yn ofalus pob rhyw oedfa a fyddo yn ymgynnyg.

Where the Spirit of God is a teacher, there we are placed carefully to make use of every kind of opportunity, which may be offering itself. Ier. Owain.

Ymgynnygiad, s. m. (ymgynnyg) A self-offering; a mutually offering.

Ymgynnyrch, s. m. (cynnyrch) Self-produce; a mutual produce or increase.

Ymgynnyrchiad, s. m. (ymgynnyrch) A self-increasing; a mutually increasing.

Ymgynnyrchu, v. a. (ymgynnyrch) To increase one's self; to increase mutually.

Ymgynghan, s. m. (cynghan) Self-harmony; mutual harmony.

Ymgynghaniad, s. m. (ymgynghan) A self-harmonizing; a mutually harmonizing.

Ymgynghori, v. a. (cynghori) To consult mutually; to consult one's self.

Ymgynghorasant yn erbyn dy rai dirgel di.

They have consulted together against thy hidden ones. Psalm 83. 3.

Ymgynghoriad, s. m. (cynghoriad) A mutually consulting, a consultation together, a self-counselling.

Ymgynghreiriad, s. m. (cynghreiriad) A giving a mutual pledge; a self-pledging.

Ymgynghreiriaw, v. a. (cynghreiriaw) To give a mutual pledge; to combine together; to pledge one's self.

Dyg Medrawd y goron oddiar Arthur o drais a llathlud; ac fal y cadwai efe hi ymgynghreiriai a'r Saeson.

Medrawd took the crown from Arthur through usurpation and adultery; and so that he might keep it what he did was to enter into a mutual compact with the Saxons. Trioedd.

Ymgynglyn, s. m. (cynglyn) Mutual adhesion; a mutual coupling; a self-coupling.

Ymgynglyniad, s. m. (ymgynglyn) A mutually connecting or coupling; a coupling one's self.

Ymgynglynu, v. a. (cynglynu) To adhere mutually; to couple mutually; to couple one's self.

Ymgyngwystlaw, v. a. (cyngwystlaw) To lay a mutual pledge or wager.

Ymgyngwystliad, s. m. (cyngwystliad) A laying a mutual pledge or wager.

Ymgyrch, s. f. (cyrch) A mutual approach; an encounter.

Ymgyrchawl, a. (ymgyrch) Congressing; encountering, mutually approaching

Ymgyrchiad, s. m. (ymgyrch) A mutually approaching, a mutually resorting.

Ymgyrchiant, s. m. (ymgyrch) A mutual approach, a mutual onset.

Ymgyrchu, v. a. (ymgyrch) To approach or to resort mutually; to make a mutual onset; to use one's self to resort.

Ymgyrchu a wnaeynt y byddinoedd, ac ellwng eu gwaed i redeg.

Mutually to attack was what the armies did, and let their blood to flow. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgyrhaedd, s. m. (cyrhaedd) A self-reaching; a mutual reach or attainment. v. a. To reach one's self; to attain mutually.

Ymgyrhaeddiad, s. m. (ymgyrhaedd) A reaching one's self, a mutually reaching or attaining.

Ymgyrhaeddyd, v. a. (ymgyrhaedd) To reach one's self; to reach or to attain mutually.

Ymgysdadliad, s. m. (cysdadliad) A matching or comparing one's self; a mutually comparing or vieing.

Ymgysdadlu, v. a. (cysdadlu) To make one's self equal or equivalent; to vie with one another.

Ymgysgiad, s. m. (cysgiad) A sleeping one's self; a mutually sleeping.

Ymgysgodi, v. a. (cysgodi) To shelter one's self; to shelter or to shadow mutually.

Ymgysgodiad, s. m. (cysgodiad) A shadowing one's self; a mutually sheltering.

Ymgysgu, v. a. (cysgu) To sleep one's self; to sleep mutually.

Pan yddoeddyat gwedi gosawd y byddinoedd o bob parth, ac yn ymgysgu hwlach, eaycha eu mam ell dau, oedd fyw etwa, yn brysiaw, ac yn cerdded trwy y gosodedigion fyddinoedd.

When they had made an end of arraying the hosts on every side, and just sleeping themselves in suspense, behold the mother of both of them, who was yet alive, hastening and walking through the embattled hosts. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgysegrawl, a. (cysegrawl) Self-consecrating; mutually consecrated.

Ymgysegriad, s. m. (cysegriad) A consecrating one's self; a mutual consecration.

Ymgysegru, v. a. (cysegru) To consecrate one's self; to consecrate mutually.

Ymgysoni, v. a. (cysoni) To make one's self consonant; to become mutually consonant.

Ymgysoniad, s. m. (cysoniad) An according one's self, a mutually according or harmonizing.

Ymgysylltiad, s. m. (cysylltiad) A self-conjoining; a mutually conjoining.

Ymgysylltu, v. a. (cysylltu) To conjoin one's self; to conjoin or to connect mutually.

O anghraifft eu brenin ymgynnullaw, ac o'r unryw fynnawn fedydd hono ymlanau ac ymgysylltu a theyrnas nef a orugant.

From the example of their king they gather themselves together, and out of that same baptismal font, purify themselves and ally themselves with the kingdom of heaven was what they did. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgystlwn, s. m. (cystlwn) Mutual alliance.

Ymgystlynawl, a. (cystlwn) Mutually allied.

Ymgystlyniad, s. m. (cystlwn) A mutually joining in alliance; a connecting one's self.

Ymgystlynu, v. a. (ymgystlwn) To form a mutual alliance; to ally one's self.

Tair gormes gadarn Ynys Prydain â gystlynynt yn un:—Sef cyntaf y Coraniaid, ac ymgystlynu a wnaynt ag y Celsariad, onid aynt yn un; ac ail o'r tair y bu y Celsariaid; trydydd oeddynt y Saeson, ac ymgystlynu ag ddwy ereill a wnaynt, yn erbyn y Cymmry.

The three powerful molestations of the isle of Britain that combined in one: to be particular, the first was the Coranі, and what they did was to combine themselves with the Caesarians, so that they became one: and the second of the three were the Caesarians; the third were the Saxons, and what they did was to combine themselves with the other two, against the Cymmry. Trioedd.

Ymgystlynwr, s. m.—pl. ymgystlynwyr (ymgystlwn—gwr) One who joins himself in alliance.

Ymgystlynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymgystlwn) One who joins himself in alliance.

Ymgystuddiad, s. m. (cystuddiad) A distressing or afflicting one's self; a mutually afflicting.

Ymgystuddiaw, v. a. (cystuddiaw) To afflict one's self; to distress one another mutually.

Cyhoeddais ympryd i ymgystuddiaw ger bron ein Duw.

I have proclaimed a fast to afflict ourselves in the presence of God. Ezra 8. 21.

Ymgystuddiwr, s. m.—pl. ymgystuddiwyr (cystuddiwr) One who afflicts himself.

Ymgystwyad, s. m. (cystwyad) A chastising one's self; a mutually castigating.

Ymgystwyaw, v. a. (cystwyaw) To chastise one's self; to castigate mutually.

Ymgysuraw, v. a. (cysuraw) To comfort one's self; to afford mutual comfort.

Ai yn y rhai hyn yr ymgysurwn?

Is it in these that I should receive comfort? Isaiah 57. 6.

Ymgysuriad, s. m. (cysuriad) A self-comforting, a mutually comforting.

Ymgyttynu, v. a. (cyd—tynu) To agree mutually

Ymgyweiriad, s. m. (cyweiriad) A putting one's self in order; a preparing one's self; a mutually preparing.

Ymgyweiriaw, v. a. (cyweiriaw) To put one's self in order; mutually to prepare.

Arglwydd, ebai Cuhelyn, ymgyweiria yn ddiannod, a dyred gymeryd coron Ynys Prydain.

My Lord, said Cubelyn, prepare thyself immediately, and come to receive the crown of the Isle of Britain. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymgywilyddiad, s. m. (cywilyddiad) A shaming one's self; a mutually shaming.

Ymgywilyddiaw, v. a. (cywilyddiaw) To shame one's self; to shame mutually.

Ymgywiraw, v. a. (cywiraw) To perfect one's self; to fulfil one's promise; mutually to perfect.

Ymgywiriad, s. m. (cywiriad) A perfecting one's self, a making one's self true; a mutually becoming true.

Ymgywreiniad, s. m. (cywreiniad) A making one's self accurate or correct; a mutually becoming accurate.

Ymgywreiniaw, v. a. (cywreiniaw) To make one's self exact, to adjust one's self; mutually to adjust.

Sef a wnai Bown ymgywreiniaw yn ei gyfrwy.

What Bowu did was to adjust himself in his saddle. H. Bown—Mabinogion.

Ymhaeriad, s. m. (haeriad) An affirming or asserting one's self; a mutually asserting.

Ymhaerllugaw, v. a. (haerllugaw) To make one's self surly or snarling; to become mutually surly.

Ymhaerllugiad, s. m. (haerllugiad) A making one's self surly; a becoming mutually surly.

Ymhaeru, v. a. (haeru) To assert one's self, to maintain, assert, or affirm mutually.

Ymhagrâad, s. m. (hagrâad) A making one's self ugly; a rendering mutually ugly.

Ymhagrâu, v. a. (hagrâu) To make one's self ugly, to become mutually ugly or harsh.

Ymhagriad, s. m. (hagriad) A making one's self ugly or harsh; a becoming mutually ugly.

Ymhagru, v. a. (hagru) To make one's self ugly or harsh; to become mutually harsh.

Ymhalogi, v. a. (halogi) To defile one's self; mutually to pollute.

Nac ymhaloged neb am y marw.

Let none defile themselves for the dead. Leviticus 21. 1.

Ymhalogiad, s. m. (halogiad) A polluting one's self; a mutually polluting.

Ymhalogwr, s. m.—pl. ymhalogwyr (halogwr) One who defiles himself.

Ymhaniad, s. m. (haniad) A causing one's self to separate or proceed; a mutually proceeding.

Ymhanu, v. a. (hanu) To separate one's self; to separate or to proceed mutually.

Ymharddiad, s. m. (harddiad) A self-adorning, a mutually adorning.

Ymharddu, v. a. (harddu) To make one's self sightly; to deck one's self; to adorn mutually.

Er mwyn gwyr o bell—ymharddaist a harddwch.

For the sake of men from afar thou hast decked thyself with ornaments. Ezekiel 23. 40.

Ymheddychiad, s. m. (heddychiad) A self-pacifying, a mutually pacifying.

Ymheddychu, v. a. (heddychu) To pacify one's self; to pacify mutually.

Ymhel, v. a. (hel) To employ one's self, to meddle; to meddle mutually. Paid ag ymhel a hwn, cease meddling with this.

Ymhela, v. a. (ymhel) To employ one's self; to meddle, to meddle mutually.

Ymhelaethawl, a. (helaethawl) Self-amplifying, mutually amplifying.

Ymhelaethiad, s. m. (helaethiad) A self-enlarging; self-elongation; a mutually amplifying.

Ymhelaethu, v. a. (helaethu) To amplify one's self; to amplify mutually.

Ymhell, adv. (pell) At a distance, far off.

Ymhellach, adv. (ymhell) At a greater distance.

Ymheneiddiad, s. m. (heneiddiad) A making one's self seem old.

Ymheneiddiaw, v. a. (heneiddiaw) To make one's self seem old.

Ymherawd, s. m. (perawd) A self-causing.

Ymherawdr, s. m.—pl. ymherodron (ymherawd) That is self-causing; a tyrant; an emperor. It is the same with amherawdr and ymddyberawdr. Ymherawdr o ddyn, a tyrant of a person. Sil.

Ymherawdwr, s. m.—pl. ymherawdwyr (ymherawd—gwr) One who causeth of himself; an emperor.

Ymhercyd, v. a. (hercyd) To apprehend.

Ymherodraeth, s. m. (ymherawdr) The sway or government of an emperor; an empire.

Ymherodraidd, a. (ymherawdr) Like an emperor.

Ymherodrawl, a. (ymherawdr) Imperial.

> Gwedi eu hymgymysgu ynghyd, yr ymherodrawl fyddin haleeb a wasgarwa rhag y Prydeiniaid.
>
> After the mutually mixing of them together, the imperial army presently dispersed before the Britons. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymherodres, s. f. (ymherawdr) An empress.

> Em loewnef, am oleuni
> Ymherodres teswyl ti.
>
> Gem of the refulgent heaven, for light the empress of radiancy art thou. D. ab Gwilym, i'r haul.

Ymheriad, s. m. (heriad) A shewing one's self out; a putting one's self in a posture of defiance; a mutual defying.

Ymheriaw, v. a. (heriaw) To shew one's self out; to put one's self in a threatening posture; to threaten mutually.

Ymheulaw, v. a. (heulaw) To bask in the sun.

Ymheuliad, s. m. (heuliad) A sunning one's self.

Ymhewydiad, s. m. (hewyd) A self-devoting; a mutually devoting.

Ymhewydu, v. a. (hewydu) To devote one's self; to devote mutually.

> O ymhewydu, ymhewydu ddwyfoldeb.
>
> In self-devoting, devote thyself to godliness. Adage.

Ymhiliad, s. m. (hiliad) A self-generating; a mutually producing or generating.

Ymhiliaw, v. a. (hiliaw) To self-produce; to produce or generate mutually.

Ymhiriad, s. m. (hirâad) A self-lengthening; a mutually lengthening.

Ymhirâu, v. a. (hirâu) To self-lengthen; to lengthen or elongate mutually.

Ymhlegyd, adv. (plegyd) In respect of.

Ymhlith, adv. (plith) Amongst, in the midst.

Ymhoewi, v. a. (hoewi) To enliven one's self; to be mutually sprightly.

Ymhoffi, v. a. (hoffi) To please one's self; to take delight; to love mutually.

> Yr hwn sydd yn toi y nefoedd â chymylau—nid ymhoffa efe yn esgeiriau gwr.
>
> He who covereth the heavens with clouds; he taketh no pleasure in the legs of a man. Psalm 147. 10.

Ymhoffiad, s. m. (hoffiad) A pleasing one's self; a taking delight; a mutually loving.

Ymhoffwr, s. m.—pl. ymhoffwyr (hoffwr) One who takes delight.

Ymholi, v. a. (holi) To employ one's self in questioning; to be enquiring; mutually to question. Paid ag ymholi, adone with questioning.

Ymholiad, s. m. (holiad) A being questioning; a mutually questioning.

Ymholwr, s. m.—pl. ymholwyr (holwr) One who employs himself in questioning.

Ymholydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (holydd) One who employs himself in questioning; a disputant.

> Pa le mae ymholydd y byd hwn!
>
> Where is the disputer of this world! 1 Corinthiaid 1. 20.

Ymhollti, v. a. (hollti) To split one's self; to split mutually.

Ymholltiad, s. m. (holltiad) A splitting one's self; a mutually splitting.

Ymhôni, v. a. (hôni) To assert one's self; to avouch, to claim, to challenge for one's self; to assert mutually.

Ymhôniad, s. m. (hôniad) An assuming to one's self; a mutually assuming.

Ymhonwr, s. m.—pl. ymhonwyr (honwr) One who assumes or asserts himself.

Ymhuddaw, v. a. (huddaw) To cover one's self.

Ymhuddiad, s. m. (huddiad) A self-covering.

Ymhuliad, s. m. (huliad) A decking one's self over; a mutually enveloping.

Ymhuliaw, v. a. (huliaw) To deck or envelope one's self; to envelope mutually.

Ymhunaw, v. n. (hunaw) To sleep one's self; to sleep mutually.

Ymhuniad, s. m. (huniad) A sleeping one's self; a mutually sleeping.

Ymhunydd, s. m. (hunydd) Self-repose.

> Ac os Duw o nef new ym cynydd,
> Celufod gan lywy fal llawr ymhunydd.
>
> And if God of heaven but prosper me, fairly placed with the splendid one there will be for me the spot of self-repose. Gwalchmai.

Ymhŵedd, s. m. (hŵedd) A beseeching earnestly. v. a. To be beseeching; to implore mutually.

Ymhwrdd, s. m. (hwrdd) A mutual push; a mutual assault. v. a. To make a mutual assault.

Ymhwyl, s. m. (hwyl) A putting one's self in a course; a mutual setting off.

Ymhwyliad, s. m. (ymhwyl) A putting one's self in order or on a course; a mutually setting off.

Ymhwyliaw, v. a. (ymhwyl) To take to one's self a course; mutually to set in order.

Ymhyderiad, s. m. (hyderiad) A self confiding; a mutually depending.

Ymhyderu, v. a. (hyderu) To fill one's self with confidence; a mutually confiding.

Ymhyfâad, s. m. (hyfâad) A self-emboldening; a mutually emboldening.

Ymhyfâu, v. a. (hyfâu) To self-embolden; to embolden mutually.

Ymhyfiad, s. m. (hyfiad) A self-emboldening; a mutually emboldening.

Ymhyfrydiad, s. m. (hyfrydiad) A self-delighting; a becoming mutually delighted.

Ymhyfrydu, v. a. (hyfrydu) To delight one's self; to be mutually delighted.

Ymhyfu, v. a. (hyfu) To embolden one's self; to be mutually assuming confidence.

> Ymhyfaf er argyhoeddi dyn—ei fod ef mewn cyflwr o elyniaeth yn erbyn Duw.
>
> I will embolden myself to admonish man, of his being in a state of enmity against God. S. Trefredyn.

Ymhylliad, s. m. (hylliad) A scaring one's self; a mutually scaring.
Ymhyllu, v. a. (hyllu) To scare one's self; to scare mutually.
Ymhynodi, v. a. (hynodi) To signalize one's self, to signalize mutually.
Ymhynodiad, s. m. (hynodiad) A self-signalizing; a mutually signalizing.
Ymhyrddiad, s. m. (ymhwrdd) A thrusting one's self; a mutually impelling or thrusting.
Ymhyrddu, v. a. (ymhwrdd) To impel or thrust one's self; to thrust mutually.
Ymhyrddwr, s. m.—pl. ymhyrddwyr (ymhwrdd—gwr) One who thrusteth himself.
Ymhysbysiad, s. m. (hysbysiad) An informing one's self; a making one's self known; a mutually informing.
Ymhysbysu, v. a. (hysbysu) To inform one's self; to make one's self known; to inform mutually.

Ha fab dyn, llefara wrth henaduriaid Israel—pa rai yr ymhysbysais iddynt hwy, wrth eu dwyn allan o dir yr Aipht.

Son of man, speak unto the elders of Israel: those to whom I have made myself known, in bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt. Ezeciel 20. 9.

Ymiachâad, s. m. (iachâad) A self-healing; a mutually healing; a bidding mutual adieu.
Ymiachâu, v. a. (iachâu) To heal one's self; to heal mutually; to bid farewell to one another.

A chwi pan ymiachawyf,
Porfa dir y pryfaid wyf.

With you when I mutually bid farewell, I am the food of worms. Ll. ab Hywel ab Ieu. ab Gronw.

Ymiasâad, s. m. (iasâad) A pervading one's self with a sudden emotion or shock; a mutually giving a shock.
Ymiasâu, v. a. (iasâu) To pervade one's self with a shock; to shock mutually.
Ymiasiad, s. m. (iasiad) A being affected; a mutually filling with quick emotion.
Ymiasu, v. a. (iasu) To fill one's self with emotion; mutually to shock.
Ymiawl, s. m. (iawl) The employ of one's self in worship; mutual worship.
Ymiolad, s. m. (ymiawl) A being worshipping; a mutually worshipping.
Ymioli, v. a. (ymiawl) To employ one's self in adoration; to worship mutually.

Ni nawd i ddiriad ymioli â Duw,
Yn erbyn dydd cyni;
Ni thebyg drud y trengi.

It is not common for the mischievous to be employing himself in converse with God, against the day of affliction: the bold thinks not that he shall die. Elaeth.

Ymiraw, v. a. (iraw) To anoint one's self.

Pwy bynag a ymiro a'i lawn enaint, fe wel ei friwiau.

Whoever anoints himself with the true unction, he will see his wounds. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymiriad, s. m. (iriad) A self-anointing.
Ymiseliad, s. m. (iseliad) A self-lowering; a mutually lowering or humbling.
Ymiselu, v. a. (iselu) To humble one's self; mutually to lower or humble.
Ymlacâad, s. m. (llacâad) A slackening one's self; a mutually slackening.
Ymlacâu, v. a. (llacâu) To slacken one's self.
Ymladiad, s. m. (lladiad) A blessing one's self.
Ymladrata, v. a. (lladrata) To employ one's self in stealing; to steal mutually.
Ymladu, v. a. (lladu) To bless one's self.

Ymladd, s. m.—pl. t. au (lladd) A mutual cutting off; a battle, a fight. v. a. To cut off mutually; to fight.

Sef yw ymladd, dyrchaf, a gosawd, a gwaed, a gweli.

What constitutes fighting is lifting up the hand, and striking, and blood, and wound. Welsh Laws.

A wyrda, ebai Dyfrig, ymleddwch tros eich gwlad.

Ah, good people, said Dyvrig, fight for your country. Gr. ab Arthur.

Er bod yn hawdd ei charu,
Hi â ymladd drwy orwena.

Though she is easy to be courted, she will fight through smiling. Araith y gwreigedd.

Nid gwaeth yr ymladd dig no glew.

Not worse will the wrathful fight than the brave. Adage.

Ymladdawl, a. (ymladd) Pugnacious, fighting.
Ymladdfa, s. f. (ymladd) A place of battle.
Ymladdgar, a. (ymladd) Pugnacious, fighting.
Ymladdgarwch, s. m. (ymladdgar) Pugnacity.
Ymladdiad, s. m. (ymladd) A fighting.
Ymladdwr, s. m.—pl. ymladdwyr (ymladd—gwr) A fighter.
Ymlaen, adv. (blaen) Before, forward, onward.

Gwell un gair ymlaen no dau yn ol.

Better one word before than two after. Adage.

Ymlaenllaw, adv. (ymlaen—llaw) Before-hand.
Ymlaesiad, s. m. (llaesiad) A self-declining; a decaying gradually or drooping.
Ymlaesu, v. a. (llaesu) To slacken one's self; to decline mutually; to flag; to decline; to become indifferent.
Ymlafniad, s. m. (llafniad) A mutually blading; a romping, or pulling about.
Ymlafniaw, v. a. (llafniaw) To be mutually blading; to romp.
Ymlamiad, s. m. (llamiad) An employing one's self in striding; a mutually striding or skipping.
Ymlamsach, s. m. (llamsach) An employing one's self in skipping; a mutually skipping. v. a. To be skipping; to skip mutually.
Ymlamu, v. a. (llamu) To employ one's self in striding or skipping; to stride mutually.
Ymlanâad, s. m. (glanâad) A cleaning one's self; a mutually purifying.
Ymlanâu, v. a. (glanâu) To self-clean; to exculpate one's self; mutually to purify.

Taenella arnynt ddwfr puredigaeth—a golchent eu gwisgoedd, ac felly ymlanâant.

Sprinkle over them the water of purification: and let them wash their clothes, and so they shall make themselves clean. Numeri 8. 7.

Ymlanâwr, s. m.—pl. ymlanâwyr (glanâwr) One who cleanseth himself.
Ymlanw, v. a. (llanw) To fill one's self; to fill mutually.
Ymlanwad, s. m. (ymlanw) A self-filling; a mutually filling.
Ymlaryeiddiad, s. m. (llaryeiddiad) A self-mollifying, a mutually assuaging.
Ymlaryeiddiaw, v. a. (llaryeiddiaw) To self-assuage, mutually to soften.
Ymlasiad, s. m. (glasiad) A making one's self pale; a mutually turning blue.
Ymlasu, v. a. (glasu) To make one's self blue, to turn blue or pale mutually.
Ymlawenâad, s. m. (llawenâad) A gladdening one's self, a mutually gladdening.
Ymlawenâu, v. a. (llawenâu) To gladden one's self; to gladden mutually.
Ymlaweniad, s. m. (llaweniad) A gladdening one's self; a mutually gladdening.

Ymlawenu, v. a. (llawenu) To gladden one's self; to become mutually glad.

Ymlawenychiad, s. m. (llawenychiad) A causing one's self to exult; a mutually rejoicing.

Ymlawenychu, v. a. (llawenychu) To fill one's self with rejoicing; to rejoice mutually.

Ymlawenychwr, s. m.—pl. ymlawenychwyr (llawenychwr) One who rejoices in himself.

Ymleâad, s. m. (lleâad) A self-placing or self-location; a mutually placing.

Ymleâu, v. a. (lleâu) To place one's self; to self-locate, to place mutually.

Ymlechiad, s. m. (llechiad) A hiding one's self; a mutually sculking.

Ymlechu, v. a. (llechu) To secrete one's self.

Ymlechwr, s. m.—pl. ymlechwyr (llechwr) One who hides himself.

Ymlediad, s. m. (llediad) Self-expansion.

Ymledrithiad, s. m. (lledrithiad) A making one's self visible and invisible at pleasure; a mutually using delusion.

Ymledrithiaw, v. a. (lledrithiaw) To make one's self illusive; to use illusion mutually.

Ymledu, v. a. (lledu) To self-expand, to spread one's self; to become diffused; to expand mutually.

Ymlefariad, s. m. (llefariad) A self-speaking; a mutually speaking.

Ymlefaru, v. a. (llefaru) To employ one's self in talking; to talk mutually.

> Nid â ar for nid ymlefair.
>
> He will not go to sea who doth not use himself in talking. Adage.

Ymleferydd, s. m. (lleferydd) Dotage, drivelling, deliriousness. v. a. To utter nonsense; to drivel, to be delirious.

> Nid yw Camden er dysgediced, diwyted, a manyled gwr ydoedd ond ymleferydd am lawer o bethau.
>
> Camden, though he was so learned, so industrious, so accurate a man, doth only drivel with respect to many things. E. Evans.

Ymleflef, s. m. (lleflef) A quarrelling in words. v. a. To utter out words mutually.

Ymleiâad, s. m. (lleiâad) A self-lessening; a mutually diminishing.

Ymleiâu, v. a. (lleiâu) To lessen one's self.

Ymleiddiad, s. m.—pl. ymleiddiaid (ymladd) A combatant.

Ymlenwad, s. m. (ymlanw) A self-filling.

Ymlenwi, v. a. (ymlanw) To fill one's self.

> Gwychr ddysg, fal terfysg taerfor gweilgi gan,
> Genym ni, fan am lan yn ymlenwi.
>
> Heroic the example possessed by us, like the tumult of the raging sea in a white torrent loudly round the shore filling itself. Gr. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Ymletgynt, s. m. (lletgynt) A mutual contact.

> Dygawn ymletgynt;
> Cenadau a'm doddynt,
> Mor ynt aufonawg.
>
> We shall have to be mutually coming together; messengers to me are come, so numerously are they sent. Taliesin.

Ymletŷa, v. a. (lletŷa) To lodge one's self; to lodge mutually.

Ymletŷad, s. m. (lletŷad) A lodging of one's self; a mutually lodging.

Ymletŷwr, s. m.—pl. ymletŷwyr (lletŷwr) One who lodges himself.

Ymlewâad, s. m. (glewâad) An aptly exerting one's self; a being mutually clever.

Ymlewâu, v. a. (glewâu) To exert one's self, to become mutually clever.

Ymlewychiad, s. m. (llewychiad) A causing one's self to shine; a mutually shining.

Ymlewychu, v. a. (llewychu) To make one's self to shine; to be mutually shining.

Ymlewydd, s. m. (llewydd) Persuasion. v. a. To use persuasion, to persuade.

> Yr henuriaid ymlewydd a wnaynt a'r bobl, er mwyn gofyn Barabbas, a cholli yr Iesu.
>
> The elders, what they did was to use persuasion with the people, for the sake of asking for Barrabas, and destroy Jesus. W. Salisbury.

Ymlewyddiad, s. m. (ymlewydd) A persuading.

Ymlewyrchiad, s. m. (llewyrchiad) A self-shining; a mutually shining.

Ymlewyrchu, v. a. (llewyrchu) To make one's self to shine; to shine mutually.

> Ymlewyrchai o fynydd Paran.
>
> He shined forth from mount Paran. Deut. 33. 2.

Ymliasiad, s. m. (lliasiad) A mutually wrangling; an employing one's self in wrangling.

Ymliasu, v. a. (lliasu) To wrangle mutually; to employ one's self in wrangling.

Ymlid, s. m.—pl. t. iau (llid) A pursuit; a following. v. a. To pursue.

> Esawg a fy lle nas ymlidier.
>
> The guilty will flee where he is not pursued. Adage.

Ymlidfa, s. f. (ymlid) A pursuit, a chase.

Ymlidiad, s. m. (ymlid) A pursuing, a chasing.

Ymlidiawl, a. (ymlid) Pursuing, chasing.

Ymlidiwr, s. m.—pl. ymlidiwyr (ymlid—gwr) A pursuer, a chaser.

Ymliosogi, v. a. (lliosogi) To self-multiply; to multiply mutually.

Ymliosogiad, s. m. (lliosogiad) A self-multiplying; a mutually multiplying.

Ymlithr, s. m. (llithr) A sliding or slipping one's self away; a defection.

Ymlithrad, s. m. (ymlithr) A self-slipping; a mutually slipping or sliding.

Ymlithraw, v. a. (ymlithr) To slip one's self.

> Ieremi a aeth allan o Ierusalem, i fyned i wlad Beniamin, i ymlithraw oddiyno yn nghanol y bobl.
>
> Jeremiah went forth out of Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin, to separate himself thence in the midst of the people. Ieremi 37. 12.

Ymlithrawl, a. (ymlithr) Slipping one's self.

Ymliw, s. m. (lliw) A reproach, a finding fault. v. a. To reproach, to find fault, to expostulate.

> Rhaid imi——
> Ymliw a'th aden emlaen.
>
> I must find fault with thy studded trailing wing. D. ab Gwilym, i'r barcud.
>
> Annedwydd ym, nad yw wiw,
> A'ch amled a chwi ymliw.
>
> Unfortunate we are, that it is of no use, and you being so numerous, with you to expostulate. T. Aled.

Ymliwiad, s. m. (ymliw) Self-expostulation.

Ymliwiaw, v. a. (ymliw) To self-reproach; to expostulate.

Ymliwiawl, a. (ymliw) Self-accusing.

Ymliwied, v. a. (ymliw) To self-reproach; to expostulate.

Ymlochlach, s. m. (llawch—llach) Pederasty. v. a. To commit pederasty.

Ymlodraw, v. a. (llodraw) To breech one's self; to breech mutually.

Ymlodriad, s. m. (llodriad) A breeching one's self; a mutually breeching.

Ymloewi, v. a. (gloewi) To brighten one's self.

Ymlogawl, a. (llogawl) Hiring of one's self.

Ymlogi, v. a. (llogi) To hire one's self, to prostitute one's self; to hire mutually.

Ymlogiad, s. m. (llogiad) A hiring of one's self, self-prostitution; a mutual hiring.

Ymloni, v. a. (llòni) To make one's self cheerful. to recreate one's self; to grow cheerful.

Ymloniad, s. m. (lloniad) A cheering one's self; a being mutually cheerful.

Ymlonychiad, s. m. (llonychiad) A self-cheering; a mutually cheering.

Ymlonychu, v. a. (llonychu) To cheer one's self; to become mutually cheerful.

Ymlonyddiad, s. m. (llonyddiad) A quieting one's self; a mutually quieting.

Ymlonyddu, v. a. (llonyddu) To compose one's self; mutually to quiet.

Ymlosgach, s. m. (llosgach) A giving one's self to incest. v. a. To give one's self to incest.

Ymlosgi, v. a. (llosgi) To burn one's self; to burn mutually.

Nid eisteddir ar dan heb ymlosgi.

There can be no sitting on a fire without burning one's self. Adage.

Gwedi pechu onaddynt wy, ydd ymlosgynt pob un o chwant ei gilydd.

After sinning of them they mutually burned every one with a desire for the other. Elucidarius.

Ymlosgiad, s. m. (llosgiad) A self-burning; a mutually burning.

Ymluchiad, s. m. (lluchiad) A self-flinging, an employing one's self in casting; a mutually flinging.

Ymluchiaw, v. a. (lluchiaw) To fling one's self; to cast mutually.

Ymluddediad, s. m. (lluddediad) A self-fatiguing; a mutually fatiguing.

Ymluddedigaw, v. a. (lluddedigaw) To self-fatigue; to become mutually fatigued.

Ymluddedigiad, s. m. (lluddedigiad) A self-fatiguing; a becoming mutually fatigued.

Ymluddedu, v. a. (lluddedu) To fatigue one's self; mutually to fatigue.

Ymluniad, s. m. (lluniad) A self-forming.

Ymluniaw, v. a. (lluniaw) To form one's self.

Ymlusgad, s. m. (llusgad) A dragging one's self.

Ymlusgaw, v. a. (llusgaw) To drag one's self along; to creep, to crawl; to slide along; to drag mutually.

Anffawd a ddaw dan redeg, ac a â ymaith dan ymlusgaw.

Misfortune will come on a run, and will go away with dragging herself along. Adage.

Ymlusgawl, a. (llusgawl) Self-dragging.

Ymlusgiad, s. m.—pl. ymlusgiaid (llusgiad) A creeping or crawling thing.

Ymlusgwr, s. m.—pl. ymlusgwyr (llusgwr) One who drags himself or creeps along.

Ymlutrodi, v. a. (llutrodi) To besmear one's self; mutually to besmear.

Ymlutrodiad, s. m. (llutrodiad) A besmearing one's self; a mutually besmearing.

Ymluyddu, v. a. (lluyddu) To prepare one's self for hostility; mutually to become hostile.

Ymlwybran, v. a. (llwybrau) To be moving one's self sluggishly along.

Ymlwybraw, v. a. (llwybraw) To move one's self sluggishly, or to crawl along.

Ymlwybriad, s. m. (llwybriad) A moving one's self sluggishly along; a crawling.

Ymlwyth, s. m. (llwyth) A self-burdening; a mutual burden.

Ymlwythaw, v. a. (ymlwyth) To burden one's self; mutually to burden.

Gwnaf Ierusalem yn faen trwm i yr holl bobloedd; pawb a ymlwytho ag ef yn ddiau a rwygir.

I will make Jerusalem a burdensome stone to all the people; all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces. Zechariah 12. 3.

Ymlwythiad, s. m. (ymlwyth) A burdening one's self; a mutually burdening.

Ymlydaniad, s. m. (llydaniad) A making one's self wide or broad; a mutually widening.

Ymlydanu, v. a. (llydanu) To make one's self broad; to expand mutually.

Ymlyfiad, s. m. (llyfiad) A licking one's self; a mutually licking with the tongue.

Ymlyfu, v. a. (llyfu) To lick one's self; to lick mutually, to lick one another.

Ymlygrawl, a. (llygrawl) Self-corrupting; mutually corrupting or defiling.

Ymlygriad, s. m. (llygriad) A self-corrupting; a mutually corrupting or defiling.

Ymlygru, v. a. (llygru) To corrupt one's self; to corrupt or defile mutually.

Pan fyddai farw y barnwyr, dychwelynt ac ymlygrynt yn fwy nag eu tadau.

When the judges should die, they would return and they would corrupt themselves more than their fathers. Barnwyr 2. 19.

Ymlygrwr, s. m.—pl. ymlygrwyr (llygrwr) One who corrupts or defiles himself.

Ymlymâad, s. m. (llymâad) A sharpening one's self; a mutually sharpening.

Ymlymâu, v. a. (llymâu) To sharpen one's self; to sharpen mutually.

Ymlyn, s. m. (glŷn) Cohesion, or adherence.

O dri pheth y syrth angen abred ar ddyn; anymgais â gwybodaeth, anymlyn ag y da, ac ymlyn ag y drwg; sef y syrth gan hyn o bethau hyd ei gydryw yn abred, a threiglaw yn ol fal y bu gyntaf.

From three causes will the destiny of the inchoatic transmigration fall on man; a disregard of knowledge, non-adherence with the good, and adherence to the evil; that is, he will fall for these things to his correspondent state in the inchoatic circle, and transmigrate back, as at first. Barddas.

Ymlynawl, a. (ymlyn) Self-adherent; adherent; mutually adhering.

Ymlyngi, s. m.—pl. t. on (ymlyn—ci) A following dog, a dog that follows by scent.

Ymlyniad, s. m.—pl. ymlyniaid (ymlyn) An adherent; a follower.

Gnawd serchawg ymlyniad.

The amorous is accustomed to be a follower. Adage.

Gwell un ceidwad no dau ymlyniad.

One keeper is better than two pursuers. Adage.

Ymlynu, v. a. (ymlyn) To adhere; to follow; to adhere mutually.

Tri chydgyfran dyn; abred a gwynfyd, angen a rhydddyd, a drwg a da: ac oll yn gydbwys, a gallu gan ddyn ymlynu wrth yr un a fyno.

The three co-participations of man; transmigration and intellectual perfection, necessity and liberty, and good and evil; and all equiponderate, and man having the power to adhere to whichever he will. Barddas.

Ymlynwr, s. m.—pl. ymlynwyr (ymlyn—gwr) An adherer, or a follower.

Ymlysiad, s. m. (llysiad) A self-discarding; a mutually discarding.

Ymlysied, v. a. (ymlysiad) To divest one's self; to run wildly, as cattle do in hot weather; also called Moelysdota.

Ymlysu, v. a. (llysu) To discard one's self; to discard mutually.

Ymlythiad, s. m. (glythiad) A self-gorging.

Ymlythu, v. a. (glythu) To gorge one's self.

Ymlythwr, s. m.—pl. ymlythwyr (glythwr) One who gorges himself.

Ymlywiad, s. m. (llywiad) A conducting one's self; a shifting for one's self; a mutually managing.

Ymlywiaw, v. a. (llywiaw) To conduct one's self; to shift for one's self. Ymlywiaw ag y byd, to shift for one's self with the world.

Ymmod, s. m. (mod) Motion. v. a. To move.

Ymmod pren ni ddeil i'w ymmodi.

To shake a tree that will not bear to be shaken. Adage.

Ymmodadwy, a. (ymmod) Moveable.

Ymmodawl, a. (ymmod) Moving. Ymmodolion, moving things.

Ymmodbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (ymmod—pren) A stirring stick.

Ymmodedig, a. (ymmod) Being moved.

Ymmodi, v. a. (ymmod) To move, to stir.

Ymmodiad, s. m. (ymmod) A moving, a stirring.

Ymmodoldeb, s. m. (ymmodawl) Moveableness.

Ymmodrwydd, s. m. (ymmod) Moveableness.

Ymmodwr, s. m.—pl. ymmodwyr (ymmod—gwr) A mover, a stirrer, an agitator.

Ymnabod, s. m. (nabod) Mutual acquaintance. v. a. To be acquainted.

Goreu adnabod ymnabod dy hunan.

The best acquaintance is to be acquainted of thyself. Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymnacâad, s. m. (nacâad) A refusing one's self; a mutually refusing.

Ymnacâu, v. a. (nacâu) To refuse one's self; to refuse mutually.

Ymnawdd, s. m. (nawdd) A being a protection.

Ymnoddi, v. a. (ymnawdd) To be employed in protecting.

Ymnedd, s. m. (nedd) Earnest entreaty. v. a. To beseech earnestly; to use mutual persuasion.

Ymneddawl, a. (ymnedd) Entreating; persuasive

Ymneddiad, s. m. (ymnedd) An entreating, a using persuasion; a mutually persuading.

Ymneddu, v. a. (ymnedd) To employ one's self in entreaty; to entreat earnestly; to persuade; to entreat mutually.

Y tylawd—pa faint mwy yr ymbellâa ei gyfeillion oddiwrtho? er maint a ymneddo, ni throant ato.

The poor: how much more do his friends go far from him! howsoever he may pursue them with words, they will not turn to him. Diarhebion 19. 7.

Ymneddwr, s. m.—pl. ymneddwyr (ymnedd—gwr) One who entreats.

Ymneilltuad, s. m. (neilltuad) A putting one's self aside; a mutually going aside.

Ymneilltuaeth, s. m. (neilltuaeth) Self-recession; a mutual recession.

Ymneilltuaw, v. a. (neilltuaw) To put one's self aside; mutually to go aside.

Ymneilltua, attolwg, oddiwrthyf.

Separate thyself, I pray thee, from me. Genesis 13. 9.

Ymneilltuawl, a. (neilltuawl) Self-separating; mutually separating.

Ymneilltuwr, s. m.—pl. ymneilltuwyr (neilltuwr) One who separates himself, a separatist.

Ymnerthawl, a. (nerthawl) Self-strengthening; mutually strengthening.

Ymnerthiad, s. m. (nerthiad) A self-strengthening; a mutually fortifying.

Ymnerthu, v. a. (nerthu) To strengthen one's self; to strengthen mutually.

Ymnerthed eich dwylaw, a byddwch feibion grymus.

Let your hands be strengthened, and be ye valiant men. 2 Samuel 2. 7.

Ymnerthwr, s. m.—pl. ymnerthwyr (nerthwr) One who strengthens himself.

Ymnesâad, s. m. (nesâad) A drawing one's self near; a mutually drawing near.

Ymnesâawl, a. (nesâawl) Tending to draw one's self near; mutually approaching.

Ymnesâu, v. a. (nesâu) To draw one's self near; to draw near mutually.

Ymnesiad, s. m. (nesiad) A putting one's self near; a mutually moving nearer.

Ymnesu, v. a. (nesu) To move one's self near; to move near mutually.

Ymnewid, s. m. (newid) A change of one's self; a mutual change. v. a. To change one's self; to change mutually.

Ymnewidiad, s. m. (ymnewid) A changing of one's self, a mutually changing.

Ymnewidiaw, v. a. (ymnewid) To change one's self; to change mutually.

Ymnidraw, v. a. (nidraw) To entangle one's self; to entangle mutually.

Ymnidriad, s. m. (nidriad) A self-entangling; a mutually entangling.

Ymnifeiriad, s. m. (nifeiriad) A self-increasing in number, a mutually making numerous.

Ymnifeiriaw, v. a. (nifeiriaw) To self-increase in number; to become numerous mutually.

Sef a oruc Gruffudd ab Rhys—dechreu ymluyddu, a gwyr ei genedl ac ei carai yn ymnifeiriaw tuag ato.

What Grufudd son of Rhys did was to begin to form an army, and the men of his nation gathering themselves in numbers towards him. Caradawg o Lan Carfan.

Ymnoddi, v. a. (noddi) To self-protect, to seek refuge, to protect mutually.

Ymnoddiad, s. m. (noddiad) A self-protecting; a mutually protecting.

Ymnoethi, v. a. (noethi) To self-denude, to expose one's self, mutually to expose.

Noah—a yfai o'r gwin, ac a feddwai, ac a ymnoethai yn nghanol ei babell.

Noah drank of the wine, and was drunken, and he uncovered himself within his tent. Genesis 9. 21.

Ymnoethiad, s. m. (noethiad) A making one's self naked; a mutually exposing.

Ymnofiad, s. m. (nofiad) A swimming one's self, a mutually swimming.

Ymnofiaw, v. a. (nofiaw) To swim one's self, to swim mutually.

Ni waeth ganddo pwy a foddo, os gall efe ymnofiaw.

He cares not who shall be drowned, if he can swim himself. Adage.

Ymnwyfaw, v. a. (nwyfaw) To enliven one's self, mutually to wanton.

Ymnwyfiad, s. m. (nwyfiad) A self-enlivening; a mutually wantoning.

Ymnyddiad, s. m. (nyddiad) An entwining one's self; a mutually entwining.

Ymnyddu, v. a. (nyddu) To entwine one's self.

Ymnythiad, s. m. (nythiad) A nestling one's self; a mutually nestling.

Ymnythu, v. a. (nythu) To nestle one's self, a mutually nestling.

Ymo, adv. (wm—o) Aptly forthcoming.

Breisglym orwyddawr roddion ymo.

Steeds amply swift the gifts aptly coming forth. Llygad Gwr.

Ymobeithiad, s. m. (gobeithiad) A filling one's self with hope, a mutually hoping.

Ymobeithiaw, v. a. (gobeithiaw) To fill one's self with hope, mutually to hope.

Ymobryn, s. m. (gobryn) A mutual bargain. v. a. To bargain mutually.

Ymobryn a wnai a'r wraig feithrin y mab.

He entered into a bargain with the woman to nurse the boy. Mabinogi.

Ymobryniad, s. m. (ymobryn) A mutually bargaining, a self-bargaining.

Ymochel, s. m. (gochel) An avoidance or eschewing; a mutual avoidance.

Ymochelgar, a. (ymochel) Apt to take care of one's self, apt mutually to avoid.

Ymocheliad, s. m. (ymochel) A taking heed of one's self, a mutually avoiding.

Ymochelwr, s. m.—pl. ymochelwyr (ymochel—gwr) One who takes care of himself.

Ymochelyd, v. a. (ymochel) To take heed of one's self; mutually to avoid.

> Rhag yr hyn oll a ddywedais wrth y wraig, ymocheled hi.
>
> Of all that I have said unto the woman, let her beware. Barnwyr 13. 13.

Ymodinebu, v. a. (godinebu) To commit adultery

> Gwrtheyrn Gwrthenau a roddes Ynys Daned—am gael ymodinebu â Rhonwen.
>
> Vortigern of repulsive lips gave the Isle of Thanet for leave to commit adultery with Rowena. Trioedd.

Ymodwrdd, s. m. (godwrdd) The engaging one's self in a tumult, a mutual tumult. v. a. To engage one's self in a tumult, to raise a mutual tumult.

Ymoddef, s. m. (goddef) A self-sufferance, mutual forbearance. v. a. To suffer one's self; to forbear mutually.

Ymoddefawl, a. (ymoddef) Self-suffering, of mutual forbearance or suffering.

Ymoddefiad, s. m. (ymoddef) A suffering one's self, a mutually bearing.

Ymoddefu, v. a. (ymoddef) To suffer one's self, to forbear or to bear mutually.

Ymoddefwr, s. m.—pl. ymoddefwyr (ymoddef—gwr) One who suffers himself.

Ymoedi, v. a. (oedi) To delay one's self, to delay or linger mutually.

Ymoediad, s. m. (oediad) A delaying one's self; a mutually delaying.

Ymoerfela, v. a. (ymoeri) To seek cool retreats.

Ymoeri, v. a. (oeri) To cool one's self.

Ymoeriad, s. m. (oeriad) A cooling one's self; a mutually cooling.

Ymofaliad, s. m. (gofaliad) A making one's self careful; a mutually caring.

Ymofalu, v. a. (gofalu) To make one's self careful; to be careful; to care mutually.

> Ymofalwn am foli,
> I wneuthur arch Un a Thri.
>
> Let us be careful in adoring, to fulfil the command of the One and Three. D. ab Edmwnd.

Ymofalwr, s. m. (gofalwr) One who is careful.

Ymofeg, s. f. (gofeg) The having an impulse of the mind; an idea.

> I myfi daeth ymofeg
> Ymofyn pwy yw'r dyn deg.
>
> An idea occurred to me of enquiring who the fair person can be. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymofegiad, s. m. (gofeg) A forming an idea.

Ymofidiad, s. m. (gofidiad) A paining one's self; a mutually afflicting.

Ymofidiaw, v. a. (gofidiaw) To pain one's self; mutually to afflict.

> Ymofidia a griddfana, merch Sion!
>
> Be thou in pain, and do thou groan, daughter of Zion! Micah 4. 10.

Ymofidiwr, s. m.—pl. ymofidiwyr (gofidiwr) One who puts himself in pain.

Ymofni, v. a. (ofni) To fill one's self with fear; mutually to become fearful.

Ymofniad, s. m. (ofniad) A filling one's self with fear; a mutually fearing.

Ymofwyad, s. m. (gofwyad) A visiting one's self; an employing one's self in visiting; a mutually visiting.

Ymofwyaw, v. a. (gofwyaw) To visit one's self; to employ one's self in visiting; to visit mutually.

Ymofyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gofyn) The employ of one's self in asking; a mutual asking; an enquiry. v. a. To enquire.

> Ni wyr ond a welos;
> Nid hysbys ond a ymofyno.
>
> No one knows but who has seen; no one is informed but who shall have enquired. Adage.

Ymofynawl, a. (ymofyn) Enquiring.

Ymofynblaid, s. f. (ymofyn—plaid) The seeking party; a plaintiff.

Ymofyngar, a. (ymofyn) Inquisitive; prying.

Ymofyngarwch, s. m. (ymofyn) Inquisitiveness.

Ymofyniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymofyn) An inquiring or seeking.

Ymofyniedydd, s. m. (ymofyniad) An inquirer.

Ymofynwr, s. m. (ymofyn—gwr) An inquirer.

Ymofynyd, v. a. (ymofyn) To inquire.

Ymofynydd, s. m. (ymofyn) An inquirer.

Ymogan, s. f. (gogan) Self-ridicule; mutual banter

Ymoganiad, s. m. (ymogan) A ridiculing one's self; a mutually ridiculing.

Ymoganu, v. a. (ymogan) To ridicule one's self; to banter mutually.

Ymogawr, s. m. (gogawr) A shelter; a dwelling.

> Gwae yr hen a gollo ei ymogawr.
>
> Woe to the aged who shall have lost his dwelling. Taliesin.

Ymogel, s. m. (gogel) Self-care; mutual wariness.

Ymogelawg, a. (ymogel) Apt to avoid; wary.

Ymogelgar, a. (ymogel) Apt to avoid; wary.

Ymogeliad, s. m. (ymogel) A taking care of one's self; an avoiding; a mutually avoiding.

Ymogelus, a. (ymogel) Apt to take care; mutually apt to avoid.

Ymogelwr, s. m.—pl. ymogelwyr (ymogel—gwr) One who takes care of himself; one who avoids.

Ymogelyd, v. a. (ymogel) To take care of one's self; to avoid; to avoid mutually.

> Gwaith ysgafn ymogelyd.
>
> It is light work to avoid. Adage.
>
> A wnel drwg ymogeled.
>
> Who doth evil let him take care of himself. Adage.
>
> A ymogelo rhag dyn ni ymogel rhag Duw.
>
> He that shall protect himself against man will not protect himself against God. Adage.

Ymogoneddiad, s. m. (gogoneddiad) A self-glorifying; a mutually glorifying.

Ymogoneddu, v. a. (gogoneddu) To glorify one's self; to glorify mutually.

> Ti fy ngwas, Israel, yr hwn yr ymogoneddaf ynnot.
>
> Thou my servant, O Israel, in whom I will be glorified. Esay 49. 3.

Ymogoni, v. a. (gogoni) A becoming elated or proud.

> Ymogoni a wneynt y gwyr o weled eu gwreigedd.
>
> The men become elated from seeing their wives. Hanes Gr. ar Arthur.

Ymogoniannu, v. a. (gogoniannu) To exalt one's self in triumph.

Ymogoriad, s. m. (ymogawr) A sheltering.

Ymogoriaw, v. a. (ymogawr) To shelter one's self.

> Pob gogawr ydd ymogorio dyn ag ef, cadwed pawb ei ogawr.
>
> As to a shelter that a person shall shelter himself with, let every body keep his shelter. Welsh Laws.

Ymoguddiad, s. m. (goguddiad) A partly self-hiding; a mutually hiding partly.

Ymoguddiaw, v. a. (goguddiaw) To hide one's self partly; mutually to hide partly.

Ymogwyddaw, v. a. (gogwyddaw) To incline one's self; a mutually inclining.

Ymogwyddiad, s. m. (gogwyddiad) An inclining one's self; a mutually inclining.

Ymogyfarch, s. m. (gogyfarch) A partly greeting or noticing mutually.

Ymogyfartaliad, s. m. (gogyfartaliad) A rendering one's self partly equal; a mutually becoming partly equal.

Ymogyfartalu, v. a. (gogyfartalu) To make one's self partly equal.

Ymogyfuchiad, s. m. (gogyfuchiad) A rendering one's self equally exalted, a mutually becoming equally exalted.

Ymogyfuchiaw, v. a. (gogyfuchiaw) To render one's self equally exalted: mutually to become equally exalted.

Pan weles ef ei fod yn rhagori ar holl raddau yr engylion o ogoniant a thegwch, gan dremygu pawb, ef a arfaethai ymogyfuchiaw â Duw.

When he perceived that he was surpassing all the orders of angels in glory and beauty, by contemning every one, he formed the design to exalt himself equally with God. Elucidarius.

Ymogylchiad, s. m. (gogylchiad) A partly surrounding one's self, a mutually surrounding partly.

Ymogylchu, v. a. (gogylchu) To self-encircle partly, mutually to surround partly.

Ymogyniannìad, s. m. (gogyniannìad) A rendering one's self elated, a mutually elating.

Ymogyniannu, v. a. (gogyniannu) To make one's self elated, mutually to elate.

Ymogyniannu a orug Constans, ac addaw i Wrtheyrn gadu iddo ef lywiaw y deyrnas.

What Constans did was to elate himself, and promise Gortheyrn to leave to him the government of the kingdom. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymogyniannu a orug Uthr, ac ymdroi ebun ar yr elawr—a dywedyd— galwasant fi yn hanner marw: ys gwell yr hanner marw a orfo nor byw cwbl y gorfer arno.

What Uthyr did was to elate himself, and turn himself on the litter, with saying, then better is the half dead that conquers than the completely living who is conquered. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymolöad, s. m. (golöad) A self-wallowing.

Ymolchfa, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (golchfa) A lavatory.

Ymolchi, v. a. (golchi) To wash one's self.

Ymolchiad, s. m. (golchiad) A washing one's self, a mutually washing.

Ymoleuthiaw, v. a. (goleuthiaw) To self-worship, mutually to flatter.

Ymoloi, v. a. (goloi) To lie down, to wallow.

A fagwyd ar y domen a gar ymoloi yn y dom.

That is bred upon the dunghill loves to wallow in the dung. Adage.

Ymolli, v. a. (olli) To grasp, to lay hold.

Persidia—yaddi y mae pyramus, maen a lysg y llaw a'i hymollo.

Persidia, in there is the pyramus, a stone that burns the hand that shall lay hold of it. Delw y Byd.

Ymolliad, s. m. (olliad) A grasping, a holding.

Ymollwng, s. m. (gollwng) To let or loosen one's self, mutually to let go.

Troesom oddiwrth y byd bach, a thros y cyfwng ymollyngasom i yr wlad dragwyddawl, rhwng y ddau lys, i y gwagle hyll.

We turned away from the little world, and over the intermediate region, we dropped ourselves to the eternal country, between the two courts, into the terrific void. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymollyngawl, a. (ymollwng) Self-loosening, mutually loosening.

Ymollyngiad, s. m. (ymollwng) A letting one's self off; a mutually letting go.

Ymommedd, s. m. (gommedd) A self-refusal; a mutual refusal. v. a. To refuse one's self; to refuse mutually.

Rhen nef a'n rhoddo ni ran trugaredd,
Teyrn-fron tanc erom heb ymommedd.

The Sovereign of heaven give us a portion of the mercy of the royal bosom of peace, for our sake without inclining himself to refuse. Gr. ab Yr Ynad Coch.

Ymoralw, s. m. (goralw) An inquiry, a seeking. v. a. To inquire.

Ymoralwad, s. m. (ymoralw) An inquiring.

Ymorbwyll, s. m. (gorbwyll) A self-persuading; a mutual persuasion.

Dylid ymorbwyll â dynion drwg, a cheisiaw eu darwedd at ddaioni a doethineb.

It is necessary to use persuasion with bad men, and endeavour to allure them to goodness and wisdom. Barddas.

Ymorbwyllaw, v. a. (ymorbwyll) To employ one's self in persuading; to persuade mutually; to persuade.

Ymorbwylliad, s. m. (ymorbwyll) A being persuading; a mutually persuading.

Ymorchest, s. f. (gorchest) Self-exertion; mutual exertion or emulation.

Ymorchestawl, a. (ymorchest) Self-exerting; mutually striving, mutually emulous.

Ymorchestfa, s. f.—pl. ymorchestfëydd (ymorchest) A place for feats or games.

Ymorchestgar, a. (ymorchest) Apt to exert one's self; mutually emulous.

Ymorchestiad, s. m. (ymorchest) A striving to excel; a mutual emulation.

Ymorchestu, v. a. (ymorchest) To employ one's self in excelling; to strive mutually for excellence; to struggle together; to emulate.

Yr ydym yn ymorchestu—ein bod yn gymeradwy ganddo ef.

We are labouring that we be acceptable with him. 2 Corinthiaid 5. 9.

Ymorchestwr, s. m.—pl. ymorchestwyr (ymorhcest—gwr) One who strives to excel.

Ymorchuddiad, s. m. (gorchuddiad) A self-covering, a mutually covering over.

Ymorchuddiaw, v. a. (gorchuddiaw) To cover over one's self; to cover over mutually.

Merch weddw heb ymorchuddiaw.

A single woman without entering into coverture. T. Aled.

Ymorchwydd, s. m. (gorchwydd) A self-swelling, a filling one's self with rage: mutual rage. v. a. To swell with rage; to swell with mutual rage.

Cynwan torf terfysg ymorchwydd,
Cynwaew gwyth gweithfuddig argiwydd.

The foremost rank of a host of the tumult of mutual outrage, there the foremost spear of wrath a conquering chieftain bears. Cynddelw, m. O. Gwynedd.

Llyw glyw glew yn ymorchwydd.

The leader of a brave prince swelling himself with rage. Prydydd Bychan.

Ymorchwyddaw, v. a. (ymorchwydd) To swell one's self with rage, to grow mutually enraged.

Ymorchwyddiad, s. m. (ymorchwydd) A swelling one's self with rage.

Ymorchwyliad, s. m. (gorchwyliad) A self-occupying; a mutually working.

Ymorchwyliaw, v. a. (gorchwyliaw) To employ one's self; to operate mutually.

Ymorchymyniad, s. m. (gorchymyniad) A self-commending; a mutually desiring.

Ymorchymynu, v. a. (gorchymynu) To self-commend; to desire mutually.

I Dduw a Dewi ydd ymorchymynynt.

To God and Dewi they were commending themselves. Golyddan, Arymes Prydain.

Ymorddiweddiad, s. m. (gorweddiad) An advancing one's self to an end; a making one's self to surpass; a mutually advancing to an equality.

Ymorddiweddu, v. a. (gorddiweddu) To make one's self to come up, to advance one's self to an equality; mutually to advance to an end.

Megys nad ymorddiwedda un creadur â Duw, ag ef yn ymorddiwes a phob peth; felly nid oes un creadur or a weler a allo ymorddiwedd a'r enaid, canys ef a ymorddiwes a phob creadur gweledig.

As no creature advanceth itself to be equal with God; and he self advancing to be present with every thing; so there is not one creature, which is seen, that can advance itself equal with the soul for it advanceth itself to be present with every visible creature. Elucidarius.

Ymorddiwes, s. m. (gorddiwes) A mutual overtaking; the making one's self to overtake.

Ymorddiwesiad, s. m. (ymorddiwes) A making one's self to overtake.

Ymorddiwesu, v. a. (ymorddiwes) To overtake mutually; to make one's self to overtake.

Ymorfoleddiad, s. m. (gorfoleddiad) A mutually exulting; a self-exulting.

Ymorfoleddu, v. a. (gorfoleddu) To exult mutually; to exult in one's self.

Ymorfoleddwr, s. m.—pl. ymorfoleddwyr (gorfoleddwr) One who exults mutually, one who exults in himself.

Ymorfod, s. m. (gorfod) A self-conquest, a mutual conquest. v. a. To conquer one's self, to conquer mutually.

Ymorfodiad, s. m. (ymorfod) A self-conquering, a mutually conquering.

Ymorfoli, v. a. (gorfoli) To vaunt mutually, to vaunt one's self.

Ymorfawl am a orfu,
Ymwan a llain yn min llu.

He vaunts himself as to what he accomplished, thrusting with a blade in front of a host. Iolo Goch.

Ymorphwys, s. m. (gorphwys) A resting one's self, a mutual rest. v. a. To rest one's self, to rest mutually.

Ymorphwysaw, v. a. (ymorphwys) To rest one's self; to rest mutually.

Ymorheula, v. a. (gor—haul) To bask one's self in the sun. s. m. The seeking of sunshine.

Dewisbeth—Ymorheula pen mynydd.

A choice enjoyment—the seeking of the sunshine of a mountain top. Adage.

Ymorheuliad, s. m. (gor--heuliad) A basking one's self in the sun.

Ymorhoffi, v. a. (gorhoffi) To delight one's self extremely; mutually to take extreme delight or fondness.

Ymorhoffiad, s. m. (gorhoffiad) A delighting one's self extremely; a mutually loving extremely.

Ymorllaesiad, s. m. (gorllaesiad) A self-trailing.

Ymorllaesu, v. a. (gorllaesu) To trail one's self.

Ymorllwyn, s. m. (gorllwyn) A mutual escort; a self-protection.

Ymorllwyniad, s. m. (ymorllwyn) A mutually escorting; a self-protecting.

Ymornest, s. f. (gornest) A mutual combat.

Ymornestiad, s. m. (ymornest) A mutually combating; an employing one's self in combat.

Ymornestu, v. a. (ymornest) To combat mutually, to employ one's self in combat.

Ymornestwr, s. m.—pl. ymornestwyr (ymornest—gwr) One employed in combating.

Ymorol, s. m. (gorol) The act of seeking.

Ymorolgar, s. m. (ymorol) Inquisitive, seeking.

Ymoroli, v. a. (ymorol) To enquire, to seek.

Ymorsaf, s. f. (gorsaf) A station where one fixes himself.

Gwiw dy weled——
A'th folchlafu a'th falch ymorsaf.

Glorious to behold thee, with thy notched blade and thy exalted station. Cynddelw, i. H. ab Owain.

Ymorsafiad, s. m. (ymorsaf) A stationing one's self, a mutually stationing.

Ymorsafu, v. a. (ymorsaf) To station one's self, to station mutually.

Ymortho, s. m. (gortho) A self-envelopement.

Ymorthöad, s. m. (ymortho) A self-enveloping.

Ymorthöi, v. a. (ymortho) To self-envelope.

Ymorthöus, a. (ymortho) Self-enveloping.

Ymoruchafiad, s. m. (goruchafiad) A self-exaltation, a mutually exalting.

Ymoruchafiaethiad, s. m. (goruchafiaethiad) An assuming to one's self pre-eminence, a mutually assuming pre-eminence.

Ymoruchafiaethu, v. a. (goruchafiaethu) To assume to one's self pre-eminence, to assume pre-eminence mutually.

Ymoruchafu, v. a. (goruchafu) To exalt one's self, to exalt mutually.

Ymorwyliad, s. m. (gorwyliad) The using one's self to watch or overlook.

Ymorwyliaw, v. a. (gorwyliaw) To use one's self to watch or overlook.

Ymorwyth, s. m. (gorwyth) An enraging. v. a. To put one's self in a rage.

Ymorwythaw, v. a. (gorwythaw) To put one's self in a rage, to enrage mutually.

Ymorwythiad, s. m. (gorwythiad) A putting one's self in a rage, a mutually enraging.

Ymosawd, s. m. (gosawd) A setting or placing one's self, a mutual onset. v. a. To place one's self, to set on mutually, to assault.

A'th waew rudd yn rhyn ymosawd.

With thy ruddy spear dreadfully assaulting. Ll. P. Moch.

Ymosgöad, s. m. (osgöad) A mutually going aside or avoiding, a withdrawing one's self aside.

Ymosgöi, v. a. (osgöi) To shun mutually, to withdraw one's self aside.

Ymosgorddi, v. a. (gosgorddi) To surround one's self with a retinue, mutually to form a retinue.

Ymosgorddiad, s. m. (gosgorddiad) A surrounding one's self with a retinue, a mutually forming a retinue.

Ymosgrain, s. m. (gosgrain) A crawling along.

Ymosgreiniad, s. m. (ymosgrain) A dragging one's self along, a crawling along.

Ymosgreiniaw, v. a. (ymosgrain) To drag one's self along, to crawl along.

Pe gwelai ddiawg y drwg a'i ery, efe a ymogreiniai o'i lesgedd rhag ofn a chywilydd.

If the lazy were to see the evil that awaits him, he would drag himself out of his sloth for fear and shame. Catwg Ddoeth.

Ymosgryd, s. m. (gosgryd) A self-trepidation; mutual trepidation.

Ymosgrydiad, s. m. (ymosgryd) A mutually trembling; a making one's self to quake.

Ymosgrydiaw, v. a. (ymosgryd) To tremble mutually; to cause one's self to tremble.

Ymosgryn, s. m. (gosgryn) A mutual shock, a self-agitation.

Gnawd gosgo gosgordd yn diffan
Fal ymosgryn mawr gawr Gamlan;
Gnawd canu folliant, fal Afan Ferddig,
Neu farddwawd Aronan.

The character of a host running away is like the great mutual perturbation of the shout of Camlan; it is characteristic for me to sing an eulogy, like Avan Verddig, or like the bardic lore of Aronan. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Ymosgryniad, s. m. (ymosgryn) A mutually concussing; a causing a self-perturbation.

Ymosgrynu, v. a. (ymosgryn) To concuss mutually; to agitate one's self; to give one's self a shock.

Ymosmeithiad, s. m. (gosmeithiad) A self-provisioning; a mutually provisioning.

Ymosmeithiaw, v. a. (gosmeithiaw) To furnish one's self with provision; to provide mutually.

Ymosodawl, a. (ymosawd) Relating to self-placing; relating to mutual onset.

Ymosodi, v. a. (ymosawd) To self-place; to attack mutually.

Ymosodiad, s. m. (ymosawd) A placing one's self; a mutually placing; a setting on mutually.

Ymosodwr, s. m.—pl. ymosodwyr (ymosawd—gwr) One who places himself.

Ymostegiad, s. m. (gostegiad) A silencing one's self; a mutually silencing.

Ymostegu, v. a. (gostegu) To silence one's self; to silence mutually.

Ymostwng, s. m. (gostwng) Self-debasement, self-humiliation, self-submission; a mutual lowering. v. a. To bring one's self down; to make a bow.

Ymostyngawl, a. (ymostwng) Self-debasing.

Ymostyngar, a. (ymostwng) Self-submissive.

Ymostyngiad, s. m. (ymostwng) A lowering of one's self; self-humiliation; self-condescension; a bowing one's self; a mutually lowering.

Ympryd, s. m.—pl. t. iau (pryd) A fast.

Ymprydiad, s. m. (ympryd) A fasting.

Ymprydiaw, v. a. (ympryd) To keep a fast.

Ymprydiawl, a. (ympryd) Relating to a fast.

Ymprydiwr, s. m.—pl. ymprydiwyr (ympryd—gwr) One who keeps a fast.

Ymrabin, s. m. (grabin) A mutual grasping. v. a. To clasp, close, or grapple together.

> Wrth ymrabin y mae y cathau yn ymgaru.
>
> By clawing together it is that the cats shew their love. Adage.

Ymrabiniad, s. m. (grabin) A mutually grasping.

Ymrabiniaw, v. a. (ymrabin) To grasp mutually.

Ymrafael, s. f.—pl. t. ion (rhy—gafael) Contention, variance, or strife. Tòri yr ymrafael, to break the dispute.

Ymrafaelgar, a. (ymrafael) Contentious.

Ymrafaelgarwch, s. m. (ymrafaelgar) Contentiousness, a state of mutual wrangling.

Ymrafaeliad, s. m. (ymrafael) A contending.

Ymrafaeliaw, v. a. (ymrafael) To contend.

Ymrafaeliwr, s. m.—pl. ymrafaeliwyr (ymrafael—gwr) One who engages in contention, a wrangler.

Ymrain, s. m. (rhain) A partaking in coition. v. a. To partake in coition.

> Tri achaws y gedy gwraig ei gwr: o bydd clafr, neu ag anadl ddrewedig iddo, neu heb allu ymrain.
>
> For three causes a wife forsakes her husband: if he be leprous, or with stinking breath, or without being able to partake of coition. Welsh Laws.

Ymraint, adv. (braint) Almost, at the point of.

> Gwelliad ymraint ei golli.
>
> A neglectful one at the point of being lost. T. Alud.

Ymran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) A schism; a sect.

Ymranawl, a. (ymran) Schismatic; mutually separating or dividing.

Ymraniad, s. f.—pl. t. au (ymran) A becoming divided; a dividing into schisms. Rhwyf ymraniad, a leader of a sect.

Ymranu, v. a. (ymran) To self-separate; to become divided; to separate mutually.

> Nesâais gydag ef, yn ddiarswyd, at fin y dibyn, yn y llèn, ag y flamau yn ymranu o'n deutu.
>
> I approached with him without dread, to the edge of the precipice, in the veil, whilst the flames were dividing themselves about us. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ymranwr, s. m.—pl. ymranwyr (ymran—gwr) One who separates himself.

Ymrathiad, s. m. (rhathiad) A mutually rubbing; a rubbing one's self.

Ymrathu, v. a. (rhathu) To rub mutually; to rub one's self.

Ymre, s. f. (rhe) Procreation. v. a. To copulate.

> Nid o'i gorff ydd ymre y gwybedyn.
>
> It is not from his body that a fly doth procreate. Adage.

Ymrëad, s. m. (ymre) Coition, copulation.

> Ni thal dim drwg ymrëad.
>
> No kind of bad connection will prosper. Adage.

Ymrëain, v. a. (ymre) To copulate, to couple.

> Tair gwaith y dyrchaif ar sarhaad gwr, pan ymrëer ei wraig.
>
> Three advancements shall be made on the insult fine, to a husband when connection shall be had with his wife. Welsh Laws.

Ymredeg, s. m. (rhedeg) To run one's self; to run mutually.

Ymrediad, s. m. (rhediad) A running one's self; a mutually running.

Ymreddfiad, s. m. (greddfiad) A self-habituating; a mutually habituating.

Ymreddfu, v. a. (greddfu) To habituate one's self; to mutually habituate.

Ymrefriad, s. m. (rhefriad) A basking one's self; a basking mutually.

Ymrefru, v. a. (rhefru) To bask one's self; to bask mutually.

Ymreg, s. f. (rheg) A mutual ban or curse.

Ymregawl, a. (ymreg) Mutually cursing.

Ymregiad, s. m. (ymreg) A cursing mutually.

Ymregu, v. a. (ymreg) To curse mutually.

Ymrem, s. f. (rhem) A wambling, a stir; a stir in the stomach.

Ymremial, s. m. (ymrem) A wrangling together.

Ymrewydd, s. m. (rhewydd) Coition, copulation. v. a. To copulate.

> Ni fynai y rhai creulawn, gan y morwynion, ond ymrewydd â hwynt; ac am nas caent, eu lladd a orugynt.
>
> The cruel ones would have no less, from the virgins, than to cohabit with them, and forasmuch as they could not they slew them. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ymrewyddiad, s. m. (ymrewydd) A copulating.

Ymrewyddu, v. a. (ymrewydd) To copulate.

Ymrifaw, v. a. (rhifaw) To number one's self; to number mutually.

Ymrifiad, s. m. (rhifiad) A numbering one's self; a mutually numbering.

Ymrinciad, s. m. (rhinc) A mutually jarring.

Ymrincian, v. a. (rhincian) To jarr mutually; to employ one's self in jarring.

Ymriniad, s. m. (rhiniad) An employing one's self in mysteries; a talking mutual secrets.

Ymriniaw, v. a. (rhiniaw) To employ one's self in secrets; to talk mutual secrets.

> A fynno na wypo neb ei rin, ymrined â'i bwyll yn unig.
>
> He who would that no body should know his secret, let him employ himself about secrets with his mind alone. Adage.

Ymrithiad, s. m. (rhithiad) A shewing one's self; a making one's self to appear; a mutually appearing; a taking a form.

Ymrithiaw, v. a. (rhithiaw) To shew one's self; to make one's self to appear or to seem; to become apparent; to knit, as applied to the formation of fruit; to appear mutually.

> Ymrith y drwg ar lun daioni.
>
> Evil will shew itself in the form of good. Adage.

Ymrithiaw a orug Menw yn rhith ederyn, a disgynu a wnai uwch ben y gwal.

What Menw did was to appear in the semblance of a bird, and he alighted above the den. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Ymrithiawl, a. (rhithiawl) Apt to make one's self seem; mutually seeming.

Ymrithiwr, s. m.—pl. ymrithiwyr (rhithiwr) One who appears or puts on a semblance.

Ymröad, s. m. (rhöad) Self-resignation; a mutually giving or resigning.

Ymröawl, a. (rhöawl) Self-resigning; mutually resigned.

Ymrodiad, s. m. (rhodiad) An employing one's self in walking about; a mutually walking about or perambulating.

Ymrodiaw, v. a. (rhodiaw) To employ one's self in walking about; to perambulate mutually.

Ymroddawl, a. (rhoddawl) Self-resigning; mutually resigning or giving up.

Ymroddedig, a. (rhoddedig) Self-resigned; mutually resigned or become yielding.

Ymroddi, v. a. (rhoddi) To resign one's self; to give up or resign mutually.

Cas dyn a ymroddo mewn anurddas er urddas i un arall.

Hateful the person who shall give himself up to dishonour for the honour of another. Adage.

Ymroddiad, s. m. (rhoddiad) A self-resignation; mutual resignation.

Ymroddwr, s. m.—pl. ymroddwyr (rhoddwr) One who resigns or yields himself.

Gwell ymroddwr no dialwr.

Better the one who forgoes than the retaliator. Adage.

Ymroi, v. a. (rhoi) To give one's self; to resign one's self; to become resigned, to submit; to resolve; to give up mutually. Ymroi i farw, to resign one's self to die; ymroi i fyw yn dda, to resolve to live well; ymroi ati, to fall to it in earnest.

Ymroliad, s. m. (rholiad) A rolling one's self; a mutually rolling.

Ymrolian, v. a. (rholian) To be rolling one's self; to be mutually rolling.

Ymroliaw, v. a. (rholiaw) To roll one's self; to roll mutually.

Ef oedd——
Yn ymroliaw am yr aelwyd.

He was rolling himself about the hearth. Rhis. Iorwerth.

Ymron, adv. (bron) Hard by; almost. Ymron marw, almost dying; ymron tagu, almost choaked.

Ymronyniad, s. m. (gronyniad) A becoming granulated; a self-granulating.

Ymronynu, v. n. (gronynu) To become granulated; to self-granulate.

Ymruglaw, v. a. (rhuglaw) To trail one's self; to trail mutually.

Ymrugliad, s. m. (rhugliad) A trailing one's self; a mutually trailing.

Ymruthraw, v. a. (rhuthraw) To rush one's self on; to rush on mutually.

Ymruthriad, s. m. (rhuthriad) A rushing one's self on; a mutually rushing.

Ymruthrwr, s. m.—pl. ymruthrwyr (rhuthrwr) One who rushes himself onward.

Ymrwgnach, s. m. (grwgnach) A using one's self to grumbling. v. a. To use one's self to grumbling.

Ymrwtiad, s. m. (rhwtiad) A self-chafing.

Ymrwtiaw, v. a. (rhwtiaw) To rub one's self.

Ymrwydaw, v. a. (rhwydaw) To entangle one's self; to entangle mutually.

Ymrwydiad, s. m. (rhwydiad) A self-entangling, a mutually entangling.

Ymrwyddâad, s. m. (rhwyddâad) A facilitating one's self, a mutually facilitating.

Ymrwyddâu, v. a. (rhwyddâu) To facilitate one's self, mutually to facilitate.

Ymrwyddaw, v. a. (rhwyddaw) To facilitate one's self, to facilitate mutually.

Ymrwyddiad, s. m. (rhwyddiad) A facilitating one's self; a mutually facilitating.

Ymrwyfaw, v. a. (rhwyfaw) To urge one's self forward, to row one's self; to row mutually.

Ymrwyfiad, s. m. (rhwyfiad) A working one's self onward; a rowing one's self; a mutually rowing.

Ymrwygaw, v. a. (rhwygaw) To tear one's self, to tear mutually.

Ymrwygiad, s. m. (rhwygiad) A tearing or rending one's self; a mutually rending.

Ymrwyllaw, v. a. (rhwyllaw) To become full of interstices; to work out through crevices.

Lle'r ymrwyllo'r mor allan,
Lle ing y maent llongau man.

Where the sea through crevices works itself out, in a strait place the small ships are laid. Lewis Môn.

Ymrwylliad, s. m. (rhwylliad) A becoming full of interstices; a working through crevices.

Ymrwymaw, v. a. (rhwymaw) To bind one's self, to bind mutually.

Ymrwymawl, a. (rhwymawl) Self-binding, being mutually binding.

Ymrwymiad, s. m. (rhwymiad) A binding one's self; a mutually binding.

Ymrwymwr, s. m.—pl. ymrwymwyr (rhwymwr) One who binds himself.

Ymrwysaw, v. a. (rhwysaw) To self-invigorate, to invigorate mutually.

Dwyparth iechyd ymrwysaw.

The two parts of health is exercise. Adage.

Ymrwysiad, s. m. (rhwysiad) A self-invigoration; a mutually invigorating.

Ymrwystraw, v. a. (rhwystraw) To hinder one's self, to hinder or to delay mutually.

Ymrwystriad, s. m. (rhwystriad) A hindering one's self, a mutually hindering.

Ymrwystrwr, s. m.—pl. ymrwystrwyr (rhwystrwr) One who hindereth himself.

Ymrwythaw, v. a. (rhwythaw) To pervade one's self, to pervade mutually.

Ymrwythiad, s. m. (rhwythiad) A self-pervading, a mutually pervading.

Ymrydwst, s. m. (grydwst) An employing one's self in twittering. v. a. To be twittering, to twitter mutually.

Ymryddâad, s. m. (rhyddâad) A liberating one's self, a mutually liberating.

Ymryddâu, v. a. (rhyddâu) To liberate one's self; to liberate mutually.

Ymryfeddiad, s. m. (rhyfeddiad) A wondering in one's self, a mutually wondering.

Ymryfeddu, v. a. (rhyfeddu) To wonder in one's self, to wonder mutually.

Ymryfel, s. m. (rhyfel) The being engaged in war; mutual warfare.

Ymryfeliad, s. m. (ymryfel) An engaging one's self in war; a mutually warring.

Ymryfelu, v. a. (rhyfelu) To engage one's self in war; to war mutually.

> Marwawl ddyn——
> Sef ymryfelu a mi bydd;
> A pheunydd ym gorthrymai.
>
> Mortal man: he engages himself in war against me; and daily he causes me affliction. Edm. Prys, Psalm lvi. 2.

Ymryfelwr, s. m.—pl. ymryfelwyr (ymryfel—gwr) One who uses himself to war.

Ymryfygawl, a. (rhyfygawl) Self-arrogating; mutually presuming.

Ymryfygiad, s. m. (rhyfygiad) To assume to one's self, a mutually presuming.

Ymryfygu, v. a. (rhyfygu) To assume to one's self; to presume mutually.

> Syberwyd, sef yw hyny ymryfygu o ddyn yn ei geudawd, a cheisiaw ymddyrchafael yn uwch nog y dylyo.
>
> Haughtiness, that is for a person to arrogate to himself in his imagination, and seek to exalt himself higher than he ought. Ll. G. Hergest.

Ymryfygwr, s. m.—pl. ymryfygwyr (rhyfygwr) One who arrogates to himself.

Ymryfysg, s. m. (rhyfysg) A confused state; mutual confusion.

> Pan ddel ymrafael ac ymryfysg blin,
> Heb lonydd gan derfysg,
> Taraw i mewn.——
>
> When there comes contention and dire confusion, void of rest from tumult, do thou strike in. H. D. ab Ifan.

Ymryfysgiad, s. m. (ymryfysg) A putting one's self in confusion; a mutual confusion.

Ymryfysgu, v. a. (ymryfysg) To confuse one's self; to confuse mutually.

Ymrygniad, s. m. (rhygniad) A rubbing or galling one's self; a mutually rubbing.

Ymrygnu, v. a. (rhygnu) To rub or gall one's self, to rub mutually.

Ymrymiad, s. m. (grymiad) To strengthen one's self, to self-invigorate, to invigorate mutually.

Ymrymiaw, v. a. (grymiaw) To self-invigorate; mutually to invigorate.

Ymrynu, v. a. (rhynu) To study with one's self, inwardly to digest.

Ymryniad, s. m. (rhyniad) A studying to one's self, a deeply considering.

Ymryson, s. m.—pl. t. au (rhyson) The engaging of one's self in dispute; mutual dispute, contention, disputation. v. a. To contend in argument, to dispute.

> Nid gwall synwyr ond ymryson.
>
> There is no want of sense like contention. Adage.
>
> Tri'pheth sy goreu eu gwneyd ar frys: dal chwain, troi o fford ci cynddeiriawg, a gochel ymryson.
>
> Three things which are best to be done in a hurry: to catch fleas, to turn out of the way of a mad dog, and to avoid contention. Adage.

Ymrysonaeth, s. m. (ymryson) Contention.

Ymrysonawl, a. (ymryson) Controversial.

Ymrysongar, a. (ymryson) Contentious.

Ymrysongarwch, s. m. (ymrysongar) Contentiousness.

Ymrysoni, v. a. (ymryson) To contend, to strive.

Ymrysoniad, s. m. (ymryson) A contending.

Ymrysonus, a. (ymryson) Contentions.

Ymrysonusder, s. m. (ymryson) Contentiousness.

Ymrysonwr, s. m.—pl. ymrysonwyr (ymryson—gwr) A contender, a wrangler.

Ymrythiad, s. m. (rhythiad) A stretching one's self widely.

Ymrythu, v. a. (rhythu) To stretch out one's self widely; to stretch out mutually.

Ymrywiad, s. m. (rhywiad) A rendering one's self of a kind; a mutually becoming of a kind.

Ymrywiaw, v. a. (rhywiaw) To render one's self of a kind; to become mutually of a kind.

Ymrywiogi, v. a. (rhywiogi) To render one's self kindly or genial, mutually to become genial.

Ymsaethiad, s. m. (saethiad) The employing one's self in shooting; a mutually shooting or darting.

Ymsaethu, v. a. (saethu) To employ one's self in shooting; to shoot or dart mutually.

> Rhyngom yr aeth ymsaethu
> A dwy drem, mi ac em gu.
>
> Between us a mutual shooting took place with two sights, me and the lovely fair one. Bedo Aerdrem.

Ymsafniad, s. m. (safniad) The opening of one's jaw; a mutually jawing.

Ymsafnrythiad, s. m. (safnrythiad) An employing one's self in extending the jaws; a mutually gaping.

Ymsafnrythu, v. a. (safnrythu) To employ one's self in opening the jaws.

Ymsafnu, v. a. (safnu) To open one's jaw; a mutually jawing.

Ymsang, s. f. (sang) A mutual treading or trampling, an employing one's self in treading; a mutual struggle; a wrestling. Ymsang torf, the trampling of a host: Llythyren ymsang, epenthesis.

Ymsangawl, a. (ymsang) Self-treading; mutually treading or trampling.

Ymsangiad, s. m. (ymsang) An employing one's self in treading; a mutually treading.

Ymsangu, v. a. (ymsang) To employ one's self in treading, to tread mutually.

Ymsarddiad, s. m. (sarddiad) A self-chiding, a mutually chiding.

Ymsarddu, v. a. (sarddu) To chide mutually.

Ymsarllach, s. m. (sarllach) A behaving riotously. v. a. To behave riotously.

Ymsathr, s. f. (sathr) The employment of one's self in treading; a mutual tread.

Ymsathriad, s. m. (ymsathr) An employing one's self in treading; a mutually treading.

Ymsathru, v. a. (ymsathr) To employ one's self in treading; to tread mutually.

Ymsawdd, s. m. (sawdd) A sinking of one's self; a mutual sinking in.

Ymseddiad, s. m. (seddiad) A seating one's self; a becoming mutually seated.

Ymseddu, v. a. (seddu) To seat one's self; to become mutually seated.

Ymsefydliad, s. m. (sefydliad) A fixing one's self, a mutually fixing or establishing.

Ymsefydlu, v. a. (sefydlu) To fix one's self, to fix or to establish mutually.

Ymseiliad, s. m. (seiliad) A making a foundation for one's self; a mutually founding.

Ymseiliaw, v. a. (seiliaw) To lay a foundation for one's self; a mutually founding.

Ymsel, s. m. (sel) The state of being beholding; a mutual beholding; perception.

> Dylid cyflawn gyffelybu—herwydd hanfod, ac ansawdd, a rhyw, a phwyll, a deall, ac ymsel, ac amser.
>
> A simile should be justly drawn, with respect to nature, and quality, and genius, and reason, and understanding, and perception, and time. Barddas.

Ymseliad, s. m. (ymsel) The employing one's self in beholding; a mutually beholding.

Ymselu, v. a. (selu) To employ one's self in beholding; to behold mutually.

Ymsènawl, a. (sènawl) Self-reproaching; mutually reproaching or upbraiding.

Ymsèniad, s. m. (sèniad) A self-reproaching; a mutually upbraiding or reproaching.

Ymsènu, v. a. (sènu) To use one's self in reproach, to upbraid one's self; to upbraid or to reproach mutually.

> Y neb sydd hoff ganddo ymsenu, sydd hoff ganddo bechawd.
>
> He that is delighted in engaging himself in strife, is delighted with sin. Diarhebion 17. 19.

Ymsenwr, s. m.—pl. ymsènwyr (sènwr) One who uses himself to reproaching.

Ymsengi, v. a. (ymsang) To employ one's self in trampling, to be encroaching.

Ymserchiad, s. m. (serchiad) A filling one's self with fondness or love, a mutually doating.

Ymserchu, v. a. (serchu) To fill one's self with fondness; to entertain mutual fondness.

> Ahol*a*h—a ymserchai yn ei chariadau.
>
> Aholah doated on her lovers. Ezekiel 23. 5.

Ymsereniad, s. m. (sereniad) A spangling one's self with stars or sparkles.

Ymserenu, v. a. (serenu) To make one's self to sparkle with stars.

Ymserth, s. m. (serth) The giving one's self up to abuse, mutual abuse.

> Ymserth gwraig sy megys defnl parâus.
>
> The contention of a wife is like a continual dropping. Diarhebion 19. 13.

Ymserthiad, s. m. (ymserth) A using one's self to abuse, a mutually abusing.

Ymserthu, v. a. (ymserth) To employ one's self in abuse or in talking obscenely; to talk abuse or obscenity mutually.

> Ymserthant, cablant eu gwyr;
> Trinlant benau truelnwyr.
>
> They mutually abuse, they curse their husbands; they belay the heads of wretched men. S. Phylip.

Ymsiarad, s. m. (siarad) An employing one's self in talking; a mutually talking.

Ymsiaradaeth, s. m. (ymsiarad) A using one's self to talking; a state of mutual talking.

> Grym y trydydd orchymyn yw barnlad ar ofer-addoliad Duw; a gwahardd*i*ad o ymsiaradaeth ofer.
>
> The substance of the third commandment is a condemnation of impropriety in the worship of God; and the interdiction of vainly being employed in talking. S. Trefredyn.

Ymsiared, v. a. (siared) To employ one's self in talking; to keep talking; to talk mutually.

Ymsiglaw, v. a. (siglaw) To shake or rock one's self; to shake mutually.

> Seiliau y nefoedd a gyffroesant, ac a ymsiglasant am iddo ef ddigiaw.
>
> The foundations of the heavens have been agitated, and they have been shaken, because he was wroth. 2 Samuel 22. 8.

Ymsigliad, s. m. (sigliad) A shaking or rocking one's self; a mutually shaking.

Ymsisial, s. m. (sisial) A mutual chat. v. a. To chat together; to employ one's self in chatting or whispering.

Ymsoddawl, a. (ymsawdd) A sinking of one's self; mutually sinking.

Ymsoddi, v. a. (ymsawdd) To sink one's self.

Ymsoddiad, s. m. (ymsawdd) A sinking one's self; a mutually sinking.

Ymsomi, v. a. (somi) To disappoint one's self; mutually to disappoint.

Ymsomiad, s. m. (somiad) A disappointing one's self; a mutually deceiving.

Ymson, s. m. (son) The employment of one's self in mentioning; mutual talk. v. a. To be mentioning; to talk mutually.

> Mewn cerdd hawl ac ateb—haws pwyeaw yn dyn at y pwyll ac y deall o bethau, nog mewn un dull arall; ac yn haws ymson am amryfeilion farnau.
>
> In a poem that is in dialogue, it is easier to press closely to the reason and the understanding of things, than in any other mode; and it is easier to make mention about various opinions. Barddas.

Ymsoniad, s. m. (ymson) An employing one's self in talking; a mutually talking.

Ymsoniaw, v. a. (ymson) To employ one's self in talking; to talk mutually.

Ymsori, v. a. (sori) To shew one's self offended, or to be sulky; to sulk mutually.

Ymsoriad, s. m. (soriad) A shewing one's self sulky; a becoming mutually offended.

Ymswrn, s. m. (swrn) The employment of one's self in snarling; a mutual snarl. v. a. To employ one's self in a snarly mood; to snarl mutually.

> Ymswrn ag ysgwr gwr gwrdd.
>
> A snarling with the asperity of a passionate man. Rhys Goch Eryri.

> Amser yw hwn i ymswrn;
> Ammhau y swn y mae swrn.
>
> A time is this to be grumbling; about the rumour a number do express a doubt. Llyw. ab O. ab Cynfrig.

Ymswyddaw, v. a. (swyddaw) To employ one's self in office; to seek for office; to officiate.

> Gwelwn nad oes gywilydd:
> Rheibiaw ac ymswyddaw sydd.
>
> We see that there is no shame: to scramble and to seek for office is what prevails. Lewis Powel.

Ymswyddiad, s. m. (swyddiad) An employing one's self in office; an officiating.

Ymswyn, s. m. (swyn) Self-security by some mysterious rite.

Ymswynaw, v. a. (ymswyn) To bless one's self; to secure one's self, as by some secret rite or charm; to cross one's self, to beware.

Ymswyniad, s. m. (ymswyn) A blessing one's self; to secure one's self by a talisman; to cross one's self.

Ymswynwr, s. m.—pl. ymswynwyr (ymswyn—gwr) One who blesses himself; one who crosses himself, or uses charms.

Ymsyfrdaniad, s. m. (syfrdaniad) A making one's self giddy; a mutually stupefying.

Ymsyfrdanu, s. m. (syfrdanu) To stupefy one's self; mutually to stupefy.

Ymsymud, s. m. (symud) Self-motion. v. a. To move one's self; to move mutually.

Ymsymudaw, v. a. (ymsymud) To move one's self; to move mutually.

Ymsymudawl, a. (ymsymud) Self-moving, self-removing; mutually moving.

Ymsymudiad, s. m. (ymsymud) A moving one's self; a mutually moving.

Ymsymudwr, s. m.—pl. ymsymudwyr (ymsymud—gwr) One who moves himself.

Ymsymudydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymsymud) A self-mover.

> Pob ymsymudydd, yr hwn sy fyw, a fydd i chwi yn fwyd.
>
> Every moving thing, the which is alive, shall be meat for you. Genesis 9. 3.

Ymsyniad, s. m. (syniad) A perceiving or feeling one's self; a mutual feeling.

Ymsyniaw, v. a. (syniaw) To perceive or to fee one's self; to reflect, to contemplate; to intend mutually.

Ymsyniawl, a. (syniawl) Self-perceptive; relating to mutual feeling or impulse.

Ymsyniad, v. a. (syniad) To perceive or to feel one's self; to reflect, to feel or to be affected mutually.

Ymsynu, v. a. (synu) To astonish one's self; to be mutually struck or astonished.

Ymsynwyraw, v. a. (synwyraw) To reason with one's self; to reason mutually.

> Y rhai ynt herwydd y cnawd, am bethau y cnawd yr ymsynwyrant.
>
> They that are after the flesh, about the things of the flesh do they concern themselves. W. Salisbury.

Ymsynwyriad, s. m. (synwyriad) A reasoning to one's self; a mutually reasoning.

Ymsypiad, s. m. (sypiad) A gathering one's self in a heap, a mutually thronging.

Ymsypiaw, v. a. (sypiaw) To gather one's self into a heap; to agglomerate; mutually to press together.

Ymsyrthiad, s. m. (syrthiad) A falling one's self; a mutually falling.

Ymsyrthiaw, v. a. (syrthiaw) To fall one's self; to fall mutually.

Ymsythiad, s. m. (sythiad) A raising one's self erect; a mutually rising up.

Ymsythu, v. a. (sythu) To raise one's self erect, to straighten one's self; to swagger.

Ymsythwr, s. m.—pl. ymsythwyr (sythwr) One who raises himself up.

Ymufyddâad, s. m. (ufyddâad) Self-humiliation; mutual humiliation.

Ymufyddâu, v. a. (ufyddâu) To humble one's self; to humble mutually.

Ymunaw, v. a. (unaw) To unite one's self; to join or to combine together; to incorporate mutually.

Ymundawd, s. m. (undawd) The act of uniting one's self; a mutual union.

Ymuniad, s. m. (uniad) A self-uniting; a mutually uniting or connecting.

Ymunioni, v. a. (unioni) To straighten one's self; to be straightened.

> Yr oedd gwraig ag ynddi ysbryd gwendid—ac ni allai hi mewn modd yn y byd ymunioni.
>
> There was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity; and she could in no wise lift up herself. Luc 13. 11.

Ymunioniad, s. m. (unioniad) A self-straightening; a mutually straightening.

Ymwad, s. m. (gwad) Self-denial, mutual denial.

Ymwadawl, a. (ymwad) Self-denying; mutually denying or disowning.

Ymwadiad, s. m. (ymwad) A self-denying; a renouncing; a disavowal; abjuration.

Ymwadu, v. a. (ymwad) To deny one's self; to renounce, to disavow; to deny mutually.

> Os myn neb ddawed ar fy ol i, ymwaded ag ef ei hun.
>
> If any man shall come after me, let him deny himself. Matthew 16. 24.

Ymwadwr, s. m.—pl. ymwadwyr (ymwad—gwr) One who denieth himself.

Ymwaediad, s. m. (gwaediad) A self-bleeding; a mutually letting blood.

Ymwaedlydiad, s. m. (gwaedlydiad) An imbruing one's self in blood; a mutually imbruing in blood.

Ymwaedlydu, v. a. (gwaedlydu) To imbrue one's self in blood.

Ymwaedu, v. a. (gwaedu) To bleed one's self; to let blood mutually.

Ymwaethiad, s. m. (gwaethiad) A making one's self worse; a mutually growing worse.

Ymwaethu, v. a. (gwaethu) To make one's self worse; to become mutually worse.

> Gwaeth no phob gwaethaf ymwaethu.
>
> The worse of every bad thing is to make one's self worse. Adage.

Ymwagâad, s. m. (gwagâad) A self-emptying.

Ymwagâu, v. a. (gwagâu) To empty one's self.

Ymwahanawl, a. (gwahanawl) Self-separating; mutually separating.

Ymwahaniad, s. m. (gwahaniad) A self-separating; mutual separation.

Ymwahaniaeth, s. m. (gwahaniaeth) Self-separation; mutual separation.

Ymwahanu, v. a. (gwahanu) To separate one's self; to be divided or parted; to separate mutually.

> Elias—a darawai y dyfroedd, a hwy a ymwahanynt yma ac acw.
>
> Elijah smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither. 2 Breninoedd 2. 8.

Ymwahanwr, s. m.—pl. ymwahanwyr (gwahanwr) One who separates himself.

Ymwallâad, s. m. (gwallâad) A rendering one's self faulty or neglectful; a mutually neglecting.

Ymwallâu, v. a. (gwallâu) To render one's self faulty, to become neglectful; to neglect mutually.

Ymwallgofi, v. a. (gwallgofi) To distract one's self; to become mutually distracted.

Ymwallgofiad, s. m. (gwallgofiad) A self-distracting; a mutually distracting.

Ymwan, s. f. (gwan) A mutual wounding or transfixing; combat, tournament. v. a. To transfix mutually; to combat with lances.

> Dangaws arwydd ymwan, ac felly gware peddyd a marchogion, a phob cyfryw amryfal wareoa a welid yno.
>
> Exhibiting a sign of combat, and so the sport of infantry and horsemen, and every kind of the like sports was seen there. Gr. ab Arthur.
>
> Yna yr aï Gwalchmai i ymwan ag y marchawg, a chwnsallt o bali amdano ac amdan ei farch.
>
> Thereupon Gwalchmai went to combat with the knight, having a covering of velvet about him and about his horse. H. O. ab Urien—Mabinogion.

Ymwanâad, s. m. (gwanâad) A weakening of one's self; a mutually weakening.

Ymwanâu, v. a. (gwanâu) To weaken one's self; mutually to weaken.

> Gwelwn liw y dydd golau
> Yn min hwyr yn ymwanâu.
>
> I could see the light of the splendid day on the verge of evening growing faint. T. Llwyd Ieuaf.
>
> Tri pheth sydd yn ymwanâu beunydd, gan faint pennaf yr yngais yn eu gwrth: cas, camwedd, ac anwybodaeth.
>
> Three things are daily growing weaker, from the continual increase of their opposing impulse: enmity, injustice and ignorance Barddas.

Ymwaniad, s. m. (ymwan) A mutually wounding; a combating with lances; a combating.

Ymwanu, v. a. (ymwan) To combat mutually; to be combating; to combat.

Ymwanwr, s. m.—pl. ymwanwyr (ymwan—gwr) One who wounds with a lance.

> Ymwanwyr gwych mewn oer gynt,
> Y bedyddid byd iddynt.
>
> Brave combatants in battle of ancient time, for them the world was named. O. ab Llywelyn Moel.

Ymwanychiad, s. m. (gwanychiad) A self-debilitating; a mutually enfeebling.

Ymwanychu, v. a. (gwanychu) To self-debilitate; to enfeeble mutually.

Ymwarchad, s. m. (gwarchad) A self-guarding; a mutual care. v. a. To employ one's self in guarding; to take care of one's self, to have mutual care.

> Ar don, oer ei adenydd,
> Ymwarchad o'r bad y bydd.
>
> On the wave, cold his wings, to preserve himself from the boat is what he seeks. T. Celli.

Ymwared, s. m. (gwared) The having in one's self the means of averting; deliverance, defence. v. a. To deliver one's self, to avert mutually.

> Addwyn gaer y sydd ar don nawfed;
> Addwyn ei gwerin yn ymwared.
>
> A pleasant fort stands on the brink of the ninth wave, pleasant its multitude affording mutual defence. Taliesin.

Ymwaredawl, a. (ymwared) Self-delivering; mutually averting.

Ymwarediad, s. m. (ymwared) A self-delivering, the extricating one's self; a mutually averting

Ymwaredu, v. a. (ymwared) To deliver one's self; to deliver or to avert mutually.

Ymwaredus, a. (ymwared) Self-delivering, having in one's self the means of deliverance; mutually delivering.

> Arglwydd Dad, mawr rad, ymwaredus nerth,
> Iawn wyrthiau rhyglyddus,
> Cymer fi.——
>
> O Lord the Father, abundant in grace, of power being the means of deliverance, whose true miracles are efficacious, receive me. H. D. ab Ifan.

Ymwarthiad, s. m. (gwarthiad) A self-disgracing, a mutually disgracing.

Ymwarthu, v. a. (gwarthu) To disgrace or to shame one's self, mutually to disgrace.

Ymwasgariad, s. m. (gwasgariad) A spreading of one's self, a mutually spreading or dispersing.

Ymwasgaru, v. a. (gwasgaru) To spread one's self, to disperse mutually, to become scattered

> Ymwasgerwch yn mysg y bobl.
>
> Disperse yourselves amongst the people. 1 Samuel 14. 34.

Ymwasgiad, s. m. (gwasgiad) To squeeze or to press one's self; to press mutually.

Ymwasgodi, v. a. (gwasgodi) To shelter one's self, mutually to shelter.

Ymwasgodiad, s. m. (gwasgodiad) A sheltering of one's self; a mutually sheltering.

Ymwasgu, v. a. (gwasgu) To squeeze one's self; to keep one's self close, to cleave; to press together.

Ymwastatâad, s. m. (gwastatâad) A rendering one's self even or level; an establishing of one's self; a mutually establishing.

Ymwastatâu, v. a. (gwastatâu) To make one's self even; to establish one's self; to make mutually even.

Ymwawd, s. m. (gwawd) Self-praise; self-flattery, mutual flattery.

Ymwawdiad, s. m. (ymwawd) A flattering one's self, a mutually flattering.

Ymwawdiaw, v. a. (ymwawd) To flatter one's self; to flatter mutually.

Ymwëad, s. m. (gwëad) A self-combining; a becoming interwoven; a mutually weaving.

Ymwedd, s. f. (gwedd) Self-demeanour; mutual conformity or fitness.

Ymweddiad, s. m. (ymwedd) A self-conforming; a demeaning; a mutually according.

Ymweddu, v. a. (ymwedd) To conform one's self; to conform mutually.

> Tri modd, pond da'r ymweddyn'?
> Hudawl, a dis, a hoedl dyn!
>
> Three circumstances how aptly they assimilate together, that of the mountebank, and a dice, and the life of man! T. Aled.

Ymwehyniad, s. m. (gwehyniad) A pouring out or emptying one's self; a mutually pouring.

Ymwehynu, v. a. (gwehynu) To empty one's self; to self-exhaust; to become empty.

Ymweisiad, s. m. (gweisiad) A rendering one's self a servant; a mutually serving.

Ymweisiaw, v. a. (gweisiaw) To make one's self a servant; a mutually serving.

> Nid ymweis a fo parch.
>
> That is of honour will not stoop to serve. Adage.

Ymweithiad, s. m. (gweithiad) A self-working; a fermentation; a mutual operation.

Ymweithiaw, v. a. (gweithiaw) To work one's self, to ferment, to operate mutually.

Ymweled, s. m. (gweled) A mutual seeing, a visitation. v. a. To shew one's self, to see mutually, to visit.

Ymwelediad, s. m. (ymweled) A mutually visiting; a visitation.

> Os ymwelir â hwynt ag ymwelediad pob dyn, nid yr Arglwydd a'm hanfonodd.
>
> If they be visited after the visitation of all men, it is not the Lord who hath sent me. Numeri 16. 29.

Ymweliad, s. m.—pl. t. au (gweliad) A visitation.

Ymwelwr, s. m.—pl. ymwelwyr (gwelwr) A visitor.

Ymwellâad, s. m. (gwellâad) Self-improvement; a mutually mending.

Ymwellâu, v. a. (gwellâu) To improve one's self; to improve mutually.

> Tra ydoeddynt yn ymladd yn wychr efelly, llyma y Rhufeinwyr yn wychr yn ymwellau, ac yn dwyn rhuthr i wyr Llydaw.
>
> Whilst they were bravely fighting thus, behold the Romans gallantly repairing themselves, and making an assault upon the men of Llydaw. Gr. ab Arthur.
>
> Gwyn ei fyd a ymwellao o gynghor ei bwyll ac nid o gynghor ei ofnau.
>
> Happy is he who makes himself better from the counsel of his reason, and not from the counsel of his fears. Adage.

Ymwelliannu, v. a. (ymwelliant) To make one's self better; to become improved or reformed.

> Nid anghlod ymwelliannu.
>
> It is no disgrace to reform one's self. Adage.

Ymwelliant, s. m. (gwelliant) Self-improvement.

Ymwenieithiad, s. m. (gwenieithiad) A flattering of one's self; a mutually flattering.

Ymwenieithiaw, v. a. (gwenieithiaw) To flatter one's self; to flatter mutually.

> Ymwenieithiaw y mae yr annuwiawl iddo ei hun.
>
> The ungodly flattereth himself in his own eyes. Psalm 36. 2.

Ymwenwynaw, v. a. (gwenwynaw) To poison one's self; to be fretting one's self; to fret mutually.

Ymwenwyniad, s. m. (gwenwyniad) A poisoning of one's self; a fretting one's self, a mutually fretting.

Ymwerinaw, v. a. (gwerinaw) To associate one's self, to become mutually associated, to become civilized.

> Tair bradormes Ynys Prydain—cydymwerinaw a'u gilydd a wnaynt, yn Lloegr, ac yr Alban.
>
> The three treacherous molestations of the Isle of Britain, mutually confederate themselves together was what they did, in England and Scotland. Trioedd.

Ymweriniad, s. m. (gweriniad) A joining one's self to society; a mutually associating, a becoming civilized.

Ymwerthiad, s. m. (gwerthiad) A self-selling, self-prostitution, a mutually selling.

Ymwerthu, v. a. (gwerthu) To sell one's self, to prostitute one's self; to sell mutually.

Wedi ein gwneuthur yn weithredwyr rhydd, ac wedi ein gadael i ryddid ein hewyllysiau ein hunain, a ymwerthasom yn gaethweision i ddwylaw y gelyn.

After we have been made free agents, and after we have been left to the freedom of our own inclinations, we have sold ourselves as bondmen into the hands of the enemy. Ier. Owain.

Ymwëu, v. a. (gwëu) To self-combine, to interweave, mutually to interweave.

Ymwingaw, v. a. (gwingaw) To writhe one's self, to writhe mutually.

Ymwingiad, s. m. (gwingiad) A writhing one's self, a mutually writhing.

Ymwiriad, s. m. (gwiriad) A self-asserting as true, a mutually asserting.

Ymwiriaw, v. a. (gwiriaw) To employ one's self in proving, to assert the truth mutually.

Ymwisgaw, v. a. (gwisgaw) To dress one's self.

Ymwisgiad, s. m. (gwisgiad) A self-dressing, the state of being arrayed.

Y fronfraith——
Ymwisgiad angel esgyll.

The thrush, angel wings her native dress does form. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymwledda, v. a. (gwledda) To feast one's self, to be feasting mutually.

Ymwleddiad, s. m. (gwleddiad) A feasting one's self, a being mutually feasting.

Ymwnc, s. m. (wnc) The being near or immediate. a. Imminent, immediate.

Duw——
Ti yn mhob pwnc:
Myn ry ymwnc
Ni wyr ommedd.

God, thou art in every point; the desire ardently approaching who doth not know how to refuse. Gr. Gryg.

Ymwneuthur, s. m. (gwneuthur) A mutual operation. v. a. To combine one's self, to resolve mutually.

Ymgynghorasant yn unfryd, ac ymwneuthant i'th erbyn.

They have consulted together with one consent, they have confederated against thee. Psalm 83. 5.

Ymwneyd, v. a. (gwneyd) To combine one's self, to combine mutually.

Ymwng, s. m. (wng) The being immediate. a. Imminent, immediate. adv. Instantly.

A rhoddi yn ymwng ruddiau emau.

And giving immediately ruddy gems. Gr. ab M. ab Dafydd.

Llosgi eu trefred,
A dwyn eu lludded,
Ac ymwng colled.

Burning their habitation, and taking away their load, with imminent loss. Taliesin.

Ymwr, s. m. (gwr) The becoming superior.

Ymwradwyddaw, v. a. (gwradwyddaw) To scandalize one's self; mutually to scandalize.

Ymwradwyddiad, s. m. (gwradwyddiad) A self-scandalizing; a mutually scandalizing.

Ymwrandaw, s. m. (gwrandaw) To employ one's self in listening; to listen mutually.

O nef! ymwrandaw â ni,
I droi gwyr o'u drygioni.

Oh heaven! give an attentive ear to us, so that men may be turned from their iniquity. T. Llen.

Ymwrandawiad, s. m. (ymwrandaw) An employing one's self in listening; a mutually listening.

Ymwrdd, s. m. (gwrdd) The being ardent.

Mawr oedd wrth ymwrdd ei ddart.

Great was the push of the ardency of his dart. T. Aled.

Ymwregysiad, s. m. (gwregysiad) A self-girding.

Ymwregysu, v. a. (gwregysu) To gird one's self.

Ymwresogi, v. a. (gwresogi) To fill one's self with warmth; to become zealous; mutually to fill with warmth.

Ymwresogiad, s. m. (gwresogiad) A filling one's self with warmth; a becoming zealous; a mutually filling with warmth.

Ymwriad, s. m. (ymwr) An acting manfully; a mutually striving.

Ymwrial, s. m. (ymwr) The being in continual strife. v. a. To strive mutually.

Ymwriaw, v. a. (ymwr) To act manfully; to shew courage; to strive mutually.

Tan a dwr yn ymwriaw
Yw'r taranau, dreigiau draw.

Fire and water mutually warring are the thunder claps, the distant gleaming darts. D. ab Gwilym.

Ymwringelliad, s. m. (gwringelliad) A putting one's self in a flutter.

Ymwringellu, v. a. (gwringellu) To put one's self in a flutter; to make a fluttering.

Ymwroli, v. a. (gwroli) To render one's self manful; to grow courageous.

Ymgryfha ac ymwrola, nac ofna ac na arswyda.

Be strong and be of good courage, fear not, and be not dismayed. 1 Chronicles 22. 13.

Ymwrthawd, s. m. (gwrthawd) An using one's self to reject; abdication; abjuration. v. a. To abdicate, to abstain.

Ymwrthfyn, s. m. (gwrthfyn) A self-withdrawing, a self-withholding.

Ymwrthfynu, v. a. (ymwrthfyn) To withdraw one's self.

Ymwrthladd, s. m. (gwrthladd) Self-opposition. v. a. To oppose one's self.

Ymwrthladdiad, s. m. (ymwrthladd) A self-opposing; a mutual pugnation.

Ymwrthodawl, a. (ymwrthawd) Self-rejecting. Ymwrthodolion, abstinents.

Ymwrthodi, v. a. (ymwrthawd) To restrain one's self; to abstain mutually.

Ymwrthodiad, s. m. (ymwrthawd) A self-refusing, abdication, abjuration, dereliction.

Ymwrthodwr, s. m.—pl. ymwrthodwyr (ymwrthawd—gwr) One who abstains.

Ymwrthodydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ymwrthawd) One who abstains or rejects.

Ymwrthryn, s. m. (gwrthryn) Mutual exertion to oppose; mutual resistence; mutual ejectment

Os o ymwrthryn y dewisa dyn ei hawl; ni eill ymwrthryn namyn dau ddyn a fyddont yn eistedd ar yr un tir ynghyd; ac os un onaddynt a fyn wrthryn y llall, yn y dydd y goddiweddo, iawn dywedyd ei fod ef yn briodawr.

If by mutually ejecting a person shall choose his action; there cannot be a mutually ejecting but by two persons who shall be seated upon the same land together; and, if one of them be minded to eject the other, in the day that he succeeds, it is right to say that he is a proprietor. Welsh Laws.

Ymwrthrynawl, a. (ymwrthryn) Mutually opposing; controversial.

Ymwrthryniad, s. m. (ymwrthryn) An exerting one's self in opposition, a mutually exerting in opposition.

Ymwrthrynu, v. a. (ymwrthryn) To exert one's self in opposition; mutually to strive in opposition; to engage in mutual controversy.

Ymwrthrywiad, s. m. (gwrthrywiad) A rendering one's self heterogeneous; a mutually becoming of opposite kind.

Ymwrthrywiaw, v. a. (gwrthrywiaw) To render one's self of opposite kind; to become heterogeneous, to become mutually of contrary kind.

Ymwrthsefyll, s. m. (gwrthsefyll) A placing one's self in opposition; a mutually withstanding.

Ymwrthsefyll, v. a. (gwrthsefyll) To place one's self against; to withstand mutually.
Ymwrthunaw, v. a. (gwrthunaw) To self-disfigure; to disfigure mutually.
Ymwrthuniad, s. m. (gwrthuniad) A self-disfiguring, a mutually disfiguring.
Ymwrthwynebiad, s. m. (gwrthwynebiad) A setting one's self against.
Ymwrthwynebu, v. a. (gwrthwynebu) To set one's self against; to oppose mutually.
Ymwrwst, s. m. (ymwr) A mutual struggle. v. a. To struggle mutually.
Ymwrys, s. (gwrys) A self-striving, mutual strife.
Ymwrysiad, s. m. (ymwrys) A striving one's self; a mutually striving.
Ymwrysiaw, v. a. (ymwrys) To strive one's self; to strive mutually.
Ymwrystwr, s. m.—pl. ymwrystwyr (ymwrwst—gwr) One who engages in strife.
Ymwth, s. m. (gwth) A mutual pushing.
Ymwthgar, a. (ymwth) Mutually pushing.
Ymwthiad, s. m. (ymwth) A pushing one's self, a mutually pushing.
Ymwthiaw, v. a. (ymwth) To push one's self, to push together, to crowd.
Ymwthiawl, a. (ymwth) Self-obtruding; mutually pushing or pressing.
Ymwthiwr, s. f.—pl. ymwthiwyr (ymwth—gwr) One who pushes himself.
Ymwybod, s. m. (gwybod) Self-knowledge; mutual acquaintance. v. a. To acquaint one's self, to get mutual knowledge.

Myned yr wyf—
I ymwybod a meibion
Tudyr, ben ymwanwyr Mon.

I am going to acquaint myself with the sons of Tudyr, the chief defenders of Mona. Iolo Goch.

Ymwybodi, v. a. (gwybodi) To employ one's self in obtaining knowledge; to become acquainted.

Dylai ynad—ymwybodi yn gyfiawn â phob hawl a dadl a ddelawr ger ei fron.

A judge ought—to employ himself justly in obtaining a knowledge of every claim and dispute brought before him. Trioedd Dyfnwal.

Ymwychiad, s. m. (gwychiad) A making one's self gay or fine; a mutually decking out.
Ymwychu, v. a. (gwychu) To make one's self gay, mutually to deck out.
Ymwyliad, s. m. (gwyliad) An employing one's self in watching; a mutually watching.
Ymwyliaw, v. a. (gwyliaw) To employ one's self in watching; to watch mutually; to shew solicitude.

Prydnawn—
Ymwyl i'm emyl a mi.

In the afternoon be thou visiting my jewel and me. D. ab Gwilym, i'r haul.

Ymwylltiad, s. m. (gwylltiad) A making one's self wild; a mutually scaring.
Ymwylltiaw, v. a. (gwylltiaw) To make one's self wild; to scare mutually.
Ymwyraw, v. a. (gwyraw) To put one's self awry; mutually to bend aside.
Ymwyriad, s. m. (gwyriad) A putting one's self awry; a mutually bending.
Ymwystlaw, v. a. (gwystlaw) To pledge one's self; to give mutual hostage.

Oed a gaiff yr yngnad llys i ymgoffâu deugain niwyrnawd, os eirch, cyn ymwystlaw.

The judge of the palace shall have time to refresh his memory for forty days, if he desires, before he enters into mutual pledge. Welsh Laws.

Ymwystliad, s. m. (gwystliad) A pledging one's self; a mutually giving hostage.
Ymwystlwr, s. m.—pl. ymwystlwyr (gwystlwr) One who pledges himself.
Ymwythaw, v. a. (gwythaw) To put one's self in a rage, to become mutually enraged.
Ymwythiad, s. m. (gwythiad) A self-enraging, a mutually enraging.
Ymyfed, s. m. (yfed) A tippling; a mutual drinking. v. a. To be drinking, to be tippling; to drink mutually.
Ymyl, s. m.—pl. t. au (byl) A side; an edge or brink. Safa yn fy ymyl, stand by the side of me.

Tori, ddyn dâl, mae 'nghalon,
Mal y tŷr ymylau tòn.

Breaking, slender nymph, is my heart, as when the edges of the wave do break. Ed. Rhys, o Faelawr.

Ymylawg, a. (ymyl) Having edges, rimmed.
Ymylfwlch, s. m.—pl. ymylfylchau (ymyl—bwlch) A notch in an edge.
Ymylfylchiad, s. m. (ymylfwlch) An engrailing.
Ymylfylchu, v. a. (ymylfwlch) To edge-notch.
Ymylgylch, s. m.—pl. t. au (ymyl—cylch) A border or fringe.

I wys ymylgylch pais Maelgwn.

To touch the border trimming of the coat of Maelgwn. Huw. Dyfi.

Ymylgylchiad, s. m. (ymylgylch) A putting a fringe or trimming round the edge.
Ymylgylchu, v. a. (ymylgylch) To put a fringe or trimming about the edge.
Ymyliad, s. m. (ymyl) A rimming or edging.
Ymylu, v. a. (ymyl) To rim, to edge; to strive, as in the throws of an animal.
Ymylwe, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ymyl—gwe) Selvage.
Ymyr, s. m. (gyr) A mutual drive; a self-instigation; a tendency; an intermeddling.
Ymyraeth, s. m. (ymyr) A mutual driving; a making one's self busy; an intermeddling.

Pob ffol a fyn ymyraeth.

Every fool seeks for intermeddling. Diarhebion xx. 3.

Ymyrawl, a. (ymyr) Apt to intermeddle.
Ymyrgar, a. (ymyr) Apt to be intermeddling.
Ymyriad, s. m. (ymyr) An intermeddling.
Ymyrth, s. m. (gyrth) The state of being touching against or repelling; a mutual appulse.
Ymyrthawl, a. (ymyrth) Tending to be touching or appulsive; mutually touching.
Ymyrthiad, s. m. (ymyrth) A being touching; mutual appulsion.
Ymyrthu, v. a. (ymyrth) To be touching one's self against; mutually to touch or run against.

Anian ni ymyrth a'i ymyr.

Nature will not be repulsive to its cause. Adage.

Ymyrthwr, s. m.—pl. ymyrthwyr (ymyrth—gwr) One who touches or runs against.
Ymyru, v. a. (ymyr) To drive on mutually; to instigate one's self; to be pursuing; to be intermeddling.

Cas a ymyro ar bob peth heb achaws.

Hateful is he who intermeddles with every thing without occasion. Adage.

Sores Cai wrth Arthur; nid ymyrwys Cai yn rhaid gyd ag ef o hyny allan.

Cai was offended with Arthur; Cai did not concern himself to assist with him from thence forward. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Ymyrus, a. (ymyr) Apt to be intermeddling.
Ymyrwr, s. m.—pl. ymyrwyr (ymyr—gwr) One who pursues or concerns himself.

Ymyryd, v. a. (ymyr) To drive one's self on; to drive mutually, to tamper, to intermeddle.

Gad ymaith ymryson cyn ymyryd arni.

Leave off contention before it is meddled with. Diarhebion 17. 14.

Ymysgafnâad, s. m. (ysgafnâad) A self-lightening, a mutually lightening.

Ymysgafnâu, v. a. (ysgafnâu) To lighten one's self, to lighten mutually.

Ymysgafniad, s. m. (ysgafniad) A lightening one's self; a mutually lightening.

Ymysgafnu, v. a. (ysgafnu) To lighten one's self, to lighten mutually.

Ymysgar, s. pl. aggr. (ysgar) That carry on secretion; the bowels.

Ymysgargoel, s. f. (ysgar—coel) Haruspicium, divination by examining of entrails.

Ymysgariad, s. m. (ymysgar) A self-separation, a mutual separation.

Ymysgariaw, v. a. (ymysgar) To separate one's self; to separate mutually.

Ymysgaroedd, s. pl. aggr. (ymysgar) The bowels.

Ymysgethriad, s. m. (ysgethriad) A being instigating, a mutually goading.

Ymysgethru, v. a. (ysgethru) To employ one's self in instigating, to be mutually goading.

Ymysgrain, s. m. (ysgrain) Self-prostration; mutual state of prostration. v. a. To prostrate one's self; to be mutually prostrate.

Torfoedd ymosgryn tarf ymysgrain.

The hosts of terror put to flight so as to cause a mutual prostration. Cynddelw.

Ymysgreiniad, s. m. (ymysgrain) A prostrating one's self along; a being mutually prostrating.

Ymysgreiniaw, v. a. (ymysgrain) To prostrate one's self; to be mutually grovelling.

Ymysgrytiad, s. m. (ysgrytiad) A being wriggling one's self.

Ymysgrytian, v. a. (ysgrytian) To be wriggling one's self.

Ymysgrytiaw, v. a. (ysgrytiaw) To wriggle.

Ymysgwfl, s. m. (ysgwfl) The employing one's self in snatching; a mutual snatch.

Addysg mysg ymysgwfl ffyrnig;
Addurn marn yn marn crogedig.

Instruction is the confusion of the mutual scramble of the ferocious: felony is fair in the opinion of him who deserves a halter. Hywel Ystoryn.

Ymysgwyd, s. m. (ysgwyd) To shake one's self, to shake mutually.

Dyna y byd yr ych chwi yn ei fawrâu, ebai efe; ac attolwg cymerwch fy rhan i ohono; ac ar y gair efe ymysgydwai oddiwrthynt.

Lo that is the world, which you do magnify, said he; and I beseech you take my portion of it; and on the word he shook himself away from them. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Y mynyddoedd—wele yr oeddynt yn crynu; ac yr holl fryniau a ymysgydwynt.

The mountains, behold they were trembling: and all the hills were shaken. Jeremi 4. 24.

Ymysgyfliad, s. m. (ymysgwfl) A being snatching, a mutually snatching.

Ymysgyflu, v. a. (ymysgwfl) To be snatching, to be mutually snatching.

Ymysgytiad, s. m. (ysgytiad) A self-concussion, a concussing mutually.

Ymysgytiaw, v. a. (ysgytiaw) To shake one's self, to produce a mutual concussion.

Ymyslotiad, s. m. (yslotiad) A being dabbling or slopping one's self in water.

Ymyslotian, v. a. (yslotian) To be slopping.

Ymyslotiaw, v. a. (yslotiaw) To employ one's self in slopping or dabbling in water.

Ymystwyraw, v. a. (ystwyraw) To agitate one's self; to stretch one's self, as in the act of recovering from drowsiness.

Ymystwyriad, s. m. (ystwyriad) Pandiculation.

YN, s. m. r. The state of being in, contained, or included. prep. In, at; in the way of; for, for the use of; into. pron. Our. If yn be put before verbs and adjectives, it forms the expressions denominated participles and adverbs. Yn tori, breaking; yn fuan, quickly: Os gweli yn dda, if thou seest good; yn awr, at present; yn lleigus, by and by; yn y man, yn y lle, presently.

Arf glew yn ei galon.

The weapon of the brave is in his heart. Adage.

Adfyd a ddaw a dysg yn ei law.

Adversity comes with instruction in his hand. Adage.

Golwg yn yd gwyl yd gar.

Sight in such as can see is lovely. Adage.

Gwell bwth yn gartref no llys yn alldref.

Better a cottage for a home, than a palace to resort to as a stranger. Adage.

Ac yn iach bellach i'r bel;
Ac yn iach ganu uchel!

And adieu at length to the triumph; and adieu the loud rejoicing. L. G. Cothi, m. ei fab.

Llyma yn gobaith ni, ac yn amddiffyn, ac yn llawenydd, ac yn brenin.

Behold our hope, and our defence, and our joy, and our king. Gr. ab Arthur.

Yna, adv. (yn—a) There, in that place; then, at that time: there now! lo!

Yna y mae fy enaid glan,
A'm ellyll yma allan.

In there is my pure soul, and my phantom here without. D. ab Gwilym, i'th bared Morfudd.

Yna o ben y geulan anaele ymollyngasom.

Then from the top of the dreadful steep we let ourselves down. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ynad, s. m.—pl. t. on (wn—ad) That is wary or deliberate; a judge.

Pan farner tri nifer—
Bernid Duw an dwyn i wenblaid
Y nefoedd, yn nefawd ynaid.

When the three multitudes shall be judged, God will be judging our being conveyed to the blessed society of heaven, agreeably to the attribute of judges. Cynddelw.

Ynadaeth, s. m. (ynad) The office of a judge.

Ynaeth, adv. (yn—aeth) Then, thereafter.

Yndid, s. m. (wn) Energy, vigour, force.

Elid yndid ynno.

Let vigour go into him. Adage.

Ynddo, pronom. prep. (yn) In it; in him. Ynddof, in me; ynddot, in thee; ynddi, in her; ynddom, in us; ynddoch, in you; ynddynt, in them.

O bydd marw cerddedawr o alltud ar y ffordd, pa dir bynag y bo marw ynddo, efe a ddyly dalu 24 o ebediw.

If a traveller who is a foreigner shall die on the road, whatsoever land he dies in, he ought to pay twenty-four pence of heriot. Welsh Laws.

Ynedd, s. m. (wn) Energy, vigour, force.

Ynfer, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (yn—mer) An influx, a confluence, the fall of one water into another. It is generally called Cymer and Aber.

Cad yn rhyd Alclud, cad yn ynfer.

A battle in the ford of Alclud, a battle in the confluence. Taliesin.

Ynfyd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yn—myd) That is furious or mad, that is foolish. a. Furious, frantic, mad, foolish.

Y dynion hyn, ni ddylyir credu eu tystiolaeth; caeth, mud, byddar, ac ynfyd caunorthwy, neu rwthrawg.

These persons, their testimony is not to be believed: a slave, a mute, a deaf one, and one insane under restraint, or that is frantic. Welsh Laws.

Ni chel ynfyd ei feddwl.

The foolish will not conceal his mind. Adage.

Arf doeth pwyll; arf ynfyd dur.

The weapon of the wise reason; the weapon of the foolish steel. Adage.

Po henaf y Cymmro ynfytaf fydd.

By so much the older the Welshman the most simple he is. Adage.

Ynfydawg, a. (ynfyd) Abounding with folly.
Ynfydawl, a. (ynfyd) Tending to folly.
Ynfydedd, s. m. (ynfyd) Foolishness, franticness.
Ynfydiad, s. m. (ynfyd) Dementation; a rendering foolish or frantic, a becoming foolish.
Ynfydrwydd, s. m. (ynfyd) Foolishness.

Nid ynfydrwydd ond cariad.

There is no foolishness like love. Adage.

Ynfydu, v. a. (ynfyd) To render frantic, to make foolish, to rave, to be mad, to lose the wits.
Ynfytty, s. m.—pl. t. au (ynfyd—ty) A mad-house.
Yni, s. m.—pl. t. au (wn) Energy, vigour.

Tri athrawon ynïau dyn: synwyr awenaidd o reddf ac anian; pwyll o ystyriaeth a chydwybod, a damweinoldeb cylch einioes; ac hebddynt nis gellir gwybyddiaeth cyfiawn.

The three instructors of the energies of man: good sense from disposition and nature, reason from consideration and conscience, and the eventfulness of the course of human life; and without these no perfect knowledge is possible. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Yni, adv. (yn—i) Until, until the time.

Ni ddoaf oddiwrth nai Dafydd
Yni ddel y nos yn ddydd.

I will not come away from the nephew of David until the night turns to-day. L. G. Cothi.

Ynïaw, v. a. (yn) To energize; to invigorate.
Ynïawl, a. (yni) Energetic or vigorous.
Ynig, a. (wn) Energetic, or vigorous.
Ynmhell, adv. (pell) In the distance; far.
Ynmhlaid, adv. (plaid) In respect of.
Ynmhlegyd, adv. (plegyd) In respect of.
Ynmhlith, adv. (plith) Amongst, among.
Ynmlaen, adv. (blaen) In the advance; before.
Ynmlaenllaw, adv. (blaen—llaw) Beforehand.
Ynmraint, adv. (braint) In right; nearly.
Ymron, adv. (bron) In presence; nearly, almost.
Ynmysg, adv. (mysg) Amongst, amidst.

Mwy no physg yn mysg mor.

More than fishes in the midst of the sea. Adage.

Ynnill, s. m. (yn—nill) Advantage, gain.

Bonedd ynnill bonedd o Dduw;
Bonedd geni bonedd o ddyn.

Nobility by acquirement is nobility from God; nobility by birth is nobility from man. Adage.

Ynnill, v. a. (yn—nill) To get advantage, to gain, to win; to profit. Ynnill plant, to beget children.

Cas a bryno bob peth, ac heb ynnill dim.

Hateful is he who buys every thing, and without gaining any thing. Adage.

Ynnilladwy, a. (ynnill) Profitable; acquirable.
Ynnillaw, v. a. (ynnill) To gain, to get.
Ynnilledig, a. (ynnill) Gained, gotten.
Ynnillfawr, a. (ynnill) Advantageous.
Ynnillgar, a. (ynnill) Profitable, gainful.
Ynnilliad, s. m. (ynnill) A gaining, a getting.
Ynnillwr, s. m.—pl. ynnillwyr (ynnill—gwr) A gainer, a winner, a getter.
Ynnof, pronom. prep. (ynddof) In me. Ynnot, in thee; ynno, in him; ynni, in her; ynnom, in us; ynnoch, in you; ynnynt, in them.
Yno, adv. (yn—o) There; then: speaking of the distant, either as to time or place. Awn yno, we will go there. Yno y marwai hi, there she died. Dyfed.

O cheri di ni'th carp,
Collaist a geraist yno.

If thou wilt love the one who loves thee not, then hast thou lost the fruit of thy love. Adage.

Yno y deual yntau atai hi yn guddiawg.

Then he would repair to her secretly. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ynt, v. (wn) Are; they are. It is used in common with its derivative ydynt.

Marw Cai a Meurig——
Man wyr ynt Mon ar eu hol.

Dead are Cai and Meurig: small men are they of Mona after them. T. Aled.

Yntau, pron. (wn—tau) Him, also, him, too, he also, him neither; the other.

Sant yw, a nabsant i'r man,
Santaidd y gwelais yntau.

A saint is he, and a tutelar saint for mine: and sanctified I, have seen him too. L. G. Cothi.

Cas na chreto neb, na neb yntau.

Odious is he who believes nobody, and nobody him neither. Adage.

Ynte, adv. (ynt—e) Else, then. Ai ynte, or otherwise.

A fyni di ffoi dri mis o flaen dy elynion, a hwy yn dy erlid? ai ynte bod haint yn y wlad dri diwrnawd!

Wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they pursue thee! or that there be pestilence for three days in the land! 2 Samuel 24. 13.

Yntef, adv. (ynt—ef) Else, then, that, there.

Rhy llofies yntef
Undanc gyfaddef
Gan engylion nef,
Nes ry urddwyd.

There was consecrated then an unanimous acknowledgement from the angels of heaven, that he had been anointed. Gwalchmai.

Ynwst, s. m. (yn—gwst) Humidity, dampness.
Ynwysg, adv. (gwysg) In a forward direction.
Ynyd, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (wn) A state of forming or gathering strength; a beginning; recreation: Shrove-tide. Ynyd y grawys, the beginning of Lent; Sul ynyd, Shrove-sunday; Nos ynyd, Shrove-tide eve; Mawrth ynyd, Shrove-tuesday: Mae ef yn cael ei ynyd, he obtains the height of his enjoyment.

Nid oes wedd na moes maew ynyd yw'n gwlad;
Nid oes mad eithr gwad a gwyd!

There is neither order or manners, a frivolous sport is our country; there is no good, but infidelity and vice! Gwil. Ddu o Arfon, m. syr Gr. Llwyd.

Ynyfydd, v. imp. (yn—y—bydd) There be.

Deuthant am y fagwyr a'r carcharwr: ynyfydd cwynfan a griddfan a glywynt.

They came on the other side of the wall with the prisoner; behold they could hear lamentation and groaning. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Ynys, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (wn—ys) That is upon, beginning, or forming; an island; also a rising ground or dry spot in a marshy place.

Tair rhagynys gysefin Ynys Prydain—Orc, Manaw, a Gwyth; a gwedi hyny y tores y mor y tir, onid ai Mon yn ynys; ac yn unwedd Ynys Orc a dored, onid ai yno llaws o ynysoedd; a myned yn ynysoedd a wnaynt manau ereill o yr Alban a thir Cymmru.

The three primary adjoining islands of the isle of Britain—Orc, Manaw, and Gwyth; and afterwards the sea broke the land, so that Mon became an island; and in the same manner the isle of Orc was broken, so that many islands were formed there; and other places of Alban and the land of Cymmru became islands. Trioedd.

Ynysdir, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ynys—tir) Low or flat land. Gwent.
Ynysawg, a. (ynys) Having islands.
Ynysawl, a. (ynys) Insular, belonging to an isle.
Ynysig, s. f. dim. (ynys) A small island, an islet.
Ynystâad, s. m. (ynystâu) A becoming humid.
Ynystâu, v. a. (ynwst) To become humid.
Ynystrwydd, s. m. (ynwst) Humidity, dampness.
Ynyta, v. a. (ynyd) To seek after recreation.

Yng, s. m. (yn) That is close or near upon; a bare touch or slight hint.

Yngan, s. m. (yng) Intimation. v. a. To intimate.

O gelli, rho i gall ran;
Ac i anghall nac yngan.

If thou canst, give a share to the discreet; and to the indiscreet give no intimation. O. Gwynedd.

Ynganawl, a. (yngan) Intimating, hinting.

Ynganiad, s. m. (yngan) A closely whispering; a hinting or intimating.

Ynganu, v. a. (yngan) To utter indistinctly, to whisper; to intimate, to hint.

Yngawg, a. (wng) Being proximate or near.

Yngawl, a. (wng) Being close or near upon.

Yngder, s. m. (wng) Closeness, or nearness.

Yngdra, s. m. (wng) Closeness, proximity.

Yngenyd, v. a. (yngan) To intimate, to hint.

Ynghyrch, adv. (wng—cyrch) Imminently.

Ynghyd, adv. (cyd) In contact, together. Myned ynghyd, to go in contact.

Yn Llongborth gwelais i frwydrin
Gwyr ynghyd, a gwaed hyd ddeulin,
Rhag rhuthr mawr mab Erbin.

In Llongborth I saw the turmoil of men together, and blood to the knees, from the great assault of the son of Erbin. Llywarch Hen.

A aeth ynghyd, aeth i'r byd.

That is gone together it is gone into the world. Adage.

Ynghylch, adv. (cylch) About, round, in compass.

Pali ni myn:
Nid arael gwyn
Ei gynhinion;
Yn lle sindal,
Ynghylch ei wyal
Gwelid carpiau.

Velvet he will not have: not the white asbestos his bands; instead of fine linen, around his temples rags were seen. Y Brawd Madawg ab Gwallter.

Yngiad, s. m. (wng) A rendering close or near.

Ynglais, s. m. (wng—llais) A confined voice, a voice of distress.

Yngief, s. m. (wng—llef) A cry of distress.

Oedd ddoe i Dangwystl ddodi ynglef.

It was yesterday that Tangwystl had to utter the shriek. L. G. Cothi.

Ynglefain, v. a. (ynglef) To cry confinedly.

Yngleisiad, s. m. (ynglais) A speaking or uttering with difficulty.

Yngleisiaw, v. a. (ynglais) To speak or to utter the voice with difficulty.

Yngnad, s. m.—pl. t. ou (wng—nad) A judge.

Yngneidiad, s. m. (yngnad) The acting as a judge.

Yngneidiaeth, s. m. (yngnad) The office of a judge; legislature; judicature.

Tair colofn gwladoldeb Ynys Prydain—rhaith gwlad, teyrnedd, ac yngneidiaeth, herwydd dosparth Prydain ab Aedd Mawr.

The three foundations of government of the Isle of Britain—the voice of the country, monarchy, and legislature, according to the regulation of Prydain son of Aedd the Great. Trioedd.

Yngneidiaw, v. a. (yngnad) To act as a judge.

Yngneidiawl, a. (yngnad) Belonging to a judge.

Yngnis, s. f. (wng—gnis) An epithet for a shoulder.

Gwen wrth Lawen yd wyliis neithwyr,
A'r ysgwyd ar yngnis;
A chan bu mab ym ni ddiengis.

Gwen by Llawen did he watch last night, with the shield on his shoulder; and as he was my son he did not retreat. Llywarch Hen.

Yngo, adv. (wng) Hard by, or near, here.

Yngod, adv. (yngo) Hard by, or near, here.

Blaidd a fydd, heb ludd i fod,
Blwng wrth y bobl yngod.

A wolf he will be, without an obstacle for it, severe to the people here. Llywelyn ab Owain.

Ewig—
A ddiengis o'm ffridd yngod.

A hind has escaped from my park hard by. Ieuan Dyfi.

Yngogiad, s. m.—pl. yngogiaid (yngawg) A neighbour, a proximate.

Goreu yngogiaid geifr;
Goreu angyfing moch.

The best as neighbours are goats; the best in confinement are swine. Adage.

Yngreg, a. (wng—rhêg) Of narrow gift; stingy.

Yngres, s. m. (wng—gres) Violence, ardency.

Yn llawn o yngres gwres.

Being full of the ardency of heat. Taliesin.

Dau ddragon yn yngres.

Two dragons in violence. Gwalchmai.

Yngu, v. a. (wng) To close upon, to straiten.

Yngus, a. (wng) Of a close or narrow quality.

Yngwrth, adv. (yn—gwrth) Suddenly, unexpectedly.

Yngwrth orthrechiad angau!

Unexpectedly the conquest of death! Lewis Morris.

Yngyrth, s. m. (wng—gyrth) A close push.

Anhygar ei bar, berygl brys yngyrth,
A bair angau diys.

Unlovely his shaft, the danger of hasty onset, that causes certain death. Einion Offeiriad.

YR, s. m. r. That is distant, past, out or from; that is opposite or against. prep. For, with respect to. art. The, used for y, preceding words with vowel initials: It is also used adverbially, as—Yr oedd gwr a'i enw Ioan, there was a man whose name was John.

Cerid doeth yr encilion.

Let the wise love the remains of antiquity. Adage.

Mal y tan yn yr aelwyd.

Like the fire in the hearth. Adage.

Ci a hello bob llwdn ni bydd da ar yr un.

A dog that hunts every beast will not be good for any one. Adage.

Pan goller yr hinon,
O'r gogledd daw eton.

When the fine weather shall be lost, from the north it will come again. Adage.

Arfer anarfer yw yr arfer waethaf yn y byd.

To be in the habit of no habit is the worst habit in the world. Adage.

Yrth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yr) A touch; a stop, obstacle, let, or hinderance. a. Impeding. Mae efe yn siarad yn yrth, he is speaking lispingly. Sil.

All marth mawr mor de;
All yrth, all syrth se.

Like the great expanse of the south sea; like the concussion, like the fall of stars. Gwalchmai.

All yrth gyrth yn gwrthfynasant;
All agwrdd ymhwrdd am hardd amgant bre,
Bron yr Erw y galwant.

A second shock of onset they sought against us; a second vehement conflict round the fair circumference of a hill, Bron yr Erw, which they call. Ll. P. Moch, i Lywelyn II.

Yrthiad, s. m. (yrth) A touching; a stopping.

Yrthiaw, v. a. (yrth) To touch; to stop.

Yrthwch, s. m. (yrth) An impediment, a stammer.

Gnawd gwedy rhyfleg yrthwch.

After extreme smoothness generally comes a rub. Adage.

YS, s. m. r. That is, that arises or issues out; that proceeds; that is active, violent, or consuming; a combustible principle. It is a common prefix in composition.

Ys, v. (ys, s.) Is, hath, a being, existeth. Ys id? Is there? is it? be there?

Arfer no deddf ys trech.

Custom is mightier than law. Adage.

Amledd cybydd ys tlodi arno.

The abundance of the miser is poverty to him. Adage.

Mefl ys gnawd o weddwdawd hir.

Reproach is attendant on long widowhood. Adage.

Bedd Elchwyth ys gwlych gwlaw,
Maes Mawedawg y danaw;
Dylyal Cynon yno ei gwynaw.

The grave of Elchwyth the rain doth drench, the plain of Mawedog beneath him; him Cynon ought to mourn. E. Beddau Milwyr.

Ys id yn y boly hwn blawd?
Ceiniaid cynnifiaid, disgyniaid yn nhrin
Rhag cedwyr cad barawd!

Is there in this leathern bag some meal? singers of depredators, falling ones in conflict before the warrior of ready battle. H. Bran, Mabinogion.

Ysadwy, a. (ys) Consumable, or ignitible.
Ysawl, a. (ys) Consuming, or devouring; caustic. Tan ysawl, consuming fire.
Ysbach, s. m. (bach) A grapple, or a clawing.
Ysbachawl, a. (ysbach) Grappling; rumpling.
Ysbachiad, s. m. (ysbach) A clawing; a rumpling
Ysbachu, v. a. (ysbach) To claw; to rumple.
Ysbag, s. f.—pl. t. au (bag) A talon.
Ysbagawg, a. (ysbag) Having claws or talons.
Ysbagawl, a. (ysbag) Like a talon or claw.
Ysbagu, v. a. (ysbag) To claw, to clutch.
Ysbawd, s. f.—pl. ysbodau (pawd) A blade, a blade-bone, a shoulder-bone; a shoulder. Ysbawd mollt, palfais mollt, palfais dafad, a shoulder of mutton.
Ysbledd, s. m. (bledd) That is got by rapacity.
Ysbledda, v. a. (ysbledd) To gather spoil.
Ysbleddach, s.m. (ysbledd) Spoil, prey, or booty.

Y brenin angau: cyfarch, a goruchafiaeth, ac ysbleddach dragwyddawl!

The monarch death: I greet thee pre-eminency and eternal spoil! Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ysblenyddiad, s.—pl. t. au (ysplenydd) A raying.
Ysbrig, s. m.—pl. t. ion (brig) A sprig.
Ysbrigaw, v. a. (ysbrig) To produce sprigs.
Ysbrigawg, a. (ysbrig) Full of sprigs.
Ysbrigawl, a. (ysbrig) Tending to yield sprigs.
Ysbrigiad, s. m. (ysbrig) A sprigging.
Ysbrigyn, s. m. dim. (ysbrig) A sprig, a twig.
Ysbril, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ys—bril) A bat. Dyfed
Ysbrychiad, s. m. (brychiad) A speckling.
Ysbrychu, v. a. (brychu) To speckle, to blur.
Ysbryd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pryd) That is intelligent, that is mental; a spirit.

Gwae ni llafur lles yn ei ysbryd,
Ysbaid fyr fydawl fod yn mhenyd;
Gwae a el yn ngham yn nghymlegyd Cain
Cynrylciawg, lygriad enbyd!

Woe to him who labours not a benefit in his spirit, during the short wordly space being in penance; woe to him who goes into iniquity in a course similar to Cain the first rebellious, a perilous corruption! Meilyr ab Gwalchmai.

Mae rhyw nerth yn mysg dynion, yr awr hon, nad oedd o'r blaen; mae rhyw yspryd rhyfedd yn gweithiaw.

There is some power, at present, among men, which was not heretofore; there is some extraordinary spirit working. Morgan Llwyd.

Ysbrydawg, a. (ysbryd) Having a spirit.
Ysbrydawl, a. (ysbryd) Spiritual, or ghostly.
Ysbrydiad, s. m.—pl. ysbrydiaid (ysbryd) An intelligence, a spiritual agent.

Ni aethon drwy deyrnas yr wybr, lle yr oedd holl ddryg ysbrydiaid yn trigaw.

We went through the kingdom of the air, where all the evil intelligences had their abode. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Ysbrydiaeth, s. m. (ysbryd) Spirituality.

Dyben cerdd yw gwellâu y deall, dyddanu y bryd, ac yr ysbrydiaeth.

The intention of poetry is to improve the understanding, to delight the mind and the spirit. Barddas.

Ysbrydlawn, a. (ysbryd) Spirited, full of spirit.
Ysbrydlondeb, s. m. (ysbrydlawn) Spiritfulness.
Ysbrydlonedd, s. m. (ysbrydlawn) Spiritfulness.
Ysbrydloni, v. a. (ysbrydlawn) To render spiritful; to become spiritful.
Ysbrydlonrwydd, s. m. (ysbrydlawn) Spiritfulness
Ysbrydoldeb, s. m. (ysbrydawl) A spiritual state
Ysbrydolder, s. m. (ysbrydawl) A spiritual state.
Ysbrydoledig, a. (ysbrydawl) Spiritualized.
Ysbrydoledd, s. m. (ysbrydawl) Spirituality.
Ysbrydoli, v. a. (ysbrydawl) To render spiritual; to spiritualize.
Ysbrydoliad, s. m. (ysbrydawl) Spiritualization.
Ysbrydoliaeth, s. m. (ysbrydawl) Inspiration, the working of the spirit.
Ysbrydoliaethu, v. a. (ysbrydoliaeth) To spiritualize, to render spiritual.
Ysbrydolrwydd, s. m. (ysbrydawl) A spiritual state.
Ysbrydus, a. (ysbryd) Spiritful, spiritual.
Ysbrydusaw, v. a. (ysbrydus) To render spirited; to become spirited.
Ysbrydusedd, s. m. (ysbrydus) Spiritedness.
Ysbur, s. m.—pl. t. iau (bur) The pedestal or base of a pillar; a short post or supporter of a shelf, in ancient houses, projecting into the floor, in the form of a skreen, and used to put by such victuals as is in present consumption.
Ysbwrial, s. m. aggr. (bwrw) Refuse, trash, sweepings, rubbish.
Ysbwrialu, v. a. (ysbwrial) To make rubbish.
Ysbyd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (osb) Hospitality.
Ysbydaeth, s. m. (ysbyd) The practice of receiving guests, hospitality.
Ysbydawl, a. (ysbyd) Relating to the receiving of guests.
Ysbydiad, s. m. (ysbyd) A receiving of guests.
Ysbydu, v. a. (ysbyd) To receive guests.
Ysbydwr, s. m.—pl. ysbydwyr (ysbyd—gwr) The master of an hospital.
Ysbys, a. (bys) Noticeable; manifest, evident.
Ysbysawl, a. (ysbys) Tending to manifest.
Ysbysiad, s. m. (ysbys) A specifying.
Ysbysoli, v. a. (ysbysawl) To render manifest; to become special or particular.
Ysbysoliad, s. m. (ysbysawl) Specification.
Ysbysrwydd, s. m. (ysbys) A specification, notice, or information.
Ysbysu, v. a. (ysbys) To specify, to give notice.
Ysbyswr, s. m.—pl. ysbyswyr (ysbys—gwr) A specifier, a declarer.
Ysbysydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysbys) A specifier.
Ysbytty, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysbyd—ty) A hospital.
Ysdawr, s. m. (dawr) That is of concern or an object of care or anxiety.
Ysdiff, s. m. (diff) That forms a spout or jet.
Ysdiffiad, s. m. (ysdiff) A spouting out.
Ysdiffiaw, v. a. (ysdiff) To spout or to jet out.
Ysdiffl, s. m. (ysdiff) That spouts or spirts.
Ysdifflawg, a. (ysdiffl) Full of spouting or jettings s. f. The cuttle-fish.
Ysdill, s. m.—pl. t. ion (dill) That folds or plaits.
Ysdilliad, s. m. (ysdill) A making a plaiting.
Ysdilliaw, v. a. (ysdill) To form a fold or plait.
Ysdori, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysdawr) What is of concern or in mind; a matter of record.
Ysdorïad, s. m. (ysdori) A relating as history.
Ysdorïaw, v. a. (ysdori) To relate a story.
Ysdorïawl, a. (ysdori) Historical, historic.
Ysdragiad, s. m. (dragiad) A dragging about.
Ysdragiaw, v. a. (dragiaw) To mangle, to drag

Ysdwrdiad, s. m. (dwrdiad) A threatening.
Ysdwrdiaw, v. a. (dwrdiaw) To threaten.
Ysdwrdiwr, s. m.—pl. ysdwrdiwyr (dwrdiwr) A threatener.
Ysdyferiad, s. m. (dyferiad) A distillation.
Ysdyferion, s. pl. aggr. (dyferion) Distillations.
Ysdyferu, v. a. (dyferu) To distil, to drop.
Ysdyfnig, a. (dyfnig) Obstinate, stubborn.
Ysdyfnigaw, v. a. (ysdyfnig) To act stubbornly; to become obstinate or stubborn.
Ysdyfnigrwydd, s. m. (ysdyfnig) Stubbornness.
Ysedig, a. (ys) Corroded; consumed; oxidated.
Ysenyd, s. m. (enyd) A space of time, a while.

Byd efrifed dros wledydd;
Brithfyd er ysenyd sydd.

A world of numerous changes over countries; a confused world for a good while hath been. Lly. ab Mer. ab Ednyfed.

Ysfa, s. f.—pl. ysfeydd (ys—ma) A spot devoured or consumed; a feeding place; a sheep walk; an itching.

Dwg ysfa, lle'r wyd, gnesfain,
Dan rodiaw a dringaw drain.

Bear an itching, where thou art, slender shank, while perambulating and climbing of thorns. T. Prys, i'r dryw.

Ysfan, s. f.—pl. t. au (ys—man) A consuming place; a biting place; an itching. Mae yn codi ysfan, it causes an itching.
Ysg, s. m. (ys) A tendency to act, or move, or to separate.
Ysgadan, s. pl. aggr. (cad) Herrings; also called penwaig, or empty heads.
Ysgadenyn, s. m. dim. (ysgadan) A herring.
Ysgaen, s. f.—pl. t. au (caen) A sprinkle.
Ysgaeniad, s. m. (ysgaen) A sprinkling.
Ysgaenu, v. a. (ysgaen) To sprinkle, to spread.
Ysgafael, s. m.—pl. t. au (cafael) That is taken; capture, prey.

Manred gymined, mawr ysgafael,
Y rhag Caer Lwydgoed, neus dug Morial?
Pymtheccant muyn a phen Gwrial.

Briskly pacing for combat, a great booty, before the fortress of Grey-wood, has not Morial taken! fifteen hundred kine, and the head of Gwrial. Meigant, m. Cynddylan.

Ysgafaeliad, s. m. (ysgafael) A capturing.
Ysgafaelu, v. a. (ysgafael) To capture.
Ysgafaelus, a. (ysgafael) Predatory, rapacious.
Ysgafaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (cafaeth) A booty, a hoard.
Ysgafaethawl, a. (ysgaeth) Rapacious.
Ysgafaethiad, s. m. (ysgafaeth) A making a booty; a hoarding.
Ysgafaethu, v. a. (ysgafaeth) To make a booty; to lap up a hoard.
Ysgafn, s. m. (cafn) A light heap or body; that is light or easy; a stack of corn. Marw ysgafn, a death-bed; a resignation to death, or a death-bed song.
Ysgafn, a. (cafn) Light, volatile; fickle.

Ysgafn y daeth, ysgafn yr aeth.

Lightly it came, lightly it went. Adage.

Gloewach fyddant y saint yna seithwaith no'r haul, ac ysgafnach o fuander fyddant no meddwl.

The saints will be then seven times brighter than the sun, and lighter of motion than thought. Elucidarius.

Ysgafnâad, s. m. (ysgafnâu) A lightening.
Ysgafnâawl, a. (ysgafnâu) Tending to be light.
Ysgafnaidd, a. (ysgafn) To render light.
Ysgafnâu, v. a. (ysgafn) To make light, to make easy; to become light.
Ysgafnder, s. m. (ysgafn) Lightness; levity.
Ysgafndra, s. m. (ysgafn) Lightness; levity.
Ysgafndrefn, a. (ysgafn—trefn) Of light order; lightly arrayed, lightly armed.
Ysgafnedd, s. m. (ysgafn) Lightness, levity.
Ysgafniad, s. m. (ysgafn) A making light.
Ysgafnleddf, a. (ysgafn—lleddf) Softly yielding.
Ysgafnrwydd, s. m. (ysgafn) Lightness, levity.
Ysgafnu, v. a. (ysgafn) To lighten, to make light; to make a light heap, to stack corn; to become light.
Ysgaffell, s. f.—pl. t. au (caffell) A ledge, edge, rim, or brow. Dyna fe yn edrych dan ei ysgaffell, there he is looking slyly, or under his brow.

Efe a'm cipial i ymbell bell y tu uchaf i'r castell, ac ar ysgaffell o gymwl gwyn gorphwysem.

He snatched me far and far above the castle, and on the edge of a white cloud we rested. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ysgaffellawg, a. (ysgaffell) Having a ledge.
Ysgaffelliad, s. m. (ysgaffell) A ledging.
Ysgaffellu, v. a. (ysgaffell) To form a ledge.
Ysgai, s. m. (ysg) Froth, foam, or scum.
Ysgain, s. m. (cain) A sprinkle. a. Sprinkling. v. a. To sprinkle, or to spread out.

Rhuddfaawg farchawg farch ysgain.

A red-stained knight with a spattering steed. Cynddelw.

Bradw ysgwyd bryd ysgain wrth lef.

With a frail shield his front gleaming at the shout. Cynddelw.

Yn rhith cleddyf claer,
Clod ysgain yn aer.

In the semblance of a bright sword, spreading fame in conflict. Cynddelw.

Cad ysgain cad ddiysgog.

Bounty scattering in battle unshaken. Prydydd Bychan.

Ysgainc, s. f.—pl. ysgeinciau (cainc) That branches or forms a branch.
Ysgaing, s. f. (caing) That forms a branch. Ysgaing o edaf, a skain of thread.
Ysgais, s. m. (cais) That is attempted or essayed.
Ysgall, s. pl. aggr. (call) The thistle. Ysgall gwynion, ysgall mair, ysgall brithion, milk thistle; ysgall duon, black thistle; ysgall bendigaid blessed thistle; ysgall y pannwr, the teasel; ysgall y bluidd, ysgall gwylltion, spear thistle; ysgall canpen, field eryngo; ysgall y moch, llaeth ysgall, llymeidfwyd, sow-thistle; ysgall y meirch, marchysgall, endive.

A heu ysgall ni fed wenith.

Who soweth thistles will not reap wheat. Adage.

Ysgallaidd, a. (ysgall) Like a thistle.
Ysgallawg, a. (ysgall) Abounding with thistles; of the nature of thistle. Llysiau ysgallawg, acanacious plants.
Ysgallen, s. f. (ysgall) A thistle: ysgallen ddu, black chameleon thistle; ysgallen ddraenwen, common carline thistle; ysgallen foglynawg, sea eryngo; ysgallen fwyth, melancholy thistle.
Ysgant, s. m. (cant) That forms a curve or whirl.
Ysgar, s. f.—pl. t. ion (car) A separate part, a part, portion; or share; a piece, or fragment; a separation, a divorce.
Ysgar, v. a. (car) To separate, to divide; to divorce; to cast off.
Ysgarant, s. m.—pl. ysgeraint (ysgar) One that is separated or parted; an adversary.

Pian y bedd hwn? Bedd Braint
Y rhwng llewyn a llednaint;
Bedd gwr gwae i ysgeraint.

Who owns this grave? The grave of Braint, between the horizon and a slight ravine; the grave of a man the woe of the enemies. E. Beddau Milwyr.

Ysgardd, s. f. (ysgar) A spread, a dispersion.
Ysgarddawl, a. (ysgardd) Dispersing, scattering.
Ysgardde, s. m. (ysgardd) Separation, dispersion
Ysgaredig, a. (ysgar) Separated, divided.

Ysgaredigaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgaredig) Separation; a scattered state.

Ysgaredd, s. m. (ysgar) Separateness.

Ysgariad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgar) Separation.

Ysgariaeth, s. m. (ysgar) A separation.

Ysgariaw, v. a. (ysgar) To separate, to part.

Ysgarm, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (garm) An outcry.

Ysgarmain, v. a. (ysgarm) To keep up a continual outcry or shouting.

Ysgarmawl, a. (ysgarm) Shouting, screaming.

Ysgarmes, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgarm) The being employed in an outcry or shout; the work of shouting; a skirmish.

Maes a naw 'sgarmes a wnan'.

A battle and nine skirmishes they would go through. L. G. Cothi.

Ysgarmiad, s. m. (ysgarm) A shouting.

Ysgarmu, v. a. (ysgarm) To set up a shout.

Ysgarth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (carth) Offscouring.

Ysgarthawg, a. (ysgarth) Excrementitious.

Ysgarthawl, a. (ysgarth) Excremental, excretive

Ysgarthiad, s. m. (ysgarth) Excretion; a scouring out, or purging.

Ysgarthlyd, a. (ysgarth) Tending to expel or to purge.

Ysgarthu, v. a. (ysgarth) To purge out, to expel.

Ysgaru, v. a. (ysgar) To separate, to part.

Nid ysgar newyn a diogi.

Hunger will not part from idleness. Adage.

Ysgatfydd, adv. (gad—hydd) Peradventure, perhaps.

Ysgau, s. m. (cau) That is hollow or scooped; a scoop. a. Scooped.

Ysgaw, s. m. aggr. (caw) Elder wood, elder. Ysgaw y ddaiar, cor-ysgaw, ysgaw Mair, gwaed y gwyr, dwarf-elder.

Tri plieth a gynnydd ar y gwlaw,
Gwlydd, ac ysgall, ac ysgaw.

Three things increase in the rain, grass, and thistle, and elder. Adage.

Ysgawd, s. m. (cawd) That rises over, a shade.

Gnawd rwyf yn heli Beli wirawd,
Gnawd ysgwyd ysgafn ar gefn ysgawd.

Like the effect of the oar in the brine is the liquor of Beli, like a light shield on the back of a shadow. Taliesin.

Ysgawen, s. f. (ysgaw) An elder-tree. Ysgawen y gors, or corswigan, water-elder.

Ysgawl, a. (ysg) Abounding with activity. Ysgawl gwyth, wrath is active.

Ysgawl disgynawdd ffawdd gymmre.

Vehemently descended the tumult of the concurrency. Taliesin.

Gogwn——
Py ysgawl oddef
Pyn dderchafid nef:
Pwy fu fforch hwyl
O ddair hyd awyr.

I have an idea what was the exerting patience when heaven was upreared; what was a sail staff from earth to sky. Taliesin.

Ysgawn, s. m. (cawn) A light body. a. Light.

Ysgawn lwyth a glud.

The light load will accumulate. Adage.

Ysgawn i mewn ysgawn i maes.

Light in entering, light in egress. Adage.

Ysgawnâad, s. m. (ysgawnâu) Alleviation.

Ysgawnâawl, a. (ysgawnâu) Tending to lighten.

Ysgawnâu, v. a. (ysgawn) To lighten; to become light; to become volatile.

Ysgecran, s. m. (cecran) A bickering, a brawling.

Ysgecrain, v. a. (cecrain) To be bickering.

Ysgecrawl, a. (cecrawl) Bickering, brawling.

Ysgecriad, s. m. (cecriad) A bickering, a brawling.

Ysgecru, v. a. (cecru) To bicker, to brawl.

Ysgedd, s. m. (ys—cedd) The sea kale.

Ysgegiad, s. m. (cegiad) A throttling; a shaking by laying hold of the throat.

Ysgegiaw, v. a. (cegiaw) A shaking by laying hold of the throat; a shaking roughly.

Ysgegiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgegiwyr (ysgegiaw—gwr) A throttler, one who shakes roughly.

Ysgeindorf, s. f. (ysgain—torf) A spreading host.

Ysgeindorf foroedd rif torfoedd tarfant.

The spreading host of the seas by legions are scared. Ll. P. Moch.

Ysgeiniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgain) A spreading out; a sprinkling; a squinting.

Ysgeiniaw, v. a. (ysgain) To spread abroad; to spirt, to slap; to sprinkle; to squint.

Yna y gwelid y tan llachar yn ysgeinaw o'r arfau.

Then was seen the gleaming fire sprinkling from the arms. Brut y Breninoedd.

Ysgeinynt yn ufel
O do yn uchel.

They would spread out in a flame high from the roof. Taliesin.

Dyddeu cynrain
O am dir Rhufain;
Eu cerdd a gynghain,
Eu gwawd a ysgain.

Tribes would come from about the land of Rome; their song will harmonize, their praise will spread abroad. Taliesin.

Ysgeiniawl, a. (ysgain) Sprinkling; squinting.

Ysgeiniedig, a. (ysgeiniad) Scattered; sprinkled.

Ysgeiniedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgeiniad) A scatterer; a sprinkler; a squinter.

Ysgeiniwr, s. m.—pl. ysgeiniwyr (ysgain—gwr) A scatterer; a sprinkler; a squinter.

Ysgeintiad, s. m. (ysgant) A whisking about.

Ysgeintiaw, v. a. (ysgant) To whisk about.

Ysgeintiawl, a. (ysgant) Whirling, whisking.

Ysgeintiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgeintiwyr (ysgant—gwr) One who whisks about.

Ysgeisiad, s. m. (ysgais) An endeavouring.

Ysgeisiaw, v. a. (ysgais) To be endeavouring.

Ysgeisiawl, a. (ysgais) Endeavouring.

Ysgeisiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgeisiwyr (ysgais—gwr) One who attempts or endeavours.

Ysgeler, a. (cel) Atrocious, villainous, nefarious, detestable; obscene.

Ysgelerdawd, s. m. (ysgeler) Atrociousness.

Ysgelerder, s. m. (ysgeler) Atrociousness.

Ysgelerdra, s. m. (ysgeler) Flagitiousness.

Ysgeleredd, s. m. (ysgeler) Flagitiousness.

Ysgeleriad, s. m. (ysgeler) A rendering flagitious; a becoming scandalous.

Ysgeleru, v. a. (ysgeler) To render flagitious; to become atrocious or flagitious.

Ysgelynllys, s. m. (celyn—llys) The ribwort. It is also called estyllenlys.

Ysgellog, s. f. (ysgall) Wild succory.

Ysgemydd, s. m. (cam) A curve, the outside edge of any thing that curves.

Tri ysgemydd aerau Ynys Prydain: Gilbert mab Cadgyfraw, Morfran ail Tegid, a Gwgau Gleddyfhir.

The three hemmers in of battle of the Isle of Britain: Gilbert son of Cadgyfraw, Morfran son of Tegid, and Gwgan Longsword. Trioedd.

Ysgemydd clodrydd culwydd a Llwyfain.

A celebrated circle equally prosperous with Llwyfain. Einion ab Gwgan.

Yn grwm iawn, yn grymanaidd,
Yn blyg fal ewin blaidd;
Yn llem ar ei hysgemydd,
Yn hir i gymynu hydd.

Being much bent, like a sickle, turning like the claw of a wolf; being keen on its curving edge, being long to cut up a stag. Guto y Glyn, i fwyell.

Ysgen, s. m. (cen) Morphew, or dandriff.

Ysgenedl, s. f. (cenedl) A generation, a tribe.

> Esgor diffraidiad mad mychdeyrn
> Ysgar ysgenedl gychwedl gychwysra.
>
> The departure of the protection of the good monarch will spread the quickly flying report of the family.
> Ein. ab Gwalchmai, i Lywelyn II.

Ysgenedlawg, a. (ysgenedl) Generating.

Ysgenedliad, s. m. (ysgenedl) A generating.

Ysgenedlu, v. a. (ysgenedl) To generate.

Ysgeniad, s. m. (ysgen) A generating of scales; a generating of dandriff.

Ysgenllys, s. m. (ys—cèn—llys) Hemispheric liver-green.

Ysgentyn, s. m. dim. (ysgant) A caperer; a buffoon.

Ysgentynaidd, a. (ysgentyn) Buffoon-like.

Ysgenu, v. a. (ysgen) To generate scales; to generate scurf or dandriff.

Ysger, s. f.—pl. ysgyr (cer) A kind of stone which breaks into bars.

Ysgerbwd, s. m. (ysgar—pwd) A skeleton, a carcase; carrion.

> Samson—a droes i edrych ysgerbwd y llew.
>
> Samson turned to examine the carcase of the lion.
> Barnwyr 14. 8.

Ysgeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (ceth) That pushes or repels; a spear.

> Hyder gymhell ar freithell fanawyd,
> Ni nodi nac ysgeth nac ysgwyd.
>
> With a confident impulse towards the banner staff, thou wilt mark nor spear nor shield.
> Aneurin.

Ysgethiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgeth) Propulsion; repulsion.

Ysgethin, a. (ysgeth) Propulsive; repulsive.

Ysgethr, s. f.—pl. t. au (cethr) That drives.

Ysgethrawg, a. (ysgethr) Iterating, driving.

Ysgethrawl, a. (ysgethr) Iterating, driving.

Ysgethriad, s. m. (ysgethr) An iterating.

Ysgethrin, a. (ysgethr) Iterative, impulsive.

> Yr oedd dreigiau mellt ysgethrin yn rhwygaw y mwg dudew tewfedd y safn anferth yn ei fwrw.
>
> There shafts of impulsive lightening rended the thick black smoke, which the horrid gulf threw out. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ysgethru, v. a. (ysgethr) To iterate, to impel.

Ysgethu, v. a. (ysgeth) To push; to repulse.

Ysgeuad, s. m. (ysgau) A hollowing, a scooping.

Ysgeuaw, v. a. (ysgau) To hollow, to scoop.

Ysgeuawl, a. (ysgau) Hollowed, scooped.

Ysgeueg, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgau) A scoop.

Ysgeuegiad, s. m. (ysgeueg) A scooping.

Ysgeuegu, v. a. (ysgeueg) To scoop out, to hollow.

Ysgewin, a. (ysgaw) Being of elder wood.

Ysgewyll, s. pl. aggr. (ysgaw) Osiers; twigs.

> Aderyn a'i—
> Esgyll blaen ysgewyll blwydd.
>
> A bird with its wings the tops of yearling twigs.
> H. ab D. ab Ieu. ab Rhys.
>
> Ysgewyll y sy gaewydd
> Ac yn y gwaith egin gwydd.
>
> Twigs form a leafy circle, and in the work the seed of woods.
> D. ab Edmwnd, i Gae bedw.

Ysgewyllawg, a. (ysgewyll) Having twigs.

Ysgi, s. m.—pl. t. od (ysg) Exertion; a clearance, a cutting off; a parer, a clearer; a bat, either for play or to beat clods; a paring knife; an instrument for cutting up mole hills, with handles like a plough, guided by one person and drawn by another. Cenedl ysgi, a tribe of depredation.

> Llad yn eurgyrn,
> Eurgyrn, yn llaw,
> Llaw yn ysgi,
> Ysgi yn modrydaf.
>
> Liquor in golden horns, golden horns in hand, hand in labour, labour in society.
> Taliesin.

Ysgïad, s. m. (ysgi) A clearing, a cutting off.

Ysgïaw, v. a. (ysgi) To cut away, to pare, to clear; to bat, to beat clods.

Ysgïawl, a. (ysgi) A paring, or a slicing.

Ysgiell, s. f. (ysgi) A scud of fine weather.

Ysgïen, s. f. dim. (ysgi) A cutter, a parer, a chopper; a scymitar; a large knife; a grafting knife; a wooden knife for cutting of butter; a turner's spring or lath; a tall aukward woman.

> Nis lladd cledd nac ysgien.
>
> Nor sword nor scymitar will kill him.
> D. Nanmor.

Ysgig, a. (cig) Carnivorous, flesh-eating.

Ysgil, s. m.—pl. t. iau (cil) The state of being behind, as on horse-back; a recess.

Ysgilbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (ysgil—pren) The stent in the traces of a horse.

Ysgiliad, s. m. (ysgil) A setting behind; a going or riding behind; a recession; a throwing behind.

Ysgiliaw, v. a. (ysgil) To set behind; to lay or throw aside; to go behind; to ride behind on horseback.

Ysgiliwr, s. m.—pl. ysgiliwyr (ysgil—gwr) One who sets behind; one who takes behind on horseback.

Ysgin, s. f.—pl. t. au (cin) A robe made of skin with the fur on it, a pelisse.

> Rhita Gawr a wnai iddo ysgin o farfau breninoedd.
>
> Rhita the Giant made for him a robe of the beards of kings.
> Gr. ab Arthur.

Ysginaw, v. a. (ysgin) To dress in a robe.

Ysginawg, a. (ysgin) Having a robe, gowned.

Ysginawr, s. m.—pl. ysginorion (ysgin) A robe.

> Ysginawr gorfawr—
> Ysgarlad, lliw fflelmiad fflamiar.
>
> An immense robe of scarlet, the hue of the gleaming of flames.
> Ll. P. Moch.

Ysginen, s. f. dim. (ysgin) A robe, a gown.

Ysginiad, s. m. (ysgin) A dressing in a robe.

Ysginydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgin) A robe-maker.

Ysginyddiaeth, s. m. (ysgin) The trade of a robe-maker, a pelisse-maker.

Ysgip, s. m.—pl. t. iau (cip) A quick snatch.

Ysgipiad, s. m. (ysgip) A snatching away.

Ysgipiaw, v. a. (ysgip) To snatch away.

> Ysgipiai farf—
> Ysgrwydr hwyl belydr haul.
>
> It would snatch off a beard of a wandering course like the sun beams.
> R. Goch Eryri, i Gyllell.

Ysgipiawg, a. (ysgip) Snatching, rapacious.

Ysgipiawl, a. (ysgip) Snatching, rapacious.

Ysgipiedig, a. (ygipiad) Being snatched.

Ysgipiolrwydd, s. m. (ysgipiawl) Rapaciousness.

Ysgiw, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ciw) A skreen or shelter; a cousin in the third degree.

Ysgiwiad, s. m. (ysgiw) A screening, a sheltering.

Ysgiwiaw, v. a. (ysgiw) To screen, to shelter.

Ysglawring, s. m. (clawr) Glue, cement.

Ysglawringaw, v. a. (ysglawring) To glue.

Ysglawringiad, s. m. (ysglawring) A gluing.

Ysglem, s. f.—pl. t. iau (clem) A slice, a slive.

> Ysglem glew o'r crimprew cras.
>
> A good slice of the brittle sharp ice.
> D. ab Gwilym.

Ysglemiad, s. m. (ysglem) A sliving, a slicing.

Ysglemiaw, v. a. (ysglem) To slice, to slive.

Ysglemiawl, a. (ysglem) Slicing, or sliving.

Ysglemiwr, s. m.—pl. ysglemiwyr (ysglem—gwr) One who slives.

Ysglemydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysglem) A slicer.

> Rhiogyn o wr——
> A gen lem fal ysglemydd.
>
> A skeleton of a man, with a sharp chin like a slice. Gronw William.

Ysglen, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ysg—llen) A sex.
Ysglenawg, a. (ysglen) Having a sex.
Ysglenawl, a. (ysglen) Sexual, belonging to sex.
Ysgleniad, s. m. (ysglen) A forming a sex.
Ysglent, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ysg—llent) A slide, a slippery drift, as of ice.
Ysglentiad, s. m. (ysglent) A making a slide.
Ysglentiaw, v. a. (ysglent) To form a slide, to slide as upon the ice.
Ysglentiawl, a. (ysglent) Sliding, like a slide.
Ysglentiwr, s. m.—pl. ysglentiwyr (ysglent—gwr) A slider on the ice.
Ysglin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (glin) A knob, a knot.
Ysglinaw, v. a. (ysglin) To form a knob.
Ysglinen, s. f. dim. (ysglin) A knot in a tree.

> Osgl lawnwaed heb ysglinen.
>
> A branch, of true blood, without a knot. S. Tudyr.

Ysgliniad, s. m. (ysglin) A forming a knob.
Ysgloen, s. f. dim. (cloen) A maiden, a damsel.
Ysglofen, s. m. dim. (clofen) A slip, a spray.
Ysglofeniad, s. m. (ysglofen) A branching.
Ysglofenu, v. a. (ysglofen) To cut a slip.
Ysglyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (glyf) That seeks prey.

> Yn nherfysg yn nherfyn Saeson,
> Yn nhorfoedd cyhoedd cyngreinion,
> Yn nharf enwerys gwrys gwron,
> Yn nhwrf llu, a llef ysglyfion,
> Cyrn ceinynt, cerddynt carn weilwion ar dir,
> Ar derfyn Caer Lleon.
>
> In a tumult on the Saxons, boundary, in the conspicuous hosts of mutual strugglers, in the violent pursuit by an ardent hero, in the turmoil of a host and scream of birds of prey, horns resounded, the pale-hoofed steeds scudded over the land, on the limit of Caer Lleon. Cynddelw, m. O Gwynedd.

Ysglyfaeth, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysglyf) Depredation.
Ysglyfaethawl, a. (ysglyfaeth) Depredating.
Ysglyfaethiad, s. m. (ysglyfaeth) A depredating.
Ysglyfaethu, v. a. (ysglyfaeth) To depredate.
Ysglyfaethus, a. (ysglyfaeth) Predatory.

> Mòr ysglyfaethus a barcud.
>
> As rapacious as a kite. Adage.

Ysglyfiad, s. m.—pl. ysglyfiaid (ysglyf) A depredator, a ravager.

> Ysglyfiad bid glewddrud.
>
> Let the depredator be craftily bold. Adage.

Ysglyfiannawl, a. (ysglyfiant) Depredating.
Ysglyfiannu, v. a. (ysglyfiant) To depredate.
Ysglyfiant, s. m. (ysglyf) Depredation.
Ysglyfiaw, v. a. (ysglyf) To depredate.
Ysglyfied, v. a. (ysglyf) To depredate, to spoil.
Ysglyfiedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysglyfiad) A ravager, a depredator.
Ysglyfiwr, s. m.—pl. ysglyfiwyr (ysglyf—gwr) A rapacious one; a snatcher.
Ysglyfu, v. a. (ysglyf) To take forcibly, to snatch, to depredate.

> Cyridwen yn dawed i mewn ac yn gweled ei llafur yn golledig, ysglyfu rhodyl a tharaw y dall Mordaf ar ei ben a wnai.
>
> Cyridwen coming in and seeing her labour lost, what she did was to snatch up a staff and strike the blind Mordaf on his head. Hanes Taliesin.

Ysglymawl, a. (clymawl) Tending to knit.
Ysglymiad, s. m. (clymiad) A forming a knot.
Ysglymu, v. a. (clymu) To form into a knot.
Ysgnawd, a. (ys—cnawd) Being habitual.
Ysgnodawg, a. (ysgnawd) Having a habit.
Ysgnodawl, a. (ysgnawd) Tending to habituate.

Ysgo, s. m. (ysg) A going or starting aside; a winter habituation, or the hendref.
Ysgöad, s. m. (ysgo) A going or starting aside.
Ysgöawl, a. (ysgo) Tending to start aside.
Ysgob, s. m. (cob) That bears sway.

> Henaint methiant ddaw i ti.
> A hyny'n ddigymhedd;
> Hwnw arnad fyn a ysgob
> I'th droi o bob oferedd.
>
> Old age of decrepitude will come to thee, and that without ceremony; that will on thee bear a sway to turn thee from every vain pursuit. Sion. S. Hywel.

Ysgobell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgob) A saddle.
Ysgodawg, a. (ysgawd) Sheltered, shadowed, frequenting shades. s. m.—pl. ysgodogion; One of the shades, one of the woods; a person in disguise; a hobgoblin; a Scot; otherwise called Gwyddel, Celt, and Celtiad.

> Gwyddyl, diefyl duon;
> Ysgodogion, dynion lledfer.
>
> The Gwyddelians, black devils; Scots, men void of nerve. Meilyr.

Ysgodawl, a. (ysgawd) Sheltering, shadowing.
Ysgodi, v. a. (ysgawd) To shelter, to shadow.
Ysgodig, a. (ysgawd) Sheltered, shaded.
Ysgodigaw, v. a. (ysgodig) To frighten by disguise; to be frightened.
Ysgoeg, a. (coeg) Empty, vain, frivolous.
Ysgoegi, v. a. (ysgoeg) To make empty; to become empty or frivolous.
Ysgoegiad, s. m. (ysgoeg) A rendering empty; a becoming empty or frivolous.
Ysgoegyn, s. m. dim. (ysgoeg) A coxcomb, a fop.
Ysgoel, s. f.—pl. t. ion (coel) That is to be credited, or relied upon.
Ygoeliad, s. m. (ysgoel) An inducing a belief.
Ysgoeliaw, v. a. (ysgoel) To induce a belief.
Ysgoew, a. (ysgo) Apt to fly backwards and forwards; full of motion; wavering.
Ysgoewain, a. (ysgoew) Full of fickleness.
Ysgoewan, s. f. (ysgoew) A fickle or wavering one
Ysgoewi, v. a. (ysgoew) To waver; to fly backwards and forwards.
Ysgog, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cog) A sudden motion, a stir. v. a. To stir, to start.

> Mae gallu yn yr ewyllys i ysgog; ond nid oes mor ewyllys gyda gallu i ddychwelyd.
>
> There is power in the will for stirring; but there is not the will with the power to return. Morgan Llwyd.
>
> Marw yw——
> Nid ysgyg er meddyg mwy.
>
> He is dead: he will stir no more for all the doctor's art. Dr. S. Cent.

Ysgogawl, a. (ysgog) Tending to stir, starting.
Ysgogedig, a. (ysgog) Being stirred; started.
Ysgogi, v. a. (ysgog) To wag, to stir, to move.
Ysgogiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgog) A stirring.

> Mae rhai wedi ymesgor erioed yn y cariad, drwy ysgogiad yr ewyllys, yr hwn sydd yn eu gwasgaru fal gwreichion allan o hono ei hun.
>
> There are some who have ever borne themselves in that love, through the working of the will, which scattereth them like sparks out of itself. Morgan Llwyd.

Ysgogydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgog) A stirrer.
Ysgogyn, s. m. dim. (ysgog) A fickle one.

> Gwelwn lawer ysgogyn rhygyngawg, a allai ridylliaw ffa wrth wynt ei gynffon.
>
> I could see many strutting fop, who might winnow beans by the wind of his train. Ellis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ysgoi, v. a. (ysgo) To turn or start aside; to shun; to gô aslaunt; to avoid; to escape.
Ysgol, s. f.—pl. t. ion (col) That matures; a school.

> Tri harddwch gwlad: ysgubawr, efail, ac ysgol.
>
> The three ornaments of a country: a barn, a smithery, and a school. Adage.

Ysgòl, s. f.—pl. t. ion (còl) That rises up in a point; a peak, a pointed rock; a ladder. It is the same with colon and colfa; and it forms the names of some precipices, as Ysgolion Duon, in Caermarthenshire; and Nant yr Ysgolion, in Montgomeryshire.

> Trefnaist wern uffern—
> Trefred i bryfed, lle yd ymbrofan';
> Troch heol ysgol esgar boethfan.
>
> Thou didst prepare the slough of hell, a habitation for worms, where they struggle together; a broken path of the precipice of the fiery place of separation. Casnodyn.

Ysgolaidd, a. (ysgol) Appertaining to a school.

Ysgolâig, s. m.—pl. ysgolêigion (ysgol—aig) A scholar; a clerk, a clergyman; a parish clerk. Ysgolaig y ddinas, the town clerk.

Ysgolawr, s. m.—pl. ysgolorion (ysgol) A scholar.

Ysgoldy, s. m. (ysgol—ty) A school-house.

Ysgoleigdawd, s. m. (ysgolâig) Scholarship.

Ysgoleigdra, s. m. (ysgolâig) Scholarship.

Ysgoleiges, s. f. (ysgolâig) A female scholar.

Ysgoleigiad, s. m. (ysgolâig) A schooling.

Ysgoleigiaeth, s. m. (ysgolâig) A schooling.

Ysgoleigiaw, v. a. (ysgolâig) To school.

Ysgoleigiawl, a. (ysgolâig) Scholastical.

Ysgoleigiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgoleigiwyr (ysgolâig—gwr) A schoolman.

Ysgoli, v. a. (ysgol) To school, to give schooling.

Ysgoliad, s. m. (ysgol) A giving a schooling.

Ysgolp, s. m.—pl. t. iau (colp) A sharp pointed spar or wagget, a wooden pin. It is also called colp, and aseth.

Ysgolpen, s. f. dim. (ysgolp) A sharp spar.

Ysgolpiad, s. m. (ysgolp) A fastening with a wooden pin or wagget.

Ysgolpiaw, v. a. (ysgolp) To pin, or to wagget.

Ysgolydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgol) A schoolmaster.

Ysgor, s. f.—pl. t. au (còr) That encircles; a circular entrenchment; a fortification; rampart, or bulwark.

> Ysgor ymddiffyn pan ymddiffer gwlad.
>
> A bulwark of defence when he guards a country. Cynddelw.
>
> Trais ar ysgwyd rhag ysgor Dinteirw.
>
> The shield was borne down before the camp of Dinteirw. Cynddelw.
>
> Ysgor gadw ni gedwis llyfrder.
>
> A protecting bulwark that protected not cowardice. Cynddelw.
>
> Blawdd esgar ysgor yn ddiffaith;
> Balch eryr baran Llyr Lledlaith.
>
> He will blast the rampart of the foe to ruins: a towering eagle with the front of Llyr Lledlaith. Cynddelw, i O. ab Madawg.
>
> Ni llefais neb trais tros ei ysgor:
> Ni chymhwyll neb twyll tyllu ei ddor.
>
> No body dares any trespass over his wall; no body will devise a fraud to break through his door. Llywelyn Fardd.

Ysgorawg, a. (ysgor) Having a surrounding fence or rampart, an epithet for a ship.

Ysgorawl, a. (ysgor) Relating to fortification.

Ysgordd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cordd) That encircles as a retinue.

Ysgorfa, s. f.—pl. ysgorfëydd (ysgor) A place of defence; protection, defence.

> Gwyr a aeth Gattraeth gan wawr,
> Wy neb iddyn' ysgorfa ysgwydawr:
> Crau cyrchynt cyn hynt treiawr,
> Yn gynfan fal taran twrf aesawr.
>
> Heroes went to Cattraeth with the dawn, to whom there was no protection from shields; blood they would seek before the course of the ebbing tide, loud in the front like thunder the din of shields. Aneurin.
>
> Awen pan ddyffrau
> Am ddedwydd ddiau
> A'm buchedd ara',
> Am oesau ysgorfa.
>
> The muse when it flows, in happy days and in my tranquil life it shall be the protection of ages. Taliesin.

Ysgori, v. a. (ysgor) To form a circular camp.

Ysgoriad, s. m. (ysgor) An encompassing with a rampart; an entrenching or forming a circular camp.

Ysgorn, s. m. (ysg—orn) Scorn, contumely.

> Ai byddar wyd, fy nghariad,
> Ai ysgorn heb geisiaw gwad!
>
> Art thou deaf, my love, or is it scorn, without seeking a denial. D. ab Gwilym.

Ysgorniad, s. m. (ysgorn) A scorning, a slighting.

Ysgorniaw, v. a. (ysgorn) To scorn, to slight.

Ysgornllyd, a. (ysgorn) Scornful, slighting.

Ysgort, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ysg—or) A harsh noise; a report; a jar; a twang; a rap.

> Ag ysgort megys y gwn.
>
> With a report as of the gun. D. Nanmor.
>
> Dwy Went a glyw hyd awyr
> Ysgort gwn yn mysg gwart gwyr.
>
> The two Gwents will hear through the air a report of a gun among a guard of men. Rhys Brydydd.

Ysgortiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgort) A making a report, an explosion; a jarring.

Ysgortiaw, v. a. (ysgort) To make a report.

Ysgortiawl, a. (ysgort) Apt to make a report.

Ysgorwg, s. m. (ysgor) That forms a screen round.

Ysgorydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgor) One who forms a rampart or camp.

Ysgotiad, s. m.—pl. ysgotiaid (ysgawd) One of the shades, or of the woods; a Scot.

Ysgotiaith, s. f. (ysgawd—iaith) The Scottish or Gwyddelian tongue.

Ysgoth, s. m. (coth) A purge, or a voidance.

Ysgothawl, a. (ysgoth) Purging, or voiding.

Ysgothfa, s. f.—pl. ysgothfëydd (ysgoth) A privy.

Ysgothi, v. a. (ysgoth) To void by a purge, to scour.

Ysgothiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgoth) A purging.

Ysgra, s. m. (cra) That is harsh or dry.

Ysgrab, s. f.—pl. ysgrebau (crab) What is drawn up or puckered; a scrip.

Ysgrabin, a. (ysgrab) Tending to pucker.

Ysgrabiniad, s. m. (ysgrabin) A puckering.

Ysgrabiniaw, v. a. (ysgrabin) To pucker.

Ysgrabiniawl, a. (ysgrabin) Puckering.

Ysgrabiniwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrabiniwyr (ysgrabin—gwr) A puckerer.

Ysgrabwth, s. m. (ysgrab) That is in a heap.

Ysgrad, s. m. (crad) That is rigid or stiff.

Ysgräell, s. f. (ysgra) The sea-swallow.

Ysgräen, s. f. dim. (ysgra) A sea-swallow; also called morwennol. Ysgraen ddu, the black tern.

Ysgraf, s. m. (craf) That scrapes or scratches.

Ysgrafell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgraf) A currycomb; a grater; a rasp.

Ysgrafelliad, s. m. (ysgrafell) A currying.

Ysgrafellu, v. a. (ysgrafell) To curry, to scrape.

Ysgrafellwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrafellwyr (ysgrafell—gwr) A currier; a scraper.

Ysgrafellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgrafell) A currier, or a scraper.

Ysgrafen, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgraf) A scraper.

Ysgrafena, v. a. (ysgrafen) To go a begging.

Ysgrafiad, s. m. (ysgraf) A scraping.

Ysgrafu, v. a. (ysgraf) To scrape; to grate.

Ysgraff, s. f.—pl. t. au (craff) That is sharp; that makes an impression; also a ferry.

Ysgraffin, a. (ysgraff) Apt to scratch or graze.

Ysgraffiniad, s. m. (ysgraffin) A scarification.

Ysgraffiniaw, v. a. (ysgraffin) To scarify.

Ysgraffiniawl, a. (ysgraffin) Scarifying.

Ysgraffiniwr, s. m.—pl. ysgraffiniwyr (ysgraffin—gwr) A scarifier.

Ysgrain, s. m. (crain) That is crawling.

Ysgraw, s. f. (craw) That forms a crust.

Ysgrawen, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgraw) A crust.
Ysgraweniad, s. m. (ysgrawen) An incrustation.
Ysgrawenu, v. n. (ysgrawen) To incrustate.
Ysgrawiad, s. m. (ysgraw) An incrustation.
Ysgrawiaw, v. a. (ysgraw) To incrustate.
Ysgrawling, s. m. (ysgraw) Cement, glue.

Y rhew——
Ias greulawn, fal ysgrawling.

The ice of cruel touch, like glue. D. ab Gwilym.

Ysgrawlingaw, v. a. (ysgrawling) To glue.
Ysgrawlingiad, s. m. (ysgrawling) A gluing.
Ysgre, s f. (cre) That makes a crying.
Ysgrëad, s. m. (ysgre) A making a crying.
Ysgrëaw, v. a. (ysgre) To make a crying noise.
Ysgrëawl, a. (ysgre) Crying, or craving.
Ysgrech, s. f.—pl. t. ion (crech) A scream, a shriek. Ysgrech y coed; a jay; also called ysgrechog.
Ysgrechawg, a. (ysgrech) Full of screaming.
Ysgrechiad, s. m. (ysgrech) A screaming.
Ysgrechian, v. a. (ysgrech) To scream, to shriek; to chatter as a jay.
Ysgrechiaw, v. a. (ysgrech) To scream, to shriek.
Ysgrechiawl, a. (ysgrech) Screaming, shrieking.
Ysgrechiwr, s. m. (ysgrech—gwr) A screamer.
Ysgrechlais, s. m. (ysgrech—llais) A screaming voice.
Ysgrechlef, s. m. (ysgrech--llef) A screaming voice.
Ysgrechlefain, v. a. (ysgrechlef) To utter a screaming noise or chattering.
Ysgrechleisiad, s. m. (ysgrechlais) A making a screaming noise.
Ysgrechleisiaw, v. a. (ysgrechlais) To make a screaming noise.
Ysgrechleisiawl, a. (ysgrechlais) Of a screaming or shrieking voice.
Ysgrechleisiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrechleisiwyr (ysgrechlais—gwr) One who screams.
Ysgrechog, s. f. (ysgrech) A jay or cuist.
Ysgrepan, s. f. dim. (ysgrab) A wallet, a scrip.
Ysgrepana, v. a. (ysgrepan) To collect into a bag; to go a begging; also called cardota, hel bywyd, and cerdded tai.
Ysgrepaniad, s. m. (ysgrepan) A scripping.
Ysgrepanu, v. a. (ysgrepan) To put in a bag.
Ysgretan, s. c. dim. (ysgrad) Any lean or lank looking animal; the sea-swallow; also called gwrachen, and ysgraen.
Ysgrew, s. f. (ysgre) That is full of loquacity.
Ysgri, s. f.—pl. t. on (cri) A shriek, or scream.

Diarheb iddynt dori
Dy esgair wen wedi ysgri.

It is a proverb that they broke thy white shank after the shriek. L. G. Cothi.

Ysgrïad, s. m. (ysgri) A shricking, a screaming.
Ysgrïaw, v. a. (ysgri) To make a screaming.
Ysgrïawl, a. (ysgri) Screaming or shrieking.
Ysgribiniad, s. m. (cribiniad) A raking together.
Ysgribiniaw, v. a. (cribiniaw) To rake together.
Ysgrif, s. f.—pl. t. ion (crif) A writing.
Ysgrifaw, v. a. (ysgrif) To notch; to write.
Ysgrifawl, a. (ysgrif) Relating to writing.
Ysgrifed, s. f. (ysgrif) A writing; a manuscript.
Ysgrifen, s. f. dim. (ysgrif) A piece of writing.
Ysgrifenawl, a. (ysgrifen) Relating to writing.
Ysgrifenedig, a. (ysgrifen) Being written.
Ysgrifeniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgrifen) A writing.
Ysgrifenu, v. a. (ysgrifen) To write, to pen.

Pei ysgrifenasai Duw wir enw pob dyn ar ei dalcen, pa le y cawsid defnydd mygwd i bawb a'i ceisiai?

If God had written the true name of every man on his forehead, where could there have been found stuff for a mask for every one who should seek for it? Adage.

Ysgrifenwr, s. m.—pl. ysgrifenwyr (ysgrifen—gwr) A writer.
Ysgrifenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgrifen) A scribe, a writer, a secretary.
Ysgrifenyddiaeth, s. m. (ysgrifenydd) The trade or profession of a writer.
Ysgrifiad, s. m. (ysgrif) A writing, a scribing.
Ysgriflyfr, s. m.—pl. ysgriflyfrau (ysgrif—llyfr) A manuscript.
Ysgrifwr, s. m.—pl. yrgrifwyr (ysgrif—gwr) A writer.
Ysgrog, s. m. (crog) That is hung or swung.
Ysgrogell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgrog) A drawbridge.
Ysgrogi, v. a. (ysgrog) To suspend, to impend.
Ysgrogiad, s. m. (ysgrog) A suspending.
Ysgrubl, s. m.—pl. t. od (crubl) A beast.

Ysgrubl diriad yn eithaf.

A mischievous beast on the outside. Adage.

Ysgrublaidd, a. (ysgrubl) Being beast-like.
Ysgrublawg, a. (ysgrubl) Abounding with beasts.
Ysgrubliad, s. m.—pl. ysgrubliaid (ysgrubl) A beast, a brute creature.
Ysgrud, s. f.—pl. t. ion (crud) A frame; a skeleton; a carcase.

Ysgrud fud draig ffelaig ffer.

A silent corpse is the potent leading chief. Einion Wan.

Ysgrudiad, s. m. (ysgrud) A making a frame; a making a skeleton.
Ysgrudiaw, v. a. (ysgrud) To make a frame, to form a skeleton; to make a carcase.

Ysgrud glud glewyd fyd falchder;
Ysgryd gryd greidiawl bawl hydyrner.

The chief will make a skeleton of the heroism of the world's glory; he will shout a shout of the vehement claim of the bravado. Cynddelw.

Ysgrudiawl, a. (ysgrud) Belonging to a frame, belonging to a skeleton.
Ysgruth, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ysg—rhuth) A full speed. Mae ef yn myned ar ei ysgruth, he is going on his full pace.
Ysgrwd, s. m.—pl. ysgrydion (crwd) A carcase. Hen ysgrwd, an old wretch.

Pa ddull enaid——
Ysgrwd wag is y fagwyr,
Os gwych, myn fy nghred, nis gwyr.

What the condition of the soul, whether happy, the empty carcase beneath the wall knows not, upon my faith. S. y Cent.

Ni roir pen un o'r cenin
Er ei ysgrwd.——

Not the head of one of the leeks would be given for his carcase. S. y Cent.

Ysgrwdiad, s. m. (ysgrwd) A carcasing.
Ysgrwdiaw, v. a. (ysgrwd) To make a carcase.
Ysgrwth, s. m. (crwth) A heap or bulk; a pile.
Ysgrwydr, s. m. (crwydr) A straying course.
Ysgrwydraw, v. a. (ysgrwydr) To make a wandering journey.
Ysgrwydrawl, a. (ysgrwydr) Of a wandering tendency.
Ysgrwydriad, s. m. (ysgrwydr) A making a straying journey.
Ysgryd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cryd) A shiver, a quake.
Ysgrydiad, s. m. (ysgryd) A shivering.
Ysgrydian, v. a. (ysgryd) To keep shivering.
Ysgrydiannawl, a. (ysgrydiant) Shivering.
Ysgrydiannu, v. a. (ysgrydiant) To be in a constant shivering or shuddering.
Ysgrydiant, s. m. (ysgryd) A shivering.

Maint fydd yn ngwasgar yr ysgrydiant.

So great in the dispersion will be the trepidation. Taliesin.

Ysgrydiaw, v. a. (ysgryd) To shiver, to quake.

Ysgryd gryd rhag graid eborthun
Ysgrud wlydd ar wledd y meilium.

The shout will re-echo before the vehement purveyor of the pampered carcase over the carrion feast.
Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Ysgrydiawl, a. (ysgryd) Shivering, quaking.
Ysgrydu, v. a. (ysgryd) To shiver, to quake.
Ysgrydwr, s. m.—pl. yrgrydwyr (ysgryd—gwr) A trembler.
Ysgryn, s. m. (cryn) A trembling, a shiver.
Ysgrynawl, a. (ysgryn) Tremulous, quaking.
Ysgrynedig, a. (ysgryn) Trembling, quaking.
Ysgryniad, s. m. (ysgryn) A tremulation.
Ysgrynu, v. a. (ysgryn) To cause a trembling.
Ysgrytian, v. a. (ysgrwd) To keep wriggling, to writhe the body, as to allay an itching.
Ysgrythiad, s. m. (ysgrwth) A going all of a heap; a tumbling about on the ground as animals do.
Ysgrythu, v. a. (ysgrwth) To tumble in a heap, to tumble about as horses and other animals do.
Ysgrythyr, s. f.—pl. t. au. The Scripture.
Ysgrythyrawl, a. (ysgrythyr) Scriptural.
Ysgrythyriad, s. m. (ysgrythyr) A making use of the Scripture, a quoting Scripture.
Ysgrythyru, v. a. (ysgrythyr) To make use of the Scripture, to quote Scripture.
Ysgrythyrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgrythyr) A scripturist.
Ysguall, a. (cuall) Of a furious or fierce nature.

Ar erechwydd ethyw gwall
O fraw marchawg ysguall:
A fydd wrth Urien arall!

Upon the intention there came a disappointment from the dread of a terrific knight: Will there be another compared with Urien!
Llywarch Hen.

Ysgub, s. f.—pl. t. au (cub) A sheaf; a besom.

Hawdd rhifaw yr ysgubau ar faes gwr diawg.

It is easy to reckon the sheaves on the field of an idle man.
Adage.

Ysgubaidd, a. (ysgub) Bundle-wise; like a whisp; like a sheaf; like a broom.
Ysgubaw, v. a. (ysgub) To whisk, to whisp; to sweep.
Ysgubawl, a. (ysgub) Sweeping, brushing.
Ysgubawr, s. f.—pl. ysguboriau (ysgub) A place for corn in the sheaf, a cornyard; a barn.

Cynt y llysg yr odyn no'r ysgubawr.

Sooner will the kiln be burnt than the barn. Adage.

Ysgubedig, a. (ysgub) Being swept with a broom.
Ysgubell, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (ysgub) A whisp, a small bundle; a besom; a brush. Ysgubell o lysiau per, a bunch of aromatic herbs.
Ysgubellaidd, a. (ysgubell) Like a whisp.
Ysgubellan, s. f. dim. (ysgubell) A small whisk.
Ysgubellig, s. f. dim. (ysgubell) A small besom.
Ysgubiad, s. m. (ysgub) A sweeping.
Ysgubion, s. pl. aggr. (ysgub) Sweepings.
Ysgubolion, s. pl. aggr. (ysgubawl) Sweepings.
Ysguboran, s. f. dim. (ysgubawr) A small barn.
Ysguboriad, s. m. (ysgubawr) A putting in a barn.
Ysguboriaw, v. a. (ysgubawr) To put in a barn.
Ysguborig, s. f. dim. (ysgubawr) A small barn.
Ysguborwr, s. m.—pl. ysguborwyr (ysgubawr—gwr) A barn-keeper.
Ysgubwr, s. m.—pl. ysgubwyr (ysgub—gwr) A sweeper with a besom.
Ysgubwraig, s. f.—pl. ysgubwreigedd (ysgub—gwraig) A female sweeper.
Ysgubydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgub) A sweeper.
Ysgubyddes, s. f. (ysgubydd) A female sweeper.

Ysgud, s. m. (cud) That rounds or whirls.
Ysgudaw, v. a. (ysgud) To send about; to whisk.
Ysgudawl, a. (ysgud) Scudding, whisking.
Ysgudell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysgud) A dish, a platter.
Ysgudellaid, s. f.—pl. ysgudelleidiau (ysgudell) A dishful.
Ysgudelliad, s. m. (ysgudell) A dishing.
Ysgudellu, v. a. (ysgudell) To put in a dish.
Ysgur, s. m. (cur) That is impulsive.
Ysguraw, v. a. (ysgur) To make an impulse.

Yn esguraw hawl hawdd adnoes,
Yn esgar i bawb am beues.

In impelling a claim easily he gave a pledge, being a foe to every body for a country. Ll. P. Moch, i Rodri.

Ysgurawl, a. (ysgur) Impulsive, repulsive.
Ysguriad, s. m. (ysgur) An impulsion.
Ysgutyll, s. m. dim. (ysgud) A scudder.

Ysgutyll yn cynnull cad.

A scudder gathering the battle together.
D. ab Gwilym, i geiliawg du.

Ysguth, s. m. (cuth) A scud, a sudden whisk.
Ysguthan, s. f.—pl. t. od (ysguth) A woodpigeon.

Nerth ysguthan yn ei hadanedd.

The strength of a wood-pigeon in her wings. Adage.

Ysguthaw, v. a. (ysguth) To scud, to whisk.
Ysguthell, s. f.—pl. t. od (ysguth) A scudder.

Doai ysguthell o ddiefyn carngam i mewn, tan ddyhead a chrynu.

There came in a scudder of a wry-footed imp with panting and trembling. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ysguthiad, s. m. (ysguth) A scudding.
Ysgw, s. m. (cw) Guard, care, or safeguard; refuge. v. imper. Regard, take care.
Ysgwad, s. m. (ysgw) A guarding, a taking care.
Ysgwaeth, s. m. (ysgw) Guardianship; refuge.
Ysgwaetheroedd, adv. (gwaeth—er—oedd) The more the pity.
Ysgwaw, v. a. (ysgw) To guard, to take care.
Ysgwawl, a. (ysgw) Guarding, care-taking.
Ysgwd, s. m. (ysg) A thrust, a push, a jet, a drive, an impulsion; a step, a stile. Ysgwd melin, a mill jet.
Ysgwdawl, a. (ysgwd) Pushing, impulsive.
Ysgwdiad, s. m. (ysgwd) A pushing away.
Ysgwdu, v. a. (ysgwd) To make a push, to thrust.
Ysgwdwl, s. m. (ysgwd) That pokes or pushes.
Ysgwer, s. f. (ysgw) A kind of musical composition, so called.

Per, per ysgwer, oes cainc mawr foliant
Mor felys gan ieuainc!

Melodious, melodious the ysgwer, is there a tune greatly famed so sweet to youths! L. G. Cothi, i Ysgwer fach.

Ysgwf, s. m. (cwf) That closes upon or holds.
Ysgwfl, s. m.—pl. ysgyflon (ysgwf) A grapple, a snatch; a scuffle.
Ysgwl, s. m.—pl. ysgylion (cwl) An excrescence; a knob, or knur; a scab.

Ysgwl du yn mlaen cangen dar.

A black excrescence on the top of an oak branch.
D. ab Gwilym.

Ysgwn, s. m. (cwn) That rises or soars.

Nis crawn cod esgud rhag ysgwn;
Na thaiawg myngawg, na myngdwn.

Treasure will not be accumulated by the hasty before the exalted one: nor by the boor with long hair, nor that is cropt.
Cynddelw, i O. Cyfeiliawg.

Cyfarfu ysgwn ag esgarant aer.

The exalted one met with the dispersed ones of slaughter.
O. Cyfeiliawg.

Ysgwn, a. (cwn) Rising, uplifting, raising.

Gair teulu yn ysgwn.

The word of a family uplifting. Adage.

Gwaew ysgwn esgud yn mhlymnwyd.

The uplifted spear fizzing in the livid slaughter. Cynddelw.

Ysgwn fflemiad yn nghadlan.

The towering conflagrator in the battle field. Cynddelw.

Cad aagen ysgwn ysgwyd Beli.

The ruin of battle with the uplifted shield of Beli. Cynddelw.

Gal ysgwn ysgwyd anghyfan,
Garw esgar yn ysgor Gadfan.

A foe with uplifted shield unentire, furiously he scatters in the field of Cadvan. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Oedd ysgwn, oedd twn talaeth ei darian.

It was uplifted, it was broken, the border of his shield. D. Llosgwrn Mew.

Deucan-waew terwyn ef tores bar dygrwn,
Pan ysgwn esgores.

Two hundred ardent spears the accumulating wrath did break, when eminently he escaped. Ll. P. Moch.

Ys gwyr hi hydr ein gormail,
Ysgwn daith dan ysgin dail.

She knows the drift of our vexation, on her flying journey under a covert of leaves. D. ab Gwilym, i'r eaws.

Ysgwr, s. m.—pl. ysgyr (cwr) A spike, a splinter; a bough or a branch; also violence.

Hawl bleiddiad lleiddiad lluch ar ysgyr.

The claim of the wolf the gleaming slaughtering on the pikes. O. Cyfeiliawg.

Neum gwant ysgwr o gwr dy god!

Am I not wounded by a spike from the corner of thy bag! Llywarch Hen.

Ar ysgwr o'r afallen ydd oedd corn canu mawr.

On a branch of the apple-tree there was a large blowing horn. H. Geraint—Mabinogion.

Nac esgud frwydr, nac ysgwr,
Nac ysgwydd gorwydd, na gwr—

Nor the flying battle, nor spike, nor the shoulder of a steed, nor man, will obstruct thee. D. ab Gwilym.

Ysgwrlwg, s. m. (ysgwr—llwg) A rustle, crackle

Ysgwrlwgach, v. a. (ysgwrlwg) To rustle; to crackle; to rattle, to clatter, to clash.

Ysgwrn, s. m. (cwrn) That juts or runs out.

Ysgwt, s. m. (cwt) A scud, a tail, a bottom. Ysgwt y gynhen, a mischief maker.

Ysgwth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (cwth) A push, a thrust.

Ysgwthiad, s. m. (ysgwth) A propulsion.

Ysgwthiaw, v. a. (ysgwth) To push, to impel.

Ysgwthiawl, a. (ysgwth) Propulsive, pushing.

Ysgwthiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgwthiwyr (ysgwth—gwr) An impeller.

Ysgwthr, s. m.—pl. ysgythrion (ysgwth) A carving, engraving, or cutting into; a cut out or from; a paring.

Yn ysgwthr trydar,
Yn ysgwn darpar,
Yn llachar ny'n lloches.

In the lopping of tumult, in the exalted preparation, gleamingly he protected us. Ll. P. Moch.

Ysgwyd, s. m. (ysg) A shake, a flutter. v. a. To shake, to flutter. Ysgwyd llaw, a shake hand; ysgwyd law, shake hand; ysgwyd aden, to flutter a wing.

Ysgŵyd, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgw) A shield, a target.

Lludw ysgor ysgwyd byddinau.

Ashes the structure that was the shield of hosts. Cynddelw.

Oedd ysgwn ysgwyd twn.

Uplifted was the broken shield. Cynddelw.

Yn rhith rhyn ysgwyd,
Rhag ysgwn blymnwyd.

In the similitude of a terrific shield in front of a rising tumult. Cynddelw.

Ei ysgwn gynnif,
Ei ysgwyd yn ugnif.

His rising conflict, his shield in toil. Cynddelw.

Grym ysgwn ysgwyd wyarlled.

The rising energy of the gory shield. Llygad Gwr.

Aer ysgwn aur ysgwyd oedd.

The stay of slaughter with a golden shield was he. Bleddyn Fardd.

Ysgwydadwy, a. (ysgwyd) That may be shaken.

Ysgwydaw, v. a. (ysgwyd) To use a shield.

Ysgwydawg, a. (ysgwyd) Having a shield.

Ysgwydawl, a. (ysgwyd) Belonging to a shield.

Ysgwydawr, s. m. (ysgwyd) A shield, a target.

Neum rhoddes i Run Rhyfeddawr
Cant haid, a chant ysgwydawr.

Have I not been gifted by Rhun the Magnificent with a hundred swarms, and a hundred shields? Llywarch Hen.

Ysgwydedig, a. (ysgwyd) Shaken, or agitated.

Ysgwydfa, s. f. (ysgwyd) A shake; a toss.

Ysgwydfolch, a. (ysgwyd—bolch) With notched shield.

Ysgwydfrith, a. (brith) With a variegated shield.

Ysgwydfriw, a. (briw) With a broken shield.

Ysgwydfwrw, s. m. (ysgwyd—bwrw) A cast of shields, an aggregate of shields.

Yn nydd gwyth gweithfuddig ddragon
Ar llwrw ysgwydfwrw ysgyrion.

In the day of wrath a conquering leader amidst the shivered throng of shields. Cynddelw, i O. Gwynedd.

Ysgwydiad, s. m.—pl. ysgwydiaid (ysgwyd) One that bears a shield.

Pan ddofes pair trachwres trochiad
Par trwy far trwy fyrdd ysgwydiad,
Por eisor aesawr weiniflad,
Pond rhagddaw bu ffaw bu ffysgiad!

When calmed the ardent impulse of the plunging of the spear through wrath through a myriad of shieldmen, the chief equally the bearer of the buckler, before him was there not a glorious thronging! Ll. P. Moch, i D. ab Owain.

Ysgwydrwy, s. f. (rhwy) A shield border.

Rhudd em fy nghylchwy;
Aur fy ysgwydrwy.

Of ruddy gem my wreath; gold my shield border. Taliesin.

Ysgwydwas, s. m.—pl. ysgwydweis (ysgwyd—gwas) A shield-bearer.

Ysgwydwr, s. m. (ysgwyd—gwr) A shield-man.

Ysgwydwyn, a. (ysgwyd—gwyn) White-shielded.

Canad gwastad ysgwydwyn.

An equanimous white-shielded herald. Cyfoesi Myrddin.

Ysgwydydd, s. m. (ysgwyd) A shield-bearer.

Ysgwydd, s. f.—pl. t. au (cwydd) A shoulder.

Gorwen fy ysgwyd ar fy ysgwydd i drais;
Cerais ni gefais gyfei awydd.

White topt my shield on my shoulder for conquest; I loved what I did not obtain, notwithstanding what there might be of avidity. H. ab Owain.

Ysgwyddaw, v. a. (ysgwydd) To shoulder.

Ysgwyddawg, a. (ysgwydd) Having a shoulder. s. f. That has the whole shoulder; a shoulder, as of mutton; a gammon.

Ysgwyddawg y derchafael a gymerais i gan feibion Israel.

The heave shoulder I did receive from the children of Israel. Leviticus 7. 34.

Ysgwyddawl, a. (ysgwydd) Scapulary; shoulder.

Ysgwyddiad, s. m. (ysgwydd) A shouldering; a jutting out; a jostling.

Ysgwyddlian, s. m. (ysgwydd—llian) A shoulder-scarf; an ephod.

Ysgwyddwisg, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ysgwydd—gwisg) A shoulder-scarf; an ephod.

Ysgwyf, s. m. (cwyf) A thin covering or sprinkle; scum.

Ysgwyfan, s. c. (ysgwyf) A sprinkle. Tafla ysgwyfan o lo drosto, throw a sprinkle of coals over it.

Ysgwyfawl, a. (ysgwyf) Generating scum.

Ysgwyfen, s. f. dim. (ysgwyf) A sprinkle; a thin scum.

Ysgwyfiad, s. m. (ysgwyf) A scumming.

Ysgydfa, s. f. (ysgwd) A shake; a stirring.

Ysgydiad, s. m. (ysgwd) A shaking; a stirring.

Ysgydiaw, v. a. (ysgwd) To shake; to stir.

Na ddoda dy hoffder mewn cnawdawl gariad: ysgyd ymaith seguryd, drwy ymarfer a gorchwylion daionus.

Place not thy affection upon carnal love; shake off slothfulness, through the being accustomed with good occupations. Marchawg Crwydrad.

Ysgydiawl, a. (ysgwd) Shaking, agitating.
Ysgydig, a. (ysgwd) Apt to be shaking.
Ysgydigaw, v. a. (ysgydig) To cause a shake.
Ysgydiwr, s. m. (ysgwd—gwr) A shaker.
Ysgydw, s. m. (ysgwd) That is made to shake or stir. v. a. To be made to shake.

> Ef ysgydw am eagor ei daid
> Ysgwydawr llathridfawr llathraid.
>
> He causes to shake about the dwelling of his grandsire a shield glittering with high polish. Ll. P. Moch, i Rodri.

Ysgydwad, s. m. (ysgydw) Agitation.
Ysgydwawl, a. (ysgydw) Being agitated, shaking.
Ysgydwyd, v. a. (ysgydw) To cause a shake.
Ysgyfain, a. (ysgwf) That abounds with involutions, that is convolved; pulmonary.
Ysgyfaint, s. f. (ysgyfain) The lights; the lungs; also the strangles.

> Tri rhyw ysgyfaint y sydd; ysgyfeinwst, a gwyn ysgyfain, a du ysgyfain.
>
> There are three sorts of pulmonaria; inflammation of the lungs, white pulmonaria, and black pulmonaria. Meddyginiaeth.

Ysgyfala, a. (cyfal) Being in an uniform state; unemployed, being at ease, being at leisure; careless. Ystafell ysgyfala.

> Myned a wnai i le dirgel ysgyfala i ddwyn buchedd ddwywawl.
>
> He went to a private place that was secure, to lead a pious life. Hanes G. ab Cynan.
>
> Efe a darawai y fyddin: canys y fyddin oedd ysgyfala.
>
> He smote the host: for the host was secure. Barnwyr 8. 11.

Ysgyfalâad, s. m. (ysgyfala) A rendering easy or secure; a becoming safe.
Ysgyfalâu, v. a. (ysgyfala) To render easy, to render secure; to become at leisure.
Ysgyfalâwch, s. m. (ysgyfala) A state of ease or composure; security.
Ysgyfar, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgwf) An auricle, an ear.

> Ysgyfar waeddgar yddfgam.
>
> A wry-necked flap full of noise. D. ab Gwilym, i delyn ledr.

Ysgyfarllynig, a. (ysgyfar—llyn) Having stained ears.

> Sarhed brenin Aber Ffraw fal hyn y telir: can muw wrth bob cantref a fo iddo; a tharw gwyn ysgyfarllynig wrth bob can muw onaddynt; a gwialen aur gyhyd ag ef ei hun, a chan frased a'i fys bychan, a chan dewed ag ewin amaeth ryfo amaeth naw mlynedd.
>
> The insult fine of the king of Aber Fraw in this manner shall it be paid: a hundred kine for every cantrev that belongs to him; and a white bull with red ears to every hundred kine of them; and a gold rod as long as himself, and equal in roundness to his little finger, and as thick as the nail of a husbandman who has been a husbandman for nine years. Welsh Laws.

Ysgyfarn, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysgyfar) An ear.

> Y gwas ystafell biau o'r gwartheg anrhaith cynnifer ag a fo cyhyd eu corn ag eu hysgyfarn.
>
> The groom of the chamber claims of the captured cattle as many as have their horn and ear of equal length. Welsh Laws.

Ysgyfarnawg, a. (ysgyfarn) Abounding with ears. s. f.—pl. ysgyfarnogod. That is large-eared, a hare; also called ceinach, and cath eithin. Ysgyfarnawg y mor, the gurnard.

> Rhaid pwyaw llawer llwyn cyn cilio ysgyfarnawg.
>
> It is necessary to beat many a bush before a hare is started. Adage.
>
> Ysgyfarnawg sy helfa ddolef, am ei bod yn cadw ei helynt er maint fo yr ymlid arni.
>
> The hare is a cry chase, because that she keeps her course however great the pursuit of her may be. Cyfraith Hela.

Ysgyfarnogaidd, a. (ysgyfarnawg) Like a hare.
Ysgyfeiniad, s. m. (ysgyfain) A forming of lungs.
Ysgyfeiniaw, v. n. (ysgyfain) To furnish or form lungs; to get the strangles.
Ysgyfeiniawg, a. (ysgyfain) Having lungs; pulmonary; having the strangles.
Ysgyfeiniawl, a. (ysgyfain) Pulmonical.
Ysgyfeinllyd, a. (ysgyfain) Pulmonarious.
Ysgyfeinwst, s. m. (ysgyfain—gwst) Pulmonaria.
Ysgyflaid, v. a. (ysgwfl) To snatch hold.
Ysgyflgar, a. (ysgwfl) Apt to snatch hold.
Ysgyflgarwch, s. m. (ysgyflgar) Rapaciousness.
Ysgyflgi, s. m.—pl. ysgyflgwn (ysgwfl—ci) A worrying dog.
Ysgyflin, a. (ysgwfl) That is laid hold of. Bara ysgyflin, shew-bread.
Ysgyfliad, s. m. (ysgwfl) A snatching hold.
Ysgyflu, v. a. (ysgwfl) To snatch hold.

> Pan ydoedd Achel yn mynu tynu arfau Troilws i amdano, nycha Menon yn dawed ac yn ysgyflu corff Troilws.
>
> When Achilles was about to pull the armour of Troilus from off him, lo Menon coming and snatching away the body of Troilus. H. Dared.

Ysgyflwr, s. m. (ysgwfl—gwr) A snatcher.
Ysgyfrang, s. m. (cyfrang) That comes in contact
Ysgyfrith, a. (cyfrith) Being of uniform aspect.
Ysgyl, s. m. (ysg) That is thin or edged.
Ysgylf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (gylf) That is taken or held by the beak; prey.
Ysgylfiad, s. m. (ysgylf) A beak-snatching.
Ysgylfiaw, v. a. (ysgylf) To snatch with the beak
Ysgylfu, v. a. (ysgylf) To snatch with the beak.
Ysgymmod, s. m. (cymmod) That is accordant.
Ysgymmodawl, a. (ysgymmod) Accordant.
Ysgymmodi, v. a. (ysgymmod) To unite together.
Ysgymmodiad, s. m. (ysgymmod) Accordance.
Ysgymyn, s. m. (cymyn) A felling or hewing.
Ysgymyngyf, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgymyn—cyf) A chopping-block.
Ysgyn, s. m. (cyn) An ascent, rise, or mount.
Ysgỳnawl, a. (ysgyn) Ascending, or rising.
Ysgỳniad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgyn) Ascension.
Ysgynial, v. a. (ysgyn) To be ascending.

> Rhag bron Buddygre
> Brain-dwyre wybr ysgynial.
>
> Before the course of victory the hovering crows ascend in the sky. Aneurin.

Ysgynu, v. a. (ysgyn) To ascend, to mount.
Ysgynwll, s. m. (ysgyn) That uplifts or raises.

> Ys canaf i'r ysgynwll,
> A droes y pumoes o'r pwll.
>
> I will sing to the uplifter, that turned the five ages from the pit. Herri Hir.

Ysgynydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgyn) A mounter.
Ysgyrch, s. m. (cyrch) That tends towards.
Ysgyrchawl, a. (ysgyrch) Tending to, gravitating.
Ysgyrchiad, s. m. (ysgyrch) A tending towards.
Ysgyrchiant, s. m. (ysgyrch) Gravitation.
Ysgyrchlam, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgyrch—llam) A leap towards.
Ysgyrchlamawl, a. (ysgyrchlam) Apt to leap or bound towards.
Ysgyrchlamiad, s. (ysgyrchlam) A leaping towards.
Ysgyrchlamu, v. a. (ysgyrchlam) To leap towards.

> Rhyw i fab ysgyrchlamu.
>
> It is natural for a youth to run forwards. Adage.

Ysgyrchu, v. a. (ysgyrch) To tend to; to gravitate.
Ysgyren, s. f. dim. (ysgwr) A split piece of wood, a splinter; a stave.
Ysgyrenig, s. f. dim. (ysgyren) A small splint.
Ysgyrion, s. pl. aggr. (ysgwr) Staves, splinters.

> Rhoddes Duw ym llyw y llafn waedlif, a'i ysgyr
> Ysgyrion yn ngnif.
>
> God furnished my chief with the blood-stained blade, and his shaft of shivers in the conflict. Einion Wan.

Ysgyrioni, v. a. (ysgyrion) To cleave into splinters, to shiver; to stave.
Ysgyrioniad, s. m. (ysgyrion) A splintering.
Ysgyrionyn, s. m. dim. (ysgyrion) A splinter.
Ysgyrnwg, s. m. (ysgwrn) A snarl, or a grin.

Ysgyrnygawl, a. (ysgyrnwg) Snarling, grinning.
Ysgyrnygiad, s. m. (ysgyrnwg) A snarling.
Ysgyrnygu, v. a. (ysgyrnwg) To snarl, to grin.
Ysgyrwydd, s. pl. aggr. (ysgwr—gwydd) Cleft wood. Pont ysgyrwydd, a bridge of split timber; cylchau ysgyrwydd, hoops of split wood.
Ysgyryd, s. m. (ysgwr) That consists of branches, spikes, or points; that is rough or harsh. a. Full of ruggedness.

Dewis, wr du ysgyryd.

Choose, thou black rough man. H. Daf.

Y cawr ac y widdon a gyrchynt leoedd ysgyryd.

The giant and the hag were resorting to rugged places. Mabinogi.

Ysgytfa, s. f. (ysgwd) A concussion, a shake.
Ysgytiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgwd) A concussion.
Ysgytian, v. a. (ysgwd) To keep shaking violently.
Ysgytiaw, v. a. (ysgwd) To shake violently.
Ysgytiawl, a. (ysgwd) Concussive, percussive.
Ysgytiwr, s. m.—pl. ysgytiwyr (ysgwd—gwr) One who shakes violently.
Ysgythawl, a. (ysgwth) Jetting, or spouting.
Ysgythiad, s. m. (ysgwth) A spouting out.
Ysgythr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgwth) A fang; a tusk.

Gwerth pob un o'r ysgythredd, dwy fuw, a deugaint ariant; canys bugel y dannedd ynt.

The value of every one of the fang teeth, two cows, and forty pence; for they are the guards of the teeth. Welsh Laws.

Rhaid imi olchi fy mhen, ac eillaw fy marf: ysgythr Ysgythrwyn Pen Baedd a fynaf i eilliaw.

It is necessary for me to wash my head, and to shave my beard: the tusk of Whitetusk the Supreme Boar I will have to shave. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Ysgythradwy, a. (ysgythr) That may be lopt.
Ysgythrawd, s. m. (ysgythr) A cut off, or gash.
Ysgythrawg, a. (ysgythr) Having tusks or fangs.
Ysgythrawl, a. (ysgythr) Cutting; lopping; carving; engraving.
Ysgythrddant, s. m.—pl. ysgythrddaint (ysgythr—dant; a fang tooth.
Ysgythredig, a. (ysgwthr) Cut out; carved.

Penffestin euraid ysgythredig o arwydd draig.

A golden helmet carved with the figure of a dragon. Gr. ab Arthur.

Ysgythredd, s. m. (ysgythr) The state of being projected or jutting out.

Ai wrth dy orchymyn di yr ymgyfyd yr eryr—ac yr erys—ar ysgythredd y graig?

Is it at thy command that the eagle doth rise up, and that it resteth on the pinnacle of the rock? Job 39. 28.

Ysgythriad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ysgwthr) A cutting; a carving; an engraving.
Ysgythru, v. a. (ysgwthr) To cut away, to lop, to shred; to carve; to engrave.

Ysgythred yma gylch o naw radd yr engylion, megys y perthyno i bob gradd yn briawd.

Let him carve here a circle of the nine orders of angels, as it may appertain to every order in particular. Cyssegrlan Fuchedd.

Ysgythrwr, s. m.—pl. ysgythrwyr (ysgythru—gwr) A cutter; a carver; an engraver.
Ysgythrydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysgythru) A cutter; a lopper; a carver; an engraver.
Ysgythu, v. a. (ysgwth) To jet or spout out.
Ysgywen, s. m. (cy—gwen) That is fair or bright.
Yshiliad, s. m. (hiliad) A spawning.
Yshiliaw, v. a. (hiliaw) To deposit spawn.
Yshwyliad, s. m. (hwyliad) A making a course.
Yshwyliaw, v. a. (hwyliaw) To take a course.
Ysi, adv. (ys—i) There is, there may be; it may be.
Ysiad, s. m. (ys) A consuming; a devouring.
Ysiannawl, a. (ysiant) Tending to consume.
Ysiannu, v. a. (ysiant) To make a consumption.
Ysiant, s. m. (ys) A consuming; a devoration.

Ysid, adv. (ys—id) There is; it may be.

Ysid ar bawb ei bryder.

There is on every one his anxiety. Adage.

Hawdd yw genyf fi caffael hyny. Cyd caffych hyny ysid nas caffych.

It is easy for me to obtain that. Though thou mayest obtain that, it may be thou wilt not obtain it. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Ysig, a. (ys) Inflammatory, fretting.
Ysigaw, v. a. (ysig) To inflame; to fret.

Hawdd ysigaw hen giwyf.

It is easy to fret an old sore. Adage.

Ysigdawd, s. m. (ysig) A bruise, a contusion.
Ysigfa, s. f.—pl. ysigfëydd (ysig) A bruise, a crush
Ysigiad, s. m. (ysig) A bruising; a contusion.
Ysigiedig, a. (ysigiad) Bruised, or crushed.
Ysigwr, s. m.—pl. ysigwyr (ysig—gwr) A bruiser, or one who makes a contusion.
Yslab, s. m. (llab) That is lengthened out, or distended.
Yslabi, s. m. (yslab) A maulkin, a slattern.
Yslabiad, s. m. (yslab) A forming a slab.
Yslac, a. (llac) Discinct, slack, or loose.
Yslacâad, s. m. (yslacâu) A making slack; a slackening, a becoming slack.
Yslacâu, v. a. (yslac) To make slack, to slacken.
Yslacawd, s. m. (yslac) A slack or loose state.
Yslaciad, s. m. (yslac) A slacking; a loosening.
Yslaciaw, v. a. (yslac) To slack; to loosen.
Yslaciwr, s. m.—pl. yslaciwyr (yslac—gwr) A slacker; a loosener.
Yslacrwydd, s. m. (yslac) Slackness, looseness.
Yslafan, s. m. (llafan) The laverplant.
Yslaif, s. m. (glaif) A slash; a slice, or cut.
Yslam, s. m. (llam) That leaps or bounds. a. Skipping or leaping.

Gwneuthur gwaith yslam ag ef.

To make hasty work of it. Adage.

Yslamawl, a. (yslam) Tending to rebound.
Yslamiad, s. m. (yslam) A making a rebound.
Yslamu, v. a. (yslam) To make a bound.
Yslan, s. m. (glan) That is pure, clean or immaculate. a. Immaculate.
Yslanaidd, a. (yslan) Of a clean, or pure nature.
Yslaniad, s. m. (yslan) A rendering pure.
Yslanu, v. a. (yslan) To render immaculate.
Yslapiad, s. m. (yslab) A slapping; a flapping.
Yslapiaw, v. a. (yslab) To slap; to flap.
Yslath, s. f.—pl. t. au (llath) A rod; a perch.
Yslebawg, a. (yslab) Lanky, gawky. Yslebawg o ddynes, a slattern of a woman.
Yslebr, s. m. (yslab) That is lanky.
Yslebren, s. f. dim. (yslebr) A slattern.
Yslebyn, s. m. dim. (yslab) A lanky thing.
Yslecawd, s. m. (yslac) The state of being slack, or out of tone; a slight indisposition.
Ysled, s. f.—pl. t. i (lled) A drag, a dray.
Ysledfen, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysled—men) A drag-cart.
Ysleifiad, s. m. (yslaif) A slashing, a slicing.
Ysleifiaw, v. a. (yslaif) To slash, or to slice.
Ysleifiawl, a. (yslaif) Slashing, or slicing.
Ysleifiwr, s. m.—pl. ysleifiwyr (yslaif—gwr) A slasher, a slicer.
Ysleifyn, s. m. dim. (yslaif) A slash, or a slice.
Yslepan, s. f.—pl. t. au (yslab) A trap.
Ysletan, s. f.—pl. t. au (ysled) Any flat body or vessel, a flat, a flat-bottomed boat; a flat boat peculiar to some of the creeks in Wales, now growing out of use.
Yslib, s. m. (llib) That is glib or smooth.
Yslipan, s. m. (yslib) A burnish, or a polish.
Yslipaniad, s. m. (yslipan) A burnishing.

Yslipanu, v. a. (yslipan) To burnish, to polish.

Ha wr! ai gwir a ddywedir amat ti, y gwyddost yslipanu cleddyfau yn dda!

Well man! is it true what is said of thee, that thou knowest how to burnish swords in a good manner! H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Yslipanwr, s. m.—pl. yslipanwyr (yslipan—gwr) A burnisher, a polisher.

Yslipanwr cleddyfau goreu yn y byd wyf fi, ebai Cai.

The best burnisher of swords in the world am I, said Cai. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Yslod, s. m. (llod) A paddle; a dabble.
Yslotiad, s. m. (yslod) A paddling, a dabbling.
Yslotian, v. a. (yslod) To paddle; to dabble.

Rhwyfau, mal rhawiau i'n rhan,
Isel attegi 'slotian—
Ar hyd gwar tonau.

Oars, like shovels for our share, of low stop to paddle along the top of the waves. T. Prys.

Yslotiwr, s. m.—pl. yslotiwyr (yslotian—gwr) A paddler, a dabbler.
Yslwch, s. m.—pl. yslychau (llwch) A slough.
Ysmach, s. m. (mach) A buffet; a rumple.
Ysmacht, s. m. (ysmach) A buffet; a rumple.
Ysmachtiad, s. m. (ysmacht) A buffeting.
Ysmachtiaw, v. a. (ysmacht) To buffet, to rumple.
Ysmachtiwr, s. m.—pl. ysmachtiwyr (ysmacht—gwr) A buffeter, one who rumples.
Ysmal, s. m. (mal) That is light or fickle.
Ysmala, a. (ysmal) Light, fickle; droll, waggish, humorous, whimsical.
Ysmalâad, s. m. (ysmala) A rendering humorous or droll; a becoming droll.
Ysmalâawl, a. (ysmala) Of a droll tendency.
Ysmalâu, v. a. (ysmala) To act with humour; to become droll or humorous.
Ysmalâwch, s. m. (ysmala) Levity; drollery, waggery, humour.
Ysmaldawd, s. m. (ysmal) Drollery, humour.
Ysmalder, s. m. (ysmal) Drollery, waggery.
Ysmalrwydd, s. m. (ysmal) Waggishness, drollery.
Ysmeityn, s. m. (meityn) A space, a while; a good while. Er ysmeityn, a good while since.
Ysmiciad, s. m. (ysmig) A blinking, a winking.
Ysmician, v. a. (ysmig) To blink; to ogle.
Ysmiciaw, v. a. (ysmig) To blink; to wink.
Ysmiciawl, a. (ysmig) Blinking; winking.
Ysmiciwr, s. m. (ysmig—gwr) A blinker; a winker.
Ysmig, s. f. (mig) A blink or wink, an ogle.
Ysmigiad, s. m. (ysmig) A blinking; an ogling.
Ysmigiaw, v. a. (ysmig) To blink; to ogle.
Ysmigwst, s. f. (ysmig—gwst) A blinking ailment; dumps. Mae yr ysmigwst arno, mae ef yn glaf o ysmigwst, he is in the dumps.
Ysmot, s. m.—pl. t. iau (mod) A patch, a spot.
Ysmotiad, s. m. (ysmot) A dappling, a spotting.
Ysmotiaw, v. a. (ysmot) To dapple, to spot.
Ysmotyn, s. m. dim. (ysmot) A small spot or patch; a hare's scut; also called cwt, cwtyn, and cwtawg.
Ysmud, s. m. (mud) Emotion, instigation.
Ysmudai, s. c.—pl. ysmudeion (ysmud) That causes emotion; that instigates.
Ysmudaw, v. a. (ysmud) To cause emotion.
Ysmudawl, a. (ysmud) Instigating; motive.
Ysmudiad, s. m. (ysmud) Instigation, emotion.
Ysmudwr, s. m.—pl. ysmudwyr ysmud—gwr) One who moves; an instigator.
Ysmwca, v. a. (ysmwg) To collect a little smoke, to dim, to be dimmed.
Ysmwcach, s. m. (ysmwg) A little puff of smoke, fog, or mist.
Ysmwcan, s. c. dim. (ysmwg) A little volume of smoke, fog, or mist; fog.
Ysmwciad, s. m. (ysmwg) A dimming with smoke, mist, fog, or vapour.
Ysmwciaw, v. a. (ysmwg) To dim with smoke. Mae y drych wedi ysmwciaw, the glass is become dim.
Ysmwciawl, a. (ysmwg) Somewhat smoked.
Ysmwg, s. m. (mwg) That generates smoke.
Ysmwll, s. m. (mwll) That is close and damp. a. Sultry and damp.
Ysmwllach, s. m. (ysmwll) Close damp weather.
Ysmwt, s. m. (mwd) That is round or squabby. a. Squabby. Trwyn ysmwt, a bottle nose.
Ysmygawl, a. (ysmwg) Tending to smoke.
Ysmygiad, s. m. (ysmwg) A dimming with smoke.
Ysmygu, v. a. (ysmwg) To dim with smoke.
Ysnid, s. f.—pl. t. au (nid) A snout or beak; a drop at the nose; a snipe.
Ysniten, s. f. dim. (ysnid) A snout; a drop at the snout.
Ysnoden, s. f.—pl. t. i (noden) A fillet, band, riband or lace; a head band, a hair lace; a marilock, also called cudyn dedwydd. Ysnoden gorni, rhwymyn, a swaddling band; ysnoden y mor, sea-thongs; ysnoden mair, English galingale.

Ysnoden aur a gwn carth.

A gold lace with a hempen gown. Adage.

Ysnodenaidd, a. (ysnoden) Like a fillet or lace.
Ysnodenawg, a. (ysnoden) Having a fillet, band, or riband; filleted, laced.
Ysnodenawl, a. (ysnoden) Filleted, laced.
Ysnodeniad, s. m. (ysnoden) A filleting, a lacing.
Ysnodenig, s. f. dim. (ysnoden) A bandlet.
Ysnodenu, v. a. (ysnoden) To fillet, to bind with a lace or riband; to belace.
Ysnodenwr, s. m.—pl. ysnodenwyr (ysnoden—gwr) A dealer in fillets or laces.
Ysnodenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ysnoden) A dealer in fillets, laces, and ribands.
Yso, adv. (ys—o) Is thence; it may be thence.
Ysoldeb, s. m. (ysawl) A consuming state.
Ysoli, v. a. (ysawl) To render consuming; to cauterize.
Yspadd, s. m. (padd) That is exhausted, or spent.
Yspaddawl, a. (yspadd) Tending to exhaust.
Yspaddiad, s. m. (yspadd) An exhausting.
Yspaddu, v. a. (yspadd) To exhaust, to empty.
Yspai, s. m. (pai) That is clear or visible.
Yspaid, s. m. (paid) A cessation, an intermission; a term or space of time. Tros yspaid tair blynedd, for the space of three years.
Yspaidd, a. (paidd) Being emptied or exhausted.
Yspail, s. f.—pl. yspeiliau (pall) A spoil or prey.

Nid yspail ond gwynt.

There is no spoiling like that of wind. Adage.

Yspaith, s. m. (paith) That is open or clear; a prospect, a scene, a view, a vision.
Yspant, s. f.—pl. yspeinniau (pant) That is involving or inclosing; a flake.
Yspar, s. f.—pl. ysperi (par) A spear, or pike.

Llathrlaw ysb euraw, ysperi weyll.
Llid Pyll arf drydryll, arfawd Rhodri.

A smooth hand giving gold to guests, with blades of spears wrathful as Pyll, with weapon broken in three, and stroke of Rhodri. D. ab Gwilym.

Ysparawg, a. (yspar) Having a spear or pike.
Yspardun, s. f.—pl. t. au (yspar—tun) A spur; also called ethy. Yspardunau y marchawg, the larkspur.

Yspardunad, s. m. (yspardun) A spurring.
Yspardunaw, v. a. (yspardun) To spur.
Yspardunwr, s. m.—pl. yspardunwyr (yspardun—gwr) One who uses a spur.
Ysparth, s. m.—pl. t. au (parth) A separation.
Ysparthiad, s. m. (ysparth) A separating.
Ysparthu, v. a. (ysparth) To separate, to part.
Yspas, s. m. (pas) That is in the act of passing. a. Passing; probationary.
Yspawr, s. m.—pl. ysporion (pawr) That is used as fodder; the refuse of fodder.
Yspeiad, s. m. (yspai) An exploring, a spying.
Yspeiant, s. m. (yspai) An exploration.
Yspeiaw, v. a. (yspai) To explorate; to spy.
Yspeiawd, s. m. (yspai) An exploration.
Yspeiawl, a. (yspai) Exploratory; spying.
Yspeiawr, s. m. (yspai) That is visible.
Yspeidiad, s. m. (yspaid) An intermission.
Yspeidiaw, v. a. (yspaid) To make an intermission; to form a space of time; to desist.
Yspeidiawl, a. (yspaid) Intermittent.
Yspeienna, v. a. (yspeiant) To prowl about.
Yspeiliad, s. m. (yspail) A spoliation.
Yspeienddyn, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yspeiant—dyn) A person who prowls about.
Yspeiliata, v. a. (yspeiliad) To be pilfering.
Yspeiliatan, v. a. (yspeiliad) To be pilfering.
Yspeiliaw, v. a. (yspail) To spoil, to ravage.
Yspeiliawd, s. m. (yspail) A spoliation.
Yspeiliedig, a. (yspeiliad) Spoiled, ravaged.
Yspeiliedydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yspeiliad) Ravager.
Yspeiliota, v. a. (yspeiliawd) To be pilfering.
Yspeiliwr, s. m.—pl. yspeiliwyr (yspail—gwr) A spoiler, a ravager.
Yspeinniad, s. m. (yspant) An involving or enclosing; a shelling.
Yspeinniaw, v. a. (yspant) To involve, to enclose, to shell. Yspeinniaw ffa, to shell beans.

> Yspeinniaw Rhys ab Einion
> A oera sain yr oes hon.
>
> The enveloping of Rhys the son of Einion renders the voice of this generation dismal. L. G. Cothi.

Yspeinwydd, s. m. (ys—pan—gwydd) Box-wood.
Yspeiorad, s. m. (yspeiawr) Exploration.
Yspeiorawl, a. (yspeiawr) Exploratory.
Yspeiori, v. a. (yspeiawr) To explorate.
Yspeithiad, s. m. (yspaith) A looking about.
Yspeithiaw, v. a. (yspaith) To look about.
Yspeithiawl, a. (yspaith) Relating to a looking about; exploratory.
Yspeithig, a. (yspaith) Tending to look about.
Yspeithigaw, v. a. (yspeithig) To form an open prospect or view.
Yspel, s. m. (pel) An exposition; expulsion.
Yspeliad, s. m. (yspel) An exposing.
Yspeliaw, v. a. (yspel) To expose; to expel.
Yspelw, s. m. (yspel) A gall, a rub, or fret.
Yspelwad, s. m. (yspelw) Exulceration.
Yspelwi, v. a. (yspelw) To gall, to be galled.
Yspell, s. m. (pell) That is far or long.

> Yr eryr a ddywawd: mi à ddeuthym yma er ysbell o amser.—
>
> The eagle said: I am arrived here for this long space of time. H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Yspelliad, s. m. (yspell) A rendering distant.
Yspellu, v. a. (yspell) To render distant.
Yspennydd, s. m. (yspant) That involves. a. Involving; overwhelming.

> Llary yspar yspennydd ei naid;
> Llew wrth aer, a llwfr wrth eirchiaid.
>
> A mild one with a spear of overwhelming bound; a lion in the slaughter, and a yielding one to the suitor. Ll. P. Moch, i Rodri.

Ysperygl, s. f. (perygl) A leg bone, or the tibia.

Yspicell, s. f.—pl. t. au (yspig) A dart.
Yspicella, v. a. (yspicell) To throw darts.
Yspicelliad, s. m. (yspicell) A darting.
Yspicellu, v. a. (yspicell) To throw a dart.
Yspig, s. f.—pl. t. au (pig) A spike, a spine.
Yspigaw, v. a. (yspig) To spike; to prick.
Yspigawd, s. f.—pl. yspigodau (yspig) A spindle, a spiggot.
Yspigawg, a. (yspig) Full of spikes or pricks.
Yspigawglys, s. pl. aggr. (yspigawg—llys) Spinage
Yspigydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yspig) The titmouse; also called yspigydd bach.
Yspil, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pil) A dribblet.
Yspilyn, s. m. dim. (yspil) A little matter, a dribblet. Mae arno ryw yspilyn bach i mi, he owes me some small trifle.
Yspin, s. m.—pl. t. ion (pin) A spine, a prick.
Yspinan, s. m. dim. (yspin) That is spinous; a gooseberry-bush.
Yspinawg, a. (yspin) Abounding with prickles. s. f. The squincy.
Yspinc, s. m. (pinc) That is smart or trim.
Yspincyn, s. m. dim. (yspinc) A finch; it is also called pinc.
Yspinen, s. f. dim. (yspin) That is spinous; any prickly plant.
Yspinglairch, s. m. (yspin—clairch) Bridegroom.
Ysplan, a. (plan) Clear, bright, splendid.
Ysplana, v. a. (ysplan) To elucidate, to explain.
Ysplanawl, a. (ysplan) Luminous, lucid.
Ysplander, s. m. (ysplan) Brightness, splendour.
Ysplandra, s. m. (ysplan) Brightness, clearness.
Ysplanedig, a. (ysplan) Being brightened.
Ysplanedd, s. m. (ysplan) Brightness, lucidity.
Ysplaniad, s. m.—pl. t. an (ysplan) A brightening
Ysplenydd, a. (ysplan) Lucid or luminous.
Ysplenyddu, v. a. (ysplenydd) To irradiate.
Ysplent, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (ysplan) A slippery place or slide; a sheet of ice.

> Rhaid eu gyru, am oered eu rhesymau, i'r ysplent fawr yn ngwlad yr ia tragwyddawl.
>
> They must be driven, because of the coldness of their discourses, to the great sheet of ice in the region of eternal frost. Elis Wyn, B. Cwsg.

Ysplyg, s. m.—pl. t. ion (plyg) A splice.
Ysplygawl, a. (ysplyg) Spliced, infolded.
Ysplygiad, s. m.—pl. t. an (ysplyg) A splicing.
Ysplygu, v. a. (ysplyg) To splice, to infold.

> Da oedd ysplygu y cynghaneddion a'u hamryw fathau.
>
> It were well to enfold the concatenations with their various sorts. Gr. Roberts.

Yspodol, s. f.—pl. t. au (yspawd) A slice or spattle
Yspodoli, v. a. (yspodol) To spattle; to beat with the flat side of any thing; to slap.
Yspodoliad, s. m. (yspodol) A spattling; a slapping.
Ysponc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ponc) A jerk, a jet, a spirt; a skip or quick bound.

> Taraw, o'm aawyd dyrys,
> Tair ysbonc, tores y bys.
>
> Striking, from my mischievous whim, three jerks, the finger broke. D. ab Gwilym, i'r cls.
>
> Ac ysbonc y wêus bach.
>
> And the smack of the delicate lip. Llawdden, i'r cusan.

Ysponciad, s. m. (ysponc) A sudden jet or bound, a twitch; a smack.
Ysponciaw, v. a. (ysponc) To bound sharply; to smack; to jerk, to jet.
Yspori, v. a. (yspawr) To feed; to eat fodder.
Ysporiad, s. m. (yspawr) A feeding; the eating of fodder, a foddering.
Ysporiaw, v. a. (yspawr) To eat fodder.

Ysperion, s. pl. aggr. (yspawr) Refuse of fodder.
Ysporioni, v. a. (ysporion) To produce refuse or leavings of fodder.
Ysporth, s. m.—pl. t. ion (porth) Sustenance.
Ysporthawl, a. (ysporth) Supporting, sustaining.
Ysporthell, s. f.—pl. t. i (ysporth) A provision basket or pannier.
Ysporthen, s. f. dim.—pl. t. i (ysporth) A basket or pannier.
Ysporthi, v. a. (ysporth) To support or sustain.
Ysporthiad, s. m.—pl. ysporthiaid (ysporth) A sustainer or supporter.

Cyfarchaf——
I ilwyr eryr, arf gwenwlad a gwaed
A gwyddgwn ysporthiad.

I will greet the warriors of the eagle, the weapon of a happy country with blood, and the feeder of the wild dogs.
Ll. P. Moch, i D. ab Owain.

Ysporthiadawl, a. (ysporthiad) Of a supporting or sustaining tendency.
Ysporthiannawl, a. (ysporthiant) Yielding sustenance or support.
Ysporthiannu, v. a. (ysporthiant) To produce sustenance or support.
Ysporthiant, s. m. (ysporth) Sustenance, food.
Ysporthion, s. pl. aggr. (ysporth) Refuse of fodder.
Ysporthioni, v. a. (ysporthion) To make leavings of fodder.
Yspred, s. pl. aggr. (pred) Outcasts; refuse.

Ys cail—o eifr—
Yspred o anysbrydoedd.

There was a fold of goats, outcasts of mere phantoms.
Gr. ab Hywel ab Tudyr.

Fe dal yr Arglwydd i'r yspred
A wnaeth y weithred dywyll.

The Lord will requite the crew who committed that dark deed.
Lewis Morris.

Ysprudd, a. (prudd) Moping, stupid, or dull.
Yspruddach, s. m. (ysprudd) That is of a dejected aspect, a moper, a stupid one.
Yspwng, s. m.—pl. t. au (pwng) A light tuft, such as the tops of reeds; sponge.

Gnawd yd gyrch cynnygn o'i gynaif pwng,
Mal pan gyrch ffamdan ffamdo yspwng.

Habitual for him to attack adversaries in his overwhelming rage, as when the flaming fire invades an inflammable covering of reeds.
E. ab Madawg ab Rhawd.

Yspwy, s. m. (pwy) A rebuff, or a repulse.
Yspwyad, s. m. (yspwy) A rebuffing, repulsion.
Yspwyaw, v. a. (yspwy) To rebuff, to repulse.
Yspwyll, s. m. (pwyll) A mental faculty.
Yspwyllaw, v. a. (yspwyll) To ratiocinate.
Yspwylliad, s. m. (yspwyll) Ratiocination.
Yspwyllus, a. (yspwyll) Ratiocinative.
Yspwys, s. m. (pwys) That is impressive or weighty. a. Impressive, imposing. Gwraig yspwys, and gwraig bwys, a wedded wife, or a spouse.

Moes yspwys ysbys echrys ochrea.

The imposing conduct of the conspicuous terrific party.
Cynddelw.

Rheoli gwyllt——
Sy o yspwys i Siaspar.

The ruling of the outrageous is of weight to Jasper.
L. G. Cothi.

Yspwysaw, v. a. (yspwys) To impress.
Yspwysawl, a. (yspwys) Impressive, imposing.
Yspwysiad, s. m. (yspwys) An imposing.
Yspydd, s. m. (pydd) A jutting, or run out.
Yspyddad, s. m. aggr. (yspydd) That runs out; that expels; that is projecting; a hawthorn.

Yspyddad amnad,
Haint ach ei angad.

The hawthorn surrounded by obstacles, with pain at his hand.
Taliesin.

Yspyddaden, s. f. dim. (yspyddad) One that is armed or protected; hawthorn, whitethorn.

Yspyddaid, a. (yspydd) Jetting; prickly; harsh, sharp, repulsive; protected. Mae o yn dywedyd mòr yspyddaid, he is speaking so wildly. Sil. Heirdd yspyddaid, refugee bards.
Yspyddawd, s. m. (yspydd) A running out; a repelling or guarding; protection.

Parawd yspyddawd i esbyd Prydain,
Udd prydfawr ei wryd,
Maredudd———

Of ready protection to the refugees of Britain, a chief of stately form, Maredudd.———
Ll. P. Moch, m. M. ab Cynan.

Yspyddiad, s. m. (yspydd) A jutting out.
Yspyddu, v. a. (yspydd) To jut, to run out.
Ysran, s. f.—pl. t. au (rhan) A dividend.
Ysranawl, a. (ysran) Forming a dividend.
Ysraniad, s. m. (ysran) A making a dividend.
Ysranu, v. a. (ysran) To make a dividend.
Ysrath, s. m. (rhath) That is rubbed.
Ysrathawl, a. (ysrath) Productive of friction.
Ysrathiad, s. m. (ysrath) A causing a friction.
Ysrathu, v. a. (ysrath) To cause a friction.
Ysrith, s. m.—pl. t. ion (rhith) That is apparent.
Ysrithiad, s. m. (ysrith) A making apparent.
Ysrithiaw, v. a. (ysrith) To make apparent.
Ysrwydd, a. (rhwydd) Tending to facilitate.
Ysrwyddaw, v. a. (ysrwydd) To render facile.
Ysrwyddawl, a. (ysrwydd) Of a clearing tendency
Ysrwyddiad, s. m. (ysrwydd) A rendering facile.
Yssawd, s. m. (sawd) That combines or forms.
Yssig, a. (ys—sig) Shattered, crushed, bruised.
Yssigaw, v. a. (yssig) To shatter, to crush, to bruise. Yssigaw byddinoedd, to crush armies.

Yn Saxonia—
Tyrau twn eu mur,
Terfysg eu llafur,
Torfoedd disegur
A'u hyssiga.

In Saxony towers with their broken walls, tumult their toil, hosts void of inactivity will crush them.
D. Benfras.

Yssigawl, a. (yssig) Tending to shatter or crush.
Yssigdawd, s. m. (yssig) Shatteredness, bruisedness; contusion, a crushed state.
Yssigiad, s. m. (yssig) A shattering, a crushing, a bruising; a contusion.
Yssigwr, s. m.—pl. yssigwyr (yssig—gwr) A shatterer, one who bruises, or makes a contusion.
Yssodi, v. a. (yssawd) To render combined.
Yssy, s. m. (ys—sy) That has existence, or has entity. adv. That is, that be.
Yssydd, s. m. (ys—sydd) That has existence, or that has entity. adv. That is, that be.

Na saethyta ni bellach, namyn anaf ac addoed yssydd arnat, ag a fo mwy, os mynni: dyro ini dy ferch.

Be not shooting at us any more, for the harm and ruin that is upon thee, as to what more may be, if thou wilt: give us thy daughter.
H. Culhwch—Mabinogion.

Yssyddawl, a. (yssydd) Causing of existence.
Yssyddiad, s. m. (yssydd) A causing of existence.
Yssyddu, v. a. (yssydd) To cause to be, or exist.
Yssyddyn, s. m. dim.—pl. t. od (yssydd) That is occupied; a tenement.
Yssyddynawl, a. (yssyddyn) Under occupation.
Yssym, adv. (ys—sy—ym) That is to me, that is of mine.

Yssymi heddyw pen y mis,
Yn y westfa ydd edewis.

What might be mine this day ending the month, in the entertainment I have left it.
Llywarch Hen.

Yssym arglwydd gwrdd.

There is to me a powerful lord.
Cynddelw.

Yst, s. m. (ys) That exists; that proceeds; that is active or ardent.
Ystac, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tag) That is reared; a heap; a stack.
Ystac, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (ystac) A standard; a heap; a measure of capacity, equal to 5½ bushels, used in Glamorgan; but in the neighbouring parts it is called Tel; and Ystaca is used as a measure of length.

Ystaciad, s. m. (ystac) A forming a standard; a forming a heap; a stacking.

Ystaciaw, v. a. (ystac) To form a standard; to form a heap; to stack.

Ystad, s. m.—pl. t. au (tad) That is continuous or proceeding; state, condition.

Ystadawl, a. (ystad) Being continuous or even.

Ystaden, s. f. dim. (ystad) A measnre of length; a stadium.

Ystadiad, s. m. (ystad) A forming a position.

Ystadl, s. m. (ystad) That is continuous, that is proceeding, or that is uninterrupted.

> Ystadl cad cynnygydd.
>
> The threatener of the indecision of battle. Taliesin.

Ystadledd, s. m. (ystadl) A continuous state.

Ystadliad, s. m. (ystadl) A rendering continuous.

Ystadu, v. a. (ystad) To remain, to stay.

Ystaen, s. m. (taen) That is spread out; that is sprinkled over; a stain; also tin. a. Outspreading; stained.

> Niwl——
> Rhidyll ystaen yn rhydu;
> Rhwyd adar y ddaiar ddu.
>
> The mist, an outspreading riddle diffusing rust; the net of the birds of the sable earth. D. ab Gwilym.

Ystaenaidd, a. (ystaen) Tending to overspread; of a staining quality; like tin.

Ystaenawd, s. m. (ystaen) The state of being spread, sprinkled, or stained.

> Rhag gwyar ar gnawd,
> Afar ystaenawd.
>
> Against gore on flesh, a dismal staining. Taliesin.

Ystaenawl, a. (ystaen) Tending to spread, of a staining quality; belonging to tin.

Ystaenawr, s. m.—pl. ystaenorion (ystaen) A tinner, or a worker of tin.

Ystaeniad, s. m. (ystaen) A spreading out; a staining; a working of tin; a tinning.

Ystaeniaw, v. a. (ystaen) To spread over; to stain; to tin.

Ystaeniwr, s. m.—pl. ystaeniwyr (ystaen—gwr) One who stains; a tinner.

Ystaenu, v. a. (ystaen) To cover with tin.

Ystaenydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ystaen) A tinner.

Ystaf, s. f. (taf) That is spread, extended, or laid out; that is stretched out or laminated.

Ystafell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ystaf) A chamber, an upper room; a bedchamber.

> Mi a fedraf ystafell:
> Das o wair; nid oes ei well.
>
> I can form a chamber: a haystack; there is not its better. D. ab Gwilym.

Ystafelliad, s. f.—pl. ystafelleidiau (ystafell) A chamber-full, a room-full.

Ystafellaidd, a. (ystafell) Like a chamber.

Ystafellawg, a. (ystafell) Having a chamber; having a room, or a cell.

> Pedair ar ugaint fydd ebediw gwr ystafellawg; deuddeg ceiniawg yw ebediw gwraig ystafellawg; ac i arglwydd y tir y bo yr ystafell arno y telir.
>
> Twenty-four pence shall be the herriot of a man having a cot; twelve pence is the herriot of a woman having a cot; and to the lord of the soil whereon the cell may be shall it be paid. Welsh Laws.

Ystafelliad, s. m. (ystafell) A chambering.

Ystafellu, v. a. (ystafell) To form a chamber.

Ystafellwas, s. m.—pl. ystafellweision (ystafell—gwas) A chamberlain.

Ystafellwr, s. m.—pl. ystafellwyr (ystafell—gwr) A chamber-man.

Ystafellwraig, s. f.—pl. ystafellwreigedd (ystafell—gwraig) A chamber-woman.

Ystafellydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ystafell) A chamberlain, a groom of the chamber.

> Pwy gyd a mi? Pwy! A dau neu dri o'r ystafellyddion a edrychynt arno.
>
> Who along with me? Who? And two or three of the chamberlains looked at him. 2 Brenhinoedd 9. 32.

Ystafellyddes, s. f.—pl. t. au (ystafellydd) A chambermaid.

Ystafellyddiaeth, s. m. (ystafell) Chamberlainship

Ystagiad, s. m. (tagiad) A causing a choaking.

Ystagu, v. a. (tagu) To suffocate, to choak.

Ystain, s. m. (tain) That spreads or expands.

Ystal, s. f.—pl. t. on (yst--al) A stock or produce, a stall; a frame on stone pillars for corn ricks.

> Aeth i'r cor ystor ac ystal oesoedd,
> Gwaed tywysawg Mathrafal.
>
> Gone to the circle is the treasure and the stock of ages, the blood of the prince of Mathraval. W. Cynwal.
>
> Ffynnodd, estynodd ystal;
> Fynnu'n Nhywyn a Phenal.
>
> He prospered, he extended a stock; prospering in Tywyn and Penal. Simwnt Fychan.

Ystaliad, s. m. (ystal) A producing a stock.

Ystalm, s. m. (talm) A determined space; a good while, a good space.

Ystalmiad, s. m. (ystalm) A forming a determined space; a determining.

Ystalmu, v. a. (ystalm) To form a determined space; to form a conclusion; to determine.

Ystalu, v. a. (ystal) To form a stock; to obtain produce.

Ystalw, a. (ystal) Being made productive.

Ystalwyn, s. m.—pl. t. i (ystalw) A stallion.

> Gwerth ystalwyn grewys a allo doi, a chaseg rewys o'i flaen ac arall yn ei ol.
>
> The value of a stallion is a stud that he can cover, with a breed mare before him and another behind him. Welsh Laws.

Ystalwynaidd, a. (ystalwyn) Like a stallion.

Ystan, s. f. (tan) That is spread or laid out.

> Eisteidd 'n un ystan anwyd,
> Trin fydd cyn y toron' fwyd.
>
> Sitting in one spread of coldness, a broil there will be before they carve any victuals. S. ab Hywel Gwyn.

Ystanc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (yst—anc) That is strait; that confines; a pile; a holdfast; a bracket; a wooden hook nailed to a wall. Ystanc ceffyl, a horse block; ystanc i wastatau sarn, a pile in the ground to keep up a causeway.

Ystanciad, s. m. (ystanc) A piling; a propping; a bracketing.

Ystanciaw, v. a. (ystanc) To pile; to prop; to pin; to bracket.

Ystang, s. m.—pl. t. au (yst—ang) That is strait; that straitens or bounds; a stang or perch, used as a measure; in some parts of South Wales it is 18 feet; in others 21 feet; and it is also a square measure: in Cardiganshire it is 160 square rods 13½ feet each: in Pembrokeshire it is a quarter of a Welsh acre, and contains 160 yards by 16 yards.

> A'i ystang a wnaeth angau.
>
> And his space has death accomplished. D. Nanmor.

Ystangiad, s. m. (ystang) A straitening, a fastening; a limiting; a measuring the space of an ystang.

Ystangu, v. a. (ystang) To straiten, to pin; to limit; to measure out the space of an ystang.

Ystarn, s. m.—pl. t. au (tarn) Saddle; a pack-saddle.

> Gweddu, mal ystarn ar gefn hwch.
>
> Fitting, like a saddle on the back of a sow. Adage.

Ystarnawg, a. (ystarn) Having a saddle.

Ystarniad, s. m. (ystarn) A saddling.

Ystarnu, v. a. (ystarn) To saddle; to put on a packsaddle.

Y brawdwr llys a ddyly, y gan y pengwastrawd, ddiwallu ei farch o'r hoel gyntaf hyd y ddiweddaf; ac ei ystarnu, ac ei ddwyn iddo ac ei ystarn arno, pan farchoco.

The judge of the palace ought to have, from the chief groom, his horse made complete, from the first nail to the last; and to have the saddle put on, and brought to him with the saddle on, when he rides. Welsh Laws.

Ystarnwr, s. m. (ystarn—gwr) A saddler.

Ystaw, s. m. (taw) That is silent or calm.

Ystawd, s. f.—pl. ystodion (tawd) A course, a race; a layer; a swath of hay or corn, laid with a scythe. Ystawd anian, course of nature.

Mae efe wedi terfynu—y dygwyddiadau anghyffredin sydd yn damwain yn ystawd rhagluniaeth.

He has determined the uncommon accidents that happen in the course of providence. Ier. Owain.

Ystawf, s. m.—pl. ystofion (tawf) That is regulated or ranged; a warp, in weaving.

Ystawiad, s. m. (ystaw) A rendering silent.

Ystawl, s. f.—pl. ystolion (tawl) A stool. Ystawl fair, the lesser centory.

Ystawl, dwy geiniawg a dâl.

A stool, its value is two pence. Welsh Laws.

Ystawr, s. f.—pl. ystorau (tawr) What covers; any resin; rosin.

Eu gwynfyd yw cyfoeth, dyb annoeth bob awr
Hyd elawr, wan ystawr, yn wastad.——

Their happiness is wealth, a foolish notion, continually to the bier, a frail covering. D. Williams.

Ystefaig, s. f. (ystaf) The roof of the mouth.

Ysteiniad, s. m. (ystain) A causing a spread.

Ysteiniaw, v. a. (ystain) To cause to spread.

Ystel, s. m.—pl. t. ion (tel) That stretches.

Ystelc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (telc) That is shrinking; a lurk; a loiter.

Ystelciad, s. m. (ystelc) A causing a shrinking; a lurking; a loitering.

Ystelcian, v. a. (ystelc) To go in a shrinking manner; to lurk about; to loiter.

Ystelciaw, v. a. (ystelc) To go shrinkingly; to lurk; to loiter.

Ystelciwr, s. m.—pl. ystelciwyr (ystelc—gwr) A lurker; a loiterer.

Ystelff, s. m.—pl. t. od (ystel) That is rigid; a blockhead.

Ystelffiad, s. m. (ystelff) A rendering rigid.

Ystelffu, v. a. (ystelff) To render rigid or stiff.

Ysteliad, s. m. (ystel) A stretching, a causing a spring or elasticity.

Ysteliaw, v. a. (ystel) To stretch, to spring.

Yn Mynyw wên y mae'n wir;
Dros dwy-wlad yr ystelir.

In fair Mynyw it is in truth! over two countries it will be made to extend. L. G. Cothi.

Ystelyw, s. m. (ystel) That is stretched out.

Ystem, s. f. (tem) That forms a round spread; a base, a stem.

Yster, s. m.—pl. t. ion (ter) That is ardent.

Ysteraig, a. (yster) Apt to produce ardency.

Hwerthiniawg tu craig
Per nid ysteraig.

Abounding with broken sound by the side of a rock the pear tree is not of an ardent quality. Taliesin, Cad Goddeu.

Ysterc, s. f.—pl. t. iau (terc) That makes a jerk.

Ysterciad, s. m. (ysterc) A making a jerk.

Ystercian, v. a. (ysterc) To be jerking out.

Ysterciaw, v. a. (ysterc) To jerk, throw, or mount up, as a football.

Ysteriad, s. m. (yster) A rendering ardent.

Ysterlewyn, s. m. (yster—llewyn) A meteor.

Ystern, s. m.—pl. ystyrn (tern) That produces ardency or motion; that is sharp or active. a. of an active or sharp tendency.

Gogwn attrefnawr
Rhwng nef a llawr——
Cwrw pan yw ystern;
Pan yw lledrudd gwern.

I know the regulation between heaven and earth: or ale why it is of an active quality; the alder why it is of a purplish hue. Taliesin.

Hwn yw yr ail praw, ciniaw cam,
Oer ei 'styrn, a roist arnam.

This is the second taste, an adverse mess of cold impulses, which thou hast set upon us. Rhys Goch Eryri.

Ysteru, v. a. (yster) To render ardent or vivid.

Ystid, s. f.—pl. t. au (tid) That forms a wreath.

Ystid goch, ys da dy gof.

A red wreath, thy memory is good. D. ab Gwilym, i geineth.

Ystidaw, v. a. (ystid) To form a chain.

Ystidiad, s. m (ystid) A rig-ma-roll.

Ystig, a. (yst) Assiduous, persevering.

Ystyr, nad da yn ystig
I ddyn ei dda a'i Dduw yn ddig.

Consider that man's wealth is not uninterruptedly good should his God be displeased. Dr. S. Cent.

Ystigaw, v. a. (ystig) To act with assiduity, to persevere; to become assiduous.

Ystigiad, s. m. (ystig) A persevering; a becoming assiduous; a sticking close to work.

Ystigrwydd, s. m. (ystig) Perseverance, assiduity, diligence, close application.

Ystigl, s. f. (ystig) A stile. Ceredigion.

Ystin, a. (yst) Of a tendency to be or to act.

Ystinos, s. m. (ystin) The asbestos.

Yn y gwregys—aur melyn——
A gais dyn ac ystinos.

In the girdle, yellow gold will a person seek, and asbestos. R. Goch, Eryri.

Ystle, s. m. (ystyl) That is impulsive; that is extreme; a flight or retreat; kindred.

Caranmael, cymhwy arnad,
Alwen dy ystle o gad;
Gnawd man ar ran cynniflad.

Caranmael, there being a constraint on thee, Alwen thy retreat from battle; a mark is natural on the brow of a combatant. Llywarch Hen.

All dydd brawd, braw ystawd ystle.

Like the day of judgement, terrific the course of retreat. Gwalchmai.

Ystlen, s. f.—pl. t. i (yst—llen) A sex, a kind.

Cyfrwng dros ofunedawl wreigiawl ystlen.

Intercede for the devout female sex. Dafydd Ddu, o Hiraddug.

Ystlenaidd, a. (ystlen) Sexual; kindred.

Ystlenawl, a. (ystlen) Sexual; kindred.

Ystlom, s. m. (ystyl—om) Excrement, ordure.

Ystlomi, v. a. (ystlom) To void excrement.

Ystlomiad, s. m. (ystlom) A voiding excrement.

Ystlwn, s. m. (yst—llwn) Connection: kindred.

Ystlwyd, s. m. (yst—llwyd) Grey or hoary.

Ystlwyn, s. m. (yst—llwyn) A luxuriant grove.

Aml yn rhial yr wyd
Tu a'r ystlwyn tir ystlwyd.

Often of superior quality thou art towards the lively grove of land of dusky growth. Ieuan Tew.

Ystlym, s. m.—pl. t. od (yst—llym) A bat.

Nid diffaith ond ystlym.

There is nothing so filthy as a bat. Adage.

Ystlynawl, a. (ystlwn) Connected; related.

Ystlyned, s. f. (ystlwn) That is connected, associated, or in communion.

Ac ym Rhen gwyn gwan ystlyned wyf fi.——

And to my blessed Creator a feeble communicant am I. Einion ab Gwalchmai.

Ystlynedd, s. f. (ystlwn) Connection, kindred.

Ni bu oesdlawd beirdd o'i ystlynedd.

Bards have not been of needy life from his connexion. Gr. ab Gwrgenau.

Ystlyniad, s. m. (ystlwn) A forming a society; a forming a relationship.

Ystlynu, v. a. (ystlwn) To associate; to form a connection, or kindred.

Ystlys, s. f.—pl. t. au (ystyl) A side, a flank.

> Cadarn a chreulawn oeddynt oc y ddwy ystlys; ond ar y diwedd Iestyn a gafai y fuddygoliaeth.
>
> Mighty and furious were they of the two sides; but at length Iestyn obtained the victory. Caradawg o Langarfan.

Ystlysawl, a. (ystlys) Lateral, or sided.

Ystlysbost, s. m. (ystlys—post) A side-post.

Ystlysdid, s. f.—pl. t. au (ystlys—tid) A side chain, the trace of draught harness.

Ystlysgam, a. (ystlys—cam) Lob-sided.

Ystlysgamiad, s. m. (ystlysgam) A bending laterally; a rendering lob-sided.

Ystlysgamu, v. a. (ystlysgam) To be lob-sided.

Ystlysgell, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (ystlys—cell) A side-chamber, a cell.

Ystlysgerdded, v. a. (ystlys—cerdded) To walk by the side; to walk sideways.

> Mae yn ystlysgerdded a gwirionedd.
>
> It is going parallel with truth. Adage.

Ystlysglawdd, s. m.—pl. ystlysgloddiau (ystlys—clawdd) A flanker, in fortification.

Ystlysiad, s. m. (ystlys) A forming a side; a rendering lateral; a sideling.

Ystlysu, v. a. (ystlys) To tend to one side.

Ystlyswaith, s. m. (ystlys—gwaith) A lateral work, a work that flanks.

Ystodi, v. a. (ystawd) To dispose a course, range, or layer; to form a swath.

Ystodiad, s. m. (ystawd) A disposing a course, a ranging; a forming layers or swaths.

Ystofawl, a. (ystawf) Tending to regulate or dispose in order; warping.

Ystofen, s. f. dim. (ystof) A warping tray.

Ystofi, v. a. (ystof) To regulate, to dispose; to warp thread or yarn for weaving; it is also called dylifaw. Ystofi y gwaith, to regulate the work.

> Arwr bar taerfar yn tori cadau,
> Cadarn-frwydr ystofi.
>
> A hero with an ardently wrathful spear breaking through battles, disposing a mighty conflict. Llygad Gwr, i Lywelyn III.

Ystofiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystawf) A regulating, a disposing; a warping.

Ystofiawd, s. m. (ystawf) Regulation, disposition; the act of warping yarn.

Ystofiawdr, s. m.—pl. ystofiodron (ystofiawd) A regulator; a warper.

> Ystofiawdr gwydd yn difai.
>
> The combiner of wood that is faultless. D. ab Gwilym, i hel fedw.

Ystofwr, s. m.—pl. ystofwyr (ystawf—gwr) One who regulates or puts in order; a warper.

Ystol, s. f.—pl. t. ion (tol) That involves; that covers or includes.

Ystola, s. f. (ystol) A scarf, an ephod; a wrapper, a loose gown, a stole.

> Gwelynt wr ieuanc yn eistedd ar y tu deau; wedi rhy wisgaw mewn ystola gannaid.
>
> They beheld a young man sitting on the right side, being clad in a shining vest. W. Salisbury.

Ystolc, s. m.—pl. t. ian (tolc) That is hollow or indented by pressure.

Ystolciad, s. m. (ystolc) A forming a hollow or indenting by punching; a butting.

Ystolcian, v. a. (ystolc) To butt repeatedly.

Ystolciaw, v. a. (ystolc) To make a depression or indenting by butting.

Ystor, s. m.—pl. t. au (tor) That forms a bulk or heap; a store.

Ystorad, s. m. (ystawr) A forming of resin.

Ystoraeth, s. f. (toraeth) That is a produce; that is productive or plentiful; a store.

Ystoraidd, a. (ystawr) Resinous, or like resin.

Ystorawl, a. (ystawr) Resinacious, resinous.

Ystordy, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystor—ty) A storehouse

Ystordyn, s. m. dim. (tor—tyn) A trigger in bowling; a mark to jump from.

Ystoreithiad, s. m. (ystoraeth) A rendering productive; a forming a store.

Ystoreithiaw, v. a. (ystoraeth) To render productive or yielding; to form a store.

Ystori, v. a. (ystawr) To cover with resin; to do with rosin.

Ystoriad, s. m. (ystor) A forming a store.

Ystoriaw, v. a. (ystor) To treasure up, to store.

> Y doethion a ystoriant wybodaeth.
>
> The wise men do treasure up knowledge. Diarhebion 10. 14.

Ystorm, s. f.—pl. t. ydd (torm) A tempest, a storm

> Ystorm o fynwes dwyrain.
>
> A storm from the bosom of the east. D. ab Gwilym.
>
> Bloedd a estynit——
> Ystyrmant yr ystormedd.
>
> A shout thou wouldest give, thou trumpet of the storms. M. ab Rhys, i'r gwynt.

Ystormawl, a. (ystorm) Stormy, tempestuous.

Ystormiad, s. m. (ystorm) A raising a storm.

Ystormiaw, v. a. (ystorm) To raise a storm.

Ystormus, a. (ystorm) Stormy, tempestuous.

Ystorwr, s. m.—pl. ystorwyr (ystor—gwr) A warehouseman.

Ystrad, s. m.—pl. t. au (trad) A flat, a vale, a bottom, or valley, formed by the course of a river. It forms the names of many places in Wales; as Ystrad Yw, Ystrad Tywi, and the like.

> Llas dau gymynawg am gymynad Eingl,
> Am Degeingl, deg ystrad.
>
> Two hewers were slain in hewing of the Angles, about Tegeingyl, a pleasant vale. Cynddelw.

Ystradaidd, a. (ystrad) Like a vale or dale.

Ystradawl, a. (ystrad) Belonging to a vale.

Ystraff, s. f. (traff) That stirs about or strews.

Ystraffawl, a. (ystraff) Strewing; wasteful.

Ystraffiad, s. m. (ystraff) A strewing; a wasting.

Ystraffu, v. a. (ystraff) To strew, to lavish.

Ystraffwr, s. m.—pl. ystraffwyr (ystraff—gwr) A strewer, a lavisher, a waster.

Ystraig, s. m.—pl. ystreigiau (traig) A buckle.

Ystraigl, s. m.—pl. ystreiglion (traigl) A turn.

Ystraill, s. m.—pl. ystreillion (traill) That is drawn, trailed, or turned over; a mat.

Ystrain, s. f. (train) A tribe; a crew, a breed. Gochel yr ystrain, beware of the breed.

Ystram, s. f.—pl. ystremydd (tram) A frame. Ystram y drws, the door-frame; ystram y ffenestr, the window-frame.

Ystranc, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tranc) A trick, a wile.

Ystranciad, s. m. (ystranc) A playing tricks.

Ystranciaw, v. a. (ystranc) To play tricks, to quirk. March yn ystranciaw, a horse shewing vicious tricks.

Ystranciawl, a. (ystranc) Apt to play tricks.

Ystrancus, a. (ystranc) Apt to play tricks.

Ystraul, s. f. (traul) That is diminished.

Ystraw, s. m.—pl. t. on (traw) That is progressive; that is advanced or matured.

> Arglwydd o'r nen pen pob ystraw;
> Arglwydd pob maendy a'i rym y daw.
>
> The Lord from above is the head of every contingency: the lord of every house of stone his energy is to come to silence. Llywarch Offeiriad, m. Llywelyn III.

Ystrawd, s. m.—pl. ystrodion (trawd) That makes a course or transit.

> Beirdd llafar——
> Eu gwawd ni'm gre,
> Ar ystrawd, ar ystre.
>
> The fluent bards, their praise will not bring me to associate, nor on a course, nor on a station. Taliesin.

Ystrawiad, s. m. (ystraw) An advancing.

Ystrawu, v. a. (ystraw) To advance; to educate.

Ystre, s. f.—pl. t. on (yst—rhe) A course.

Cynnif aber rhag ystre.

The tumult of a conflux before the course. Aneurin.

Cynneddf i Owain esgynu ar ystre.

The disposition of Owain is to mount upon the course. Aneurin.

Oedd ddinas ar ystre.

He was a bulwark on the course. Llywarch Hen.

Pan wisg glew yr ystre.

When a hero arrays the course. Llywarch Hen.

Caeroedd Gwenlliant, gwyn llywe se
Caradwy lywy lewych ystre.

The ramparts of Gwenlliant, fair as the sparkling of stars, the lovely fair one the splendor of the course. Ll. P. Moch.

Dy fedd a'th reuedd a ddoeth reni,
Difuddiawg farchawg feirch ystry.

Thy mead and thy wealth thou wilt wisely distribute, thou disinterested rider of the steeds of the courses. D. Benfras, i Lywelyn III.

Ystred, s. f.—pl. t. i (tred) A village. Daethost trwy yr ystredi, thou hast come through the villages, said to a drunken person. Sil.

Ystref, s. f.—pl. t. i (tref) That forms a dwelling.

Ystrefiad, s. m. (ystref) A forming a dwelling.

Ystrefu, v. a. (ystref) To form a dwelling.

Ystreiglaw, v. a. (ystraigl) To turn; to roll.

Ystreigliad, s. m. (ystraigl) A turning.

Ystreillach, s. m. (ystraill) A trundling along. Mi af dinben ystreillach, I will go topsy-turvy.

Ystreilliad, s. m. (ystraill) A trundling along.

Ystreilliaw, v. a. (ystraill) To trundle along.

Ystrem, s. m. (trem) That forms a scene; that is exhibited or displayed. Geiriau ystrem, magical words.

Ystremiad, s. m. (ystrem) A forming a scene.

Ystremiaw, v. a. (ystrem) To form a scene.

Ystremp, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ystrem) A dash, a stroke; a trick, a charm, witchery.

Ystrempiad, s. m. (ystremp) A dashing; a tricking; a charming, a bewitching.

Ystrempiaw, v. a. (ystremp) To dash; to stroke; to trick; to charm; to bewitch.

Ystrempiawl, a. (ystremp) Dashing; charming.

Ystrempiwr, s. m.—pl. ystrempiwyr (ystremp—gwr) A tricker; a bewitcher.

Ystres, s. f.—pl. t. i (tres) That forms a wreath.

Y Neidr——
Ystres fraith astres frathau.

The snake, a variegated chain of afflicting bites. Ieuan Gethin.

Ystresawl, a. (ystres) Forming a wreath.

Ystresiad, s. m. (ystres) A forming a wreath.

Ystresu, v. a. (ystres) To form a wreath or chain.

Ystrew, s. m.—pl. t. au (trew) A sneeze.

Ystrewi, v. a. (ystrew) To sneeze, to sternutate.

Ystrewiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystrew) A sneezing.

Ystrewlwch, s. m. (ystrew—llwch) Snuff.

Ystrewlys, s. m. aggr. (ystrew—llys) Sneezewort, tansy; water tansy.

Ystrin, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (trin) That causes strife or bustle. v. a. To cause strife.

Gwae elynion, blinion blaid,
Ac ystrin gwae estroniaid.

Woe to foes, a vexatious crew, and to cause a strife woe to strangers. T. Prys, i gleddyf.

Ystrodur, s. f.—pl. t. iau (ystrawd) The framework of a saddle or of a packsaddle; a packsaddle; the saddle of draught harness.

Ystrodwm, s. m. (ystrawd) A roundabout.

Ystrwy, s. m. (trwy) That passes through.

Ystrwyad, s. m. (ystrwy) A forming a passage.

Ystrwyaw, v. a. (ystrwy) To form a pass through

Ystrwyth, s. m. (trwyth) That is pervasive.

Ystrwythaw, v. a. (ystrwyth) To saturate.

Ystrwythiad, s. m. (ystrwyth) A saturation.

Ystrych, s. m. (trych) That forms an opening.

Ystrychawl, a. (ystrych) Having a scope.

Ystrychiad, s. m. (ystrych) A forming a scope.

Ystrychu, v. a. (ystrych) To form a scope.

Ystryd, s. f.—pl. t. oedd (tryd) That is trodden or travelled; a street.

Ystryd anhyfryd yw hon,
Is daiar aent westeion!

An unpleasant way is this, under ground sojourners go! D. ab Ieuan Ddu.

Ystrydawl, a. (ystryd) Belonging to a street.

Ystrydeb, s. m. (ys—try—teb) Stereotype.

Ystrydebu, v. a. (ystrydeb) To stereotype.

Ystrym, s. m.—pl. t. oedd (trym) A main stream, a current, a channel; also called rhin.

Ystrym yw y Meistr Edmwnt,
A yr y morwyr o'r mwnt.

Master Edmund is a stream that will drive the sailors from the mount. Gwilym Tew.

Ystryw, s. f.—pl. t. iau (tryw) Penetration, subtilty; finesse, craftiness, stratagem, devise; a trick. Mae efe yn llawn o ystrywiau drwg, he is full of bad tricks.

Y sawl ni rodia dedwydd yw
Yn ol drwg ystryw gynghor.

Happy is such as walks not according to the counsel of bad device. Edm. Prys, Psalm 1.

Ystrywgar, a. (ystryw) Subtile; full of finesse, devises, or tricks; wily.

Nid ystrywgar ond ysgyfarnawg.

There is nothing so apt to use quirks as a hare. Adage.

Ystrywgarwch, s. m. (ystrywgar) Craftiness.

Ystrywiad, s. m. (ystryw) A devising schemes.

Ystrywiaeth, s. m. (ystryw) A using subtilty; a using finesse or stratagem; a plotting; a devising or imagining.

Ystrywiaw, v. a. (ystryw) To act with craft or cunning; to devise, to invent.

Yn Aber Ystwyth yn ystrywiaw gwyth,
Gwaith Faddon ymddulliaw,
Gwasgarai bawb rhagddaw.

In Aber Ystwyth devising wrath, appearing as in the battle of Badon, every body would disperse before him. Cynddelw, i H. ab Owain.

Ystrywiawg, a. (ystryw) Full of craftiness.

Y ddwyblaid——
Os drwg un, ystrywiawg wall,
Draw o'i gyrhaedd, drwg arall.

Both parties, if bad the one, of crafty failing, yonder out of his reach, bad is the other. H. D. ab Ifan.

Ystrywiawl, a. (ystryw) Plotting, devising.

Ystrywus, a. (ystryw) Crafty, wily, cunning.

Ystum, s. m.—pl. t. iau (tum) A shape, form, gait, or fashion; turn, bend, or curve. Garw dy ystumiau di, strange are thy looks; derbyn ystum, to receive a turn, a term in coursing.

Ffown yn gadno,
Cydnaid ystumiau;
Ffown yn felau,
Mal na thyciwys.

I fled as a reynard, of even-paced turns: I fled a marten, so that it availed not. Taliesin.

Ystumgar, a. (ystum) Flexible; well-formed.

Ystumgarwch, s. m. (ystumgar) Flexibleness.

Ystumiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystum) A giving a shape, form, or fashion; sinuation.

Ystumiaw, v. a. (ystum) To form, to shape, to mould, to fashion; to bend.

Ystumiawg, a. (ystum) Having a form, shape or mould; having a bend.

Ystumiawl, a. (ystum) Tending to form or to fashion; pliable, sinuous.

Ystumiwr, s. m.—pl. ystumiwyr (ystum—gwr) One who assumes shapes.

Ystun, s. m. (tun) That is irritating.

Ystunad, s. m. (ystun) Instigation, irritation.

Ystunaw, v. a. (ystun) To instigate, to irritate.

Mae anadliad cythreuliaid yn ystunaw llygredigaethau meddwl dyn a chynhyrfu angerddawl annhwyll, chwantau, a chyfeilioni.

The breath of devils is irritating the corruptions of the mind of man with vehement impulses of madness, lusts, and excess. C. Edwards, H. y Ffydd.

Ystunawl, a. (ystun) Instigating, irritating.

Ystwc, s. m.—pl. ystyciau (twc) A shallow wooden vessel, a pail, a bucket, also a shock of corn

Ystwff, s. m. (twff) That forms a lift, or rise.

Ystwffwl, s.m.—pl. ystyffylau (ystwf) That keeps up or suspends; a log, a stock; a holdfast; a staple; the knocker of a door.

Yr ystwffwl hwn a'r hwn draw,
Mwy gorddyfnasai am danaw
Elwch llu, a llwybr anaw.

The stock that is here, and this one there, more congenial round them would have been the triumph of a host, and the path of melody. Llywarch Hen.

Ystwng, s.m. (twng) A putting down; a depression. v. a. To put down; to depress.

Yr un fab ym rhwyf ry gwnaeth ystwng
Ar ei estronion, ys drud echwng.

The only son of my lord completely caused a depression on those estranged to him, an awful event. E. ab Madawg Rhaawd.

Ystwr, s. m. (twr) That makes a rising; a stir.

Lleia' 'stwr, fal llais 'deryn,
Awr dost, gwna flinder i'r dyn.

The least noise, as the note of a bird, on a painful moment, causes trouble to a man. L. Hopcin.

Ystwriad, s. m. (ystwr) A making a bustle.

Ystwriaw, v. a. (ystwr) To make a bustle or stir.

Ystwy, s. m. (twy) That causes a stop, a check.

Ystwyad, s. m. (ystwy) A checking, a curbing.

Ystwyal, s. f.—pl. ystwyail (ystwy) A cudgel.

Ystwyaliad, s. m. (ystwyal) A cudgelling.

Ystwyalu, v. a. (ystwyal) To cudgel.

Ystwyaw, v. a. (ystwy) To check, to restrain.

Ystwyawl, a. (ystwy) Checking, restraining.

Ystwyll, s. m.—pl. t. au (yst—gwyll) That exists in the gloom; an epithet for the star of the Epiphany; the Epiphany. Dydd ystwyll, twelfth day

Ystwyr, s. m. (twyr) That is agitated; that is stretched out.

Ystwyrain, v. a. (ystwyr) To cause a continual agitation; to be stretching.

Ystwyraw, v. a. (ystwyr) To agitate; to stretch out as to recover from lassitude.

Ystwyrawl, a. (ystwyr) Apt to be agitated; stretching as recovering from lassitude.

Ystwyrgam, a. (ystwyr—cam) Obliquely stretched

Ystwyriad, s. m. (ystwyr) A rendering agitated; a stretching out.

Ystwyth, a. (twyth) That is springing; flexible, pliant, supple, limber.

Ystwythad, s. m. (ystwyth) A making pliant.

Ystwythaidd, a. (ystwyth) Apt to be pliant.

Ystwythaw, v. a. (ystwyth) To render elastic; to render flexible or supple; to become elastic; to grow flexible or pliant.

Ystwythawl, a. (ystwyth) Of a pliant nature.

Ystwythder, s. m. (ystwyth) Elasticity; flexibleness, suppleness, pliancy.

Ystwythdra, s. m. (ystwyth) Elasticity, pliancy.

Ystwythedig, a. (ystwythad) Being made pliant.

Ystwythedd, s.m. (ystwyth) Elasticity; pliancy.

Ystwythiad, s. m. (ystwyth) A rendering pliant, flexible or elastic.

Ystwytholdeb, s. m. (ystwythawl) Pliancy.

Ystwythwr, s. m.—pl. ystwythwyr (ystwyth—gwr) One who makes pliant or elastic.

Ystycaid, s. m.—pl. ystyceidiau (ystwc) A pailful.

Ystycyll, s. m. (ystwc) A signal of safety.

Y ceiliawg du——
Ystycyll yn cynnull cad.

The black cock, a signal collecting a host. D. ab Gwilym.

Ystyffernach, s. pl. aggr. (ystwff—arn) Utensils.

Ystyffylawg, a. (ystwffwl) Having stocks; stapled. Cist ystyffylawg, a stock chest; a great chest with a raised lid, hutch, or bin, that has pedestals.

Ystyffylgi, s. m. (ystwffwl—ci) A dog with a log fastened to him.

Ystyffyliad, s. m. (ystwffwl) A stocking or logging; a suspending by a staple.

Ystyffylu, v. a. (ystwffwl) To prop with a stock or log; to fasten with a staple.

Ystyl, s. m. (yst—yl) A cause of activity.

Ystyr, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yst—yr) That gives existence, form, or figure; that gives similarity; sense, meaning. adv. As may be deemed.

Tri chyferlynlaid doethineb: awen, ystyr, ac ymgais.

The three concomitants of wisdom: genius, study, and exertion. Catwg ab Gwynlliw.

Ystyrbell, a. (ystyr—pell) Of profound import.

Tri pheth blodeuawg ar gerdd: ystyrbell iaith, a goleuber synwyr, a chywrain gelfyddyd.

Three things that are florid in song: profoundly contrived language, and sweetly lucid idea, and accurate art. Barddas.

Ystyrbwyll, a. (ystyr—pwyll) Of important consideration or meaning.

Ystyredig, a. (ystyr) Being considered or studied.

Arglwydd, gwrandaw fy ngweddi yn rhwydd,
Bid dy glustiau yn ystyredigion!

Lord, hearken kindly to my prayer, be thine ears attentive ones! Daf. Ddu, o Hiraddug.

Ystyrgar, a. (ystyr) Apt to reflect, considerate.

Nid ystyrgar ond awenawl.

There is none so apt to consider as the ingenious. Adage.

Ystyriaeth, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystyr) Reflection.

Tri chynfodolion doethineb; deall, ystyriaeth, ac addysg.

The three originations of wisdom; understanding, reflection, and instruction. Catwg Ddoeth.

Tad doethineb yw cof, a'i fam yw ystyriaeth.

The father of wisdom is memory, and his mother is reflection. Adage.

Ystyriaethawl, a. (ystyriaeth) Having consideration or reflection.

Ystyriaethiad, s. m. (ystyriaeth) A using consideration or reflection.

Ystyriaethu, v. a. (ystyriaeth) To use consideration, to use reflection.

Ystyriannawl, a. (ystyriant) Considerate.

Ystyriannu, v. a. (ystyriant) To use consideration

Ystyriant, s. m. (ystyr) Consideration.

Ystyriaw, v. a. (ystyr) To consider; to regard, to take notice.

Cyfarchaf ym Rhen,
Ystyriaw awen,
Py ddyddwg angen,
Cyn no Chyridwen.

I will enquire of my Creator, musing upon intellect, who underwent the state of necessity, before Cyridwen. Taliesin.

Ystyriawg, a. (ystyr) Having consideration.

Ystyriawl, a. (ystyr) Considerate; sentimental.

Ystyried, v. a. (ystyr) To consider, to reflect.

Tri pheth a ddyly dyn ei ystyried; o ba le y daeth, yn mha le y mae, ac i ba le yr el.

Three things ought a man to consider; from what place he has come, in what place he is, and to what place he goes. Trioedd Mor.

Ystyriedig, a. (ystyr) Considered, studied.

Ystyriedigaeth, s. m. (ystyriedig) Consideration.

Ystyrioldeb, s. m. (ystyriawl) Considerateness.

Ystyrioli, v. a. (ystyriawl) To render considerate; to become considerate.

Ystyriwr, s. m.—pl. ystyriwyr (ystyr—gwr) One who considers or reflects, a studier.

Ystyrmant, s. m.—pl. t. au (ystyr—mant) A jaws-harp.

Y gwynt——
Ystyrmant yr ystormydd.

The wind, the trump of the storms. D. ab Gwilym.

Ystyw, s. m. (tyw) That spreads out or about; a settlement.

Ystywaws, s. f. (ystyw) Stays, a pair of stays.

Dwy ystywaws pedair ceiniawg a dalant.

Two stays fourpence are they worth. Welsh Laws.

Ystywan, s. m. (ystyw) A settling, a flattening.

Ystywaniad, s. m. (ystywan) A settling; a slapping.

Ystywanu, v. a. (ystywan) To settle; to belabour.

Ystywell, a. (ystyw) Stedfast; manageable.

Baglan bren, bid ystywell,
A'm cynnelych a fo gwell.

Wooden crook, be steady that thou mayest support me the better. Llywarch Hen.

Ystywelliad, s. m. (ystywell) A making stedfast.

Ystywellu, v. a. (ystywell) To make steady.

Ysu, v. a. (ys) To hanker, to itch: to corrode; to consume, to devour, to eat. Mae fy nyrnau yn ysu am dy daraw, my fists are itching for striking thee.

Ni ddyly drwg foly namyn drwg ysu.

A bad stomach ought but to devour badly. Adage.

Yswad, s. (gwâd) A throwing down, a falling flatly

Yswadan, s. m.—pl. t. au (yswad) A stroke, a slap.

Yswaetheroedd, adv. (ys—gwaeth—er—oedd) It is worse for what was, the more the pity.

Yswail, s. m.—pl. ysweilion (yswail) That ejects; that is thrown out, ejected, or wasted.

Yswain, s. m.—pl. ysweinoedd (gwain) An esquire; an armour-bearer.

Yswain aur-adain ydyw.

A golden-winged page is he. Sypyn Cyfeilliawg.

A'th yswain a'th lain o'th flaen.

And thy esquire with thy blade before thee. Iolo Goch.

Yswatiad, s. m. (yswad) A squatting down.

Yswatiaw, v. a. (yswad) To squat, to lie flat.

Yswatiwr, s. m.—pl. yswatiwyr (yswatiaw—gwr) A squatter.

Yswbwb, s. m. (wbwb) A tossing about; a hubbub. interj. Confusion!

Yswbwb! bobl ansyberw ydych:
Mi a adwaen eich arfer.

Confusion! a pack of ignoble people ye are: I know your custom. D. ab Gwilym.

Yswbwbiad, s. m. (yswbwb) A tossing about; a rumpling.

Yswbwbiaw, v. a. (yswbwb) To toss about, to tumble about; to rumple.

Yswbwbiwr, s. m.—pl. yswbwbiwyr (yswbwb—gwr) One who tosses about, a rumpler.

Ysweiliad, s. m. (yswail) An ejecting, or casting out; a wasting; a brawling.

Ysweiliaw, v. a. (yswail) To eject, to cast out; to waste; to bicker.

Ysweilydd, s. m.—pl. t. ion (yswail) One who ejects or casts out; a brawler.

Ysweiniad, s. m.—pl. ysweiniaid (yswain) An esquire, an armour-bearer; a page.

Myned a orugynt ar eu traed, a gadaw eu meirch gan eu hysweiniaid; a gadu Arthur yn eu blaen a orugynt.

Go they did on their feet, and leave their horses with their pages; and letting Arthur to be before them was what they did. Gr. ab Arthur.

Yswid, s. m. (gwid) That makes a quick turn.

Yswidw, s. f. dim. (yswid) That is made to twirl or hop about; the titmouse.

Yswigw, s. f. dim. (gwig) A titmouse; also called yswidw, and sywidw.

A'r yswigw ar seigiad.

And the titmouse on a banquet. Phylip Emlyn.

Yswil, a. (gwil) Bashful, abashed; timid.

Yswilder, s. m. (yswil) Bashfulness, timidity.

Yswildra, s. m. (yswil) Bashfulness, timidity.

Yswiliad, s. m. (yswil) An abashing.

Yswiliaw, v. a. (yswil) To induce bashfulness; to be abashed.

Yswitiad, s. m.—pl. t. au (yswid) A chirping.

Yswitian, v. a. (yswid) To chirp, to make a small noise.

Yswitiaw, v. a. (yswid) To chirp, to twitter.

Yswr, s. m.—pl. yswyr (ysu—gwr) A consumer.

Yswydden, s. f. (gwydden) A privet tree.

Yswymbren, s. m.—pl. t. i (gwym—pren) A quiver for arrows.

Ysŵyr, s. m. (gŵyr) That dawns; the east.

Ysŵyrain, a. (ysŵyr) Eastern or oriental.

Yswyth, s. m. (gwyth) That pervades; that aches.

Yswythbysg, s. pl. aggr. (yswyth—pysg) The cramp-ray, the torpedo.

Ysyn, s. m. dim. (ys) That is all in agitation.

Mae wedi myned yn ysyn gwyllt.

He is become a wild firebrand. Adage.

Ysywaeth, adv. (y—sy—gwaeth) That is the worse, the more the pity.

Yta, v. a. (yd) To collect corn; to beg for corn.

Ytoedd, v. (m. of ydoedd) That was, was, were; she, it, was or were. Pan ytoeddwn, when I was.

Ytyw, v. (m. of ydyw) That is, is; he is, she is, it is.

YTH, s. m. r. That tends to stretch out or to be continuous.

Yw, v. (yw, s.) Is; be; it is. Pwy yw? Who is it?

Angen rhyw angen yw.

Want of kind is want indeed. Adage.

YW, s. m. r.—pl. t. ydd. That exists; yew tree.

Bangor Esgor, a Bangeibr Henllan,
Ysaid er clodfan clyd ywydd.

The minster of Esgor, and the minster of Henllan, they be for celebrity for sheltering yews. Gw. Brycheiniawg.

Ywen, s. f. dim. (yw) A single yew tree.

AN OUTLINE OF THE CHARACTERISTICS OF THE WELSH, AND ITS UTILITY IN CONNECTION WITH OTHER Ancient Languages, FOR DEVELOPING THE PRIMITIVE SPEECH OF MANKIND.

BY

W. OWEN PUGHE, D.C.L. F.A.S.

DENBIGH:

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY THOMAS GEE.

1832.

AN OUTLINE

OF

THE CHARACTERISTICS

OF THE

Welsh, &c.

THE language of the Cymmry, or Welsh, is limited, at the present time, to express the wants of a population, amounting in number to about six hundred thousand, which inhabits the mountains of Wales.* This language, in the course of the long period of its existence, extended over the most considerable part of Europe; and it still remains spoken, with more or less variety of dialect, by about four millions of the inhabitants of the western parts of France, under the name of the Breton; and also in Lusatia, and other districts of the north of Germany, under the name of Wendish,† being the connecting link between the Welsh and the various Sclavonic dialects. It has largely contributed to the formation of other tongues, which have supplanted it, through several subsequent periods, in different countries.

There are many peculiar characteristics in the Welsh language which are well deserving the attention of the learned; and from this consideration, some account of them becomes a pertinent appendage to my Dictionary: I shall therefore endeavour to convey to the reader a general idea of the subject, with as much precision as I am able, and as far as the brevity of this sketch will admit.

The investigation may be conveniently included under the five following heads:

1. The structure and character of the Welsh language, with its dialects.
2. Its alphabet, with an analysis of its literal mutations.
3. Its stability shown, by comparing its present state, with what, from proofs, it was in other periods, with examples of different evidences of the high antiquity of its formation.
4. Its three primary branches, with the extent of their difference.
5. Its affinity with other languages, as a corroborative evidence of its being spoken by the first inhabitants of Europe, and who migrated out of Asia, as is evident, from a comparison with the oriental languages.

* The population of Wales, according to the official returns, in 1831, amounted to upwards of 800,000.

† Some interesting particulars respecting the Wendi may be seen in the CYMBRO-BRITON, vol. iii. pp. 433, 477.

I. The Structure of the Welsh, or Language of the Cymmry.

This is a subject that is highly deserving the attention of the philosopher; as it abounds with some remarkable phenomena, and, perhaps, peculiar to itself, which may greatly contribute to illustrate the original formation of speech.

I consider the most prominent peculiarity of the Welsh tongue to be, that it has for its basis, nearly two-thirds of all the possible variety of simple or elementary sounds, each of them being the appropriate or fixed symbol of one simple idea. Upon these radical and indigenous principles depends the whole of its structure, regularly combined, so that, by having an accurate knowledge of the import of the ideas symbolized by those elements, we become considerably advanced towards learning the signification generally of all the compounded words in the language.

What I have here pointed out is an excellence, which can be but imperfectly appreciated by those who are acquainted only with languages that are not formed upon their own intrinsic materials: therefore, it may be necessary to enter into a particular illustration of the subject. And, in the first place, the following table of the elementary words will be useful for accomplishing the design in view.

Class 1, of elementary words.

a e i o w y
ae ai au aw—ei eu ew—ia ie io iw—oe oi ow—wi wy—yw=23.

Class 2, of elementary words.

ab ac ach ad add af aff ag ang al all am an ar as at ath—
eb ec ed edd ef eff eg eng el ell em en er es eth—ib ic ich id idd if iff ig ing il ill im in ir is it ith—ob oc och od odd of og ong ol oll om on or os ot oth—ub uch ud udd uf uff ul ull um un ur us ut uth—wb wch wd wdd wf wff wg wng wl wll wm wn wr ws wt wth—yb ych yd ydd yf yff yg yl yll ym yn yr ys yth=109.

Class 3, of elementary words.

ba be bi bo bu bw by—ca ce ci co cu cw cy—da de di do du dw dy—ffa ffe ffi ffo ffu ffw ffy—ga ge gi go gu gw gy—ha he hi ho hu hw hy—lla lle lli llo llu llw lly—ma me mi mo mu mw my—na ne ni no nu nw ny—pa pe pi po pu pw py—rha rhe rhi rho rhu rhw rhy—sa se si so su sw sy—ta te ti to tu tw ty=91.

Total 23+109+91=223.

The number of elements in the foregoing table amounts to two hundred and twenty-three. Out of these, seventy-eight are words of defined and common acceptation; that is to say, they are used as names for some actions, qualities, or things.

Of the remaining one hundred and forty-five elements, I do not know that any are used simply and unconnectedly as absolute names; but in their combined forms we may discover them to be signs of abstract ideas; and by which it may be inferred, in what manner they originally stood absolutely for the names of things, like the others.

Out of the last mentioned number of one hundred and forty-five, there are fifty-one which may be classed under the denomination, given them by Horne Tooke, of "little winged words;"* and which perform the various functions of pronouns, articles, conjunctions, and prepositions.

Deducting those fifty-one symbols, we have ninety-four still left to be designated; and these are not discoverable in their individual capacities, but enter into combinations, and serve as prefixes and affixes.

In the first compartment of the table are seen the vowels, standing singly, and also connected together in couples. These vowel sounds are symbols in themselves, or words having significations, of which it is important to obtain an accurate knowledge. Notwithstanding this, some philological theorists have asserted, that these vowel sounds are in themselves symbols of no ideas; and that, being of no consequence as to meaning, they may be used one for the other, promiscuously, in the analysing and comparing of languages.†

The vowels, in a general sense, are words significant of action, or of motion, either past, present, or future: and this faculty they even preserve, in various degrees, when they are combined with other powers.

Illustrations.

The word a implies action or motion; also what is present, or objective; and continuity, or accompaniment. Whatever functions it has to perform in speech, they originate from the attributes here detailed as belonging to it. In the structure of the Welsh tongue it performs the functions of the words and, that, with, do, did, does, in English.

By the word e is expressed that which is past, gone, or distant; and therefore it is used as the pronoun for the third person masculine.

The vocable i is a word that has respect to the future, and it implies to, towards, into, unto; and, as a pronoun, it represents the first person.

By the vocable o is indicated the past; and thus it implies of, from, out of. As a pronoun it stands for the third person neuter.

The remaining three vowels, u, w, y are derivatives, as being inflections of the primary vowels. It is only the last, or the y, that stands as a word unconnected with other powers; and it serves to point out an object; and therefore it is a definitive article, answering to the in English.

The important functions performed by these primary elements of speech, in the vocable class, demand some additional illustration; and this may be obtained by attending to the following examples.

* From the Homeric expression, επεα πτεροεντα.—

† Theorists thus forget the difficulty they would have to encounter in finding what affinity there could subsist, for instance, between the words bed, bad, bid, bud; bit, bet, bat, but, and others, of similar consonants.

Examples of vowel-words in construction.

A e i o—
Going is he into out of.

A e o dy i dy—
He goes from house to house.

I ba le yr ei di?—
To what place art thou going?

Af i do y ty—
I will go to the roof of the house.

A ei di o dy le?—
Going wilt thou go out of thy place?
or
Wilt thou go from thy place?

Ai da i ti à yw da i mi?—
Is it good for thee that is good for me?

Ti a ei er dy lw.
Thou--going--wilt go for the sake of thy oath

Cu yw hi i ti, a da i mi.
Dear is she to thee, and good to me.

Ni bu da i ni a fu da i ti.
It has not been good for us that has been good for thee.

A ei di yno?
Going, wilt thou go there?

A â hi i ei thy?—
Going, will she go into her house?

Pwy à â yno?
Going, who will go there?*

The vowel w, which is a mutation of o, discovers a very peculiar faculty, or power, in the termination of words, for it describes a state beyond what is expressed by the past participle.

Thus gwedd, connection, order or trim, when formed into gweddw, is a state beyond connection, or a widow.†—Again, ul is moisture; and ulw what has been divested of moisture; that is, embers, or cinders; and further, a, motion, by having w joined to it, becomes aw, a fluid, or water; and that is, instead of moving or flowing, it is become the element that is flowing. The same may be said of the following words:

Ban—banw	Ca—caw	Gwae—gwaew	Llan—llanw
Ble—blew	Del—delw	Gwel—gwelw	Lli—lliw
Cad—cadw	Du—duw	Her—herw	Llud—lludw
Car—carw	Da—daw	Hel—helw	Rhe—rhew:

also of several other words.

* Yno, there, means a place out of view, or distant; as yna, there, implies a place in view, pointed at, or present.

† The English words, a wedded state and a widow, are derived from one common original—the Welsh gwedd: for the initial of gwedd in many forms of construction becomes quiescent.

The remarkable discrimination of time, action, and position, in the vowel words, is retained even when they are combined with other powers, producing articulate sounds; yet this principle may be often so subtile as to elude common observation, in words composed of several elements; but in simple words it is plainly discernible.

EXAMPLES.

Ta, that spreads, or is in continuity.
Te, that is spread or extended.
Ti, that is in, that is in prospect; thou, thee
To, that is outer or over; a covering, a roof
Tu, that is lateral; a side; a region.
Tw, that rises out or up; drive: sway.
Ty, that is about or including; a house.

A clear knowledge of these elements, or seeds of language, and of their significations, opens to the mind a prospect for speculation, wherein many very curious phenomena may be discovered; and respecting which the following general hints may satisfy or amuse the cursory observer of the mechanism of language.

A radical word denoting some abstract idea becomes the name of a thing, which has its predominant characteristic described thereby: thus to, that is over, or as an exterior, becomes the appellation for a roof;* and ty, which is an inflection of to, signifies a house.

This principle extends also to words of the first order of compounds: thus, for instance, the word tan, a compound of the two elements, ta and an, abstractedly implies an expanding principle; and as the name of the greatest agent of expansion, it signifies fire. The word dal, compounded of the elements da and al, means abstractedly what is held out, or borne, and a bearing; it also denotes a leaf.† But, in these two, and in similar instances, in order to preserve the characteristic difference between the abstract and the appropriated significations, each class has its peculiar inflections and terminations: thus tanu and taenu are to expand, and taniaw is to fire; again, dala is to hold or bear, and deiliaw is to foliate, and deila is to accumulate leaves.

All the elementary words of the Welsh tongue are to be explained in the same manner as the foregoing examples; and, according to a few simple rules, their powers and meanings, when they enter into various combinations to form longer words, may be discovered; the component parts of which longer words must therefore be pregnant with their several primary ideas. And, as before observed, they extend to the compass of about two-thirds of all the possible simple articulations; for that reason, no sound, or articulation can be uttered, but what is significant of some meaning in the language now under consideration, unless it may happen to be one of the number pointed out as not retained therein. This is a circumstance, which to persons who may only be acquainted with such languages as, by intermixture or other causes, have been deprived of their original simplicity of character, can scarcely be represented with due effect; such languages, for instance as the Greek, the Latin, and all the modern ones; but, on the contrary, a speaker of these mixed tongues utters many of the longest words, the component parts whereof separately convey to his mind no meaning whatever.

* The form of the letter T, in some ancient inscriptions, represents the gable end of a house; there being a line crossing the perpendicular from the two points of the sloping top; and indeed its general form sufficiently preserves the resemblance.

† The Hebrew letter ד is called daleth, which also means a leaf; and so the Welsh dalaeth and deiliaeth mean foliation: and the same letter in the Arabic alphabet was called dal. The form of the letter D in most alphabets represents a leaf; and in some ancient inscriptions the fibres of the leaf are delineated.

By having a correct knowledge of the elementary keys, briefly noticed here, many of the intricate arcana even of modern languages may be opened; not excepting those that have undergone every kind of commixion, like the French and the English, the intricacies of which are impenetrable by all other means.* The power, that has been explained as belonging to the vowel words of the Welsh language, for instance, is seen to govern in the formation of the past, the present, and the future, of the English verbs.

With the exception of the Welsh and its sister dialects of the Celtic, there is not one of the European languages that has preserved the benefits resulting from being constructed upon the significant elements which are here under consideration; and yet these elements, in a greater or lesser number, can easily be proved to pervade all languages, but destitute of any abstract import annexed to them in those languages that have suffered intermixion; and the number of elements, any way preserved in such mixed languages, is very small, as may be seen in the following table.

A table of elementary words in mixed languages.

	Nouns.	Pronouns, Prepositions, &c.	Total.
Greek	4	40	44
Latin	5	40	45
German	4	27	31
French	6	33	39
English	7	31	38

Should the same criterion be applied to the Oriental languages, which all allow to be more ancient than those that are analysed above, a very different result will appear, and that result stands in them as follows.

	Nouns.	Pronouns, Prepositions, &c.	Total.
Hebrew	35	30	65
Arabic	100	48	148
Persian	81	41	122

* The English word love is presever in the Welsh, with its primary meaning, which is a lick with the tongue, being the way in which animals shew their fondness; and the verb, to love, is in the Welsh to lick with the tongue. The primary import of heaven, hymen, and cream, is the same; and this may be thought rather strange. But let it be recollected, that heaven, or himmel, is the expanse over-head; and hymen, (though, in aftertimes, a little deity,) meant originally a veil; and cream is the top of milk: and the verb to heave is from the same root.

Two thousand years and upwards have passed away since the Hebrew was a living language, as spoken in its purity*: much of it is, therefore, undoubtedly lost; and of the portion of it preserved, with respect to a great many words, the exact and primitive significations are not known. Had it been otherwise, a critic, well versed in that tongue, would be able probably to show a greater number of simple sounds, as signs of ideas, to be preserved therein, than I have produced, as still existing in the Welsh. But, even as we have the Hebrew in ruins, it exhibits the very remarkable fact, that 33 of its elements, out of the whole number of 65, which we now discover in it, have an identity of signification and functions with those in the Welsh.

In the next place, by examining the other more ancient languages of the East, and still spoken, there are of elementary words, agreeing in like manner with the Welsh, in the Arabic 63, and in the Persian 61.

Though the several European tongues, exhibited in a foregoing table, have not preserved the elementary words, as signs of abstract ideas, or as names of things; nevertheless, such elements are distinctly discoverable as contributing largely to the structure of them all; and on that account they are deserving of very particular attention from those who investigate the principles of language. And the result, which is above brought to the view of the reader, is of itself very conclusive evidence of the descent of the several nations of the world from one common origin. It may serve, also, as an unerring index, by which may be pointed out the nature and form of the primitive language of mankind, which has ceased to exist, as entire, prior to every record of history, though we discern more or less remains of its ruin in all subsequent combinations of speech. And, aided by this index, we obtain a glance at that original language, leading to a conviction of its being in its construction far more perfect than has been hypothetically conceived, as the perfection of speech, by the profoundest philosopher of ancient or modern times†.

The structure of the Welsh language more particularly analysed.

The first form which the elementary words takes is, when any two of such words are combined together, the first with a consonant initial, and the other with a vowel; the first element is then a qualifying prefix to the other, which is the object.

Words of this first combination are either short or long monosyllables, as the vowel of the first element happens to be short or long. Thus, the y, being a short vowel, and dropped in the combination, forms tdn, which

* The Hebrew ceased to be a living language about four hundred and fifty years before our era, when the Chaldee, closely resembling it in idiom and genius, but differing in some characteristics, was substituted in its stead. Hence from that period, the Old Testament is found to be written only in the Chaldee.—H. P.

† Many learned writers, and, among the number, Grotius, are of opinion, that the primitive language was entirely lost in the confusion at Babel. It is, however, far more probable, as above intimated, that it was partially retained in all the new dialects, and most perfectly in the Hebrew. Yet it should be noticed, that this distinction has been claimed for the Syriac, the Arabic, the Cophtic, the Ethiopic, the Armenian, and others, by their respective champions.—H. P.

word is from ty and an, the first vowel disappearing by such a formation; and a, being a long vowel, forms tan, a word compounded of the elements ta and an. All similar words, or those of the first combination, claim our particular attention, as being to be depended upon in etymological researches and comparisons, like bár, bür, câr, târ, cân, cân, and others; and, being a class of the first formed words, they are therefore most likely to be found diffused through the various languages of the earth*. Words under the primary combinations are generally signs of ideas more precise and unequivocal than the elements themselves, when they are separately made use of; for the latter being of general import, a nice discrimination is requisite to fix upon a word in a different tongue, which shall preserve their subtile meanings.

Another class of monosyllabic words of the first combination is, that where the short vowel y disappears, so that two consonants come together either in the beginning or in the ending of such words. They are like the following:—

Brad, bran, bardd, barn, cras, carn,—braint, brwnt, plant, trawst,—cain, main, cwyn, mwyn, swyn, trwyn, plaid, plwyf, ffrawdd, ffrwyl.

Words of the second form of combination are dissyllables, and consist of two elements, each preserving its original form entire; and such are the following:

Adar, anaw, arad, awel, awyr—bala, bara, delw, derw, ewin, elw, isel, iwin, ogof, ofer, ufel, ulw, sylw.

The elementary words, with the above three classes of their combination, comprehend the substance of the language; as all other kinds of words are farther combinations, by prefixes of various functions, or by postfixes, for the formation of verbs, adjectives, and the several distinctions of nouns. And these are so numerous, and in so many ways connected, as to give the language a copiousness of expression beyond all others, and almost unlimited.

A primary source of the copiousness above mentioned, is the great number of qualifying prefixes in the language, and which are, unlike what we find in other languages, capable of being universally applied to qualify all nouns, adnouns, and verbs.

There are fifty-two simple prefixes; and these may be compounded, so as to make altogether about three hundred: thus any radical word, whether in the form of a noun, adnoun, or verb, should such a thing be required, may be modified in form and sense three hundred ways.

A few examples may suffice for the illustration of these prefixes: Lled, is breadth or expanse; lledawl, expanding; lledu, to expand.

Amledu, to expand about.
Ymledu, to expand one's self.
Goledu, partly to expand.
Gorledu, to over expand.
Dyledu, to be expanding.
Tryledu, to expand through.

* Thus the word hen, old, is common to the Welsh, the Armenian, and the Burman languages.

Traledu, to expand extremely.
Arledu, to expand on the surface.
Diledu, to unexpand.
Afledu, to cease expanding.
Adledu, to re-expand.
Cyfledu, to expand equally.
Amymledu, and ymamledu, to expand one's self about.
Goamledu, partially to expand about.
Goymledu, partly to expand one's self.
Gorymamledu, to expand one's self about extremely.
Diymledu, to cease expanding one's self.

It is in consequence of the copiousness of the language, that some peculiarities of dialect are to be found in different parts of Wales; for that variety is principally produced by the use of many synonymous modes of expression. Hence also has arisen the poetic dialect, which generally is very unlike the speech of common life; and especially, as it appears in the poetry of some of the early periods, and in none more so, than in the remains of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. Indeed in the poetry of these eras so freely are the transcendental prefixes made use of in addition to singular modes of construction, that a person, acquainted only with the speech of common life, would almost conclude the other to be altogether a distinct language. There can scarcely be a greater, dissimilarity, and at the same time in one language, than between the mode by which the moderns would express the ideas in the following expressions:—

Dychymmriw tòn amliw am lân;
The billow of many hues will be spraying itself together about the shore.

Dychymer ufeliar bar;
The sulphur fire will be taking to itself rage.

Dymgwaddoles Duw dofn awen;
I have been endowed of God with a profound genius.

Caraf drachas Lloegr;
I love the extreme enmity of England.

Rhymdoddwy ddawn;
There was given of talent to me superabundantly.

Dadlidia;
Divest thyself of wrath.

---

2. On the Alphabet, and the origin of Writing among the Cymmry.

The articulations of the Welsh language are represented by sixteen radical letters, four vowels and twelve consonants, to denote so many primary sounds; and from these are derived twenty-seven secondary letters, eight vowels, and nineteen consonants, which are mutations or modified powers of the radicals, under certain circumstances of combination, as signs of the same number of secondary sounds.

From the two classes of radical and secondary letters is derived the system of literal mutation, which is more peculiarly Welsh, and forms a prominent portion of its grammatical principles; a system that displays the aptitude which the radical letters possess of changing their sounds, as before observed, thus requiring, by a modification of their forms, as many secondary characters as equal the number of their mutations. But, since an original alphabet, of which a description will be given in the sequel, has fallen into disuse, the mutable characteristic of the letters is become more difficult of explanation than otherwise it would have been to those who are unacquainted with our language. And, though this principle of literal mutation, according to fixed rules, is now peculiar to the Welsh, yet the effects of such an aptitude in some of the letters, both consonants and vowels, to change their sounds, is observed to pervade all languages, more or less; but, in the Welsh, it regulates many of its fundamental forms of construction, as well with respect to syntax, as to the composition of words.

There are nine out of the twelve radical consonants which are susceptible of being affected by the principle of mutation, or which have their sounds changed under certain forms of construction; and, for representing such sounds, so many modifications of the primary letters are used in forming the secondary ones.

The mutable consonants are c, p, t,—b, d, g,—ll, m, rh: and these are reducible to three classes, each class consisting of three letters. Those of the first class are c, p, t; which undergo three modifications each; that is, they take a soft, an aspirate, and a light sound. The letters of the second class are, b, d, g; and these assume a soft and an aspirate sound. The third class consists of ll, m, rh; and they have each one mutation, from being aspirates, by becoming soft.

Thus the letters c, p, t, by being softened, sound respectively like g, b, d; by being aspirated, they sound as ngh, mh, nh; and their light sounds are like ch, ph, and th.

The letters b, d, g, by being softened, assume sounds like f, dh, and i, (or quiescent); and, by being aspirated, they sound as m, n, and ng.

The remaining three letters, ll, m, rh, by losing their inherent aspirate character, sound as l, f, and *r.

* The system of literal mutation, it is certain, formerly prevailed in most tongues, and its remains are still to be traced in several. In the Welsh alone, however, is it preserved as intimately connected with the grammatical construction of the language. The following table of the mutation of initial letters, in Welsh, will perhaps be acceptable here, as reducing to a compressed form the observations above made.

Mutable Letters,	c	p	t	b	d	g	ll	m	rh
Soft Mutations,.	g	b	d	f	dd	—	l	f	r
Aspirate,······	ngh	mh	nh	m	n	ng
Light, ········	ch	ph	th

It would be curious to trace the ruins of this system as they are to be found in other languages; but space does not suffice in the compass of a note. A short collation of words

Some tribes of the Britons, the Cymmry more particularly, from very remote antiquity, were possessed of a characteristic alphabet, containing all the appropriate and necessary signs for representing every modification of sound in their language; and which alphabet, as implied by the method of writing it, was denominated COELBREN Y BEIRDD, or Stave of the Bardic Symbols. The forms of the letters consisted of straight perpendicular strokes and angles, as all curves were necessarily excluded, in consequence of their being written, or cut across the sides of squared pieces of sticks; and these sticks, or staves, after having been so written upon, were put into a frame-like form, and so inserted, as to admit of being turned round, to facilitate the reading of the inscription on all the sides; and this aggregate of staves was called a Peithynen.

Allusions to such a method of writing on sticks very frequently occur in the voluminous remains of the poetry of the bards of Wales of all periods; and this is an important evidence of its existence from the most early times.* To such evidence may be added another of at least an equally decided character; and which is, that the Coelbren y Beirdd is preserved among many other curious remains, collected under the sanction of several congresses of the bards, convened in the course of the fifteenth, sixteenth, and seventeenth centuries, by the Nevilles, the Herberts, and other noblemen and gentlemen of South Wales; and the last of these congresses was held in the year 1681, at Bewpyr Castle, in the county of Glamorgan, wherein all the prior collections were blended into one, examined, and sanctioned by the procuration of Sir Richard Bassett.† For the more complete verification of the genuineness of the bardic alphabet, a third important proof to be referred to is, the inscriptions on ancient stone monuments. Amongst those preserved in Camden's Britannia, several may be seen, having the Bardic characters occasionally intermixed with those that are generally Roman: such are the l in legion, the s in filius and ejus; also the ff, p, f, and the t.‡

The invention of the Bardic Alphabet was particularly convenient and useful in a pastoral state of society, such as the Historical Triads describe to have been that of the Cymmry;§ and, as the only necessary tool was a knife for preparing the sticks, and for cutting letters thereon, such an invention might have been, and probably was, of universal usage wherever the in various languages, ancient and modern, that appear to have undergone this process, may be seen in the Cambro-Briton, vol. i. p. 407. H. P.

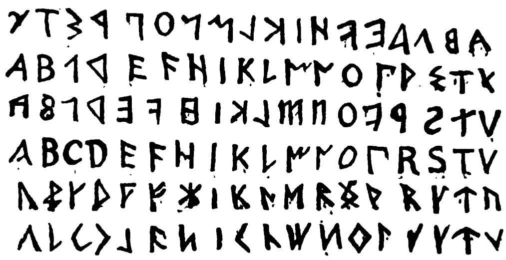
* Writing on sticks is alluded to in Ezekiel xxxvii. 16—20. "Son of man, take thee one stick and write upon it, For Judah, and for the children of Israel his companions: then take another stick, and write upon it, For Joseph, &c." Also, Numbers xvii. 2—"Take of every one of them a rod—write thou every man's name upon his rod."

† A more particular account of those bardic meetings is prefixed to Owen's translation of the Heroic Elegies of Llywarch Hen, prince of the Cambrian Britons, printed in 1792.



‡ See Gibson's edition of Camden, vol. ii. pages 1007, 1030, 1031, 1038, and 1458. Ancient graves were also discovered, in 1821, at Pentrev Voelas, in Denbighshire, whereon, among others, the peculiar character for the s (r) is to be seen, in the word ejus.

§ It may be doubted whether a state of society, strictly pastoral, according to the popular acceptation of the term, was ever known to the Cymmry. The Coelbren y Beirdd, or Bardic Alphabet, above alluded to, will be seen in the subjoined comparative table. It has also appeared in other publications. In the CAMBRO-BRITON, vol. i. p. 241, may be seen the derivative as well as the radical letters, amounting altogether to forty-four. H.P.

bardic system, or druidism, had extended its influence. But, after the introduction of Roman arts, and that of writing on parchment, among others, the ancient practice of cutting letters on staves gradually gave way to the use of the Latin characters and manner of writing, excepting so far as being traditionally preserved amongst other bardic memorials. By the adoption of the present common alphabet of Europe, the Welsh have been reduced to the expedient of using double, and even triple signs, for representing single articulate sounds. Yet the uncouthness thus produced might be easily obviated, by affixing the soft, aspirate, and light accents to those primary letters of modern formation that undergo such mutations, as may be represented by those accents: for there could exist no other difficulty than to obtain the public sanction to their being admitted into general use.

By a comparison of the various forms of the alphabets in use amongst all the nations in Europe, it at once appears evident that they are derived from one common origin; and the oldest specimen known of such a primitive character is the one commonly denominated the Pelasgic, or the Græco Phœnician. To prove the proposition thus advanced, it will only be necessary to examine the following table, wherein those ancient alphabets are collaterally exhibited.

Old Greek,
The same,
Etruscan,
Old Latin,
Runic,
Bardic,

As the Welsh is not written in its proper orthography, there are some double letters used in this work, for representing single sounds. Such are the following:—ch sounds as the Hebrew ח, the Greek χ, the Spanish j and x; dd sound as th, in the words the, this, or that; the ll represent an aspirated l, which is peculiar to the Welsh; the th may merely be noticed as being like the Greek ϑ.

3. On the Stability of the Welsh Language and its Antiquity.

Those languages which are constructed upon the basis of their own regular elements, but whose origin is obscured or lost in the various revolutions that they may have undergone, are thereby necessarily involved in a state of endless fluctuation and change. On the contrary, one that is formed upon its own intrinsic materials, and those being elementary words of obvious meaning and in use, is by that circumstance secured against innovations. And this is one of the most remarkable characteristics discoverable in the Welsh tongue, and is highly deserving the attention of the philologist. It still remains the same as it was, to a certainty, thirteen hundred years past, as can be fully proved; and I have no hesitation in asserting its usage in common parlance above two thousand years since. As to its being spoken by the Cymmry in the sixth century, it will be sufficient to lay the few following extracts from the works of the bards of that period before the reader, as being the familiar speech of the present day; to obtain his assent to the first fact; and then some of the names of places in Britain, as given by the Romans, and still preserved, may, without going farther, suffice as to the other point, as corroborated by some collateral evidences in the sequel of this sketch.

Familiar Welsh Phrases from the Bards of the Sixth Century.

TALIESIN.

Gwelais wyr gorfawr,	I have seen men pre-eminent,
A ddygyrchynt awr,	who were assembling to the shout,
Gwelais waed ar lawr:	I have seen blood on the ground:
Rhag rhuthr cleddyfawr	from the rush of swords
Glesynt esgyll gwawr.	they tinged with blue the wings of the dawn.
Addwyn aeron yn amser cynhauaf;	Pleasant the fruits in the time of harvest;
Arall addwyn gwenith ar galaf.	another pleasure—wheat on stalk.
Màn y mae meillion,	Where there are trefoils,
A gwlith ar dirion;	and dew on lands;
Màn y mae cerddorion.	where there are minstrels
Yn gywair gyson—	in accordant harmony—
Cain bid eu gofalon	precious be their anxieties
Gan Wledig gorchorddion.	with the Sovereign of supreme circles.
Enaid Owain ab Urien	The soul of Owain the son of Urien
Gobwyllid ei Ren ei raid:	may his Lord compassionate his necessity;
Rheged udd ei cudd tom las,	the chief of Rheged that is hidden by the green mound,
Nid oedd fas ei gywyddaid.	not low was his panegyric.

ANEURIN.

Mal pan ddel medel ar freith-hin	As when there comes a reaping in fair weather
Y gwnai Marchleu waedlin.	would Marchleu cause a stream of blood.
Pan grysiai Caradawg i gad,	When Caradawg arrayed for conflict
Mal baedd coed trychwn trychiad.	like a boar of the woods an upturning tearer,
Tarw byddin yn nhrin gymyniad,	a bull of the host in the felling toil,
Ef lithiai wyddgwn o'i angad:	he would allure wild dogs from his hand:
Ys wy fy nhyst, Owain fab Eulad,	there be my evidence, Owain the son of Eulad,
A Gwrien, a Gwyn, a Gwriad,	and Gwrien, and Gwyn, and Gwriad.
O Gattraeth gymyniad.	from the felling of Cattraeth.

Gwyr a grysiasant, buant gydnaid,	Men have arrayed themselves, they have together leaped,
Hoedlfyrion, meddwon uch medd hidlaid;	short-lived ones, drunken ones over purified mead;
Gosgordd Mynyddawg, eurawg yn rhaid,	the retinue of Mynyddawg, adorned with gold in a strait,
Gwerth eu gwledd o fedd fu eu henaid.	the price of their feast of mead has been their soul.
Yn nydd gwyth adwyth oedd ei lafnawr,	In the day of wrath his blades were devastation,
Pan grysiai Cynon gan wyrdd wawr.	when Cynon had arrayed with the green dawn.
O gywrysedd gwragedd gwych y gwnaethant	From the contention of women gallantly they have caused
Llawer mam a deigr ar ei hamrant.	many a mother with a tear on her eyelid.

LLYWARCH HEN.

Yr aelwyd hon, neus cudd glesin?	This hearth, is it not hidden by green sward?
Yn myw Owain ac Elffin	in the life of Owain and Elfin
Berwasai ei phair breiddin.	its cauldron had boiled venison.
Tawel awel ti hirglyw:	Gentle gale, far art thou heard:
Odid a fo moledyw,	scarcely shall there be that is praiseworthy,
Nam Urien, can nad yw!	after Urien, since he is not!
Y ddeilen hon neus cynnired gwynt,	This leaf so buffeted by wind,
Gwae hi ei thynged:	woe to her her fate:
Hi hen, eleni ganed!	she is old, this year was she born.

Examples of British Names of Places in Roman Authors, and still in use.

Mona, Anglesey, in Welsh Mon. It is pronounced long, as if written Mone.

Aberconovium, Aberconwy, or the Efflux of the Conwy, in Carnarvonshire.

Aberavonium, Aberavan, or the Efflux of the Avan, in Glamorganshire.

Abergavennium, Abergavèni, the Efflux of the Gaveni, in Monmouthshire

Avona, or Auvona, the Avon river; one in Somersetshire, one in Wiltshire, and another in Worcestershire. Avon is the common term for a river in Welsh; therefore I conceive that those rivers in England, if correctly written, should be Avan, like the river in Glamorganshire.

Avalonia, or Glastonbury, which the Welsh call Ynys Avallen, or the Island of the Apple-tree.

Caledonia, the woody parts of Scotland, or the Forest of Caledonia, which the Welsh call Coed Celyddon, or the Wood of the Coverts. And this name is synonymous with Celtica, Scotia, and Goidheli, or Gwyddeli.

Ceretica, Cardiganshire, called by the Welsh Ceredigion.

Corinium, Cirencester, called by the Welsh Caer Corun.

Conovium, the river Conway, called by the Welsh Conwy, or the Dart Stream.

Deva, the river Dee, passing by Chester, and the Dee at Dundee, in Scotland. The Welsh name is Dwyv. Hence the inhabitants near the Deva or Dwyv were called Ordovices, or the dwellers on the Dwyv; or, as the Welsh would stile them, Arddwyvigwys.

Demetia, Pembrokeshire, called in Welsh Dyved.

Damnonia, Devonshire, which the Welsh call *Dyvnaint.

Isca, or Osca, the Esk, in Devonshire and in Scotland, and the Usk in Monmouthshire, the Welsh name for which is Wysg.

Menevia, the district where St. David's is situated, called Mynyw in Welsh.

Nidum, the Neath river in Glamorganshire, which is called Nedd in Welsh.

Tava, the name of several rivers, synonymous with Tain; therefore the Welsh call the Thames, Tain and Tav; and the Tyne in Devon and Northumberland is called Tava, as well as the Tay and the Esk, in Scotland. Tav and Tain mean the spreading stream.

In addition to what has been here brought forward to prove the antiquity of the Welsh language in its present state, there is another most remarkable evidence: and it is, that the people of Wales and of Britany are able at this day to converse together;† yet they must have been separated from each other for upwards of two thousand years.‡ We learn from the Triads that the Cymmry migrated to Britain over the Hazy Sea from about the Elbe, where they left a memorial of their name in the Chersonesus Cimbrica; and in that neighbourhood we find the Wendi still preserving the language of the Cymmry, though not so purely as in Wales and Britany, owing to their being in a situation more liable to produce an intermixture with strangers.

From the period, when the Romans abandoned Britain, down to the present time, the Welsh language had to withstand the effects of the intimacy and encroachments of the English, which must have been more intrusive upon its stability than any thing it had to oppose during any former period of equal duration, even including the time of its being under the influence of the Latin language. If therefore the English connection has produced no change in our language during a thousand years, the inference is, that it must have undergone less alteration in any other equal period.

* This word implies, literally, deeps and hollows, which, it will be allowed, is descriptive enough of the country to which it is appropriated.—H. P.

† A vessel from Morlaix, in Britany, being in the Thames, in 1820, the captain was invited to come to hear the harp, by the Cymreigyddion. One of the members, after an air had been played, said to the Breton, in Welsh,—" Dyna gann da." To this the Breton replied,—" Na: dyna chware da: canu à genau; a chware â thelyn." So that the Welshman was corrected in his own speech by the stranger, thus—" No: that is good playing: it is singing with the voice; and playing with the harp."

‡ The Historical Triads record, that the Cymmry came to Britain, and another colony of them to Llydaw, Armorica, or Brittany, from the Chersonesus Cimbrica, or Jutland. The Welsh cannot discourse with the Irish of Ireland and Scotland; therefore the latter must have separated at an earlier period from the original stock. The old name of Hamburg is Treva, and of which, as a Welsh name, the former is a literal translation.

As a collateral evidence in support of the subject before examined, the Laws of Hywel may particularly be referred to. The body of this code of ancient institutes, divested of some technical phrases and of several allusions to obsolete customs, is expressed in the familiar speech of the present time.* Names of places still left existing in England and Scotland, which are Welsh words of common use, are also good proofs, so far as they extend; for they show that portion of the language once spoken, where the names are found, was exactly the same as is now used in Wales; and by plain inference in proving a part, they prove the identity altogether. Such, for instances, are the names of Avon and Aber, which are preserved, even without a literal difference, in various parts of the island.

Again, we have manuscripts as old as the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, which prove the remarkable fact, that even the peculiarity of the dialects of the different parts of Wales then existed as we find at this day.

And lastly, next to the internal structure of the Welsh language, the primary cause of the preservation of it without a change has been probably the singular institution of bardism; and the system of poetical prosody under that institution became gradually, from the thirteenth century downwards, so very strict and mechanical as to euphony, that even the sounds and syllables intended to be expressed could not possibly be mistaken. Consequently, we know to a certainty what the ancient pronunciation of the language must have been. Besides which, its preservation unadulterated was a fundamental maxim of the Bardic system, as appears by the following triad:—

> "Tri pheth a ddylai Bardd eu cynnal: yr iaith Gymmraeg, y brif farddoniaeth, a chof am bob daionus a rhagor"

> Three things which a bard ought to maintain: the Welsh language, the primitive bardism, and the memorial of every thing good and excellent.

---

3. On the three primary divisions of the Language of the Cymmry.

The three dialects of the primitive language of a great part of Europe are—the Sclavonic; the Cymmryic, of which there are remains in Wales, and in Britany; and the Gwyddelig, originally spoken in Gaul and the south-east of Britain, and still spoken in Ireland and the Highlands of Scotland.†

The first people that penetrated Europe westward from the shores of

* The Laws of Hywel were compiled in the tenth century.—H. P.

† Perhaps the popular distinctions of Gothic and Celtic would embrace the three dialects here noticed, though the subdivisions, above adopted, must be allowed to be more accurate. Some excellent observations on this point, by the same writer, may be seen in the Cambrian Register, vol. i. p. 13—20.—H. P.

the Euxine, went under the general appellation of Celts, among the Greek historians; and the Romans recognised, in after ages, the wooded parts of Gaul under the same name, in contradistinction to the Gal, or open country. The generic name of Cymmry,—the Cimmerioi of the Greeks—by which the original stock was known while it remained on the sides of the Caucasus and on the Cimmerian Bosphorus, became lost among all the colonies from thence; by their assuming appellations descriptive of peculiar situations, excepting the faint traces of the Cimmerii in Italy, the Cimbri in Denmark, and the Cymmry in Britain.

Now, as the Wendi, on the Elbe, the Bretons, in France, and the Cymmry, in Wales, have so far preserved an identity of speech, as to be able to hold an intercourse one with another, whilst at the same time neither of these three nations can converse with those who speak the Irish in Ireland and Scotland, the necessary conclusion must be, that an earlier separation must have taken place between the progenitors of the Irish people of Ireland and Scotland, and the progenitors of the Wendi, the Bretons, and the Cymmry of Wales, than the separation between the three last mentioned people respectively. The inference to be drawn therefore is, that the ancestors of the Irish people, though of the same original stock as the Cymmry, who migrated towards the Elbe, in the north of Germany, must have separated themselves from their brethren by taking a rout from the shores of the Euxine, following the course of the Danube, and eventually spread colonies over Gaul and Italy.

It must be owing to the proximity of the ancestors of the Irish people to the Romans that there is a greater affinity of character between the Irish dialect and the Latin, than there is between the Welsh and the Latin; for the Romans formed no settlements in Ireland, so as to produce that affinity, which is much more evident than what can be traced between the Welsh and the Latin, though the Romans remained in Britain about five hundred years. In addition to this remarkable fact, there is another equally so, which is, that the Welsh language has a far greater resemblance to the Greek than to the Latin, in its characteristics, which leads to the conclusion of there having been an intermixture of the progenitors of the Cymmry and of the Greeks, in some period prior to all historical record, by which the manner of that intermixture can be satisfactorily explained.

At about what era that the more central mass of the Celts, or Woodmen, of Europe began to be distinguished under the appellation of Sclavonians would be difficult to determine satisfactorily; but it is pretty evident that they must have originated from that branch of the Cymmry before mentioned, as having had an intimate connection with the Greeks, before their

† The name of Celt was the most appropriate that could be applied by the first colonies to themselves; and, no doubt, it was applied by themselves, and so the Greeks got it. The meaning of Celt is a covert, from Cel, a shelter; and it is applied to woody places, as opposed to Gal, an open place or plain. Celt would necessarily be a name of frequent use among first colonies, as is now the case in America, where woodmen is the term applied. It is remarkable, that all the old synonymes of Celti, Celyddon, Gwyddeli, and Ysgodi, or Ysgodogion, are still preserved in Welsh, being the originals of Celtica, Caledonia, Gwethelia, and Scotia.

progression into the north of Germany; and that the other branch of the Cymmry, which penetrated into Gaul and Italy, had not the appellation of Sclavonians applied to any of its colonies. Under the name of Sclavonic are comprehended the several dialects spoken in Dalmatia, Albania, Carniola, Croatia, Servia, Poland, Russia, and Lusatia, with other small districts in the neighbourhood, by the people called Wendi. And this last dialect is the connecting link between the Welsh and the Sclavonic dialects.

In the South-east part of Britain an extensive colony established itself, known to the Cymmry under the appellation of Lloegrwys, and the territory inhabited by this people was called Lloegr, which is now the name given by the Welsh to all England, notwithstanding its being brought under the sway of the Saxons and Angli. Our Triads of History record that the Lloegrwys originally came to Britain from Gascony, that is, from Celtic Gaul; where they left traces of their name on the river Liger, or the Loire, as well as in the North of Italy, which we recognise in Liguria.* Names of places in Lloegria still preserved, and of men, as given by Roman authors, warrant the inference before drawn, and the Lloegrwys of Britain, and the Liguri of Celtic Gaul and of North Italy, spoke a dialect, whereof the present Irish is the remains. So that the Lloegrwys were probably the first people that settled in Ireland, with whom subsequent colonies of Belgians from the South of Britain intermixed, as mentioned in our old chronicles.

There is reasons for supposing that the dissimilitude between the Irish and the Welsh languages has been increased by an intermixture or some other cause as affecting the former in Ireland, one third of the words of which only is recognised in the Welsh tongue, as words in common use.† It deserves to be noticed that the Irish people, owing to some cause not easily accounted for, have greatly altered the pronunciation of their language since the first use of letters among them, and arising principally from their causing a great many of the sounds in their words as written to be quiescent. Thus most Irish words preserved in the Welsh would not be understood by a Welshman, when spoken by a native of Ireland, though readily understood when committed to writing: for every word is distinctly pronounced in Welsh as written, without variation or exception.‡

Like the rendering of sounds quiescent, as above mentioned, in the Irish, what causes the dissimilitude of dialect between the Welsh and the Sclavonic, in all its varieties, is the vitiating of the letters t, th, and d, in the latter by a mutation, into sounds represented by sch, tz, dz. This mutation of t and d into tz and dz is rather common in the pronunciation of the Irish;

* The Triadic record, here alluded to, describes the Lloegrwys as one of the "three social" tribes of Britain: the other two are the Cymmry and Brython.—H. P.

† The patronymic name of the Irish, in their own tongue, as well as in the Welsh, is Gaoidhel, or Gwydhel, which the Welsh pronounce as if written Goithel, but the Irish pronounce it Gael. And the Irish who write on their own history, in this age, take the liberty to write the name Gäel, to the discredit of their history, with a view of identifying the Irish as the descendants of the Gauls.

‡ Yet, by selecting phrases, identities such as this may be found: "O Ddia! baithidh mi mi fhein mar dhuin uasal." "O Duw! boddaf fi fy hun mál dyn gwysawl." O God, I will drown myself like a gentleman.

and not unfrequently the Welsh use it in familiar talk. When an Irishman swears, he pronounces his Mon diaul as if written Mon dziaul, which is the Myn diawl of the Welsh, and the Mon diable of the French. And the Welsh word Meddyliau, cogitations, is pronounced Medzolie by the Wendi; Mezoulioü by the Bretons; but the Welsh pronounce their words as if written Metholia or Medholiæ. In the Albanian dialect Vladica, or Wladica, signifies a Bishop; but Gwledig, in Welsh, is a supreme one over a country, in a general sense, and often applied by the poets to the Deity; as Iolaf Wledig nef, I will adore the Supreme of heaven. Here, Iolaf Gwledig nef would be the phrase, independent of the literal mutation; but the g takes its soft sound, or becomes quiescent.

---

4. The affinity between the Welsh, or Cymmraeg, and other languages, as a corroborative evidence of its oriental origin, and of its being spoken by the first inhabitants of Europe.

This is a very important topic, and upon which the true history of the origin of nations principally depends; for, though much has been said and written upon it, the light elicited thereby has been so very faint and imperfect, that little knowledge and information has been thereby obtained. Indeed, it is what would require a perseverance in labour so intense for its accomplishment, as almost to deter any one from the undertaking, even though possessed of the requisite qualifications. The outline of such a work has been laid down, though imperfectly, by E. Lhwyd, in his Archaiologia Britannica; and it has been so far advanced by Gebelin, in his Monde Primitif, as sufficiently to discover, that the Greek and Latin, with the modern languages of Europe generally, are derived, for the most part, from a common origin, and which common origin, though improperly, is denominated the Celtic, and of which the language still spoken in Wales, owing to some fortuitous circumstances, preserves the most uncontaminated remains. If the extraordinary writer last-mentioned had had the advantage of acquainting himself with the whole compass and characteristics of the language, which he took as the basis of his superstructure, he would have accomplished every thing that could be desired; but, as such advantage did not fall to his lot, the work remains to be finished by some other Gebelin who may arise to do justice to this curious and interesting subject. All that I profess to do here, however, is merely to state the case, and, by way of estimate, to exhibit a few general observations, accompanied by some necessary examples for the illustration of it, with a view of being serviceable to future inquirers.

The following vocabularies of the affinities, existing between the Welsh and the Hebrew and Greek languages, must be considered only as specimens, and that generally with respect to their primitive words only. Connections equally close might be proved between the first-mentioned tongue and the Sanscrit; and in the next place, it might be shown, that about one half of the primary words of the French and English consist of the remains of the speech of the original population of Europe, commonly denominated Celts, blended with the Teutonic or Gothic.

Examples of Hebrew and Welsh Affinities.

The extinction of a primitive language has been asserted in a former section of this work; and we find, in Genesis xi. the scene of that event laid at Babel, and the cause assigned for it to have been the dispersion of mankind. It may be pertinent to offer one or two remarks here, in support of the proposition, that the Hebrew tongue, notwithstanding all that has been said to the contrary, had its origin, like others, in the confusion of the first language.

Men had not multiplied so greatly, after the flood, as to be compelled to form themselves into separate communities, or at least to acquire national distinctions, at the era of the confusion of Babel; and, from the tenour of the history given of that confusion, we are plainly to infer the implication of the whole of the human race therein. But, towards obtaining a clearer view of the subject, we shall be aided by recurring to the subjoined table of a few leading dates, subsequent to the epoch of the flood, A. C. 2348.

EVENTS.	Years after the flood.
The confusion of language	101
The birth of Abraham	352
The birth of Isaac	452
The death of Shem	502
The birth of Moses	775

Or the following dates may be taken.

Shem lived until the age of Isaac was	50
Isaac lived until Levi was	60
Levi lived until Amram was	41
Amram lived until Moses was	40

Thus, it appears that Shem died only two hundred and seventy-three years before the birth of Moses, or that only four generations intervened between them. Again: by examining the above dates, we observe, that Shem lived four hundred years after the dispersion from Babel; and, Shem being the patriarch of all the families then on the earth, it cannot be well supposed, that the building of the tower could have been projected without his concurrence. Had it been otherwise, the primitive language must, undoubtedly, have been preserved by him in its purity until his death, and by his descendants, through two hundred and seventy-three years, to the time of Moses; so that, in that case, he and they must have spoken Hebrew. But there are the remains of the first language discoverable in the composition of all the ancient tongues, which collectively prove them to be formed from the ruins of an original one now lost; and this original language, as those ruins prove, was, in every respect, far more perfect than the Hebrew, or any other known language.

On a comparison being made between the Welsh and the Hebrew, we do not, at first sight, discover any great connection between the two languages; though, by a closer examination, we recognise their common origin; and this apparent dissimilitude is, perhaps, principally to be accounted for, from that system of construction, in the Hebrew, of blending the prepositions, conjunctions, pronouns, and other particles, with the primary words, either as prefixes, or as postfixes; whereas they preserve their separate stations, in the Welsh. The affinity might also appear more manifest, if the Hebrew had remained better preserved as a living language: for, as that is not the state wherein we find it, we may suspect many niceties of pronunciation, without adverting to words and phraseology, to have been lost, notwithstanding the precautionary adoption of the masoretic points, both in respect to the vowels, as also the mutable consonants.

א

אכ, greenness, verdure; pleasantness.	Ov, that is elementary; crude, raw.
אח, exclamation of pleasure, or of pain.	Och, a forcible utterance; a moan; oh! alas!
אח, or אחי, one of the same kindred or kind; a brother.	Ach, a root, a stem; lineage, kindred; by, near, at.
אל, or איל, strength, power; virtue; an epithet applied to the Deity, and to any being or thing that is great.	El, what has in itself the power of motion; a moving principle; an intelligence; a spirit; an angel.
אל, a negation; not; nothing.	All, other; another; extra or outward; very, most.
אל,אלה, a plural pronoun; these.	Eill, they, those: eill dau, they twain.
אל, a ram.—אלילים, idols.	Ell, what is out or divided: ellyllon, goblins.
אל, a deer, male or female; that is, a buck or a doe.	Al, influence; harmony; power: elain, a musical being, a fawn.
איש, a being, a person, a man: יש, to be.	Oes, a space of existence, or being; an age.
אלה, a curse, or ban; an oath.	Llw, elw, hylw, a curse, an oath.
אלף, to teach; to manage, to rule.	Alavu, to energise, to endow, to enrich.
אלף, a kine, or one of the cattle kind; also a thousand. אלפים, or אלופים, cattle or bullocks.	Alav, pl. alavoedd and elyv, cattle, also chattels. Like Aleph, the Welsh use mil for an animal, and for a thousand.
אן, און, vigour, strength; labour.	Yni, vigour, energy, strength; force.
אן, און, affliction, grief, sorrow.	Hoen, effusion; hue; liveliness.
אן, און, virtue, or good quality.	Han, that proceeds from, or that is derived.
אן, און, an object of worship in Egypt, and in Canaan.	Huan, the sun, from Hu, that is pervasive. On, in Egypt, was called by the Greeks Heliopolis.
אן, אנה, אין, an interrogative particle as to time or place: when, where; here; there.	Yn, yna, yno: yn, in; yna, in there; yno, in such a place; there; then, at such a time or place.
אין, not; nothing, nonentity.	An: na: an, prefix of negation; and na, is no.
אנס, to press, to molest, to trouble.	Annos, to pursue, to drive, to molest.
אף, fie! ha! denoting dislike.	Wft! fie! wft iti! fie upon thee!
אץ, to urge, to press forward, to drive on.	Aethu, to point, to sharpen; to urge; to vex.
אר, a river; light, lucidity.	Air, brightness, splendour, lucidity.
אר, to flow, to run as a fluid.	Aru, to emit; to utter; to utter a sound.

אש, fire: to set on fire, to consume.	Ys, that consumes; ysu, to consume, to burn.
אש, a verbal particle, or adverb, is, there is.	Oes, there is. A oes yma neb? Is there any body here?
אתה, to come, to arrive, to reach to.	Athu, to proceed or to go: dathu, to come.
אתה, a pruning knife, or cutter.	Aeth, that is sharp, or pointed; a point.

ב

באר, a well, or pit. See בר	Bwr, a trench, an entrenchment; a vallum.
בית, a house, a dwelling.	Bwth, a hut, a cottage, or a booth.
בטן, the belly, or the stomach.	Poten, a paunch, a belly, a stomach.
בכה, to weep, to moan, to lament.	Beichiaw, to cry aloud, to roar, to scream.
בל, to mix, to blend; to confound.	Boli; cyboli, to mix, to commix.
בל, the idol of Babilon; Belus.	Bal, that breaks out, a peak; a budding.
בול, a stump of a tree, or a stem.	Bwl, a rotundity; a bole, or stem.
בול, decay, or withering; October.	Pall, ruin, decay; failure; a miss.
בלה, to decay, to waste, to wear out.	Pallu, to decay; to fail; to miss.
בלי, corruption, decay, waste.	Beli, havoc, devastation; war.
בלע, destruction, ravage ruin.	Bela, havoc, ravage; tumult; war.
בן, that is reared, that is built; a son	Ban, high, lofty; a height, a peak.
בנה, to build, to erect, to rear.	Banu, to elevate; to exalt; to rear.
בניה, a structure, a building.	Banaeth, what is raised or reared up
בנין, a structure, a building.	Banan, dybanan, what rears; a builder; an ant.
בר, to purify, to clean; to be clean.	Briaw, to render excellent; to dignify.
בר, בור, a pit, a well; a grave.	Bwr, a trench; an entrenchment.
בר, corn; a child, a son. ברה, corn, bread.	Bara, bread; bar, a summit, a top.
ברי, clearness, the pure matter of the heavens.	Bri, excellence; dignity, honour.
ברית, purification, or a cleansing.	Briaeth, excellency; the giving dignity.
ברא, to create. ברא אלוים, the Aleim created.	Peru: e berai elyv, the powers caused, or created.
ברך, to honour, as in bending the knee; to bless.	Parchu, to revere, to respect, to honour; to confer honour.

ג

גאות, loftiness; raging, as of the sea	Gwyth, a swell out; wrath, indignation.
גאל, to redeem, to buy off; to avenge	Galu, to render clear, open, or free.
גאל, a redeemer; an avenger.	Gal, a conspicuous station; that breaks out; a foe.
גדל, to greaten; to grow great or large.	Gwyddoli, to render cognitive, or conspicuous.
גדל, greatness; dignity, honour.	Gwyddawl, that is conspicuous, or present.
גדר, to fence, to enclose, to hedge.	Godrëu, to form a skirt, border, or rim.

גבר, a fence, or an enclosure.	Godre, a skirt, a border, a rim.
גו, גוה, a body, the whole person.	Ciw, compact; what is compact. Ysgiwion.
גוי, a body of people, a nation.	Ciwed, a multitude; a tribe; a rabble
גלה, what rolls along, up and down, or to and fro; any rotundity in form or motion; and often it is compounded into גלגל.	Gela, that moves or rolls along; that oozes; a leech, from its rolling motion. Gel, aptness to move, flow, or ooze; a leech.
גלה, to roll, to turn, or to wheel.	Gelen, to move with a rolling motion
גן, גון, to defend, to fence, to protect; also a shelter, a place sheltered.	Ganu, to contain, to include. Gan, capacity; a mortise.
גר, to make strange; to sojourn.	Gweirfaw, to break out, to stray: Gwair, a stray.
גרר, a sojourner, a stranger.	Gweirawr, one who roves or strays.
גת, a press, as for grapes or olives.	Gwth, a press; a push; a thrust.

ד

דא, to fly, as birds do.	Dawu, to come or move towards.
דג, to be fruitful, to multiply, to increase.	Dwgu, to bear; to produce, to yield
דג, fish, from their great increase.	Dwg, that is full or perfect; a bearing
דגן, corn, or grain of any sort.	Dwgon, a continuity of bearing; a produce.
דגון, fertility. To this idol the Philistines attributed all their plenty.	Dwgan, a bearing or producing agent, a producer.
דד, plural דדים, paps; love.	Did, diden, a pap or a nipple.
דיו, ink, for writing with.	Du, black; a black; ink.
דח, דחה, to drive, force, urge, or expel.	Techu, to cause to sculk; to sculk.
דל, דלת, a leaf; the thin part of a door; a lid, a cover: the letter ד, or D	Dal, dalaeth, deiliad; dal, a leaf; dalaeth, foliage; deiliad, a leafing, or foliation.
דל, poor, low, meek, humble.	Del, churlish, dogged: obdurate.
דלי, a bucket, or a pail.	Dalat, that holds; a receptacle.
דמן, dung, a heap of dung.	Tomen, a heap of dung, a dung-hill.
דן, to judge, to rule, to order, to govern. And with the formative א, אדן, one who has power to judge; a lord, or master; and it is also written אדון or אדני, a dispenser of virtue.	Doniaw, to dispense, in any way; to endow, or to enrich; addonai, one who has to dispense a virtue or gift; one who has a virtue or endowment. It is formed from the prefix a an dawn, a gift.
דר, דור, space, or time, a round of life; an age, a generation.	Dor, what overspreads, a covering; the leaf of a door.
דשן, to make fat, to become fat.	Dwysaw, dwysain, to make dense, to be dense.
דת, statute, law, or appointment.	Dedd, and deddf, statute, or rule of action.

ה

הב, הבה, to give, to bring to.	Hybu, to get onward; to recover; to get before.
הד, הדה, to praise, to give thanks.	Hoddi, hoddiaw, to render easy or accessible.
הוי, an exclamation expressive of grief.	Hwi, to set up a halloo; a halloo.
הי, heigh; alas! oh! ah! woe!	Hai, excitation; hurry, haste! hie!

הן, הנה, a demonstrative pronoun, and adverb.	Hon, hwn, hyn: hon, this female; hwn, this masculine; hyn, this thing: hyna, that thing.
הר, הרה, to be big, to grow big: תהר, she bigged with, she conceived.	Hori, to become round or bulky: dyhorai, she became bulky, or paunched.
הר, הור, הרר, a mountain, a hill.	Hawr, what is distended or swelled out.
הר־גבננים, a mount of several heights.	Hawr gofanynau, a swell of several heights.
הררי טרף, mountains of prey.	Horori tarf, protuberances of scaring.
הרה, הורה, one pregnant, plural הרית, הריות.	Horai, horen, one that is swelled out. Pl. Horoedd, and horod, tikes.

ז

זב, to flow, to gush, to bubble out.	Swyf, scum; yeast, swyfaw, to form scum.
זג, liquor, also a husk, or shell.	Sug, liquor, juice; what is sucked.
זה, זו, זות—compound of זא and את—a demonstrative pronoun; it; this; that; here.	Sy, and Sydd, is: pwy sy glaf? who is ill: pwy sydd yma? who is here. Pa elw sydd? What profit is there.
זהר, clear, bright; a clear sky; clearness.	Ser, stars, the starry system: Serw, sparkling.
זחל, to be afraid. A serpent.	Sychwylaw, to turn or roll aside: Sychwyl, a whirl off.
זל, profusion, squandering; waste.	Sil, that is produced; spawn, seedling; issue.
זם, זמם, to imagine, to think, to devise; whim, fancy—to seem: זמות, whim, fancy, conceit: זמזמים, Deut. ii. 20. Imaginers.	Symiaw, to consider the magnitude of a thing; to consider: sym, size, magnitude: symaeth, a state of ease, or enjoyment: somsymiaid, illusory seemers.
זן, to feed, to provide; store, provision.	Swyn, a preservative: swynaw, to apply a preservative.
מזון, store, provision, victuals.	Myswyn, that is put by; that is protected.
זנה, to fornicate, to whore.	Synu, to cause sensation; to cause consternation.
זנה, זונה, a harlot: זנות, whoredoms.	Synai, that causes concern: Synoedd, dreads.
זע, זעה, to move, or shake, to be agitated.	Sangu, to trample; to tread, to pace.
זרא, loathsome, repulsive, offensive.	Sar, a repulse; insult, offence.
זרה, to disperse; to winnow.	Saru, to throw off, to repulse; to insult.
זר, זרה, מזור, a stranger.	Sarai, mysar, that is thrown or pushed off.
זר, a rim, a bandlet; a crown.	Ser, seri, that tends round; a billhook.

ח

חב, חבה, חבא, to lay up close, to hide.	Cub, a bundle; cubaw, to make into a heap.
חדל, to cease, to desist, to leave.	Gadel, gadu, to desist, to leave; to forsake.

חרל, the world, or the universe.	Gwadal, that is fixed, firm, or established.
חרר, a recess, a retired place; a chamber.	Cader, a strong hold, or fortress; a chair.
חוה, Eve, the first woman.	Chwyfai, that exerts motion, that has motion.
חזה, to look upon, to see: to contemplate.	Gwyddaw, to become perceptible or present.
חזה, חזון, חזיון, מחזה, a vision, a sight that is shown.	Gwydd, knowledge; presence: gwyddon, a knowing one, a perceiver; one having presence.
חח, חוח, any hooked, prickly, or bushy stuff, briar, thorn; a clasp, a fibula; a bracelet.	Cuwch, that is wrinkled; a knitting of the brows, or a frown.
חט, חטה, to tie up, to bind; to restrain.	Cadw, to keep, to guard; to save.
חיה, to live, or to have life.	Chweiaw, to be volatile, brisk, or lively.
חי, life; living, lively, vivacious.	Chwai, ertness; alert; brisk; nimble, quick.
חיה, חית, a living creature, an animal.	Chwaiai, that is recipient of motion, or activity.
חך, the palate; the mouth.	Ceg, a mouth, an inlet, or outlet.
חל, חלל, to break in upon, to violate: wounded, smitten; slain.	Cwll, what separates; a stomach: cyllu, to separate, to divide.
חלה, to hurt, to annoy, to grieve; to be sick.	Cwl, a fault: cwlau, to hurt; to become sick.
חלי, sickness, illness, malady.	Cwli, a weak state, sickness.
חול, the sand or beach of the sea.	Chwal, a spread, a dispersion.
חלץ, the loins. Kings shall come out of thy loins.	Coludd, bowels, or entrails.
חמה, חומה, a wall, a mound. The waters were a wall on the right and on the left.	Cwm, a rounding or rising up, the sides of hills forming a hollow.
חמד, to desire, to long after; to take pleasure in; also desire.	Cymmodi, to be sociable; to reconcile; to covenant.
חמק, to turn aside: חמוקי, the joints of the thighs.	Cameg, what is bent; a felly: camegu, to form bends or fellies.
חמש, five, from the number of the fingers, and their use in counting: also חמשה, חמשת, five.	Cymmys, and cyfys, from cy and bys, the finger in conjunction: also cymmysai, and cymmysaeth.
חן, חנן, to be kind, gracious, or favourable.	Cwynaw, cwynain, to utter complaint.
חן, kindness, grace, or favour.	Cun, one that attracts, a chief; kind, gracious.
חונן, one that is kind, gracious, or merciful.	Cunon, a kind or gracious one.
חנון, kindly disposed, gracious merciful.	Cunain, attractive, kindly disposed.
חין, graceful, comely: חין ערכו, his comely body.	Cain, bright, fair: ei gain gorff o.
חנון, חנינה, תחנה, תחנון, supplication.	Cwynan, the uttering plaints, a complaint.
חנה, to pitch a tent, or to encamp.	Chwaenu, to come abruptly, or by chance.
חנה, תחנה, a pitching, or encamping.	Chwaen, chwaena, a hap, a start; a pitch.

חנית, a spear, a halbert, a pike.	Conad, conaeth, a point; a shaft.
חסר, a turning from; חסר הוא, it is a bad or wicked thing.	Casedd, hatefulness, hatred; an odious thing.
חסד, goodliness; mercy: חסדו, its goodliness, his love, or good will.	Cysed, what tends to assuage; a quiet state, quietude.
חסות, מחסה, shelter, refuge, safety.	Cysaeth, mychysaeth, security; quietude.
חפה, to cover over: חפו, they covered.	Cyfu, to compass, to hem in, to surround.
חוף, a sea-port, where ships are under cover.	Cwf, that hems in or encompasseth.
חפז, to be in a hurry, or flurried.	Chwyfan, to flutter; to heave; to hover.
חפץ, to delight in any thing, to fancy.	Hoffeddu, hoffi, to render delightful; to like.
חפץ, delight; frankness; willingness.	Hoffedd, delight; endearment, fondness.
חוץ, what is divided; a field; a street: על פני חוץ, upon the field.	Cwys, a division; a gore; a furrow; hul pen y cwys, the cover of the furrow head.
חר, חרה, to heat, to kindle, to incense.	Chwerwi, to become bitter; to embitter; to incense.
חרי, חרן, חרון, heat, anger, or ire.	Chwerw, that is acrid; a bitter; bitter, severe.
חרים, חורים, noble or illustrious ones: בן חורים, a son of nobles.	Cawri, great ones of strength, or stature; giants; mab cawri, son of mighty ones.
חרס, the solar fire; the sun.	Gwres, sun heat; ardency; fever.
חרס, some hot fiery humour.	Gwres, heat, inflammation; fever.
חש, חשה, to hurry, to hasten; חושה, haste, stay not. חשי, hurry, haste.	Chwysu, to sweat: chwysa, be thou in a sweat; chwys, chwysi, sweat.
חת, חתת, to sink down, to bring down or under; to reduce; to cast down.	Cwth, an ejection; cethi, to eject, to cast out, to expel, to force out.

ט

טב, good; goodly, fair, sweet, pleasing, profitable, regular, in order.	Tef, that tends to spread out; an even spread; a spread, or layer.
טהר, clean, clear, pure, refined; also clearness.	Ter, subtile, pure, clear, refined, transparent, clarified.
טח, to overlay, to daub, to plaster; a daub, a plaster.	Tawch, that rises or stretches over; vapour, haze: tochi, to cover with haze.
טח, the inside: טחות, inward parts.	Tech, a hidden place; a skulk, a lurk
טיט, mud, mire, or clay.	Tud, ground, soil; a surface, a region
טור, טיר, טר, a row, a rank, a range.	Tor, a bulge, a swell out, a prominence.
טל, dew, or fallen vapour.	Til, a minute particle, a grain.
טלל, to cover, to envelop, to enclose.	Telu, to expand over: telyw haf, summer covering.
טף, little children, or youngsters.	Twf, growth, growth in the aggregate
טיר, a castle; a habitation, a town, a village.	Twr, a tower; tref, a habitation; a town.
טרף, to break in pieces, to snap a bit, to tear.	Tori, to break, to fracture; to cut.
טרף, that is chaced; prey, or spoil.	Tarf, expulsion; a scare, a drive, a flight.

י

יגון, to grieve, to vex, to afflict.	Igiaw, igian, to sob, to sigh deeply.
יגון, grief, sorrow, or affliction.	Igian, a sobbing, or a sighing deeply
יד, ידה, to cast, to put forward; to handle; to shoot, to throw, to cast	Id, that is stretched out; a point: idiaw, to push out; to render acute
יד, a hand, or the fore limb.	Adaf, a hand, what takes hold.
יד, a banner, a monument; a trophy	Id, that is drawn or stretched out.
יל, ילל, to cry out, to exclaim, to howl	Wylaw, to cry, to weep, to wail.
יונה, a dove; an emblem of love.	Ion, a source, or origin; the Lord.
יצר, the ׳ mutable, to form, to fashion	Saeru, to act as a wright, joiner, or mason.
יצר, one who formeth, a fashioner.	Saer, a wright, a carpenter, a mason.
יש, is, or are; there is, there are.	Oes, there is; is there? A oes yma neb? Oes.
יתר, overplus, remainder; excellence; also a string, as of a bow, a cord.	Eithr, that is besides or over; an exception; except; but.

כ

כבד, weight; glory, weighty: heavy	Cyfoeth, power, dominion; wealth, riches.
כבד, the liver, the organ so called.	Cyfewd, a coming or rising together.
כבש, to bring under, to keep in subjection, to subdue.	Cyfasu, to bring down together, to subdue together.
כד, a pitcher, a bottle, a jar, a jug.	Ced, a receptacle to keep any thing in
כד, destruction, ruin, ravage.	Cid, havoc, ravage, destruction.
כידון, supposed to be a dart: Joshua put it out as a sign to an ambuscade	Cudyn, a flowing lock of hair or wool, a flowing ringlet.
כה, masculine, and כי, feminine, a restrictive particle: thee; thine; there; here; so.	Cw, a rounding; quick motion; wherefrom, whence; at or in what place, where.
כי, restriction, used as a particle; why, wherefore, so, therefore; but; if; because.	Cy, a particle denoting a mutual act, or quality, or effect. Cy gynted, as quick.
כהן, a priest; a minister of God; also of a king.	Cwyn, a setting in motion, or agitating; a plaint, a complaint.
כלא, to restrain, to withhold, to confine.	Ciliaw, to draw back, to recede; to drive back.
כלא, כליא, confinement; a prison.	Cilfa, a retired place, a recess, a retreat.
כלי, any piece of work, or thing done: a tool, an instrument: כלי ביתך, the utensils of thy house.	Celfi, tools, instruments, or utensils: also any trifling things: celfi dy fwth, the utensils of thy house.
כן, some insect that settles in the skin; louse.	Chwain, fleas, from their nimbleness.
כן, right, fixed, stable: adverb, so.	Can, sight; brightness; because; for; as; with; of.
כנס, to heap, to gather, to collect together.	Cynnwys, to concentrate; to contain; to admit.
כס, כסה, a covering; a covered place	Cas, a being separated; a castle; hate, envy.
כסל, the flank, or loins, the haunches	Cesail, the arm-pit, the bosom; a cove
כף, a curvity, or bending over; the bottom of the foot; the hollow of the hand; a vault.	Caf, what curves inward; a grapple, a grasp, a rake with bent prongs; a snatch.
כפת, a stem, a stock, as of a tree.	Cyf, a stock, a stem, a stump, or boll

כפל, coupled or double; כפול, a couple.	Cwpwl, a junction, or joint; a couple
כרי, כרים, soldiers keeping guard by their going round; patroles.	Cor, a round, a circle; cori, rounds, circles: cor, is also a crib, or stall
כר, to dig, or to delve; to turn the ground.	Cori, to turn; to form rounds or circles.
כת, כתת, to break, to bruise, or to wear to pieces; to dissipate; a wearing away.	Cothi, to cast off, to throw off, to eject, to squirt: a throw off: a squirt.
כתן, a coat, or vesture; raiment: Χιτων.	Coden, what envelopes; a bag; ceden, a shaggy coat.

ל

לא, לוא, not; nay; nothing. לא צר, not oppressed.	Llai, lesser, less; it is used for lleiach, smaller: llai sar, less offence.
לאט, to cover, or to conceal: to suppress, to be silent.	Llethu, to press flat: to overlay or press down.
לבא, לביא, a lion, male or female.	Lleibai or lleibiai, that licks up.
לחם, to burn, to set on fire.	Llidiaw, to inflame; to grow angry.
לז, to wrest, to turn aside, to distort; to depart: perverse.	Llysu, to bar out, to put aside, or to reject. Llys and llysiad, rejection.
לח, לוח, a slab, a plank, a table: לחת, tables, or slabs.	Llech, a flat stone, a slab: also a squat, a sculk: llechoedd, llechau, and llechi, slabs, flat stones.
לחי, the flat part or side of the face.	Llechwedd and llechi, the side of the face, the temple.
לט, to drop, to hang as a drop: a drop; also dropping, pendant. בלט, cautiously.	Lledd, that is prone or flat: a flat: lleddu, to make flat; to become flat
לט, some rich gum; what drops.	Llydd, that is diffusive: that is poured out.
ליש, a lion, from לש, to temper the chops, as a sign of greediness.	Llwys, that is cleared or cleaned: that clears or cleans out.
לכד, to take, to catch, to lay hold on.	Llochiadu, to mound, to pen up, to fold.
לכד, a taking, or catching; a trap.	Llochiad, a forming a mound or dam, a penning up.
לן, to lodge, to stay, to harbour at a place.	Llen, a cover, a veil: llenu, to cover, to veil.
לע, to swallow, to gulp: the swallow.	Llyngu or llyncu, to swallow: llwng, the swallow.
לץ, to repeat; to explain: to interpret	Llithiaw, to allure, to train: to read a lesson.
לץ, and לצון, a repeater; an interpreter, or explainer.	Llith, that is given as nurture, a lesson. Llithion, one who allures; a trainer, a lecturer.
לש, to temper; to knead, or work about.	Llws, mucilage, slime: llwsu, to yield mucilage, to slime.
לשד, moisture; juice of plants; fresh oil.	Llysaid, a slimy state, mucilage.
לשן, to tongue; to abuse; to prattle.	Lleisoni, to produce a voice; to form the voice.
לשן, לשון, the tongue; language; Arabic, Lisan.	Lleison, the organ that forms the voice.

מאד, strength, might; greatness: adverb, very much: entirely.	Med, that is full, perfect, or mature: as far as to the full; to, unto, as far as.
מאס, to abhor, to despise: to reject, to cast off.	Masu, to depart; to swoon, or to faint away.
מג, מגג, to melt away, to dissipate, to dissolve.	Mygu, to become smoke; to smoke; to suffocate.
מגד, what is excellent, or precious: thus, pleasant things are פרי מגדים.	Myged, reverence, honour; grandeur; glory: mygedion, grand things.
מד, מדד, to mete, to measure.	Medu, to render extended, full, or perfect.
מד, מדה, ממד, a measure.	Med, medai, that is full or perfect.
מה, מי, how? what? who?	Mae, there is; is there? what is? where is?
מהר, to hasten, to speed, to be quick; also one that is hasty or rash.	Meru, to flit, to drop: mer, that is dropped off or parted; a drop.
מט, מטט, to slide, to slip aside or asunder: thus, בל מוט, is, they cannot be moved.	Mudaw, and symudaw, to flit, to move, to quit; also ymmod, motion; and ymmodi, to move.
מל, to cut, to chop, to chop off, to cut down, to bray, or to bruise.	Malu, to bray or break small, to grind; malu ewyn, to chafe, to foam at the mouth, as a horse doth.
מל, מלל, to speak, to talk: מלה, a word.	Malu, to liken: to joke; to utter levity.
מל, to cut off the top; to circumcise.	Moeli, to make bare or bald the top or head.
מול, plural. מלים, circumcised.	Moel, bare, bald: plural moelion, bald ones.
מולה, circumcision, that is a baring the top.	Moelaeth, the act of making bare or bald.
מל, מול, opposite to, near to, over against.	Moll, that surrounds, closes upon, or includes.
מלא, to fill, to fill up: to complete: fulness.	Mola, to concrete matter, to form gum.
מלח, to salt, to season with salt: salt, or saltness.	Molochi, to raise a ferment: moloch, ferment. Prydain arfoloch, Britain in a ferment.
מלחה, pervaded by salt; barren.	Molochw, that has passed through a ferment.
מלאכה, work, affair to be managed; affair, business.	Maeloca, the act of trafficking, or a merchandising.
מלאך, an agent, a messenger; an angel.	Malwch, one that is light or volatile.
מלך, to have supreme power, to reign, to rule.	Maelychu, maelogi, to act as a manager, or trader.
מלך, a sovereign, a king, or a prince: also the title of an object of worship—Moloch.	Maelawg, maelwg that has means of power, that has abundance; that has traffick.
מלכן, a brazen image of Moloch, so named, probably from its form of a bust.	Maelgwn, the summit or head of power: the name of a king of Wales, who died A. D. 542.
מלכה, the queen of heaven, the ruler of heaven; the moon.	Maelocai, a teeming one: that tends to increase.
מלוכה, ממלכה, מלכות, a kingdom; reign.	Maelogaeth, a state of teeming or abundance.
מלץ, sweet, of a sweet savour or smell	Melys, sweet, dulcet: a sweet.

מנח, to dispose into classes or ranges, to sort.	Moni, to individualize, to become a separate one.
מן, מנה, מין, מינה, a species, or kind; likeness, or appearance; a peculiar thing; a particle like hoar, which the Israelites on seeing, called out מן הוא! it is a species of itself; as they knew not what it was	Mon, a separate or isolated being: man, a spot, a speck; a place: man, what consists of small particles: manion, small particles of any thing: man yw fo, a speck it is, or yw fo man, it is a spot.
מנה, מנים, plural, a sum or quantity of money.	Mwnai, that is formed of or having ore; money.
מין, מינה, kind, or species: למינו, after his kind.	Mynw, an individual; a person, a body.
מני, an object of idolatry: a drink offering to מיני, that number; therefore מניחי, I will number you to the sword. Isaiah lxv. 11.	Menw, an intellect, mind, or soul: also a mythological personage, stiled Menw mab teirgwaedd, or Menw the son of three cries.
מני, to rule, to order: what is regular, rule, order.	Mynu, to will, to exert volition; to obtain.
מסח, מסס, to melt, to dissolve, to loosen: a soft or melting mood; voluptuousness.	Masu, to volatilize; to swoon, to faint. Maswedd, a volatile state; voluptuousness.
מסך, to mix, or to intermingle.	Mysgu, to mix, to intermingle, to blend.
מץ, מצה, to squeeze, to press together, to crush, to squeeze out; also a squeezer.	Mathu, to render flat or even; mathru, to tread or trample: that is flat, spread out, or even.
מצא, to find, to meet with, to come upon; to supply; to be present: to succeed.	Meddu, to possess, to own, to have, to have command of: to be able.
מריא a fatling; plural מריאים	Merydd, a fatling; plural meryddon.
מש, משש, to feel, to handle, to take hold: משה, to take or draw out: to remove.	Moes, conduct, behaviour; civility: moesa, to give, or to confer: to hand.
מת, מתח, to die: מתי, I die.	Methu, to fail; to become inert: methwyf, I fail.
מת, a dead person: מתים, mortals.	Meth, a failure; a state of inertness.
מתק, pleasant, agreeable, sweet.	Mwythawg, tender; soothed; pampered; softening.

נ

ניד, comfort, or solace; joy; ease.	Naid, a refuge, or a sanctuary.
נהה, to make a moaning, to grieve.	Neuaw, to wish earnestly, to long, to pant.
נה, ני, נהי, a lament, a moan, a wail.	Neu, a pant, or an earnest wish.
נהר, to run as a stream, to flow; to run: a stream.	Nar, that tends out; that is forward: abortion.
נוה, a home, a dwelling a habitation.	Naf, a hollow; a place of rest; heaven.
נץ, to shoot out, to fly out or upon.	Nwyth, a drift; a whim: nwythaw, to do a freak.
נתח, to cut in pieces; to dissect.	Naddu, to chip; to cut with any tool.

ס

סבך, to entangle; to perplex, to vex.	Sybachu, to draw in a heap, to shrink up.
סבך, a tangle; a thicket, or brake.	Sybach, that is drawn in a heap.

סג, סוג, סיג, scum, dross, or dregs.	Soeg, that is seethed; draff; grains of malt.
סגר, to enclose, to shut up; to confine.	Segru, to enclose; to put apart; to secrete.
סגר, what encloses; a caul; a border.	Segr, that keeps apart; that is enclosed.
סד, סוד, to lay a foundation, to found; to advise: to ordain.	Sodi, to fix, to constitute, to implant; to limit.
סד, סוד, foundation, or base; council; secret.	Sawd, tendency; juncture; extremity, limit.
סח, סחח, to sweep, or to brush off any thing.	Sychu, to dry; to grow dry; to wipe.
סט, to turn aside: a turn aside, plural, סטים, those that turn aside.	Swydaw, to intimidate, to awe: swydion, intimidated or scared ones.
סך, סכה, סכך, to cover over, as a tent; to shelter; a covering; a shelter, a covert.	Swchu, to envelope the point of a thing, as a cone: swchu esgid, to toe-piece a shoe.
סך, that covers, or is covered; a shelter, a covert; also written סוך.	Swch, a snout; a soo, or share of a plough: swch esgid, point of a shoe.
סכה, plural סכת, a booth; a tent.	Swchai, that envelopes in the form of a cone.
סכל, to be thoughtless, foolish, or silly.	Siglaw, to waver, to act with fickleness.
סכל, thoughtless, foolish, silly: a fool.	Sigl, a waver, a shake or rocking; a wag.
סכלות, thoughtlessness, folly, stupidity.	Siglaeth, a state of wavering or fickleness.
סל, סלה, to exalt, to elevate, to raise.	Syllu, to gaze. Sylla, sela, behold! lo!
סלם, a ladder, a gradual raise.	Sylam, that serves for a step or a stride.
סע, סעה, to move along, or to proceed.	Sangu, to tread, to trample, to tramp along.
סעד, to stay, or to prop; to strengthen: also a stay or prop.	Sangadu, to make a step: sangad, a pace, a tread, a trampling.
סר, to turn aside, to turn off; to take a huff.	Sòri, to offend; to become sulky, to sulk.
סר, סור, סורר, one that revolts, or turns off.	Sor, a sulk: sorai, one that sulks or revolts.
סרה, a turning away; revolt; aversion.	Sor, a sulk; sullenness; aversion.
סת, to stir up, to irritate; to entice: also a stirring up, or irritation; enticement.	Sythu, to render erect or stiff: erectness, rigidity; erect, stiff; rigid.
סתו, winter, or the cold season.	Sytha, that causes stiffness or rigidity

ע

עד, to set, appoint, constitute, or fix: an appointment; a set portion, or an allotment; a witness; any length of time: עד, מני, of old.	Oedi, to set a time, to make an appointment; to delay: Oed, a set time; age; an appointment; yn oed y dydd, during the day: plentyn blwydd o oed, a child of a year old.
עד, עדי, עוד, to, unto; yet; whilst: כל עוד, all the while.	Hyd, to, unto, until; whilst: hyd yma, as far as here; o hyd, all the while.
עדה, an assembly; a putting off; protest; testimony, evidence.	Oedi, a setting of time; an appointment; a putting off, or delaying.
עדי, plural עדיים, an ornament.	Eddi, flue; fringe: also thrums.

עדן, delight; delicacy; delicate, nice.	Addwyn, what is fair; delight: becoming; kind.
עדן, the name of a country; Eden.	Addwyn, that is intellectual.
על, עלה, to be up or upon; to ascend.	Hulaw, to cover, to deck, to spread over.
על, above, up, over, on high.	Hul, a cover; a coverlet; a mat.
על, עליון, on, upon: near by.	Hul, hulyn, what covers; a coverlet.
על, עול, a yoke. לא עלה עליה על, which no yoke hath come upon.	Hwyl, a course; regimen, order; plight, or state; also a sail.
עלה, עולה, what ascends; burnt offering.	Hulai, that tends to cover, or to overspread.
עלה, a leaf; also a branch.	Hulai, that tends to cover, that forms a cover.
ענן, to cloud: a cloud: בענני ענן, when I cloud a cloud.	Haenen, a stratum; a sprinkling; a covering: pan haenwyf haenen.
עץ, plural עצים, a tree; wood.	Gwydd, a shrub, a tree: a wood.
ער, ערה, to pour out, to stir up, to rouse.	Gweiriaw, to shoot out; to make hay.
ער, a stirrer up, a rouser, a mover.	Gwair, that shoots out, is brisk, or luxuriant; hay.
ער, plural ערות, a juicy plant; papyrus.	Gwyr, that is luxuriant or verdant; verdancy.
ערב, Arabia: Arabia is a peninsula.	Gwyreb, that juts out; a peninsula.
ערב, the evening, or night-fall.	Gwyrfa, the place of declination.
עשק, to press down, to oppress; also a pressure, or oppression.	Gwasgu, to press, to squeeze: gwasg, a press; pressure.
עת, a time or season of any thing.	Gwaith, course, turn, or time; season
עות, to distort, to wrest, to writhe.	Gwaethu, to deteriorate, to hurt.
עתד, עתוד, an he goat; a ram; from the idea of their pushing.	Gwthiad, that butts, or pushes: a pusher.

פ

פגר, a carcase, or a dead body.	Pegor, a pivot; a dwarf; a pert little body.
פז, to be stiff; to be dense; to be strong.	Pwysaw, to weigh; to press, to weigh down.
פז, that is dense; solid metal; solid gold.	Pwys, weight, pressure, moment.
פח, to blow, to give wind; to vent.	Puchaw, to pant; to sigh: puch, a pant.
פחד, to be amazed; to surprise, to astonish.	Puchadu, to make a panting: to sigh.
פחד, amazement, surprise, dread.	Puchad, a producing a panting; a sighing.
פיד, destruction, ravage, havoc, ruin	Pyd, that sinks or falls in; a pit, a snare.
פלג, to divide, to sever, to share.	Pellogi, to render of remote state.
פלג, a division, a distribution.	Pellwg, a distant or remote state.
פלד, it is rendered torches.	Peiliad, a brandishing, a gleaming.
פלה, to separate, to sever; to divide	Pellu, and pellau, to render distant.
פנה, to turn to, to turn about.	Penu, to head; to come to head or end.
פנה, a turning, a corner: the פנות, chief of the tribes of Israel: a corner stone is אבן פנחת.	Pen, a head, a front: an end or extremity: penaeth, a chief, or principal: a corner stone, maen penaetha
פנים, in regimen פני, the face or fore part.	Pen, a head: a front: an end: a fore part.
פניאל, face of God, a place so called.	Pen-i-el, a head or front to a spirit.

פסח, to halt, to limp, to be lame.	Pesycku, to intermit; to cough.
פסח, the passover; but literally a halting at, or stopping at.	Paswck, and peswck, an intermittent effort: a cough.
פר, to break, to fracture; to cut off.	Pori, to graze, from pawr, what is grazed.
פר, a bullock: plural פרות, kine; and פרים, bulls.	Porai, that grazes, a grazing animal: poreion, grazers.
פור, a lot, destruction: plural פורים: to throw down: to break.	Bwrw, a cast, a throw; a woof; a tally: to cast, to throw down.
פרור, a boiling pot, or a kettle.	Pair, a cauldron, or a boiler.
פרד, to separate, to divide, to part off	Paredu, to make a partition, to partition.
פרם, a village, or open town.	Pres a resort: a covert: pres y ci, a dog-kennel.
פרך, It is rendered rigour: the Egyptians made the Israelites serve with rigour.	Parch, awe, respect, reverence, honour: parchu, to be in awe; to respect.
פרץ, to break forth, to burst, to spread abroad: a breach, a breaking forth: a destroyer: Mount Perizim.	Preiddiaw, to make a booty of cattle, to predate: praidd, a herd; a booty of cattle, to predate: praidd, a herd; a booty of cattle: mynydd preiddiau.
פריץ, one that bursts forth; a robber	Preiddiai, one that hunts for prey; a depredator.
פרש, to spread, stretch out, or extend	Prwysaw, to protrude: presu, to hurry
פרש, a rider, upon any animal.	Prwysai, one that urges or presses on.
פש, to increase, to grow big: that is great, or of weight. בפש מאד, with great extremity.	Pwysaw, to weigh: to press: to oppress: pwys, weight, pressure: myned wrth bwys, to go on leisurely; peth o bwys, a thing of moment.
פשתה, flax, the filament of the plant.	Peisiaeth, coating: peiswyn, chaff of oats.
פשע, to stride, to take a step; to march: also the stride by which we step: a step.	Pysang and mysang, a trample: pysangu and mysangu, to trample.
פת, a bit, a morsel, a mouthful.	Peth, a thing; a small quantity, a little; some.
פת, a hinge, that part of the body on which it turns, the hip; fickle; sudden.	Pwyth, that runs in; a point; a turn; an angle, a stitch; a requital.
פת, to slide, to slip, or to glide.	Pwythaw, to thrust in; to form an angle; to stitch.
פתה, פתי, easily turned; fickle; simple.	Pwythaidd, having a tendency to thrust in.
פתן, it is rendered the asp, or adder.	Python, a period or circle of time.
פתח, to open, in a general sense; to loose; to grave, to engrave; to carve: a laying open; an engraving; a carved work: an aperture; a door.	Peithwchu, and peithwgu, to make clear or open: peithwch, and peithwg, that is open or clear; that abounds with openings, as a comb; hunting ground.
פתל, to twist, to twine together.	Pwythyllu, to form interstices or intertexture.
פתיל, a twist; a cord; a thread; a lace.	Pwythell, an interstice, an intertexture.
פתר, to open, to explain; to interpret, to expound dreams, or oracles: an opening, or expounding.	Peithori, to lay open, to explore. The Gauls called the priests of Apollo pateræ: peithorau, expounders.

צ

צד, a side; a turn; a hunt; בצדה, in the side thereof.	Sid, a turn; a rim; a circle; a wind, a reel.
ציד, צידה, that is aside, store, provisions; a hunting: also one that hunts.	Sidai, a recipient of turns or courses; one that winds about.
צדיה, a laying by, or in wait, a sculk	Sidiaw, to wind about: a winding about.
צדק, exact, righteous; just: righteousness: to render exact, to justify	Sodig, that is fixed or constituted: sodigaw, to render fixed or exact.
צדקה, exactness, righteousness, justice.	Sodica, that is fixed or implanted.
צדיק, one that is exact or just; a just man; one that can justify.	Sodawg, that is implanted or exact; one that is fixed or exact.
צח, to be dried up; to desiccate: such a hue as a dry wind gives: pale, white.	Sychu, to dry; to be dried, to desiccate; to wipe: hin sych, dry weather.
צח, dry; white, pale: a dry wind.	Sych, dry, parched: syched, thirst, drought.
צחחה, a drought: that is dry, dry.	Sych-sych, drought upon drought.
צחק, to laugh, to deride; to sport.	Swchoca, to make mouths, to grimace
צין, ציון, a title; a way-mark; a sign.	Senw, a mark, sign, or stigma.
צל, צלל, a shadow: shelter: צלמות, shadow of death: the plural of צלם, an image, is צלמות.	Sel, a distant sight or glance: selw, a gaze, a beholding, a view: selw meth, a sight of annihilation.
צם, to be empty; to fast: צום יצם, fasted a fast: צמים, robbers.	Somi, to produce emptiness; to balk, to disappoint.
צום, the being empty: a fasting.	Som, a vacuity, or a void; a balk.
צמא, to hunger; to thirst: emptiness, thirst, or hunger.	Soma, to gather emptiness: emptiness, a void state.
צמת, to bring to nothing; to vanish, to waste, to consume.	Somaethu, to produce emptiness, or a void state.
צעד, to step, to go along; to march.	Sangu, sangadu, to step; to trample.
צעד, צעדה, מצעד, a stepping; a march, a treading, a pacing.	Sangad, sangiada, ymsangiad, mysangiad, a treading, a trampling.
צעה, a throwing down, or prostrating; a travelling.	Sangu, to trample, to tread upon.
צעצע, tread to tread; he made two cherubims of צעצע, mutual movement.	Sang-sang, tread to tread, of mutual tread, or stepping together.
צר, to vex, to afflict, to straiten, to press together; to bind up.	Sarâu, to throw off; to abuse; to insult, to offend; to injure.
צר, צרר, צורר, צרור, that afflicts, that oppresses, an enemy: vexed: straitened, close, narrow, bound up.	Sar, that is on or along; that is apt to cast down; fury, rage; insolence: offence: disgrace, reproach
צר, some cutting tool; a knife: a flint	Ser, that tends to enclose; a bill, or bill-hook.

ק

קבל, to receive, to accept, to obtain.	Cafael, to get, to obtain, to have.
קבל, an engine of war; a grapple.	Gafael, a hold, a gripe, a grapple.
קב, to hollow out; to dent, to pierce	Cibaw, to form a vessel, shell, or pod
קב, a vessel of measure, as is supposed; a cob.	Cib, a vessel; a shell, a pod: cibyn, a peck measure.
קבה, the maw; the belly, or paunch.	Cwb, a concavity; a cote, or kennel; a hut.

קד, to bend or bow down the head.	Cwyddaw, to fall, to lapse; to tumble
קו, קוה, a line, a string, a cord.	Caw, a bine, a bind, a tie, a band, a bandage.
קל, to abate: to see if the waters הקלו, were abated; lightness, vileness; despised, vile.	Ciliaw, to retreat; to retire; to chace, to drive away: cil, a recess; a flight, a retreat.
קלט, to contract, to shrink.	Caledu, to harden; to grow hard or dense.
קלע, to sling; a sling; what is slung, also a slinger: a hanging.	Gollwng, to let go; to loosen: a departing point; a loosening.
קם, קום, what is raised or set up; a rising up; a statue: an image; also one that rises up, an insurgent; to raise up; to arise; to stand up, to fix.	Cwm, a rounding together; a hollow, by the rising of the sides: the sides of hills forming a dingle; a deep valley: cwman, a buttock; a kive.
קן, קנה, a reed; a cane; a pipe; a stalk.	Cawn, what is empty; canes, reed-grass.
קן, קנה, to get, to acquire, to obtain; to purchase.	Canu, to have in possession or with: to be with.
קנה, קנן, to lament, or to bewail.	Cwynaw, cwynain, to complain, to lament.
קנה, קונה, one who acquires or gets; a buyer.	Canai, a recipient of possession.
קינה, lamentation, or complaining.	Cwyna, a reiteration of complaint.
קנא, zeal: envy, jealousy: one that is zealous; an envious one.	Ceina, a glancing cautiously: ceiniaw ni lwydd, it is useless to pry.
קנוא, one full of zeal; a jealous one.	Ceinai, one that looks suspiciously.
קיר, קריה, in regimen קרית, plural קריות, a wall: בקיר החומה, on the battlement of the wall.	Caer, a wall or mound; a fortified camp; a fort, a fortress; caer sidi, the ecliptic.
קרן, to shoot forth, to cast rays or horns; to have horns.	Corni, to be formed as a horn; to have a horn.
קרן, a horn; a ray, or beam; a shoot	Corn, any pointed projection; a horn; a roll.
קש, stubble, bits of straw, or any refuse	Cws, cwswr, refuse of corn and straw
קשה, to be rigid, hard, or stiff; to be cruel; to harden.	Casau, to be severe; to be at enmity, to hate.
קשי, rigidity, stiffness, stubbornness.	Casi, hatred; envy: cesair, hard snow, hail.
קשת, a bow, for shooting with.	Cisaeth, that is by the effect of a touch or twang.

ר

ראה, to look; to see, to perceive.	Rheiaw, to ray, to gleam, to radiate.
ראי, the look; a gazing-stock; מראה, mirror.	Rhai, a ray, a glance, or a gleam: rheiaeth, radiation.
ראש, the head; a chief; a point; priority: principal, head, chief.	Rhys, a start, offset: a beginning. Pen Rhys, in Wales, and Start Point, in England, are synonymous names.
ראש, to sum up: a sum total; account.	Rhesu, to place in a rank, or row: rhes, a row, a rank.
ראשית, the chief or first; a beginning.	Rhysaeth, the act of putting on a start.
רב, to strive, to contend; to make words.	Rheibiaw, to snatch violently, to clutch.

ריב, רב, strife, contention, quarrel.	Rhaib, greed, voracity: a snatch, or clutch.
רבה, to increase; to multiply; to grow large.	Rhyfu, to enlarge, to swell out, to puff.
רב, that is large or big: great, large: much; enough.	Rhyf, that enlarges or swells out; a puff; pride: rhyf, rhy, too much, excess, extreme.
רוב, רב, multitude; greatness.	Rhyf, the state of being beyond or over: excess.
רבץ, to lie or squat down; to repose.	Rhybwysaw, to over-press, to preponderate.
רבץ, a reposing, a squatting down.	Rhybwys, over-pressure, preponderance.
רגל, to foot, to trace by the foot.	Rhuglaw, to move on briskly: to clear away.
רגל, a foot, a limb to move with.	Rhugl, that is of free motion; quick, ready.
רגן, to murmur, to mutter.	Rhegain, to make a murmur: to creak.
רגע, to be at ease, to settle, to rest; to pause.	Rhygyngu, to go leisurely, to amble.
רגע, a being easy; a pause; ease.	Rhygyng, an easy or ambling pace.
רדה, רד, to go down, to submit; to subdue, to have dominion.	Rheidiaw, to necessitate; to need, to render needful.
רדה, רד, a being down; submission: down.	Rhaid, need, necessity; that is unavoidable.
רוח, רח, wind; breath, breathing; spirit.	Rhoch, a forcible or rough utterance; a grunt.
רח, to blow; to breathe, to take breath: to wind.	Rhochi, to breathe forcibly: to grunt.
רח, to triturate, to grind: a mill.	Rhwgu, to triturate; to rub: rhwg, a rub.
רחת, something to fan with for blowing off chaff.	Rhochad, a blower, that blows roughly
רוחה, a breathing, or a blowing.	Rhocha, a making a rough noise: a grunting.
רוח, to wind; to smell; to stink.	Rhechu, to break wind forcibly; to fart.
רם, to raise, to lift up, to exalt; to be high.	Rhamu, to rise over; to soar; to vault.
רום, רם, high, exalted: height; exaltation; haughtiness.	Rham, exalted, soaring; a rise over; a reach over.
רמת, exaltation: praise, eulogy.	Rhamaeth, the state of being over or above.
רמה, to cast, to fling; to throw out; to report.	Rhemiaw, to run or thrust out, to puff out.
רעה, רע, noise, din, or clatter.	Rhinc, a continued sharp noise; a creak.
רעה, to be with, to accompany; to manage, to feed: a companion; a friend; a mate.	Rhangu, to accommodate; to render replete; to satiate: rhang, accommodation.
רוע, רעה, רע, a companion; a mate; also another: a shepherd; attendance; pasture.	Rhangai, one that fulfils or satisfies; one that renders conducive.
רץ, to run; to break, to crumble, to bruise.	Rhedu, to run, to perform a course, to race.
רץ, one that runs; a post; a soldier; what is made to run.	Rhedai, one that runs; one that produces a running.

רצה, to delight, to be pleased, to enjoy.	Rhwyddaw, to make easy; to become free.
רצן, רצון, delight; will, pleasure; acceptance.	Rhwyddon, a facilitating faculty.
רצד, to leap, to bound, or to jump.	Rhuthadu, to make a burst; to burst away.
רש, to drive out: to inherit: to succeed.	Rhusaw, to cause to start; to start; to hesitate.
רש, poor: ריש, poverty: רישון, driven out, expelled.	Rhus, that is started or driven out; also a fox.
רשע, to vex: to worst; to wrong: to be wrong.	Rhysangu, to over tread, to over trample.
רשע, worsting: vexing: wrong, injury.	Rhysang, an over-tread, an over-trample.

ש

שאל, שאול, the lowest state; the grave; a pit.	Sail, a base, a ground-work; a foundation.
שאון, משאון, noise; ostentation; pomp.	Son, ymson, noise, report, rumour.
שאר, to remain, to be left as a residue.	Sarau, to throw off; to injure; to insult.
שאר, שארית, remainder, remnant.	Sar, saraeth, a throw off; fury, insult.
שאר, שארית, ferment, leaven.	Sur, an acid; suraeth, sourness: acid sour.
שב, שבב, to turn; to turn to and fro; to change: a turn, a change, return.	Swbiaw, sybwbiaw, to pile or bundle together, to toss about: sybwb, a rumple.
שבת, to cease, to stop, to desist, to rest.	Seibiaw, seibaethu, to take respite, to rest.
שבת, שכתון, cessation, rest, leisure.	Seibiaeth, respite, leisure, rest.
שד, שדד, to harrass, to spoil, to dissipate.	Swydaw, to awe, to intimidate, to scare.
שד, שדד, שוד, שודד, a harrasser, a spoiler.	Swydai, that is a cause of intimidation.
שדי, that causes to be set forth; a maintainer, or establisher; the all-bountiful.	Swyddai, that has jurisdiction or office, that has service.
שדים, heathen gods, or idols; that is, heavenly bodies.	Sidydd, the tropics: sidoedd, revolvings; and sidion, revolving bodies.
השדים, a vale where now the dead sea is: if not so called from a temple to the stars of heaven, it might be from its immersion.	Soddion, immersions, or sinkings. If so named from a temple, the Welsh word sidion would be descriptive of it.
שד, to plaister; to bedaub; to lime.	Suddaw, to pervade; to moisten.
שיד, lime, burnt stone; plaister.	Sudd, what pervades; moisture; juice.
שט, שטה, to turn or go aside, to run aside.	Swta, to be volatile or sudden; to fly about.
שטן, to stand up against; an adversary: Satan.	Swydan, one that intimidates or scares.
של, שלל, to shed; to put off, to pull off.	Siliaw, to yield; to spawn; to hull grain.
שלה, to be easy, quiet, or inactive.	Swlau, to become flat or prone; to make flat.
שלו, שלי, שלם, tranquillity, ease, quiet.	Sw[illegible], the being flat, prone, or grounded.

שמט, to throw off: to dismiss, to cast out of the hand; to release.	Symudaw, to move, to stir, to remove; to displace.
שמטה, a throwing off; a discarding; a release.	Symud, motion, move, stir, or removal.
שמן, to fatten, to become fat; to make fat.	Seimian, seimiaw, to grease, to become greasy.
שמן, fat; rich juice; oil; ointment.	Saim, seimiant, grease, oily fat.
שנה, to hate, to dislike, to reject, to disapprove.	Senu, to taunt, to scoff; to chide; to reproach.
שק, a sack, a bag, or pouch.	Sach, a sack, or a bag: sachaid, a sackful.
שקל, to weigh, or to balance.	Siglaw, to vibrate as a balance: to shake, to rock.
שקל, weight: a coin so called: a weigher: and thus—משקלת is a plummet.	Sigl, vibration; a shake, a stir; a rocking: siglaeth, vibration.
שר, שרר, to regulate or order the voice; to sing: and שירה שיר, a song.	Saer, a wright, or mason: it is curious that the Welsh word cerdd is also a craft, and a song.
שרף, a burning; also a serpent.	Sarff, a serpent, or a dragon.
שרק, to hiss; to whistle, to blow.	Sarugaw, to be stern, surly, or austere.
שת, to set, to put; to beset; to appoint: also that is set or put.	Sythu, to stiffen, to make rigid or erect; to become stiff, rigid, or erect.
שת, a foundation; the buttocks.	Sedd, a sedate or still state; a seat.
שתן, the fixed threads in weaving; the warp.	Sythi, straight or stiff things, upshots.

ת

תכן, to fix the proportion or quantity of a thing: to establish.	Dogni, to settle a quantity, to proportion: to fix an allowance.
תכן, a settled quantity or proportion: a sum or tale, a total.	Dogn, a settled quantity, share, or proportion: sufficiency.
תלה, to hang up, or to suspend.	Telu, to put on a stretch, to strain.
תל, a heap, a pile, a mass.	Twl, what is rounded, also a toft.
תלי, a quiver for holding arrows.	Telai, that is strained; that is suspended.
תר, to turn or go about, as a person turns to look about him.	Troi, to turn, to wind, to wheel, to circulate.
תר, one who pries about, a traverser.	Troai, one that is made to turn or wind.
תר, a turn, order, or round: a prying	Tro, a turn, a round; a twist.
תר, תור, a turtle dove, from its wheeling in flight.	Tur, a turn, or reverse; an overturn
תם, תום, a whole: integrity: entirely.	Twm, a bend, a turn, a form; a round heap.

Examples of Greek and Welsh Affinities.

There are in the Welsh several characteristics, which discover it to have a greater affinity than any other language of Europe with the Greek; and, among the most prominent of those characteristics are the following.

The Welsh and the Greek agree in containing about an equal number of vowels and consonants; that is, upon an average, there are in each a hundred vowels to every hundred consonants. The language that approaches nearest to the like proportion is the Italian, the average of vowels wherein is eighty-eight to every hundred consonants; then follow in order, the Latin, the Spanish, the French, and the English.*

There is a great variety of qualifying prefixes in both the Greek and the Welsh, but in the latter tongue more particularly; for, enumerating such as are simple and compound together, it contains upwards of two hundred and fifty, and which are of universal application to all classes of words.

A considerable identity exists in respect to the conjugation of the verbs of the two languages, but more especially in each having reflective verbs, or those denominated of the middle voice; yet with this difference, that, in the Welsh, the qualifying agent is prefixed to the root of the verb, and in the Greek inserted between the root and the various terminations. Thus ymdwywyf is, in the Welsh, I regulate myself, and τιομαι, in Greek, is I honour myself: and the root of the former is twy, and of the latter τί is the, root.

The two languages are so alike in the general sound of their words, that the first impression upon strangers, from hearing the service of the church read in Welsh, is of its being the Greek which they hear.

The primitive words of the Welsh language are capable of being compounded almost infinitely, and generally upon similar principles to those of the Greek, so celebrated for this convenient quality. Thus Βοωπις, the Homeric epithet for the queen of heaven, might be expressed in the Welsh with equal elegance, by these words—buolwg, bulygad, budrem, budremant, budremiant and budremynt; or, in a plural form thus—buolygon, bulygaid, bylygadon, budremion, budremeinnion, budremiannion, and budremynnion. This epithet of Βοωπις discovers the poverty and inelegance of the French translation, wherein it is rendered Junon aux yeux de bœuf, which is scarcely better than beef-eyed Juno; but, in the Welsh, Juno-lygad-eidion is not quite so bad.

Again, βουκολος, a cow-keeper, has, in the Welsh, the very ancient equivalent term of Bygeilydd; and from which we might use the name of Bugeileg, or the speech of the herdsman, for the Bucolics of the poets.

Independently of the above mentioned analogies, we discover in both languages a large stock of primitive words, agreeing in sound and meaning, as is exemplified in the subjoined vocabulary.

A

Ἄγγος, ἀγγεῖον, a vessel: αγγεια, Matt. xiv. 4—8.	Angad, angan, angeian: angeiau—a receptacle.
Ἀγκαὶ, αγκαλαι, the arms.	Angeieu, angellau, a fore leg, a pinion; an arm.
Ἄγκυρα, an anchor.	Angor, a bearing round; an anchor.
Ἁδεω, to please, to delight, to content	Hoddiaw, to render easy: to become easy.
Ἀεί, always, ever, continually.	Au, a continuity of motion: the liver

* I have not made out the average in any of the Teutonic dialects, excepting the Dutch, which has a less proportion of vowels than the English.

'Αερ, air, the element to breath in.	Awyr, sky; air; the firmament.
'Αηγος, vehement, eager, or earnest.	Aethus, pungent, acrid; grievous.
Αἰγιαλος, the shore, or the sea coast.	Aigial, the bound or limit of the sea.
῞Αιδης, ἅδης, hell: πῦ σῦ, ἅδη τὸ νικος.	Had, seed; the bardic hell: py tau, had, dy nychad?
Αἴθω, to burn, to consume by fire.	Aethu, to be pungent; to smart; yoddeithiaw, to burn.
Αικάλλω, a fawn, a young deer.	Eigell, a teeming or bearing animal.
Αἰξ, a she goat.	Ewig, the she of deer, or a hind.
Αἴω, to hear, to perceive by the ear.	Oiaw, to hear; to hearken, or to listen.
Αιὼν, αιῶνος, an age, life.	Einioes, life, or the duration of life.
'Ακτὴ, the shore, or the sea-coast.	Aigdde, a shoaling spread; the sea shore.
'Αλείφω, to anoint, to rub with oil.	Eliaw, to anoint, to rub with salve.
'Αλίσκω, to take, to seize, or to catch	Hylusgaw, to drag, to trail along.
'Αλίω, to roll, or to turn about.	Oliaw, to track, to leave a trace.
'Αλλοίω, to change, or to alter.	Alleiaw, allu, to alternate, to alter.
'Αλς, salt.	Hal, halen, heli, hallt, salt, brine.
'Αλύω, to pine, or to languish.	Aelau, alaethu, to grieve, to pine.
'Αμφι, about, in a circle, around.	Am, about, round; for concerning.
'Ανία, sadness, dejection.	Annwyf, ENNUI, want of vivacity.
'Ανώγω, to instigate, to spur; to command.	Annogi, to incite, to instigate; to exhort.
'Αρα', prayers; vows, or promises.	Ar, the faculty of speech: arau, speeches.
῎Αρης, a title of Mars.	Aerwas, a youth of slaughter: a hero
῎Αρκτος, a bear, the animal so called.	Arth, a bear: arthes, a she-bear.
'Αροτῆς, a plougher, a ploughman.	Aradawr, a plougher: aradwr, a ploughman.
'Αρόω, to plough, or to till.	Aru, to plough, to till: aru tir, to till
'Αρτύω, to dress, to deck, to adorn.	Ardwyaw, to keep in trim, to keep in check.
Ασπις, a shield, or buckler.	Aes, a flat; a shield: aesbaith, a flat surface.
'Αυλὴ, an area; a hall, a court.	Gal, a clear space; dyna dy al, there is thy station.
Αὐλος, a pipe, or flute: αὐλα, pipes.	Awelai, any wind instrument.
Αυχέω, to vaunt, to boast, to brag.	Awchiaw, to be ardent; to sharpen.
'Αχλὺς, darkness, or obscurity.	Achlud, covert, concealment; darkness.
Αχλύω, to grow dark, to darken.	Achludaw, to cover with darkness; to conceal.

B

Βαίνω, to ascend, to mount up.	Banu, to elevate, to go to the top.
Βάθος, deepness, profundity, depth.	Bawdd, an immersion, a drowning.
Βαίος, little; small, diminutive.	Bach, little, small, tiny, or minute.
Βάλανος, an acorn; a bolt; a clasp.	Balant, a shoot, a spray; a bud.
Βάλλω, to throw, to dart, to fling.	Balu, to throw out, to eject; to shoot
Βὴξ, a cough.	Pas, peswch, that is expulsive; a cough.
Βίος, life: age, or duration of life.	Byw, bywyd, life, duration of life.
Βιὸς, a bow, for shooting with.	Bwa, a bow; an arch: bwa cyfammod, bow of covenant, rainbow.
Βόμβος, a buzz, a humming.	Bwmbwr, a hollow noise, a murmur.

Βορα, food, nourishment.	Bara, bread; food: bara miod, fritters.
Βυλὴ, counsel, or advice.	Pwyll, pwylla, impulse; reason, sense, wit.
Βυλέυω, to deliberate, to counsel.	Pwyllaw, to clear a way; to deliberate
Βϋνὸσ, a hill, an ascent, or rise.	Ban, bant, banad, a height, an ascent.
Βῦυς, an ox, kine, or cow; cattle.	Bu, biw, buch, buwch, an ox, or kine, a cow.
Βὸσκω, to graze, to feed.	Pesgi, to feed, to fatten, to grow fat.
Βραδὺς, dull, heavy, dejected.	Bradw, fretting away, diminishing.
Βραχίων, an arm; force, or strength.	Braich, breichiawn, an arm; strength of arm.
Βραχιόνιον, a bracelet, or armlet.	Breichionen, breichionyn, a bracelet.
Βράχω, to resound, to bruit; to brake	Brochi, to wax fierce, to bluster, to chafe.
Βρύχω, to bite, to gnash the teeth; to shiver.	Brwchu, to make a stir, or tumult.
Βρύω, βρυσω, to bud, to sprout.	Bruaw, brwysaw, to generate; to flourish.
Βρῶμος, a stink, a bad smell.	Bram, bramiad, a breaking wind.
Βρωμέω, to stink, to smell offensively.	Bramu, bremiaw, bremian, to break wind.
Βρωμίοδης, stinking, of ill scent.	Bremiadus, apt to break wind.
Βρώσκω, to eat; to browse, to graze.	Brwysgaw, to grow heavy, or unwieldy; to get drunk.
Βυκάνη, a trumpet.	Bugunai, that makes a bellowing.
Βῶλος, βώλαξ, a lump, a clod.	Bwl, bwlog, rotundity; a round hollow body.

Γ

Γαίω, to boast, to vaunt, or to brag.	Gawa, gewa, to stretch, or extend out.
Γάλα, γαλαξ, γαλακτος, milk.	Gal, what is fair; milk: galaeth, the galaxy.
Γένεσις, Genesis, generation.	Genidas, the act or state of bringing forth.
Γένος, kind, race or generation.	Genad, genadaeth, a generating; a being born.
Γένυς, the chin, the mandible.	Cen, the chin: car gen, the jaw bone.
Γέρανος, a crane, the bird so called.	Garan, a crane, the bird so called.
Γέρων, an old man, an old fellow.	Geryn, a querulous, or grumbling one.
Γλαφω, to carve, to engrave, to grave.	Gleifiaw, to blade, to use a blade.
Γλήνη, the apple of the eye, or pupil; the eye.	Glain, gleinai, what is pure; a gem; the pupil.
Γλῶσσα, γλωττα, the tongue.	Glwth, glytha, a couch, from its form; a voluptuary.
Γνάθος, the mouth, the jaw, or chops.	Gnwth, gnythawd, voracity: gnythai, a devourer.
Γοάω, a sigh, a wail, a weeping.	Gwae, woe; a wail, a moan; grief; a curse.
Γόης, a cheat, trickster, or deceiver.	Geuus, geuawg, that is false or lying.
Γραῖα, an old woman, or a hag.	Gerai, gwrach, a querulous one, a hag.
Γράφω, to engrave, to grave, to write.	Creifiaw, to notch: crafu, to scratch.
Γύνη, γυναιξ, a woman, a female.	Genai, genog, that generates; geneth, a girl.

Δ

Δαήρ, a brother-in-law, a step-brother.	Daw, dawawr, a boon; a son-in-law.
Δάκνω, to bite, to separate with the teeth.	Dogni, to divide into morsels: dygnoi, to bite.
Δακρυ, a tear: μετα δακρύον, with tears.	Dagr, deigr, deigryn, a tear: cyda dagrion, with tears: meddu deigrion, having tears.
Δαμάω, to tame, to make gentle.	Dofdu, dofi, to tame, to grow tame.
Δάνος, a gift: interest; usury, gain.	Dawn, doniad, a gift, or talent.
Δεκα, ten: δέκατος, tenth.	Deg, ten: degfed, degaid, tenth.
Δέρκω, to see, to look, or to behold.	Drychu, to make manifest; to give a look.
Δέργμα, a look, aspect, or appearance.	Drychfa, drychiad, drychiant, appearance.
Δηλέω, to deceive, to impose upon.	Twyllaw, to deceive, to cheat, to mislead.
Δηρις, quarrel, strife, debate, brawl.	Deriad, a bickering, or a brawling.
Διδάσκω, to teach: διδασκε, teach thou.	Dysgu, dyddysgu, to teach: dyddysga, do thou teach.
Δόλος, deceit, treachery, artifice.	Twyll, twyllad, deceit, cheating, fraud.
Δολόω, to deceive, to mislead, to cheat.	Twyllaw, to deceive, to cheat, to mislead.
Δονέω, δονεύω, to shake, or to move.	Twynaw, to move, or wave about; to nod.
Δοῦλος, a slave, a servant.	Dylai, dylad, that is owned or possessed.
Δράσσω, to snatch, to lay hold.	Treisiaw, to do violence; to ravish.
Δρῦς, δρυός, an oak; the oak.	Dar, derw, derwen, an oak; the oak.
Δυω, two: δύο ϝαι, two woes.	Dau, two, masculine: dwy, two, feminine: dwy wae, two woes.
Δοω, to give: δο εμι, I give.	Dodi, to give, to place: dodwyf, I give.
Δωρεω, to present: δῶρον, a gift.	Dyroi, to give, to present, to bestow.

E

῞Εαρ, ηρ, the spring, the vernal season.	Ir, that is verdant; verdant, green, juicy.
᾿Εαρίζω, to send the spring season.	Ireiddiaw, ireiniaw, to render juicy, or green.
Εγγὺς, near, contiguous, or close.	Wng, yngus, near, contiguous, or close
᾿Εγγίζω, to approach, to approximate.	Yngu yngiadu, yngusaw, to become near, to near.
Εδω, to eat, to take food, to feed.	Eidiaw, to enliven: ysu, to consume.
Επω: ειπον: ειπε μοι, he said to me.	Ebu, to say: ebwn: ebai imi, said he to me.
Εχ, from, or out of, and of.	Ach, off; near; by: ach ei law, by his hand.
Εἰλυω, to cover, or to envelope.	Huliaw, to cover, or to envelope.
᾿Εμοὶ, for me, or to me.	Imi, to me, or for me.
Εν, in: ἐν ἀγορᾶ in the market.	Yn, in: yn agorfa, in an open place.
Ενθα, adverb, there, on that side.	Yna, there, or in that place.
Ετι, as yet, yet: ἔρχοντει ετι δύο ϝαι.	Eto, yet, again: erchwyna eto ddwy wae, two woes are yet to come.

H

Ἤ, or: ἢ εἰπεῖν, Ἔγειρα, or to say, arise.	Ai: ai ebian, agora, or to say, open.
Ἧ, a pronoun: ᾗ ὄνομα, her name.	Ei, his, her, its: ei henw, her name.
Ἥλιος, and anciently, ἧλ, the sun.	Haul, the sun; also called huan.
Ἡνία, a bridle, or a head-stall.	Hoenai, hwynai, hoenen, hwynyn, a thong.
Ἠρέμος, soft, peaceable, or tranquil.	Araf, arafaidd, arafus, slow, soft, gentle.
Ἠρεμέω, to rest; to appease, to tranquillize.	Arafu, arafeiddiaw, arafusaw, to appease.
Ἡσυχοσ, ἡσυχαῖος, ease, quietude.	Heddwch, heddychiad, hedd, peace, tranquility.
Ἡσυχία, peace, rest, or quietude.	Heddychiad, an appeasing or quieting.
Ἡσυχάζω, to be at rest, to be quiet.	Heddychusaw, heddychiadu, to become at ease.
Ἦχος, ἠχώ, sound, noise, or din.	Aich, eichiad, a loud noise; a scream, a roar.
Ἠως, ἦυς, aurora, the dawn, the day-spring.	Eaws, eosig, the nightingale.

Θ

Θέμηλον, θεμέλιον, a base, or foundation.	Teml, temlon, a spread, or expanse: a seat.
Θεὸς, God, the supreme being, deity.	Duw, that is beyond darkness; God
Θέρω, to warm, to heat moderately.	Twyraw, to agitate; to parch; to heat.
Θηλὴ, the nipple, a teat, or a dug.	Telai, that is strained, or stretched out.
Θὴρ, θηρίον, a wild beast.	Ter, terydd, teryn, a furious state; that is vehement.
Θις, a bunch, a heap, a cluster.	Twys, a bunch; an ear of corn.
Θην, a rampart, or a wall.	Din, dinas, an intrenchment, a fort; a city.
Θολὸς, filth, dirt; mud, or mire.	Tail, dung, manure, soil, muck.
Θόρυβοσ, tumult, noise, stir, bustle.	Twrf, tumult, din, noise, bustle, stir.
Θορυβεω, to make a noise, to shout.	Twrfu, to make a tumult, or uproar.
Θράνω, to break, or to fracture.	Trafu, to stir; to scour: tori, to break.
Θρώσω, θρώχω, to jump, or to leap.	Trosi, trachu, to convey over, or beyond.
Θύελλα, a storm, or a tempest.	Tywyllai, that produces gloom or darkness.
Θύρα, a door, a gate, or opening.	Trwy, trwya, a passage, or a pass.
Θῶ, θάω, to nourish, to nurse.	Toi, to cover over, to cover in; to roof.
Θῶ, θέω, to run: to fine; to do.	Twya, twyaw, to put in order or form; to order.

I

Ἰάχω, to bawl out, to make a noise.	Eichiaw, to make a loud din; to scream.
Ἴδιος, own, proper, one's own, peculiar.	Eiddaw, eiddo, one's own: eiddof, mine; eiddot, thine.
Ἲς, ινοσ, a sinew; a fibre; strength.	Gi, gien, a fine fibre or string; a nerve.

Ἰστωρ, ιστορος, learning; knowledge.	Ystyr, ystyriad, meaning; consideration.
Ἵνα, preposition: ἵνα ῥυσθω ἀπὸ, that I may be delivered from. Rom. xv. 31.	Hyna, that: hyna y rhyddwyf heibio, that I be loosened past, or from.

K

Καθαίρω, to purge, or to cleanse out.	Cothi, cothori, to cast out, or to eject
Καινὸς, new, recent, or fresh.	Cain, that is clear, bright, or fair.
Καίνω, to kill, to deprive of life.	Ceintiaw, ceinniaw, ceintach, to bicker
Καινὶς, slaughter, or a killing.	Ceinta, ceintach, a conflict, or a scuffle.
Κάλαμος, reed, cane, or straw.	Calaf, reed; stalk or straw of corn.
Καλέω, to call, to implore, to crave.	Galw, to call; to name; to summons
Καλύπτω, to conceal, or to hide.	Celu, celiadu, to conceal, or to hide.
Κάμηλος, a camel, a dromedary.	Camell, a curving or bending animal.
Κάμπτω, to bend, to curve.	Camu, camiadu, to bend, or to curve.
Καρδία, κραδία, the heart.	Craidd, the centre, or middle part.
Κάρηνον, κρὰνον, κράνιον, the head; a skull.	Corun, corunon, the crown of the head; a summit.
Κατα, by, of, according to; against: κατα σῶ, with thee, κατα σȣ, with thy: καταγγέλλω, I declare: ὃν καταγγέλλομεν, whom we preach. Col. i. 28.	Cyda, along with, with; cyda thi, with thee, cyda dy, with thy: cydanghelwyf, I bring out of concealment: hwn cydanghelwn, him we declare.
Καύχησις, boasting: πȣ οὖν η καύχησις	Coegedd, vaunting, boasting: py yna y coegedd?
Κελλω, to land safely, to get ashore.	Cellu, to make a lodgement, or recess
Κέρκος, a tail, or hinder part.	Cwrcwd, a squat; the posterior; a cowering.
Κεύθω, to hide, to conceal, to cover.	Cuddiaw, to hide, to secrete, to conceal.
Κεῦθος, κεῦθεος, a lurking-place.	Cudd, cudded, a hide, a secret place.
Κέω, to cleave, to rend, or to rift.	Ceuaw, to make hollow: to penetrate
Κηρὸς, wax: ὁ κηρὸς, the wax.	Cwyr, wax: y cwyr, the wax.
Κιβωτὸς, a coffer, a chest; an ark.	Cib, cibawd, any vessel; a measure.
Κίρκος, a circle, or a round.	Cyrch, a round place; a resort; a meeting.
Κίσσα, disgust, nausea; a magpie.	Cas, casedd, odious; hate, loathing.
Κισσάω, to have a disgust, or hate.	Casau, to hate; to become disgustful
Κλειω, to shut up, to close in, to enclose.	Cloi, to lock: to fasten with a lock; to enclose.
Κλέις, a key; also a bolt, or bar.	Clo, a knob, or boss; a lock; a close
Κλίνω, to incline, to bend, to lean, to decline: κλινȣσιν, they prostrated themselves.	Cleiniaw, to lie prostrate: cleiniasant, they have prostrated themselves.
Κλιτία, κλισία, a tent.	Clydai, that gives shelter, that covers
Κλύω, to hear; to understand, to apprehend.	Clywu, clywed, to hear; to have perception.
Κλυτὸς, famous, or renowned.	Clodus, renowned: praiseworthy.
Κνάω, κνεω, κναιω, to gnaw; to vex.	Cnoi, cnawu, to gnaw, to bite: to vex
Κοιλλα, the belly, the stomach.	Cylla, the separating organ, the stomach.
Κολλώμενος, a joining, or tying together.	Cylymyniad, connection, a tying together.
Κολύω, to cut off, or to sever apart.	Cwllu, to cut, to separate to sever.

Κολωνὸς, a hill, a mount, a bank.	Col, colyn, a round point; a pivot; a sting.
Κόχλω, to turn, or to wind about.	Cwchlu, cylchu, to circle; to round; to hoop.
Κυκλοσ, a circle, a cycle, a round.	Cylch, a circle, a round; a hoop.
Κραίνω, κραιαίνω, to perfect, to finish.	Cywreiniaw, to make accurate, to perfect.
Κρέκω, κρεξω, to sound, or to report.	Creciaw, crechu, to creak; to scream
Κρημνὸς, a precipice, a steep place.	Crim, crimell, crimen, a ridge, a ledge
Κρήνη, a spring, or fountain: also κρουνὸς.	Cronai, that collects, or generates.
Κρίζω, κρίζω, κρίχα, to make a sharp noise, or cry.	Cregu, crecu, crechu, crechian, to creak, to squeal.
Κρινον, κριναν, the lily.	Crinon, crinen, crinlys, the violet.
Κρίνα, the poor, or necessitous ones.	Crinion, brittle or dried ones; hunks, misers.
Κρῖνον, a kind of dance.	Cronen, that forms a round or circle.
Κρίνω, to choose, to judge, to decide.	Crynöi, to gather or put together.
Κρούω, to beat, to strike, or to bang.	Curaw, to beat, to strike, to throb.
Κυλλος, maimed, lame, or halt.	Call, callus, that is divergent: traed-gall, club-footed.
Κῦμα, a wave, or a billow at sea.	Cwmai, that rises to form a hollow.
Κύμβοσ, a concavity, or hollowness.	Cwm, cwman, a sinking in; a kive, a rump.
Κυμβη, a boat, or a small vessel.	Cafn, a trough; a boat; a ferry-boat
Κύτοσ, a cavity, or a hollow place.	Cwt, cut, a hovel, a shed, a sty.
Κύω, κυέω, to carry, also to kiss.	Cuaw, to fondle: cu, a cleaving to.
Κύων, a dog, an animal so called.	Ci, cian, a dog: plural, cion and cwn.
Κώθων, a crater; a cup, a rummer.	Cwthwn, cwthyn, what throws off, or ejects.
Κώμη, a village; also a street.	Cyma, cymwd, cymmod, a community.
Κωμητησ, a peasant, a countryman.	Cymydai, one of a commune; a neighbour.
Κῶνος, a cone, a figure so called.	Con, that ends in a point; coned,
Κωναω, to cause to kindle, to kindle.	Cynneu, cynneuaw, to kindle, to set on fire.
Κωφοσ, a silly fool; dull; deaf; dumb	Cyff, a stock, a stump, a butt, a dolt.

Λ

Λᾶς, λᾶας, a stone, a stone slab.	Llech, a flat stone, or a slate.
Λάλεω, to speak; to chat, to talk.	Lloliaw, llolian, to chatter, to prate, to chat.
Λάλος, a prattler, or a chatterer.	Llolyn, a chatterer, a jabberer, a babbler.
Λαὸσ, λεοσ, the people, or multitude.	Lliaws, a multitude, a great many; a mob.
Λάπτω, to lap, or take with the tongue.	Lleibiaw, lleipiaw, lleipian, to lick, to lap.
Λαρινὸσ, fat and sweet, plump, agreeable.	Llerwin, nice, delicate, or fine.
Λαρινεύω, to fatten, to become fat.	Llerwi, llerwinaw, llerweiniaw, to grow nice.
Λαρὸσ, agreeable, sweet, or dulcet.	Llerw, nice, smart, delicate; fine; subtile.
Λάσκω, to revile, to calumniate.	Llesgu, to be or become weak; to enfeeble.

Λάω, to see; to enjoy, to be pleased.	Llywu, to guide, to direct; to steer.
Λαύω, to enjoy, or to feel pleased.	Llywiaw, to direct: llywy, a paragon.
Λέγω, to say; to enjoin, or to bid.	Llygu, to clear: llug, a gleam, a glance.
Λέχα, to lie down, to be prostrate.	Llechu, to lie close, to squat; to sculk.
Λέσκη, idle chat, tattle or babble.	Llesga, llesgedd, listlessness; idleness.
Λήγω, to cease, to make an end; to quit.	Llagu, to grow slack, loose, or sluggish.
Λήθω, λησω, to lie hid, to sculk.	Llethu, to press flat: llaesu, to trail.
Λιάζω, to divide, or to separate.	Llysu, lliasu, to part off, to separate.
Λιμὴν, a harbour, port, or haven.	Llifon, llion, a place of flooding.
Λίμνη, a lake, a pool, a mere.	Llyn, llifon, a lake, a pool, a mere.
Λιτὴ, a prayer, or a petition.	Llith, a lure; a lesson, or a lecture.
Λοετρὸν, washings.	Llwtron, any liquid dirt, or dregs.
Λοχοσ, an ambush, also a troop.	Lloches, a covert, a hiding place.
Λοχαω, to lay an ambuscade.	Llochi, llochiaw, lochesu, to make a covert.
Λύθρον, blood and dust, or grime.	Llwtron, llwtrach, slimy matter, grime
Λυθροω, to wallow in blood or grime.	Llwtriaw, to begrime; to form grime.
Λύπη, grief, sorrow, vexation: εν λύπη.	Llipa, that is flaccid or flagging.
Λύρα, a lyre, a stringed instrument.	Llyre, a tortoise: the shell formed the lyre.
Λύχνοσ, a lamp, a torch, a flambeau.	Lluch, lluchyn, llugas, a gleam of light.

M

Μάκαρ, happy, blessed, fortunate.	Mygyr, grand; splendid, glorious.
Μαλάσσω, to mollify, or to soften.	Mallusaw, to make soft or lax; to grow soft.
Μαλος, tender, soft, or delicate.	Mall, mallus, soft or lax; insipid; blasted.
Μαμμη, μαμμα, μαμμαία, a grand-mother.	Mam, a mother; mammai, a matron.
Μανὸς, rare, thin, fine, or slender.	Man, small, fine: main, thin, slender.
Μαραὶνω, to fade, to wither, to decay.	Merwinaw, to grow torpid; to benumb.
Μαρνάμαι, to fight, to combat, to battle.	Murniaw, murnofi, to obstruct; to murder.
Μάχομαι, to fight, to battle, to contend.	Machu, machofi, to endeavour to secure.
Μάχη, a battle, a fight, a combat.	Mach, machai, security, that secures
Μέγασ, μεγαλον, great, grand, puissant, big: Διδασκαλε, ποία ἐντολὴ μεγάλη ἐν τῶι νόμω;	Myg, mygawl, grand; solemn, glorious: dyddysgolai, pa y ddylyed mygolaf yn y nam?
Μέδω, to command: also μεδέω, μεδευω.	Meddu, to possess, to have command of.
Μέθυ, μεθυος, wine, the juice of grapes.	Medd, origin of motion; centre: mead
Μέθη, drunkenness, or intoxication.	Meddw, drunk; meddwad, ebriety.
Μεθυω, to drunk: ἐμεθύσθησαν: μεθύσαν.	Meddwi, to inebriate: ymfeddwasant: meddwasai.
Μεθύσκω, to make drunk, to intoxicate	Meddwadu, to make drunk, to intoxicate.
Μειλίσσω, to sweeten; to become sweet.	Melysu, to sweeten, to become sweet.
Μελαίνο, to become black, to blacken.	Melynu, to grow yellow, to grow swarthy.

Μελι, μελιτοσ, honey, the food of bees. Mel, melid, honey; melys, honeyed, sweet.

Μελιηδεσ, sweet, or dulcet. Meleidus, of the nature of honey.

Μέλισσα, a bee, or gatherer of sweets. Melysai, a honey-bearer: a sweetener.

Μέλλω, to delay, to defer, to put off. Malu, to dally, to fondle; to trifle.

Μέλοσ, melody; verse or song. Melawd, that is sweet, like honey.

Μένοσ, the mind, or intelligent power. Menw, intellect, mind, or soul.

Μένω, to remain; to last, to wait. Manu, to set a place; to impress.

Μένοσ, the middle, or central part. Medd, the origin of motion; a middle.

Μέτρον, measure, that metes things. Mydr, mydrai, mydryn, a metre.

Μιννὸς, small, little, or slender. Man, manw, small, fine, tiny, petty.

Μινύθω, to diminish or to lessen. Manaethu, manweiddiaw, to make fine

Μόλος, battle and noise: also μῶλος. Moloch, tumult, uproar, riot, stir.

Μολυνω, to pollute, or to defile. Molwynaw, to spot; to cover with foam.

Μόνος, alone, deserted, or desolate. Mynw, that is isolated or lonely.

Μονον, one; only, single; singly. Mon, monyn, that is alone: a sulky one.

Μοῦσα, a muse, the power of poetry. Mawsaï, a recipient, of sweetness.

Μυδάω, to moulder, to wear away. Mwydaw, to become damp, to sodden.

Μυδαλέοσ, mouldy, musty, stale. Mwydiolus, of a soddening tendency.

Μυδαίνω, to rot, or to putrefy. Mwydioni, to become pulp or pith.

Μυλη, a mill-stone, a grinder. Malai, that grinds or that brays.

Μύρμοσ, μύρμηξ, an ant; μυρμηδον, an ant-hillock. Myr, myrion, ants: mor, an ant: morion, ants: myrfydon, a mound of ants

Μύρω, to flow, or to run as water. Meru, to drop; to dribble, to distil.

Μωροσ, silly, foolish, or simple. Meredig, being drooping; stupid.

N

Ναίω, ναίσω, ναω, to dwell, to abide. Nuddi, noddâu, to harbour; to take refuge.

Ναὸσ, a temple: ναοσ τῦ θεῦ. 1 Cor. iii. 17. Neuadd, a hall, a saloon: neuadd y Duw.

Ναὺσ, a ship, or a sailing vessel. Nawfai, nofai, a floating agent.

Νέμω, to divide, or to separate. Namu, to stigmatize; to except.

Νέοσ, new, novel, or recent. Newydd, new, novel; that is new.

Νέω, to swim, to move on water. Nofiaw, to swim; also to float.

Νησοσ, an island, or an isle. Ynys, an island: ynysig, an islet.

Νικάω, to overcome: νικα, overcome. Nychu, to torture; to pine: nycha, cause pain.

Νίφω, to snow, to drop in snow. Nyfu, nyfiaw, odi, bwrw eira, to snow.

Νηθω, to spin, to draw out in threads Nyddu, to spin; to twist, or to writhe.

Νόθοσ, illegitimate, bastard. Nwythus, nwydus, eccentric, freakish.

Νόοσ, the mind, intelligent power. Naws, temperament, disposition.

Νύξ, night. Nos, night: noson, noswaith, a certain night.

O

'O, the article the. Y, and yr, the article the.

Oἱ, pronoun: οἱ εἶπον, they said. Hwy, they: hwy ebynt, they said.

Oἶγω, to open, to set open, to lay out. Agu, agenu, to rift; agori, to open.

῞Ολοσ, a whole, all of a thing, a total. Holl, oll, a whole, or all, a total.

᾿Ομίλεω, to engage. Ymaelu, ymaelyd, to take mutual hold

Oν, pronoun: ὅν καταγγέλλομέν. Col. i. 28. Hwn, this one; whom: hwn cydanghelwn.

Ὄνομα, a name: ηῖ ὄνομα, her name.	Enw, a name: ei henw, her name.
Ὀξύσ, sharp, quick, ready; sour: ὀξεῖσ οἱ πόδεσ αὐτων. Rom. iii. 15.	Awchus, keen, ardent; greedy: awchus eu pedos hwynt.
Οὖν, therefore: πῦ οὖν ἡ καύχησις Rom. iii. 27. Where then the boasting?	Yna, there; then; there now! pa yna y coegedd? what then the vaunting?
Ουαι, a woe, or wailing.	Gwae, a woe, a wailing, a curse.

Π

Παίω, to strike, to beat, to knock.	Pwyaw, to beat, to pummel, to thump
Παλλω, to dart, to throw, or to fling.	Peiliaw, to spread out, to radiate.
Παύω, to cease; to rest, to be still.	Peuaw, to pause; to hesitate; to pant.
Πέδιλον, a shoe; a sock, a buskin.	Pedol, pedolan, a foot-trace; a horse-shoe.
Πιέζω, to press, to squeeze, to crush.	Pwysaw, to weigh; to press; to ponder
Πλέκω, to double, to fold, or to plait.	Plygu, to double, to fold; to bend.
Ποέω, to blow, to breathe, to respire.	Peuaw, to pause; to hesitate; to pant.
Ποῦσ, ποδοσ, a foot: ὀξεῖσ οἱ ποδεσ αὐτων,	Pedd, ped, a foot: awchus eu pedos hwynt.
Πρίαμαι, to purchas, to buy: ἐκπριοω, to redeem.	Prwyaw, to attain, or to reach: eckbrwyaw, to attain from.
Πρίν, preposition; before: πριν Αβρααμ γενεσθαι, εγώ εἰμι: before Abraham was, I am.	Prin, scarce; scarcely: prin y genid Abraham, myfi wyf, scarcely was Abraham produced, I am.
Πρὸ, for, before, instead	Prwy, a tendency forward or onward.
Πωλέω, to sell, to offer for sale.	Peliaw, to spread out, to brandish.
Πωλοσ, a colt, or a young horse.	Ebawl, a male colt; eboles, a she colt.

Ρ

Ῥαδιοσ, easy, facile, of free course.	Rhwydd, rhwyddus, facile, easy of progress.
Ῥασσω, to dash against, or to rush.	Rhysiaw, to move violently, to rush.
Ῥέγχω, to snore, or to breathe hard.	Rhochi, to make a rough noise; to grunt.
Ῥέω, to flow; to spread, to scatter.	Rheu, to move; to be active; to run.
Ῥέω, to speak; to tell, or to relate.	Rhuaw, to cry aloud, to roar; to chatter.
Ῥιζα, a root, or a radix.	Rhadd, that advances, or proceeds onward.
Ῥιν, a nose; as of a man or beast.	Rhyn, that stretches out; a point, a cape.
Ῥοδανὸσ, running, or swiftly moving.	Rhodiannus, coursing; rhediannus, running.
Ῥοῦσ, a stream, or a current.	Rhawd, a course, a way, a rout; a race.

Σ

Σὰρξ, the flesh, the body.	Sarch, what covers; also gear, harness
Σκόλοψ, a stake, post, or pale.	Ysgolp, a sharp pointed spar or stake
Σκοτοσ, darkness, obscurity.	Ysgawd, that rises over; a shade.
Σκοτοω, σκοτιξω, σκοταζω, to darken.	Ysgodi, ysgodusaw, ysgodiadu, to shade
Σκύβαλον, dung, filth, or rubbish.	Ysgubellion, or ysgubion, sweepings, refuse.
Σκυβαλῖζω, to cast out filth or refuse.	Ysgubellu, ysgubaw, to sweep, to use a broom.

Σταυρος, a cross; a gallows.	Ystwyrai, that writhes: a stretcher.
Στήλη, a pillar: στύλοσ: στηλαι.	Ystawl, a stem; a stool: ystolion, pinnacles.
Στομα, στοματοσ, the mouth.	Ystumai, the organ of shaping or turning.

T

Ταλαντον, a talent; scales; weight.	Tawl, toliant, a cast: mantawl, a balance.
Τασσω, to order, or to arrange.	Tywysaw, to lead, or to conduct.
Ταῦρος, a bull, the male of kine.	Tarw, that strikes or bursts through; a bull.
Ταχὺσ, quick: ταχὺ, quickly.	Toc, that is short or quick; shortly.
Τείνω, to stretch, or to extend.	Taenu, to spread, to extend, or stretch out.
Τείρω, to beat; to vex, or to afflict.	Taraw, to strike, to hit; to affect.
Τελαμὼν, a strap, or a thong.	Telamwyn, a stretch-defence or band
Τέλοσ, the end, or termination.	Telad, a straining out or to a verge.
Τελέω, to finish, to terminate.	Telu, to put on a stretch; to extend out.
Τέμνω, to cut, to cleave, to break down	Timynu, to break into small bits.
Τερέω, to bore through, to perforate.	Trwyaw, to bore through, to pass through.
Τιτθὸσ, the breast, or the nipple.	Teth, a teat; a nipple, a dug; a breast
Τιθὴ, τιθηνη, a nurse.	Tethai, tethenai, that has a teat.
Τερην, tender, delicate, or soft.	Tirion, pleasant, tender, or genial.
Τιμάω, τίω, to honour, to respect.	Tumiaw, to make a bend: twyaw, to order.
Τραχύς, rough, harsh, or rugged.	Trwch, a cut; cutting; rough, harsh
Τρεῖς, τρία, three; τρίτος, third.	Tri, three; trifed, trydydd, third.
Τρέχω, to run, to race, to strive in a race.	Trechu, to surpass, to overcome, to master.
Τρίπλαξ, τριπλακα, triple, three-fold.	Triphlyg, threefold, or triple.
Τρύω, to break, to tear; to push, to thrust.	Trwyaw, to penetrate: tori, to break
Τύμβος, a tomb, a tumulus.	Tom, tomen, a mound, or heap; a tumulus.
Τύποσ, a type, figure, form, likeness.	Teb, a parallel state, a type, a like.
Τυφλόσ, blind, deprived of sight.	Tywyll, dark, obscure: dall, blind.
Τυφλόω, to blind, to deprive of sight.	Tywyllu, to darken: dallu, to blind.

Υ

Ὕδω, to sing, to make melody.	Hudaw, to allure, to fascinate.
Ὑμὴν, a covering, a membrane.	Hufen, the top formed upon liquids; cream.

Φ

Φάω, to shine, to glitter, to illume.	Ffawu, to render radiant or glorious
Φάνσ, light; splendour; sunshine.	Ffawdd, radiation, splendour.
Φέρβω, to pasture, to depasture; to feed.	Porfau, to pasture, to depasture.
Φορβη, φορβειὰ, pasture, or grass.	Porfa, pasture, a grazing place.
Φεύγω, φύγω, to shun, or to avoid.	Ffoi, to flee, to run away, to retreat.
Φυγὰσ, a fugitive; a vagrant.	Ffoadai, a fugitive, or a vagrant.
Φλάω, to smash, to break.	Fflawu, to shiver, to splinter, to flaw
Φλέγω, φλεγεθω, to burn, to blaze.	Ffaglu, ffaglaethu, to flame, to blaze
Φλυω, φέω, to trifle, to act idly.	Ffleuaw, to radiate: ffuaw, to seem.

Φρέαρ, a well; a ditch.	Ffreuer; a ditch: ffreuad, a gushing.
Φρίξ, the roaring of the sea.	Ffrwch, ffroch, a violent gust; a storm.
Φονὴ, voice; report, noise or din.	Ffwn, respiration, breath; a puff; a sigh.
Φὼρ, a thief; a spy, or a prying one.	Ffwyr, a violent drive or chase: assault.

X

Χαίρω, to rejoice, or to be glad.	Chware, to play, to sport; to be merry
Χαλάω, to loosen, or to relax.	Chwalu, to spread, to disperse, to separate.
Χαρίσ, grace, favour; love, kindness.	Cariad, love, affection, or kindness.
Χθὲσ yesterday, or the day past.	Echdoe, the day before yesterday; doe, yesterday.
Χολὴ, choler, bile, or gall.	Caul, a maw; chyle; rennet; curd.
Χορὸσ, a choir, a ball, a rout, or assembly.	Cor, a circle, a round; a crib; a choir.
Χρὸνοσ, time, space, or season.	Cronawd, a state or act of revolving.

Ω

Ὠθέω, to push, to thrust, or to press	Gwthiaw, to push, to thrust; to obtrude.
Ὠλένη, the elbow, or bend of the arm	Elin, the elbow, the bend of the arm.
Ὠμὸσ, crude, raw, undigested.	Of, uncombined; crude, raw, fresh.
Ὠὸν, ὤιον, also ὠιον, an egg.	Wy, wyan, and wyyn, an egg.
Ὥρα, time, or age; an hour.	Awr, an hour; time or season.
Ὠρυω, to howl, to cry as a dog.	Gawru, to howl, to scream; to shout

---

On the Affinities of the Latin and Welsh.

Those who form systems from general premises, without being duly acquainted with the characteristic features of their various component parts, would not hesitate to assert, that a considerable portion of the Welsh tongue must necessarily be derived from the Latin, in consequence of the dominion held by the Romans over Britain, for about five hundred years. What impression might have been produced upon the dialect of the Lloegrian Britons by such an intimate connexion with foreigners, it would be difficult, at this time, to determine, as the peculiar characteristic of that dialect cannot be traced, from its having been successively blended with the Saxon, the Danish, and the Norman, so as to have gradually formed the present English tongue. But, in respect to Wales, it might be urged as an argument of great weight, that the proportionate intercourse of the Romans there, must have been of too insignificant extent, to produce any change in the dialect of the natives, as none has been subsequently effected by the far more general intercourse of the English, holding a sovereignty there, and in every way a closer connexion, and through a much longer period of time. All the influence, that the Roman domination had upon our language, was the giving of currency to a few score words; and the sway of the English has effected about as much: yet the strange words, whether from one nation or the other, have not been naturalized in the Welsh, as they still plainly discover their alien origin.

However, it is not by any means intended here to claim the smallest advantage from such argumentative objections, but, on the contrary, to state the important fact, that the Welsh language contains thousands of words in common with the Latin; yet these words can be satisfactorily proved not to have been borrowed by the Welsh from the Romans; neither could the latter people be indebted to the Britons for them. Therefore, the affinity, existing between the two languages, must be attributed to a common origin of such words, and preserved in each from a period anterior to the commencement of the history of either nation.

The Latin is, to a very considerable degree, a mixed language, being gradually formed by adventitious circumstances, whereby the original basis of its structure has been so obscured, that scarcely any of the words therein are regularly reducible to those primary elements, or radices, within itself, which are essentially the characteristics of the Welsh and other unmixed languages. Had not the Welsh a systematic combination of its words, yielding to an obvious and certain analysis, it would then stand only on equal terms with the Latin, with respect to words common to both languages; and in that case there would be no certain criterion, by which the claim of originality to such words could be awarded to either of them. This point may be illustrated by a few of those common words, traced to their primary elements in the Welsh, and which are not capable of being so analyzed in the Latin language. The following are obvious proofs :—

Latin words.	Welsh words.
Catena	Cadwen, a chain
Caterva	Cattyrfa
Turba	Tyrfa
Garrio	Geiriaw
Garrulus	Geiriolus.

These words are precisely of the same signification in both languages; but it is only in the Welsh that they can be resolved to their primary elements.

The feminine noun cadwen is in the masculine form cadwyn; the en, in the former, and yn, in the latter, being general terminations for all similar nouns. Taking away these terminations, we have cadw, a keeping, a guarding, a preserving in safe custody; also, to keep, to guard, to have in custody; and cadw is derived from cad, a striving to take; also a conflict, or a battle; the simple elements forming cad being ca and ad. The plurals, most commonly used, out of several, of cadwen and cudwyn, are cadweni cadwenau, cadwyni, and cadwynau.

The caterva is a very remarkable word, from its being so written in the Latin; because that one of its parts, terva, is plainly the Welsh word tyrva, which used to be written terva, before the y was introduced into our alphabet; and which is precisely of the same import as turba. The Welsh word is nearly of the same import, whether written catyrva or cattyrva,—the first from ca and tyrva, and the other from cad and tyrva,—and implies a troop of defence and a troop of conflict: cattyrva, in ancient numeration, expressed 100, 000. The meaning of cad, a conflict, is literally an aptitude or effort to keep, having ca and ad for its elements. The word tyrva is partly explained already; but its structure may be farther defined. Twr implies a heap, a crowd, an aggregate, or accumulation; and thence comes twrv, a multitudinous noise, or tumult, and often used for taran, thunder. The w of all monosyllables becomes y, when such words are extended; and thus twrv becomes tyrva. The a postfixed gives the idea of continuity, accumulation, or collection; and such words are used both as nouns and verbs.

The Welsh primitive gair, a word, by a regular inflection forms the verb geiriaw, to word, to express words, to form words, to use words. From gair, in the same manner, is formed the adnoun geiriawl, wordy, verbose, belonging to a word; and from geiriawl is formed geiriolus, apt to be wordy, full of words, or garrulous.

Some thousand Latin compound words have their similitudes in the Welsh with respect to structure and signification; and all to be analyzed, like the foregoing examples, in the latter language, thus proving, that they could not have been borrowed from the former, but that such words exist in both languages from one common origin.

CONCLUSION.

Notwithstanding all that has been hitherto written, the origin and affinities of the several nations of Europe remain in great obscurity; and the principal cause for this, where we have not the light of history to guide us, must be attributed to the want of a proper examination of the languages of those nations, so as to discover the approximate relation existing between some of them, and the contrary characters of other. As a proof of how little is generally and correctly known in respect to this subject, we need only point out that there are remnants of an original population still existing in France, in Flanders, in Germany, in two parts of Britain, and in Ireland; and who speak their ancient and common language, under diversities of dialects, and which is identified with the Sclavonic; and these remnants of a primitive people are the Bretons, the Walloons, the Wendi, the Welsh, and the Gwydhelians of Scotland and Ireland. Historians have not used an appropriate and generic name for the common language of the people here mentioned; for the several appellations mostly in use, except the Sclavonic, which is not very ancient, of Gallic, and Celtic, are only relevant to circumstances of locality; such as denote a dwelling in open regions, or in woods and forests. There is one name, however, which is descriptive of a generic character, and still preserved by one remnant of those nations, and used to designate itself, and also applied to it nationally, from the remotest periods of history. This appellation is used by the Welsh, who call themselves CYMMRY; and which was written Cimmerioi, Cimmerii, and Cimbri, by the Greeks and Romans.

N.B. The preceding Notes, with the Initials H.P. are by the late Mr. Humphreys Parry; and were added by him to an Edition of this Treatise published by the Cymmrodorion Society.

THOMAS GEE, PRINTER, DENBIGH.